

KENYA GOVERNMENT ARCHIVES
PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICE

SECTION 7

END

OF REEL NO. .... 34 .....

KENYA GOVERNMENT ARCHIVES

PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICE

SECTION 7

CONTINUED ON

REEL No.

35

[The Minister for Information and Broadcasting] to blame because of their activities. Now that will have to go on record, because we here are charged with a great responsibility and a duty to our people to deliver the goods and not to disunite and divide our people. I think we have a breathing space from tonight until the 24th May, and, when we come back, we may come back with a new thinking all together.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have to say something on the party and also on some of the points which were raised here that there were two parties within the party. I think it is up to the hon. Members to examine themselves and to find out where the mistake lies and once they get it, they will have to correct it for the good of this country. Otherwise, the hon. Members are digging their own graves and it would be very difficult, and that door over there will be too narrow for some Members to come back, if they engage in activities which the ordinary voters look upon as diversion or destruction.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am glad to have heard from my old friend, who said that only a few people in this country enjoy the fruits of our independence. It is the policy of this Government to see that we enjoy the fruits, every one of us enjoy the fruits of our independence, and we should work towards that. It is, of course, up to everybody to examine himself to see whether he is playing the role of replacement of the outgoing imperialists who used to abuse us and call us names. It is a challenge which, of course, has been made here and you will have to take it.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is one other point I would like to raise. The hon. Mr. Malinda suggested that something should be done about the taxes in Nairobi. I would like to make this point very clear. It is true that those who are working in Nairobi, or living in Nairobi, pay their Graduated Personal Tax in Nairobi, but those whose families are living in the countryside or in their homes are entitled, according to the present law, when they are filling in their forms, to ask for 50 per cent of their taxes to be sent to their respective homes. They fill in the forms which are supplied by their employers, and these are collected at the end of every year. If there is a failure to do that, it is not the fault of the Government, and they should not say that their money is not reaching their homes, or that their money is being used to buy other things like expensive cars. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I think it would be in the interests of every Member to advise those who are working here whose families are at home, and not to blame the Government, because when you fill a form in, you ask the city council which is responsible for receiving the taxes, to transmit the taxes to the respective homes.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with those few words I would like just to move. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have not talked about the recess, but I would like to wish the hon. Members a happy holiday and to help as much as possible because it is the rainy season—to help in the cultivation of the chamber and to look after their families well. Thank you.

(Question put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is now adjourned until Tuesday, 24th May at 2.30 pm.

The House rose at forty minutes past six o'clock.

WRITTEN REPLIES TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 63

EXPANSION OF TEA-GROWING AREAS

Mr. arap Bly asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry what he was doing to expand the tea-growing areas in the country.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): An enormous amount has been done to develop smallholder tea throughout the country. At the end of June last year, 12,544 acres had been planted under the K.T.D.A. supervision and by the end of 1968, over 25,000 acres will be under tea by smallholders. Meanwhile, planning is already in hand to produce a Third Plan covering the period 1969-1973.

Question No. 91

MACHAKOS DISTRICT AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE: MEMBERSHIP

Mr. Nalle asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry if he would say how the selection of members of the Machakos District Agricultural Committee was done. Was he satisfied that the small-scale farmers' interests were being cared for by these committees.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): (a) The appointment to all district agricultural committees including Machakos is done under Legal Notice 352/63. This legal notice lays down the procedure to be followed which required, among other things, that the Eastern Regional Assembly should have enacted legal procedure to be followed for appointment or election to the committee. The Machakos District Agricultural Committee appointed in Gazette Notice No. 2690/63 was interim pending legislation by Eastern Region which legislation was not done so the committee continues. Amendment to L.N. 352/63 will be made to enable the Minister to lay down the electoral procedure.

[The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

(b) Small-scale farmers are well represented in the Machakos D.A.C., and I am not aware that their interests are not being looked after.

Question No. 125

REGISTERED NON-RACIAL PARENTS' ASSOCIATIONS

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House the number of non-racial parents' associations he knew of registered in Kenya since 1963. What aid did the Ministry give to the establishment, support and encouragement of such associations throughout the country.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): There are fifty-seven registered parents' associations, of which fifty-five have non-racial constitutions. Nineteen of the associations have been registered since 1st June 1963, and all of these are non-racial.

The two associations which still have racial constitutions are the Kilimani African Parents' Association (Kenya's National Hospital School) registered on 8th May 1957, and the Ng'ya Hill School (Nairobi) Parents' Association, registered on 28th February 1958. The latter's membership has always been small—varying from twenty to thirty members.

The Ministry of Education considers that each school, or where appropriate group of schools, should have a parents or parents/teachers Association, and has encouraged the establishment of these associations by indicating that they are accepted in principle as suitable bodies for nominating representatives to be appointed as members of boards of governors and school committees.

[The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs]

The other point, Mr. Speaker—and I would also like to speak in a very parochial nature—is about the headquarters in Embu. It is a provincial headquarters and the provincial heads are scattered all over the country, some in Nairobi, some in Isiolo and some in other places. We would like them to be put together, just as they are in Nakuru or in the Central Province, Nyeri, or in Nyanza, so as to help the provincial commissioner and his provincial team to work for the good of the province.

I would like to ask the Minister for Information, when he replies, to answer in the affirmative, that before we meet next time, there will be a telex and a television camera in the Embu Provincial Headquarters.

With these remarks, Mr. Speaker, I support the Motion.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to inform the Minister for Information and Broadcasting, who is here to reply on behalf of the Government, that it is very important for the Government to concentrate mostly on the areas where the information is not reaching the Government. It is no use all the time to send information to the Ministers and Assistant Ministers and the Government servants. I believe that the people who matter in this country are the ordinary people in the field. It would be better for the Ministry, in future, to have photographers and camera-men going into the field and finding out what the people there are doing. What is more important are the old women in the fields, and the men, what they are doing and how they are helping to develop the country. Instead of concentrating on cowboy films like "Bonanza", we would also like to see on the television how our people are developing their own fields. This is very important for the development of this country. I do not see what we have to fear. We should not be afraid of seeing our mothers wearing goat skins; we would like to see them; we would also like them to be seen by foreigners. I feel that we should be proud of this, as this is the sort of image that we would like to show to the outside world. That is one point.

The other point that I would like to speak on Mr. Speaker, is regarding the unity of this country. That is the most important thing and I sincerely believe that the people who are going to disunite this country are the Members of Parliament themselves. The reason why I say this is because I have noticed with great interest the speeches made by the hon. Members in the House, and we have been hearing a lot about the groups called, "Corner Bar" and another one called, "Progressive Group". There have been a lot of Motions and a Motion was even started in this House. I personally would like to put my point across, but I have never heard anyone in the country saying that he has no confidence in our Government. I have never heard anyone speaking at public meetings and saying that they have no confidence in our Government, and yet we debated a Motion of confidence in the Government. Whoever said that there was no confidence in the Government? This is just a mere fear; we should not be acting on fear. I would like to say that if there is any particular Minister of our Government, and even the President himself, he should come as an individual Minister and seek the confidence of the Members of this House, and then we can say whether we have any confidence in that particular Minister or that particular President, rather than saying that we would like to seek the confidence of this House.

Another point I would like to put forward, Mr. Speaker, is in connexion with hospitals. We know of many cases where people are taken to hospital, but they wait for a few hours and, in most cases, as long as six hours, because of the lack of initiative of some of the doctors in the hospitals. These people, in most cases, are suffering, and we have already put some of these suggestions across to the Ministry as we feel that some sort of investigation must be carried out, because a doctor's profession is not like a clerk or an accountant in an office, who can put his pencil down, go back home and return tomorrow morning. You cannot leave somebody in the theatre and say, "Let me go and have a cup of tea", and then come back and treat the patient. Now he cannot do that, because, after all, he is a human being, so we feel that this is something which the Minister should take into consideration. We are very happy at what the Government has been able to do as regards free medical treatment for out-patients, but we also feel that it would be better if the Government saw to it that those people who go as out-patients are treated as human beings rather than that they be made to wait for so long.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I would also like to mention the reason why I said that we are the people who will disunite this country. This is because there is going to be a Kikuyu election in the near future and let people not be deceived that most of the people in this country do not want the election; we want an election, but we also feel that the people in the field—the people who elected us hon. Members in this House—must be given time to read their new constitution and amendments. The reason why I am saying this, is because there is a lot of duplication in that constitution. For example we are having the president and also eight vice-presidents. Mr. Speaker, what will happen is this, when we come to elect these eight vice-presidents, they will all consider themselves as being the only person next to the president and there will be a lot of problems in this country, because every one of them will be fighting to see who can see what in their future. This must be changed completely. We have the national chairman of the party and eight provincial chairmen, in order to see what can happen in the future, because these people will consider themselves as the only people next to the president. So, Mr. Speaker, I feel that time must be given to the people, who cannot even read English, even some of these branch chairmen cannot read English, and they must be given time to read, amend and criticize the constitution. But if this is going to be imposed on the people then, Mr. Speaker, I am afraid to say that there will be disunity in this country which we must always try to prevent from occurring in such a country which has an international reputation for having a stable and well led type of Government.

[Mr. J. M. Karuki]

Mr. Chirchir: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for giving me this opportunity. What I would like to mention, Mr. Speaker, is this. I should think that, at this stage, the leaders of this country should unite without delay. If the leaders of this country will not unite, I should think that the people will be betrayed if anything should happen; because I have found amongst those who have come into power that they are going to create a problem in this country, so I think that the people in this country should watch carefully.

Another thing that I would like to mention, Mr. Speaker, is this: in this country, we fought for at least sixty years to achieve independence in order to get our land back. Up to this moment, the price of land in this country is too high and I feel that the Government should appoint a commission to look into the price of land which some people have already taken over from our parents.

Mr. Speaker, another point that I would like to mention is that I have found only a few people who are enjoying the fruits of this country and if those people continue to enjoy the fruits of Kenya, I think that they must watch carefully, unless they watch carefully, I am sure that the Members of this House and the people of Kenya will see that something will take place.

With these few remarks I beg to move.

POINT OF ORDER*DEBATES LIMITED BY RESOLUTION OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, as this is our last day, could we not extend the time for, at least, fifteen minutes or up to 7 o'clock so that we can give an opportunity to Members who are interested in saying something to the Government before we go on our holiday.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! It was by resolution of the House that this kind of debate was limited to two hours, having been limited previously—likewise by resolution of the House—to one and a half hours. Now, a resolution of the House cannot be rescinded within six months following without leave of the Speaker, and I do not think it is right, when the House has considered how long to allow for these debates, to keep on reconsidering it. It always happens in any debate, or almost always, that not every Member who would like to speak gets a chance. After all, we have 130 Members, and even allowing five minutes each, it takes a very long time to get round them. So I am afraid hon. Members must be patient in these matters and adhere to resolutions of the House.

POINT OF ORDER*RIGHTS OF MOVER IN ADJOURNMENT DEBATES

Mr. C. G. Karuki: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to get a ruling as to whether it is in order for the Minister, who has spoken already, to speak again now.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am quite glad that you raised that point of order. I did say at the start of the debate that as the Minister only moved the Motion formally, he simply moved the adjournment and then sat down; he would be entitled to speak in the course of debate as well as replying. In fact, he has five minutes at the later. He could have had five minutes at the start and five minutes to reply. I said he could have his first five minutes at a later stage in the debate. I think I was wrong and, in future, I shall say that hon. Members who move a Motion, must speak then or hold their peace until they reply. But that is what I did on this occasion, and that was why I did it!

(Resumption of debate)

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Otienko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have only two points to reply to. I am very pleased that the hon. Member has put the blame for disunity on themselves. I have heard with interest Members saying that if there is anything wrong, the Elected Members in this House are

[The Minister for Information and Broadcasting] mind, the Kenya Government must spend money to see that the whole of Africa is free. I remember before we became independent other countries like Tanzania, Ghana, Algeria, Morocco and the United Arab Republic contributed to our struggle, and it is now our turn to do likewise. Therefore, it would be futile to suggest at this stage, when we are supposed to contribute to the freedom of Africa, that the money is being spent uselessly. I am sure other hon. Members will disagree with the hon. Mr. Kall.

There is one other point on unemployment. I am glad that my colleague, the Assistant Minister for Labour, has dealt with this and I do not need to labour it.

But he also mentioned the question of two parties within one party. Well, one party is a very new thing in Africa and we are trying to give it time. It is a sort of experiment. However, people seem to forget one thing, that we belong to families. You find that within a family, there is one father, one mother. When there are about six of you, you talk and argue over a piece of bread, a cup of tea. You may not agree at all. Therefore, we should be patient and not say that there are two parties within one party. Let us give it a trial; if it fails, then it is up to the Members themselves to decide what is good for Kenya. However, in the present circumstances, we have worked very well.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am speaking on behalf of Government and these are the views which are held by the Government in the present circumstances.

One hon. Member suggested that there should be a kind of advisory council for the President. I am glad to hear that this is rejected. Why do we need a doctor? The President does not need a doctor. I am sure he is energetic and in good health at the moment. If it is a question of advisers, well, there are advisers qualified in their own special fields. They do advise the President now. Therefore, I do not think it is right for anyone to suggest that the President cannot decide on his own because there are certain people around him.

It is true that hon. Members mentioned the Kikuyu being around the President. I think this is a very unfair statement. Even the hon. Members—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! It is the end of your five minutes. You will have the right to reply to the debate when you might finish off what else you want to say.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday we passed a Bill to curtail the privileges of the Members of this House. I consider that the Attorney-General has forgotten the most outstanding matters affecting the public as such. One example, Mr. Speaker, is the question concerning the administration of African courts. Today, Mr. Speaker, you cannot sue an Indian, an Arab, or a European because the African Ordinance says unless the accused or the defendant agree, if the defender or the accused is a European, or Indian you cannot take him to an African court. But when an ordinary African goes to a magistrate, he is told this case is a case which can go back to an African court. This, I consider, Mr. Speaker, is a very serious matter and it is high time that we acquired an Attorney-General who is an elected Member of this House. Not an Attorney-General who, by virtue of that post, becomes an ex officio Member of this House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, these are the things we would like the Attorney-General to do, rather than play about with the privileges of the Members of this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another point that I would like to mention, is the question of secondary schools. I would like to tell the House that secondary schools which exist today in Kericho, were set up by the regions. Mr. Speaker, we have never had a single secondary school granted by the Central Government, and yet two years ago they were seeking our help to dismantle our regions. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if this Government is going to delay because of tribalism and only have secondary schools in particular districts, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are going to demand the regional set-up again. This is a warning, this Central Government has to prove itself, that it is capable of ruling as well as the regional set-up did.

Mr. Speaker, another point is that the Government is now adjourning the House and yet it has failed to implement most of our Motions. Again, it has also failed to allow time for debating the most outstanding Motions brought to this House. It has also failed to implement the demand by this House that in private firms there should be Africanization. While we appreciate what the Government has done as regards to Africanization in the Government sector, we do not appreciate the way the Government has tackled Africanization in private firms. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my district, we have thirty-four tea companies, you cannot find a single African manager, and yet we have had independence for nearly three years, if I am correct.

[Mr. Kerich]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a warning to our Government that it must instruct these private firms that they must Africanize as much as possible and also the Government too.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another point which I would like to mention is the whole Sessional Committee should be sacked, because they are being dictated to either by this chairman or other forces. I do not know. Because, Mr. Speaker, it is said that the reason Government is adjourning this House, is because they have run short of business: What about the hundreds, and hundreds and hundreds of Private Members' Motions? Is this a Parliament of Government Bills only? I want the Minister, when he comes to reply, to tell me whether this Parliament is only for Government Bills. If this is so, then there is no use in giving notice of Private Members' Motions.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose this Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the Motion, and while supporting the Motion, I would like to put forward very quickly a number of points.

First of all let me disagree, very strongly, with the hon. Member who has just sat down about the Sessional Committee being dictated to by the chairman. The Sessional Committee works strictly for the good of this House and what it has done is both for the good of this House and the country. There was no dictation at all from the chairman.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to make a suggestion, right from the beginning, that the motto we have at the gate as we come into this Chamber, should also be written right in front of you so that it reminds Members, wherever they may be sitting, that we are here for the welfare of society and the just government of man. I hope when we meet the next time, there will be the same letters over your Chair to remind us of this in whichever corner we are sitting:

My second point, Mr. Speaker, is with regard to the North-Eastern Province. I have had the privilege, recently, of visiting the place; I had never been there before in my life, but I am never delighted to say Mr. Speaker, that the place is not devoid of life; there is hope; in spite of the trouble that we have there, I think our Government can do a lot of good work, even at this time, to make sure that the loyal people over there can appreciate what the Government is doing. There are places with water, and I am sure a little development done in those places will go a long way to solidifying the loyalty of those people. I know education has been started, Mr. Speaker, but I would like to see more radio information from the Minister for Information intensified in that area, so that those people can live as part and parcel of this country.

The other point, Mr. Speaker, is with regard to areas that have been neglected in the past, or kept backward. I would like to make an appeal to the Government for all these areas, mine included, that in those areas we need various field officers. It is not a place where the Government should dump anybody, just because he is called a district commissioner, a district officer; they should have first-class people, so that these people can be helped to catch up as quickly as possible. Careful attention should be given to those places and the question of frequent transfers—because some officers do not want to stay in those backward areas—should be examined and those officers be made to stay there and help build Kenya.

The other day, Mr. Speaker, I tried to raise the question of the salary structure. I think now this is the right place for me to put this request. Since we became independent, we have not had a complete overhaul of our salary structure both in Central Government, the Civil Service and also in this House. If anything, we have been asking for more money to increase our salaries. I think, Mr. Speaker, the time has come for us to try and cut our coat according to our cloth. This Government should, during the recess, think how best this can be done or implemented.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me speak very parochially about my constituency. Being one of these places that has been neglected in the past, I would like to ask the Government, first of all, to try and help us in establishing more road communications, so that we can reach those people living in remote places to enable them to come in to reach them, to enable the medical people to reach them, to enable the educationists to reach them, and to enable civilization to reach them. Also development should also be established, not land registration should also be established, not to mention the ever standing need of education and schools. I hope, Mr. Speaker, before we assemble here again, what these so called revised given us an inkling of what these so called revised development plans contain. We want to know what is going where. We would like to have time, during the holidays or recess, to study this, so that when we come here, we should know what goes where and how and how much of it is going to a particular place.

[The Assistant Minister for Labour]

this country. I would like to say that this plan is almost ready, and I am sure that before the hon. Members return from their recess, they will hear an announcement about the steps which the Government is going to take to combat this problem of unemployment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, a certain hon. Member did a great disservice to our friends, the Chinese, when he, more or less, associated them with all the coups d'état which are taking place in the world today. He was using a certain logic, namely, that whenever something happens, when a certain factor is always there, that factor becomes the cause of the event. He says, for example, that in Central Africa when there was a coup d'état, the Chinese were outside, and that in Upper Volta, and in many other places, the Chinese have been ousted after coups d'état. I think that anybody who knows the logic I am talking about would conclude straight away that the Chinese have caused all these coups d'état, which I think is unfair. Frankly, we still do not know much about the causes of these coups d'état and the best we can do, is to guard our own fortress. Let us all join together in protecting Kenya and making Kenya a more stable place of freedom and dignity of our people.

One hon. Member proposed a panel of advisers to the President. This will not work, because we already have these advisers and each of them in his own field is working in the proper place to give the right advice to the President. So, we do not need to impose yet another panel of advice on the President.

Sir, now I come to the subject of Kanu, because it is said that this is causing a great deal of concern in the country right now. I hope, however, that this is only a temporary excitement. A lot of us have demanded that Kanu elections be held immediately and I do not see the reason why they are now rejecting them, now that the cards are on the table.

Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Rurumbani: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the first point I would like to make is my usual complaint about stock sales. The people are now being asked to pay their Graduated Personal Tax; children are being expelled from schools because parents have not paid their school fees. Where are these people to get the money from? We know very well that the Samburu have no other source of getting money except through selling their livestock. So I would like the Government to organize stock sales immediately in Samburu District.

Another point I would like to raise again, Mr. Speaker, is about the Electoral Commission programme which appeared in the papers today. Sir, I have noted that the commission will visit various centres to hear evidence from delegates and individuals who submitted their memoranda. In the list, I tried to find a mention of Samburu District, because I wanted to see whether it was included in one of the centres that were to be visited, but, unfortunately, my district was not there. I remember that we did put in our memorandum to the commission. We did put it in in the hope that the commission would really look into the points we raised in our memorandum. I feel that the commission has done us a gross injustice in failing to visit Samburu District and see for themselves the points that we raised in our memorandum. The constituency that I represent is so vast that it cannot be represented by one member in the Lower House alone. The roads are so bad that a Member has to buy new tyres for his car nearly every month because of the rocky and rough nature of the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the constituency comprises two districts, Samburu District and part of Baringo District, a part which was annexed to the Samburu District by the hon. Minister for Home Affairs when he was trying to get more seats for Baringo District.

Sir, these are the points that the commission should look into. I do not know what other unique or unusual problems, the Narak or Kajjido people have that enables them to be visited while the Samburu District has been left out. What other evidence would the commission require, other than the points we raised in the memorandum? If the complaints we raised are within the terms of reference of the commission, I accuse the commission of injustice for failing to visit the Samburu District.

Mr. Odunya: I want to raise a few points in this debate. Firstly I will start with the coming Kanu elections. I am bringing up this point because I feel that the President of the Republic, who is also the President of the party, is aware that there are different opinions with regard to the coming conference. We are not opposed to the conference, but we are opposed to the elections. I say this, because just recently, we have had coups d'état all over Africa. Somebody clever engineered these coups d'état in order to get these cheap people to elect him into power. We reject this sort of thing. If this is ignored, then the possibility of other people having their different opinions; let us say, forming a new party, cannot be ruled out because we are living

[Mr. Odunya] in democratic times. However, I am not prepared to sit on one bench with people who cannot respect the constitution of approved institutions. This must be made clear.

I would like also to bring to the notice of the Government that just this year, since Teso people depend entirely on cotton, the Minister for Co-operatives was a bit weak in running this affair, as far as the sale of cotton in the Western Province was concerned, particularly Teso. Here, Mr. Speaker, they transferred the power of buying cotton back to the Indians who exploited our people all these years. The Teso people had the monopoly to plough and plant cotton, and they would like also to have the right to handle the sale of cotton themselves. If the Ministry was advised by certain unscrupulous people, that are employed in the field, known as co-operative officers, then these people need to be disciplined, because we feel we are not prepared to see our people being undermined. We are not prepared to see them undermine the determination and effort of our people. I reject this entirely.

Another thing is this: when the Teso came to collect money to buy their own ginners, these very people came up and stopped the collection of money. I would like to know whether this is the policy of the Government. The person who is going to answer on behalf of the Government must tell me if it is the policy of the Government (a) to transfer the business which has been transferred to the co-operative societies by the people themselves back to the Indians who have been exploiting the masses; and (b) whether it is the policy of Government to use people to work hard jointly to collect money, in order, to establish industries of their own.

I appeal to the person in charge of the Youth Service to send some people to help us in Busia District. We have very big bushes in this district, from Samia to Teso. We want to clear the bushes because the land is fertile; it is potential land for cotton which will bring the country a lot of revenue. We would be able to help in the economic planning of this country. The Minister for Economic Planning says that he has in mind for 100,000 bags of cotton by 1970. In order to achieve this, the Teso area and that of Samia must be cleared of bush so that we are able to make use of the land. We should not waste youth. So let us make use of these youths. Since I am not a Minister and am not friendly with any Minister, what is the position? All that I want is that even if my views differ from the man who is controlling the youth, if my views differ from the entire Cabinet because they say I am British, let them at least think of Teso and not of me because I am speaking for the Teso. Bush clearance must be carried out straight away, because we want to use that land. Our Mzee said that we must go back to the land and we must do just that. In fact we want to do that.

The Teso require immediately two secondary schools. I am saying this because, that other day when the President went to some place this way, he said that he had ordered the Minister for Education to offer places for the children of Embu. Since we are one of the backward areas, we do not have many educated people, I ask the Government to offer: (a) one school for girls because we now have over fifty girls who passed K.P.E. and who have no place in any school; and (b) an additional secondary school for boys. This must commence during the second term. I have seen the Ministry of Education about this and the Minister seems to be reluctant to do this. If this is not done I will carry a demand to Gatundu and demand that the President himself orders that we should get these schools.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid your time is up, Mr. Odunya.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Otienko): I am a bit surprised, Mr. Speaker, because the hon. Member says that he is not friendly with any Minister, because he is a close friend of mine and a close friend of many people as well, because we have so many things in common. I do not think we are enemies of anyone.

I have a few points, which I would like to answer at the moment, and I would like to say that when this Motion was moved the hon. Mr. Kibuga, who is fortunately here, criticised the Government, particularly the Ministers because they were not in the House. However, he failed to say that there were only a few Members in the Chamber at the time he stood to speak. I think we should try to be as constructive as possible. I know that the Ministers have great responsibilities; but at the same time, the Members are equally responsible to their constituencies. For this reason, they need to listen to other views expressed by various Members.

The hon. Mr. J. D. Kali raised the question of money being spent on sending delegations to the Organization for African Unity conferences. He said that this money was being spent uselessly. He proposed that it should be spent on finding employment or on giving free primary education. However, he forgot one thing: that we, according to our policy, are committed to African unity; we are committed to see that the whole of Africa is free from foreign domination. With this in

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Mr. Mutiso, just because the hon. Member is not here to challenge you, you must not say these things. You must keep off personalities of this kind, you know.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what happens if a Member makes some very sweeping statement and then runs away, especially when it touches upon my constituency, particularly a constituency like that which I represent in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I think it hardly ever helps in a debate to make violent personal accusations against any Member. We are concerned, you know, with the merits of things much more than of people. I am sure you can make your defence of Government just as well without these very serious allegations against a Member who is not here to answer them.

Mr. Odoyo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may we know whether the Assistant Minister is speaking on behalf of the Government, and that what he says is the policy of the Government on the very Member who made these allegations?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, you must say, Mr. Mutiso. I understand, Mr. Mutiso, that you are speaking for the Government. Would you make that clear, please?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, when I was speaking, I was speaking in my capacity as the Member for Yatta, because these very allegations which were made by the hon. Member, who is not in the Chamber, alleged certain things that had happened in my own constituency, and this is why I want to clarify them, as the Member for that area. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I cannot challenge the allegations which he has made, because he is not in the Chamber, I will leave that alone and—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! You quite misunderstood me. Of course, you are allowed to challenge allegations which he made. What I said was that you cannot, in the course of challenging these allegations, make violent counter-allegations of a personal nature. It is not right to do so.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I see that some Members are worried, and some are making remarks to the effect that if I have been sent to finish off Ngei, then they do not know what would happen. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have the right, just like any other Member, to speak in this Chamber and make my views clearly known.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the people of Ukambani, and particularly the people of Yatta, who were mentioned by the hon. Member, particularly with regard to the closure of the Yatta Furrow—I think it is a well-known fact, Sir, that this country cannot, and does not, offer free services for anything. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that it would be very misleading for us in this House, for the public at large, to be misled by any particular person that there are free services of any nature, especially when we come to the question of water, which is where the people have to be employed to run the machinery, the boreholes, which also have to be paid for to be sunk; and the people employed to operate those boreholes. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I, personally, as the Member for the area, led a delegation to the District Commissioner, Machakos, and a promise was made that the people would pay their water rates and there would be no water until the people paid for it, as is happening in many other places.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I see that my time has finished, I would like, to make this point very clear, that the people of Yatta know very well that they are doing well in collecting the water rates, and therefore, Sir, very soon, the water will be opened and they will be making use of it.

Mr. Mallinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I correct the impression which was given to the House by Mr. Ngei regarding these people who are at Makueni, I would like, first of all, to touch upon a few other things. Firstly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope that now we are going into recess, the Government will find it fit to see that, when we resume our sitting next time, they make arrangements with regard to the days of supply, so that instead of us just having fifteen days in which to debate the Estimates, we can have more, so that we can all have a chance to talk and also that we do not curtail the sitting days which are allocated to the parliamentary timetable for 1966.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, going on from that, I also hope that the Government will devise a method whereby relief will be brought with regard to the question of unemployment, because, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the end of the Tripartite Agreement, the Government has not initiated any other policy, or scheme, whereby a lot of people who are jobless can get employment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would now like to touch on the question of the city council. One Member said that the city council proposed to the Ministry of Education, that they could give free primary education, and the Ministry of Education refused. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Ministry of Education was quite right, because the city council here is so conceited and is so arrogant about money, which, in actual fact, does not even

(Mr. Mallinda) belong to them. We have paid our taxes. We pay Sh. 600; but, Sir, out of that Sh. 600, Sh. 300, which should be remitted to our county councils, have never been remitted since 1964. We do not even have receipts to show that we have paid our taxes. This, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the money which has amassed itself in the city council and which is making the city council big-headed. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope that, by the time we come back here, the Government will have appointed a special commission, let alone the commission which is inquiring into the county councils and local government, but a special commission to look into the affairs of the city council, because they are completely rotten now.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also hope that the Ministry of Commerce and Industry will have decided on the restoration of the castor oil seed factory at Kibwezi. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have been waiting for this factory for a long time. We know that all the surveys have been carried out, feasibility studies and arrangements have been made, therefore it should be started any time from now, and I hope that the Government will see fit to start it immediately.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to the question of foreign policy. This, Mr. Speaker, Sir, needs to be properly looked at and I feel that the Government should also make an announcement as to what the Kenya Government's views are with regard to the Rhodesian issue; and also with regard to recognizing these governments which have had coups d'état. We want to know what the Government policy is.

Now, Sir, I would like to touch on the question with regard to the people who were removed from Donoyo Sabuk to Makueni, because they were brought to my place of residence and I have seen them so many times that, by now, I know quite a bit about them. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is known that when these people were being taken away, the Member who was speaking about them was a Minister. We also know that this question, in the question of these people, has been aired in Government circles. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say here that I am very grateful to the Government for taking steps to ensure that these people do not die of famine, because, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I, myself, have gone to the provincial commissioner, the district commissioner and the Minister for Home Affairs to see that the welfare of these people is not neglected. I have also, Mr. Speaker, Sir, gone to the Commissioner of Squatters who has promised land for these people, because these people were taken away during the time when the hon. Member was in the Government, but, it is ironic and also shows the insincerity of the Member to come and start talking about them now, because when he was in the Government and had the chance to present the difficulties of these people, he did not do it; but, Sir, now that he is no longer in the Government he finds it necessary to blame the Government. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that should not be allowed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to support the Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odero-Jow): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sorry to have to say this while the hon. Member for Butere is out of the Chamber, but Sir, the hon. Member has elected himself the president of the poor people and, at the same time, he is also a self-appointed trade union official. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wanted to warn him to stop meddling in the affairs of the drivers of the Ministers, because these people have a contract with their employers, and if the Mr. hon. Shikuku's meddling brings about a breach of contract, this, Sir, will be too bad. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to inform the drivers of all our Ministers, including mine, that they are free to join the Transport and Allied Workers Union. It is only by joining this union, that their rights and their responsibilities as workers will be taken care of most effectively. The hon. Mr. Shikuku's noise in this Chamber, does not help these workers one little bit. They are free to join the Transport and Allied Workers Union, and I would be delighted to see all of them become members of that union. Through that union, Sir, they will be given better support and protection than the noise the hon. Member usually makes here.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am seeking your ruling on this point. Is the hon. Assistant Minister in order to refer to any hon. Member's speech here as only noise?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, No, it is not. Order! Hon. Members are free to disagree with what other hon. Members say, but they should never be offensive in their description of what other Members have said.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odero-Jow): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I withdraw the "noise" part of what I said, but, Sir, I believe, and this is my sincere opinion, that it is doing these people no good. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say a few things with regard to the question of unemployment. The Government is fully conscious of the plight of the unemployed people in this country. I have, personally, been charged with the responsibility of drafting a plan as to what should be done to combat unemployment in want this country to develop and if we really want to see true Uhuru in the proper spirit, the time has come when the President should have an advisory committee of fifteen experts who are not Ministers or Members of Parliament. Let them be experts drawn from a wide circle in this country. I will propose the composition of these experts who will assist the President so that this House, and the Council of Ministers, would only implement on the advice given to the President through this impartial advisory committee.

[Mr. Khasakhala]

Mr. Speaker, I feel very strongly that the country is not moving forward, because the President is kept in ignorance and is surrounded by tribalism, by Ministers, by politicians who want to obtain certain credit for their own areas, and as a result, we are not moving forward. I feel very strongly that the President needs an advisory committee of fifteen impartial people and the composition of this committee should be as follows: I will only name a few of them, Mr. Speaker. Let him have a professor who is an economist and who can advise the President on matters to do with the economy of this country. Let him also have a lawyer who can advise him on legal matters. Let him have a doctor to advise him in the field of medicine. Let him have a geologist who can advise him on such a matter of great importance, and so forth. The reason why I say this, Mr. Speaker, is because it is impossible today for the President to decide on his own. He finds it very difficult, even on very important matters, because there are politicians around him confusing him, and also he finds Ministers around him confusing him, he finds tribalism, Kikuyus around him confusing him and he cannot move, Mr. Speaker. I feel most strongly that the Council of Ministers—which is a high-powered council in this country—should only face problems that are brought to them by this impartial advisory committee. For example we have had matters of great importance, such as resolutions taken by the Organization for African Unity. Once such a resolution comes to the President he is confused. He does not know what to do, but if we had a committee, such as this one, he could go with this resolution on all these important matters and present it to his committee and say, "Gentlemen, find a solution". Then he can bring what he has been advised by his impartial advisory committee to the Council of Ministers for final action.

Mr. G. G. Karikiak: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir: For the interest of the House am I in order to ask Mr. Khasakhala to substantiate that the President can never make any decision on his own because he is surrounded by a few Kikuyus?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, Mr. Karikiak. Mr. Khasakhala is obviously expressing an opinion on the state of affairs that he sees. Hon. Members are entitled to do that; you cannot substantiate the accuracy of your opinion.

Mr. Khasakhala: I am sure that my proposal will be sent to the President. He should have an advisory committee to advise him.

The second problem that is facing this country, whatever we say is that, unless we can find a solution for unemployment, Mr. Speaker, a hungry man can never be happy at all. The Government must try and solve the problem of unemployment immediately.

With these few remarks, I beg to support.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you. Time being short, I will go straight to the point.

Mr. Speaker, the other day there were some five students from Kisii who were accepted into the Mangu Secondary School. These students were in Catholic schools, but they were baptised in other denominations. Now when it was discovered that these students were not Catholics, they were kicked out of the Mangu Secondary School. I tried to get the Minister to do something, but, up to this moment, some of these students are still in my house. I believe that the Government should take strong action and not penalize a young man, who has not even yet decided on his religion, because he will decide on his religion when he comes of age, and I hope the Government will take firm action on this and not be controlled by other people.

Mr. Speaker, on the question of employment, the Government should be able to spread the chances of employment. It seems here that the only people who can obtain employment are the people who are around Nairobi and the people who have relatives in these big offices. Some of us who have no relatives in these big offices find it very difficult to obtain employment for our people. Therefore, I would suggest to the Government that they should set up a bureau where people can register for employment and when ten office messengers are wanted in Nairobi, they should be distributed throughout all the districts of Kenya so that every place can have a chance to employ people.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the other point I wish to make is on the question of Kanu. Today, there is tension in Kenya because some of our Ministers have used their portfolios—and here nobody must ask me to substantiate—because the two Ministers from Kisii, Mr. Nyamwaya and Mr. Sagini, used their influence to call a secret Kanu election in the Kisii District and, as a result, [Mr. Anyieni] there are two branches of Kanu. For unity's sake, we demand that open elections should be held and if there are people who fear that in an open election they cannot be elected as leaders, they should retire from politics and join some sort of business.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there is another thing and that is the question of coups d'état in Africa. There are a lot of coups d'état which are taking place in Africa today and, if we analyse these coups d'état properly, we will find that they are imperialist inspired. For example, Mr. Speaker, some people heard what Chou En Lai said about these coups d'état, but whatever Chou En Lai said about these coups d'état, they are not for Chou En Lai. For example, in the Central African Republic, where there was a coups d'état, immediately the coup took place, the Chinese Embassy was closed and all of them were expelled. The same thing was done in Upper Volta and in other places. Even in Ghana, this has been done. Let nobody deceive the masses that these coups d'état have been brought about by the Chinese or the Russians. These are coups d'état that have been brought about by the imperialists. For example, Mr. Speaker, in Ghana immediately when Nkrumah was expelled, while Kenya was withdrawing her delegation from Addis Ababa and the United Arab Republic was doing so as well as Tanzania, the United States was recognizing the régime as well as Britain. So the people must know that the imperialists are very busy staging coups d'état and I want to ask the Kenya Government to be very careful of these coups d'état. The Government must guard against any foreigners approaching our people in the army in order that our army may remain loyal only to the Kenya people and not to imperialist forces or any other forces for that matter who want to interfere with the smooth running of our country.

Now, Mr. Speaker, on the question of ambassadors. We have some ambassadors who are not allowed to move as they are thought to be a danger, but then we have ambassadors who are here to represent their own Governments but instead of doing this they are running all over the country preaching their ideology and giving gifts. Our Government should put a stop to this. Any gift which is given by any Government should be given through the Government of that country. If this is done without any discrimination, I think Kenya will have peace.

Mr. Speaker, shall I be given my time?

Mr. Kihoga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir. This is very important because the hon. Member has alleged that some ambassadors are travelling all over the country, preaching ideologies, whilst others are restricted to their offices. Could he substantiate?

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope that I will be given extra time because the hon. Member interrupted me. I heard it recently announced over the radio and read in the papers that His Excellency, the United States Ambassador to Kenya, Mr. Atwood, was in the hon. Mr. Khasakhala's constituency where he gave a gift. But, Sir, we know that other ambassadors are not allowed to move as far as that into the countryside.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to finish off quickly by saying that there is a hotel in the Kisii District known as the Kisii Hotel. Mr. Speaker, Sir, before this hotel was run by a person called Mr. Duffy. This certain man, Mr. Duffy, kicked out the Mzee from his hotel. Another man came, but he soon went. Now, Sir, there is another man at this hotel who thinks that the African is abusing the people. Therefore, I am asking my Government kindly to take a step which will remove this man from this hotel.

With those few words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also wish to support the adjournment.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to join my other hon. friends who have spoken in this House. But, Sir, I would like to clarify a few points which the hon. Member for Machakos North made here, who, very unfortunately, is not in the Chamber any longer.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Mr. Ngei who was, until recently, a Minister, had the audacity to criticize the Government at this particular moment, for the Government having failed to do certain things on behalf of the Wakamba people. Mr. Speaker, Sir, he was a Minister, until a few weeks ago and, therefore, he could have used his influence to help the Wakamba people. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Member did speak about a number of persons who were removed from a part of my constituency, Donyo Sabuk. This, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is a part of my constituency, and therefore, Sir, I know what really happened. In fact, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the people who were removed from this particular area were misled by the very same Member who has spoken in this House. This, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can be clarified. It is in the administration books. The reports were made, and even some allegations with regard to some money, which was collected in his name, the case was heard in court after it had been mentioned.

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development] Order! I am glad to hear that the Member to whom you refer is earning Sh. 2,000 plus an allowance of £6 per day here?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! It is a matter of opinion entirely whether you are poor or rich.

Mr. Shikuku: I am sure, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is ashamed of himself.

Mr. Speaker: I am of the opinion—

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the hon. Member to say I am ashamed of myself when I am very happy?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Yes, these things are in order. I would ask you, Mr. Mwendwa, to restrict yourself to valid points of order.

Mr. Kamurem: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may I seek your ruling on this? If there is a Minister who goes on making interjections in the House, what is your ruling?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members are aware that a certain degree of interjection is allowed, and even encouraged, to make a debate lively; it is only when it becomes intolerable that the Member concerned is told so, and if he does not desist he has to go.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, I do not have much time, and my time has been taken.

There is another issue, Sir. We have been told of the deportation of certain people. There is one European at Uplands, Mr. Speaker, a former commander in charge of detention camps, who has introduced a system that is segregation, that people on higher scales should not mix with the people on lower scales.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I am giving Mr. Shikuku another minute because of the interruptions he had.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

This man, Mr. Speaker, has brought this system in, in Uplands and, as a result, one African has been ticked. Mr. Speaker, when I rang him this morning, he told me that he did not care who I was, not even the Ministers, that he has pocketed everybody. Mr. Speaker, I feel—the man in question is called Mr. Leslie, and the manager there is Mr. Connery, all these people should be deported.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member has alleged that a certain European at Uplands has told him on the telephone, that he has pocketed every Minister, could he substantiate this as I personally take this very seriously, if it is true it should be followed up by the Government?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, I am ready to substantiate. I had a telephone call this morning and when I asked him he told me, "Whether you are a Minister or a Member of Parliament, I do not care a hoot, you are all in my pocket." The person who was sacked was called Mr. Shikaka. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if this European is not sacked, the former detainees who made many people in this country suffer, and created a lot of hardships for the people of this country, if he is not deported then, Mr. Speaker, I will be very disappointed in this Government. I think this is the right person to be deported for the sake of the country.

Mr. Ngeli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thank you for allowing me to speak awhile. This is a question of national importance, and I would like to ask the hon. Members to listen. I would like to ask the speech because of any improper motive, but I am making it from the bottom of my heart on behalf of 1,500 families who are really suffering. A year ago in Donyo Sabuk, 1,500 families of the Wakamba were removed and sent to a remote area of Kenya, 150 miles away from Nairobi, and left in the wilderness. There were no means—this is beyond Makeni Settlement—there were no means of livelihood; there were no means for the supplying of food, no water, nothing. They were just put there in a camp like prisoners of war. Even, I believe, prisoners of war are far better treated because they have biscuits and many other tinned fruits, but these Wakamba people, very lovely people, very courageous people, were removed because of one settler from the Donyo Sabuk Estates. It was alleged that a few prominent people have grouped together to buy what is known as McMillan's Farm, which is a very big farm indeed, extending about fifty miles in width. These people were removed and taken away—I am not prepared to slander anyone, my dear friend, I am here to spread the truth. I said alleged—these families were taken to Makeni and left there. It is understood that the settler in question gave Sh. 20,000 in order that this should be distributed to these people, or that food be bought for these people. Later on, further people were removed from Donyo Sabuk, and even today, I can tell the hon. Members that there are some people who have been removed from this same farm, women who are working on this same farm, after working five days the pay is calculated to be or a stint is made of one day. Stint means a stint of labour, I think the Minister of Labour would know this. Therefore, a stint is given of [Mr. Ngeli] but they have worked for five days. They are being harassed, and these poor souls have been left in Donyo Sabuk and those who are 120 miles away from Donyo Sabuk have not received any help from the Government at all. The camp has become like a show camp, that means people have been going there to show sympathy, but sympathy forms a lip service of administrators, and I accuse, and I stand by my own words, that the district commissioners in this what I should call closed district of Machakos, have been responsible for this matter. I have checked and I have found that they have not reported the matter to the high authority of the Government, and I have made attempts that the President should know about these families. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is not a question of tribalism my dear friend; this is a question of the lives of 1,500 families, and it is serious. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Government to look into this serious affair. It is so serious.

