Today, Sir, I personally feel that there is no true planning in this country. This Ministry feels that, "Well, what sort of things can be done?" and the Minister himself used to be the Minister for Economic Planning. He does not question things, since he is there—this is what I understand—for other co-ordinating purposes. If my expressions are not very good, I beg the Minister just to follow the meaning. I am not an Englishman anyway. The problem here is this. We have been told about and we have made our people believe, in African socialism. This involves, Sir, a kind of an ideological approach, a planned approach, not just a chaotic approach. Today you find the Ministers under African socialism—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you are taking the wrong opportunity for this, Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: The Ministers who in the name of African socialism, which is supposed to be a part of a planned socialism, provide dozens and dozens of acres to replace the former settlers and yet we are told that this is really African socialism—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I must get clear what you are driving at, Mr. Gichoya. This Bill, as you know, is to give effect to what has already been agreed in the Committee of Supply. Hon. Members are not completely debarred from raising on the Bill itself, on the Second Reading or even Third Reading, the subject matter of the Bill, but we cannot go very far again on the Bill when the House has already voted that this money shall be spent. You are really very limited in what you can talk about. It seems to me that you are trying to find an opportunity to go a long way beyond the subject of the Supplementary Estimates, let alone the Bill.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in ending I will say this. We have approved the money to be spent by the Ministries of our Kenya Government, but the Ministry for Economic Planning with all the personnel given by the Government and which we have already voted for, should now aim at planning, not just mere theorizing here and telling us we are planning yet they are not, but only encouraging the sort of racial fear policy in the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I support the whole thing, but I suggest that the Minister must be a practical Minister and not a theoretical Minister who actually has no responsibility.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on the first Schedule, No. 7, I see that the amount required in the year ending 30th June 1964, for the salaries and expenses of the Ministries—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, Mr. Anyieni, I am not able to hear you.

Mr. Anyieni: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I see that No. 7 of the first Schedule; there is only £1 set aside to pay people working in the Ministry of External Affairs, including Kenya's missions and general service overseas, subscriptions to certain international organizations and contributions in lieu of rates in respect of foreign missions in Kenya and expenses for the Organization of African Unity. I do not understand how £1 can do all this work. We would like somebody to stand up and give us a small explanation as to what is going on.

Secondly, I do not know, Mr. Speaker, whether I can say something here about the Organization for African Unity in connexion with that £1. Would I be in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As regards your first question, you should refer back to the Supplementary Estimates. You will find all details of the Bill explained in the Supplementary Estimates.

Mr. Anyieni: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, if £1 all the money which is required to run the Organization for African Unity?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If no other hon. Member wishes to speak, I will call upon the Assistant Minister to reply—

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to intervene, nor did I think it was necessary to have a debate, but the hon. Member for Gichoya has very original ideas, I think the most curious political and ungrammatical ones. We have the Motion coming soon and I will reply to him in due course. In the meantime, merely to ensure that there is more appreciation of the machinery set up, I will make the observation that in fact the Ministry for Economic Planning plan for all the Ministries and co-ordinates all their activities. I would have thought that was pretty obvious to the hon. gentleman.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Okelo-Odongo, do you wish to reply?

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I only want to reply to one point which was raised by the hon. Member, Mr. Anyieni. I think that he has been at the House long enough and that he has seen these estimates and things for £1 here and there, and he should know by now that the £1 is only used as a token. There is an explanation on page 1 of the Supplementary Estimates which has already been discussed. This explanation is there at the bottom of the page and it says, "That the whole of the above expenditure will be covered by savings within the Vote." A token provision of £1 only is required in order to rearrange the estimates in the light of experience gained in the running of this new Ministry.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Bill was accordingly read the Third Time and passed)

(Ordered that the Clerk carry the said Bill to the Senate and desire their concurrence)

MOTION

APPOINTMENTS TO THE SESSIONAL COMMITTEE

Mr. Mwangandi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is provided in our Standing Orders that any matter discussed in the House shall not be discussed again within six months. I would like to know the reason why this Motion No. 9 should be brought again to this House, yet the six months' time has not yet elapsed. I see a few changes in this Motion, but the substance of the Motion is all the same, so, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the House would like to hear your ruling as to the reasons why this Motion should not be brought after six months.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The hon. Member is correct in referring to a Standing Order which precludes a Motion on a subject which is the same in substance as a matter already decided by the House; except that, with the consent of the Speaker, there may be a Motion to rescind the previous decision.

In my view, this Motion is not the same in substance as the previous Motion. The main objection of the House to the previous Motion was the balance as between Members of the Government, including Assistant Ministers, on the one hand, and Back-benchers on the other hand. It was the actual personalities proposed for the Sessional Committee. That plan is altered by this Motion because two more Back-benchers have been added, so there is an equal number instead of a majority of Members of the Government. This is the substance of the Motion for the appointment of Members for any committee. The actual choice of Members to be appointed obviously is different policy, different numbers, and different balance. It is not the same substance. If in fact it was the same substance, then having rejected one Motion for the appointment of the Sessional Committee, we could never have another one, even if we wanted a new Sessional Committee consisting of different people.

I therefore consider that the Motion is in order.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:

THAT this House nominates the following Members to be Members of the Sessional Committee to replace those nominated to the Committee on the 27th February 1964:—

The Vice-President (Chairman).

The Minister for External Affairs.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence.

The Minister for Local Government.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism.

The Minister for Home Affairs.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing.

The hon. F. R. S. De Souza (Deputy Speaker).

Mr. Shikuku: In view of the need for the Maendeleo ya Wanawake in the area, is the Assistant Minister going to sit down and just forget about the problem facing the women in Kakamega, without applying the Harumbee spirit to try and collect some funds for the Kakamega Maendeleo ya Wanawake?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, I think that is the responsibility of hon. Members too.

Mr. Muruli: Is the Assistant Minister not going to encourage the Maendeleo ya Wanawake to urge education and as such surely the Government must take vigorous steps to see that this training centre is reopened?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: This is undertaken by Government but as this comes under the county council, I can do very little. This is the Ministry of Labour and the question should be directed to Ministry of Local Government.

Question No. 800

CONFISCATION OF PRIVATE IMPORT LICENCES

Mr. Dindira, on behalf of Mr. Balala, asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if the Government had considered confiscating all privately held import licences, so as to enable the Government to be the sole responsible body for importing goods into Kenya.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. ole Ololipili): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Import Licences are issued for specific imports for scheduled commodities and are not general licences to import, so that the question of confiscation does not arise.

The suggestion that Government should be the sole responsible body for importing goods into the country implies that the whole of our import trade should be nationalized. This is not Government's intention. The hon. Member will, however, be aware that the Government will be launching the Kenya National Trading Company, which I hope will control a sizeable portion of both the import and the export trade.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Minister's reply will he not agree with me that the question suggests a means whereby the trade will be controlled by us, the Kenya people of this country, the blacks like myself to have the control of the trade and therefore the Government should consider this question?

Mr. ole Ololipili: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member had listened carefully to my reply, he would have noted that I have already stated that the Government is already launching a Kenya National Trading Company which will be responsible for controlling a sizeable portion of the import and export trade, Sir.

Mr. Tuwei: Would the Assistant Minister tell us whether it is provided in the provisions to import goods into the country by licences and could we now retaliate by not allowing licences in respect of goods which come and go?

Mr. ole Ololipili: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not understand that question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE
 ADJOURNMENT

BAN OF PUBLIC MEETINGS IN MURANG'A

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will move on to the next order anyhow. Before the next order I would like to remind all hon. Members that Mr. Rurumban is to raise a matter on the adjournment as noted on the Order Paper. Since yesterday's adjournment prevented Mr. Kagga from raising a matter on the adjournment yesterday, I have fixed tomorrow evening for him to raise the matter of a ban on a meeting at Murang'a.

BILLS

First Reading

THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION BILL

(Order for First Reading read—Read the First Time—Ordered to be read the Second Time today)

Second Reading

THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION BILL

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Supplementary Appropriation Bill, be read a Second Time.

Sir, I would like to point out that the Supplementary Appropriation Bills have, in the past, had the effect of granting additional supply. The House will have observed during the Committee of Supply discussions on the Supplementary Estimates that the ministerial and constitutional changes which took place last December have necessitated the recasting of certain Votes so as to reflect changes in ministerial responsibilities. Consequently, Votes 11, 12, 13, 14A and 19 manifest savings in relation to services transferred elsewhere. The money could have been from administratively, but this procedure would have entitled the Minister having to ask this House to vote additional money when, in fact, certain Ministers' Votes would be showing provision which could not be used towards the relevant expenditures. A new section 5 has therefore been added to the Bill so as to enable the House to reduce supply to facilitate the use of the money so released towards meeting the additional supply asked for in sections 2 and 3.

I take this opportunity therefore, Sir, to ask the House to vote an additional 2, as well as the reduction from the authorized supply so that the net result will be as shown in the Supplementary Estimates which the House has already approved.

Sir, I beg to move.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) seconded.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE

(Order for Committee read)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

IN THE COMMITTEE

[The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION BILL

(Clauses 2, 3, 4 and 5 agreed to)

(First Schedule agreed to)

(Second Schedule agreed to)

(Title agreed to)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I will put the question on clause 1—

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Let us just finish the voting. Mr. Gichoya: I think I will take the vote again.

Were you raising a point of order on the voting?

Mr. Gichoya: A point of order, Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): On the voting?

Mr. Gichoya: Yes.

B 15-16 pp.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Is it relevant to the voting?

Mr. Gichoya: Yes.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): All right.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, the relevant part of my point is this, that so far as regards this Bill, which is now passing through Committee stage, I doubt whether we have got copies of it.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Oh, I am afraid you are quite out of order, because it is up to you to decide to go and get your own copies if you have not got them already. It certainly has got nothing to do with the taking of a vote. I think it was explained to you by the hon. Assistant Minister just now that this is a Supplementary Appropriation Bill which, in fact, confirms into law what the House has been discussing in the Supplementary Estimates. If you do not have your copy, you cannot interrupt in the middle of the voting, just because you have not got your copy. I mean, this is most irregular.

Anyway, I will put clause 1 to the vote again. (Clause 1 agreed to)

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move that the Committee doth report to the House its consideration of the Supplementary Appropriation Bill and its approval of the same without amendment.

Report and Third Reading

THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION BILL

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed by a Committee of the whole House to report its consideration of the Supplementary Appropriation Bill, 1965, and its approval thereof without amendment.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) seconded.

know from me, then that is not so at all. I say it is not. But we have found that it is very expensive for a farmer in the rural areas to keep a grade bull, so what we are doing is setting up several stations with grade bulls from which the semen could be easily and cheaply obtained and supplied to farmers.

Question No. 800

CONFISCATION OF PRIVATE IMPORT LICENCES

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Is there any person authorized to reply on behalf of Government?

Question No. 806

FISH-CANNING FACTORY AT LAKE VICTORIA

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Wildlife what he planned to do to improve the fishing industry in Lake Victoria on modern lines with a view to establishing a fish-canning factory there.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Wildlife (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Lake Fishery Service was reopened in November after having been closed for one year. During this period of one year, no information was available on the increase or decrease of fish stocks in the lake. Now that the service has been re-established, we expect to receive information about the existing fish stocks. It will only be after getting such information that I can consider detailed proposals for modernization of the industry.

Regarding the establishment of a fish cannery, I must point out that a cannery is only of economic value where a very large surplus of fish cannot be sold anywhere else. The costs of processing are very high so that fish sold for canning would have to be sold at a very much lower price than that fetched from the sale of fresh fish. As yet, there is no need to consider the establishment of a fish cannery for Lake Victoria, as there is ample scope for the quick sale of all fish produced by the Lake Victoria fishermen at the present time. However, my Minister will visit Nyanza Province this week so that he can see for himself, on the ground, what possible developments can be undertaken in the Lake Victoria Fisheries. The Minister will also reopen the Nyanza Fisheries Office which was closed down by the Economic Commission.

Mr. Agari Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply that canned fish from the lake would be uneconomic, would the Minister consider seriously, as fresh lake fish is very popular when fresh, introducing assistance for fishermen so that fresh fish can be preserved and transported as widely as possible in Kenya?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry is very actively considering this proposal. At the moment, we have three teams working here in Kenya, one is from the United Nations and is working in Mombasa, but, Mr. Speaker, we have a fisheries biologist who has been lent to us through the United States Aid Programme and, tomorrow, another United Nations expert is coming to look into the proper marketing and organization of fisheries so that we can assist the fish industry as far as possible.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House whether he is aware that there are many ways of breeding fish artificially rather than waiting for nature to produce sufficient fish in the lake concerned?

Mr. Mohamed: I am aware of that, but as I said, we have three teams of experts here who are carrying out surveys and I am sure that, if what the hon. Member says is right, they will put this into their recommendations and then my Ministry will certainly look into it.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, is he aware that fish in some parts of Kenya is considered just as valuable as one cow to a family and, as such, there must be immediate action taken because the people consider fish as valuable as a cow in the Lake Victoria area?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry is very much aware of the value of fish and we are also very keen to develop the fisheries and, for this purpose, the Government has decided to organize the marketing of fish on a properly organized basis. For this reason, we will form three marketing boards very soon, so that the organization of fisheries can be developed on a proper basis.

Mr. Okwanyo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that the new type of tilapia put into the lake recently is eating all the smaller fish in Lake Victoria and that very soon we will have no smaller fish in the lake?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware that the tilapia is eating all the small fish, but certainly I will have this point recorded and when the experts come to investigate the situation in Lake Victoria, this matter will be looked into.

Question No. 809

HALF-CASTES REGISTERED AS KENYA CITIZENS

Mr. Kerich asked the Minister for Home Affairs the number of half-castes (coloured men) who had registered as Kenya citizens.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Records of persons registered as citizens of Kenya held by the Department of Immigration are based on nationality and not race, and it is not possible to tell from these records the number of half-caste persons who have been registered as Kenya citizens.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is about half-caste (coloured men). May the Minister tell us the breakdown of these whites, Indians and, particularly, coloured men and women?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to hon. Member to listen very carefully. I said that the records of persons registered as citizens of Kenya held by the Department of Immigration is based on nationality and not race and it is not possible to tell from these records the number of half-caste persons who have been registered.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Minister is not willing to answer my questions, may he assure the House that these coloured men will not behave as superior beings?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Will you speak in a more even tone? It would help the Minister here.

Mr. Kerich: May I put my question in a more even tone? Will the Minister assure us that that these coloured men will not claim to be superior beings among Africans?

Mr. arap Moi: No, I can give no such assurance; it is not relevant and is an entirely different question.

Mr. Mbogob: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, is he telling the House that the Kenya Government has stopped making lists of people of different races so that in Kenya we do not know whether anybody is brown or black or if they are all Kenya citizens?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Assistant Minister answered last week question No. 807, as a result of the question which came from the hon. Member who wanted to know how many non-Africans have registered as Kenya citizens. With this in view, it was pointed out that the number of non-Africans who registered themselves as Kenya citizens were 3,911. Out of those, 421 are Europeans and 3,490 are Asians and, using common sense, if there is any coloured man or coloured woman who has registered herself or himself, they must fall into either a European or an Asian category.

Mr. Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House whether the coloured person borne by a white woman is different—

Several hon. Members: Please, forget about that question, sit down.

Mr. Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I repeat my question. Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid not, Mr. Sol. We cannot have hon. Members asking a Minister what another hon. Member meant by his question. We do not care what the view is.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from the Minister's reply, Sir, could the Minister tell the House whether there is any class of coloured persons exempted from registration for citizenship?

Mr. arap Moi: No, Sir.

Question No. 814

CLOSURE OF KAKAMEGA HOMECRAFT TRAINING CENTRE

Mr. Murelli asked the Minister for Labour and Social Services if he would give the House the reasons that led to the closure of the Kakamega Homecraft Training Centre.

The Assistant Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Odera-Jowi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Kakamega Homecraft Training Centre is the responsibility of the Kakamega County Council. That is, the centre is financed and administered by the council.

I am informed by the Clerk to the Kakamega County Council that the centre was closed due to financial difficulties. I understand that, since the hon. Member for [Kilomani] introduced this question, there has been one course for women leaders held in the centre. This ten-day course was paid for by donations by the women. I am also informed that the Training Centre is unlikely to open on a permanent basis until more money is available.

Mr. Murelli: Is the Assistant Minister aware that this is the only women's training centre in Kakamega District and we should not allow it to close?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: As I have just said it is the responsibility of the Kakamega County Council.

Mr. Omweri: Arising from the Assistant Minister's earlier reply, I would like him to tell this House whether that was a transfer to the East African University or whether he resigned from that department and took up a job elsewhere?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker Sir, Mr. Wandera went on leave, three months leave, on 1st December 1964, and tendered his resignation immediately he took his leave. His leave ends on 11th of this month, after which he is taking up the appointment with the University College of East Africa.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 805: REMOVAL OF MR. WANDERA FROM KABETE

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker Sir, on a point of order, when the Assistant Minister replies to this question, I thought that it was the Ministry that transferred Mr. Wandera to this University to give the lectures there, but now I find my dismay that due to other factors, Mr. Wandera resigned from the Ministry to go and give lectures at the University. Can I raise a Motion on the Adjournment?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 813

COMPENSATION FOR COTTON GROWERS: WRONG SEED

Mr. Nyallick asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether he could tell the House what arrangements were being carried out by the Government to compensate cotton growers in the Winam constituency, as a result of the seeds supplied by the Ministry not being the kind that could be grown in the area.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. No arrangements have been made for the compensation of the farmers to the area, because the seeds supplied are considered to be a suitable type for the soil of that area. Any loss sustained cannot therefore be blamed on the Government.

Mr. Nyallick: Mr. Speaker Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell the House why the Cotton Experimental Station which is situated in the area did not suffer the same loss?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Kibos Station did not suffer the same loss, because the officers in the station planted at the right time. Whilst the farmers in the area, the hon. Member was referring to planted late, and therefore they did not get a proper harvest.

Mr. Nyallick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that the cotton seeds that were planted last year are not to be planted this year, as new seed is being brought in?

Why?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker Sir, I am aware of that and the reason is that my Ministry is trying to introduce a species of cotton that will yield more per acre, and this has been on an experimental basis at Kibos and it has been found that it will produce a larger harvest per acre than the species that were planted last year.

Mr. Nyallick: Mr. Speaker, Sir arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell the House whether there is an expert whose duty it is to tell the farmers what type of seeds to plant in this area or is it the custom of the Ministry to depend entirely on experimenting with seeds year after year?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in fact the meaning of the word "experiment" is to find out the best seed that will be suitable for an area. When we experiment, then, we are trying to find out exactly the information that the hon. Member wants. The officers of my Ministry know this and they advise the farmers as to the best species to plant.

Mr. Agari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that officers of the Ministry admitted that the seed was the wrong type and therefore with drew it for next year, would the Government admit that they made a mistake in experimenting on people's land instead of on an experimental ground, and therefore would they be prepared to compensate?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that statement is very wrong and I am wondering where the hon. Member has received information that the officers admitted that they planted the wrong seeds, because the seed that was planted last year in this place is the seed which has been planted for several years before.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell the House how many times the people in Winam Constituency have planted late and had a poor result in the yield of such cotton, which, he has referred to?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows that the Nyallick group of that area near Abiro planted in time the same seed, SK 47, and harvested to the best satisfaction of my Ministry technicians. I do not see why the others who planted late could claim to have harvested a different crop from the others.

SUBSIDIZED ARTIFICIAL INSEMINATION SERVICE

Mr. arap Sol asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether the Minister would consider subsidizing farmers so that the price of one service from the Artificial Insemination Centre could be reduced to not more than Sh. 2.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is the policy of the Government to help the farmers as much as possible and for this reason, since the question was raised, the price of semen at room temperature has been reduced from Sh. 5/50 to Sh. 3/50 a dose, which means a subsidy from the Government of about Sh. 2. The price of frozen semen has not yet been reduced.

Mr. Mhogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Minister know that sometimes this semen has to be applied ten times before it is effective and this brings a lot of loss to the farmers?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the information we have in the Ministry is that it need only be tried twice if the farmers were co-operative and followed the advice of Veterinary Scouts.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that the cotton growers, themselves grow over—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! I think we have left Winam now.

Mr. ole Tipla: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may we know from the Assistant Minister the reasons why the price of frozen semen has not been reduced?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, to produce and keep frozen semen is quite an expensive job, and the Government goes out of its way to spend a lot of money on this and only charges Sh. 10 per dose. But it is very expensive to keep this semen in the refrigerator and it only lasts for ten days when it is in the refrigerator. But the room temperature semen is cheaper because of the local material which the Veterinary services use in producing, preparing and keeping it. We now use coconut water from the Coast and this is quite cheap and is the reason why that type is cheap.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply, would the Assistant Minister not agree with me that it would be ideal, if the Minister finds it too expensive to keep the semen, to breed from the bulls instead rather than keeping the semen?

Mr. Osogo: No, Sir. Unfortunately the hon. Member may never have kept any bulls.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, would the hon. Assistant Minister substantiate that Shikuku had never kept a bull.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think he was merely deducing that the hon. Member has never kept a bull.

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I said that he has probably never kept a bull. If the hon. Member has kept a bull, particularly a high grade bull, Mr. Speaker, he should be in a position to know that keeping a bull is very expensive, far far more expensive than buying a dose of semen at Sh. 10.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, has the Minister actually reduced the price of superphosphates for the growing of maize? Can the Assistant Minister realize that this semen is giving more benefit to the country than superphosphates and therefore the price must be reduced?

Mr. Osogo: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not understand what the hon. Member is trying to compare; he refers me to cement and superphosphates which I did not mention.

Mr. Tuwei: Mr. Speaker, Sir would I be in order to explain to the Assistant Minister properly so that he may understand my question?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I will call Mr. Tuwei now.

Mr. Tuwei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, from one of the replies of the Assistant Minister, I would like to know whether it is on his own farm that he keeps the bulls from which semen for artificial insemination is provided and does he not want anybody else to keep bulls?

Mr. Osogo: I see, Sir, that the question asked has confused you. I do not know whether you understood it, but if I assume that you and I understood the question from the hon. Member, he wants to know why we have introduced artificial insemination and whether we are trying to prevent the farmers from keeping bulls? If I am correct, that that is the information he wants to Mr. Tanni: Mr. Speaker, it is my own knowledge.

Question No. 913

REPLACEMENT OF EXPATRIATES BY KENYA CITIZENS

Mr. Mbogoh asked the Vice-President if the Minister—

- was aware that replacement of expatriates with citizens of Kenya was causing great inefficiency in the Civil Service, especially when Asians were given top posts on the pretext of Africanization;
- would tell the House why an expatriate European civil servant should be replaced by a local European, inexperienced civil servant;
- could tell the House whether any Europeans or Asians had taken up Kenya citizenship so that they would not lose their jobs.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

(a) No, Sir. This question reflects the old colonialist-inspired myth that only expatriates are efficient workers, and that indigenous peoples are not. This myth must be exploded once and for all, for many Kenyans who have taken over positions of responsibility have done and continue to do, excellent and highly admirable work. However, if the hon. Member can substantiate his claim of inefficiency, the matter will receive prompt attention.

(b) Expatriate European civil servants are never replaced by inexperienced local European civil servants.

(c) It is impossible to fathom all the motives of a man who applies for citizenship, but such an application can only be granted if the man is judged to be absolutely loyal to Kenya, and is likely to contribute significantly, according to his means and capacity, to the development, welfare and progress of this country.

Mr. Mbogoh: Arising from the reply to (b), Mr. Speaker, that no Europeans are given jobs in replacing the expatriate Europeans, does the Assistant Minister want to tell the House that if a European is already a citizen of this country he cannot be given a job when another expatriate European leaves because of his status as a Kenya citizen?

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the operative word there is "inexperienced" and I talked about "inexperienced" local European. I did not say an experienced local European could not get a job after an expatriate left.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, Sir could the Assistant Minister assure this House that all Kenya citizens, irrespective of colour, will be treated equally in the opportunities that are afforded to them?

Dr. Waiyaki: I can give an assurance that this Government is not interested in colour.

Mr. Mbogoh: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, is it not the policy of this Government to Africanize and get black Africans set up in jobs?

Dr. Waiyaki: It is the policy of this Government to Africanize as fast as possible but we do not discriminate against people on grounds of colour.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, could the Assistant Minister assure this House that the Official Gazette will no longer bear this sentence, that people wanted for jobs should be citizens of Kenya of African origin?

Dr. Waiyaki: No, I cannot give that assurance. Mr. Speaker, because in this House it has been repeatedly stated that before now Africans were discriminated against. So, now if we want to do a bit of leveling-up I cannot see why we cannot advertise in that manner.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, does the Assistant Minister agree that the policy is not one of Africanization but it is one of Kenyanization?

Dr. Waiyaki: I do not understand the difference myself.

Mr. Pandya: In view of the conflicting replies of the Assistant Minister—surely this Government must have one policy—where in answer to my question the Assistant Minister said he is not interested in colour, in the other context he said he was not prepared to give the assurance that was demanded by my friend, the hon. Member for Kilifi South. Surely, Sir, the Minister should be aware that there will be conflict in the policy that he has enunciated in answer to questions?

Dr. Waiyaki: As a matter of fact there happens not to be any conflict because I am assured by the hon. Member sitting next to me that in fact the advertisement that the hon. Mr. Ngala refers to does not appear in the Kenya Gazette.

Further, I want to expand what I said about colour. Some Asians happen to be as dark as Africans and there are some Africans who are

(Dr. Waiyaki) as light as Asians. So, where does colour come into this?

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to substantiate what the hon. Member for Kilifi South has said. While I agree that—but I do not have to do with me in this House—that the advertisement is in the Official Gazette—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must put a question, Mr. Pandya.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister aware that this sort of discriminating advertisement appears in the East African Standard. For the benefit of the Members here I am prepared to lay before the House the East African Standard of the 8th January.

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am talking of the Kenya Gazette not of the East African Standard.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, I am merely asking a question, is the Assistant Minister aware that such a discriminatory advertisement on behalf of the Public Service Commission of Kenya has appeared in the East African Standard? I can give several instances in this House. Is the Assistant Minister aware of that?

Dr. Waiyaki: I was not aware until now. Where the Kenya Government is concerned is in the Kenya Gazette. It does not appear in the Gazette.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 913: REPLACEMENT OF EXPATRIATES BY KENYA CITIZENS

Mr. Pandya: On a point of order, Sir, I am satisfied with the answers given by the Assistant Minister, and I would ask your indulgence to be able to raise this matter on a Motion for the Adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 805

MR. WANDERA'S RETURN TO KABETE

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry when Mr. Wandera (now stationed at Kilifi) would be returned to his rightful position at Kabete.

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Osoyo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it in order for a question to be brought before this House which asks about a civil servant by name?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, it is in order. There are limitations in our Standing Orders on the kind of question that can be asked about a person by name, particularly if allegations are made against him, but straightforward questions like this inquiring what is happening to the posting of a civil servant is quite in order.

Mr. Omtar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to seek your guidance, because, towards the end of last year, a certain civil servant in the Coast Province told me there was a circular which came from the President's Office (then the Prime Minister) saying that civil servants were not allowed to complain to the Members of Parliament. Now, I am wondering whether the circular is to be withdrawn. If it is not withdrawn, should we understand that civil servants from now can make their complaints to the Members of Parliament?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must not confuse Standing Orders of this House on which points of order are raised, with administrative directions of the Government. There is nothing in our Standing Orders to prevent a civil servant, from making a complaint to a Member, though it may be completely contrary to the disciplinary directions of Government. It has nothing to do with the orders of this House.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, am I allowed to make a statement in reply to the hon. Member?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osoyo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Mr. Wandera will be a tutor at the University College of East Africa, Veterinary Department, by the 11th of this month.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I just wish to congratulate the Assistant Minister.

Mr. Sol: Could the Assistant Minister tell the House why it was alleged in this question that the return of this civil servant to Kabete is his rightful position?

Mr. Osoyo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the allegation by an hon. Member in this House in asking a question is not the concern of the Minister who replies.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That particular part of the question was not of order, and the word "rightful" should have been deleted from the question.

[Mr. Saji] others, to such an extent that these civil servants object to seeing Members of Parliament and giving them priority?

Dr. Walyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government has delegated such powers only as are provided for by the Constitution. What individual District Commissioners and Provincial Commissioners do with individual Members, I cannot be aware of.

Mr. ole Tipli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the hon. Assistant Minister repeat to the House what he said about some constituency Members being dealt with by the District Commissioners and District Officers?

Dr. Walyaki: I did not say, Mr. Speaker, anything about constituency Members being dealt with by the District Commissioners and District Officers. I said that there were many matters which could properly be dealt with by District Commissioners and Provincial Commissioners at the constituency level.

Mr. Komora: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that there are certain things which District Commissioners are not able to do in the constituencies unless they are done by the Ministers in the Ministries?

Dr. Walyaki: Mr. Speaker, those are the essential matters we would appreciate being brought to the notice of Ministers, but there are other matters which could be dealt with at the district or provincial level.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister give us an example of the matters which he thinks should be dealt with at district and provincial level?

Dr. Walyaki: I would have thought, Mr. Speaker, that that question would not have come from an hon. Member. He knows that there are ministerial problems and administrative problems with which the District Commissioner can deal.

Question No. 693

SPLITTING OF SIRIKWA COUNTY COUNCIL

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Local Government, if the Government had considered splitting up the Sirikwa County Council in view of the size, distance and other inconveniences of the area concerned.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagine): Mr. Speaker Sir, my Ministry recently considered a request for the division of the county from some members of the council. It appeared that the reason for the request arose from certain allegations of tribalism in the council and the size of the county. From available facts, the former allegation does not seem to be of much substance. The latter allegation may, however, have some substance, but I feel that since the Sirikwa County Council has been constituted for just over a year, it should be given a bit longer to try and consolidate its local government administration. Furthermore, the council's present financial position is precarious and I do not feel that this is an opportune time for dividing the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I can order the reconstitution of any local government authority, it is necessary for me, under the law, to appoint a commission of inquiry. The procedure for such a commission and for reconstituting a local authority is fairly lengthy and may take up to six months.

My Ministry has already advised the county that this question should be deferred to give the council time to reconsider its administration and rectify its financial position:

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would the Minister tell the House how his Ministry arrives at the fact that this matter is being handled tribally?

Mr. Sagine: I think that question is very irrelevant, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think it does not because, in your first reply, you said that there was reason to believe that it was tribal differences that caused some of the trouble.

Mr. Sagine: Yes, if that is what he wants. The report that is in my Ministry in connexion with tribalism has very little substance. In other words, maybe when certain gentlemen of the council were doing something else and were told they were wrong. They would probably say the reason for that was tribalism. If I tell you two and two are four and we differ, then because you are an Englishman you are a cheat.

Mr. Mbogobor: Mr. Speaker, in view of the reply, which certainly is not a very strong factor in deciding whether to split this county council, does the Minister intend to take the second factor that is the size of the county council as a valid reason for this division?

Mr. Sagine: I do not agree with him entirely. Mr. Speaker. In the first place, now that the provincial administration is going to take care of Graduated Personal Tax, we may get a lot of money coming in and things running well. If this [Mr. Sagine] before, there will be no need to split it, but if by some chance in the future are such that I am compelled to split it, I will think about it in the future, but I should be given time. At the moment, I am going to amend local government legislation.

Question No. 902

SIGOR CLINIC: SHORTAGES OF STAFF AND MEDICINES

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Health and Housing if he was aware that Sigor Clinic was short of medicine and other medical facilities as well as staff?

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Okende): Mr. Speaker, Sir I beg to reply, Sigor Clinic is not short of medicine. This dispensary is used with drugs regularly from Sirikwa County Council drug stores in Eldoret and the Provincial Medical Officer, Rift Valley, Nakuru, says that there has been no complaint.

Concerning "other medical facilities" I would like to inform the hon. Member for West Pokot that Sigor is a dispensary and not a health centre and can cope with a limited amount of work.

This dispensary is not short of staff. There is an ungraded dresser, one ungraded nurse and one subordinate staff to look after the dispensary compound. This is the full strength of staff for a dispensary.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that the Sigor Dispensary gets medicine from Kapenguria when the necessity arises and so otherwise?

Mr. Okende: Yes, Sir, I know that dispensaries are not supplied always; they are supplied via hospitals. The nearest hospital, of course, to this place is Kapenguria and it is a long way away from Eldoret. Therefore, medicine must come all the way to Kapenguria first and then the doctor at Kapenguria issues drugs for people in Sigor. It is a very isolated spot in the hills near the Eppu-Marakwet border.

Mr. Lorema: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, is the Minister satisfied that the three people working there are enough to run this clinic?

Mr. Okende: Mr. Speaker, yes, Sir, I am satisfied there are enough people for a dispensary. If there is a case which the hon. Member would like to make for that place to be raised in status to a health centre, then we shall consider it. But these people are the normal complement for a dispensary.

BAKERY FOR MAKUTANO

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House what progress had been made in the establishment of a small bakery in West Pokot at Makutano.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am aware of the need for a bakery in the constituency of the hon. Member and a plan has already been prepared for the establishment of one bakery at Makutano capable of producing 800 lb. loaves per day. The Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation is prepared to sponsor this scheme with a loan of up to about 75 per cent of the total capital outlay, provided somebody in West Pokot is prepared to submit an application and is able to contribute the remainder.

In order that my Ministry may be able to complete the remaining task in respect of the bakery at Makutano, I would like to request the hon. Member to urge his people to submit an application through their Provincial Trade Officer who is the official of my Ministry in the area.

Mr. Tannu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the people of West Pokot do not eat bread, but eat mealies and nothing else why has this been set up?

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, is it in order for an hon. Member to rise and say that the Pokot people do not eat bread and eat mealies and nothing else?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think hon. Members know very well what limits there are on what they say. They include restriction on words which are abusive, insulting or contemptuous; but I do not think there is anything offensive in what the hon. Member stated.

All the same, Mr. Lorema, you are entitled to ask the hon. Member to substantiate what he said.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, would he therefore withdraw his statement or substantiate?

Mr. Tannu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as far as I know the West Pokot people are just fond of eating meat and drinking blood, but they are not fond of eating bread. That is why I wanted to find out where this bread will be sold if they are going to have economic—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do you say that you can substantiate from your own knowledge?

[Mr. Ngila]

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, without going into the bigger points or even dealing with any other matters, now that the Minister responsible is here, I hope we shall have something useful out of him.

I beg to support the Mover.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arup Mo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought the hon. Member in this House were mature enough to realize the gravity of this matter. If they take these things so emotionally and do not carry the country, which is their responsibility, then how can the ordinary man in the country view this matter? I recall that one of the Members on the other side of the House said that the situation in the country was worse than in the Congo. I should like to be told today whether there is something brewing or something going on which is worse than in the Congo. I am concerned, like anybody else here, and if we cannot take this matter calmly so as to make sure of the security of everyone in this country, then I do not understand how one Member or anybody else in this House can talk emotionally instead of securing the best way to get these things done.

Therefore, with those few remarks, I beg to disassociate myself from the Motion.

Mr. Anylen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think we are deliberately trying to misunderstand one another or we do not want to do something. But the point is, Mr. Speaker, if I may be very short, that this morning, when we called the Minister, he said that he did not have enough time.

Secondly, he told us he did not have the freedom to tell us things, he had to have Cabinet agreement first, before he could tell us. So the Minister left us quickly, before we finished the meeting. He went away. He said he was going to ask Mzee Kenyatta to call a Cabinet meeting to discuss these things. All that we are asking, all this Motion is asking, is a token to show that even if we adjourn one minute from time, it shows that the House feels that this is an important matter, and the House is asking the Government to be able to sit some time, if not tonight, then tomorrow morning, as they like, and then tell the House that this is an important matter and that they are giving us time to go and discuss it. I do not see why we should make it the other way.

Now if the Ministers come and say that they do not require that time, even if Parliament adjourns at 7 o'clock, we still have enough time to call a Cabinet meeting, or the President will still have enough time to discuss these things, then I do not see the point of the Motion. But if we are going to say that this is not an important matter and that the Cabinet does not feel the need for a meeting then this is serious. I do not know if he really understands, because this was a political matter, Mr. Speaker, and as such the Cabinet is the guardian of our nation and our Cabinet—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): This is getting beyond the point of the Motion.

Mr. Anylen: Thank you very much Mr. Speaker.

Then, our Cabinet should be able to sit and I do not think that I should elaborate more. I should like to sit down and the Minister for Defence and Internal Security, whom I am sure has been in touch with the President—I am sure the President is quite busy. Then, if the Minister can give us an assurance that they are going to meet, or that they have met, then we can even ask the hon. Member to withdraw the Motion, but we cannot merely be told that it is not necessary to adjourn.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I had better suggest that somebody move the closure very soon, having heard most points of view.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Wildlife (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to move the closure of the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Unless Dr. Muzoi wishes to speak on the Motion I will allow the question of closure to be put for the House to decide.

(Question that the question be now put put and agreed to)

(Question put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 3rd March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at fifty-seven minutes past Five o'clock

Wednesday, 3rd March 1965

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

PAPER LAID

The Appropriation Accounts, Other Public Accounts and the Accounts of the Funds for the year 1963/64.

By the Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Odo-Odongo) on behalf of the Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru), in accordance with section 128 (4) of the Constitution

Mr. Bala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, according to the Order Paper, we have a Communication from the Chair as Order No. 1. Should it not have been called first, before any other order?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are quite right. The fact is that we were expecting a Communication from the Senate, which I was supposed to read out, but it did not arrive. I, therefore, instructed the Clerk not to read out the Order.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

FREEDOM TITLES FOR TANA RIVER PEOPLE

Mr. Komora: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

That in view of the large amount of good agricultural land lying idle on the Tana River which is claimed to be Government land, this House urges the Government to issue 'freehold' titles of this land to the local inhabitants so that they may develop the land for economic agricultural purposes or otherwise.

COMMISSION OF INQUIRY

WEST SOTIK SETTLEMENT SCHEMES

Mr. Makoo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

That in view of the social and economic difficulties experienced by the new farmers in Kenya's Settlement Schemes, especially those of West Sotik, this House urges the Government to set up a commission of inquiry immediately to look into the matter and report its progress to this House with a view of recommending better terms with special reference to the valuation of land, the conditions and terms of loans repayment and the Marketing Organisation of the farmers' produce.

DISTRICT HOSPITAL MOVE FROM KILIFI TO MALINDI

Mr. Tova: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

That in view of the fact that Malindi is the only big town in the Kilifi County and that there are so many serious cases which need concentrated medical attention, and since it is a centre of tourist attraction, this House urges the Government to move the district hospital from Kilifi to Malindi.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 878

PRIORITY FOR MEMBERS TO SEE MINISTERS

Mr. Lorema asked the Vice-President whether the Government would make proper arrangements to ensure that hon. Members and Senators received the first priority to see either the President, the Vice-President or Ministers on matters dealing with their constituencies.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Walyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Adequate arrangements already exist for this purpose; it is not proposed, therefore, to make any adjustments at the present time. It would, however, be more appropriate if normal channels were followed by hon. Members and Senators, as, in most cases, the constituency matters in question may be dealt with by District Commissioners and Provincial Commissioners rather than by Ministers.

It is not clear who the people are over whom hon. Members and Senators seek to be given priority, but hon. Members and Senators already have perfectly reasonable access to Ministers.

However, if the hon. Member has specific cases in mind, the Vice-President would be prepared to talk to the Ministers concerned.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is the Assistant Minister aware that the cards which were provided for Members of Parliament are invalid these days, in view of the fact that they are stopped at the gates of either the Central Government Offices or the President's Office?

Dr. Walyaki: I am not aware, Mr. Speaker, but I will take note of that.

Mr. Soli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that this Ministry, and other Ministries, have delegated too much power to civil servants, such as District Commissioners and

That a sum not exceeding £1,289,817 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Development Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1964/65.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do agree with the Committee of Supply in the said Resolution.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) seconded.

(Question put and agreed to)

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE

(Under Standing Order 35 (b))

Mr. Mullor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move—

—The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Is it a point of order?

Mr. Mullor: Point of order, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn. The reason, Sir, why I would like the House to adjourn now is that this House is conscious of the grave situation which has been created by the assassination of the late Pio Gama Pinto and is aware that the Minister for Internal Security and Defence promised the Members this morning that an emergency Cabinet meeting was going to be called and then he would inform the hon. Members of this House, in secret, the result of such a meeting. Up to now, Sir, there has been no Cabinet meeting because all the Ministers are here, and if we continue the deliberations of this House, it will mean that we are defeating the very objective which the hon. Members of this House would like to achieve.

With this, Sir, I do not want to labour on this Motion, and I ask my hon. Seconder, Mr. Luke Obok, not to labour anything at all.

I therefore beg to move.

Mr. Oboko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in seconding this Motion, I would like it to be known that the situation in the country today is worse than it is in the Congo. In addition to that, Sir, the murder of Pio Pinto is a challenge to us, as Members of Parliament, and a threat as well. Therefore, I sincerely hope that the hon. Members of this House will endorse this Motion and get the House to adjourn to enable the Ministers to tell us something tomorrow.

(Question proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members, I would explain that this is a true Motion for Adjournment of the House which, as I have said on another occasion, can be moved by any hon. Member in this House at any time. It is, however, quite unlike the procedural Motion which is really a method of giving the House an opportunity of discussing a certain matter at a certain time. So it is very obvious that on this Motion, as has been indicated by the Mover and the Seconder, the House must stick very strictly to discussing whether or not we adjourn, and not any other aspect of the circumstances which have led to this Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Mr. Arwings-Kodhek): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am rather surprised that the Member for Trans Nzoia has thought fit to spring a surprise on this House. I was at the particular meeting this morning with the Members of this House, who attended a meeting upstairs here. I listened very carefully, and indeed, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it will be seen that the Minister received the information only this morning that the hon. Members wanted to hear from him one or two things in connexion with the lamentable assassination of our very dear friend, the late Pio Gama Pinto. A lot of questions were asked upstairs and these questions were recorded, not only by the secretary of the Members of this House, but also by the Permanent Secretary to our Ministry. These questions and misgivings and rumours which I have heard included most of the things which hon. Members are so worried about. All these were recorded Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I think are in the course of being processed by the police and security officers.

I must say this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the police are doing the best they can and I take this opportunity in congratulating them.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Sir, I thought you ruled that we would not go into a discussion as to whether the police are doing something or not and we were going to restrict ourselves to the mere thing that we adjourn the House to give our hon. Ministers a chance to go and prepare to have a meeting so that they will be able to meet us.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are quite right, Mr. Anyieni. You must stick very closely, Mr. Kodhek, to whether we adjourn for the purpose of the Cabinet meeting. We cannot go into how well the police or the Government are doing.

The Assistant Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Mr. Arwings-Kodhek): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. As a matter of fact, the the Assistant Minister for Internal Security and Defence]

Minister did not promise that this afternoon there would be a Cabinet meeting.

Several hon. Members: Shame!

The Assistant Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Mr. Arwings-Kodhek): A Cabinet meeting is not the sort of thing that one can call at short notice just like that, because, for instance, if there should be a meeting going on and he cannot summon all the Ministers at such short notice. But what I accept is that some hon. Members want to have a day off and Cabinet papers do have to be prepared. I oppose very strongly the insinuation and innuendo about police action on a matter which is sub judice.

Mr. Speaker: I oppose very strongly that there be an adjournment for such a flimsy reason.

Mr. Warithi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to be very brief on this Motion. We all know that Members of this House feel about the affair of the late Pio Pinto. I would like to say, very briefly, what happened this morning at the meeting of which I was the chairman.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Not too much of a Mr. Warithi. You must be relevant to the Motion for Adjournment.

Mr. Warithi: Yes, Mr. Speaker. The Minister did promise that he would see that a Cabinet meeting was held and that he would give us a statement which would be agreed upon. I would like to say categorically that he did not give any assurance that we would get the statement today. He did say he was going to make attempts to meet the President so that a meeting of the Cabinet could be held, but I would say this, that he should give credit where it is due. The Minister promised that he was going to make attempts, and up to now he did promise that as soon as he was in a position to do so he would get in touch with the President.

I presume that since he has not told me up to now, he has not been able to get the material agreed upon, which was to be released to the Members.

Mr. Kall: I stand to oppose the timing of this Motion. I think we had only a few hours' notice that we wanted a meeting this morning and had no time to arrange or to investigate the suspicions and rumours that beset us. To be fair to the Minister, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we should have given him a little time, because, as far as I know, he has not promised to make any statement today, therefore I ask hon. Members to give him some time so that he can collect some more information.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the matter is of serious importance, in the sense that a Member of Parliament has been murdered, and therefore I think the Government Front Bench should take this as a matter of serious importance, and as a matter of great national importance. Indeed, I am very surprised that a Cabinet meeting has not been held up to now, regarding this. However, if it had been held, then it is up to the Minister responsible on the other side to stand up and say, "We have already had a Cabinet meeting on this matter and therefore we can give you whatever news we have, confidentially, as Members of Parliament." If they have not done that since Wednesday, then I think the Mover of this Motion is fully entitled to ask the House to adjourn urgently so that a meeting of the Cabinet can be held.

Now the Parliamentary Secretary—I do not want to call him Assistant Minister because this talk does not warrant that reference—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order! Hon. Members must address other Members by their proper titles.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, to suggest that papers must be prepared first, before an urgent Cabinet meeting is called—what sort of a paper does he prepare about a bullet? We want this murder to be discussed quickly. We are not asking you to prepare a paper on the Tana River Irrigation Scheme, which will take three years. We want you to discuss and tell us.

An hon. Member: Address the Chair.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, I am addressing the Chair. We want to know exactly why the Members are kept in suspense, we do not know whether there is a plot to get rid of one Member at a time and therefore we want to know exactly where our security lies, as Members of Parliament. If the Parliament is the final authority in the country today, it demands that the Government should sit immediately to give us a reply.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, some Members have said that the time is not convenient. What time? The person who murdered the hon. Member did not choose a time, did not warn us; and I demand that there be a meeting at this time in the interests of the country. Therefore the question of time does not come into it. After all, these hon. Ministers here are paid for that very reason and they can go back to State House and Harambee House and do a great deal of harambee work and get the information.

[Mr. de Tjals] do not have many of these mobile veterinary laboratories.

The second point is this, and this is very important, he must move away from the previous policy of having veterinary stations such as Ngong where a man goes for training with the intention of being employed as a veterinary scout, or a veterinary assistant. I would like to know how many students are so far being trained in some of these veterinary training centres, because this is a very serious business. We want some livestock breeders in the country in order to improve the quality of our livestock.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, I sincerely hope that we, as a Government will be more successful in getting more veterinary coverage in the Masailand, and especially in the Narok District, than was provided by the Regional Assembly who looked after this problem for whatever length of time it was. As I mentioned earlier on, Mr. Chairman, the Committee which have been looking into the development of Masai have virtually finished the draft plan for the whole of this area, and as I said earlier on, we are already accepting part of that plan and have made approaches to various countries to help us with personnel to develop this area. I think I am correct in saying that we are hopeful that in the very near future a Yugoslav expert will be moving into that area, but what I do want to emphasize is that with the co-operation of the Masai people, it looks as though the plan is going to be accepted. That being the case, we will then be able to go ahead and get the aid which has been promised to us from other countries for Masailand.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Chairman, Sir, on head N—Veterinary Laboratories and Stations, I would be glad if the Minister could explain or give us a breakdown once more because it was very confusing, to know how many laboratories and stations are established in Kenya now, and which are the places where they are.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Order, order, Mr. Masinde, I am afraid I must interrupt you, because it is one hour before the time for interruption of business and I am afraid I have to put the Motions now.

(Heads N and S agreed to)

(Vote 17 agreed to)

Mr. Mallada: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, could you please explain to us what is taking place, because we do not know exactly what is taking place.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): As I said earlier on, the Supplementary Estimates stand, in fact, have been finished in one day, but due to some oversight, the Members of the House were lucky and got three days in which to discuss it, but one hour before the interruption of business, which is 5.30 p.m., I must put the question. In other words, this House, which is in Committee of Supply, will approve, if it does, all the expenditure. I will then report to the House that the Committee has passed it. If the Committee has passed it and the House approves the recommendations in the Motion by the Committee, it will then pass it in a form of a law, which will be known as the Supplementary Appropriation Bill. This will be made law, and will be given a First Reading immediately after the Report of the Committee stage, which will be Order No. 7. It will then go on to the Second Reading, which is Order No. 8. It will then go to the Committee of the whole House, which is Order No. 9, and I presume it will then have a Third Reading immediately. In other words, by 6.30 p.m. it will be law.

Mr. Anyten: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, you remember, Sir, that last Thursday, I moved a reduction in the Ministry of Health, and this was adjourned because the Minister did not have details. Now, today, I understand that when the Minister wanted to reply, you said that it was better if we finished first what the Government started, and then we could go back.

Now, you have just passed a question in the House. I do not know whether that now rules out any reply the Minister intended to give to this House.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I am afraid that is true. I appreciate the difficulty. The Minister did, in fact, say that he had in his possession now all the facts and information that he wanted to give, but I suggested to him that there were other departments which we had not finished, and we would try and get through them as soon as possible. I did, of course, before that, warn hon. Members that we only one hour to go and if they wanted to proceed rapidly, they should allow only discussion and questions on those points which were very keen to have information on, but as it happened, they seemed to be very keen on information with regard to some aspects in the Ministry of Agriculture, and the time is now finished. I am afraid we can probably take this up again if you want to at the time of the Budget Session when you can bring up all the points, but, according to Standing Orders—and we have to keep to Standing Orders—we have [The Chairman] to pass it to the vote at half past five. I think you understand the position now. It is unfortunate perhaps, but the Committee will appreciate that, in fact, the Committee had three days to discuss its measure, while according to Standing Orders, the Committee should have received only one day.

Mr. Mallada: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, in the event of putting the Question to the vote and the House refusing to pass it, what will happen?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): The normal case is that the Government will resign, or the Government might feel like resigning. It is voting against a Supplementary Estimate, which is, in fact, normally—and I am taking this as a general case—a vote of no confidence, because finance is the most vital part. Without money, Government cannot continue. So, this is the point.

Mr. Anyten: Mr. Chairman, what is the procedure I believe these are Standing Orders of the colonial days, when there were about ten or eleven Members here. Can the Chairman give us a hint on how to amend these—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Let me explain. These Standing Orders are not of the colonial days. They were, in fact, reformed and repassed by this House in June 1963, after the new debates.

As hon. Member: We did not know.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): They were used again after the House was divided into two Chambers, the House of Representatives and the Senate, and they are, in fact, based to a certain extent on previous Standing Orders, but they are here with the idea of running this House as an efficient House, and hon. Members of the Sessional Committee first discuss Standing Orders and their amendments and proposed amendments, and when they are discussed very fully, they are then brought before the House. You will realize that Standing Orders, have, in fact, a lot of correlations: in other words if you say that thirty days is not enough for the budget, the Sessional Committee has to decide that also, and the Government needs time to run its activities, etc.

I will now put the Supplementary Estimate—returned to the Vote.

MOTION

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE No. 1 of 1964/65
—DEVELOPMENT

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I will read out the terms of the Motion as I must put it to the Vote without debate:—

THAT a sum not exceeding £1,289,817 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Development, Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1964/65.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move that the Committee do report to the House its consideration of the Resolutions as set out in the Order, Paper and its approval thereof without amendment.

REPORTS

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE No. 3 of 1964/65
—RECURRENT

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed by the Committee of Supply to report its consideration of the following Resolution, and its approval thereof without amendment:—

THAT a sum not exceeding £5,869,219 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65 (Recurrent), having regard to the proposed savings of £969,217 therein appearing.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House doth agree with the Committee of Supply in the said Resolution.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) seconded.

(Question put and agreed to)

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE No. 1 of 1964/65
—DEVELOPMENT

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed by the Committee of Supply to report its consideration of the following Resolution and the approval of the same without amendment:—

Mr. McKenzie: The breakdown in the amount for the six-month period: the Coast, £2,000; East, £7,000; Central, £6,000; Rift, £6,000; Nyanza, £3,500; Western, £4,000; Research, £5,000, making a total of £34,400. Those are agricultural and then veterinary research at the Coast are £1,600; East, £1,500; Central, £1,700; Rift, this includes the National Park at Naivasha, £6,000; Nyanza, £1,200; West, £1,300; North-Eastern, £600; Reserve, £2,000.

Now Sir, those are broken down as follows: Bukuria, Lugari, Mwanza, Maseno, Kisii, Kabanga, Kiparowara, Kaimosi, Kisumu, Madakos, Kieni, Kaburu, Kaguru, Embu, Kaga, Wambusi, Kenyatta, Y.M.C.A., Limuru, Salvation Army, Thika, Majabeni, Wajuru Rock, Mtomba, Kenyatta Farmers' Training College, Central, Fort Hall District, Coast Farmers' Training College, Kilifi, Livestock Improvement Centre, Kilifi.

Mr. Waritih: Just one more question. From what the Minister has read, I do not think he means to believe that he is going to set up new Agricultural stations in all these places. Are these stations already existing going to be added, or how many of these are new ones that are going to be started?

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, I am very surprised that an influential man like the Chairman of the Back-benchers—God knows full well that he has been listening—does not know that these Estimates are Supplementary Estimates which we have inherited from the Regional Assemblies for payment of schools and institutes which are already operating. I have already answered the question from the other side, on the future, and what we were considering in institutions, etc., but I went out of order, I am afraid, by talking about something that was not in these Estimates. These Estimates showed nothing new whatsoever. They were all expenditure for the next six months, on schools, centres, officers, etc., who are already employed by Central Government, having been taken over from them.

Mr. Weritih: Mr. Chairman, is what the Minister said when he went out of order not included in these Estimates?

Mr. McKenzie: The hon. Member knows full well that they are not.

Mr. Masinde: My question is simple, Sir, as to what is happening, according to the Minister's breakdown, to those schools now that are being operated by missionaries, assisted by Government? Is it the intention of the Government that in future they should acquire these schools and they should become a Government responsibility?

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, those do not come under this Supplementary Estimate. They come under the Annual Estimates.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the Minister to tell us why these agricultural institutions should be so difficult for farmers, because many of the experiments are of no use to local people?

Mr. McKenzie: I agree with the hon. Members, because experiments are not done in these places. These are institutions to teach the farmer, and I think the number of people who went to our institutions in 1964 was something like 47,000. There are certain experimental farms which also do institutional work. Any hon. Member, at any time, is absolutely welcome to any of these stations. All hon. Members have to do is to sit us, and we will only be too pleased to take them there.

I will take this opportunity of saying that we are considering hiring, if we can get one cheap enough, an aeroplane which can carry seventy-five Members of this House, so that we can make a one-day tour of Kenya landing at certain places, so that hon. Members can have a good view of as much of Kenya as possible from the air, and visit certain institutions. That is for those Members of Parliament who would like to do so.

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Chairman, I would like to request the Minister for Agriculture, in view of the fact that in these agricultural stations and schools, we have experienced that the people who are being sent to those institutions are so few, owing to the fact that they are made to pay when they go to these experimental farms, and as many people in the country now are interested in these institutions, I request the Minister to consider, as far as this Vote is concerned—it is a large sum of money—that these institutions should be free of charge for those people who want to go and learn agriculture. They should be free institutions so as to get as many people as possible to go and learn and then go and explain the education to the masses in the areas because I have experienced in my own area, that the Minister himself knows, there is an institution where people pay Sh. 35 for two weeks, and the ordinary man or woman is unable to meet this cost. If the Ministry could make it free of charge, I am sure many people will join the institution and within a very short time you will find the country prospering through his Ministry, because many people will learn the method of farming.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, I think the present charge is Sh. 2/20 a day. Some of them are less than that. We are trying to find overseas farms where we can cut this down even further. I think hon. Members must appreciate that Sh. 35 is two weeks, especially those where we feed and house them, is already very heavily subsidized. We have looked into this at the Ministry, and the possibility of giving free education at all our agricultural institutions would run just on £30,000 a year.

Mr. Makome: The Minister said that Nyanza was only given £3,500. May we be told why it was given this amount when the other provinces have between £6,000 and £7,000.

Mr. McKenzie: The hon. Members obviously did not hear what I said before. He may not have been in the House. These are estimates which we have accepted and taken over from the regional machine. There was no time for us to alter them, because the thing is hardly completed. All we took is the completed half. I am sorry to say, Mr. Chairman, that certain regions had to cut down agriculture; they made other aspects of their business more important, so they cut down on agricultural matters. These figures had nothing to do with us, but I sincerely hope that we will be able to even these out more now that we are in control of the Budget for 1965/66.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think we will have to go ahead with the next item.

(Head L agreed to)

Head N—Veterinary Laboratories and Stations

Mr. Glehoya: I heard from the Minister about his schools. Now, we were talking about agricultural stations and schools.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, no, we are discussing Veterinary Laboratories and Stations.

Mr. Glehoya: Yes, Sir, there was a mention of a certain place.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Is it a veterinary station or an agricultural station?

Mr. Glehoya: The Minister mentioned it as an agricultural research station, although I know it is a veterinary station. If that is not the case, could the Minister inform me whether he wrongly mentioned the place?

Mr. McKenzie: What happened, Mr. Chairman, was that I read out all the agricultural ones, and then I read out all the veterinary ones. I will read the veterinary ones again if he would like them. I read out both lists.

Mr. Glehoya: Then on that point I am satisfied.

The other thing I would like to suggest to the Minister is this: There is an agricultural station, institutional school, and I would suggest to the Minister to bring together the two institutions within the one area, which is adequate enough to accommodate the other training facilities for agriculture, instead of having two separate places. I am referring to Kirinyaga too, being a small place. The place that is occupied by the training school should be used for accommodating secondary school children as a dormitory, because there are all facilities.

Mr. McKenzie: I know the place which the hon. Member is talking about very well, Mr. Chairman, and we have considered this in the Ministry, but we do run ourselves into difficulties, because to a very great extent on these institutions, we rely on donor money, and a lot of it is grant money.

An hon. Member: What is that?

Mr. McKenzie: Money that is given and that you do not have to repay.

They often like to give it for one purpose or the other, either for agriculture or for veterinary. So, in certain areas where we have people who have donated money regularly, from foundations or overseas countries, they only like to give it to one thing.

Now, I want to give you an example. The Danish Government, whom we have been holding discussions with, have decided to move their big veterinary school from India, and to bring it here to Kenya, and pay for it completely themselves. We tried to get them to amalgamate it with an agricultural institution, but they said that if we want to do this, they will find elsewhere to go. We had to say that we were not prepared to agree, and they could come and put it up as a veterinary establishment. This is the problem.

Mr. ole Tipis: Mr. Chairman, one point here is that we have accepted the Minister's explanation that these Supplementary Estimates are not entirely of his making, and of course, it is the responsibility of implementing the whole functions within his whole portfolio.

Mr. Chairman, as far as these veterinary laboratories and stations are concerned, I would like to know from the Minister the reasons why, in view of the fact that we have not got a single veterinary officer throughout the Masailand, we

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, there is only one thing on which I want the Minister's assurance, he is asking for quite a substantial sum of money, as you can see. But, could the Minister tell me whether these amounts here also cover the need for providing the replacement of Busia Agricultural Officers' vehicles, because in Busia at the moment there are only two Land-Rovers which are very, very old—one of them in fact is all the time taken to the Ministry of Works in Kisumu where it lies for three, four months. Even now the Minister can telephone Busia and talk to the Agricultural Officer who will tell him that he has been waiting for one Land-Rover for quite three months. Now, for these three months the officers are not working; that means that the Land-Rovers, which were taken to Busia when it was established as a new district, were all very old Land-Rovers, and they were sent to Busia just because they think that Busia is in the other part of the world. So, I would like the Minister to assure me and, in fact, I am going during this weekend to find out from the Agricultural Officer whether he has received a letter from the office of the Ministry telling him that they would be getting two additional vehicles to replace the old ones which should be taken to Nairobi where there is cheap work.

I would also like the Minister to take into account that this amount should give Busia another additional vehicle, there should be one for the Agricultural Officer himself and there should be two other vehicles for another Assistant Agricultural Officer and another Assistant Agricultural Officer and another Assistant Agricultural Officer because there are two divisions, the northern division and the southern division. So I would like it to be made very clear that Busia should have three vehicles so as to allow the officers to do their agricultural work very, very well, because at the moment it is very difficult to know what type of work these officers are doing because they have no vehicles in which to go around and the people are complaining that they do not see the Government Agricultural Officers in the field. So, would the Minister satisfy me and assure me so that I will be able to go and tell the people that the Government will give these people proper vehicles.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, I thank the hon. Member for raising this point about Busia and I will look into it and be able to tell him the results of my inquiry tomorrow afternoon if he cares to make contact with me.

We have done a very quick survey on the vehicles which we have taken over. The vehicles in the provincial fleet are already in a very bad shape. I am reading from a report which we have had, in two regions we have found them to be in exceptionally bad shape, and unfortunately one of them is Western. We are at the present moment considering in the Ministry whether we should not, like some other surrounding countries, rent from Land-Rovers to motor-bikes and sidecars. These are much cheaper to buy, much cheaper to run and the Agricultural Officer or whoever the officer is cannot carry fifteen people in the back, which we have found certain officials doing all getting money for it. This is an idea which has come to us from a neighbouring country and we are looking at it. All he can put in the sidecar is a toro, nobody else, because it would not be big enough.

Now, Sir, we would appreciate, Mr. Chairman, that the functions of our Ministry are valuated unless we have an effective field service and our effective field service depends entirely upon its being mobile, even just as much as the police. If you have an Agricultural Officer, it is no good his sitting on his behind in Kisumu, Kakamega, Bungoma or wherever. He must get out and around and see the people. I take the point the hon. Member has made and, as I have said, I will look into this one. I have not heard that Busia is worse than anywhere else. But I do want to tell the hon. Member that we have found that the vehicles from Western Region are in very bad shape, and I know there is an allocation going forward now for certain new vehicles to go to Western Region. I will see whether, in fact, Busia has priority.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: I think the Minister has explained some points, Mr. Chairman, to us but I would like to know from him this. Would he not agree with me that he wants us to vote this money for replacement, maintenance and running expenses of vehicles which are already in the field and that he is considering, in his estimate before we debate the Budget, bringing to this House the additional vehicles which he has just mentioned for new districts which were established as a result of constitutional changes?

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, this is quite correct, but I must warn the hon. Member that the Minister for Finance has told all of us that we cannot consider having any increase in this year's Budget, that we must try to be as careful as possible. But we have certain savings in the Ministry and, as I have explained, we are looking into it because we have found, through information from neighbouring countries, that this motor-bike and side-car can be a very big saving indeed, except in wet weather, when they are no good.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: Mr. Chairman, there is a point I would like to make. There are some big vehicles which were established recently, and, if I could be specific, I would refer to Nyandarua District, which is a big one. Now there is only one Agricultural Officer and very few vehicles, and it is very difficult for him to cover North Nyandarua, Central Nyandarua and South Nyandarua at once. There are only very limited vehicles. That is why, if the Minister has already been told by the Treasury that no additional money can be given, or no additional money for agricultural transport in the field, I wonder what we are going to do. Are we going to neglect these new farmers settled there by the Ministry of Lands and Settlement?

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, Sir, these are policy matters on which I will give an answer in the policy debate, but I want to remind the hon. Member that he knows as well as I do that practically the whole of Nyandarua is operated at the present moment by the Department of Settlement and not by my Ministry. I do not say the whole of it, I said most of it.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: Mr. Chairman, could I get this point cleared up by the Minister. Whether it does not have one Agricultural Officer in the field and others who today cannot do their job properly as a result of having no vehicles, no means of transport, and they keep on asking for this from the members of the public?

Mr. McKenzie: Yes, Mr. Chairman, my Agricultural Officers in Nyandarua are on secondment to my hon. friend, my colleague, the Minister for Lands and Settlement.

Mr. Gichoya: Now, Sir, if what the Minister says is correct, and they are just mere seconded officers to that Ministry, could he anyway satisfy this House that the other Minister who has been told those officers will give them proper arrangements in terms of transport?

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, I would like to suggest that the hon. Member raises this during a debate on policy.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I think it would be more suitable then. Mr. Omar?

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, on a point of order, you did not look at me because there was only one thing—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I have looked at you sufficiently, Mr. Oduya. This time I am not, No, no, sit down. We have already passed the section you want to speak on.

(Head D agreed to)

Head E—Travelling and Subsistence Expenses

Mr. Omar: Under this item, Mr. Chairman, there is an additional sum, of about £48,100. Could the Minister explain to us the nature of the travelling and subsistence expenses on duty? I ask this, Mr. Chairman, because—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We are ill on E, Mr. McKenzie.

Mr. McKenzie: I am sorry, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Omar: We would like an explanation of the nature of the travelling and subsistence expenses on duty, Mr. Chairman, because I understand that in some provinces, such as the Coast Province, some agricultural officers have got rest camps. These rest camps are not far from their offices. Sometimes they go into the field and when they get tired in the evening, they go to the rest camp and spend the night there, so they probably claim mileage or night allowance. So we would like the Minister to tell us the nature of the subsistence expenses on duty paid to these officers who work for this Department.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, all I can tell the hon. Member is that this may have happened under the regional régime, but I can promise him that no agricultural officers are being paid mileage for going to rest camps, and night allowance if they are staying at a rest camp. I can also promise hon. Members—I heard one saying that they were entertaining Ministers—that no matter what Ministers they entertained previously, I have just been to the Coast and I got no entertainment from any agricultural officer at any station, at any night-club or night accommodation at the beach. If this is still happening, and the hon. Member is still concerned that they may be putting in for their allowances, etc., if he gives me the name of the place, where they are going—not the name of the person—I can check up and let him know. But from my knowledge, this has not happened since the beginning of January, for the simple reason that before we took over, a very harsh letter went out from my Ministry drawing the attention of regional officers not only to this matter, but to numerous matters concerning the use of vehicles, etc. If this is still happening, however, we would like to know; but it is my impression that it is not happening.

Now what is this money being used for, Mr. Chairman? This money is being used for the payment of official transport and official transport only. We are running into a little difficulty, in that there was in certain provinces a difference

[Mr. Konchellah]

Education Officers, so if my colleague would perhaps take an interest in this affair and inquire, at least, in the Regional Offices of Education.

(Head K agreed to)

(Head M agreed to)

(Vote 16 agreed to)

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Otende): Mr. Chairman, Sir, just before the end, there was a breakdown required under item G. I was wondering whether this would be the time to finish this?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Under item G for—?

Mr. Otende: Health and Housing.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You want to finish that, do you?

Mr. Otende: There are only three items, Sir, G, K and J.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think we will come to J that very soon, let us finish the other Votes first.

VOTE 17—MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE AND ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

Head A—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Gteboya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I want a clarification here from the Minister. Under explanatory details there are forty-six drivers and my problem is as to whether some of them are those who were working in the Mweya Irrigation Scheme.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Chairman, I would just like quickly to explain that these explanatory details were details which had been given to us by the regions, as we have taken over their Budget which has half-completed. None of these people involved in here have anything whatsoever to do with those aspects of agriculture which were operated previously by the Central Government. All these people are the regional Government. All has now been taken over by Central Government. Therefore Mweya, which has always been Central Government, is not involved in this.

Mr. ole Tipis: Mr. Chairman, I think there are a few things we ought to query from the Minister, concerning these Personal Emoluments.

Firstly, I hope that he will not try to kick the ball back at me, but the question is, these thirty-five Agricultural Officers and the 130 Senior Assistant Agricultural Officers, I would like to know definitely what is he doing about it himself, or what is the policy of his Ministry, because I think it is grossly unfair to have only one qualified Agricultural Officer in an area covering 16,000 square miles, for instance, Kajiado and Narok.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, I agree completely with what the hon. Member has said, but he must have known before he stood up that this ball would go straight back to him because this is the Budget which was put forward by the region. But I would like to tell him, although it is a policy matter and it should not come up under Supplementaries, that we have gone a very long way indeed with the Committee on Development in Masailand and the recommendations of staff which have been put forward by that Committee. We, as a Government, have already approached overseas countries to help us in the immediate future in the staff which we will be needing to develop that area. I think in the district of which you are talking we are attempting to get four extra people immediately. That is a policy matter, not under this.

Mr. Gteboya: I would like to have an explanation from the Minister as to whether this amount, which is for Personal Emoluments, means that the regions keep employing additional staff members after they had made their own previous estimates, which are shown here as Regional Estimates. If the regions did not make these estimates, but the Central Government, I would like to know whether the increase is based on the conditions that the number of employees have increased, or whether this is a matter of their salaries having been enhanced.

Mr. McKenzie: The answer to the first two questions is no, and no, and therefore the third question does not arise.

Mr. ole Tipis: Mr. Chairman, the one I am coming to is this question of Veterinary Research Officers and Research Workers. In this case they were catered for by the Central Government. Now, I am informed that the Tsetse fly Control Team which was stationed at a place called Aitong in my constituency, and which was doing good work, is going to be removed from this place. I think I would like to have an assurance from the Minister that this information, is either false or what the position is.

Mr. McKenzie: I know nothing about that information and I will look into it and let the hon. Member know. But I would like to inform him that these fifteen people are regional people

[Mr. McKenzie] and are not Central Government people. We inherited these fifteen from the regions, mainly in some work in various regions.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Chairman, Sir, in the explanatory details I see a post of Catering Supervisor. While I did not know that the Ministry of Agriculture ran some restaurants, I would like to know for whom they cater.

Mr. ole Tipis: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, are we discussing Personal Emoluments?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes we are.

Mr. McKenzie: This one Catering Supervisor is somebody whom we inherited from the Western Region. They employed a Catering Supervisor unfortunately had a contract which we found it was better for us to give notice and let it out, rather than terminate—we saved money by doing that. We inherited either he or her from the Western Region, but as far as we are concerned it is running itself out. I do not see what they wanted a caterer for.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: Mr. Chairman, I just want to ask the Minister one question. There are thirty-five Agricultural officers. May we know whether the Minister considers these officers sufficient to cover all districts in the country, and how many areas is one Agricultural Officer supposed to cover?

Mr. McKenzie: Sir, this is a matter of policy but I can tell the hon. Member that since we have taken over I think we have increased the establishment, up to date I think it is by twenty-five, and I think that there are another ten who are being upgraded from Assistant Agricultural Officers. As far as we are concerned this number is not enough and we are increasing it. For his information Agricultural Officers in his area under regionalism were nine.

Mr. Gteboya: Mr. Chairman, the Minister has already stated here that he, himself, does not know the duties of the Catering Supervisor. Perhaps there were no canteens being catered for within the Western Region? I wonder why, then, should the Government of Kenya accept to incur expenses on a character which is non-existent in terms of duties. Do we pay these officers because we need them and there is service for them, or do we pay them because we feel that it is better to pay for unknown duties? If the Minister does not know that there were certain responsibilities which necessitated the appointment of a Catering Supervisor, why can he not drop this item and say that there is no payment any longer to this person whose appointment was a wrong one or had no meaning in reality so far as the Ministry of Agriculture is concerned?

Mr. McKenzie: No, I do not say that this was a wrong appointment, and the hon. Member himself was the cause of us having to take this person on, because he in this House agreed, under the change in the Constitution, that we take over all the regional responsibilities. This person, in fact, was a caterer at an agricultural institution and it is now being reorganized and in the future we will not need, under Central Government, the services of this person. As I have explained, this person is being got rid of, but when you inherit a person who is under contract you can fire them the day you take it over, but you are then liable for compensation and all kinds of things. If you take notice you then run the notice out and it is cheaper for you. In any case we are reorganizing the whole thing and taking it within the department.

Head D—Replacement, Maintenance and Running Expenses of Vehicles

Mr. ole Tipis: Mr. Chairman, Sir, on this one I think we have raised it several times in this House and I think the Ministers concerned are not taking due heed to the concern or the anxiety of the Members who raised this point. I do not want to enter into a debate on it—but what I would like to get from the Minister is an assurance that the Government vehicles will only be used for Government official duty, and this is a very serious case. It is no good for the Minister to try to come back here and tell us, well, give us specific cases because he knows as well as we do that some of these Government vehicles are not used for purely Government business or Government duties. It is up to the Minister himself to issue strong instructions to his officers in the field and, especially to the senior officers to supervise their subordinate officers as far as the usage of Government vehicles is concerned on other matters not connected with the Government work.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, this has already been done, but we did inherit rather a lax organization from certain of the regional authorities. I would like to tell the hon. Member that we have internal cases at this very moment where we have five people whom we have caught using against us, what is in our opinion, not on lawful business, and I would give an assurance that we intend being as strict as possible over this matter.

that they can proceed to ask more questions on what they want to ask, and less question on the problems that are not so serious.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not know how we are going to discuss Head D (4)—Grants-in-Aid, sorry, I mean C3. When the Minister says that he has no information with regard to the fifty new Form I streams going to be established, could we be told whether they have been established or whether they are going to be established, the areas or districts or regions for that matter, where these streams have been or will be established?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Chairman, I have said this. We are only talking here of Grants-in-Aid and Grants-in-Aid means that school has been established and it is being run, there are people who have provided money and Government is merely giving them a grant to enable them to continue.

Now I have already told the House that at the present time I have not a list of fifty schools here, but since the hon. gentlemen would like us to circulate the list, we will do so. The other three, four, five schools are already clearly stated here. The principle of Grant-in-Aid is accepted and it is already in the Budget as part of the normal procedure.

Mr. Glehoya: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, according to your information, you have just informed us that we are to finish the whole thing now within an hour's time according to Standing Orders, now what is to happen to certain Votes omitted the other time because of lack of information? Will they be treated as separate cases, so we can get information on them or will they just be passed over?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Well, Mr. Glehoya, the hon. Members were in fact happy, as far as I was concerned, with my mistake because they have had three days to discuss this, instead they should have had only one day. What will happen, of course, is that if hon. Members ask less questions on these items we will then go back to those items. At half past five, we will put every one of the Votes to the vote and that will be the end of every one of the different Ministries that we are going to debate.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would, in fact, like to get some information from the Ministry of Education. I see that there are going to be some fifty new Form I's being opened this year or rather they have opened, and now that there are so many Form I's opening and, in our area or district, the other day I talked of the schools, four schools which up to this day have not received their results. I would like to get some assurance about the boys or pupils in the four schools of Kirinyaga and Mugomo with forty-nine pupils, Kagumo with eighty-eight pupils, Karaine School with eighty-eight and Karucho School with thirty-three pupils, I would like to know what their fate is going to be. I quite understand that it will not be possible for all of them to pass.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think that this is quite irrelevant. I do not like to stop you or stop any hon. Member if I can help it, but we are discussing Grant-in-Aid to these fifty schools and I appreciate your interest in the examinations for Kirinyaga, but I do not think it is relevant to this particular discussion.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Chairman, I was only wondering whether we can get some assurance that these pupils in these schools will be catered for in the secondary schools opening because their results are not yet out.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I am afraid I cannot possibly let this go on.

Mr. Konchellah: I just wanted to make clear this point of streams. Actually we have not a detailed report here about how many streams are in such-and-such school, but in general we have opened new Form I streams and three new Form V streams, and I have received information that perhaps the latter three streams will be in Karicho, Machakos and Homa Bay.

Now with regard to the other figures I am not ready here to give a deep detail of that information, but if any hon. Member would like to get any information we are ready to supply him with information from the Ministry any time, even tomorrow.

Other SchemesHead E—Grants and Grants-in-Aid to Special Schools

Mr. Glehoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to know whether these special schools which are being referred to are the same three schools. Now if they are the three schools, and in view of the fact that the Minister did say that if we wish to make those schools national secondary schools, the Government would consider making them so, may I now have a categorical answer from us in this academic year these Kenya Preliminary Examination students who have no places, but who have already passed their examinations, will be accommodated in these three schools which we have agreed should be made national secondary schools.

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think I had better make it clear that these schools are Karicho, Eldoret and Nyeri.

First of all I would like to make clear to the hon. Members that it is not the intention of the Ministry of Education to encourage racial schools, and that is completely dying out and we are trying our level best to see that no racial schools exist. Secondly, I think the number of hon. Members who spoke, mentioned what is going to be done for these three schools. Now these three schools are going to be run by the Central Government for three months and then they will be given to the local government and then it is the wish of the local government to decide whether they should be primary or secondary schools, and then they will be handed over to the Central Government if they are going to be secondary schools. If it is the wish of the local people to say that these schools should be run as primary and intermediate schools then it is the wish of the local people, so I hope even the hon. Members of this House will be able to notify the people about these particular reasons, and see that they really get information about these three schools.

Mr. Otende: On a point of information, Mr. Chairman, would the Assistant Minister not agree with me that by the terminology "special schools" we mean schools for blind, for the deaf and other children who are not able to be put into normal schools?

Mr. Konchellah: Yes, Mr. Chairman, I am sorry about that, because I did not think these special schools with the special aid mentioned here were for the deaf and disabled children. I am very sorry to have taken it as the other three schools.

Mr. J. M. Kariki: Mr. Chairman, Sir, now the last thing we mentioned, if we are to deal with such things, is that it should not be put in the way it is put, because it is confusing to all Members in the House by putting grants-in-aid to special schools when it does not specify which special schools. Now that the former Minister for Education has made it quite clear, now we understand all this.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Chairman, Sir, could the Minister give us an idea about which special schools or what special schools and where they are situated, whether they are some of the Harambee schools which are being taken over by Government, whether they are some form of probation schools or technical schools.

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I said that this aid will go to the schools for the disabled, blind children's schools and other schools which have children which are not able to help themselves. I hope that my friend, the hon. Mr. Ochwada has understood.

Other ServicesHead K—House Allowances

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): I would like to ask the Minister for Education, whether house allowances will include allowances for the teachers who have been taken to overseas for studies and those who are now studying in the University College of East Africa, who were promised that a fraction of their salaries will be paid to their families. Is this included here as the Minister has been telling us that he has not been given permission by the Treasury to pay these teachers' families?

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Chairman, Sir, as far as I know the Ministry is paying about 60 per cent of the salaries of Government officials who are studying abroad and this 60 per cent is paid to their wives or families.

Mr. Osogo: When will this be started as one of my constituent's family who is studying in America is desperate and I have all the time been going to the Minister for Education to find out if the family is to get help from the Ministry. They say that this is not there yet, we do not know when the money will be available.

Mr. Konchellah: We have received a number of letters asking about this money but the Ministry is issuing instructions to the Provincial opening new secondary schools. There were so many places in the country where people are already on the new settlement schemes and are waiting for secondary schools, but which they were not able to open this year. So, with the reasons already told, are we going to be right to promise Kitala £28,000 to open these schools when there are so many other areas also equally deserted?

So, Sir, the points that the hon. Members have made, if they are genuine, have been given undertakings, which in my view should clear this matter, but we are not going to change the situation, as regards the problem of having secondary schools by merely debating this sum of money here for a whole day. The problem of secondary schools is still there. It has to be made, but it is going to be made by progressive planning. It cannot be made otherwise, and £28,000 is not enough to give all parts of Kenya the secondary schools which they want.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Chairman, I rise to support the amended Motion as moved by the hon. Mr. Oduya.

Mr. Chairman, I say it is the Kanu policy to have a Six-Year Plan by developing the less developed areas, and not to enrich the richest, and oppress the poor to be the poorest.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, it was last year when the Minister for Education and the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, visited Kuria. They saw how hard the people were working towards getting secondary schools built in Kuria, a place that has never been considered by the Kenya Government. They promised my people that by 1965, they will give them a school.

Mr. Chairman, I am now made to understand that there is nothing of that nature and that the Government says there is no money. Mr. Chairman, the reason why I am saying this, is because Eldoret and Kitala have been the settler's areas. Everything has been done in Kitala, and all these places like Eldoret and Nyeri have been the places where Europeans were. Now, Mr. Chairman, I am made to understand that Turkana, Kuria, Masai and all of these areas are not considered, simply because, according to what the hon. Members have mentioned, Europeans have still the places in the Ministry of Education in order to get some Supplementary Estimate, in order to maintain the schools.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I do not know whether you heard me last time, but I did say that this was a Supplementary Estimate, and that if every hon. Member stood up and said that he opposed the Supplementary Estimate because in his constituency things are not good enough and he wants more education, more health centres, etc., we are going to have a general Budget Debate. In fact, the only debate we can allow is on this particular item which we are discussing. Otherwise, we will never finish, and I think I ruled Mr. Gichoya out of order on two or three occasions, rather severely, because he insisted in bringing his own constituency into it every time he spoke. I realize that you are in a good mood and you want to speak, but I think you must restrict yourself to the item we are discussing.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, what worries me is that this amount of money is not rightly used, Mr. Chairman.

The Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Angine): On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, I beg to move that the question be now put.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): There has been a Motion here that the question be now put, and I think we have had a good debate on this question, both on the last occasion, and an hour's debate today, and we still have the whole of the rest of the Supplementary Estimate to go through. I think it will be quite fair to put it.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, could we not allow hon. Members to speak?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I have already moved, that in fact, you can move a point of order on a closure at any time. I see that Mr. Malsori has not finished, but I think this particular case has been debated very thoroughly the better part of a day, and we still have a lot to go, and it is for the House to decide. I will put the question that the question be now put.

Head C3—Grants and Grants-in-Aid

Mr. Omar: In this, Mr. Chairman, there are a few things that I would like to have explained by the Minister. It says here that they are based on fifty new Form I streams to open in 1965, and three new Form V streams to open at Karguwo, Machakos and Homu Bay in 1965.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I was wondering whether the Minister could give us the number of Form I stream schools to be opened in the Coast

[Mr. Omar]

Province, and in the North-Eastern Region, which have been neglected by the imperialists. Also, I would like the Minister to give us the reasons why there are no Form V streams to open in the Coast Province, because I understand that there are some secondary schools, and many students passed their Cambridge School Certificate by Division 1 and Division 2, and wanted to get admission into Form V and Form VI, but they could not get admission into them. So, we would like the Minister for Education to tell us why, in the Coast Province, there were no new Form V streams opened. In case of Form I streams, why were there no new Form I streams opened in the Coast Province as well as in the North-Eastern Region?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, unfortunately, I cannot give the breakdown as to which are these rising Form I streams, but they are scattered throughout the country. As regards the three new Form V streams, again the answer is that we could only open that many at the moment. In 1964, we hope to open many more. The hon. gentleman suggests that a number of students who have passed to go into Form V have not been able to find places, but I am able to say, that in fact, students who passed Cambridge School Certificate, and wish to go on for Higher Certificate, can still find room in a number of the Higher School Certificate Schools. We are reliably informed that there is room, but there have not been enough applicants. If the hon. gentleman has any applicants, he should make inquiries to the Minister for Education and direct the students accordingly, and we will be quite ready to help him.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Order! order! I would like to inform the Committee that I have a fact overlooked the provision of Standing Order which in fact, says: Standing Order 145, paragraph 3, that the Supplementary Estimates—in fact, be discussed only in one day, and that one hour before the end of that day, and the Votes shall be put to the vote. I think that this Committee has discussed this for the third day, so hon. Members had a better opportunity to debate it much more than they have normally been entitled to. I want to make this quite clear, that this Standing Order has been drawn to your attention. I propose to close the debate, which I must do at half past five. Not that Standing Orders cannot be changed in Committee. I do want to give advance notice of this, because I do not want hon. Members, if they want to discuss the whole of the Supplementary Estimates and get information, then they might as well proceed rapidly and get the information they require, because at half past five, punctually, I will proceed to put all the Votes to the vote.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Are you in fact now as Chairman, not advising us as a Committee to go against Standing Orders? Were you not wrong last week in not having used the chopper?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes.

Mr. McKenzie: Am I not correct in saying that you are now wrong in not bringing the chopper immediately?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, no. I should have brought the gullionet, as it is known one hour before the end of the first Sitting Day when this was brought up, but as we have in fact started discussing this today, and in fact that particular day is over, I will bring it at one hour before the end of today's sitting, but I am giving hon. Members notice of this, so that they do not feel at half past five that we are being unfair or I am being unfair to them. The provisions of this particular Standing Order have been overlooked, but they will now be enforced.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Chairman, Sir, on a point of order, Is consideration not given to the length of the Supplementary Estimates as regards the one day?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, I am afraid not.

Mr. McKenzie: On a point of order, I would like your ruling on this. I would like to move under that Standing Order, that the Supplementary Estimate now be put in toto.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You can move it and I will put it to the House that it should be put, but I do not want to use the powers that I should have used, as it were, two days ago as it is today, because I think that that particular occasion is past. We will have one hour more of discussions and I think that if hon. Members do want to ask for certain information and get certain answers they should do so.

Mr. Warlith: Mr. Chairman, Sir, since we were not made to understand the provisions of this Standing Order, but that it is assumed that we should know them—on the Budget debate we know that that is the case but with a Supplementary Estimate we were not informed—is it not proper to allow us another one hour?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): That is what I say, we are going to have until half past five, but I am giving hon. Members this information so

[The Assistant Minister for Finance] being done here because now you have a number of schools here which were being used only for the education of European children. Now these schools are being taken over as schools still, they are not just going to be just houses, they are being turned over to the Central Government and they will remain as schools, primary schools which will be open to all races. The thing is that this is a step in the right direction so that the next time the step would be to make them a secondary school. Mr. Chairman, I think that the arguments which have been raised are not necessary because if we used this money that would be saved from here for creating a secondary school that would not solve our secondary school problem, because the secondary school problem is a very clear one and is a very big one and the Government knows about it. The Government is doing what it can; as a matter of fact the Kenyatta College at Kahawa is one of the very important measures in solving the secondary school problem and I think that quite a number of schools could be established with a grant of £2,000.

Now, the thing is, we are now concerned with Sh. 7,000,000, as my friend, the hon. Mr. Oduya, likes to repeat. I think that this money is being used properly in that the Government is going to use it to take over these schools and this is a step in the right direction and the next idea would be to make them into secondary schools if necessary. I am looking at the matter from the point of view that at the moment we have more intermediate and primary schools than we have secondary schools.

So, Mr. Chairman, I do not see why we should spend so much time on this, I think that the matter is clear and it would be very helpful if the hon. Member, Mr. Oduya, withdrew that Motion and (Inaudible.)

Mr. Muliro: I think the hon. Assistant Minister—

Mr. Maisori-Iumbo: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, is it in order for a Member to speak twice when other Members are trying to get up and they are not given a chance to speak?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think I should let him carry on; it is within his constituency, after all.