Mr. Speaker, let me come to another point. At Yatta, it has been very dry and the crops have failed. The Minister for Local Government has seen fit to say that the water which was in the Yatta Furrow is not to be used; the cattle are not to be taken there at all. Instead the place—if you can wait the president of the poor, I will make my point, if you want to interrupt because you think you have scored, my dear friend you are wrong.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! You will address the Chair.

Mr. Ngeli: Mr. Speaker, this furrow was dug by ex-detainees, people who had been put inside because of their nationalism to set this country free. The furrow was dug to provide water. Of course, at that time, it was meant to make these people die. Today, when the Government knows very well that there is no water, that there is no food in Yatta, they have chosen to close the furrow, and women go about thirty miles to get water. This is a shame. Mr. Speaker!

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Mr. Ngeli has alleged very seriously that the Government has decided to close down the Yatta Furrow, can he substantiate that?

Mr. Ngeli: Mr. Speaker, it is true that the furrow has been closed and the people are not watering their cattle. May I go ahead?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must say on what grounds you say that, Mr. Ngeli. Either that you have seen that the furrow is closed, or that you have read an order, but you must say why.

Mr. Ngeli: Mr. Speaker, what I said is true, the furrow is not being used by the Akamba people, and women are travelling forty and thirty miles to get their drinking water with a calabash.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! You have not yet substantiated if it is anything to do with Government. Order! You are being asked to substantiate that Government has closed the furrow. You must say for what reason you associate Government with these events.

Mr. Ngeli: Well, Mr. Speaker, I have been told that it has been done because of the tax. But can you really close water for human beings because of tax when they are nearly dying?

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, what I am trying to get from the hon. Member is that he has alleged that the Government has closed this; is he talking about the Government or a county council? That is the substantiation that I want.

Mr. Ngeli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if it is local government, body or a local council, or whoever, even if a Government servant closes it, is construed that it is the Government who has given its consent. Mr. Speaker, may I go ahead?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! You have had your time anyhow. Order! I think on that point. Mr. Ngeli has made it clear that he does not know whether it is the Government or local government. Some authority he says has done this.

Mr. Ngeli: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was saying how very important this issue was, because there are 1,000 families removed today from Ulu and they have just been put on the Mombasa Road, Akamba people.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! What is your point of order, Mr. Ngeli?

Mr. Ngeli: My point of order is that I was interrupted. Can I have an extra minute, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, you had finished your time already when you were asked to substantiate.

Mr. Khasakhalu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for this chance. I am going to speak on a matter of great importance to the nation and if I think that it is opportune, I will bring forward this point to the House.

Mr. Speaker, I feel very strongly that His Excellency the President in Kenya today cannot water his matters of national importance decide on matters of national importance impartially, because he has politicians around him who have the interests of their own constituencies at heart. I am suggesting, Mr. Speaker, that if we

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development] it is his duty to clarify it. It should not matter whether he is a Minister or a Back-bencher, I think this is the right of every Member and I have that right because I am a Member here, Mr. Speaker. In fact, instead of wasting time, I would have finished.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

Mr. Speaker, I would like the Members to take time to think about the things which have brought unemployment to this country, and how, Sir, we can improve the situation. Things will never be improved by simply pointing out that there is unemployment. No one in this Chamber can be forced to employ somebody when he has no vacancy either in his house or in his business. One has to think whether he has a vacancy, or whether he has the money. Mr. Speaker, I want to point out to the hon. Members here what has actually been happening which has caused a lot of unemployment and about which, with the help of the Members here and with the help of the Members concerned, perhaps we can do something, before we shout and say, "Let the Government create employment." Government cannot just create employment if there is not employment. Employment is created by everybody. Even you can create employment. If an hon. Member here starts to clear a bush somewhere and he employs ten people to clear that bush—there are very many bushes to be cleared here in this country, and the hon. Members here who earn, fortunately, like myself, Sh. 2,000 a month; and if an hon. Member can just cut ten acres of bush, he could employ one or two unfortunate fellows to clear this bush. This is what we mean by employment.

Mr. Speaker, if you look at Nairobi, for example—

An hon. Member: How much bush have you cleared?

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Twenty acres, and I have employed ten people. You come, you will see them.

Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Members will look around at what is happening in Nairobi—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid that your time is up.

Mr. Jahazi: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, while supporting this Motion for the adjournment, I have two points to make.

The first touches the Ministers and it touches the Ministers' drivers. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Ministers employ drivers and they exploit them, terribly.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the hon. Member substantiate that we exploit our drivers?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Jahazi, were you about to explain?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, that is what I was going to say.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Ministers' drivers earn about Sh. 240 per month. Although they are employed by the Government, they do not get overtime; they have no working hours; they work from morning; they drive the Ministers around; they bring them to Parliament; they are now outside there; and from there they will drive them to cocktail parties or a meeting and they will wait there up to 12 o'clock at night and then drive them home. Then, Mr. Speaker, they are supposed to be at the Ministers' houses at 7 o'clock to wash and clean the cars and drive them to their offices. For all this, they do not get overtime; they do not get any extra money for the long hours they put in. If that is not exploitation, Mr. Speaker, I do not know what else it is.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like the hon. Member to prove beyond any doubt that we do not give our drivers food to eat and money when they travel with us all over the place apart from their salaries.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Of course, substantiation does not necessarily require absolute proof, as I have said on other occasions in this House. It is a case of the hon. Member saying on what grounds he alleges something; but if the hon. Member is alleging a negative, then, as I have stated, you cannot really substantiate a negative. That being so, I allow another hon. Member to correct what he believes to be untrue; so, Mr. Mwendwa, you have, in fact, had the opportunity of correcting the Member by saying that you do give food, and so on, to your drivers.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my substantiation I did not mention food. I did not say that they were hungry and dying of starvation. I just said they had no fixed times; they work such long hours and then they do not get paid for that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I think we have dwelt long enough on this point, but Mr. Mwendwa was making it clear, when he rose, that [The Speaker] That does not mean that everybody would get extra rations are given on journeys, in his case, and financial compensation on some occasions also. You must accept what he says, you know, in these things.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, I am not arguing with what he says and I do not think his intervention is necessary, Sir, because I am not accusing one Minister, I am just mentioning the terms of employment of these drivers. If any Minister is generous enough to pay his driver out of his pocket, that is called bakishiti, but the driver could not demand and say that he was not paid and could not take him to the industrial court, for that matter.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have clarified something now which was disturbing Mr. Mwendwa. You did appear to say that Ministers exploited their drivers. You mean that Government exploits the drivers?

Mr. Jahazi: I am glad that you have corrected this, Sir, let this appear so, Sir, that the Government exploits them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, having made that point I think the second point is about the police in Mombasa. These days, Mr. Speaker, it is fashionable for the policemen to go around at night and arrest all small offenders; I mean cyclists who may not have a light on their bicycles or something, and then lock the cyclist and his bicycle up inside. They are not even allowed to give a bond or to be bailed out. Now, Mr. Speaker, this is surprising because a bicycle costs more than Sh. 300 and the fine for riding without a—

On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes. Who has a point of order?

Mr. Jahazi: It is my point of order, Mr. Speaker!

Mr. Speaker, having been interrupted so much, and the time is up, can you give me an extra minute to finish this point?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you hardly can claim that, Mr. Jahazi, because you really did call for the interruptions by what you said. I think we must let somebody else have a turn now.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two points to raise here.

One is about the question of extravagance inside this Government. Mr. Speaker, I have, time and again, advocated the reduction of salaries of various people, including the Members of Parliament, plus the President of the Republic of Kenya, as a sign of sacrifice to the people in this country.

That does not mean that everybody would get employment out of that money; but it would be a step towards doing something rather than just talking.

Mr. Speaker, it has been proved of late that there is a lot of money being spent in this country extravagantly, particularly in the City of Nairobi. Only the other day, we were told of somebody with a Cambridge School Certificate blowing Sh. 11,000 a month. Today, Sir, we have heard of another expatriate in the City Council earning Sh. 15,833/34 a month. This is ridiculous, Mr. Speaker. I feel, Sir, that there is something definitely wrong with this Government, when we have so many people unemployed; so many going hungry; so many sleeping in the drains; and some people drawing such very large sums of money and enjoying themselves in this country. Is this the African Socialism we advocate? If it is that, Mr. Speaker, I say, "To hell with African Socialism".

Mr. Jahazi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for a Member to use such language as "to hell", is it Parliamentary?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. It is not Parliamentary language.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I withdraw that word "hell", but the view still remains.

Mr. Speaker, the other issue is the question of the civil servants who are now earning the former colonial salaries. They blow this salary and they do not employ a mpishi; they do not employ a houseboy; they do not employ an ayah; and all they do is keep the money for themselves and their wives work in the Ministries or with this, or the other, company. They do not help other people to come up. Mr. Speaker, we know of people now in high positions, whose fathers were drivers or cooks of the imperialists. Today the son of the ex-cook cannot learn, and now more cooks—and even shamba boys—cannot have their children at school because the Africans have taken up the posts and they are sitting on the money, they call themselves provincial commissioners, district commissioners, district officers, sioners, district commissioners; district officers, permanent secretaries and all the rest of it. I feel permanent secretaries and all the rest of it. I feel that this is not helping the country at all. Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion that a commission of inquiry should be set up to look into the expatriate salaries which are exorbitant, so that we can assess the situation, because I feel that these expatriates and some of the Africans are really exploiting the poor people. Of course, as you know, I am the president of the poor people.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it really in

Hon. Members: Then resign.

Mr. Omar: Well, I am putting this before the House, because I want the House to know that the people are not happy, and it is no use telling me to resign. It is us here who are satisfied, but the people are not satisfied.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, let us tell the Government the truth, because once they have the truth, then it is all right. If we do not tell them the truth, then we are fooling ourselves and allowing a situation whereby one day the masses will demonstrate their feelings to the Government. It is a matter to be looked into and a solution should be found.

Another thing, Sir, is about stable leadership in the Dock Workers' Union.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I am afraid your time is up, Mr. Omar.

Mr. Mbohoh: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, while supporting this Motion for the adjournment I wish that the Government would revise its foreign policy. Coups which have been taking place in Africa are not good. It is awkward that our Government can recognize one coup and next morning when another takes place, the Government does not recognize that one. This is very interesting. The other day when the Nigerian Government had a coup d'état, it seemed that even Dr. Nkrumah himself agreed that it was a good thing and now that Ghana has had a coup d'état, then everybody in Kenya says, "We support Nkrumah now because we do not want these military coups. Sir, this is awkward. So, when we are in recess, I hope that the Government will at least sort out the confusion and its attitude towards its foreign policy.

During the recess, I hope that the Government—and I call upon the President to do this—will look into the possibility of looking at the lazy Ministers and sacking them, so that when we come back here, we do not have any of them in Parliament. The hard-working Ministers in the Government should, during this time, visit the country and see what the people are doing; they should do this instead of coming and sitting here and making a lot of noise. I think that the Ministers who are lazy should be sacked and some Members who are hard-working, who can put some good and new blood into the work, should be given those jobs so that they can show the country what new blood can do.

Another thing which I would like the Government to look at is the policy of local government in this country. It seems as though there is a policy, a difficult policy, in this local government, whereby it can be given freedom to exercise its own power while some other local governments are being stamped on by the Ministers; in this way he is killing them. So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am glad there will be a commission to look into this and I would like the commission to go deep into the local councils and see exactly what is happening in the country. They should check the accounts of Nairobi, and find out why the Nairobi City Council collects all the money from people and does not help the other local councils. Does it do this just because it is a grant thing which has power to pamper the authority of the Minister?

There is something that I welcome very much and this is the fact that while we are speaking about our recess, there is already a move to reconstruct Kanu as a national party. I disagree with anybody who says this is not the right time to reconstruct Kanu. All this time since we were elected we have been shouting to the Government that Kanu should be reconstructed, but now that we are trying to reconstruct it, some people, just because they have been given money by a foreign power to say, "No, not now," they object. This is absolutely useless and should be done away with.

I find that the Youth Service of this country is already in a mess and I believe that it is definitely in a mess although my Motion here was defeated. I feel that there should be a great deal of improvement in the Youth Service of this country. Though somebody is talking nonsense here, I know he is one of those people who does not understand how the Youth Service is run. Because he goes there and receives a report from a European, he then says, "O.K." After that, he goes home. I feel that the Youth Service should be reconstructed, though in the proper sense the Youth Service is a very good force of this country; one which can work very well for the benefit of the country. However, when it is left in the hands of an hon. Member like the Member for Nyandarua, it is just being corrupted. I think the hon. Member should close his mouth and see what is happening. The youths of this country will support me because they know how they suffer. If they are anywhere here, they will know exactly what the hon. Kariki is talking about. This question of Youth Service is such a burning one that it needs a lot of time. I do not think that although some person is shouting he has the right to think that he is right all the time. I hope things will be put right.

I beg to support.

Mr. Kall: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want first of all to speak about this Organization for African Unity because, Sir, I think the Government did

(Mr. Kall) the right thing by recalling Kenya's delegation. My opinion is that the present Organization for African Unity is in chaos. For instance, since the declaration of unilateral independence, what have they done? They have been meeting every now and then. What have they done? So, I propose that instead of so much money being spent on sending delegations abroad, this money should be spent here on relieving unemployment. We have people who are starving and yet so many thousands of £s. are spent on first-class flights, first-class hotels in all big cities. This is a waste of money. This country is not going to agree to this kind of thing.

My second point is education. It is my sincere opinion that the present position within the Ministry of Education is chaotic. I will give you one example. The other day the police had to be called to clear away parents who wanted to know whether their children had passed the K.P.E. examination and where they were going to be placed. The Ministry had to bring the police to clear away the parents.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the City Council of Nairobi has requested the Ministry to allow the city council to offer free primary education and the Ministry turns this down. Yet they know the position of Nairobi; they know there are so many children in Nairobi who are fatherless. I cannot see a responsible Ministry turning down such an offer when the city council is financially able to provide free education. I can prove this to the Assistant Minister for Education. The city council obtained the money from overseas countries and from the taxpayers. Anyway, the money is there, Sir. If the Ministry had allowed this, today we would have had free primary education in Nairobi.

I now come to the problem of unemployment. Nairobi City is hit very hard by unemployment. You just go to one of these shanty towns where people are crowded and have no food to eat. In fact, the Government has been doing something good by feeding these people. I would like the Government to act again on the same basis as it did when it introduced the Tripartite Agreement. I think this should be repeated. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because the situation has grown desperate. This social menace, as one Member called it, can result in a very serious situation: You know what happens to a dissatisfied man who is frustrated because of hunger? These people are fathers, they have children, they want their children to have education. But where are they to get the money from? So, I appeal to the Government to think again on this question.

Another point is the present political situation in the country. Nobody can tell me that although in the eyes of the world Kenya seems to be a stable country politically, nothing is happening. I feel the President should not be lulled into a false sleep by thinking that this country is stable. Although we are supposed to be one party, in fact, virtually there are two parties within one party. Nobody can deny this. I think the President should consider this thing seriously and for the sake of unity of this country he should do something, and do it very quickly. There should be unity within the party. Now, Sir, we have our constitution of Kanu, and unless and until we can adhere to that constitution, there will be trouble and confusion. In Kenya today, whatever we do, it must be done constitutionally. Whenever the Government wants to amend the Constitution it brings it here, we discuss it, we exchange views, and then we pass it. So, the same thing should be in Kanu. (The constitution must be respected, otherwise we are inviting chaos.)

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have the right in this Assembly to speak as much as anybody else.

Hon. Members: Shame! Shame!

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Sir, I have nothing to be ashamed of. In fact, I am very proud.

Sir, I did not want to speak on this Motion, originally, but I have been prompted to do so because of a few remarks which have been made by the hon. Members who have spoken. I think it is fair that these remarks should be replied to. They should not go unanswered.

One of them—I am not going to be long in unemployment. I speak with authority because a few months ago I was the Minister for Labour.

Mr. Kall: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to know, because the Minister had indicated that he is answering some of the points raised on the amendment, whether he is answering in his capacity as a Minister or as a Member for the area he represents?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Well, I think he can only answer in his capacity as a Minister.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think that in this Chamber Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think that in this Chamber even if a big chap hears a Member put forward even a point which he thinks he can clarify, I think

[Mr. Mate]

Deputy Speaker, Sir, at Muthambi, Meru, the Provincial Education Officer, Embu, visited this area and also the Assistant Minister visited this place and he saw the good work which had taken place. Therefore, why do they not want to work with us? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, take Chogoria as an example. Here we have two self-help secondary schools which were opened by the parents. One of the classes Form I and a Form II for boys was allowed to start by the Ministry and the Provincial Education Officer, Embu, side by side with the grant-aided section of the secondary school. Today, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are told that the Government is not prepared to work with the parents in order to solve the problem of the secondary school places.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, another question is this: why is this Ministry so slow when the people are prepared to work with them? Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to touch on another point. I heard on the radio this morning about shortages of Form I places in the Bungoma District. This applies to Meru too. Recently, after the results were out, we had a problem in the Eastern Province of placing girls and boys in the secondary schools that were available in the Eastern Province and something unfortunate happened that the people of the Machakos District, Kitui District, Embu District, Meru District, Marsabit, Moyale, thought that one district was trying to outdo the other, in that children from Meru went to Machakos, others from Embu went to Meru, and some from Meru came to Embu and there was a quarrel among the parents as to who was bringing these children into their districts just because their own children were unable to get places. The fault lies with the Ministry of Education. They, themselves, wrote letters, or the Provincial Education Officer at Embu, wrote letters to the parents telling them that their children could go to such and such a school. Why should the Government—and the Minister for Education in particular, just because he cannot do his job properly—make people quarrel for nothing? We want him to offer these children places and not make people so confused just because he cannot do anything.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am glad to hear and to know that recently, when the Minister for Education and the President visited Meru, they assured the Meru parents that their children who were unable to obtain places in Form I would be helped to get those places. This is an assurance given to the Meru people and, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want to emphasize that the Meru are only waiting to see what the Government are prepared to do to get places for our children in Form I and I appeal to the Minister for Education to honour this undertaking and this pledge because it is so important. It is said that the Meru are backward but now that we have woken up we want the Government to meet us half way.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support the Motion for the adjournment.

Mr. Kibaga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, while supporting the Motion for the adjournment, I would like to make a few comments. First of all, I would like to say that it is most surprising that on such a day as this when there is a Motion for the adjournment, there is only one Minister and one Assistant Minister in the House. This is a time when we, the Back-benchers, should be giving our views concerning the country and also that of our constituencies. To find that there is only one Minister present to listen to all our grievances, is really terrible, and I would say that these hon. Ministers are the advisers of the President, how can they advise the President when they do not attend during the time of debate? It is no wonder, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that most of the Ministers do not know much beyond Nairobi and their constituencies. Were they elected to serve Nairobi and their constituencies only? Some of the problems they know nothing about. I will soon talk about the Ministry of Agriculture and I will show the Assistant Ministers that they do not know. Once someone is a Minister or an Assistant Minister, he should make an effort to find out the problems of the country as a whole. Just moving about Nairobi and his own constituency is not enough. Again, most of the Ministers have made a habit of being absent from this House and the Members talk and talk and nobody answers them. Who is going to make the official reply?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think that the President needs to discipline his Ministers if Kenya is to progress properly. Once the Ministers are disciplined properly and come to the House and do not issue contradictory statements and there is a united policy, then the country will be united, but once a Minister says this and another one says that, the country becomes confused. We want a united front and we want discipline.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, on the question of secondary education, I would like to say that the Ministry of Education, which is not represented here as I cannot see a Minister or Assistant Minister, have more or less neglected the Kirinyaga District on the question of secondary education, and our people are anxious to know that they are being looked after. In my constituency, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there are only

[Mr. Kibaga] ... just two classes, in a constituency of about 100,000 people. We definitely need more secondary education and we need fair distribution. The Government may say that it has not got enough money, but we go to some districts that have so many secondary schools and in the other districts there are none. What can you call fair in this?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to say something about what the Government has failed to do in my constituency and my district. Before land consolidation, all the land belonged to different clans, people planted coffee in some shambas, others planted tea and others planted different kinds of crops, but when it came to land consolidation in Kirinyaga, it was an agreed policy that even if your coffee happens to go with somebody else, because of the demarcation, that coffee still remains yours and if the owner of the new garden wishes to move you out, the best thing would be to plant for you. Now the Ministry of Lands have actually confused people because they have issued circulars to say that anybody who owns coffee which is not in his garden, forfeits the right of ownership. This is terrible. I have been promised action by the Ministry of Lands and the Attorney-General's Department and we want action. We do not want the Government to encourage robbery.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to comment on the Press in this country. It seems that the Press in this country have become very lazy. They depend entirely on the Voice of Kenya to report for them. We need them to report so that we obtain a variety of reporting.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I rise to support this Motion for the adjournment. As the House is now going into long recess, I would like to remind our Ministers about the political atmosphere in Africa, particularly in the countries where there have been coups by the military or the army. Now, our country, Kenya, is good; its political stability at the moment is good, but that is not enough. We would like the Government to ensure that our army and the police are satisfied, because, sometimes, when there has been a coup in other countries, some policemen in this country have raised those people who were involved in carrying out the coups. Some of the policemen and some of the army have been complaining that the conditions of service are not good. They want improvements. They claim that they are sleeping in very bad houses, that they are not satisfied with their salaries, and so on. So, it is very important, Sir, that the Government should ensure that the police force and the army are satisfied, because if they are not satisfied, then they will be tempted to do the same as has happened in Ghana, Nigeria and elsewhere in Africa. So, in order to avoid all this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Government must ensure that the police and the army are satisfied. To keep them out of mischief they must be satisfied.

Another thing is about unemployment. It has become a social menace in the country. About two weeks ago, I held a public meeting in my constituency, Mombasa, and I was speaking on the vote of confidence which had been passed in this House. I asked the masses whether I had made a mistake by supporting that Motion of confidence in the Government. Some of the audience told me that I had made a mistake, because they were not satisfied with the social conditions in the country; they said they had been looking for employment for a number of years and they have not found any employment to date. Some of them said that some parents could not get admission into Form I for their children and that boys and girls were just roaming in the streets, looking for employment. Some of them who had left school at Standard VII, others who had failed the Cambridge School Certificate, from all over the Coast, they came to Mombasa looking for employment. Some of them do not even have places where they can sleep. That is why I say that unemployment is a social menace in the country and the Government must do something right now. The call of, "Go back to the land," has not been heeded by these people. Parents who have sent their children to schools and those boys who have left at Standard VII of Cambridge School Certificate, encourage their boys and girls to go to Mombasa, from Kilifi, from Kwale, from Lamu District. They all send their boys to Mombasa for employment, but there is not enough employment to absorb all these people. So, I think the Government must do something to get these people employment in one way or another. We do not want these people to become dissatisfied with the Government, because if they become dissatisfied with the Government socially, then there is a danger that they might not co-operate with the Government. Thus they will cause trouble in the country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, by passing a vote of confidence here, by the Members of Parliament who are earning Sh. 2,000 a month, they know they are pleased with themselves because they are all right, but the majority of people in the constituencies are not satisfied.

An hon. Member: But you supported!

Mr. Omar: Although I supported, I was told that I was wrong to do so.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I think that is a very good reason for the House entertaining that suggestion, and so I will put the question.

(Question put and agreed to)

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is most unfortunate that this Motion came at the wrong time, because I can see Members who are very eager to speak on this particular Motion, but no time has been given to them to speak.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is ridiculous to learn with so much regret that our Government seems to overlook the question of security around the borders of our neighbouring countries. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister according to his speech, said that he has visited this area, and he will agree with me, Mr. Speaker, that this particular area is where the firearms were found last year, which were said to be going to Uganda. One of the roads which the Assistant Minister travelled on is just about twenty-six miles between Nyabasi Trading Centre and Isebania: that is the Tarime/Kisii Road.

QUORUM

Mr. Mbogoh: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is there a quorum in the House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, there is not. Ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We now have a quorum. You may proceed, Mr. Malsori-Itumbo.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope my wasted minutes will be given back to me.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, you are entitled to a little bit longer, but I must ask you to make it as short as you can because we are due to have the adjournment of the House moved now.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I had started saying that our Government is overlooking the question of the security of the borders. I had begun by saying that the Assistant Minister has had some experience of this area. Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are two roads which lead to Tanzania. The first road, Mr. Speaker, Sir, which is a trunk road which connects Kenya and Tanzania is known as Kisii/Tarime Road. This road, Sir, runs only half a mile away from the border, where you will find a police station in Tanzania. At this particular place, and the Assistant Minister will agree with me, that in order to pass through this place he used my name. Mr. Speaker, Sir, you cannot pass through this place without a thorough inspection: He had not used my name in order to go through. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Tanzania Government is very, very restrictive at their border. Therefore Mr. Speaker, Sir, we think that it is rather funny that our Government is overlooking this question of security between us and Tanzania.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other road passes through the trading centre where I am demanding a police post and that the traders may be compensated, is also about a quarter of a mile from this trading centre. Here when they visit this place they will find a big camp of National Youth Servicemen, where their security is taken care of. This big camp of National Youth Servicemen are looking after this particular gateway to Tanzania! It is funny, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to see that our Government sees through the eyes of Tanzania as devil, but, Sir, the Tanzania Government, in our eyes, seems to be an angel. I do not know why the Government of Kenya does not take these things seriously, because even these people who are coming to harass my people in Kenya, I believe that there is some carelessness on both sides. The Tanzania Government does not care about anything, because our Government is supposed to protect her own borders. Mr. Speaker, Sir, a person who wants to come into Kenya can do so with any amount of freedom. Nobody checks to see what happens to the person who comes from Tanzania to Kenya, but if you try to enter Tanzania, you will see something different.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Kisii/Tarime Road was the road on which the firearms were found. Mr. Speaker, Sir, there were lorries full of firearms which were found about twenty miles inside Kenya. Mr. Okwanyo noticed these lorries when he was coming from Kisii just inside Kenya. Mr. Speaker, Sir, our Government must not take this thing easily and simply, because, Sir, there have been cases where traders, requested the former Police Superintendent and the District Officer, Migori, and Mr. Mungai, and Mr. Joseph who told the trader at Nyabasi Centre that his akaris were not watchmen to be so used. Again, Sir, the district officer of the place, the former District Officer of Migori, had told these people that the Somalis should go back to the North-Eastern Region. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is shameful of our Government to refuse deliberately to protect the citizens of Kenya and particularly those from my constituency.

Again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I look into the question of the General Service Unit who went purposely to attack the innocent people of my area, last year, on Christmas day. We therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, feel very strongly about the fact that the Government is not in favour of the Kuria living in Kenya, as the Assistant Minister said here, when he was speaking, that the main part of my tribe lives in Tanzania. They have only four locations in Kenya. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when we face this question of not being looked after, then I feel that the time will come when we have to demand for secession across the border.

[Mr. Malsori-Itumbo]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is also very unfair for the Assistant Minister to disregard this Motion concerning this particular area and it is also unfair for the Minister for Information to shout at me by telling me to go. I do not know why. Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday I moved a Motion in this House, this Motion, and the Government deliberately told the Press not to report my Motion and it was also suppressed from going onto the radio. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this shows that they do not want the Somalis to hear that there is a Motion being moved in the House which is demanding their right to be protected. It is a shame for the Government, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the Minister for Information to refuse my right, as the representative for Kuria, to speak to this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this has been banned purposely by the Government: I can now see openly. The Assistant Minister came to my area by plane, but he only came to deal with the cattle thefts. He did not come to look into this particular question. In fact, we did not go to Nyabasi Trading Centre. We only went to Migori Division to meet with the Tanzania Ministers; the Kenya administrators, and so on, but all the time they were interested in the cattle thefts. We did not touch upon the question of the Nyabasi Trading Centre attacks at all.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Motion deals with the question of compensating these people and to return their firearms, which are their property. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would therefore demand that Government compensate my people and return their guns.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Mr. Malsori if you go on talking when I am on my feet, you will leave the Chamber. I warn you very severely. It is about the worst offence of order in this House. If you do it again, you will be given no further warning. It is time now for me to put the question.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

(Question put and agreed to)

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, is it in order for the two Assistant Ministers to tell me that I will never get it, that this is one of the Motions that will not be implemented? Are they in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes.

NOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE TO A DAY OTHER THAN THE NEXT NORMAL SITTING DAY

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onyko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn until Tuesday, 24th May 1966.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo) seconded.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As hon. Members know, we have a maximum of two hours to debate a question of that kind. Each hon. Member speaking is limited to five minutes. Mr. Achieng-Onyko, having moved this formally, can speak during the debate as well as replying at the end; that also applies to the seconder of the Motion.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in speaking on this Motion for the adjournment; there is just one point I would like to raise and that is the question of urgency with regard to urgent problems.

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair)

(The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair)

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do feel that there are some problems in Kenya today, but the Government seems to be very slow on doing something about them. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, one of these problems is education. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have now had the Kenya Preliminary Examination results and throughout Kenya the question of places for Form I in secondary schools is now facing every parent. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have been told that there are not enough places for these people because the Kenya Government does not have any money. But, Sir, the Minister for Education does not seem to try and join hands with the parents, who, themselves, are prepared to help themselves. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to suggest to the Minister for Education that he look into the question of self-help education that he look into the question of self-help secondary schools today. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have for an example a case in the Meru District where we have a secondary school which was built by the parents themselves at a place called Muthambe. The buildings are ready and the houses are ready, but so far, Sir, the Government has not done anything about it, and we have so many children who want places in Form I in secondary schools. What, Sir, is the Ministry doing to join hands with the parents so that this problem can be solved?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are tired of this Minister and his Ministry. We are tired because he does not want to come along with us. Mr.

[The Speaker]

Mr. Nyagah has said himself that he must refuse the three things for which the Motions asks, and he is offering something else. In ordinary circumstances I would say that this was too wide a departure from the main Motion to be allowed on amendment, and Government would just have to oppose the Motion as it stands. Only, I did understand yesterday that Mr. Maisori, the Mover, himself was ready to accept this amendment, and if he himself would have liked the substance of his Motion changed, then I think I ought to allow the amendment to be put to the House.

Would you tell us how you stand on this, Mr. Maisori?

Mr. Maisori-Jumbo: Thank you very much, Sir.

Yesterday when the Assistant Minister faced me with this amendment—I saw him yesterday before we came to the Chamber—the discussions we had in his office with his officers seemed to me to be fair, because by then he seemed to be promising me a police post at this area. But, Mr. Speaker, when he submitted the draft of his amendment I was reluctant to agree, because it was vague. Therefore, I agree with your ruling because it was now trying to debate the two main points from the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not want a long speech, please. I only want to know whether or not you would like this amendment to be entertained.

Mr. Maisori-Jumbo: I would rather have the main Motion as it was.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Then, in that case, I am afraid we cannot entertain this amendment.

(Resumption of debate)

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would just like to remind the Government of a few things they seem to overlook, and this makes it very difficult for the Government to convince the House. In fact, these things are traceable back to 1963 when, I think, the position required some action by the Government. Since 1963 some action has been taken, I think this was taken late in 1965. This shows that a sense of urgency is lacking.

If the present staff of that Ministry are taking action now, I have no quarrel with that, but it seems that when problems as attacks and burglaries are first reported the Government does not rise to the occasion and try to sort out the situation before it reaches the stage of letters, advocates being hired and many other measures being taken by desperate people who seem to not be well-attended by the Government. This means that the Government is really at fault and, therefore, Government must consider the Motion as it is. If there is a measure of compensation which should be given to these people, this compensation should be given. If these people should get their arms—because they live more or less right on the border—then they must get their arms.

The Assistant Minister went so far to convince us, but he did not go far enough, Sir. He said that these people should not have their arms because they had not satisfied the requirements to get their arms back, but he did not convince us of the reasons why these firearms were withdrawn. In fact, since these people were given the firearms they have not misused them and as to why the firearms were taken from them, this is still a question which pends the Government answer.

We would like to see emphasis on the action which was taken two weeks ago, we would like to see the Government assure the House that whenever there is a problem somewhere, they will alert the security forces, they will respond to the call and they will put things right. I think, Sir, because this involves a border area, a police post is very, very necessary, because in fact, it is so expensive for our Government to charter planes for almost the entire number of higher officials to go and spend one full day in discussing a border dispute—

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, can the hon. Member now speaking substantiate that the Government chartered a plane to spend a whole day there?

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I..... (Inaudible) the Assistant Minister wrongly, he will correct me, but he said pointing at the Member that he chartered a plane for the Member to go and show him some key points in areas that were attractive to these burglars.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Obviously the hon. Member thought that you had said this yourself.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Can I put it right because it is here..... (Inaudible)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, if he is misrepresenting what you said.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): I said that we went up there in a plane. This was a police plane which was on routine duties, and the hon. Member for the area was invited to come in this plane and show us his difficulties. It was a plane of the police doing normal police work.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister will agree with me that he has put no case to this House, because if this police chartered plane was not used on this occasion, it would have been used elsewhere, or it would have stayed there without being used, thereby saving some money. Equally the Minister who went there with these high officials, were spending Government money that day, discussing a matter which could have been treated in 1963.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, having said that, and I think I have driven that point home, we need a police post there. This is a border issue, where a police post to time a situation of this nature will arise, and since 1953, Mr. Speaker, the Government is still trying to take some action to quieten this situation. It seems to me that they have not arrived at a solution. This Motion is inquiring into what solution could be applied to this situation. The only solution is a police post. Have a few staff there, have five policemen with a post there, because, Mr. Speaker, the Assistant Minister himself admitted that the only police post available in that area is twelve miles away from the border. In fact, this is a troubled area. Even the Government of Tanzania had to come from Dar es Salaam, a long way to come and meet our Ministers, whereas the whole case lies with the Kenya Government to put a police post there, and, Mr. Speaker, I have seen several times when I was working there in the Medical Department, I saw how we had to patrol the hospital, a vast hospital, we had to go round with watchmen during the emergency and we had to go to all corners all the time. Every half an hour we had to go all round the hospital. Patrolling is the most difficult job anyone can carry out during the night. In fact we need a police post with a few policemen. I am not very highly concerned about compensation in this particular case, I was a little bit convinced, neither am I very much concerned with settlement; I am a little concerned with the restoration of firearms, and I think this is why I support the original Motion very, very strongly. I do not wish to go in to other points strongly. I wanted to put across because the Assistant Minister will think that I am agitating. I wish to question very much the sense of urgency of our Government, in every field, whether it may be administration, defence, home affairs, labour, we must rise to the occasion where necessary and put matters right immediately.

Mr. Speaker: I beg to support.

Mr. Khalif: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker: Sir, the hon. Maisori-Jumbo who, no doubt, is the sole political representative of that area has told us that Kenya has done three or four things to ensure that these firearms confiscated from these gentlemen are given back. For example, Sir—

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, can the hon. speaker now substantiate that these firearms were confiscated?

Mr. Khalif: Perhaps, Mr. Speaker, it would be better for me to put it this way, that they were withdrawn.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Motion itself says "seized". The word "seized" is used in the Motion.

Mr. Khalif: The hon. Maisori-Jumbo in moving this Motion told us that he led a delegation comprising of these gentlemen whose names are on the Order Paper, to the hon. Argwings-Kodhek, who was the Assistant Minister for Internal Security and Defence. He also told us that he brought a letter to the Minister for Internal Security in this connexion. He also told us that these people concerned hired an advocate to inquire as to why these firearms were still being withheld by the Government. We were told that a subsequent request for a police post in that area was made on 24th December 1965. Lately, Sir, I was here in this Chamber when the hon. Maisori-Jumbo brought a question in this connexion. It was unfortunate that the Minister who replied was not very sympathetic with the problems of the hon. Member. Sir, in his reply the Assistant Minister said that these firearms will be given back when the Kenya Government is in a position to know the sincerity of these Somalis in this area. It is very unfortunate that the sincerity of such loyal citizens, who were very far away from the Northern Frontier District, who had no connexion with the Somalis there in that area, is being doubted. I know, Sir, that their sincerity is being doubted because their firearms were seized by the Government. I do not want to go in to doubting their loyalty, Sir, because I know that in so far as the hon. Member who is representing them, has in a letter to the Government held himself responsible for these firearms and their loyalty. Sir—

Dr. De Souza: I must apologize to the hon. Mr. Khalif, but in view of the fact that we are going to finish at half past four, in view of the fact that the House is likely to be adjourned for another nine weeks, it is desirable that this Motion should end now. I move that the Mover be called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think he was just going to.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: But, Mr. Speaker, he implied that these burglars are the Kenya Kurias.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Wait and see, Mr. Malsori. He was just going to give his reasons. Do not be too impatient.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, I was just going to say this; that Nyabasi is right in the middle of the Kuria tribe, there are Kurias on the Tanzania side and Kurias on the Kenya side, and I can no more substantiate this than the hon. Member can substantiate that these are Tanzania burglars, because, according to his allegations they have never been caught and identified as Tanzania people, one can only think that the burglars who come frequently to a remote place like that are Kurias. So, the best way, Mr. Speaker, of trying to help the Nyabasi traders is to teach his fellow-traders to live peacefully with those people who are trading there.

The other allegation which is made, Sir, that the Government does not care to look after the protection of these people again needs to be put right. Twice this year, Mr. Speaker—and we are now in the third month—the Minister for Home Affairs has visited the area. On the first visit, which was made towards the end of January, I, with two high officers of the Ministry of Home Affairs, unexpectedly found two of the policemen who patrolled the area regularly. We had a word with the police officer in charge of Kehancha Police Station twelve miles away, and asked him to keep a very careful eye on this particular place. We had gone there for a special purpose and, besides this particular one of looking after the Kehancha people as well as Nyabasi, we found that the work was being taken care of.

An hon. Member: Only two policemen?

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said that two policemen patrolled from twelve miles away.

Then, at the second meeting, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member for Kuria was present when the Kenya Government was well represented by the Minister for Home Affairs, the Minister of State to the President's Office and at this meeting the Government of Tanzania, through the Minister of State to the President's Office in Dar es Salaam came with high officers from there to try to talk over the problem of security in that part of the country. So, any allegation that the Government is not doing anything, or has not done anything, is not true and cannot be allowed to go unchallenged.

The hon. Member, Mr. Speaker, did ask for the breakdown of the figures, and here I will give them to him to his satisfaction.

Serious crimes reported from Nyabasi Trading Centre and the adjacent area, which covers a much larger area than Nyabasi, in the years 1964 and 1965 were; murder, nil in 1964 and 2 in 1965; assault, 6 in 1964 and 4 in 1965—a decrease—stock thefts seem to be at par; 8 in 1964 and 8 in 1965; robberies, 1 in 1964 and 2 in 1965; breakings—1 suppose that this is what they call burglars—4 in 1964 and 3 in 1965; other Penal Code offences, 10 in 1964 and 3 in 1965, a considerable decrease. In total, Mr. Speaker, there were 29 cases reported at Kibajja in 1964, as compared with 22 in 1965. This decrease, Sir, and the effective patrolling which is being intensified all the time in this area, has made the Ministry think that the Government is seriously protecting the lives of the people in the area in question.

Mr. Speaker, the Government has gone to further trouble, and the hon. Member knows because he was present at the particular meeting to which I referred and also from my Ministry that border control posts are to be established, not only to protect the Kahancha people or the Nyabasi people, but also to make sure that the Kuria do not steal the Masai cattle and that the Masai do not do the same to the Kuria people. So, to accuse the Government of not doing anything, or even investigating the cases, or even trying to take action, is not true.

Mr. Speaker, on the last visit the Ministers for Home Affairs and for State in the President's Office kindly agreed to give the hon. Member a lift in the aircraft which they were using, so that the hon. Member could show the points which he wanted to be patrolled. During the course of the flight back to Nairobi a number of things were said by the hon. Member and the Government took note of these points, including educational encouragement and so on. So, it cannot be said that the Government has turned a blind eye to that particular part of the country. On the contrary, Mr. Speaker.

Turning to the other requests, I understand from the hon. Member that some of these people have found settlement elsewhere. Some, it was said, have gone to Homa Bay, others have gone to Tanzania and others have gone elsewhere. If they have found a place, Mr. Speaker, where they can settle themselves—and I want this House to know that there is a lot of land in Kuria—well and good, but the Government cannot take care of the—

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: .....
(Inaudible.) O.K.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, when these people go to Tanzania it is not O.K. for us, the hon. Member was present at a meeting where we discussed the procedure of the Kuria people or anybody who ..... (Inaudible.) ..... to Tanzania how he could be brought back and identified as a Kenya citizen, because we want them back.

On the question of firearms, Mr. Speaker, it is well known to the hon. Member that the first time these people tried to have their firearms returned after the ruling of the then Minister of Defence that these firearms should be stored by the Somalis with contractors and dealers of their own choice they failed to get a positive reply. They tried a second time and they were told that the ruling still stood. They were attended to and they were not ignored, they had replies. They took the normal line of action, that was to try and make an appeal to the Minister. Their appeal was dismissed by the Minister on the grounds that the cause for which these firearms were to be removed from the hands of the four people in question had not finished. The cause was that there was a ruling that until it was proved that they were safe, Somalis should have their firearms stored by someone else.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do understand that Nyabasi is miles away—Nyabasi is as far away from here as perhaps Wajir, or anywhere else, but the Government feels that for the security of this country, until it can be proved that these people are absolutely free from any suspicion their firearms should be stored by someone of their choice. They are no worse than the hon. Member's father, who has a firearm, Mr. Speaker.

The question of the appeal to the Minister also failed, Sir. These people, Sir, through a group of advocates, Messrs. Patel and Parekh, wrote a letter to the Ministry dated the 16th September 1965, and a reply was sent to their trusted advocates on the 5th October 1965; barely a fortnight after the letter had been written. If their trusted advocates have not communicated with their clients, is that the Government's fault? The letter, Mr. Speaker, was signed by a Mr. Mbugua on behalf of the Permanent Secretary. So, the allegation that the Government did not even reply to the letter is not true. Therefore, Sir, while I agree with the sentiments expressed by the hon. Member of this Motion about the security of that particular area in general, I would like to say that the Government is prepared to intensify the security measures in the area so as to provide adequate, or what we might like to call maximum security for the citizens of Nyabasi and adjacent areas.