Mr. Muliro: I would be the last person to oppose a measure like this, but obviously it should now be the Government policy that no money should be wasted on racial primary schools of former European Government schools, to date called the Government of Kenya primary schools, throughout the country in which there are hardly any children. I know this particular school also there are hardly any children in it. Now, I would prefer that the Europeans, who are worried, who came to the Ministry of Education and made very strong representations that they did not want Kitale Primary School to be converted into a secondary school; because they wanted their children to be educated locally in Kitale—I can mention the names of the people who came, I have the letter from those who were involved.

Mr. Chairman, I say that if the Government has a policy that we today must expand at secondary level, we should not pass this. We should not continue further to maintain primary schools outside Nairobi, this is very obvious. Today the Minister for Education tell us, look, if we have £2,000 we are prepared to allow you to start the secondary schools, private secondary schools, where £2,000 is needed. How many £2,000 go into this money? From where can we start with this amount? If we have the Trans Nzoia District 140 children who are not able to attend any school at all, why do you not, the Minister for Education, give us £2,000 from this amount so that the African people may benefit in that district, who have been exploited for all these years by the European settlers, can get their children to school. These Europeans have exploited them for all these years.

This, Mr. Chairman, will, I think, receive the support of hon. Members.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Chairman, I think there is a very terrible misunderstanding going on here. If the hon. Members turn to their books to pages 21, 22 and 23, and go over this with me, I will show them where there is a misunderstanding.

Firstly, the hon. Member for Teso, the Mover of this Motion, has done one clever bit of arithmetic. He refuses to refer to this figure in pounds, and insists on boosting the figure by referring to it in shillings, and he makes it Sh. 7,000,000. We are, in fact, talking about £343,978. Let us get down to realistic arithmetic of this whole question, because when you boost up the figure into millions, you make it appear as though we are spending the whole world. We are not.

Now, Sir, whether you like it or not, no one can suggest seriously, that this figure is enough to give the whole of Kenya all the secondary schools that they need. If we accept the reasoning given in the House a few minutes ago, then we should say to ourselves that we cannot bring to this House any budgetary proposal until we are able to meet all the expenses of everything that we want to do in the country. Now, Sir, that reasoning is wrong, because we know that it is only progressively that we are going to be able to meet all our commitments, but if we were to wait until we have enough money to cover the whole country with secondary schools, in order that when they bring a proposition here for any section of the country, then, Sir, we will have no budget for this year and the next and the next and the next. Now, having said that, I want to come back to the figures. If you look at page 22, which explains B1—Personal Emoluments, you will see, Sir, there are two figures provided for. The first one is the additional sum of £343,978 required to meet the salaries, and I want you to read this carefully, for an equivalent to primary schools covered by an equivalent to primary schools covered by a sum of £343,978. Now, what does this mean. This means that the Government is not spending the money at all being proposed here. The Government does not have £7,000,000. All it needs is a bit of arithmetic, and account books, because before 12th December 1964, this money had been approved in the Budget, but the accounting work had been done by the Regional Assembly. After 12th December, the accounting had moved away from the region to the Central accounting, and it is therefore, necessary purely from the point of view of accounting, to provide a new Appropriation proposal in order that the accounting is put right. It does not mean that the Treasury has suddenly discovered it has £7,000,000 to spend, or Shillings to spend. It just means that the same amount of money which was originally allocated by the Rift Valley Regional Assembly for this purpose has now been moved for accounting purposes to the Central Government, and it is therefore being covered in this Supplementary Estimate. That is why the amount provided in page 22 is already covered under Appropriations-in-Aid under Z in page 23.

Now, Sir, the only amount which Members will be thinking about at this meeting is that which refers to B1—Emoluments, a further sum of £2,000, which is required for the schools at Eldoret, Nyeri, Kitale, which have to be financed from the centre. This is the only additional money which is to be spent, and which is not going to be covered by the Appropriations-in-Aid. Now, Sir, Members have argued, in fact, they have suggested, that all we are doing is to provide money so that European children may be educated, and nobody else. The school at Nyeri is almost 100 per cent African.

An hon. Member: All Kikuyu.

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Chairman, we are being told now that we should distinguish between some groups of Africans and others. Is the hon. Member the man to decide what is the criteria? Which side of the fence would he belong to if we had a fence?

Now, Sir, the point here is that the three schools, Eldoret, Kitale and Nyeri, are covered by three different county councils, and between them, a sum of £28,622 is to be spent. But, it was already stated here that, in fact, the three county councils have been approached and they have undertaken in three months' time to take over this responsibility. Consequently, the whole responsibility has developed on the county council, and not the Central Government. If the hon. gentlemen feel that the county councils are wrong in reaching this decision, then there are representatives elected by the people in each county council, and when they say that their county council has a programme, we have to consider seriously what they could forward to the Central Government, unless it is now suggested that we should completely ignore county council decisions and plans.

Now, Sir, if we are, therefore, not spending any more, and if from what we have to spend, the three county councils have agreed to undertake this responsibility in three months' time, then Sir, we are left with only two questions. The first is that the Government should do everything possible to ensure that former European schools become, in effect, national schools. Secondly, to ensure that the school fees in these former European schools are of a level that can be afforded by the ordinary people in the area. Sir, if the Members want an assurance on these two points, we will give them it categorically. It is the intention, in granting this development and budget, to take into account these two factors. Now, lastly, I agree with the hon. Members who spoke, that these areas deserve secondary schools. These premises might be used for those secondary schools, and it is precisely for that reason that the promise has been given by the Minister for Education that, in particular, in Kitale these services will be available, for a two-stream secondary school in 1966. This means that it is not only Kitale this year which has met with problems of

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

Members are aware that in fact this transition is already taking place. Members are aware that quite a few of the former European schools have already been converted into integrated schools and in many cases there are now more Africans in them than there were before.

The second aspect of the problem is the question of averaging the school fees so that they come to a reasonable level which ordinary people can afford. That, Sir, is a problem which we recognize and any Member who has read the Ominida Report will know that a lot of time has been spent in not only discussing this matter, but in trying to find means and ways of meeting the problem, so the Government is not unaware of the problems, it is doing something about the problems and I think Members should, where they feel that the Government is already acting, encourage it to do so and to reach finality, rather than to see action being taken and refuse to recognize, this leads only to frustration on both sides.

Sir, the Kitale School which has been referred to is a matter which has been explained already, in that before the new constitution came into force in December last year, it was not in the hands of the Government to plan for its future. Now, everybody here knows that to plan for the next year's educational programme is a matter which must be done early in the year and if commitments have been made, until December those commitments have to stand. It is not easy by January, merely to close down schools and open up new ones in their places and it is a result of these commitments made in many cases, by the Regional Assembly at the time and the local authorities who were responsible for education at this level that we are forced to lay a Supplementary Estimate before the House so that the responsibility of the Central Government can now be carried through. Now, Sir, the hon. Member representing the area has conceded that the Ministry of Education has accepted his argument that there should be a secondary school in that area. What is more the Ministry of Education has agreed that instead of having merely a one-stream secondary school, they should have a two-stream secondary school right from the start in 1966 because in planning for the secondary school you will need different types of teachers, you will need laboratories, you will need different equipment, which you cannot get in one month. I would have thought that this was pretty obvious. Running a primary school and running a secondary school are two different things. The calibre of the teachers you need for a primary school is entirely different from the calibre of teachers you need for a secondary school. Teachers for a secondary school must be graduates whereas in a primary school you can do with T2's or T1's, so that you will be able to convert more easily over this year when planning is going on and when the Ministry has agreed in fact, to introduce a two-stream school in the particular area in question.

Now, Sir, I would have thought that having regard to this, the hon. Member who has brought the Motion would feel that in fact there is a very deliberate effort to meet their specific problems and to introduce the kind of school that they want. Now, Sir, the hon. Member from Wajir North has made a policy statement, in my view not relevant to the Motion before the House. He says that instead of this money being spent there it should be spent in building schools in the North-Eastern Region. Mr. Chairman, that is why I started by saying that these were Supplementary Estimates and not the Budget. Even if we reduced this Estimate by £200,000 there is no guarantee that the £200,000 would go to the North-Eastern Region and there is no guarantee that this £200,000 would be represented as a surplus in the Ministry of Education. What happens is that it may go to other priorities and therefore education would suffer by £200,000. What you would have succeeded in doing is closing down a school without guaranteeing that you are going to open up a secondary school. I am sure that hon. gentlemen will know, and agree, that the opening up of a school, a secondary school in particular, would require that certain very definite steps be taken, and as they cannot be taken on the spur of the moment I think that the promise that has been made is in keeping with our own outlook in developing the facilities for education and I would suggest very sincerely that the effort is being made. When the Ominida Commission comes to the House, and when we come to discuss the Budget for this year, perhaps Members who have any criticism of the education policy as a whole, and of our development efforts as a whole, will have the opportunity there to come into the wider field of what is going to be done in the future. I am sure that when they come to see what we are trying to do, they will agree that we are in fact working within the scope of what they themselves feel we should cover.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, although the Minister for Economic Planning and Development has tried to explain what arrangements the Government is making and the Assistant Minister for Education has also said the same, the point is that all we are worried now, although the Min. Oduya] Minister says that this is only a Supplementary Estimate, a Supplementary Estimate is not just paper, it is money, Sh. 7,452,000. So, before we release this amount we would like to know why we are releasing this money. The most burning problem here, Mr. Chairman, is this, that all over Kenya today we have so many children who have passed their K.P.E. examination, and now these children require places in secondary schools. The parents are worried about what will happen to their children. If only the Minister could assure this House that the Government is going to accept this children for secondary schooling next year, as planned, because he says that arrangements are being made, we would say "okay". But if these children are to be thrown out just like that, although they have passed the examination, and it is not their fault, they have done their best and gone through, now what is required is for them to go to secondary schools.

Now, in Busia alone, there are nearly forty-six children loitering about and who have, in fact, been looking for education for many years. During their own Government time they are denied the right to go to secondary schools, to accommodate these children. In Busia alone there are over one hundred children who are not able to go to a secondary school. In Pokot and Turina they have the same problem, the N.F.D. as a whole has the same problem; everyone has the same problem. Now, if Sh. 7,000,000, suppose the Government said that this was a cash problem we would give to every province, give Sh. 1,000,000, that would be what we would want. Would they say that instead of throwing out these children, and in order to allow the Government to plan for next year, to establish a Form I in the existing schools, so they can start operating these schools and then, in December, the Government would have completed arrangements. Therefore, next year all these children would go into Form I and then others who would be sitting for K.P.E. this year would therefore get proper places without even leaving out one child next year who has passed the examination. That is exactly what we are demanding now because we have to put our emphasis to the parents and to the nation that education is essential. Every parent is out to educate his child, now the children have passed their examination, they have the fees, but no schools. Whose fault is that? For example, it is not a difficult thing now to accommodate Form I to accommodate these children, there are some schools where there are existing buildings to accommodate another two Form I's and accommodate seventy students. There is the building, even accommodation where they can sleep is available. Why is it that Government has found it necessary to spend Sh. 7,452,000 to buy these former European schools at this stage when we have so many children who have gone through the examinations and had no places in the secondary schools? Why is it that Government has not found it necessary to risk some services and get this money to give to every region at least Sh. 1,000,000 to support some of these schools so that this money could be used according to the needs of the regions also? Why not divide up the money and give each province Sh. 100,000 so that they would be able to establish at least one or two secondary schools to accommodate the students who they are going to throw out? Our argument, Mr. Chairman, is not merely an argument, with the Government Ministers or with the Government, our argument is, in fact, a very legitimate one, whether we go to Kamukuni or whether we go to Gatundu, the public want to know what we are going to do to establish schools for these children.

Mr. Chairman, we want an assurance from the Government to the people through this House as to what the Government is going to do for the children now, those children who are at home, and who have passed their K.P.E. but who do not have places. If we are assured as to what will happen to these children we will have no quarrel with releasing this fantastic amount of Sh. 7,452,000.

I think that I should not monopolize more time because I only want this assurance and if the Minister cannot assure us, there are other Members still waiting to speak.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I think that the hon. Mr. Oduya is right in saying that there are a lot of school-leavers who have passed K.P.E. and who should get to secondary school. This, I think, is a matter of which all of us are aware, and the Government is very much aware of this, and this is something which has been carried on from the past when the Colonial Government made provisions for so many primary schools and intermediate schools and made no provision for secondary schools. This is a problem on which we have a bottleneck at the moment as far as our secondary school education is concerned. This problem is clear, and it is realized, the question is how we are to solve this. Now, the thing here is, as the hon. Mr. Oduya said, that instead of using this money here, it should be used for the secondary schools, is not really very different from what is have been suggestions here that people who are working in administration and various organizations are not able to move their children, but that they would like a particular place where their children could go and stay.

Here, Sir, there are very few people who can afford school fees when they are being transferred from where they are working in Eldoret and those who are working in Nairobi, or Garissa, all these people they are not in the class now who could afford a school fee here. There are primary schools and I support the continuity of such schools, and they should be encouraged. If I could make an example of one in the Western Province like Mumias this is a good one, a fair one for an average school in the country, but this was a real school which was made for rich people in the country. How many of these people are there now? You go to Usain Gishu or Eldoret School now and there are very few Africans, either boys or girls, the reason being that the local people around just cannot afford the fees; even those in Nairobi who have the facilities here are the only people now who seem to have better incomes in the African population with those who are farming. Those who farm would rather keep their children on the farms and send them to the nearest day school, they do not want to pay for a boarding school, and because of this, Sir, I think that before we approve this we have to ask the Minister concerned to give us the detailed changes which he is intending to embark on to enable this school to be utilized properly. But at present the schools are not being utilized properly, that is Eldoret. The school at Kitale, this school is almost abandoned, there are very few pupils who are going to this school therefore the whole block is being misused and there is great need, as my hon. friend has already mentioned, a very big need in the entire Trans Nzoia District. There they need a secondary school. If the Government has some money to spend let us be told that this block is going to be bought and reutilized as a secondary school, instead of Government taking this hard-earned money and building a school. If that is not done, then it is no use for this House to approve such an amount of money to buy a useless place which is not going to be useful to the people. It is on this ground, Sir, that I feel that this reduction is worthwhile and I am supporting it on this ground.

Member, Muliro: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I being a member of Kitale know this particular primary school has taken just under 100 children. Now, I think that those 100 children could be dispersed around the schools, boarding schools in Nairobi.

Last year, Sir, it was agreed that the Kinle School was to be converted into an African secondary school. Now some very influential local European farmers who did not want to send their children to Nairobi for education and be integrated with other Kenya children, fought very hard and they made representations to the Ministry of Education that the secondary school which had been promised to Africans should be situated in the buildings now occupied by the Government primary school. Now we have today about a hundred and forty children who passed their examinations very well, for getting into a secondary school, but the Minister of Education has told us that we are not able to give you a primary school and a secondary school this year. But we can ask you to go and start a secondary school of your own but next year we shall give you a double-streamed secondary school. Now what I would like to know, Sir, is that if the Minister for Education can get up here and tell the House how they are going to effect this next year then we will know where we are. It is completely useless to try and make these parents in Kitale half-heartedly responsible for the remaining part of this year or for the coming six months and next year be told that the school is not going to continue and the examination of the local African and Asian population in the area, proves there should definitely be a secondary school for the children of all races.

Therefore, Sir, I would prefer that these schools which are dying a natural death should die a natural death, and you can put up secondary schools in those areas. In this, Sir, I would support the hon. Member who wanted to see this money utilized for some other purpose. In fact if the Ministry could give us the money now to start a secondary school it would be much better. We have 140 children who have passed to secondary school but cannot get anywhere because places in the Rift Valley are full.

With this Sir, I support the Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Kanchellah): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I have just noted down a few points which have been mentioned by the hon. Members who spoke on this debate.

First of all, this is the position whereby I think a number of the hon. Members who spoke, knew that these two systems were approved by me last year before republic. We had regions running a number of schools or being in charge of a number of schools. We had a number of schools also under Central Government so when all these changes came forward then the position of these schools which have been mentioned now came into the hands of the Central Government just because there had been a change which has taken place and perhaps the regional set up of education had automatically to be changed and so I would say that that up until the end of December 1964, the financing of primary and intermediate education was undertaken, under the Constitution then in operation, by the former regions and a Nairobi by the City Council of Nairobi. Disussions have been held with both the Treasury and the Ministry of Local Government upon the best methods of financing this type of education and that Kenya has achieved republican status. At the time Supplementary Estimate 1964/65 was presented, no firm decision has been reached, but I am glad to say that the difficulties in reaching a satisfactory conclusion have now been solved. My Ministry will be responsible for financing primary education in the former regions, but not in the Nairobi area. But for the first term in 1965, on 1st April, that is approximately, finances will be made available for this purpose. Details of which will be placed before the House of Representatives when the next Supplementary Estimates are tabled. Mr. Chairman at the end of the first year, 1965, the Ministry of Local Government will be providing the finance necessary for primary education and I will be raising appropriate orders for placing primary education upon the shoulders of the local authorities. So, Mr. Chairman, this is a responsibility which is actually not a Central Government responsibility but, because of the difficulties the Central Government will have to take it, but actually it would have been the responsibility of the local authorities and therefore arrangements which are being made now, are the arrangements which are to take place so that it will be possible to enable the local government to take over the school. Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not actually think it is worthwhile to demand a reduction because all this money could be used. We have in other places that we know of where this money could be used, even some of these feeder schools in the regions where we gave an O.K. to start some of the Harambee schools, but we never knew where to find the money and that is the reason we are now running into trouble because of so many promises which have been given and nobody knew how they could be overcome the problem. So, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I feel that the vote which has been shown here is really correct and is going to enable the Government to run the schools which have been mentioned.

Mr. Khalifi: Mr. Chairman, I also like to support Mr. Odoya on his Motion for a reduction of £200,000. Mr. Chairman, this amount of money totalling Sh. 7,452,000 if implemented would be a vast expense on the part of the Government. There are, I should say Mr. Chairman, very few primary or African secondary schools which are being helped by the Government to such an extent, and instead of spending Sh. 7,452,000 just to take over, or sort of help the European schools, I should have thought that this money would be better spent in building schools in remote places like the North-Eastern Region where there are very few schools.

Mr. Chairman, when we come here to demand money for the building of schools in the North-Eastern Region, the Government gives lame excuses that there are no funds for building such schools, although the Government itself appreciates the necessity of building schools in those areas. Then, the Government again comes here to ask us pass expenditure of Sh. 7,452,000 to help three non-African schools only. This is a great shame Mr. Chairman. The excuse given by the Assistant Minister is lame and unacceptable as far as we are concerned. If at all we are at all to agree to this figure, Mr. Chairman, I feel we should be told the motives behind approving such a huge amount of money. With these few words, Mr. Chairman, I beg to support the reduction of £200,000.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Chairman, I think it is necessary to explain in the first place that here we are dealing not with the main Budget, but with the Supplementary Estimate and the whole question of the policy in education is really a matter that comes up at Budget time which is in a few months' time.

Now, if the hon. gentleman will let me finish my speech, when he spoke I was quite attentive, listening to his argument, but if he is not interested in listening to other people's arguments of course we are wasting time. The point I am making is that the Members have made very useful points regarding what Government should be in mind in planning our educational development and I quite agree that we cannot continue to sustain the situation in which schools, that hitherto were European or Asian schools, continue to depend on public funds unless there is a radical change in their constitution. I also agree, that in many cases the level of income of some of our public servants will allow for us to continue with schools that require such high fees as some that have been referred to, but the transition from that to the new situation will have to go over a certain period, it cannot be done overnight.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I do not know. This is an impossible question to answer. It is like asking how many countries recognize that Kenya is independent. One would only assume that all countries do.

Mr. Bata: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he not aware that even a country like Kenya does not recognize degrees from some other Governments, such as East Germany, and as such my question is very important?

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, I think the question was not dealing with Governments, it was dealing with countries.

As I said before, Mr. Speaker, this is a very difficult question to answer. And secondly we do not have our graduates from our medical and law schools going to work elsewhere. It is difficult to guess how other countries would react to our degrees, but I should imagine that our standards of education in the University of East Africa are as high as any known in the world.

Mr. Ngala Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, whether he assumes that all countries do recognize these degrees, does he realize that the Colonial Government in this country never recognized any degrees except those from Great Britain, even not recognizing those from the United States or other countries?

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are dealing with Kenya and not Bombay. On the other hand, our degrees have been recognized.

Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Member could just wait for me to reply, he will get his answer. If he will not wait for me to reply, I will sit down.

Mr. Speaker, as I said before, we have not got any graduates working in any other country and no other country has shown any reaction, that people who are working somewhere as graduates from Kenya are not recognized.

Mr. Ekiella: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell us that if he goes to the town now, straight off, he will see some people who have not got degrees and who are still practising as doctors? Could the Assistant Minister tell us how he knows a man is just an African, or a well-studied one? Could he tell us?

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, although the question was not very clear, I think my friend knows very well that we have got a number of doctors who graduated from the University of East Africa and therefore their degrees are being recognized.

Mr. Ekiella: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is not what I asked.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have warned hon. Members so many times not to interrupt on points of order which are not points of order. I know one or two hon. Members still do not understand what constitutes a point of order. If Mr. Ekiella does not understand what a point of order is, I think he had better not rise on any more points of order. You must be careful, Mr. Ekiella.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the replies by the Assistant Minister, he is aware that since the University of East Africa is a universal seat of education, it is very important that his Ministry should find out and let us know whether its degrees in Law or Medicine are recognized elsewhere by virtue of the fact that this is a universal seat of education?

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not see the reason for inviting trouble before trouble comes. There is no argument anywhere; we have not had any disagreement with any other country saying that it refuses to recognize our degrees obtained in the University of East Africa.

However, if the hon. Member would like us to go around and find out, perhaps later on we can give him that information.

Mr. Warlith: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister tell this House whether any students who have graduated from the University of East Africa have found any difficulty in obtaining admission to courses when they go for post-graduate studies in the other countries of the world?

Mr. Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have got a number of students' advisers in various countries at the moment and in some of our embassies. If any of these difficulties arise, then we will consult some of our members who are in foreign countries and ask them to let us have the correct information. At the moment, we are not aware of any difficulties.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

BAN ON PUBLIC MEETINGS AT MURANG'A

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would remind hon. Members that on the Adjournment today Mr. Kagga is to raise a matter concerning the ban on a meeting in Murang'a.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

(Order for Committee read)

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair)

IN THE COMMITTEE

(The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair)

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 3 OF 1964/65—
RECURRENT

MOTION

THAT a sum not exceeding £5,869,219 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 1964/65—Recurrent, having regard to the proposed savings of £969,217 therein appearing.

(Minister for Finance on 23rd February 1965)

Amendment proposed:

THAT Vote 16—Ministry of Education be reduced by £200,000 from £617,746 to £417,746.

(Mr. Oduya on 25th February 1965)

(Resumption of Consideration in Committee interrupted on 25th February 1965)

Vote 16—MINISTRY OF EDUCATION

Head B1—Personal Emoluments

Primary and Intermediate Education

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Hon. Members will remember that in this Committee on Monday we were in fact discussing Vote 16—Ministry of Education. We were in fact at that particular moment debating a Motion by the hon. Mr. Oduya which sought to reduce the additional sum in this Motion by £200,000, namely that the sum of £617,746 be reduced by £200,000, and we were discussing Personal Emoluments B1 of Primary and Intermediate Education. Mr. Tipis was on his feet.

Mr. ole Tipis: Mr. Chairman, Sir, when the House adjourned on Thursday last I was explaining my reason for opposing the Motion by the hon. Mr. Oduya to reduce the amount of the Supplementary Estimates.

Now, Sir, I did say that this Supplementary Estimate is a step in the right direction and I said—No, the provision of this money, I know what I am talking about. If you want to speak in my place—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Address the Chair.

Mr. ole Tipis: I said that the provision of this money, if my friend does not understand, of this money was a step in the right direction, Sir. I doubt whether any hon. Member in this House can really have the guts to stand here on the Floor of the House, and try to ask for a reduction of money which is provided to meet the urgent need of expanding educational facilities which our people are pressing very, very hard for. Officially the three schools as I did say, would serve a vast area not only in this particular province but with the movements of people, and especially the civil servants whose children need to be catered for in suitable boarding schools. I think, Mr. Chairman, that this matter should be considered very, very seriously rather than just trying to ask for the reduction of the £200,000 for the sake of reduction. We want this money and if my friend can tell me that they are prepared to go out into the countryside and say, well, gentlemen, fellow countrymen, we will oppose the grant of this money for schools, then I do not know how they will stand in this particular matter in the eyes of the public.

Now, Mr. Chairman, as far as Kitale School is concerned I think that there is a great need for an additional secondary school, the building of which were put up by the Koburus at Kitale are quite suitable and the Government could easily convert these and make them suitable for a secondary school, and thousands of our children who passed the Kenya Preliminary Examination last year and for whom no places for secondary education have been found could then be admitted. I think I would ask my hon. friend, Mr. Oduya, to withdraw this Motion and we approve the money for these three schools.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not have much to say, but I stand to support, particularly the gentleman who moved the reduction on this Vote. The reason being is that here are two things involved in one, that we do not object to having a few schools kept as primary boarding schools, but at the same time when you look at a school like the Eldoret one, today it is not benefiting the Kenya people, but it is the Kenya Government now which is trying to buy this school so it remains in the hands of the Government or possibly in the future be given to local government, or the county councils. But the fact is that it is benefiting people and students who are coming from Uganda. It was the school which was built in the old days to serve Western Kenya and Uganda. Now, since we are independent and this school is being bought by the Government, we must therefore, arrange how this school is going to be used, either to benefit the children from Uganda who can afford this school or are we going to arrange it in such a way that we reduce the school fees of the school which will enable any African to send a pupil to this school. There

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am aware that there have been delays at times in the telephone exchanges in both the Central Government offices and also in the Harambee House, but I do not agree that it is a complete deterioration of telephone exchanges.

My Ministry is doing everything possible to remedy the situation, and already equipment has been ordered to be installed in these exchanges and as soon as this arrives, which will take some time, the situation will be improved.

Mr. Loremu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is the Minister aware that it takes five to ten minutes these days before a call is put through, whereby it used to take one minute?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may give just one instance to the House, formerly in the present Harambee House, there was only one Ministry which was housed, and that was the Ministry of Works, Communications and Power, but today, there are four Ministries housed in this House, and therefore, Mr. Speaker, the House will appreciate that the traffic has grown tremendously in this particular House, and this is being looked into, as I said, and we are trying to get some new equipment installed there.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Minister's reply, in which he told the House that they were going to install new equipment, is he aware that in the Central Government building, the same offices still exist which existed during the imperialists' time, and the system of telephone communication was so good and today it is so bad?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think we all appreciate that the Central Government is busier than the former Government. The previous Colonial Government, Mr. Speaker, did not attend to the public as much as this Government is doing. Therefore, this situation has arisen and we are looking into it.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have two questions. The first is: Could the Minister tell the House how many extensions have been increased in Harambee House as a result of the increase in the Ministries in that particular House?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have only said that the matter is being investigated, and new telephone services are being installed, but they cannot be installed until we get the equipment that we have already ordered.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell the House whether it has been the fault of the exchange that there are these delays and therefore does he think that by installing further equipment, or more equipment, that it will make it more efficient than it was before?

Mr. Mwanjumba: It is not the question of the fault of the exchanges, Mr. Speaker. The exchanges can only accommodate a certain amount of traffic, and because of the increased traffic now, as a result of more telephone services to Ministers and civil servants, they are already looking into the matter.

Mr. Obok: Arising from the Minister's reply, is he aware that chaps manning these exchanges are rude to us when we make a telephone call?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, first of all I think the words "chaps" is not a proper expression to be used in this House when referring to a telephone operator working on these exchanges, but there is no question of rudeness in the telephone exchanges. On the contrary, Mr. Speaker, and I must congratulate these young men and women who are doing so much for us.

Mr. Wamuthanya: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Minister's reply, could I know from him whether the efficiency of the present employees is better or lower than those of the colonial times?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether the hon. Member wants me to be a judge as to whether this Government is more efficient than the other Government, but I can assure him that the efficiency which we have now is as good as any that any Government could have.

Mr. Nyaliki: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Minister's reply, could he tell the House what steps his Ministry is taking to remedy this situation which is common all over the country?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Member is prepared to listen, I told the House that the matter is being investigated and we intend to install new equipment, which has already been ordered.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister agree that the whole blame should not go to these secretaries, because it is some of the Ministers who sometimes instruct these people never to say that the Minister is in the office?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, I am not aware whether any Minister has instructed his secretary not to reply to telephone calls, but I do not think that has much to do with this question.

Question No. 931

FINANCIAL ADVISER, EMBU: SALARY OF

Mr. Abogoh: asked the Minister for Local Government to tell the House why the salary of the Financial Adviser of Embu was so much larger than that of the Provincial Paymaster, Eastern Province, while Embu was only one small district.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagini): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The two posts are not at all comparable. The Provincial Accountant (not Paymaster) is an Accountant Grade I in Government Service and is responsible for carrying out departmental financial instructions within the province. He is under the control of the Chief Accountant, Office of the President. The Chief Financial Officer (not Financial Adviser) at Embu County Council has a far wider range of duties, which are detailed in Part II of the Third Schedule to the Local Government Regulations, 1963. In addition to being responsible for the council's accounting organization, he must see upon all actions of the council which have a financial bearing. He must have, as well, as a sound knowledge of financial control and accountancy practice, a wide knowledge of local permanent law and procedure.

Mr. Abogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that many county councils in Kenya today are running without a financial adviser, can the Minister tell this House whether those county councils who are running without a financial adviser are comparable to Embu which has a financial officer?

Mr. Sagini: The question is not clear. Can he repeat it for me.

Mr. Abogoh: Yes, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wanted to know what are the similarities or differences between Embu County Council which is running through a financial officer, and those other county councils in Kenya where there is no financial adviser employed?

Mr. Sagini: Mr. Speaker, I find it very difficult to answer him. He is talking about things I do not understand.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the question here is: Why is it necessary for Embu County Council to employ a financial adviser, whereas other county councils in the country do not? Why is it necessary?

Mr. Sagini: If you are talking of why it is necessary, it is because of financial difficulties here that we have sent a very able person to Embu.

Mr. Gichoya: Arising from the Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that Embu County Council has a financial adviser, and other county councils do not have them, why was it necessary for Embu to be thought an appropriate place to have a financial adviser who gets a lot of money from the A.D.C.?

Mr. Sagini: Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the hon. Members ask me questions that they know the answers to. In some cases, there has been a need to give them a very able person, I can say more, and that is that we are short of this type of person. I wish we had them. In future, we hope that every county council in Kenya will have an able financial officer.

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister for Local Government assure this House that he is going to abolish the posts of financial adviser for county councils, because the taxpayers are complaining very much because those financial advisers are using a large sum of money without doing enough work.

Mr. Sagini: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it makes me feel very sad because in some areas money is being wasted and some of these hon. Members do not help at all. As regards the state of finances among many county councils in Kenya and local authorities, it is very bad. I do not want to wash family linen in public. Where we have sent someone who is earning very high pay, I know—some of them are earning £2,000—it is because we have got to attract some of these people from overseas. Commercial firms can offer better pay and people tend to go to them. Good pay is like a magnet. This is the problem. Our present people, mathematicians from Makerere and elsewhere, have gone into private firms. Likewise, in this connexion, the best people are not in this country, so we have got to pay more and more in order to attract people from other lands.

Mr. Malsori-Jumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister for Local Government assure this House that when this financial adviser leaves Embu the next place for him to go will be South Nyanza?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No.

Question No. 928

RECOGNITION OF EAST AFRICAN UNIVERSITY COLLEGE DEGREE

Mr. Bala, on behalf of Mr. Jamal, asked the Minister for Education how many countries recognized the degrees in Law and Medicine obtained at the University College of East Africa.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that the number of pupils have increased and, therefore, the answer given to the House is inadequate, as something needs to be done immediately?

Mr. Kionchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the number of Kenya Preliminary Examination candidates in West Pokot in 1964 was 160, and it will be 282 this year. Chewoyet does not, from the statistical point of view, deserve a second stream in 1965 or 1966.

Question No. 920

REHABILITATION COURSES FOR SENIOR CIVIL SERVANTS

Mr. Mbooghi asked the Vice-President whether the Government was prepared to hold "rehabilitation" courses for permanent secretaries, education officers and any other senior civil servants, so as to teach them the difference between colonial Kenya and Kenya after Jamhuri.

The Assistant Minister to the Office of the Vice-President (Dr. Walyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is inaccurate and misleading to imply that some senior civil servants do not know the difference between colonial Kenya and Kenya after Jamhuri. Most of the officers now holding senior posts, or being promoted to them, have already passed through rigorous and extensive courses in this country and abroad, and it is considered that these officers are carrying out their duties as expected of them.

If the hon. Member cares to substantiate his claim of the existence of senior civil servants with a colonial mentality, the matter will be investigated.

Mr. Mbooghi: Mr. Speaker, I have two questions to put to the Assistant Minister. The first is, does the Minister recognize the fact that among the permanent secretaries and the senior civil servants there are some who are educated in recognizing the independence of Kenya and they can be used to teach others, because those who should have been taught did not learn when the others were learning?

Dr. Walyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish I knew exactly what the question was, but if I may venture to reply to a question that I have not yet quite understood—

Mr. Mbooghi: May I repeat it? It is useless for him to try and reply to a question he has not understood. Anyway, some civil servants who are senior in rank and knowledge than others and those in senior rank and knowledge should be used to teach those who are not so knowledgeable.

Dr. Walyaki: I do not believe it requires all that much seniority and knowledge to know the difference between colonial Kenya and Kenya after Jamhuri.

Mr. Mbooghi: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister form a committee for decolonization to inform the members of the public and Members of this House so that he can be advised properly on this decolonization?

Dr. Walyaki: No Sir.

Mr. Mokone: Would the Assistant Minister tell this House what colonial mentality is?

Dr. Walyaki: I do not consider that to be my business.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House the medicine for those Kenya civil servants who are still retaining colonial mentality?

Dr. Walyaki: Would he repeat it?

Mr. Kerich: I said, what is the medicine for those civil servants still retaining the colonial mentality?

Dr. Walyaki: Mr. Speaker, I will need to take a lesson from the hon. Member as to what kind of medicine you get to cure a colonial mentality.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We are getting nowhere. We will move on to the next question.

Question No. 877

GRADUATES TEACHING IN PRIMARY SCHOOLS

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Education whether he would tell the House why the Kenya Education policy did not allow university graduates to be specially trained to teach in primary schools.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Kionchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. To the best of my knowledge no graduate has applied to a training college for training to teach in primary schools.

Should such an application be made, the graduate would probably be encouraged to accept training for secondary school work. The reasons for this are, firstly, that graduate teachers are expensive and the primary schools cannot afford the cost. Secondly, a university training is not necessary for teaching at the primary school level.

[The Assistant Minister for Education] and there is an ample supply of recruits with sufficient education to be trained as primary school teachers. Thirdly, and the most important reason of all, we are in dire need of graduates for teaching in secondary schools. The number of Kenyan graduate teachers is so small that we are at present, almost entirely dependent on the recruitment of foreign graduate teachers to keep our secondary schools staffed. Any Kenya graduate who wishes to teach and, it is hoped that way will, should teach in a secondary school where a degree is highly desirable, if not absolutely necessary, and thus reduce our present excessive dependence on foreign teaching staff.

RETENTION OF OLD CHIEFS IN EMBU

Mr. Mbooghi asked the President if the Government could tell the House why it had been considered fit to retain some old chiefs and headmen in Embu who were there during the Emergency against the wish of the people.

The Assistant Minister, President's Office (Mr. Namweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. A similar question has already been answered by the Vice-President, then the Minister for Home Affairs, as recently as December 1964. Consequently, Mr. Speaker, I do not, or I object very strongly to doing the homework of the hon. Member.

Mr. Mbooghi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is a reply in order that a question which was answered during the past year, should not come to the House if Members are not satisfied?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Standing Orders do provide that a question shall not be asked which is the same as a question which has already been answered during the same session. This was answered during this session, I think it would be better, when a Minister finds that a question sent to him by the Clerk has been answered already, if the Minister would return it to the Clerk of the House and point this out, so that the question will not come up again on the Order Paper.

Mr. Warltish: Mr. Speaker, is it the fault of the Member then that he asked this question, or is it the fault of the machinery of the House who should decide which questions come on the Order Paper?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Both. Hon. Members ought to be aware of what questions have been asked already, and know that they cannot ask them again. They may slip-up. Then, the Clerk should disallow the question; but it can happen that the Clerks do not remember what questions have been in the House, and so fail to disallow the question on those grounds. In that case, they will mistakenly forward the question to the Ministry, but each Ministry deals with only a limited number of questions and can see more easily what questions are out of order because of repetition.

Mr. Mbooghi: Then, Mr. Speaker, is it in order that when I have been given a reply which I am not satisfied with, I should not pursue the question any further?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The only way you can pursue the matter any further is by raising it on an adjournment.

Mr. Mati: Mr. Speaker, I would like to get your guidance on this. Supposing we found that the question to which the Assistant Minister referred was a general question referring to the appointment of chiefs in general, would that then prevent any Member from this House asking a question specifically in a matter that refers to Embu in particular?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Ordinarily, the general covers a particular question, though sometimes a particular question has so much new matter it has to be justified, after a more general question on the same subject. I think in this case, the original question and answer did really cover this question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

QUESTION No. 921:

RETENTION OF OLD CHIEFS IN EMBU

Mr. Mbooghi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to raise this on an adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 896

POOR RESPONSE TO TELEPHONE CALLS

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power—

(a) if the Minister was aware that there was a serious deterioration of response to telephone calls these days at the exchange in both Central Government and the President's Office;

(b) what steps was the Minister taking to ensure that this state of affairs was stopped?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this can be arranged any time from now.

Mr. Ngata: Arising from one of the replies from the Minister, could he tell the House how he reaches the conclusion before the investigation that the service to these areas would not be economic?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, surveys are made from time to time in every district and in every province and therefore the last survey which was carried out showed quite clearly that, because of the sporadic distribution of the population in this area, it is most uneconomic for the Government to embark on this very costly venture.

Question No. 874

PHOTOGRAPHS BY TOURISTS OF AFRICAN PEOPLE

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism whether he would take urgent steps to advise the tourists and all cameramen in the country not to take pictures of any person or group of people—especially those dressed in traditional clothes—without their consent.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achungi-Oneko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The established practice in this country is that anybody who is licensed to take cinematographic films under licensing rules 1962, is given two restrictions:—

- (1) No filming may be done in Kenya's Game Parks without the permission of the Chief Game Warden and/or the Director of the National Parks.
- (2) No filming may be done in African areas depicting traditional life without the authority of the local administrator; namely, the district commissioner of the area or the district officer, whether a person or persons are traditionally dressed or not. By that we mean, sometimes, traditionally, a person may be half naked.

This covers the taking of any photographs as well, even for Government consumption. Journalists, tourists or any other visitors are always advised accordingly. Consent of the person or group of person must, therefore, be obtained first. But we must be polite even when refusing tourists, or anybody else for that matter, permission to take photographs.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, would the Minister take steps to make sure that this information is put in the tourists books or travelling brochures so that there is no more embarrassment caused?

Mr. Achungi-Oneko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the law of Kenya provides for the protection of the individual and I would like to state, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that the established practice in the country is that anybody who is liked to take photographs under the licensing rules of 1962, is being governed by that particular clause, which means that tourists and the journalists are normally advised and given information regarding taking photographs in the country.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Minister referred to a rule made in 1962 when the imperialists in the country did not care if Africans were degraded by taking their pictures.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is no need for that Mr. Mbogoh. Will you ask your question?

Mr. Mbogoh: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Will the Minister agree that such pictures degraded the dignity of the Africans when they are, taking people naked?

Mr. Achungi-Oneko: I do not understand the question, because if he refers me to such pictures. I do not know them or of such photographs.

Mr. Nyaliki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would he tell the House what methods he has through which these people dressed traditionally could get this information and would only be photographer with their permission?

Mr. Achungi-Oneko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the District Commissioners and the District Officers are fully aware of what to do, and they are in direct contact with the public and representations of the Government in their areas, and I think that can be easily explained. I would also like to take this opportunity to ask the hon. Members to explain it to their people, especially in the remote areas and if there is any suggestion which the hon. Members wish to make either to publicise this sort of thing then my Ministry would be quite willing to do so. I am referring to the remote places like Turkana and Northern part of Kenya which I know is very difficult to reach.

Question No. 875

GOVERNMENT OFFICERS' HOUSING IN KAKAMEGA

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Health and Housing if he would tell the House what arrangements he had made for a scheme for housing of officers of Government, Regional or Local Authorities in Kskamega, especially in tenant-purchase houses.

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Orendi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Kakamega Urban Council has submitted an application for £39,000 for housing for Government officers in Kakamega. These funds are being released soon and the scheme has already started.

Previously, a loan of £18,900 was approved by the Central Housing Board in July 1964, for a tenant-purchase scheme. Tenders have been called for by contractors, and it is anticipated that this housing scheme will commence at an early date.

Mr. Godia: Could the Minister tell the House what this will cost each tenant-purchaser wishing to occupy such a house?

Mr. Orendi: The approximate cost of each house when completed will be about £750.

Question No. 875

KENYANS WITH PROSPECTING LICENCES

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Natural Resources if he could tell the House how many Kenyans held prospecting licences and how many were in the field.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Fifty-sixty-five Kenyans are in possession of prospecting rights authorizing them to prospect for minerals in Kenya.

Secondly, twenty-five Kenyans are known to be actively engaged in prospecting. It is probable that the total exceeds this figure, but in the absence of positive results or the bringing in of samples to the Mines and Geological Department for examination, no further details are available.

Mr. Balala: How many of these sixty-five prospectors are actually prospecting in the Nyanza Region?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I unfortunately do not have the breakdown of details province-wise, since the question mentions the whole of the country. But if the hon. Member could want those particulars, I would be very glad to furnish him with the information.

Mr. Omeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since this prospecting could bring results which would benefit our country, what is the Ministry doing to encourage and help the prospectors to understand the best way of arriving at positive results?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as far as Kenya citizens are concerned, short courses are held periodically in the Department to assist those who wish to obtain a prospecting licence. The courses include explanations of the law relating to prospecting and mining, together with lectures and demonstrations relating to mineralogy and elementary survey.

Question No. 914

AFRICANIZATION: EXCHEQUER AND AUDIT DEPARTMENT

Mr. Mbogoh asked the Vice-President whether there were any Africans who had been tipped to hold the following posts:

- (i) Director of Exchequer and Audit.
- (ii) Controller of Exchequer and Audit.

The Assistant Minister, Office of the Vice-President (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The posts mentioned in the question do not exist. There is therefore no question of anyone being "tipped" to hold them. In any case, it is erroneous to imply that anyone is ever "tipped" to hold any post in the civil service.

Whenever a vacancy occurs or is anticipated, the normal machinery for filling it is automatically set in motion by the Public Service Commission in conjunction with the Ministry or Department concerned.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is it that they do not exist or that they never existed?

Dr. Waiyaki: As a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, if I may help the hon. Member, the correct names for these posts are Controller and Auditor-General and Director of Audit; he asks about people who do not really exist.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, if the Assistant Minister knows what I was getting at, would he give me the correct reply?

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, I am sure I gave the reply.

Question No. 876

DOUBLE-STREAM CLASSES FOR CHEWYOT HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Education when Chewyot High School was going to have double-stream classes.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is provisionally planned to start a double stream at Chewyot during the 1965-1970 Development Plan period.

[The Speaker]

it is not very convenient to leave over ten minutes of a reply for another day, but it is for the House to consider anyhow.

(Question that the question of the amendment be now put and agreed to)

(Question of the Second part of the amendment, that the words to be inserted in place thereof be inserted, proposed put and agreed to)

(Question of the Motion as amended proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Motion is still open to debate unless the closure is again moved.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I will put that question to the House.

(Question put and agreed to)

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, the Minister for Economic Planning did speak on this debate and, as one of those people who had already spoken, I do not think that it is in order for him to propose that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is actually in order for any hon. Member, whether or not he has spoken, to propose the closure on a point of order, though in the ordinary way I do not entertain that proposal from an hon. Member who has spoken when other Members have not spoken. But here Mr. Mboya was pointing out, for the convenience of the House, that we have only another ten minutes anyhow and we would like to finish this debate today. I think that was reasonable, and I would have been glad if some hon. Member had pointed out the same thing if he had not. So, I allowed him to do so.

Mr. Arerani: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thank all hon. Members who have contributed something to this Motion on Turkana and then, also, I thank the Minister concerned with that reply, Sir, that the people of Turkana should be given something as soon as possible. We want to be given a date or something to do with timing; as soon as possible always means nothing much, it is so vague, it is not constructive. As soon as possible means three years, four years, or six years, something like that. But, as regards this thing here, we want to be given the time, the date, as soon as possible. Does it mean tomorrow? Does it mean 1970 or 1980? If I come again here to ask the same thing, they will say the same thing: "as soon as possible". It is meaningless. We have found that out. These are the tactics of the Government to bluff the people so that if they say, "oh! this will be done as soon as possible!" the people will think that these things will be done straight away.

Mr. Speaker, I have accepted this amendment from the Minister or from the Government but I want to be assured that we can see these things this year, water, schools, hospitals or something like that, like the Somalis, like the Masai, like the Samburu. I want these things to be assured in this House. I do not want to be told, "as soon as possible"; it is meaningless, Mr. Speaker. What do I go and tell my people? That they are going to do this and that. When? Then I tell them to work hard but they cannot work hard without water and without grass. I told the House, Mr. Speaker, that these people do not have grass, do not have water. They cannot live without water and grass, they live off their cattle; their cattle are taken out to grass, they are taken out to drink water. This is their way of living of these people. Without these things they will not be able to live. I wish the Government could contribute something this year, that they would say "this year you can have boreholes" rather than saying "as soon as possible" when our people can say, "let me go to Ethiopia, or to Uganda, or to the Sudan, where we can be given some water." I do not see why they should not, since they are near the Sudan, they are not even like Mander or somewhere in Israel, it is here. We want water where the grass is. The cattle graze where they have water and where the people live.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Since the Mover has finished replying, I will put the question.

(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly:

THAT in view of the fact that the Turkana District was neglected by the Colonialist Government in all spheres of development, this House urges the Government to consider for that district an accelerated education and social services, including water, construction of dams, boreholes, and livestock improvement.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That concludes the business on the Order Paper. The House is now adjourned until Tuesday, 2nd March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past Twelve o'clock.

Tuesday, 2nd March 1965

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE CHAIR

SENATE INSISTANCE ON AMENDMENTS TO BILLS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I must inform hon. Members that I have received two messages from the Senate.

The Senate returns the Kenya Meat Commission (Amendment) Bill and the Industrial Development (Amendment) Bill, together with copies of votes and proceedings and informs the House of Representatives that the Senate has insisted on their amendments thereto.

SENATE RESCINDS AMENDMENTS TO BILLS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): They have also rescinded the Sital Industry (Amendment) Bill and the National Youth Service Bill, together with a copy of the votes and proceedings and have informed the House of Representatives that the Senate have rescinded their amendments thereto; that to say, they have now agreed with this House.

NOTICES OF MOTION

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motions:—

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR HARAMBEE SECONDARY SCHOOLS

THAT, in view of the fact that secondary education for the masses of Africans in Kenya is still inadequate, this House calls upon the Kenya Government to accelerate the speed of expansion of secondary education by fully aiding all newly-opened self-help Harambee secondary schools by not later than January 1966.

ADMINISTRATION MOVE FROM VITHIGA TO KAKAMEGA

THAT, in view of the lack of facilities for girls' boarding secondary education in Western Province, this House calls upon the Government to transfer the Administration machinery from Vithiga to Kakamega, so that the present buildings being used by the Administration may then be used to serve girls' educational purposes.

GOVERNMENT PAID DRIVERS FOR MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT

Mr. Kaman: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT, in view of the fact that many of the hon. Members of Parliament have met with accidents and death while driving themselves, due to the fact that they cannot all afford to pay for drivers because of their financial difficulties and, also, due to pressure of work in their constituencies, this House urges the Government to employ drivers for the Members of Parliament and to meet their salaries which should be called "Drivers Allowances".

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 858

ELECTRICITY FOR MARAGOLI, TIRIKI AND OTHER PLACES

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power if the Minister could tell the House the minimum cost of supplying electricity from the main Kisumu-Kakamega line to the people living in Maragoli, Tiriki, Bunyore, Idakho, Kisa, Isukha and Butsoito.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not possible at the present moment to estimate the cost of supplying electricity in the areas mentioned by the hon. Member. This Ministry has to make intensive investigations if this has to be carried out. At the present moment, however, it is not likely that even when an investigation is carried out it will be economical to supply electricity in the said areas. If, however the hon. Member wants the Ministry to carry out these investigations he should ask for the same.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the reply given by the Minister, does the Minister imply that there is no need for supplying electricity in the said areas and that it is why he is giving such a negative reply?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not say that there is no need for supplying electricity in this area. I say that investigations have not yet been carried out, and even if they are carried out, the supply may be uneconomic.

Mr. Godia: Could the Minister tell the House when he hopes the investigations can be carried out, in order to assess the needs of the people in that area?

people of this area, does not seem very convincing, particularly in an area like the Turkana, where we must, in the first instance, accept the fact that in the illiterate areas, and where you might expect the same spirit of development, understanding, realization, it may not be forthcoming. I do not think anybody can convince me that you need to educate people that they require water for drinking or cooking purposes. I do not think, either, that people who have livestock, will see that their livestock dying through lack of water. They require an education for them to realize the need for boreholes. Similarly, with this question of hygienic conditions and social services, the Government comes and tells us that the Members for these areas must co-operate, educate their people. I do not seem to understand what the Government is trying to say. If it is just a question of education, the Government knows that for the good of the people of this country, they need education, no matter what part of Kenya they come from. If the Minister is telling us that the Members for Turkana must go back to their people and explain to them the value of education, I fail to understand where we are heading to! If it is social services, things like health, hospitals, health centres, I do not understand the type of education required or co-operation the Member requires.

The Government knows exactly what is required for this area, and what is needed for the Government to provide these facilities. I will go further and say that it is not only the Turkana area. There are some other parts of Kenya, like the Masai area, and other parts of the Coast Province, which require, as I will put it, a deliberate effort to bring them to a level nearer to other parts of the country. I say this, that if you have a country like Kenya, which is unevenly developed country, these are some of the sources which may bring about trouble for people thinking they are neglected, and people feeling that more money was being spent on some areas, and other areas being neglected.

I will even go further and say that the Government might have to think of introducing legislation where they can compel the people in some areas to accept the modern way of living. Take, for instance, some parts of the Masai country, where you find people objecting to direction of schools. Now, if a Government is going to say that these people are objecting, therefore, they are not going to give them education, this is a very serious matter. Further, Mr. Speaker, the argument put forward a few minutes back is that people in the area must come forward, show initiative, and then the Government will step in.

I do not think this is the type of development which most of us think our country should have.

Now, to go further, Mr. Speaker, we have been told here that the area is going to be visited, discussion has been carried on, consultations have been made with the Members for the area, and what we would like to see is a beginning that these things are going to be done. It is no me having the plan and nothing comes out of it. Some of us would like to see what this so-called African socialism means, where it is heading. Up to now although we are told our Government is about a year old we are waiting to see by action a deliberate plan and programme where this so-called socialism is leading us to, and then we will be able at least to see.

What I am trying to say is if it is, let us say in the line of taking this area for instance, African socialism in terms of providing water for human consumption. Let us see it in real terms, being done for the Turkana, then we will understand what the Government means.

So Mr. Speaker, Sir, to end up I would say that we are getting fed-up with our Government in talking of collecting material, surveying, visiting and nothing seems to be moving. Even if it is a year, or six months, we should be beginning somewhere then we would see.

Mr. Lorema: I also wish to contribute to this Motion, and have just a few things to add on this Motion.

In the first place I would like the Government to see this issue or this Motion from this angle: that is to say that we take Government as being the father and then the Turkana as a child. Now when a child is crying for food and the father says, all right you will get it at about four o'clock or such-and-such a time, you seem not to appreciate that this child is hungry and needs food. We want the Government to picture this Motion just like a father and a child. I am glad that the Motion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is very meaningful at the moment. Though the Minister might have tried to twist it, it is still there. The word "neglected" is still there, and so is "acceleration". Those two words are very important, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because for one thing if the Government can see that the Turkana were neglected then underline that word "neglected" and see what they can do and then accelerate.

Let them underline those two words. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think for many times we have been saying those of some of us from backward areas are very concerned with this Motion, and as my hon. Member has already heard this view from these under-developed areas, that several of us have been trying to signal to the Government that need such-and-such and nothing practical areas need. Every now and then only that is what the Ministers want us to do is to approach them properly and privately in their houses and then explain to them that this and that is needed. That should not be the work of our Government. The Government should have strong machinery. The Government has civil servants who should plan. It is not a question of saying that the Members should come and say, what do you want, we can contribute in that way, but there are civil servants who also know and who have these people in their hearts that the Turkana are asking for this and that in their daily work. That is not a point. Also the Minister has said that the Members will take about twenty years or maybe fifty years. If the Minister has the mentality of saying that probably Turkana will take about twenty or fifty years to develop, then nothing will be done. What we want done is for the Government to try and contribute just an inch of development in that area and then that will be appreciated. So that we will not get a sort of a mark to show that it is the Government's intention to show that Government is entering into this thing fully.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may say that a neglected plan to the Turkana certainly requires see very minor and primary things to begin with. For example, if the Government gave Turkana education, hospitals and water and then meanwhile you are planning for the date of the hard things, so much the better. Also the Government should realize, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that it has already committed itself in that manifesto which says that the Government intends to get rid of or wipe the following enemies: ignorance, poverty and diseases. But as it fought for these things in Turkana they are still prevailing in those areas. Now what is the Government doing? These people are taxpayers and they are also contributing. Do you think that Turkana is crying they want help; you just ought to help them because they happen to be Turkana. We want you to help them and show them the responsibility of having the whole top of Kenya with you.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are very concerned with this issue and we do not want this thing to come again to this House, the same question of help. Asking things several times when we ask the question in this House we are told there is a committee and that the Government is considering it. We are fed up with those type of things.

Now it has been quoted also by the Mover of this Motion that Turkana has some sort of political significance. Now you do remember the Leader of the Opposition saying that they should do something to draw the attention of the Government. Also the joint Kaniu Party. Such minor things are very important. Above all, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the Minister said, we would like to have a general policy for these backward areas, because the Government has committed itself very much, that they would like to develop these backward areas. We would like to see the policy in action. We are very concerned. Kenya at the moment is one of those, and all the other countries are still under-developed, and we see the Ministers running to England, America, Russia for aid. Why? Because they are still under-developed and we still need a lot of development. Now, we Members, elected people to run the Government, and we want this and that. You tell us now to go away and be patient, and tell our people to use their initiative. We would like this to be bold and also for our Minister in our Government to be active on this.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the Six-Year Economic Plan, nowhere is Turkana mentioned there— not a word to say they are going to get this and this. You will wait after six years or twenty years, where shall we be? Where shall we end up? So we want action. If possible let that be cleared completely full of the leaves and make a complete book in which we can put all the areas of Kenya.

Lastly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, although these are small things, these people are very important. What we have been trying to say is that the Ministers and our President should try to visit those places of interest to themselves. Now we do not like this. We would like the Ministers to have a programme to visit places like Turkana and all those other places. Next month he will visit Ukambani and Kikuyu, where he visited last month, again. Why can they not visit Turkana? There are no roads they say. Are we supposed to make these roads?

My dear Ministers can put things right with the Government. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Afuya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since there is much agreement on this Motion, while appreciating that some Members wish to speak, I wonder whether I could ask that the question of the amendment be now put, so that the Motion is settled today instead of next week?

The Speaker (Mr. Shide): I will allow the House to consider that because, in any case, we have only ten minutes to run if we rise at the ordinary time and allow the full time for this debate. I think to the Government's programme in the North-Eastern Region. I do not think that the spirit here should be one of saying, "Why did they get this, why does Government concentrate on developing that area?" Surely, this is part of the country of Kenya, and these are some of the Kenya people who have been left behind and neglected? And we should be congratulated for doing something in the area rather than being blamed for doing something in the area. What we should be asked is to do more in all the other areas. Let us not have this spirit of blaming Government for having done something in part of Kenya which needs that something doing for them. The people in the North-Eastern Region are part of this country. This has been at the heart of the issue between us and Somalia. Now who denies in this House that the North-Eastern Region is part of Kenya? Who denies in this House that this part of Kenya was neglected during the colonial régime? Who denies in this House that they need an accelerated programme of development? If that is being done by the Government, why should anyone blame us for it?

What we need to do, Sir, is to set out on merit the case of each situation as it comes up. There is great merit in development for the Turkana District and you can make a very good case for the Turkana District without even referring to the North-Eastern Region. I think it is a confusion of ideas that people should think that the North-Eastern Region is the biggest argument for development in the Turkana District. It is not. There is a very big argument for development in the Turkana District without talking about the North-Eastern Region.

An hon. Member: Yours.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Well, the danger is that you can get lost in a forest of words and fall to see the road ahead!

Mr. Speaker, there is a lot that can and should be done in the Turkana District. The question of water development we accept; the question of boreholes to improve the water supplies we accept. Additionally, the whole question of surveys and improvement of livestock we accept. With regard to natural resources, the Ministry is very busy, trying to see what can be done in this part of the country, but we cannot run to the natural resources in the area, we have got to try and find them.

Mr. Speaker, some people talk here in terms of twenty years. I might, perhaps, enlighten them by saying this. There are countries, for example, Nigeria is one, where they have been looking for oil for almost thirty years and over, and it was not until recently that they struck oil. So, the whole question of survey, and trying to look for natural resources, or mineral resources, for that matter, and oil, is one which requires a lot of patience. If these people are in a hurry, if they do not get it in one year, they give up, so they might just as well leave it in the ground. So, the hon. Specially Elected Member, Mr. Komoo, might very well be building a hut on top of some oil, which he has refused to see because he was in a hurry to find it. I hope that they will be patient, and that we all know that we are concerned with building a nation, and building a nation is not something which is going to be completed, in some cases, not even in our lifetime.

Sir, having said all that I have said, I feel that the Motion, once accepting it in spirit, accepting all that it wants, the construction of it and the wording of it is not quite clear, and will not help the Turkana people. Consequently, I have consulted with the Mover of the Motion, and he agreed with me that the following amendment to the Motion would bring it into line with what we are in fact going to do.

I move therefore, an amendment, that we delete all the words after the word "consider" in the third line, and substitute in place thereof, the following words:—

— for that district an accelerated programme of development in the field of education and social services, including water, construction of dams, boreholes and livestock improvement."

Then the Motion, as amended, would then read:—

THAT in view of the fact that the Turkana District was neglected by the Colonial Government in all spheres of development, this House urges the Government to consider for that district an accelerated programme of development in the field of education and social services, including water, construction of dams, boreholes, and livestock improvement.

Now, Sir, the House may wonder why we are leaving out this idea of setting aside a substantial sum of money. Development does not depend on setting aside a substantial sum of money. Development includes technical and other facilities, which cannot be measured in just setting aside a sum of money. Consequently, an accelerated programme of development would include provision for farms funds, including men and

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

and that is what the Government intends to do.

I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mwangi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, in seconding this amendment to this Motion, I would like to mention a few things which I think are beneficial to the Members of this House, and they are that everybody, just in the same way as the Members of the Turkana area, is very much concerned, and is much aware of the position and situation that exists in Turkana District.

Now, Sir, we all know that changes cannot take place overnight, and it is true that in order to have any kind of development or any sort of planned economy, there must be a development plan. It is true, Mr. Speaker, we have already resolved a development plan, which according to the red book takes us up to 1970. Now, in this five-year Development Plan, Mr. Speaker, we have already included some of the things which this Motion is asking, and we are sure that in the field of education within this period, Mr. Speaker, a lot of schools will be built for the Turkana people, and also some other benefits will evolve as a result of this plan.

It is true, Mr. Speaker, that in order to help the Turkana people, the leaders from the area have, first of all, to show the initiative of educating the people locally so that they understand what the Government is doing for them. It is no use, Mr. Speaker, for any Member here to say that unless the Government does this for the people, when the people themselves are not conscious that the Members themselves visiting these areas. The Members in this Chamber have been able to visit many areas and many parts of the world. They have seen development, and they have seen countries which are in the same position as the Turkana. It is up to them, Mr. Speaker, to educate their people, particularly for them to see the need for it, not only for keeping them moving here and there, which makes things very difficult. Mr. Speaker, it is true, Mr. Speaker, as one Member said, there is law and order, and it is also true wherever they move they move to places where there is water. If these people were to live where there are some wells, we would have to preserve those wells, and more development could take place in those areas, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is equally right, when to talk of development. It is not possible to develop a country where people themselves are not really conscious of their needs. I think, Mr. Speaker, the Government has shown the need for helping the Turkana people, although they are not the only ones. Already, it has been shown in the North-Eastern Region that the Government is going to help that area, and the Turkana people are also receiving attention from the Government, and I am sure the Government will do its best to help the Turkana people. I would like to appeal to the hon. Members from that area also to play their part in educating their people, knowing exactly what they should do to help themselves. Here in this House, a speaker has spoken and he has said what the Government has to do to help the people. This kind of development is something which has to come from both sides. I do think, and I do not consider even those areas which are developed today, were developed by the Government without the help of the local people, and this is what the Government is coaxing the Members from the area to encourage. Even when the Government comes to the land, they seek the co-operation of the people.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support the Motion.

Hon. Members: Sit down.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. It is quite out of order for anybody but the Speaker to tell hon. Members to sit down. I will propose the question of the amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): This amendment is not conveniently severable, and hon. Members can speak generally on the main question, if they wish.

Mr. Warlithi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support this Motion and also the amendment. As far as I am concerned, the wording is not very material. What matters is the spirit underlying the Motion and what it is intended to do. Whether you have the wording as it is or with the amendment by the Minister, it does not as far as I can see, make any material change. The thing I would like to say, Mr. Speaker, is that this Motion calls for the development of the Turkana area to provide what may be called the bare necessities of life, and a Government like our own Government, which we have elected governing this country for the interests of the people of Kenya, should be in a position to provide the basic needs of the people who live in this country.

The argument put forward by the Assistant Minister and also partly by the Minister that they would like to see initiative coming from the

351 Motion—

[Mr. Oduya] and give gifts to people are not considered at all, they are not brought into the picture. Kiambu was given £1.8 million for a water scheme. What about Turkana, how much has been given to the Turkana people? This is a deliberate attempt to ignore the Turkana people. How can the Turkana people develop without help? This is the reason, Mr. Speaker, I ask that the Kenya Government give the Turkana people an Assistant Minister so that their problems can be contended within the Government circles.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ekeltar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to say as much as the previous speakers have said. It is all quite true. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a very serious thing if our own people are being neglected and nobody sees this. The Government just comes here and answers us as the Assistant Minister answered me yesterday. I could almost say that we could bring force to bear. We are very serious now and this is a very serious thing, Mr. Speaker.

When the Turkana people are being neglected, we cannot sit here idly; the Turkana people sent us here to work for them. When our own people are being neglected, who can bring it to this House but us? We have been neglected, Mr. Speaker, and this is a very serious state of affairs. I would point out that during the colonial régime I personally was with Members of the present Government there, gentlemen like Mr. Kagga, Mr. Paul Ngai and the rest of the people who were sent to Lodwar during their period of restriction. They saw how things were up there. We want good living conditions; we do not want just to be offered a cup of water, bread without butter.

This is very serious, Mr. Speaker, and I do not like it when we, Members, here tell the Government about our problems and no action is taken. This is very bad. We were the first people to be in Kanu; we must pull together. It is no use our coming here and shouting without any action being taken. This is very serious, Mr. Speaker.

I do not want to say any more, Mr. Speaker, so that I can allow other Members to support the Motion.

Mr. Speaker, I support the Motion.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, it will not be necessary for me to use the whole of the twenty minutes, because essentially this is a Motion which should not have any controversy because it says precisely what both the party and the Government have already committed to. I congratulate the Mover of the Motion for his consideration of his constituents and for the district in general. I am sure that he, as well as hon. Members in the House, recognize that already the Government has promised and undertaken to consider as a matter of urgency the development of those areas of the country that were not given the same opportunities in the past. The only point that I would like to make is that Members will at least take into account that the points that development of these areas that have been left unattended to during the colonial régime cannot be accomplished overnight. The Government plan was only introduced less than twelve months ago. In that period it has not even been possible to establish the basic framework for it to begin to show results, leave alone in the Turkana District, but practically throughout the country. There is a definite need for us to move faster in such areas, such as the Turkana District, and we accept that provision, not only accept it now but it has been our policy right from the start, it has been part of the provision in the economic structure and part of the Government throughout this period.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to make some observations, having conceded the points about developments, such as the hon. Mover referred to, on some points made by the speakers who have supported the Motion.

The Secunder of the Motion rightly referred to Ministers travelling around the country discussing and talking about development. I think, Sir, it ought to be recognized that this is our country where the Ministers apply themselves very conscientiously to their jobs, and where there has been, in the last twelve months, a very deliberate and definite attempt to bring to the people as closely as possible and as directly as possible the work and thinking of the Government in the field of development; and to associate them with these ideas. Not only that, but also to generate in all the people, at village, at county council or district level, the idea that certain initiatives must be taken by the people themselves and that leaders at the village and district level have a real and personal direct part to play in the efforts towards development.

Development, Sir, is not entirely a Government effort. Government must give a sense of direction to it, Government must help people to see a purpose in it and Government must help to build the infra-structure that is necessary for it. But, in the final analysis, the response of the people, the energy of the people and the initiative of the people at the village and district level is going to determine the pace of development throughout the country and in all the various parts of the country. Consequently, it is necessary as we speak about this matter both to take into account what measures the Government can take as well as what measures the people themselves, locally, can take.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

It is considered that in some areas that local people are able to do more than in others; and Turkana is one of those districts where the local people are not in a position to do as much as would be expected of the people in some of the other districts. Consequently, a district like Turkana would be less able to engage in self-help schemes and things like that for their own self-improvement, and would need greater assistance.

All this, Sir, Government has felt, and it is in this spirit that the Government wishes to approach the whole question of development, not only in the Turkana District but also in a few other districts that have been similarly affected by past neglect on the part of the Colonial Government.

Now, Sir, when we talk of development, it is as going to help the Turkana people for any Member in this House merely to shout about twenty years to come, as they have done. The Turkana people still need to be developed, and it is not going to take one year to develop the Turkana people, it is not going to take five years to develop the Turkana people, it is going to take more than twenty years to develop the Turkana people; it is going to take more than fifty years to develop this country to the standard we all aspire to. When we talk about these things we are not to be realistic about them. Development is not a thing that is done in finality, it is a progressive thing, it continues. There is not a day or a year when we shall reach the point when we can say, "Now we are fully developed." There is no country in the world that has reached that stage, because as you develop, as you acquire new standards and as you reach new heights, so you begin to think about other standards and so development is a continuing process; it is not a process which has an end. And let us not talk of these things in vague terms and generalities.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that no one will begin to misunderstand the hon. Members from Turkana that it is more sympathetic to talk to them in terms of development in six months rather than an orderly, graduated programme of development over the next period. It is not going to help them except to mislead them, and the Government would not like to be a party to any attempt to mislead the Turkana people as to what they should expect over the next few years.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the right approach, which the Government makes, is that in trying to assist the Turkana people in their development, we must not just do for them what we think they need for themselves. What we must do is to work with them for their self-development or self-improvement. The beginning of that is to work with the hon. Members who represent the Turkana people. It is with them that we must sit down to agree on the orders of priority and the various items of development that must be carried out in their area. If we merely move in to develop the Turkana people as an act of generosity, we might, in fact, be misusing our resources and not getting the response that is required, because the only development that matters in the Turkana area is that which is going to stimulate among the people in the Turkana Region a sense of pride in their own self-improvement, not something which is done for them as an act of generosity and just placed there, so that they do not value or recognize it.

Therefore it is the intention of the Government to consult very closely with the elected Members from the area and decide with them how best we can approach the whole question of development in the area. I hoped, Sir, that the hon. Mover of the Motion would at least have mentioned this part of the Government's approach; and the hon. Secunder of the Motion rightly asked that the Minister responsible for development or planning should visit the area. I accept that suggestion, not because the suggestion has been made by the hon. Secunder of the Motion, because long before notice was given of this Motion in this House I personally called all the elected Members for Turkana, including the Senator, and discussed with them the possibility of a tour of the area in order to discuss on the spot problems of development in the area. They are busy right now organizing this tour in order that we may discuss in the district what would be the best order of priority in their programme of development.

Now, Sir, I was hoping that the hon. Mover of the Motion and the hon. gentleman who spoke afterwards, also from Turkana, were going at least to give us the credit for having taken the initiative already, long before this Motion came here, but, of course, these things we have learned not to expect. We have learned to expect to be blamed for everything that happens to everyone!

Now, Sir, I just make two further observations. Firstly, too much reference is being made [Mr. Aramian] do suffer a lot. The troublemakers are the ones who can gain a lot from the Government. I have said I have some examples of these Kikuyus who make trouble for the Government, they are now highly respected persons in Kenya. They did a lot, made a lot of trouble for the Government, they are the ones now being given priority, the first priority in the eyes of the Government. Then all the Shillias in the Northern Frontier District do the same thing. I used to represent the North-Western Province. I used to represent that during the colonialist régime. All these districts are the same, I used to represent six districts all of them the same. When the Somalis brought this trouble the Government feared them, they were given something, they were given secondary schools, primary schools, they were given water, they were given town. Then the Turkana who used to be loyal to the Government are convinced by the President and the Vice-President who are convinced by the leaders of the Government here, were told that you are loyal to the Government, you are this and that. We shall do this and that for you.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this thing here is very shameful to the Government. The leader of the Government stayed there for many years, they have experience in that country, more than I have myself, but then I have not even gone to school. I was too old by then. Now when they leave there they forget a part of their own country, where they are suffering. It is part of the country. Last time here I heard that little man here saying that they have given fifty thousand to Somalia. The leader of the country here has visited Somalia, he did not even see this, being in Garissa, the North-Eastern Region as a whole. I think he knows Machakos and Meru and then comes this way.

I think I am speaking the truth on this. He knows Lodwar, he knows Lokitaung very well, where he stays. I hear that last time he was there some money was allocated for the Masai for water development. The Masai country is somewhere near here, where the people cannot walk even fifty yards or a mile. Even in Kiambu here, whether the people can just pop in a little way and get water. All this. Our brothers here in Masai, but they do not know much about the Turkana, but they forget, leave them alone. They say, "I am living here, but I cannot forget you," but they do forget. One told me that he cannot forget the Turkana. I saw him, I was with the hon. Ngeli, and the hon. Kagga myself; they are the ones who asked me to join the Government. Then, when they get there they forget, they forget everything when they came to Kiambu, Mombasa, Machakos. Last time, when the colonialists put them there in Lodwar, they found the people treated them in the way they liked. That is why Mzee sent Mr. Jaramogi, the Vice-President to Lodwar during the colonialist régime to see the way of giving the people water, education, fire-wood and other services—the social services are too poor, there is nothing there.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Motion before the House is a very important Motion which I think the Kenya Government must consider very seriously, because we are just about fed up with the attitude of our Government towards the Turkana people. So many questions have been asked by the Turkana Members in this House, asking the Kenya Government Minister to take the initiative and visit Turkana and examine the problems of the people there. To date nothing has been done. But since we now have a Minister for Economic Planning, I wish to take this opportunity of asking him, since other Ministers appear afraid to visit Turkana, thinking that this is a remote area, to go to Turkana as soon as possible. At the moment our Ministers appear only interested in visiting already established places like Mombasa, Nakuru, Kisumu; only big towns where they have big hotels and they can meet friends and just waste time.

What I am asking now is that the Minister for Economic Planning to take this into his hands and save the Turkana people from all this poverty stricken life.

The Member for Turkana has explained fully, the Mover of this Motion, the problems they have experienced. He has also explained fully to the House and to the country that the present leaders of this House were there before and they saw the life which the Turkana people were leading, and since their return, they have been in power for nearly two years, they have not taken any interest or have not even sent one Minister to Turkana to see what they could do for our own people there. When the question about the Turkana being tortured by other tribesmen from Ethiopia came to this House, the Government was just sitting around here and there. When the question came about the Turkana health services the Government was just sitting around and one of the Junior Ministers, the then Parliamentary Secretary, was just so brutal that he was speaking as though he was in Heaven; he did not answer the question, in accordance with the Turkana's request and this is where the Minister who has been established to deal with this problem, economic planning should definitely see that something is done. Also, I should like to [Mr. Oduya] urge him that some of the investors should be taken around and shown the Turkana District. It is not actually, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the mistake of the Turkana people. When the colonial régime visited this country they used the Turkana district as a museum where they took visitors from abroad to take pictures and said, "Look, these are the people who demand independence, look how primitive they are." They are not going to lower the dignity of the African nation. We do not want our own African Government to continue this colonial policy of neglecting the Turkana area.

I must take this chance now to tell my Government that just recently, when the Shilla activities were very serious, the Government voted—I think over £6,000,000 for the Shilla area development, giving them water, health services, schools and other things. Now, I would ask the Government, even if the Government finds it difficult now to get money from some other source, there should be some money—most of the money which has been wasted in paying people for high salaries and importing some people for settlement schemes—some of this money should be saved and taken to Turkana for development such services and veterinary services, of course, to take care of their livestock, education and things like social services. At least if this Government was taking an interest in the Turkana people, then the Turkana people—in our Six-Year Development Plan, which was brought to this House some time back, the Turkana were omitted, but they, as a district, should have been included. However, when you read this book, you find that the Turkana District is definitely ignored and left out.

Now, what I want the Government to do now is to recognize the immediate need for water in Turkana, both for human consumption and for the cattle. As the hon. Mover has explained, it is very easy to make boreholes. Also, on the other side there is a lake; I do not know whether it is salty, but if it is not, then this water, of course, could be used for the purposes of irrigation in the nearby area to afford the Turkana an opportunity for getting water for their own use and that of their cattle.

The Minister for Agriculture has not taken any initiative to go to Turkana and find out, whether we sent this person to find out what is required of Turkana, what is required by Turkana people. The Minister is just around here and there, Rift Valley, what not, and interested in taking interest in these places and not taking into account the problem of the Turkana people in agricultural development. No money has been voted for the Turkana District for agricultural development. What we want actually and we say (Inaudible) and must mean (Inaudible) in the true sense, otherwise what we are saying is not known to other people. We do not want the Turkana people in the future to be used as labourers to work for other people on their own farms, whilst the Turkana area is being neglected. When we took over, it is now two years, from the colonialists, formerly we used to say our people in Turkana are dying. Now, who are we going to tell that our people in Turkana are dying? The blame should lie within the Government, so I urge the Government now, to take immediate action to give the Turkana a secondary school which should start by 1966, next year. We have given schools to other areas so the Turkana District must be given a secondary school next year, more teachers to send to the Turkana Primary Schools, and more primary schools must be established so as to get the Turkana advance educationally and very soon some of them should be sent to the universities so that we will be able to get a future President from the Turkana area. We do not want the President of tomorrow, or many years to come, to come only from Kiambu, or from some other area around here or from Kisumu, we want a President from Turkana and this is why immediate action must be taken.

The Government, if it was kind enough would even send £10,000,000 to start Turkana development, this would be a just move of our Government, if they suggested a figure of £10,000,000 to give to the Turkana to meet all requirements needed in these services. There is no use talking of Hararibee and telling people to go back to their land, the Turkana are on their own land. Now why is the Turkana have not been considered for assistance, because they are on their own land. No, they want to wait until the last minute, when the Turkana will also want to come out and leave the land and say, "You have refused to assist us, so we also want jobs", then you will start arresting them and saying, "Go back to the land." Which land? Without people on the land—And what I want to see is that Turkana like any other people are properly assisted.

The Masai are just near here. Because the Masai have been bringing gifts to some of the leaders, they have been given some assistance. These are the facts, Mr. Speaker, and then the others who work so far away, over six hundred miles from here, who cannot afford to come here

[Mr. Kaggia] not think that this will solve our land problem which is so serious in the whole country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think it is more important that, after passing this Motion, the Government should go straight away and pass a resolution or legislation which will protect our people. I do not agree with the Vice-President, when he tells us that we must be patient and wait. This is a very serious situation, and I would like the Government and all Government Ministers to accept it as such. It is not a question of getting protection from the so-called farmers who are evicting people. It is a question that the Government should take seriously, and do everything possible to check the situation before it is too late.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Vice-President has tried to tell us that there may be some justified evictions. In some cases, there might be, but in the majority of the cases, they are not. The majority of cases on European farms are not justified.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair.]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair.]

Mr. Speaker, I would like the Kenya Government to remove the situation as soon as possible, because this state of affairs is a great discredit to our country and gives it a bad name, because you hear Europeans saying that Kenya is one of the best countries to live in but ask an African and he will say it is one of the worst. I think the Government should take this seriously, and there should be legislation to try to protect our African people, then all of us will be able to say that Kenya is one of the best countries which is not possible today because our African people are roaming in the street just because a European settler did not like to see their faces.

Mr. Speaker, our Ministers have been telling us every now and then that the reasons for most of the difficulties that we are facing today were brought about by the colonialists; they are a legacy of the British Colonial Government. I agree, Mr. Speaker, but since independence what has this elected Government done to remove this legacy?

Mr. Speaker, as I said, this legislation, when passed, will be only an immediate measure to remove this serious situation which has been brought about by people like Blundell who were only interested in seeing that the Europeans got good prices for their land and had no interest in the African.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order, Mr. Kaggia. I will not have hon. Members saying these things about individuals.

Mr. Kaggia: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, I was using their names in general terms.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, you must not. It does not help anyway.

Mr. Kaggia: Mr. Speaker, this is the policy which was formally brought by the British colonialists who were only interested in the welfare of European farming. They were not interested in the African people. I think it is high time that the Government accepted that our policy should be a socialist one which places land in the hands of co-operatives and not individuals. Mr. Speaker, we are going to be faced with the difficulty of the few Africans replacing European farmers in the country.

Mr. Speaker, as I said, it has been thought by some people that this is Kaggia policy, but Mr. Speaker, I am so glad that nobody has said here that this is not Kanu or Government policy. I feel that this question is important and the Government must come clean and tell this country what its policy on land is.

Mr. Speaker, we want to know from the Government whether this policy has been changed by either Kanu or the Government that the land does not belong to us.

Mr. Speaker, we were told that, at the meeting which took place in Kisumu, the statements made at that meeting were aligned to communism.

I must make it clear that what I and other speakers said was on the lines of what we know as "African socialism." I would like those who objected to what was said to tell us what is their policy.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have gone over your time, now, Mr. Kaggia.

[Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to]

Resolved Accordingly:

THAT in view of the fact that settlers continue to evict from farms African agricultural workers and squatters, and in view of the fact that those evictions are adding to the already serious problem of unemployment in the country, this House urges the Government to initiate legislation to protect African agricultural workers and squatters from arbitrary evictions by biased farmers.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Before leaving this and moving on to the next order, I would

[The Speaker] observed that during that debate some hon. Members spoke in a very much louder voice than is usual, or is really necessary to be heard in this House. It is the first consideration is that hon. Members should be heard, but it is customary, and I think preferred by all hon. Members, to moderate the tone of voice used in this House, and not to adopt the tone of voice used on public platforms.

MOTIONS

BOUNDARY CHANGES: NORTH-EASTERN REGION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Khalif is not here to move his Motion, and I am sorry to say that I have heard that he has suddenly been taken sick, which is his reason for not being here. We will move on to the next order.

DEVELOPMENT MONEY FOR TURKANA DISTRICT

Mr. Aramun: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move—

THAT in view of the fact that the Turkana District was neglected by the Colonial Government in all spheres of development, this House urges the Government to consider setting aside a substantial sum of money for the provision of water for the people and livestock by the construction of dams and boreholes; and for general advancement in the field of Education and Social Services.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a Motion the Government knows very well. We know the difficulties that the people of that place have. I cannot tell them just now this and that. They are the ones who told me before I came here that this House would help. Mr. Kaggia was here. Mzee Kenyatta was there. Mr. Negi was there. They know all the difficulties of the Turkana. We see the manifesto of an earlier session, but we can help our people. There are three things—

QUORUM

The Assistant Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Malano): On a point of order, I wonder whether we have a quorum?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, we do not. Ring the Division Bell.

[The Division Bell was rung.]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have a quorum now. You may continue, Mr. Aramun.

Mr. Aramun: Mr. Speaker, every Member here knows the difficulties of the Turkana. Mzee Kenyatta was there, Jaramogi, the Vice-President of Kenya, was there. They say that the Turkana should be given this or that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we cannot use all these words alone. It is now a question of who can help us. We have our schools in Turkana. Yesterday, the hon. Mr. Ekiella raised the question of improving some schools in Turkana.

One of the Ministers said that we have eight schools in Turkana, as a whole. We have only one school, that is a Government school, in Lodwar. Only one school in all the districts with two Members. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are having some difficulties with water, that very essential thing. Leave alone education, without that we can live, but without water we cannot live. We cannot live without water. We do not have water. All the education went off because of water, because of grass. The trouble is that one can take it from here to Machakos which is about 30 miles away, taking cattle to get water taking cattle to grass is too far. If the Government can be sympathetic and give these people water, boreholes somewhere, and dams, I do not see whether the Turkana country is a semi-desert like Cairo or like Israel as I have seen. Those people in Cairo or Israel are very keen to do all things. They do not seek for the vote only. They ought to act as they have said. They have given boreholes, they have given dams for the animals of the people. Last time I was on the Committee of Famine Relief, all the Turkana were taken there because of all their cattle died. We did not have shambar, we do not know how to till the ground. They do not know. They only know how to look after the cattle that is their life, that is why they are living. If the cattle die how can a human being live without water, without food. Their food, their main food is blood, and also milk and meat.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Government can appreciate that we are remaining on this question, because this Motion is very, very demanding. All these Members they know this. We do not have roads. When the hon. Mzee Jomo Kenyatta was at Lodwar they wanted to come by road, when he saw the roads were rough he was brought by a plane to Maralal, which was in my constituency then. He knew that the roads were very rough. When the father knows that a chap is experiencing hunger somewhere he ought to give something to him. But he refused to come by road, he knew that the roads were very bad and rough, and so he came by plane. He has forgotten now. He has forgotten completely. He cannot remember those chaps up there, his own people.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I may mention that in Kenya here the honest people to the Government

[Mr. Anylen] is not only Europeans. There are also Africans and Asians who are trying to take over the positions of former European settlers and they are the future problem. The future problem is not the European, the future problem is the African who is trying to occupy exactly the place which the European occupied. So, when this Bill is corrected, we would like to cater for the Africans also who are trying to evict their fellow-Africans.

One hon. Member, I think without knowing, said there are no Africans who are evicting other Africans. I could give him ten examples, even twenty, of real Africans—I know an example, Mr. Deputy Speaker, of a Member of this House who told his people before the elections, "Oh! You stay on the land," then a few days later the police came to remove the squatters and the person who had bought the land was the Member who represented the people. So, we must be able to take care.

Mr. G. G. Karuki: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, is it in order for the hon. Member to make an allegation like that?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): It is not in order and I would ask him to substantiate that. This must be done when an allegation is made against a Member of this House. If he does not want to do that, substantiate what he said, he can withdraw.

Mr. Anylen: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I did not imply anything against any particular Member, and if the Member in question asked me to substantiate that one, I would, but he may not want me to put him in that position.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): You did say—I realize you were speaking in the heat of the moment, but you did make an allegation; and if you make an allegation against any Member of the House, even if it is a generalized one, not a specific one, it must be substantiated.

Mr. Anylen: I will withdraw that. I do not want to embarrass the hon. Member, so I think I should withdraw it so as not to embarrass that particular person.

With that, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to say that the Motion should read this way, that I would like the amendment to be amended so that we can remove the word "European" in the first line and the word "European" also in the second line, and the word "African" should be kept all the way through. Also I would like, for another reason, to remove the words "who are the real sons of the soil", and also agree with the last amendment proposed by the other Member.

Sir, the reason why I am interested in removing the phrase "who are the real sons of the soil" is that there are people today who want to buy 10,000 acres of land and then they say they are the sons of the soil. This land belongs to them and they use the position they have been given by their fellow-Africans to kick their fellow-Africans out of the land. They try to say that they are more the sons of the soil because they have got more money than the sons of the soil who have got no money. So, Sir, I would like this to be removed. Also we do not want tribalism to come into this. You will find that in the Rift Valley there are some Kikuyu squatters. We do not want someone to come and say, "Oh, it's my land, I am a son of the soil, because I am a Kisii this land belongs to me, the Kikuyu must move." If a man has been living there for forty years, he is in Rift Valley, he is in Western Region, that man should be given the first chance to live on that land.

What I would like to say, Sir, is this. Government must be able to know that the reason why people became members of Mau Mau was because they were told that if they became Mau Mau the people would take over the land. The reason why Mr. Kenyatta's name is very big among the people of Kenya is because he told the people of Kenya that if they followed him he would bring them Uhuru and land would no longer belong to just a few Europeans. We want to make it very clear, Sir, that the idea of us using the African people to join us with winning independence and then change after independence, and claim it just for ourselves, take my word for it; it is wrong. I would like to say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the Government today must come out; we do not want them to accept this Motion and then go to us to prevent these troubles happening.

Sir, before I sit down, I would like to say this, that there was a meeting at Kisumu where the Member who has brought this Motion made it very clear that it was wrong for the Africans to occupy the former positions of the Europeans and to evict their friends from the land, and we hear that this meeting is being taken to be a very dangerous meeting. We would like to know from the Government Ministers, we would like to have a Minister stand up and tell us that it is the policy of the Kenya Government to allow a few Africans, who will probably become Prime Ministers or Members of Parliament, to take over the positions which the Europeans held; and then we will know.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have removed all the racial element in the Motion. The reason why I have done this is because when the Africans were [Mr. Anylen] fighting the Europeans they were not fighting them because of their colour; this must be understood. They were fighting them because there was an element of exploitation. And if that element existed in the African people in this country, the people will continue to fight those who take the place of the Europeans. When people say that Kenya is independent, people must know that the Kenya people did not fight for independence because of the flag only. What did our people get out of the flag?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I support fully the call by our President that people should go to the land, but how is it, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that a person is kicked off the land and then he is told to go back to the land? Which land? When he has been kicked off his land, we would like Government to be honest with the masses, not fool anybody, and be able to say, "The policy of our Government from now onwards will be that we will work according to the wishes of the masses." We, as Members of this House, must know that even if they are Ministers today it is not guaranteed that they will be Ministers forever; tomorrow they may be nobodies.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to say too much because maybe I will be a Minister tomorrow, and my friends will be Ministers tomorrow. I would like to appeal to everybody to be human. These are our brothers who are suffering. If this is an elected Government, it must be able to look up at those people who are suffering and try to help them.

With those few remarks, I wish to move the amendment to the amendment.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odiga): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I stand on behalf of the Government to accept the amendment to the amendment to this Motion which is moved by the hon. Member for Majoje-Bassi. I think at this time I should only say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that although we may talk with a lot of emotion we must understand that we inherited something which was not of our creation. And when we inherited it we must cope with that as one of the many problems that we must be patient about and try to overcome. There is all talk of actually changing it overnight but the hon. Members must know that this question of eviction involves certain kinds of genuine action; certain kinds of action which take place even in our own African areas, where some people have also been brought to court and then evicted from our land. It is not right to talk about these things without giving them serious thought first. Actually, we will have to carry on some form of eviction when it is really necessary.

Now let me say, on the other hand, that the way the colonial régime treated our people on the farms has not enabled them to develop sufficiently in the way of money-making, and it will take us some time also to develop that, and also to become more efficient. We must also face the facts, that if here in this House we give someone some money to develop some land which we have also given him we will probably find that in a hundred chances you find ten only who succeed and the other chances do not come off. This thing will take time. You must be patient. We cannot say we are going to change things overnight; and it is my opinion that most people who are thinking that way are wrong. We must know that we will develop over a period of time and that is the policy the Government are pursuing.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I support the amendment to the amendment to the Motion.

(Question of the amendment to the amendment proposed)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): In view of the fact that we have now come to the time that the Mover should be called upon to reply, I will put the question of the amendment to the amendment in the terms I have just proposed. (Question of the amendment to the amendment that the words to be left out be left out but and agreed to)

(Question of the Motion as amended proposed)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I will now call upon the Mover to reply.

Mr. Kaggia: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am very grateful to the speaker of this Motion who has contributed tremendously to the Motion. I am also thankful to other speakers who have also contributed to it. I am very pleased by the attitude of the Government in accepting this Motion, but there are a few observations I would like to make on what has been said by some Ministers.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I accept the amendment, because I think that it does not remove any substance from the Motion, and I also agree that as the land is changing hands in a few years' time, those farms which we now call European farms will be African farms. So, I have no quarrel with the amendment.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, one thing I would like to make very clear is that the legislation which we are asking for in this Motion should only be an immediate measure of arresting the very dangerous situation, but the Government should

[Mr. Makoha]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words I sit down and suggest that my amendment be accepted.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Mwendwa would you like to second the amendment? Mr. Kamau will second the amendment.

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am seconding the amendment and I will say this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that the Government of Kenya should alter all the laws of Kenya which were made previous to Kenya's independence so as to conform with the republic of Kenya. At the moment, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very interesting that you find wherever you go, and any case of eviction comes and you try to argue the case you are being told well, it is in the law and you have read it in the House of Representatives. When I go back to these laws I find that most of them were made when I was in detention myself, I was not in the House and as I represent people at the moment I always feel it insulting to say that I made the law which is punishing a citizen of this country while we are free. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I should be right to call an Act and not otherwise. At the moment you find that people who are being evicted from these farms are people of whom in our political battle we taught them that we are fighting for freedom, firstly, to get back our land, and secondly, to get our independence. At the moment Mr. Speaker, Sir, I must reveal in this House what is now going on outside. At present our new settlers who are buying these big farms are also abusing the ordinary men on the street, telling them, this must be known in this House, well you say that you fought for freedom, now you are becoming our labourers in our new farms.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

This, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, must be known in this House that the land in Kenya belongs to the Africans and they fought for it to get it back. It is their motherland and nobody can argue here, the other way round, Mr. Speaker, in order to soothe us, that any good will come by inducing the poorest African to buy his mother's land from a foreigner who, and I must say this, will charge him good money, just export money to foreign countries. I would, Mr. Speaker, Sir, say that if we want the smooth running of the Government first of all the land question must be reconsidered by the Government and the land policy must be put right so as to convince the ordinary man who had been living in the farms that he has his freedom and that freedom can only come if this ordinary labourer is sharing the profits of this land. But not to introduce another new system on the old settlers who are going to use those people who fought for independence as former labourers of the colonialists. It is a high time, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that this land policy should be completely revised and give the sons of the soil the best chance to acquire the land in the area where they are living.

Furthermore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I shall refer to the case of the Rift Valley where I know the whole trouble rises and unless the Government is very careful about this, well I have no doubt that the consequence of these squatter problems will be very serious. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is very surprising to find that at the moment no farm in Kenya, and I would like anyone to stand up and shout it, no farming community have ever introduced a secondary school in those farms, so as to educate the children of those parents whose blood has been sucked by the old settlers and they have not given their gratitude of educating those children. The reward they have given them is to evict them away without saying where they are being sent to, and so that is why you find today in the streets of Nairobi or elsewhere that our countrymen and women have adopted an attitude that even you do not know whether they are not Africans, they are now anyone, thrown about and this has come about because the situation has been created very difficult for them by the farming community.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I completely deplore any law which could now, when we are free in this country, evict an African from the former farm on which he has been living since he was a child. Unless the Government is prepared to face this issue carefully, the consequences will be very critical. Again, Sir, people may think that the Members of this House are speaking from the emotional point of view, which I refute completely. It is a shame, when we are an African Government here, to see that if we want anything to be done we have to kneel down to such-and-such so as to please somebody in order to have our right done. I would say that this House is the supreme body to pass any legislation and I would say that with effect from today, when this Motion came to this House, Kenya should no longer have eviction orders from any farm and this legislation should be brought forward forthwith.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would extend my argument further by saying that when a country is free the Parliament is the place to pass any legislation which would conform with the independence of that country. I do not see why, if I reside here today that tomorrow will have this and that, I do not see who could stop it because anything passed here is a law and I appeal to my own Government to repeal all the laws which victimize the sons of this country.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I support the Motion with amendment.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Debate of the Amendment cannot be separated from that on the original Motion and Members who speak on the Amendment will not be allowed to speak again to the Motion. In other words, the Motion is inseparable.

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have a few words to say, especially I want to answer the Member who touched a little on the Tripartite Agreement. The Minister concerned in this Motion will be able to give the House a proper answer because the Motion does not entirely come under my portfolio.

A few years ago, Mr. Deputy Speaker, eviction was under my portfolio, under the powers in the Resident Labourers Ordinance, but, Sir, this has been repealed and the question of the eviction of labourers on farms is now dealt with by the rules under the Trespass Ordinance. Therefore, Sir, I will not speak very much about the evictions.

I do not think, Sir, that anybody in this country would say that he is not sympathetic, would say that he does not share the feelings of seeing people being removed from the farms. In fact, Sir, I think it is good that this Motion came to the House so that the Government could see the feelings of the Members, could listen to the feelings of the Members of this House, but there is one thing I want to tell the Members of this House—

An hon. Member: Hon. Members.

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Hon. Members, yes, thank you very much.

It is easy to blame and always hard to give the credit where it is due. If hon. Members would just think for a moment, perhaps a few of them have gone to a place called Nyandarua, where many of the landless people have been taken by the Government and have been given land, they would see, Sir, the amount of work which this Government has done since it was formed.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the other day we were at a place called Mwea Tebere, we saw the land which five years ago was useless. Now the land is employing more than 10,000 people and the land is bringing money to Kenya. This is a fact.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order, order. I just want to draw the Government's attention to the fact that, according to Standing Orders, we now have, at 10.55 I have to call upon the Mover to reply and when I called upon Mr. Mwendwa I thought that he was, in fact, the Government spokesman for this Motion. As you are not, I would advise you to withdraw so that the Government can, in fact, reply.

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Even if I resign, I will go home and fight another election. I challenge any other hon. Members here.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is it in order for the hon. Minister, whether annoyed or not, to address the Members instead of the Chair?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): It is not in order. I do not know that he did address hon. Members direct, but I hope that the hon. Members will not interrupt any more. I think that one or two hon. Members were a bit rude in their interjections.

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The only thing I want to draw Members' attention to is that I am not ashamed of signing a document which they call the Tripartite Agreement. In fact, I am very proud of it because, Sir, within this period we have seen people who were jobless, we have seen 42,000 people now enjoying working in different places and this is a fact, Sir. I do not want the Members here to claim only one side. During this time, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the workers, who are not expected to go on strike—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): If you keep quiet, maybe Mr. Mwendwa will sit down.

Mr. Anyamba: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I must first of all thank the hon. Member for Kandara for introducing this Motion to our House. I must also thank the hon. Mr. Makoha, who also introduced the last amendment, because today, Sir, the

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Munga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was just looking up something that I am going to bring up in the Motion.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Acheng-Onoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was just about to come to the end of my speech to the House.

I would like to say that the question of land has been the bone of contention in Kenya, and in fact, it does mean that some of the Ministers will have thoughts on this burning issue. Mr. Speaker, we are equally concerned with the protection of our people who have brought us to this House. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, there is no question of resigning. What we are trying to do in this House is to promote the spirit of Harumbe.

Mr. Speaker, if there is any legislation at all, that legislation will be to the benefit of our people and in the interests of the people.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that we all know very well that the question of land is a very burning issue, and we know what has been explained by the Member for Kandara.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say a few words about this. It is true that we have some hot-head settlers. I am not going to distinguish whether they are African or Europeans, but I would like to say that we have some hot-head settlers in Kenya, and this is very natural, that some people do stick to what they feel, and believe it so strongly that they create a kingdom of their own and within their own individuals. It is true that many settlers, after seeing the changes which have taken place do still feel that the colonial days which existed back during the colonial days cannot be so easily departed. This is the art of conservatism, and that is why we have always thought that conservatism becomes a dangerous ideology. It is true that it is the work of the Government to change this conservatism of these settlers, so that they can see the light which is settling in the minds of many people in Kenya.

Atu hon. Member: Have you done that?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing (Mr. Ngei): I would like to say, if the hon. Member for Butere would be so kind to listen to what I am trying to say, which I think would be more sensible than shouting at the top of his voice and without even coming to a conclusion on anything when the time is over.

I would like to inform the House, before I become a Minister—and I think Mr. Speaker, I am allowed to take evidence from the past—that a settler around Donyo Sabuk made it publicly clear that even if I am a Minister, and if I go to his farm, I will be arrested because there is a law of trespass in the law books. It is true that law has no exception at all, except where it specifically says so in the books of the law. If there is a law of trespass, whether a Government Minister, Government officer, goes to the farm, the farm has the right to take up proceedings against that trespasser. Therefore, these are some of the things that are today existing in some of the books, and these are some of the things that the Government is aware of and prepared to look into.

Hon. Members: When?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing (Mr. Ngei): What I am trying to say, if the hon. Members care, is that I personally do not see what has been said in the Motion, and I think the Government is also seeing this state of affairs and the Government is prepared to see about it.

Now, I want to ask the hon. Members one thing. We want the agricultural workers to cooperate with the Government, and I believe by doing so then the Back-benchers will see what the Government can do to help these workers.

We have seen today a statement which has been issued by the Minister for Agriculture after a politician by a mission had committed himself as a politician by saying that the settlers are indispensable. Now, this is one of the things that I myself cannot agree to. We have able African settlers. If we could get rid of the indispensable, the feeling that I am the only one and no other doctor can come and cure the people, then we shall be able to move forward well. I believe that there are some capable Africans who, today, are growing maize, and getting thirty bags per acre, while some of the Europeans are not getting that much. This is the point which I want to make. The indispensability of European farmers must not continue. We must encourage the African farmers to farm as well as any other good farmer, and I would like, if I do not have unnecessary interruptions by some of my friends who are sitting on the other side, to say this. The Chairman of the Cotton Lint and Seed Marketing Board, the hon. Member for Uasin Gishu the hon. Masinde Muliro, is a progressive farmer. There are some settlers in Trans Nzoia who sit on their farms and do not grow maize, perhaps to victimise the Government, so that there will be a maize shortage. Well, the Government is going to take

[The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing] the necessary steps to rectify this. The hon. Member should try and help us by asking the Africans in European places to be co-operative, and try to do the work properly.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I sit, I am in full sympathy with the situation which is prevalent, and which is known by everyone here, that some of the hot-head settlers are evicting the Africans and throwing them out. People were being evicted from Donyo Sabuk. This is one of the examples that made me believe that something must be done through legislation to stop these unnecessary evictions.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I am not speaking on behalf of the Government, because we have somebody speaking, or the Ministers speaking or endorsing, but I am saying that I am in sympathy with what has been said in the House about evictions, and if the hon. Members could agree, without emotion, then the Government will do something.

Mr. Makolaha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a well-known fact that Kenya politics have been revolving around the land, and will continue to do so in the future.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we remember the other day in this House, in the gallery, somebody asking in the gallery, "Where is Uhuru?" Mr. Speaker, this very man specifically pointed at the hon. Mr. Odaga and the hon. Mr. Koinange. I believe he did so because of the past utterances of these two gentlemen. They used to say that land in Kenya belonged to the black African.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this man must have wondered that Uhuru or freedom was when the Africans were still being evicted from their own land. The Africans were still squatters on their own land. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I refuse to believe that a European would be 100 per cent interested in this country, because any European in this country could always find another home if there was any trouble. What about the black African in this country? Where will he go?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Much has been said in this debate on a racial basis, but when hon. Members go so far as to say that no European is 100 per cent interested in this country, they are going too far beyond the bounds of their privilege.

Mr. Makolaha: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Now, to come to the hon. Member's reference to the Motion as being racial, I would like to amend the Motion to save the hon. Mr. Onoko the trouble, but I would like the first word, that is "European" in the first line, to remain, so that we know at the moment it is only the European settlers evicting the squatters. We must draw the attention of the European settlers now. Now, so far no African settler has evicted any labourer, but we must, at the same time, guard against evictions by any farmer.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would amend the Motion by leaving out the last word "European", that is "European" in the last line, so that the Motion remains as it is except for the word "European" in the last line, so that now that line reads: "Evictions by biased farmers." That is for the future only. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I say so because at the moment there is a sort of race in this country, a lot of Asians and Africans, the rich Africans, are buying land, and I know that in future they are going to have the same trouble. After all Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have been told that African socialism means that those who have must continue to have and those who do not have must continue not to have. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this legislation referred to by the hon. Member for Kandara should guard against evictions of African squatters or labourers by any settlers or whatever race.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I sit down I would like again to refer to the President's call, asking us to go back to the land. Mr. Speaker, how can we go back to the land if the conditions are made so unpleasant? Most of the people walking in the streets of Nairobi now are most of them I dare say are either children or people who have been evicted from the farms. So, Mr. Speaker, when the President says, go back to the land, sometimes it sounds as though it is just crocodile tears. Mr. Speaker, Sir, another call by the President, which is very good and I always use it at my political meetings at home is the call to our people to stop theft. Mr. Speaker, how will our people stop thieving and stealing when they have no food. How will they stop thieving when they are evicted from the farms and therefore robbed of the only means whereby they could get something to eat. Mr. Speaker, Sir, before our leaders utter such statements they should first of all correct and make conditions pleasant on the land, get rid of conditions that will encourage our people to go and steal. Mr. Speaker, Sir, to repeat what the hon. Member has already said we need this legislation now immediately. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we do not do something now, we will be encouraging, watering, manuring conditions for revolution in this country, and when such a revolution comes Mr. Speaker, Sir, I dare say it will be the President's Cabinet to blame 100 per cent.

327 Motion—

[Mr. Kagga]

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I think it is high time that the Government formulated a bold socialistic policy to make land available for the Africans, instead of waiting to borrow money for its purchase.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am only too happy to second this Motion as a Member representing one of the settled areas.

Sir, when one looks at the facts as they are today the only conclusion one comes to is that the African has no importance today, the African in the settled areas has not a Government at all to look after his welfare, because, in these settled areas it is the only place where you find Africans more backward than they were in the former African land units. Sir, the Africans in the former African land units are today the ones who are running the Government of Kenya. There is hardly any Member in this House today, Sir, who is a child born and bred on a European farm. I myself was born on a European farm. I had to leave there to get an education and then go back and represent these areas. I was born there. My father was evicted and went back to the reserves, then I had to complete my education and go back there to represent the area.

Sir, it is alleged that the Europeans' capital developed Kenya, but the facts are, Europeans spent little money and had cheap labour from the Africans and those Africans created the wealth of the country today, through their sweat, but you find that hundreds and thousands are evicted everyday. They come to me as their representative and I have told them I am only the representative, I am not the Government of Kenya today. The Government has to amend the laws to insure your perpetual stay on the farms upon which you are now staying. This, Sir, is serious.

A good Government is measured by the contentment of its citizens and the residents of Kenya today in these settled areas are not content at all and the Ministers which sit in the Cabinet know that these people are not happy and that we have a revolution on our hands.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the so-called Tripartite Agreement which was signed by the Minister for Labour and the Farmers' Union is a dead letter. More people have been sacked and evicted as a result of that damn Tripartite Agreement than before and the Minister and the Government have not taken any steps to see that the Tripartite Agreement is being effected.

Sir, the social insecurity in our country today, which has been brought about, particularly in the settled areas, such as Narvasha, Nakuru, Eldoret, Laikipia, and Trans Nzoi, is definitely high. Farmers are disrupted. Why? Because everybody has to be a farm owner now.

When I bought a farm, I had ten people on my farm who were legitimate, or illegal squatters. As their representative I told them "you are now legitimate workers on this farm, do not go away".

Mr. Speaker, many of the European farmers say that "we cannot produce any maize, because the African steal maize". But why is it that these Africans who were working on this land were not stealing the maize before? If they steal, it means they are under-fed. If they steal it means that they are not given even an acre of land to till. If workers are given their normal acreage on some of the fallow farms, and there are plenty of them, these are the farms which are taken by the Ministry of Agriculture, which are the mismanaged farms that are lying about, with no production on them, not creating money while these people are being evicted, there would not be any stealing. This, Sir, is a very serious issue and this House has to thank the hon. Member for Kandara Mr. Kagga who brought this Motion in this House. We want a positive direction by the Government in most certain terms, that there will be no further evictions on farms by anybody, be he black, white, yellow or pink. If someone does not want to continue employing these African farmers, then let that farm be taken over and leave those people working.

If land in Kenya was bought at three cents an acre, and today Sir, many farms still unbroken are fetching Sh. 400, Sh. 600 and Sh. 700 per acre. I have been a victim myself of these mismanaged farms. I organized a group of Africans to buy a mismanaged farm and I lost fifty cows because this man was not carefully looking after that farm, it was infected with East Coast Fever. It was clear that before I would never have lost fifty milk cows. Now, you tell me that this is fit, that Africans are incapable of doing their work? Unless following an incident farm labourers are usually content.

The economy must be based on the majority of the people, people who were born here. The economy of our country cannot be based on Asians or Europeans because when there is a bit of friction in the country, they run away, but the African has nowhere to run because it is his country and he must try to make the best of it.

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to second the Motion.

(Question proposed)

328 Motion—

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Oneko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I shall try to be very, very brief indeed and will make an effort to improve the Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is common knowledge that I do come from the so-called farming area and I have experience with this problem of evicted agricultural workers in Rift Valley. Mr. Speaker, I am equally concerned about—

Mr. Kamau: On a point of order, Sir, I would seek your guidance to know when we have a Motion of this nature, when the Minister starts to speak before all the hon. Members speak, whether he is speaking as a constituency Member or whether he is speaking on behalf of the Government, because, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we feel that on a Motion of this nature, the Government should be the last to speak after the hon. Members of the constituency have spoken. I therefore seek to have justice as to whether the hon. Member is now speaking as a Member of Nakuru, or if he is speaking as a Minister for Information and Broadcasting.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): When a Minister speaks in this House, it is always assumed that he is speaking as a Minister. He may also speak as a constituency Member, but he is a Minister, and he is speaking as such, and I do take it that on this occasion Mr. Oneko is making the official speech of the Government.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Oneko): Mr. Speaker, Sir,

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right, but you will still speak for Government. As regards the timing of Government speeches, whether they are political speeches or otherwise, that is entirely Government's affairs, and there is no rule of debate on a Private Member's Motion that Government should and speak at any particular time, though, usually, the House wants to hear the views of Government at a fairly early stage.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Oneko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I mentioned before, I was going to be very brief, and say that I am very much concerned, personally, about the evictions in my constituency, and also in Kenya as a whole. I also mentioned before that I was going to try and improve on the Motion depending on what the Members had about this, and also what the Government feels about it. I know there are a few Government speakers who are going to speak on this, Mr. Speaker, but what I wanted to say was this. We have been very concerned in Nakuru District, and as a result, we had to start a committee which is dealing with the unemployment, which I think is known as Unemployment Co-ordinating Committee, and which, of course, invited various people, the farmers, the administration, the Minister for Security and Defence, two junior leaders, and political leaders in the area, so that the matter could be faced by us altogether working to see that the problem can be solved, because this is a national issue.

Mr. Speaker, I feel, at the same time, that this problem, before the elections was used as a political issue, because there was a time when the farmers were evicting their labourers because they had increased the number of the party that they belonged to. I feel that we have reached a stage now, Mr. Speaker, that the Government somehow, Members of Parliament, and the administration looked into the whole thing, and before any evictions are conducted, consultations with various Ministers, such as the Ministry of Labour and Social Services, the Ministry of Internal Security and Defence, could be consulted, and alternative settlement are found for the workers. What I wanted to improve on the Motion, was that the Motion seems to be very racial because I understand that many Africans have now started buying farms, and this is going to the view of the European settlers. What about the African settlers who have farms in the areas?

I feel very strongly, Mr. Speaker, that the Motion should not be—I am not amending the Motion, but I am trying to draw the attention of the Mover and the House to this—too racial, because it should cover every body, whether they are interested in other people or not, because if we say only Europeans, then it means that if an Asian owns land in Kenya, he will not be able to be affected by any law safeguarding or protecting the workers. The same thing would apply to an Arab who owns land in Kenya. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like this point to be considered by the Mover, and we must realize Mr. Speaker, that this is a very difficult problem, and we would like the hon. Members to share and work with the Government in a very smooth way—

Mr. Anylen: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the Minister for Defence, when we are all trying to listen, to be reading his East African Standard when the Minister is speaking to him?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is entirely out of order, Dr. Mungai, to bring a newspaper into the House, unless you require it for the purpose of the proceedings of the day.

have been trying to ask the Government to look into, so that these evils can be stopped. Evictions sometimes take place when land is sold to another farmer, as we know that the Government agrees to this so-called willing seller, willing buyer. If someone wants to make more money on a farm and has been collecting money for many years, he goes and buys a farm but he has no interest in the farm and the new farmer says, "I do not want any of the employees who are here, I want to bring my own, or I want only a one-third of the employees and all the rest are discharged." As soon as they are discharged, then tomorrow they can be picked up by the police as illegal squatters and evicted.

Another factor comes in. We have seen especially when we had Kadu and Kamu in this country and you found some settlers who did not want employees in their control who were politically conscious or who supported Kamu and they tended to give various other reasons for discharging them. They might say, "I am reducing my staff, I am not going to continue farming," and things like that and they discharged these people. As soon as they are discharged they can be arrested tomorrow as illegal squatters. Since independence, many settlers in this country have no confidence in this country, but they do not want to say so because they are told that they can get the best price in the world for their land, so we find many settlers who are not developing their land. They are not interested in the agricultural welfare of this country. But just because they are waiting for a big lump sum of money, they sit on the land without doing anything. They say now, "I do not know what will happen tomorrow, I am not secure, my family is not secure, there is no education for my children so I will just sit and wait and not farm. So I do not require any employees." All the employees are discharged and a few days after that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, those Africans can be removed by force by the police as illegal squatters.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to discuss this term of illegal squatter, which I am afraid to say appears in many of our legal notices, legislation and speeches of our Ministers. It is a great shame, Mr. Speaker, to realize who are these illegal squatters. In the first place, you will find that some of these, are people who were born on the farms. The people who have lived there for many, many years and just because the settlers go, and they do not need them, they are declared illegal squatters, liable to eviction.

You will find, Mr. Speaker, that many of these are people who have been working for many years on those farms. They have done good service, and only for some reasons which are not their own; just because the settler is cutting down his staff, then, overnight, the African in his own country is made homeless and a beggar. You will find, as I have said, some people have lived on the farm for many years and, just because the farm has changed hands, tomorrow he is a beggar, he is nowhere. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I think that this is a term which should be removed from our legislation. These are the sons of the soil, they are the owners of this land, if I may quote the words of the Minister for External Affairs; they are the owners of this land, so how can they be evicted, how can they be turned on the road with their belongings, their children, their cattle, their goods and everything? It is impossible to believe this.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, since this question of buying land started to operate in full swing, and when it became known to our people that as soon as the farm had changed hands they would be liable for eviction any day, many people, who had no alternative, thought that they should do all they could to buy the land on which they had been living so that they need not be evicted. Because there were only two things open to them; either to be evicted on the following day, or buy the land and remain there on their own land. Now, you find in many cases that the price of the land is so high that even if the squatters on the farms are more than a thousand they cannot raise the required amount to buy the land. So these people to protect themselves from eviction, do everything they can, they sell everything they can including their bedding and utensils, to raise the required amount to buy the land. After selling everything they have, Mr. Speaker, they go to the Minister for Agriculture or to the Land Bank, telling them: "We have sold all we have, we have this amount and we want a loan." Sometimes they are told: "You cannot get this loan because you have not raised 50 per cent or the given percentage," or they are told that they cannot get a loan because their co-operative has so many members, more than forty-one.

Now, Mr. Speaker, this kind of thing puts our people in the most difficult position. They have sold everything they held sacred for all these years they have been negotiating for loans with the Minister for Agriculture, seeing the Land Bank, they have spent almost a quarter of what has been collected. So, in the end they are unable to get the land, they are not even able to return the collections to the people who contributed because half of it has been spent on these unfruitful negotiations.

Mr. Speaker, as I said, these evictions have brought many evils to our country. They have increased unemployment. We find in our own reserves at Fort Hall and many other districts, thousands of people who have been evicted from the European farms. You will find thousands of them in the town here who have been evicted. This has increased homelessness in the country. These people go round without food and without work and, more than this, Mr. Speaker, these evictions have ruined the lives of many of our young people, as well as the lives of many old women and men. You will find, Mr. Speaker, if I may give an example, in June last year, about 600 families were evicted in Naivasha District within one month and these 600 families had over two hundred schoolchildren who were schooling on these farms. These people were evicted and, for the information of this House, Sir, as I was with the Ministry of Education then, these people were so worried about the education of their children that they did not know what to do so, they collected money quickly to buy this land so that their children need not be removed from the schools which they were attending. While they were doing this—they thought there was a very, very short time, they engaged a lawyer to do it for them—but in spite of all this, when the Eviction Order came, no consideration was given to the fact that these people were preparing to buy this land, and no consideration was given to the future of these children. These people were evicted with their collections, with their children and these children were left on the road rotting and dying. So, Mr. Speaker, this kind of thing also encourages crime in this country because, when people are removed from their homes, they have no means of income, nowhere to go, then, Mr. Speaker, no other way except to turn to crime.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it is surprising that every now and then, since we became independent, we have been hearing so many assurances in the form of speeches by our Ministers wherever they have gone, assurances in the form of legislations, so many assurances in the form of guarantees of big prices for land which they never bought.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it is surprising that not on a single day, either in this House or outside the House, has the Government given any kind of assurance to the sons of the soil who are living in this way. We have been surprised to see that whenever a Minister goes on a farm he says, "We assure you, settler, you have nothing to fear, you are here for ever, we depend on you, without you we cannot live", and not a single Minister, Mr. Speaker, has said that without the labour on these farms we could not live. We have only a few hundred settlers in this country, they could not farm if they could not get these labourers—not a single Minister or Government representative has said this, Mr. Speaker.

Therefore, to finish, Mr. Speaker, it is important that the legislation to correct this state of affairs must be brought. Legislation to protect the workers, the agricultural workers, if we are to avoid a continuation of this evil in this country in the shortest time. This new legislation, Mr. Speaker, must erase the words "illegal squatter". It must make it positively the right of the people to live on the land until another alternative has been found by the Government, and if there is no alternative, Government must make it a right of the squatter to remain on that land, which is his only home, until another place has been found. This legislation must also make it unlawful for any settler, whether European or African, to evict any person from his home until Government has found him something else. Again, Mr. Speaker, this legislation must make it impossible for the settler to evict an African without consulting the authorities concerned, because the practice has been that the Government has left the settler to decide what is legal and what is illegal. If our Government just relies on the decision of settlers who were enemies of this country, who have been fighting our people for centuries, it will be a great shame. Therefore, before a settler can decide to evict anyone he must consult the authorities of the Government; and they must be satisfied that this is a genuine case, that this is really the case. But until that time no settler should be allowed to do this.

Mr. Speaker, the other day the Minister for Internal Security and Defence was asking this House whether this was a Legal Notice or not. This is no argument. A settler is a king on his farm.

After issuing such a notice, tomorrow, if he decides that the employee can go to the police and say that this man is an illegal squatter on his farm, he is then evicted. The police will do it. There is no question of whether this was a Government eviction order or legal notice or whether it was a settler, the settlers are kings on their own farms and we know that it is high time that the Government had a new land policy. It is a shame to say this, but the Government has been most reluctant to change the land policy; the land policy we are following today turning the land to land settlement came from the colonialist themselves. It must be changed.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There are no areas within the settlement schemes in the Western Province which are earmarked for settlers from any special locations. There is no truth therefore, and I can find no trace whatsoever that it was the original intention that the Lugari Settlement Scheme should be devoted to settlers from the Maragoli, Tiriki, and Bunyore Locations. Right from the beginning of settlement, this scheme has attracted settlers from all over the Western Province and not these particular Locations alone. If the hon. Member for Hamisi feels there is justification in giving priority to applicants for plots from Maragoli, Tiriki, and Bunyore Locations, he should present his case before the Chairman of the Western Provincial Advisory Council, who, under the terms of the Constitution, is responsible for the selection of settlers to settlement schemes in his province.

Mr. Godla: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell the House on what information he bases his reply?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, before we answer questions in this House, investigations are carried out. We then like to inform the House what we have discovered, what information we have available as a result of what are sometimes exhaustive investigations.

Question No. 856

DISTRICT ASSISTANTS FROM HAMISI

Mr. Godla asked the President if he would tell the House why officers from Hamisi who applied for posts of District Assistants in the field did not succeed in getting appointed.

The Assistant Minister to the President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. When vacancies in the District Assistant or any other cadre occur, the Public Service Commission is so informed and requested to fill these vacancies. The Public Service Commission advertises the vacancies in the Kenya Gazette, as well as in the leading daily National Newspapers and it is its exclusive responsibility to select suitable candidates. Being completely impartial and independent, the Public Service Commission selects suitable candidates purely on the basis of qualification and ability and in no way exercises any discrimination against any candidates because of their area of origin.

Mr. Godla: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell the House the number of applicants from Tiriki who were not successful in applying for these posts?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the vacancies for the post of District Assistants were recently advertised and the Public Service Commission has been processing and considering the applications. For the time being, the details of the applications received by the Public Service Commission have not reached our office.

Mr. Tanaui: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister assure this House that this question is not going to be different from the conditions so that they are only going to select candidates from the Hamisi constituency?

Mr. Nyamweya: That is the reason why I said that we should leave the selection to the Public Service Commission.

Question No. 857

RAILWAY FROM KISUMU TO BUNGOMA

Mr. Godla asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power what plans the East African Common Services Organization had for constructing a railway from Kisumu to Bungoma via Kakamega.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The East African Common Services Organization has no plans at present for new railway construction and, therefore, the building of a railway from Kisumu to Bungoma via Kakamega is not contemplated.

Mr. Godla: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister not aware that the Western Province lags behind in progress due to the lack of a railway line between Kisumu and Bungoma?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the rate of progress in the Western Region has not been delayed by the lack of a railway line.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Minister's reply, is the Minister now denying that the Railways Administration at some stage was contemplating building a railway line from Butere via Mumia to join Bungoma and now that no railway is being built in the country, is this a rejection of the former pledges?

Mr. Mwanjumba: No, Mr. Speaker. The Railways Administration has carried out surveys in this area from time to time but all that time it has not been found economic to build a railway line even from Butere to Bungoma.

CONSIDERED RULING

LIMITATION OF DEBATE ON PRIVATE MEMBERS' AND FREE LANCE MOTIONS

Mr. Kibaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am wondering whether now that we have no Opposition, and the Opposition mainly brought forward these Private Members' Motions, would it not be in order now to extend the time given to Private Members' Motions?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think that Mr. Kibaga is suggesting that now that we have no parties and, consequently, no group Motions, we should allow two hours for each free-lance Motion instead of an hour and a half. This is a suggestion, of course. It is open to any hon. Member to move that in the House. The present ruling of one and a half hours for free-lance Motions, which these are now, was a Resolution of this House, and, on the recommendation of the Sessional Committee or otherwise, the House can resolve to give a different time in future for this kind of Motion. The time each Motion can take today, however, is one hour and a half.

MOTION

EVICTIONS OF AGRICULTURAL WORKERS FROM EUROPEAN FARMS

Mr. Kagzia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move—

THAT in view of the fact that European settlers continue to evict from European farms African agricultural workers and squatters who are the real sons of the soil, and in view of the fact that these evictions are adding to the already serious problem of unemployment in the country, this House urges the Government to initiate legislation to protect African agricultural workers and squatters from arbitrary evictions by biased European farmers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of eviction has been a great social evil which has been troubling this country for a long time. I may say from the time of the Emergency. Many of us believed that soon after independence, this social evil would be removed completely from the face of our country, but it is surprising, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to note that eviction has become more frequent since independence than before independence. As we all know, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is the sort of thing that is really increasing our difficulties in this country. These evictions do not only increase unemployment in this country but do bring a lot of social complications into the lives of our people. Before I go on, Mr. Speaker, it is very essential for this House and the country as a whole and the world to know the policy on which Kanu and other previous parties in this country had struggled for so many years and on which they have fought and won election. Our policy, Mr. Speaker, Sir, has been that the land in Kenya belonged to the African people, and this land was stolen from us by European settlers. They never bought it from us. This is the policy not the slogan as many people tend to make us believe. We have used this for all these years as a policy and in fact it has been the backbone of our political struggle.

Before many people in this country knew what independence meant, they knew that we had a grievance against the British Government because of the robbery of our land which they did in our country. Mr. Speaker, Sir, up to this day the Kanu as a party have not changed this policy. It is true that the land belongs to us. The Government even has not changed its policy. Only the other day the Minister for Internal Security and Defence told this House that the land belongs to the African in this country, but, Mr. Speaker, it is a shame for the Government or for any Government Minister to stand here and tell us that the land belongs to the African people when thousands and millions of Africans continue to be evicted by a foreign settler in this country, who does not own a single acre in this country by right.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, you go to the Rift Valley or any other settled area you will find that the sons of the soil are roaming about in the streets without homes and without food. You will find thousands of children without schools who have been evicted from their homes where they have been born and where they have lived for years. Now then, Mr. Speaker, I cannot believe that the Government is right when they say that the land belongs to us. The African in this country has been made a beggar in his own country. We are not going to tolerate this. Therefore, although this question has been discussed in this House many times in various ways in the form of questions and in the form of Motions on the Adjournment, I am surprised and I am very disappointed to see that the Government has done nothing so far to remove this problem. It appears to us, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that the Ministers just come here and listen to us, speaking and they just ignore what we talk about. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a very serious question and one on which the Members and the country as a whole have been feeling very strongly, Mr. Speaker. But however, in spite of this we have seen no change.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are many factors which bring eviction and these are the things that we [Mr. Mbogoh] what was delaying the taracadamizing of Sagana-Embu Road.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The bituminization of the Sagana-Embu Road is to be financed by a loan from the International Development Association or the World Bank, which was negotiated late last year. All arrangements are in hand, and we hope that when our plans are accepted by the World Bank, that orders to start work could be given some time in the middle of this year.

Question No. 879

COMPENSATION FOR MBINDO NGUI

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Natural Resources whether, in view of the fact that Mbindo Ngui was killed by a lion on 6th January 1965 at Daragani New Settlement, the Minister would request the Machakos County Council to pay compensation to the deceased man's wife.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply on behalf of my colleague.

May I start by recording my sincere regrets to this very unfortunate incident. This resulted from one of the following circumstances. The first is that the lion that killed Mbindo Ngui was an injured one, and had a porcupine quill in his head. It is thought that Ngui must have put this there during the struggle. Another fact is that a bow and five arrows were found at the place where Mr. Ngui was attacked, and it is thought that he was out hunting illegally at the time. The lion was shot and killed by a game warden within half an hour of its having attacked Mr. Ngui.

Regarding the question of compensation, Mr. Speaker, hon. Members are aware that Government does not accept liability to pay any compensation for damage caused by game animals. The Government does, however, encourage the county councils to set up a fund, independent of the others, whereby compensation could be paid to relatives of persons killed by wild animals. Our requests to the county councils have been unsuccessful. The council received a substantial amount of money from controlled area fees which are paid by hunting parties in an area. Last year the council received nearly Sh. 40,000, but has not yet assigned this money for paying compensation. It is not within my portfolio, Mr. Speaker, to give county councils orders on what they must do with their finance. I cannot, therefore, tell the Machakos County Council to set up a compensation fund to pay compensation to the relatives of those killed by game animals. My Ministry has already strongly advised them to do so.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell the House whether the area where this unfortunate incident took place was within the Game Reserve Area or just outside the area?

Mr. McKenzie: I gather it is neither inside or outside, but is just about on the border.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Government is responsible for all the money collected from the tourists, and since the Government is in charge of looking after this game, could the Government therefore accept responsibility for compensation, because these animals are there for the benefit of the Government?

Mr. McKenzie: The hon. Member is not correct. All the money does not come to the Government. Half the money goes to the county council, and this is why Government strongly advised the county councils to set up a fund, and I gather that some county councils are setting up a fund, but this county council, although it received its half share of the finances, has not set up a fund.

Question No. 863

LOANS FOR POULTRY-KEEPERS

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing if, in view of the newly formed poultry company by the people of Southern Division at Enali in Machakos, the Minister would grant a loan of Sh. 30,000 to promote poultry business in Machakos.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing (Mr. Ngeli): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think a letter has been written to you saying that this does not concern my Ministry, and the Clerk should have given it to you.

Mr. Nigala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, is it not procedure that when the Minister discovers that the question is not within his portfolio, he has to send that question across to the other Minister concerned? Does the answer have to come to the National Assembly saying that the question does not concern the Ministry?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is the usual procedure, but this being a new Ministry, possibly they are not aware of it. When a Minister receives a question which he thinks belongs to another Ministry, we do expect him to pass it on immediately; or, if he does not know the right Ministry,

317 Oral Answers

[The Speaker] to pass it back very quickly to us, and not wait until the question is due to go down on the Order Paper. In view of the position he has told us now, we will keep this question until we get it to the right Ministry.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): On a point of order, would it be in order if I replied to the question on behalf of the Minister for Co-operatives?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think Mr. Ndiria would be very grateful if you could.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. My Ministry would consider, through the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation, an application from this new poultry company in the same manner that any other application is considered. I should, however, make it clear that the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation is restricted mainly to purely industrial and commercial projects. This new poultry company does not appear to fall within this category and I would, therefore, suggest that it approaches the Ministry of Agriculture which could more appropriately handle such a project. I would like to go further and say that normally he should not bring a question of this nature here, because it does not help very much, but I think what the questioner ought to have done is to approach the Minister for Agriculture in the first instance, then, if he was dissatisfied, he could bring the question here.

Question No. 895

MINIMUM WAGES LEGISLATION

Mr. Lorena asked the Minister for Labour and Social Services if he would tell the House the reason why the Government cannot introduce legislation compelling all employers to pay their employees uniform minimum wages.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Is the Minister for Labour and Social Services here? Mr. Mwendwa, I am afraid we are jumping about a bit.

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Yes, Mr. Speaker, but you are jumping about!

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, is the hon. Member in order to say that you are jumping about?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the hon. Minister was following up my statement that we were jumping about; though I was not referring to what I was actually doing myself.

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The hon. Member may not be aware that the basic minimum wage for various trades and industries in Kenya is covered by existing legislation. Urban minimum wage regulations (inclusive of housing allowance) of general application of all labour in the thirteen main towns of Kenya is effected through the Regulation of Wages (General) Order. Statutory Regulations of Wages and Conditions of Employment through Wages Councils, and Wages Regulation Orders made on their advice, govern the basic minimum terms of service in ten trades or industries.

As the hon. Member may know, a committee known as the National Wages Policy Advisory Committee has been set up by Government to review Kenya's wage and salary structure among other terms of reference. The report of this committee is expected to be made available to this House and the Government in the near future, and it is then that the hon. Members will know what is happening.

Mr. ole Tipes: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Minister talked about minimum wages in the urban areas. What about the rural areas where most African farm labourers are employed? Who is covering them?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, I do appreciate the point raised by the hon. Member but this will also be covered in the report of this Committee.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we must move on to the next question. Before we do so, I would like to explain to hon. Members that Mr. Ngeli has told me exactly what happened over Question No. 863. He has told me that his Ministry, in accordance with the proper procedure, did go on to the Minister for Commerce a week ago, and informed the Clerk (that he had done so, and that it had been so passed on, it is no fault of his. It is perhaps our fault in not having noted on the order paper that it was a question for the Ministry of Commerce rather than his Ministry.

Question No. 854

LUGARI SETTLEMENT SCHEME

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he was aware that the Lugari Settlement in Western Region was originally intended to relieve the Maragoli, Triki and Bunyore Locations of the large number of people per acre who lived there, from 1,500 to about 500.

PRAYERS

PAPER LAID

The following Paper was laid on the Table:—
Sessional Paper No. 9 of 1965: Amendment to Senate Standing Orders.

(By the Assistant Minister to the President's Office (Mr. Nyamwaya) on behalf of the President (Mr. Kenyatta))

NOTICE OF MOTION

BOARD OF INQUIRY INTO PORTS' OPERATION

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the insecurity, widespread fear and despondency caused by the announcement of the railway take-over of the ports on 1st March amongst the dockers and workers in general, this House urges the Government to set up an independent board of inquiry to investigate the most effective and efficient way of operating the ports.

WITHDRAWAL OF NOTICE OF MOTION

SITUATION IN SAMBURU DISTRICT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yesterday, I told hon. Members that Mr. Rurumban would raise on adjournment next Wednesday the matter of the killing of the people in the Samburu District by Shifia. He had already given Notice of Motion on the same subject, but I understand he now wants to withdraw that Notice of Motion so as to make it possible to raise this matter on adjournment instead.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 872

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR WEST POKOT STUDENTS

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Education if he could tell the House how many scholarships he was considering giving to Pokot students this year.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not the Government's policy either to select candidates on a tribal basis or to differentiate between candidates on such a basis. When the selection board select suitable candidates, the criterion used is individual merit, and it is incidental that this candidate come from one region or tribe, and that candidate from another tribe. It would not, therefore, be possible to allocate a given number of scholarships to any selection of a community.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is the Minister aware that the Government has stated many times that it is the intention to help those districts which are still backward, of which West Pokot is one? Is the Minister now contradicting himself?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are not contradicting ourselves.

Mr. Mhogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that West Pokot was neglected by the Imperialist Government, does the Minister want to tell us that the present Government is adopting the same attitude towards the Pokot people's education?

Mr. Koinange: No, Sir.

Mr. Muliro: Is the Minister not aware that it is only in which way we can integrate Kenya as one nation and one society is that the neglected areas must be given priority in the modern development and planning?

Mr. Koinange: It is quite true that we must give priority to neglected areas. That is quite true. But the selection must not be on a tribal basis, tribal settlement and so forth.

Question No. 873

LAND REGISTRATION FOR WEST POKOT

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he was satisfied that land registration in West Pokot was proceeding at a satisfactory pace.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am not satisfied that land registration in West Pokot is going at a satisfactory pace. The fault does not lie with my Ministry at all but lies entirely with the residents of the district. An officer was sent to West Pokot District in April last year to prepare the way for land registration, where there had been some considerable demand for the operation. The officer commenced the actual work in July 1964, and there was good progress at first. Unfortunately, later the West Pokot people created an obstacle to the work by demanding that non-Pokot residents be removed

(The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement) from the district and sent elsewhere. This problem has caused the virtual suspension of any further land registration work in the district and no further staff can be moved into the district until this matter is finalized. Up to the time, of this suspension, approximately 12,000 acres had been demarcated and skeletonally planned. I trust that the hon. Member for West Pokot will endeavour to focus the matter with the people of his constituency in an attempt to reach an amicable settlement over the whole affair.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that that state of affairs was reached at the time of the Government ultimatum that if West Pokot did not agree to those people staying there then they would withdraw all forms of aid and money that would be granted to the West Pokot people?

Mr. Gachago: That is not the case.

Mr. Mallros: Would the Minister not agree that the West Pokot require every assistance to preserve their land for the West Pokot? Therefore, the non-West Pokots should not live in that district if the West Pokots do not want them?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is the intention of the Government to reserve land for the people basically entitled to that land, but the situation in this case is that the indigenous residents of West Pokot are basically nomadic and for many years the development in this district has been carried out by non-Pokot residents, largely Abaluhya and Kikuyu. When land consolidation was introduced in the district, non-residents had claims on land which the West Pokot people would not accept. The matter was referred to the Office of the Attorney-General, who said that non-residents were entitled to claim for land in that district, just as much as the Pokot people. In view of their long stay in the district and because of the fact that they were contributing a real share in the payment of taxes in the district, it is hoped in future to complete the whole of the land location and progress from there to cover most of the areas when this matter is finalised.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is the Assistant Minister aware that only twenty-five people were given land in West Pokot lawfully, and the rest do not understand how they came?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel inclined to disagree with the hon. Member if, as it appears, land development has been carried out by non-Pokot in the whole district.

Question No. 897

NON-AFRICANS WITH KENYA CITIZENSHIP

Mr. Anyleni asked the Minister for Home Affairs how many non-Africans had taken out Kenya Citizenship so far and how many had not.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Records held by the Department of Immigration show that 3,911 non-Africans had registered as citizens of Kenya as at 26th January 1965.

With regard to the second part of the question, in June 1963 it was estimated that there were 180,000 Asians and 53,000 Europeans in Kenya. A considerable number of these non-Africans have left Kenya for good since June 1963; but it is not possible to say how many non-Africans have not taken up Kenya citizenship since it would be necessary to investigate each individual case to know whether or not a person had the required qualifications to apply for Kenya Citizenship.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he then agree with me that of the 230,000 non-Africans in Kenya, only about 3,000 have applied and if this is the case how many of the remaining 230,000 do qualify as Kenya citizens because of birth; so that we can be able to make out how many remain and require to apply for citizenship.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Assistant Minister has already answered that.

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he tell the House how many of these 3,911 are Asians and how many of them are Europeans?

Mr. Nyagah: I am afraid, Mr. Speaker, that I do not have a breakdown, but if the hon. Members are very interested it is possible to supply this in writing.

Mr. Gichoya: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could the Minister tell the House whether, those who have been made Kenya citizens are still entitled to their rights as voters in Kenya?

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. questioner knows as well as I do the requirements of the Constitution before 12th December 1965.

Question No. 910

SAGANA-EMBU ROAD: TAMRAC

Mr. Mhogoh asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power, having regard to the Minister's reply to his previous question, [Mr. Anyienj] the next day you are in Kakamega, Mombasa, how could an hon. Member honestly expect this man to educate his children? We must agree that if you employ an officer and you transfer him that officer must educate his children, because if we agree, for example, that a chance must be given to the children of officers who are transferred now and then; we must agree that Government must set up institutions where these officers can also afford to take their children and leave them there so that when they are transferred there would be no complaints and refusals of transfers due to their children's schooling. We want these officers to work without having to worry about their children.

I would like to say here that in my opinion the Government should maintain these former European primary schools, no matter if the school fees are low because it is not only the rich people who are transferred, even the poor people are transferred. In this particular respect we would like, Mr. Chairman, Government to work out a method where a person should pay what he can afford and the Government would then help him because, if—for example—you put school fees at Sh. 600 per term the poor man who is being transferred is not taken into account. If Government could now take these schools and work out that sort of system it would cater for those who are serving the country and do not have the chance to stay in one place, but who are moved in the interests of the nation.

For that reason I fully support the Government in maintaining these schools and I hope that hon. Members will see that we support those officers in the field.

With those few words I wish to oppose.

Mr. Mvamandl: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I stand to support the Motion that there should be a reduction of £200,000 in this Vote.

There is one thing, Mr. Chairman, we should not be of the opinion that this is a European school so must be supported by the Government. In the old days, when we saw any big fruit, we said "this is a European fruit". It is time now to improve these things and now I say that it is time that these European schools are supported and run by these county councils. We should not have that colonial mentality, in which case, Mr. Chairman, we should try our best to support our county councils so that they support the schools. By so supporting the county councils we will get the standard of education and the situation at which our primary schools should be. Mr. Chairman, when we say that there should be £372,600 it sounds a lot of money, it is Sh. 7,452,000. This will, of course, make the Government poorer. This is the time for self-help so that these people who have their children in these European primary schools, can get the assistance needed, and not rely on help from the Central Government. We, too, need help for our primary schools, we, too, need the standards at which these schools are kept and now that we have an African Government it should see that all schools are of the same standard; if we want our schools to appear like European primary schools, let us do this. If we want to apply these self-help schemes, let us tell everyone to do this. We should not tell the Africans this as, when they go to the European schools, we should give them every assistance.

With these few remarks, Mr. Chairman, I support the move to make a reduction.

Mr. Lorema: My statement, Mr. Chairman, regards the first part of the question. That is, the secondment of teachers. I agree entirely with Eldoret, Nyeri and Kitale schools. On the secondment of teachers, I would like the Minister, in particular, to tell the House who these teachers are who are going to be seconded by the Government and who are going to be paid directly by the Government. What qualifications do they hold? If I may continue, Mr. Chairman, I would also like to say that the Minister has stated formally that some of these teachers have been seconded to these primary schools which were formerly run by the missionaries. May I know whether some of these teachers are going to be paid directly by the Government and some of them paid by the county councils? I do not know whether this was explained or not, I would like the Minister to answer this. Would the Minister for Education also tell us why teachers from other sections are going to be paid directly by the Central Government in this way? Is the Ministry aware of this thing which is threatening the country, that is such-and-such a district, under such-and-such a county council, there are so many teachers going to leave owing to lack of funds?

Mr. ole Tipt: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think the position ought to be made very clear. Are we here for the sake of argument, to be obstinate and unreasonable? The position, as I see it—

It is no good my friend interjecting, because I am on the Floor—

An hon. Member: Address the Chair.

Mr. ole Tipt: Now, the thing is this; these schools—for the information of hon. Members who seem to be rather ignorant of the facts—were the former European schools in Kitale.

[Mr. ole Tipt] Eldoret and Nyeri, and I say this from knowledge because I entered into some of the negotiations when the regions were functioning. These schools were to be closed down and do not forget that the erection of some of these schools—mainly the three I mentioned—was carried out by private subscriptions by a different community. It was the intention of the Government to maintain these three schools as educational institutions to be used by Africans, rather than sell them to the Indians or anybody else, to be used as bars or places like that. Now I do not honestly understand what all the argument is about. We, the Government, have said that as soon as these institutions are taken over by the Government they will be handed over to the county councils.

I challenge one Member over there, if he has the courage to tell us that the Usain Gishu or the Kitale County Council, can foot this bill in order to take over the permanent improvements and the running of these schools; just like that. It is no good arguing for the sake of arguing—be patient, I have not yet finished—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Are you likely to be much longer, Mr. Tipt?

Mr. ole Tipt: Yes, Sir.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Then, I am afraid that you will have to wait until the next day.

It is now time for the interruption of business and I will call upon the Speaker to report the progress and beg leave to sit again.

(The House resumed)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PROGRESS REPORTED

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE No. 3 of 1964/65—
RECURRENT

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed to report the progress by the Committee of Supply in their consideration of Vote 16—Ministry of Education of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65—Recurrent and beg leave to sit again on the next Sitting Day.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the interruption of business. The House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Friday, 26th February, at 9 a.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past six o'clock.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, I feel sometimes that either we are being ill-informed of what our Minister is doing, or if we are well-informed, we try to run away from the responsibilities. We know under the Constitution, Sir, that there were certain schools, secondary schools which were made national schools. There was no stage whatsoever that we were told that primary education and intermediate education could at any time come under the finance of the Regional Assemblies. I know that county councils deal with intermediate education, with primary education for a number of schools, but since these institutions which are in Kisale, Eldoret and Nyeri were the monopoly of the Europeans, the Ministry thinks that it is better we continue financing these institutions from the Central Government rather than leaving it to the funds of the county councils which know the weaknesses better and the good points of those institutions. I think Sir, it is wrong in principle for us to deny the county councils their responsibilities and also to impose upon us additional expenses which ought to come from local sources.

Now, if the continuance of these institutions is for the good of the country, and if as all they are private institutions, then of course the county councils in those areas should do it. They should take over the whole management under their control. However, I do not see the point why we should just think of particular places and feel they need special consideration. One way or the other it will be a method of trying to create disparity within the country because the districts where the Europeans were cannot enjoy the facilities of the Central Government. I am very reluctant to grant this amount to the Ministry of Education to facilitate the former Asian institutions which are very local. It is very difficult for some person to know that in Kisale there is a school where a child could come from, say, Embu or any other place for primary education when primary education everywhere are more or less on a similar standard. The standards of education are regulated by the Ministry of Education. The Ministry of Education cannot order that a particular institution should maintain a certain standard as far as primary education is concerned. If it were converted into special colleges, maybe colleges to train for commerce and industry on a small scale, that is understandable. However, for primary education I think we should be making a mistake to accept that these schools which are meant for districts should be taken over by the Central Government and the Central Government finances.

I feel it is morally wrong to enrich some districts and impoverish the others.

Mr. J. M. Kariuki: On a point of order, I think you ruled that in Committee of Supply we should only discuss a few points based on the subject matter but should not embark on lengthy discussions.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): In this particular case as I understand it the question of subsidizing, or whatever it is, I do not know the exact details, of new European schools is a completely new point. If it was a question that had already been decided on policy before, that we were merely asking for a little extra money then we can only discuss the extra money. However, if it is a question, as I understood the Minister to say, that we are taking over the European and Asian schools and, therefore, we need money for a new item of policy, then I think the item is of course involved in the extra money. That is a different point.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Chairman, I would like to explain the particular points here. The point is that these three schools are very valuable assets and the Government felt that they should be taken over. Negotiations are going on for their being taken over, and when these are through, the schools will be handed over to the county councils. It is not a question of a special case, it is that the Government wants to ensure that the institutions will remain as educational institutions. Otherwise they may be sold or used in any other way.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Chairman, I do not know about schools at Eldoret, but for the schools at Nyeri and Kisale, it is of great value to the Ministry to have people who move about a lot. These are primary boarding schools. For instance, we have agricultural officers say in the Turkana area, and areas where they move around a lot, and one of the points that we have been asked by agricultural officers, and I gather this is the same in the administration in the outland places, is that they would like to have institutions of education somewhere nearby whereby they can put their children as a primary boarding school. But, there is this point to bear in mind. The Minister for Finance is absolutely right. Our information, when we asked about this point, would ultimately come from the county council.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, I therefore, beg to move that Vote 16 Ministry of Education be reduced by £200,000 from £617,746 to £417,746.

My idea is to reject the whole thing, but the Government is trying to go back to the old colonial policy, because, Mr. Chairman, in other parts of the country today, the Education Ministry

(Mr. Oduya) is refusing to allow the primary schools to run as boarding schools. But, we are surprised that on our own Government, at this stage when we are independent, has not seen fit to hand over the running of these schools to the county council. The Government still takes taxpayers of Kenya's money to run these schools, which are mainly for Europeans, mainly for rich people, let us say, and forget that there are areas which require some assistance immediately. If at all, the Government wanted seriously to run these schools, within a year they could have handed over all the machinery to the county council concerned. If they had enough money, they could run these schools efficiently. All the people in Eldoret are rich people, settlers, who have money, so the county council could run these schools very efficiently, without any additions. The same thing applies in Nyeri where the county council could run the schools there.

Now, the county councils which require some assistance have been ignored, and the Government takes the taxes of the people to go and run schools which are only going to be used by the people who are rich, who are the only people who go to these schools.

The teachers are taking the normal procedure of other teachers in Kenya, and these are very important aspects to the country, but we know that in other primary schools that are run by the Kenya Government at the moment, they are asking for more money, so we are asking that this amount of money should not be approved.

This is my main reason for moving the reduction of such a large amount of money, because I know in Busia, there are no European schools there, and there are none in Kakamega. In the whole of Trans Nzoia there are very few, but these few are only for rich people. The same thing applies in Uasin Gishu, and therefore, we are not going to have the taxpayers in Kenya running these schools, which are not benefiting the nation, as such.

How do you expect a Coast chap to go to a private school in Nyeri unless he belongs to a rich family? Mr. Chairman, it is a simple thing and this House will not allow this amount of money for these schools which do not help either Masari Tsou, Turkana or Samal, the population who are in need of education in Kenya. These schools are specifically there to advance the education of rich children, the children of the rich people, the Ministers here and the top men in the Civil Service, but not the poorer citizens.

As hon. Member: What about you?

Mr. Oduya: I am told that I am not a big man. I am a worker. So, Mr. Chairman, I move that a reduction must be effected forthwith.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Chairman, I think, the hon. Members are entirely wrong when they suggest that these schools are costing the Government such an amount of money whereas it should have been given to the county councils. I think the Minister did not indicate the reasons why these schools had been taken by the Central Government. It was because they are very important assets, Mr. Speaker, and I think the Member who has moved this Motion is aware that there are very few county councils in the country today which could begin to run these schools at the same standard at which they have been running. Also it was pointed out to the House Mr. Chairman, that the main reasons at the moment—

There are provisional teachers going out as soon as these things are over and as soon as these schools have been taken over by the Central Government, then they will be handed over to the county councils. There is no reason to believe that they will continue to be run by the Central Government immediately they have been acquired. Whilst it has been proposed that this sum of money has been spent on these schools it is because we want to maintain the very same standard and the dignity of those schools until such a time that it becomes the property of the Central Government, and then it will be handed over to the respective county councils. So I think, Mr. Chairman it is really something which the hon. Members should think about, that the Government is for the people and therefore they must have no anxiety over this. There is no question of having racial discrimination in those schools. There are no racial schools, they belong to the Government which the Members very much support. So, they can rest assured that as soon as everything is completed in the form of administration, these schools will definitely go to the county councils.

Mr. Anylen: Mr. Speaker, I find it difficult to agree with my hon. friend with whom I normally agree, because I think we must recognize that while we represent the poor people, we will not kill all the rich people, and while we talk of the rich people we must also know that there are poor people who may not be very rich, but who must educate their children. One Minister here has explained that some of these schools have been maintained.

I would like the hon. Members to imagine that, for instance, today you are in Wajir, tomorrow you are in Kisii, the following day you are in

Mr. Soli: many trips to the fields and thus incurring the Government a lot of expenses?

Mr. Kolnange: Mr. Chairman, we have actually—in the Ministry of Education—acted in this way. If a Member or Minister comes to us and says that he wants to know something about Kakamega or even about Kapkuria or Mombasa, what we usually do is to inform our Members who are representative in that area, but we do not send a man from Nairobi to Kakamega or from Nairobi to Mombasa to answer for the purpose of incurring expenses. We actually contact our representative in that province who deals with the subject and reports to us.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We will go on to the next Head now.

(Head A2 agreed to)

A3—Equipment, Maintenance, Postal and Incidental Expenses

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to know the nature of the equipment the Minister is demanding to be financed here, taking into consideration that certain officers of the Ministry of Education in the districts are very badly equipped. Some do not even have offices. Does it mean that this additional amount is to maintain the non-existent services in the places where they do not exist or is it meant to facilitate the establishment of new facilities for the officers in the field in the districts?

Mr. Kolnange: Mr. Chairman, it is for the latter.

(Head A3 agreed to)

A4—Miscellaneous (Cost of Official Entertainment)

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, can the Minister tell us what type of entertainment he means and who does the entertaining? I remember last time we gave him a lot of money here. I have been here for nearly—how many months? Nearly two years. I have not, during this time, seen the Minister for Education, the former and the present one, entertaining anybody on his own. Even if he does official entertainment, we would like to know how the Minister arranges this. I thought that the money, Mr. Chairman, which we vote here, is calculated into how many functions he will have during that period, in accordance with the amount voted. Now we see that the Minister wants more; he must have arranged the parties, and he has been, in fact—let me use this word—so selfish that he has used his money up quickly and now comes to us for more money, before even the end of our financial year. Now, I know—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think you have made your point, Mr. Oduya.

Mr. Oduya: Yes. Now, let him answer that first.

Mr. Warlith: Mr. Chairman, I would like to know—this money is for Official Entertainment—who, apart from the Ministers, among ourselves—

Mr. Anyani: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to seek your ruling as to what happens when a Member asks a question and then the Minister replies, and then another Member asks a question and the Minister does not reply. Why is it that Members ask the questions and get no replies?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Anyani, you know, this is not Question Time. We are discussing Estimates. If the Minister stands up and shows an indication of wanting to reply, naturally I call upon him to reply. But if he does not show any indication that he wants to reply, I call upon the next speaker. This is not question and answer; it is a debate on this particular point which we are considering in Committee.

Mr. Warlith: Mr. Chairman, what I want to know is who are allowed to have Official Entertainment? It may include the Ministers or the other many officers in the Ministry, they are officials. An officer may go around in the field or a headmaster of a school may give a lunch or something like that. Would the Minister tell us apart from himself, who are the other officers who are allowed this particular allowance?

Mr. Kolnange: Mr. Chairman, if we have visitors who are in this country and from whom we are requesting some kind of help, we will create that back-ground by entertainment with a view of getting something from them. I have it here in my pocket—let me see whether I have it here—something concerning somebody who is planning to give us, who promised us, an amount of £50,000. You must listen.

We will create, since we are in the department very poor, an opportunity to get some of the people in relation to this together, with a view to find out how this £50,000 will be implemented. Will not only ask the senior officers or the other people, we will get some people, Members of Parliament or Cabinet Ministers and other friends, only a few who will create an atmosphere so that we will get the £50,000.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think we have had enough now on this point. We will go on.

(Head A4 agreed to)

B1—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Omari: Mr. Chairman, on this Bill, I would like the Minister to give us more explanation of how this money is going to be spent, £372,000. I find that on page 22, Mr. Chairman, B1—with your permission—I read "Personal Emoluments. The additional sum of £343,978 required to meet the salaries of staff seconded to primary schools, covered by an equivalent appropriation-in-aid. A further sum of £28,622 is required for the three schools at Eldoret, Nyeri, Kitale which are to be financed from the centre." These schools, Mr. Chairman, are primary schools, I think, and since they are, they are the responsibility of the county councils. Now, I do not see any reason why they should be financed by the Central Government. Therefore, I would like the Minister to tell us why he found it necessary to finance these primary schools which are the responsibilities of the county councils.

Mr. Kolnange: Mr. Chairman, these were former European schools and I think that the Member will agree with us that the responsibility and the use at present of these schools should now be within the powers of the Ministry of Education. I do not think anything more can be added to that. May I say this, Mr. Chairman; I am not actually trying to cover the whole thing, but the arrangements of administration for primary, secondary, trade and other schools have been so constructed with one main object, to offset from the Constitutional point of view the powers, which are then regional, to the Government. This responsibility is now in the hands of the Government to discharge those responsibilities from a financial point of view, whether we think in terms of primary, secondary, trade or schools run by Europeans or Asians. Those are the matters which have caused this additional expense of £617,000.

Mr. Mallada: Mr. Chairman, I would like the Minister to explain to me why it is that Eldoret, Nyeri and Kitale Schools former European schools are going to be financed by the Central Government and that they are going to spend all that money? Why should they be considered specifically and not others in the country?

Another thing, Mr. Chairman, I would like to know in the explanation notes here, it says "the additional sum of £343,978 required to meet the salaries of staff seconded to primary schools", where were these members of staff working before they were seconded to primary schools?

Were they in secondary schools and have been brought down to primary schools, or where were they taken from? Can I have an explanation on those two points.

Mr. Kolnange: Mr. Chairman, we are interested in making the best use of the three schools mentioned which were European schools in the past, and we are interested in promoting these schools to better use. For that reason we think that—if the Members would wait and give me a chance, I will tell them what they will do in those schools—

The point is this, Mr. Chairman, some of the schools were formed by missionaries and secretaries and all that. The responsibility which was covered by missionaries in mission schools and mission affairs, seems has now been turned to the Government. Some of the members of these were seconded to these Government schools.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to know from the Minister whether these primary schools which are being taken over by the Government have any African children in them, and if so will the school fees be lowered to suit the standards of the Africans? Or will the standards be left and the fees be left as they are, allowing only those people who are well-to-do to send their children there?

Mr. Kolnange: Mr. Chairman, I believe the former Minister for Education has, in the House before, stated that the students who are now attending the schools which had originally and have still high fees are to a certain extent given a scholarship by the Government to meet the differences. We are also taking certain measures of investigation. For example, there are rural schools at the Coast which were catered mainly for Arabs, so fees were higher, but the majority of the students who now attend those schools are Africans. Those are not within the radius of Mombasa Township or municipality. The Ministry is investigating how the fees in the rural areas can be adjusted in this particular area to have the full African population attending those schools. At those places where the question pointed, we are now considering giving more scholarships, and at the same time studying under the new plan how to adjust the fees.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, I beg to move:—

THAT Vote 16—Ministry of Education be reduced by £200,000 from £617,746 to £417,746.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You have to give it in writing you know. The procedure is to give it in writing before you move it. I will call you to speak later and let somebody else speak meanwhile.

[Mr. McKenzie]

House is being asked to do to agree to this expenditure. We are also told at the same time by the Treasury that this money is in fact going to be available under the old machinery which would have given it to the regions. I hope that this is clear.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think the Minister should not try to confuse the issue. I think the Government now agrees that whether there was a change in the Constitution or not, we would have been asked to approve this amount of money.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think, the Minister has made this quite clear. What the Minister has said is that these are merely the moneys that Regional Assemblies should have spent, or would have spent, but as they do not have powers now to spend the money, the Central Government is spending this money. But as far as the regions are concerned, it does not come into Supplementary Estimates. That will be separate. The Minister is trying to say that he has been informed that about £5,050,000 will, in fact, come from those Heads, namely petrol tax and one-third of customs and excise duty, which will be more than enough compared to four million nine thousand pounds which we are asked to spend now, because the Government cannot spend four million nine thousand pounds unless we pass it here. Before, it was going to be spent by the regions. I think the Minister has made that clear.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Minister said that this is the money that we will require. Now if this is the money that Central Government would have required as proposed by the Regional Assemblies, also accepting the summonses which the Regional Assemblies have proposed.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the amount of £5,000,000 is all the money that would have been available to the regions the sum total, but the hon. Member is in fact right to a certain extent. We, in this House, in the Budget debate did pass certain amounts of money to be made available specifically to the regions, so some of that money you are reallocating today, not on a regional basis but on a Central Government basis.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Chairman, Sir, shall I put it to the Government to explain to this House why for example, you say that this has been the only case: the Nyanza Regional Assembly has estimated that they were going to put up thirteen secondary schools in the year 1965, but as a result now only up to three or four have been taken over by the Government and if these estimates are estimates which were issued to the Central Government by the regions, then I would like the Government to tell us the difference between what the money they are asking for today, and between what the Regional Assemblies actually did suggest, they would require for the purposes of their people and the services which the Government agreed to give with this amount of money.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, Sir, certain of the regions were running into financial difficulties and were attempting to operate on overdraft facilities by owing money. As I have explained the amount here is only about £100,000 different between what Government maintain they are going to get in and what they maintain they are going to spend. Under the regional powers a Regional authority could pass any Estimates it liked over and above that agreed with Government, so long as they found the money from somewhere. Certainly you will remember the thought of cutting down on certain things and doing something else with them, this they had the power to do and as the Minister for Finance said earlier on, when we see the accounts we are going to find that some of the regions were in fact, by the time they had achieved half-way through broke and other regions you will find that the finances were in a very good position operationally. You can pass Estimates but you cannot implement those Estimates unless you have the money.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Minister agrees that some of the Regional Assemblies did have a kind of facility in spending what they never had but they had planned for it, in other words an overdraft. Now would he tell us exactly which were those regions which did have the overdrafts, without the authority of the Minister. Since we had a Ministry responsible for the regions and how did it come about that they could have those facilities when the Central Government which gave them the money and which was the custodian of this House so far as the expenditure of the money was concerned.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, Sir, we will not know the exact position of the Regional Assemblies until all the accounts and everything have been done. But I would like to remind hon. Members that this House was not the custodian of the Regional Assemblies' budgets. They operated their own budgets, they had their own estimates, they passed these estimates which we are now attempting to pass, it had nothing whatever to do with us as a Central Government. This is the Constitution. The only power we had this as a Central Government, under the Constitution, was giving them certain block amounts of money; they operated their own budgets and estimates. But I think we are getting a long way away from the subject.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think so too. We are discussing regionalism and I think we are well away from Personal Emoluments.

(A1—Personal Emoluments agreed to)

A2—Travelling Expenses

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Do you want to talk on Travelling Expenses?

Mr. Ngala-Ahok: Yes, please, Mr. Chairman. Sir, I stand to query the Minister on how he arrived at this figure, the additional figure that is required, and how these travels of the officers in the field are estimated? In doing that I just want caution or to bring to the notice of the Minister the fact that stories are now going round that some of these officers in the field at the moment are not very careful about the way they are travelling either when they are on duty or not on duty, and also, Mr. Chairman, Sir, suspicion that some of the journeys made by the Government officers do not concern Government jobs. I mean that they do not make any difference between going to visit a Member of Parliament of an area to discuss an official issue and going to visit a teacher or a fixed in a district. It is generally known now that most of these Government officers use Government petrol for private purposes.

In answer to this query I think I should get the correct answer, because I want to know how we get to know here in Nairobi how our officers travel on duty; whether what we are approving here is strictly going to be used for Government functions. The troubles will concern Government deficit. I want also to hear the interpretation of Travelling Expenses here in terms of where an officer has to go. For example, an officer visits a Member of Parliament on a certain day to discuss problems concerning his Ministry. The officer goes also to meet a teacher at his house. To these two places he goes in a Government Land-Rover. You may find that he is going to visit his home. You may find that at his home he is there with the Government Land-Rover. So we want to know how the Government—the machinery which tells the Government—knows how many journeys will be made during this period by so many Government officers, either at provincial level or at district level, so therefore the estimates will be such-and-such, and the additional money required is so much.

This is very, very important in view of the allegations that Government petrol is being used for functions which are not actually concerned with Government affairs at all. That is what I want to know.

Mr. Kolsange: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to say this has something to do with the field officers. Not a single one could bring his account if he is travelling to see his own friend or his own family—you must not ask how I know, you must be sincere and give the proper respect to your own workers, the civil servants, just as you expect them to respect you—bring to the Ministry anything where he has gone to see his own family to claim public money.

Mr. Ngala-Ahok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I wanted the Minister to tell me was, and not actually to doubt my sincerity in this matter. I gave a very good example of how these two functions could be taken either as official or not official: visiting a teacher friend and visiting a Member of Parliament. Also we know the way these officers claim: they report that they visited so many settlement areas so many times during such a month. They are not given chits by officers in the field to say that they have been to see them. They are not given chits for the visits they have made. This means that they come to Nairobi and say that, "I went round my constituency fifty times," and yet he did not go. There is no machinery to check this; he could make it up. We are saying that we are closer to these people in the field, and we see them travelling in different ways, using Government transport. Formerly we had European officers in the district who did not have many friends in the district, but remember that at the moment they have brothers who are employed in the area there. Some are unmarried people; they want to go round and make themselves popular.

This is the point I have made. We want the machinery to check on these people that we can estimate properly on strictly Government functions.

Mr. Soli: Mr. Chairman, I just want to ask the Minister one small question. There has been quite a lot of travelling expenses from the Government and Central Government field work. I wonder whether the Government has ever thought that travelling is much more expensive than telephone communications to the officers in the field who in turn can get into touch with the other prominent officers in the field, rather than making so

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, no, either substantive, or sit down.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, if I could be allowed the liberty—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, please sit down.

Mr. Gichoya: My problem, so far as this increment is concerned, is as to whether it is the question of additional appointments within the Ministry, which might involve the clerical positions which were held by others previously, or whether it is the question of new appointments which the Ministry might have thought fit to create within the Ministry of Education.

The other point which I would like to raise involves the provincial administration, which now comes under the Minister for Education or the Central Headquarters here in Gill House. This being the case, Sir, I feared, and I still fear, Sir, that unless the Minister gives us a full explanation, some appointments may be made which could be unnecessary, Sir.

Those are the points I would like to make to the Ministry.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, it must be obvious, if the hon. Member would turn to page 22, exactly what this is. What this is was exactly what we have been saying all afternoon. These people have come over from the regions into the administrative and general headquarters of the Ministry of Education. There are no additions whatsoever. When you reach item A4, that is an addition, as you will see explained in 22. All the others are people who have been employed by the Regional Assemblies and are now taken over by the Central Government with no increases, no reductions, no nothing. It is actually stated there for us.

Mr. Anyieni: May I ask a question, Mr. Chairman? The question is—

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Chairman, is it in order for the Chairman of this House to allow a Member to go ahead with his speech when he has not caught the Chairman's eye in the first place, but on rising he starts speaking and the Chairman accordingly allows him to continue?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): But Mr. Anyieni caught my eye Mr. Ngala-Abok. It is you who must sit down.

Mr. Anyieni: I am sure, my hon. friend would also like to speak.

The small question I was asking, Mr. Chairman, was that when we approved the original estimates, did we also approve money to be given for expenses which the regions were going to meet, so that when they were transferred from there to the Central Government, they were not able to be transferred with the money? If we did not approve money then, why did the Government not get money which the Regional Assemblies could have used, so that we would not have to approve an extra amount?

Mr. McKenzie: The hon. Member is absolutely right, Mr. Chairman. Last year we did appropriate certain amounts towards the Regional Assemblies' costs of operation. Over and above that you will remember that they received certain amounts of money which were unknown, from petrol tax and other such things which in the Constitution were direct for the regions for which the Government had no control whatsoever. What has happened now is that the regions stopped being regions at the end of the year. The money which was sanctioned in this House for the regions is still with this House and still with the Treasury. But now that it has become part of the Central Government, we as a Government have to put the estimates forward to show you what the extra is over and above what this House agreed for national expenditure last June. The increase on the national expenditure is a direct transfer of regional operations which have come back to the national Government. At the same time, Sir, a lot of money will come back from the regional machines to meet these expenses.

What the hon. Minister for Finance said was that certain regions had run themselves into financial difficulties, therefore, from certain regions very little money will come back, but I am led to believe that in certain Ministries—I can only talk of my own—there is a fair portion of the money which should come back which is coming back, but in other Ministries it may be different. I think that there is a Vice-President of a region here who could explain this matter even better than I can.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think this is fairly clear as far as the Minister's explanation goes, but I am still in doubt, having seen here that what the Minister is talking about concerns items A, A1, A2 and A3—all this is combined—and the explanation given is the additional amount required to meet the salaries and other expenses of staff working in the regions now taken over as a result of Constitutional changes. I know that the Minister has defined item A1. Now, what I want the Minister to clarify is that at a certain time money was to be sent to the regions but it was held up because the development was intending to cause changes in the Constitution, and then think in terms of retaining the money. Now, I do not know whether this was the amount which was retained, which would have been sent during the second part of the financial period when money was to be sent to the regions, because this consisted of two parts, one to go first and then the second lot when the time came, that was the transfer of certain establishments to the regions. Now, I want to know whether this is the exact amount which should have been sent had it not been that the Constitutional changes took place. Also, as I have said, this explanation includes the two items—Mr. Chairman, I do not know whether I could go ahead. Thank you very much.

Mr. de Tiphin: Mr. Chairman, I think we can use the time of the House if we become a bit specific and also stick to the facts as they are.

It is common knowledge to all the Members of the House that due to the Constitution, to changes things had to revert from the regions to the Central Government and this is merely a transference of sums of money previously allocated to the staff for the services of the regions. I think that the Central Government must admit the fact that they underestimated in the estimates of expenditure the amount of money required to run the services of various regions; and the result of that is this Supplementary Estimates. I hope that the Minister for Agriculture will agree with me here when I say that it is true that according to the previous Constitution some moneys were explicitly the right of the regions, that no flow of such money was coming from the Central Government to the regions and that this money was withheld by the Central Government of course, I think the hon. Minister cannot use that as an excuse for the underestimates.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, let us get one thing absolutely clear. The money being asked for here is the money being asked for by the Central Government to continue to operate these services which would have been operated by the regions over this next six months. The Central Government have accepted their estimates. I am told by an official of the Treasury that it is estimated by the Treasury that, in fact, £5,050,000 is considered to be the amount which will come back to the Central Government over this six-month period, and you will see that the total expenditure being asked for is £4.9 million. I am told this by the Treasury officials now, but in fact the amount of money which will come back from the regional machines is £5,050,000 and the expenditure of these estimates is £4,900,000.

Mr. Malloua: Mr. Chairman, there is one aspect of these Supplementary Estimates which keeps on confusing me: The Minister says that this is a transference of services which would have been carried out by the Regional Assemblies and that the money that we are now asked to vote for is additional funds to cover deficiencies in these regions which would not have sufficient money to run the services. Had the Constitutional changes not taken place what would the Regional Assemblies have done in regard to this?

The other thing is this, Mr. Chairman, in this Vote here an additional £617,000 in all is shown; that is the additional amount necessary to run the Ministry of Education. He goes on to say that he understands that there will be money coming from these provinces to the tune of £5,000,000. This figure should have been shown as a savings some where.

Now where is that money shown in the regional estimates to cover the money that we are going to approve?

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the position is that the regions brought these estimates under the Constitution to the Government and discussed it with the Government, this is, why there was still a regional machine. The Government agreed these estimates to be put through the Regional Assemblies. The Government also agreed the amount of money which over the year was going to be paid to the regions. Right? Now what happened was that when the regional machine broke down, the Central Government had to take over and continue to operate. The Central Government accepted the estimates from the regions. Those estimates had been through the Regional Assembly. What we are now doing is putting half those estimates, because half the money has already been spent, through this Assembly, and asking Members of this House to agree to it. At the same time the Treasury have told us that under the old machinery of obtaining methods of getting money to give to the regions the money will, in fact, amount to about five million and fifty thousand pounds. Had regionalism continued Government maintained that they would have had five million and fifty thousand pounds to meet this expenditure which totalled only four million and nine hundred thousand pounds. So what is going to happen eventually is that the Minister for Finance will bring to this House the ultimate account of each of the regions that you will know which the financial position was when the regions were stopped being regional authorities. But this will take some time as all accounts do. Meanwhile all these services have to continue and all this

[Mr. Khalif]

Mr. Chairman, if the reason of refusing to give us the breakdown is that this money is going to be spent in one particular area and that all other areas will be overlooked, then, Sir, we shall not only move a reduction of £1 but we shall even go further and think of rejecting the whole issue.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I would like to make one point clear: while I said that the Minister has explained that this was merely a mathematical entry, I was not saying that Members are not entitled to a breakdown. They certainly are entitled to a breakdown whenever they want one. The only thing I suggested is, that in view of the fact that there was no change in policy and no change in expenditure which had already been passed in the Budget, except a book-keeping entry, then perhaps Members would feel that as they had already passed it in the Budget, and it was now only a question that instead of one department, the regions, spending it, the Central Government was going to spend it, they would proceed with it. However, hon. Members are, of course, entirely free to decide how they want to pursue the subject.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Chairman, hon. Members are absolutely entitled to what they are asking for. These, and I do not think we want to become confused, items have never been before this House before. These items in that first six-month period went before the Regional Assembly. This money is not being expended by us, the Government, in the second period of the regional financial year. Therefore, we have never discussed these. The policy was a policy which was laid down in Regional Assemblies and which we have inherited half-way through the financial year; therefore, in my opinion—I would like your guidance on this, Mr. Chairman—Members are entitled to ask where the money is being spent, what school, what hospital, what agricultural college, etc., and what I would like to ask the hon. Member who moved the reduction of £1 is whether he would be prepared at this stage for us to go on with another Vote, which would give the Minister time to get the information which is required. Now, had this been more of a supplementary in June last year, this would be a completely different matter and I would then suggest that hon. Members were going too far. But, this is something that this House has never discussed; therefore I think that perhaps they are correct, and if the Minister would be prepared to do this, I am sure the Minister could obtain the information for him; because it is not good our going on like this when the information is not available.

Mr. Anytani: Taking the advice of the Minister, he is not asking me to withdraw my Motion to reduce the £1, he is actually asking me to hold on. Now, if that is the case, we do not want, for example, to come—we are not on "G" and we hold on to that one, then we come to "J" and we hold on, then we come to "K" and then hold on. No. If this is to be accepted then we must leave everything which has got to do with the Ministry of Health and Housing and come back tomorrow.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I would like to make this quite clear: that it is an unusual practice generally for us to keep on moving from Vote to Vote half-way through. This has been the second Vote and, in fact, we have not finished the President's Office yet, which we left half-way through. This would be the second time, but as I see that hon. Members are quite prepared to accept this, we would accept it. In future, however, I would like to finish the Votes as we go through them.

An hon. Member: A point of order.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): A point of order?

An hon. Member: This is, I am sure, a mistake for the Minister to come here without details and without breakdown of things which he knows we are entitled to have. Then, Mr. Chairman, are we not entitled to ask that he leave his post for another?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Well, it has already been agreed that we are going to do this, so there is no need to raise it on a point of order.

(Consideration of the amendment by leave of the Committee was deferred.)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I now go to Vote 16—Ministry of Education, Head A1, Personal Emoluments.

VOTE 16—MINISTRY OF EDUCATION

Head A1—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to know why we have been incurred or why there is a need for an additional £13,600, in this Ministry so far as Personal Emoluments is concerned. So far, I know that we got one additional Minister. I would like to know exactly whether this is money meant for the Minister's income or salary, a person who is an Assistant Minister or if it could be the practice of the Ministers to have two personal secretaries, three personal secretaries and then, of course, come and tell us they want money to finance these personal secretaries. Has there been an addition to the staff within the Ministries when we took over or when we became a Republic? That is one thing, Sir, whether it is on the clerical side or whether it is on the political employer's side, that is the Minister, Assistant Minister, or additional distribution of provisions in the Ministries.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, there has been a kind of practice by Ministers to create additional positions to appease their political supporters and for that matter to give employment to their personal friends. This has happened and we know for certain that these things are taking place. I would like to know exactly whether this amount which costs so much, more than half the usual amount or nearly half the amount which was needed—

Mr. Bala: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, the hon. Member has just made a very serious allegation that Ministers are increasing the amount of money needed in order to employ their friends.

Mr. Oduya: Oh, shut up.

Mr. Bala: Would he kindly substantiate that allegation?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You will kindly recall, Mr. Oduya, that I made it a point, and turned you many times that this type of language is not to be used in the Parliament. If I have to bring it up again, you will have to leave this Chamber. I do not see your point of order, please, Mr. Bala.

Mr. Bala: The point I was trying to make is that the hon. Member Mr. Gichoya, made an allegation that Ministers are trying to increase certain amounts by way of Supplementary Estimates to employ their friends, and I think that allegation is very serious. As such, we would like to know if Mr. Gichoya could substantiate his allegation. What sort of friends have been employed by certain Ministers?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We are only discussing personal emoluments in the Ministry of Education, Mr. Gichoya. You are making an allegation about the Government, and it is quite out of order. You are not making any specific allegation?

Mr. Gichoya: Just general, Sir.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You are either to say something about personal emoluments or be quiet.

R 10—16 pp.

Mr. Gichoya: I wonder whether the Member would be rather embarrassed if I brought in some cases which perhaps—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Now, are you discussing the Ministry of Education?

Mr. Gichoya: Yes, the Ministry of Education.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gichoya, you must substantiate the allegation that Ministers employ their friends.

Mr. Gichoya: But now, in that case, Sir, I would like to mention other Ministries than the Ministry of Education.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, we are only discussing the Ministry of Education. I have made this fact clear, Mr. Gichoya, that when we discuss an emolument in a Supplementary Estimate, we are only discussing the extra amount being spent on this. We are not discussing general conditions of the Government in any other Ministry, and if you do not follow my ruling you will not be called upon to speak again and you will be asked to sit down. Please do not abuse the ruling on every occasion. You must restrict yourself to Standing Orders. There is no point in standing up and speaking on something that is not coming up here, we are discussing Education. If you are now discussing, in your speech, some other Ministry, that is quite out of order. You should know this by now. You have been a Member in this House for some years.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, I think, as a matter of fact, we should discuss other Ministries.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We are certainly going to discuss other Ministries, but for now we want you to give us an explanation of this Ministry.

Mr. Gichoya: I said one thing about Personal Emoluments, and I want to get a clarification from the Minister concerned on this, but it was in keeping with the old practice.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, no, you did not say that. You made a very clear statement that the Ministers employed their own friends, and it must be applicable to the Ministry of Education and you must either substantiate that the Minister for Education has employed his own friends, and they always come to ask for extra money. If you cannot substantiate, I must ask you to sit down.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Sir, you must allow me to explain my point in that particular—

[Mr. Mallada] the statistics in his hand. Can we not ask him to let us have more facts?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You can only request the Minister or any other Minister to give you facts but if he feels that they are not for public use or that for some reason or the other he cannot divulge further facts and figures then I am afraid I cannot force him to do so.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, is it my understanding that the reduction in the proposed Vote is only with regard to maintenance and upkeep of medical establishments? Or, alternatively, does this amendment for reduction cover the whole Vote?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes. The amendment, as such, is proposed on the whole Vote which is that the reduction is proposed as far as the whole Vote is concerned, that is, Vote 15. In fact, we are here only allowed to discuss item G.