Therefore, with your permission, Mr. Speaker, I would like to amend the Motion. May I say, Mr. Speaker, that the hon. Member agreed when we talked about this that this would meet his demands, that between the words "of" and "police" in the first line the word "adequate" should be added, this would make it even better. All the words, Sir, in the fourth line, commencing with the word "compensate" to the last word in the last line "Mohamed Noor", be deleted and in place thereof the words "intensify its security measures on this area" be inserted? That is, Mr. Speaker, that the Motion should read:

THAT this House being aware of the lack of adequate police protection for the lives and properties of the Nyabasi Trading Centre traders, harassed by frequent attacks by Tanzania burglars, calls upon the Government to intensify its security measures on the area.
This, Mr. Speaker, would be the amendment.

POINT OF ORDER

AMENDMENT WHICH DEPART FOR SUBSTANCE OF MAIN MOTION

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order that an amendment which changes the meaning of a Motion should be allowed, because in this particular case those particular men who are mentioned in the Motion, the question of firearms being issued to these people is excluded in the amendment?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think I will wait until Mr. Nyagah has finished before I rule on that point, but it is a good point of order which I was going to comment on in any case. You were quite right to raise it, Mr. Khalif.

Have you finished, Mr. Nyagah?

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was going to conclude by saying that the three points which I started with, which have been asked for in this question of compensation, the settlement of these people from Nyabasi and the return of firearms, I have dealt with in the course of my speech. Compensation is out of the question, settlement is out of the question, and the return of the firearms is out of the question, but the Government would like, on the security point, to help in the spirit contained in the amendment which I have just made.

With these remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Khalif has pointed out that this amendment departs very far from the substance of the original Motion. Indeed, police force as such, I think it is only reasonable that Members in this Parliament or in the Senate should at all times support the police force, the army and all other security measures in this country in the interests of security of the people who elected them to this House. However, when the security forces, particularly the police, go astray, I think it is equally our responsibility to stand in this House and point out the mistakes.

[Mr. Shikuku]

It has almost become the order of the day for the Ministry of Home Affairs—or, when the police was under the Ministry for Defence—to stand up and refute anything that any Member says in connexion with the police force. Whatever any Member says in this House, Sir, in connexion with the police, all that is not considered true. I would not be very far from the truth if I said that whatever any Member says here is untrue as far as the police force is concerned. However, I feel this does not help the Government, nor does it help the security forces, because when we report here that such-and-such a thing did happen on such-and-such a day, at such-and-such a time, the Minister or the Assistant Minister says that is not true. Mr. Speaker, I recall one day when a theft took place in Butere at a place called Musalaba. I went to the police station. I, Sir, am elected by the people, a man who had and has the confidence of the people, a man from Butere, took the trouble to go to the police station and saw the inspector in charge of the police station; I told him of this theft incident. The man in charge of the station told the Member for Butere that there was no petrol. But when I mentioned this in this House, the Minister replied that it was not true, there was a lot of petrol. Since that time the property stolen at Musalaba has never been recovered. That is what you call the police force.

Mr. Speaker, the other day I heard of another case. When I was out in Nairobi some people, because they disagreed with a certain Indian in Butere, they organized to boycott the show. What happened is this, and it is true. We had a gang of Criminal Investigation Department people and policemen from Kakamega District who came to Butere. What had they—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Keep to the relevancy of the question.

Mr. Shikuku: I am coming to it, I am driving round to the point. I am first examining the police force.

So, when these people came to Butere, they were there only to push the people around. When we told them about murder, they usually take two days to come. That is very interesting.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I still do not see the relevancy to the Motion. You must keep to the terms of the Motion, you know.

Mr. Shikuku: I am coming to it, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, come to it and do not wander around before you come to it.

Mr. Shikuku: When the police attack people and harass them—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! This Motion says nothing about the police attacking or harassing people. It asks for police protection against burglars who harass people. Please keep to the point in the ten minutes that you have. Other Members want to talk to the point.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will leave that point because I do not wish to argue with your ruling. The point I am trying to make is that there are cases where burglars harass the people, and instead of getting protection they are also harassed. Why I pointed out the Musalaba issue is because these burglars harassed those people in that area and nothing was done. Here we have a case in the hon. Masisoi-Lumbo's constituency where the people mentioned on the Order Paper were harassed and nothing was done.

I am of the opinion, Mr. Speaker, that the police are doing their best, but if it is a question of doing their best, then, I think, the machinery has to be improved. Thieving has become almost the order of the day. You have burglars these days who are more, or less enjoying themselves and harassing people and getting away with it. I am of the opinion that the policemen should do more, in addition to what they are doing at the moment, and harass the burglars so that they stop harassing the innocent people.

The other issue is that I think we are also—I mean the masses—falling in our duty, to be reasonable and rather considerate, by not doing much to help the police. You find that if a trader or an innocent man has been beaten up by burglars very few of the people in the area do collaborate with the police to get rid of the person. I think that some open burglaries take place. Those interested in thieving steal cattle, beat up the people, the owners of the cattle, get away with it, and when the police are called to the scene, they also turn up late. That is something I feel must be rectified.

The last point I feel I should mention is that it is very difficult to get arms these days. When you apply for arms for your own safety, or when people apply for arms they never seem to get their applications through. The Government has become very stubborn and say that the policemen are there to protect the people. But when this harassing takes place, you find that the police hardly ever are there. Mr. Speaker, I feel the people must be provided with arms in order to protect themselves if the police cannot provide the protection. This is the point the Minister should also consider in addition to the others. You find some traders—and we have several in Butere—who had guns but the guns were taken away from them by the police and these people are robbed by gangsters. They had nothing to protect themselves with. There is a market in my area, Mr. Speaker, in Ikolomani where a trader was recently robbed but he could not attack the burglars because his gun had been taken away from him. Since the last two years the poor man has been asking for his gun but nothing has been done. When his property was stolen the Government, who should be responsible for protection, were not even prepared to consider compensation of his property.

[Mr. Shikuku]

If I may submit, Sir, I feel the police have to pull their socks up because if they do not, then it is the responsibility of the Government to be considerate enough to supply people with guns so that they can protect themselves against burglars. Also, Sir, people need guns to protect their crops. This is also essential. So, the Government must consider providing people with guns. I am sure that those people who had guns and whose guns were later taken away were the people who were considered by the then imperialists—which should have been more afraid of them—to be those who should possess guns. I do not see why the Government should now be afraid of them, the ordinary people, when the imperialists gave them the guns and were not shot at. Why should our people who have guns shoot the innocent people of the Government? The Government would show its trust in the people because these people were provided with guns in order to protect themselves against burglars.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion that all the hon. Members in this House who see these troubles would certainly support the Motion.

Sir, I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Nyagah, if you speak for Government you will have twenty minutes.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise quite early in this Motion in order that I may put the matter in its proper perspective. I can assure the House, Sir, that I shall not deal with what was anticipated as the "answer of the Government" by the hon. Member for Butere, that we shall say that what the hon. Member for Kuria said is untrue. So, the anticipation was untrue. The anticipation of the hon. Member for Butere was untrue, but there was a little grain of substance in what the hon. Member for Kuria said. As usual, however, he over-exaggerated the matter and it is to put the whole case in its proper perspective that I stand now.

First of all, Mr. Speaker, the Motion merely asked for three things. It asks for compensation, it does ask for these people to be settled, and it also asks for the firearms for the four gentlemen in question to be returned. In the course of his moving the Motion, the Mover, Sir, made several allegations which should not pass unmentioned. He did make an allegation that the Government does not care to protect these people of Nyabasi. He also said that the Government had violated that part of the Constitution which deals with the Bill of Rights. He did also make another allegation that the Government does not care to investigate the cases. He, further went on to say that the Government is encouraging this kind of crime in that area and that the Government does not take action.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that in all fairness to the Government and to the people of that area of this country I must say that those allegations are most unfounded and cannot be accepted as truthful facts.

His second, Mr. Speaker, went on to say that the Government had said practically nothing about the Somali people at that particular centre, and he further went on to say that the Government had not done anything at all to protect the people at Nyabasi. It is important, Sir, for the people at Nyabasi to know where Nyabasi is, hon. Members to know where Nyabasi is, Nyabasi is a little trading centre in Kuria county, widely surrounded by wonderful vegetation and wide countryside where these people could be easily settled without any difficulties. So, the question of asking where these people should be sent does not arise. Nyabasi is about 200 yards from the Tanzania/Kenia boundary, and a mile from the hon. Member's area.

Mr. Speaker, there has been an allegation made in the Motion that the burglars from Tanzania frequently harassed these people is a very interesting one. The people that were, in fact, called Tanzania burglars are really Kuria people, because on both sides of the boundary live a great tribe of people known as Kuria.

Mr. Masisoi-Lumbo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, can the Assistant Minister substantiate that the burglars who harass these people, the traders of the Nyabasi Trading Centre, are Kurias?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I am sorry I did not quite hear your point.

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I had just begun to answer this question as the Assistant Minister for Home Affairs, and the hon. Member interrupted me and asked me where my bwana was, is that in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not out of order, but if it is possibly rather childish.

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is the policy of the Government that all game lodges, including Samburu, will remain open and that sufficient security will be provided for the lodges and the tourists as well as anybody else. Security requirements of the Samburu Game Lodge in particular, are currently being examined and will be implemented as soon as they are finalized.

Mr. Murali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this question was very clear but I think the Assistant Minister has not answered the question. The question is: what security measures, if any, has the Government provided at the Samburu Lodge. You have not told us.

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government has all the security measures available through the police, the army and anybody else who can keep the security of a place like the Samburu Lodge.

Question No. 417

NON-AFRICAN KENYA CITIZENS IN THE UASIN GISHU

Mr. Tuwei asked the Minister for Home Affairs if he could tell the House how many Asians and Europeans had taken out Kenya citizenship in Uasin Gishu District.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The records kept by the Kenya Government are not based on districts and it will not be possible to give a breakdown of Asians and Europeans who have become Kenya citizens who are living in the Uasin Gishu District.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister assure this House that he will advise his Ministry, or the Government, to keep a record of the citizens of this country on a district level?

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that will be done if the hon. Member can advise these Asians and Europeans not to keep on moving all the time.

Mr. Tuwei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that this Ministry deals with the statistics of immigrants coming into the country and people emigrating out of the country, why is it that it has never been recorded in Uasin Gishu that so many people have come and gone?

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I answered before that we do not keep these records by districts, and Uasin Gishu is a district.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must move on now.

QUESTION BY PRIVATE NOTICE

WITHDRAWAL OF KENYA DELEGATION FROM O.A.U. CONFERENCE

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have a question by private notice, Mr. Mbogoh? Will you ask it now?

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Foreign Affairs, can the Minister tell the House why the Kenya delegation in the Organization for African Unity was withdrawn and recalled from Addis Ababa during a very important debate?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government has already stated that the Kenya delegation was withdrawn from the Organization for African Unity Conference in Addis Ababa because there existed an atmosphere of confusion, at the conference, on the representation of Ghana. Tensions were created and, in Kenya's view, no useful purpose could be served by our delegation continuing to sit there. The Government has already reaffirmed its continued strong support of the Organization for African Unity Charter and its principles. The withdrawal from the Organization for African Unity council meeting does not mean that the Kenya Government has taken any sides on the controversial and contentious question of recognizing the new régime in Ghana.

The decision as to whether Kenya will recognize a new régime in any country is governed by two major factors. One, whether the new régime appears to be in full control of the country and has the support of the people of that country. Two, whether the new régime has a reasonable chance of success or survival or permanency. If the hon. Members persist, I am going to give them a lecture as to the law of recognition in national affairs.

However, Sir, Kenya has no embassy in Ghana and the information in possession of the Government today is insufficient to enable the Kenya Government to make a final judgment. I should like to say, nevertheless, that Kenya has no intention of interfering in the domestic affairs of another country and will continue with normal relations with Ghana.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, that Kenya is not going to interfere with the internal affairs of Ghana, would the [Mr. Mbogoh] Minister then tell the House whether the Nkrumah image is the one which made the delegation leave the meeting of the Organization for African Unity or whether it is the fact that Kenya did not want to seem as though it had recognized the régime?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, whatever the reasons are, or were, which caused the fall of Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, we believe that he has an important place in the political history of Ghana.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Kenya Government recognize the country because of its ruler or because of respect to that country itself?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I anticipated that question, and therefore, I am glad that I am able to deal with that question. The method by which a Government comes to power is a domestic affair of that country. Kenya adheres to the United Nations Charter and will not interfere in the internal affairs of any country. With all due respect to the views of the hon. Members with regard to Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, the recognition of the Ghana régime will not depend on whether Dr. Nkrumah is, or is not, the head of the Ghana Government.

Mr. Rurumban: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the original reply of the Minister, are we to understand that if the Kenya delegates did not experience any political atmosphere in that conference, the Kenya delegates could have continued to sit in the conference? In other words, Sir, that the Kenya delegates recognize the new régime in Ghana?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of recognition has not risen as far as mentioning it in my reply. What made it difficult for the conference to proceed, and the House is aware that the conference was discussing a very important matter, and this could not have been discussed without emotion, was that there was a considerable amount of emotion being generated and confusion which enshrouded the Ghana delegation.

Mr. Kall: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister agree with me that the Organization for African Unity has become a mere talking shop, and that we should not send any more delegations and waste our money?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already said, I think, at another time in this House, that the hon. Members are entitled to hold the views they do hold in connexion with some of these world and international organizations, but the view, at the present time, which is held by the Kenya Government concerning the Organization for African Unity, is that we are members and we support the Organization for African Unity Charter.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Minister says he is speaking on behalf of the Members of this House, and since we are included in the Government, we are part and parcel of the Government, if the Members in this House hold different views from those of the Government, particularly where public funds have been squandered and no useful purpose achieved, are we, in this House, not in order to move to express our views or disapproval of the Government's activities, because they went there not to discuss Ghana but to discuss the Rhodesian issue?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! I think you have been a Member of this House long enough now, Mr. Shikuku, to know what opportunities there are to hon. Members of expressing disapproval of the actions Government, by the various forms of procedure we have, at the appropriate time.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE: TO A DAY OTHER THAN THE NEXT NORMAL SITTING DAY

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would now remind hon. Members that at or about 4.30 p.m. today, the adjournment of the House to a day beyond the next sitting day will be moved by Government.

MOTION

PROTECTION AGAINST TANZANIA BURGLARS

THAT this House being aware of the lack of police protection for the lives and properties of the Nyabasi Trading Centre traders, harassed by frequent attacks by Tanzanian burglars, calls upon the Government to compensate them for their losses and show them where to go for safety; and furthermore return to the following traders their arms that Government has seized: Abdi Hassan, Abdullahi Abdi, Saidi Barudi, Mohamed Noor,

(Mr. Malsori-Itumbo on 9th March 1966)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 9th March 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would remind hon. Members that on this Motion the question had just been proposed, and we have one hour and one minute of the debate still to run.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to support this for two or three reasons. Mr. Speaker, Sir, whereas I do not wish to quarrel with the

[The Assistant Minister for Local Government]

On matters of protocol, the city council has generally followed the precedents established in the United Kingdom where a Mayor has precedence in all places in his borough except when the Queen is present, when the Mayor comes second in precedence.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to the second and third part of the question, the position is that the city council appointed in December, last year a public relations officer at a salary of £1,540 on local pensionable terms and conditions of service. This officer took up his duties at the beginning of January this year. The duties of this officer are appropriate to his designation.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply where he admits before the House that a circular has been sent to diplomatic representatives in Nairobi, would the Assistant Minister tell the House whether this was sent with the approval of the hon. Minister for Local Government? If so, could he also tell us what connexion he has between the United Kingdom and the Queen in his reply?

Mr. Njiriri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as a short reply, the circular was not sent to all foreign ambassadors, it was sent to all interested people.

Secondly, in the question of the Local Government Regulations we refer to a "borough" because it is the same as a county or as a city.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's admission that the Mayor has sent a circular to foreign embassies—

Hon. Members: Interested people.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's admission that the Mayor sent circulars to all interested persons, including foreign embassies, does he imply that the Mayor of Nairobi has the constitutional right to correspond directly with foreign powers?

Mr. Njiriri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, according to the Local Government Regulations, the Mayor has the duty, but he was interested only with interested persons, those who were interested in his work.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell us in no uncertain terms whether this action by the Mayor had the approval of the Government?

Mr. Njiriri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question is that the city council did send information to all interested people and, therefore, they would have put consent—that is why it was information which we always believed hon. Members should also know.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion that the Minister is evading a reply to what I asked in my question, and in view of the fact that the Mayor of Nairobi has consulted foreign embassies without—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! What is your point of order?

Mr. Shikuku: It is very serious, and I would like to raise this matter today under Standing Order 14—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): ..... (Inaudible.) before you say that.

Mr. Shikuku: I would like to raise it under Standing Order 14.

I am of the opinion that something is definitely wrong and I was wondering, Mr. Speaker—I do not wish to take a long time on this—if you would allow me to raise this matter under Standing Order 14?

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION 409: MAYORAL PROTOCOL

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As Mr. Shikuku says, without wasting time, I can inform the House that it is quite outside the scope of Standing Order 14, but Mr. Shikuku, you can give me written notice of your desire to raise this matter on an adjournment in the normal manner.

Mr. Shikuku: I will do that, Mr. Speaker.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 416

COUNTY COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Mr. Theiri asked the Minister for Local Government to tell the House why some county councils had direct and others indirect elections. Would the Minister be prepared to introduce indirect elections for all county councils.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Segini): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I understand that by direct and indirect elections, the hon. Member, in fact, means elected and nominated members. Under the Local Government Regulations, I am empowered to nominate members to a local authority to represent special interests, provided the number nominated does not exceed one-third the number of the elected members. The purpose of providing for nominated members, is to enable certain interests to be represented on local authorities which would otherwise not be represented through elections. For example, on the Municipal Council of Mombasa, I nominate representatives of the railways, because the railways own a lot of property in the local authority and are the largest single ratepayer in that authority; in many local authorities, I nominate the district commissioner to represent the Government, as I feel it necessary to have a Government representative who can keep the council informed of Government policies and decisions; and, also, in many local authorities, I nominate women as I feel that women should be encouraged to participate in civic affairs and because I feel they can make a valuable contribution to the deliberations of a council on matters concerning the welfare of the community.

[The Minister for Local Government]

In the second part of the question, the hon. Member asks whether I would be prepared to introduce indirect elections for all county councils. If in fact, the hon. Member means whether I would nominate members on to all county councils then I would inform the House that all county councils do have nominated members.

Mr. Osele-Nyallick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would he consider it appropriate to have Members of the National Assembly on the local authorities as ex officio members?

Mr. Segini: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must go on, next question.

Question No. 430

KENYA'S WORKING POPULATION

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Labour if he would give the House the figures of the working population. Also if he would tell the House how these figures compared with those of Uganda and Tanzania.

The Minister for Labour (Dr. Kioko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The numbers of persons engaged in wage-earning employment in each of the three countries are obtained from annual enumerations. I assume from the question, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that by the working population, the hon. Member is referring to people earning wages from employment. The latest available figures are those for the year 1964 in the case of Kenya and Uganda, and for the year 1963 in the case of Tanzania. These enumerations indicate that, in round figures, the numbers of persons in wage-earning employment were in Kenya, 590,000; in Uganda, 244,000; and in Tanzania, 366,000.

For the purpose of comparison, it is perhaps best to express these numbers of reported wage-earners as percentages of the total population of each country at the time. In those terms it may be said that in Kenya some 64 per cent of the population was employed for wages, whereas in Tanzania the percentage was only 34 per cent and in Uganda 31 per cent.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, which shows that Kenya is probably doing better than the other neighbouring territories, will the Minister tell this House if Kenya is going to be better than India where people are dying in their millions on the way, without our Government bringing these unskilled people to the agricultural production in this country, because most of our land is lying idle without the Government doing anything to introduce some skilled labour in the country?

Dr. Kioko: I am afraid, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respects to the hon. Member, I did not quite understand the meaning of the question.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may repeat it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid that there is not very much time left to spend on this, Mr. Nyaberi. Have another try, and if you do not, then get your meaning clear, I am afraid that we will have to move on.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wanted to know from the Minister whether Kenya is going to be better than India if we are not going to encourage most of our unskilled people to go to the land. This, Sir, is my shortened version.

Dr. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are more interested in increasing employment opportunities in our country. We are not interested in competing with any country.

Question No. 402

SECURITY FOR TOURISTS AT SAMBURU

Mr. Rumban asked the Minister for Home Affairs if he could tell the House what security measures, if any, the Government had provided for the tourists visiting the Samburu District, particularly at the Samburu Lodge at Uaso-Nyiro.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagih): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is the policy of the Government that all—

On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order, while I am trying to answer a question as the Assistant Minister for Home Affairs, for the hon. Members to shout out and ask me where the bwana is?

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENTUNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 401:
Abattoir FOR ARCHER'S POST

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the unsatisfactory reply to this question, I would like to raise this matter on an adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If Mr. Rurumban does not wish to do so. It is his right, but if he doesn't object, you must give me written notice in due course.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 429

KISII EXECUTIVE ON PYRETHRUM BOARD

Mr. Nyaneri asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether he would tell the House, in view of the fact that the Kisii District contributed a large amount of pyrethrum to the Pyrethrum Board of Kenya, why there was no Kisii executive officer on that board.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. While the Minister is appreciative of the large amount of good-quality pyrethrum that the Kisii are producing, the hon. Member should realize that both the Pyrethrum Board and the Pyrethrum Marketing Board of Kenya would be failing the industry if they started recruiting their staff on the basis of tribe and in proportion to pyrethrum production. All appointments are made purely on qualification and merit.

Mr. Nyaneri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply of the Assistant Minister, will he not agree with me that during recent times an important vacant post was advertised and a man with a bachelor's degree from Kisii was refused? Can he tell me now that this is not based on tribe?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know that two Kisii applied for this post, but unfortunately they did not qualify according to the requirements of the board.

Mr. Nyaneri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in that case, will the Assistant Minister tell us what the requirements are, what are the qualifications required?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the requirements were that the applicants had to be Kenya citizens with a minimum standard of education of Cambridge School Certificate and previous administrative experience, ability to speak and correspond fluently in English, particularly for correspondence with overseas buyers, basic knowledge of commercial practice and sales documentation, and preference was to be given to candidates between the ages of twenty-five and thirty years.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that, while refuting the idea that there was not anybody with a suitable qualification, would the Assistant Minister explain why they recruit people from other areas than Kisii, where they are not used to growing even one flower of pyrethrum?

Mr. Osogo: That allegation is not true, Sir, because the field officer of pyrethrum in Kisii District is a Kisii. His name, if the hon. Member does not know, is Johnson Makoi. The junior accountant in the head office is also a Kisii. His name is Joseph Achaga.

Question No. 397

WATER SUPPLIES TO SEGA HOSPITAL, UGENYA

Mr. Odera-Sar asked the Minister for Health if he did not admit that, resulting from his visit to Segha Hospital in Ugenya, it had been agreed that the Government should supply this hospital and the community around Segha with water. If this was so, what was the cause of the delay in the start of this work.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Otieno): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The need for a good water supply, Mr. Speaker, Sir, does not need the Minister for Health to admit that it is necessary because it is considered necessary, I happened to go to visit this place and I found that they lacked water; that is a fact. The provincial commissioner and I noticed that there were very many people resident at Segha but there was no water supply. So, we said that the provincial commissioner and I would do our best to find a means of helping these people to get water.

Therefore, I would like to inform the House that my Ministry, on my instruction, has already applied to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund for provision to enable this work to be put in hand during 1966/67 financial year.

It would, however, be appreciated if the people of Ugenya could also assist this mission hospital by raising additional funds for the water supply, and if the provincial commissioner for the area could be contacted by the hon. Member, for Ugenya, he would be able to give an additional contribution, because he happens to be in charge of certain funds, and he is the chairman of the local water committee.

[The Minister for Health]

When we begin the work at this place, we expect the local people to help, especially the area council and the county council.

Question No. 408

PLOTS AND SHOPS OWNED BY CITY COUNCIL MEMBERS

Mr. Shikuku asked the Minister for Local Government:

- Would he tell the House how many aldermen and councillors of the Nairobi City Council owned council plots or shops in the city.
- Would he also tell the House how many relatives of alderman and councillors owned council plots or shops in the city of Nairobi.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagini): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I think there is some misunderstanding regarding the ownership of land in the city from the manner in which the first part of the question has been framed. Unlike many county council areas, there is no such thing as trust land in the old city area. There is, however, trust land in the expanded Nairobi area, but this trust land is vested in the State. Thus land in the city is either in private ownership of individuals, the State or the city council. The land owned by the city council is scattered throughout the city. This land has been bought from private individuals, obtained from Government or acquired for public purposes.

Much of the land owned by the city council has been used for erecting high density housing estates. This land is not leased out to private individuals, though the city council property on it, for example, houses, shops, stalls, etc. may be leased out on monthly or yearly tenancies.

It would be an enormous exercise to supply the House with the information as to the plots owned by councillors and aldermen in the city. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think the work involved in finding this information would be justified, unless it be required for a specific purpose.

As far as ownership of city council shops are concerned, the records of the city council indicate that two aldermen and three councillors are registered as tenants of council shops or stalls on monthly basis. These shops or stalls were allotted to the tenants before they ever became members of the city council.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to the second part of the question, I regret that there is no information available in the records of the city council which indicate whether relatives of aldermen and councillors lease city council property.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's very vague and confusing reply, would he tell this House whether or not the plots at Makadara, for example, belongs to the Nairobi City Council, and also, how many shops belonging to aldermen and councillors are in that part of the city? Makadara?

Mr. Sagini: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that—as I said—is a very big question and without carrying out a detailed investigation, the records of the city council indicated that two aldermen and ten councillors either lease or own land in the city.

Mr. Makokha: Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that some crooked things seem to be going on in the city council, and in view of the fact that the Minister seems to be vague in his answer, could he give an undertaking that he would investigate any possibilities of corruption in the ownership of plots in the Nairobi City Council?

Mr. Sagini: This question is fair, but he must also be specific about this so that I should know exactly what he means.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

Question No. 409

MAYORAL PROTOCOL

Mr. Shikuku asked the Minister for Local Government:

- Whether it was true that the Mayor of Nairobi had sent out a circular to all foreign Embassies in Nairobi, informing them that, as far as protocol in Nairobi was concerned, he, the Mayor, ranked second to the President of the Republic of Kenya.
- Was the Minister aware that a protocol officer had been employed by the City Council of Nairobi.
- If he was so aware, could the Minister tell the House the salary of such a person and details of the actual work for which he had been employed.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Njiru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is correct that the city council issued in December last year, to all interested persons, a circular on the subject of protocol connected with functions to which the Mayor had been invited.

The purpose in issuing the circular is to assist the organizers of functions to which the Mayor is invited by setting out the form of address, the precedence of and other relevant information concerning the attendance of the Mayor.

On precedence, the circular states that "the Mayor of Nairobi takes precedence immediately after His Excellency the President in the City of Nairobi."

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have two questions to ask the Minister. The first question is this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, where he says that he is making arrangements to transfer some of these students in order that they can train in the other courses, could he tell us what financial arrangements he has made to enable these students to train in different courses from the military course which cannot absorb them?

Dr. Mungai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not say anything of the kind. I would like to repeat; that, through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, we have asked this Government to switch the courses of these students now who are training in the military sciences and arts to other courses like engineering and others, which will be useful in the building of this country. But, Sir, I must say here that they are not doing these courses at the expense of the Kenya Government and wherever they are getting these funds, then they can continue to get them when they also train in these other courses.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have two points to raise. My first point is this. Arising from the Minister's reply, that the individuals send these students overseas without the knowledge of the Government, does he therefore not contradict himself by so saying and making it known to this House that he is not going to give employment to these people when they come back, because they were not sent by the Government? His statement that they should apply through the correct channels makes it quite obvious that they will not go through. If so, does this apply to the military course only or to the other courses where the people go overseas on an individual basis and come back to this country and are employed by this Government?

Dr. Mungai: That is not true, Mr. Speaker, Sir. When these people come, they are quite free to apply and if they meet the requirements, as I have said before, they will be accepted. We have already accepted some who are already in our armed forces, but, Sir, I cannot give a guarantee that every one of them who is out is going to be accepted by this Government. It is also true of any other student who goes out. When they come back, they apply through the right channels and then they get their jobs through the right channels, but I do not know of any student, including myself, who studied overseas for a long time, having been guaranteed by anybody that on my return to Kenya I would get a job.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, does the Minister deny that it was a deliberate effort by the Ministers in the Kanu Government that these people should be trained in military warfare so that they could fight Kaku if it had come into power?

Mr. Mungai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. questioner seems to be a little bit nervous about that. It might have been a good idea, but I am only telling him this today.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 418: MILITARY STUDENTS OUTSIDE KENYA

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the most unsatisfactory reply—I have the impression something is being hidden by the Minister—I wish to raise this matter on adjournment with the permission of the original questioner.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Makone, do you wish to claim your right to raise the matter on adjournment?

Mr. Makone: No, Sir, it will be in order for the hon. Member to do so.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You would like Mr. Shikuku to do so. Very well.

Mr. Mungai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me say that this Motion will be most welcome by the Ministry of Defence.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 358

LOANS FOR JAGGERY FACTORIES

Mr. Ngala-Aboki asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether the Minister would say why Mishali or Aserah Farmers' Co-operative Society which had had at least two decent factories for jaggery production on its own had not so far been given any substantial loans for further sugar and jaggery development.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. An application for an Agricultural Finance Corporation loan for 2,500 for tractors and trailers was actually approved on 27th August 1965. The Agricultural Finance Corporation has, however, not paid the money because the Awando Farmers' Co-operative Society has failed to meet one or two basic requirements of the Agricultural Finance Corporation.

Over and above, the South Nyanza District Agricultural Committee has recommended to the Agricultural Finance Corporation approval of a loan application for £1,000 by this same farmer co-operative society. This is now pending consideration by the Agricultural Finance Corporation.

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

Mr. Anyleni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, today the microphones in the House seem to be a little bit too loud.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! We are today conducting an experiment with the aid of an expert whom you will see sitting in the Chamber, to improve the hearing in the Chamber. We may have gone a little too far the other way round.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister assure me that the Agricultural Finance Corporation will see the urgency and need for giving the present loan which is under consideration? In answering me will the Assistant Minister tell me what conditions were not satisfied by the particular society when it originally applied?

Mr. Murgor: The Agricultural Finance Corporation, Sir, wrote to Awando Farmers' Co-operative Society in October 1965, asking for the title deeds, and no reply has been received yet. The Agricultural Finance Corporation have not received the application for the loan of £1,000. It must be lying somewhere between the Agricultural Finance Corporation, the Awando Farmers' Co-operative Society and the Nyanza and the South Nyanza District Agricultural Committee.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Is the Minister aware that the question of title deeds is a problem which the South Nyanza people are fighting for, and that he should use these officers to influence the Minister for Lands to give title deeds to the people in question?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Member is right in saying that this is one of the difficulties. I mean, the question of title deeds. However, it must be appreciated that the Agricultural Finance Corporation cannot give money without security. I will, on his behalf, ask the Minister for Lands to speed up land consolidation in South Nyanza.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he tell this House what the securities are that are needed for these people?

Mr. Murgor: Title deeds, Sir.

Mr. Mufiro: Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister not agree with me that it would be risky to lend money to people who have no title deeds?

Mr. Murgor: Yes, Sir.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not in order for me to ask the Assistant Minister for Education to clarify whether it is not true—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is in order if I call on you, but I am not going to do so.

Question No. 401

ABATOIR FOR ARCHER'S POST

Mr. Rurumban asked when the Government would open the Archer's Post Abattoir for the Samburu scrub stock.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government is actively considering the economics of opening the Archer's Post Abattoir. Preliminary observations, however, indicate that if the abattoir were to be operated, it would run at a loss.

Mr. Rurumban: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister ignorant of the promise that was made to me last year by the Minister for Economic Planning and Development that this abattoir will be opened in order to maintain supplies of meat locally of the Samburu scrub cattle which are unable to travel to the Kenya Meat Commission on the hoof? In view of that, will he agree to open this abattoir because it is for the benefit of the Samburu people?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree with the first part of this question. I think I am more knowledgeable on this particular matter, more so than the hon. questioner.

The more economic proposition seems to be the improvement of stock routes and holding grounds for stock to a central abattoir, e.g. Kenya Meat Commission facilities, in preference to selling to rural abattoirs such as that at Archer's Post.

Mr. Rurumban: Mr. Speaker, will the Assistant Minister tell the House whether the Government has carried out any experiment to ascertain whether the opening of this abattoir would entail a loss to the Government?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, an application has been submitted to the World Bank for funds to improve stock routes and holding grounds, as to improve stock routes and holding grounds, as recommended by the United Nations livestock survey team. Plans are under way to establish whether or not a meat extract plant near Isiolo, to deal with camel meat, would be an economic proposition, but preliminary results are not encouraging at all.

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

cent gratuity at the end of their service. They are also provided with housing with hard furnishings for which they pay a standard Government rental.

The work of the Peace Corps volunteers in various Ministries has been very satisfactory. To date, there has been a wastage of only four volunteers since the programme was first initiated in Kenya and all the four left purely through domestic or medical reasons.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister tell this House the total number of Peace Corps volunteers in Kenya?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir. Yes. There are 56 Peace Corps volunteers in the Ministry of Lands and Settlement, 27 in the Co-operative Department in the Ministry of Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development, 98 in the Ministry of Education, 17 in the Ministry of Agriculture, Animal Husbandry and Marketing, and the total is 198.

Mr. arap Tooi: Arising from that earlier reply from the Minister, could he tell the House what steps the Government takes to check the Peace Corps so that they do not transmit American ideas to the schools in which they teach?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, I would like to preface my answer to this question by making the following statement.

The employment of the Peace Corps in Kenya in various capacities arises from the acute shortage of local manpower at the present time required to ensure the continued provision of necessary services and, particularly, the implementation of the Development Plan. Even while the country is still employing considerable numbers of expatriate personnel, the latest information shows that there are at the moment 3,622 vacancies of all grades in the approved establishment of the Government service. This does not include the projected manpower requirements necessary for the implementation of the revised Development Plan.

In these circumstances, Mr. Speaker, the House and this country ought to be grateful to the American Government for making these cheap and efficient arrangements.

In addition to the Peace Corps, Mr. Speaker, it ought to be explained that we have expatriate technicians from a number of countries, including Germany, Britain, Australia, Canada, the United Socialist Soviet Republic, and a number of other countries in the East, from the Scandinavian countries and from practically all over the world. They are all doing work to our satisfaction and

I can assure the House that they are not being given an opportunity to meddle about in our politics or internal affairs.

Mr. Murali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House when the terms of service of these Peace Corps volunteers will be finalized?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I suppose the hon. Member is referring to the Peace Corps in the Ministry of Agriculture. This will be finalized as soon as possible. The others have already been finalized.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister tell the House who benefits most, the Peace Corps by volunteering to help Kenya almost free of charge or the Kenya Government?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not quite follow the question. Could the hon. Member repeat his question?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I asked the Minister if he could tell the House who benefits most, if it is the Peace Corps who volunteer their services almost free of charge or the Kenya Government?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Kenya people and the Kenya Government benefits most, because if we did not have them we would not have the personnel to do these jobs. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member may shout about the jobs, but you cannot take a street sweeper and make him into an engineer. It would be interesting to know whether the hon. Member would like his child to be taught in a school by an illiterate, unemployed person.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my answer to the question was; that we do benefit most from this arrangement, and I would also like to add that it is not just the United States which has these arrangements, but we also have arrangements by a number of other countries, for example, from Canada we get the teachers for the African programme. In the United Kingdom, we get a similar programme through the Ministry of Overseas Development. In Germany, a voluntary scheme has been started to help the developing countries. In Australia, the same thing has also been set up. In a number of the Eastern countries, the same thing is also happening and we have a number of them here today, and also from the Scandinavian countries.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to add that we too are now making a programme of sending our own people to other countries to work. Mr. Speaker, Sir, our young people who are to take part in an exchange programme are to do so for two reasons. Firstly, it is to broaden their outlook, and give them the necessary training and experience. Secondly, it is so that they can also become our ambassadors at large.

Question No. 418

MILITARY STUDENTS OUTSIDE KENYA

Mr. Makone asked the Minister for Defence if he could tell the House firstly, the number of students training for military work outside Kenya. Secondly, could he tell the House what arrangements the Government had made to absorb them. Thirdly, the name of the countries who were involved and the number of students in each country.

The Minister for Defence (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. We have had about 400 students who have received, or who are now receiving, military training outside Kenya. About 220 of them have already returned to Kenya, and about 180 of them are still receiving military training in foreign countries. I cannot be more exact because none of these students are sponsored by the Government. We have not had an accurate report as to the actual numbers. They have been trained, or they are still being trained, in the following countries, Bulgaria, the Soviet Union, the Chinese People's Republic, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, United Arab Republic and Israel. There are some students who trained in the United Kingdom, but these we have made arrangements for. They are officers in the armed forces.

In answer to part (b) of the question, the Kenya Government have advised the countries concerned that we wish to train our own officers, soldiers, airmen and sailors here in Kenya, and we have asked these students to be switched from military courses to more important courses which will help build the nation, such as electrical engineering, road engineering, building engineering and the other courses which will be more useful. However, if any of them apply to join the armed forces, they will be considered on their merits in exactly the same way as any other Kenya citizen. They have also been requested to apply for jobs in the Directorate of Personnel, like any other students who come back from overseas.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, here I must emphasize that we are not going to have any back-door entry into the Kenya Army. If any Kenya citizen wants to join the Kenya Army, Air Force, or Navy, they have to do so through the regular legal channels, and the way laid down for doing so. Again, Sir, I must say, and make it clear, that there is no discrimination against any Kenya citizen who wants to join the armed forces, irrespective of where he was trained. The only thing they have to do is to apply and meet the requirements of the standards of the armed forces, then they shall be accepted. If they do not meet the required standards, then they cannot be accepted.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, our officers in the armed forces and men must be protected. They cannot just be ousted and other people brought in who have been trained in foreign countries to take their places when we have taken the trouble and when some of those officers, who have been waiting for about twelve, fifteen or twenty years to become officers, because these positions were held by the British expatriate officers, and now that their chance has come, we cannot just send them out of the armed forces and bring in some other new people who have been trained through individual help.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would he tell the House the number of students who are being supported by the Government out of that 400?

Dr. Mungai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did make it clear that none of those 400 have been sponsored by the Kenya Government. We have made our arrangements, as the Ministry of Defence, with regard to the Republic of Kenya that, if we want people trained and are being trained by individuals, they are not a part of that. They are trained in different places but most of them in Kenya.

Mr. Khasakhalah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell the House, the persons if any at all, who sponsored these people who went to train outside, and whether they left this country with valid passports and whether the Government has a record of these people?

Dr. Mungai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the people who sponsored these people did not report to me, and the people themselves have not identified those who sponsored them. It does not matter how they came there, but what I can say is that they were not sponsored by the Government of Kenya. I was not consulted.

Mr. Makone: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would it be possible for the questioner to be given more time to answer this question as it is quite an important one?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You cannot raise that on a point of order.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, is the Minister aware that during the struggle for independence, the very party in power now, or the party governing the country, was part and parcel for sending students overseas? Therefore, Sir, they have to take care of them.

Dr. Mungai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is not in my records.

[The Assistant Minister for Education] should be developed, rather than the development of just a few by giving them extra forms. Mr. Speaker, Sir, applying this principle to the provincial programme, necessarily involved a complete revision, since the provincial programme included the majority of schools which would not reach three-stream status in a three-year period. Three-stream development necessitated concentrating the number of streams projected in the development plan for each year and province into a smaller number of schools.

The other point which the Ministry of Education came to think about was of additional streams other than putting in new secondary schools, we thought that perhaps as we are also short of teachers, and it is far better to give additional streams to one school, whereby the same staff in that particular school would be able to share the subject and teach, rather than starting a new secondary school and then try to employ more teachers to come to this school. This is also difficult because everyone in this country knows very well that Kenya is short of teachers. Therefore, in selecting schools, Mr. Speaker, for this three-stream development, the priority suggested by the provisional programme was kept in mind, but an additional consideration was the need to include as many as possible of those schools which opened new streams in 1965. Since they were included, no alternative source of funds with which to complete the facilities was in sight. This loan which we received was for developing quite a number of schools in every corner of Kenya, not only in one place. This was actually the aim of the Ministry of Education, it was not a matter of rejecting Ng'ya, but it was a matter of priority. I quite agree with the hon. Members who said that Ng'ya School has got a high standard; I quite agree that in all circumstances Ng'ya, in other respects, had achieved a recognized degree of priority. I quite agree that the school has achieved a recognized degree of priority and I would inform the House that my Ministry is looking into the affair, so Ng'ya would not be held back in the current programme, and we are thinking in our current programme—Ng'ya Secondary School is included in the current programme—that it is going to be aided and it is going to have additional streams.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these were some of the points raised by hon. Members who spoke and one point was that education had been overlooked in some parts of Kenya, but I would say that in Central Nyanza the Government has put a lot of effort into that area, as it is one of the developed areas and is one of the areas that has many aided schools. Therefore, I do not think that anyone could actually blame the Government and say that it is not doing anything in that part of the country. I would say that Nyanza, as a whole, has been aided and many projects are in hand; many projects have actually taken place so far, and a number of streams have been opened in many schools which are being aided by Government. On the other hand, blaming the Government as a whole and saying that perhaps it has not done anything, I am quite sure that the Government has opened many schools in Kenya. It is only, as I said before, that there has been pressure from all over Kenya, because everyone wants his child to go to school. There has been pressure because everyone needs education.

An hon. Member: How many schools have been opened?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah): I hope that my hon. colleague, if he studies physics in Kenya, he will know how many schools have been opened and he might know also at the moment how many schools have been aided in his own province or in Kenya as a whole. That is not a matter for me to reply to, but if the hon. Member wishes to know what sort of development has taken place, he can come to our office and we will be able to show him what we are doing and what we are going to do.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, without talking too much on this particular subject, our Ministry is going to look into the affair of the Ng'ya Girls' School and, as I said, it has achieved a recognized degree of priority, so the Ministry is going to take steps to aid this school and also to give it additional streams.