I would like to repeat what I said earlier on: we are only allowed to discuss whether in fact we agree or do not agree to give the extra money that is in fact being asked for. We cannot ask that more money should be spent because we are not satisfied with the amount of money being spent. That is something different. The Government is asking to be allowed to spend the sum of £40,790 and we can discuss that item only, not any other item that we think should be spent but for which the Government has not in fact allocated money. That is something which can be discussed under the Budget time, not now. If any hon. Member decides to speak on that I will ask him to sit down.

Mr. Ngata-Abok: Mr. Chairman, on a point of order I would like to make a reduction of £1—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): That has already been discussed. We are in fact discussing a Motion for the reduction of £1.

Mr. Ochwada: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, it is in order when we are discussing these Supplementary Estimates to advise the Government on issues where we think the Government could have done more than it has done?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I sympathize with hon. Members who would like to use this occasion to discuss the whole Ministry of Health, but that is not allowed under Standing Orders. Under Standing Orders we should, in fact, normally have completed the Supplementary in three or four hours whereas we have taken two days on it. I have been very lenient with hon.

Members because I know hon. Members want to speak on this. However, I do not think they should abuse the leniency. We have Standing Orders and we have to abide by them. Mr. Gichoya and Mr. Odiya have gone very far beyond my ruling and I am now going to be very strict. I will insist that hon. Members must speak only to the additional item proposed.

Mr. Ochwada: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, since we are not given details of the items on which these amounts have been spent how can we decide whether the amount is justified?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): That is for the Minister to decide, whether he wants to give or not give details. We cannot force the Minister. If Ministers do not give further details and if hon. Members stop speaking perhaps we can put this to the vote. This is as much as I can do; I cannot force any hon. Minister to give details; he does not wish to disclose.

Mr. J. M. Kariuki: Mr. Chairman, I would co-operate with you on your decision.

This Maintenance and Upkeep of Medical Establishments means that there are some establishments on which quite a lot of money has been spent, and which ought to be kept properly maintained until June when we come to debate the Budget. However, we would like to ask the Minister, Mr. Chairman, whether he would be kind enough to tell this House which establishments are going to be maintained with the £40,790. We would also like the Minister to explain to the House what he has done with some new districts where there have never been such establishments in the past, whether this amount of money will maintain and upkeep these establishments, whether they are going to be used in the known way established for medical services. This would be very important and we would be happy if the Minister could try to explain this to the House.

For the future, Mr. Chairman, we feel that this is an African Government and as such it is high time we tried to conduct ourselves as an African Government. Most of the Members would like, when such a thing as Head G is put, to know whether the Ministers would ask their Permanent Secretaries or any other persons concerned to explain a little more to the Minister so that he can then come and pass this information to the House. Some of these things were decided say four or five years ago and hon. Members are confused with the present position and would like further explanation. If it were possible for the information to be elaborated on that this is maintenance, upkeep of this or that, in the [Mr. J. M. Kariuki] regions or in the districts, all this information would be most welcome. This will enable us to understand how the money is being spent and will, at the same time, save the House a lot of time because Members will not ask unnecessary questions for further information.

As far as I know this is what has been followed in the past and we feel that our own ways of thinking. Mr. Chairman, we would not like to waste a lot of time discussing such an item if we have had further information giving us a simple and clear picture.

Mr. Gichuru: I agree entirely that if people cannot understand this kind of presentation of the estimates, we ought to try and simplify it as much as possible so as to make it clear because there is no point in trying to confuse anyone. The whole idea is that everybody should understand. However, you will appreciate that if we were to analyse and give details of each item then we would have a book about twenty times this size. We shall also be spending a little more money now or less unnecessarily.

If the Members would turn to page 19 and note what is stated at the bottom, they will find it says: "All the expenditure involved, results from the necessity of the Ministry to take over Regional Health Services with effect from 12th December, 1964, as a result of recent Constitutional changes." The thing is this, although these health services have to be taken over by the Central Government there has not been enough money coming along and, therefore, it has necessitated the Central Government finding money, hoping that it due course money will be forthcoming from the regions. In some cases, it may never come and I may have to come and tell you that these are bad debts from various county councils. This is a bad thing as far as money is concerned and, therefore, if this Supplementary Estimate does not provide new services, it does not mean that we are going to build, between now and June, new health centres or anything which has just been mentioned. This is all to ensure that we keep up the standards as they should be, particularly in those areas where the standards have gone down because of lack of finance.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think in view of what the Minister has said, maybe hon. Members will be kind enough not to pursue the subject any further. He has made it quite clear that in fact all that is asked for under this Head is in fact a book-keeping entry change. What actually was being spent by the regions is now going to be spent by the Government. However, there is no point as far as I can see to pursue a question on policy, and in these circumstances maybe we could go ahead.

Perhaps the hon. Mr. Anyieni is willing to withdraw his Motion. It is quite clear that the Minister said that it is merely a book-keeping entry that is being changed; there is no change at all as far as the policy or expenditure is concerned. It is exactly as it was before.

Mr. Anyieni: With all due respect to your advice to the Members, Mr. Chairman, I think we demand in general for the Minister to explain to us, briefly, in various places what he is trying to do in the form of maintenance and other things. I think he has the figures with him so he can explain all this. Without this information how can I withdraw the Motion? There is no point in that.

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Otiende): I am doing absolutely nothing. In fact, the very money asked for I do not want. I have not come to you for money, I still have to come to you for money and that will be done in the Estimates.

You are only being asked to rescue the local authorities and the private hospitals or missions which cannot be maintained for lack of cash. This money is being asked from you to carry on the services so that people get medical facilities and we need not close down any hospitals. It would be a very bad day if we ask hospitals to close down because county councils or missions have no money.

As you have been told, we are taking over responsibility which belonged to the regions up to 30th June. After that date the policy will have to be made by you, whether to support these hospitals or whether to close them down. Therefore, I cannot give you a further breakdown. This is a total estimate of what is backing so that the medical services can be maintained.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Chairman, it is extremely unfortunate that although the Minister has been repeatedly asked to give the breakdown of £40,790 he has not done so. Instead he has been telling us about a different thing altogether. Now, Mr. Chairman, there has been a tendency of various Ministers, especially after this change of Constitution, to come here and ask for additional amounts of money and giving as a reason the fact that there was a regional take-over. We, in this House, are not in a position to approve a single cent when the Minister himself is very hesitant to give us the breakdown.

Mr. Gatuguta: I do agree with you, Mr. Chairman, on this ruling, but I was only coming to the point as to why we are asked to vote £40,790 for the maintenance and upkeep of medical establishments. We would like to know, Mr. Chairman, how this money is going to be spent. Now, as you can see, Mr. Chairman, the original estimate in this item was £152,000 and £152,000, Mr. Chairman, has been spent in less than a year. We are asked to vote extra money, to the tune of £40,790.

Now the question we are asking ourselves is: how is this money being used, if the maintenance and upkeep of hospitals is not as good as could be. I feel, Sir, without going very far on this, because you have made a ruling, that the Minister ought to tell us what is happening in these hospitals, how that money is being spent. Are we voting money in this House and then it is just pocketed by some people working in the hospitals and nothing is done? We would like to achieve the improvement of the medical standards of the hospitals in this House.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, my remarks are more or less on the lines of the remarks which have been made by the other hon. Members; that is, why on earth should we be so extravagant as to allow the money of the nation to be spent when the services for which we are paying are so unsatisfactory. I had better make it clear why I say they are unsatisfactory. Now we have a hospital, one of the oldest hospitals in Kenya, and that is Kerugoya hospital. Apparently up to this moment, Mr. Chairman, the people of Kirinyaga and the nearby districts who otherwise could get—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gichoya, I am sorry, but you have heard my ruling. If every hon. Member is going to come here and speak about the hospital in his district, and then say, "The hospital in my district is very bad, therefore I am not going to agree to any extra," we are not going to get very far. You have the ruling and you must abide by it. I am very sorry. I realize that every hon. Member would like to say something about his district hospital, but we have got to restrict ourselves to the Supplementary Estimate and not try to get round it. Otherwise, we are not going to finish this. It is not a Budget debate, it is only a Supplementary Estimate in Committee of Supply.

Mr. Gichoya: Yes, Mr. Chairman, I agree with the ruling of the Chair. I feel personally that we are very much dissatisfied with the functioning of the Ministry of Health. Now we are supposed to pay £40,790 additional money to the previous amount which we voted for the Government to spend. I feel Sir, that it would be very unwise on our part when we do not know what we are maintaining. Are there additional services which have been introduced in existing medical institutions or is merely money to feed the group which already exists, when we have already calculated the necessary money nicely and given them enough money to maintain their establishments properly for the whole financial year or does it mean that there are additional places which have been created within this year's period? Now if that is so, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I still have a question that in certain places—and I was trying to mention a specific case, the hospital at Kerugoya—there are no X-ray units, for example. We have to send cases from Kerugoya up to Nyeri. Whenever we give Government money for its expenditure on medical establishments, it is up to the Government to consider establishing certain facilities in places which are very remote. They are perhaps remote from civilization, if civilization means the centres of provinces or the national headquarters, that is, Nairobi.

In certain places which are very remote, as in Busia, for example, because I have been through there and I have seen it, I think it is advisable. Sir, that whatever we give to the Government should not only be concentrated in the area which are better off, places which have private doctors surrounding them—like the Kiambu District, which is lucky because of its environment and has quite a number of medical facilities—and yet of course, the Government, to be fair to all has to do something for that same area. But personally I feel that if we are going to give money to the Government, the Government should look at places which are badly served by medical facilities, such as the Turkana area, Kirinyaga, Embu, Ukambani and the like, and West Pokot, as people say. These are places which are remote from the modern influences. A hospital patient is a privilege to a particular (Inaudible)

We are trying to get more doctors to deal with the patients.

It has been a tendency that a place where a Minister comes from is always given first priority in terms of services. I can substantiate that one fully. I can give the Minister concerned facts and figures. I put a reply to him in writing to tell him what the percentage of patients in Kiambu Hospital was for one financial year, and how many doctors there are—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gichoya, I hate to interrupt you again, but you have heard my ruling. We are not discussing relative

(The Chairman) expenditure in the different areas in Kenya now, as we are only discussing a Supplementary Estimate in Committee.

Mr. Gichoya: I wish to discuss conditions in various hospitals.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I know, but if we start going on as you are now going on, we will never finish. I have explained to you that we are not on a Budget debate. We must restrict ourselves only to the extra expenditure that is being discussed. What you are trying to say is that more money should be spent on certain hospitals, and I would sympathize with you very much, but the point is that if every Member starts standing up and saying that he wants more money because his hospital is not very good, that is not a Supplementary Estimate in the Committee stage.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): On a point of order, is it not the normal practice that when the Chairman speaks, the hon. Members should sit down.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes, it is. I do not want you to restrict yourself. Ask a question if you want to clarify what is the expenditure, but do not bring a whole speech about it.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to know from the Minister whether this additional amount is meant for additional salaries in various districts, additional payment, or for additional doctors in places where we do not have doctors?

Mr. Makone: Mr. Chairman, would it be in order to ask the hon. Minister to explain to the House or to give a breakdown of what he wants to improve and the things he wants to improve?

Mr. Odoya: Mr. Chairman, I also rise to find out from the Minister—Mr. Chairman, I think the amount required here is unnecessary, because the Minister is here to explain to the House exactly why this money is wanted, and if it is wanted, which areas receive this money. As far as I know, Mr. Chairman, all of us are taxpayers, and we would all like to see some honesty of purpose by the Government of this country. If some people are going to suffer, it is going to be a serious thing altogether, so before we are asked to approve this amount of money we would like the Minister to tell us that this money will be given to support the private hospitals, missionaries, health centres, and clinics. He did say that this money would be given to the headquarters of the nation. Then, if the Salvation Army wanted money, they would give to the Salvation Headquarters, and if the Anglican Church wanted some money they would receive it, as would the Catholic Church.

Some years back, these centres used to get money from the Ministry of Local Government, through the county council, which was responsible for the health centres, but now changes have been made, and I would like the Minister to see that when we deal with such a large amount of money, it should not be confined only to advanced places, or places which only require some modernized standards. All we want, when we have an amount of money as this, is that the Minister should know exactly how it is going to be spent, before asking for such an amount of money.

Mr. Chairman, at the moment I find that the Minister asks for money before he knows which are the needy health centres or missionaries hospitals. In order to avoid criticism in the House by individuals, he should know some details. Now, we have this problem at Busia, if I can quote, at the moment the question of Amakura Health Centre. I am trying to find from the Minister whether he could help this centre, because it is the only centre which is serving the whole of the Southern Division of Busia. This sum is, for maintenance, and this is a lot of money. Now, if this money is only going to be used in Nairobi and other districts, and Busia is not going to get a single cent—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Odoya, you are speaking for the second time on exactly the same point, and you are beginning to repeat what you said a few minutes ago.

Mr. Odoya: Mr. Chairman, if you would not interrupt me—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): It is not right for you to disregard the ruling of the Chair, and come back and say the same things over again.

Mr. Odoya: Mr. Chairman, I was only elaborating on that point. However, there are some other things I would like to ask the Minister.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes, you may do so but if you repeat this matter again I will have to ask you to sit down.

Mr. Odoya: I want to know the amount of money that has been advanced out of this money. Otherwise I will reject the Vote.

Mr. Mallada: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, several Members have spoken and shown their dissatisfaction with regard to this particular item and all the time the Minister is holding

[Mr. Odoya]

Clinic Centre which is a missionary clinic centre, and also Elimangina and Balouga. So what I am trying to find out is whether these missions, health centres, run by missionaries, are going to be aided with this amount of money here?

Mr. Odenda: No, what happens is this. The missions are not aided on the basis of each health centre; the headquarters of the mission gets a lump sum and then it divides the money between all its hospitals. Each mission, whether it is Catholic, Protestant, Church of Scotland, whatever it is, gets a lump sum from us; we do not give the money from here. What we are going to do with the money this year is to help them a bit more than before because there is the danger of these hospitals closing down. My Ministry thinks that this House should be magnanimous enough this year to help these hospitals not to close down. This concerns not only these mission hospitals but other private hospitals. Unless we help them this year we may find the medical services will drop, so this money—the hon. Member is quite right—is to help these hospitals.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move a reduction of £1 on G—Maintenance and Upkeep of Medical Establishments.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You are moving a reduction of £1 out of the whole of Vote 15?

Mr. Anyieni: Yes, Sir, I beg to move that Vote 15—Ministry of Health and Housing, be reduced by £1 from £437,000 to £436,999.

The reason why I am doing this, Mr. Chairman, is that it will be remembered by those Members of Parliament who spend most of their time in this House when there is a session, that one time last year a Member from the Kisii District asked a question as to why there was only one hospital in Kisii District. The then Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health informed this House that Kisii District had several hospitals. He mentioned Nyamba, Ogembe, Nyamagwa, Nyambururu, Kamaambo, Kindu Bay and so on and so forth.

Mr. Chairman, when I asked the Parliamentary Secretary to explain to me the meaning of hospital as opposed to the meaning of the word dispensary, the Parliamentary Secretary was so rude as to tell me that he was not here to explain or to define the meanings of words like this to a Kisii who did not understand enough English. Now, Mr. Chairman, as you will remember later on, I raised a Motion on the Adjournment and the Minister then, who unfortunately is not here, later apologized to me for the incorrect reply which I was given by his Parliamentary Secretary.

Now, Mr. Chairman, in this I would like to know whether Government has taken any steps because if they were to maintain—there was a lot of information which I brought to the Government's notice and I informed Government on that day that there was a mortuary and there was a place where people could buy meat, and it was so filthy that flies flew from this place to the place where people were buying meat. But up to this time, Mr. Chairman, when I have been to this place again I have not seen anything being done about it.

In addition, the hospital, which caters for South Nyanza and Kisii, is so small up to this time that sometimes on the floor and you know how uncomfortable it is for a needy mother such as that. Mr. Chairman, you also have got in this hospital, which caters for two districts, containing more than a million people, the situation where no nets are provided. It was so interesting the other day, Sir, when we asked a question here the Assistant Minister informed us that mosquito nets were poisonous in hospitals and that is why they were not installed in these places. I would like to understand the correct Government policy, as to whether it is Government's policy to maintain institutions which were placed in such a way by the Colonial Government as to make them dangerous to the people using them.

We would also like to know in this hospital I am talking about—I do not think it is only this hospital, either, I think these things are typical of many hospitals, but I am only talking about the one I know. You find that a person who is very well dressed when he goes into the hospital, he goes there and he starts wearing rags and rags that are torn. They look so ugly and very many of them are so dirty. For example, if you go to the National Hospital here you will find the uniforms there quite good. How is it that if all these services are being rendered on the same pattern we cannot have good and attractive uniforms elsewhere? The Government must realize, Mr. Chairman, that even if you are very well, even if you are not sick, if you wear very dirty clothes it makes you feel bad, almost sick. Many people going to hospitals now do ask that they be allowed to maintain their own clothes when they are in hospital, which is not compatible with medical practice.

I do not want to take up much time because I am sure that there are some other Members here who would like to complain to the Ministry. Now there is no-point in the Minister coming here to tell us he wants more money for the upkeep and maintenance of medical establishments.

which are so filthy to look at. After all, I am which is so filthy to look at. After all, I am of the opinion that if there is a place which is to be kept as clean as possible, it is a place where people are being treated. But if we are going to have a place where this is not done, then we cannot be satisfied.

Secondly, Mr. Chairman, we have got a lot of mosquitoes in this area. Now I do not want to repeat myself but I would like to receive a reply from the Minister because this hospital caters for South Nyanza and Kisii and you will find that in the lowlands there are a lot of mosquitoes. The Government is doing its part to try and destroy the mosquitoes but they have not yet got rid of the mosquitoes. So you have a lot of sick people from the lowlands coming to Kisii hospital which is the highlands, and you have also some mothers who want to deliver, some people who come with different diseases, they all come to the same hospital. They are treated for the sickness which brings them there, they recover; and then they are attacked by malaria, which is transmitted by mosquitoes.

Now that the Minister is here, I would like him to have the chance of informing the whole world that the Kenya Government does not believe that mosquito nets are poisonous, because this gives a very bad name to Kenya in the eyes of the rest of the world, not just to the Kenya Government but to the Kenya Ministers. The world starts to wonder whether the person who is appointed Minister or Assistant Minister in the Ministry of Health actually knows what mosquito nets are.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that without trying to criticize my hon. friend I would like the Minister now to be able to tell us what improvements, what one single improvement, he has made in Kisii hospital, or what the Ministry intends to do in Kisii hospital within a specified time.

(Question proposed)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Before hon. Members carry on speaking, I would like to make one thing clear. In supplementary estimates, we do not discuss the whole policy of hospitals or the whole policy of particular departments, because if we did, this would become another budget discussion. All we are, in fact, trying to discuss is the details of the extra money asked for and whether, in fact, we are willing to give this extra money. This is the point, we must restrict ourselves to the additional expenditure. I do not want us to go back again and start discussing the whole of the Government departments. That will be allowed when we have the Budget which I think will be in a couple of months' time. We can then discuss the policy of any particular Ministry we want, as fully as we want.

Mr. Malinda: Point of order, Mr. Chairman. That is quite all right but how can a Member, how does this House, show their unwillingness to pass any additional expenditure, such as this one. Now, for instance, according to my friend here, Mr. Anyieni, this extra expenditure is unjustified because Government has not made any improvements to Kisii hospital. Now what is open to this House, not to pass the money that is required?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Well, I can hardly tell hon. Members what is the way not to pass money. But you could vote against it or you could propose a Motion, as Mr. Anyieni has already done, that the money should be reduced by £1 or propose a Motion that it should be reduced by a bigger amount. I am not advising hon. Members to do this; I am merely telling you what you could do if that is what you want.

However, the main purpose here, as far as I am concerned, is to get the information you want before you decide what to do.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Chairman, Sir, you have ruled that we cannot speak on policy matters on this subject. It is very unfortunate, Sir, because there are a lot of wrong things happening in the hospitals in this country; and when we are asked to approve this money, we are hesitant in approving it because we feel that the money we approve in this House is not being utilized in the best possible way.

I have myself been in the Kenyatta National Hospital several times, taking patients there, and I have been horrified by the state of affairs in that hospital. The hospital itself is dirty, in the first place, and the patients in that place are not carefully looked after. They do not get clean clothes and they do not even get the best type of food.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gatuguta, after having said that I have made a certain ruling, you are now proceeding to disobey that ruling. I must explain to you that this is not my ruling, it is Standing Orders. They say that under supplementary estimates you can only discuss supplementary estimates, not the whole Government department. We can only discuss that particular additional expenditure that is being asked for, and whether, in fact, the House wants to allocate it or not. You cannot discuss the whole policy of the department concerned.

and we also have a small one at Malanya for maternity use, there is also one at Mankinya for maternity use and treatment. We have also—

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Chairman, on a point of order, are we not dealing with personal emoluments? Is the hon. Member not getting into the one we are still to deal with?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I think you are asking Mr. Oduya about the question of a doctor in Busia District and whether the additional money will cater for that expense, which is in order. But I think we should wait to hear the answer to this one first. The aid will come later.

Mr. Otende: Mr. Chairman, it is very, very easy, if I may explain what has actually happened. What has happened is that under the old regional system, the old Western Region undertook to maintain certain services, but as the Constitution has changed most of this expenditure shown here is the result of the necessity of my Ministry to take over the Regional Health Services from 12th December 1964, until the 30th June 1965. It reflects only the expenditure transferred from the region to the centre, expenditure was there. Whether this will involve a new doctor for Busia is still to be seen because, if I may remind the hon. Mr. Oduya, what Busia requires first of all is a hospital. If he looks carefully at the estimates he could see that this requirement is there; when the hospital is ready we shall then provide a doctor.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Chairman, arising from what the Minister has just said, how could it be that the taking over of the Regional Health Services by the Ministry could amount to the expenditure of £276,735?

Mr. Otende: I can explain, this again, Mr. Chairman.

The salaries, allowances, leave passages, subsistence, the price of medicines, repairs and so on, offices, electricity, postal services and other things come to that total. That is the amount which the region would have spent had it not sent the bill to us.

Mr. Mwanziridi: I understand, Mr. Chairman, that when we discussed estimates in July of last year the grants were given to the regions for their yearly expenditure. Now, when the Central Government took over from the regions, why was that money not transferred from the regions to the Central Government, or was the money allocated not sent to the regions?

Mr. Otende: I do not actually know whether that was directed to me?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, Sir, what has happened is that many regions have gone bankrupt and we have had to undertake a rescue operation. Some money will come but at this particular moment, unless this money is allocated by the House to rescue the hospitals in some area where the county councils have no money at all it will be disastrous. But I hope that as money comes into the county councils it will be handed over to us. Then we may be able to recover quite a good bit of this money.

(Heads A, A2 and A3 agreed to)

(Heads B, C and D agreed to)

Head E—Travelling and Subsistence Expenses on Duty in East Africa

Mr. Omar: Mr. Chairman, Sir, could we be told here why it is necessary that there should be travelling and subsistence expenses on duty? Does this mean to say that our officers here always go to East African countries and for what purpose do they go there?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the hon. Member, I am sure, knows very well that we still have a very large number of expatriates and we need them and we have to give them these facilities. As soon as we replace them by our own people this expenditure will cease.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I hope that the Minister is not going to say this time that this additional sum is necessitated by the take-over of the General Health Service. Now assuming that has nothing to do with the take-over of Regional Health Services, could we be told what necessitated the additional sum of £11,310?

Mr. Otende: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not see how the hon. Member can dissociate this from this take-over. The expenditure is the result of, for example, North-Eastern officers requiring £310 to go on leave, and the others from other areas the total is £11,310. If we did not take over the regions would they pay individually according to the number of expatriate officers they have.

An hon. Member: This is travelling.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We are on E.

Mr. Otende: Yes, inside East Africa.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, Sir, some of this money comes to my Ministry, this is why I

[Mr. McKenzie]

There are various bodies answering this. There are various bodies on the E.A.C.S.O. basis and the which meet, on the E.A.C.S.O. basis and the officers of the Ministry of Health, Ministry of Agriculture and the Ministry of Natural Resources have to visit research centres, which these Ministers are responsible for by travelling to other territories. This is why there is an element in this Ministry and in that Ministry, you will also see it in my Ministry and you will also see it in Natural Resources for travelling on duty outside Kenya into Uganda and Tanzania. For instance, there is a sugar station in Uganda, my people have to visit it. There is also a tsetse fly case in Tanzania where my people have to visit. There is also a medical research centre, I think in Uganda, where members of the Ministry of Health have to go on duty.

Mr. Mallada: Mr. Chairman, Sir, that is all right as far as the Minister for Agriculture's Vote is concerned. The question here is why is there need for an increase in the travelling within East Africa on duty for that particular Vote, because according to what the Minister for Agriculture has explained we will find that in his Vote for travelling in East Africa on duty, there is an item for that purpose, but this is an item in the Ministry of Health and Housing we want to know why there has been the necessity to have an increase of £11,000 over and above the original Vote?

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, this does not cover travelling outside Kenya only. This covers travelling on duty within Kenya and outside Kenya, in fact the whole of East Africa. The amount which will have to be spent on duty outside Kenya will not be very big, but they do hold these meetings on a territorial basis and they hold them one quarter in Tanzania, next quarter in Kenya and the next quarter in Uganda, and civil servants have to go to these on duty, and there is the mileage claim and sometimes, to Dar es Salaam, it is by air, but the bigger amount on this will obviously be for travelling on duty within Kenya.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think the Minister for Agriculture seems to have misunderstood the question which was put by the hon. Mr. Mallada. He specifically asked the Minister for Agriculture why is it that he has stated that sometimes officers of his department do go to Uganda and Tanzania, and there is a Vote in his Department for travelling and subsistence expenses on duty. This one for the Minister for Health and Housing, we would like an explanation from the Minister for Health and Housing.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think this has been explained. Mr. Omar, because what the Minister in fact said is that there is a similar Vote in his Ministry, this applies to the Minister for Health and Housing, because the Doctors also have to go just as the Agricultural men have to go, I do not think that we will go over and over this again, I think we have had enough of this.

(Head E agreed to)

Head F—Medical and Surgical Stores and Equipment

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Do you want to speak on F, Mr. Oduya?

Mr. Oduya: Yes, I would like to find out one thing from the Ministry. As I was—

Mr. Anyien: A point of order, Mr. Chairman. I want to move a reduction. When do I move it?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): When the Vote has been discussed, but we are now on a different question.

Mr. Oduya: There is this G—Maintenance and Upkeep of Medical Establishments. What I am actually asking the Ministry is whether this additional amount here is including the aid given to the Amakura Maternity Centre and Clinic, Eimangina and Balouga. If this does not include these places, then I would like to know from the Minister how much does the Ministry give to these clinic centres?

Mr. Otende: I do not think that Amakura would get any money. This Vote, I would say, is only for medical stores and surgical stores and equipment. We do not give equipment to private hospitals.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, we are discussing F at the moment. I asked if you were asking a question on F and I thought you said that you did.

(Head F agreed to)

Head G—Maintenance and Upkeep of Medical Establishments

Mr. Otende: This is a Vote for our own establishments. That is our houses, our hospitals, all hospitals which come under the Government. The hospitals which are private get a small grant each year which is assessed. It is a small grant and does not come under here.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the point here, the statement of the Vote, makes it quite clear here for granting aid to certain missions and private hospitals. Now missions mean Amakura

[Mr. Gichuru]

I am sorry, I have forgotten the first part of the question. Can the hon. Member please repeat it?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Would you like to repeat that part of your question, Mr. Anyieni?

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Chairman, it is understandable that he can forget some things.

What I asked was this: when the Kenya Members of Parliament who were negotiating for Kenya's Independence—It is obvious that I do not have to proceed further because it seems as though the Minister remembers.

Mr. Gichuru: We never discussed the question of pensions. Pensions are a responsibility of this Government and, therefore, this was never discussed. It was left over, because this is an obligation that any Government should fulfill.

Mr. Anyieni: Are we to take it that the hon. gentlemen who went to negotiate for Kenya's Constitution overlooked this fact and now they are asking Kenya taxpayers to pay taxes in order to compensate people who were suppressing us during the time of the struggle?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to try and point out that we still have a very big bill on pensions. We pay a lot of this to people who are in the service of the Kenya Government by way of pensions and this item is a very small part of that big Bill.

Mr. Mallada: Mr. Chairman, I have a very small point here. Could the Minister tell us how many more such cases we can expect because, I think this is the third time that we have had Supplementary Estimates in this House and we do not seem to have had any of these previous employees of Government coming up for consideration with regard to their pensions? Do we take it that, as the Minister said we have a big obligation to pay these pensions, now and again we shall be faced with similar cases?

Mr. Gichuru: I sincerely hope we shall have no more. In fact, I do not want to give names here, but some people have tried to get money out of me but unfortunately they have got nothing.

Mr. Anyieni: On behalf of this House, could I ask the Minister then to approach the British Government and find out whether the British Government could now try and pay these pensions and not to demand these payments from the Kenya Government for the people who were here not necessarily to serve the African people but to serve the régime which had brought them to our country?

Mr. Gichuru: May I remind the House that last year I received by form of grant £25 million from the British Government to enable me to balance the budget and therefore reduce the burden on the taxpayer. Well, if I had to turn round and say, "Thank you very much. You gave me so much money but I am not prepared to pay pension to your people." What would happen?

(Head V agreed to)

VOICE 15—HEALTH AND HOUSING

Head A1, A2, A3—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Bala: Mr. Chairman, I would like to have a breakdown of this Head.

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, the breakdown that the Ministry has produced is as follows:—

Coast	65,800
Eastern Province	54,770
Central	68,250
Rift Valley	95,638
Nyanza	21,300
Western Region	22,200
North-Eastern	7,665
Total	276,735

Mr. Bala: Mr. Chairman, I would like to have further breakdown in regard to Nyanza. So far, Nyanza General Hospital is one of the poorest hospitals in Kenya. For one thing, there are no African doctors; secondly, there are no European doctors; thirdly, the type of Asian doctors which we have are the worst type which one might classify as "semi-qualified". So, I would like to know why so much money has been added to Nyanza and why we do not have African and European doctors?

Mr. Gichuru: Sir, this is the Personal Emoluments that I have. I do not have a further breakdown which the hon. Member wants.

Mr. Bala: I would like to have a breakdown with regard to the amounts. If there were personal emoluments, what sort of people were these applied to?

Mr. Gichuru: I am afraid I have no further breakdown of the figures that I have just given.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, is it not in order that we should have the Minister for Health present here so that he can advise the Minister for Finance in order that the Minister for Finance may not have to tell us that he is not in possession of further facts which we demand to know?

If that is so, then should we not have an adjournment of the House until these facts can be given to us?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I agree with you that perhaps the particular Minister should be present but it is not compulsory. It is for the Government to decide, and for the House to do if it is not satisfied.

I think Mr. Gichuru has the facts now, am I right?

Mr. Gichuru: Not exactly the form which has been asked, because the medical staff, the breakdown of medical staff in the regions, I am afraid I do not have it.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think Mr. Bala's question was why, despite the fact that you have spent so much extra money, you do not have enough doctors whom he considers are sufficiently trained. That is the point. I do not know whether you can have a breakdown for that, Mr. Bala, because you are asking why it is that the same money is being spent and we still do not have good European or African doctors and we have third-class Asian doctors.

Mr. Bala: Yes, Mr. Chairman. We are now being asked to approve a certain amount of money and I hope that by approving this money we will either have better quality or improvements, but we do not know for what sort of people we are approving the money, and what sort of services will be provided. How is it expected that we should approve money just like that?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): It is a type of breakdown for which you are asking.

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, this is additional money to complete the financial year and, therefore, when the question of the new financial year is put the posting come up, I think that is when the question could be put.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): When the new financial year comes I think you can bring this up.

Mr. Mallada: Mr. Chairman, I think my question is more or less the same as Mr. Bala's, but it is not directed to one particular provincial hospital. My question here is that I would like to know why there has been this additional expenditure, as much as a quarter of a million points, over and above the original estimates. Why should it be so much more; I should have thought that now that we are going towards the Africanization of Government services and employing more and more local trained doctors and local people who do not have to be paid that extra inducement which was necessary when we had expatriate officers, the costs here should be lower, because the salaries of the medical officers, doctors and sisters, would not be as high as they were when we had to have expatriate officers.

Mr. Otiende: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think the argument of my hon. friend is a bit flimsy when he says that Africanization is cheaper than when we had expatriate officers. What has happened is this: because of the high degree of Africanization in the Ministry—in fact there is 100 per cent Africanization in some cases—it has cost us twice as much money. The reason being that instead of having one expatriate we have one expatriate and an African understudying him and taking over from him—that costs one and a half times more. Now, this is only temporary and the only thing I can tell the hon. Member is that we will now, after Africanizing like this, notice that the expenditure will go down because we have now reached the end of Africanization. We cannot get any more doctors from Africa in order to Africanize so we are getting foreign doctors to take over. Luckily this will not be at our expense, but at present the reason for the expense is that we have Africanized 100 per cent where we could.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, I would like the Minister to tell this House whether this additional amount covers a doctor for Busia District, because at the moment, Sir, we do not have a doctor for Busia District. We have a doctor who is stationed at Bungoma who visits Busia once a week, but we find that in a district like Busia, which is large and which has problems—mosquitoes and what not and so many other diseases—we should have a doctor. This question came up in this House some time back.

I would like the Minister to inform this House whether this amount enables the Government to give Busia a doctor.

Secondly, according to this Vote, the additional amount of money required by the Ministry is intended to give grants-in-aid to existing missionary clinics, or health centres and such like. As far as I am informed, we have some mission health centres at Busia, such as Amukura Clinic which is, of course, very useful for Busia even before Busia was separated from.....

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

bands, instead of Sh. 5,000 we spent Sh. 2,700. Out of the Sh. 20,000 allocated for the buffet dinner, we spent Sh. 17,636/30. For the police ground control, Sh. 3,000, and for miscellaneous the cost rose to Sh. 2,507/60. The total, out of the allocation of Sh. 70,000, was Sh. 46,631/90.

Now, Sir, this is the position on the expenditure side. On the receipt side, and I hope the hon. gentleman who said Nairobi received too much will be listening from the Coast Province, they came to Sh. 8,430/53. They were given Sh. 3,000 to spend, and they only spent Sh. 2,000, and brought in Sh. 8,043. The Rift Valley Province brought in only Sh. 1,835/50. The Eastern Region brought Sh. 3,696/45. Until now we do not know what the Western Province brought in. It seems only to have spent. The Central Province brought in Sh. 1,939/65, Nairobi brought in Sh. 23,400.

Mr. Chairman, this means that expenditure, excess of expenditure over income at that point, was Sh. 7,229/77. Now, already from the activities of this day, £155/45 cents has already been paid into the Kenya National Fund. We are now checking the final accounting because some areas have not quite completed theirs, and this will be made available to the Minister for Finance when the whole thing is completed. As the House will see, therefore, the Government only advanced the money. The Kenyatta Day Celebrations Committee tried to bring in the money to cover all expenditure, and in the majority of cases this was possible. It is not possible to expect in some parts of Kenya that we could get receipts from this expenditure. For example, from the money spent in the North-Eastern Region we did not expect that we would get any receipt from that, because we did not even intend to charge the people for the dinner. Similarly, in Kakamega and in Eldoret we did not expect that we would get many people paying the high ticket fees to go into the dinner, but in places like Nairobi, Mombasa, Nakuru and Kisumu, where people are able to pay to come to the dinner, they were charged, in order to make at least some profit to cover the losses that we would undergo in the remoter and poorer parts of the country. That, Sir, was the spirit of the Celebrations Committee, and I do not think that the Government has suffered any loss.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Chairman, I have read with great care the accounts given by the Minister on this money. I have heard of Kisumu only in Nyanza, so could the Minister then tell us why Kisii and South Nyanza were not allotted any money to help them celebrate, as well as other districts in Kenya?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Chairman, the Members who are questioning this matter are unfortunately the same people who were there when it was decided that the celebrations should be confined to the provincial centres, and Ministers and Members of Parliament were, in fact, advised to participate in their various provincial centres. That is why neither Kisumu nor Homa Bay in Nyanza, or Butere in Western Province, appeared in the list.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, it is surprising—

Mr. Anyleni: On a point of order, the reply given to me by the Minister almost implies that I was a member of the committee. I would like to make it very clear to the Minister that he must not mislead anybody, because I was never a member of this committee.

Mr. Mboya: I did not suggest that the hon. Member was a member of the committee, but I suggest most strongly that the hon. gentleman was a member of the Parliamentary Group where these matters were approved.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am surprised to hear the Minister stating that he did allocate some money to the Central Province Headquarters, that is Nyeri. Apparently, it seems to the people of Kirinyaga District, and perhaps other parts of the Central Province for that matter, that the arrangements that were made by the Celebrations Committee were made only to suit the Nyeri District. I say that, Sir, because we in Kirinyaga District, and perhaps even Murang'a, I do not know whether they had any representatives on the committee—were not even notified about the arrangements as Kanu workers. I am talking in terms of the Kanu workers, for the information of the Secretary-General of Kanu, and the executive officer.

Mr. Mboya: When were you appointed?

Mr. Gichoya: Before the Republic.

It happens, Sir, that there were no proper arrangements made by the Administration in my own district. We, as party members, had to make some arrangements, whereby people could at least have a Kenyatta Day, and notice that it really existed in the history of Kenya. Consequently, we had to pay for our own arrangements, and nothing came from Nyeri, the headquarters of the Province.

Mr. Khasakhala: On a point of order, in view of the fact that what we wanted to know had already been given by the Minister, could I call the hon. Member who brought to reduction to speak?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I think it would be in order, and I will put the question.
(Question that the question be now put, put and agreed to)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I will now put the question of the amendment to reduce the amount to be allocated by £1. I do not know whether the hon. Mr. Shikuku wants to withdraw it or wants to put it to the vote.

Mr. Shikuku: I will speak—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, you are too late, I am afraid. I will only let you withdraw it if you want to, otherwise you must put it to the vote.

I will put it to the vote.

(Question of the amendment put and negatived)
(Resumption of debate on original Motion)

(Head A7 agreed to)

VOICE 12—OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Head A—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Khasakhala: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, I thought we were discussing Subhead A7, and we would then continue discussing the whole of the Vote?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): The other clauses do not allocate any money, so we do not discuss the Government savings of money but only the expenditure. We will therefore go on to Vote 12.

(Heads A and B agreed to)

VOICE 13—MINISTRY OF FINANCE

(Heads A and L agreed to)

Head V—Pension Contribution—Staff Seconded from other Administrations

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like the Minister for Finance to explain who this officer was, which department he worked for and why it has taken so long for this money to be paid back. It has taken almost fifteen years. Why has it taken all this time?

Mr. Gichuru: The officer was seconded here from Trinidad and Tobago and under arrangements whereby officers employed by other Governments and Administrations were seconded to Kenya, it is normal for this Government to pay a suitable sum by way of contribution to cover pensions. This was the arrangement as it was then and all we are trying to do now is to fulfil that obligation.

This man was employed here for the period 25th October 1948 to 31st July 1950. We have been requested to contribute towards his pension over that period. This was the agreement under which the Government of that time was working and, therefore, we have this commitment and it is only right and fair that we should fulfil it.

Mr. Malinda: Unless my copy of the Supplementary Estimates is wrong, it says that this officer was employed from the 25th October 1948 to the 31st July 1950. I should have thought that if there was any payment towards the gratuity or pension accruing to that particular officer it should have been paid long before this Government came into power. After all, this officer was an employee of the Colonial Government. Why was this money not paid by the previous Government? It has taken fifteen years for this money to be brought to this Parliament.

Mr. Gichuru: It may have been an oversight but we are still paying a lot of debts that belonged to the old colonial days. As an honest Government we have the obligation to pay these debts.

Mr. Mwanuzandi: Mr. Chairman, I would like to know from the Minister why all this money has to be paid to this officer, who only worked from 1948 to 1950, which is only two years. How could he come to be pensionable within that short period?

Mr. Gichuru: This is only a part of the officer's pensionable period. Arrangements during those days were that people were moved around all over the colonial empire. Thus, if one officer served here for three years and then he went on to another area for five years, when his pension was due to be paid each Government would pay according to that period when he worked in that particular colony.

Mr. Anyleni: Sir, since these servants were agents from the colonial days, people who were sometimes used to suppress the African people who were fighting for independence, could the Minister tell us whether, when they were discussing the Constitution for the Independence of Kenya, they asked the British Government to make sure that it compensated these people when handing over after independence? If they did, could we be informed whether this interest free grant of £60 million which De Freitas was boasting about, which the British Government is supposed to have granted, is true?

Mr. Gichuru: One thing I wish to make clear. Mr. Chairman: I do not think De Freitas was boasting. This was in effect the truth.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, I truly sympathize with the Member on this issue, and since this was purely a technical mistake, there was nothing we could do.

NOTICE OF MOTION ON THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION BY PRIVATE NOTICE: 1964 KENYA PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION RESULTS

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Sir, I wish to raise this matter on an adjournment. The reason is that the Assistant Minister is not prepared to give us more information than he has already given us. He sympathizes with the situation, but I think it is high time that I should be allowed, as a Member from Kirinyaga District, to raise this matter on an adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Since the hon. Member has given notice of the intention to raise the matter on adjournment, that disposes of the question.

Mr. Bala: No supplementaries, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I am afraid not, because as I have just said, when, in the course of supplementary questions, a Member says that he wishes to raise a matter on adjournment, that puts an end to supplementary questions, and we wait for the discussion on the adjournment.

Mr. Kibuga: I wonder what the position is, because I asked a question, and although we are not objecting to the matter of the Motion on the Adjournment; is it not in order to allow me more time to raise a few questions?

NOTICES OF MOTIONS FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

BAN ON PUBLIC MEETINGS AT MURANGA

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members will recall that I had appointed the close of business yesterday for Mr. Kagga to raise on the adjournment the matter of banned meetings in Muranga. We adjourned unexpectedly and it was not possible for the matter to be raised. I propose now that the matter be raised by him at the interruption or earlier close of business, next Tuesday, 2nd March 1965, if the House is sitting then, as I think it will be.

TENSE SITUATION IN SAMBURU DISTRICT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is another matter of which I have had notice. Mr. Rurumban wishes to raise on an adjournment the tense situation in the Samburu District as the result of the killing and burning of the Samburu tribesmen by Shifita on 17th February 1965. I propose that he should raise that at the interruption or close of business on Wednesday, 3rd March 1965.

Mr. Kibuga: I am asking this question in regard to the future. Supposing an hon. Member raises a point of order to raise the matter during an adjournment, and later on withdraws to allow Members to ask more questions, would it be in order for such a Member to do that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is a new proposition, but I see no objection; but it is too late for that to happen on this occasion, I am afraid.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

(Order for Committee read)

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair)

IN THE COMMITTEE

(The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair)

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE No. 3 of 1964/65—RECURRENT

THAT a sum not exceeding £5,869,219 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65 (Recurrent), having regard to the proposed saving of £969,217 therein appearing (Minister for Finance on 23rd February 1965)

Amendment Proposed:

THAT Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65 (Recurrent) be reduced by £1 from £5,869,219 to £5,868,218.

(Mr. Shikuku on 23rd February 1965)

(Resumption of consideration in Committee interrupted on 23rd February 1965)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Hon. Members will remember that when we adjourned on Tuesday afternoon, we were discussing Vote 11, Head A (7), Kenya Day Celebrations, and the hon. Mr. Shikuku had moved a Motion reducing by £1 the Vote on this Motion. I think Mr. Kagga was on his feet when this business was interrupted.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, before we have a debate on this I will explain what I tried to explain last time, but I was interrupted so very much.

Mr. Chairman, that was the purpose in bringing this Supplementary Vote, and the good thing is that this money which is reserved has been paid and when all the money is collected, there is going to be a balance, some of which has already been handed over to the Kenya National Fund. Now, the process was that I took this money out of the Civil Contingencies Fund and handed it over to the Ministry of Home Affairs. The Ministry of Home Affairs now has the money, and all I am asking is the reverse process, so that this money can be taken back into the Civil Contingencies Fund. The question of the use of the money is going to be explained. There are the two points. I wanted to explain why it was brought up like this, that all I am asking is that the money now be returned to the Civil Contingencies Fund, as to how it was used, and the exact amount. I shall ask my colleague, Mr. Mboya, to explain as he was in charge.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I hear the hon. Member for Teso East, I think—

Mr. Odaya: On a point of order, is the hon. Minister in order—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I do not think it was the intention.

Mr. Odaya: It was.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): He might have been unsure perhaps of the constituency.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Chairman, Sir, all hon. Members will recall that it was decided to celebrate Kenya Day but this was a matter that should not be left to the Government but to the Committee that dealt with it. As a result, the Committee found it necessary to ask Government for funds. At the same time, the Ministry of Home Affairs was asked to provide a secretary for the Celebrations Committee. It was decided that some of the money should come from Government for the parades and other functions that were held in the country. However, it was then decided that some of the money from various functions should be given back to the Government to see how much of the money could be recovered. The position of the accounting until 15th January, which is the latest date I checked into the accounting, is as follows, and incidentally, this whole accounting is now being handled by the Chief Accountant in the Office of the President, who is now responsible for public administration.

We gave the following sums of money to the various areas:—

21 Committee of Supply—

Sh. 3,000 was allocated for decorations in the Nairobi Area. We are not at the moment able to say how much of this money was actually used for decorations, but the accountants are looking into it.

Sh. 2,500 was given to the Mombasa people to enable them to make arrangements for celebrations there.

Sh. 2,500 was given to Nakuru Area.

Sh. 3,000 was given to Eldoret Committee.

Sh. 4,000 was given to Embu.

Sh. 4,000 was given to Kakamega.

Sh. 2,500 was given to Nyeri.

Sh. 2,500 was given to Kisumu.

Sh. 2,500 was given to Garissa.

Sh. 2,000 for the hire of Nairobi Stadium for the rallies.

Sh. 1,000 for the printing of admission tickets for the various areas.

Sh. 1,000 for printing of raffle tickets for the various areas.

Sh. 5,000 for the hire of bands that played in the various areas.

Sh. 20,000 to organize a buffet dinner at the City Hall, Nairobi.

Sh. 4,000 for the hire of halls throughout the country.

Sh. 4,000 for police ground control throughout the country.

Sh. 6,000 for radio and television advertisements.

Sh. 500 for miscellaneous expenses.

These were the allocations, and that brings us a total of Sh. 70,000.

Now, Sir, I am surprised to hear the hon. Member for Narok East shouting "None for Narok". He was in the committee, he was co-opted in the committee after representations by him and the President of the Rift Valley Province, and he took part in helping us to determine what amounts should be sent to these various places.

Mr. Chairman, the hon. Member for Teso was also another member of the committee who did not attend most of the meetings.

Now, Sir, I can tell the House how much of this money was actually spent.

In Mombasa they spent Sh. 2,000 out of the money; Nakuru, Sh. 2,000; Eldoret, Sh. 2,000; Embu, Sh. 4,000; Kakamega, Sh. 4,000; Nyeri, Sh. 2,000; Kisumu, Sh. 2,000; Garissa, Sh. 2,000; printing of admission tickets, Sh. 788; hire of [Mr. Mutiso] schools were built by missionaries and one at Lodwar by the Kenya Government; only this school goes up to Standard VII. They are all boarding schools. Altogether there are 28 classes.

Mr. Ekittlar: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, which is this (Inaudible.)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, if I may continue with my answer. For the information of the House and the Members I would like to say that there are roughly 10,000 pupils altogether in these schools and the places seem to be adequate at the moment. Already there is a concession in that fees are not paid in Standard I and in Standard II and in Standard III alone only Sh. 20 is accepted as fees. The rest of the effort, I should imagine, Mr. Speaker, must come from the hon. Member and the local people.

I should also like to add that there are at least five districts in which there are boarding schools.

Mr. Ekittlar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister agree with me that the policy of the Government is that the people in the country are the ones who should be given the first priority for education, water, electricity?

Mr. Mutiso: I cannot repeat what I have already said.

Mr. Shlukus: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, I did not hear the reply of the Assistant Minister to the question asked by the hon. Member for Turkana North.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): He did not agree.

Mr. Mutiso: I cannot give the exact figures but as it has already been known to the Members that we have a Six-Year Development Plan and it is within this Plan we intend to open up new schools in the areas which are even less developed than the area in question.

Question No. 855

SETTLEMENT FOR TIRIKI, MARAGOLI AND BUNYORE

Mr. Godla asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House the areas he had earmarked for settlement of people from Tiriki, Maragoli and Bunyore.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There are no areas within the settlement schemes in the Western Region which are specifically earmarked for settlers from any particular or specific locations. It follows, therefore, that no area has been set aside for settlement by people from Tiriki, Maragoli and Bunyore Locations.

Mr. Godla: Is the Minister aware that we have over 1,000 applicants who cannot receive consideration for settlement in that particular case?

Mr. Gachago: I am not aware of that.

Mr. Godla: I shall put this to the Minister, is he not aware that we have thousands of applicants, particularly from Maragoli, Bunyore and Tiriki, who do not receive consideration, because there is no place for them to go for settlement.

Mr. Gachago: I am not aware and if the hon. Member could give me cases of applications which have been submitted, but which have not been considered, then I will take them up.

QUESTION BY PRIVATE NOTICE

1964 KENYA PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION RESULTS IN KIRINYAGA

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Kibuga, I believe you have a Question by Private Notice to ask the Minister for Education?

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have the following question to ask the Minister for Education:—

Mr. Kibuga asked the Minister for Education if he was aware that, when the Kenya Preliminary Examination results came out for 1964, sixteen schools in Kirinyaga District had marks for most of the subjects missing, and that it was not until the papers were returned to Nairobi that some of the marks were found. Also, would the Minister be able to tell the House the number of pupils in four schools who had, up until now, still not received their results, even though other secondary schools in Kenya had opened. Could the Minister also tell the House why application forms for all the girls in Central Province had been destroyed before the headmistresses of the secondary schools had selected candidates for their schools. Would the Minister also tell the House what disciplinary measures had been taken against those concerned.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very important question, and I would ask for the honour of all hon. Members so that they can hear the reply to this question. I beg to give the following answer. I am sure that the fault really lies generally in the marked sheets, being incomplete or received too late for inclusion in the first results list. Corrected sheets were nevertheless dispatched or taken to the Provincial Education Officers before the end of January and arrangements were made with Provincial Education Officers, so that no child would lose a secondary place as a result of delays.

Secondly, most urgent inquiries were sent to all Provincial Education Officers on the 16th February, requesting immediate information about any school still lacking their Kenya Preliminary Examination results.

Thirdly, the Minister has received no complaint about the destruction of girls' application for secondary education. If the hon. Member will provide detailed information, then an inquiry can be made.

Fourthly, no irregularities have been proved. Officers of the Ministry have been, in fact, most scrupulous in dealing with all the difficulties of which the Ministry has been made aware, because of the number of candidates for the 1964 Kenya Preliminary Examination, which was 103,000. A great use was made of computing machines to facilitate a quicker processing of marks from the marking centres. The mark sheets were printed by International Computers and Tabulators in a form more readily usable by the computer. It was essential, however, that no amendments to the printed sheets were made, otherwise the sheets so amended, could not coincide with the information already fed into the machine. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, through omissions of candidates' names by headmasters and even changes of school numbers, the markers frequently found themselves bound to amend the printed list. The result was a refusal by the machine to print the block parts. Many of the items amended by the markers were, on the other hand, mistaken by the International Computers and Tabulators during the printing of the lists. This was due to a fault in the machine operating and, for example, duplicating index numbers like 001, 001, 002 and 002, instead of 001 and 002 consecutively; or faulty manual counting of cards to feed into the machines.

Here again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, some markers used their common sense and made alterations resulting again in a refusal by the machine. While these mechanical errors contributed largely to faults in the results, another contributory factor was the delay in sending the marks from the marking centres. Again, there was more than one, because there were a large number of scripts and, as in Central Province, too small a number of markers. This, also, was an obvious cause of delay.

There was also the occasional sending of the wrong subject figures to the markers. While these were the main causes for the delay, a complication arose in getting lists amended, because there was only one copy of each mark list, and that was held by International Computers and Tabulators. So the Ministry could not readily check marks, either from the mark list or from the scripts which were held in the marking centres. The Ministry, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is confident after its success in the 1964 examinations in virtually stamping out leakages, and is now preparing detailed plans for the 1965 examinations, in order to eradicate all the administrative difficulties which have beset the recent Kenya Preliminary Examination. The plans, so far, are:—

- To obtain full entry lists from schools a month earlier than last year.
- This, above, will enable the printed mark sheets to be printed in sufficient time to permit thorough checking at provincial and school levels. Thus, information fed into the machine, will be known to be correct and the marked sheets will agree.
- To decide now on the seating and increased number of marking panels needed to cope with the expected 166,000 candidates.
- To have large examination centres to permit easier and quicker administration.
- To have the marked lists in duplicate, one for the computer and one for the Ministry, so that the Ministry is at no time out of reach of possible sources of error.
- To insist on very careful supervision by the computing staff on any purely manual operation such as the punching of computer cards.

By these means, there is no reason to suppose that, despite 50 per cent increase of K.P.E. candidates in 1965, examinations will not be entirely satisfactory from the point of view of both security and administration generally.

Mr. Kibuga: Would the Assistant Minister agree with me that due to the failure of these results for some schools coming out, some pupils who should have gone to national schools had no chance of going there, because, in the examination, there were three subjects, English, mathematics and a general paper and there was a special paper that was marked only after the other papers were marked and a candidate was shown to be worthy of secondary education. Would he agree with me that some pupils who should have gone to national schools missed their places?

[Mr. Shikuku] they do not think this road should receive priority?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not because the Ministers do not go that way. May I just add something, Sir? Although Ministers may not have visited this place, we have engineers in the province who constantly give us reports.

Mr. Aramant: May we know from the Minister the percentage of trucks that pass on that road, the number of the trucks?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I understood correctly, I have said that the development of our roads is considered along with other roads in the country. Therefore, it is not the density of traffic alone which makes the Government think of developing that particular road.

Question No. 887

MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS TO BECOME MINISTRY OF PRISONS

Mr. Kiprotich asked the President if the Ministry of Home Affairs could be now changed to Ministry of Prisons.

The Assistant Minister, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of the President, I beg to reply: No, Sir.

Mr. Kiprotich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I seek your guidance on this question. If a Minister is asked a question and then he just comes here and says, "No, Sir," what can be done to such a Ministry?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think an hon. Member who has asked a question wants an answer: "Yes" or "No". You cannot always expect the answer "Yes".

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply of "No, Sir," could we know the reasons behind maintaining a Ministry of Prisons in the name of the Home Ministry when it has nothing to do with Home Affairs?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope the hon. Member read the statement which was issued by the Minister for Information when he explained the distribution of responsibilities and functions. If the hon. Members read that statement, they would understand that this Ministry does not consist of the Prisons Department only.

Mr. Neala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that this Ministry has nothing to do with all those matters which are known to be Home Affairs, but is only concerned with prisons and lunatic asylums? Will the Assistant Minister agree to get a Minister appointed for Prisons and Lunatics? How can he have it extended this way to be called the Ministry of Prisons and Approved Schools?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to agree with what the hon. Member for Homa Bay has suggested, but if I may expand a little, although the Kenya Government does not simply copy the practices of other countries, it is perhaps appropriate to point out that in other countries, especially African countries, the Ministry responsible for the administration of the Department of Probation and Approved Schools is called the Ministry of Home Affairs. Our nomenclature here would, therefore, appear to conform with practices elsewhere.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that this Government has been unfair in removing all powers from the former Minister for Home Affairs to so many particular Ministries?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the hon. Member for Belgut repeat his question in a moderate tone?

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I repeat my question to the Assistant Minister? I said: can the Assistant Minister agree with me that this Government has been unfair in removing all the powers which formerly belonged to the Ministry of Home Affairs to some other Ministries?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Government has not been unfair.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 887—MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS TO BE CHANGED TO MINISTRY OF PRISONS

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, in view of the most important unsatisfactory fact to Question No. 887 and in view of the fact that the Assistant Minister has tried to hide the truth from this House, I wish to raise this question on a Motion for the adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 889

LAND SETTLEMENT MONEY FOR KERCHO

Mr. Kiprotich asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement, how much money had been allocated to Land and Settlement farmers in Kericho to enable them to run their small holdings satisfactorily.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

In the Solik area we allocate, roughly, £6 per acre of development money for each settler, in addition to the cost of his land.

This is in line with development money that we lend to other schemes right throughout the country.

Mr. Abogoh: Is the Minister aware that £6 per acre is not enough for a farmer like that, taking into consideration the cost of labour in these areas?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the existing circumstances, we consider £6 to be enough and if we are convinced that it is not enough and we have the money, we could consider raising this amount.

Mr. Soli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Minister mean that this money is for the purchase of the land or for the development of the plots?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that the amount is merely for development, and this is in addition to the other money for the purchase of the land.

Mr. Kamuren: Is the Minister aware that some of the plot holders in some of the settlement schemes are having their plots confiscated just because they have been given insufficient money?

Mr. Gachago: I do not agree with the hon. Member that the plots which have been confiscated have been confiscated merely because they do not have enough money for development. On the other hand, Mr. Speaker, it must be appreciated that there are many, many other settlers besides those whose plots have been confiscated, who run their smallholdings very efficiently with money we allocate to them.

Question No. 891

RACIAL BREAKDOWN OF STAFF: COAST GOVERNMENT AGENCY

Mr. Balala asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power whether he could give the racial breakdown of the staff of the Coast Government Agency.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

Although I am very reluctant to answer this question, which tends to ask Government to breakdown employees in the Government Coast Agency into racial figures I would, to satisfy the hon. Member's curiosity, tell him that at present there are 17 Kenya Africans, 26 Asians, 14 Arabs and 3 Europeans.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister tell this House whether the entire employees of this establishment are Kenya citizens or not?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think that falls within my responsibility, but if he does want me to supply him with that information, I would do so if he would care to wait a little.

Mr. Somo: Is the Minister aware that a certain Asian who works with the Government Coast Agency and who has been transferred to Nairobi has been replaced by an Asian instead of an African?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of such tiny details raised by the hon. Member.

Question No. 922

MORE SCHOOLS FOR TURKANA

Mr. Ekitella asked the Minister for Education whether the Government was prepared to build more schools in Turkana, so as to raise and expand the standard of education in the district.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government is very anxious about the expansion of education in all areas in Kenya. It builds schools, especially secondary schools in all areas, but, where possible, emphasis is always given to the less developed areas. Only in very few districts does the Government run boarding primary schools as they are very expensive and Turkana District is one of these. I wish to assure the Member for Turkana South that the Government will continue to give special attention in educational matters to the less developed areas.

Mr. Ekitella: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I only want two words: "yes" or "no", that is what I want.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, the answer was "yes", Sir.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister tell this House what consideration is being given to establishing either a secondary or a primary school in this particular district?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, if I may add to what I have said I would like to state that there are eight primary schools in Turkana. Seven of these [Mr. Gichoya] that they can guide the various Ministries in the development of each district?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if Elected Members in any district take the initiative to come together and have suggestions to make, or proposals to put forward about development in their areas, I will be very interested to discuss these ideas with them and to hear what they have to put forward. I do not guarantee that I will accept everything they say, because we will have to determine the whole question on the basis of feasibility and also on whether they are practical in terms of the whole picture of the country. Each district has a county council which takes part in the development work of the country through its various programmes arising from its own budget.

Additionally, when the Plan was prepared for the whole country we took into account the provinces and the districts and there is, even now, development work going on in Kirinyaga District in the agricultural, industrial, commercial and social areas of development.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister for Development and Planning inform this House whether there is anything in his power that he can do in matters of labour and employment to bring to the notice of the Minister for Labour to help those remote districts which are not near big industrial towns in order to let their youths obtain a fair quota of employment in bigger towns?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, no, Mr. Agar, I am afraid you cannot expect the Minister to answer and give you the details of economic planning. You must restrict your questions to the economic planning machinery.

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, —

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do you want to reply, Mr. Mboya?

Mr. Mboya: Yes, Sir, I think the question is of interest in what we are trying to establish.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid you will not be able to give a very detailed answer, Mr. Mboya. We do not have the time for that.

Mr. Mboya: Yes, Sir, All I want to say in reply is that, in fact, the policy has always been to diversify and decentralize as far as possible so that jobs will be available in the remotest parts of the country.

Mr. Kalli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that the ordinary villagers in Kenya today do not understand—and they do not know what is required of them—what this Six-Year Plan is, they do not know what they can do to make it a success?

Mr. Mboya: It is quite possible, Sir, that some people in the villages do not know about the Six-Year Development Plan and; do not understand what parts they may play in it. It is not possible within a matter of twenty-four months to have brought this country, all of its people, to appreciate and become conscious of planning and development. However, Sir, the job of creating this consciousness and educating the people in the villages is one which must be done as between the Government, the elected representatives and all the arms of Government from the top to county council level. That is why I welcome development committees by Elected Members in every district.

Question No. 868

OVERHEAD BRIDGE AT KWA-JOMBU

Mr. Mwatsama asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power if the East Africa Railways and Harbours would consider installing an overhead bridge at Kwa-Jombu Railway Crossing in order to reduce the large number of accidents that occurred on this site, particularly at night.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. At present, the Government has no intention of building a road over rail bridge at Kwa-Jombu.

This is because of the very high costs that will have to be incurred by Government in building such a bridge. At present, the Government, the East African Railways and Harbours and the Mombasa Municipality are thinking of the project on a long-term basis. When funds are available, something will be done to this section of the road.

Mr. Mwatsama: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister tell the House how many people were injured and how many people died during last year?

Mr. Mwanjumba: There was an accident last year at this point. The accident was not, really speaking, caused by the railway crossing. We believe it was caused by careless driving.

Mr. Masinde: Arising from the Minister's reply Mr. Speaker, could he tell us how many accidents have taken place at this level crossing during the past three years, caused by the railway crossing?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have no figures available for the past three years but from [Mr. Mwanjumba] January to December 1964, there was only one accident.

Mr. Masinde: Arising from that reply, is the Minister aware that though it appears he has not the actual figures, that at one instance three buses were involved at the railway crossing and this caused a number of deaths? It is because of this that it is necessary to have a bridge. Is he aware of this?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, really I do not follow what the hon. Member is asking for. However, I have said that since 1959 there has been only one accident. I have also said that the Government, the municipality and the Railway Administration are looking into this question and when they are in a position to remedy the situation something will, I am sure, be done.

Question No. 869

POKOT LANGUAGE BROADCASTS ON VOICE OF KENYA

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism if he could tell the House whether he was considering including the Pokot language in the Voice of Kenya programmes.

The Assistant Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Onamu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As this country is moving towards establishing Swahili as the national language, it is not the intention to encourage vernacular programmes. If there is need for any particular campaign to warrant an appeal to Pokot people in their own language, this could be considered on its own merits.

Mr. Makhokha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister give an indication of when Swahili is likely to be used universally in this country?

Mr. Onamu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in due course.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, does he imply that the local programmes now being broadcast through the Voice of Kenya are fostering social sectionalism and not the national cause?

Mr. Onamu: Mr. Speaker, that is not the case, but the hon. Member must realize that his people should have known Swahili by now.

Mr. Khalifa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister agree with me that either all vernacular languages in the whole of Kenya should be abolished or that the Coast language should be included?

Mr. Onamu: No, Sir.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister mean to say that all Africans in Kenya should know Swahili?

Mr. Onamu: That is true, Sir.

Mr. Tanui: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister agree with me that the Kalenjin language is included in the Voice of Kenya programmes, as the Pokot people are Kalenjin?

Question No. 870

IMPROVEMENTS TO KAPENGURIA/SIGOR ROAD

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power if his Ministry had any plans for improving and expanding dangerous parts of the road from Kapenguria to Sigor and similarly Kongelai.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Until recently, the roads referred to by the hon. Member were a regional responsibility, but unfortunately they have not been included in the 1964-70 Development Plan. The Government had asked county councils and provincial councils to submit a list of roads which they thought needed priority in their areas but these have not been received by the Ministry.

The hon. Member will appreciate that even though a list may be given, it will have to be considered in conjunction with other roads elsewhere in the country, and the roads which are considered to be of first priority by the Government will be looked into.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, would the Minister tell the House if he is aware that the Kapenguria road from Kapenguria to Kongelai is a national road which goes from Nairobi to Lodwar, and, as such, it should receive first priority?

Mr. Mwanjumba: No, Sir, a national road does not receive first priority merely because it is a national road; it has to be considered in relation to other national roads elsewhere. This particular road the hon. Member is talking about has been considered by Government, but Government is satisfied that there are other roads elsewhere which should receive the attention of the Cabinet.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply of the Minister, is it not because most of the Ministers do not use that road and that is why

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Assistant Minister thinks that what I have stated is not correct, then is he prepared to take up the case if I produce a case whereby some children were refused admission into former racial schools because the principal alleged that they were over age?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have just stated that it is one of the conditions which we lay down where the schools had more applicants than it could take, but if the hon. Member could bring some evidence which is purely on racial basis, as he alleges, then we would consider it.

Mr. Mullro: Arising from the Minister's reply, is the Minister aware that at the Prince of Wales, one of the teachers on the staff who wanted integration to be carried out effectively, was actually vitally persecuted by the rest of the staff of the Prince of Wales?

Mr. Mutiso: I am not aware of this.

Mr. Lorena: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would the Assistant Minister tell the House whether his Ministry is prepared to remove both physical and psychological discriminatory conditions in these schools?

Mr. Mutiso: I do not consider, as I have just stated, that at the present moment, we have any discrimination in our schools anywhere in the country.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister give this House an assurance that the boys who have been admitted to the schools we are talking about are the boys with the highest grades possible, and if he gives this assurance, will the Minister then give an assurance to this House that if we find that there are some boys in these schools with no qualifications, irrespective of their race or colour, and we have some boys outside with higher qualifications without having a chance in the secondary schools, that the Minister will take steps to remove those boys from those schools and introduce boys with higher qualifications?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, if there is evidence on the lines that the hon. Member has stated, in that case, Mr. Speaker, it would be looked into.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the first reply of the Assistant Minister, supposing, in the sight of what he has said, some former racial schools are found to be discriminatory up to now, what is he prepared to do?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree with that.

Question No. 850

SETTLEMENT OF ABALUHYA IN TRANS NZOIA AND USIN GISHU

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement what he had done in order to settle the landless Baluhya in Trans Nzoia and Usin Gishu Districts?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

Settlement schemes in the Western Province are primarily for the Baluhya as a whole, irrespective of where they stay or work. There are Baluhya in Trans Nzoia and Usin Gishu Districts, who may apply for holdings in settlement schemes in the Western Province, and their applications will receive the same consideration as those which are submitted by Baluhya living in other districts.

My Ministry does not keep a record of settlers showing their districts prior to the allocation of plots, and I am, therefore, not in a position to assess how many Baluhya in the Trans Nzoia and Usin Gishu Districts have gained from settlement operations.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Assistant Minister's reply, is he not aware that as a result of a recent Regional Constitution, the Baluhya as a tribe with over a million people, were given a very small area which is not sufficient for their settlement expansion and development and, as a result, it is, therefore, necessary to consider them for other areas for settlement?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think the suggestion has anything to do with consideration of Baluhya people from other provinces. It relates to the two districts which were to be considered to be given priority for settlement in the province itself, and we say that in the settlement schemes, the Baluhya people are considered in general, not in accordance with the district they come from.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from that reply, is the Minister aware that apart from Usin Gishu and Trans Nzoia, the system is different in that, at the moment, people in a given area are settled there, for example, in the Rift Valley where Kikuyus are being settled when they don't belong to that region?

Mr. Gachago: I am not aware of that.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply, will the Assistant Minister assure this House that settlement schemes selection

(Mr. Masinde) boards would first of all consider the displaced labour before taking anybody from what was called "the reserves"?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, the labour on the farms purchased by the Minister for Lands and Settlement is given very serious consideration, where the people are picked for settlement.

Mr. Mboogo: In view of the fact that all land in Kenya belongs to Kenyans, does the Assistant Minister consider settling people, wherever the land may be found and not those people who are Baluhyas from Trans Nzoia and Western Province only?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, land certainly belongs to the Kenya people as a whole, and belongs to the State of Kenya. Also, the divisions and the provinces are recognized by the Government.

Question No. 852

AID FOR HARAMBEE SCHOOLS IN HAMISI

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Education if he would, in consultation with the County Education Officer, consider aiding the Harambee Schools of Munzatsi, Senende, Gwogi and Goibei in Hamisi Constituency.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

It will be possible to aid in 1965 Chesamisi which is one of the Harambee secondary schools in the Western Region. But it is regretted that, owing to shortage of funds, it will not be feasible to aid at the same time Munzatsi, Senende, Gwogi and Goibei.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, arising out of the Minister's reply, could he tell the House when funds to aid these schools?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought that my answer was very clear, and I will repeat saying that it will be at a time that we get funds.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, will the Assistant Minister give us the policy concerning these Harambee secondary schools so that we know whether these schools in Hamisi Constituency would be subject to this particular policy?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, our policy will depend very much on the reports from the provincial headquarters.

Mr. Kamuren: Arising from the reply, will the Assistant Minister tell us when these funds are going to be available?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Will you please repeat your question.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would ask the Assistant Minister to tell us when the funds are going to be available for the schools in question.

Mr. ole Konchellah: When the funds are available.

Question No. 867

ECONOMIC PLANNING FOR KIRINYAGA

Mr. Gichoya asked the Minister for Economic Planning and Development if there was any established economic planning machinery for industrial, agricultural or social development in Kirinyaga District.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As the hon. Member is aware the Government has published a Six-Year Development Plan for the period 1964-1970. The Plan deals with, inter alia, industrial, agricultural and social development for the entire country. In the compilation of the Plan, the industrial, agricultural and social development of districts, including Kirinyaga District, was taken into account. My Ministry is in the process of revising the Plan with a view to making it more comprehensive.

The Ministry of Economic Planning and Development works in very close consultation with other Ministries in the Government. It co-ordinates matters relating to development and planning, but each Ministry is responsible for execution and administration of the relevant part of the Plan. If the hon. Member is interested in the detailed programmes of industrial, agricultural or social development in Kirinyaga District, he should contact the Ministries of Commerce and Industry, Agriculture and Animal Husbandry and Labour and Social Services, respectively for such information.

Mr. Gichoya: Arising from the Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that there has never been any co-ordination up until this moment, with the Economic Development Committees within the districts, so far as industrial, agricultural and social developments are concerned in Kirinyaga District, and since the Minister is concerned with development, is he prepared, instead of recommending Members to various Ministries, to accept Elected Members on development committees so

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE CHAIR

SENATE AMENDMENTS TO BILLS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I wish to inform all Members that the Senate has returned the Cereals and Sugar Finance Corporation Amendment Bill and the Post Office Savings Bank Amendment Bill, and in both cases is in the affirmative. Since that is the first time that this has occurred, it might help hon. Members if I describe what happens next according to our Standing Orders. The next thing is that a Minister will have to move that these amendments be considered. At that point, it will be open to the House to resolve by amendment that the amendments do not be considered for another six months, which means that the Bill will be kept in abeyance meanwhile or by another amendment that the Bill will be withdrawn altogether. Otherwise, if the Motion is carried that the amendment be again considered, the question will again be put to the House, whether or not the House agrees to these amendments. If the House still disagrees with the Senate Amendments, then the House may either make some other amendment and refer it back to the Senate, or there may be a Motion by any Member that the matter at that stage be referred to a Joint Committee of both Houses.

ANTICIPATION OF DEBATES—STANDING ORDER 60
Hon. Members, I have one more Communication to make.

Two days ago I gave a ruling which I find to have been incomplete, and which must now be corrected.

During the debate on adjournment, Mr. Odinga raised a point of order whereby he questioned the propriety of that debate, concerning eviction of squatters from farms in Laikipia, in view of Notice of Motion on a similar subject already given by Mr. Kaggia, which Motion is due to be debated tomorrow.

Thinking that Mr. Odinga referred to Standing Order 32, which prohibits Motions which are already in substance as questions which have already been resolved by the House, I pointed out that debates on adjournment do not involve any actual resolution, and that this debate on adjournment would consequently not prevent subsequent debate on Mr. Kaggia's Motion; but I overlooked Standing Order 60 which deals with anticipation of debates, and which is probably what Mr. Odinga really had in mind.

Standing Order 60 (2) provides that it shall be out of order to anticipate the discussion of a Motion of which notice has been given, by discussion upon a substantive Motion or an amendment, or by raising the same subject matter upon a Motion for the adjournment of the House; though regard must be had to the probability of the matter anticipated being brought before the House within a reasonable time.

In view of the facts that Mr. Kaggia's Motion is similar in substance (though not identical) to the matter which Mr. Kariuki brought up on that adjournment, and that Mr. Kaggia's Motion is to be debated so soon, I think that Mr. Odinga was correct in his point of order, and that I should not have allowed the adjournment debate to continue.

I apologize to Mr. Odinga and to the House for this error on my part, and I would ask hon. Members to note for the future the effect of Standing Order 60 with regard to anticipation of debates.

PAPERS LAID

The following Papers were laid on the Table:—

Report on the working of the Public Service Commission of Kenya for the year 1964.

East African Common Services Organization.
East African Industrial Research Organization Annual Report 1963-1964.

(By the Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki) on behalf of the Vice-President (Mr. Odinga))

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

COURSES FOR CIVIL SERVANTS

Mr. Mbogoi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that the colonial mentality has not been cleared from some of our senior civil servants, this House urges the Government to take early steps to rehabilitate these civil servants by arranging courses in the Lumumba Institute so that they can be taught lessons which will decolonize them to enable them to serve our country effectively.

Mr. Rurumban: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motions:—

DEVELOPMENT MONEY FOR POOR SAMBURU

THAT in view of the large number of Samburu families who, as a result of Shifita raids have lost all their livestock and other properties, this House urges the Government to Vote in the 1964/65 Development Supplementary Estimate a substantial sum of money for the settlement of these impoverished families.

REMOVAL OF SOMALIS FROM ISIOLO DISTRICT

THAT in view of the continuous series of raids and inhuman slaughtering and burning of Samburu tribesmen by Shifita, this House urges the Government to remove all the Somalis living in tenfold areas in the Isiole District and declare it an emergency area.

DISMISSAL OF ALL SOMALIS FROM ARMY AND POLICE

Mr. Ogle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT this House notes with the greatest dissatisfaction the manners and ways Somali officers in the Government Services are treated and the repeated remarks by Ministers that they are not trusted, therefore, this House urges the Government to dismiss all Somalis in the army, police and Tribal Police from their services and replace them with anybody who is loyal to the Government.

ACCEPTANCE OF CONCEPT OF PLANNED SOCIALISM

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT this House rejects the concept of African Socialism and accepts planned socialism.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 846

DISCRIMINATORY CONDITIONS IN SCHOOLS.

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister for Education whether he would consider removing all the discriminatory conditions for admission to the former racial schools, so that the intake would be based on merit only.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Yes, Sir. The Ministry has in fact considered removing discriminatory conditions for admission into former racial schools and the heads of these schools have been made fully aware of the intentions of the Ministry in this matter.

As the hon. Member must know, the number of African children studying in the former racial schools has more than quadrupled during the last twelve months or so, and the year 1965 will see yet another big stride in favour of integration in these schools. It is, however, to be hoped that hon. Members will appreciate that changes as vital as these will require some time to be completed. In some cases long established practices may not be easily abolished at once without giving adequate warning to those who would be most affected by the changes.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister says that the Government is considering removing these differences, would he give us the proportion in which the present intake has been carried out?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may follow that up, that one African attended a European school in 1963 and 286 in 1964. The figures for 1965, Mr. Speaker, as the hon. Members are aware, are not yet available, but it is hoped that they will be greater than those in 1964. Integration is progressing very well in former Asian schools where, in one school alone, Mr. Speaker, about 105 out of 210, which is fifty per cent, were admitted. There are hardly any cases of Europeans opting to attend traditionally African schools and the obvious reasons for this, Mr. Speaker, is bad.

Mr. Ochwada: Is the Assistant Minister aware that several African students or children were turned away from the so-called former racial schools, because they were alleged to be over age, and is he aware that this over age is not the fault of the parents, nor was it the fault of the children? What is he doing about this?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We are talking about discriminatory conditions.

Mr. Ochwada: If I may elucidate this, Mr. Speaker; this is one of the discriminatory conditions. They are turned away because they are Africans, not because they are over age.

Mr. Mutiso: First of all I do not agree with the hon. Member. I would like to inform the House that one of the problems which perhaps caused some of the pupils, as the hon. Member mentioned, to be turned away, was because some schools have more applicants than they could take. Therefore, we, in the Ministry considered that instead of chasing away some pupils who were under the average age, we gave priority to the younger ones.

[The Minister for Internal Security and Defence] another Motion, on which more Members will participate, I continue to say that you cannot explain the whole policy of the Government on the land within two minutes, but I am trying, and if I am not interrupted, I will give as much as I can and then, when the next Motion comes, we will continue.

Sir, I was saying that there was an area called the White Highlands where there are places like Nyandarua District, which is now purely African, and Africans have acquired that land in those areas. It is being farmed by Africans, and this is continuing to places like OI Kalou District, in which now settlement has started. The production over there is very good, and we are taking measures, step by step, until all farming land in Kenya shall belong to the Africans. This we are doing, and we cannot be accused of not working very rapidly and fast.

The other point is about the people who have no land, the squatters. As we have said very often, those people will have priority in the land on which they are now squatting, and we have said that people who come from other areas will have to wait until those people on the farms have been settled.

Mr. Speaker, when I speak in this House, I am not only speaking to the Mover of the Motion, but I am speaking to the whole nation, and I want the people in the Highlands, and in the co-operatives, and on the farms to listen, because this is what we are doing and it is the policy of the Government.

Mr. Speaker, we have given priority to those who are living there, and we are going to carry it through, particularly on a co-operative basis. Although I am not the Minister for Agriculture or Settlement, I happen to know that these are the plans that we are coming to, but you cannot do everything within a minute, within a night, and even within one day, and we have made good progress and we are going to continue and the hon. Members who are sitting opposite talking about this Motion will one day share our joy, because we will have accomplished what we set out to accomplish. That is what the Government of Kenya wants, and what the fighters for a long time have been fighting for in Kenya.

This is the Government answer on this Motion, and since I hear that there is another Motion similar to this coming, we shall be able to elaborate more on our land policy in Kenya; and we are sure every hon. Member in this House will support it.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have had half an hour. The House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 24th February 1965, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

Wednesday, 24th February 1965

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHAIR

MURDER OF THE HON. P. G. PINTO

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All honourable Members have been shocked, may I horrified beyond measure, by the news that our colleague and friend Pio Gama Pinto was murdered this morning.

I cannot imagine any sane motive for the murder of such a man; but rather than letting our imaginations run wild, we must await the findings of the police and the verdict of an expert.

Meanwhile, our immediate duty is to record our heartfelt sympathy with his widow and the children and other members of his family in their sudden bereavement, and our own sense of loss. Mr. Pinto will be remembered as a friendly and courteous man of great public spirit and considerable ability. Though not with us very long in this House, he made his mark, especially by his energy and enthusiasm with which he worked on parliamentary matters in committees and elsewhere outside this Chamber. It is indeed a tragedy, both for this House and for our country, that we should lose such men in their prime of life.

I will say no more, but ask all honourable Members to stand in silence, showing our deep regret for the death of our friend; our respect for his memory, and our sorrowful sympathy for his wife and family.

Hon. Members, I had intended to make another Communication from the Chair today correcting a mistake which I made yesterday on Mr. Odinga's point of order during the Adjournment debate, but I think I must now leave that to another happier day.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand on behalf of the Government and the people of Kenya and this House to express how deeply we were shocked, and felt the incident which resulted in the death of our dear brother, Pio Pinto, and in such a state of affairs and state of mind, I do not think that it would be fair for the business of this House to carry on smoothly, and as a result of that, I think that the House and request that the House do adjourn for today and consider to meet tomorrow.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) seconded.

(Question proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would request hon. Members that they allow me to put the question without debate.

(Question put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, 25th February 1965, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Twenty minutes to Three o'clock.

help us with the Kenya problem as far as the landless population in the country is concerned. That is the people who have now come to be known as illegal squatters. Now, what we want, Mr. Speaker, is not to give an impression to the people and to the leaders of this country, who are not actually Ministers, that we are considering the workers, but not the illegal squatters as human beings. We do not want that sort of thing to happen, and we do not want Government to create an impression with the public—that it is these settlers who are evicting these people. We want the Government to come out with a complete land policy, to tell the nation that when we take over the land, here is the land for you, and they should come to this land.

Another point, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that our people want urgently some more land. During the struggle for independence, we told our people very clearly that the land belonged to them; we told them that when we had independence they would get the land.

The problem of land in Kenya is due to the foreign administration, due to the British Administration. Now, we have had our own administration for nearly two years, but what has our own régime done to alter this problem? What our own régime has done, if I am not wrong, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is only to go to carry on with the old evil ways, and if I may quote our hon. Vice-President's speech, he has given an assurance on protection for commerce. If you want me to quote this, I can do so. It is no use saying that there are illegal squatters, when the people are not interested in the problem. It is the Government who is interested in the problem. The Minister did not mention what the Government is doing to help those people, because now those people are everywhere in the Rift Valley where the settlers are. He has not mentioned how the Government is going to protect these people who need protection. All he mentioned, if I can quote it with your permission, Mr. Speaker, is that the Government is seriously considering the problem of unemployment, and assure these people that these people would not be neglected.

Now, what we demand from the Government, if the Government has the time, is to assure the settlers on their protection. Now, we see that the Government has not given an assurance within that period to a helpless population—

The Vice-President (Mr. Odunga): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like the hon. Member to clarify this statement he has made, because he said that I was referring to the slow progress, and what is wrong with that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is very important that the hon. Members referring to a report or a statement of the Vice-President or any other Member, describe exactly when the statement was made and give the full context to the hon. Member.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, we are not actually blaming this Government. All we do is to try and assist the Government to find a solution immediately, because there is one very interesting word which is going round in the heads of our Government Ministers, in the heads of our—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Odunga still wants you to be precise about your statement.

Mr. Oduya: If I am given a few more minutes, I can read it to you. "Mr. Odunga, who was addressing a meeting of the Rift Valley Region said that Kenya people should not say, in depicting, that because they have an African Government, they can do what they like with other people's property. He was replying to a suggestion by the Rift Valley President, that the Government should apply stronger measures to stop illegal squatting on private farms in the Rift Valley." All I would say is this, Mr. Speaker, that if the Government says that they have no time to get this problem properly solved, what we want to know is how these people could go to these farms. Is it because these people are doing it deliberately, or are they trying to do this because they have no place to go? If they have no place to go, what is the Government going to do to try and find somewhere for these people, to avoid them staying on in this land?

The Vice-President (Mr. Odunga): May I rise, Mr. Speaker, I think on a point of order. The Speaker should actually clarify where he found that I was wrong, and where the mistake was made.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the hon. Member is explaining his argument now.

You have another minute or so, Mr. Oduya.

Mr. Oduya: Let me finish by saying that when the hon. Member from Laikipia brought this here, we are also worried about it, and we do not want Government Ministers or top civil servants saying that it is the Members who are inciting this. This is a problem which is very clear. All we are asking the Government to do is to find a solution, but not to go and tell people that the Members in this House are working against the Government, and therefore, they will be sent to Mananyi. If this question of sending off people who have no land and we Members protest, and the only solution the Government can think of, is to send us to Mananyi, will the Government should think up something better than this as an answer to the landless problem.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member in this House raised a Motion, but somehow he never mentioned my Ministry, but I am going to answer on behalf of the Government.

Sir, starting with the hon. Member for Laikipia, the hon. Mr. Kariuki, he gives some exhibits over here of some papers and notices. One of them is signed by Mr. Preston, and he seems to think that Mr. Preston is in the Kenya Government. I have not seen a signature so far signed by a member of Government, giving protection. This is not a Government notice, it is not a Government paper—

Mr. Maslode: On a point of information, Sir.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): How can the hon. Member start asking me for information when the time is so short?

It is not a Government notice, and it is not signed by any Minister or police, and this is Mr. Preston's own affair, on which the hon. Member from Laikipia, Mr. G. G. Kariuki, should have checked with the Government to find out whether it is a Legal Notice or not. We have all the offices of the Attorney-General over here, through which he could have checked to protect the people who have elected him, but he should have done so and then put it on the record that he had been to the Attorney-General's Office to find that this was a Government Legal Notice. I would still advise him to do so.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, to continue on this, they also accused the former Minister for Home Affairs, who is now the Vice-President, of having been a spokesman for the settlers in Kenya. This is the first time I have heard such an accusation, that the hon. the Vice-President of Kenya has become the key spokesman for the settlers in Kenya.

An hon. Member: Read this.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, they are even handing me notices to substantiate what I am saying.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I happen to have been born in the town, and I am not going to desert the town to go to a farm, since I was born here. Sir, there are some hon. Members who were born on farms, but they cannot live on farms. I was born in the town and I am not going to a farm.

Sir, what I am saying is that I have never heard reported, either by the Mover of this Motion, or this paper, which does not bear his signature as far as I can see, that the Vice-President is accountable for what has been said here. I therefore cannot accept, on behalf of the Government, that the Vice-President became the chief spokesman for the settlers.

Sir, I will continue from there. With regard to the issue of landless people in Kenya, if the hon. Mover of this Motion will listen, he will know that this Government cares very much for the landless people in Kenya. There are many people in this country who have died for land, and all Kenya belongs to the people of Kenya. I think here, Sir, with full authority of the Kenya Government and of the people of Kenya, and this has been said so often, the land of Kenya belongs to the Kenya people. There are so many people and if the hon. Members will wait, they will hear the Government view on the land in Kenya.