(Question put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, 10th March, at 2.30 p.m.

Thursday, 10th March 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHAIR

RESPONSIBILITIES OF MR. SPEAKER

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members, during debate on the Second Reading of the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) (Amendment) Bill, and again on the Second and Third Readings of the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill, there was discussion as to whether or not certain powers should be conferred upon your Speaker.

It is not for me to attempt to influence any decision by the House on such matters, and for that reason I have postponed this Communication until both Bills had been read a Third Time; but some of the arguments adduced in these debates suggested misunderstanding of the responsibilities of a Speaker, which I should therefore like to clarify.

When you elect your Speaker, you are electing the representative of the House as a whole. His duties do not begin and end in this Chair. He is also the custodian of the powers and privileges of Parliament, and your spokesman, on all matters affecting the welfare of this House, to all persons, high or low, including hon. Members, outside this Chamber. That indeed is the reason for his being called your Speaker.

In that representative capacity, Mr. Speaker has various powers outside this Chamber; but whether exercising those powers or otherwise purporting to speak for the House, he is bound always to act in a representative manner. That is to say, he must never act according to his personal whim, but must always do what he believes that the majority of Members would wish him to do, apart from those special occasions when he has also to protect the basic rights of a minority of Members. It is to guide and to support him in this that such institutions as a Speaker's Committee are invaluable.

The same applies to his conduct in this Chair; though his task is easier here, because he has Standing Orders and many established practices for his guide, and comparatively few novel questions of order arise. Thus, in the matter of a casting vote, I can assure the House that this will never be exercised by me according to personal inclination; it will always be exercised, according to the convention of the House of Commons and other Parliaments, to preserve the status quo; and where possible, to preserve an opportunity for further discussion.

In conclusion, I repeat the undertaking which I gave to you on the 7th June 1963, when you conferred upon me the supreme honour of election as your Speaker: "I pledge myself to give all that I have to the service of this House, I acknowledge, according to tradition, that, though I am privileged to be your collective figurehead and spokesman, I am no more than your servant. It will be my duty to all of you to enforce strict compliance with your own rules of procedure, and to ensure that the voice of the minority is always given a fair hearing; but only with those two important reservations, I shall bow to the will of the majority, or such special majority as our Constitution may require for special occasions", and that applies to all that I do as your Speaker, whether here or outside this Chamber.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 419

PEACE CORPS IN KENYA

Mr. Makote asked the Minister for Economic Planning and Development whether he would tell the House the terms of service of the Peace Corps and his own experience of these people's work.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Abuya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The terms of service under which Peace Corps volunteers work in Kenya are very much on an ad hoc basis. To date, Peace Corps volunteers work in the Ministries of Lands and Settlement, Agriculture, Animal Husbandry and Marketing, Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development and Education. In the Ministry of Lands and Settlement, the Ministry pays Sh. 104 per month direct to the Peace Corps for each volunteer. In addition, the Ministry provides motor-cycles for the use of volunteers while on duty and housing with hard furnishings. Peace Corps volunteers in the Ministry of Agriculture Corps volunteers in the Ministry of Commerce, Department of the Ministry of Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development, Peace Corps volunteers are provided with housing with hard furnishings. The department does not make any financial contribution for their services. The situation in the Ministry of Education is slightly different. The Peace Corps volunteers receive the same basic salary as local officers with similar qualifications. They are employed on local contract terms with local increments and a 25 per

[Mr. Muliro]

He said. It was stated that the World Bank Mission which gave money to Kenya for development of secondary education, wanted to develop a few schools to three or four streams, and not have many schools in this respect. Sir, I think it is only right and fair, even if Kenya has to borrow money from the World Bank, that we should have the freedom of planning our own secondary school development. If we do not have this freedom to plan the development of our own secondary education, Sir, I think we are slaves of the United Nations.

This was the reason why I said it was most unsatisfactory that the World Bank should dictate to Kenya which schools should have double streams or treble streams.

In this case, Sir, the school was promised this. Applications were coming to this school from every district in Nyanza Province, from a number of districts in Rift Valley, and from a number of districts in the Western Province. These were all for Form I. The teachers there, the sisters, were ready to accept Form I. However, lamentably, they found they could not do so simply because the planning at the top, here, was bad. Here, Sir, is where we would like the Minister to assure this House that the development of education in this country is to be determined by the people of this country and not by an organization outside Kenya. Sir, unless this is looked into, we will find eventually that the United Nations might decide that only the schools around Nairobi will have treble streams, or six streams, and the schools away from Nairobi will never be developed. This is what we would like the Minister to assure us: that a school in a remote area, like that, where there are children wanting to go to school, will be given an opportunity to have a double-stream.

I hope that the Assistant Minister who is replying will give us the assurance that Ny'ya in future will be given a double-stream as from 1967.

An hon. Member: Why not this year?

Mr. Muliro: Well, if it can be this year, so much the better.

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to move. My colleague, Mr. Luke Obok, will second this Motion.

Mr. Obok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to second this Motion. First of all I think I will be failing in my duty if I did not congratulate the Member for Trans Nzoia, Mwalimu Masinde Muliro for overtaking me and taking the lead on this very serious matter, because it is the expansion of education in this country which is being overlooked because of carelessness of a few individuals sitting in the Ministry of Education.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the lead that the hon. Member for Trans Nzoia has taken, I personally take it as one of the examples how the people of this country should care for the welfare of the entire country, and not just think of their own places. He did not think of Ng'ya being situated in Alego Constituency, but he set an example of somebody who probably, one day, will become a leader in this country.

The reasons for double streaming Ng'ya Girls' High School are as follows: the school has already a good water supply, electricity, permanent buildings including a science laboratory, domestic science room, large dining hall, and good academic results as a character training, and so on. I would like the Assistant Minister for Education, who is going to answer on behalf of the Government, not to forget that Ny'ya is not a tribal or a sectional school, but a national school which caters for all girls who come from all parts of Western Kenya. We have as well as Luo girls, Baluhya girls, Kisii girls, and even Kikuyu girls; they all want to go to Ng'ya, Mr. Speaker. I would like to say that this school is well staffed. It stands on a beautiful site and Ng'ya does not need teachers. It is well staffed and we have everything at Ng'ya.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the land Ng'ya occupies is enough for its present needs, and even enough for further development of Ng'ya. I would like it to be known, Mr. Speaker, that what we really want for Ng'ya is not only a secondary school double-stream but preparations to see that Ng'ya becomes a college in Western Kenya. In fact, this is our ultimate target.

Another point, Sir, that I would like to remind the hon. gentleman who will be replying on behalf of the Government, that it was very unfair that the headmistress at Ng'ya, who is Miss L. Wood, who works very hard—she was at Butere at one time. Miss Wood was given an assurance throughout last year—Mr. Speaker, Sir, a promise is a promise. We were told that Ng'ya would have a double-stream in 1966. The Assistant Minister who spoke in this House on behalf of the Government told the House that his Ministry, or the Government—because he was speaking for the Government on that occasion—told the House that his Ministry did not take orders from the World Bank, or any other loan agency. Mr. Speaker, the Government definitely promised that Ng'ya would have a double-stream in 1966, whether the World Bank existed or not.

I think this is going to make our people in Western Kenya feel that, perhaps, the Government is trying to neglect certain parts of this country. This is very serious, Mr. Speaker, and we are very concerned. People like ourselves who are the servants of the masses are, in fact, people who do not have time of their own at the weekends. We are faced with a lot of difficulties, and I am appealing to my hon. friend the Assistant Minister, who is going to speak on behalf of the Government, that the Government should do something, more in Western Kenya with Ng'ya School. The African Government of the moment, should not take educational matters so lightly. I think, Mr. Speaker, and it appears that the Ministry of Education seems to be taking things very lightly, because I personally walked into the Ministry of Education last year to try and find out the problems why Ng'ya should not be double-stream. I was told to go and try and find out whether there was sufficient space for further development of this school. I came back, Mr. Speaker, and reported to a senior Government officer at the Ministry, and I was ashamed, Mr. Speaker, it was shocking when Ng'ya could not be double-streamed.

[Mr. Obok]

Mr. Speaker, with these few remarks I beg to support the Motion and appeal to the hon. gentleman who is going to answer on behalf of the Government, and I know he is my good friend. I am sure he is not going to disappoint me by telling me that there is no money. If the question of money is raised, Mr. Speaker, I will challenge the Government and shall say that Ng'ya does not require any money from anywhere. Ng'ya has a supply of water, there is electricity, there is a laboratory to provide the school with everything required. Mr. Speaker, with these few remarks I support.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Ole Kouchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question regarding this Motion on adjournment was that the Minister disclosed to this House the reasons which led him to eliminate Ng'ya Girls' High School from the priority list of developments for double-stream in 1966.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the reply which was given by my colleague the other Assistant Minister, Mr. Mutiso, on behalf of the Ministry, was this. That like many other schools, Ng'ya Girls' School was eliminated from the Ministry's development programme for 1966, because of a policy decision to expand a smaller number of schools to three-stream status, instead of developing a larger number to one and two-stream status, in order to attract World Bank loans.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, although the reply did not give any details, I am quite sure that it mentioned one vital point with which I think a number of hon. Members in the House would agree. That instead of developing one school, we can get a loan if we could divide what could go to these schools at once, we could get a loan which could develop three streams or three other schools at once. Mr. Speaker, after assuming direct responsibility for secondary education in the provinces in December 1964, the Ministry of Education formulated a secondary school development programme for 1965/68, which was based on less ambitious intentions than the former regional assemblies. This meant that a number of regional assemblies who had approved the building of a number of schools or the creation of additional forms, found that there were no funds available to run those schools; or even to construct more classrooms, and perhaps, this is one of the schools which was actually approved by the regional assembly. For instance, when the regional changes came in, there was no money to carry out what had been approved by the regional assembly. This problem included a number of first, second, third and even fourth streams at various schools and, as was emphasized, that the necessary facilities could be constructed in phases and be financed over the development period of 1965/1970. The programme was notified to provincial education officers and the schools concerned in 1965, so that necessary preparatory steps could be initiated and were stated to be of an exploratory nature. Since the necessary capital funds had yet to be obtained, when this approval came there were no funds, so these funds were sought from the World Bank, and in the course of negotiations with the bank representative in July, he urged that the programme should be completely revised, so the programme which was laid down by the Majimbo Government previously had to be revised, in the interests of sound educational practice. The bank did not influence the Ministry of Education at all, but the bank wished that their loans, their funds, but the bank wished that their loans, their funds, should be devoted to schools which could be developed to not less than three-stream status, and these were to be financed and constructed in a three-year loan period. This was not an order made by the bank to the Ministry, but it was a matter of negotiation. They also wanted to know where the funds they were going to contribute, where these loans were going to be put. This does not mean, and should not be interpreted to mean, that the World Bank has any baleful influence. I oppose this completely; the problems which are being met by the Ministry of Education are made known to these World Bank people, and they do not mess about with the policies and they do not mess about with any development plans do not mess about with any development plans in this country. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this view is accepted as being educationally sound and is in accord with the recommendations of the Kenya Educational Commission that many more schools

[Mr. Areman]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in ending I would like to say that the Ministers have visited all these places and promised the people there that they will do this and do that, and provide them with milk for their children, fruits and so on, and so now, Sir, I think the Minister concerned will do his best to provide the people in Lokori and Kangeit with transport for getting food to the places or increase the supply of these foodstuffs.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

(Question proposed)

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, a matter of this nature, especially if the hon. Member is serious in what he has said, is very bad indeed.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, since the 1961/62 famine crisis, the Turkana people have continued to be fed by the Government and have received 500 bags of maize per month until July 1965, when the present crisis started. Since that time, Sir, the allocation was increased considerably from 500 bags to 800 bags per month. In the last three months, this allocation continued and in October His Excellency the President ordered that 5,000 bags be given to the Turkana people. The 5,000 bags were to be allocated to the Turkana people at the rate of 900 bags a month and covered the period between October 1965 and March 1966. In 1966, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, an additional 900 bags were given to Turkana. In addition to maize, a considerable amount of other foodstuffs, for example, milk, edible oil, mixed vegetables, sugar, cocoa, chicken meat and canned beef were allocated to supplement the maize allocation. The Government was feeding, at that time, 11,700 people, and it is estimated that it will continue to feed this number of persons until the end of June. The need for the continued famine relief in Turkana will be eased round about June.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the voluntary organizations have assisted very much in the running of the famine relief in Turkana, Oxfam donated a five-ton lorry this month for the purpose of transporting maize and other foodstuffs throughout the Turkana area, apart from other lorries which are provided by the provincial administration. Similarly, Sir, Catholic relief services donated a mill for gristing maize. The Salvation Army are also assisting us at Lokitaung and Catholic services at Lorugum. I therefore fail to understand the hon. Member who seconded the Motion, who suggested that people at the camp at Lake Rudolf have nothing to eat. In fact, Sir, those at this camp are very healthy. I would like any hon. Member—

Mr. Ekitella: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you know that the Government camp has been broken down by the district commissioner.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think what Mr. Ekitella means is that your information is not correct, Mr. Moi, that the camp itself has been closed by the district commissioner. I think he is rising on a point of information, not a point of order.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member is not correct, because the Christian Council of Kenya is running a soup kitchen at this camp. Therefore, Sir, if the hon. Member has not visited the area, I would very much like him to visit the area. As I said before, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I wish the hon. Member would visit these areas, apart from the Member representing that area, so that they know exactly what the Government is doing in these areas. On top of this, Sir, the African Inland Mission at Kangeit, where the hon. Member comes from, is running a soup kitchen in that part of the country and in two weeks' time we are sending two workers to assist in the fitting up of a grist mill. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not see why the hon. Member should criticize the Government when it is doing everything it can. If you will let me, I would like to quote the number of foodstuffs which we have sent, as a Government, to this district since the 30th September 1965.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

On the 30th September 1965, 800 bags, and on the 7th October 1965, 5,000 bags of maize were sent there by the order of His Excellency the President. On the 3rd January, 800 bags of maize, 40 bags of milk were sent there. On the 16th November 1965, 56 bags of maize were sent. On 26th November 1965, 150 cases were sent there. On the 28th January 1966, 35 bags were sent there. On the 25th February 1966—

Mr. Areman: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may we know from the Minister, because he mentioned it was something to do with cases of beer—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! It is not a point of order, but perhaps the Minister will clarify the point.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member was listening he would have heard me when I said 70 bags of powdered milk, 56 lb. each; edible oil, 18 on the 1st November, and 90 cartons on the 22nd November; Pan Mboga mixed vegetables, 1,000 lb. on the 1st November; sugar, 400 lb. on the 10th November; cocoa, 1 case on the 22nd November; soup powder, 2,000 lb. on the 4th December; 5 bags on the 5th January, 14 bags on the 3rd February 1966; chicken meat, 20 cartons on the 23rd November; canned beef, 240 crates on the 23rd December 1965, 140 crates on the 21st January 1966, 100 crates on the 18th January 1966.

[The Minister for Home Affairs]

Mr. Speaker, Government has done all it can. I have visited this area three times. The executive officer in the President's Office has visited the area last week and toured many areas, Lokitaung, Lorugum, Lokori, Baragoi, Kangeit and Lodwar. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I hope the hon. Member will realize this and will always speak on facts.

On the question of the district commissioner, I would like to hear— it is surprising to hear what the Member says. The District Commissioner, Lodwar, has done his best and toured many parts of Turkana District in trying to help the Turkana people. Instead of appreciating what the district commissioner has done, people say things which could never be substantiated, except by saying, "He said . . ." and having no proper substantiation.

So, Sir, this is the position in Turkana and I hope the hon. Member will help, and even contribute in terms of money in order to help those who are not well off in the district.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Nyamweya, you have only five minutes.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious matter and the Government takes this Motion very seriously. We are grateful to the hon. Member for Turkana North who has drawn the Government's attention to the shortage of famine relief supplies in Turkana. We want to take this opportunity to assure the House and the nation that the Government will do all it can to feed the Turkana people, as well as other people, who may be stricken by famine in the country.

Hon. Members should appreciate how difficult it is to feed the Turkana, Mr. Speaker, because they are an extremely nomadic tribe. I have visited this particular place several times. The first time I visited Turkana in Lodwar, I had occasion to visit the manyatta which belongs to the hon. Member for Turkana, Mr. Ekitella. Next time when I visited the place, I thought I would visit his manyatta again, but I found it had disappeared. Now, this is a difficulty which the administrative officers experience up in Turkana, because the people are constantly moving. This means that we have constantly to move the supplies from one place to another. This is why the Government has started the fish industry along the shores of Lake Rudolf.

Mr. Speaker, the most interesting thing is that most of the Members do not visit these areas, their own constituencies.

Another thing, Sir, we have started an irrigation scheme along the Kerio Valley where we hope the Turkana people will be able to settle and work. If they can do that, it will be much easier to feed the Turkana people.

Hon. Members will appreciate that, if they visit the areas themselves, they will come back with not only words but sympathy, where human misery is really apparent. Perhaps one of these days, I will organize a visit to Turkana and I hope some hon. Members, who have not been to Turkana, will take this opportunity to visit this place.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

NG'UYA GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is time now for the interruption of business. There is a matter to be raised on the adjournment, so I would ask a Minister to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I gave notice of my desire to move this Motion on adjournment because of the most unsatisfactory reply this House received to Question No. 214, Ng'uya Girls High School, double-stream.

Sir, information and planning for development was that this school was to have a double-stream in 1966, in the same way as other schools were promised this in Nyanza and Western Province. Ng'uya School has special prominence, in that it is a boarding school, and education for girls is only beneficial as long as it is carried out in a boarding school. Now, this school was promised a double-stream as from 1966. This went on until recently, in December, Sir; that they were told there would not be a double-stream in the area.

Now, the unsatisfactory reply came from the Minister for Education because the Minister told this House that Ng'uya had to drop the double-stream, simply because of the World Bank so that we do not have these people wishing to go to Tanzania. It is only recently that some of the people in the Kuria area were saying, "We are afraid because we are a small tribe and we would like to go to our brothers in Tanzania." We do not want such a thing to happen, we want everyone in the country to feel secure and to feel that the Government is near-by and feel that whether weak, strong, rich or poor, everyone is protected.

[Mr. Kibuga]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope that the hon. Members in this House, although the Nyabasi Trading Centre is very far away from their constituencies, will feel that this is part of Kenya and as a part of Kenya it must be protected and must be taken care of. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Question proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for Mr. Ekitella to move the adjournment of the House.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

FAMINE RELIEF IN TURKANA

Mr. Ekitella: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I move that the House doth now adjourn.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that in view of the hardship and shortage of maize supplied to the Turkana District, I urge that the Government should increase the supply of maize to the Turkana District, especially in Kangetit and Lorugum and Lake Rudolf.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair][The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Turkana, like other tribes in Kenya who form the strong Government of Kenya, are part and parcel of the Kenya Government. Due to climatical conditions, the great Turkana tribes have been suffering from drought and the people have been facing two difficulties each year: (a) lack of food during the dry season and (b) the rain which comes makes the grass grow and the Turkana can graze their cattle. When the rains come and makes the grass grow, the Turkana move their cattle to grazing areas where they met with—I think I should read without spectacles.

Mr. Mbogoh: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. Is it really in order that the hon. Member should read his speech when he cannot understand what is written on the paper?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think an hon. Member may refer to notes. I think he is doing that just now.

Mr. Ekitella: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Mr. Mbogoh is terrible. The rain comes which makes the grass green. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Turkana people move their cattle to where there is grazing. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, people from the Sudan and Tanzania as well come to Turkana and raid it. I do not want to say much, but, Sir, I feel that it is high time my Government freed my people from hunger. The Government which has been distributing food to these places has had little effect in these areas in Kenya. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, maize and posho have been distributed but could I know the reason why my people have not been given some of these food-stuffs?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, famine is prevalent in the Turkana District in a very bad way, and they are also citizens of this country. They are facing a grave shortage of rain which is causing widespread famine. It should be understood, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that the Turkana area receives rain for six months and then it is dry for another six months. The Turkana tribes are threatened by famine so much so that, unless something is done, people will face death. We want the Government to provide posho and other foodstuffs to the hungry people of Turkana.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Ekitella, who is seconding your Motion?

Mr. Ekitella: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you can choose whoever you want.

Mr. Aremam: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support this Motion on the adjournment of Mr. Ekitella's. This Motion, Sir, is a very ad Motion. It is not a happy one as other Motions which have been brought to this House. We are laughing, but, Sir, this is not a jolly one which we sometimes book in this House here.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if you go to Turkana, you will find that people are dying. The hon. Minister has visited this place, he has seen the people and the conditions of the people there. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, these people are starving there. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, they are given a pound of foodstuff to last them, perhaps, three days, but what happens if this person has a family of three children? How can he make three lb. of foodstuff last three days if he has three children as well as his wife and himself? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if an irrigation scheme was established, we could then till the land and provide some food for ourselves.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if one goes to Lokori, for example, where there is some famine relief going on, thirteen people have died since January to

[Mr. Aremam]

Deputy Speaker, Sir, in Lokori we have no facilities at all for transporting food. We would like some transport facilities so that food can be provided for us from Kitale, which will go through West Pokot to Lokori, but it should not go the longest way round through Lodwar and back to Lokori. In Lokori, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, about fifty-odd people have died. I am telling the truth, Sir; that, between this year and last year, about fifty-nine people have died from starvation.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have a famine relief camp at Lake Rudolf. No one visits this camp and now the people are running away from this camp. I am telling the truth, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. In fact, Sir, I was there yesterday—you should not accept the letters from the district commissioner who has not visited the place but claims that he is telling the truth, because, Sir, I have been there and I have obtained the right information. As you the Minister is getting information from—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are treating this Motion with great seriousness because it affects the people of Turkana, and the allegation which the hon. Member has made against the administrative officers, who are doing a good job, we would like it to be substantiated, so that we can take any necessary disciplinary action.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Aremam, I think you understand what that means. Can you substantiate your allegation that the district commissioners or the administrative officers asked the persons concerned to sell their beads so that they can get food, rather than give them any food?

Mr. Aremam: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, sometimes when I went to Lorugum the district commissioner visited the mission there where the famine relief was situated, there were some women who had beads around their necks and when the district commissioner came he said, "Why not sell all these things here so as to enable you to have some food?"

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am still interested in this and I would like to be given the specific details as to the date, the place and the name of the district commissioner concerned.

Mr. Aremam: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the date was some time last year, I am sorry but I cannot remember the date, the place is Lorugum and the district commissioner is Mr. arap Tui. Do you want the tribe? I can give it to you. Mr.

Deputy Speaker, Sir, in Lokori we have no facilities at all for transporting food. We would like some transport facilities so that food can be provided for us from Kitale, which will go through West Pokot to Lokori, but it should not go the longest way round through Lodwar and back to Lokori. In Lokori, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, about fifty-odd people have died. I am telling the truth, Sir; that, between this year and last year, about fifty-nine people have died from starvation.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have a famine relief camp at Lake Rudolf. No one visits this camp and now the people are running away from this camp. I am telling the truth, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. In fact, Sir, I was there yesterday—you should not accept the letters from the district commissioner who has not visited the place but claims that he is telling the truth, because, Sir, I have been there and I have obtained the right information. As you the Minister is getting information from—

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member claims that he was there yesterday, and knowing the camp myself, I do not know whether he had a plane in which to fly or whether he is merely trying to say—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): That, Mr. arap Moi, is not a point of order, I am afraid.

Mr. Aremam: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Omar: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, on many occasions in this House, Sir, some Members have been told to leave the Chamber when the Speaker found that a Member had raised a point of order which was not actually a point of order. Now, Sir, am I in order to ask you to rule that the hon. Minister leave the Chamber because he has raised on a fraudulent point of order?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! I think that is the Speaker's unenviable duty to order an hon. Member to leave the Chamber, and he does not like to do it lightly. I personally do not think that this is a suitable occasion on which to do so.

Mr. Aremam: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, before I was saying that in this camp most of the people have run away because the supply of food was—some of them have come to Baragot but some of them have gone astray and are now roaming in the bushes, perhaps eating the fruits of the bushes and dying. We cannot count those who have died in the bush.

[Mr. Malsori-Itumbo]

Mr. Speaker, this man Mohamed Noor has been attacked about four times. The next attack occurred on the 7th March 1964 when his property amount to Sh. 1,114 was taken away. His wife, Sir, was thoroughly beaten and his brother-in-law, whose name is Sheikh Suleman, who was staying with them was beaten almost to death. He was taken to the hospital in Kisii and when we went to see him the next morning he could not even distinguish or recognize the people he used to know. He was almost at the point of dying. When the Government came to this place they brought a dog, it was too late—about five hours later—although I do not blame them because they are not near and they do not care about putting a police post near by. Nothing was done and they did not even dare to find the property belonging to this man.

The next one, Mr. Speaker, was in the same year, 1964, when also, Sir, the watchman was beaten almost to death, and the wife of the man was almost killed by a panza when she was trying to escape from the shop by the back door.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that the Government ought to know the trouble in this particular area because it is high time, Sir, that all the citizens of Kenya were protected, if the Government does not want to show inefficiency in the running of the Government as such.

The other trader is known as Saidi Barud. The total property of this man—he has been attacked about six times and various wounds and damage have been inflicted on him—amounts to Sh. 29,000.

Mr. Speaker, I feel that all the time I have spent in trying to negotiate and to see the Government to see what they could do in this area has been in vain, because the Government seems to neglect this question of protection in this particular area. I have a lot of papers and evidences here with me, Sir, but it is a pity that I do not have time to give examples. This case is very well known to the Minister for Defence, Dr. Mungai, when he was the Minister who controlled the police force. I have written letters and letters and I have seen the Permanent Secretary to the Ministry of Defence, I have seen the Minister himself, but it has all been in vain, Mr. Speaker.

These people have even applied for a police post in this area, but all has been in vain, and they have been tortured by the Government.

Mr. Speaker, I do not have time to quote all the documents but it is a serious thing and even now—it was only recently that I brought a question to this House asking the Minister for Home Affairs to try to get a police post in this area. The answer—if you will allow me to quote again—was this: the Minister for Home Affairs said that, for my information; it showed that criminal activity in the Nyabasi Trading Centre area is not unduly high. In 1965 only six cases of crime were reported to the police. Also, Mr. Speaker, he went on to tell the House that the nearest police station is at Kabancha and that it was sufficient to guard this place and that they were patrolling the area very efficiently; that they did not need any police post.

Mr. Speaker, I wanted to have a detailed explanation from 1963 to date, Sir. When I asked this question in the House, Mr. Speaker, I wanted the Minister to tell the House how many cases had ever been reported to the Police Station, Kisii, or Kehancha for that matter. Mr. Speaker, the Minister was unable to tell the House, he just dodged and he only dared to give an answer for our year, which was 1965. The trouble began once these people's firearms were seized from them by the Government. I feel strongly that my people must be compensated because the Government failed to protect them. Some of them have now moved to Homa Bay, leaving their buildings empty. Some of them have gone to Tanzania. Yet the Kuni elders feel very strongly that the Government is being lazy and yet the British Government used to take care of everybody. But once the Government of the Africans came into power there was no longer any effective protection for anybody's property.

Mr. Speaker, my people are loyal, so why should they be included in the Somali Shifa activities. I protest, as a representative of the area, and, Mr. Speaker, I feel strongly that it is my duty to notify the Government of any trouble or activities that take place in my constituency and it is up to the Government to see to it that constitutionally these people also deserve the right to have their property and their lives protected. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether the Ministry has anything to do with my constituency. If these people were at any time alleged to have been co-operating with the Shifa in the North-Eastern Province, the Government should have made this clear and should have arrested some of them, but they have said practically nothing. Mr. Speaker, I feel that my people have every right to their claims and if the Government is not going to protect these people, Mr. Speaker, then I feel that it is time they were compensated.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! It is the end of your time, Mr. Malsori, I am afraid.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I second, Mr. Speaker, I am speaking as one of the Members of the National Assembly in Kenya and Kuria is part of Kenya. I hope that the hon. Members will take an interest in all the parts of Kenya and not merely their constituencies. This Motion is a very important one, Mr. Speaker. The Nyabasi Trading Centre traders are in Kenya and their case has been known for a long time. It is in fact shocking that such incidents as those which have been related by the hon. Mover of this Motion had been known by the Government for a long time and the Government has not acted at all. If it has acted it has not done enough to show that the Nyabasi Trading Centre traders are citizens of Kenya.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a most important place in Kenya, because every citizen of Kenya should be protected by the Government of Kenya. All the property of the people of Kenya should also be protected, but it is more important when we consider that this is a town or a trading centre near the border of Kenya and Tanzania. The Government of Tanzania protects its own people over the border. I have known that every time that anyone wishes to move from Kenya towards Tanzania, immediately after crossing the Kenya border, he is stopped by the Tanzanian police. Why should the Kenya Government not protect its people in the same way as the Tanzanian people have done? It is important that in this border trading centre there should be a police station. As the hon. Member for Kuria has said, every time these burglars or robbers come from Tanzania, and rob or beat or do other types of damage, they immediately run across the border. It becomes very difficult, because in normal cases a police officer amongst his people would chase the thieves, robbers or criminals for miles and miles until he has been caught, but near the border where a person has a chance to run across the border, and our police cannot follow him, it is very important that there should be a police station near by. The Motion, as it is, asks for very little. It asks for compensation, because these traders have worked hard for their property. This Motion also asks for protection. It is unfortunate, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that the traders who have worked so hard to build up their shops in order to keep their goods in them, and who keep good accounts and take care of them and probably even starve themselves so as to enrich Kenya are just left like that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope that when the Minister comes to reply to this Motion he will give us reasons why the people in the Nyabasi Trading Centre have not received the necessary protection required from the Government. Our Government has said many times, and we believe it, that the first duty of the Government is to protect its citizens. These are citizens of Kenya. They should be protected. Being near another country they would feel rather sad if left to look after themselves. The Government should make a move to establish a police centre in order to make these people feel secure, so that they can trade properly. It is only recently, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that we heard that firearms passed through this area and that they crossed into Kenya and they were not caught until they had gone miles away from the Kenya border. How do we know that more firearms have not passed through? How can we be told for certain that more firearms have not passed through there?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is necessary, because this is a border area, even if the Government is not ready to compensate immediately, they should see fit to establish a police station there immediately. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the police should be on the spot at the Nyabasi Trading Centre. These traders, unless the Government feels that they are not loyal and they have to prove to this House that the traders in the Nyabasi Trading Centre are not loyal, have been asking for their own property to be protected. They have asked for firearms. They would buy their own firearms, they are not asking the Government to buy firearms for them. Why stop them from doing this and still not protect them? If the Government is not ready to give them firearms to protect themselves, the Government should then establish a police post near-by and put a guard there daily, so as to enable these people to trade freely. We want this trading to grow and become a big trading centre and even get a lot of goods from Tanzania to Kenya, but if the traders live there in fear, as well as the citizens, then we cannot progress. I hope that the Government will see to it that they protect the property of every citizen in Kenya, but not only a citizen of Kenya. If someone has come to trade in Kenya, even if he is a foreigner and he trusts the Kenya Government, it is necessary, because this person has been given proper licences and follows the laws of the country, that he should also be protected.

It is unfortunate, Mr. Speaker, when we hear that some traders at the Nyabasi Trading Centre have had to run away to Tanzania. This gives a bad name to our Republic. Some others have run over to Homa Bay, why was this necessary? Let us have this trading centre protected.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not need to relate the whole story because the hon. Member has said enough, all that I am asking for from the Government is to immediately give police protection a pity that that hon. Member is not here, but if he were I would tell him that the Mover is not frightened of any opposition whatsoever. He has stood on two occasions, and on both occasions he has come here. Not only that, he has been opposed by two people who have both lost their deposit, therefore, there cannot be any question of having any fears from any quarters from any man.

[Mr. Muti]

Mr. Speaker, all we are trying to do here, what we are trying to make understood in this House is that we want to give women the chance to make a start. We are not suggesting that they cannot ever come here. We know that in time they will. We want them to make a start, they have been late starters, as I said, and we want to give them a chance to make a start. Mr. Speaker, when people talk about equality here, they forget at the same time that we are not, in many ways, equal in the sense that men have had advantages which women have not had. This is the thing we want to put right. We want to give them a start here. As a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, it surprises me to see the attitude of some of the hon. Members of this House. Whereas in the old colonial days, it was found necessary to have women Members in this House even to nominate women Members to the Legislative Council, today, this independent Government thinks that such a thing cannot happen. We seem to be less liberal than the imperialists and I hope that the women of this country are noting this. It is no use arguing that women do not want to be given this privilege, that they will fight for themselves. Of course, they will, one day, but what I want is to see them given an opportunity. Again Mr. Speaker, when people quote other countries and say that other countries have no women members, West Germany and so on, we will not be guided by what happens in other countries, we shall decide on our interests here as we see them. Mr. Speaker, I know of countries where there are provisions that can make it possible for women to be brought in if they cannot come through the normal election. In some countries constitutions provide for nomination by someone like the President, in which case he can nominate women when it becomes necessary, we know this happens, but we have some Members who spoke as if this had never happened anywhere else, and which seemed only to expose their lack of knowledge of what happened in many other parliaments. So, Mr. Speaker, I really believe that we are fighting for a very genuine cause, and that the women of this country would like us to do exactly what this Motion asks should be done. I do not agree with those who take the view that women have not given us a mandate. Of course, no woman has told me to come here and stand and speak for them. I do not have to be told to come and speak for anybody, it is for me to see where there is the need to speak, and then to speak for those needs.

Mr. Speaker, I still maintain that we have a very strong case. I beg to move.

(Question put and negatived)

MOTION

PROTECTION AGAINST TANZANIA BURGLARS

Mr. Maitori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:—

THAT this House being aware of the lack of police protection for the lives and properties of the Nyabasi Trading Centre traders, harassed by frequent attacks by Tanzania burglars, calls upon the Government to compensate them for their losses and show them where to go for safety; and furthermore return to the following traders their arms: that Government has seized: Abdi Hassan, Abdulahi Abdi, Saidi Barudi, Mohamed Noor.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the reason why I said that the House is aware of the situation in my constituency is, Mr. Speaker, because these traders in 1963 as a result of the clashes that arose in the present North-Eastern Province, my supporters in Kuria Constituency, in this particular market, Mr. Speaker, had firearms. They were given firearms to protect themselves and their property in this place.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, because of the suspicion the Government had of all Somalis all over the country, their firearms were seized from them by the Government. Mr. Speaker, since then, because the market is on the border of Tanzania and Kenya, the people of Tanzania realize that these people had nothing with which to protect their lives and properties and they began to harass them by attacking them at night, taking away their property and breaking into their dukas and in every case, Sir, these people did report to the nearest police station, which is at Kehancha, about sixteen miles away.

Mr. Speaker, if I am allowed to quote instances, the first one was on the 10th October 1963 when the trader known as Abdi Hassan had his shop broken into at night, his property was taken away by these burglars and the property was valued at Sh. 16,210, and other things like his radio and house furniture were taken away as well by these people who robbed them with violence. The same person, on the 18th of the same month, was robbed again. By then a watchman had been employed and he was out watching and he was beaten up completely, he was even unable to walk and he was taken to the hospital and his name was Marwa and he was badly wounded. Property worth Sh. 9,100 was stolen by these particular robbers. Again, in the same month and in the same year, Mr. Speaker, these people came back again and robbed the same shop, beating up the two watchmen until they were almost dead. When the owner of the shop tried to come out to resist the action, one of the young men known as Abdulai Rigar was beaten, and he was taken to hospital that very night, and he died the next morning.

[Mr. Maitori-Itumbo]

Mr. Speaker, the next one was on the 5th January 1964 when a man known as Nyamohanga Mengangi was killed while working as a watchman at the same dukas belonging to Mr. Abdi Hassan. Mr. Speaker, it has seemed to us that these instances are being encouraged by our Government because the Government does not take any serious steps and they do not really care about the lives and the properties of these people at this trouble spot.

In our Constitution—if I am allowed to quote—on page 32, we have fundamental rights which claim to protect the individuals. I quote section 14, Mr. Speaker:

Whereas every person in Kenya is entitled to the fundamental rights and freedoms of the individual, that is to say, the right, whatever his race, tribe, place of origin or residence or other local connexion, political opinions, colour, creed or sex, but subject to respect for the rights and freedoms of others and for the public interest, to each and all of the following, namely—

- life, liberty, security of the person and the protection of the law;
- freedom of conscience, of expression and of assembly and association; and
- protection for the privacy of his home and other property and from deprivation of property without compensation—

Mr. Speaker, I strongly feel that our Government did not care to protect these particular people because I feel—and other people in my constituency feel—that because these people are Somalis and their tribe is known as Shifita fighters, my constituents are being neglected because they are Somalis. This is unconstitutional, Mr. Speaker, and it is wrong of Government to do this.

The next person who is also regularly attacked by these burglars from Tanzania is a man known by the name of Abdulai Abdi. In the same year, on the 28th September 1963, Abdulai Abdi's shop was broken into and property worth Sh. 7,600 was taken away and several men, his wife and children, were beaten up, there was blood everywhere. The police were called and when they came they brought a dog from Kisii—a distance of ninety-nine miles—and when the dog came, Sir, it did not help much because by then, Sir, these people had gone into the interior part of Tanzania. The trading centre is right at the border, it is just a few yards inside Kenya.

The next incident was on the 24th October 1963, when the same man was attacked again by the same people from Tanzania. I say people from Tanzania, Mr. Speaker, because whenever an incident takes place and when the tracks of these people are followed they are found to lead into Tanzania. I do not know, because most of these cases happen at night, nobody knows whether it is our people who come, some of them might be in co-operation with these Tanzania burglars, and then come and attack these people and follow the Tanzania route. I cannot really tell, but whenever anything like that happens, Sir, tracks automatically lead to Tanzania.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this man was again attacked at night, his family were beaten up and his belongings were stolen by these thieves and the cost of this property amounted to Sh. 3,900. Some of the people dealt thoroughly with these people.

The next man is Mohamed Noor, he is a trader in the same trading centre. All of these are Somali people. Mr. Speaker, when I tried to intervene in this matter and when I tried to see the Government and the police about the protection and the defence in the area, they seemed not to take any serious action. That is why I wonder whether the Government is, maybe, feeling that because these people are Somalis they are not supposed to be protected. Mr. Speaker, the Constitution says that whatever race one is, whatever belief, whatever religion or political opinion, all the citizens of Kenya deserve the right of protection, of their lives and their property. Mr. Speaker, I strongly feel that these people are being hated automatically simply because they are Somalis, and I believe, Mr. Speaker, that these supporters of mine have stayed in this area for over twenty-five years and they do participate in Kuria customs and traditions. I do not see any difference in these people although they are Somalis and I strongly feel that they are part and parcel of my tribe in the area. They are voters of mine, like anybody else.

Mr. Speaker, the Government is not prepared to protect these people while they also pay their plot rents and also their trading taxes, as other people in Kenya do.

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development] women prove their ability in talking, let them prove that they are strong, that they will not come here and cry in front of men.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Njonjo, you have just ten minutes.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I know that the hon. Members who have spoken in this debate will be the first to say that I am the least qualified person to speak on this Motion. However, I have to reply on behalf of the Government and say that the Government does not accept this Motion because it is misconceived. If one has read the Constitution one will have realized, the hon. Mover who moved this Motion will have realized, that there are no impediments in our Constitution to bar women from becoming Members of this honourable House.

I need only refer the hon. Members to the disqualifications to become Members of Parliament. None of the disqualifications mentioned in our Constitution refer to sex. No one is disqualified from becoming a Member of this House because she is a woman.

Mr. Speaker, the hon. Mover did say that we should allocate special seats to women. I do not think even the women themselves would like seats to be specifically reserved for them. I would have thought that if women wanted to take an active part in politics in this country they should fight their battle as their menfolk. After all, I think I have heard women say that they are equal. If there is this equality, which is recognized in the Constitution, the women must be prepared to fight elections in the same way as the men do.

Mr. Speaker, there has been an attitude on the part of our women in this country, to think that politics or special reserves should be made for them, particularly in jobs or in politics or, for instance, in this House or in the Senate. My own submission, Mr. Speaker, is that if these women, and I am addressing my remarks to the hon. Member, if these women have advised you that the Constitution bars them from becoming Members of the House, I hope you will inform them that the Constitution is quite clear and they can become Members of Parliament. What these women should do is to join local political parties right from the bottom, and then work their way up.

Mr. Speaker, it is not clear from the Motion whether the hon. Member has joined the suffragette movement. If he has, then he has not been properly advised: All that the women of this country need do is to join their local Kambu branch, fight their way up, join in the fight for nomination as candidates for the next election, and win the support of the electorate. All I can do for my part, is to wish them luck in the next General Election.

Mr. Speaker, having said that, and I say it quite seriously, our Constitution does not contain any bar to women in joining the rough and tumble of politics if that is what they want to do.

The other point, I think there are other hon. Members who are more qualified to speak from personal experience which I have not got, on either the weaknesses, the strength or the capabilities of women, I cannot speak on that. The only point, Mr. Speaker, I can say is this. A few minutes ago in this House we were trying to get 65 per cent of hon. Members in this House. Mr. Speaker, can one imagine for instance, if we want one vital vote and at that crucial moment we are faced with some maternity cases in this House! Then, of course, we would not get that vote, and the Bill—I hear an hon. Member mention labour pairs, that might be another point, Mr. Speaker. The other point, Mr. Speaker, that the hon. Member will have to think about, is that if we were to admit women to this House, then I think, Mr. Speaker, you will have to have another thought about the accommodation in this House, and perhaps we might have to think of a maternity wing in this House. Mr. Speaker, as I said, the Government opposes this Motion. It is unnecessary, and as I said, the Constitution clearly provides for women if they want to fight in the election.

Mr. Speaker, I oppose the Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. G. Godana): Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am standing to oppose this Motion, and I wish to make clear that this Motion actually scorns our women. Although the Mover is trying to help our women, this House is ignoring our women, because we are precisising the normal democratic way, if we say that women should have a special place to sit, that means they are not allowed to participate in any election. I think the Mover, although he is in sympathy with the women, is just trying to cool down the women ready for the general elections, which are so near. If the hon. Member would like to help our women, there is the simple way of just teaching them how to campaign, and also to teach them how to participate at public meetings, and join our Kambu branches, as my colleague has just said, thereby getting proper seats. When we say that we have to provide one or two seats for them in this House, is this really going to help them? We said that this is really going to help them. We said that we would keep one—this was actually asked me by the Mover—and we said that we would select one or two for special ones, then do we decide that they can also participate in the General Election? Or do we just give them one or two seats, and then they will not be allowed to take part in another national election? If that is the belief of the Mover of this Motion that one or two seats will be enough, that is wrong. A woman is equal to a man, and they must practise all the public works including political and other services as well; as they are doing in other parts of the world. I do not see why only the women of Kenya should be helped in that special way, while in other parts of the world they have equal participation in any elections, the same as the men. To encourage this, let us not forget when we are trying to help our women, we must help them in the right way. This Motion appears to ignore them and suggests that they are not taking an interest in the elections. I hope our women are here to hear this, but they are not here now. The women must not forget that this Motion can actually help them. What they should do is to keep participating in the normal way at the elections as any other Member of this House does. Mr. Speaker, we have, as somebody mentioned, we have a special election; we have the women contesting for the special seats, and there is no objection. If there is no objection, why has this question arisen? If there is no objection for women to come to this House, why should this question arise?

[The Assistant Minister for Works, Communications and Power]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid I have to interrupt you now, it is time for the Mover to reply.

The Assistant Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. G. Godana): Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose.

Mr. Matti: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I begin by thanking those hon. Members who supported this Motion? May I also express my disappointment that the Attorney-General has found it necessary to reject this Motion? First of all I suppose the Attorney-General was not serious when he made reference to some possible complications which might arise if we brought women, some maternity complications. If these complications are real then the problem is not solved by not agreeing with me, for the simple reason that the Attorney-General argues that women can get in here through the normal channels. What will happen when these women come here? Or will they be some special women?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the hon. Members chose to either misconstrue what I said in moving this Motion, or deliberately to ignore the facts as I stated them. The hon. Special Elected Member, who is not here, I wish he were here. Mr. Matinda, said that provision already existed for women to become Members of Parliament, this has been repeated several times by a number of other Members including the hon. Attorney-General. It is not because I was not aware of this, as a matter of fact it might interest the Attorney-General to know that I was one of the architects of the original Constitution, and I am fairly well versed in its contents.

Mr. Speaker, the same hon. Member argued that there was no need to have some entrenched clauses to have women here. This is strange coming from such quarters for the simple reason that without an entrenched clause in our present Constitution, such a Member would not himself be here. He is a Special Elected Member simply because there was that entrenchment. I can well understand his difficulty in understanding the political views of women since he has no constituency. As a matter of fact, when he says that women do not address public meetings he exposes his absolute lack of knowledge of what is going on in Kenya today, because we have had women at our meetings, they have addressed big rallies, and we know that they are quite capable of making themselves understood. Mr. Speaker, the same gentleman was again wrong when he said that no woman had ever tried to stand for election and so on. These are points which have been dealt with.

Those hon. Members who argue that, by refusing to support this Motion, they are supporting the idea of unity that they do not want to encourage divisions are misguided in my opinion. Mr. Speaker, we are not suggesting, and I made it quite clear when I was moving this Motion, that I was not suggesting that women should vote on separate rolls, or that they would vote for women only. I did not even suggest that for women who come here will come to speak for the interests of women only. That is not the case. I said that women's views here would be valuable. The Specially Elected Members who are here do not necessarily represent the views themselves of the Specially Elected Members, they are supposed to view matters broadly, and to tackle the problems of this country nationally.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Mr. Osoyo who made some quite useful remarks and I think he was fairly balanced in his views, made an error when he said that perhaps the motive behind moving this Motion was that the Mover was frightened of being opposed by a woman. It is

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

Mr. Speaker, I have seen many times in our Government that because our Ministers cannot express the views of the women in the United Nations Organization, they pick a woman from outside the Parliament, from anywhere, and send her to the United Nations Organization to represent the women of Kenya. Those men who say that they understand the grievances of women are not able to stand on those platforms and put the subject in the same way that a woman would. It is not that they do not understand, but that they cannot express things exactly as a woman would, because she is the one who feels it, not the men. The point is that a woman can put forward her grievances much better than a man can.

So, we should give a chance to these women to be represented here and if one of them came to this Parliament and started speaking about the grievances of women, every Member here will be impressed. Then we will know how strong the grievances of women are.

Mr. Speaker, we owe a lot to women. Knowing that we owe a lot to women, realising that they are very intelligent and that we tend to underrate their intelligence, we should give them a chance to come to this House so that they will give us a chance to know exactly what they want without us having to go round at night to find out what they want. We want to find these things out during the day, not only during the night, during the day and during the night as well.

We know that women are our mothers. They have managed to bring us up, they have managed to keep us alive. Is a woman not intelligent if she can keep a man like the hon. Ngala Mwendwa for nine months in her womb? Yet we say that women are not great! Mr. Speaker, women are great and they should be given a chance of being represented in this House. Women are our companions in childhood, in life, in grief, while we are happy. You will find that when a man is very happy he needs a woman beside him to complete his happiness. This is quite true. If we had some women in this House today you would find that some of us would not be sitting very far from them!

During the Emergency, Mr. Speaker, Sir, women helped us very much. They have strong and loyal hearts. In most cases, they carried the secrets of the freedom fighters and they never let the country down. In that case, they are entitled to a place in a Government for which they fought so strongly, a Government for which they were prepared to lay down their lives. They were humiliated in the same way as men were. Well, why then, Mr. Speaker, should we not have them sitting next to us in this Parliament? If they cannot come in through the main door, we can have legislation to enable them to come here and share in the fruits of their labour. Let them contribute to fruits of their own independence.

This Motion gives us a chance now to shed our cloaks of hypocrisy because we have been hypocrites. We have not told the women the truth. We have been telling them that they are the masters of the kitchen, but now this is the right time to tell them that they should not sit only in the kitchen, they should share the destiny of our country with us. We do not want them merely to sit in the kitchen.

The purpose of this Motion is to ask the Government to bring special legislation so that women can be brought to this Parliament and they can sit down with us, talk their minds, organize themselves here, not behind us. I understand that there is an organization called Maendeleo ya Wanawake. Reading the newspapers, now and again I find them saying, "The Parliament has no woman. If these men in the Parliament continue to have no woman in the Parliament, we will have nothing to do with them, because they are keeping us down all the time." So, Mr. Speaker, this is the right time when the women should be given chance to come here. If these women have started expressing their grievances in such manner, it is high time we gave them a chance to show us that they are capable. It is no use telling them to sit down and say, "You women cannot do anything in Parliament." I believe that women can do a lot. When you read in the papers of these women shouting at conferences, that they have been let down by men, I feel they are quite sincere about it. We must now show them that they are our partners, we should sit together, plan the welfare of the country together and then we will find that our Kenya is being given some contributions by the women.

So, I support this Motion wholeheartedly.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, —

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Mwendwa, are you the official Government responder?

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): No, Sir, I am speaking as an ordinary Member. I am not speaking here on behalf of Government. I only want to put my views with regard to this interesting Motion.

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

Mr. Speaker, the Mover of the Motion indicates that all that he needs is to have a provision in the Constitution so that there is room for one or two women to come into this Chamber. I do not oppose the fact that we should have women here in this Parliament, I agree entirely with that view, but, Mr. Speaker, what I really object to is to the putting of a provision in our Constitution so that we can have one or two women in our Parliament because, the moment we do that, we will be actually admitting that a woman is weaker than a man, both physically and mentally. The hon. Member for Kirinyaga, Mr. Gichoya, said yesterday that women are weaker than men. I do not know whether it is necessary to have a provision in the Constitution in order to allow a woman to come here.

Now, our Constitution as it stands, does not object, does not stop, a woman from coming to this House. This is testified by the public who are the voters, by the intelligence of the woman, by the ability of the woman who stands to contest any seat. Mr. Speaker, perhaps the Members do not know that during the last election I was opposed by a woman in Kitui, I never abused her in any public meetings. I used to call her to my own meetings, I used to give her all the assistance necessary and, in fact, when she lost her deposit, her husband said to me, "Mwendwa, I thank you very much because you never abused my wife. You always treated her very well; you told your youth wingers not to beat her or bully her." I think this is what is needed. We should give the women a chance to prove their ability. This cannot be done by a provision in the Constitution, that we should put a woman here because she is weak. If she is weak, if we admit she is weak, what is she coming to do in this House? We require able, strong people, people who when they are abused, listen to accusations happily. If a woman is abused here, she might start weeping in front of people. I am sure we do not want to see such things in this Chamber. We have known women politicians in other countries collapsing when things become stiff for them. They collapse! I would not like to be represented by a man who just collapsed because something went wrong. In fact—the Members do not remember—at the last election when we were electing the Members for the special seats, there was a woman contesting a seat. These very Members who are now bringing such Motions here, and also talking very sharply about women, did not give this woman any votes. In fact, she only obtained one vote. Only one! The people who are talking now, supporting the women, did not vote in favour of that woman then. Mr. Speaker, is not all this hypocrisy? I would have liked to see more hon. Members voting for that woman.

Mr. Speaker, there was a very interesting point raised by the hon. Member who spoke last. He said women are our companions, our partners. It is true that they are our partners. When I come to this House Mrs. Mwendwa is my partner, but where is she?

An hon. Member: She is at home.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Although she is at home, she is here with me in spirit. How can I come to this House if she has not clothed me properly? How can I come here if she has not given me food, if she does not see that I am able to talk? Can I be told by any Member here that when a woman accomplishes her duty, she is not actually in Parliament with the Members? What other duties do we require our women to do? Are we forgetting that when we are here, when we are talking, our women are at home looking after our homes, our children? If Members go home and find no food, believe me, Sir, next morning they will raise hell here. Something will definitely be going wrong then. Surely, Sir, when God created woman—and He knew the duties of a woman—He told Adam, "I am going to make woman your partner." That is what He said. You cannot have two partners sitting here while the children have no one to look after them at home.

I am sure Members will support me here. Although we say in this Chamber that we want women to come here, nobody wants his wife to come here. I for one would not like that; I would not like Mrs. Mwendwa to be here, because whenever I go to Kitui I must be assured—very much so—that the Members here are not sitting near her.

So, Mr. Speaker, my question is this: what women are we talking about? Are we talking about mature, unmarried women? I do not want my sister to be represented by a woman who has failed to get a husband! No, I do not want to be represented by a woman who has failed to get a husband. The first duty of a woman, any woman worthy of her name, is to get a husband. This is the first qualification of a woman. If she fails to get a husband, she has failed her first examination, and she is not worthy to represent anybody, Mr. Speaker.

Therefore, all that I ask the Members to do is to put the women together with the men in any election. Our Constitution allows that. Let the agreed to marry. You are brought up by your fathers and I am brought up by my father and we agree to live together. Nobody is buying the other one." But if we say that they are inferior, I think this abuses them terribly and I hope the hon. Member will have a partner to advise him what to do.

[Mr. Kibng'o]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, having said that, during the time when we were contesting for national seats, there were men but there was only one woman who came forward, there might have been two. Whereas I think there were about twenty men. Why is it that the women did not come forward? After everything had been done that was the time when the women went to demonstrate outside on the advice of some hon. Members in this House. This is really bad. People should not twist women around and tell them not to go and contest seats, but just wait until everything is finished and then go and demonstrate. How does this help?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not need to say much more. I hope that the hon. Mover and Second will see the necessity for equality in this country and the necessity for not having any discrimination and will not abuse our women by creating a special discrimination against them. In fact I have heard of some countries outside, West Germany for example, where you can go there and see that the women are free but you do not have a single woman in the West German Parliament. Why? We do not need special consideration in Kenya. Women are as equal as men and must be treated equally.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have to speak very shortly on this debate. I would like to inform the hon. Mover of this Motion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that this kind of Motion is very unfortunate here. What I would like to remind the House of is what happened during the time we were electing the Specially Elected Members. We had two candidates in this role, during the time that we were electing these national Members, and the hon. Mr. Malinda has said that there were no women. This is not true. We had women candidates and I remember, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that these women candidates had sponsors who signed their forms, but when it came to the actual voting in this House by the very hon. Members that are either moving this Motion; supporting it, we voted and each one of the women obtained only one vote, despite the fact that their forms had been filled up and signed by some hon. Members. The hon. Members will remember at that time there was a lot of interest in these women candidates. There was a lot of moving in and out from Parliament Buildings and I am sure that they were trying to tell these women that they would vote for them. But when it came to the actual voting where we would have at least a chance of a lady going through—

Mr. Mbogoh: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. The hon. Member has made a very serious allegation that Members of this House were going in and out to tell these women that they would vote for them. Can he substantiate that any Member did that?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, I do not think that is the type of allegation that requires substantiation. I think the hon. Assistant Minister was in fact drawing an inference by the fact that Members were going in and out and talking to them.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, the fact that we signed the nomination papers of these ladies and each of them received one vote, proves that we were not sincere in the way that we were talking to them, so if at that time the hon. Members had been sensible, and the hon. Mover of this Motion should have moved in the Parliamentary Group that nominated the candidates, that he wanted a woman. During that time there were those with the selfish idea that men should come through. Mr. Deputy Speaker, we should not come and shed crocodile tears at this time by complaining that we do not have women in this Chamber. Indeed, Mr. Deputy Speaker, with due respect, it would be my pleasure to have a lady in this Chamber; but because we were selfish when we were alone as an electoral college where we could have exercised a certain amount of sympathy towards the ladies, if we did not do this there is no reason why we should not have a special section in our Constitution to cater for the women's interests.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, with due respect to the ladies that might be in this House, most voters in this country are women and I for one know that 80 per cent of my voters were women—80 per cent—and I am sure that if they put up a capable candidate in any constituency they would challenge men. I am very sure of this. Maybe the hon. Mover fears this move, maybe he might be challenged by a woman who, if she was capable of convincing women voters, all the women's votes could go to women. What are they waiting for, Mr. Deputy Speaker? There is no Member here who came in with a majority vote of men except the Specially Elected Members. Any woman interested in coming to this House should rely on the votes of her sex.

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, there is another very interesting point that was raised by the hon. Member for Gichugu: He said that the twelve Members who were specially elected to this House should resign their seats or should be sacked from this House, I think—I forget the actual word he used—now, I do not know, and I am subject to correction, if the hon. Member for Gichugu actually sponsored any of the ladies that had contested these special seats and if he did I do not know if his is the one vote that voted for one of the candidates. In any case we cannot find out if he did vote, but if he did not sponsor—

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of information, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. According to what we heard during the time of the nominations for these Specially Elected Members, it was the party that decided on the candidates and sponsored at least some of the candidates. We were told by the Whip, and also the President of the Republic said, that these are the people who ought to be there. For your information, I did not sponsor a woman, but I am insisting that there should be a place under the sun today when we are free—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think you have made your point.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in fact that information is not information, because I know there was the Party Whip behind that and I know that after the Whip had whipped us in the party nominations, there were people who still signed the forms, so there is no question of the Whip having whipped us to nominate particular people. If we followed the Whips, honestly then people should not have signed the nomination forms for these candidates, so I do not think that the Member for Gichugu is right in saying that he followed the Party Whip.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is very unfortunate that this Motion has come up unless we have other interests in this Motion. I think the ladies have not given us this mandate and have not told us that they want special treatment. In fact, just as the hon. Member for Ndia has said, they will not accept special treatment.

They always say in their own organizations that they do not want to be treated in a special way. They can fight their way. If they have said this, and it is in several public places, I do not see how a Parliament like this one should regard women as the weaker sex when they regard themselves as being no weaker than the men. If they do that, then, obviously, Mr. Speaker, they would not expect us to be here to legislate specially for them.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to oppose the Motion.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am glad that some sense does prevail in this House now that the hon. Member has decided to bring this Motion after keeping quiet for a long time. I am sure the hon. Mover was thinking about this Motion for a long time. It is obvious that there will be difficulties in connexion with the representation of women in this House.

Sir, during the last election, in which there were some women who stood for election, but they were always opposed by men. In most cases, the men in these constituencies spent their energy fighting these particular women so that they could not come to Parliament.

Though we know that, at present, the majority of our voters are women, you find that the imperialism of man does not allow a woman to contest a seat properly. Every time a man looks at a woman, he thinks he can colonize her and do so effectively.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

The imperialism of man has kept the women out of this House so strongly that I think the Members who oppose the inclusion of women in this House are still trying to show their imperialistic nature again, after defeating the women during the last election.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was quite fortunate that the hon. Member for Gichugu, who stood to give his views when seconding this Motion, was frank. He showed that he did not know the difference between a pregnant woman, an old woman, a young woman. This shows that we need somebody to come here and enlighten us on this. We need to know more about women. Although we know women, we also know there are problems which are different. There are some of us here who would not be able to recognize these problems.

Sir, as some politicians have said, some countries are ripe for revolution, I wish to state here that the revolution of women in Kenya is ripe now, because if men continue to colonize them like that, it is high time they revolted against these imperialists and became their own masters. Then they would be able to come to Parliament. We would like to see what the kingdom of women will be. It will be the best. I am sure.

[Mr. Shikuku] could have palantypists to take a verbatim report so that we could be furnished with the full report of all that has been said. If we do not have a check on whatever happens in this committee, Mr. Speaker, the public funds—I do not want to say that they would be misused, but there is a possibility of overlooking some of the items which should have alerted the House to the fact that something was going wrong.

I support the Motion very much because I am of the opinion that I must know of every single cent belonging to this country which is being spent, and I should be given a full report rather than being given the excuse that we do not have palantypists to take verbatim reports. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I submit very strongly to the Government that the only solution to this would be that this committee should meet on days other than the days on which Parliament sits so that the palantypist could take a full report and report to us in this House so that we could know what is going on with the public funds.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to suggest.

I was wondering, Mr. Speaker, whether I am in order—since there is no amendment to be made—to end by suggesting that this committee should meet on days other than the days when Parliament sits?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You cannot move it as an amendment, I am afraid, because I have not had written notice of it. Mr. Shikuku, though it is on record in the debate.

I will call upon the Mover to reply.

Mr. ole. Tlps: Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the hon. Members who have taken part in the debate on the Public Accounts Committee and, in thanking them, I would like to thank those officers, those in the Controller and Auditor-General's Office, who have let nothing go really unchecked and who have done their job in such a way as to point out to the Public Accounts Committee whatever excesses have been incurred in the public funds of the Government of our country.

I would also like to thank the hon. Members and assure them that we, on our part, feel that we are duty bound to report anything which smells as far as public accounts are concerned, and we shall not hesitate to do so.

With regard to the question raised by the hon. Member, my friend, the hon. Member for mendous pressure of work on our palantypists Butere, as I said earlier there has been a treand this has more or less made our job very difficult. In addition to that, there was a delay in appointing the members of the Public Accounts Committee. I can assure him that we already have the machinery in hand and, of course, I hope that we shall meet some time in April when this House will be in recess and we shall not be in any hurry, we shall properly and carefully scrutinize all the accounts as required by the Constitution of this country.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

MOTION

WOMEN IN PARLIAMENT

THAT this House urges the Government to introduce legislation to amend the Kenya Constitution so as to provide for the special representation of the womenfolk of Kenya by women in the Parliament of Kenya.

(Mr. Mati on 8th March 1966)

(Resumption of consideration of Motion interrupted on 8th March 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): In this debate at the time of interruption Mr. Gichoya was seconding the Motion and he had still six minutes to go. We had spent altogether eighteen minutes on the debate which left one hour and twelve minutes, so that I shall be calling on the Mover to reply about one hour hence, if we do not conclude the debate earlier.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand again to more or less to repeat what I said that it is high time that we encouraged the womenfolk of this country in taking part in nation building here in the House. As I said yesterday, we have the twelve Specially Elected Members, but the reasons behind electing these twelve Members were that since we had two parties in this country and it was feared that one party might be having a very narrow majority, and in order to carry on the work of the Government that party with its own Whip could muster the twelve seats and then it would have a proper majority in the House. Now we have the one party system and there is no need to have these twelve Specially Elected Members. As a matter of fact, if we cannot add additional seats for women, I would suggest that these twelve Specially Elected Members be removed from this House—

QUORUM

Mr. Bonaya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is there a quorum in the House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odoro-Jowi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I do remember once you suggested that an hon. Member should not inquire about a quorum and that he should not rise on a point of order to ask the question as to whether there was a quorum. I was wondering if we could not ignore that now and continue the debate.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, once it has been raised it is mandatory to go on waiting until we have a quorum, or adjourn if we have not.

We have a quorum now. You may continue Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in supporting this Motion, which I am seconding, my intentions are simple, that we must give women a place within this House, so long as we understand their problems. It is not that women could not compete fairly with men if we were under similar conditions. If we take the educational problem in this country. You hardly find any African graduates, whereas you can get as many African boys in the University. If one asks himself why this is so, the problem is that our customs have made our women remain behind, these are tribal customs and we should try to find an answer to bring a kind of balance between the two groups, that is the female and male groups in this country. Although, Mr. Speaker, it will not be possible to have 50 per cent women in this House, and 50 per cent men in this House, it is sensible enough, Mr. Speaker, if we can say that in every district let there be one woman representative in this House. In that case, Mr. Speaker, women, who have already contributed a lot, and at public meetings we find more women than men, and in voting we have more women than men. Because of their educational background—

An hon. Member: Why do you not marry?

Mr. Gichoya: I shall marry your sister tomorrow.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): But you promised to marry someone else's sister yesterday, Mr. Gichoya!

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, under the African tribal customs I can marry two or three.

I feel that we should, if possible, do away with the twelve Specially Elected Members we have, and replace them with women for the sake of the interests of the women. Or else we have additional special seats, one per district, and then we shall retain the already Specially Elected Members who shout more but contribute less in this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we want to be fair, and we say that we are promoting the backward group, then women must be promoted as the backward section in our community. Women are really backward. Politically they are backward, and they follow what men say, and we want them also to be among the people who determine the destiny of this country.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, in order to allow other people to speak I second the Motion.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am going to speak my mind on this Motion.

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair)

(The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair)

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in speaking my mind I would like to oppose this Motion. I oppose this Motion very, very strongly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the reason why I oppose this Motion is not because I do not like the company of women, I do, just like any other man, and if it is a question of being in the company of women, then I am there. But, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have heard both the Mover of the Motion and his secondor trying to tell us that it is necessary to have special legislation so that it can be made possible for women to become Members of this House. I wish to submit, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that there is no necessity for such legislation because already there are provisions in the Constitution. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is a pity if the Mover and the secondor of the Motion did not know that during the last elections we had women candidates who fought in the elections. If these women can do that, then there is no necessity for them to be specially entrenched in the Constitution, because even now they can become Members of this House. There is no provision anywhere which prevents them from becoming Members of this House. If, Sir, it is a question of organizing them, then, Sir, I submit that the women of this country have the most votes in the country and can bring in as many women as they like. In fact, Sir, if they so wish they could bring more women into this House than men, because they have the most votes.

Now, Sir, another argument was that the women have special problems which need to be brought up by women themselves. But, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, here again I submit that by virtue of the fact that the Mover of this Motion

Mr. Mungor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think what I should say to the hon. Member is that there will be no question of discrimination, whether one is black, whether one is white or one is red, all are taken as Kenya citizens.

Mr. Odoyo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here asks about Africanization and, as I understand it, the word "African" means a black man. Can the Minister, because this is not asking for a citizen but it is asking for Africanization, tell us when these Africans will be appointed?

Mr. Mungor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, to "Africanize" is the same as to "citizenize".

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! We will go on to Mr. Kioko's other question.

Question No. 415

AFRICANIZATION: CHAIRMAN, NATIONAL PARKS, CHIEF GAME WARDEN

Mr. Kiamba, on behalf of Mr. Kioko, asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism—

(a) whether he could tell the House when the post of Chairman of the Kenya National Parks Board of Trustees was going to be Africanized, and, also,

(b) the post of Chief Game Warden in the Kenya Game Department.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. This is a very interesting question. Sir, just now we have discussed Africanization and this is a question where, although the original questioner is not here, I hope the hon. Kiamba would like to know that the post of Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Kenya National Parks is being held by a Kenya African; and it is very surprising that the hon. questioner does not know that he is an African now.

In answer to the second part of the question, the post of the Chief Game Warden will be Africanized as soon as an African officer with adequate qualification and experience is available. The Government has repeatedly emphasized in this House and elsewhere that the process of Africanization will not be carried out at the expense of efficiency in our services. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as soon as a suitable African candidate is available, the necessary steps will be taken through the proper channels to offer the post.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have had this kind of question and answer so often that I think we can go on now.

Mr. Tumbi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can I get your ruling on this as to how the Ministers are privileged to sit on our benches when we are not allowed to sit on theirs? Why is the Minister for Agriculture sitting on the Back-bench?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! This matter, as hon. Members know, is governed by Standing Orders. What the Standing Order provides is that the Front Benches are exclusively reserved for Ministers. It says nothing about the back benches. If hon. Members wish to reserve the back benches exclusively for the Back-benchers, they will have to get another Standing Order through the House in due course.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of clarification. I am raising this question purely on a point of clarification. Mr. Speaker, Sir, how do we know whether an hon. Member has been authorized to ask a question on behalf of another hon. Member?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Because he says so. We take his word for it.

Now, Mr. Sagini, you have a Ministerial Statement?

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

NAIROBI CITY EDUCATION OFFICER

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagini): Yes, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you for allowing me to make a statement in connexion with a reply given by my hon. friend the Assistant Minister for Education to Question No. 382 and to the debate that ensued.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to clarify any misunderstanding that may have arisen regarding the relationship of my Ministry with the Ministry of Education with regard to the appointment of the City Education Officer. I wish to make it clear that, as Minister for Local Government, I have direct control only over the appointment of chief officers, namely the town clerks, clerks, treasurers and engineers to local authorities and in the case of medical officers of health and health inspectors, in conjunction with the Minister for Health. In addition to the direct control over the appointments of chief officers, I have, as Minister for Local Government, indirect control over the salary scales of all other local authority officers through my control over the estimates of local authorities.

The legislation regarding the appointment of education officers is contained in the Education (Entrustment of Functions to Local Authorities) Order, 1965 which states that the appointment of county education officers, assistant county education officers, municipal education officers, assistant municipal education officers and officers responsible for supervision of primary schools shall require the prior approval of the Minister for Education. It is, therefore, obvious that as far as approval to the appointment of a city education officer is concerned, it is the direct responsibility of the Minister for Education. The legislation regarding the appointment of education officers is to be amended and I hope that when this has been done, it will be quite clear that the appointments of education officers will be made subject to the approval of the Minister for Education with the agreement of the Minister for Local Government.

[The Minister for Local Government]

Comments were made by the hon. Assistant Minister for Education in his reply on the anomalies in the salary structure of local authority officers. Although I think that this comment was irrelevant to the question of the approval of the appointment of a city education officer, I shall clarify this matter of salary structures for the benefit of hon. Members.

Prior to independence, we had, as you all know, African district councils, county councils and municipal councils. The county councils and municipal councils were controlled by the Europeans and the salary structure of the European staff was pitched as high as possible to suit their own needs and wishes. We then got rid of colonialism and local authorities were reconstituted to do away with racial divisions in local government. As hon. Members will appreciate, we were left with anomalies in the salary structure of various local authorities. Subsequently we were faced with Majimbo, so it was not possible for Central Government to streamline the salary structure of local authorities. Majimbo was dissolved and Central Government assumed responsibility for local government so that action can now be taken to eradicate the discrepancies and anomalies in local government which were a hangover from colonialism.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry is, in fact, working on proposals for setting up a Local Government Service Commission with the idea of introducing a unified service for local government staff. In addition, as you will know, His Excellency the President has agreed to a commission of inquiry into local government to make recommendations to suit our present-day needs. This commission should commence its work next month.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to bear more from the Minister, while agreeing with him as far as the appointment of the Chief Education Officer is concerned, but, Sir, we want to know if it is not true that the Minister for Local Government approves the estimate for the City Council of Nairobi?

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagini): Mr. Speaker, Sir, of course.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to be corrected by the Minister, but if I heard him correctly he said that his Ministry has direct control over the salaries of officers in local authorities. I believe that this also includes salary scales. Do we then understand that the salary scale of this particular person was approved by the Ministry of Local Government?

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagini): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think you are confusing one thing. The salary of an individual officer or person is connected with the nature of his work. If he is a doctor, then he will be paid a doctor's salary. But, Sir, before a certain officer is allowed to work, he must be accepted and he was accepted by the Ministry of Education.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, I think he touched upon the question of being in charge of the appointment of clerks, town clerks, treasurers and so forth. Now, Sir, I was wondering whether he could tell the House if he approved of the salary earned by the Treasurer of the City of Nairobi, who, I understand, earn well over Sh. 15,833.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagini): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the thing here is, and the hon. Member will remember, that these officers are expatriates who are on temporary terms.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think we can go into any further detail at this stage. Hon. Members have to be patient and wait for the effect of this commission, I think.

I would remind hon. Members that the matter to be raised on the adjournment today is by Mr. Muliro on the matter noted on the Order Paper.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

FAMINE RELIEF IN TURKANA

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think, Mr. Ekitella, you were wishing to move the adjournment of the House under Standing Order 14, to raise the question of shortage of famine relief in Turkana?

Mr. Ekitella: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am of the opinion that that is quite a definite matter, and if it is a fact, it is definitely an urgent matter. So if Mr.

Question No. 399

SHOOTING OF WOMAN IN WAMBA BY G.S.U.

Mr. Rurumban asked the Minister for Home Affairs what action the Government had taken against a General Service Unit policeman who shot Ester Wairimu on the 24th December 1965 at Wamba in Samburu District.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The inquiry file into this incident has been forwarded to State Counsel, Nakuru, for perusal and advice.

As the inquiry is, technically, still under investigation, it is not considered appropriate to make any comment at this stage.

Mr. Rurumban: Arising from the Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that this incident took place a long time ago, does the Minister not agree with me that by continuing to keep this case as sub judice, he is deliberately and inevitably delaying the action that the Government could take against this man?

Mr. arap Moi: No, Sir.

Mr. Shikaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the big "no" from the Minister, could he tell the House the reasons or the difficulties which have made it impossible to have the results of this case, since this was done in 1965 and it is now March?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member ought to know that thousands of cases are pumped into the State Counsels all over the country and, therefore, this is one of the many cases that are still being investigated so that justice may be done.

Mr. Choge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that the Government is indirectly promoting the shooting down of the Samburu every now and then by promoting some police officers who ordered fire to be opened on some Samburu previously, and that this has encouraged the General Service Unit policemen to shoot down the Samburu?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! This question is only concerned with action against a particular policeman, not general policy.

Next question.

Question No. 400

MARALAL DETENTION CAMP

Mr. Rurumban asked the Minister for Home Affairs whether he was aware that Maralal Police Detention Camp was so small that detainees suffocated. If the answer was in the affirmative, what action would the Minister take to ameliorate the situation.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. No, Sir.

Mr. Odhaya: Could the Minister tell the House as far as his knowledge is concerned about what Wairimu was doing when the General Service Unit shot her?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! We are on another question now.

Mr. Rurumban: Mr. Speaker, if the Minister is aware that the place for custody in the camp there cannot hold more than thirty persons, what method is the Minister taking to alleviate the problem?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as there is no remand prison in Samburu District, convicted people have—of necessity—to be held at the police station pending transportation to prison. It is on occasions such as this that overcrowding occurs, but the police officers concerned are well aware of the problem and ensure that every advantage is taken of cash bail and bond facilities so that no more prisoners than need be are in the cells at any time.

Mr. Agur: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's original reply, that there was no crowding at the detention camp, would he tell this House what is the square footage per head of detainee in that particular police station which justifies him to say that there is no overcrowding?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, I think this is a rather irrelevant question, but I did say that when convicted persons go to a central police station prison, bail or bond securities are accepted so that there is no congestion at all in the prison cells.

Mr. Rurumban: Is the Minister not aware that some of the prisoners who are not convicted are transported to Thomson's Falls for detention and brought back again before the court just because there is not enough room in the camp to keep them in custody?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I completely refuse to accept that. There is nothing like this.

Mr. Agur: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order I consider that the Minister did not answer my question as to what is the space allowed per head.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is not a point of order, though.

Mr. Rurumban: Would the Minister then tell the House how many detainees can be accommodated in that camp in custody?

Mr. arap Moi: I would like to tell the hon. Member that when people are put in prison cells, the prison or police officers always see that nothing of the nature of suffocation occurs.

Mr. Tnuni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister tell us the number of people who can be detained in that particular prison without being suffocated?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member asks about suffocation, that the prison is so small that people suffocate. I said, No, Sir.

Mr. Rurumban: Would the Minister be so good as to tell the House the number of detainees that can be kept in custody?

Mr. arap Moi: It depends on the size of the Samburu people themselves.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell the House what is the size of the Samburu Prison and how many people are allowed in that prison, and tell us at least the amount of space allowed per person?

Mr. arap Moi: The hon. Member ought to read the question, Sir. The hon. Member asked about suffocation in this police detention camp and there has been no case of suffocation there.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I cannot agree that this last question is irrelevant, if that is what the Minister suggests. It is directly relevant to the question.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Kalli: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it not in order for the Minister to ask to be allowed time to go and check and then to give a proper reply to the House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! You cannot on a point of order suggest what a Minister should do in these matters, even though it may be a very good suggestion.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, arising from one of the replies from the Minister that the accommodation in that police detention camp is sufficient, could we be told by the Minister the measurements of that particular detention camp and the maximum number of people that have been allowed by the Government to be detained there, irrespective of their own sizes?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member is confused. This is not a detention camp, it is a police cell, and therefore, when people are—

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, am I not right when I say "Maralal Police Detention Camp" which is here on the Order Paper?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Not on a point of order. Just allow the Minister to reply, please. Carry on please, Mr. arap Moi.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I should like to speak further and say that when people are convicted, they are put into this police cell for only a few hours or a day, before being transported to the prison at Thomson's Falls. Therefore, there is no question of suffocation or congestion at all. The ventilation of this prison is good so that nobody should suffocate.

Mr. Ekeltella: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, according to the Minister's reply, I think that the Maralal and Baragot cells are not in order, and, Sir, is he in order to tell us that that cell is not congested?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. No.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 400: MARALAL DETENTION CAMP

Mr. Rurumban: In view of the most unsatisfactory reply from the hon. Minister, may I be allowed to raise this matter on the adjournment?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You will give me written notice, Mr. Rurumban?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now, is Mr. Kioko here yet? Is any hon. Member authorized to ask his question?

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 414

CHAIRMAN OF STATUTORY BOARDS

Mr. Kiamba, on behalf of Mr. Kioko, asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether he could tell the House when the following posts were going to be filled:

- (a) Chairman of the Central Agriculture Board.
- (b) Chairman of the Kenya Wheat Board.
- (c) Chairman of the Kenya Meat Commission.
- (d) Chairman of the Coffee Marketing Board.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The hon. Member must know that we have a working party which was appointed by His Excellency, the President, to look into the organization of all statutory boards. This last week, I replied to a question of the same nature and I said that this was not a good time to reply as to whether or not there would be Africanization.

Mr. Alexander: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if any of the chairmen of the statutory boards mentioned in the question are Kenya citizens, would it then be the intention of the Government to deliberately replace them with people who have a different colour of skin?

[Mr. Mohamed]

has not been undue pressure. We are looking into the whole aspect of the fishing industry at the Coast and, perhaps, for the next year, 1966/67, more funds may be available so that we will be able to give more loans to approved fishermen.

Mr. Somro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this question only deals with Shimoni and Malindi. What about places like Lamu and Kipini. Can the Assistant Minister tell us how many loans have been given to the people of Lamu, Kipini and Tana River?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): None of these places are relevant to the question.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, as far as the question is concerned, it deals with Shimoni and Malindi only. So far, however, the Assistant Minister has been wandering around and he has not told us how many fishermen in Shimoni— he says he has not got the figures. Is it in order for the Assistant Minister—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! That is not a point of order, Next question.

Question No. 394

KENYANS EMPLOYED BY THE UGANDA GOVERNMENT

Mr. Shikuku asked the Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House:

(a) How many Kenyans in the Uganda Police had applied for a transfer back to the Kenya Police Force and how many had been accepted.

(b) What was the Minister doing to help those Kenyans employed by the Government of Uganda who wanted to come back and serve in Kenya.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) 507 Kenya Africans in the Uganda Police Force have applied for transfer to the Kenya Police Force. 130 of these have been accepted and are now serving in our force.

(b) In the past three years, a selection board of senior Kenya Police officers visited Kampala on various occasions in order to interview Uganda policemen of Kenya origin who had applied for transfer to the Kenya Police. A considerable number of the applicants were accepted and are now serving in various ranks in the Kenya Police Force.

(c) In the event of the Uganda Government advising us that more officers wish to be considered for transfer, consideration will be given to a selection board visiting Kampala.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Minister's reply, where he says that, out of 507, only 130 have been accepted, can he tell the House where the rest are and whether he is interested in getting these Kenya citizens jobs? I say, this became there are so many Ugandans and Tanzanians occupying these posts?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member should be realistic. I said there are about 507 policemen in the Uganda Police Force who would like to be transferred to the Kenya Police Force. We have already taken 130 into our Kenya Police Force and, therefore, there are some still serving in the Uganda Police Force.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from that, is the Minister aware that the Kenya citizens who are in Uganda are being discriminated against and, therefore, they do not get promotion because they come from Kenya? If so, then why are we still giving Uganda policemen promotion in this country?

Mr. arap Moi: When people create their own problems, I do not feel it is a creation of the Kenya Government. We are trying our best to help those who hold posts in Uganda. The hon. Member ought to appreciate what the Government is trying to do.

We know these things are happening in Uganda and, therefore, we are trying to accommodate, as far as is possible, our men, since we know that our people are trying to be recruited into the Kenya Police Force. This position ought to be understood by every hon. Member.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister tell this House, the number of policemen who applied for transfer here and were refused?

Mr. arap Moi: I think the hon. Member—having gone through school certificate—should have understood me. I said there were 507 policemen who applied for transfer into our Kenya Police Force, and 130 were accepted.

Mr. Gatiguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the three East African Governments are working towards a federation, does the Minister agree with me that this question of Kenya policemen trying to come back to Kenya should not be encouraged?

Mr. arap Moi: I wish that the question of federation did prevail in East Africa. We have a number of Uganda citizens in Kenya, working in various institutions. I hope the Uganda Government will accept this fact.

We are always told that the people of Kenya are very generous indeed and I am sure the time will come when that generosity will be revealed.

Question No. 394 (c)

PROMOTIONS IN THE KENYA POLICE

Mr. Shikuku asked the Minister for Home Affairs whether promotion in the Kenya Police was confined to Kenya citizens.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The answer is, yes.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Minister's reply, yes, Mr. Speaker, which, in my opinion, means that people other than those who are not citizens of Kenya are getting promotion in the police force of Kenya, is he aware that the condition in Uganda and Tanzania is that unless you are a citizen of that territory, you do not get promotion? Therefore, is it not unfair for him to promote people who are not citizens of this country when our people are being discriminated against in other territories? Is that part of the generosity of Kenya?

Mr. arap Moi: As far as the Kenya Government is concerned, we are moving pretty fast in trying to Africanize posts where vacancies exist. Posts which are of a specialized nature, for which there are no qualified citizens available, such as pilots, signal engineers, wireless experts, where we need people to be trained, we do have training in hand for such posts. The hon. Member ought to know that during the last few weeks we have sent five students overseas to specialize in this field.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from that reply, does the Minister not understand that, when I talk of citizens of Uganda, I mean a person who is not a citizen of Kenya? Can he be specific and let me know whether policemen from Uganda and Tanzania are getting promotions in Kenya? If they are, is that part of the generosity he was talking about?

Mr. arap Moi: The answer here is that Kenya still feels that we should be, as one unit in East Africa; if that is translated to mean generosity, well, then, that is the wish of the people of East Africa.

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, arising from the original reply of the Minister, where he said, yes, is he saying that only citizens of Kenya were being promoted and not citizens of Uganda and Tanzania? The Minister seems to imply that citizens of Tanzania and Uganda can also be promoted. Is this not contradiction by the Minister?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is an apparent contradiction, but it is not a point of order on that account. This happens quite often in the course of supplementary questions, when the Government does appear to change its ground, either by having answered a question too broadly in the first place or for some other reason. It cannot be challenged as a point of order, though it can be pursued by way of supplementary questions.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, now that I can pursue this, would the Minister for Home Affairs tell us what policy he is pursuing in his Ministry, whether he is pursuing the policy as indicated in the answer, yes, or whether he is pursuing the policy in the final statement where he includes the possibility of promoting people who are not citizens of Kenya but citizens of Uganda and Tanzania?

Mr. arap Moi: In summary to the hon. Member's long question, Mr. Speaker, the answer is, yes.

The hon. Member asked whether the Minister pursues the policy in accordance with the previous answer which was, yes, or the other part, so my answer to his long question is, yes.

Mr. Kari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that still there is some confusion because the hon. Member's question had two parts to it. One was whether the hon. Minister pursues a policy of promoting Tanzanians and Ugandans or, two, whether he pursues a policy where he says, yes, as in the original answer?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did say, yes, originally and, therefore, that is the answer.

Mr. Rumban: Arising from the Minister's reply, does he not agree with me that by discriminating against the Ugandans and Tanzanians who are working in this country, weakens the relationship between the three territories?

Mr. arap Moi: The hon. Member for Butere brought this question of people from Uganda and Tanzania receiving promotion. If there are people who have received such promotion, the hon. Member should have given their names.

What the hon. Member was questioning was the people from overseas, expatriates.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, you have not quite ruled whether we should go to the next question, but I was trying to rise on a point of order. In view of the fact that the Minister has just said that the question I was referring to was in regard to non-Kenya citizens, I was referring to Kenya citizens. Is he right in misrepresenting my question?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. Your question is not limited to people from overseas, though he may have so interpreted it. In fact, it was a general question as regards citizens. However, I think you have received as much information as you will on this question.

Next question.

[The Assistant Minister for Education] council organized fee collection without headmasters and so, unwittingly, enabled headmasters to take part in an illegal strike. This was not a responsible act on the part of the K.N.U.T. Branch and investigations are continuing to determine whether disciplinary action will be taken against the offending teachers.

It is more expensive in money and time and also more risky to collect school fees without using headmasters, as collection of school fees, at this stage of Kenya's development, must form part of headmasters' responsibilities.

Mr. Rurumbi: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he tell the House whether the headmasters of this province have now changed their minds and agreed to collect the school fees?

Mr. Ole Kancheloh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said in my original reply that the county councils arranged a way in which they would collect the school fees, and the headmasters did not collect the school fees. In some other parts of Kenya, the headmasters have been collecting the school fees.