An hon. Member: Tell us.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): That is exactly what I am trying to do, if you will only keep quiet for a while so that you can hear the answer.

The President of this nation, the Members of this Parliament, who earned their struggle for independence when there were so many of them who died because of this land, they said the land of Kenya belonged to the Kenya people. You may want to do everything within one hour, one minute, but you cannot do it. What we intend to do, we have been doing. There is a place that we used to be called the White Highlands in Kenya, of which we have African Members representatives in this House. Nyandarua is in it, and I am going—

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, may I seek your guidance on this. I think the Motion asked the Government to find a solution. Now, instead of the Minister trying to tell the House what arrangements the Government has, he is trying to—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is quite clear that what you are asking for is not only the reason for these evictions, but also the policy of Government as to how the landless people, including those evicted from these farms, can be provided for. Now, the Minister is just starting to describe the policy on that very subject.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Having been told by the hon. Vice-President that there is [The Chairman] such a Motion has been moved and that debate I am afraid will continue until somebody proposes a closure, which nobody has done just now because hon. Members obviously still want to proceed with the debate.

Now Mr. Kaggia, it is time for the interruption of business, and I will report progress to the Speaker and beg leave to sit again on this Motion. You still have the right to speak, because during the Committee stage Members may speak as often as they want; they do not just have to speak on one occasion only. So we will now move out of committee.

(The House resumed)

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair)

PROGRESS REPORTED

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE No. 3 of 1964/65—RECURRENT

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, at the time for the interruption of business the Committee of Supply were debating Vote 11—the Ministry of Home Affairs—of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65 (Recurrent) and I am instructed to report the progress and beg to leave to sit again tomorrow.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

EVICTON OF SQUATTERS FROM LAIKIPIA FARMS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the interruption of business, and a matter to be raised on the Adjournment.

I will now call upon a Minister to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odunga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo) seconded.
(Question proposed)

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for allowing me to raise this matter on the Adjournment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is something which is known by nearly everyone here, it is something which has been happening since we achieved our Independence and the country has begun to wonder why these things are happening.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to say something about illegal squatters, because our Government is trying to give a very strong definition about illegal squatters. Mr. Speaker, Sir, those whom they call illegal squatters are the people who have been working on the farms for a long, long time. Some, of course, Mr. Speaker, have been working on the farms for more than thirty years and you will find that some have been given notices to leave the farms within fourteen days. Mr. Speaker, Sir, with your permission, I would like to read one of the notices.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odunga): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like your ruling.

There is a Motion which is to come to the House, probably this week, which also involves at the same time the question of squatters. Would it be in order to debate a further Motion from the same man on the eviction of the squatters?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, that would be in order, because the Standing Order which I think the hon. Member has in mind is the Order which prevents us from reconsidering within a certain period a matter on which the House has resolved. Now, on this Adjournment debate we do not have any actual resolution, we only have a discussion without a vote taking place, so the fact that we have discussed a matter like this for half-an-hour with no vote on an occasion such as this would not prevent subsequent debate on a substantive Motion with a vote at the end of it.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Vice-President, who is aware of a recent demonstration outside Parliament, should not try to prevent this Motion from being debated.

Mr. Speaker, with your permission I would like to read a notice which has been given to people, the ex-employees of Mr. Preston's farm and they have been there for a long, long time. The notice reads as follows:

"To the owner of this house: We do hereby give you final notice that within fourteen days—"

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these people have been there for thirty years and they are only given fourteen days to clear up everything and get out.

"You, your family, your goods, your chattels and your livestock must be off the farm. If you do not comply with this notice you will be evicted and all moved by force by the Kenya Government."

Mr. Speaker, each of these people think that the Kenya Government is now out to exploit our people who are law-abiding citizens.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, assurance has been given by European farmers and the Government, and I

[Mr. G. G. Kariuki] have a statement issued by the Minister for Home Affairs, who is today the Vice-President. On 30th January 1964, he said at a meeting at Nakuru, where he gave an assurance to the European farmers, and he did not mention anything about illegal squatters. That means that he was speaking as a Minister for farmers, but not for Africans who have elected him.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another statement which I consider very irresponsible was made by the Minister for Labour and Social Services in Naro Moru. He said that those people who refused to go from the European farms would be taken to Maoyani. Now, Mr. Speaker, he is causing people to become frustrated and that is why they are now organizing demonstrations outside Parliament Buildings. We want to know if the Government gave these instructions, because I understand from the higher authorities that he police had been instructed by the Administration from the top to evict these people, whether or not they had anywhere to go or whether or not they had anything to eat, but it is up to these people to guess where they can go. I want, Mr. Speaker, to warn the Government seriously that the demand for land is now growing and that the Government must look for somewhere for them to go, but the people do not agree with these things, but they are frustrated. They want to know why the Government is evicting them and not giving them anywhere to go; just telling them to go and not telling them where to go. Government should know that they have nowhere else to go and that they cannot get any food in the country.

Now, Mr. Speaker, here I have something written by the Ministry of Agriculture, what they call the Agricultural and Land Utilization, Farm Employees Rules (1964). There are many farmers, for your information, Mr. Speaker, who have been allowing people to stay on their farms without work, but this was published in the Official Gazette and now the farmers are starting to worry about it. "If we do not evict these people, we are going to be taken to Court, because the Government wants us to comply with these Rules." Mr. Speaker, Sir, many farmers have been very generous and they have many people on the farms, and these Rules—I do not want to treat myself—they have been made to evict them and the police have said that they have received instructions from headquarters that they are going to help the farmers to evict these people. There is no voice, but in many African countries one finds that a revolution takes place after a short period of independence. It is because of this attitude, it is very bad, I have told the Government to introduce a settlement scheme in my area. This is still not answered satisfactorily, yet people are telling me that if they had somewhere to go, they would not refuse to move, but they have nowhere else to go. Now, we do not know what to tell these people, about such protection for the farmers, but not for the ordinary people. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to obstruct any other Member from speaking.

The Assistant Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Mr. Argywings-Kodhek): On a point of order, there is a notice which he read giving fourteen days. The Government does not have a copy.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sure that the hon. Member will pass it over to the Government to see.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will pass it over right now.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the hon. Member only refers to the notice actually.

Mr. Odunga: Mr. Speaker, in supporting my hon. friend who has just spoken I would also like to inform our Government, that is the Kenya Government, that the case of eviction in the Rift Valley and other places has now become a chronic disease throughout the country and this is a really touchy issue. So far as I remember, that even some time back in the last year, the hon. Mr. Kariuki and many other Members in this House have asked the Government questions regarding what the Government calls illegal squatters, although I personally do not accept that word "illegal".

The Government has not considered it fit to remedy the situation. All that the Government has done is to go to the Press and tell the people to go back to the land. When we still have more people, Mr. Speaker, who are being evicted and turned away from the land. So, now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, these people have no land to go to. All they do when they hear that they should go back to the land, is to go to their former employer and tell him that they were here long ago, and ask him whether he could offer them any more employment. Now, this man will just say that as far as he is concerned, there is no job here. Now, telling them to go back to the land has no meaning. This is where, Mr. Speaker, we say to our Government that it is no use talking too much and loudly to the Press of this country, the newspapers, or the foreign enterprise newspapers in this country and giving publicity for nothing. There is no meaning in it.

Secondly, the Government has made a lot of noise with this propaganda, but that alone will not order. You are not allowed to take advantage of a point of order to reply to the Minister. It is quite wrong. I have made it clear so often that this must not be done.

Mr. Warlille: Mr. Chairman, I will be very brief. At the outset, I would like to say that the Government should not misunderstand the seriousness of the Members in querying how this money was spent. It is not that we belittle or look down upon Kenyatta Day. In fact, the query is not that the money was spent—perhaps we could even have spent more for a day like Kenyatta Day which we all respect—but what I think the Government has to realize, and I know they do realize it, is that this House has the final authority to give an O.K. before any money is spent, even a single cent.

Now, unfortunately there is a practice whereby the Government do spend money and then, after having spent it, they come to us to approve the expenditure. When we challenge this expenditure or demand information as to how the money was spent, we are entitled to do so; and in fact, if we are dissatisfied with the explanation, we might change this practice, whereby the Government is allowed to spend money before we have approved it. If it had been brought before the money was spent, we could have asked for details and if we were not satisfied probably we would not have approved it.

Now, the other point is that the Minister who has just spoken was trying to explain that since a similar amount, equivalent to the one which was spent, was collected, then it would follow, maybe illogically, that it would not matter how the sum was spent. I think this is a very serious way of looking at public funds.

—What I think Members are asking is something very simple, that if this was a party affair, and no money was spent from public funds, nobody would bother. But, since £3,500 was spent from public funds, we would like to know how it was spent, on what business, even if Kanu as a party was left to organize the expenditure. On what basis? Where was it spent? What did they do? I think, Mr. Chairman, as has been said on this Vote, that the Minister who is concerned should explain to us, and then if we are not given sufficient explanation we know what to do next.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir—

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, I wonder whether you would allow a few minutes to speak, and then the Minister—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gichoya, it is for the Speaker's eye to catch the speaker, it is not a point of order. Carry on Mr. Gichura.

Mr. Gichura: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to state plainly that all we are seeking to do now is to legalize that expenditure of £3,500 because it was recovered and, in fact, we did get from the receipts from various places, more than £3,500. The balance was paid over to the National Fund. I think it is a good thing to explain this.

As to whether this money was well spent, the money that was advanced by Government to the Celebrations Committees. We have an accounting system and I think that we ought to ask the Committee which spent this money to explain.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think the Members have a very genuine case in asking where this money went, but at the same time I would like to point out that, if I am not mistaken, this additional sum required of £3,500—if you look at the back of that Ministry's Vote, if you advanced from the Civil Contingencies Fund and the corresponding amount from this Vote it required to enable payment to be made to that Fund.

Now, if that is correct, Sir, then this £3,500 has already been recovered from somewhere, and if you look at the President's Office, if you go back to that Vote, you will see that in Miscellaneous Receipts, there is about £3,000 which I saved there. We would like to know whether these receipts of £5,000 were as a result of the money that was sent to the Provincial Administrations, according to you above, and came back so as to recover £3,500. In that case, Mr. Chairman, if the Committee would care to explain how much money they sent out and how much money came back, in order to meet this £3,500, before we vote it in, I think that would alleviate a lot of the problems we are trying to solve now.

According to what I learned, this money that we are trying to legalize is already in the Fund; it is not something that we are going to vote. If it is new, why should we vote for more money whereas this money is already there.

Mr. Mhogoh: Mr. Chairman, when the Minister says that this £3,500 was spent in the regions, I fail to understand exactly which regions, and I would ask the Minister to bring a breakdown of this figure, a proper breakdown, with particulars as to how much was sent, let us say, to Central Province, how much to Coast Province, and how much was given to any other province, and the way in which it was used in the provinces to which it was given.

[Mr. Mhogoh]

The reason for my asking this, Mr. Chairman, is that I was also a member of the Celebrations Committee of the Eastern Province, and the only thing I saw was a Minister being sent from Nairobi coming to represent the Government at the celebrations. But, Mr. Chairman, there was nothing like money advanced to us as a committee to hold celebrations. When it came to the matter of decorations for the town, I found that Kanu Youth Wingers were decorating the town, without being paid by anybody as mentioned. Then it got to the point of bringing tickets and posters. Kanu vehicles brought these posters from Nairobi to give to Nyeri and then when they got to Nyeri they left the posters there, they never brought any posters to Embu. We never received any of them. And after all that, the driver of the Kanu vehicle had no money to get petrol and I had to give him my own money from my own pocket.

No money was given to anyone. The Minister says that there was some £3,500 given to Kanu to send to the provinces together with the posters that were never brought. I do not see what happened there. So, Mr. Chairman, if the hon. Minister can bring a proper breakdown of this figure, we would appreciate it very much. At the same time, he claims that this money has been repensated. Our main interest is not just knowing that it is compensated; but our interest is to know how the public fund was spent on this occasion where we did not know and where we are not informed. What I would like to tell the Minister is that it is wrong to spend public funds just like that without the Parliament knowing exactly how much money was going to be spent. Supposing they spent £10,000 and then they come and tell us, or they expect us to approve this blindly or just sit down and discuss it?

So, Mr. Chairman, I think Parliament ought to be informed about the expenditure before it is actually made by the Ministries.

Mr. Kaggia: Mr. Chairman, Sir, it is a pity that we have taken such a long time on this item, but it is also surprising that the two Ministers who have been very active in answering the questions have not been able to satisfy this House up to now.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, it is no argument for the Ministers to tell us that this amount has been repaid. The fact remains that the money was spent by the Government and we are entitled, as the House of Representatives, to know how this money was spent. It is very important for the House to get this information, because not only for the celebration of Kenyatta Day but complaints are always made on various celebrations, and sometimes it is said that money is advanced, by the Government, to the districts or provinces, but when we came to find out where this money goes then no one knows. In some cases we are told that this money is used by holding private parties by the civil servants.

If I may mention examples on various celebrations for instance Republic and Independence, we were told the same thing that the money was given to the district commissioner and even today we are still fighting in our district to know where the money went. Sometimes we will say that the money was given to the chiefs. You then go to the locations, they never get a single cent.

Therefore, Mr. Chairman, another argument which has been advanced by the Minister for Information that some of the Members here were members of the celebration does not answer anything. In fact I was one of the members of this committee but all we knew or all we did was the planning as to how these things will happen, how the Government will be held, which towns, and so on, but when the time came for distributing the money to the district we never received a single cent. Therefore, Mr. Chairman, I think the Ministers—

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Onoko): On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think that it is right to say that the hon. Member who has just spoken, failed to attend some of the meetings he was supposed to go to.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Actually that is not a point of order, Mr. Onoko.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Chairman, Sir, since we have to manage this or that committee, would it be in order for me to continue.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): That is not a point of order either, Mr. Masinde.

Mr. Kaggia: I do not think that was a point of order, but the fact remains that the committee was used only for planning, but as to the distribution of the—

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Is it right that hon. Members should go on speaking or—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): A point of order has been raised, Mr. Kaggia. I think I might just answer it for the benefit of the Vice-President, who I think is not properly aware that the Motion has been moved reducing this Vote by £1 by the hon. Mr. Shikuku as a result of which we then have right to have a debate on policy, if

[Mr. Oduya]

Mr. Chairman, I was sitting in this committee, both in Kakamega and in Nairobi and I want to know who spent this money. I took these cards to Kakamega on Friday, and the cards were sent out on Saturday (for the information of the Minister) and Sunday. Then, on Monday, we had this thing going around, but I took the cards on Friday, so when the cards reached the District Commissioner and the President of the Regional Assembly, they were waiting information from Nairobi, so when we sent the cards to them, they started sending out to the local businessmen to assist. People who were able to buy the cards, the District Officers, the District Commissioners were asked to try to persuade people to buy them. It was not a governmental thing, it was only a question of asking people. "Would you like to come?" Those who were willing and if they had any cash, they bought and they went to the thing.

Now, Mr. Chairman, coming to the facts now, that the money was sent to the provinces, this is wrong. I challenge the Minister again. This is the second challenge he has to prove.

I challenge the Minister for Finance or the Minister for Justice who was on that committee. I want this to be brought to this House, these minutes to be brought to the House. The committee raised to many, because I was second in control of that committee. We want to know whether Oduya's name appeared there. The minutes were quoted, but from which account? We want to know. We cannot actually— Mr. Chairman, if the Minister can be patient, I will explain now. In this committee, when I was at Kakamega and the Minister for Education was represented, and the President was also there, I challenged the Government to tell the House, whether what we did at Kakamega was right. We had contributions received from the Asian community. I also want to make it quite clear to all the Ministers that are here that the food was purely tinned. Would you like to organize a night? It is a question of a dance, or even if they say a dinner, and even the Minister who represented that area, attended the dinner, now, the hon. Mr. Otieno. Now, for all I know the dance was not a Government thing at all, but just because there was a different Kanu and Kadu Government was there to keep the peace.

Now, I think if the Minister could be disciplined by the Chair, I think he will be able to listen.

What I understand is that he persuaded Kadu supporters to join in the Prime Minister, and Government officers who had money and a few members of the Asian community in Kakamega, and other places paid for their ticket. I know that the Assistant Ministers want to replace some Ministers in the Government.

Now, Mr. Chairman, in the dance, the contribution was to go to Kanu.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think that was a general allegation.

Mr. Oduya: So, Mr. Chairman, what I said was that the funds which were to be available from the collection which would go to Kasu headquarters into the accounts.

If it is a Government thing, we challenge the Government. We want to know how much was raised, and whether this money was banked. Is it with the Government account in the Treasury Department, or is this account just thrown somewhere? We want to know about it. I remember in Nairobi it was agreed, and it was we who suggested how much, according to districts. Nairobi, which is a capital, said that the rich people in Nairobi could afford any amount, but the people in Kisumu, Kakamega, we did not have much money. So, now what we want to know, and we ask the Government to tell us, is where the money is, otherwise we will stand here and suggest that Sh. 70,000 was spent on these Kenya Day Celebrations and it is completely nonsense, and completely untrue, and we are questioning the Government now to tell us who used this money, because, Mr. Chairman, when the Minister for Education came there, he was driving his car purely to represent the President of Kanu, not the Prime Minister.

Mr. Kall: On a point of order, I wonder whether it would be in order, since all the questions have been raised, whether it would be in order for the Minister now to reply?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think you have to propose the closure. I think maybe after Mr. Oduya has spoken, we can move that.

Mr. Oduya: This interruption has made me lose my head completely.

Now, the point here is, Mr. Chairman, that we demand to know the amount which the Government—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Oduya, I think you are repeating yourself.

Mr. Oduya: At Kakamega, the person who was representing the then Prime Minister, was Mr. Otieno. What we actually want to know is whether the money which was raised was spent on transport and accommodation.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Onekko): On a point of information—

Mr. Oduya: No, I will not give way.

At Kakamega, the Minister who represented the Prime Minister did not raise any money, so we want to know how he got this amount of Sh. 70,000.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Oduya, there must be some limit beyond which Members must not go in making a speech like this. I cannot allow any hon. Member to repeat the same thing. I have, in fact, given you a lot of latitude. If every hon. Member decided to speak as long as you do, we would be here until Christmas. I do not like to disturb you, but I have given you a lot of latitude, and you are only beginning to repeat the same thing. I think the point is that you want the Government to give details of expenditure.

Mr. Oduya: I am not sitting down yet.

If there is any demand for this money to be paid officially, the Members of the committee who are in Nairobi, will have the same amount to be sent to them, because they took part in the official function. Now, the second thing is that I challenge the Government that this House will demand, if the Government raised money from all over the country to submit the report on this money, and if they have mispent it, then we would like to see this amount of Sh. 70,000 being refunded by the Ministers using the money or whoever is responsible to the Government accounts immediately.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Onekko): Mr. Chairman, Sir, there is nothing the Government wishes to hide here, because already it has been provided, if you can look at the Kenya Day Celebrations, that Appropriations-in-Aid for official functions, that is official dinners and dances—

Hon. Members: Where?

Mr. Achieng-Onekko: Appropriations.

An hon. Member: Where are the official dinners?

Mr. Achieng-Onekko: This I have already explained when I spoke a few minutes ago, and it is true that official dinners were held.

Mr. Ng'ala-Aboki: On a point of order, we are learning with a very serious conscience—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Is this a point of order?

Mr. Ng'ala-Aboki: Yes, it is a point of order. We are learning with great concern the shifty sort of habit on this particular item. The Minister concerned has just stated that the money was sent to Provincial Headquarters, and it was well spent, and now we are challenging that we should know how this money was spent. Is it in order for the Minister now to say that officials who used the money were recognized, but not on an official basis?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): That is not a point of order. In fact, what the Minister is saying quite clearly is that this is looked after by Appropriations-in-Aid, that in fact this money was obtained or refunded by some dinners, etc. In other words, the Government spent it but it was recovered from money paid for these dinners. This is nothing shifty. This is a very serious allegation to make. You can make it when you want to make a speech, but you do not interrupt the Minister in the middle of his speech because you want to say that he is putting forward a shifty argument. This is quite wrong; and I certainly will not accept that allegation.

Mr. Achieng-Onekko: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not want to take a long time to explain this, but Members also studied the book. It should also be remembered, Mr. Chairman, that after the Government used this £3,500 they also realized—and you will see this—that the expenditure was off-set by Appropriations-in-Aid accruing from official functions, and these official functions took place in Mombasa, Nairobi, Nakuru, and some other centres. This actually was done on the recommendations and decisions by the party. The only thing that the Members are entitled to ask—and this is proper—is how much money was realized from these official functions. I think this is the main thing that the Members want to know. I am trying, Mr. Chairman, to give as much information as possible because I also was on that Committee, and I do remember that the hon. Member who has been speaking here, for about thirty minutes, standing repeating himself, only attending one meeting. He did not attend any after that, when the whole thing was changed; when it was decided that the Government should participate as well and that the money which was realized should go to the Government Account.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, is it in order for a Minister only to stand up and say I was repeating and yet he refuses to reply to these strong challenges? Facts!

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Oduya, you know very well that this is not a point of order?

Mr. Masinde: I have a few points to mention here, Mr. Chairman, and these are the exact facts, that on this important day we were told that it would appear that everything was organized by Kanu as a political party. They organized all over the country, Kakamega, Nairobi, Mombasa, Kiumu and Nakuru, and we were told how much each of us was to pay at various places and I witnessed how some people came and did not pay anything; they did not pay anything, and they had drinks throughout that night, whereas I paid. Now, this was Kanu, I do understand, if this was the real Government thing, why did we make it a private and entirely Kanu Executive Committee and decide how money was to be spent, and instead of deciding how much was going to be spent they went out and made programmes on how to raise money from various places. That is why they went outside asking people to donate or give them sufficient for their organization, because they would have a holiday over Kenya Day, which meant that there was no preparation made to insure that there was some money given to the provinces.

In June, Government knew that by October there would be Kenya Day. Why did not the Government see fit to bring this sum of money into their estimates? Now, after spending that money—and I do hope that Government knows how it was spent—and that is why it is essential that we be told how it was spent and I do hope that we are prepared to listen to details on how it was spent. If a Minister, or any civil servant said that so much was sent to Kakamega, I will challenge him and deny it, and ask the civil servants how they came by this figure, for Sir, it seems that it was a friendly organized party in various houses and in favour of a few selected friends. Why should a responsible Government spend money and after six months they come and say, now we have spent it, could you approve it? We would like to know how it was spent. Do they want to play with this House?

This is a problem. In June we knew that we were to have Kenya Day. We were all prepared. Government saw fit that we should spend some money and they were out to get some money, and that is why it was for us to allow this. Mr. Chairman, I beg to oppose this.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Acheng-Oneko): Mr. Chairman, if Members are not going to listen I do not think that they will be at all satisfied.

I hope that the Members will remember that one day the Parliamentary Group met to discuss how Kenya Day was to be organized. The Parliamentary Group met and decided how Kenya Day was going to be organized and the point was raised by one of the Members how selection would be made and it was agreed that the whole thing must be organized by the Kanu headquarters. This was agreed and later on a committee was formed, the committee which comprised of Kanu General Secretary and also Executive members of the party. Government officials were also represented and the Minister were also in that particular committee. Then the question came as to how money could be found for the celebrations. The Minister for Finance said that he did not have enough money, but he could contribute something towards the celebrations, so what happened was that the Government was in the position of giving only Sh. 70,000, as you see in the estimate. £3,500. Mr. Chairman, Sir, whether Members disagree with me or not, I do not want to qualify my previous remarks. The Government was only in the position to produce £3,500. Now, then the committee agreed with the party participating that they would organize dances in various places and that the people attending the dances would have to pay admission fees; they were free to organize dinners and luncheons in various places in big towns like Mombasa, Nairobi, Nakuru and Kisumu. The committee agreed—When the hon. Member was speaking, Sir, I kept quiet, so I think he might have the courtesy to do the same now.

Mr. Khasakaha: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, would the Minister qualify his allegations that an ordinary Member is not an hon. Member?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I thought he said "hon. Member", but let us find out.

Mr. Acheng-Oneko: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I know the word to use. I said "hon. Member".

Mr. Chairman, the committee also agreed that transportation of dancers should be paid for by both the party and the Government. The main committee, which was sitting in Nairobi, and Mr. Chairman, I remember well that some Government officers were sent to Garissa to participate in the celebrations on that particular day. If anybody paid on that particular day, they did so as party members or party officials, but it was not strictly speaking, Mr. Chairman, that they were forced to do so. Again, in the districts there were Kanu members who were participating and formed the Districts Kenya Celebrations Committees.

Mr. Chairman, I feel very strongly, that the only thing that Members can ask, and they are quite right to ask, is if there are any details of figures of moneys which were sent or allocated to the provinces. This is quite in order but to ask who did this and who did that and yet it was a practice to which we all agreed and the money was well spent because it was sent to the Provincial Commissioners who distributed it to the district committees who took care to spend the money the way the district officials wanted.

Mr. Oduya: Thank you Mr. Chairman, thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Order, order, please.

Mr. Oduya: Thank you Mr. Chairman, this is, I think a good time for us to learn about our own Government and find out whether the Government is really honest or not honest. To begin with, Mr. Chairman, I was a member of the Kenya Day Celebration Committee in Nairobi and also, I was a member of the committee in Kakamega, so I qualify in these two committees in my capacity as an Elected Member. I was also, Mr. Chairman, the Chairman of the Kanu Co-ordination Committee of Western Province, so I know the facts about this procedure. I think the Minister—Mr. Chairman, let us not cheat the nation or an honourable House like this. What Government Ministers should have done is to know the facts about this Committee, what it did, whether there was any argument about finances, so when a Minister comes here to address the Members he is fully informed on what took place and who was actually on those Committees. There is no use just talking about the fact that Ministers were there, Government officials were there, and executive officers were there with the Party. Now what I want to say is this, Mr. Chairman, when we met up there during this business, I remember very well that the organization was placed in the hands of Kanu as a party to celebrate Kenya Day, which has been there before, even before Kenya Day itself, was released. This day was in being but did not start because Imperialist forces were so strong, it was not a successful meeting day before Kenya was released, but, immediately he was released, the party took over that day as an official day for Kanu, so what happened on that day is that we agreed in our committee that Kenya Day be celebrated by Kanu supporters throughout the country. We also asked the Secretary of Kanu, Mr. Mboya who was not the Minister for Justice at that time, to approach the then Leader of the Opposition, the hon. R. G. Njuga if he could send one of his representatives to this committee, but the Opposition said they could only allow their supporters to come during the celebration day, but they could not take part because it was purely Kanu, it was not governmental. So, that is what I know about the whole procedure.

Now, the Kadu Party were represented by the Organizing Secretary, Mr. John Keen and, Mr. Washika, who was the Assistant Secretary of Kadu, they represented Kadu supporters and they were told not to take part, because it was not a Kadu's responsibility, it was purely a Kanu responsibility, it was not even a Government responsibility. We are not spending public funds for nothing. This is the position now, when we discussed it the question of money was brought up as to whether the Government could assist, but it would appear that now, if we should say that if the Government would allocate money for this purpose, what would Kadu say because they are also taxpayers. So Kanu was asked if they could run it, but they did not have money in their accounts. They were told to try to ask for over-drafts if they did not have any money so that the branches of Kanu could be given a certain amount of money and we came to the conclusion, that if there was any money at all to be found by a party, such as Kanu and they are willing to support the branches, this money should be turned in to the branches of Kanu and then the Chairmen of Kanu branches in the district will sit down and get themselves some Government officers, like the District Commissioner and what not, to sit and plan for how we are going to spend the money. That was the only thing, the Government was only brought in to assist, to see that, the whole thing was a success, but they had no right to take part officially; they were just to be patrons.

Now, the posters and cards for that day throughout the country were made at Kanu Headquarters and not the Government Printing Press. If the Government Printing Press, if it was a Government thing, I challenge the Minister now, to bring the posters bearing the print of the Government Printing Press, to bring the cards bearing the Government Printing Press, if it was a Government organization, because we want to know where this money went.

I am still coming to the question of money, but it is thought by the public outside that this was spent and it was a Government thing because this and that was done by the Government. Now, the posters, the dances, the cards for dinner and dance in Kakamega, I carried myself, I didn't get any allowance. Now, where was the money spent, if I did not get an allowance and I did the work. Where is this money?

[The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism]

the money to the District Commissioners in their allocations, according to the number of people in that area. This is how it was distributed, and again, even in the former Celebration Committee, the Independence Celebrations based our allocations on population figures. These are the figures that have been given.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Chairman, I beg to move a reduction of £1 on the sum of £5,869,219 of Vote 11—Ministry of Home Affairs.

I do this, Mr. Chairman, in order to facilitate an opportunity whereby we should get more information as to this amount. The amount of £3,500 which is put down here is a large sum of money, and a full explanation should be given to us, as one of the hon. Members has said, to prove that the money was well spent. If I may put the views already expressed by the hon. Member for Lurambi, the Western Province had hardly anything, and we were told that the province had received so little, but we could not argue with the civil servants, because we did not have any information with us. It would only be in the interest of the people in the Western Province, and the interest of the civil servants in the Western Province, that we in this House, would be much better off if we were furnished with information from the Minister. As a matter of fact, Mr. Chairman, most of the people there did not enjoy their Kenyatta Day at all, and if I may say so, some other parts of the country as well.

So, Mr. Chairman, when I move this reduction, I feel that the Minister should let us know how much was given to each province, and how much expenditure was carried out, and if there have been any complaints at all, it should be thereby rectified.

So, Mr. Chairman, I give a chance to all other hon. Members to air their views.

Mr. Omari: Mr. Chairman, I also raise to support the Motion, because I can remember very well that in the Coast Province, the taxpayers were asked to contribute funds towards the Kenyatta Day. They were told by the District Commissioner and by the District Officers, that the Government did not have the money to provide them, and the best thing to do was to give from their own pockets, which they did. Some of them contributed cows, cattle, and others drink. In Mombasa also, I can remember very well that the council was asked to allocate some funds for Kenyatta Day, and it comes as a surprise to me that the Government spent some money on Kenyatta Day. I would like very much to know, Mr. Chairman, the amount which was given to the Coast Province, the Central Province, the North-Eastern Province, and all other provinces in the country. It should be shown to us so that when we go back to our constituencies, we can tell the taxpayers that they were given so much money on Kenyatta Day, and you can ask the District Commissioners or the Provincial Commissioners the amount that was collected from the taxpayers, and the amount that was sent from the Ministry of Finance, and give them an account of what this money was spent on.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Chairman, Sir, just to make the Minister understand what I consider to be the motive behind the moving of this reduction, as far as I am concerned, I would just like to relate a story concerning the usage of money so sent. I do not care whether what I am going to talk about concerns the Republic Celebrations or Independence or Self-Government Celebrations or Kenyatta Day, but as far as I know the money used for this sort of celebration must have a system with which the civil servants will comply, as far as its usage is concerned.

Now what happened at Homa Bay recently is that the District Officer or District Commissioner now had some funds sent to him by the Government. What happened in the district was that he asked for a committee to be set up; a committee was formed and the committee contributed towards the celebration of Kenyatta Day in district. Now, later on, after the celebrations, the people claimed that he did not call the committee to know the amount of money the Government had sent him and also to participate in the discussions regarding how the money was going to be distributed and for what purpose the money was going to be used particularly for buying of oxen and other food stuffs-like chicken. This was not done. This District Commissioner was accused of ordering some bamboo from his own district and in fact there were serious demonstrations against the District Commissioner concerned. Now he could not defend himself, and he could not explain what money was sent by the Government, because he had no committee to help him to use the money, and also to prepare a proper account, and send it back to the Ministry that sent him the money. There was no satisfactory explanation as to how this money was used. We know that we, from time to time, have big functions where the public will be asked to contribute either for celebrating Kenyatta Day or remembering our Republic Day or something like that, and I know that money is sent to the District Commissioners or Provincial Commissioners. If there is no proper system to know whereby these people will be spending the money, it will be our Government to blame, and therefore, I am sure that the Ministry should not just have sent the money out without laying down principles on which the money was going to be used, and how the accounts were going to be checked and how the public was going to be informed as to how much money was sent to them, how much was going to be used and the money collected by the people themselves, how it was going to be used to the benefit of these people. Many people went to these celebrations and they expected to get some tea. If it was tea, we would not touch it. Now this is not a laughing matter, because it is true. The Minister will prove it today by producing the accounts and by producing the detailed system by which this money was operated, then we shall believe that he has some clue as to how he should serve the Ministry in the proper use of the money, otherwise this may cause a serious demonstration like that which took place against the Government officer, people thought it was a tribalistic sort of move, but there was nothing. The case was put as to what happened to the money sent for them, and when he came for the day to make sure that money was well spent, we found that the District Commissioner was alone to blame because he could not call a committee to judge and talk on how the people were going to be entertained. The unfortunate people were said to have lost possible pays in the area just to drink a cup of tea and go, some of them were people who had contributed quite a lot. So in the interests of our Government, the Ministry of Finance, should particularly, explain the systems 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 up to 10, and to how they have reached the conclusion that £3,500 was used and well spent.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, that is all I wanted to say.

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I cannot say any security risks in the Minister giving us facts about this money which has already been used. If it was information leading to security disclosures, difficulties or to get information, then there would be a good case for us to be told well wait because of security reasons. But this money, Mr. Chairman, has been spent. What we need is a very simple thing. How much money was spent in the Western Province, how much was spent in Central Province, how much was spent in the Coast Province, Eastern Province and so forth? A simple thing like that, Mr. Chairman. Why should the Minister panic on giving us this information? It then means that this money was used in one place and not everywhere. If not we should be told, because from what I know, Mr. Chairman, just as my colleagues have already stated, there were no celebrations throughout Kenya, it was only in Central Province, Nairobi, and a little in the Rift Valley. But in the other areas, Mr. Chairman, we did not receive any money.

Secondly, the Minister should tell us clearly whether this money was spent in celebrations where Government Ministers went, because in other places like Western Province we had not all the Ministers standing there, because no money was sent there. Could we then get the information, Mr. Chairman? We do not want to go on wasting too much time on a matter like this because this money has to be used. We want the facts. It has already been spent. Could he give us these facts?

Mr. Ekitella: Mr. Chairman, and hon. Members please do not laugh. I am really very serious about this. It is very important that the Minister should tell this House all the details now. Mr. Chairman, I do not want to shout so much, but I am sure these things come to emphasize ourselves when we do not want to speak to our people. What about? When I go to my own estate and my own people have talked to me and asked me what have you done for me? Nothing. All right. I do not like to state anything to them, but the Ministers are embarrassing us and embarrassing themselves also. I am sure Mr. Chairman that I can speak sensibly and it is quite true, that I should like my people to be given a test.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Chairman, I think we in this House would fall in our duties if we were to approve the spending of a sum of money without being told how it was to be spent. Mr. Chairman, the Minister for Information has just said that this money was divided into various regions in accordance with the number of taxpayers. That could be true, but as far as the North-Eastern Province is concerned, I think I am right in saying that there was hardly anything at all sent, because, during the Kenyatta Day Celebrations, the public had to contribute their own money, and there was not a single cent. If I may say, Mr. Chairman, which was sent by the Government to the Regional Headquarters in the North-Eastern Province. So, I think it would be very wrong for the Minister to imply that this money was divided into various provinces in accordance with the number of taxpayers. If he intends to imply that, then it might look as if in the North-Eastern Province there are no taxpayers.

amount of money which is required. The purchase of vehicles is a lot of money. I would like to know how many vehicles can be purchased by this amount of money, about £50,000, and what type of vehicles are they, because there is a rumour that the Government bought a lot of vehicles that were cheap, and that they were not good enough. We would like to know what type of vehicles have been used, and who approved that this type of jeeps should be bought.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the security situation in the North-Eastern Region has been very difficult for Kenya, and in the recent months, there has been a very big improvement. It has not just come automatically. It is because we have been planning to make our force more mobile, to move faster, and we find it very difficult to disclose all the details of the North-Eastern Region operations at this stage, because of security reasons and we do not want to give all the information to unfriendly ears elsewhere. We have decided to finish the Shifia menace over there quickly, so that we can use our energies elsewhere, and one of the ways is making our units over there mobile, and efficient, giving communications under difficult conditions, roads, aircraft, constant repairs, and therefore, you require new Land-Rovers more often than the ones which are in Nairobi.

Therefore, since we are determined to get rid of this menace quickly, we are to spend a little more money to have the people bothered no more by Shifia, so that they will have their chance for development, schools, health services, water supplies, raise their cattle and so on.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, this is why we have these additional Land-Rovers that have been purchased.

Mr. Khalil: Mr. Chairman, Sir, my experience at present with regard to police vehicles in the North-Eastern Region is that there are only 9 in the whole region.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the additional sum required here is £49,790 in addition to the original estimate of £30,400. Mr. Chairman, if we assume that the Government is going to buy Land-Rovers, with this money, it would seem that the Government would have to buy about 49 Land-Rovers, because the normal price of a new Land-Rover is about £1,000.

Dr. Mungai: Mr. Chairman, Sir, although I have respect for his knowledge of the North-Eastern Region, I would not agree with him that he knows the strength of the forces in the North-Eastern Region.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, they are part of the force, and I therefore, can talk in terms of police as a force. The police are fighting and keeping law, order and security in the North-Eastern Region. So, I would ask the hon. Members not to necessarily take the figures given, because they are not necessarily the correct ones, and because of security reasons, we are not going to disclose the actual number in the North-Eastern Region. We are prepared to let you know the amount of money we are spending, and as I said before, we intend to get enough Land-Rovers to finish the job quickly. We need them because the men are there, not only to purchase the vehicles as a whole, but we need replacements and repair. When you consider it in terms of a Land-Rover in the North-Eastern Region, the hon. Member will agree with me that a Land-Rover is finished very quickly. It is not like in many other parts of the country, and this is why you cannot calculate that because one Land-Rover costs £1,000, therefore, £40,000 is going to buy 40 Land-Rovers. You have to make a lot of allowances because of the poor road conditions over there and the hon. Member, Mr. Khalil knows that.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think, in view of the explanation given by the Minister—

Mr. Oduya: I have another thing to mention.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): All right, we will allow Mr. Oduya to speak.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, when we were discussing the Budget, the same Minister, the hon. Minister for Defence now, did assure me— Mr. Chairman, while I am talking the Minister is just talking to his colleague. He did assure me in one of his minutes, when I raised the question of a need for a vehicle at Busia Police Station, to combat stock theft, and I also asked him to buy a police car for the police headquarters, and he assured me that when the Government found it necessary to buy more vehicles for the police in the country, the question of Busia would be considered, and at another station, the question of a Land-Rover would have to be considered. What I am asking the Minister is to tell me whether this amount here covers the need for these areas to have their two vehicles?

Dr. Mungai: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am talking in terms of the financial year which we have not yet finished, so having talked in those terms, we must take first things first. I hope all hon. Members do remember that Kenya is at war in the North-Eastern Region, and right now, Busia is not being attacked.

(Dr. Mungai)

Sometimes it may be a laughing matter, because some hour. Members do not know that there are some people who are being killed and threatened all the time by armed men and gangs in the North-Eastern Region, and they must have feelings for every part of Kenya, particular when a particular place is in danger. We, therefore, have to finish this, and we are considering Busia as well. I do remember what I promised, and I do consider it, but sometimes we have to give priorities to the needy areas first, whereas we do not forget the other areas, and we assure you that we are going to cover them. If Tshombe wants to attack Kenya, we have men in Kenya to fight him.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We will carry on now.

(Head E agreed to)

VOYE II—MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS

Head A (7)—Kenya (a) Day

Mr. Pinto: Mr. Chairman, Sir, could we know whether this was in respect of money already spent?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): I have already said that it has been spent.

Mr. Pinto: Mr. Chairman, is it normally the procedure that the House is called to approve expenditure which has already been incurred?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Are you asking me, or the Minister?

Mr. Pinto: I am asking the Minister, but I am addressing the Chair.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think I can answer that. Personal expenditure has to be undertaken. It was not foreseen at the time.

Mr. Pinto: Can we have an assurance from the Minister to this Committee, so that we can all be informed?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): I think there will be no difficulty in the matter dealing with this task, and I could give that undertaking, but I am quite sure this was given by the President the other day. The money was advanced from the Civil Contingency Fund.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Chairman, Sir, that is the same question as I asked previously. I was in the countryside, and what happened is that various people around the district complained that during the time of spending this money, some districts did not even get anything, and some other areas did. Now, Mr. Chairman, I would like to know how this money, £3,500, was distributed to the districts?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): I cannot give an exact breakdown of how much was spent in each region, because there were functions at every headquarters of the region. Exactly how the distribution went, I could not say, but I could say that definitely the money was well spent round the whole country.

Mr. Masinder: Mr. Chairman, Sir, then with this one, it means that it is a very bitter question, because there have been some rumours about the civil servants misusing these funds, and that is why it is in the interests of this House to know exactly how this money was spent. If money was distributed to a particular province or region, and it was misused by any of the civil servants in the province, then we must know how much went there and, if necessary, we shall commission the police to inquire how this money was spent. That is why it is necessary for us to know full details; we want to know how much was sent to all districts and regions.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): I think the money was in proportion to the population in the various areas.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Chairman, my question is very simple. Would the Minister explain how this money was distributed for use, and the system employed for the distribution of this Kenya Days Celebrations Fund, and what instructions the Minister received regarding the use of the particular Fund. I think that will make the Minister understand what we are driving at. We want to know the system employed in the Ministry for the usage of these Funds, whether on a certain level, or in equal proportions or what. This is just to show the Minister that the Members are keeping an eye on the system devised by the Ministry for the use of the Fund.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Otienko): I would like to explain to the Members how the money was distributed and how the Government operated this fund. First of all, the Government had to take into account, not just the mere population of the areas concerned, but as you know we have about seven provinces in the country, and the number of registered voters were taken into consideration, because it could not be done otherwise, and then the money was allocated. That is the most reasonable figure we have so far, that the money was distributed to the provinces with a request that the Provincial Commissioners should distribute

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Well, I will take the opportunity presented by this occasion, Mr. Oduya, to remind you that if you use that type of language again—you must appreciate that this is a Parliament and you must treat hon. Ministers and Members with the respect they deserve. If you use this type of language you will be asked to leave the Chamber.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We were just put that Motion, we are not putting it again. No, we are now going to Vote 8, Ministry of Internal Security and Defence.

VOTE 8—MINISTRY OF INTERNAL SECURITY AND DEFENCE

Immigration Department

(11, 12, 13 agreed to)

14—Miscellaneous Other Charges

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, I, 4, Sir, Other Charges. So far—I will not go back to other items because you have already rushed them.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, there was a confusion here in my mind particularly.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We will pass over that, carry on.

Mr. Gichoya: What are these Miscellaneous Other Charges, when I see more or less Personal Emoluments, House Allowances, Passages and so forth, what is covered by miscellaneous and other charges?

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Chairman, I am advised that these Miscellaneous Charges are, in fact, miscellaneous charges which have been accepted in the original estimate but in a section which came over from another Ministry, and there is no difference from the original ones which were passed by this House.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, so far as I can see, in terms of the previous Ministry, we had the Ministry of Home Affairs dealing with Internal Security—no, it was the President's Office dealing with Internal Security, and the same responsibility has been handed over to a Minister specifically appointed to take charge of that Ministry. What I want to know is this, Sir. In the past it used to be in the orbit of the Prime Minister's Office and you could either call the Prime Minister the Defence Minister or call him the Prime Minister, but in all cases we would like to know the items stipulated, because I do not see the point here as to why we should just come to debate something instead of being told why. This has come to be the order of the day, that these estimates, having been arrived at by the Council of Ministers of the Kenya Government, go by protocol, without any debate over them. Not even when there is a waste of public money, we cannot do anything else. We are now here in this place asking for clarification of these things.

Mr. Gichoya: I think if the hon. Member looks at the bottom of page 9, that reads: "As a result of the Constitutional changes, the responsibility for the Department of Immigration passes from 12th December to the Minister for Internal Security and Defence. This Supplementary Estimate effects the transfer of provision from the Ministry of Home Affairs where a corresponding reduction is reflected." In other words, we are not asking for anything new. It is the same amount that was there.

VOTE 9—POLICE

D—Replacement and running expenses of motor vehicles and aircraft

Mr. Gichoya: I see, Sir, we have added something extra in terms of police motor vehicles and aircraft. Could we actually know to which places these motor vehicles have been added and also the number of aircraft we have in the country.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, I am certain now that the hon. Member who has just spoken has not done his homework, because if he had done his homework, instead of wasting Ministers' time he would have read (d) at the bottom there, where it actually tells him where the replacements are for. They are for twelve Land-Rovers to provide additional vehicles for use in the North-Eastern Region and by the General Service Units.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Chairman, I understand (d) as explained by the Minister but there have been cases on various occasions in this Parliament when we have heard that the police could not get to places where crimes had taken place because of shortage of petrol.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, no, Mr. Shikuku, that has got nothing to do with this.

Mr. Shikuku: I was just trying to raise the question as to why Kakamega District was not included in this.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You can ask for information as to what the £3,000 is about but not to say that—

Mr. Shikuku: Yes, but I do not see why, with regard to this £3,000, they did not include places other than the Northern Frontier District.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Minister has accused the Member for Gichugu of not doing his homework. The point which he is talking about is the replacement and running expenses of motor vehicles and aircraft. In the first place, now, there is shown, the cost of reconditioning twelve Land-Rovers. Now if the Minister himself does understand the grammar of the English language, he will agree with me that the aircraft are not covered by Land-Rovers. Twelve Land-Rovers do not make even a single aircraft, unless he has been given mathematical calculations that one Land-Rover in the Kenya Government service equals one aircraft. So I would like to know the number of aircraft involved in these twelve Land-Rovers, which are being merely reconditioned.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Chairman, what has taken place here is that because of the extra mileage which has had to be done by Land-Rovers in the North-Eastern Region, the replacement and also the reconditioning of these vehicles has come about sooner.

The hon. Member may think that this is a laughing matter but this is a matter which is being dealt with by our security forces who are fighting up there. This is no laughing matter, Mr. Chairman. These twelve Land-Rovers are urgently needed and what has happened, Mr. Chairman, is—and I understand also from what I have been told that a certain type of aircraft has also been used additionally to what was originally estimated. This means that the hours of service in engines, etc., has come forward quicker than normal had we not had this trouble in the North-Eastern Region, and finance is also needed for the extra running expenses of the aeroplanes. After an aeroplane has done 250 hours, it has to be brought in, and the engine has to be overhauled.

To me, this is the explanation after anybody has read (d). I fully admit that nothing has been said about an aeroplane, but an aeroplane is no different to a Land-Rover, in fact, it is more expensive than a Land-Rover, because when it has done a certain number of hours, it is not allowed to fly. It must then be reconditioned.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Chairman, as far as (d) goes it is just the replacement and running expenses of motor vehicles, in fact, at this particular place, aircraft have not been referred to. It would have included aircraft as above, but we would like to know why the aircraft has not been mentioned down here, and when the explanation comes, the cost of reconditioning Land-Rovers to provide additional vehicles for use in the North-Eastern Region and by the General Service Unit. The aircraft itself is not referred to, but the motor vehicles, which are now represented by twelve Land-Rovers are referred to. This is just a question of clarification, Sir.

Mr. McKenzie: Mr. Speaker, I would have thought that hon. Members had been in this House long enough to understand exactly what supplementaries are. There is a heading, and the heading right the way through the previous supplementaries are here: Replacement of Running Expenses of Motor Vehicles and Aircraft. If you have more money for it, it may not be for the aircraft, but only for Land-Rovers, but the heading includes aircraft, and that explains exactly what the money is for. It does not mean to say that they have to put in there what money is being spent on aircraft. I gather that the money being spent on aircraft is being obtained from elsewhere and that this £3,000 is, in fact, only for twelve Land-Rovers, but the heading in the original Supplementary Estimate is Motor Vehicles and Aircraft, and hon. Members would be misled by Government if we took out the words "and Aircraft". That does not mean to say that in a supplementary there has to be money for aircraft.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think we have had enough now. We do not want to follow up the same points over and over again. It has been explained quite clearly now.

Mr. Gichoya: Dut, Sir—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, I am sorry, Mr. Gichoya, I have to seek the convenience of all the Members of the House, not just one person. I think you have had the chance to ask your questions.

(Head D agreed to)

Head E—The Purchase of Additional Vehicles

Mr. Masine: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I hope the hon. Minister will not come and say that we do not understand this. It is clearly stated in the

[The Chairman] clear, and I think I made it clear, that it is impossible for anybody to forecast exactly what journeys are going to be made next year, and when and how. It is a rough estimate, a rough calculation, and I think that is as much as one can get. I do not think one can go much further. I do not know if Mr. Gichuru wants to add anything to this. If not, I think we will go to the next heading. We will never get through otherwise. We have got a big Supplementary Estimate and we have got to get this Estimate out.

(Head A4 agreed to)

Head A6—Miscellaneous Other Charges

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Chairman, I think the House would also like to hear a little from the Minister for Finance, giving us a bit of a breakdown of this £4,805, which is a very big jump from more than £3,000. If the Minister could breakdown some of the items for which this money is spent I think we would be very happy to say O.K.

Mr. Gichuru: I must confess, Mr. Chairman, that I have not got the breakdown with me here, and therefore—

An hon. Member: Why not?

Mr. Gichuru: If the details—

MOVING FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE

(Under Standing Order 35 (b))

Mr. Omar: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, this is the second time that the Minister for Finance has given an excuse that he is unable to give us figures for information required by Members because he has not got them. I wonder whether it would be proper to adjourn the House until such time that the Minister has all the information that is required by the Members?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You can move the adjournment on this.

Mr. Omar: I, therefore, move the adjournment.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You have got to move that the Committee report progress and beg leave to sit again tomorrow or the next sitting day.

Mr. Omar: Yes.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Okeko): On a point of order, Mr.

Chairman, if the hon. Member is only asking for an adjournment of that particular part, could we not leave this and consider the rest of the estimate concerning the other items, rather than adjourn?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Okeko, I see your point of view but I am afraid that even then we cannot go back to other items; we have got to follow them up.

If there is a question of whether there is going to be an adjournment or not, we normally do not allow much of a debate but I think I will allow one or two Government speakers.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Chairman, I feel that if hon. Members will agree, it would be far better if we could devise a system whereby the remainder of this Vote be left until the end and for us to get on with other Votes. There are Ministers here who have got the breakdown and I challenge hon. Members when they come to my Ministry to try and catch me out when I cannot answer? I know there are other Ministers who have got them here. Therefore what I would like to suggest is that we leave this Vote for the time being and go on with the other Votes, because if you want to get on with this Supplementary Estimate, I would like to say that certain Ministries are being held up now because of this Supplementary Estimate and cannot act.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Maybe Mr. Omar would agree to that, would you?

Mr. Omar: No, Mr. Chairman, I do not agree to that.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Well, I will put it to the vote then. If Mr. Omar will not agree, and Mr. McKenzie has made his point—if the House does not agree then there will be no adjournment and we can proceed with Mr. McKenzie's suggestion and go on to Vote 7.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Chairman, I would like some clarification on this because normally I do not know whether it is necessary for a Minister to give a breakdown, because you can see written here the money voted in previous years, expenses and also the additional money required and I do not think the Ministers should waste the time of this Committee.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think I must give a ruling on this. Members of this Committee are all entitled to ask for such information as they think it will assist them to decide which way to vote. It is their prerogative, naturally, to ask for a breakdown of the Miscellaneous Charges; and in the past we have always asked for breakdowns. I myself can remember when I was in the Opposition, with Mr. Gichuru, and Mr. McKenzie, we wanted to ask questions even as to how many teachers there were in a particular school and what race they were and so on and so forth. But the point is this: I appreciate the point of view of the Government and it is possible that this particular Ministry, for reasons that are best known to itself, is not just now that is equipped to provide all the information that the hon. Members would wish. I think probably Mr. McKenzie's suggestion is quite good and that we should leave this Ministry and go on to the next Ministry and they come back to it on another occasion, when, in fact, this Ministry has got the information, rather than lose an hour and a half of a sitting day and adjourn, if, in fact, we are going to adjourn.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Okeko): On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, I think it would be fair, if the hon. Members are making such a negative approach to the whole thing, I think it would have been much better to agree to continue with the work, go into details of the other Ministries which can supply information required by the Members do so, if we continue tomorrow. I am not opposing the hon. Member's suggestion; I quite agree with the Members that they should get the information they require and I think that is the duty of this House.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Well, I think we have had enough points of order now. I will now put this to the vote, because when a Motion of Adjournment has been proposed, it should, in fact, be put to the vote almost immediately; we should not have a full-scale debate as to whether we should adjourn or not.

Hon. Members have heard the points of view expressed by Mr. McKenzie and the Vice-President, and also the appeal made by the Minister for Information, and I think they will obviously take that into consideration.

(Question put and negatived)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think, in view of the suggestion made earlier, we will leave Vote 6 and this, I think, is with the consent of the Minister for Finance, that we leave Vote 6 and proceed with Vote 7.

Mr. Gichuru: Yes, Mr. Chairman.

(Further consideration of Vote 6—Office of the President, with the leave of the House, was postponed)

VOTE 7—MINISTRY OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Mr. Masinde: On a point of clarification, Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): There is no point of clarification here, Mr. Masinde. Go on, then.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Chairman, I would like to seek your guidance on this. What is going to happen as we have decided to leave Vote 6? If we cannot get another answer, if, say, the Minister jumps up again and says he has not got the information, what is going to be the position?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): If the Ministers regularly find they do not have the answers to a question, then, of course, the House can move another Motion of Adjournment, but it is to be hoped that Ministers will come prepared with answers.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Okeko): Mr. Chairman, we are here to do our duty to the country and if we find that with Vote 7, the same thing applies then we can jump on to another Vote and go through the whole Estimate; I think if we can do it that way it would be of great help to this House.

An hon. Member: No, no, no.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Order! I am not taking any more points of order. In view of the fact that the Minister for External Affairs is not here, I think we will leave that alone and take Vote 8.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, what I am surprised at is that today is a Supplementary Estimate day, but the Ministers seem to be unaware of this and has not come. Now if the Minister for External Affairs is not here, he should be sacked.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, no. Order, order! This is very unparliamentary language, Mr. Oduya. We are here in a Parliament. You must withdraw that remark.

Mr. Oduya: I am sorry, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No more points, please sit down.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, the hon. gentleman has used that language so often, could you ask him to remember not actually to use it so often?

[Mr. Gichoya] Minister and another. I am interested in knowing exactly, when meeting our people, about these payments, what the items are which are involved. I must be an expert in the policy of the Government, an expert in terms of the law here when it is being applied wrongly outside. I must say it is wrong because I know how we pass it, but here the Minister may feel that I am doing it to humiliate him or another Minister or partly to disappoint or humiliate the President.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think I should make it clear that we are not here discussing policy making—you cannot make a speech.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Chairman, I think it ought to be made very clear that there is no question of hiding any information; it is not in the interest of the Ministers here to hide any facts. Normally, I do get briefs from every Ministry, it is just unfortunate that I did not have this one, otherwise I could produce all the facts and figures and I shall make sure that tomorrow, when we go on with the rest, I shall have all the books ready here for any such details.

Mr. Khasakhalu: Mr. Chairman, Sir, we are not being difficult with the Minister, what we are seeking is just information. Originally we voted for £4,000—just a few months ago—and now that figure has been doubled, not even doubled, but much more, trebled. The additional figure we now require is £14,000. Now, a trip to London and back, where leave is taken, or to India, would not cost more than Sh. 7,000 at reduced rate for the return trip for one person. If we want a sum of Sh. 280,000—let us go to shillings—divided by one thousand, then it means that we have so many people who are not there, who have come there, and these many people who were not there have come there and we want to know how many there are and where they came from. They cannot be only from the Office of the Governor-General, they must have been somewhere else and they are being brought here.

The Assistant Minister, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Chairman, I would like to say something on this particular item. As the hon. Members know, the Office of the President is in charge of the Administration, the Provincial Administration. The sum of £4,000, which was voted for the Office of the President covered the expenses of a small staff which was working in the Prime Minister's Office, as it was at that time. After the constitutional changes, we had the entire Administration under that Office, that is to say, the Provincial Commissioners, the District Commissioners—

An hon. Member: Do not call them that they are all black.

The Assistant Minister, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): I know that they are all black, but what the hon. Members try to forget, is that even though they are black, they are entitled to leave expenses and, Mr. Chairman, indeed, the Vote has had to swell in the way in which it has been reflected in the Supplementary Estimates. If the hon. Members could only realize how large the Administration is and the size of the staff we have in the Administration, they could be well satisfied that we are not trying to be extravagant in this particular aspect.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Chairman, I do not know what the hon. Members are actually worried about. I think that one point about which the hon. Members would like to know is how many people are involved in this exercise. But the arguments which have been advanced by some hon. Members are completely invalid because many of them think of leave and passage expenses as for people going overseas. When someone goes to Mombasa, it also requires money to go to Mombasa. Also, someone going to Kampala for leave requires the same amount. I do not see anywhere it says leave and passages. This might even include someone going to rest at Kisumu. Therefore, I think that if the Minister would only be kind enough to promise hon. Members, who have questioned this, that the number of people involved would be given to them, then we could proceed, we do not want to hold the House up.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Chairman, I did promise that definitely I would get all the figures and the names of the individuals, if they are required.

(Head A3 agreed to)

Head A4—Travelling and Subsistence Expenses on Duty

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, we have already just agreed that the Travelling Expenses do not come under the Passages. Assuming that—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think, Mr. Gichoya, that it says "Expenses on Duty", travelling on duty, and this is different from leave pay.

Mr. Gichoya: Yes, Sir. I think that when somebody is travelling on leave, he is equally on duty inasmuch as he has not been dismissed from the service; he still remains in the service. Now, [Mr. Gichoya] we would like to know whether the Travelling Vote is for the President's travel or for the staff members, and if the travel is for the staff members, how many such journeys are envisaged per year unless and until there is an emergency involving extraordinary journeys. I say this, Sir, because if it were the question of the President travelling, say to Gatundu, I would like to know in that case how many persons he is entitled to carry with him to spend the Government's money when travelling to a particular place. If it were the question of civil servants, how many civil servants are entitled to move from Nairobi headquarters, using the Government vehicles and Government petrol? At one stage, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I was told that we could not get petrol for a policeman to go and help a dying person in a village within the Kirinyaga District; yet the next morning the very same vehicle which had no petrol was available for the patrolling of the same area, because Ministers were going there. Now, I would like to know specifically how many people are going on these travels, the number of civil servants involved and the Ministers.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odingsa): Mr. Chairman, I think the hon. gentleman is trying to ask the Government to give far too many particulars, because how, indeed, unless he wants to get into the position of the Ministers, can he actually think for them and also move for them, because the Ministers are responsible. What actually has to be done is to limit expenses, and that is what we are doing here. Your only question should be whether you think that is too much, or that is too little, in which case, you would like to put it, but do not think we should become involved in minute details or I do not think you will ever pass any of these Supplementaries—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): It is up to the Minister for Finance to decide exactly what he feels he would like to do. It is quite understandable that it is impossible for Mr. Gichuru, after all these are estimates, to say which individual journey will be undertaken and where and how many persons will travel in each car. It is physically impossible for anybody to say that in the next year how many people will go on a particular trip, he probably does not even know exactly what trips will be made. I think it is a rough estimate and you can give him some guidance if you would like. Let me agree with Mr. Odingsa that it is not possible to go into such contingencies.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Thank you very much for helping, Mr. Chairman. I was asked how many journeys and the estimate is that there will be £8,000 worth of journeys, that is why we have £8,000 down here.

Mr. Gichoya: What is more important here is that it is wrong for the Vice-President, it is equally wrong for the Minister for Finance to come and tell the House that half these dealings are given by the Cabinet. What we want to know, and particularly Gichoya wants to know, is that when I am sanctioning this money for how many journeys per year, because this is a matter of mathematical calculations, you cannot arrive at a figure at random, just say from my own head, we want to know exactly how many journeys are involved per year; not exactly because some perhaps may move, savings and additional journeys, but we want to know how many journeys are expected to be involved for this payment. And, Mr. Chairman, I feel it is not in keeping with parliamentary procedure when we come to a question of money that Ministers can take it wrong, that when we try to find out the facts we are trying to put them in a tough spot. We are going to give you the money; this is the assurance that we are giving; the Ministry is going to get the money for this but we want to be assured as to its purpose. These are hot small things and unless the Minister was ill-informed or badly briefed by the officers involved in calculating these things, I think it is very wrong for this House to accept the estimates, just as they are. We are actually charged with a very tough responsibility, Sir, and the Cabinet is equally charged with a higher responsibility than we, the Members. But the success of the Cabinet is based on the Members being enlightened as to what the Cabinet is doing and that is why I say the Vice-President is very wrong in coming to tell us that "the money is too much" and that we want to run the Ministry. We are not interested, Sir, in being Ministers.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, may I seek your guidance and ruling on this? Are we not dealing with A 4 now, which is expenses of officers whilst on duty?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I think, in fact, I did make this quite clear, that we do not want to go into a full-scale debate on this Ministry; all we are trying to do, in fact, is to elicit certain information. I think that as far as this particular heading is concerned, we have got as much information as we are likely to get from the hon. Minister for Finance and I do not think there is any point, Mr. Gichuru, in pressing a point when Mr. McKenzie has made it quite of the opinion Sir, wrongly) or rightly, that the staff that was within the Prime Minister's Office did get transferred from the Prime Minister's Office to the President's Office because the Prime Minister is the same as the President today, and if at all they were adding an additional number of staff members to facilitate the working of the President's Office, we would like to know exactly how many were added on and how many were there before in the two places, because there could be an additional number of staff members in terms of the President's Office, more than the former staff members of the Governor-General. At the same time, the former number of the then Prime Minister might perhaps have been increased so these are the things I would like to know from the hon. Minister.

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, I think, it should be remembered that included in the President's Office is the Administration, which was not there before and, therefore, this is the reason why you have savings, which you could have seen if you had studied this paper as well, because you see, the Minister for Home Affairs has paid £120,000. This money comes over automatically into the President's Office because this is where some of the services are now situated. It is because they have changed over that you find an increase in the President's Office as well as some savings being made elsewhere, because the services have been moved from one place to another. Similarly, if you look at the savings in the Ministry of Finance, it was because the Ministry was split, so there is a saving.

Mr. Gichoya: But, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am very happy that there are savings, but my question has not been answered by the Minister. What I want to know is, how many staff members from the former offices of the Prime Minister of Kenya, which is now the President's Office and how many staff members were taken from the former Governor-General's Office to make up the present staff members of the President of Kenya, Sir. The Minister is not prepared to tell me.

Mr. Gichuru: I am.

Mr. Gichoya: He is only telling me there are many savings and there are additional members perhaps from the Ministry of Home Affairs. These are the things I want to know. I know there are savings and I can see it, but how did there come to be savings, how many members are involved in this. Was it because you have reduced the income, the salaries or what?

Mr. Gichuru: I have said that the Administration—the District Commissioners, the District Officers and everybody—have been moved over to the President's Office. They now come under him and therefore it is what I said before but, you won't listen. You see they have now been moved over, and therefore there is sure to be an increase in the size of the Estimate under the President's Vote. Similarly, because they have been moved this way, this saving is really in consequence of the changes that have come about.

(Head A1 agreed to)

Head A2—House Allowances

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, here we have two subheads. One headed, Office of the President, and the other, Administration. I am pursuing the house allowance survey. In the Office of the President, is included house allowance and also passages and leave expenses but these two items are not repeated in the Administration. Does this mean that the house allowance of £25,500 is additional money required to cover both employees in the Office of the President and the Administration, Nairobi area, tribal police, licensing revenue, and all that, or is it only for the President's employees?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think we are discussing A (2) which is house allowance of the Office of the President which is not as far as I can see here included in Administration. It is a separate item.

Mr. Ochwada: What I wanted to know is whether this £25,500 is needed in addition to the £8,000 originally given and is it to cover only the employees in the Office of the President or does it cover the Administration employees as well?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): It covers Administration in the President's Office as well as the President's own office.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Chairman, Sir, could the Minister then give us an idea of how many employees are to be covered by this £33,000? Is it a hundred and ten?

Mr. Gichuru: I could not, but if the information is wanted in writing I could produce it.

(Head A2 agreed to)

Head A3—Passages and Leave Expenses

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Chairman, Sir, when we read of passages it appears as though there are many expatriates who have to go on leave here because we have no local man who has to be given leave expenses. Could we be told how many people are involved in this particular office?

19] Committee of Supply—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You are discussing A (3)—Passages and Leave Expenses.

Mr. Khasakhala: Yes, Sir.

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Assistant Minister is supposed to be here and give me his briefing, and so I am afraid that I cannot give you an explanation just now.

Mr. J. M. Kariuki: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to ask the Minister what he has saved? In view of the Africanization in the country in future we will be having very good savings in view of the passages and overseas expenses.

Mr. Gichuru: This is very true, Sir, but we have to fulfil our obligations at the moment.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, can the Minister tell me, in connexion the passages and leave expenses involved, which are passages from this country to another one, and which are passages for the former Governor-General's staff? I mean the officers who were in the Governor-General's residence and the members of his staff. Of course, some members are personal to the President, or, if they were members of the staff of the former Office of the Prime Minister, how many such persons are involved and in what categories are they in terms of their positions, so that we know that we are really having Mr. X or Mr. Y for four obvious reasons: that is we are not in a position to get a proper local man who does not need travelling expense, and overseas leave. These are the things which we need.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): Mr. Chairman, it is obvious that what is meant here are three lots of people. One is, those people who were left in the Office of the Governor-General will automatically have been taken over by the Office of the President. We know that a number of them have had their services terminated, but their leave and leave passages will continue because they go away with their leave and their leave passages. Also it is obvious that when the whole of the Administration came from another Ministry, then the Assistant Secretaries, the Deputy Secretaries, etc. who are tied to the Administration will not be shown in the Administration they will be shown in the Office of the President and they will also be involved in A. (1) to A. (6).

It 7-16 pp.

Over and above that, the third category of people involved in this are the new people who will set up the Office of the President. They may originally have been in the Office of the Prime Minister, they may have been in one of the offices of the Minister of State, but they will be re-shown here because this is a complete new Ministry. Therefore, all you see under the Office of the President it is doubtful if there is a new person there. In fact, some of these allowances and passages will be showing from people who have gone but we have still to meet those commitments because their period of leave may be two or three months and they will still be on the pay roll of the Kenya Government. But I should not think there are new personnel here. This is a new Ministry and those three categories will have to be shown in here.

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, Sir, there is just one little thing. In making the Estimates also we do put in a small element because when we Africanize we have to make provision, we have to have money ready for the expatriation of the officers and therefore there is that element in it too.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir. We know for certain that it was not very easy, it is not even up to this moment very easy, to Africanize every office in Kenya, but it effects the House also, to know the various categories of people which we are not in a position to Africanize.

Now when we try to find out from the Minister, as to the number of people involved, whether they are one of the hon. Ministers who tried to explain, they were just the people who were paid off at a particular stage of time and then their passages were given to them and leaves and that is why we have to pay this amount, we ought to know how many people are involved. I think it is a mistake, Sir, that we take these for granted. We shall fail the country completely if we accept this case without first going deeply and knowing exactly what is the position. As I am bound to be asked by the taxpayers, "why did you pass this", am I going to tell them I never knew, and show them how stupid a Member is in this House that he accepted things for granted without knowing exactly why it was here in that form?

Secondly, the Government being ours, we have a duty (to view exactly the position and then we can just define the position of the Government to the outside world to our own voters as well. Now the Minister should not feel that we are trying to scrutinize him personally. I did come here to find out plenty of things which have gone on between one Ministry and another and one is why we have amended it, in fact, he is helping me amend this Bill, because before we were restricting it. This is exactly what the hon. Member said about the amendment of this Bill, to which I agree, to which the Government agrees, to which the hon. Member himself, Mr. Gichoya, has agreed and supported, from his speech.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the hon. Member inquired the meaning of bona fide?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Well, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this case it means not the people who go stealing at night, making business at night in Grogan Road, but these who honestly have a car that is broken down and want to buy one spare part to repair it, whether a mechanic or not, if it is an emergency. We have liberalized it so that we can do it, what we are trying to stop is this night business that goes on, and there is no reason why any hon. Member should want to buy spare parts constantly at night, unless he is up to no good.

(Question put and agreed to)Clause 26

THAT clause 26 of the Bill be amended by:—

(a) numbering the clause as paragraph (1); and

(b) adding the following new paragraph—

(2) Any firm or business or dealer wishing to be considered for exemption under this section shall submit an application in writing to the Minister and shall supply such additional information as the Minister may require.

(Question proposed)

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this clause is self-explanatory, that anyone wishing to behave in this kind of business can always apply, and we shall also keep control of the businesses that are going on at night, and we shall grant certificates and also make sure that the cars of the hon. Members in this House and others outside this House are protected from these people who do their business at night, stealing their carburettors, their spare parts, tyres, batteries and so on.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I will just like to thank the Minister that he is trying to curtail the stealing of motor-cars. I have been a victim of this, not only once, but many times, and have had several parts taken, the head lights, and spanners, and so on, but the biggest danger,

Sir, is this. Unless the Government takes stern measures—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are dealing with the Senate Amendment, are you not?

Mr. Gichoya: I am dealing with that one, Sir. Unless the Government eradicates these illegal dealers in motor-cars, from stealing parts from other people's cars, I do not see the point of this amendment, but I am happy, that the Government is able to go ahead in trying to regulate the parts that come into this country.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Gichoya, this concerns only the exemption from the operation of the Bill.

Mr. Gichoya: If the exemption is given, it should be to the genuine sellers, not the public.

The Government has given an assurance that buyers can be given a licence for a genuine approach to a genuine seller. Unless and until the Ministry is very careful over this, we might be continuing the state of affairs that has been going on.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can only thank the hon. Member for supporting the amendment, and repeating what I have said before, and I can assure him that we are going to be genuine and are going to make sure that the hon. Members and others are not going to buy their own parts, because we are going to keep a check on that. Also, we would like to get a report from the hon. Members from their constituencies, where there has been an improvement as far as the stealing of cars is concerned.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Question put and agreed to)

(Ordered that the Clerk carry the said Bill to the Senate and acquaint them with the decision of the House on their amendments thereto)

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

(Order for Committee read)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

IN THE COMMITTEE

[The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]
SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 3 OF 1964/65—
RECURRENT

THAT a sum not exceeding £4,900,002 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65—Recurrent.

(Minister for Finance on 17th February 1965)

(Resumption of consideration in Committee interrupted on 17th February 1965)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gichuru, I believe you now wish to substitute a new Motion in place of the one you moved last week?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Due to certain requirements of Parliamentary procedure, Mr. Chairman, I beg leave to the Committee to withdraw the Motion under this Order standing in my name, and to substitute therefor, the following new Motion:—

THAT a sum not exceeding £5,869,219 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65—Recurrent—I cannot bear myself, Sir.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think they have heard you so far.

Mr. Gichuru:—having regard to the proposed saving of £969,217, therein appearing.

The effect of substituting for the original Motion the Motion I have just introduced in the House, is that the new Motion is more in conformity with the provisions of the Supplementary Appropriation Bill which the House will soon be debating. I invite the House to note the declared savings in the Motion, which will, in fact, result in the lower sum of £4,900,902, as shown in the summary to the Supplementary Estimate as being the actual amount required.

If I may, Mr. Chairman, Sir, refer hon. Members to the summary of the Supplementary Estimate No. 3, they will note therein, that in Votes Nos. 1 to 29 shown there, the total sum involved is £5,869,219, but we have savings in the various Ministries that amount to £969,217, thus reducing the sum I asked for today to £4,900,902. It is just a Parliamentary way to place it in the Treasury Vote. We did it in a very simple manner, but I then discovered that we could not do it that way, but the actual money involved remains exactly the same.

I beg to move.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gichuru, have you got the President's assent signified to?

Mr. Gichuru: The President has signified his assent to this Motion.

(Question proposed)VOTE 1—STATE HOUSE

(Head F—Miscellaneous Other Charges agreed to)

VOTE 5—PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): There is nothing to be debated in the Public Service Commission, Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: I think an explanation is necessary, Sir.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, no, there is nothing to be debated here, because this is in fact an Appropriation-in-Aid, which you cannot debate.

VOTE 6—OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENTHead A 1—Personal Emoluments

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Yes, Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I want just to have a clarification from the Minister as to which House we are committing the Nation, because so far as my knowledge goes our President is having State House which was Governmental; previously the country had two houses, the House where the Governor-General used to stay—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Gichoya, I am afraid you are debating State House which has just been passed. We are now debating the Office of the President, Personal Emoluments, which has nothing to do with this. If you are in effect asking for house allowances to members of the staff of the Office of the President, that is a different thing, that has nothing to do either with the Aga Khan's House or State House.

Mr. Gichoya: Thank you, Sir, well, then in that case I will be very happy, Sir, to know the number of Staff Members of the President, I mean house allowances—to how many persons these allowances are given and their various positions within the office of our President, Sir?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, Sir, there has been an increase in the staff of the President's Office, because some of the people were working in the Governor's Office, now they have to be brought to the President's Office. The President has to have his private office at the State House as well as his office in the President's Building that is why we want a little extra money, to cover that.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I was trying to find out the actual number of persons it involved, and perhaps the exact number we would have if we add the two together, that of the Governor-General and the Prime Minister. I am

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I only wish to please everybody in the House and therefore I will repeat my words and say that I would like to answer what the hon. Member for Majogee-Bassi, Mr. Anyieni, the last speaker said, and also the question of the National Member, the hon. Mr. Ochwada! That satisfies everyone, so we can proceed now and try to save time.

Mr. Speaker, the amendment came about because when the Bill went to the Senate the Government decided that it might be very cumbersome to register every bolt, every nut and every flag-pole which may be changed every day on some hon. Members' cars; and we found that this would be very cumbersome. Since time is money, and time is very valuable in the fast-moving continent of Africa, we decided to change it and register the important component parts, which are very important in cases of stealing and which can be checked easily and rapidly, without going into the matter of every bolt.

Mr. Speaker, the amendment did not come from the hon. Members of the Senate. From all over Kenya, it was moved by the Government for this reason, and we therefore would ask the hon. Members of this House to accept the amendment, thus being in agreement with the hon. Member for Majogee-Bassi in his desire to proceed without further delay.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I agree with the amendment but I totally disagree with the Minister's assertion and contention that we must rush things through this House because Africa is a "rushing" continent. The Parliament is entitled to its due; and it must deliberate for the sake of the common good, and there is no point in rushing.

The former Ministry of Justice, now the Ministry which comes under the Attorney-General, ought to have gone carefully and must accept that Members in this House are not here so as to rush things through and then come to a conclusion which is subject to litigation later. The amendment by the Government is very good but it ought to have been made clear to us that it is a Government amendment, but that it came about after the passing of this Bill through this House that the Government found it fit or appropriate to table it in the Senate. And then that the amendment is coming here as an amendment from the Government not from the Senators.

I see that the Ministry is empowered to gazette whatever is necessary and that is quite in order. It makes it easier for any businessman dealing with motor vehicle components to know what is supposed to be under the law and what is not under the law. So I think the amendment, which is a second thought on the part of the Government, is quite in order. But it is wrong on the part of the Minister to come and say it is the attitude of the Governments of Africa. It is not the attitude of the Governments of Africa but perhaps the attitude of the Government of Kenya and the Government of Kenya—I must point that out through you, Mr. Speaker—is being led by a man who is old in terms of experience; he has got a long past experience and he is able to guide us well; so his Government cannot be a "rushing" Government, it is a very considerate one. The Minister should correct himself and realize that he is not a child to bring things here in a rush, but a matured Minister, capable of guiding the country by his good advice.

With those few words, Sir, I support the amendment.

(Question of the amendment put and agreed to) Clause 14

THAT clause 14 (1) of the Bill be amended by:

(a) deleting the semi-colon at the end of paragraph (a) thereof and inserting in place thereof a colon; and

(b) inserting immediately thereunder the following new proviso:

"Provided that nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to prevent a licensed dealer from selling to a bona fide purchaser such motor vehicle components and accessories as such purchaser may necessarily require between the aforesaid hours;"

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will take this opportunity to correct the hon. Mr. Gichoya on his speech. There is no Minister in the Kenya Government who is trying to rush the business of this House. This Bill has been discussed for four months, and the opportunity is still here to discuss it, except that I did not say, and I repeat this, that the Kenya Government is rushing anybody. I just used the term to save time, as the hon. Member for Majogee-Bassi had said, so I would like to have the hon. Member there corrected.

Mr. Speaker, there is not very much to explain in this, because it is self-explanatory. All I would say is that there have been some people in the habit of stealing vehicles at night, and trying to sell them at night, and some business people have been employed in this, and employ some poorer people as their thieves, and then deliver the goods to them at night, so we would like to make sure that they check this properly, and that all sales of vehicle parts, except in the case of an emergency, is done during the day.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, while I agree with the proposed amendment, as explained by the Minister, it is very difficult for me to understand who a bona fide purchaser is in this case or whether the bona fide purchaser would be a person who is purchasing during the hours in the amendment. That being the case, what would happen in cases where we have places like Grogan Road, where there are garages working up to about eight o'clock at night, and where some unfortunate travellers from Arusha or Moshi who get into Nairobi with a broken part, and probably knows that one of the garages in River Road is open, and he is likely to be able to purchase a part from them, would he be regarded as a bona fide purchaser? Would he have to stay overnight and wait until the next morning until the hours specified, or would anyone who genuinely owns a car be able to go to the shop to get his spares?

Secondly, would this question of specified hours, in which these spare parts can be purchased, apply to garages where car repairs are undertaken? I wonder whether the Minister would explain that at a later stage.

I beg to agree with the amendment.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I entirely disagree with the amendment for various reasons, that a bona fide purchaser must be a regular customer to a particular seller who is licensed, and it might happen that my young brother, who is not a regular purchaser, may be sent either by myself or for that matter by my father, driven by my driver, to buy certain articles which are sold for the sake of repair, and it might happen that my brother might be driving the motor-car. But, it has been stated that he must be a bona fide purchaser. There must be a way whereby we have to show a certificate to prove that we are really a bona fide purchaser.

Now, bona fide purchaser here is a man who is in the motor trade. He must be a mechanic with a licence to deal with motor-cars, and for that matter whenever he goes to a dealer, he must produce a certificate from his own workshop, then he can get the article. It is very difficult for even the Speaker's car when it is driven by the Speaker's driver. If it has an accident, even a minor one, to be able to obtain spare parts. It is sent to a particular recognized dealer of components of a motor-car, but it cannot be repaired.

Who is going to certify that we are bona fide, so that we can get spare parts?

The other thing, Sir, is this. It is clearly stated in clause 14 (c) that the seller to a certain degree—we are limited as to when—

An hon. Minister: Which clause?

Mr. Gichoya: Clause 14 (1) (c), we may only purchase items between the hours of 6.30 a.m. and 6.30 p.m.

Now, I have seen so far, Sir, in Cooper Motors, as a very good example, that they have a night service which means the service there could entail the replacement of new parts, and so on. However, I disagree completely with the question of certain hours to be required in which to sell these parts. What I would agree to, as far as the Government is concerned, is to see to it that the items which are sold, perhaps by the people at Grogan Road, who are second-hand dealers, are completely listed, and can be checked by the Government authorities so that they are selling goods that are in good condition to customers. Even if there is a breakdown in your car, you are not entitled to buy things between the hours not specified. I think this is very wrong. We are not going to be dictated to like this. It should be possible for me to be told that I, Gichoya, Member for Gichugu, can go in my own private capacity and get spare parts. This should make it possible for my own brother, sister, or father, to get spare parts for the repair of my car or my father's car, which is registered under my name. It is just a question of the person having a particular certificate saying that he is a bona fide purchaser.

I feel that if that amendment is accepted and we keep the original draft, the Minister concerned has all the administrative machinery, except that these things are not brought in for sale when they are not listed.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am happy that the hon. Member raised this point, and I would like him to refer to the date before it was amended, clause 14 (1) (a), which was passed in this House restricting the hours of which buyers could buy their spare parts.

It was passed here that nobody could buy those parts after 6.30 in the evening, but because the Government realizes that hardships may occur, even to hon. Members in this House, when they breakdown at night, we have, therefore, amended it to make it possible for some people to be able to buy spare parts after those hours, on emergency cases, and I do agree with the hon. Member. This

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Onoko): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order that this Motion should not be taken, resubmitted as a new Motion, all of these Motions, in fact? I mean to say, are these Motions dead, all of them?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Under our Standing Orders, if an hon. Member is not here to move his Motion at the time that it is called, in accordance with the Order Paper, then that Motion cannot be moved again during the same session without the leave of the Speaker. The Speaker does not give this leave without a very good reason for an hon. Member not having been here at the time. I can see no good reason for any of the hon. Members not having been here to move their Motions on Friday, so I am not at present disposed to give leave for them to be put on the Order Paper again.

BILLS

First Readings

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA (AMENDMENT) BILL

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Before reading this Bill for the First Time, I draw the attention of hon. Members to a correction of the Bill as originally published, which appears in the Official Gazette of the 16th February, whereby there is an attempt in clause 15 (2), deleting "12th March 1964" and substituting therefor "12th March 1965". If after promulgation of a Bill, Government wish to make any substantial amendment, I think it would be necessary for the Bill to be published again in full form; but, of course, this is merely correcting a clerical error. I hope hon. Members realize that the Bill which is now going to be read a First Time—and shortly to be debated on Second Reading—is the Bill as amended by the Official Gazette of 16th February 1965.

(Order for First Reading read—Read the First Time—Ordered to be read the Second Time tomorrow)

THE CIVIL CONSTITUTIONS FUND (AMENDMENT) BILL

(Order for First Reading read—Read the First Time—Ordered to be read the Second Time tomorrow)

(Consideration of Senate Amendment)

THE MOTOR VEHICLE COMPONENTS AND ACCESSORIES BILL

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Senate amendments to the Motor Vehicle Components and Accessories Bill be now considered.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

Clause 2

That clause 2 of the Bill be amended by deleting the definition of "motor vehicle components and accessories" and inserting in place thereof the following new definition:—

"Motor vehicle components and accessories" means such parts of a motor vehicle, and such articles or things, or parts thereof, which are for, or are designed for or intended for use in, or on a motor vehicle, as the Minister may, by notice in the Gazette declare to be motor vehicle components and accessories for the purposes of this Act or any subsidiary legislation made thereunder."

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The question I now have to propose is that the House doth agree the said amendment.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether the silence on the part of the Minister means he has accepted this proposed amendment, but if that is the case it looks to me as if it will be difficult for the Ministry to implement what has been suggested by the Senate. I do regard the little flag-pole which I have on my car as part and parcel of the car, and also the A.A.E.A. badge and the Shell Drivers' Club badge, and many other little things which I might stick on my car. I do regard them as part and parcel of my car. I do not know whether the Minister is going to agree to legislate for such small items as well as part of, or components of the car. If he is not going to consider that, then I do not see why we should accept the proposed amendment by the Senate because it makes it rather difficult for the Minister, and the Ministry as a whole, to legislate or lay down subsidiary legislation covering the whole of these small components. I, therefore, feel that the original clause, as it was before, should remain, rather than accepting this amendment by the Senate.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, I should have liked to raise a point of order on this but since my hon. friend has just spoken I would like to ask the Government Ministers what their attitude is going to be in connection with the amendments which are submitted to this House by the Senate. We did not want to speak, we wanted to sit down so that the Minister could give directions to this House as to whether this was an amendment which the Senate has brought to us with the advice of Government or whether it is an amendment which the Senate itself has tried to introduce without prior consultation with the Government, thus making it an amendment which we may have to study, also to see if it can be changed.

This is very important, Mr. Speaker, because last time the Senators brought an amendment here, there was a lot of quarrelling here, there was a lot of language being used which was not very conducive to a good relationship between this House and the Senate. And in this particular connection we should have liked to see that if the amendment which was now was initiated by the very people who drafted the original Bill, then those very people should be here to stand up now and explain to us why they should bring this amendment and why it was not there before, so that the House can be enlightened and so that the House may be able to understand.

Otherwise, if the Government just sits there, and the Speaker has to say, "Now, if no other hon. Member wishes to speak . . .", in that case I do not know whether the Minister wants to play it easy, but I do not think it is the right way because it can bring a lot of confusion in the Bill. So before I say anything else, I can see that when I was opening my mouth to speak the two Ministers, who are sitting very close to each other, the Attorney-General and the Minister for Internal Security and Defence, were nodding their heads, indicating, if I am not wrong, that this amendment is made on the advice of the Attorney-General's Office. That being the case, we should have liked the Attorney-General now to stand up and explain to the Members why the amendment is necessary, what difference it would make between this one and that one, so that we are able to agree or disagree.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I have raised this as a matter, not of just speaking, but of order because if the Government does not say what it feels, there is going to be confusion. I would like to sit down now and give a chance to either the representatives of the Draftsman's Office or of the Minister for Defence to be able to give the House a lead on what to do so that we do not waste much time discussing a thing like this if there is reason for it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Since the procedure laid down under our Standing Orders for the consideration of Senate amendments requires that they be considered in the House and not in committee, we are restricted by the ordinary rule of debate that no hon. Member can speak more than once. That means that the House is rather at a loss unless, at the outset, the Minister concerned, either on the Motion for consideration or at the start of the consideration of clause, indicates the attitude of Government. Then when he has done that I think, in accordance with the rules of debate, we can give him a right of reply at the end. Since he has heard these questions now, perhaps the Minister would like to state the position of Government.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): That you, Mr. Speaker, I am happy that the last speaker said that he would like to save time on this Bill. This Bill has been discussed in this House at length; then it went to the Senate where it was discussed and I am sure the hon. Members in this House followed what was going on in the Senate. Therefore I did not think that it was necessary to reopen the whole discussion that we have already undertaken in this House and in the Senate. This is why I want to make this thing very brief, to answer very briefly so that we save time (in which I agree with the hon. Member who spoke last). I will therefore now answer the hon. Member who spoke before the hon. Member who spoke last.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for an hon. Member who has been in this House for sufficient time to know these things, to refer to hon. Members as if they were nonentities, and from which an hon. Member comes? He says, "this Member who has spoken" and "that Member". We are hon. Members who have spoken, Mr. Speaker. And I would like to find out whether the Minister deliberately refuses to recognize the personalities who have spoken.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not unparliamentary at all, Mr. Anyieni, to refer to "the hon. Member who has just spoken". There is nothing objectionable about that. It is better form than referring to "the hon. Mr. Anyieni". Referring to a Member's constituency is in order, but it is also in order to refer to a Member as the Minister has done.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Acheng-Onoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The cinema mobile unit of the Department of Information was disbanded in 1960 due to shortage of funds. This is the reason why many areas of Kenya like the Tana River District have not been able to see cinema shows since Kenya became independent.