Question No. 366

SHORTAGE OF AGRICULTURAL STAFF: SOUTH NYANZA

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he was aware that land and agricultural development in many parts of South Nyanza was being retarded because of the shortage of staff there. Would he also tell the House how many South Nyanza people had been trained as land consolidation officers and general staff since land consolidation had begun in this district.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am aware that land and agricultural development may be retarded in some parts of South Nyanza because of what I have already told the House, in reply to a similar question, that my Ministry, much as we would like to do it, cannot register the whole district at the same time, due to lack of sufficient funds to employ more staff.

The Ministry has an establishment of thirty land consolidation officers' posts and none of them comes from South Nyanza. However, the only prospective candidate from the district with the necessary qualifications and experience was turned down during recent appointments because he was a pensioner. This was in compliance with the Public Service Regulations.

There is a total establishment of thirty-eight members of staff, seventeen of whom come from South Nyanza. All the group advisers, who are sixty-four in number plus labour totalling seven, are employed from the district.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what other training opportunities exist for the local people or school certificate chaps for that matter, coming from any place to get a training to become land consolidation officers?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the opportunities available to other districts are also available to the South Nyanza District.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what are these opportunities and where are these particular training centres? How many years does it take a student to qualify to become a land consolidation officer?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a job for which a special training cannot be established, because people are expected to train in their employment and this is continuing all the time. We cannot make any special favours for South Nyanza.

Mr. Kamurem: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, where he says that the people have to train themselves in the field, could he tell this House how many students in Nyanza have already been put in the field?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already read out the figures.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 366: SOUTH NYANZA AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the unsatisfactory replies given by the Assistant Minister, I would like to raise this matter as an adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You will give me written notice in the usual way, Mr. Ngala-Abok. Next question.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 413: FOREST RESERVES: KILIFI AND KWALE DISTRICTS

Mr. Ngala asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he would tell the House how much Natural Reserve Forest had been taken over by the Government in Kwale and Kilifi Districts; and would he explain how much capital expenditure, as well as current expenditure, Government was contemplating for these schemes during the 1965/66 financial year.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I do not understand what the hon. Member means by the term "Natural Reserve Forest". All forest areas which are managed by the Government are defined and known as central forests. Parts of central forests have been declared nature reserves, but this has not been done in the Kwale and Kilifi Districts. No expenditure has, therefore, been incurred.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is the Assistant Minister not aware that his Ministry has made a proposal of taking part of the Arabuko Forest between Malindi and Kilifi for tourists to visit it as a nature reserve in the forest? That part of the forest that is reserved is specifically for the tourists' observance of nature is what I mean in this question.

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is a proposal to establish a nature reserve in the Arabuko Forest. Careful investigation is now under way to determine the exact remaining timber resources in the area before deciding on the precise location of the boundary of the area to be set aside. I expect the nature reserve will be set up before the end of this year.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Assistant Minister has admitted that he knows that his Ministry is actually engaged in the Arabuko Forest, to take away a part of the forest, could the Assistant Minister give us an assurance that the local people, who also need the forest for other purposes, will have a part of it, mainly for their own use, instead of giving the whole forest over to tourist purposes?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already said this: that a careful investigation is under way and, once the investigation is completed, we will be able to determine what area is to be taken up.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, that in view of the investigations that are taking place, can the Assistant Minister tell us where the emphasis lies with regard to the expenditure during the initial period of investigation between the period given here in the question?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is the initial stage where the expenditure figures cannot be worked out. This is an investigation and, once the investigation is completed, that will be the time when we could determine what expenditure we are likely to incur.

Question No. 413 (a)

FISHERIES LOANS: MALINDI AND SHIMONI PEOPLE

Mr. Ngala asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he could tell the House the number of loans given to African fishermen in Shimoni and Malindi during the 1964-1965 period.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. During the 1964-1965 period, the following loans were issued to coastal fishermen: Tana River area—Sh. 1,000 to a group of fishermen on Lake Balixa of which Sh. 339/35 remains to be paid; Malindi area—Sh. 2,800 to three fishermen of which Sh. 2,233/80 is still outstanding.

During the last quarter of 1965, the following loans were approved but have not yet been issued: Malindi—Sh. 9,250 to nine fishermen; Tana River—Sh. 5,930 to seven fishermen; Lamu—Sh. 20,200 to thirteen fishermen.

A large number of applications have been received from Kwale (Shimoni, Vanga and Gazi) area. These are being processed by the loans committee.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister state specifically how many loans have been received by fishermen at Shimoni, and if applications have come from Shimoni, how many applications?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the past, loans have been given to thirty-nine fishermen who came from the Shimoni, Vanga and Gazi areas. I do not have the breakdown figures, particularly for Shimoni. These fishermen received a total of Sh. 33,160 by way of loans. Unfortunately, to date, Sh. 22,088/40 still remains unpaid.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, apparently fishermen do not repay their loans and I understand this is because the Ministry has allowed co-operative societies of fishermen to compete with individuals who are very rich in the area. What is the Ministry doing to give more marketing facilities to fishermen to enable them to repay their loans easily?

Mr. Mohamed: We are very much aware that, as far as fishermen are concerned, they are working in a very difficult trade as such, because we know that the risk to the equipment the use is greater. That is why, as far as these loans are concerned, we have been very lenient, and there

[Mr. Kamau]

THAT in view of the fact that many people in this country died during the war of independence from 1952-1960 and left behind many children without parents, this House urges the Government to take responsibility and educate these unfortunate children free of charge and assist the widows financially.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 502

Mr. Ekitella: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I asked my question three weeks ago. What is happening to my question, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Ekitella, your question should have come on the Order Paper or received a written reply within ten days. If that has not happened, it is something we shall have to look into outside the Chamber. We cannot deal with it now, I am afraid, but I will ask the Clerk to go into it as soon as possible.

Question No. 396

VISITS BY PRESIDENT AND MINISTERS TO MEMBERS' HOMES

Mr. Odoro-Sar asked the Minister of State, President's Office, whether he would assure the House that in future when His Excellency the President, the Vice-President and Ministers toured the constituencies of hon. Members, visiting their homes should be included in the official tour programme.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is impossible for me, Mr. Speaker, to assure the House that visits to hon. Members' homes would, automatically, be included in programmes for the President, the Vice-President or Ministers when they tour the constituencies of hon. Members.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I find it necessary to stress the fact that, whenever the President, the Vice-President or Ministers tour a constituency, they do so with the main purpose of acquainting themselves with the problems of the people, so that they are in a position to plan and associate themselves with the general development projects in the country. During these visits, the President, the Vice-President and his Ministers take the opportunity to meet and visit many people in the areas, including hon. Members of Parliament.

I am told that the President, the Vice-President and the Ministers would welcome invitations to the homes of hon. Members. Mr. Speaker, Sir, Ministers cannot invite themselves to the homes of the hon. Members.

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, I am informed that some hon. Members have no homes.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Minister stated that he has been informed that some Members have no homes, could he substantiate and tell the House who are the Members with no homes?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think to Mr. Odoro-Sar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that Members of Parliament homes are regarded by the constituents as being the headquarters of the constituency, and in view of the fact that when the President, Vice-President and Ministers visit constituencies, they sometimes have to rest just in the mission stations, is it not necessary for them to rest in the Member's homes?

An hon. Member: At whose expense?

Mr. Odoro-Sar: At the Member of Parliament's expense.

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, I have agreed with that suggestion that the Member of the constituency being visited by the President, the Vice-President and the Ministers should invite these gentlemen to their homes and, if necessary, make arrangements for an overnight stay. There is no problem there, apart from that of expense.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of that reply, would the Minister tell this House whether he has any information that, since the President said that the people should go back to the land, those Members who refuse to go back to the land and still live in Nairobi would not like to be visited by the President or any Minister who might expose them to the public?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, although that question is, I think, irrelevant, all that I could say is that we, as the representatives of the people, are supposed to be examples in our constituencies by having decent homes and shambas and working in our shambas.

Question No. 367

TRACTORS AND JAGGERY FACTORIES IN SOUTH NYANZA

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry if he could explain to the House when the Kenya Sugar Board intended to loan tractors for ploughing and harrowing to sugar farmers in South Nyanza as the Cotton Board had done to the cotton growers, since South Nyanza had now been earmarked for jaggery production alone. Secondly, could he tell the House when the jaggery factories would be closed and moved to South Nyanza as per the Minister's statement last year in the House.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The answer to the first part of the question is that there is no such body as the Sugar Board. Therefore, Sir, the question does not arise. The answer to the second part of the question is that the closing of the jaggery factory was challenged in court recently at Kisumu by jaggery manufacturers. An amendment to the law will be brought to Parliament on the first day of the next session, and this will then allow the Government to enforce, legally, the control of the jaggery manufacture.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that there is no such body as the Kenya Sugar Board, would the Assistant Minister tell us which organization, or which board, is going to make this loan available to the farmers?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question does not arise, because there is no such board. The loans are always channelled to the farmers through the Agricultural Finance Corporation or through the district agricultural committee in the form of agrarian loans.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you might be missing the point, Mr. Osogo, here. It is the question with regard to the loan of tractors, and the question as to whether there is any organization which deals with that.

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have said that there is the Agricultural Finance Corporation which lends farmers, of any kind, including sugar farmers, loans to develop sugar. Also, Sir, agrarian loans which are controlled by the district agricultural committee, are also made to farmers, in order that they can develop their shambas, be they sugar farmers or not.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): But the point is loan of machinery, tractors, and not the loan of money.

Mr. Osogo: Yes, Sir, if this loan is given to them, then these farmers can hire tractors for themselves, and work on their shambas.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I see.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister now be a bit more specific and say whether this loan is going to be made available in terms of tractors or whether arrangements are being made to give money and then in time buy the tractors for the whole thing as the cotton organization is doing, which is done by your Ministry?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Cotton Board organizes loans to the cotton growers. Since there is no board for the sugar growers, I have indicated most specifically that the sugar farmers in South Nyanza should apply for loans through the district agricultural committees and the Agricultural Finance Corporation and then with this money they can hire tractors.

Mr. Thumt: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister tell this House whether he would consider now establishing a sugar board in order that this board could make money available for a sugar grower?

Mr. Osogo: That, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is a very interesting question. The hon. Member, the other day, received a circular from the Vice-President's Office asking him to take his views to the Kibaki Commission which is looking into the setting up of statutory boards. If he suggests that to the commission, then I am sure my colleague, the hon. Member, Mr. Kibaki, will consider it.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, that he gives loans with which the people in the area concerned could buy tractors, would he not agree with me that in the past we have had so many defaulters, because they were given cash and consumed this cash or used it on other things? Would it not be his responsibility, therefore, to give them tractors that they cannot consume or marry a second wife?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that is the duty of the hon. Member who has asked this question to attend his district agricultural committee and suggest that instead of giving these farmers loans in the form of cash, they should hire tractors for them with the money we give them from here.

Question No. 395

COLLECTION OF SCHOOL FEES: CENTRAL NYANZA

Mr. Odoro-Sar asked the Minister for Education if he could tell the House what was the cause of the refusal by headmasters in Central Nyanza to collect school fees. Would he also tell the House which method was more expensive: collection of fees by headquarters or by the county councils.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Ole Konehellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. In November last year, the Governing Council of the Kenya National Union of Teachers, Central Nyanza Branch, decided that headmasters would not collect school fees for 1966 unless they were paid £54 allowance each for collecting fees. This could not be done, since headmasters are paid responsibility allowances for extra duties they perform, including the collection of school fees. Without referring to my Ministry, the county

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

(c) At the present time, sugar purchased from abroad is very much cheaper than locally produced sugar. The price of imported sugar fluctuates according to world supply and demand and every purchase from abroad differs in price. The average price of three recent imports, ex-warehouse Mombasa (excluding duty), was approximately £27 per long ton compared with the local producer price of £45 19s. ex-factory (excluding excise).

The savings effected by purchasing sugar from abroad, at prices lower than the equalized price, accrue to the Sugar Equalization Fund which, at the moment, is in deficit owing to the fact that, during 1963 and 1964, purchases of sugar from abroad should be made at fantastically high prices. During this period, it was decided not to increase the retail price of sugar to cover these losses, and the current purchases at low prices are rectifying the account. When the Sugar Equalization Fund reaches its former healthy state, and if the price of imported sugar continues at its present low level, it may be possible to reduce the retail price of sugar accordingly.

Wednesday, 9th March 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE CHAIR

SENATE AGREEMENT TO BILLS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members, I have a series of communications to make.

In the first place, we have received a message from the Senate that they have agreed to the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) (Amendment) Bill without amendment on Tuesday, 1st March 1966. We have also received a message from the Senate that they have agreed to the Central Bank of Kenya Bill without amendment on Tuesday, 8th March 1966.

BOWING AT THE BAR

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is a matter, hon. Members, of bowing at the Bar. Sometimes, when the House has been full for an important matter and the matter comes to an end, a large number of hon. Members leave at the same time; and yesterday, when this was happening, one Member pointed out that they were leaving in such a hurry as to be bowing to the Chair one behind the other in a rather disorderly way. I said I would bring this up today, and I would suggest to hon. Members that on these occasions, when many wish to leave at the same time, you should still have patience to allow each to bow actually at the Bar. There is room for three or four to do it at a time, but all should try not to bow one behind the other, as this rather takes away from the dignity of the House.

MINISTERS SPEAKING ON ADJOURNMENT

MOTIONS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is one further matter.

Yesterday, on a Motion for Adjournment under Standing Order 14, an Assistant Minister spoke independently in his capacity as a Constituency Member; and later, on an ordinary Motion for Adjournment, I refused to call upon another Assistant Minister who wished to do the same.

I should like now to clarify the position of Ministers and Assistant Ministers with regard to matters raised by way of Motion for Adjournment.

Hon. Members are aware that the only matters which can be raised by that procedure are matters of administration for which the Government is responsible. We recognize in this House the principle of collective responsibility in Government, and it is inconsistent with that principle that any member of the Government should speak on such matters, otherwise than in support of Government in his Ministerial capacity. Moreover, on all such occasions, time is strictly limited; and it is best used either by Members who are really free to criticize Government, or by Ministers who speak for Government. Otherwise, it is liable there will be confusion.

For these reasons, I do not think that I can properly allow Members of the Government to intervene in such discussions in any independent capacity.

Hon. Members will understand that this applies only to discussion of a matter of administration on Motions for Adjournment of the House. In debate of a substantive Motion, whether for the reading of a Bill or otherwise, I see no objection to a Minister or Assistant Minister speaking independently as a Constituency or Specially Elected Member, if Government allows him to do so.

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in relation to what you have just read out to us, because on various occasions we have been confused by the attitude of various Assistant Ministers and Ministers saying that they are speaking for the Government and when we inquire outside the Chamber we discover that they had not, in fact, been speaking with the permission of Government. Would it be in order, Sir, for any Minister of the Government to give the general ruling of the Government on this matter, so that we will be clear for the future?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, Mr. Ngala, I do not think it is really possible for Government to give any general ruling on these questions particularly as a matter of order. It is a question of the discipline within the ranks of Government; that Government must look to outside this Chamber. In those cases where a Minister purports to speak for Government, so far as we are concerned, we have to accept that he is speaking for Government. If the President or his colleagues feel that he is being disloyal to the Government in any way, it is something that that should regulate outside this Chamber. I think we have to leave it at that.

NOTICE OF MOTION

ASSISTANCE TO EMERGENCY WIDOWS AND ORPHANS

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

paid these within the last five years. The Co-operative Societies Act prescribes that no society shall pay a dividend or bonus or distribute any part of its accumulated funds before the balance sheet has been certified by the Commissioner and the amount of the dividend, bonus or distribution has been approved by the Commissioner. The distribution of a dividend or bonus is governed by by-laws of the co-operative societies concerned, which generally stipulate that the annual general meeting will decide on a dividend or bonus payable to members, subject to the approval of the Commissioner. In cases where members have not been paid dividends or bonus within the last five years, it is on the grounds that members decided to invest their net profit in capital development, otherwise they would have asked for loans for development instead. However, where the society's business operations within one financial year end with a net deficit, the question of paying a dividend or bonus to members does not arise. (b) Regarding stimulation of members' interests and consciousness of joining societies, each society's final accounts and balance sheet are presented to members at their annual general meetings, and read and explained to them. Delay in payments being made to members would certainly be pointed out at the meetings and followed up by the co-operative departmental staff in the field. Occasions do arise, however, where a society's cash position has been weakened by over-investing in fixed assets, and delay in paying members occurs, but not for a period of five years.

Interest in co-operative societies is continually being stimulated by the staff of the Department of Co-operative Development.

Question No. 371

LAKE VICTORIA FISHING INDUSTRY

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he would explain to the House how he intended to improve and assist the fishing industry on Lake Victoria as far as the following were concerned:—

- Fishing apparatus and technique.
- Training of fishermen in the fishing industry.
- Quantity and quality of fish.
- Fishing regulations.
- Canned fish production and the marketing of fish and fish products.

(f) Formation of fisheries co-operatives to handle the business at the fishing centres.

The Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Ayodo): Plans have been prepared for the development and modernization of the fishing industry to commence during the 1966/67 financial year.

(a) The fishing methods and apparatus such as line nets, night-time lampare net fishing, trawling and simple purse-seining are being experimented on by my officers and will be introduced to the fishermen if found useful.

(b) In regard to the training of fishermen in the fishing industry, we have been contemplating establishing a training institute where fishermen from all over the country can receive formal training in practical fishing methods, fish processing, and simple accounting. We are, however, hampered by the fact that our finances and technical staff are extremely limited. It may, therefore, take some time before this plan is realized.

(c) The introduction of new fishing methods and apparatus and the training of fishermen will result in an increase in the quantity of fish caught and in an improvement of the quality of fish in the market due to better processing.

(d) Fishing regulations are in force in nearly all the centres of fishing activities. These cover matters such as licensing, statistics, processing, marketing, use of fishing equipment and other similar matters. I am constantly reviewing these regulations whenever necessary, so as to ensure that the legal control of fishing industry is kept up to date and is effective.

(e) Canning foodstuff such as fish, is generally for preservative reasons only. It can, therefore, be necessary and economic only when there is a surplus of fish. As the Lake Victoria fishery develops and production increases, the possibility of a cannery will be contemplated. Regarding general marketing of fish and fish products, my Ministry intends to improve the fish landings in order to facilitate bulk marketing, and to improve general fish transportation between the landing points and the markets.

(f) I consider the formation of fisheries co-operatives of very great importance. At present, however, our fishing activity is widely dispersed along the shore lines and one of our first efforts is to consolidate the fishing industry and fishermen into major fishing ports. It will then be easy to form and run fishing co-operatives. Let me emphasize that the consolidation of fishing effort and the eventual establishment of viable co-operatives is given high priority in the fisheries development plan.

Question No. 445

HOUSING SHORTAGE, ELDORET

Mr. Tuwei asked the Minister for Housing and Social Services whether, in view of the fact that there was a shortage of housing in Eldoret, the Ministry was prepared to do anything to remedy this situation in 1966.

The Acting Minister for Housing and Social Services (Mr. Otieno): Responsibility to provide housing rests with the local authority and it is to be hoped that the hon. questioner will press his local authority to take early action.

The Government assists by providing funds to the Central Housing Board for it, in turn, to loan to those local authorities which have the initiative to plan housing and to apply to the board for loans. There are three types of schemes normally adopted by local authorities and these are: the tenant purchase scheme, the rental scheme and the site and service scheme.

In fact, the Eldoret Municipal Council has had a very fair share of available funds. During 1964, it was loaned £3,400 for building four tenant purchase houses of three rooms each and a further £9,000 to build forty-eight single-room houses for rental. During 1965 it applied for £30,000, but owing to lack of funds the board had to defer the request till early 1966. During the current year, the council has received two substantial loans. One of £15,000 for a site and service scheme which will provide 125 service sites at the Shauri Yako Estate, and a further loan of £30,000 (that deferred from last year) to erect housing for rental. Details of the rental scheme have still to be worked out between the council and the board, but it is hoped that there will be sufficient funds to build approximately forty houses.

It is expected, and hoped, that the council will commence both these schemes during the current calendar year.

Question No. 456

SUGAR INDUSTRY IN KENYA

Mr. Onwiri asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development:—

- To tell the House how many African sugar agents had been appointed to work in each district.
- What were the other commodities imported by the Kenya National Trading Corporation.

(c) What were the costing differences between locally manufactured and imported sugars and how were they reconciled.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa):

(a) The following list shows the number of African sugar agents in each district throughout Kenya:—

WESTERN
Unguja	Nil	No sugar agents at all. Sugar supplies come from sub-agents in neighbouring districts.
Dunda	8
Kakamega	8
NYANZA
Central	9
South	4
Kisii	3
RIFT VALLEY
Turkana	No sugar agents.
Samburu	No sugar agents.
West Pokot	Nil.
Trans Nzoia	1
Eiogyo Marakwet	No sugar agents.
Baringo	5
Lalipaa	2
Uasin Gishu	3
Nandi	No sugar agents.
Kericho	2
Nakuru	7
Naivasha	2
Olkejuado	1
CENTRAL
Nyandarua	2
Nyeri	10
Kilinyaga	5
Muranga	16
Kimbu	18
Thika	5
EASTERN
Maralal	2
Isiolo	Nil.
Merti	3
Embu	3
Kisumu	3
Misaki	4
N.E. PROVINCE
Mandera	1
Wajir	1
Gardula	1
COAST
Tana River	Nil.
Lamu	1
Kilifi	4
Tala	2
Kwale	1
MOMBASA
Mombasa	9
Nairobi
Nairobi	22

There are 274 sugar agents in the country. Of these, 172 are African concerns which now distribute 71 per cent of Kenya's total consumption of sugar.

(b) The Kenya National Trading Corporation is importing rice, second-hand clothes, khangas and khaki drill. These commodities are being distributed through African wholesale companies.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): I am in a difficulty here in that neither the district agricultural committees nor the Agricultural Finance Corporation considers loan applications in terms of applicants' constituencies. Loan applications in any particular district are considered purely and strictly on agricultural merit without observation of any electoral boundaries.

But if the hon. Member so desires I could give him a locational breakdown of all the loans given in the South Nyanza District.

Question No. 252

ALLOCATION OF SETTLERS' PLOTS: WESTERN PROVINCE

Mr. Godin asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would give the breakdown of the 15, 27, 37 and 100-acre plots allocated to settlers for each constituency in the Western Province to date.

The Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Angane): The breakdown of 15, 27, 37 and 100-acre plots allocated to settlers for each constituency in the Western Province up to date is as follows:—

Elgon East
15 acres	1,233
27 acres	280
37 acres	215
100 acres	12
Lurambi
15 acres	1,831
27 acres	2
37 acres	6
100 acres	3

It is not clear from the question whether the hon. Member for Hamud wants me to give a breakdown of the numbers. I have mentioned showing how many people from each constituency in the Western Province have been allocated with plots. My Ministry, Mr. Speaker, does not keep a record by districts or constituencies of people who are settled. I would, therefore, not be in a position to know how many from each constituency in the province have been allocated with plots.

Question No. 269

LOANS TO KURIA PEOPLE

Mr. Makori Lumbo asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development if he would tell the House how many people from Kuria had been given loans; and how many applications had been turned down since 1964 to date.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Since the establishment of the Traders' Loan Scheme, four Kuria have received loans from the South Nyanza Joint Board. The total amount involved was Sh. 9,000 and, although two of these traders repaid their loans in full, the other two traders are loan defaulters.

Since 1964, no applications from Kuria have been rejected. Eight applications have been received and these will be considered at the next meeting of the new South Nyanza Trade Development Joint Board.

Question No. 357

K.P.E. IN NYANZA

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House:—

(a) How many pupils of Standards VII and VIII respectively had sat for the Kenya Preliminary Examination in Nyanza and would he give the district breakdown also.

(b) How many of each class had passed and how many had been admitted to secondary schools.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): In order to complete conversion from eight-year primary education to seven, Nyanza and Western Provinces presented for the 1965 K.P.E. children from both Standard VII and Standard VIII classes. For this reason, candidates in these provinces were unusually high though quite typical of what normally happens in any area where changes of this kind have been made.

The figures were as follows:—

	Standard VII	Standard VIII
Kisumu	867	7,871
Kisumu Town	1,466	8,641
Kisumu County	2,723	4,210
Great County	2,630	4,978
South Nyanza	14,904	21,494
TOTAL	24,950	47,194

Passes were as follows:—

	Standard VII	% Pass	Standard VIII	% Pass
Kisumu Town	328	38	507	50.7
Kisumu County	1,229	36	3,990	45.8
Great County	2,723	34	4,210	48.8
South Nyanza	7,577	28.8	2,587	37
TOTAL	11,997	34.7	17,794	50.5

[The Minister for Education]

It will be observed that, on the whole, Standard VIII children achieved a high percentage pass. This is what one expects since these children will have had eight years of education and not seven as is the case with the former. However, there is a provision for Standard VII children to repeat another year in order to improve their performance, in particular, if they fail to gain admission into secondary schools and are "reasonable" material for secondary school education.

Selection for secondary schools is virtually complete, but it would be misleading to give selection figures at this stage, since it often happens that some children are unable to take up places offered to them with the result that others have to be invited, which takes time.

Question No. 369

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES IN SOUTH NYANZA

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development:

(a) Would he tell the House the number of leaders and members of co-operative societies in South Nyanza and the breakdown of such societies who had been trained through the aid of his Ministry in co-operative management; and how many were now back in their jobs and how many were still in training.

(b) Would the Minister also tell the House how many societies there were in Central Division (Homa Bay) and how many were working efficiently. How often did the co-operative officers inspect accounts and check on the societies' activities during the year.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Out of sixty-seven registered co-operative societies in South Nyanza District, fifty secretaries of these co-operative societies have attended local courses varying from three days to three weeks, organized by the district co-operative officer. Furthermore, fifteen leaders and members of co-operative societies have trained or are still training at the Kenya Institute of Administration, Maseno, or overseas in co-operative management through the aid of my Ministry. In addition, to the above, ten departmental officers from South Nyanza have also trained in co-operative management locally or overseas.

Except Kanyada Farmers Co-operative Society Limited, which has not been operating for some time due to insufficient turnover, the nine co-operative societies in the Central Division of South Nyanza are all working efficiently. However, around the middle of last year, two co-operatives, namely Ranen and Misadihi, were confronted with organizational problems which were caused by personal differences between their leaders. These problems have been sorted out and the societies are now working well. Furthermore, cash shortage was reported from Ranen Farmers Co-operative Society Limited, but the matter is now with the police for investigation.

The district co-operative officer and his staff inspect accounts of co-operative societies and advise members on the running of their societies as often as is necessary. However, at least once in a year the co-operative officer must produce final accounts and balance sheet of each society for approval and certification by the Commissioner. Except Kochia Farmers Co-operative Society, whose accounts for 1965 have been approved, the rest of the final accounts are now being audited and will be completed by the end of March.

Question No. 370

NON-PAYMENT OF DUES: CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development:

(a) Was the Minister aware that there were some co-operative societies which did not report any dues to their members and who had not even paid these dues to their members for the last five years.

(b) What did the Ministry do in a matter like this for the stimulation of members' interests and consciousness of joining such societies.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): (a) I do not quite understand what the hon. Member means by "dues to the members". If it means money due from produce sold by members through their co-operative societies, then I am not aware of any co-operative society which has not paid amounts due to its members for the last five years. It seems very unlikely that society members would have remained so patient, but if the hon. Member advises me of the society or societies concerned, the matter will most certainly be looked into.

If by dues the questioner means dividend or bonus payable to members from the net balance, then I know of a number of societies that have not

[Mr. Osefu-Nyalacki.]

Mr. Speaker, with this point, I oppose the Motion.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, this is becoming quite monotonous and I am beginning to feel that perhaps there is not even any point in continuing to try to reply to this point, to this type of question or Motion.

When we went to the Soviet Union, we quite clearly stated that we were going to review the position of a number of the projects which had been included in the 1964 Soviet/Kenya Agreement. One of these projects was the Kano Irrigation Scheme. Since we came back, we have given thorough consideration to the matter. We have been in consultation with the representatives of the Soviet Union, and they, in turn, have considered those difficulties that we put to them regarding the implementation of this particular project. If I may repeat, the difficulties were that the Soviet Union could only finance this scheme, both the feasibility survey and the pilot scheme, and the main scheme to follow thereafter, through the sale, in Kenya, of sufficient quantities of Soviet goods to generate the required local currency for the project. Some people have misled the public to believe that the Soviet Union was giving us this project as a gift. I want to make it quite clear that there was no aspect of this project which was to be a gift. Other people have tried to mislead the public to believe that the Soviet Union experts had already completed a feasibility study, and that what was now being awaited was the actual start of the project of irrigation itself. Again, that is entirely false; the Soviet experts have never carried out a feasibility study; all that they were going to do was to start on the feasibility study once the terms of reference had been agreed to between their experts and our experts. I know that there was reference to a report some time last year, but I want to make it quite clear this report was not even of the type of technical report that could have been accepted and, while in the Soviet Union, the Soviet experts actually admitted that this report was not what was meant to be a feasibility study. It must, therefore, be quite clearly understood that we have not, at any stage, stopped or obstructed the Soviet experts in trying to do their work on this scheme. The work had never actually started.

In the last two years, we have been trying to study the possibilities of receiving Soviet goods, and selling these goods. As I said to the House the other day, there is a difficulty that the sums of money involved are so vast that it would be impossible for the Kenya Government to forecast just how long it would take to sell enough Soviet goods to generate the required currency of something nearly £6 million. Additionally, we cannot guarantee that Soviet goods will sell easily on the Kenya market, in order to be able to say with any precision that the scheme would start on a particular date. We tried to have the Soviet Union give us some cash in advance, or enter into some arrangement that would enable the project to start even before we started the sale of goods. This was turned down by them. Consequently, we have considered that we have a responsibility to the people in the area to get a move on with this project. The House should remember that the people of Kano have not just been waiting for this project since 1964; in fact, they have been waiting for a much longer period. The first time that this was looked into was in 1952, during the time Sir Alexander Gibbs did a report for the Nile Basin Irrigation Scheme, which included the Kano Plains. This report of Sir Alexander Gibbs is now nearly twelve or thirteen years old. It cannot, therefore, be used as a basis for a new irrigation scheme, although it gives us very useful information, and it still gives us a very good basis for our studies. Consequently, our decision now is that we should go ahead and forget the 1964 agreement with the Soviet Union, and I want to make it quite clear today in the House, that there will be no irrigation scheme in this area done by the Soviet Union. So let us not waste any more time arguing about it or asking questions about it. This agreement is now, as far as we are concerned, off, and we have told the Soviet Union Government so to that effect. We are, therefore, free of the 1964 agreement, as far as this project is concerned, and the Soviet Union is also free of the 1964 agreement, as far as this project is concerned.

I want also to make it quite clear that we have not rejected this particular agreement, because the Soviet Union happens to be a communist country. It is because they offered terms which were impossible in our circumstances, that we rejected this project. If the British Government, the West German Government or the United States, were to offer us a similar project, on similar conditions, the answer from the Kenya Government would be the same. It would be a very definite "No", because we do not see how our economy could survive on the basis of credit commodity agreements, and especially where these are going to be loans to be repaid over a period of, say, twelve years, as the Soviet Union had proposed. There is nothing, therefore, in this propaganda that this has been rejected because the Soviet Union happens to be a communist or because those of us responsible for this project in the Government do not like the face of some leaders in Central Nyanza. This has nothing to do with it. What we are interested in is the interests and welfare of the people of the area, and we are determined, as a Government and under our mandate, to serve those people and to bring this project to fruition as soon as possible.

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development.]

Now questions have been asked regarding how soon is this?—I say as soon as possible. I would like to inform the House that the preliminary steps have already been taken and negotiations have already started with the groups and countries that are going to do this project. We are now waiting for a draft contract to be signed between us and the groups concerned, which we hope will be in our hands in the next few weeks and not months. When this contract is signed, we hope to be able to have experts, personnel, and equipment on the ground within the next few months. I reckon that we should be on the ground before the middle of this year. Certainly I will do everything that is possible to expedite or accelerate this process. A feasibility study will be necessary still and will be done. In addition, we have decided on a pilot scheme four times the size of the original, one which the Soviet Union would have done. They were going to do a pilot scheme of 500 acres; we have decided on a pilot scheme of 2,000 acres. In addition to this, instead of the original scheme of 34,000 to 35,000 acres in the Kano Plains, we have now decided to look into the same problems that exist all around the lake area including Busia District, and we are going to take in now, a scheme that will be in the region of over 104,000 acres. Therefore, we will be able to serve even more people than we would have done with the Soviet Union project. I would also like to say in conclusion that because we are now going in for a much larger scheme, we shall be able to do this project much cheaper than we would have been able to do if we had carried on with the Soviet Union project.

Lastly, because of the new negotiations, the period that we will require to repay the loan on the scheme will be much longer than the Soviet Union would have been able to give. They were going to give us twelve years; we are negotiating for a possible period of between thirty-five and fifty years with these new groups and countries. That, Sir, makes all the difference and that is what the Government is doing, and as far as I am concerned I am not going to say any more on this project in this House or elsewhere except on the date when we are able to start it.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That completes our half an hour. The House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 9th March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at fifteen minutes past seven o'clock.

WRITTEN REPLIES TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 212

CITIZENSHIP: QUALIFICATIONS AND APPLICATIONS

Mr. G. G. Kariki asked the Minister for Home Affairs:—

- How many Europeans and Asians had already qualified as Kenya citizens.
- How many applications had been unsuccessful and what had been the reasons.
- How many had deliberately refused to apply for citizenship.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. rap Moli): In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, the majority of Europeans and Asians living in Kenya qualified for Kenya citizenship. However, up to the middle of October 1965, only 595 Europeans and 6,450 Asians had been registered Kenya citizens.

(b) Most of the persons who applied for Kenya citizenship were registered, except a few who did not fulfil the residential qualifications, namely that a person must have been living in Kenya for at least five years.

(c) It is not yet known whether there are any persons who deliberately refused to apply for Kenya citizenship.

I would like to add that between October and 11th December 1965, a large number of applications for Kenya citizenship were received and are still being processed.

Question No. 268

AGRICULTURAL FINANCE CORPORATION—LOANS

Mr. Mairor-Imbo asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry if he would give the House the breakdown of the number of people from Kuria Constituency who had been given loans, both small and large, by the Agricultural Finance Corporation. How many applications had been rejected as from 1963 to date.

[Mr. Oseho-Nyalick]

Motion on adjournment—I know that there is political manoeuvre about this Motion and I am not going to accept it. I am

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! No, Mr. Nyalick, if you are suggesting improper motive you are out of order.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, to prove my case—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, it is completely out of order to suggest an improper motive. There is no question of substantiating, it is out of order.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, then I will have to withdraw, but I say without any hesitation that the Member for Ukwala or rather the Member for Ugenya has no say in the first place about this irrigation scheme. I have been in this House—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order!

Mr. Otero-Sar: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I would like to seek your guidance on this. Am I not in the right to speak for the Central Nyanza people when there is need? The hon. Member is trying to say that I have no right to speak for the Central Nyanza people.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, yes, so far as the proceedings of this House go, you certainly have that right; but the hon. Member is still entitled to criticize the extent to which you do speak for people in another area.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: I am not denying the Member the right to speak his mind, but he has never come to my constituency, or Mr. Bala's constituency, and assessed public opinion on this irrigation question. How does he know that the people there doubt the action taken recently by the Government? We agree with Government's decision.

Mr. Otero-Sar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of information, last Saturday, leaders from his constituency were in Kisumu and passed a resolution that they want an irrigation scheme now, now, now.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said that our people want an irrigation scheme now and, as a result of this, the German Ambassador found the area on Monday. This was as a result of that decision. So why should we bring a Motion in this House for the personal gain of somebody who is trying to see that the Kano people are connected with Russian goods? We are not going to allow it. If the Russians are going to bring their things into this country, that is another matter, but I do not want to see this scheme being connected with goods from the Russians. We want the Government to have a free hand to deal with anyone—be it the devil or anyone—who can come to our aid. Today, we are in a miserable position. We cannot pay our school fees, while the Member for Ugenya is enjoying life. He thinks that we are happy when they sit at a corner and manoeuvre these things so as to bring it about in this House. Mr. Speaker—

Mr. Obok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Is the hon. Member speaking not out of order when he suggests or misleads the House that the hon. gentleman who moved the Motion is enjoying life? What is he trying to tell the House? Is he telling the House—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What is your point of order exactly?

Mr. Obok: My point of order is, is the hon. gentleman speaking now not misleading the House when he says that the hon. Member for Ugenya is enjoying something. What is he enjoying?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I cannot see what you are complaining of as a matter of order?

Mr. Otero-Sar: Since the Member for West Witani says that I am enjoying something when the Kano people are suffering, is he in order to say this? Because it is the Kenya Government that has refused to allow the Russian Government to go on with the irrigation scheme?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I cannot quite understand what all this is about. I think you had better go on, Mr. Nyalick.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Why I said the Member was enjoying something was because we still have 360 members without homes in Kano because of the failure of this irrigation project.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Nyalick, what do you say the Member is "enjoying"? Apparently there is offence taken.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said that by bringing such a Motion repeatedly is to sabotage the action that the Government is now taking and that will of course bring my people back to misery.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, Mr. Nyalick. You are getting a little bit out of hand you know. I told you about not imputing improper motives and I have asked you what you mean by "enjoying". Offence has been taken. You had better explain or withdraw.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, by that I meant that I, myself, as a Member representing the area, I have to meet people every weekend. Those who are desperate and have nothing to do, whereas he does not go and meet these people, well, then I am telling the people that the Government today will soon be starting the irrigation survey on the ground and you will see what you have been waiting for. Why then should he come and ask that Russian goods should be sold and until such time as the requisite money is obtained then shall we start the irrigation? That is what I mean.

[Mr. Oseho-Nyalick]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is very difficult to understand, but you had better carry on.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I should condemn this Motion being brought to this House because I know the motive behind it, but I am not—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! This is the third time. You will sit down if you go on with imputing improper motives. You have been out of order three times now.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought I was to speak the truth, but if the truth is denied, then—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Now, Mr. Nyalick you must get this quite clear. One of the reasons why it is out of order to impute improper motives is that you never know the truth of a man's motives. There is a saying in the law that the mind of man is untriable. So, not knowing people's motives, we do not allege bad motives in this House. You object to what they do, but not to what they think.

POINT OF ORDER
IMPUTING IMPROPER MOTIVES

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I have been trying to seek your ruling on the subject of improper motives, but I thought Mr. Nyalick had not quite said what he was trying to say, except to mention the word "motive". I am not trying to challenge your ruling. I am trying to get clarification. Now, is it in order for a Member when speaking to say that he either knows or feels there is a political motive associated with what another Member has put into the House, and if he can bring forward a supporting statement of what he considers is the motive, is that an improper motive by itself?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It depends entirely on what is being alleged. If there is an allegation of a perfectly reasonable motive it is not out of order; a motive which anybody might have without being thought the worse of. But the moment there is a suggestion of insincerity, for instance, you are alleging improper motives, and I will not have it. We were well on to that line of suggestion with what Mr. Nyalick said.

(Resumption of debate)

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will have to abide with your ruling, but I think the terms of the Motion, as it stands, is wrong. It is not even a month since the Government announcement was heard; that the long-awaited Kano Irrigation Scheme would be put into action immediately within the month of March, or so. That was read throughout the country and our people are there waiting, but, at the weekend when this question was tabled, and the last time I went, I found our people were furious about our Member for Nyando who brought this Motion to the House. He had not, since then, met with them, and then they found out that they were not endorsing the Government announcement—

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, could this gentleman substantiate the allegation that when he went home he found that the people were very furious against the Member for Nyando?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think you can substantiate that sort of thing. It is a matter of opinion.

Mr. Oseho-Nyalick: If the Member is interested, I am going to call a meeting and invite that Member to see for himself. I am not here to joke; I am a man supporting something. I did not come here for personal gain; I came here to represent my people; and what we are interested in is seeing that the irrigation scheme is carried out and I would not see anybody interfering with the Kano Irrigation Scheme. People can say what they like about "isms", but they should not ever think of trying to put us into Kano realities. We interpret what are "isms" into Kano realities. We are suffering and we would like the Government to take my word, as a representative of the people, that we want irrigation immediately and that the announcement would take another six, six months or a year, then we will come back again and complain to the Government that we are not going to wait any longer. But to tell us that we should try to find out why the Government has failed to bring in Russian goods to the country so that the Kano Irrigation Scheme should be tackled, that is not our business. Our business is to see that who ever comes—be he a devil or anybody—we are prepared to accept, and a memorandum to this end was given to the President, the Minister for Economic Development, the Vice-President and everybody who has ever visited that area.

[The Minister for Home Affairs]

than in an emotional way. It is not only that this particular person, we may find even Africans within county councils who are higher paid than myself. But then, Mr. Speaker, as I said, we must look to these things to meet what we have in the country. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, as I said, it is wrong to attack one person when there are others around the Mayor.

Mr. Malinda: Thank you very much Mr. Speaker. I want to make one quick point that after all is said and done this House should agree with me that this man, who is earning Sh. 11,000 now, should be declared a persona non grata and should be sent away from this country immediately.

Mr. Speaker, the other point I want to make, is this. When a Minister is doing his duty, we take it that he is carrying out the wishes of this House, the supremacy of this House is vested in a Minister when he deals with something like this. To have a Mayor, or another person, having influence over a Minister, Mr. Speaker, is violating the supremacy of this House, and it must stop. With that, I wish to support the Members who have said that there a commission of inquiry should be set up immediately to look into the activities of the city council.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is quite contrary to ordinary practice, but I understood from the Minister for Local Government that he might like to make a statement on this. The normal time would be tomorrow after question time; but it might be more satisfactory to the House if he likes to make it today. Do you wish to, Mr. Sagial? Order! Order! It rests with you, Mr. Sagial, if you would like to leave it until tomorrow after Question Time.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sagial): I will leave it until tomorrow, Mr. Speaker.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT.*U.S.S.R. AID FOR KANO IRRIGATION SCHEME

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is time now for the interruption of business; I will now call on a Minister to move that the House do now adjourn. There is a matter to be raised by Mr. Odera-Sar in place of Mr. Bala.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Oueko) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Odera-Sar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to speak briefly on this Motion for the Adjournment. The reason why the hon. Mr. Bala, Member for Nyando, wanted to raise this on an adjournment was that when the Minister was replying to the question, he never told the House why, when they were in Moscow, when they went there.

Mr. J. M. Karuki: My point of order, is this, Mr. Speaker, when many Members are moving I have noticed in this House that some of them are bowing behind others who are moving, is that in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No; you are quite right, Mr. Karuki; strictly, they should take it in turn to bow at the Bar. I hope that I will remember to mention that in a Communication from the Chair tomorrow.

Mr. Odera-Sar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the Kenya delegates, led by the hon. Minister, Mr. Mboya, were in Moscow, they agreed there that Russian experts and Kenya experts would meet here in Nairobi to discuss how Russian goods could be sold in this country. Before those people came here, they saw fit to abandon what they agreed on. This was not said here when he was replying. Then he did not tell us, when he was speaking here, that when the Kenya Government consulted the other countries with a view to one of them taking up the work which was supposed to be done by the Russian people, how long it would take these other people to complete the work. It has been a long time since we started to talk of an irrigation scheme for Kano, with the Russian experts. Kenya delegates went to Moscow to talk about this, and all this has taken up a lot of time. He never told us that any country, Western Germany or any other country which was mentioned here, when they come here to work on the Kano Plain on the project they are talking about, how long this would take, because we think, Mr. Speaker, that it is not very clear to us, when the Minister was speaking, if Western Germany takes over the work, this would be done very quickly, and people are still waiting for an answer to this. At present, Mr. Speaker, in Central Nyanza, after this was announced by the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, people are now worried about this, because they do not know whether this is just an empty promise, because to say that this Russian aid is withdrawn and other countries are going to take over the work, seems very uncertain. Recently in Central Nyanza, last week-end, leaders from all locations in Central Nyanza met in Kisumu and they demanded that if the Kenya Government had withdrawn the arrangements with the Soviet Union, they wanted the scheme to be started at once by any other country, even if the Kenya Government is not in favour of the Russian Government assisting here because they are communists.

[Mr. Odera-Sar]

They want this to be done and to start immediately, because people in Kano and in the areas concerned, have been suffering for a very long time and they have been waiting to see the irrigation scheme started. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Minister stands to reply on this, I would like to know from the Minister whether he can tell the House whether the country that he has been talking about will start this scheme soon and whether this is cheaper than what the Russian Government offered. This is something that is very important, Mr. Speaker, we need it, because the Central Nyanza people now have the feeling that this Government does not favour them, because when something occurs on the side of economic development, they feel that the Government is not willing to help the people to establish an economic plan in Central Nyanza, which means that this irrigation scheme was the only scheme that could benefit the people to get their areas developed economically. This is very serious and our people are very worried about it and, of course, they blame the Minister for Agriculture and the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, because they are the people who are now responsible for defeating the scheme that was started there and this must be blamed on them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to speak too much and I would like Mr. Okelo-Odongo to second this Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. who?

Mr. Odera-Sar: Mr. Okelo-Odongo.

Mr. Muti: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for a Member to name another Member as seconder of the Motion?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, it is our practice to ask a Member who moves a Motion as to who seconds, if he has not already informed the Speaker. These adjournment matters are a little different, because it is not actually a Motion by the Member; there is already a Motion for adjournment before the House, and the Member speaking to it, but even so I think it is probably most satisfactory if he lets us know if there is any particular Member who wanted to share with him before we hear Government's reply, if Government wish to wait that long. It was just that I did not quite catch who it was he wished to speak. On an adjournment matter Ministers cannot speak other than the Government Minister replying.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is in the Motion moved by the Minister that the House do now adjourn and the actual Member who was speaking is he, the actual seconder at all? Is this not a free-for-all?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not follow your point, Mr. Seroney. Yes, I think I have dealt with your point. Strictly you are quite right. There is no seconder of what Mr. Odera-Sar has said. All the same, it is always interesting to know who he would like to speak with him. Unfortunately he has chosen an Assistant Minister, which he cannot do.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could I speak as the Member for Kisumu Rural?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, not on these matters where there is a straight demand on Government for action.

Mr. Osei-Nyarko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to oppose the Motion as it is. Mr. Speaker, Sir, my reasons for opposing the Motion are that I am the man concerned for the area and I wonder whether the Member who moved the Motion had the mandate of his people in my constituency. It is the very Member and myself who have been in this House bringing to the notice of the Government that we are tired of waiting for the Russians. Any nation at all that would come to our aid to carry out this irrigation scheme, is welcome. A resolution to that end was given to the Minister and several Ministers who have visited Central Nyanza saying that we people in Kano are no longer going to wait for the Russians, because it is two years since we were told that the Russians were coming to do the irrigation and, as a result of that, the Government have acted according to the wishes of the people through their representatives in this House, that whoever is ready, be they devil or whoever they might be, we are prepared to accept them, provided that the conditions offered are favourable. As a result of this, Mr. Speaker, I see no point why after an announcement from the Government, that within three months or so, an irrigation feasibility survey will be carried out on ground not on paper. It is not even a month since we can come back to say that the Kano people are advising their Member, Mr. Osei-Nyarko, I or Mr. Okutu Bala, to come and complain. I challenge the Member who has brought this

[The Speaker:] I would remind you, however, that we have half an hour's adjournment debate to come after this. Also, you have to consider HANSARD.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that we have some other matter on the Order Paper, I would like to move that this particular business be exempt to the extent of fifteen minutes.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanumbwa) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): So we continue until 6.45 p.m. before interruption of business.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

NAIROBI CITY EDUCATION OFFICER

(Resumption of debate)

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, I would like to point out one very important point, and that is that it is not only Mr. Callander in the city council service who is an expatriate and who is receiving an excessive salary in relation to the work he is doing. In fact, Sir, if I may say so—that is our opinion—the city council has a tendency to be extravagant either in creating posts or offering terms of service far in excess of the market value of the officers appointed. If we were to oppose an education officer in the city council, he is an African, it would be very awkward, because it would appear that that particular officer would be earning a very low salary as compared with expatriates already in various departments of the city council. Therefore, Sir, I think it is the opinion of this House that an inquiry should be conducted into the affairs of the city council. Well, this is left for the House to decide.

Regarding this particular appointment, as I said earlier, we did state our objection, but regardless of the opinion we gave, Mr. Speaker, there was a lot of pressure. Delegations were sent to the Ministry of Education from the city council and a lot of correspondence went on. Therefore, there could be no alternative other than to accept that this particular officer be appointed temporarily pending the post being advertised for a suitable local candidate to occupy this particular post. I am informed that, at this particular moment, the city council is very actively considering the question of Africanizing this particular officer's post.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this House is completely puzzled tonight. First of all, we must apologize to the Minister for Local Government, because this afternoon, when the Assistant Minister gave his reply, he did indicate, by implication, that pressure was put on the Minister for Local Government.

Hon. Members: No! No! No!

Mr. Agar: Personally, I thought so. I have seen also that when some speakers—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think, Mr. Agar, you must admit that you were quite wrong in view of what has been quoted by Mr. Mutiso.

Mr. Agar: I held that view personally and that is why I feel I must apologize to the Minister.

Now, Sir, this House is puzzled when the Assistant Minister comes here and admits to this House that the Minister for Education, due to pressure, gave in to the Mayor of Nairobi. This is the second time we have been told such a story, that pressure has been exerted by the Mayor and a Minister has given in. Constitutionally, the Minister is above the Mayor and the President is above all. So, this House wants to know this: is it right for the House to allow a Minister to continue being a Minister, holding a portfolio, when he gives in to pressure from local authorities? Not only that, but how much do we know of the times when he gives in to pressure from other quarters as well? He may be giving in to pressure from commercial firms, other local bodies, personal interests. That kind of person is not fit to lead a Ministry, if he gives in to pressure to a thing he knows is against a principle. A person is recruited from overseas to head an educational establishment which requires educational qualifications from a recognized university. Here we get a person, who is not even a graduate, coming here to take up a post where he earns a salary bigger than that of a Minister.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, even today, we see minor posts in this country, when advertised by private firms, Government, Public Service Commission, saying, "Minimum requirement a graduate from a recognized university." Many Africans who have so much experience, probably those who hold diplomas from Makerere College—in the old days when there were no degrees given at this place—are denied these posts, because they hold no degrees from recognized universities. However, here is a man who comes from London to this country,

[Mr. Agar:]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, why we want an inquiry into this matter is that there must be some other reasons why this man was brought here without a degree from a university.

I must admit that I also left teaching because I was frustrated; yet I am a graduate. I hold a degree and I also hold some qualifications in teaching. Yet, I was told Indian universities are not recognized in Kenya. For this reason, I was told I could not hold a post and be recognized as a graduate.

Now, Sir, an independent Government of Africans admits that a European from London, without a degree, can come here to head an educational establishment at the Nairobi City Council! This is monstrous! So, this House takes exception; this House condemns; this House informs the President to look into the Ministry of Education. The President must see to it that if this commission of inquiry is to be instituted, we must have people to say that the Minister should stand aside; he would have to be suspended from his duties, so that this inquiry could proceed to inquire into the circumstances which have led a man, without a degree from a recognized university, to come here and head an educational establishment when there are so many Africans who have educational qualifications, recognized university degrees.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are aware of the influences of people from foreign countries, controlling our Ministers here.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! There is too much noise and too much irrelevance.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Oneko): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, that is a very serious allegation and I think we should have it substantiated.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I think, Mr. Achieng-Oneko, this is the sort of thing we stop quickly and carry on with something else.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the point is this: We have indicated in this House today that in order to correct this matter, and also to give a lesson and precedence to other Ministers not to give in too easily to local bodies or any other inferior interests, the Minister should stand aside from the Ministry and then an inquiry should be made as to the circumstances that led to the extravagant and excessive—as admitted by the Assistant Minister—expenditure on a man who has no proper qualifications; in fact, he is a man who has qualifications inferior to certain Africans who might have been denied this post. When this matter is complete, then the Minister can be reinstated. Otherwise, we know now that this country is going to lose confidence in the Government, because such activities are being condoned over and over again.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I tie to make only two points in this debate.

The first one, Mr. Speaker, is that there is an urgent need to overhaul the local government machinery of this country in the way it has been working, not only in the city council, or the municipal councils; but also the county councils. They are still very much British, and we must bring them on to a level with the people they are supposed to serve.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, could we know if the hon. Member is speaking as a Minister of the Government or as a Member?

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am giving my opinion as the Member for Embu South. It is difficult, Mr. Speaker, to speak otherwise. First and foremost as the Member for Embu South, but still nobody can deny that I am an Assistant Minister.

Secondly, Mr. Speaker, my point is this. Since the Assistant Minister for Education has said that there is a need to look into the salary structure of the city council, I would like to propose, Mr. Speaker, that, right now, there is a need to look into the salary structure of all the Ministries and departments in this country, including this House.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I am sorry, Mr. Nyagah, you are going too far off the point. You will have to do that another time.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, that being the case, I have made my first point and the second one I will bring another time when you want.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, I will deal with my point within one or two minutes. First of all, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is wrong, in principle, to attack one particular person. The city council, Mr. Speaker, Sir, of Nairobi, is not run by one man. It is run by men. So, Mr. Speaker, if we are really to criticize the City Council of Nairobi, we should criticize the City Council of Nairobi as such and not just one man. I am not going to speak, Sir, because time is too short. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, all of us would like to see that salaries are paid according to the job. We should look into this matter, in a sober manner rather

[Mr. Ngala-Abok]

Yet there are so many people who are Bachelors of Art, or Masters of Art, educationists and so on who could replace that education officer in the city council. I think, Sir, that the Mayor is going to hate this Motion and is not going to allow himself again to become a subject for debate from time to time in this House. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he has almost been debated twice in one month. This should be our last warning to the gentleman who has failed to respect a Ministerial ruling.

That, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is all I wanted to say. I beg to support.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, again this House is faced with an alarming situation which is going on in the city council here. I think, Sir, that the whole administration there is stinking, because we are tired of seeing that what is happening there, in a very small area, is bigger than what is happening in the whole country. For instance, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when you take a look at the education responsibilities of the city council, you will see that they do not have anything much. They only have a few secondary schools and primary schools. The whole country, which runs the universities and colleges, does not pay its professors or lecturers Sh. 11,000, not even at the University College here. So, Sir, why should a man who has no qualification, but who was just picked out from the London streets and brought here, earn all this money? I do not know. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Mayor left Nairobi by night, recruited people and the next thing we knew was that he was bringing a plane-load of expatriates back to Nairobi.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I remember once in the Taila Leo, it was written across the top, in fact, Sir, it hit the headlines, it said, "Mayor nakwenda lile Wazungu, or something like that. You see, Sir, these people were just collected and brought here without people first checking to see if we had enough qualified young or old men who have been waiting for an opportunity to take over these big positions. Now, Sir, the hon. Mr. Ngala-Abok has just given us an example of an old man who has just resigned. Sir, when are these people going to take up these positions? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the mayors are allowed to go and bring back a plane-load of expatriates, pay them all the money we have what is going to happen? The Minister himself does not even earn what these expatriates are earning. I think therefore, Sir, that the Minister must contain the Mayor. If he is too big for him, he must give way. He must tell us here that the Mayor is too big for him: pocket-wise, because, Sir, as all the county council chairmen, the Mayor and everybody else is supposed to fit the pocket of a Minister, in fact, the final order should come from the Minister who is answerable to this House, and all the mayors are answerable to him. But, Sir, there is one particular person who has refused to fit himself pocket-wise with the Minister. He has gone too far. He has squandered the money of the country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have blocked the Bill here, the Graduated Personal Tax Bill. Why? Because we see this, and how the Minister fails to see this extravagance, we do not know. The Minister is either fit for the job or he is not. We want the Minister in his reply to tell us all these things, because we are tired of having to complain about the Mayor of Nairobi. He is just an alderman and, therefore, just because he is an alderman he expects to be called Lord Mayor, but, Sir, this does not make him a Cabinet Minister or anything like that. He is on the same par as the Mayor of Nakuru, Kisumu or Mombasa. He comes under the Minister, and he has no right—and therefore this right must be withdrawn—as a mayor to just take off in a plane and bring home people who have no qualification and then leave the Minister no power with which to reply. These are the things which go towards the creating of such a situation where the whole country will be looked at through the Mayor. Now, Sir, his hands are dirty with all this dealing with expatriates. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the Government wants to be the Government and the Minister wants to still be the Minister, then to keep the respect of this House, he must be a tough Minister. This question of allowing other people to override him, we cannot allow it because if he is too shy to handle the Mayor, he will lose his own position. We are now requesting the President to take action, because there are enough reasons on which to take action, and to remove the rat which is causing the smell in the city council.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when that plane brought over those forty-eight expatriates, we supposed that they were all earning over Sh. 11,000 and perhaps this is the lowest salary of the lot. Therefore, Sir, we demand to know what is happening in the city council.

This Motion should not only stop here, but it should go on and inquire fully into this, because we demand a full inquiry and the Minister must therefore curtail the Mayor from today.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I would like to point out that this Motion expires at half past six. If the Government wants to reply

An hon. Member: It does, Sir.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Oh, sorry, I beg your pardon, Mr. Mutiso: I thought it was the Ministry of Local Government.

Mr. Agar: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this morning the answer that was given by the Minister for Education and which brought about the dissatisfaction of this House was that the Mayor had exerted pressure on the Minister for Local Government and therefore the Minister for Local Government gave way. Would this House not be puzzled if the Minister for Education were going to answer the question, yet they put the responsibility on the Minister for Local Government alleging that he gave way in the Mayor's presence?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I am afraid that it is not for me to answer that. Perhaps the Government would like to explain, but it is up to the Government to decide which particular spokesman they would like to choose to speak on behalf of the Government. I see that the Minister for Local Government is going to speak on a point of information.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Sigin): On a point of information, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the question of the education officer in question was handled by the Minister for Education, Mr. Koinange. It was purely and simply an educational matter. My Ministry does not have professional teachers to determine who is to become the education officer for the City of Nairobi. So, Sir, naturally, in matters of this nature, the right Minister, although the Minister for Local Government handles—for example, doctors, I do not have doctors in my Ministry. So, Sir, if one wants a doctor for Nairobi, Mr. Otiende has to decide who is the good doctor, but I do not connect it with the Minister for Education.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]. So, Sir, this was purely an educational matter.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): On a point of clarification, Mr. Speaker, I think there has been a lot of confusion over this question, because when I replied to this question earlier this afternoon, I did not say that pressure was exerted on the Ministry of Local Government. I did say—and this can be found in HANSARD—that pressure was exerted on the Ministry of Education. I do not understand why this has been confused.

Mr. Speaker, having said that, I would like to move straight away and deal with the Motion. The point here at issue is, whether this particular officer should earn the money that he is earning at the moment, and whether or not he is qualified to earn that money at the expense of the poor people of this country. Mr. Speaker, when hon. Members were speaking, very important points were raised, and some Members suggested that an inquiry should be conducted. It was also said that the Mayor should be arrested and dismissed, and such other things. What I would like to say here is this, in Legal Notice No. 74, the Education Act, does provide, under section 5, that the appointment of county education officers, assistant county education officers, municipal education officers, assistant municipal education officers, and officers responsible for the supervision of primary schools shall require the prior approval of the Minister. This, Mr. Speaker, does indicate that the Minister has to approve any officer who is appointed to this post.

Now, when I was replying to this question, Sir, I did say—and I quote—"That even before the Minister's decision was conveyed to the city council, the Mayor himself offered Mr. Callender a contract in Britain when the Mayor was recruiting other staff there." Even if the Minister for Education did actually approve this, when this approval was given the officer was already here in the country. I think—

Mr. Malinda: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is not much time, you know, Mr. Malinda.

Mr. Malinda: Yes, that is actually why I have stood on a point of order. In view of the importance of this matter, and also in view of the fact that a few more Members would like to give their views on this question, is there any way by which this Motion could be exempted from the provision of Standing Orders to continue for another fifteen minutes?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If a Minister moves, then we can consider exempting any business from the provisions of Standing Order 11. It is only then, otherwise, in my own discretion, I can allow an extra five minutes or so.

MOTION

EXEMPTION FROM STANDING ORDERS: HOURS OF BUSINESS

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that this particular matter be exempted from the provisions of Standing Order 11.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Nyamweya, if you just move exemption from Standing Orders we do not know when we should stop. You will have to tell us until when we should continue.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I feel that, since he was employed through the pressure of the Mayor, I call upon the Government to arrest the Mayor, dismiss him. Dismiss him first and then arrest him and then an inquiry should be held to find out why it was that he wanted that particular European from England to come and earn this money.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am of the opinion we should take into account the question of what we call the recent Rolls-Royce, in which, again, the Mayor was involved.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I feel that there are more cases and that the Government must institute a commission of inquiry to find out these things. I am sure that there are more Europeans and expatriates in this country in the city council who are earning these enormous salaries when our people are suffering. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, even the unemployed people are asked to pay tax just to go and feed these expatriates with no qualifications. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I resent very strongly the exploitation of the poor to meet the large salaries of already rich people. As a matter of fact, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this man earns more than a Minister. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a big disgrace; someone earning more than a Minister without any proper qualifications! Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have one Minister, the Minister of State, who is a learned friend, a lawyer, but he does not earn the amount which this particular expatriate earns. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, may I suggest, because I have to give way to let some other Members speak, but, Sir, may I suggest that first of all that we sack the Mayor, and then arrest him; secondly, an inquiry must be instituted to find out whether there are more such anomalies—and I am sure that there are more—more of these expatriates who are earning large salaries at the expense of the poor people.

The other issue, Sir, which I would like to raise is the fact that the President must be congratulated, and I am sure that he is going to listen to the views of the poor people, because he is a very good President. The other day, when we raised this question of the Rolls-Royce, he came down on it. Therefore, Sir, I hope that, in fact, I know that the President will not hesitate to deal with the people who are exploiting the poor. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I appeal to the President of the Republic of Kenya that the amount of Sh. 11,000 being given to a person with less qualification than many of the people who are running the country who have degrees, is a violation of the policy of Africanization and therefore, Sir, this particular nzungu must go.

With these few words, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move Mr. Kase in my second motion. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not intend to add much more to what the hon. Mr. Shikuku has already said. I think that there is only one principle here involved, that the Government is committed to Africanization and, if it is so committed, then it should follow that policy. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we know this, and I think the Minister for Education should be ashamed and he should resign. He is among those who should resign. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he cannot give way to the Mayor of Nairobi. Now, Sir, if he is going to give way to the Mayor of Nairobi, it means that he is less important than the Mayor himself. The Minister either sits down to formulate a policy for this country or he leaves the Mayor to make that policy.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have been further informed that the Mayor offered this particular man a job when he was in London. He brought him back to Kenya; the Minister refused, but they gave way. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we know that when you go and seduce a woman, you persuade her for a long time and in the end she agrees.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Olointip): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I rise to seek your guidance; is that really Parliamentary language which the hon. Member should use in this House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! I do not think he was being unparliamentary. I think he was merely giving an idiom that persistence eventually succeeds, in another way.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is the second time in this country that a Minister has given way to a lower person, a very small person. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think that unless the Ministers of this country can take proper decisions, they are going to face the music one day. If they cannot run this country properly, then I think they should resign. Some of them are too old and they would rather leave some small hot-headed young men to deal with these matters.

Several hon. Members: Like Kase.

Mr. Kase: Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to second this Motion by saying that whether the Mayor is dismissed or not, a commission of inquiry should be set up to find out what was cooked up in London. We understand that there are forty-eight expatriates in the Nairobi City Council, and so we would like this commission of inquiry to find out what happened in London. Was he given money, bribed or what happened? The second thing we would like the commission to find out is why these expatriates in the Nairobi City Council are there in any case. Thirdly, Sir, we would like it to find out whether the Mayor is more important than the Minister for Education, because it seems that he thinks he is.

[Mr. Kase]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not have anything more to add and therefore I would just like to second the adjournment.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—Mr. Anyieni, you must not be stupid.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Mr. Anyieni, I do not know what you said, but Mr. Ngala-Abok you should address the Chair. I think it is very vital: It is one of those essential rules to keep your temper.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Thank you Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I apologize. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to speak on this Motion, but I also wish to state categorically that I am not going to give way to any stupid Member who calls me a puppet.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Mr. Ngala-Abok, I did say that we do not want to be personal. I did not hear Mr. Anyieni say this. If he had, then I would have asked him to withdraw. But you are not allowed to call any hon. Member stupid. Please withdraw it.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Ngala-Abok: All right, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I withdraw.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): He has withdrawn. Mr. Anyieni, it is all right, it is over. Sit down.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Mōl): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, could the House be told that the Members who quietly call other Members puppets should also withdraw their remarks?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think the Speaker has already said earlier that if hon. Members say something which the Speaker has not heard, one could let it pass. But on the other hand, if any hon. Member says it quite regularly, then I think the Speaker will take action on that remark. But Mr. Ngala-Abok did not raise on a point of order that something had been said against him, instead he went on to call an hon. Member stupid. Until I have heard something, I am afraid that I am not in a position to call any Member to order. This matter is now over. We have a very important debate before us and we do not want to be side-tracked with points of order.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the last time we discussed the question of the Rolls-Royce, I did not have a chance to speak, but I think, Sir, we are concerned about the activities of the Mayor. A lot of rumours have gone around about a private army and many other things of which I am not capable of substantiation—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Mr. Ngala-Abok, I am afraid we must not let this debate side-track into a personal attack on the Mayor. What we are, in fact, discussing is just the one point, namely, the particular gentleman who has been engaged at what Mr. Shikuku considers a very high salary. So we do not want to go on to a general allegation against the Mayor.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I understand the position, but Sir, when a person continues to do such things that are not likely to be approved of by the country, it is important that we realise this once and for all that this House is not going to be interested in discussing this position from time to time, either because he has failed to respect a Minister who is supposed to give the final approval, or because he has failed to see the economic position of the country. In fact, Sir, it speaks for itself just to hear that a person is earning Sh. 11,000 whereas a Minister of the same country from where he comes, is not earning the same amount. Also, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, what has happened is that many people have withdrawn from the services of this country, for example, educationists to mention one: Mr. Dalgallo, who was the education advisor in the United States has resigned, not because he wants to leave the service, because he has served this Government for twenty-five years, but because he is frustrated. The first thing, the reason why he was replaced in the United States, is not clearly understood. But, Sir, he has been the principal of many schools. He has vast experience. He is a very old man, although not old in terms of age but he is very experienced and can carry out the educational work of this city very well indeed. There are many other Africans who have also resigned from the Ministry of Education. In fact, if we ask for a list of those who have resigned, not necessarily because of old age, but because of frustration, we will find that many have resigned. The same case applies to other Ministries. But Sir, we are not going to accept a situation where a person is recruited straight away as an education officer.

[Mr. Muti]

Mr. Speaker, even a little patience sometimes is not a bad idea, as the hon. the Attorney-General suggests.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the women of this country have proved their worth in other fields, in the fields that I have mentioned, if we accept them for instance now in employment and we maintain that there should be no discrimination, then if we accept them socially and if we accept the view that the place of women today is not necessarily always in the kitchen, then I think we must accept that there is no reason why women should not be admitted to this House and the only way that I can see that we can get them in here is to have special seats created for them.

Mr. Speaker, where women have been given opportunities in the political world they have proved their worth. We know of women Prime Ministers, known of women in the United Nations, we have known of women elsewhere, and as a matter of fact in history, Mr. Speaker, Sir, women have done quite great things. I do not think anybody would accuse me of being imperialistic but I would like to refer to some imperial power, which perhaps indicates what I am talking about. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was a woman, a British Queen, who created the British Empire, it is also a woman, a British Queen, who is disbanding this Empire. It took women to do these great things.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this shows you that if we have women in this place they will definitely be an asset. I have no doubt about that and if we maintain the view that women must struggle for themselves, and must come here through the normal elections, I think that we will be delaying the inevitable. Mr. Speaker, Sir, one of these days, may I warn hon. Members, the women of this country are going to rise and say, "We are not going to be dominated for ever." Mr. Speaker, Sir, I should not be surprised if the attitude of this House today is not to encourage women in here, if that is the attitude of this House I should not be surprised if there is not a woman's strike in this country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is one thing to ask "Question" or to ask "How", but quite a lot of us here, I think, should not be asking that question; they should know better. I have already said that half the population of this country are women. Mr. Speaker, Sir, those who do not know should take it from me, that the women are capable of doing so. So without wasting much time, may I say again that I am not suggesting something that is impossible, it is quite simple, all we have to do is a little amendment to the Constitution, following the principle which is already accepted, again by so doing we shall still be promoting another principle which is accepted in this country, the principle of fighting imbalances. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when people talk about imbalances in trade, imbalances in employment, in the service and so on, the whole principle of Africanization is based on the principle of fighting imbalances. Why, Mr. Speaker, Sir, does it become impossible for hon. Members in this House now, to appreciate that there is gross imbalance where women are concerned. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe that all seriously minded Members of this House and I believe most of them are will agree with me that this is an issue which we must handle and settle before too long. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is one thing to treat it as a minor issue for the simple reason that today there will not be a single woman who will stand here to speak on behalf of womankind.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not surprised to hear some hon. gentlemen shout. The hon. Attorney-General is going to reply on behalf of Government so he can include that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am going to give a chance to the Attorney-General to say what he has to say, and therefore, I really hope that male prejudice will not take the upper hand and I hope that we will look at this issue squarely and settle it to the satisfaction of all the people of this country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with those few remarks I beg to move.

Mr. Gichoya: I second the Motion. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my family there is my mother and my sisters, so Members who are saying that "Gichoya" cannot speak with authority have failed to understand the social set-up of our society.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the position is that we are actually trying to do one thing and that is to do justice to our own society. We say that we are all equal, indeed we are equal, but in actual fact, Mr. Speaker, women are the weaker sex, that is how it is known in English. Women are physically weak and cannot square face men. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I say—I have enough experience to prove that women are physically weak—that so long as they are weak cannot we find a solution to bring them nearer to the high authority of this country. This is the problem that is facing Parliament today, Mr. Speaker. We have today Specially Elected Members, why were they specially elected? The intention was to make the Government function by having them, because since we had two parties of one party had a marginal success it would have had twelve [Mr. Gichoya] Members added to it so that it could run the country properly. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are a one-party system, Kadu is over, Kambu is on, consequently these twelve Specially Elected Members, who in most cases seem to be the people who are against this Motion, ought to realise that it was a privilege that we gave to them and we can deprive them of that privilege and give it to the deserving people. Women, Mr. Speaker, Sir, have contributed a lot, I do not want to repeat what the hon. Member said, that during the Emergency women did contribute a lot towards the liberation of this country. I might even say clearly that today in every party meeting you can count more women than men and this shows that they have an interest, but the snag is that they are shy to come forward and if they are too shy to come forward, why cannot the country allow them specially to come to this House and in future, in the course of time, they will be able to stand firmly and oppose a man and get through the country's Parliament.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these young people who say Gichoya is not experienced—

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for an hon. Member to call others young people.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would remind hon. Members that it is correct to refer to other Members as hon. Members, I do not know that it is offensive to refer to them as young; some people are glad still to be regarded as young. In any case it is time now for us to interrupt this; you will be able to continue Mr. Gichoya when we resume the debate, but I promised Mr. Shikuku that he should now move the adjournment.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

NAIROBI CITY EDUCATION OFFICER

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn. I wish to talk, Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a very vital and important issue, namely that which arose out of the question asked today in this House with regard to the person in charge of education in the City Council of Nairobi. I do so, Mr. Speaker, for several reasons. First, this has revealed to the House that the Government's policy of Africanizing any post formerly or presently held by an expatriate would be done at any time when a suitable African was available to hold that post. Here, Mr. Speaker, we understand, from reliable sources, that the man in charge of the educational system of the City Council of Nairobi is an expatriate and is earning a sum of £4,100 a year which I have calculated and found to be Sh. 6,833/35 cts. a month. This particular person does not have a degree, he is not a graduate, yet he earns so much money in this country when we have so many people who have graduated and are Africans and residents of this country, who have not been offered this chance to be in charge of education in this city. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to challenge the Government and particularly the Ministers of Local Government, to tell me that there is no African in Kenya today who has the qualifications to take up this post. It would be a complete fallacy for anyone to dare to stand up and tell us that this post could not have been Africanized.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other thing that the Members probably do not know and about which I have information is that he earns £6,600 a year, that includes his house allowance, and that, according to my calculations—I am not a very good mathematician—is Sh. 11,000 a month. On top of that, Mr. Speaker, under the present terms and conditions of service, he is going to get 20 per cent of that amount after his services are done away with or when he retires, a gratuity of 20 per cent, so we can work it out and find out how much we are spending on this particular expatriate who the Mayor considers that nothing can be done in the city council unless he is there.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other issue that I would like to raise is this: It was revealed by the Assistant Minister for Education that this particular person had left the country and was brought back through pressure by the Mayor of Nairobi. Now, Mr. Speaker, we have another case for the Mayor. Is this Government the supreme authority over the city council or is the city council the supreme authority over the Government? Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion that this is a very serious case and I know that the hon. Members in this House will resolve that this House decides who is the boss and if we are the boss, this particular expatriate should be done away with. Mr. Speaker, the policy of Africanization has been violated. The Government cannot now give us any reasonable reason why this man, who has only got a Cambridge School Certificate, should not go home. I understand that his certificate is a 3rd grade one, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and he should go home. He is earning public money when we have so many people in this country going hungry and in this city going naked, when this man is employed, earning a lot of money and he has no proper academic qualifications.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]
[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

[Mr. Mboog] hear what the Government has done on this. Mr. Speaker, I feel that there should be a lot of consultations, and the civil servants must be made to understand that this is the Supreme House, and if they have to give their rules they should give rules according to the previous business of the House.

So, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is time now for the Mover to reply.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, before continuing with other factors which I would like to mention, I would like to criticize the remarks made by two Members who were absent at the beginning of this Motion. I already regard the reply given by the Minister of State as satisfactory, unlike some replies from other Ministers, who, Mr. Speaker, when they reply to questions or to a Motion in this House, only humiliate Members and bring their Ministries into dispute.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like also to have—I appreciate the way the Ministry is taking with regard to the administration of Kara-Pokoi.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to mention that the Member who has just spoken has already misled the House whereas the Government has already sympathized with my Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, also I would like to tell Mr. Osogo, when he replied on behalf of the Government, that I will submit the names of the people who have been displaced as squatters. Mr. Speaker, this is a very genuine request and I am prepared to give him the names of some of those who have been displaced especially in the Kenya Tea Co. at Kericho next week, if I come to Nairobi.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not agree with the remarks made by the Minister of State, when he said that if the Government was ruling by decree, hon. Mr. Shikuku would not be here. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Government is not ruling by decree then was the Minister implying the Government is using Parliament as a rubber-stamp? Because if Government is using Parliament as a rubber-stamp, then Mr. Shikuku is here as a voting machine.

Another point, Mr. Speaker, is the question of the Minister of State also saying that the Government has acted on the question of maize. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to tell the Government that people in Kericho are selling their maize at a low price, yet, Mr. Speaker, in this House we passed a resolution that one bag of maize should cost Sh. 27. Later on we learn the Government suggests that one bag of maize should be Sh. 37. Even so people in Kericho are selling their maize at Sh. 29 a bag. Where is the truth in these remarks, Mr. Speaker?

Another point which I would like to mention is the question of squatters. While we appreciate the Commission of Squatters, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to name the Commission of Squatters known as Mr. Shimjeju. This we appreciate, but it happened that this commissioner bought some farms in Kericho and, instead of settling the Laibon evicted from South Nyanza, he imported squatters from Thomson's Falls. We would have liked, Mr. Speaker, to have seen these lands being given to the Laibon, those are the people who were exiled by the imperialists when they came to this country. Recently when we achieved Uhuru our Government saw that these Laibon should turn back to Kipsigis. When these people came back there was no land for them, so they were just roaming about. So I would like the Ministry to instruct Mr. Shimjeju to give preference to these Laibons. I hope the hon. Mr. Sagini will support me, because these people were in South Nyanza or in Kisi District. Mr. Speaker, Sir, also when the Minister of State replied he said that the Ministry had already implemented the resolution passed in this House that there should be a proper committee, I mean a selecting committee for bursaries. Mr. Speaker, the Minister said that already the Government has implemented this, but the officers in the Ministry of Education have not been following the proper channels. But, Mr. Speaker, I thought this is a question of administration and I am sure we have the right of questioning the Government regarding this wrong implementation, wrong administration in the Ministry of Education, because I know so many boys were rejected later on in the Ministry of Education, though they were accepted by the selection committee.

So, Mr. Speaker, I do not want to labour much as I have already stated my points, I am sure this Motion will go through. With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

(Question put and negatived.)

MOTION

WOMEN IN PARLIAMENT

Mr. Mati, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move—

THAT this House urges the Government to introduce legislation to amend the Kenya Constitution so as to provide for the special representation of the womenfolk of Kenya by women in the Parliament of Kenya.

[Mr. Mati] ...

Mr. Speaker, the principle of special representation is accepted in our Constitution. If it were not so we would not be having twelve Specially Elected Members in this House; so that the idea of having special seats for women is nothing new. I am only suggesting that we extend what is already in the Constitution to cover that major part of the Kenya population which is known as the "womenfolk of this country". Mr. Speaker, I think every hon. Member here appreciates that more than half the population of this country is women. I think the hon. Members also know that more than three-quarters of the voters of this country are also women, and yet, here we meet, we discuss matters of national importance, and we do not have the benefit of the opinion of this major part of our population. It is for this reason that I contend that we must find a way of having direct representation by women here.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the argument that women in Kenya are free to contest seats exposes a certain amount of, first, may I call it ignorance, and secondly, perhaps is an expression of absolute prejudice, and it is this we want to kill. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, it is well known that women, for certain reasons, have always been at a disadvantage as far as the matters of this country are concerned. For many years there were no schools for women, and even today, it is men who have the advantage in all fields, in social and economic activities. For this reason, it has not been possible for women to compete with me on an equal footing. For this reason we must be prepared to give them a part.

Mr. Speaker, to argue that because the Constitution of Kenya provides that anybody, male or female, can be elected to this House, and women should take their chance and be elected as men are elected, is to be unfair. We know for certain that in such circumstances, women stand no chance whatsoever. First of all because of male prejudice, and secondly because they have this disadvantage of having been late starters. Mr. Speaker, I maintain that even the greatest runner in the world, Mr. Kipchoge Keeno, if he were to compete with any of us here, perhaps, and we were given three-quarters of a mile to do, and he was to start at the beginning of the mile, we would reach the end before him. For this reason it is no use arguing that we can now take it, because the Constitution does not discriminate in so many words, against women, that women can compete with us. I maintain that we must make a move, we must do something to see that at least women get in here and then, if you like, afterwards, they can take care of themselves.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the people of this country were struggling for independence, there was no argument that women were not also contributing their part. Mr. Speaker, quite often when people talk about the sacrifices that the people of this country made, we tend to over-emphasize the part played by men. We forget that there were also women who sacrificed quite a lot. It is quite often forgotten that while His Excellency the Father of this Nation was in prison, Mama Ngema was also in prison. This is often forgotten. We often forget that while people were being killed, men were being killed, women were also being killed. We also forget that perhaps women sacrificed more, just try and think. Just consider what it must have meant to the womenfolk of this country, struggling in the forests; being herded like cattle; some of them in very advanced conditions, some having babies in camps, in the forest, on lorries, and yet, today what happens? When it comes to considering matters of importance we think that they are probably not quite fit to be here. That is exactly why some hon. Members are shouting.

Mr. Speaker, may I also state that I know quite a number of Members have certain reservations about women Members coming here. They feel rather frightened. I have been approached by a few Members and asked to withdraw this Motion. They could not possibly produce any sound reason why I should do so.

Mr. Speaker, I would now like to assure the Members that there is nothing to fear, because, actually, what I am suggesting is nothing terribly frightful. I am not suggesting, for instance, Mr. Speaker, that women should be enrolled on different rolls, or vote on different rolls; I am not even suggesting that women should not vote for men. So hon. Members here should feel quite secure, they should not think that what I am suggesting is that women will now vote only for women, and therefore, they will not get their votes, and therefore they will not come here. I am not suggesting that. I am suggesting that special seats be created so that they can be filled by women here. All the voting will be done as usual, but there must be special seats created to introduce women to this House. May I also say, Mr. Speaker, on a purely social ground, that the presence of women in this House, Mr. Speaker, might have a civilizing effect. I am not suggesting that this House is not civilized. Mr. Speaker, but I do maintain that the presence of ladies has a kind of socializing influence, and you might find that some of the problems we sometimes meet here, might be reduced, if not eliminated if we have some women around us.

[Mr. Godia]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we had a Motion which has been referred to regarding the civil servants—say, chiefs—and Members of Parliament. I think—though it is true that some chiefs do not give regard, not only to Members of Parliament but also to party leaders in various districts in the country, when they know that they are working for the Kanny Government—there should be a very deep respect towards the party leaders and, also, towards Members of Parliament. This must be made clear to the civil servants, including chiefs, because if civil servants do not give due regard to Members of Parliament and, also, to the Kanny party officials, this is bound to cause confusion in the country. Therefore, I think I should appeal to the Government to see to it that the chiefs and other party officials in the country know their duty.

There was a Motion which we passed here regarding the price of maize. The House recommended that the price per bag of maize should be Sh. 47/50. I do not know what Government has decided about that, but we have had no explanation as to why this has not been implemented.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these are amongst the few things which people would like to know, and once they are informed they could inform their constituencies and people would know exactly what was happening. Government should not give room for Members to think that they can bring in a Motion such as this to get information when, in fact, that could come from the Government without having to wait for a Motion to come forward so that Government can answer. I think, Mr. Speaker, that our Government is doing very well. I know they have a lot of commitments but the important thing is to see that the needs of the people of the country are met, and I know they are doing this, but I would remind them that when necessary a paper should be circulated to Members to tell them exactly what is happening so that they would be aware and then, Sir, a Motion such as this would not come forward.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose the Motion.

Mr. J. M. Karimk: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I remember some time in the past I mentioned to this House that there were some Motions which were not implemented by the Government. But later on I tried to check up with various Ministries, and I must say that I was very interested to learn that the Government is trying to do all it can to implement most of the Motions. What I would like to point out here is that it is a well-known fact that although the Government is implementing the Motions which we pass in this House, some of the translations which are being given to the members of the public are very misleading.

I would like to state the reason why I say this, it is because the way in which it is being interpreted to the civil servants in the field is either misleading to them or the Government is misleading them as to the schemes which the Members of Parliament are putting forward. I would like to point out here as an example that there are some Motions which deal with land, and when we pass a Motion in this House dealing with the land question then the civil servants in the field are led to believe that the Members of Parliament are not very interested in the work which is being done in the field, and that is very misleading. These officers are somehow led to believe that the Members of Parliament do not appreciate the work which is being done in the field, but that is not the point. I would appeal to the Ministers concerned to give the proper interpretation of what the Members of Parliament are intending to do to a particular Motion.

I remember that a Member of this House one day moved a reduction of £1 from the Ministry of Home Affairs of the police department, and I was very shocked to learn from the police themselves in the field that they considered that we Members of Parliament opposed them because one Member of Parliament, the Member for Butere, moved that every policeman in this country had to lose £1 from his salary. Now, the hon. Members are laughing at that, but it is true because the translation, which appeared in the Daily Nation and the East African Standard said that the Member for Butere moved a reduction of £1 from the police vote. They did not understand this, but they thought that £1 was to be taken from each policeman employed in the country. That is very misleading, Mr. Speaker, because they were led to believe that we were reducing their salaries. This interpretation is very bad indeed because they were led to believe that the Members of Parliament were moving a reduction in their money, so I feel that the Mover of this Motion did not have very bad intentions. It may be that because this Motion has been pending for some time that is why the Mover had the right to move it, because many Members are led to believe that the Motions are not implemented. I would like further information to be given to the members of the public and to the people who are, in fact, implementing the Motions we move. I know that Government may find difficulty in implementing some of the Motions we decide in this House, but we also feel that it would be better for Government to have a consultation; Government may find that it would be very difficult to implement the Motion. There would be no use in just saying that they cannot do a certain thing, it would be better for the Government to come back to either the Parliamentary Group or to a committee which would be set up and to ask their point of view. I think that would be a very good thing. They could discuss and agree that they also find it difficult to implement a particular Motion; there is no use in saying that they would mind that that Motion is passed and they are not going to take any action. I would suggest that the Government should in future, if they found any difficulty in implementing any Motion, consult the Members of Parliament or that particular Ministry and discuss the possibilities or impossibilities of implementing that Motion. I feel—

[Mr. J. M. Karimk]

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, with due respect to the hon. speaker, he did mention that policemen are of the impression that that I moved a reduction of £1 in their salaries, and I suppose that is why I am being attacked. Would it be in order for the Ministry to explain to the police what really happened, so that they can stop chasing me all over the place?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. Order! Order!