This Ministry, however, is in the process of reinstating the cinema mobile unit as well as preparing to make films about Kenya for the use of its own mobile unit and many areas of Kenya will be able to benefit from shows through the cinema unit within the Government proposed Five-Year Development Plan.

Mr. Komora: Arising from that reply, could the Minister tell this House how long it will take the Ministry to reinstate these mobile cinema units?

Mr. Acheng-Onoko: We plan to reinstate these films as soon as we can, and as I have already said, the cinema units will be within the Government's Five-Year Development Plan. As soon as we have some vehicles available, they will be in the districts, trying to show some films about Kenya.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister assure this House that all the districts in Kenya will be covered?

Mr. Acheng-Onoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, yes.

Mr. Mbogoh: In view of the fact that the Minister agrees that these mobile cinema units are very important, especially for education in this country can he consider reducing some of the services from his Ministry so that he can put those services into the mobile units?

Mr. Acheng-Onoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, these services are very necessary and, therefore, we cannot reduce them at the expense of the mobile cinema units. What we intend doing is to introduce them, as I have already replied.

Question No. 817

TARMAC IN KITUI TOWNSHIP

Mr. Mbal asked the Minister for Local Government if he would tell the House whether he had any plans to tarmac the roads within Kitui Township.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Njiriri): The hon. Member did not ask the question very clearly.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I know if it is correct for a Minister answering on behalf of Government to sit on the other side?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think I have power to direct hon. Members to sit in any particular place. It has been the custom, of course, for Government to sit all on the Speaker's right, but that was when there were two parties. Now that there is only one party I am not sure that hon. Members mind very much.

Mr. Somo: If you read this question clearly, it shows that this question concerns the Minister for Works and Communications and here it is being addressed to the Minister for Local Government.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is the concern of Government as to what Ministry answers any particular question. Sometimes they are directed to the wrong Ministry, and sometimes a Ministry answers on behalf of another; it is entirely a Government affair, as long as somebody answers.

Mr. Njiriri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member has not made clear what he means. One thing I would like to tell the hon. Member is that there are two ways that the Government can carry on with roads: through the county councils and through the Central Government. Main roads are dealt with by the Central Government and the county councils are responsible for minor roads. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it is very seldom clear, which position should be put forward to the Central Government or the county council.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister agree that Kitui County Council does not have enough money to tarmac the roads in the town and that they should be given a grant by the Government to do that?

Mr. Njiriri: No, Sir, one thing is Graduated Personal Tax. Usually the people have to pay this to the county council in order that the county council should have the money. They have not paid their taxes yet.

Mr. Gichoya: Arising from the Assistant Minister's original reply, about some of the roads within the town, if it was specified that the Ministry was prepared to tarmac, could the Minister agree that in Kitui there are Central Government roads which the Ministry ought to have dealt with instead of referring the Member to the county council funds which were to tarmac some of the lanes within the township?

Mr. Njiriri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to tell the hon. Members that priorities are always dealt with. If the proposal is put forward and if there are sufficient funds, that can be dealt with.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House, one, whether he—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order.

Mr. Ochwada: One, whether his Ministry considers it essential to tarmac roads in Kitui Township, and two, if the Ministry considers it essential to tarmac the roads in Kitui Township, and whether the Ministry would be prepared to loan the Kitui County Council money to tarmac the roads so that the county council can pay this back to the Ministry later?

Mr. Njiriri: At present, Mr. Speaker, the Government would like to appeal to hon. Members to tell the people to pay their taxes and then the Ministry will work on the roads in every county and district of the country.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would like to remind hon. Members that there is a matter to be raised on adjournment at the interruption or earlier closure of business this afternoon.

POINT OF ORDER

RULING ON PERSONAL STATEMENT

Mr. Okwango: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on Friday this House was forced to adjourn prematurely because of three Members who were not present to move their Motions. I wonder whether these three Members could be called upon to apologize to the House for this premature adjournment?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are entitled to raise this, Mr. Okwango, but I am not entitled to call upon Members to apologize to the House. They are free to do so by personal statement if they are so disposed. Perhaps they may like to do so at the right time, which is now, or at the same time, same stage of business another day.

PERSONAL STATEMENT

STATEMENT ON ABSENCE OF MOVER OF MOTION

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will not make an apology, but make a statement, Sir.

My statement as to my failure to present my Motion here was necessitated by the fact that this Motion, which was intended to deal with the present Ministers, Sir, before the Republic, was in one way or the other delayed within the Sessional Committee office, and consequently after the President had appointed all the various Ministers, the Motion was to be brought forward later.

It was meant to present the President of the Republic with the weapon that he committed the Ministers within his own Cabinet, and that within one month of that, those Ministers were to declare their own property both within and outside Kenya. This was deliberately rejected from being brought forward within the House in time by the Sessional Committee.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think that all the House is interested to hear, Mr. Gichoya, why you were not here to move this Motion on Friday.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Onoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, I would like to have your ruling on this. We want the hon. Member to be very specific, because he is trying to make a statement, which, of course, the Government will have to answer, if it is actually going to be an accusation against the Government or the Government Ministers, because—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I have just made that clear, Mr. Onoko. The privilege of a Personal Statement is merely to enable an hon. Member to explain his conduct.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, I am sorry but I am not going to make an apology, Sir, what I am trying to do is to explain the circumstances which led to my Motion not being presented in the House.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): But it has got to be directly relevant to that.

Mr. Gichoya: One point, Sir, I have already made clear. The other point was that in the course of time, when the Motion was supposed to come to this House, quite a number of people were very apprehensive of the Motion. Secondly, it came to my knowledge, by one way or another—and I do not necessarily have to disclose my sources of information—that the main Ministers were not happy about—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order, Mr. Gichoya! Unless you can tell us immediately why you were not here to move your Motion, you must cease your statement.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my explanation of this one is interwoven in those particular points.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, Mr. Gichoya, you must sit down.

[Dr. Kilano] to the Community Development officers, because they are the ones who deal with the question of reading and writing.

Mr. Makokha: Will the Minister assure this House that illiteracy will not stand in the way of traders who apply for loans?

Dr. Kilano: Yes, Sir, I do not think that illiteracy, as such, should be punishable by denying personal loans, but it would be very helpful if people could read and write and keep books.

Question No. 848

VEGETABLE MARKETING: HAMISI

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing if he would assure the House that he was doing his best to assist vegetable growers in Hamisi to find a market for their vegetables.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I would like to help the vegetable growers in Hamisi, but it is difficult, at present, to see how my Ministry can do so. My information is that production is very small and is sufficient to meet local requirements. A few producers supply the limited needs of the local schools. The occasional, seasonal, surplus is usually sent to Kisumu.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, when I told the Minister that we have a large number of vegetable growers who want marketing facilities for their vegetables, does the Minister not trust me that I am representing the interests of the people?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The question is whether you can trust Mr. Godia.

Mr. Ngei: The question is whether I trust his information, but not his as a person.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, could he assure the House that he has the correct statistical information—so far as the vegetable growers in that area are concerned—so as to arrive at the conclusion that the Member for the area could not provide this House with the adequate information from his own constituency?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the information which I have given is that which I have. I may as well add this, Mr. Speaker, that 90 per cent of the vegetables grown are cabbages and 10 per cent consists of carrots, etc., and onions and tomatoes, and this does not warrant the setting up of something which will be an economic liability.

Mr. Godia: Arising from one of the Minister's replies Mr. Speaker, Sir, could he tell us what arrangements he has for marketing and if they are in good order?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply that a private canning company is investigating the possibilities of tomato production for canning and small-scale trials have commenced under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House when his Ministry surveyed the potentialities of production in this particular Constituency? If they ever surveyed, and if they did, what results were produced?

Mr. Kibuka: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what has caused the Minister to believe that the production potentiality in this area does not justify the setting up of adequate marketing facilities?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have just said that the Department of Agriculture are investigating the possibility of setting up a tomato canning project in the area, and my Ministry has just received this information, and therefore I did not have the opportunity of setting up an extensive investigation or survey.

Question No. 864

POLICE STATION FOR SOUTHERN DIVISION OF MACHAKOS

Mr. Ndle asked the Minister for Internal Security and Defence. When the Minister intended to have an extra police station in the Southern Division of Machakos, as there was only one police station in that division at present.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. My Ministry is very much aware of the need for a police post in the Southern Division of Machakos, particularly at a place called Makueni and, as such, we have decided to set up a post there; and we have already requested the Directorate of Personnel to increase the establishment. We have also requested the Treasury to give us the funds necessary, so that we can proceed immediately without delay.

Question No. 892

WITHDRAWAL OF FACILITIES FROM KISUMU AIRPORT BY EAST AFRICAN COMMON SERVICES

Mr. Jamal asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power whether the Minister was aware that the East African Common Services were withdrawing control tower facilities from Kisumu Airport as from February, 1965 and, if so, would he make representations to this authority to refrain from so doing, in view of the growing importance of Kisumu and the anticipated future increase of air traffic.

The Assistant Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Bomett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is unfortunately true that the Directorate of Civil Aviation of E.A.C.S.O. have been obliged to withdraw air traffic control staff from Kisumu Aerodrome from February 1965. This is due to an acute shortage of air traffic control officers, caused largely by resignations. It is a temporary arrangement, and it is intended to restore air traffic control personnel to Kisumu as soon as the staffing situation permits. Every effort is being made to deal with the staff problem, in the short term, by recruitment of personnel from abroad and, in the long term, by the training of locally-recruited staff at the Directorate's training school. Meanwhile, the aerodrome will remain open for traffic and the existing scheduled services will continue.

Mr. Jamal: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell us how many airports in East Africa, the same size of Kisumu, have no control tower facilities due to staff shortages?

Mr. Bomett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are quite a number of airfields in Tanzania which have no traffic control towers.

Mr. Jamal: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is how many airports have been affected by shortage of staff?

Mr. Bomett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, a number of them in Uganda and Tanzania.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister explain to the House specifically the number of such places within East Africa which have been affected by the shortage of staff and which have the same conditions for air traffic control?

Mr. Bomett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the answer which I gave earlier to this question is that the removal of the staff who were based at Kisumu has been caused by shortage of staff because of resignations and this has not only affected Kisumu, but it has affected other aerodromes in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is very simple, could we be told that in a particular airport, a specific place, that the same sort of situation has arisen so that we know the reasons which are behind certain places failing to get or keep people, whether it is a question of Africanization or localization?

Mr. Bomett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member would like to know the aerodromes which have no services because of this shortage of staff, then I could give it to him in writing later.

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the hon. Assistant Minister tell the House which other comparable town has had its air control officers withdrawn as a result of a shortage in staff?

Mr. Bomett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, Arusha is one of them.

Mr. Warilithi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister refers to locally recruited personnel who are under training. Can he tell the House how many there are, and what is their standard training and when they are likely to finish?

Mr. Bomett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, at this moment, there are eight locally recruited people now under training at the Directorate of Civil Aviation Training School as Air Traffic Control Officers. These trainees will be completing their course in September, this year. In addition, there are a further twenty-three African trainees and one Asian who will complete their training at various times between April 1966 and June 1967. Furthermore, we are taking ten further trainees for another course which will begin in March.

Mr. Ngala-Ahok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply of the Assistant Minister that traffic control facilities will be reinstated as soon as possible and now that we know that many of these officers will be qualifying in September, this year, will the Assistant Minister agree with me that where he says "as soon as possible", it means September this year, and that these facilities are going to be restored then?

Question No. 833

CINEMA SHOWS IN TANA RIVER

Mr. Komoro asked the Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism why the Tana River District communities had not had any cinema mobile unit shows since Kenya became independent.

[Mr. Agar]

consider making it possible for brilliant African students to find their way into these schools, even if they are poor and could not the fees be paid by Government?

Dr. Kiiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we understand that these schools have better standards of training than the other schools.

Hon. Members: Yes.

Dr. Kiiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think there is a slight misunderstanding here. They may have better facilities and I am in full sympathy with the questioner, but, when you look at the results of the various secondary schools in this country, you will find that some schools with fewer amenities—like the Alliance High School—have very good results.

Mr. Tumei: Mr. Speaker, in one of the earlier replies by the Minister, he mentioned colonial times. How can he reduce that colonial brain by integration—only this higher level, and not at all levels as we expected?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As far as I heard it, it did not seem to arise.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, could the Minister then give the reason why, for example, schools fees in North Nyanza are not the same as school fees in the Kisii District or Kiambu or at the Coast. Why is that?

Dr. Kiiano: I hope the hon. Member is referring to all schools, not just Government schools, because the hon. Member must realize that the burden of education is not entirely one for the Central Government alone. It is shared with the local authorities as well.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am quite aware that, under the new Constitution, education is now under the Central Government with the help of Local Government authorities but I would like the Minister to tell us why there is such a great difference in some districts. For example, in some districts boys will pay up to Sh. 20 for a primary school, and in some places it is Sh. 60?

Dr. Kiiano: Mr. Speaker, I am trying to answer that one, but I do not have the right information, if I may say so, because in addition to paying the teachers, there is also the cost of living which is not necessarily uniform throughout the country.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we must move on now to the next question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 844— DIFFERENCES IN SCHOOL FEES

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, in view of the very unsatisfactory reply given by the wrong Minister, I would like to move Motion on an adjournment on the question of education in schools.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 845

MORE MONEY SPENT ON EUROPEAN EDUCATION

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister for Education if the Minister would agree that about one-third of his Vote went to benefit Europeans and expatriates and if so, how was he going to remedy this situation.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiiano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the Temporary Minister for Education, I beg to reply.

I do not agree that about one-third of the Education Vote goes to benefit Europeans and expatriates. That information is not correct.

These schools do not receive any capital funds as they are already developed. But they do receive maintenance grants which do not altogether exceed £24,000 per annum.

There are approximately 450 expatriate teachers in our Secondary Schools who earn the normal salaries.

It should be realized that the Ministry of Education has no racial breakdown of financial figures at present as this system would be out of place in our Independent Republic.

Mr. Omweri: Following this question with the earlier question, Mr. Speaker, and arising from what the Minister has answered, he agrees that there is no breakdown, but the truth is—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You can only ask a question.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister then agree that since he has no breakdown racially, and since he earlier agreed that the schools were formerly racial schools, and received grants-in-aid which most of our country council schools do not receive, his main Vote goes to these expatriate schools?

Dr. Kiiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not quite understand the question because I did say that the question was not correct in terms of fact I also did say, both in the earlier question and the present one, that we are determined to bring about as rapidly as possible integration of all these schools so that we cease to have schools that appear to be for only one race. I also said that as far as our financial resources will allow us, we would also try to reduce the school fees. I think Government policy is quite clear on this matter.

Mr. ole Tips: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may we know from the hon. Minister who admitted earlier on that they do not keep a breakdown of the expenditure on racial schools, on what grounds does he say that the hon. questioner who alleged that that one-third of this Ministry's votes goes to the benefit of Europeans and other expatriates is incorrect? How does he come to this conclusion if he does not keep the records and the breakdown?

Dr. Kiiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope my dear friend is not trying to confuse himself deliberately.

The question, I think, made it very clear that he was referring to the former European schools. Now, whether you keep a racial breakdown today or not, every Member in this House knows what we mean by the former European schools.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that during colonial days, this subject was one of the most heated issues among the African politicians: that the Europeans were taking a lot of money for education, and is the Minister now saying that the Government has completely changed this, or that now the Government is encouraging a few Africans to send their pupils to these schools and, as such, intend to maintain the grants-in-aids to these schools?

Dr. Kiiano: I do not see where the difference of opinion is, because the question said one-third, as a statement of fact, and I said it was not one-third. We are not arguing on policy, but on facts.

Mr. Lorema: In view of the fact that the Minister does not agree that the proportion of the Vote is one-third, would the Minister reveal to the House the proportion in which this money is made per school?

Dr. Kiiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member would kindly allow me to report this to the substantive Minister, I will do so, because if he says he does not keep a breakdown, it will necessitate going to the offices again to try and find out the so-called racial breakdown before he can bring the information here. I will willingly do that, Mr. Speaker.

Question No. 847

TEACHING TRADERS IN HAMISI

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House what steps he had taken to see that a number of illiterate businessmen in Hamisi had been taught how to read and write in order to make use of the available Government loans.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiiano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I appreciate the opportunity of answering this question, which actually comes under my own Portfolio! I beg to reply.

My Ministry has made a lot of arrangements to see that traders in the constituency of the hon. Member and, indeed, in the whole of the Western Region, benefit from loans available to them by running traders' courses. Up to May 1963, four-week courses used to be taken at Maseno Training Centre but regionalization of Trade Officers forced us to stop such courses at the centre. Instead, courses were arranged and still continue to be arranged in various administrative divisions of the provinces.

The purpose of these courses is not to teach traders to read and write but to teach them fundamental principles of how to run their businesses properly and efficiently.

Since Independence, twenty-one courses have been organized in the whole of the Western Region, three of these being for traders in Wiggins Division. The average attendance for the first two courses was 15 traders and for the last one, the total attendance was only one elderly woman who came to register. From these figures, the hon. Member can see for himself that unless traders in his constituency change their present attitude, they are not likely to benefit much from the arrangements.

It might also interest the hon. Member for Hamisi to know that up to date, there were quite a number of traders who were defaulters and who might have been afraid of coming to me in case I claimed the money from them.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister tell the House why the officer responsible for traders' loans in the Western Province, cannot take the initiative of helping some of these illiterate traders to read and write by encouraging the Community Development Assistants to help them?

Dr. Kiiano: My Provincial Trading Officer who is now stationed in Kakamega will bring this explanation to the education officers as well as [The Assistant Minister, President's Office] taken the time to read of section 22 of the Constitution, which is one of the entrenched clauses in the document, which provides for freedom of conscience. We, therefore, cannot have a State Religion.

Although there are Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, there is no such thing as a Bishop of the Protestant Church—only Anglican, Baptist, etc., Bishops. The last part of the question is, therefore, meaningless.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that, according to the reply given to me in a previous question, that the missionaries have played a very important part, does that reply imply that the missionaries' work in Kenya is not recognized by Government at this stage?

Mr. Njanyweya: I am the Member for Nyaribari; there are Catholics, Muslims, Hindus, Seventh Day Adventists and I represent the interests of all of these people in that constituency, I hope that the hon. Member is doing the same in his constituency.

Mr. Mbogoh: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, does the Assistant Minister, taking into consideration that he is also a Christian, agree with me when I say that the religious groups in this country are large enough to be represented?

Mr. Njanyweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already replied to that. A good percentage of the hon. Members in this House are Christians, and they represent the interests, not only of Christians, but everybody, even pagans.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that if all those religious groups gathered together and agreed to pay for such a minister, the Government would consider him?

Mr. Njanyweya: Mr. Speaker, I am told by one hon. Member of this House that there is a very good picture now showing on at the Kenya Cinema which I hope will convince the questioner who asked this question and I hope other hon. Members will go and see that film.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the Minister to advertise films in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If a Minister sees fit to report on a film which might be of interest to hon. Members, I see no objection.

Mr. Lorema: Arising from the Minister's previous reply, would the Minister tell the House whether the Government appreciates the part which was played by the missionaries in this country so far?

Mr. Njanyweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, every hon. Minister and every hon. Member of this House appreciates, I hope, the work done by the missionaries in the past.

Question No. 842

SECONDARY SCHOOL FOR NORTHERN DIVISION, KILIFI DISTRICT

Mr. Mwatsama asked the Minister for Education whether, in view of the fact that the Northern Division of Kilifi District had been completely neglected by the previous Government, the Minister would therefore consider providing a secondary school in this area.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiako): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague, the Minister for Education, I beg to reply. Yes, Sir, it is hoped to open a boarding secondary school at Malindi in Kilifi County during the 1964/1970 period.

Mr. Mwatsama: Mr. Speaker, my question is about Kilifi North, and not Malindi. Malindi is a subdistrict.

Dr. Kiako: But it is in Kilifi County.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Minister's reply, is he aware that the question is in connexion with Kilifi North and Malindi is quite far from Kilifi North, in another district altogether?

Dr. Kiako: It is in the same county council area.

Mr. Omari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here is clear that a school is asked for in the Northern Division of Kilifi District and not in the Malindi Subdistrict. The Minister should understand that the Northern Division of Kilifi is different from the Subdistrict of Malindi and, therefore, we would like him to answer the question accordingly.

Dr. Kiako: As I said earlier, we know that there is the need for a secondary school in this general area, and we are trying to think in terms of the Kilifi County area as a whole, not one district.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from the Minister's reply, could the Minister give us assurance here that the Malindi Secondary School is definitely agreed upon by the Ministry in their planning period, that is up to 1970?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the answer is worded, I would hope that the hon. Member would take the words as meaning what they say "Malindi in Kilifi County" during the 1964/70 development period. I thought that would give the sense of assurance that we are considering a secondary school in the Kilifi County, and particularly, Malindi.

Mr. Mbogoh: Can the Minister tell this House what factors they took into consideration when considering that this area needs a secondary school?

Dr. Kiako: Need I answer that? I was just wondering whether that really did arise, the facts to be taken into consideration—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think that it is an ingenious attempt to get us focused on other districts, but it will not work. We will go on to the next question.

Question No. 844

DIFFERENCES IN SCHOOL FEES

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister for Education:

- Why there were differences in the fees paid at various Government schools, particularly in the former racial schools.
- Would the Government now consider unifying all fees in Government schools and providing the same standard of teaching and other amenities.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiako): Mr. Speaker, Sir, again on behalf of the Minister for Education, I beg to reply.

(a) As the hon. Member knows there were four different educational systems in this country in the colonial days, viz. European, Asian, Arab and African. These systems had not only different syllabuses leading to different examinations but also different rates of fees and different standards of equipment and provision of facilities. Already a measure of integration of the four systems has been achieved. The Economy Commission recommended raising of school fees in high cost schools to reduce the Government expenditure per capita on such schools by passing part of the burden to the parents rather than to the general taxpayer and the implementation of this recommendation has meant varying fees in different schools.

(b) The Government is not in a position at present to unify all fees in schools as this would either mean too high fees for poor parents if fees were to be raised or too heavy additional expenditure on the Government if fees in high cost schools were to be reduced.

The Government is well aware of these differences and the necessary action will be taken as and when it is practicable to do so.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, it seems as if he has confused the issues.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, he agrees that there are differences, he says the Government has reached some uniformity of the former differences and I want him to clarify how we now stand, because all that I know is that the differences still continue.

Dr. Kiako: I would like to clarify that I did not say "uniformity", I said "integration", meaning that those schools which were originally divided for Europeans only, Africans only or Asians only, have now achieved a certain degree of integration; meaning that there are some Africans going to schools which were previously European schools, and paying—of course—the high fees in those areas, but I did not say "uniformity". I said "a measure of integration".

Mr. Omweri: Would the Minister agree that these differences are causing class barriers and class distinctions whereby only the rich Africans will be able to send their children to the former European schools?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I indicated earlier, the Government is not very happy with these differences, but as I said, were we to reduce all the fees in those schools immediately, we would not be able to meet the financial burden. We are working according to the amount of money which we can get, but we are not endorsing the differences, we are trying to reduce them as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from that reply, would the Minister explain why the Government has chosen to maintain the high Asian and Arab fee level for schools such as Mamburi and the Arab school in Malindi, where the population is strictly and densely African, and therefore, the African child who is poorer than the Asian child is penalized?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would plead non-information of that particular case. I will look into it and inform the substantive Minister with regard to that particular case.

Mr. Amari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that these schools are better staffed and have better facilities for education, would the Minister

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 838

LAND CONSOLIDATION IN SOUTH NYANZA

Mr. Ngala-Aboki asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement:—

- (a) If the Minister was aware that all the people of South Nyanza had accepted land consolidation.
- (b) If the answer was "yes", when would the work start.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Minister is aware that all people of South Nyanza have accepted land consolidation. The Land Adjudication Act has been applied in the whole of South Nyanza District although due to lack of funds it has not been possible to send enough teams to all the divisions of the district. Nevertheless, the necessary preparatory work of enclosing farms is in progress throughout the district to make the area ready for photography during the current flying season in March.

In Kabondo and Katipul Locations of Eastern Division where photographs were available and where our staff are concentrating at the moment, work is going on satisfactorily. We have asked for more money in the next financial year in response to "acceleration of land consolidation and go back to land" and we will put in more staff when the necessary additional money is made available.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that the question of consolidation is now becoming very embarrassing because the people would like consolidation experts, not just talking experts to go to the area immediately, and, if there is not enough money, the Ministry should look into this and send some more staff immediately.

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is what I have just said. We are looking into this question very seriously and the staff that we have sent out there is the best available.

Mr. Anyileh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that in some districts the majority of the people who are carrying out these schemes do this voluntarily and they soon intend to introduce this in South Nyanza?

Mr. Gachago: We have not heard of any people who intend to do this voluntarily without being paid and I would like to be informed if any group of people or of any persons who intend to help the Government in this way. We will consider seriously putting them into this work.

Mr. Okwanyo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that early this year, all land consolidation officers in Central Region were asked to resign because they were to be replaced by Africans and this has not been done up to now?

Mr. Gachago: Well, I am not aware, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Muliro.

Mr. Muliro: Arising from the Minister's reply, would the Minister make clear to this House whether the policy of the Government is land consolidation or villagization in respect to South Nyanza?

Mr. Gachago: The Government is carrying out a policy of land consolidation in South Nyanza.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is, would the Minister make clear that the policy of the Government is in South Nyanza? Is it villagization or land consolidation which is taking place now?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, assuming that I understand the question of the hon. Member, the policy of the Government is land consolidation.

Question No. 839

UNINSURED CARS ON THE ROADS

Mr. Mbogoh asked the Minister for Finance whether, in view of the fact that insurance companies refused to issue policies to car owners who had made claims against them as a result of accidents, the Government was prepared to consider introducing legislation whereby car might be allowed on the roads without the necessity of owners taking out insurance policies.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. No case has been brought to my notice in which an insurance company has refused to issue a third-party insurance policy to a car owner who has made claims against the company. The Government has no intention of repealing the present legislation which requires that an insurance policy should be taken out covering third-party risks. It is in the interest of the public that this legislation should remain in force.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that some drivers have driven at least twenty years without an accident and they have been paying their insurance policies fully, and in that case we take it that the insurance companies are exploiting such people, when they refuse to issue insurance certificates to anybody who has now claimed against them. Does the Minister consider putting it into legislation in order to exclude such drivers from paying for their insurance policies, because of their long service without an accident?

Mr. Gichuru: No, Sir, the public has to be protected. It is true that they may have driven like myself, for many years without meeting with any accident, but who knows what happens? As I said in my earlier reply, no such case has been brought to Government notice. Third-party insurance policy is compulsory and if any insurance company refuses to cover you, then you have every right to complain.

Mr. Okhwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the idea of insuring a car is not only to insure the third-party, but also to insure the owner of the car, apart many other incidents would the Minister agree that if it was brought to his notice that an insurance company refused to issue a policy not only third-party, but also comprehensive, he would take steps about that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now this question only concerns third-party insurance.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order. It is not only third-party, it is general insurance.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, Mr. Mbogoh, the whole point of the question is the legislation which requires third-party insurance and we cannot wander beyond that.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have not mentioned third-party in my question.

Mr. Jahazi: Would the Minister tell the House whether it would be proper for the insurance companies to refuse registering or accepting any client who has made a claim on a comprehensive policy? Would the insurance company be in order to refuse?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Refuse third-party insurance?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, might I venture to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, do.

Mr. Gichuru: I think the hon. Member, Mr. Mbogoh, will have noticed that I confined myself to a third-party insurance policy. This is the only thing that is compulsory by law. Government can take—if an insurance company refuses to insure you—legal action, but if a man knocks his car over every year—like one person I know—and it is a complete write-off each year, then you cannot expect insurance companies to be forced to accept such risks.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is the Minister implying that comprehensive insurance is not legal in this country?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are getting right off the point. The point of the question I repeat, is legislation over which Government has control requiring third-party insurance, and whether there is any question of exempting anyone from that legislation. We cannot go into all the rest of the problems of comprehensive insurance.

Mr. Jamal: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister not confirm that it is not compulsory to have comprehensive insurance for vehicles to go on the road, but that it is compulsory to have third-party insurance?

Mr. Gichuru: I entirely agree with you.

Question No. 840

CREATION OF MINISTRY FOR RELIGION

Mr. Mbogoh asked the Minister of State in the President's Office if, in view of the good work done by missionaries in the country, the Government would consider creating a Ministry of Religion and entrenching in the Constitution provision for the Bishops of the Roman Catholic and Protestant Churches to share responsibilities as Assistant Ministers.

The Assistant Minister, President's Office (Mr. Nyamwaya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Since adequate machinery for the conduct of business already exists within the organizations sponsoring the various missionary groups in this country, it is not considered necessary that a Ministry of Religion should be created. Quite apart from the financial commitments which such a step would entail, the creation of such a Ministry would, in effect, set up two faiths as the State religions in Kenya, a result which would be highly undesirable, and which must, therefore, be avoided.

Apart from that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we find it necessary, from time to time, to refer hon. Members to some of the clauses which they have not

Government should declare all his assets within and outside Kenya within one month of taking up office. (Mr. Gichoya.)

(The Mover not being present to propose the Motion; the Order was dropped)

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF FOREIGN-OWNED NEWSPAPERS

THAT in view of the fact that this country has decided to follow a policy of complete non-alignment and African Socialism this House urges the Government to take immediate steps to negotiate to take over or take a bigger share in the running and control of the present foreign-owned newspapers. (Mr. Ngala-Abok.)

(The Mover not being present to propose the Motion; the Order was dropped)

LAMU LAND SETTLEMENT SCHEME

THAT in view of the serious land hunger in the Lamu District this House urges the Government to appoint a Committee to examine the possibilities of establishing a land settlement scheme for residents of that District and to make early recommendations thereon. (Mr. Somo.)

(The Mover not being present to propose the Motion; the Order was dropped)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Since the Movers of the Motions remaining on the Order Paper are not present in the House, that concludes the business on the Order Paper. The House is now adjourned until Tuesday, 23rd February, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Ten o'clock.

Tuesday, 23rd February 1965

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

SWAHILI FOR THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice to the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that Swahili is the indigenous common African language in Kenya, this House urges the Government to introduce a Bill for amendment of the Constitution to adopt Swahili as the language for this House and to fix a date on which the use of Swahili would commence in the National Assembly.

POINT OF ORDER

RULING ON GIVING NOTICE OF MOTION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. Mr. Khalif, I do not believe I have had a Notice of Motion from you.

Mr. Khalif: I am raising a point of order.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): A point of order.

Mr. Khalif: Yes. Mr. Gichoya, Mr. Speaker, gave me a notice of this Motion which I have to read.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Speak up.

Mr. Khalif: The hon. Mr. Gichoya, Sir, gave me this notice of Motion which he asked me to come and give notice of, if that is allowed, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): A Notice of Motion can only be given by the hon. Member who intends to move the Motion. It is a strict rule of the House, that apart from Motions by Government it is only the Member, that actually gives notice who can actually move the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Ekitella.

NOTICE OF MOTION

DEVELOPMENT FOR TURKANA DISTRICT

Mr. Ekitella: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that the Turkana District was overlooked by the Colonialist Government in the sphere of development, this House urges the Government to take immediate steps to remedy this situation and bring Turkana District in line with other Kenya districts in development.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as much as I support this amended Motion, I would like to ask the Assistant Minister to clarify, when he comes to reply, whether the coverage of the Wages Council could also be extended to some areas where the Wages Council is not enforced. The Wages Council leaves out some areas such as the Northern part of Kenya, the Masai area and some other areas which were previously called restricted districts. Now, I am not sure whether up to the present moment these areas have been covered by Wages Councils, but if it is a matter of those living in Nairobi and some other areas being penalized by this coverage, then I think it is unfair because, when the hon. Member brought this Motion for discussion, he had in mind all the employees in Kenya—wherever they may be—and, to the best of my knowledge, the Wages Councils do not cover all areas of Kenya. Sir, what is going to happen to the employees in areas that the Wages Councils do not reach?

Secondly, Mr. Speaker, we have quite a number of Members here who employ domestic servants, who never give them leave, and yet you find that they are the first people to come here and say that Asians do not give these people time off from work. Let us clean up our own houses before we go to other peoples' houses. Moreover, most of the Members who are speaking very strongly on this Motion do not employ domestic servants and render a lot of our people unemployed. If they would sympathize with them and give them jobs, it would be better. I appreciate the difficult financial position of the Members, but at least they could try. It is not because those Asians whom they blame here do not give money to pay, but because they tried to offer these people some work to do and because their financial position is such that they are not able to give them leave and or able to pay them up to the standard of the others. That is why we have this problem, but at least before we start creating a situation whereby quite a number of us will have to throw out our domestic servants because we cannot afford to give them fourteen days' leave, we should try to bear in mind the fact that at least some of these people, although they do not get fourteen days in a year, they have some livelihood, they have a job to do, they have a place where they can go and stay and they are able to get something to eat.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind the hon. Members and also ask the Assistant Minister to explain how the Wages Council can be extended to some other areas.

Mr. Agari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I only wanted to put emphasis on a few things regarding the African employers who have come into the field of late and up to now I think the Minister for Labour has not made it clear to the labour officers that the African employers are also just as much employers as the Europeans and Asians.

Once this Motion has been passed in this House, the areas covering the Wages Council will be extended and since the trade unions also will be included into the matters, it is customary for good trade unionists and labour officers to look to Asians and Europeans as employers in this country. I think, of course, the background is that there was a fight in the past; the Africans thought they were the underdog and the Europeans and Asians were the rulers, or the people of better economic situation.

Now that the African population, the African businessmen are also coming into the field as employers, we want the Ministry of Labour to take special steps to instruct the labour officers to see that the African workers working in African homes, farms, bars, hotels, buses, are also treated as workers. Up to now, you could see throughout the country that African workers employed his fellow Africans just as a relative or like a person who is working with a friend voluntarily and this has worsened the conditions of many workers and has made it quite impossible for workers to pay their taxes and even to make a living, and this of course makes the African employer feel that he is not the sort of man who keeps his accounts properly, he is not the sort of man who should observe the regulations and that is why I think there is a lot of failure in African business too. When the Government begins looking after the African employer as an employer, I think the African employer will also learn to work harder.

Now, labour legislation is very difficult to carry out. There are many employers of all races who intimidate the workers. A labour officer comes around and talks to the employer. The employer is his friend. After the labour officer has left the employer is sacked because he complained about leave or something like that.

We want to want to emphasize that the Assistant Minister should see to it that since this rule will be extended to some areas where the workers are ignorant, the labour-officer should be more careful and more strict with the employers and not leave the employees at the mercy of the employers. We know of, also, though this is a rather serious allegation, cases where labourers complained that the employers have some dealings with the labour officers after some dispute

[Mr. Agari] or after some negotiations. Then, after that the labour officer just disappears and leaves the case in a worse position than before he intervened.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, all I want to say is that the Ministry of Labour should see that since this employment is now being extended to the African population, since they are now becoming employers, the Labour Office should revise the mentality and the attitude of the labour officers so that they can help the majority of African workers who are now employed by their fellow Africans and also in remote parts of the country.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Odero-Jowi, you have already spoken in this debate, and cannot speak again, even though you have been invited to do so. It is very nearly time for the Mover to reply. So if no other hon. Member wishes to speak, I will call upon Mr. Omar.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while accepting this amendment, I would like to ask the Assistant Minister to remember that the original Motion was asking for fourteen days' paid leave, and not a wages policy.

However, there is importance in this amendment, because it is going to cover all the areas in which the Wages Councils did not cover before. Mr. Speaker, I think there is a need for the Labour Department now to establish their offices throughout the country, or at least in the headquarters of every district, because in some rural areas where we have many employees employed by individuals who own farms and who do not offer paid leave to their employees, these employees go to the District Commissioner's office or the District Officer's office and complain that they have worked for their individual employers or on farms for a number of years, and they have never been given leave. Now sometimes the District Officers or the District Commissioners are not in a position to deal with such matters because they say that this is a matter which concerns the Labour Department; and therefore the poor workers who have worked for a number of years, without leave, just leave the District Commissioner's office or the District Officer's office and go back. In some of these rural areas, the workers are not organized in a trade union and therefore they are wondering why some people employed in these same rural areas by the Government, such as the Medical Department, or the Veterinary Department, or the Agricultural Department, get paid leave after the completion of a year in the service. These people on the other hand, have no trade unions and when they go to the District Commissioner's office these matters are not looked into. So they become desperate and feel that they are being exploited by their employers.

I feel that under this amendment the Labour Department should realize that they must send labour inspectors or labour officers to every headquarters of every district to ensure that those employees who do not get leave do get leave after these reports have been received.

Another reason, Mr. Speaker, why I support this amendment is that it is my belief that under the Wages Councils, there is a provision whereby a minimum wage is supposed to be paid in some townships. Now in some rural areas the provisions of these Wages Councils are not applied at all. Some employees are very underpaid. For instance, in the Tana River area there are some Arab and Asian employers who employ workers on cutting timber at mills; and they pay them about Sh. 12 a month—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Omar, I think you are straying away from the Motion.

Mr. Omar: Yes, Mr. Speaker, but I was just coming to the point.

Anyway, Sir, I support this amendment because I think if these Wages Councils are going to cover all the areas where at the moment they are not applicable, then the workers will benefit.

Therefore, with these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I support the amendment.

(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly:

THAT this House, being aware that some individuals and private firms do not grant their employees leave, urges the Government to extend the coverage of the Wages Councils to include all those fields of employment at present not covered by these councils or by the trade unions in order to ensure that every employee who has completed twelve months' service to be granted a minimum of fourteen days' paid leave.

MOTIONS

DECLARATION OF MINISTERS' ASSETS

THAT this House, in the furtherance of the concept of African Socialism, calls upon the Government to introduce appropriate legislation whereby every Minister of the Kenya

[Mr. Ngala-Abok] the Ministry to iron out the misguided principles in which these workers believed?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Well, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as a matter of fact a committee has been set up and is still working on this issue right now.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that the workers are in complete darkness as to the policy of the Government as far as provident funds are concerned and most of them are worried as to what is going to happen to their money?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of that.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the "not aware" answer to my question, is the Assistant Minister prepared to accept some of the cases placed before him even now to make clear to him that these exist?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have made it clear in the answers to this question, and this is why I am telling the hon. Member that I am not aware of continuing complications of this matter.

Mr. Lorema: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of unsatisfactory replies from the Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement to my question—

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

BAN ON PUBLIC MEETINGS AT MURANG'A

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You can give me notice in due course, but you cannot talk about that question now that we have left it.

That being the end of Question Time I have to inform hon. Members that I have received notice from Mr. Kagga of his desire to raise on adjournment the matter of a ban on public meetings in Murang'a. I allot next Wednesday, 24th February, at the interruption or early closure of business, for the matter to be raised. I would remind hon. Members again that on Tuesday, 23rd February, at the close of business, Mr. Kariuki is to raise the matter of eviction of farm labourers. I would ask leave of hon. Members to mention the matter which is a separate business of the House and which I think is of importance, that the Sessional Committee will be sitting immediately at the rise of the House this morning.

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, is it the new Sessional Committee or the old one?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The old one.

MOTION

OBLIGATORY ANNUAL LEAVE BY PRIVATE FIRMS.

THAT this House, being aware that some individuals and private firms do not grant their employees leave, urges the Government to introduce legislation which makes obligatory that every employee who has completed twelve months' service to be granted a minimum of fourteen days' paid leave.

(Proposed by Mr. Omár on 8th October 1964)

Amendment proposed:

THAT there be left out of the Motion the words "to introduce legislation which makes obligatory"; and that there be inserted in place thereof the following words: "to extend the coverage of the Wages Council to include all those fields of employment at present not covered by these Councils or by the Trade Unions in order to ensure".

(The Parliamentary Secretary for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Odera-Jowi) on 8th October 1964)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You will find that it is a long time since we debated this Motion, so I think hon. Members should be reminded that Mr. Shikuku was speaking, and had spoken for two minutes out of the ten allotted to him. The total time for debate is thirty-three minutes and, as hon. Members will see from the Order Paper, we were actually debating the first part of an amendment of the question when the debate was interrupted.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may try and recall what I was talking about; it is quite a long time, but nevertheless the position of servants employed by individuals is quite alarming and I do remember having tried to quote certain incidences particularly those relating to the question of servants, who are working for the Asian community in this country. They have a very hard time. There are no limited or scheduled hours for working; they work from early morning and continue until "madam and his excellency" go to bed, and there is no overtime. This does not apply only to the Asians;

[Mr. Shikuku] he also applies to some of the Africans who have been promoted to high posts like Permanent Secretaries, Under Secretaries and other big guns in the Government. You will find that the terms of service of these people who work for these gentlemen are such that are not becoming at all, and it is the duty of this House, Mr. Speaker, if I may say so, to try and right the situation.

You will find that some of the civil servants who have employed some of the Africans—I have met lots of them—are complaining. They even say that during the time of the imperialists, those who employed them, they had a better employment and were looked after. Today we have people who have assumed the same positions and the same salaries of the imperialist people with the difference of overseas allowance, and they are not treating our own fellow Africans well.

I remember, Mr. Speaker, one case, if I may quote, which I witnessed myself in Westlands. I had a friend of mine there, Mr. Speaker, and that day, to find out what was cooking, I put on a pair of shorts and a bush shirt and a "johnny" type of hat, and I went to see this friend. To my surprise, Mr. Speaker, when I got there the Madam had laid down the rules that if any visitor came there to see the cook, then that man must not stay there for more than half an hour. When I arrived to see this friend of mine—it was round about 2.30 on a Saturday afternoon—the big boss had had his lunch and was supposed to be having a siesta. There was no work at that time, but I had bad luck in that the Madam happened to see me and she called the boy and asked him to sit on the verandah so that he could not talk to me! I feel, Mr. Speaker, if this is the issue, then our people are really suffering and I think those who are in my position and who are employing these people should also give them freedom. At 2.30, the boss had had his lunch and he had nothing to tell the boy to do, but he was not allowed to have a word with Shikuku. At this time, of course, the Madam did not know that I was Shikuku, otherwise she would have behaved better.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are getting away from the Motion.

Mr. Shikuku: I am trying to get in the difficulties of the poor fellows who are working for this gentleman.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Motion refers only to fourteen days' paid leave.

Mr. Shikuku: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must stick to the subject of the Motion.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Sir. I was just coming to that.

When it comes to the question of leave there is no rule. The boy takes leave when he wishes, but sometimes, Mr. Speaker, I have tried to investigate this, and the bosses feel that once they give leave to the worker then they will have to employ somebody to do the work during that time. Therefore, they feel that this will be an extra expenditure and, at the same time, fourteen days' leave is supposed to be with pay and they feel that it is a little too much.

I feel, Mr. Speaker, that if a law is passed in this Parliament to the effect that there should be leave after one year for all domestic servants and that the boss should also employ another person during that period, this would help these domestic servants a great deal, because during these fourteen days' leave, Mr. Speaker, we have Africans here who would probably go to settle their marriage problems, who have not finished paying their dowry and they could only do that during their leave. If they do not have any leave their wives might be taken away from them by the parents and, Mr. Speaker, it is compulsory for these people to have this leave whereby they can go and settle some of the difficulties with, perhaps, their neighbours at home on land matters. So far there is no law about this, I stand for correction on this, compelling the bosses of the domestic servants to give leave of fourteen days after one year's service. If this is so, I would only be very glad if the Ministry concerned would emphasize and make it their business to make sure that the bosses complied with this law. Mr. Speaker, they should be subjected to prosecution in a court of law.

Mr. Speaker, if I may end up, may I emphasize one point? The point I wish to emphasize is that this law should be carried out compulsorily. If the boss does not give leave to his servant after one year's service, of fourteen days with pay, then that boss should be subjected to the law, committed to the court, if it exists at all.

With these remarks, Mr. Speaker, I hope the Ministry concerned and this House will support the Motion. I beg to support.

(Question of the second part of the amendment that the words to be inserted in place thereof be inserted proposed, put and agreed to)

(Question of the Motion as amended proposed)

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, at the moment, the committee is still doing its work in Nairobi, but we have received written documents and memoranda from various workers' representatives. As a matter of fact, Sir, on the committee we have an expert on statistics and also an expert on economics to advise the committee on the economic implications of a wage policy. It is the intention of the committee at a later stage to visit certain parts of the country. I do not think it is necessary to visit all the district headquarters but we are certainly going to visit all the major areas of employment to study the problems on the spot.

Mr. Mallada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what steps has the Assistant Minister, being the chairman of this committee, taken to advertise the existence of this committee to the workers' unions so that they can be in a position to submit memoranda for consideration?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, information has been passed on to all the unions in the country and quite a number of them have already submitted their views on the matter.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell us whether the workers have any representative on this committee who will be able to help campaign their wishes?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, Yes, Sir. The workers have more than three-quarters of the membership of the committee.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House when this committee was established and when the report is likely to be published, and also why it was not made public throughout the country because this is a national issue?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the existence of this committee was made public. It was broadcast on the radio, it was published in the newspapers and it appeared in the various Press hand-outs. If he did not read it, that is not my fault. It was formed last year in September and I cannot forecast yet when the committee will complete its work.

Question No. 835

TOUR OF WEST POKOT DISTRICT BY MINISTERS

Mr. Lorema asked the Vice-President why no single Minister had so far toured the West Pokot District.

The Assistant Minister in the President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. If there are any districts which have as yet not been visited by any Minister, this must be attributed to the very heavy programme which all Ministers have had throughout the year 1961. Visits by Ministers serve a useful purpose only when there is a specific mission to be carried out, or a particular project to be launched or inspected. It is the responsibility of Members to invite Ministers to their areas whenever they feel that a visit by a Minister is called for.

I have an assurance, Mr. Speaker, from various Ministers, including the Minister for Finance, that when the hon. Member for West Pokot invites them, they will willingly attend and visit the area.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that the Ministers have a tendency to visit such places like Mombasa, Kisumu and some parts of Nairobi and not West Pokot, and as such, they should make their programmes to visit these areas so as to reflect their position as Ministers of Kenya?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that point has been noted, and it is expected that the imbalance of these visits will be looked into.

Mr. Kamureni: Is it not true, Mr. Speaker, that most of the Ministers visit their homes more frequently?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know what his constituency is, I forget, but the Ministers have constituencies to visit just as other hon. Members, and it is proper that they visit them.

Mr. Warlith: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply by the Minister, he has said that Ministers visit districts or constituencies when they are invited by Members. Do we understand that Ministers can only visit a particular constituency when they are invited by Members, and if the answer is "No", does the Office of the President have a programme under which Ministers visit various districts, or do they just visit at random?

Mr. Nyamweya: I am clarifying that point which I think must have been misleading. Ministers can visit all districts of Kenya and all parts of Kenya when their work makes it necessary to do so in their Ministerial capacities.

Secondly, Ministers, as politicians, are at liberty to visit other parts of Kenya when they are invited by the hon. Members representing those parts of the country, and I think it is a privilege and opportunity which hon. Members should take.

Question No. 836

KAPKAI LAND FOR POKOT

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement when the Pokot were going to be given the stretch of land in Kapkai which was included in the West Pokot Reserve by the Morris Carter Commission of 1933.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am not aware of any recommendation in the report of the Carter Commission of 1933, concerning the transfer of any land from Kapkai to West Pokot Reserve.

If the honourable Member for West Pokot wishes the farms at Kapkai to be purchased for a settlement scheme I would advise him to pursue the matter with the Central Government through the representative of the Rift Valley Province in the board.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that there are some farms which were given to some Kenyans by the Morris Carter Commission of 1933, and they were implemented, and they have these farms. But, why are they not in West Pokot?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I cannot say why in West Pokot some parts were given to some tribes and not to others, because I was not on the commission. What I can say and I have said, is that the Ministry is not aware of any recommendation appertaining to the transfer of land from Kapkai to West Pokot.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from—

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, I would like to seek your ruling as to whether the present Ministers are really responsible for answering questions on events which took place at the time when they were not appointed Ministers?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Ministers are expected to answer to the best of their ability if they are so disposed on matters of Government policy, including past policies so far as they affect the present. Of course, if you get back to a commission which sat more than thirty years ago, present day Ministers cannot do much if they do not know every detail of what lay behind that commission.

Mr. Gachago: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, there was no suggestion that information was not available.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): An hon. Member may rise on a point of order to say what he said has been misrepresented, if that is the case.

Mr. Gachago: Can I finish, Mr. Speaker, Sir? There was no suggestion that the Minister did not know anything, or that he has not dug up the information required. What actually, in fact, is the situation, is that in the Carter Commission, as the Minister stated, in this report of 1933, there is no question transferring that land, and this is what I have told the House.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that in view of the fact that the stretch of land was transferred to Nandi District following the recommendation of the Carter Commission in 1933, so why can this not be followed up to enable Pokot to get this land?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member is suggesting that we call on another commission to investigate and whether there is the question of transferring land from one side to another then that is a different matter, but the Carter Commission which looked into the question did not recommend the transfer of land from this tribe to that tribe.

Question No. 837

INTEGRATION OF PROVIDENT FUNDS

Mr. Ngala-Aboki asked the Minister for Labour and Social Services if the Minister would give the reasons why this Government decided not to absorb or integrate the existing provident funds into the proposed National Provident Fund.

The Assistant Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Odera-Jowi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply on behalf of the Minister. Sir, the Government has not supported or encouraged the integration of the existing provident funds into a National Provident Fund because of the interests of workers.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not true that the workers themselves would like this to be done and for some time they have been completing statements about this particular part.

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the workers demanding this have been misled, and Government is doing all it can to explain the position to them so they do not lose their money.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister tell the House how many meetings have been held between the workers and [Mr. Gichuru] not large and it would also be interesting, before I go further, to state that the bank, the local branch here in Nairobi, does receive a lot of assistance from its head office in London, so that it is able to employ, for the benefit of East African resources, much more money than its total deposits in East Africa. This is something we ought to appreciate; it is bringing this money into the country in order to enable it to function. Therefore I am told that the percentage of profit is not large; none of it goes to South Africa and, although for taxation purposes, the overall profit of the bank is somewhat arbitrarily divided up in relation to the proportion in which the bank's East African business bears to its whole operations, this arrangement is probably favourable to Kenya.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister has said that he cannot say for sure as to whether there are some South African citizens who are directors of the bank, could the Minister investigate and if he finds that there are some South African directors who also own some money, take steps to repatriate, not only the money, but the individuals concerned?

Mr. Gichuru: I thought I was being asked about the headquarters. In Nairobi they have no South Africans and as for the headquarters in London, we have no control whatever.

Question No. 829

CANCELLATION OF REGISTRATION OF POLITICAL PARTIES

Mr. Balala asked the Attorney-General if, in view of the fact that Kenya has now only one political party in the National Assembly of Kenya, could the Minister introduce immediate legislation to the effect that there will be only one political party in Kenya, and, therefore, registration of all existing political organizations be revoked and no further registration of any political parties be made.

The Assistant Minister, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply on behalf of the Minister.

Actually, Mr. Speaker, this question was sent to the Attorney-General's Chambers, but as the House may know, we do not want to involve the Attorney-General in these political matters and the question was therefore referred to the President's Office. I would request, in future, that hon. Members who wish to have questions of a political nature should not refer them to the Attorney-General.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. I do not think the Member concerned can be blamed for this. There have been some doubts where certain questions should go, and at one time we were given to understand that certain questions should be directed to the Attorney-General. We very often decide here which questions should go to which Ministry; but it is quite in order for any Ministry to pass a question on to another Ministry, as has been done in this case.

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As has been made clear on several occasions, the Government has never intended, and does not intend, to legislate for a one-party state. The achievement of a one-party state in this country was the result of the voluntary dissolution, in accordance with the will of the people, of the party formerly in Opposition. Since the strong desire of all the people of Kenya for unity has already rendered the remaining small political parties unnecessary, there is no need to legislate those parties out of existence.

May I add, Mr. Speaker, that it would be a contravention of section 24 of the Constitution, which safeguards the freedom of assembly and association, if that kind of legislation, as suggested by the hon. Mr. Balala, was introduced. Some parties have already voluntarily dissolved themselves, like the Coast African Political Union.

Mr. G. Godana: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister agree to state that the Government would be prepared to see that the unity which has been created by the dissolution of one party will not be endangered by the formation of other little parties?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I cannot go into speculation of what might happen when another political organization is formed. It is the responsibility of the hon. Members, and all those who claim to be politicians to preserve the unity we have achieved.

Mr. Ngala-Ahoke: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, that there is not going to be any restriction on any other political party being formed or registered, could the Assistant Minister assure the House in turn that the Kenya African Workers' Union, which is a trade union body—If the Government has so agreed, then are we going to be assured that no restriction is going to be placed on any organization?

Mr. Kahi: We are not a trade union body. Government must abide by the agreed Constitution. Therefore, we must stick to that alone.

Mr. Nyamweya: Government intends to uphold the Constitution, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister has put the clause into the Constitution which guarantees freedom of association and freedom of assembly. Does this apply in all respects or does this only apply to political parties?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We are only talking about political parties, Mr. Anyieni.

Mr. Mwanizindi: We have one political party and we all have decided to have only one political party. Why does the Minister not find it possible to amend that section so as to suit our needs?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the amendment of the Constitution is not a matter of one particular Ministry, it is a matter on which this House and the Senate have joint responsibility. As and when the need arises, that could be done, but, at the moment, Sir, there is no need to go into the unnecessary task of trying to amend the Constitution.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister elaborate on what he means by "as and when the need arises"? Does he mean that at that time there will be no need for freedom of association and assembly?

Mr. Nyamweya: I have said, Mr. Speaker, the need, as far as the foreseeable future is concerned, has been foreseen by the Government.

Question No. 830

1 COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OFFICER FOR TANA RIVER

Mr. Komora asked the Minister for Labour and Social Services if he would make an effort to post a Community Development Officer to Tana River District.

The Assistant Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Odera-Jowi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As part of the expansion of Community Development, a post of Assistant Community Development Officer has been created for Tana River District and an Officer has been appointed to take up the post. The officer in question, who has just been undergoing training, is at present in Lamu, and he will be posted to Tana River District as soon as possible.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, could the Assistant Minister assure us that the normal habit of posting Tana River officers to Lamu to serve from Lamu does stop immediately, so that the officers can be placed either at Galole or Garsen within the district itself and are thus available to the people?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is normal to post these officers at the district headquarters and the Tana River headquarters is the place where we post these officers.

Question No. 831

INTRODUCTION OF A NATIONAL WAGE POLICY

Mr. Komora asked the Minister for Labour and Social Services when he was going to announce a national wage policy to cover all forms of wage-earning employment.

The Assistant Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Odera-Jowi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government has already set up a committee to inquire into the wage structure and wage levels in the country. This committee is still doing its work and, as soon as it has reported to Government, Government will make up its mind as to what the wage policy should be.

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the committee which has been set up being concerned with the views of some individuals, could the Minister tell the House the terms of reference given to this committee, who are on this committee and where they are sitting, so that we can consult them?

Mr. Odera-Jowi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already given the terms of references of the Committee earlier on, but I will give them again for the benefit of the Member who may have been absent at the time.

One of the terms of reference is to examine the wage levels in the country with a view of increasing the wage levels where they are too low. The second term of reference is to examine the wage structure in the country, in order to abolish a discriminatory wage structure based on race. The third term of reference is to examine how the wage policy of the country can be integrated with the economic policy of the country. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am the chairman of the committee. The other members of the committee have been drawn from the Agricultural Wage Committee and the National Wage Board.

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could he tell the House how these people could be met, and whether the committee will tour various provincial headquarters or district headquarters to consult the workers?

the important issue for the nation to cause the adjournment of the sitting of the House this afternoon, and as we all respect the President, I think it is only right that we should go and hear what the President has to say to us, and to the country.

I hope the issue will not be arising from really petty things like a Minister failing to answer questions yesterday, but a matter of great importance to adjourn the House, because it was entirely the fault of the Minister if he could not answer his question yesterday.

I hope it will not be such petty things as whether to increase the salaries of Members or not. These are petty things, not important enough to adjourn a Parliamentary sitting, particularly when the Parliament is not given any warning.

Therefore, I hope it will be a big issue, an issue that the President, the Head of State, is really concerned, seriously concerned with, and not failure of his Ministers failing to answer questions in Parliament.

Therefore, I very strongly support the Vice-President in moving that we should go and hear what the President has to say.

Mr. Waruhi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it does not require much thinking to suspect or to feel why we are being summoned to see the President. If it is because of what happened yesterday in this House, I would say the entire blame rests on the Government, and I would like a categorical statement, as the Chairman of the Back-benchers, from the Government, as to whether the Government does recognize the institution of the Back-benchers. Had the Government recognized the Back-benchers' group and informed that group and discussed various problems with them, maybe what happened would not have happened. I would like the Vice-President, when he replies, to let the Back-benchers know whether our group is just taken as a group sitting in a room by themselves, and that we do not actually matter, and that the Government can bring any matter to the House without thinking of what our group does.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Dr. Kiaino did ask permission to move the closure at an earlier stage, and I said it would be premature. It would not be premature now for that to be moved for consideration by the House.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think it is time that the Mover is now called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As I said, I do not think it is premature. This is a very important question, which has taken the Members by surprise, and the House is fully entitled to discuss this question and air its views; but I think we have had pretty well the full range of views on this subject now, and so it is for the House to decide whether or not they want to hear any more. I will put the question. Actually, in this Motion, there is no right of reply, as it is purely a procedural Motion; so the question is "that the Question be now put".

(Question put and agreed to)

(Question that the House do now adjourn, put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is therefore adjourned accordingly until tomorrow, Friday, 19th February 1965, at 9 a.m.

The House rose at ten minutes to Three o'clock.

Friday, 19th February 1965

The House met at Nine o'clock.

PRAYERS

PAPERS LAID

The following Papers were laid on the Table:—

Annual Report of the Kenya National Assembly for the year ended 31st December 1964.

(By the Assistant Minister to the President's Office (Mr. Nyanwayo) on behalf of the Vice-President (Mr. Odingo))

Coffee Board of Kenya Annual Report and Accounts for the period ended 30th September 1964.

(By the Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo) on behalf of the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie))

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

PROHIBITION ON PRODUCTION OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES.

Mr. Kaman: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT this House, having regard to the prevalence of drunkenness, especially among young men, throughout Kenya, urges the Government to prohibit the production or sale of native alcoholic beverages, and to discourage the drinking of all other alcoholic beverages by increasing the price of such beverages.

CIVIL SERVANTS TO BE RESPONSIBLE TO ELECTED MEMBERS

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that there is now a tendency by some of the civil servants looking down upon the elected representatives of the people in this House and also taking part in the Kenya politics, this House calls upon the Government to introduce a system whereby the civil servants in any given constituency will be responsible to the elected representatives in that particular constituency to ensure smooth running of the area.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 823

STANDARD BANK OF SOUTH AFRICA: PROPRIETORS AND PROFIT

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister for Finance what information he could give the House about the Standard Bank, formerly known as the Standard Bank of South Africa Ltd., in the following ways:—

- Whether the proprietors were in Johannesburg, London or elsewhere?
- What percentage of the profit per year had gone out of Kenya to South Africa, England or any other country, during the last five years?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

- The head office is in London.
- The annual accounts incorporate the result of banking business throughout the world and it is not possible to say what percentage of the profit relates to activities in Kenya.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, was this bank originally started in Johannesburg or did it originate in London, because we understand it was first formed in Johannesburg and then transferred to London?

Mr. Gichuru: The headquarters have always been in London; all these others are branches. Perhaps the hon. Member will remember that even the National and Grindlays Bank was once named "The National Bank of India", but the changes in circumstances in India caused them to change that name. I think it was for the convenience of this particular branch in South Africa that the bank in South Africa was named "The Standard Bank of South Africa".

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell the House whether some of the directors are citizens of South Africa?

Mr. Gichuru: I could not say certainly, but I believe that the majority of them would be citizens of Britain.

Mr. G. Godana: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, does he mean to say that he never sees yearly returns from the bank which show how much profit they made, profit or loss, in this House?

Mr. Gichuru: No, I never meant that. I mean that the percentage profit, as I have been told, is

PRAYERS

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE

(Under Standing Order 35 (b))

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to move—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): On a point of order.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, I rise to move that the House adjourn now, in order to allow the hon. Members of the House to meet the President according to his request, in the Cabinet room now. This has been necessitated because there are so many very vital and very important decisions which the hon. Members wish to discuss and come to a decision about them with the President, and therefore I beg to move, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Of course it is always in order for hon. Members to move the Adjournment of the House at any time as a point of order. The actual Motion, must be I think, the question that the House do adjourn until tomorrow at 9 a.m.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Khalifa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I completely agree with the Vice-President's Motion because, as a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, although we do not want to comment, there are some very vital issues, as the hon. Vice-President said, which all the Members of the Back Benches would like to discuss with the President.

I would like Mr. Speaker, Sir, to support the hon. Vice-President.

Mr. Nibogohi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, although I support this Adjournment, I still feel that it is going to be a waste of time for Members, time which could have been used to discuss the affairs of this country. It could have been left to the Parliamentary Group to settle the Adjournment of the House like this, but I am not opposing that, because I know it might be to someone's advantage. I have no further comments Sir.

Mr. ole Tipis: I think we support the Vice-President in moving the Adjournment of the House, but one thing must be made clear, that whatever vital issues there are they did not drop up only this morning. They were there yesterday, and the Government or the Cabinet should have summoned the Members last night if necessary. These things must be made very clear and whatever misunderstandings arose yesterday should have been settled immediately yesterday rather than adjourn the House and waste public funds.

Mr. Theuri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to disagree with what the hon. the Vice-President said. This is a lame excuse, because we had time for discussion yesterday. This is not the first time this is happening. Members must realize the position between the Government and themselves.

Now, Sir, there is no point in coming here and adjourning the House, because there are private matters to be settled. We had time yesterday in which we could have done this; we had time this morning in which we could have done this. This morning we asked the Minister to come to Parliament Buildings so he could discuss things with us. We had no reply to our request. It must be realized that we are hon. Members, that we come here to represent our people and that we must represent them properly.

It is not only the Members but the Government as well that brings criticisms all the time. This takes away the power and dignity of this House. I consider this very serious.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiara): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. No, it is premature.

Mr. Ngala-Ahok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I agree with the Vice-President's proposals that the House do now adjourn in order to see the President. However, we are very much informed just like the Intelligence Service of this Government. We know everything that is going on in this Government and we do realize the machinery that is now being employed. There are Ministers who want to play with the personality of the President. It is very difficult to disclose the truth to the President at a convenient time, but we are not going to use the President as a means of warning us at some of these meetings so that we may decide to abandon some of the things that we hoped could be implemented for the benefit of the nation.

We know we shall soon have to get used to doing certain things that we did not do and that [Mr. Ngala-Ahok] in all probability we shall be doing the very ordinary jobs our electors are doing. However, we are not going to let the nation down in this House.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to correct the impression that was created, that I was asked to come and I excused myself. I was engaged on very important work in the Cabinet and I did tell the hon. Mr. Kali this, and the issues that some hon. Members seem to feel are on my shoulders. My Members seem to execute the decisions of the main job is to execute the decisions of the Government. I do know as an individual that decisions can be made.

I think, Sir, this ought to be made very clear.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to appeal to the hon. Members not to make any assumptions. I think it is absolutely wrong for anybody to think that he can make assumptions on what we have been called for. I would like to support the Vice-President on his Motion for adjournment. Some of us have spoken and said that perhaps we are going to discuss this issue which happened yesterday. We do not know. The Vice-President has not said what we have been called for. He has said that we have been called for some very important matters. We do not know what these important matters are and it is not our job here to try to assume what we have been called for.

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, without further debate on this matter, I would like to support the Motion by the Vice-President. We will go to the President and hear what he has to tell us. If he calls us because of the matters which arose yesterday, then we will be right in our assumptions, but I think it is a waste of time trying to assume what we are going to be told by the President.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to make it known to the Vice-President who has kindly moved this Motion in this Parliament, that I want to make two or three observations. One is that we knew only too well that we had to meet today and discuss some items which are on the Order Paper. It is surprising and alarming how urgent this issue is, but I think that we can go on with our job for today so that we can meet after Parliament has finished, even at 9 o'clock and discuss these issues. I take the interests of the people seriously, the people whom we represent in this House. They are more important than the Cabinet and the Back-benchers, because the Cabinet and the Back-benchers are here only because people elected them to come here. We should honour the people by doing their job first and then settling our own problems later.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I do not think there is any such need for such urgent discussion between us and the Cabinet and the President. I think we should first do the public's work and then have our own discussions on any urgent matters. I feel that this has aroused a lot of speculation about what is cooking and I just do not know how this is justified to create a sensation at this time, when we are actually working very hard to do all we can for our people. Therefore, I do not think that it is so serious that we have to adjourn the House. I would rather suggest that the House continues and have the meeting with the President after the House has risen today at 6.30 p.m.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, I think that the Members here today seem to be afraid of negotiating with the President. If the President has something for us today to negotiate with him, let us all go and see him face to face and tell him what made us freeze yesterday's Paper, because you all think you are politicians, you know all the tactics, and you know why the President wants to go there. What happened yesterday?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is what I think. Yesterday we found it necessary to freeze something and today we found it necessary to call the Minister for Finance and ask him to come to the Parliamentary Group meeting to negotiate with us, not as a Trade Union, but as politicians. Now we want something else. I support the Vice-President that we should go now and meet the President.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wish Mr. Jahazi to withdraw or rather substantiate that I have been plotting and planning.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. I apologize, I did not hear what Mr. Jahazi said because the Vice-President happened to be at my elbow, but did you say that, Mr. Jahazi?

Mr. Jahazi: No, Mr. Speaker, I did not. What I said was that the Minister for Finance had some discussions with Mr. Speaker, Sir, I never referred to the hon. Minister for Finance as plotting and planning. If he understood that, Mr. Speaker, that is not what I meant.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to support the Motion by the Vice-President. Although the Vice-President has not explained or given reasons as to why the House should adjourn, I have a feeling that the President must have a very

123 Motion for the Adjournment—

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, what I want to know is somebody mentioned all the Ministers who had contributed this money, why was no mention made of the Vice-President?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. That is not a point of order.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I just want to say this and complete my speech which has been interrupted. It will be very bad if we change the system which has already been established, now we are working on our Harambee, Harambee encourages people to collect money locally but when we tell them to collect money they say that, "Why is it so much has been given to Such-and-such a district?" What we want before we make a collection is for you to ask the President to come here with his Ministers to give us so much then we will also go ahead and collect." This is why we are worried, and we are particularly worried in the way the National Fund here is now being treated. If we are not going to stop this kind of thing, Mr. Speaker, I assure the Members here that this country is going to be bought by people who have money and the Ministers in their power, and who have the right to approach any firm, and the firms are now interested in buying up these Ministers and making them stooges, puppets of the Western world—more than Ishembe in the Congo.

With these few remarks, I beg to leave the Motion as it is.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I must say that I must thank the hon. Mover of this Motion for a very logical Motion, the way he put his case. I may not agree with many of the things which he says, but the way he put it was really very clever indeed. I should ask hon. Members, normally when they put their case, not to add in some of the unpleasant remarks which keep appearing, which I think is very unparliamentary indeed. On the whole, I also share anxiety with some of the Members on this question; we may be anxious to do something to help genuinely. I can assure you that what the President and any other Minister has done, they have not done it with any bad intentions. I do not take it like that, or with the purpose of only going to buy the people, as the hon. Mover put it. I think that was a little bit beside the point, because if people in this country with millions and millions of pounds wanted to buy people here, we should not have even managed to rid ourselves of colonialism from this country.

If any person feels that he can buy the people of this country with money, he is deceiving himself. This cannot happen. In this way we are also trying to under-rate our own people. If you talk of buying our people you are only abusing the people who elected you to this House.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. May I remind you, Mr. Odinga, that you must address the Chair. It is not right for hon. Members to address other hon. Members across the Floor.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): I would put it that it is not the case. What the Government is anxious to do is to arouse in these people the spirit of self-help. It is possible that on occasions this may have been overdone but in actual fact the President and Ministers were trying and were keen to arouse in the Members of this House and the people of the country that they should give freely, that they should make an effort to give what they can afford.

Let me put it this way. I am sure that the hon. Member is not correct in the facts he has mentioned, because he, himself, has not given anything whatsoever.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I must say that money is very sweet to everybody. I do not think there is anybody who would like to give money if he can actually just put it into his pocket. Mr. Speaker, there are so many people who have received money and never given it away. I am sure there are some hon. Members here who may have received money secretly and never given any of it away. We may have like to have some of that money but have never received any of it.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would the hon. Mr. Odinga, the Vice-President, substantiate or tell the House the names of the hon. Members he is talking about who have received money and whom he could point out to this House. We are very interested to know who these people are.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, I said I could substantiate if it was necessary. As a matter of fact I do not want to embarrass any particular Member by going into all the details.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Odinga, I am afraid that if you make allegations of that kind, allegations against individual Members or against Members of the House in general, it is necessary to substantiate, if we are to adhere to the rules of the House. If you like to withdraw, then there is no more to be said; but if you hold on to it, then it must be substantiated, and you must say who you are referring to and on what grounds.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, I would like to withdraw that statement because I do not want to embarrass any particular Member but reference has been made here which I think is more or less similar to that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think I must make one point clear here. I do want to clear up what has been said in this House so far. Mr. Makokha, in the previous discussion, did not suggest that anyone, President or Minister, had been doing these things with a view to bribing the people. He said there was a danger of people doing that if this practice continued.

Likewise, I think, all the way through there has never been any question of anyone suggesting that bad things are being done, but only that there is a danger that may come from the situation if it continues.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): With all due respect to your ruling, Mr. Speaker, I think I should mention that there have been references to corruption, checking up on corruption and so on. These references have been made very plainly. I would like to state clearly that there is no such thing.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Corruption that may take place, rather than existence of corruption, Mr. Odinga.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Sir, I take this very seriously and I would request the Members to take it from me that the Government does hold the view that whatever any Minister has done, or the President has done, has been done with one particular motive, and that is to arouse the spirit of self-help. Normally, it has been with Members here. If you go to any other place you will find that any contribution to be made, is normally made after the Minister has led the way. After the Minister has led the way then what we do is only to try and channel this money.

I agree with what other Members have suggested, that we should now endeavour to find a way of channelling all future contributions. I would tell the House that the Government is seriously thinking of all the best methods of actually giving assistance to any projects which are under way. I think that very soon there may be an announcement to that effect. At the present moment we do want to encourage the people on this question of self-help. I know there are some Members who are not very keen on this question, but we must know that it is an issue which is now open to us, an issue through which we can lead the way. We may not be able to give large sums but whatever we have, even a little, as the Mover has said, is acceptable. It is better to put one cent when you can afford only that much because there is more blessing on that than if you gave Sh. 1,000, but could afford Sh. 10,000. We, as Members of the National Assembly, must lead the way in self-help. I quite agree with the Mover when he says that it should spring from the people themselves. One must not always expect that the Ministers will come to give money.

I also agree that we should not depend for money on people who are not directly concerned with the country. It is better for the Government to accept anything from any other individual and put this money somewhere so that it can be used to help the people, help them with their various projects.

I must, Mr. Speaker, end by saying that all the views expressed here have the sympathy of the Government but the Members must understand the point of view of the Ministers. The motives which actually push them to start these things vigorously. That should be a credit to the Ministers.

As such, Sir, I would like to say that in the end it should not be taken as evil and should not be taken in bad spirit. Members must be in a position to face us here and at the same time face their constituents and explain to them everything that goes on.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have come to the end of our half hour. The house is therefore adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, 18th February, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

CASH GIFTS AT PUBLIC MEETINGS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the interruption of business. I will call on the Minister to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Makokha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I made up my mind to bring this matter up, not because I wanted to stop Ministers and the President from giving so generously, but to urge them to evolve a better way of making these offers, and also to point out the harm done and the dangers that face us as a result of these offers. Apart from the embarrassment certain Members and Ministers have had to put up with at public meetings, much more harm has been done. The National Fund has been completely siphoned. All the funds are now being directed towards certain areas, particularly those areas where Ministers happen to come from.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, much harm that has been done in that the spirit of self-help has been completely weakened. In some parts of the country, Mr. Speaker, Sir, people have believed that if a Minister, or the President for that matter, visits that area, he is carrying a bag of money with him to offer to them. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as a result of this, there is a scramble for Ministers. Some Members have tried to persuade Ministers to visit their areas, so that when the Ministers go there they will give some money to their people, and this is completely wrong.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the spirit of self-help has been weakened for these other very important reasons. In the Press and on the radio, prominence is given to the money given by either the President or the Minister, and not the money given by the people of the area concerned. Mention must be made of the money, however little, given by the people themselves. This Mr. Speaker, should be done, because I believe and I thought that when we started a National Fund, it was to encourage our people to help themselves by giving money, however little, to the Fund.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, now for the dangers some of the dangers facing this country, facing us as a result of this, are in fact, moral dangers, Mr. Speaker. There is a temptation, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for some of us—and probably Ministers too—to look for other sources in order to compete in making these offers. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in fact, some people are beginning to wonder what source this money comes from. Today someone gives Sh. 5,000 and tomorrow there is Sh. 10,000. We wonder whether our Ministers can really give so generously from their salaries alone.

An hon. Member: Their salaries must be cut.

Mr. Makokha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other danger is that certain Ministers, and even some of us Members, might try to gain popularity by the use of money. There is no doubt, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that at the moment, the people are very dissatisfied with the Government, for that matter, the Cabinet.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not too much to say that some—not all of them—Ministers may attempt to buy popularity with money at public meetings, or by visiting certain areas quietly and giving money.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, now a political danger can erupt. I can foresee certain Members of this House with less means being ousted by the use of money. What is to stop a Minister or another Member, for example, who does not like the hon. Mr. Anyieni, from giving money to his opponents, so that at a public meeting this man will give more money than Anyieni, and then Anyieni's personality will be minimized. This is a real danger.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we all remember the biblical parable where a publican gave very little, and the pharisee thanked God that he was not like that man, who was unable to give as much as he was able to.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we must not allow this to come into our politics. If we allow money to intrude and interfere with our politics, this country is finished.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe that everybody here is aware of that famous definition of democratic government by Abraham Lincoln:

"Government of the people, for the people, by the people."

Now, what I can foresee here is the danger adding two words at the end of that definition:

"Government of the people, for the people, by the people with money."

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we must not allow this to happen, because who knows, tomorrow we may have a different President, probably not as rich as the one we have now. Where will he get the money to give to the people of this country? We must, Mr. Speaker, evolve a different system of giving these presents.

[Mr. Makokha]

Another political danger, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the influence outsiders from the East or the West can gain by using money. They can channel their influence through certain individuals, by giving them money, so that the individuals go and dish out money to the people of this country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am only a humble Bach-bencher but I urge the Government—for that matter the Cabinet—to sit down and think again. We must act like a civilized Government. Let us have funds, or trust funds, probably on either a constituency basis or regional basis so that even the President need not come to my constituency to offer cash, he can give to the National Fund; even if he is sitting in Nairobi.

Mr. Speaker, I see that the time is up. Therefore, I beg to move.

Mr. Oduya: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Because the time is very limited, I will go ahead now and not waste time. Just to add to what my hon. colleague, Mr. Makokha, has said here, at one of the meetings at Machakos the President was invited as Head of the State. He went there, forgetting that we have a National Fund and throughout Kenya we have encouraged people to organize dances even, to collect money for this National Fund. The Government with its policy can say now what is the programme for Machakos District, Kitui, Busia. When the President was emphasizing this on the radio, he even called out the name of one of the Members here. "Wapi Kaggia, wapi the Member Kaggia?" Mr. Speaker, it is very shameful for our Government to start using this kind of language, because it is leading us to corruption.

Mr. Speaker, before I go further, to comment on what other Ministers have done, the President made a statement that those Members receiving money from foreign countries and who are found, even though they may be Members of Parliament or Ministers, they will be dealt with, because he feels that these people will give the Members money to upset the Government machinery. Who is now doing this sort of thing? You will find that the President has paid out more money than what he receives and we want to know how he does it. What sort of Government is this where your Ministers can just go to a private firm and demand money? We, as Members, also demand the same and then we go to the public and say, "Now the money is for us to contribute to you." We can go and ask Patel who has money, ask Williams for money to give to them. There is a National Fund which has been set up and it is very important that we keep it going, not destroy it because it has no contributions. A lot of money has been sent in to the President at his home at Gatundu. He is spending it instead of taking it to the National Fund. The chairman of the National Fund does not get it. If the people in Kiambu want money, the money will have to be channelled through the proper channels.

Hon. Members: Sit down!

Mr. Oduya: We want to know if this is the economy and what kind of economy it is. It is terrible. Continuing on that, the Minister for Justice has contributed well over Sh. 300,000. Where did this Sh. 300,000 come from? It went to South Nyanza. He gave Sh. 10,000 to another hon. friend's constituency, Mr. Godia's constituency. Where does this excess money come from? People say, "Why do you not bring the President here so that he can give us money?" What can we say?

The President has been in several places and many people have noticed that when he went to the Coast he never paid out a single thing. It was the same again when he went to Kerinyaga. Now, Mr. Speaker—

Hon. Members: Sit down!

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order.

Mr. Mainsori-Itumbo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, can the hon. Member substantiate that the money given to Mr. Godia's constituency was foreign money?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think the hon. Member said that.

Mr. Mainsori-Itumbo: He did, Sir.

Mr. Oduya: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, he was only trying to waste my time.

The Assistant Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Onamu): On a point of order, is the hon. Member in order in referring to the President like that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): He is nearly out of order, it is perfectly true, in referring to the personal conduct of the President; but what is raised by this matter is really the conduct of the Government in the personalities of the President and Ministers. It is not real criticism of the President as a man; it is criticism of the way the President of the country are behaving. I do not think it would be right to say that it is beyond the power of this House to discuss in this debate.

[Mr. Gichoya]

County Council of Kirinyaga need electricity in our boarding schools, hospitals and clinics.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I want to explain is this: it is morally wrong, if not politically wrong, to cheat your people telling them that you are driving towards the moon but, instead of going towards the moon we are being driven back into the ground. 25 per cent shares to be owned by the Kenya Government in so big a project which is expected to be the standard all East Africa in terms of electricity, is a very misleading approach to African socialism. At the same time, it is within the power of this country to control investment, otherwise we will find at one stage of time that all the big magnates who have already put their money here will say, "For heaven's sake our interests are being threatened; let us rule the country" as it has happened in the Congo. Because there industries were owned by the foreigners—by big companies of capitalists, and the forest were also owned by a company. So, Mr. Speaker, the Congolese have nothing apart from just a mere flag which was known as the national flag. They were dominated by the foreigners in terms of the national economy. Consequently, the foreigners said that because they had invested so much in that country, they must also control the political set-up of that country. I see the situation is very clear, whereby, in the course of time our Government will not be able to be dictated to by this House, but will be dancing to the tune of the big companies. In the course of time, Sir, we may not be able to talk freely that our people need peace and this and that. We can do practically nothing, and because I am a Member of this House I have a car, otherwise I used to walk, but I never died.

What I am trying to say is this. I have got my own personal car, I have got a loan.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we had to get loans as Members of the National Assembly, why on earth could not the Government of Kenya negotiate for a loan also with the international Monetary Fund? We are members of it, we are members of the United Nations, we have an Economic Commission for Africa. We will go to America, to Russia, and tell them, "O.K., you can have us on these terms." The Kenya Government should encourage foreigners to invest, but 51 per cent of the shares ought to be in the hands of the Kenya Government.

If you want £20 million, then you must make it clear to the company that gives you the capital to put into the project that over the course of the years the Kenya Government will have 51 per cent shares in it. So you have given a mandate to the financier in writing that in the course of time he will be able to retain only a certain portion, and the rest will belong to the Government. Now these things are not stipulated in the agreement which the Minister is trying to explain to us with regard to the arrangement between the Kenya Government and these big financiers. I feel, Sir, that we shall be misleading the country and I confess, Sir, that I would be the last person to talk of one thing and do the opposite. When we have already committed the country to a socialist approach, I have sometimes been humiliated by my voters when they say, "Gichoya, we elected you unopposed because of this beautiful book. We read it, we were satisfied that if only Kanu came into power these things could be implemented." What do we have now, when we have already promised the country? Can we agree to go back to the field and say, "All right, we cheated you. After cheating you, let us draft another manifesto and you can vote for it?" This Kanu booklet is a mere manifesto which has not been implemented.

I say so, Sir, because this is the exact Bible of our political party; the Bible that guides the destiny of the Cabinet, if I am correct. Since the Cabinet is the by-product of the Parliament, and the Parliament is the product of the Kanu Party, so through the Bible we have a father. We must think of this first and the people whom we represent. The Minister should go back, revise that particular paper, say that we are going to have a project for the electrification of our country, which is very good. We do not say that we do not have confidence in the Minister or in the Government, but where the Government is wrong, where our Minister is wrong we are entitled to correct the Minister; and of course if we are wrong too we ask to be corrected. So we are trying to suggest to the Minister so that we do not have a tug of war, voting No or voting Aye, so that we speak with one voice. This thing ought to be sent back to the Parliamentary Group so that we discuss it nicely, clause by clause; and then Minister will just take a few hours to explain here. And if there are certain things which must not be disclosed to the public—I know there are going to be certain arguments which were entered into between the companies and the Government but those things can be discussed within four walls, in other words, in camera; it is not a question of public discussion.

So the Minister wants co-operation; and I seek his co-operation very much. If he wants the co-operation of the Members let him listen to them.

[Mr. Gichoya]

But we have seen an attitude of demands being made for co-operation from the Members.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, a little while ago, when we had a two-party system here, I used to be called by people sometimes "Kadu". Let me make it clear that I was Kanu from beginning to end. I used to express people's problems, their headaches. If I do so sincerely, then I am called this or that. However, that was the disease of the two-party system. Now the beauty of the one-party system is this: that we are able to discuss like adults, make corrections where necessary. It is not a question of dictatorship by the Cabinet over the Members. Sir, I must assure the members of the Cabinet that there are brains in the Back-benchers. Perhaps the time will come when we shall be Ministers. But now, when they are in power, let them heed our advice. When we shall come into power too, we shall respect their advice that they will give us. I would like the Minister to go home and discuss things and find out the answer.

The other thing I wanted the Minister to go and think about and try and get the answer to is this: we would like to know very much what will be the purpose of the waterfalls from that particular project. Will it be a waste? Will it be used for rice irrigation, or for cotton irrigation? These things ought to be made very clear to us: that when this project comes up we shall have this.

I say that it is very unfortunate that those people charged with the duties of planning for us have failed us. You cannot say that we have got this project, this and that, that we are having enormous economic planning, if you have indeed committed ourselves to planning; you have to state things, make little books, writing things like: "By this year, such-and-such will be achieved;" "By next year such-and-such will be achieved;" "By today we are kept completely in darkness, as if we are not part and parcel of this Government. If the Ministers know definitely that the project is in so many phases, why on earth have they failed to give us the details of the project?"

The Minister said, when introducing this debate: "We want to have this Bill passed immediately so that our President is facilitated in going on with this."

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the dignity of our President is manifested in the progress of the country. If this country in any way becomes corrupted, if it is full of corruption, the name of the President will be really destroyed. Our President will not have the dignity he has today. How can this dignity be if we are dominated by foreign investors in this country? We are citizens of this country and I believe there are people in this country some millionaires even ought to have invested in such projects, otherwise the name of the President as our leader will be remembered in a wrong way. We want to preserve the beauty, the dignity of the name of our President, the beauty, the integrity of our President; and to do so we must get out of economic subjugation to the colonial web. If we allow others to rule this country with their own money, then, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will resign and not be a Member, not be someone who is supposed to make the laws for the good of this country.

Let us do justice, Mr. Speaker, Sir, let us do justice to our constituents, let us do justice to the aspirations and feelings of the ordinary person who, up to this moment, has been waiting to see what progress we make.

It was just a few days before the Republic, Sir, when one stranger, sitting in the Strangers' Gallery, asked, "Where is the independence, where is the independence?" If you will look at the situation of the country you will see why he asked that question why he cannot see independence. What happens is this: we are told that there is no more white domination, Africans have more authority than they used to have before, but there is always this talk on the part of the Ministers, "Please, please, we guarantee this and this and this to you investors; please we beg you to come."

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do you want to speak a bit longer, Mr. Gichoya?

Mr. Gichoya: Just one minute, Sir.

Now, when a foreigner says he wants confidence, it means that he has no confidence in you, but when he was ruling this country the same person, who is now hurrying away and he wants confidence to be created, that same person had confidence in you when he was exploiting you. So exploitation of the Africans is the confidence of the exploiter. I advise the Minister that we are not here for a tug of war between the Cabinet and the Back-benchers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will continue tomorrow on this. I would like to allow the Motion on adjournment to continue now.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You would like to continue your speech when we resume the debate.

in other words, the public of this country, holds one-third of the shares. Now, that is, Sir, per cent whereas in this particular scheme, Sir, we are only going to own 25 per cent, a quarter. That is going down the scale. This, Sir, is something which is most unwelcome. Whatever measures we take, and we cannot own a bigger share, we have said in this House that in undertaking industrial nature in this country, the citizens of Kenya should at least have the controlling share.

Now, the Government has not made any effort even to flood the market in Kenya, even to call upon the citizens of this country to contribute some money in order to own a share in this project.

I have said that we are contributing 25 per cent, 75 per cent is to be subscribed from outside. This, Sir, is not in the best interests of this country. Sir, we appreciate that electricity and power for developing this country is very, very necessary. Without our power any project industrially is virtually impossible, but that is the greater reason why we and citizens in this country, should have a bigger say in our power. Unless we have a definite say in our power then we can be rendered hopeless, our project will be detected in this country by the money magnates, the power security of London, and the United States and West Germany are going to dictate pay for industrialization in this country, because they will have the controlling share. Sir, this is my main observation which is a disappointment. There must be a definite clause in the Bill.

I have read it, and I have not seen the clause. A clause which should provide for the eventual take-over of the electric power in this country. We in this country, Sir, are not going to speak and talk in this House for the sake of talking. We want to deliver the goods to our country, and Sir, this clause should have been included in the Bill, that eventually this power is going to be owned by Kenyans themselves. This is what I feel, Sir, the Minister has failed hopelessly in getting across to the people who want to come and invest in this country. We have said here, Sir, that the investors who want to invest in Kenya do know themselves, and they are not idiots, they are not fools, they know economics better than our people who go to negotiate with them, they know that Kenya has a great potential for this particular investment that is why they come here.

Now if they know that, we should also say all right, you are coming to this country, but our terms are going to be X, Y and Z. This is what we should do, but not just say all right, willing receiver, ring whatever you want, come in and take over our country. Unless development is owned by ourselves, money from outside is not going to be of any use to Kenya. The people of Kenya themselves must save so that they can invest in many of these national projects, and there is nothing at this particular moment of greater national importance than power for our industrial development in this country. That is why, Sir, we feel on this side that the Minister or his Assistant or any other person versed in economics on the other side of the Government, will tell us how we are going to effect socialism in Kenya, if this is the way in which we are to move.

With these few words, Sir, I beg to give my support.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I stand to explain a little more on some of the points which have been emphasized, but which at this stage should have been reserved as my hon. friend, who has just sat down, said. He reserved something in himself. There are certain things which you must reserve in yourself and note the policies which we are pursuing; establishing some concern as the one which will be established, is one thing. The policy which he is going to pursue later is another one. You cannot mix the two.

Some people talk of actually getting loans. You already have somebody who has ready cash, who wants actually to come to help you to establish this industry. The conditions of the future of this project depend on you here. The last speaker said very well, that the people here should think of this themselves—get the money, get all these things. No one actually refused you in the first place. You could form yourselves to buy out those people who actually are going to help you to do it. They are only giving you breathing space to prepare yourself to do it. You must understand that where we are we are in asking and we are moving towards what these people want because the Government has not asked you to go to join these people, it is the Government which is looking closely into it. I do not see why our promise is actually broken. The Government is working according to finances which are at its disposal. It could not go again to borrow money from somewhere and join these people. It has to borrow because when those people come, they establish this very important industry and all the Members will say that it is up to the people of Kenya, if they can, each year, they feel that they want to have more and more share in this and it will always have to be started here. Why do you go to get something when this is the most important establishment we are going to have in Kenya which they have not had anywhere in Africa. There are very few establishments like this one. I do not think we should just disregard our policies and then probably what is coming on. I think the best thing for us is to say that we will wait for the establishment with us, and the policy he is going to pursue later on, that is your own and not any other thing, and as such Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would only request the hon. gentleman that there are something where we must have reservations and we must have the conclusion considered.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am very grateful for the words of the Vice-President which I thought were very well calculated.

We have been telling the people that we are here to build an African Democratic Socialist State. The Father of the Nation was clever enough to give us definitions of African socialism. On the social and cultural aspect, he talked in terms of Africans, but when it comes to the question of socialism, the socialistic approach is an economic approach on the modern accepted socialistic concept. It is here with the signature of our President. Because we participate freely without any force. Now, here comes a Member just now who made it very clear, and I have been trying to find out from the Minister for Works and Communications how much percentage in terms of shares do we really have in the East African Power and Lighting Company, because at one time he told me here in this House that we have a controlling element. Can he say what this controlling element is, when we have 33 per cent? Where does the other 67 per cent go to? Today, you go to Kariokor, or Bahati, or just here Muthura, not even far away, and you cannot see any African houses with electricity. And, this Government of ours is an elected Government, popular Government, elected by these people who are living in these small dwellings, without any electricity.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, here I have to thank the Government of India for taking certain steps when they came into power: of making electricity the property of the State, and not private investors. You go to New Delhi where you find that an ordinary person can afford to have electricity in his own small dwelling. There the electricity is so cheap because the State does not want to make any profit out of it, but it is prepared to serve the social needs of the community. With poor light, Mr. Deputy Speaker, my eyes cannot see properly, yet I want to read properly. If you look at the Africans of today, if they are taken for a medical examination, I guarantee that most of them will have to go to the opticians for glasses, because firstly, there is no electricity to provide proper light in their houses. It is very expensive.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

In my own place, Kirinyaga District, we cannot even put up an X-ray plant because we do not have enough money for the generator, since we do not have electricity, because electricity is a monopoly of a private entrepreneur.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, according to the conditions under which our National Flag came into being, we said and even the Father of our Nation said, we would no longer be dictated to by East or West. That was one thing.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That has nothing to do with this.

Mr. Gichoya: It is to do with mutual agreements between Kenya and other countries. When we have friends from all corners of the world they can give us assistance as in the youth service. Why on earth can we not tell a country like Russia that instead of building us a college like the one at Maseno, the Agricultural Institution which is going to be run there by the Russians, why could we not tell them, as friends, that we want to enter into a venture with a private entrepreneur in order to give light to the ordinary people of the country? If construction with this is the Seven Forks project for electricity, we will tell them that if they cannot give us this aid without any interests, let us have it in the form of a loan which will be payable after, say, fifty years. Then the Kenya Government will say, according to what our Father of the Nation has said, we aim to build a country where men and women are motivated by a sense of service and not driven by a desire for personal gain. Our people have the right to be free from economic exploitation and, also, inequality. Now, these are the words of our greatest leader, that this country has to be built in such a way that the greater benefit, economic benefit, goes direct to the greater number of the people. In our own social centre we are using, instead of electricity, a sort of machinery so that we are in a position to see television in my own area where electricity is just 24 miles from the corner where there is a big plant, but because the Government has only 33 per cent shares in the existing electricity company operating electricity here, the Government cannot provide us with electricity. We, the [Mr. Anylen] characteristic belief that unless it is private, it will never survive. So, I would like to find out from the Minister, because I am sure if this was done by loans, Government would even make more money from here to help to repay some other loans, besides the loans that they have for the hydro-electric scheme. So, I would like to ask the Minister to take into account that in this House several times, very many hon. Members have demanded the nationalization of the East African Power and Lighting, and while we are demanding the nationalization of what exists, I do not see why the Government should go even further to encourage private participation in a profit making thing like this, which would help the Government.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Minister whether it is the Government policy never to fully participate or take over some of these means of production. If it is, then the Minister should be able to know, but they cannot get money to provide for education, and free medical attention. If, for example, the Seven Forks Hydro-electric Scheme is going to be in private hands, what we understand is that if overseas people are going to have 75 per cent of all the money which is going to be used, it means that 75 per cent of this profit will go overseas, and only a little will remain in our country. I personally feel that if it was a dangerous project, the overseas companies and administrations would not be willing to spend so much money in a project which they know will not give any money back.

So, Sir, I will conclude by saying that this is a very highly profitable institution, and as such, Government should be able to try and get some money as a loan.

Mr. Speaker, Government will have an excuse. If Government tries to get loans, and had been unable to get loans, then of course they have no alternative. They will then agree for somebody to take over the whole scheme. There is no other alternative. But, the Minister would be able to tell us that they tried as much as they could to get loans from some place, and the conditions which were attached to the loans for which they asked from other areas, and when they compared these conditions, they were not for our country. As such, they decided to agree to 75 per cent. If the Minister is asking this House to conform to what seems to be the Government's policy of prolonging neo-colonialism in our country, then they should be able to tell us. Even the hon. Members who are in this House now should be able to demand that we use this, and ask our Government to approach countries such as the United States, and Britain to get a loan, but we do not want our Ministers to continue in the economic reconstruction to lean more and more to one side and take some payment of economic neo-colonialism in our independent country of Kenya.

So, Mr. Speaker, with those few words, I would like to say if Kenya is to be truly independent, the Minister should be able to recognize that if these people control 75 per cent, it means that if these people control 75 per cent, they will also have 75 per cent, and as such, if the conditions are not favourable for them, they will tell them that what they will do is cut the electricity, to say Mombasa, Kisumu or some other place, and then Mzee Kenyatta will say that as there is no electricity, his Government may be crippled, so he had better agree to what these people want. This is what we are trying to take care of, and we would like the Government to be honest and tell us honestly that they have not been—I want to make this quite clear in the mind of the Minister who is going to reply—able to get a loan to be able to carry out this project. What can we do if we cannot get a loan?

Mr. Speaker, with these few words, I want to oppose very strongly the idea of inviting any more than 75 per cent ownership in our independent country.

The other idea, is that when the Minister says that there should be equal shares, there should be even more, Kenya people should be asked to buy shares so that people overseas will not have the chance, and Kenya Government will have half the shares, and the people of Kenya will have the other half the shares. The Kenya Government can then say that we are equal. So, for that reason, we are going to have one of our Parliamentary Secretaries there as one of the Directors, so that he can keep an eye on things.

So, Mr. Speaker, Members of Parliament can be given a chance to buy one hundred shillings worth of shares, and the Minister may be able to have about one thousand. This will mean that this project belongs to the people of this country, but to allow people to bring 75 per cent of outside capital here, is making Kenya a colonialist country, economically, because that is the reason why Britain colonized our country, in the first place, so they could have the lion's share. If the Minister, in a Republic, wishes to maintain this, then I will say nothing but I know that the majority of hon. Members may not agree with this and that this is not representative of the wishes of the majority of the people of our country.

[Mr. Anylen]

Therefore, I wish to oppose this thing very much and I ask the Minister to study it alone. We shall oppose this otherwise.

Mr. Komora: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think I have any more useful remarks to make on this Bill, but I have two points which I would like the Minister to explain clearly to us. One point is the Minister to explain clearly to us. One point is section 13 of this Bill which is amending section 134 (7) of the Principal Act. This subsection 7 of the Bill, "Where the Minister authorizes the compulsory acquisition of any land by a licensee for the purposes of a generating station, substation or switch station, such authority shall constitute—(a) an acknowledgement that the Government is satisfied, in terms of section 40 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1824, of India." The reason why the Minister should quote this Act of India I do not know, perhaps it may be that this country does not have an Act to acquire land compulsorily. I believe we have passed this kind of Bill. My hon. colleague here, Mr. Osogo, says that I am ignorant, Yes. Therefore I need explanation from the Minister.

The second point is this, Sir. The Minister has stated very clearly that any land which will be acquired compulsorily will be compensated for by the Government, but he has not stated the kind of compensation that will be paid to the land owner, whether it will be in cash or in kind. In this connection, I was thinking that the Tana River land is undeveloped, and at this stage the

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Government may seek to get the benefit from paying very little money to the landowner. When the land is developed someone who wishes to buy the land would pay a lot of money. Therefore I here suggest that if possible any land which is proposed to be used for this scheme and which the Government would wish to acquire compulsorily should be paid in kind. Such as in terms of exchanging. The Government, say, takes one million acres of land so they pay in compensation to the landowner—the county council or a person who owns the land—one million acres of land. This, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is possible in Tana River because most of the land is Crown land which has now reverted to Kenya Government land. I do not think that in this connection the Minister will have any difficulty, or the company in question will have any difficulty in exchanging this procedure. It is a matter of taking compulsorily one million acres of land and giving the land owner one million acres back. There will not be any more problems after that, bar. That is all.

Another point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, which I disagree with is the remarks as made by the Member for Majoge-Bassi, Mr. Z. M. Anyieni, on the establishment of this scheme. He suggests that the Government should have 100 per cent ownership. I think my friend fails to understand that the land is there. We have the land all right. We may pass Bills of this kind and acquire land, even if the land does not belong to the Government. If we pass the Bill we shall have land. That fact is there. The second point which is required for this purpose, in this connection, is skill or proficiency.

I do not think we have the people who have the efficiency to work on a very big scheme like this. I do not think that the Government in the present position will be able to pay so much money to the technicians who will be working on the scheme. Therefore, it is advisable for the Government to allow this scheme to be established and have a quarter of the shares at this initial stage and later on resort to nationalize it. If we think of owning the scheme right now, it is possible, Yes. Then, do we have the necessary capital to establish this scheme? Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my hon. colleague has asked the Minister to state whether the House fails to secure loans from overseas. On this fact, I cannot say much, but I do not think that the Government will be so stupid and not ask for a loan from overseas and let such very valuable business be stopped and therefore lose the money which could be gained by the Government.

I do not wish to speak much for the Government, Mr. Deputy Speaker, as I am not in a position to know the exact agreement which requires the establishment of this scheme. I hope the Minister will give us full details on all the remarks we have made, so that we understand and can be in a position to allow the Bill to be passed or rejected.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, while I welcome this move of the Seven Forks Hydro-electric Scheme, a scheme on which I myself worked on for about three years to try and get it in operation, I want to make some definite observations. I think, Sir, if our Government is very sincere, then the policy which ought to be pursued by our Government is that which will eventually make Kenya an independent socialist African state. We should move in that direction. For instance, Sir, the present East African Power and Lighting Company. The Kenya Government,

(Mr. Mbogob)

Mr. Speaker, the Minister calls this Bill and 1884 Act. The scheme is to be set up at Seven Forks. However, I feel that this Bill is so old that I think there should be another Act to replace it today. I know this Bill is already contained in the Constitution but another Bill, a new one, should be drafted to replace this old Bill which was instituted during the days of the Imperialist Government. That was done before we even thought we would ever have our own Government and the Bill now definitely needs replacement.

I do not have much more to say and I would support the Minister if the compensation to be given to the people is reasonable.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have no quarrel with this Bill and I only rise to seek a little information from the Minister.

This scheme, the Seven Forks Scheme, affects a large part of my constituency and I would like to know, when the Minister did explain that the people whose land will be affected by this scheme will be compensated, exactly what he meant. I do not know whether this compensation will be paid to the people who have title deeds on their land or it will be paid to the people whose small holdings, where they live and where they have built their houses, will be affected by this scheme, regardless of whether or not they have title deeds. This is a very important point because a large part of the area has no land consolidation, and consequently people have no title deeds. So, the Minister should make this point very clear. We want to know whether those people whose land is confiscated, whether they have title deeds or not, will be affected by this scheme and whether they will be paid compensation.

I very much welcome the Bill because we want our own independent power plant whereby Kenya will be able to move forward.

With these few words I support the Bill.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also do not have much to say because this Bill is very straightforward. I think it is necessary that I agree with the Minister in toto, but I have two points to make.

One is this. Since the electricity plan the Minister has in mind is to operate in the Eastern part of Kenya, probably including the Central part of Kenya, one thing which is important when we talk about development in Kenya is that we have to consider all parts of Kenya. Here we already have a supply from Uganda and this supply is made to some parts of Kenya. If this new plant is established I would suggest that in Western Kenya that should receive the supply from Uganda so that nearly all the villages in Kenya will have electricity.

The other point is in connexion with the complications which I have always experienced from dealing with Government or the Power and Lighting. From time to time people have made requests and have not been actually refused but are told there is not a big enough demand to warrant the supply of electricity, like in Kakamega. These people in authority did not refuse the supply of electricity but the point was whether the people would be compensated or not. When the people heard that the electricity line was to pass through their shambas that was their main worry. The District Commissioner held Barazas with them, tried to assure the people that whether they liked it or not that was the decision of the Government and the electricity line was going to pass through the shambas. This caused the people to come and say that if outsiders entered their shambas they would be dealt with severely, the people would bring their pangas and attack them. Sir, these were some of the things which confused the people.

The other question was with regard to money, whether these people were to receive compensation and how long it would take before this compensation money was to be in their hands. The people wanted money immediately. They believed that if their land was taken on a certain day they had to receive the compensation on that very day. These were some of the conditions which was the cause of many difficulties in Kakamega.

I would like now to deal with another question. It is suggested that Tana River is the place where this scheme is to be set up and the Kenya Government has placed very strong emphasis on this big plan which is to be established at Seven Forks. We are being asked by the Minister to pass this Bill but we should not be told tomorrow when we ask for development in other areas that we should approach the Minister for Agriculture, or the Minister for Industry, and then in their turn these people tell us, "Sorry, we cannot do anything in your area because there is no electricity supply there." Here we are giving approval for the new scheme to be started in a certain area and in a way this is an approval so that we are sure that nothing in the future stands in the way of development. That is why I say that it is a straightforward Bill, that we can go out to the and tell the people that we have to co-ordinate with the Government if we want development. We must give our land when it is asked for and in its turn Government will give the people compensation.

With these few words, Sir, I beg to support the Bill.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are a few things that I would like to mention to the Minister concerned to take into account.

First of all I would like to repeat certain things that have already been said but this will only help to make the position clearer.

The Minister has said that the owners of the land will be given fair compensation. I have an example in my area where Government took over land to build shops and did not pay the owner of the plot anything. When the owner of the plot wanted to have another piece of land to build a shop in that place he was asked to pay Sh. 1,500 for that plot. Sometimes Government will pay so little.

We would like the Minister to protect those people on whose land this scheme is going to be set up so that they will be able to say that from this year to another that they, the owners of the land, will receive so much. As progress goes on then these people should be in a position to get more and more money. It is unfair for Government to take over land and as I can see here Government is going to have 25 per cent of all the shares. This is what the Minister has said. He has explained that the partners will hold equal shares which means that Government will have only a 25 per cent share in this project. It is not fair for the Government to take over land in this manner, 75 per cent of which will be owned by some other people who come from overseas. The land on which the project is to be established you will find that the owners are so poor that in many cases they cannot even send their children to school. This looks as if Government actually robbed these people. So, I hope that what the Minister means by "fair compensation" is that sufficient compensation will be paid to these people. I think the Minister, as the Member for Yatta has just mentioned, should look after the interests of the people. The Member for Yatta should get in touch with the Minister on behalf of these people. They should get a lawyer and negotiate fair rights for these people. This is a project which is going to bring a lot of money.

There is yet another point and that is in connexion with the question—the Minister has not yet been able to tell us how much electricity will be given out from this scheme. He has not told us where this electricity is going, which places will receive it from, say, Kisii, Meru, up to Kisumu, up to Undani, and so on. I think this is a matter of interest to the Members of this House because I think we ought to know all the details in order to enable us to tell the people that we have just passed a Bill and very soon certain areas will be having electricity. I think the Minister ought to have clarified that point.

The Government is going to spend a lot of money and through Government initiative some people from overseas are going to spend money on this project. We would like to know the conditions, the circumstances which were taken into account before Government decided to set up this scheme. I do realize that such a project will not be able to cover all areas of Kenya but Government should be able to indicate why Government preferred to take the action it did. We would like to know whether this project could not have been set up elsewhere, whether it would not have been more productive to have electricity from some place and pass this on to other areas. We would like to know the terms and conditions the Government took into account in order to decide that this electricity plant was going to be set up in this particular area and not in any other place.

I have heard of hydro-electric schemes: for example in Uganda, in Ghana, in Egypt and I have heard that the Governments of the countries mentioned know that if you set up a hydro-electric plant you are going to get a lot of money from the masses. As such, most Governments have taken a step towards what many of the Ministers may not want to hear, but what they may be afraid of, and that is African socialism. In this particular respect the Government of this Parliament have tried to get a huge loan from somewhere to start up this hydro-electric scheme, and the profits from this scheme will be the money to pay back to the people from whom they borrowed the money. This is a sure method of getting the loan back. For example, it is surer than giving somebody a piece of land to cultivate. So, I would have thought that the Government should have land from our neighbours, Uganda, Egypt, where these people have big loans, long-term loans, thirty- or twenty-year loans, and this scheme could be developed in such a way that it will cater for the most part of the country.

Mr. Speaker, I think here I would like to say that our Government—I do not know why—seems to be scared of turning out projects by themselves. I do not know whether it is here that the project may flop and, as such, they have to have private enterprise, or it is the normal

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There has been no question of your integrity.

Several hon. Members: Sit down!

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you ought to sit down. Have you finished with that point, Mr. Kase?

Mr. Kase: I was wondering if there is any Standing Order that can make Members bring this particular amendment again during this Session.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, yes, Standing Orders are there and they can be amended by this House. Any hon. Member can move at any time in this House an amendment to the Standing Orders, including amendment to the amendment we have just made.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

EVICION OF SQUATTERS IN LAIKPIA

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Before proceeding to the next Order, I would like to refer to the matter that Mr. Kariuki wanted to raise on an adjournment. I did say we had fixed it provisionally for tomorrow evening. I now find that the Minister concerned is the Minister for Internal Security and Defence. As he is not here until next week, it will be impossible for him to deal with it tomorrow, and we will have to put that matter off, to be raised at the end of ordinary business next Tuesday, the 23rd February. We shall not be able to take it tomorrow.

I forgot to remind all hon. Members today, that as the close of ordinary business today there is a matter to be raised on the adjournment by Mr. Makokha concerning the President's and Ministers' cash gifts at public meetings for local projects.

BILL

Second Reading

THE ELECTRIC POWER (AMENDMENT) BILL

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Electric Power (Amendment) Bill, 1965 be read a Second Time.

Mr. Speaker, this is a very important Bill and Government attaches great importance to it. The intention of the Bill is to give the Government powers to be able to acquire land compulsorily for public use as far as electricity supply is concerned. It has been necessitated, Sir, by the fact that Government has a very, very gigantic project to supply electricity throughout Kenya by carrying out the Seven Forks electricity project in the Tana River area. In this area, Mr. Speaker, land will be needed for the construction of electricity stations; there will also be land which will be perhaps submerged by water when dams and reservoirs are built for the supply of water in order to generate electricity.

It is the desire of this House, Mr. Speaker, I am sure, to see that Kenya gets as much electricity as she needs, and in conformity with this policy the Government is inaugurating this Tana River scheme so that the supply of electricity can be sufficient to meet the needs of this country. Sir, the Government has drawn up a programme of industries and factories here and there, and without an adequate electricity supply it would be very difficult for these industries and these other projects to be able to go very far unless we have sufficient electricity.

Mr. Speaker, under the present Constitution, in section 209, there is a clause which empowers the Government to acquire land for public purposes, but this has not been every effective in so far as this particular project, or rather, electricity supply, is concerned. We want to acquire land which perhaps may be owned by private people; we want to acquire land which may be owned by other public bodies such as county councils and so on. Under the present laws, there is an Act called the Kenya Land Acquisition Act of 1894, which is normally applied to Kenya when any land needed for public purposes is to be acquired. This is merely a copy of an Act which was drawn up in India some time ago, and which has been applied in Kenya for this purpose of acquiring land from private and also public title owners.

Mr. Speaker, I do not need to say very much in this introduction as the objects of the Bill have been summarized on page 4 of the Bill. Members who have had the opportunity to read through this will understand the aims and objects of the Bill. The passing of this Bill is so important that it has to go through if we are to be able to expedite the work which we are doing in the Tana River area to start on this big electricity supply project. Unless the Bill is passed, it will be very difficult for the Tana River Development Company, which is a company to run this electricity supply project, to be able to go ahead as fast as Government would like it to do. The Government acquires land on behalf of this company.

Perhaps I may draw the attention of the Members to the fact that this company will be operated by four equal partners: the Kenya Government, the East African Power and Lighting Company, the Power Securities Limited and the Commonwealth Development Corporation. I am not going to dwell on the nature of the agreement but the whole thing is that after paying the loan, which will be used to build this large project, after paying the loan the entire project of electricity supply will be owned by the Central Government one hundred per cent.

[The Minister for Works, Communications and Power]

Sir, the Bill here says that the Minister will have powers to authorize a licensee to be able to acquire such land, and when the Government does authorize a licensee to acquire such land, the Government will normally give notice; this notice will take some three years before it is actually effected. This is to give the owner of the land ample opportunity to be able to prepare himself and to quit the area. The Government will make sure, according to another section of the Constitution, that this man is paid due compensation on his piece of land, because, as Members will know, the Constitution of Kenya provides that there will be no appropriation of property unless it is well compensated.

Mr. Speaker, during that period of three years, it is intended that the person owing that piece of land should not further develop that piece of land while he has had notice; because that will mean perhaps that by developing that land more, the price of it may be inflated, and the compensation therefore exaggerated to such an extent as to make the work of the company even more difficult to carry out.

Mr. Speaker, we have had experiences elsewhere in the country where it was difficult even to have electricity lines passing over pieces of land. I do not want to quote instances, but hon. Members here will know where we have had these difficulties; in Kakamega and so on we have had difficulties of this kind. Therefore, in order to make the Government and also the Power Company able to go ahead with the supply of electricity we thought it would be better to bring this Bill and better to have these amendments to the Electricity Act so that throughout Kenya the Government and this Power Company would find it easy to go ahead with the planning of electricity supply which means so much to all of us.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe I have said all I should say at this juncture, and I would therefore appeal to hon. Members to see to it that this Bill goes through. There is nothing controversial, Mr. Speaker. This Bill is straightforward and there are only a few amendments here and there.

Sir, compulsory acquisition of land is provided for in the Constitution and we are merely taking it here as a matter of formality in order to acquaint Members with what is happening. Everything that we are talking about in the Bill is already provided for in the Constitution.

As I have already said there is no worry about land because landowners are going to be compensated properly.

I would like to disclose something here. We are going to begin this giant scheme on the 5th March and the President has very kindly agreed to mark the opening ceremony on the day I have just mentioned. So, this Bill is extremely urgent and important.

Mr. Speaker, with these few words, I beg to move.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, I do not have very much to say about this Bill but when the Minister was speaking about this Bill I expected him to tell this House how much money he refers to when he talks about compensation. The reason why I want to know that is because many times the Government has referred to something as "reasonable" and when it comes to valuation of land you find it has been valued at the lowest possible price.

The second point, Sir, which the hon. Minister did not make was to acquaint us with the consequences after the acquisition of this land. Now, this scheme is being operated by four partners and the Minister says that these are four equal partners. Now, if this land is acquired and this scheme is taken up by the four partners then we should like to know whether these partners will continue operating on this land by right or whether the companies have also the right with regard to this land which will be confiscated from the owners who will be compensated by the Government or the companies. So, Sir, I would like to know from the Minister as to whether the costs of the compensation will be borne by the Government and by the companies equally. Also, in the case of this scheme being taken over by the Government will the companies who have had a share in the land claim that this was their land and hence must have a share of the profits made. If that were the case then it would be a failure on the part of Government to invite people to come and buy land which the owners did not really want to sell.

[Mr. Ngala-Abok]

House has been adjourned because there is no quorum. In fact it is plain that the Government learned that that day is not properly attended, and they brought it deliberately to try and make the Members not air their Motions to the satisfaction of the country. I do not see any other reason why some one has advanced to support the case whereby the Private Members' Motion is to be shifted to Friday. As I have already said and I do not want to repeat, myself on Fridays, people come here early in the morning and many people come late, many times adjournment Motions have been raised where people have asked for a Minister to be dismissed and so on and so forth and if we went over the HASSANO for last year! then you would find that on Fridays, Parliament has had to either to be adjourned to Government Motions have either been delayed and that Parliament takes about two hours, one hour or so being spent on the Motion to adjourn the House. In fact I really believe that the Government should not try to undermine the Private Members' Motion. In a way that it is said to be Friday and yet as usual and as normal as we know that the Ministers never attend this Parliament properly. Also on Fridays Members want to go to their constituencies. They have to go to the towns to buy some materials to take home, or collect their cars from a garage and so it is a very inconvenient day for Members and I would not like to say that the intention is to undermine the Private Members' Motions, but arising from the Motion that the House has lost and coming to this particular amendment, it is almost obvious that there is something wrong somewhere. Somebody thinks that Members, the Back-benchers or the ordinary Members who are not Ministers, should just either not speak in this House or should not bring any Motion to this House or should not have any voice whatsoever. Because somebody says that when you see clouds you know that rain is coming. In fact, one of the hon. Members said that and it is what we have seen here.

I find it surprising, Mr. Speaker, that Friday—when Parliament is, I should say, neglected and this is not a question of Ministers alone, but even Members of Parliament never come to attend debates on Fridays here properly—I find that there is no reason why Private Members' Motions should be changed to Friday and I utterly reject this particular amendment. I request the Vice-President to withdraw this Motion and let the position remain as before.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do you want to move an amendment to the Motion? If so, you should put it in writing.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Could I draft it and then rise up to move it?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Then someone else will have to move it.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Yes, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very straightforward Motion and as it is brought with some other amendments it has become necessary that we who oppose the alterations of Private Members' Day from Thursday to Friday have to amend that.

I want to say one thing; that since the Government has experienced that possibly they bring most of the Bills in this House and that also we have discussed how Government is trying to trick us, a very controversial Bill is often brought here on a Friday. We are warned that unless we are careful some of the very dangerous Bills will be brought that day because Government has found that we do not sit in this House. For that matter, the Minister could easily walk out with it, and I do not think that what the Vice-President—or say, the Government said—that there is no attendance on Fridays will continue. Because of this, Sir, Members' Day is a very important day and this is very important for the Government as a whole, and is where you can feel the full attendance of Government Front-benchers because you will get every detail, every Member who moves a Motion here has material, possibly which affects his constituency, or province, for that matter, and this has to be on a proper day when a Member has settled in Nairobi. But, not to come on the day on which he is worried about what to do, how to get his transport to go back home. Because of this I do not see any reason why it should be necessary to make this alteration, since we are used to Thursdays and we have been doing very well, but if Government wants to take an opportunity it still can happen because of what you have seen in the past here. Most of the Members, when they are not interested in any Bill, they say that this is an August Bill, do not even sit down to wait, even on a Tuesday or a Wednesday. Even if this were put on a Thursday, that would not make a Member sit here just because he is waiting for a straightforward Bill, to see whether it will go through. Now, because of this, Sir, I beg to oppose that little suggested amendment.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, I just rise to point out one small thing which I have just noticed and that is in Standing Order No.

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

62. It is said in the Sessional Paper that the word "President" should be substituted for the words "Her Majesty" and I was wondering if the Vice-President has noticed that the word "the" has been omitted, and if he has noticed that. I think that it will not be complete without that word there "President" and I am wondering if this amendment could be put there to make it sensible. With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think that we can correct that clerical error without formal amendment. Is there anyone prepared to move Mr. Ngala-Abok's amendment?

Mr. Omweri: I have not written it out yet, Mr. Speaker. I was just going to.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Too late.

Hon. Members must adhere to our Standing Orders. Our Standing Orders quite explicitly require any proposed amendment to be put into writing and to be handed to the Speaker beforehand. I am not prepared to and I am sure the House does not want me to, dispense with Standing Orders. We have not got an amendment yet in writing. If no one else wishes to speak in this debate, I shall now call the Mover to reply.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thank the hon. Members who have spoken on this and I am glad that they have only raised one point and that is Fridays for Thursdays. The reasons given by the Members who have spoken very strongly on this only help to strengthen my own conviction that we should retain Friday for Members' Motions. We wanted this because normally these things have to be tried out until you find a solution which is most welcome to everybody. We now have it on Thursday, at one time it was on a Tuesday, and at one time you might find that it was on a Wednesday, but this time we feel that the Private Members' Motions, if the Members themselves agree to become really responsible and they become keen to see what is passed in this House, if it is on Friday, then there is no reason. I do not think that the reason advanced by the hon. Member for Home Bay would work. By saying that we should give the Members the day to go to the shops to purchase some things, that they should be excused from attending the House in order to purchase their things. This means that I tend to agree with the hon. Member from Lurambi when he says that we may give the Ministers the chance to discuss important Bills, which also need the Members' opinion, and normally they do not attend. If they knew that they were going to move a very important Motion on Friday, I feel sure that nearly all Members would be here and attend to it. Let me request the House that for the time being let us try Friday for Members' Private Motions and let Thursday be for other business, and let us see how that will be according to the arrangement which is made.

Since the other amendments are consequential, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is one clerical error in the Sessional Paper with reference to the Standing Order 62. The word "the" should be inserted before the word "President".

(Question put and agreed to)

POINT OF ORDER—RULING

AMENDMENTS TO MOTIONS

Mr. Kasir: Although the Motion has gone through Sir, I would like to say something to clarify this, Sir, because it is the habit of some of the Members in this House that they actually oppose some Motions and they sort of put Members in a very difficult position, because we thought that we would all like to make an amendment to this particular section of the Motion and they put us in a very difficult position because we had no time to put it in writing to give to you because we thought he was doing it. This is not the first time that this Member has behaved with a Motion in this manner. I think quite a lot of Motions or some Motions in the past have been treated in this manner. I am just seeking your ruling, Sir, on this point.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think hon. Members can complain of what happened on this occasion. Mr. Ngala-Abok obviously had this amendment in mind on the spur of the moment, because he did not come properly prepared beforehand with the amendment in writing. That is his concern. If other hon. Members were equally unprepared and had not thought of this amendment until they heard Mr. Ngala-Abok's speech, well, I think they can blame themselves. If hon. Members had really considered this Motion before it was moved—and there was time for that—and took this amendment seriously, one of them surely could have produced the very few words in writing that were required in order to move the amendment when the matter came on for the debate.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for a Member to question the integrity of another Member?

[The Vice-President]

The remote Eastern Region is complaining that they have not been considered. I can only tell you that we were not considering it according to the regions. If people were considering the regions it would not be only the North-Eastern Region which would be complaining. We understand that some people must have reasons to complain, but it was not only me who delayed the North-Eastern Region from coming to Parliament, but it was they themselves who actually decided for a long time not to come to Parliament. But, we must all remember that normally when we are considering the Sessional Committee, it is a Committee which should actually contain some of the senior members who hold key positions in the Government. This has been the practice for a long time. I can also tell you that we have made very little change in the former Sessional Committee. We have not made changes, but have more or less retained what we had before.

Now, when we come to the question of the Government being in the majority, I can tell you that we have here both Ministers and Assistant Ministers. When we take the other Members, it is natural that they should be fewer in number. As you know, either the Government should rule the country or you should ask the Government to resign.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Odinga, you must address the Chair.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

You have put the Government in this position of responsibility, and when you give them this responsibility, you must also give them the authority to run the affairs of the country. You cannot ask them to run the Government without allowing them latitude to conduct their affairs. You have to give them the chance, and you will find that in the former Sessional Committee, the Government was in the majority, but here we have given consideration, and if a Member cannot be entrusted to look after the affairs of this House, then this matter should be considered.

This is a most important Motion in the Sessional Committee, and it will have to be given priority, and this is normally how the business is done.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would mention that there are many ways in which we can waste a lot of time. I thought this was a simple matter where we should not waste a lot of our energy because we have so many important things. You claim that we do not normally call the House every now and then, now we have arranged for the House to be called throughout the year, that is for a fortnight, then another fortnight. If there is no business, we can stop there and then and wait for the next sitting. Are we going to get on with the business when we waste a lot of time on such trivial matters like this? In this way, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I requested the Members to suggest some ideas or suggestions for this committee which they did. Some of them are based on other ideas and they feel very strongly about them. I have noted them down and I am sure that next time when we are actually considering the changes in this Sessional Committee, we will consider those suggestions. But for the present moment those suggestions are satisfied that the arrangements as they are now are satisfactory for the time being. It is something which is normally looked into from time to time and as such I request the House to please let this Sessional Committee go on as already composed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg the House to move this Motion.

(Question put and agreed to)

DIVISION

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, I want to ask for a Division.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. Standing Orders provide that if any hon. Member requires a Division and the Speaker has any doubts as to the outcome of the Division, there shall be a Division. I am not at all sure of the strength of the Ayes and Noes, and we shall therefore have a Division. Ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

(The House divided)

(Question negatived by 44 votes to 31)

AYES: Messrs. Achieng-Oneko, Angaine, Anyient, Ayodo, Bala, Gachago, Godana G., Godia, Jamal, Kali, Kariuki J. M., Kibaki, Kubaj, Lorema, Mati, Mboya, Murgor, Mutiso, Mwa-Nyumba, Ngala-Abok, Nyamwaya, Odera-Jowi, Odinga, Oculo-Odongo, Oloitiptip, Onamu, Oculo-Nyalick, Osogo, Otiende, Pinto and Waiyaki.

Tellers for the Ayes: Messrs. Waiyaki and Gichoya.

NOES: Messrs. Agar, Babu, Baraza, Chirchir, Gatuguta, Gichoya, Ihifral, Jahazi, Kamau, Kase, Kerre, Khalif, Khasakhala, Kiamba, Kibuga, Kioko, Kiprotich, Komora, Maisori-Tumbo, Makokha, Malu, Masinde, Mbat, Mbogoh, Mukoma, Muliro, Muruli, Mwalwa, Mwangandi, Mwatama, Ndile, Nyaga, Obok, Odera-Sar, Oduya, Okwanyo, Omar, Omweri, Rurumban, Seroney, Shikuku, Sol, Theuri and Bji.

Tellers for the Noes: Messrs. Onamu and Kerich.

MOTION

SESSIONAL PAPER NO. 8 OF 1965:

AMENDMENTS TO STANDING ORDERS

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:

THAT this House makes the amendments to the Standing Orders of the House of Representatives set out in Sessional Paper No. 8 of 1965.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, most of these amendments are merely consequential amendments which follow the achievement of the Republican Status of Kenya. You will find that there are certain words which do not actually conform with the present things, and we have actually either to delete or where necessary add. If you look at Standing Order No. 2, there will be an amendment of the definition of Ministers to read as follows. This is where we have a slightly larger change. Where we put Minister, it includes the President, the Vice-President and the Ministers, the Attorney-General, Assistant Ministers and any person who holds any such office.

The amendments which follow are only that we change "the Governor". Where we had Governor, now the Governor is not necessary so we substitute the President. You will find also in Standing Order No. 6 (22) that amendments follow similarly, in the same order.

Now when you come to Standing Order 23, it is where we have another change from the past, because we normally hold the Private Members' Motion on Thursday afternoon and this time it is considered that the Private Members' Motions should be on Friday morning. The idea behind this is that normally on Friday morning we get so many Members running away without attending the meeting, and as a result many of our meetings have to be adjourned because of lack of quorum. We know that if we make it Members' Day and they know that it is their business, then they will have to stay in to attend to their business on that day.

Now Standing Order 62 is also just to substitute "President" for "Her Majesty", and I doubt as to whether there is any big change in the following one, because they are more or less the ones which are consequential and as such I should not go reading them one by one. You will find that most of them are only those ones which are necessary from, let's say like the "Royal Family", "Governor", to change to the appropriate words in our Republic. I do not think that there are many other amendments which need my comment, as I think that hon. Members will see that most of them are those which do not need any explanation. They are self-explanatory. They are only substitution of the appropriate words.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I should like to beg to move.

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Otiende) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ngata-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to support the amendments to the extent that the amendment to Standing Order 23 which is to substitute the word "Friday" for "Thursday" should be rejected. I would like to reject that one because Members have complained and the Motion which the House has just lost, has been lost because Members complained that they noticed that the 'Back-benchers' views or the Members whose Motions are called Private Members' Motions will be debated on Friday, will not be given enough attention and it is these Motions that we have talked about just a few minutes ago, that these Motions should come to this House and as a result of that the Motion has been lost. We would not like to see a similar situation where the Government wants the Private Members' Day to be Friday.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

In fact there has been, from time to time, absence of Ministers in this House and many times this House has been adjourned because of lack of a quorum and we would like to see a situation where a Member wants to express himself, wants to express the views of his electors and he, has an important Motion, to speak to the House and to speak to the country and yet you find that the

91 Motion—

[Mr. Ngala] Motion back to the Sessional Committee in order to obtain a wider opinion of the Back-benchers.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Anyieni—

Mr. Khalif Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, with due respect, is it in order for Mr. Speaker to overlook Members from a particular area who have been deliberately excluded from this Committee and not give them an opportunity to speak?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is in order for the Speaker to decide who should speak next.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, although my name appears on this list of the proposed names for the Sessional Committee I should like to say that nobody should try to identify himself with a group just because he belongs to that group. I think, for example, it is not all right for me to stand up and say that this thing is very fair just because my name appears on this list.

What is important, Sir, is that several times we have advised Government that if Government recognizes the supremacy of this Parliament, then Government, in order not to waste time of this House and thereby the taxpayers' money, should be able to get in touch with the Parliamentary Group outside this House so that when such a thing is proposed divergent views from the Members of Parliament are sought before such a thing is put before us. If this is done, Sir, I do not think we would be wasting time by doing such things. I am saying this generally because this is not the first time such a thing has happened, that the Members of Parliament may be unable to accept Motions.

I would also like to warn Government that Government must not take it that because prior to this occasion, when most of the Members were ignorant of the procedure of this Parliament, they passed things which were detrimental to this country. To date, we have been in Parliament for the last one-and-a-half years and we will not continue to support things that are not completely sure of, which we do not believe are right for the country.

Therefore, I would very strongly like to support the hon. Members who have already spoken.

However, I would like to make a small comment on the absence of any Members from the North-Eastern Region on this Committee. Mr. Speaker, Government, or whoever is concerned, should not think that there is no Member among them fit to be a Minister, Assistant Minister or a representative on this Sessional Committee. Government should be fair. My proposal is that Government should take into account everybody from this Parliament, there should be a proportionate election. We have about 40 Assistant Ministers and Ministers and the composition of the House is about 130 Members. So I think there should be proportionate representation to include Ministers and Back-benchers. Assistant Ministers are also Ministers in a way and they are not in a different category.

The other point is this. I do not want to impute any improper motive but with substantiation I can say that there are a lot of Motions which have been introduced in this House, or of which Members have given notice. For example, Sir, I gave notice of a Motion in connexion with the restriction of the buying of land. Since I gave notice of this Motion about a year ago nothing has been done about it. The Sessional Committee has not seen fit to bring this Motion to the House. While they are waiting to bring the Motion forward the capitalists who are making fortunes out of becoming Members of Parliament are continuing to buy more and more land so that by the time my Motion comes to Parliament there will be no further land to purchase. So, I would like to say that our Vice-President who has been given the responsibility of looking after the Parliament—I would like to advise him here—should not also make the mistakes many people who were given mandate made. In dealing with the Parliament the Vice-President should try as much as possible to consult as many divergent views of the Members of Parliament as he can and in so doing he will be able to run Parliament in accordance with the wishes of the majority of the people in this country.

Mr. Speaker, before I comment on what Mr. Ngala has said I would like to say that I understand that there are some Members who were nominated to the Sessional Committee and during the course of the past one-and-a-half years many of them have never attended even one meeting. Some of them have never attended more than three or four meetings. If this is true then such Members should be dealt with. For this reason, I would like the Vice-President to incorporate in his Motion that if a Member ceases to attend the meetings on three or four consecutive occasions then that Member should be withdrawn from the Committee and another Member should be proposed to take his place. There is no point nominating Members who do not attend the meetings, who do not carry the burden of representing the views which they were elected to represent.

Mr. Speaker, the reason why the Members are saying that there should be fair distribution is because different Members from different areas

93 Motion—

[Mr. Anyieni] bring Motions which affect particular areas. If you have a majority of the Members of the Sessional Committee from one area then, for example, Motions which come from the Members representing the North-Eastern Region will be very important to a Member from Nairobi. It is not important to him.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must keep to the subject of the Motion, Mr. Anyieni.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will abide by your ruling.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is another thing which was mentioned by one Member, that probably Ngala should not be in this Committee. I do not agree with this, because if Ngala is able to attend this meeting—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must refer to him as hon. Member.

Mr. Anyieni: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker. If the hon. Mr. Ngala, Chairman of the Maize Marketing Board, Chairman of the Coast Regional Assembly, does not have the time to come to this, what I have already said will take care of him, because after a few times, he will be removed and somebody else will be brought to represent his place on that Sessional Committee.

The other thing I would like to mention is the question of birds of the same feather. I do not see why the hon. Member should identify every other Member to belong to the same feather except himself. It is known in this House, Mr. Speaker, that people like Kaggia, if I may not quote my name, people like Ndile—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Honourable, please.

Mr. Anyieni: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, we have adjourned for so long, that I have forgotten.

Mr. Speaker: I would like to say that the hon. Member for Kilifi was not correct in trying to say that every other person should be used by the Minister, except himself. I think this is wrong, and if that is not what the hon. Member meant, and then the hon. Member should have said that we have different groups, we have Ministers separate, and we have Back-benchers. He should be able to tell us what kind of group he belongs to.

Mr. Ngala: On a point of information, Mr. Speaker, I think the hon. Member misunderstood. The old Sessional Committee consisted mainly of two groups. The first was the Kanu group and the second group was of ordinary Members, people who are different from the Ministers, but also a different group to Members who have belonged to the party in power.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, these were hon. Members who refused. I did not understand what the hon. Member meant by birds of a feather. When he speaks of the same opinion, I think in this House, there is a time when somebody will say that the hon. Ngala and the hon. Anyieni have been birds of the same feather. There was a time when we were able to say this, so I do not understand what the hon. Member says, and I wish to say very strongly that if the hon. Member cannot identify himself with any of the hon. Members, even hon. Shikuku, hon. Pandya, or hon. ole Tipsi, then I must say that the hon. Member for Kilifi is very wrong.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have the pleasure to listen to so many constructive suggestions, that some of them seem to be out of parliamentary consideration, because I say that what I should clear from the minds of the House is that when we are considering these appointments there is no question of considering an individual as an individual, or considering an individual as relatives of any power. The Sessional Committee is the chief committee which arranges the order of business for the House, and as such, those who are appointed there are appointed because of their integrity as a Member of this House, and they are expected to be hon. Members, and they are expected to discharge their duties for national causes, but not for their local confined interests. Therefore, when you accuse these Members who are here that they are inadequate, some of you are just accusing yourselves who are elected here, and who are here in this Committee. You are only disqualifying yourselves that you cannot serve the national cause.

Let me put it to you.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Please address the Chair.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga): An hon. Member of this House, the Member for Bunyori, who accused the actions which were done in the past Sessional Committee, was also on that Committee, which means he is accusing himself. He knew the weaknesses which he had and he mentioned them, but he should have mentioned nothing at all.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to tell the House that it seems as if many Members speak with the intention of opposing the Government, and make things difficult for the Government which we have. We must only be able to say what we feel it right and proper to set up this new Committee. When the hon. Members mentioned that probably

[Mr. Gheboya]

Committee, as to whether these people should be there or should not be there, as to whether Mr. X or Mr. Y should or should not be there.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I use the privilege of this House in requesting the Vice-President of our Republic to reconsider the whole thing. We have a place like the North-Eastern Province or North-Eastern Region; it has no representation here and these people truly have got problems and these problems have compelled their own people to send them on in that particular area. Mr. Speaker, Sir, these people have been neglected in the same manner as they were neglected during the distribution of portfolios.

Of course, the way the Cabinet is formed is at the discretion of the President and we do not actually quarrel with it, but we do express the feeling that when it is wrongly set up, we know it is wrongly set up, Sir.

Now I should say that the five Ministers who have been proposed should be there. Now these Ministers and Assistant Ministers constitute over 54 per cent of the official side; by our calculation. It means: where are we then? How can we get our views across to this House? I can remember, Sir, that at one time I wanted to propose a very vital Motion which is valid up to this moment. But that Motion was just dragged, dragged, dragged on; and I understand that it is apparently coming up tomorrow. But because the Ministers had a strong hand in the Sessional Committee, instead of this Motion taking effect before the country achieved a republican status, it is now coming in when we have already set up machinery for the Republic, and perhaps I will request the amendment of that Motion so that it conforms with the changed circumstances.

Now why should we labour so much to get our own things across? I assure, Sir, very correctly, that a Member of the National Assembly, in the eyes of the public, is equal to a Minister since we are all constituency Members; although a Minister enjoys certain privileges in terms of an income, an office, certain facilities. Of course, a Minister should get something to help him look like a Minister. However—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you are getting away from the point now, aren't you?

Mr. Gheboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I want to say is this. We need very strong representation, the ordinary Back Bench Members, on the Committee, and we do not want to have the Ministerial group simply in the majority. Ministers and Assistant Ministers should be in the minority.

The other thing I would suggest to the Vice-President through you, Sir, is this. So long as we have Parliamentary Committees, why on earth should a Junior Minister be on the Sessional Committee to represent his Ministry when the Minister is not on it? When I look through this I see that in the place where there is no Minister for a particular Ministry, there is a Junior Minister or an Assistant Minister. When I look at it, I do not see the hon. Bruce McKenzie, but I see his deputy or the duplicate Minister, that is the hon. J. C. N. Oogoo. It is understood, Sir, that when a Minister is not present, he says to another Minister—and it has been said here, Sir—"Go and represent my interests." So those Ministers whose places have not been filled either by their Junior Ministers or by themselves, have been represented by their colleagues, their fellow-Ministers.

In this respect, Sir, I would say very briefly that the Vice-President should accept the opinion of this House and amend the whole thing to suit the national spirit of Harambee.

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for allowing me to say a few words on this very important Motion. Sir, I do not want to allege that there is any motive behind this arrangement for selecting the Sessional Committee, but I want to draw the attention of the House to the fact that some people, like myself, have been in the House for over a year now, I myself have brought very interesting and important Motions here for which all my hon. friends here have cheered when I introduced them. But the Sessional Committee of the last Government, seemed to include some people who were not in favour of my Motion, probably they were opposed to the people who elected us, held all those Motions back.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the composition of this Committee, for the information of the House, is very surprising to me, because, for one thing, as I support the hon. Members who have spoken previously, I can say without prejudice that it has to a certain extent minimized the power and the ability of the Members of this House. What should have been done is that the party in power should realize that Government cannot rule without the power of the party and the Parliamentary Group should be the only body to elect and direct the people who should be chosen to represent the public of this country. If we rely only on the Ministers to appoint the Committee, the time will come, Mr. Speaker, Sir, automatically, when one day an hon. Member who is elected by his own people will be told by a Minister that he can sit on the Committee. That will be very ridiculous.

So, I would suggest that the task of appointing this Sessional Committee should be left entirely to the Parliamentary Group who will give directions and advice as to who should be placed to represent the party. Sir, our present Government is very human. When you see a crowd you must suspect that an outrage is about to take place.

We will not stand for anyone who tries to minimize the powers and dignity of the Parliament. We must know that any person who is nominated has a chance because he has been elected by his own people. I cannot support the idea that members of the Sessional Committee should be elected by a certain group.

Therefore, without labouring this point very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would totally oppose this Motion and suggest that it should be brought to the Parliamentary Group who will decide who will be elected to represent them in the Sessional Committee.

Sir, I oppose the Motion.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, one hon. Member has decided that it is time I should be got rid of and I would like in turn to suggest that some other people should be got rid of.

First, I think there is quite a lot of sense in what some hon. Members have said with regard to the composition of the Sessional Committee. I take it that the Vice-President, as Chairman, is the right person to chair the Sessional Committee but I doubt, Sir, whether there has been a real consideration on the extra composition of the Committee. I think it is very important that the geographical representation of the whole country should have been taken into account, particularly as a one-party system exists. We need views from different parts of this country to be reflected in the Sessional Committee representation and I hope that such views will be passed on to this House. As it is, it has already been indicated that one area is concentrated upon—one or two—and the other areas are completely neglected. I think that the Vice-President should have taken into account the need for having geographical representations in the composition of the Committee. This is seriously lacking and I think some aspects of importance to the nation from different areas, will probably not be brought forward to the Sessional Committee.

Now, a second point which I think should have been considered is the question of opinion. Now, if I look through the composition, there are two opinions to be represented in the Committee. The Government opinion is in the form of a huge number of Ministers, and also Members who have the same opinion. Now, I think it is wrong to bring the selection of the Sessional Committee with people of similar opinions. The Sessional Committee should have varied opinions, and those who are included in it can express different opinions. I think, having realized that some Members are concerned about my comment, I think I should mention what I mean. I mean that six or seven members of the Cabinet have nothing to say but the same language according to the Government policy. Therefore, it does not matter how many you have on the Committee, they express the same opinion, and it is one similar opinion, and I do not think it will differ from their own Government policy. Therefore, the Vice-President is just sufficient to represent the whole group of Ministers.

Mr. Speaker, the second opinion I made is that here we have Members who have—I do not think I should mention the names of the particular Members, but anybody who knows the House can see that some names mentioned here are birds of the same feather. As birds of the same feather, they should not be put together in the same Committee in such big numbers. Mr. Speaker, Sir, therefore the opinion has not been considered carefully in my view.

The other point, Sir, is that the party influence should be represented in the Committee. So far the countryside thinks that the Government, the Cabinet wants to hold this country with the civil servants brushing aside the Parliament. This is the feeling of the country. The Ministers plan to assist the Government. This is a feeling which has much to do with the Sessional Committee. In the Sessional Committee here, the percentage of the Government people, the Cabinet people who are very much governed by the collective responsibility, is very difficult to define in the present Cabinet. I think there should be a very realistic representation of Members of Parliament, of the Back-benchers, so that in the Sessional Committee they can put forward their views, to be able to criticize the Government, and put their points of view strongly in the Sessional Committee which governs what should come to this House. I think, instead of the Ministers putting themselves in great numbers on the Sessional Committee to block the views of the Back-benchers, I think they should reduce their number drastically.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, having pointed out these three principles which I think the Vice-President has understood very clearly, I am sure the Vice-President will see the sense of referring this

83 Motion—

[Mr. Khasakhalo]

We have all these Ministers and tell the House why the Sessional Committee is not well represented.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also want to say a word or two on this Sessional Committee. The group here as a whole would welcome it, but I am totally opposed to it because, Mr. Speaker, when one goes through this list one will find that the Assistant Ministers, together with the Senior Ministers, are thirteen out of twenty-two. That means that when the time comes for selecting which Motions should come to this House the Ministers have a right to dictate and see that the Assistant Ministers do not argue with a Senator. Once they lodge an argument with a Senator, the Senior Ministers will rush to see the man who appointed them—that is the President—and the Assistant Minister will get the sack just like that. They will not at any time be of any use to the Members of this House and to the country as a whole. Now, what the Government forgot in bringing up these names, is the interest of the nation, they only took the interests of the Ministers as individuals to heart; not the interests of the country. I can remember that since we came to this House there were some very important Motion brought to the House. For example, there was a Motion brought to the Government of Kenya calling on the Government to appoint a committee to check on education; that was not brought about because the Ministers were dominating the committee. Another one for free medical service was also refused; and many others.

Now, if we do not have the Members who really have that opinion and desire to serve the nation of Kenya on this Committee, how will we therefore bring such Motions into this House? The country has said that they are expecting us to debate certain important Motions in this House which have been moved by the Members and these Motions have never been brought about because the Ministers dominate the Sessional Committee.

So, Mr. Speaker, I thought that the Sessional Committee should be for the benefit of the country rather than just confining it to only those individuals who want the Members of this House to dance the tune of the Cabinet and not for the Cabinet to dance the tune of this House. On this one, Mr. Speaker, I for one, feel that I share with my colleagues that we reject this list and another list be prepared and, if not so, if I may suggest a few names should be deleted, because here we have so many Ministers and we do not know what interests they represent. Why not let

Members who are here, and who have and want to do a duty for their country, why not have them in the Sessional Committee? Why is it that we see here thirteen Ministers, and only a few Members, who will be dominated and some of them will be used as rubber-stamps for the Government Ministers? We want to see a proper committee which represents the interests, not of an individual, but of the entire country. We are fed up with dancing the tune of the Cabinet; it is time we made the Cabinet dance the tune of the National Assembly. This is the way I see it, but I am not going to share with anybody who says that we are going to pass this and I have said that I am not going to support, and I am prepared to refuse to support anything because I know that once we do this we will be completely doomed.

These are certain recommendations which have been made for the future meetings of this National Assembly, and since the salvation of the future meetings lie with this Committee, we are not just going to allow it to go like that. We would like to see that the Members are given time to see who is there to represent their interests. We cannot all be members of the Sessional Committee, but we would like to see a number of our Members there, with the feeling that they are taking the interests of the country to heart, not to go and say "Oh! If we bring this Motion here the President or the Government will say that it is not good for the Government." Who is the Government, is it not the people? We are not here to safeguard Nyirogi because he is a Minister or to safeguard so-and-so. We are making it very, very clear, Mr. Speaker, that we will not and we shall never surrender our responsibilities, which are fully licensed by the public when we were brought to this House. We are fully licensed and we must use that licence, which expires in 1968, properly.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to prolong, but I think that the Government has heard and all I want to say is that I think the Vice-President should withdraw the Motion and I am trying to say that we do not want the Government to steamroll the powers of the Members in general, or the needs of the country. I know that the Vice-President will say, in his reply on behalf of the Government, that the Ministers are also Elected Members. That fact we know—that they are all Elected Members. But since they themselves have said that, we should be given, as representatives of the public, our right to sit on this Committee and we should have only about five Ministers who will represent the Government side, but the rest of the members there should be members who do not hold any office in this Government, so that when we select the right Motions we will know that Kenya is safe. But if we leave this in a few hands and the Ministers believe that this Government is their Government and not the Government of the people because this is in the record publicly and everywhere. We are the Government; this means that the Government is not for the people, we feel that this Committee is filled only by people who like to see that Members here become..... (Inaudible) of the Ministers. People will reject outrightly and I propose that the number we want for Ministers to represent the Cabinet should be five. What I want to emphasize is one fact: that the Vice-President should know that although the President, the Vice-President and the Cabinet are all Elected Members, but since they are the Government we feel that they should not dominate the Sessional Committee of this House. We should be given the right and I am sure that when it comes to voting we do not want to shame our Government any longer. We only want to withdraw the paper and draft a fresh one.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have made your point, Mr. Oduya.

Mr. Mwamzandi: It has been a custom, Mr. Speaker, for our Cabinet for a long time to neglect the business of this House. Motions are standing still and questions are not dealt with, yet we do not see the House meeting. This is mainly because the Cabinet is interested only in their Ministerial work, neglecting our own business.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You cannot blame the Sessional Committee for that.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Then, Mr. Speaker, this was merely because the Ministers used to advise the Cabinet not to have several meetings. Now they have found a way in which to overrule this House completely and that is by selecting these thirteen Ministers, whereas we have a few representatives as Back-benchers who would support our Motions and our questions should be put in the Order Papers. I feel, Mr. Speaker, that the number of Ministers should be as small as possible. It is not even necessary to have five, as the hon. Oduya has suggested, only the Vice-President as Chairman and only two Ministers. We should not like to see other Members who already are chairmen of several bodies, such as Mr. Ngala, who is very busy. He should not be in this Sessional Committee. Someone else should be in the Sessional Committee, Mr. Speaker, instead. We would like to have the list which is pending brought before this House for discussion, not only with regard to ministerial work but with regard to our own business.

Mr. Speaker, we have found that the Ministers do not like to have this House meeting frequently or clearing up the business frequently simply because they are busy in the districts, busy in the provinces and busy outside Kenya, as a result of which, if we put all these Ministers in the Sessional Committee, we shall find this House not meeting for the next six months.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order! I have pointed out to you once already that the Sessional Committee does not control the dates of sitting of the House. That is quite irrelevant.

Mr. Mwamzandi: In which case, Mr. Speaker, I oppose some of the names which have been put forward and propose that a new Sessional Committee be formed.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I actually stand to request very humbly the Vice-President to reconsider the reconstitution of the Sessional Committee.

It is a privilege, and I thank the Government also for accepting the practicability of the one-party system because in previous years we never decided or never debated in this House who should be members of the Sessional Committee.

Now, Sir, I see from this paper that the whole thing, if one speaks his mind properly, should be really condemned and called a parochial set-up, parochial in the sense of distribution. Mr. Speaker, if we look at the list we see that, first of all, from Nairobi we have the Minister for External Affairs, the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, the Minister for Internal Security and Defence, the hon. F. R. S. De Souza, the Deputy Speaker, Mr. J. D. Kari and Mr. Mwai Kibaki. Now all these people come from Nairobi. When we turn to Nyanza, we have the Vice-President, then we have the hon. Z. M. Anyieni, then we proceed further and we get the hon. T. Okelo-Odongo, that is the end of Nyanza. Then in the Western Region they have got two, and also there is another big Minister of the Government, the Minister for Local Government, coming from Nyanza. Now if you look at the whole set-up, do you really come to the conclusion that the whole arrangement is made to work in conformity with the distribution of responsibility in this country, or with how the Cabinet was formed? Now we form a Cabinet today which means the Sessional Committee, and today we have been given this latitude to decide as to what should be the strength of the Sessional

[The Chairman] Mr. Gichuru, would you like to answer that because I would like to put it to the vote straight away?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): I would like to make one comment and that is that some of this money, particularly in item Vote No. 18, concerns the Ministry of Local Government and much of this money has to be voted to the local governments. The longer we delay, simply means that some of the local government authorities will have to close down because they are already bankrupt.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I will put the question. We do not need to have a debate on this.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Do you want to move the second Motion, Mr. Gichuru? There is a second Motion.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 1 OF 1964/65—
DEVELOPMENT

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move the following Motion:

THAT a sum not exceeding £1,289,817 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Development Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1964/65.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Odway: Mr. Chairman, I feel that a number of Members will welcome the Motion, but I am afraid, Mr. Chairman, that I cannot at the moment give the Minister the O.K. to have this £1,000,000 and more which he is demanding, probably for salaries and other expenses, which he wants for development. But as we know that he has some other things for the Members, we would like to know about the money that the Ministry would like to spend, and therefore since the Members have not had time to go through this Supplementary Estimate, I suggest that the Motion be put off until tomorrow when we can carefully go through and ask the Minister to come and explain everything. If he then convinces the Members, we will have to give him the O.K. But right now, today, we cannot debate the Motion.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): Are you proposing that the committee report progress and beg leave to sit another day?

Mr. Gichuru: I would like to add just one additional comment, Sir. I have just noted from the speeches so far that the problem is that the National Assembly Vote is not included here. If the Government decides on an increase, that Vote is capable of bearing that increase and therefore it will not be necessary to bring in that Vote.

(Question put and agreed to)

PROGRESS REPORTED

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 3 OF 1964/65—
RECURRENT EXPENDITURE

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 1 OF 1964/65—
DEVELOPMENT

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed by the Committee of Supply to report progress in both of the Motions of Order No. 4—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we had better wait until we have the Mace in its right place.

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed by the Committee of Supply to report the considerations in both of the Motions of Order No. 4, and report progress and beg leave to sit again on another day.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That will be tomorrow.

Dr. De Souza: Yes.

BILLS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We cannot deal with Order No. 5, 6 or 7 until the Committee of Supply has come to its conclusion, and so we will go onto Order No. 8.

MOTION

AMENDMENTS TO THE EAST AFRICAN INDUSTRIAL LICENSING ACT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Is Dr. Kiano here?

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Onyok): Mr. Speaker, Sir, can we call him, because I think he was under the impression that the Committee of Supply would take some time.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. If the Minister is not here, and there is no hon. Member able to speak on his behalf we will put it to the end of the order paper, which I have a right to do, and we will go on with Order Number 9.

MOTION

APPOINTMENTS TO THE SESSIONAL COMMITTEE

The Vice-President (Mr. Odginga): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:

THAT this House nominates the following Members to be Members of the Seasonal Committee to replace those nominated to the Committee on the 27th February 1964.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this was necessitated because of two reasons. Firstly, just as we entered into the Republic there was a reshuffle in the Government and that actually placed even some Members in a position where we would have to consider their continuation with the Seasonal Committee.

At the same time the second reason was because during the last year the country decided to have only one party without opposition, and the last Seasonal Committee made consideration of the opposition, but as we are now one party we thought that the composition should now follow more closely our present form and these are the two reasons which made it necessary to reconstitute the Seasonal Committee.

So Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg leave of the House that the present membership of the Seasonal Committee be comprised in the following manner:

The Vice-President (Chairman).

The Minister for External Affairs.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development.

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence.

The Minister for Local Government.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism.

The Minister for Home Affairs.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing.

The hon. F. R. S. De Souza (Deputy Speaker).

The hon. Z. M. Anyieni.

The hon. Br. Kagigia.

The hon. J. D. Kali.

The hon. M. Kibaki.

The hon. Muliro.

The hon. J. K. Ndiile.

The hon. R. G. Ngala.

The hon. J. J. M. Nyagah.

The hon. T. Okelo-Odongo.

The hon. J. C. N. Osogo.

The hon. A. J. Pandya.

The hon. J. M. Shikuku.

The hon. J. K. ole Tipsi.

Therefore Mr. Speaker, Sir, this speaks for itself. I therefore beg to move.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Khusakhalu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while we agree that we have some changes in the previous set-up of this House, the Minister has not told the House the reasons why we should have nine Ministers in the Seasonal Committee and four Assistant Ministers. Whether it is for the Government to dictate in the Seasonal Committee, by itself, by using its hon. Members, or whether this is to make the views of ordinary Members, who are called Back-benchers not represented, I would like to hear in the Minister's reply when he gives it.

Secondly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I should have thought a Seasonal Committee is a Committee representing the interests of this House throughout the country and looking at this list, Mr. Speaker, there is no single representative from the North-Eastern Province. Could we be told the reason why it has been excluded.

Another point Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that I would like to know whether the Minister could tell us the reasons why he has not found it fit to distribute twenty-two Members of the Seasonal Committee through the seven provinces so that a matter affecting a particular area, when it comes to the Seasonal Committee, a Member within the Seasonal Committee could present the case of that particular area strongly, so that the Motion should be moved quickly.

I have found in the past that there have been some Motions moved by some Members, I will not quote their names—that have never been on the Order Paper and they have been in the House for a very long time. The reason for this is that the Members of the Seasonal Committee have ignored Motions of some Members from various places, and tend to bring Motions which interest them as Members of the Seasonal Committee and no other Members.

With these few remarks, I would like to ask the Vice-President to tell the House clearly why

75 Oral Answers

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it depends on what the hon. Member understands by "dry weather standards". As all hon. Members know, the settlement operation is limited to a temporary period of time. The funds allocated for this operation are also limited, and the standard of the roads we are able to construct with those funds are still also limited.

Mr. Soli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister tell me how, when it is dry, a lorry can pass a river where there is no bridge?

Mr. Gachago: Such bridges have been constructed and have become derelict or defective. The hon. Member can rest assured that even our settlement officers cannot do the work yet and they will not let the bridges lie unrepaiied, because they will not be able also to operate their own functions.

Question No. 822

CONTROL OF FISHING IN KERICHO DISTRICT

Mr. Soli asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Wildlife how and to what extent fishing in the rivers of Kericho District was controlled.

The Minister for Natural Resources and Wildlife (Mr. Ayodo): Most of the rivers in Kericho District have been stocked with trout and are referred to as trout rivers.

There are three types of trout rivers, classified as public, association or private rivers. On public rivers which have been declared open for trout fishing, control is enforced by Fish Scouts employed by the Government. At present eight of these scouts are stationed at Kericho.

Association rivers are stocked by associations or "angling clubs" for the exclusive use of their members. The association employs Fish Scouts to ensure that fishing on the rivers is controlled.

Private rivers are those rivers or parts of rivers running through private land which are stocked and controlled by the landowner if he so desires.

Under the law, anyone wishing to fish for trout, whether on public, association or private water, must be in possession of a Government trout licence.

Question No. 824

COMPENSATION FOR STOLEN CATTLE

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister if, in the event of tracks of stolen cattle being traced to a place where the police and the owners find that they are lost in the tracks of other animals, the Minister would say what legal action could enable the owners to claim compensation.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I answer this question, I would like to seek your guidance. I understand from my hon. and learned friends who are Members of this House, that if I were to supply the information which is sought by this question, I would be encroaching on the functions of the legal profession.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think perhaps you are probably right that this question is out of order. There is a Standing Order which provides that a question should not be asked which seeks an opinion, whether it is a legal opinion or otherwise. It is really the substance of this question to request the Attorney-General's opinion. I cannot prevent the hon. Member seeking that opinion outside the House. If he prefers it, he can seek it from the Attorney-General, but he cannot do it in this House. I think we made a mistake in allowing this question.

Mr. Omweri: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since this question was drafted before the reshuffle of the Cabinet and it was not strictly directed to the Attorney-General—it was a question which I addressed to the Ministry of Justice and Constitutional Affairs—and probably the redrafting has been directed to the Attorney-General, I do not know whether this is entirely my mistake. I was not told that this should be redrafted in another way.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not your mistake anyway, Mr. Omweri, but the fact that it was addressed to a different Minister does not make a difference to what I have said. It is in effect seeking an expression of opinion, and it is out of order on that account. The fault is ours rather than yours in having allowed this question to be put.

Question No. 827

CONFISCATION OF EXPORT LICENCES

Mr. Balala asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if, in view of the fact that export of goods from Kenya might be an indirect means by smuggling money out from Kenya, the Minister would consider confiscating all export licences held by companies or individuals and make the Government the sole body responsible for exports.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiatio): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply,

77 Oral Answers

17th FEBRUARY 1965

Committee of Supply 78

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry]

As the hon. Member knows, only certain goods require an export licence for export outside Kenya. The "list" of goods mainly relates to essential commodities and certain strategic goods and industrial machinery and spares. These items are placed on the list of goods subject to an export licence in order to be able to control the outflow of these goods as and when necessary. The contention of the hon. Member that the exportation of goods could be an indirect or illegal means of transferring money outside Kenya does not apply in this present context as no overall exchange control has been imposed.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, could he tell us the reasons why there are no active control measures?

Dr. Kiatio: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question said that we should not issue licences for export in order to control the outflow of money and I stated that the question of denying the licences to stop the outflow of money does not arise because that is a question of exchange control and we do not have an overall exchange control method.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, the problem is what prevents us having that overall control. Is it the East African Common Services or is it the Kenya Government who have the measures for control?

Dr. Kiatio: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to have your ruling whether the question requires me to explain why we do not have an overall exchange control?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): This is getting rather far from the point which is the export of goods. I think we had better leave it now and continue with the next business.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

EVICTION OF SQUATTERS IN LAIKIPIA.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I wish to inform hon. Members that I have received notice from Mr. G. G. Kariuki of his desire to raise on an adjournment the matter of evictions from farms in Laikipia. I have not yet been able to make contact with the appropriate Ministry to ensure that the time suits them, but provisionally I will allow tomorrow evening, the 18th February at the close of business for this matter to be raised provided we can get in touch with the appropriate Ministry in time.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

IN COMMITTEE

[The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 3 OF 1964/65—
RECURRENT EXPENDITURE

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move:

THAT a sum not exceeding £4,900,002 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1965, in respect of Supplementary Estimate No. 3 of 1964/65 (Recurrent).

I do not have anything further to add.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I will propose the question—

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, we cannot hear what the Minister is saying because there is so much commotion.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I want to move the closure of the adjournment of this debate, taking into consideration how the money is going to be spent and also taking note of what we hoped would have been incorporated in this Supplementary Estimate. I am convinced if we pass this Supplementary Estimate—, I myself, am one of the Members of Parliament who had hoped that in this Supplementary Estimate there would be some changes, but the changes we have found here are only to give some funds to new Ministries, some of which do not even need to exist but money has now been voted for such Ministries, such as looking after Prisons only. This is a question that could be looked after by one Assistant Minister, but not a full Ministry. There are others but I do not want to go into details of how the Minister wants to spend his money, but I just wonder, if it would be possible—and it should be Sir, in this House—for us to adjourn the debate in order to enable the Minister to go into details of some of the things which are failing, particularly the salaries and allowances of Members of the National Assembly. Once we get this insight, then it will be very possible for us to pass this new Supplementary Estimate. Otherwise it will not be possible. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is all I would like to say.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): You mean that the Committee should report progress and beg

Mr. Achlung-Oenke: Knowledge of where civil servants come from is quite different from the original question, because I do not think Ministers are expected or supposed to know the villages where the civil servants come from.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. As I said before, the question of whether a question or a supplementary question is relevant or irrelevant is for the Speaker to decide. Quite definitely all these questions are relevant to the original question, which the Minister has answered with an emphatic "No". They are all relevant.

Mr. Kall: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am slightly ashamed of some of the questions which have been raised and which I think shows that we are not endeavouring to maintain the standard of this House, Sir, when you come to the question of clans and villages of certain civil servants I think—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What is your point of order, Mr. Kall?

Mr. Kall: Mr. Speaker, I am saying that this question is not helping the House. It will be—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order, Mr. Kall you must be more careful about points of order. You have heard what I have just said about fraudulent points of orders. The right of any hon. Member to interrupt the procedure of the House on points of order is a very special privilege, and it must not be abused. It is an abuse of this privilege to get up and argue a point of view under the guise of a point of order. I do warn hon. Members that if there is another case of this, I shall take it seriously, and the Member concerned will be required to leave the precincts of this House for the rest of the day.

Mr. Mallada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Minister know who the Chief Editor and the Editor are and if he does, can he tell this House their names?

Mr. Achlung-Oenke: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not customary to reveal the names of civil servants and, therefore, I am not prepared to do so.

Mr. Choge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, for many weeks we have had Ministers and Assistant Ministers trying to avoid answering questions and is there any way, or are there any Standing Orders by which this House is entitled to throw a Minister out of office so that another Minister can be chosen to give appropriate answers?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. The question of throwing Ministers out of this House can only arise in the case of a gross breach of Standing Orders which, there has certainly not been today. I have told hon. Members the remedy for dissatisfaction with regard to answers to questions, and how they can record their dissatisfaction. I can assure hon. Members that, if they have any grave and persistent dissatisfaction with good reason against any Minister, he is not likely to last.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the most—

Mr. Gatunga: On a point of order, I am speaking again on this matter. Is the Minister right in telling the House that it is not customary to reveal the names of civil servants, when we know that in the past the Government has revealed the names of civil servants in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is customary/in this House.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 81: BACKGROUND OF EDITORS

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the most unsatisfactory reply by the Minister to this House, I would like to raise a Motion on adjournment here.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 815

SELECTION OF TRAINEES FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENT COURSES

Mr. Muruli asked the Minister for Local Government whether, in view of the great need for well trained local government staff all over Kenya, the Minister would tell the House why the candidates selected to study local government work in West Germany had not been chosen from different parts of the country.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagini): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply,

Sir, the question implies that the candidates were not chosen from different parts of Kenya. This implication is false.

On the 18th November 1964, eight local government authority staff left Kenya for a nine-month advanced course in local government in West Germany. The officials come from local authorities in Central, Coast, Eastern, North-Eastern, Nyanza and Rift Valley Regions. The hon. Member will therefore see that candidates were selected from [The Minister for Local Government] different parts of Kenya. This is in accordance with the policy of my Ministry with regard to facilities for training in local government.

Mr. Masinde: Arising from that reply, is the Minister aware that out of the gentlemen who are now studying, six of them came from Nyanza, and particularly one district?

Mr. Sagini: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will repeat the answer. I mentioned Central, Coast, Eastern, North-Eastern, Nyanza and Rift Valley.

Mr. Masinde: Arising from that reply, Sir, could the Minister therefore tell this House how many came from each of the provinces?

Mr. Sagini: I believe I have given the answer. There are six, but I remember faintly that eight went, but I do not know very well.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister tell this House why none from the Coast Region, particularly Lamu, were not chosen?

Mr. Sagini: This kind of question is rather complicated, because I think I had one of these (Inaudible) asking this question. When a friendly Government offers one, two, three or even six, you can thank them, but this time there were six or eight. I think two were added later on, and as I have said, I do not know how they were added. But, let me answer your question: We cannot, at one time, satisfy every province and district. There will be others to come in the future and they will be considered.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, bearing in mind that there were eight places, and considering that seven were prominent Kenyans, why was it not the Government's deliberate policy to pick up at least one in each province and one from Nairobi area?

Mr. Sagini: Mr. Speaker, I am ready really to do justice to every province and district if I can, but in some cases, for example, some county councils, they are very bad when it comes to administration, so there might be urgency in them. We should not work like that. It becomes very dangerous.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from that reply, would the Minister, in view of the fact that we now learn that he never took any serious action to make sure that every province had someone for training, and also realizing the need for trained people in every province, would he assure this House that in future any scholarships for such training will be equally distributed throughout the whole of Kenya?

Mr. Sagini: Because a district has had its share in the past, I am not going to stick to this. I do not promise.

Owing to unfortunate Shifra activities, for example, in the North-Eastern Region, we use our district officers.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

Question No. 816

RESTORATION OF ELECTRIC GENERATORS FOR MAKINDU

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power if the Minister would approach the appropriate authority (E.A. Railways and Harbours) to restore electricity generators at Makindu Township which were removed from Makindu Township a year ago.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

The East African Railways and Harbours Administration has not, at any time, installed a generator or electricity supply in Makindu Township. It has only installed a small generator for use by a railway training school at this township, but when this school was abandoned some time back, it was considered uneconomic to continue to have a generator in this township.

If the hon. Member is interested in an electricity supply in this area, he should ask the Power and Lighting Company to survey the area.

Question No. 820

ROADS AND BRIDGES FOR SETTLEMENT SCHEMES

Mr. arap Sol asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement who constructed and maintained the roads and bridges in settlement schemes.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

My Ministry constructs the roads in settlement schemes up to dry weather standards. Their maintenance after that is the responsibility of the county councils.

Mr. Sol: Is the Assistant Minister aware that in a most of the settlement schemes in Solik, the roads have been constructed, but are not up to the proper standards?

[The Assistant Minister, President's Office]

will, however, say that the number of commissioned or gazetted Kalenjin in the Kenya Army and Kenya Police adequately reflects the size of this group of tribes, and the esteem in which their martial qualities are held.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that it is also dangerous for this House to be denied the right of knowing the tribal breakdown or the composition of tribes?

Mr. Nyanweya: I entirely disagree with the views of the hon. Member for Belgut. If the hon. Member would like to know the representation or the breakdown of his tribe in the security forces, the best thing he could do is to approach the Minister for Internal Security and Defence who would give him, not the number, but the explanation as to how big the representation is in the security forces.

Mr. Khasakhalu: The Minister is avoiding giving useful information asked for by the Members, we would like to know the number, and not the names, of the Kalenjin gazetted officers in the Police and in the Kenya Army. Could he tell the House the number?

Mr. Nyanweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the names would constitute the number and the number would constitute the names.

Mr. amp Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Assistant Minister could not give this information now, would he give this information to Members in writing?

Mr. Nyanweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that would still infringe the security regulations because it is not the intention of the Government to publish the composition of the security forces to anybody except the security officers.

Mr. Kamuren: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since this question has been brought to this House and the Assistant Minister is not willing to answer us, as has been requested, could we seek your ruling in this case, whether it is not possible for him to answer the question asked by Members?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, he is not bound to answer the question. No Minister can be compelled to answer any question: it rests entirely at his discretion. He usually tries to give a reason for his refusal, and in this case the Minister has done that. Once the Government refuses to answer a question, the House will get no further beyond expressing dissatisfaction, which I think you have done already. The next question now.

Mr. Kerich: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may I seek your ruling? What useful purpose does a question serve in this House if the Minister denies us the right of knowing the answer?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members are aware that they ask several hundred questions in the course of a year and a very great percentage of those questions are answered fully by the Government. On some occasions, the Government gives only a very limited answer; and on very few occasions the Government refuses to answer. On those occasions, I think always the Government gives its reasons for refusal to answer. I have said that Government has the right to refuse to answer questions. If, however, Government persists in refusing to answer questions without good reason, it may dissatisfy Members so much that it might eventually cease to be the Government. That is all there is to it.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 810: NUMBER OF GAZETTED KALENJI OFFICERS IN KENYA POLICE AND ARMY

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to raise this question on adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think you are entitled to raise it on adjournment, but you will not get very far if the Government declines to answer.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 811

BACKGROUND OF EDITORS

Mr. Kerich asked the Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism whether the two persons who held the posts of Chief Editor and of Editor of the Kenya News Agency were members of the same village and of one clan.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Onekoi): No, Sir.

Mr. Kerich: Will the Minister tell the House the names of the Chief Editor and the Editor in the Kenya News Agency?

Mr. Achieng-Onekoi: I did not catch the question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Kerich, I would suggest that an even tone of voice will make it easier to hear your question.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I ask my question carefully because the Minister is not listening? May the Minister tell the House the names of the Chief Editor and the Editor of the Kenya News Agency?

Mr. Achieng-Onekoi: No, Sir.

Mr. Kerich: May we know the reason why the Minister is not willing to tell the House because of tribalism in action?

Mr. Achieng-Onekoi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the first place I do not consider the question to be appropriate because the original question was whether the two persons who hold the posts of Chief Editor and Editor of the Kenya News Agency are members of the same village and members of one clan. The answer, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is no, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Which means, of course, that the hon. Member's supplementary was very much to the point.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from the Minister's reply, could the Minister give the villages and clans of both these officers concerned?

Mr. Achieng-Onekoi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know the tribes of members employed in my Ministry and it is not my business to know the villages where they come from.

Mr. Kerich: On a point of order, the Minister is refusing to tell us the truth because the two people mentioned are Luos. I, therefore, wish to raise this matter on an adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. Oh, no, Mr. Kerich, the point of order you raise is not a fresh point of order, and you cannot use it as cover for raising further questions. I have given the answer to that point of order and I am not going to give it again.

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to seek your guidance on this. I think I am entitled to know the villages and the clans of these people. If the Minister does not have the information, surely his officers should have briefed him. May I have some explanation on this?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is not a point of order, Mr. Ngala. The Minister may or may not wish to comment.

Mr. Sol: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Minister said he did not know the villages where these employees come from. He also said that he did not know where they come from and which clan they belong to and yet in his first answer he said they were not of the same clan and village. Is he, therefore, telling a lie in this House? Is he in order to tell a lie in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the hon. Member knows well that that is not a point of order. It is merely an argument on which he can question the Minister. I must insist that all hon. Members distinguish between a point of order and an argument, because I will not have fraudulent points of order in this House.

Mr. Ouwari: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am trying to find out whether the Minister was in order to tell us in this House that it is not the business of the Minister to find out where the officers in his Ministry came from. If it is not his business, then whose business is it to find out in order to inform the Members of this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is quite in order to do that, that is to say, it is not contrary to Standing Orders of this House to do so. Whether that answer interests hon. Members or satisfies them is quite another point. It is not a matter on which I can rule as a point of order. If hon. Members are dissatisfied with the answers given, or the reasons for the answers, they may make that dissatisfaction known by further questions or by comment, but not by points of order.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the replies given by the Minister, where the Minister has shown ignorance of the villages where the officers come from, would he be prepared to find out and let me know the answer?

Mr. Achieng-Onekoi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will not try to find out. However, one thing I know is that the villages are in Kenya and the tribe or clan is (inaudible.)

Mr. Masladi: Arising from one of the Minister's replies, Sir, since the Minister has indicated to this House that the persons in question are not of the same clan, how does he know that they were not of the same clan since he is not able to name that clan.

Mr. Achieng-Onekoi: I have already answered that, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think you have.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the hon. Minister tell us as to why he said that he did not know the villages and the clans of these two people, the Editor and the Assistant Editor, when he said earlier, Sir, that they do not come from the same village and clan?

[Mr. Otiende] available in the case of Nakuru, Naivasha, Nanyuki, Marsabit, Rumuruti, Ol Kalou and Maragua, so that it is given as much priority as any other place in Kenya.

Mr. ole Tiplis: Mr. Speaker, Sir, firstly, can the Minister not confirm that this particular hospital caters for almost three districts, and the need is very urgent indeed?

Mr. Otiende: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did say that this Thomson's Falls Hospital serves a large area. According to the districts, it does serve part of three districts.

Mr. ole Tiplis: My second question, Mr. Speaker, is whether we may know from the Minister the additional expense which would involve the employment of a full-time doctor apart from this part-time doctor? How much would it entail?

Mr. Otiende: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not have the actual figure here—I can get it in a few minutes—but it will not be more than one salary.

Mr. ole Tiplis: Oh a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may we know how much one salary is?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not a point of order. Next question.

Question No. 807

TAKE-OVER OF GINNERIES BY SOUTH NYANZA COTTON GROWERS

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing what arrangements, under the supervision of his Ministry, had been made to enable South Nyanza Cotton Growers to take over all the ginneries in the district.

The Assistant Minister to the Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply on behalf of the Minister for Co-operatives and Marketing.

The Government is considering a scheme whereby the Cotton Growers Co-operative Societies in the area may acquire, progressively, an equity participation in the established ginneries. I am pleased to be able to say that the owners of the ginneries are willing to co-operate in this scheme. Participation will commence as soon as it is possible to arrange for loans to the co-operative societies.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister in the Vice-President's Office tell the House when the Ministry of Co-operatives and Marketing will arrange for loans to farmers? About when, because "as soon as possible" is indefinite?

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the negotiations are in progress and the Government is trying to obtain the money which is required to be given to the farmers as loans.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have a question consisting of two parts, and you will have to excuse me if it is irrelevant.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are asking a lot.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: First, could the Assistant Minister tell the House whether he is aware that the Ministry for which he is replying gave some tractors to help the farmers, cotton farmers plough and that only ploughing work is done, so that planting, weeding and picking work is left to the farmers? It is impossible for the farmers to do this without additional cash. Will the Ministry consider giving some cash for the following work, planting, weeding and picking cotton?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As you say, Mr. Ngala-Abok, it is quite irrelevant.

Question No. 808

RE-GRANTING OF LOANS TO SOUTH NYANZA TRADERS

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry—

- when the Minister would reopen the granting of loans to traders in South Nyanza on easy terms;
- what the Minister tell the House what methods would be adopted by his Ministry to enable his staff to keep constant supervision on accounts and usage of such loans given to traders in future and to receive repayments to avoid defaulting.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I hope that the hon. Member is aware of the reason why loans have not been issued recently in South Nyanza. The facts are that over 75 per cent of the people who borrowed money from the Joint Loans Board in the area have defaulted. Out of the 145 loans issued, 112 people have not paid as yet. I would ask the hon. Member and other leaders in the area to encourage all those defaulting traders to repay their instalments in order that finance may be made available for new loans.

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry]

As far as the supervision is concerned, we had difficulty during the Majimbo Constitution when the Joint Loans Board had been turned over exclusively to the regions, but now we are re-organizing the situation. However, it must be appreciated that we have only one officer at present for the entire Nyanza Province, and one officer, I would admit, is not enough. As I have stated before, all leaders in the area should help us in encouraging the repayments and also I am asking the county councils in the area to try and adopt progressive policies such as issuing long leases for the shops in the area so that we can have some sort of security for the loans issued. This would then enable many traders to offer some property as security and thus reduce the possibility of defaulting.

Mr. Omveri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister explain whether this defaulting has been encouraged by his Ministry, by not employing enough staff to go around and explain to people who have been loaned the money how to return and how to keep their accounts properly? So that they can return the money at the right time before they are considered to be defaulters.

Dr. Kiano: Mr. Speaker, no, Sir, I cannot accept the responsibility. I personally have been to South Nyanza doing the explanations myself and I was informed by the people that they thought that after Uhuru all the loans given before independence could be written off.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister agree with me that persuasion only always seems to fail to get the defaulters to pay back the loan, therefore he must be prepared to take legal steps to get the people to pay the money back?

Dr. Kiano: I entirely agree with the hon. Member. We may have to incur additional expenses to prosecute those people.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can we be told by the Minister concerned how loans, with the proper authorization can take place?

Dr. Kiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is a question for the South Nyanza Joint Loans Board, that as soon as I get names of the present members to see whether they are satisfactory, I shall either reconfirm them as members or else I shall appoint new members to the Joint Loans Board.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister substantiate the allegation that he was told, because that statement cannot be told to the Minister, that the people of South Nyanza were expecting the loans to be written off after independence. Could the Minister enlarge on that particular allegation?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You cannot make a point of order an opportunity for a speech, but I think it is reasonable to ask the Minister to say what information he has to justify his statement.

Dr. Kiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, during my visit to the area I received several memorandums which I gave to the Press and one of them did include that statement. If the hon. Member would like to receive that copy, then I would be glad to give it to him.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: My point of order is that the hon. Member who is asking the question. Does he imply to say that the Minister who gave the statement was not sensible?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think so.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I must say that the Minister has said that so far there are no legal grounds under which they would prosecute the defaulters for not repaying loans. Could we know how long it is going to take the Ministry to prepare this so that people in South Nyanza may be able also to reap the fruits of independence by getting the loans?

Dr. Kiano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not say that there was no legal grounds for prosecuting. I said that we shall incur additional expense if we prosecute, but we shall have to do so.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we shall move on to the next question.

Question No. 810

GAZETTED KALENJI OFFICERS IN ARMY AND POLICE

Mr. Kerich asked the Minister for Internal Security and Defence for the number of gazetted Kalenjin officers serving in the Kenya Police and Army.

The Assistant Minister, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply on behalf of the Minister for Internal Security and Defence.

As a matter of policy, Sir, I have repeatedly declined to give details of the composition of the security forces, which would disclose information of value to unfriendly persons. Also, I deprecate this constant harping on tribalism, I

PRAYERS

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

Mr. Kericho: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motions:

PAPER FACTORY FOR KERICHIO DISTRICT

THAT in view of the fact that some districts have been neglected in establishment of factories especially Kericho District and since there is the biggest forest in Kenya in that district, this House urges the Government to establish a paper factory there as soon as possible.

REASONABLE PRICES FOR FARMS IN RIFT VALLEY

THAT in view of the fact that Africans are paying high prices per acre on "walk-in, walk-out" basis, especially Njoro, Rongai, Molo and Londiani in Rift Valley Province, this House urges the Government to set up a commission of inquiry or to employ Government valuers to ensure that reasonable prices per acre in these areas are observed.

COMPULSORY UPKEEP OF POOR: LEGISLATION

THAT in view of the fact that there are so many aged and beggars in big towns like Nairobi, Kiumu and Mombasa and the country at large, this House urges the Government to introduce legislation so that the rich can be compelled to pay for the upkeep of the poor.

ADMINISTRATION BY KENYA OF KARA-POKOT

Mr. Lorems: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:

THAT in view of the fact that the Kara-Pokot (Uganda) is part of Kenya which is being administered by the Uganda Government on her behalf and in view of the very low standard of living and constant fights among the inhabitants of this area, this House urges the Government to enter the quickest possible negotiations with the Uganda Government for immediate resumption of administration by Kenya in order to facilitate proper administration and development in the area.

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Ollende): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I do not want to interrupt, but since this Motion was raised less than three months ago, is it in order for the hon. Member to raise it again?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. Our Standing Orders provide that we cannot reopen a subject which has been decided by this House within the previous six months, without the permission of the Speaker. I was not aware that we already had a resolution on this subject one way or the other, but if we had, I shall have to abide whether or not it is in the best interests of the House that the matter should be reopened.

Mr. Lorems: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wonder whether a question which was asked in this House and then brought here again in the form of a Motion can be interpreted to be the same subject?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, no.

SOMALIS TO BE IN GOVERNMENT

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:

THAT this House considers the Government's act of denying the law-abiding Somalis who predominantly occupy the entire North-Eastern Province the opportunity to participate in the Government by failing to appoint their representatives as either Ministers, Assistant Ministers or as Chairmen to various Commercial Technical Boards as a discriminatory act against one tribe from the others and urges the Government to reshuffle the Cabinet of Ministers.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. I am sorry to interrupt you, Mr. Khalif, but I must tell hon. Members again that when notice of Motion is being given there must be perfect silence, otherwise hon. Members will not hear the notice. Any hon. Members having comment to make must preserve silence to the end of the notice.

Please hear this Motion in silence now.

SOMALIS TO BE IN GOVERNMENT

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:

THAT this House considers the Government's act of denying the law-abiding Somalis who predominantly occupy the entire North-Eastern Province the opportunity to participate in the Government by failing to appoint their representatives as either Ministers,

[Mr. Khalif] Assistant Ministers or as Chairmen to various Commercial and Technical Boards as a discriminatory act against one tribe for the others and urges the Government to reshuffle the Cabinet of Ministers so as to include some Somalis in the offices of Ministers and Assistant Ministers.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 793

REFUSAL TO ATTEND CHIEF SECRETARY'S BARAZA

Mr. Odero-Sar: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I request for a written reply with regard to this question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You say you asked for a written reply, Mr. Odero-Sar, did you?

Mr. Odero-Sar: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): In that case you shall have a written reply.

Next question, please.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I thought you ruled that if a question has come to this House then it is no longer strictly in the possession of the Member who asked it. Now, this question is a matter for the whole House and for those who are interested to know why the hon. Member's presence was not required. I would like your ruling, Sir, since this point was not made clear.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are quite right that I did so rule; but I corrected that ruling on further consideration, that is within about an hour after I had given that ruling. If you refer back to HANSARD you will see that my final ruling was that questions still belonged to the Members up to the time when they are asked. Therefore, if at any previous point the Member says he wishes to withdraw his question or would like the answer in writing, even if he has not previously asked for the answer in writing, he may do so.

Yes, Mr. Anyieni, I gave that ruling, and probably you were not in the House when I withdrew that ruling and gave another one.

Mr. amp Top: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, supposing some of us are interested in knowing exactly what was the reason for the hon. Member not being allowed to attend that baraza can we not be permitted to hear that reply and the Member receive it in writing as well?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All written replies appear in HANSARD and hon. Members can read what they are.

Question No. 804

FULL-TIME MEDICAL OFFICER AT THOMSON'S FALLS

Mr. G. G. Kariuki asked the Minister for Health and Housing if the Minister was aware that the Thomson's Falls Hospital had no full-time Medical Officer, and if so when he expected to be able to appoint one.

The Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Ollende): Mr. Speaker, I beg to reply.

I am well aware that Thomson's Falls Hospital has no full-time Medical Officer. This hospital has been served for many years by a District Surgeon practising in Thomson's Falls. This appointment is part-time and, in actual operation, usually means the major part of the mornings, and being available the rest of the time for emergencies. In view of the growing population within the vicinity of Thomson's Falls, the whole of this area and elsewhere in the Republic of Kenya are now being re-examined within the Government development plan for the expansion of medical and health services. Within this plan consideration is being given to the possibility of recruiting a full-time Medical Officer at Thomson's Falls.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Arising from the Minister's reply, is the Minister aware that the present doctor who is part-time in Thomson's Falls has requested to be appointed as a full-time Medical Officer?

Mr. Ollende: Yes, Sir, I am well aware that the doctor is willing to be made a full-time Government officer.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Arising from the Minister's reply, could we therefore, know why he has not been appointed up to this moment?

Mr. Ollende: The reason why he has not been appointed is because in the Ministry's Estimate there is no provision for such a post, but the matter is being reviewed.

Mr. Muliro: Arising from the Minister's reply, is the Minister not aware that Thomson's Falls, being a backward district, should be given priority in appointing a permanent doctor in the place?

Mr. Ollende: I do not agree with the words "backward district", Mr. Speaker, but together with the surrounding area, which is very similar, we are reconsidering the medical facilities

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry] Corporation is represented by Alderman C. W. Rubia, who is Chairman of the Company, together with the Permanent Secretary to the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. This membership in the Board of the D.F.C.K. is not based on country-wide representation but on basis of share-subscription. The company is prepared to provide part of the finance required for the expansion of existing projects or for new projects throughout Kenya, provided they can be demonstrated to be commercially viable and soundly managed. Its minimum investment in any one project is £20,000 and its maximum of the order of £250,000. The company does not itself initiate projects but invests in those sponsored by others.

(2) I am authorized by the Board of the Development Finance Company of Kenya Ltd. to disclose that the company has made investments in five projects totalling £200,000 during its first full year of business, the projects being located in Mombasa, Nairobi, Naivasha, Nakuru and Elburgon. The company is at present negotiating with some sixteen other companies for investments which, if they were all to materialize, would total almost £2 million, and the locations of the proposed projects include Broaderick Falls, Chemelli, Cherangani, Eldoret, Embu, Gilgil, Kitii, Kisumu, Lamu, Mombasa, Nairobi, Nyeri and Thika. I should add that the company works in the closest co-operation with my Ministry and has the full confidence of the Government. The company has made very encouraging progress during its first year of business, and I am confident that in the future it will play an increasingly important role in the provision of finance for the development of industry in every region of the country.

Question No. 861

REGISTERED JOB-SEEKERS, 1964

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Labour and Social Services if the Minister would tell the House how many work-seekers registered last year and how many had been found jobs.

REPLY

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwenda): The number of persons registered as work-seekers last year amounted to 205,000 of whom 106,000 were classified as top priority work-seekers.

The number of persons who were placed in employment under the Tripartite Agreement amounted to 34,000 by the end of the year. The table below shows the number employed against the target figure set up for the Agreement.

	Engaged as at 31/12/64	Target
Private Sector	28,000	30,000
Local Government	1,500	6,000
Kenya Government	4,450	8,800
Common Services	—	5,000
Total	33,950	49,800

Government has planned its full quota (8,800 jobs) and intends to engage the whole of it as fast as the type of projects will allow.

Question No. 871

EXPENSE OF JAMHURI CELEBRATIONS

Mr. Lorema asked the Minister for Finance if the Minister would tell the House:

(a) The total amount of money spent on the Jamhuri celebrations.

(b) The amount of money allocated to each district.

REPLY

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru):

(a) The amount approved for the Jamhuri celebrations was £180,000. This was less than half the amount for the Independence celebrations, which was £440,000.

(b) With the agreement of Provincial Commissioners, District Commissioners, the Directorate of Republic Celebrations allotted funds to provinces. The Provincial Commissioners then distributed the funds given to them to each district. The amount of money given to each Provincial Commissioner for the Jamhuri celebrations were based on half the amount given to each province for the Independence celebrations. The breakdown according to provinces was as follows:

Central Province	2,285
Coast Province	1,750
Eastern Province	2,250
North-Eastern Province	250
Rift Valley Province	2,500
Nyanza Province	2,250
Western Province	1,750
Nairobi Extra Provincial District	600

Question No. 898

RESTRICTION OF LAND OWNERSHIP

Mr. Anyalen asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement when the Government intended to restrict the acreage of land an individual or a group of individuals was allowed to own in different areas of Kenya.

REPLY

The Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Anyalen): The Government has no intention whatsoever to restrict the acreage of land an individual or a group of individuals may own in any part of Kenya. The Government's policy is that the large farms still remaining in production should continue to remain in production, but at the same time, an orderly transfer of farming land into ownership by the landless is being encouraged and is taking place rapidly.

The Government, however, appreciates the fact that there is a need for new thinking amongst all large-scale land-owners to consider immediately how best in the interests of the country every acre can be brought into production, and ownership of land diversified. The Government looks to every farmer to participate in its programme of reconstruction and development in implementing the policy of ensuring an equitable distribution of land.

Question No. 912

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS IN 1963/64

Mr. Mboogh asked the Minister for Internal Security and Defence:

(a) How many traffic accidents occurred in 1963 and in 1964?

(b) How many in both years were due to drunkenness?

(c) How many of those due to drunkenness caused death?

REPLY

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence (Dr. Munga):

(a) Total number of traffic accidents:

1963	1964
2,378	3,699

(b) Accidents due to drunkenness:

1963	1964
84	144

(c) Death known to be caused by drunkenness:

1963	1964
8	18

These figures (para. (a) above), only reflect the number of accidents actually reported to the police. The true figures are probably much higher since accidents in which no persons are injured are "non-reportable" and are, therefore, not necessarily on record.

The figures given illustrate a considerable increase in the accidents due to drunkenness last year but even so the percentage of such accidents in relation to the total of those reported is approximately 3.9 per cent.

[The Attorney-General]

Senate and, as Mr. Speaker has pointed out, this House and the Senate are entitled to debate legislation that comes before them and introduce any amendments that they wish. That amendment might turn out to be invalid and unconstitutional and nothing can stop one from proposing the amendment. I do my best and I undertake to do my best to attend both this House and the other House and try and help, but of course you cannot blame me if my advice is not accepted and Members proceed as they wish.

To answer the question which has been raised, I have already said that I prefer, from the drafting standpoint, the word "the" to "this".

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, perhaps there was something wrong with the Senators, as I do not quite understand how the word "this" came into this clause.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We cannot discuss what is wrong with the Senators; only what is wrong with their proposal.

Mr. Ochwada: If we agree to the proposed Amendment as suggested by the Senate, it would look as if clause 18 would be regarded as the disciplinary code to which we are referring. The disciplinary code it intends to set up is an entirely different document altogether and if, therefore, Mr. Speaker, we are to accept the word "this" instead of "the" it would completely change the meaning of the whole clause to something with an entirely different meaning. This, I think, would not be within the proposed Act that we want to pass.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, therefore with these few words, I beg to oppose the amendment made by the Senate.

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, I adopt the ruling of the Attorney-General and Members that we should oppose the amendment.

(Question put and negatived)

(Ordered that the Clerk carry the said Bill to the Senate and acquaint them with the decision of the House on their amendment thereto)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That concludes the business on the Order Paper. The House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 17th February, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at fifty minutes past Four o'clock.

WRITTEN REPLIES TO QUESTIONS.

Question No. 774

COLLECTION OF COURT FINES, MACHAKOS.

Mr. Mutiso asked the Minister for Justice and Constitutional Affairs:

- Could the Minister tell the House how much money had been collected by his Ministry as court fines and appeals resulting out of land disputes in Machakos District since independence.
- Could the Minister also tell the House how many land cases had been heard in Machakos District since independence as recorded by the Appeal Court.

REPLY

The Minister for Justice and Constitutional Affairs (Mr. Mboya):

- The amount of money collected in respect of land appeal fees by the District African Court Machakos, for the period 12th December 1963 to 30th June 1964 is Sh. 17,046.00. The amount collected in respect of fines from all African courts in Machakos from 12th December 1963 to end of November, is Sh. 119,151.00.
- The number of land appeals heard by the District African Court at Machakos for the period 12th December 1963 to 30th September 1964 is 150.

Question No. 818

SELF-HELP SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister for Education:—

- If, in view of the different speed of progress in various regions the Minister would tell the House how many self-help initiated Independent Secondary Schools existed in Kenya, and how many of these were opened in each region in 1964.
- If the Minister would eventually take over the Secondary Schools. How many of them had applied for a Government Grant-in-Aid.
- How many applications were refused permission to start or permission to receive a Grant-in-Aid in 1964.

REPLY

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange):

- Forty-nine self-help initiated Secondary Schools exist in Kenya:

Existing	Opened in 1964
12 in Western Region	12
31 in Central Region	31
1 in Nyanza Region	Nil
1 in Rift Valley Region	1
4 in Eastern Region	3
Nil in Coast Region	Nil
49	47

(b) Naturally all of them have applied for a grant-in-aid, and the Ministry of Education is making, in its long-term development programme, considerable attempts to grant-aid a few at a time according to the available capital and recurrent funds. Nine out of forty-nine will be aided in 1965, this represents approximately 19 per cent annual increase in the rate of grant-aiding.

(c) Obviously forty out of forty-nine schools will not receive aid in 1965. No satisfactory applications to open secondary schools were turned down this year. There are some standard requirements which have to be met by the applicants, for instance, adequate teacher supply, suitable buildings which conform with Health and Safety Regulations, and a financial assurance for maintaining the school and the staff.

Question No. 825

LOANS BREAKDOWN IN NYANZA REGION

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if the Minister would give the district breakdown of loans given to Nyanza Region, strictly from the Industrial Development Corporation up to the 30th September 1964.

REPLY

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kioko): The Industrial Development Corporation has approved four loans in Nyanza Region up to 30th September 1964. The loans approved are as follows:—

Central Nyanza:	£
1. Gilbert S. M. Angina—Mobile Sisal Decorticator	150
2. Ndori Bakery	1,500
3. Asembo Bay Sisal Co. Ltd.—Sisal Baling	2,000

Kisii District:

4. Kisii Farmers Co-operative Union—Manufacture of Stock Feeds 1,150

Applications for new commercial loans from six recommended Nyanza traders are being considered by the Industrial Development Corporation Board at their next meeting. One of these is a trader in Homa Bay and two others from Kisii.

I would like to inform the hon. Member that officers of the Industrial Development Corporation visited South Nyanza last year and drew up a preliminary development programme but not a feasible application has been received from that area. In view of this fact, the Executive Director and one of his officers are visiting the area again early in December in order to reassess potentialities and encourage local people to become industrial-minded. I would like to repeat my earlier statement that, unless people come forward with viable projects, it makes it extremely difficult for any Ministry to offer much practical help. Particularly with small industries, the development in any area of the country depends to a great extent on the enterprise, industry and initiative of the local people.

Question No. 826

DEVELOPMENT FINANCE COMPANY (OF KENYA): REPRESENTATION

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if the Minister would:

- disclose to the House the composition and countrywide representation of the Development Finance Company of Kenya;
- tell the House how much financial aid and to how many people or firms (on a regional basis) had this company given since 12th December 1963.

REPLY

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kioko): (1) The Development Finance Company of Kenya Ltd. is a private limited company incorporated in Kenya on 13th September 1963 with an issued capital of £1,500,000. This was subscribed equally (£500,000 each) by the Kenya Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation, the German Development Corporation and the Commonwealth Development Corporation. Each of the three Corporations nominates two directors to the Board. The Industrial and Commercial Development

[Mr. Skikink]

I think we are also entitled to make amendments to the Senate amendments, but if we have to pursue the argument of the last speaker that the Ministers or the people in the Attorney-General's Office are so competent because they have legal brains, they are not liable and they should be and could be relied on to not to make any mistakes, then why bring all these Bills to this House?

People have different views, and they are entitled to express their views, and I think the Attorney-General and his office should look into them, although some of us as individuals do not have legal brains, but, I think we have a bit of common sense. Therefore, I feel that the Attorney-General should take note of our views whether we have one party or not.

Here, Mr. Speaker, I do support the question of rejecting the Senate Amendment because of the explanation offered by the Attorney-General on clauses 1, 2 and 3 and the last one being 4, which all refer to the same thing, so I think the word "the" should remain. In other words, I do not support the Senate Amendment, and as such, I feel that the word "be" should remain and in future any amendments brought to us by the Senate will be accordingly considered, not as a waste of our time and the public's money, but in the interests of the country.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may be allowed to assume to much, I wish to disassociate our hon. House completely from the remarks which have been made by the hon. Member from Nairobi North-West.

Now Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not a question of mistrusting the draftsmen in the Attorney-General's Office, but the hon. Member must be able to know that while we are not lawyers, we are the guardians of the people who elected us to this House. We are here for the sole interests of these people and as such, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not see why the hon. Member should say that the Senate should be able to trust the draftsmen in the Attorney-General's Office. After all, for the information of the hon. Member, he should be able to note that the Senate has brought some amendments to this House which have been accepted by the Government which means that, if we may assume that one can be wrong or right, we should be able to understand that while we may not agree with the Senate in this particular point, it does not mean that we do not trust the draftsmen in the Attorney-General's Office. I want to establish one point, I hope that I am doing this on behalf of this House.

The Senate has as much right as the hon. Member speaking has the right to suggest amendments, and these amendments can then be looked into by the Ministry, and then brought to the House for discussion. So the idea of the Senate more or less not having the right should not be there.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, coming back to this matter, I should like to say that the Attorney-General has said there are disciplinary codes for different groups of people. Now, we have always understood that those officers who are seconded to the Kenya Government by the outside Government will not be subject to these particular codes. There are also some other courts to which they could be sent, for example, we would like to know as to whether the Attorney-General is merely saying that these people can misbehave in any way they want and there is no other court to discipline them.

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, is it not correct that what my hon. friend has just said is beyond the scope of this proposed amendment? The only clause we are discussing is the one on which the amendment is proposed; it is not a question of whether people outside should not be subject to a disciplinary court.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I said before, when the hon. Member raised a point of order like this, that he was arguing that seconded staff must be subject to some disciplinary code. He wanted to make sure that they were still going to be subject to some disciplinary code if the amendment was not accepted.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member should try to understand me although I am not a lawyer like himself. The point we are trying to make here is this. We have a lot of people from outside who have been seconded to our National Youth Service. Now the code that governs the members of the National Youth Service will not govern those seconded to our Government. This is what the Attorney-General has told me. Now we would like to know whether there is any other court, because this is specifically this particular court but you could have another one, another particular court. I do not understand it all, but the little I do understand is such that I would like to have an assurance from the Attorney-General that these people are still subject to another court, which is not this particular one. I would like to see something more specific than this.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is difficult to see how your question is relevant to this amendment, now that you have clarified it, Mr. Anyien. Whatever answer the Attorney-General gave you, I do not see how it would affect the substitution of the word "this" for the word "the" or vice versa.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I had better remove the doubts which the hon. Member has as to whether these people coming from other countries to our Service are completely immune from any regulation in the country. In the first place, if they are diplomats, they are subject to diplomatic regulations when they come here. If they are teachers, I believe too come here. If they are teachers, I believe too that the country has certain regulations which deal with teachers as teachers. If they are instructors or technicians, they even enjoy certain facilities which workers do normally enjoy.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have allowed Mr. Anyien to lead you off into irrelevancies. We are discussing whether the word "this" is preferable to the word "the".

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, there is no limitation, it is only that particular court that was being referred to previously. There are others in the country and there are immigration and other regulations governing every individual coming from another country into our country. I think, Sir, with all due respect to the Senators, they are inclined, sometimes, to be confused. This was brought about by the office of the Attorney-General, by its failure to go and explain to the Senate, and these confusions are then brought to this House. It is, on the one hand, a failure on the part of the Senate and, on the other hand, a failure on the part of the Attorney-General. The Attorney-General ought to have advised the Senators, not as a boss but as a servant of the Senate, through the Minister in the Senate, who is a servant of the Senate, that these words, in terms of law go this way. The Senators have some common sense and every Member of this House is endowed with it. The confusion that we are now facing, in the terms of the English language, ought to have been finished by the Attorney-General in the Senate.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I reject the amendment of the Senate, and warn the Attorney-General that if he proves to be inefficient we are bound to question his employment.

Mr. Ngabu-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think that these two articles should bring about such a serious debate that we have been having. All I want to do is to ask the Attorney-General's Department, through the Attorney-General himself, to enlighten me on the question of procedure. I have read the Constitution, but the Attorney-General is here to interpret it to the House at certain times. I would like to know whether, when the Senate is trying to amend a clause in any of these Bills, the attention of the Attorney-General is drawn to that; and then whether the Attorney-General can reply to the Senate before such an amendment comes back to this House. If there is no such procedure, this House maybe asked to discuss what one hon. Member almost described as a waste of time. Therefore, to avoid double work or to avoid making a procedural mistake, I think the Attorney-General should give a better explanation of what his Department feels this amendment means and whether he agrees that the word "this" should replace the word "the". I think this alone would help the House to understand, because this is a legal point, whether the word "this" would be better and I think the Members would then follow the Attorney-General's explanation.

So Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is what I wanted to say and the ball now remains in the Attorney-General's court.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is customary procedure in the two Houses to throw the ball to me! The position is that once the Senate has resolved an amendment, no one can stop its course back to this House for consideration by this House. It is too late then for the Attorney-General to tell the Senate that it is not a very good amendment, that he does not understand it. It is finished as far as they are concerned, it is then to be considered by this House. Then, when it is considered by this House, this House disagrees, it goes back to them and then perhaps they can see that it was not a very good amendment after all. The only way the Attorney-General can intervene is as suggested by Mr. Gichoya and to be present actually when the Bill is under consideration by the Senate and advise those who move certain amendments.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, I am not trying to defend myself; I am quite satisfied that we try to do our best. We have, on a number of occasions, suggested that the proposed amendment is not legally right and our suggestions and our proposals have not been accepted, both in this House and in the

[The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement] information and not that the Senate gets involved with finance. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I think the House agrees with the principle. It is only a question of technicalities of the implications of the law, and the wording of the two sections as they appear.

I do not think we have any point of disagreement here. The only thing is that one section deals with finance which concerns merely the House of Representatives, and the other section deals with information. I think both Houses are entitled to information.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, on a sort of a point of order, is it in order for the Clerk to this Council to include in the Order Paper a subject which, in effect, if we discuss it, contravenes the Constitution?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have answered that point two or three times. I cannot stop projects coming before this House simply because I, or somebody else, thinks that they contravene the Constitution. I cannot stop this House really debating anything that they are entitled to debate according to Standing Orders at the right time. All I can say is that if as the result of any such discussion, this House comes to a conclusion which in fact contravenes the Constitution, it will be an invalid conclusion. It will have no legal effect. That does not prevent discussion by this House.

Dr. Kiako, would you like to reply?

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiako): Mr. Speaker, I think the House is now agreed that we shall be very generous and we shall allow the Senators also to receive information from the Industrial Development Corporation.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Before I put the question, I would point out that, although the Senate cannot share with this House the responsibility of authorizing grants of money to the Industrial Development Corporation, they are quite entitled to debate the activities of the Industrial Corporation, and, for that purpose, to have the annual report of the Corporation.

THE MOTOR VEHICLE COMPONENTS AND ACCESSORIES BILL

(Consideration of Senate Amendments)

The Assistant Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of the Minister for External Security and Defence, who is away at the moment, he has asked me to ask you, Sir, if this can be postponed until the next sitting.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, with leave of the House, we will leave it for now.

(Consideration of Senate Amendment by leave of the House was postponed until a future date)

THE NATIONAL YOUTH SERVICE BILL

(Consideration of Senate Amendments)

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, I move that the Senate's Amendment to the National Youth Service be now considered.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiako) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did try to look at this Bill, at the amendment in connexion with the original, but I found that the problem is with the word "the" which is specifically referring to something that is already known and the Senators feel that it must be amended. Now, I should have thought, Sir, that when we refer to the Youth Service in this country, there is only one Youth Service which is recognized by law, and I do not see the point why, when we had already referred to it as the Youth Service at the end, we cannot refer to it as "the" instead of talking of "this". The word "this" means that we are completely ignorant, and that there has never been any clearance of the particular reference which was made in clause 4. Now, I think it is wrong to accept the amendment of the Senators. It is appropriate, in terms of the English language, to maintain this article "the" instead of "this".

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are not quite understanding the text of the clause which we are amending. The words which are governed by "the", which you may now wish to be governed by "this" are "disciplinary code", not "Youth Service".

I would point out to hon. Members that we need not discuss the merit of the amendment at [The Speaker] this stage. If the House will resolve that the Amendment be now considered, we can then discuss its merits.

(Question put and agreed to)

Clause 18

That clause 18 of the Bill be amended by deleting the words "the" appearing in the last line of the subclass (4) and substituting in place thereof the word "this".

(Question proposed)

Mr. Gichoya: I would like to know from the Minister whether, when we refer to the disciplinary code, which is already serving in this country, if the Minister means that he is going to stipulate or has already stipulated, for the sake of this service, a code of regulations, which we are trying to exempt the officers from?

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to ask the Attorney-General, who is here, to give us some direction. I think there are several disciplinary codes, and the one applying to the National Youth Service is a particular one, but if it is the same disciplinary code, then we should be able to be told so that the word "this" can be applied, or may not be applied. But, then we do not want what we agreed without this point being made clear, because there are a lot of disciplinary codes in the army and the police and so on. So, we would like the Attorney-General to enlighten the House as to what is exactly meant by this, so that we can discuss it with advice from the Attorney-General.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not understand this amendment from the Upper House, because section 18 lays financial provisions and the last paragraph (4) which should amend it, says, "the person seconded to the service from another country shall not be subject to the Code". This is the disciplinary code which is the one which is amended under section 18 (1) (2) (3) (4), so I do not understand why they want to change the word "he" to "this".

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with the enlightenment of the Attorney-General, we would like to know whether anybody who has been seconded from another country is free to do as he likes. We believe that if he is not subject to the court which affects the Members of the National Youth Service, that man should be subjected to another court, so this could mean that particular court which governs the members of the National Youth Service. But, then he could also be subjected, for example, he can be disciplined in some other way.

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is one point that I would like to make and that is about the Members of the Senate who like to bring the following amendment which is completely meaningless—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members must be very careful how they criticize the Senate, as opposed to disagreeing with them.

Dr. De Souza: Without criticizing the Senate, may I say that this particular amendment of the Bill is meaningless?

Mr. Anyleni: Would the hon. Member then withdraw the word "meaningless" because we do not want to create a bad relationship between the Senate and the Lower House, so would he withdraw it, as far as the Senate is concerned.

Dr. De Souza: I withdraw it. The particular amendment that they have proposed to the House is in fact meaningless, and it is for this reason because they have, in fact, delayed the passing of this Bill, they have caused so much extra expenditure in this country, by the substitution of the word which makes not the slightest difference whatsoever. In fact, it complicates it a bit. I suppose the hon. gentlemen concerned realized that these Bills are sent to the Attorney-General's Department to look through them very carefully, and it would be correct for them to appreciate that there are good lawyers in the Attorney-General's Department who do their job, and if they disagree with the drafting of the amendment, particularly as we are a one-party state, and all the Members there are of the same party as the Government, it is only fair for them first to approach the Attorney-General to find out if, in fact, their amendments do have any substance, rather than just delay the Bill and cause so much extra expenditure to the country. It is a matter of principle, therefore, I feel that if we, just because we are afraid of the Senate, we have to agree to whatever they say, and therefore, we accept it, in order to avoid any further delay. If they accept that principle, then they will be bringing further and further amendments to us which, in fact, may be meaningless. I do, therefore, request the House to vote against it.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I would agree with one of the remarks made by the last speaker, but I will not agree with him on the second point. In the first, he said that there is not the slightest difference between the two words, that is "the" and "this". Nevertheless, I think the Senators are entitled to make any amendment which, in their opinion, is of importance, although it may be of less importance to this House.

Nevertheless, I think the Senators are entitled to make any amendment which, in their opinion, is of importance, although it may be of less importance to this House.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It might be better, Mr. Mbogoh, if you are willing to withdraw that.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, I am convinced that this was unnecessary.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you went a little too far in suggesting that, when they have nothing better to do, they just sit and make alterations for the sake of them.

Mr. Mbogoh: Very well, Mr. Speaker, I withdraw those remarks.

Mr. Anylent: Mr. Speaker, Sir, any time we sit here and the Senate sits is very valuable time. In the Constitution it is very specifically stated that the matter is a matter for the Lower House only. Is it not then a waste of time for the Senate to be given this to discuss and then for it to be brought to us? Would it not be a saving of time for the whole nation if the Senate was allowed to look into these discussions and give their objections to the Minister concerned, instead of discussing what cannot be changed by them at all?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Senate have proposed an amendment. Whether or not it is one that they have the power to make, or this House can rightly agree to, it has to come back to this House for discussion and for this House to say that it agrees or disagrees. As a matter of fact, there is a provision in the Constitution under which the Speaker of the Senate might have ruled that this was not a case in which such an amendment could be made. Section 60 of the Constitution is somewhat involved, but the effect of subsection 2 of that section is that the Senate shall not proceed upon any amendment to any Bill that in the opinion of the person presiding—that is the Speaker of the Senate—makes provision for some financial control—that is what it comes to. The Speaker of the Senate could have ruled that it was beyond the reach of the Senate to make this Amendment at all. He is not bound to do so, and if he does not, no one can argue with his decision. His decision is final. Then it has to come back to this House still.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wonder whether it is appropriate for us to request the Attorney-General to always be present in the Senate when they are discussing certain Bills which he himself considers to be involving the financial implications which perhaps the Speaker of the Senate or the Deputy Speaker of the Senate may not be enlightened on in terms of legality? If this happens in future, we will not have to deal with certain things which otherwise ought to have been solved earlier by the office of the Attorney-General and the Speaker of the Senate. When we are discussing these things, it creates a controversy between the two Houses and, this ought to have been removed dutifully and carefully by the Attorney-General along with the Speaker of the Senate.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is a matter for Government to answer. It is not a point of order on which I can rule.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, if I may—as you have said—I would like to say, with respect, that section 60 (2) is rather involved and in the proposed amendments to the Constitution which have recently been published we have tried to simplify the procedure so that it is quite clear. As you have again with respect, pointed out, the Speaker of the Upper House could have ruled on this point, but unfortunately he did not, but under the present amendment I hope the procedure will be so simple that there will be no misunderstandings between us.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As no hon. Member wishes to speak, I will ask Dr. Kiano to reply.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is not very much to reply to, but I think, with all due respect to both this House and the Senate, perhaps people were not quite aware of the text of the sections being amended. That is why this thing did go through. The words "Legislative Council" appears only twice in the original Bill which we were seeking to amend by this new Bill. Section 11 of that original, where the words "Legislative Council" actually appear, it says, "To enable the Corporation to exercise its powers so as to fulfil any obligations. The Minister for Finance may, with the consent of the Legislative Council, make advances or grants to the Corporation." That is where we are saying that the financial control belongs to this House. We are not saying "discussed," it says "with the consent".

If we say "the consent of the National Assembly", we will be saying that the Senators also must consent, which would be contradicting our own Constitution. That is where the Speaker could have even ruled that this does not have to come back. However, there is another part which also has the words "Legislative Council" in, which reads as follows: "The Accounts and Annual Report shall within six months of the

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry] completion of the financial year of the Corporation be laid on the Table of the Legislative Council by the Ministry." Now concerning that part which simply says that the annual report and annual accounts will be made available to the hon. Members—with the spirit of fraternity, Mr. Speaker,—it is perfectly all right for us to say, "Your report was also to our colleagues in the Upper House", and that is why I have said, with reference to section 11, we must leave it as it was; that is, the House of Representatives. As far as section 14 (5) is concerned, where we simply say, "Lay the annual report and accounts on the Table", I would be quite willing to say, "Lay it on the Tables of both Houses of the National Assembly".

(Question put and negatived)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now, Dr. Kiano, you can move your alternative amendment.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiano): Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have been wondering which one the House had rejected. They told me that it was not mine that was rejected, but the Senate's amendment which was rejected. I am very happy about that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move to further amend, that clause 2 of the Bill be amended by deleting all the words after the word "in" in the penultimate line thereof and substituting therefor the words "section 11", the words "House of Representatives", and for the words, "Table of the Legislative Council", which appear in section 14 (5), the words, "Tables of both Houses of the National Assembly".

I beg to move.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) seconded.

(Question of the alternative amendment proposed)

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have just made it clear that the House of Representatives deals with the finance aspects of the country. Now the Tables which the Minister tells us which must be considered are the Tables of the two Houses. Why should we involve ourselves in order to appease the Senate, that the two Tables of the Houses must be considered? This, Mr. Speaker, is where I perhaps disagree with the Minister. I agree with the first part where the House of Representatives takes the responsibility. The question of presenting it again making it a part of the law, that it must be sent to both Houses, I suggest to the Minister that it be withdrawn. The question of placing it on the Tables of the two Houses should be withdrawn and left as it is.

As a matter of courtesy and procedure, he could also table it if he thinks fit. That part I object to in that Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would just point out to hon. Members that section 14 (5) to which the hon. Member refers covers a report as well as accounts of the Industrial Development Corporation. I know hon. Members are not very familiar with the text of the original Act.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, I am wondering if, as the Minister has just said, according to the Constitution, money matters can be passed without going to the Senate. Are we just mentioning the two Tables so that we can please the Senate by the amendment, or simply because we feel that this is necessary? If it is passed, are we going against the Constitution which mentions the House of Representatives only?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Would you like to take this up, Mr. Njonjo?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, if I may perhaps try to help. At the moment, we have two Houses of Parliament, the Lower House and the Upper House. The section we are trying to amend reads as follows, that is section 14 (5), "The Accounts and Annual Report shall within six months of completion of each financial year of the corporation be laid on the Table of the Legislative Council by the Minister". As we have two Houses, and this is merely a report and accounts, I myself submit there is no objection in having this amendment, because all we are providing is that these accounts be laid on this Table and a similar account will be laid in the Upper House, for information.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is always difficult to understand the technicalities of these sections. We are not always conversant with legal affairs and I think the Minister should forgive the hon. Members if they appear to be a little confused. I think the question here is the first section, the section which has been amended to provide for the laying of the Bill to the House of Representatives. It is the actual part which concerns finance and it is the only part which has financial implications. The latter part which involves both the House of Representatives and the Senate, Mr. Speaker, as far as I understand is only for the purpose of

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry]

I might perhaps, for the benefit of those Members who may not have the amended copies, read it. It is proposed that clause 2 of the Bill be amended by deleting all words after the word "in" in the penultimate line thereof and substituting therefor the words: "section 11 of the words 'House of Representatives' and for the words 'table of the Legislative Council' in section 14 (5) the words 'tables of both Houses of the National Assembly'."

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members will appreciate that on Motions of this kind the ordinary rules of debate apply, and hon. Members can only speak once in this debate. When the Mover replied at the end of it, I realized that Mr. Mbogoh wanted to speak, but it does not make much difference because we are only considering now whether the Senate Amendment should be considered. Having resolved that it should be considered, there will be an opportunity for further discussion on the amendment. I think I had better put the question now.

Mr. Anyienli: The Minister, Mr. Speaker, said this is a Constitutional matter. We would like to read this before we say yes or no because we do not know if it is a strictly Constitutional matter and since we are not discussing the matter of the Constitution, I would like you to give us guidance on this. If the amendment of the Senate affects the Constitution, and right now we are not discussing a Constitutional matter, then we would like to be given guidance as to whether we are free to discuss this or not.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think all our Members must always be free to discuss any Bill or any amendment of a Bill. The mere fact that it is pointed out to them that something proposed to the House may conflict with the Constitution does not stop them arguing about it, though if its result is found by a court to be unconstitutional, it will simply be invalid. So, I would not say that the fact that some proposition before the House is not in accordance with the Constitution debars all discussion of it.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now I have to apologize to the Clerk Assistant. I was wrong a moment ago on what I said was the procedure on these Amendments. He was quite right; our Standing Orders required him at this stage to read out the whole of each proposed Amendment, one at a time. On each one, the question proposed by the Speaker is that this House doth agree to the said Amendment. The Clerk will now read the first Amendment.

Clause 2

THAT clause 2 of the Bill be amended by deleting the words "House of Representatives", appearing therein and inserting in place thereof, the words "National Assembly".

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The question I have to propose is that this House agrees to the said Amendment; and I should explain that if the Minister wishes to substitute an alternative amendment, as he has indicated that he does, it is in order for him to ask the House not to agree to the said Amendment. If the said Amendment is negatived, then after that it is open to the Minister to move his alternative amendment. At this stage, we can only agree to the Senate Amendment without amendment or disagree.

(Question of the Senate Amendment proposed)

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiano): I have already asked the House not to approve the Senate Amendment.

Mr. Anyienli: Mr. Speaker, when I raised the point of order, I did not very well understand your reply, because we feel that on a question which has got to do with money and things like that, imprisonment and things like that, the National Assembly, which has been voted for by the whole country, should be able to have a say, and that the Senate should not be made to appear a rubber-stamp.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we would like to know strictly as to whether, in any discussion on this, we will be able to change it, because I did not hear the ruling you made. If, Mr. Speaker, it is possible for us to change this from the House of Representatives to the National Assembly, we would prefer it to be that way. Yet even if we agreed to that, and still, constitutionally, it cannot be, because this is a constitutional matter, then we would like to know so that we do not waste time on this.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The answer I gave to Mr. Anyienli's point of order was that this House is not debarred from discussing a matter simply because it is said to be contrary to the Constitution. The only thing is that if they come to a decision which is contrary to the Constitution, it will be found to have no effect at all because it is, over-ridden by the Constitution.

Now as regards this particular matter, it is a very important principle; in the terms and spirit of the Constitution, that all financial control is reserved to this House, of the National Assembly. The power of the Senate is limited to criticism of what this House does in other matters or very limited periods of criticism of financial decisions of this House, and initiating legislation other than on financial matters. Finance belongs to this House. That is why this Amendment Bill, as passed by this House, referred to this particular matter of authorizing the Minister for Finance to make grants to the Industrial Corporation as being done by this House, in place of the former Legislative Council.

That is why the Minister now proposes that the House should hold to its original Bill and not allow the Senate to participate in that particular responsibility of authorizing the Minister for Finance to make grants for the Industrial Corporation, or any other body, for that matter.

Mr. Gichoya: I wonder whether one is allowed to speak on this, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think there has been a sort of feeling among some Members of the Senate that we are becoming a very important institution; the House of Representatives, which is the Lower House, and, as a matter of prestige, certain Bills which are very clear and are supposed to be dealt with only by the House of Representatives, the Senators feel they should have a right to discuss. I think that so long as the relations between the two Houses are clearly stipulated and have been functioning harmoniously, there is no need for the Senators to have the feeling that they are being belittled because the money Bills do not go to them.

I think that what should be done is that the Minister should assure the Senate that wherever there is any Bill relating to the Industrial Development Corporation, and it does not involve money, that Bill will definitely go to them or perhaps start from the Senate and come back to the Lower House, so that the Senators could feel that they have a role to play.

In this connexion, Sir, it is the privilege of this House and the right of this House that we deal with money and since this is a Bill which relates to money I think the Senators should leave it to the House of Representatives. As long as the Minister has assured this House that the steps already taken by the House of Representatives are legitimate and legal, then I do not see why we should accept the Senators' Amendment so kind, they could be included in discussions of this kind, which should actually be our rights. We do not deny their rights; we do not even demand that what is theirs should be ours. We have allowed them to discuss what is theirs and we discuss what is ours. This is our right, our privilege, if we may call it so, and we have to safeguard it, Sir.

Mr. Agari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I support the Minister in rejecting this amendment by the Senate because it would become an anomaly if we were going to allow the Senate Amendment to stand on a matter of granting money, through the Minister for Finance, to the Industrial Development Corporation. I think, as one hon. Member has stated, that this is really a constitutional matter, the terms are constitutional; money matters are controlled by the House of Representatives and the words "House of Representatives" are the proper ones. I therefore support the Minister in rejecting the Senate Amendment.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while I support the Minister on the question of rejecting the amendment, and also the other Members, I wish to say clearly here that the Senate should know better than just to think in terms of themselves so that they can be included in every Bill which is passed when they are there, they know for certain that many of the things we pass here in the House of Representatives are passed and then they go and look at them; and when they have no work to do, they sit down and start discussing a few things like this and think that they can be included in everything.

So, Mr. Speaker, I think that the Senate should be advised to check everything clearly and know the constitutional parts of the Bills; they would be saving our time and saving other people's time in discussing such small things.

I therefore support the rejection.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think I should say, at this stage, that there should not be any unnecessary criticism by this House of hon. Members of the Upper House or vice versa. We have to work together. We can, of course, disagree with what they propose, but I do not think we should criticize their conduct or their intelligence or anything else in the process of that disagreement. I do intend, if hon. Members criticize without absolute necessity the conduct of the Senate as opposed to the projects put forward by the Senate, to rule that out of order.

Mr. Agari: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that we want to encourage the spirit of working together, I would request the hon. Member to withdraw the words he said: "The Senate, when they find they have nothing to do, they sit down and scrub out a few things on the Bills they have."

[The Assistant Minister for Local Government]
During 1963 and the first ten months of 1964, eighteen local government authority councillors from some twelve councils have gone overseas on short local government study tours. Eight of these have come from seven county councils.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister agree with me that Kericho District was neglected?

Mr. Njiriri: Sir, I did not hear the question.

Mr. Kerich: Sir, I said, can the Minister agree with me that Kericho District Councillors were not included?

Mr. Njiriri: No, Sir.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Junior Minister tell this House which were the countries that offered these scholarships in 1963 and 1964?

Mr. Njiriri: So far, Mr. Speaker, we have Great Britain, United States, Israel and West Germany.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could we have the analyses of the seven councils concerned?

Mr. Njiriri: So far we have eight. Some from Kipsigis, Kakamega, Kisumu, Kiambu and Taita Counties.

Mr. Somo: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Junior Minister tell the House, among the mentioned Governments, how many scholarships did each Government receive?

Mr. Njiriri: I am not able to tell how many at present, but I would be in a position to reply later.

Mr. Speaker (Mr. Slade): Is any hon. Member authorized to ask the questions set down by Mr. Rurumban?

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

CASH GIFTS AT PUBLIC MEETINGS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have to inform hon. Members that I have received notice from Mr. Makokha of his desire to raise on an adjournment the matter of the President's and Ministers' cash gifts at public meetings (towards local projects, and the dangers that seem to be cropping up in connexion with such gifts.

I have allotted tomorrow evening, Wednesday, 17th February, at the close of ordinary business for that matter to be raised.

Clause 20

THAT clause 20 of the Bill be amended by deleting all the words after the first word "imprisonment" appearing therein and inserting in place thereof the following words:—

"not exceeding six months or to a fine not exceeding five thousand shillings or to both such imprisonment and such fine".

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House now considers the Senate amendment to the Animal Diseases Bill.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The procedure is, under our Standing Orders with regard to Senate amendments, now that the House has agreed that the amendment be now considered, that the Clerk simply reads the clause number, and then it is for the Speaker to propose the question of the amendment.

(Question of the amendment proposed)

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government accepts this amendment and I would therefore ask the House not to debate on it at length. We in the Government have found that the amendment is worth accepting and as such we have accepted it and I would ask the House to accept it as well without further debate.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Before I put the question, I would like to say, if I would not be out of order for pointing it out, that this amendment is not really necessary, because it is covered by section 71 of the Interpretation and General Provisions Act, whereby all sentences are only maximum sentences unless otherwise expressly provided by the law concerned.

THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL

(Consideration of Senate Amendment)

Clause 2

THAT clause 2 of the Bill be amended by deleting the words "House of Representatives" appearing therein and inserting in place thereof the words "National Assembly".

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiako): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House doth now consider the Senate amendment to the Industrial Development (Amendment) Bill.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Anylen: Mr. Speaker, I do not want to say much but I do want to know why the words "House of Representatives" was used instead of the words "National Assembly". I would like the Government, or the Minister concerned, to be able to explain to the House why the words "House of Representatives" was used. I would also like to know whether the House of Representatives represents both Houses of the National Assembly, so that in supporting or opposing the amendment we shall know whether the amendment is really a necessity or not.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Dr. Kiako): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to point out that the Government does not accept the Senate amendment in toto, because there are some complications which I am glad the hon. Member for Kisii has wished to be notified about. For simplicity's sake in the original form we had put "House of Representatives" in place of "Legislative Council" because part of this section, that is clause 2 of the original Bill, had to do with the granting of money by the Minister for Finance with the approval of the Legislative Council in the original form, and now the House of Representatives. Now, as the hon. Member knows, Mr. Speaker, when it comes to money Bills these Bills are initiated in the House of Representatives and the House of Representatives has the last word on the question of money.

Therefore, Sir, what I have proposed is that with reference to section 11 of the original Bill which deals with the granting of money to the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation by the Minister for Finance, with the approval of the House of Representatives, we retain the words "House of Representatives", otherwise we shall be giving away to the Senate a power which is reserved only to this House by the Constitution itself. It would therefore be a breach of the Constitutional procedure if we accepted that in section 11 of the original Bill we replaced "House of Representatives" with "National Assembly".

With reference to section 14, part V, I am quite willing to accept the use of the words "National Assembly" because that part only refers to laying on the Table here and laying on the Table in the Senate for information the accounts and annual reports of this corporation.

Therefore, the House ought to know that there is a difference between these two parts. One part is section 11 which is a money Bill and that part must be left only to the House of Representatives. With regard to section 14, part V I am willing to agree with the Senators that for that part, which only deals with information given to them, that part should be amended to include the Senate.

Hence, instead of accepting the way the Senators had worded the amendment I preserve the prerogative of the House of Representatives as far as section 11 is concerned.

Mr. Achlang-Onoko: When funds are available, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Gichoya: Arising from the Minister's reply that he is prepared to take the whole machinery over when funds are available, is he now prepared to consider his own future demand for a Ministry, the project to be taken over by the K.B.C.?

Mr. Achlang-Onoko: The question is not very clear because he is referring to the K.B.C. which is not known any more.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that I should make myself clear. What I mean is this: the Minister says that he has not sufficient funds to take over the D.B.C. monitoring station which is at Karen. Now, I asked the Minister whether he was prepared to include within his Budget Estimates for the coming financial year money enough to cover the cost of taking over this monitoring station.

Mr. Achlang-Onoko: Finding funds is another thing altogether; it is far from a Government decision, but my Ministry is anxious to see that the station becomes a Kenya Government station. That decision has, in fact, been taken, but as far as funds are concerned, when they are available we will have to bring the matter to the House to decide whether the money is there to pay to the D.B.C.

Question No. 797

DISMISSED WORKERS AT VIPINGO AND KILIFI

Mr. Balala asked the Minister for Labour and Social Services how many workers of the Vipingo and Kilifi Sisal Estates respectively had been dismissed by their employers after the Tripartite Agreement?

The Minister for Labour and Social Services (Mr. Mwendwa): The question is not clear, Mr. Speaker. The question ends with the words, Mr. Speaker, "after the Tripartite Agreement". The Tripartite Agreement, as such, has not come to an end, but if the Member wanted to know how many employees were sacked during the life of the Tripartite Agreement, then, Mr. Speaker, the answer is as follows:—

Fifty-one workers have been discharged by the Vipingo Sisal Estate and forty-one by the Kilifi Estate, while during the same period, eighty-six workers left the Vipingo Estate of their own accord and forty-seven left their employment at Kilifi.

Thirty-seven of the discharges at Vipingo and thirty-two at Kilifi resulted from absenteeism. These dismissals took place in accordance with the agreement existing between the Kenya Plantation and Agricultural Workers' Union and the Sisal Employers' Association whereby a worker who absents himself for more than three working days in a month is issued with a written warning. If, after two such warnings, the worker absents himself again, the agreement permits his dismissal. In point of fact, at Vipingo, the three-day period is extended to ten days before action is taken in respect of absenteeism.

Of the remaining fourteen dismissals at Vipingo, four workers were discharged on medical grounds and six were proved guilty of misdemeanours. The remaining nine dismissals at Kilifi were on similar grounds. This number of dismissals over a period of nine months is not exceptional when one has in mind that the Vipingo Estate employs some 3,000 workers and Kilifi a further 600.

I would invite Members' attention to the fact that provision is made in the Tripartite Agreement for dismissal in the case of indiscipline and that local tripartite committees are set up to which a worker may appeal against his dismissal if he so wishes.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell this House what steps and investigations were made by his Ministry to see that the dismissals, he mentioned, were justifiable and not mere oppression by the employers of the employees?

Mr. Mwendwa: Anybody listening to my analysis of the numbers dismissed, on medical grounds and other grounds, should know that our Ministry did investigate because without investigation we would not have been able to obtain these figures.

Mr. Oluwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House whether there were any replacements for these dismissals and desertions?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, in any estate when somebody is dismissed, it is up to the manager to see that he replaces immediately the person dismissed.

Question No. 798

DEVELOPMENT OF COAST BATTERY SITE

Mr. Balala asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement:—

(a) For what purpose did the Government intend developing the site of the Coast Battery, once leased to the British Army?

(b) Were there any existing sites in Kenya still occupied on lease or otherwise by the British Army?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. After consultation with certain Government organizations, which had an interest in the Coast Battery site, it has been decided that the part of the site on which several substantial buildings existed should be occupied by the Police Department and that as much as possible of the open space between the buildings and the shore, including that portion of land held by the East African Railways and Harbours Administration for port purposes, should be made available to the Municipal Council.

In reply to the second part of the question, I can state categorically that all land formerly occupied by the British Army, whether held on freehold title, leasehold or by reservation, is now in process of being handed over to the Kenya Government. Letters of allotment and reservations were relinquished prior to 12th December 1964, while freehold and leasehold titles are in process of being surrendered.

Question No. 801

COMPENSATION FOR DEPENDENTS

Mr. arap Sol asked the Minister for Internal Security and Defence whether he could tell the House what compensation was given to the dependents of a Kenya Army soldier when he was killed in the service of the country?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

Provisions for compensation to the dependents of a Kenya soldier killed in the course of his duty are contained in the Kenya Military Forces Regulations (Cap. 201 of the Laws of Kenya). These Regulations provide for the payment of a pension to the widow of the deceased soldier and to his dependent children. In addition a gratuity is payable to the dependents.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, does the Minister consider that the pension is enough for the education of the children?

Mr. Gichuru: I do not think there is any question of my passing judgment on this. These are Regulations and until they are altered they remain so.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister tell this House whether this compensation applies to tribal policemen and other general policemen?

Mr. Gichuru: We are talking about the army and they do apply to all ranks.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister tell the House the number of dependents who have been given compensation since he says the Regulations are old.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is a different question and I do not know whether the Minister has come prepared to answer it.

Mr. Sol: Mr. Speaker, will the Minister tell the House who changes the Regulations? This Minister or the Minister for Defence?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my duty is to see that the rules are carried out, and this is exactly what I have been doing.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, the Minister did say that until and unless the Regulations have been altered they still have effect so, now, who is empowered to alter these Regulations and stipulate the proper regulations conducive to the free Kenya?

Mr. Gichuru: Sir, I have no answer to that question.

Mr. Anyieni: In view of the fact that the conditions that the Minister has already mentioned were conditions laid down during colonial days, when an African was not considered to be a human being, would the Minister consider setting up a committee to investigate and find out whether these Regulations could be brought to Parliament for necessary changes?

Mr. Gichuru: I cannot promise to do so.

Mr. Mhogohi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that in Kenya today you find that there are some limits of age when somebody becomes permanently employed and receives a pension, could the Minister tell us this: will every soldier employed get on to the permanent scale as soon as he gets into the service?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We are talking about compensation for soldiers killed in the service.

Question No. 803

SHORT COURSE SCHOLARSHIPS

Mr. G. G. Kartuki asked the Minister for Local Government if the Minister could tell the House how many short courses scholarships for county councillors had been provided by friendly governments during the years 1963 and 1964.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Njiru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

one particular aspect, but we intend to establish Chairs in various fields, of which international affairs is one, provided we have money to establish the said Chair.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that today we have sent diplomats, representing our nation overseas, without any training, would the Minister give a guarantee to this House that since the Government may be planning to send more diplomats overseas, Government will make sure that these people are trained before they are sent overseas, so that there is no embarrassment caused which may come because of ignorance, not because of fault of the diplomats?

Question No. 776

MOSQUITO NETS FOR KISII HOSPITAL

Mr. Makone asked the Minister for Health and Housing if the Minister would tell the House why Kisii Hospital was not provided with mosquito nets for the patients' beds.

The Assistant Minister for Health and Housing (Mr. Moss): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I do not consider that it is necessary to supply mosquito nets for patients in Kisii Hospital as it is not considered that the mosquito density there is a major problem.

Mr. Makone: I do not understand what the Minister's reply is.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Will you repeat your reply, because very few people could hear it.

Mr. Moss: I do not consider it is necessary to supply mosquito nets for patients in Kisii Hospital as it is not considered that the mosquito density there is a major problem.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, having been working in Kisii Hospital for at least one year, and knowing the rate of deaths caused by malaria in Kisii Hospital, would the Assistant Minister tell us how many cases of malaria were diagnosed and treated over the last year in Kisii Hospital?

Mr. Moss: Mr. Speaker, Sir, regarding malaria, I would say that considerable malaria work has been carried out in and around Kisii Township, namely the clearing of bushes, control of market areas, and the treatment of mosquitoes has been carried out. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, regarding the question, we are very concerned with the prevention rather than the cure.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: To carry my question further, Mr. Speaker, Sir. The Assistant Minister stated that the malarial treatment is not a problem in this particular hospital and it is not justified because we generally like to see mosquito nets. Now the question was that I have more experience of how many cases suffer from malaria in that particular hospital.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, how many malaria cases were diagnosed from 1964 up to January, this year, and were treated in this hospital to make the House think that there is no case for this?

Mr. Moss: I consider this to be a different question.

Mr. Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, it is not a different question.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister has told us point blank that the malaria cases in this hospital do not warrant mosquito nets to be provided.

Now my colleague, the hon. Mr. Ngala-Abok, has asked how many cases have been reported in the last year. Could we know whether that question has been answered or not?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Are you asking a question of the Minister or was your question of me? I have ruled that it is not a different question.

Do you want to pursue it?

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought the Assistant Minister said it was a different question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not a different question. Are you repeating Mr. Ngala-Abok's question?

Mr. Khalif: Yes, Sir. Would the Assistant Minister tell us how many cases of malaria have been nursed or reported in this hospital in the last year?

Mr. Agari: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply that the number of mosquitoes is not warranting a supply of nets. If he learns from us that private houses use mosquito nets because there are so many mosquitoes now in Kisii, would he then reconsider and produce mosquito nets for the Kisii hospital immediately?

Mr. Ngala: The Assistant Minister having acknowledged that around Kisii there is the problem of mosquitoes and malarial treatment. Why then is it not necessary, in his view, that the patients should have mosquito nets?

Mr. Moss: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in reply to the question asked by the hon. Ngala. No Government hospitals are provided with these nets for anti-malarial use. A few hospitals are provided with nets for special use and also it has been reported by them that mosquito nets are sometimes dangerous. At the same time mosquito nets are very poisonous.

Mr. Anyleni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that Kisii District caters for the Kisii District and South Nyanza District and in South Nyanza District there are a lot of mosquitoes and as such there is a lot of malaria and all these patients who come to Kisii Hospital find a lot of mosquitoes and so they are infectious when they come to Kisii Hospital and when they find this to be the case, would the Minister recognize that he represents an elected Government and therefore would he consider the idea of introducing the nets into Kisii Hospital immediately?

Mr. Moss: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will investigate further into this matter to find out full details.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order. In the process of the Assistant Minister's reply, he has suggested that mosquito nets are poisonous. This is contrary to the profession of his own Ministry. Could I ask him to withdraw that statement?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. I think the hon. Member is referring to the Standing Order which requires hon. Members to be responsible for the truth of what they say and which empowers other hon. Members to require them to substantiate what they say. I do not think really it extends to statements of opinion, and this is a statement of opinion which an hon. Member cannot substantiate or otherwise without a great deal of technical evidence which hon. Members would not understand; so I do not think it is a case for applying this standing order.

Mr. Abogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to know if it is very necessary for a Minister to stand up and give a reply to the House which is misleading and in that case could be useless to the questioner?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think we can deal with this any more. On to the next question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

MOSQUITO NETS FOR KISII HOSPITAL

Mr. Makone: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker; Sir. In view of the unsatisfactory answer given by the Assistant Minister, I would like to raise the matter on the Adjournment on this question.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 796

BRITISH BROADCASTING CORPORATION MONITORING STATION AT KAREN

Mr. Balala asked the Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism whether it was the intention of the Government that the British Broadcasting Corporation Monitoring Station in Karen should continue after Kenya had attained republican status.

The Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism (Mr. Achieng-Onoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is the intention of my Ministry to take over the Monitoring Station at Karen as soon as the necessary funds are available with which to buy out the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is my feeling, and I think it is the feeling which is shared by this House, that radio and all means of receiving information should not be in the hands of or under the control of foreigners in an independent country.

Mr. Balala: Would the Minister tell this House what services this unit renders to the country?

Mr. Achieng-Onoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I should give some background information which led to the formation of this station.

The history of the monitoring system by the B.B.C. began in 1936 when they started on external broadcasting; it was to find out what other countries were thinking about the United Kingdom. The United Kingdom Government thought that the service should be run by the B.B.C. and, as will be noticed here, the building at Karen was erected by a grant-in-aid by Her Majesty's Government and later handed to the B.B.C. with partial interests by the defunct K.B.C. The B.B.C. in this case works hand in hand with the British Government and therefore it is very difficult to draw a line between the B.B.C. and Her Majesty's Government.

Therefore, at the moment very little functions are given to the Kenya Government.

Mr. Somb: Arising from the Minister's original reply, could he tell us how long will his Ministry take to take over the Karen station?

[Mr. Anyieni]

on Uganda by planes, bombs and pilots supplied by the United States Government to the Tshombe Government. Recalls the repeated appeals made by the Organization of African Unity to the United States Government to stop the supply of armaments to the Tshombe Government. Calls upon the East African Governments to take immediate measure to co-ordinate their defence and security arrangements to meet the threat posed by continued United States intervention in the Congo which constitutes a threat to the security of the countries bordering on the Congo.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motions:—

RULES TO IMPROVE COFFEE QUALITY

THAT this House is perturbed by the country-wide deterioration of coffee quality and calls upon the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry to introduce ways and means to stop loss of revenue from the most important cash crop to our people by enacting rules, by-laws and legislation to effect the proper maintenance of plantations, growing and processing of coffee.

DEATH OF FOUR HON. MEMBERS: REASONS

THAT this House notes with great indignation the deaths of four hon. Members during the past one and a half years and calls upon the Government to set up a Board of Inquiry taking into consideration the following points:

- (i) Social life of Members when attending meetings in Nairobi, regarding their diet and accommodation.
- (ii) Solvency of Members in Nairobi and at home.
- (iii) Comparative cost of living between Members and Ministers of this Government.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 743

OVERHEAD RAILWAY: KISUMU-BUSIA ROAD

Mr. Nyaliek asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power what steps the Government envisaged taking to approach the appropriate authority to build an overhead railway line at Kisumu-Busia Road level crossing, to eliminate the frequent deaths caused by collisions at that spot.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

The question as it stands is not altogether clear since the Kisumu-Busia Road crosses the Kisumu-Butere railway line at several points. It can fairly accurately be assumed, however, that the reference is to the Mumias Road level crossing at the mile 1/1 on the Kisumu-Kisian section of the line.

The elimination of this crossing is a long-term project, so far as I am aware, which awaits the allocation of funds by the Kisumu Municipal Council. So far as the E.A.R. and H. Administration is concerned, plans for the realignment of the Butere Branch Line and provision of a rail over road bridge (in conjunction with the proposed realignment of the main road) have been accepted by the town planning adviser and incorporated in the Kisumu Development plan drawn up in 1961. I am also informed that it will take some years before the scheme by Kisumu Local Authority can be effected. Meanwhile, the planning committee of the Kisumu Municipal Council are studying the safety arrangements at this crossing with a view to the provision of more effective advance warning signs for the benefit of the road users.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that so many deaths have been caused in Kenya by collisions because of the lack of overhead railway lines?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope the Member is referring to this particular level crossing. I am only aware of one lorry which collided with a train sometime last year.

Mr. Balal: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell this House how many people died last year from accidents as a result of collisions in this particular place?

Mr. Mwanjumba: As far as I am aware, Mr. Speaker, the number is five.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister tell the House whether he is aware that lack of overhead railway lines at various key points in Kenya has caused a lot of deaths and that his Ministry must take steps to guard against possible future deaths?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): This question refers to a particular point on the railway and the Minister has already answered that. I think we will go on.

Question No. 755

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Mr. Theuri asked the Minister for Education to inform the House when the Government was going to open a Department of International Affairs at University College of East Africa for the teaching of diplomacy in foreign affairs.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

The University of East Africa conducts short courses on diplomacy at Makerere University College from time to time.

Courses on international affairs are run in the constituent colleges whenever the need arises. For instance recently there has been a course on international trade and aid in the University College, Nairobi, which some honourable Members of this House gave several addresses.

Various aspects of international affairs, however, fall within the scope of different subjects which are a part of the university curriculum such as economics, political science and history.

In opening of new departments in the university of East Africa priority is given to courses closely relevant to East Africa's manpower needs. At present it is felt that facilities which are already available in the university for the teaching of diplomacy are adequate.

Mr. Anyieni: Would the Minister tell this House whether the facilities he has already mentioned are sufficient for those who want to be career diplomats?

Mr. Koinange: I am not saying that they are sufficient because of the various needs that may arise from time to time in changing periods.

Mr. Anyieni: Would the Minister then inform this House whether there are any Kenya representatives overseas who are regarded as diplomats, and who have never undergone any such courses?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the questioner understands that Kenya started to govern itself recently, and we have not had the opportunity of educating our diplomats outside the country other than here. It is true that those who have gone overseas have taken a degree in international law and subjects of history, but they are not sent there deliberately for such, except in a very few cases.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from what the Minister has just said, could the Minister first tell us which colleges of East Africa are conducting foreign diplomacy courses, and how long are these courses, and what are the qualification for intake?

Mr. Koinange: I have just said that the subjects have been opened from time to time by the East African Universities, and I referred to recent courses taken in Nairobi which some of the Members took part in.

Mr. Ngala: Following up on the answer of the Minister, Sir, is the Minister aware that these courses are cultural courses and do not provide for any diploma or any serious study on international affairs?

Mr. Koinange: I have pointed out, Mr. Speaker, that they come according to the need when that need arises.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Minister find it very convenient to train a diplomat in America and send him to Russia?

Mr. Koinange: I did not hear the question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Will you repeat your question?

Mr. Mbogoh: I wanted to know from the Minister whether he finds it very convenient to train a diplomat in the United States of America and send him on a diplomatic mission to China or the U.S.S.R. or somewhere like that?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of education is not the monopoly of any one country. It is international, and a diplomat does not have to be trained either in the United States of America or Russia or vice versa.

Any education in East Africa or overseas could be used. It is not the monopoly of any one country.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Minister's earlier reply, where he said that these courses are run having regard to the manpower needs of East Africa, can he tell this House whether he is satisfied that the manpower need for diplomats is being satisfactorily catered for?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the need is considered satisfactory then we will close the gates of the university, but the changes come and the need will continue, and that is why the university has places for training that are kept open.

Mr. Muliro: Arising from the Minister's reply, would the Minister consider establishing a Chair for international affairs or diplomacy at the University of East Africa?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, that is actually one of the objectives of the university, not in

OBITUARIES

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Honourable Members, since our last sitting, this House has suffered the loss, by premature and tragic death of two of its Members, our colleagues and friends; and the whole world has suffered the loss, though by death at great age, of one of the greatest men of history.

Simon Kamunde, Member for Meru Central, and his wife, were killed in a motor accident on 27th December 1964. Mr. Kamunde was a man whom we all respected for his ability and dedication in many capacities; as Parliamentary Secretary for Justice and Constitutional Affairs, Assistant Minister for Information, Broadcasting and Tourism, Member of the Coffee Board of Kenya, and Member of this House. We expected great things of him in service to our country during many years to come; and the loss of such a man, at such an early age, is something that this House and Kenya can ill afford. We also, who knew him personally, mourn the loss of a good friend. Our deep sympathy goes out to his orphaned children, and to all surviving members of his family.

Thomas Masaki Mongare, Member for North Mugirango, was killed in a motor accident on 19th January 1965. Mr. Mongare, who also was too young to die, will be remembered for his brave, enthusiastic and generous personality. He was a man of many virtues, who was maturing fast, and would have made a great contribution to the deliberations of this House and to the welfare of his constituents and country, had he been allowed to live. Here again, we have lost prematurely a friend and patriot whom we and Kenya could ill afford to lose; and to his widow and family also we extend our deep sympathy.

Sir Winston Spencer Churchill, inspired leader of the British people, died, full of years and honour, on 24th January 1965. Tribute to him on behalf of our nation has already been paid by our President, our Vice-President, our Minister for Finance, and other representatives. I cannot improve upon their words of praise. Only I would recall that, in his greatness, Winston Churchill remained ever a staunch champion of Parliament. He loved and revered Parliament, he knew how to use Parliament, for advice as well as for support; he enhanced the dignity and vigour of Parliament by his superb rhetoric and matchless humour; and, in the grateful affection which came back to him from all Members, whatever their party, he reaped the reward of a great parliamentarian—one of the greatest that the world has known.

On 25th January 1965, the day when the House of Commons met to honour his memory, the Speaker of the Senate and I sent to the Speaker of the House of Commons the following cable:—

"Speakers of Senate and House of Representatives on behalf of all Members of National Assembly of Kenya honour memory of Sir Winston Churchill inspired leader and great parliamentarian. Please convey our sympathy to all Members and to Lady Churchill and family.

Chokwe and Slade."

to which we received, within two days, the following cabled reply:—

"The House of Commons is deeply grateful for your expression of sympathy on behalf of the National Assembly of Kenya in the loss we have suffered by the death of Sir Winston Churchill stop. Your words will stand permanently recorded in the official report of the House.

Harry Hylton-Foster, Speaker."

Let us now stand in silence for one minute, to honour the memory of these three men.

(Hon. Members stood in silence for one minute)

ASSENT TO ACTS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members, we have rather a long list of Acts which have been enacted and were assented to by His Excellency the Governor-General before Republic. I ask your patience while I read them. Perhaps hon. Members can see that he is present with us today.

[The Speaker]

SENATE MESSAGES ON BILLS

I have a further Communication; not quite such a long one.

With reference to various Bills which have been referred to the Senate, the Senate agreed on the 2nd December 1964 to the Public Holidays (Amendment) Bill 1964 without amendment and to the amendment of the Penal Code (Amendment) Bill 1964.

Also, on the 3rd December 1964 the Senate agreed to the Foreign Investments Protection Bill and the Detention Camps (Amendment) Bill without amendment.

On the 9th December 1964 the Senate agreed to the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill without amendment.

As regards the Motor Vehicles Components and Accessories Bill, the Senate returns the original corrected copy of the Bill with a copy of the Votes and Proceedings dated the 3rd December 1964 indicating the amendments made thereto and desires the concurrence of the House of Representatives to the amendments agreed to by the Senate.

As regards the Animal Diseases Bill the Senate returned the original corrected of the said Bill and a copy of the Votes and Proceedings dated the 9th December 1964 indicating the amendment made thereto and desires the concurrence of the House of Representatives to the amendment agreed to by the Senate.

[His Excellency the President]

Our Government continues to stand firmly for unity and freedom within our nation. Freedom of expression is guaranteed in our Constitution, including freedom of the Press. But in the enjoyment of this freedom we shall continue to require awareness of the responsibilities and duties which this nation and its people. The Government has taken steps to develop our own Press, radio, television and news services. This will greatly help us in promoting unity in the country and also projecting our image abroad.

During our first year of independence we have established friendship with many nations. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those nations whose friendly and active co-operation we have enjoyed in this past year. But while we express appreciation for their assistance and co-operation and the hope that this co-operation will continue, I am bound to reiterate that the success in building a Kenya nation lies entirely in the hands and sweat of the Kenya people in the spirit of haranhee.

Many advantages to the East African countries have accrued from working together within the framework of the Common Services Organization. We shall continue to work closely with our neighbours in East Africa, in order to retain and expand the benefits of mutual planning and economic endeavour.

The Republic of Kenya will subscribe faithfully to the Charter of the Organization of African Unity. We shall continue to work for the solution of African problems by the Africans themselves, and to achieve a continent marked by brotherhood and understanding between states.

In foreign affairs, the Republic of Kenya will steadfastly adhere to the policy of positive non-alignment.

We shall not be aligned with any ideological group or power bloc. We shall not permit interference in our affairs from the East or the West. But by philosophy and practical example, in normal diplomatic exchanges, and within the Commonwealth, and through the United Nations, Kenya will seek to contribute to world peace and a new economic order for mankind.

Our Republic has come into being at a moment when the dying colonialism has brought into vivid focus the economic and social injustices of half a century. The world now is experiencing the shock waves of change. Men are rising from the bondage of domination and frustration to demand their rightful places and their rightful shares in the pattern of human society.

This is not a moment for Kenya to be bitter, or to seek retaliation or revenge. The role of our Republic must be to make a contribution, and to build, so that out of the ashes of discredit, and the larceny of human souls, we may fashion for our children and those of other nations a world that enshrines what is right.

Let us march forward in the spirit of haranbee. Long live the Republic of Kenya.

Iwana Spika mimi nataka kusema maneno kidogo kwa Kiswahili, kwa sababu mimi natamani kwamba wakati si mrefu katika Nyumba hii yetu tutaweza kuzungumza Kiswahili ambacho ni lugha yetu. Maana yangu kusema namna hii; nakama ningekuwa nikisimama ningeweza kusema sawa sawa.

Sasa tukwa tuna Uhuru wetu kemili itakuwa tunajitika katika utumwa wa lugha za kigeni katika mashauri yetu yote na kwa hivyo ndugu zangu mimi nilitaka kusema hivyo maana kila kitu kind mwanzo wake. Kama mimi nikitoka hapa bila kusema Kiswahili nitasika moyo wangu simkunjufu hata kidogo. Kwa hivyo ndugu zangu, mimi nawaombeni sana maana sasa tunaingia katika haali nyingine, hasa Mema waliopo hapa nataka kusema maneno mawili au matatu. Nyumba hii iwe ni Nyumba ya kujadiliana si Nyumba ya kupayapaya au kupayukapayuka maana kama sisi tunakuja hapa tukijisifu, ahi mimi leo nitakwenda fulani ataniona leo. Fulani akita Swali lake, fulani akileta Bill yake ataniona leo. Hii si kujenga taifa. Kujenga taifa ni kujadiliana ukiwa una neno la muhimu lilete katika Nyumba hii. Hapa si katika "political platform". Mimi najua sisi sote twajua vile tunavyosema huko nje. Tukisema wewe hivi, au wewe vile tuna slogan nyingi. Hapa itakuwa ni Nyumba ya kuzungumza, na kujadiliana mambo ambayo ni ya muhimu ya kujenga nchi yetu.

Mema wa "Parliament", mimi nawapa maneno yangu kama hii, nyinyi muwe ni mfano, muwe ni kioo cha kuangalia. Nchi yetu ikiwa angalia lue huu ndio mfano mimi ninataka kutuata si kuja hapa na kulewa, wengi wenu masema, wacha, mimi nikifika pale "Parliament" nitapiga pegi mbili tatu nne basi, mimi nitakuwa taifu fulani ataniona. Ngingependa hii iwe ni Nyumba takatifu. Tuwe tukija hapa tukwa tunajua tunajenga taifa. Na Mema wa "Parliament" wastumie wakati wao katika Nairobi. Tukisha fungu Nyumba hii, kila mtu aende nyumbani kwake, akafanye kitendo na watu ambao anavyo-akilisha wakiona vile veye anavyofanya katika nyumba yake watafuta mfano huo. Lakini ikiwa wewe kazi ya "Parliament" ikiisha unataka kulala Nairobi, unataka kutembea utakuwa mtu wa kusurururura kama wale wengine, u-M.P.

[His Excellency the President]

wako utakuwa hauna faida hata kidogo. Mimi hamuwezi hujambia, ahi! ona Kenyatta, unasema maneno haya, na wewe unasurururura Nairobi? Mimi nikitoka Ofisi yangu huuyo . . . wapi, Gaunduu. Maana mimi nataka watu ambao ninawakilisha wakija kwangu wajue kweli . . . ahi! ona Mzee anafanya hii na mimi nitakwenda fanya zaidi ya hivyo.

Na hili ndilo neno nilikuwa nikitaka kusema adugu zangu. Sababu ni lazima sisi tuweke mfano. "A good example." Mtu akikuona pale atajua yule ni M.P. Lakini kama mtu akikuona kule hujui kama wewe ni mkora, au ni nani, si itakuwa ni maneno mbabaya namna hivyo. Sisi ni lazima tuwe "discipline" kwetu tuwe tukijua nchi yetu iko na million nafikiri tisa, wote wanatungalia wanasema wale wanakwenda kufanya vitendo, lakini kama wanaona sisi tunasurururura, hivi haitakuwa vizuri ndugu zangu. Hii ataniona ni vizuri niwambie leo. Kutoka leo kila M.P. na kila "Senator": ajulize, mimi nimefanya kitu gani kuonyesha mfano mzuri wa kuwakilisha wengine? Na ndugu zangu, maana kuna mipango iliyopangwa kwa masaa tutapata wakati mwingine kuzungumza pamoja sote tukijua ndugu zetu wanatungojea kule nje tuwaonyeshe njia, na tuwaonyeshe njia nzuri. Kwa hivyo Mabwana Spika mtanivhi radhi maana mimi nimetoka hii hotuba kidogo na haikuwako ndani ya "programme".

Hasante sana.

ADJOURNMENTSINE DIE

The Speaker of the Senate (Mr. Chokwe): It is now His Excellency's pleasure to take his leave. The Senate is adjourned sine die.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives (Mr. Slade): The House of Representatives is adjourned sine die.

The National Assembly rose at twenty-five minutes past Ten o'clock.

[The Speaker of the House of Representatives] deliver to us the Maces which will symbolize the Constitutional authority derived by the Senate and the House of Representatives respectively from the Republic of Kenya.

(The House of Representatives Mace was held up)

His Excellency the President (The hon. Mr. Kenyatta): Mr. Speaker, this Mace, which formerly was held by the House of Representatives as a symbol of authority from Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and which on the occasion of Kenya becoming a Republic you have surrendered to me, I now deliver to you, to be held by the House of Representatives henceforth as the symbol of your authority under the Republican Constitution of Kenya.

(The A.D.C. handed the Mace to His Excellency, The President, who handed it to the Speaker of the House of Representatives)

The Speaker of the House of Representatives (Mr. Slade): Your Excellency, on behalf of the House of Representatives of Kenya, I thank you for this gracious act and I confirm that the House of Representatives will henceforth hold this Mace as the symbol of its Constitutional authority and as a constant reminder of our obligations towards the Republic and people of Kenya.

(The Speaker of the House of Representatives handed the Mace to the Sergeant-at-Arms)

(Both Sergeants-at-Arms then proceeded down either side of the Table and laid the Maces on Table)

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS

His Excellency the President (The hon. Mr. Kenyatta): Mr. Speaker of the Senate, Mr. Speaker of the House of Representatives, hon. Members of the National Assembly.

This Parliament gives form and expression to the heart and mind of Kenya's people. My first duty, therefore, is to advise this House that the Republic of Kenya has been inaugurated in accordance with our Constitution.

I have also to report that I am empowered and bound to address you today as President of the Kenya Republic.

This is a very significant day in the history of our country. The people of Kenya have been holding celebrations and attending ceremonies to mark the birth of the Republic. The opening of this Parliament signifies that this birth has been certified by representatives of the people.

My presence here as Head of State symbolizes the departure from Kenya of the first and last holder of the office of Governor-General. The work and personality of the Right Honourable Malcolm MacDonald have drawn from hon. Members sentiments of tribute and regard.

But I am sure the House would wish now to join in expression of thanks for the unifying effort, the wise counsel and the spirit of friendship which so distinguished his association with the Government and people of Kenya. We owe much to a man who arrived as a Colonial Governor, but who departed as a steadfast friend of the Kenya nation.

The second attendant event is the formation of a new Government. This Government will serve as the vanguard of the people, united now in the resolve for the continuing battle against poverty, illiteracy and social injustice.

The Constitution under which this Republic has been created, included provisions to make the powers of scrutiny and sanction and all the rights and duties of the Kenya Parliament, the supreme instrument of the State.

The Constitution has provided, as a matter of vital consequence, that the Head of State should also be the Head of Government. In addressing this Parliament, therefore, I am addressing an institution of which I am also a part. The whole apparatus of the State becomes personified when I step down to join you. This process of so stepping down is not only a valuable personal right, but also a significant Presidential obligation.

What this House must contribute to the Republic is something far more than just machinery which can give the plans or requirements of the Government their lawful status. This must be our forum, for discussion and proposal, for question, objection or advice. It must give full modern expression to the traditional African custom, by serving as the place where the elders and the spokesmen of the people are expected and enabled to confer.

To carry out this task requires the discipline that is normally described as the dignity of Parliament. And while we will be giving further thought to the symbols and the procedures of this House, a foundation of dignity is something we will always preserve.

Let me emphasize to the Members of this House that theirs is a two-way obligation; to represent fairly to the Government the views of their constituents and then to interpret fairly to their people the policies and decisions of the Government.

[His Excellency the President]

Members of Parliament must serve as a bridge between Government and people. They stand astride the national stream of activity and thought. Unless this bridge is well maintained, the national well-being suffers, through lack of access to, or lack of contribution from, some portion of our land.

The Republic demands from every Member an absolute loyalty, to the House, to the Party and to the country. It happens in many young countries that Members of Parliament may become the target of some foreign government or some subversive institution. Forces may become unleashed, spurred on by external pressures.

I must make it very clear that the Government of Kenya will meet any threat of subversion with the fullest rigour of the law. But I feel confident that each Member of this House will act as a guardian of our national integrity and will assist the Government in stamping out any such threat.

There is yet a further way in which hon. Members may greatly assist with nation building. In political and economic contexts, we have already recorded significant achievements. It may fairly be stated that, at the end of the first year of independence, Kenya has acquired a national maturity. But now, onto this foundation, we need to erect greater human respect.

I have spoken elsewhere of moral integrity and do not wish now to labour this point. But each of you will know of instances of exploitation within our society, or lack of compassion, or denial to a man of respect for what he is and how he strives.

Crime is one affront to our society, rooted as it is in jealousy or brutality or greed. Corruption is an evil, which we must never invite or condone.

But so too are many matters that are technically within the law: the overcharging of a man who needs some food or service, but who, through ignorance, cannot tell the proper cost; or the public operation, for a profit, of vehicles so dangerous that they really should be scrapped; or the offer of starvation wages to a man who must work or else starve.

So many practices, criminal or evilly-designed, can increase for our people the burden of poverty or hazard or despair. These must be eradicated. We must work together here, for the creation of a new social conscience. Let the Republic be rooted in human respect.

The forthcoming programme of the Government will be submitted to the House, through the publication and representation of Bills. I do not propose today to embark on a catalogue of pending measures, or to stipulate priorities.

My association with this House, in the Constitutional manner that we have designed, will ensure that a legislative structure emerges from the functioning of Government and Parliament, working as a team.

The overall intention of the Government is to move further towards African socialism, by placing fuller emphasis on those duties and social obligations which reflect effective pulling together of the State and the community—so that all our energies may be harnessed to the purpose of evolving here a welfare state.

To achieve this aim will require the full co-operation of all citizens and other residents of Kenya. It will require the maximum and deliberate exploitation of all our resources both human and material.

The Government is urgently aware of the need to speed up the educational advance and training of our people, including the need to improve health facilities.

Already steps have been taken to carry through a rapid programme of Africanization and to help our own farmers and businessmen to participate more effectively in the economic life of our country. I must express my satisfaction with the young Kenyans who have recently had to take over senior responsibilities in the public service of our country.

Our policy of "return to the land" is the awareness that our economy is founded on the land its use and its resources. We are also lucky to have so much that we can offer to world tourists. All these areas will receive special attention and will be the subject of discussion and debate in our Parliament.

I need not stress the important role which must be played by the workers and youths of Kenya in this task of nation-building. They have been in the vanguard in our struggle for independence and we shall rely upon their energy and enthusiasm in the future.

But I should also like to make reference to the work being done in expanding, training, modernizing and equipping our armed forces. I am glad to be able to say that our Army and Police have already given a good account of themselves in the North-Eastern Region and in the all-important task of preserving law and order in Kenya. Our new Air Force is already moving to operational shape and the inauguration of our Navy completes our service trinity this month.

REPUBLIC OF KENYA

THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE

First Parliament—Second Session—(Contd.)

(First Parliament established by the Kenya Independence Order in Council, 1963)

Monday, 14th December 1964

Hon. Members of the National Assembly met in Parliament Buildings, Nairobi, on Monday, the 14th December 1964, at thirty minutes past nine o'clock, being the First Sitting of the National Assembly established under the Republic Constitution of Kenya, 1964.

The Right Honourable, His Excellency the President was escorted in procession to the Chair, attended by the hon. Speaker of the Senate and the hon. Speaker of the House of Representatives.

[The Right Honourable, the President, took the Chair]

PRAYERS

Prayers were read by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

WELCOME TO THE PRESIDENT

The Speaker of the Senate (Mr. Chokwe): Your Excellency, hon. Senators and Members, we welcome the President of the Republic of Kenya on this momentous occasion, which is our first sitting since Kenya became a Republic and his first attendance as our President.

DELIVERY OF THE MACES

The Speaker of the Senate (Mr. Chokwe): Now, on behalf of both Houses of our National Assembly, I humbly request him to deliver to us the Maces which will symbolize the Constitutional authority derived by the Senate and the House of Representatives respectively from the Republic of Kenya.

(The Senate Mace was held up)

His Excellency the President (The hon. Mr. Kenyatta): Mr. Speaker, this Mace, which formerly was held by the Senate of Kenya as a symbol of authority from Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and which on the occasion of Kenya becoming a Republic you have surrendered to me, I now deliver to you, to be held by the Senate henceforth as the symbol of your authority under the Republic Constitution of Kenya.

(The A.D.C. handed the Mace to His Excellency. The President, who handed it to the Speaker of the Senate)

The Speaker of the Senate (Mr. Chokwe): Your Excellency, on behalf of the Senate of Kenya, I thank you for this gracious act; and I confirm that the Senate will henceforth hold this Mace as the symbol of its Constitutional authority and as a constant reminder of our obligations towards the Republic and people of Kenya.

(The Speaker of the Senate handed the Mace to the Assistant Serjeant-at-Arms)

The Speaker of the House of Representatives (Mr. Slade): On behalf of both Houses of our National Assembly, I humbly request you to