Mr. J. M. Karimk: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that the papers should pay particular attention when they report these things, and I hope that this will be rectified, that it is not every policeman who will have £1 deducted, but that we only deducted £1 when we wanted to discuss that particular Vote.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, in ending my speech I think that it is very important for the Government to consult with us in future on those Motions which they feel they cannot implement properly. They should consult the Members of Parliament who will give guidance, and if that guidance is found not to be fit or it does not agree with what was decided in the House and the decision by the Government then the Government could take the final decision of the Members of Parliament because they are the people who are actually acting as a link between the public and the Government. If we are to make this two-way traffic work successfully I hope, and I believe, that Government will take this into consideration and ensure a proper and better way of running the administration in this country.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support the Government and not the Motion as such, because I do not feel that the Government is tending to rule this country by decree at all, but I feel that it is very important for the Government to consult the Members of Parliament.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion should not have come to Parliament had it not been that there is a very great misunderstanding between the Ministers and the Members of Parliament. In opposing this Motion, Mr. Speaker, I have made this decision simply because if the Mover of the Motion had consulted more with the Ministers he would have known what had been done and what had not been done.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Mbogoh, you have only another three minutes. You will have to make the most of that.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, I would like at any rate to say that the accusations made against the Government in this Motion are most unfounded and could be rectified at short notice. It has been rumoured outside that the Government is ruling with the help of the Parliamentary Group, but this is not true, because when Parliament passes anything it is the duty of the Government to implement it and also to inform the Members of this House what has been done. So, had there been any consultation between the Members and the Cabinet it would have been very easy to understand what the Government is doing, what it has not done and what remained to be done. What I suggest here, Sir, is that if there is anything that has been passed in this House and has been implemented the Government should go and implement it and then report back to the House and say that such-and-such a Motion has been implemented and such-and-such a Motion has not been implemented.

I would also call upon the Members to go as many times as possible to the Ministers concerned with the Motions which they put to this House and try to find out whether or not they have been implemented.

Mr. Speaker, the Government has many times taken notes of what we discuss in Parliament, but if the notes are taken, and then it is reported to us that such-and-such action has been taken, though the Motion has not been implemented, that would be very good and Members would not go astray and move a Motion such as this, and taking up time which could be used to do other sensible things.

So, Mr. Speaker, I quite agree with the Government responder that there are some cases where Members put forward some difficult Motions which cannot be implemented, but I would even like to tell the Minister that if such a proposal, one which cannot be implemented, is put to this House, the Ministers should tell the House straight away that it cannot be implemented, instead of having the Members wait to

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is no good just disagreeing on facts, after having had that substantiation.

Mr. Shikuku: It is not a point of argument, Mr. Speaker. The hon. Minister is actually telling the House a lie.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, order, Mr. Shikuku. I have explained to hon. Members that when we have two Members disagreeing on a matter of fact, we can go no further. We have to note that they disagree. That is all.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, this word "lie" has been ruled out of order so many times in this House. I wonder if the hon. Member is right in using the word "lie"?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, offensive language is always out of order. You could achieve the same results, Mr. Shikuku, by saying that the hon. Member is incorrect. I hope you will change the word from "lie".

Mr. Shikuku: With your permission, Sir, I withdraw.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, when I was dealing with this particular Motion, when it was tabled by the hon. Member, I pointed out the complex situation which would have arisen on this Motion. My speech is in HANSARD. I do not see how the hon. Member could then say that it is incorrect for having suggested that I explained that particular point to the hon. Member.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that the Government is not in sympathy with this Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to add a few things to what my colleague, the Minister for State, has said.

With your permission I would like to ask the hon. Member for Belgut to give us the names of these people who are roaming the streets, these people who have been chased from the forest by the Minister for Natural Resources, because we should take up this matter to show to the hon. Member and the country that the Government does not throw people into the streets. My first appeal, therefore, is that the hon. Member for Belgut should submit a list of the names of these people who came to see him, these people he alleges were thrown out of the forest by the Minister for Natural Resources.

Another point I would like to say is that the only Motion the Government might not have implemented—if at all it was passed here—is the Motion of "No confidence" in the Government. The hon. Member for Butere hit the very hard. That is the Motion that might not have been implemented because the very Government that started in 1963, when we attained our internal self-Government, is the same Government today. If there was a Motion that was never implemented at all, it would be this Motion, but I do not remember, Mr. Speaker, any Motion of that kind having come up and gone through in this House.

Hon. Members: What about federation?

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Hon. Members are asking about federation. This had nothing to do with the contents of this Motion, Mr. Speaker. With due respect to hon. Members' capacity of the grey matter, I would say that the question of federation is not a matter for Kenya alone to decide. This, hon. Members know, and indeed, it could have been passed in Kenya, but the Government refused it. We are told that the Government was defeated on this, the Government knew very well that it would not implement it, Sir. So, the Government is not a party to what was passed by hon. Members in this connection. The Government defended itself by saying that it was not prepared to accept that Motion because it was not going to commit the other two East African territories. This was stated very, very clearly.

Another point is this: we should not tell the country that every Motion that is passed here should be implemented. Government always explains why it tries to amend a Motion and why it cannot accept a Motion, because of the various implications. Hon. Members do not know the implications. For example, Mr. Speaker, the question of free primary education: This was passed here, but the Government still has to go to the country to look for money to implement this. So, the hon. Members must keep in mind that immediately they pass a Motion it involves a lot of things. When it involves a lot of things like this the Government is not prepared to give way to such Motions. The Government wants always—here the HANSARD, the record of this House could be referred to—to say why it rejects a Motion, why it cannot accept a Motion. Why it wants to amend a Motion. Government always does this. So, it is no use hon. Members trying to tell the country that Government does not implement the Motions that have been passed in this House. That is not true.

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry].

I was waiting, Mr. Speaker, for the hon. Mover of this Motion to count the fifty-six Motions that have been passed and that have not been implemented. Fortunately he only counted six. The Minister for State has already answered how these Motions are being implemented. The remaining fifty could, if they were raised, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that an hon. Member asks in the form of a question for each Motion, what the Government is doing. He could ask in this House and the Government would answer. He should ask what the Government is doing in conjunction with Motion number so-and-so that was passed on such-and-such a day. An answer will definitely be given to satisfy the country and the hon. Member. It is no use coming here and alleging that Motions are not being implemented by the Government when no specific Motions are stated, this is bad. The six that were stated, we have already answered and given assurance that the Government has implemented them.

There is a point that the hon. Minister for State answered rather briefly and I would like to deal with a little bit more. That is the matter of loans. The money that is loaned to farmers is not Government money. This is money for individuals, it is money for other rich people. If they feel that they do not want to grant the five-year moratorium, if they tell the Government that they are not prepared to do that, the Government has nothing else to do except to go to the Members and ask for more money to give to the farmers and if Members are prepared to give this money, why should the Government refuse to give the five-year moratorium?

Another question, Mr. Speaker, which I would like to stress is the question of civil servants meddling about in politics and being under Members of Parliament. Honestly a Government worth its salt is not going to permit civil servants to be under politicians. After all, politicians change day after day and if they change day after day next year other politicians will come and the civil servants will be directed by them the Government will not ever run like that; unless, Mr. Speaker, I do not know how the eskimos' government runs, and a bad one is the only one which I would suspect would run in this way, but no other government in geographical conditions such as ours.

The hon. Member for Belgut, again, talked about "walk-in, walk-out" farms, Mr. Speaker, I would tell the hon. Member this. If he wants to buy a farm from me, we would talk about the prices. The Government has nothing to do with this system of transaction. But if he wants to buy a farm and appeals to the Government, the Government is prepared to give him a valuer and the owner of the farm would have his own valuer; so these two valuers could then discuss and come to an agreement. But to accuse the Government of doing nothing, and a Member goes to buy a farm privately, he does not have a valuer and he does not know how to value land himself, Sir, and comes here to accuse the Government and says that he has been swindled—we do not accept this, Mr. Speaker. But I would challenge the hon. Member; if he stands up to reply, to tell us that he has asked the Government for a Government valuer to go and assist him in purchasing a private farm—what he calls "walk-in, walk-out"—and that the Government has refused. If he does that, Mr. Speaker, I will make sure that I take it up with the Ministry of Lands if he has appealed to this Ministry.

So, Mr. Speaker, it is a pity that an hon. Member thought to bring this Motion here. What I should have thought should have happened would have been either for the hon. Member to chase up the Ministries that were concerned with these Motions that were passed or to table questions—fifty-six of them—in this House, and I am sure they would have come, one by one, and he should then have had clarification as to what the Government was doing about all these fifty-six Motions that are alleged to have been passed and which we have not implemented.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I hope that I have made more clear to the Members how the Government works regarding these Motions which have been passed.

Mr. Godie: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for giving me permission to speak on this Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, although I do not support the Motion as it stands, the Mover of the Motion had some facts which he has put to Government and, as has been indicated, Government gives very serious consideration to Motions which are passed in this House. It should be possible for the Government to indicate in the form of a paper the implications of any particular Motion so that Members would know the difficulties facing the Government in so far as that Motion is concerned.

I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that Members of Parliament here realize the difficulties, they would not refuse to accept the facts, but I should call upon the Government, when necessary, to state in writing the implications involved in any particular Motions.

[The Minister of State, President's Office]

Now, bearing all these things in mind, Sir, that is why sometimes some of these Motions perplex us, because sometimes they do not really come to the point. All the same, those Motions which have come to this House are treated with seriousness by the Government; those which have been accepted by the Government, as a matter of fact they are being acted upon. Take for instance the question which was mentioned by the hon. Member for Belgut, the case of Kara Pokot. The Motion which came in this House some time last year, the Motion which the Government accepted, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, today we are in active consultation between our Government and the Government of Uganda, and had it not been that the Uganda Government is in a slightly difficult position now, we could have had a conference going on to see the ways and means of getting the Kara Pokot District under the Kenya jurisdiction.

The whole thing, Sir, is that Members do not care to ask for information. They do not want to see the Ministers and find out how far a particular Motion has gone. In fact, they tend to come to this House and then say, "Oh, the Government is not doing anything." Take for instance, the question of the maize issue. It came into this House, into the other House, and has the Government not acted upon that?

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Minister in order to try and mislead the House when in actual fact the Motion which was passed in this House in connexion with maize, was the price of the maize? Is he in order to quote the wrong thing?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I do not think the Minister is misleading the House. He is stating that the Government has taken action on the views expressed in this House. If your views are different, Mr. Shikuku, and you are entitled to them, you can express them, but you must not think that a person who does not agree with your views is misleading the House.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there was a Motion which was passed in this House concerning the price of the maize. The House is aware, and it has been told more than once, that there is a committee working on this. There was a Motion which came to the House on the question of the maize muddle in the country. In response to that the President appointed the commission of inquiry to go into the matter.

These are the Motions which illustrate that the Government is really acting upon the public opinion of this country through their representatives. Sir, I owe my office today because of the pressure from this House. It is the Member for Butere who, I think, several times asked whether it was not proper for the President's Office to be represented in this House by a Cabinet Minister. This has been done. The Motion has been acted upon.

There was a Motion, Sir, by the hon. Member for Kandara on the question of squatters. I challenge any Member today who can bring forward accurate information that the eviction of squatters is going on, because by the directive of His Excellency the President himself, throughout the country he gave instructions that no further eviction of squatters should go on. This has been stopped. On top of that, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Squatter Committee is working even today—the hon. Members do not know this on this problem, they are seriously discussing ways and means of how we can alleviate the miseries of 70,000 families who have no homes. Yet someone has the audacity to come here and say that the Government is sitting idle.

The hon. Member for Belgut, the Mover, has come to this House and told us that the Government has not acted on the Motion on teachers, their terms of service and so on. How memory can fail Members in this House is surprising!

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Member in order to misrepresent what the hon. Member said? The hon. Member said—I remember because I was in here—that he does not know what Government is doing. He did not say definitely that the Government has done nothing.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): If he said he does not know what Government is doing, well he is entitled to be told by the Minister what the Government is doing.

Mr. Kerich: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wonder whether it would be in order for the Minister to withdraw the remark as regards the question of teachers, because I said that I stand corrected if the Government has done something.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Kerich, I think it was very fair on your part to say that you stand corrected. So, I think you should give the Minister a chance now to correct you.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Now, let me correct the hon. Member for Belgut whose memory has lapsed within a week. Last week, Sir, I think it was on Thursday, the Minister for Education revealed to the House that the Government had accepted certain recommendations and the Government has set up a Teachers' Commission to deal with all these things. How, then, has the Government failed to act on this Motion?

[The Minister of State, President's Office]

Sir, the hon. Mover mentioned something about bursaries for overseas studies. The hon. Mover corrected himself by saying that this Motion was acted upon as soon as it was passed in this House by the President himself, appointing a select committee which deals with all bursaries for students who are to study overseas. He is represented by no lesser politician in the capacity of the hon. Masinde Muliro, Member for Trans Nzoia.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair.]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair.]

Mr. Kerich: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Minister in order in misquoting me when I said that the question of the committee was correct, but that the officers in the office were missing their positions?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If you have been misquoted, you are entitled to correct the Minister. I do not know whether he did misquote you.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, with due respect to the hon. Member for Belgut, if he agrees that this Motion had been acted upon—perhaps certain officers in; this are not doing the job—it is not fair for him, then, to come to this House and say that the Motion has not been acted upon. What he should have done was to have drawn the attention of the Minister for Education that certain officers in this committee, which was set up in pursuance to this Motion, were not carrying out the wishes of the people. Then the mistake could be corrected.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, a Motion has been passed in this House dealing with the land problem in the Coastal Strip. Even at the time when this Motion was being debated here, the House was informed that the Government had set up a committee to deal with this particular problem. Even today the committee dealing with the problem on the Coastal Strip, and the problem of displaced citizens of this country at the Coast, is still on. How else have we failed to act on the Resolution of this House?

A resolution has been passed in this House concerning Africanization and the hon. Member does not know that the Government cannot run the business of Mr. Patel and, therefore, authorize Africanization in the private enterprises.

The question of five-year grace payment of loans has been mentioned. With due respect to the hon. Members, when people transact certain businesses there are certain legal formalities which must be complied with and completed. The mere fact that a resolution has been passed in this House, does not necessarily override private and personal contractual obligations which people have already entered into. It would be all right for the hon. Members to ask the Government to look into the problem, to see how this could be done, but there is this tendency, however, Mr. Speaker, of always disregarding the legality of every subject matter. There are legal obligations arising under certain matters, but because this place is thought to be supreme, we just go ahead without taking into consideration the legal consequences.

The Government has no intention whatsoever to underestimate the value of Parliamentary democracy and the supremacy of Parliament. As a matter of fact, the moment the Government will think that the supremacy of this Parliament should be subjected to any other wishes of a few people in Government, then, of course, that will be the worst day for Kenya. Happily enough, Mr. Speaker, we have a leader who values the supremacy of Parliament; we have a Government which respects the supremacy of Parliament. What we want, Sir, is hon. Members who equally come to this House with serious responsibilities, Members who appreciate the serious responsibility they carry on their shoulders within the system of Parliamentary supremacy. There is no time when the Government will intend to rule by decree. It is in this place where hon. Members can come and talk freely, express the wishes of their people and formulate the policies which must guide our Government to serve our people all over the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is only one Motion, and that is the Motion concerning the civil servants, which was brought in this House by the hon. Member for Butere, where he asked that the Government should devise a system whereby there will be 117 civil services in the country. We have already pointed to the hon. Member for Butere the complication of this Motion. We have already informed him how complex the problem is. If we believe—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Minister in order and could he substantiate that the Member for Butere was informed, as he said, of the complications when I was not?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can substantiate this because I, personally, have gone over this with the hon. Member for Butere.

(Mr. Shikuku)

House which the Government opposed. I remember that Motion, because I moved that Motion to the effect that civil servants were meddling in politics, and that something should be done about it. That day, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government opposed the Motion. The Members being conscious and knowing what the civil servants were doing, passed that Motion against the feeling of the Government and today, Mr. Speaker, Sir, nothing has been done.

In fact some of the civil servants say, "We only listen to the President, whatever is said in Parliament is just a question of noise, so we take instructions from the President". Yet the President says that this is the authority of the country. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is confusing, because the civil servants feel that they can only listen to the President, when the President is listening to the authority. Why do they not listen to the authority? The authority has passed that civil servants should be brought under the control of the elected representatives of the people who are in this House and now, because this has not been implemented, the same servants continue to propagate, "Do not worry what Parliament says, we shall take instructions from the President" and they do not know that the President is a Member of this House. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is where we are getting things wrong, that is where we feel that sometimes the Government is shaking and we have certain Members here who do not take these matters seriously, because that also makes the Government more lazy and tired.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I feel that this is a complete failure by the Government and the Government should be completely ashamed. I am sure that when any other country reads of fifty-six Motions having been passed in this House and nothing done about them, surely your reputation will have been lowered to a very miserable degree.

The other thing Mr. Deputy Speaker, which has been touched on, is the question of five years' grace to the African farmers here. This is one of the most important Motions, because we are being told time and again, "Go back to the land." Now, when we go back to the land—the people who have gone back to the land—ask their Members to put their views to this House to the effect that they should have five years' grace. We come to the House, pass that Motion, the Government sits on the Motion, does nothing and comes back here telling us that we are doing very well, shout Harambee. How can we shout Harambee, when our people are being shifted—most of the people in the settlement scheme, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for your information are running away, because they are being asked to pay back the loans after six months. Which crop matures after six months, Mr. Deputy Speaker? This is something on which the Government should have acted immediately so that we get Africans into farming in order that they can produce and depend on their soil. But here the Government sits back and turns a deaf ear to the views of the Members expressed in this House and says everything in the garden is green. Mr. Deputy Speaker, may I warn the Government that they must stop this ostrich tactic, where the ostrich puts its head into the sand and feels that no one can see it, forgetting that the bulk of its body is on the surface. This is what is happening with the Kenya Government and the Ministers, whereby we pass Motions here and they ignore them. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we leave the Government to go the way it is, we are going to find, in the long run, that this country is being governed by the Cabinet, whereas it is supposed to be governed by this authority, and therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that is why I support this Motion and if this Government is a democratic Government, then it must listen to the views of the people, not only to try and make fools of us here by passing Motions that are never implemented. The local authorities also pass their Motions and they make sure that those Motions are implemented. If this Government is not going to implement these Motions, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we must be told and the House should be dissolved and all of us will have to go home, rather than waste time here.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support very strongly.

(Question proposed)

Mr. ang Soti: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. Is it in order for the Government representative to answer before more Members have contributed.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, it is perfectly in order. There is nothing out of order about it. It may be perhaps slightly unusual but it is certainly not out of order.

Mr. Maisori-Imbo: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if it is in order for him to answer right now then if at all later the Members speak and give new points and views, will it be in order for him to speak twice on the same Motion? How will he reply, Mr. Deputy Speaker?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, the very same Member cannot speak twice, but perhaps another Government Minister might speak. I see your point of view, but it is not a point of order.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I treat this Motion very seriously and that is why I thought it better for the hon. Members to hear the Government's case well in advance. There is nothing wrong in doing so, if any other points are made by the hon. Members, it is always possible for us to arrange for another Member from the Government benches to deal with those points that have risen in the course of debate.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a very important Motion and its significance lies in the fact that it challenges the supremacy of Parliament. When the hon. Member for Butere was speaking, I listened very carefully to his speech, because I wanted to give a fair hearing and a fair reply to his speech.

Mr. E. D. Gočana: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. There are so many rude comments here, that we cannot hear the speaker, Sir.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Well, may I request those hon. gentlemen to remain a little more silent in order to give hon. Members a chance to listen to this important speech.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Butere has rightly quoted His Excellency the President of having said that this is the supreme authority of the land and that is true and nobody should take it that the Government does not mean what the President said, that this is the supreme authority on the land.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, those who have asked about the constitutional position, know that theoretically the Parliament can legislate on and for anything. The Parliament can legislate, for that matter, that from today—I am just giving an example—every woman on the land is a man, but it will not follow—

Mr. Maisori-Imbo: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I am very touchy on this and is the hon. Minister in order to challenge the decisions of Members in Parliament that we can even decide on anything as if we do not know what we are working on.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no, no. I do not think that he is making any such implication. He is merely quoting a hypothetical case where Parliament is so supreme that it can in fact legislate on certain matters which may or may not be reasonable or correct. But he is merely giving an illustration. I do not think it is unfair, I think one must give him a chance to speak.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. If he is giving an illustration which undercuts the intelligence of the Parliament, is he not out of order? There are responsible people here and we cannot legislate that all women become men.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. I am not suggesting that the hon. Member is suggesting that this is what Parliament is going to do or what this Parliament may do. What he is saying is what it could possibly do.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is this ignorance that diminishes the value of this House. It is this ignorance that undercuts the importance and superiority of this House. The illustration or example that I have given is for the benefit of the hon. Member for Butere, he can go to the library now and read about that from The Constitutional Law by Darcy in the chapter on the Supremacy of Parliament. It is, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the failure to understand the argument which always ridicules the Motions or debates in this House, while we, on the other side, always intend to treat any matter that comes before this House with all sincerity and with a certain degree of responsibility but certain Members come to this House and always try to play on emotions.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to deal one by one with the Motions which have been illustrated by the hon. Member for Kericho. He has mentioned a Motion—

Mr. Kericho: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. Is it in order to refer to me as the Member for Kericho?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think you can correct him. You can tell him your actual constituency and I think he will accept that.

Mr. Kericho: Would he prefer to refer me to a specific constituency?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): The hon. Member from Belgut.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, first of all I want to assure the House that Government does not intend to rule by decree. When the hon. Member for Butere said that the Government was ruling by decree, he exposed the degree of his ignorance because if the Government was doing that, he would not have been here. If the Government was ruling by decree, then, of course, the hon. Member for Butere would not have been, the hon. Member.

[Mr. Kerich]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, even though the Government is in the process of doing something about teachers it has taken so many months, and these are delaying tactics which we do not like.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another example is the question of the control of bursaries overseas. Mr. Speaker, Sir, even though we have set up a parliamentary committee to select boys to proceed for further education overseas, this, Mr. Speaker, has been used as a rubber-stamp.

I know of one boy who was elected by people in my constituency to go to the Arab Republic to continue his studies. Later on when the Government approved his application, it was rejected by so-called educational experts in the Ministry of Education. This is a very serious situation, Mr. Speaker. I hope the Minister will do something about it, and I feel that these people in the Ministry of Education should be disciplined so that the decision of the selection committee should be final. There should be no dodging about and using some fanatic tactics.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my last example is with regard to the question of eviction of squatters. Mr. Speaker, Sir, these squatters are evicted and taken and placed on the roads. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion was raised on the 26th February 1965 by Mr. Kaggia and still it has not been implemented. If the Minister has implemented this Motion, then it means that the officers in the field have not implemented it, and therefore they should be instructed to follow the proper channels. Mr. Speaker, Sir, about fifty squatters came to my place because they had been evicted and left on the roads. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I told them that I would speak to the Minister concerned, and see where you will be put. These people have been using the forest as their own homes, and recently the Ministry of Natural Resources said that so many trees should be planted in the forest and therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the people should be replaced. These people are now roaming all over the country, because they have been told to quit the forest. We would like to know, Mr. Speaker, Sir, where these people are going to be settled. This, Sir, is another serious problem facing this country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my final point which I would like to make is this. I could go on quoting indefinitely on all the Motions passed in this House, in fact, in all there are fifty-six Motions which have been passed, and I am sure that no more than eight have been implemented. If I felt like it, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I could go on quoting these Motions until the adjournment of the House. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would only like to give one example, and that is the question of free primary education. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the ruling party was campaigning in 1963, it promised people that it was going to give free primary education.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there has not been such a Motion in this House, is the hon. Member therefore in order to mislead the House and say that there has been a Motion in the House asking for free primary education but which has not been carried out?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you are asking him to substantiate, are you not?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Yes, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because to the best of my knowledge there has not been a Motion of that kind in this House.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes. You cannot just correct him, you know; but you can ask him to refer to the particular Motion by way of substantiation. That is what you are doing, I think.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, to tell the Minister he is ignorant of all the Motions passed in this House with regard to free primary education moved by Mr. Mbogoh, on the 13th February 1965, because he has been absent so much from the House, that he doesn't know about this Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right, but that is the end of your time.

Mr. Kerich: So, Sir, I would now like to—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! That is the end of your time. Who seconds this Motion?

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to ask the president of the poor people to second my Motion.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. The hon. Mover has given me this chance so that I can join him in this serious affair.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]
[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in fact, this is one of the most serious Motions when I think each and every hon. Member in this House should have been present in order to make it known in this sleepy and almost tired Government that some of us are completely fed up. But, Sir, we are hoping that there will come a day among the days to come when we shall express our feelings to this Government and, if possible, pass a vote of no confidence. Mr. Deputy

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the question of having passed fifty-six Motions in this Parliament which is the authority of the country, and they have not been implemented, then, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in my opinion, and I believe it is also the opinion of some hon. Members who are here and who know the meaning of democracy and the authority of this House, then surely it is time for the Government to resign. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I say this because these people do not know what democracy is, and because they do not know that once a Government has been defeated in Parliament they should resign, but they just sit back and continue to call themselves Ministers. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I recall several times when this very Government had been defeated by the supporters of the Government, and yet they never resigned. This shows you how little they know as far as Parliamentary procedure is concerned. Therefore, Sir, I am not really very surprised to find that Motions to the tune of fifty-six have not been implemented, but yet they have no shame to come and sit on the Front Bench as the Government.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I may say so, the question of the Minister being absent from the House contributes very much to this situation. Today, Sir—in fact, Sir, the other day I moved a Motion that because of the absence of the Ministers to answer questions asked by hon. Members in this House, I moved that the House should adjourn. I thought that would teach them a lesson, but today what do we find? What do we see today?

QUORUM

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, do we have a quorum?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, ring the Division Bell.

[The Division Bell was rung]

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): We now have a quorum, continue, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I was touching on the question of where, on several occasions, the Members have expressed their feelings on certain Motions which the Government opposed, and were defeated but they did not have the courage to resign. This itself, Mr. Speaker, Sir, proves that this Government is trying to rule this country by decree, because if they were to follow the democratic principle, then surely they should have resigned every time they were defeated; but, Sir, they should have only done that when they were defeated, on the first Motion which, as it was quoted here in connection with the East African Federation, the Government was defeated but yet they never resigned. It is almost the Government and yet they shamelessly still sit on the Front Bench.

Leaving that apart, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, may I now turn to the speech of the President when he opened this Parliament? The President of the Republic of Kenya made it known to this House, and the world at large, that this was the supreme authority, and it is from this House that any major decision could be taken. Now, Sir, if we Members of Parliament, elected by the people to represent the feelings of the people move Motions in this House, and they are passed although sometimes opposed by the Government, and if they are not implemented, then, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is something definitely wrong with the Government, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I feel that this Motion should have gone further to say that in view of so many Motions having been moved and the Government having failed to implement them, we pass a vote of no confidence in this Government. Nevertheless, Sir, there will come a day for such a Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the other issue which I would like to raise is this. It is evident, from this repeated failure by the Government to implement Motions passed by Members in this House, that this Government is actually undermining the authority of the country, because if they do not implement what the House has passed, then they have diluted the importance of this House to almost nothing. It is almost, if I may say, like a debating club. For example, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when I was at school we had a debating club, and we debated things but nothing was taken seriously. No one takes a decision at this debate. So, Sir, this House has almost become debating club, where people come and express their views, which just go up in smoke. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if this House is the authority, then the Government has the responsibility to implement all the Motions passed by this House because this is a democratic country and these Motions were passed democratically, and therefore they should be implemented, and, Sir, if that is not going to be so, then the Government will be fooling the people when we talk of having a democratic Government. This is not a democratic Government, but a Government ruling by decree, without the feelings of the people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may come to one of the items here, I would like to speak on the question of civil servants. There was a Motion in this requires the Government to state categorically whether it intends to rule by decree, using Parliament as a rubber-stamp and a junior partner or set up parliamentary committees to investigate ways and means and advise the Government how to implement such Motions.

[Mr. Kerich]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, before continuing my Motion I would like to also register my dissatisfaction because so many Ministers are absent. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I expected Ministers of this Government, from A to Z, to be present during this Motion because all the Motions passed in this House are categorically created or placed under each Ministry. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it means that only the Minister from the President's Office is here, but what about the other Ministers?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to tell the Members that tomorrow there will be a Government Bill and you will be surprised to find that the front benches will be filled then, and the back benches will also be filled and this shows that this Government is using Members as rubber-stamps. Why is it that today, during Private Members' Motions, all the Ministers are absent? This includes some Members who are also absent. I understand that tomorrow we will find that all the Ministers will be present. This is completely out of order.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to continue with my Motion. This Motion, I feel, Sir, is a national Motion and I hope that I will be supported by my colleagues. We feel that it is our duty to tell our Government that it has tended to ignore our Motions and it continues to do so.

Secondly, Mr. Speaker, we feel that our Government takes this very lightly and that it is our duty to tell the Government that we cannot be taken lightly. The public speak through the Members of the National Assembly, Sir. Ignoring our Motions is not that you ignore Mr. Kerich's Motion, but the whole of Belgut is ignored, over 100,000 people. We would like to be told today whether the Government is taking into account what is passed in this House as I have stated that the public speak through the Members of the National Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to mention one factor. One Motion was brought by the Government on the 22nd of February 1964 about the extension of the emergency in the North-Eastern Region. No sooner was it passed in this House than it was implemented immediately by the Government, showing that the Government is after their own Bills and no matter what Motions are brought by ordinary Members, they are ignored.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it should be known today that every Member is paid for every minute that he sits in this House. Every mile which he travels from his constituency to Parliament is paid for by the Government. Every night he stays here he is paid by the Government. We deserve this money, Mr. Speaker, if this Government takes into account what we suggest here in this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have not memorized all the Motions passed, but I am going to single them out one by one as they come to mind. One example, Mr. Speaker, is a Motion passed in this House on the 23rd April 1965. This concerned the transfer of the administration of the Kara Pokot. These people, Mr. Speaker, are the people of Kenya. They settled on Kenya land, or Kenya soil, and yet they are being administered now by the Uganda Government. It has taken the Government about ten months to implement this Motion. We know that something cannot be done overnight, but this has taken ten months. What have you to say about this?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Please, address the Chair.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope that when the Minister comes to reply he will tell me about it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): He will do it through me.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, these people have remained backward. No proper education has been provided by this Government. All the taxes paid by these people are taken to Uganda. I mean all branches are manned by the Uganda people. The police force is manned by Uganda people; tribal police and, I think, even the office boys are also known by the Uganda people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have heard rumours that the Government has failed to implement this Motion because the Uganda Government requires a lot of compensation. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to inform the House that even these people have agreed to contribute a cow each to meet the compensation to be paid to the Uganda Government. What have you done about it? The Assistant Minister is asking me how many, I am not a Minister. Mr. Speaker, Sir, he should know the number of these people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure when the Minister replies to my question, I must be satisfied as regards this Motion passed ten months ago.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my second point is that we have raised, in this House, several times that we want Africanization in the Government and private firms. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to inform the House that there has never been proper Africanization in the private firms. I would like to quote one example—in the case of Kericho, we have over thirty-four tea estates, and not one single African manager has been appointed since we attained independence. Is this the Government of Africanization, or are they to use the word in Parliament, implementing Africanization?

[Mr. Kerich]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in those thirty-four estates we have only three field assistant managers, few have attained the status of assistant managers and this company—there are two companies—these companies have not even started training Africans to take over managerial posts, so this factor must be replied to, and we must be told why the Africanization in private firms has not been effected.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my third point—this Motion was brought by the president of the poor people, and everyone will know his name—I will mention it though, the hon. Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, he brought the question of federation and this Motion was passed on the 18th June 1964. It has taken twenty months for this Government to implement. Where is this federation? Is it in the pocket of the Minister in the President's Office? One would like to know today, because you find part of the Motion here and part has been put in the pockets of the Ministers, and they tell you to keep quiet.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another example was the Motion brought by the hon. Mr. Kerich, Member for Belgut. This Motion was passed in this House on the 22nd October 1965. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion was concerned with the Government setting up a commission of inquiry about the prices paid by our poor fellow Africans to the settlers. In that I mean that when they want to purchase these farms they mostly—the settlers—usually say if you want to purchase my farm you have got to agree to a "walk-in, walk-out" basis, which means that if you want to buy my farm you must agree to my price, if you do not agree to my price, you do not get my farm. That is what I mean by the "walk-in—walk-out".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion perhaps has taken about six months. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it should be known today that these farms are not going to be sold for the next ten years.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister who is supposed to reply to my question, I see, is leaving the Chamber. I wonder if I would be in order to call him back?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid not, but perhaps it will not be very long before he returns.

Mr. Kerich: I am very glad to see he is coming back.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these are very serious Motions because there is a lot of corruption in the matter of prices and our people are being victimized by paying high purchase prices.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have said these farms are not going to be sold for so many years, they will be finished within the next five years and unless we do something about it now we will find that our people will be shouldering a big burden on their backs. By this time the people who sold the farms will have left the country with the money. I mean, Mr. Speaker, Sir, at the moment there are no African valuers—I mean Africans to value the farms purchased by the Africans, and lastly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, a Motion was passed in this House which referred to the purchase of the farms for settlement schemes. It was agreed that any farm to be purchased by a settlement scheme should not be bought at above Sh. 200 per acre. The Government accepted this and said it was going to set up a Government commission. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as far as my Motion was concerned it covered settlement schemes and private purchase of these farms. Mr. Speaker, Sir, these things have made a very serious situation and unless the Government does something to help our poor fellow Africans we are going to face a very serious situation.

The next thing, Mr. Speaker, is another Motion brought by hon. Mr. Ngala on 15th October 1965, regarding allowing people five years' grace for the repayment of loans.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, today when I was coming here I met several farmers from Rongai area complaining that they are now being asked to pay the loans, yet Rongai area was badly hit by drought. Why does the Government intend to ignore this serious situation because this drought was not the mistake of the people who bought these farms? It just came naturally.

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we would like the Minister, who is going to reply to this Motion, to tell us the reason why the people are still being asked to pay the loans or else the farms will be confiscated by either the Land Bank or the Land Agricultural Finance Corporation of Kenya. This is a very serious situation, Mr. Speaker. I see my time is almost finished.

Another example is the uniform terms of teachers—I do not know whether something has been done about it and I stand to be corrected by the Minister if something has been done about this Motion which was brought on 16th July 1965 by hon. Mr. Barasa.

[The Minister of State, President's Office]

person who has been properly elected. That can help us because I know the House does not want us to appoint a person who has a bad criminal record as a chief or a sub-chief.

Now, the assurance I was going to give to the House, Mr. Speaker, is this: that from now on, when the applications have been invited and nomination has been carried out in the usual way as prescribed by the procedure issued under the Presidential directive, any person who tops the poll—that is the person who the people want to be appointed as the chief or the sub-chief—should be gazetted as chief or sub-chief within the period of eight weeks from the date of the election. We have taken eight weeks as the maximum in which we can conclude the necessary papers for the appointment and gazetting of a chief or sub-chief, and at the same time to conclude our investigations as to the integrity of the person to be appointed as chief.

Having said that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this being the policy we are now going to adopt, I hope the hon. Members will see that there will be little sense in pursuing the line they have already pursued. I have considered that there has been some delay; we regret that this delay has been there, but it has been occasioned because of the changes in Government and Ministerial functions of the Government and, also, in some cases, Members have requested that elections should be repeated. All these things have brought accumulative effects of some delay.

If an hon. Member here could put up a case against any particular civil servant who has deliberately caused some delay, the President's Office is prepared to examine that particular case and, if necessary, take action. But to generalize that because there has been some delay therefore every civil servant must be penalized or disciplined is, I think, being unfair.

Having said that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to disagree to the extent I have stated.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There are just about two minutes left, Mr. Shikuku, and then I shall have to dispose of the amendment.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, I think I will have to make full use of these three minutes.

Firstly, the Minister has alleged that Members tried to use the sub-chiefs and these old chiefs, and this is completely false. When a chief is appointed and is found to be useless, surely the people have the right to say that the chief is—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of information—

Mr. Shikuku: I am sorry, my time is running short and one thing, Sir, he has failed hopelessly, Mr. Speaker, to try to convince this House because there was a statement from the Assistant Minister who spoke in his capacity as the Member for Kajjado, when he said that the chief or sub-chiefs in his constituency who had been appointed and who had not been confirmed had not received a salary for ten months. As the president of the poor people, Mr. Speaker, I feel that this is very wrong. The Government is robbing the people. We are paid for whatever we do, We people who come to this House are paid for what we say here. Why can the Minister not tell the House why these chiefs in Masai have not been paid for ten months?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Would the hon. Member give way, Sir?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to give way at all because he has failed hopelessly. This is very unfair and the Masai chiefs should be paid.

With these remarks, Mr. Speaker, I support the Motion.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out put and agreed to)

(Question of the second part of the amendment, that the words to be inserted thereof be inserted as proposed put and agreed to)

(Question of the Motion as amended proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the Mover to reply.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not intend to labour much on this because, for one thing, the Minister has agreed that there was a delay. But I would like to refuse one thing completely, Sir.

The Minister has deliberately covered some civil servants. He said that if any Member had any reason to believe that in particular civil servant delayed in this matter, he should take it up with the President's Office. But, Sir, when moving I mentioned very clearly that people voted in April last year. The Minister should be able to know from April to now—who delayed this file. I do not go into the provincial commissioner's office to look after his files because I am not supposed to do this. I think it is his duty, Mr. Speaker, to trace who delayed this because he would not otherwise be doing his duty. We are here to tell him and it is his duty to find out

[Mr. Kase] and so I would like to know what

The other thing, Mr. Speaker, which has not helped is that—we know that in the Coast we were very firm Kadu supporters and we elected the same people. The mentality and the ability of a man does not matter, whether he is in this party or the other party, Government has not benefited at all by delaying the appointment for two years in the hope that they would get another man. They have failed, Mr. Speaker, and they should be ashamed. If the Government was ill-advised, they have found their own folly because we have the same people whom we wanted.

The other thing I would like the Minister to do, Mr. Speaker, since this Government is committed to finding that the old-fashioned chiefs who have no sense of development today, is to see that they are dismissed and that we should have some new ones. Now, in fact, in certain areas of this country we know that we still have very old chiefs and I hope that the Minister is not going to stop them.

We would like to know what method is used—we are told by His Excellency the President that if we have no confidence in our chiefs all we have to do is to pass a resolution to that effect. We would like to know why this has not been effected. Even last week Mr. Speaker, the Provincial Commissioner, Coast, visited one of my locations and I was not there. People just told him, 100 per cent of those who were there, about 3,000 people, that they had no confidence in "this" chief, because he was out of date. This is the latest example, but so much has taken place and the Minister has done nothing to remove these chiefs. We want to know whether the statement made by His Excellency the President holds water or not, and this is something we want to know from the Minister. Now, if it does, Mr. Speaker, those people who have voted "no confidence" should go. I remember the Member for Kikuyu here quoting a number of chiefs in his own area. A vote of "no confidence" had been passed about five or six months ago but they still continue as chiefs. Now, if chiefs will continue at the wish of the people, Mr. Speaker, I think the Minister should—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of information, Mr. Speaker, I intend at a later stage—not here, but perhaps at a convenient place, preferably the Parliamentary Group meeting—to circulate the procedure which is applicable to removing a chief when he becomes ineffective.

Mr. Kase: Now, Mr. Speaker, the Minister having clarified a number of points and having admitted that there was some delay, I leave him to find out which civil servants delayed because he knows when we voted and he knows where the files are.

I would not like to have much quarrel with the Minister, but support the amendment as it was moved. I beg to move the Motion as amended.

(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly.

THAT this House, noting with deep regret the delay in the appointment of chiefs and sub-chiefs in this country, recommends that all civil servants responsible for such delays be disciplined forthwith.

QUORUM

Mr. Tumb: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, there is a quorum in the House.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order to rise on a point of order, or can we not because we have no quorum?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not strictly in order but if it is something on which you need explanation—it might be better to leave it until we have a quorum, Mr. Nyamweya, if it is an important point.

We have a quorum now, would you like to raise your point of order, Mr. Nyamweya?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, I rise to make this point of order. I do not know whether it is strictly a point of order. On Friday the House had to rise earlier than usual because Ministers were not in the House although it was Private Members' day. Today, the House is not in quorum, or the business has to stop, because hon. Members are not in. Am I entitled on behalf of the Cabinet to register the disapproval of the conduct?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, but you have done it all the same. It should not be done on a point of order.

MOTION

IMPLEMENTATION OF MOTIONS PASSED IN THE HOUSE

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:

THAT in view of the fact that so many Motions have been moved in this House and have not been implemented, this House

[Mr. Kibaaya]

Sir, that we have talked about the civil servants but I think that the blame here lies on the Minister of State in the President's Office. Because of that, if there were to be any dismissal, or any question of having somebody disciplined, I think he should have been the first person to be disciplined.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I wish to support the amendment and hope that it will be supported by all.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am one of those Members of this National Assembly who is prepared to be disciplined whenever things go wrong. It would be also true that other hon. Members should be prepared to be disciplined when things go wrong.

I am, Mr. Speaker, Sir, prepared to concede right from the beginning that there has been some delay in the appointment of chiefs, particularly at the Coast. Hon. Members may recollect that in 1963 when we took over the Government, the former Minister for Home Affairs, the hon. Mr. Odiga, carried out an exercise whereby some chiefs who were thought to be old enough to be pensionable, and who had been in the service long enough, and those who, perhaps, because of their conduct in the past were ineffective in the administration, were relieved from their duties.

Then, Sir, we came to the time when the functions of the Government were changed. Hon. Members will bear me out that there was considerable co-operation among the hon. Members with the former Minister for Home Affairs, to get the right people appointed as chiefs, and although this was done, there was some delay involved.

When the functions of provincial administration were transferred to the Office of the President, there had been a considerable amount of pressure from outside, more particularly from this House, that the method of appointing chiefs was not satisfactory and a new method should be devised. The President took all the time necessary to find the best and workable acceptable method of appointing chiefs. This was later contained in his directive that chiefs in the country should be elected by their own people.

Mr. Speaker, this question of trying to find out a method naturally caused some delay in the appointment of chiefs. This was inevitable because the Government was still considering the demands made by the hon. Members of Parliament and the public at large for a change in the system of appointing chiefs. Sir, the hon. Members think that the Ministers or the President can just make a decision without being responsive to public opinion or the opinion of this House. This is a mistake. After such consultation, Sir, and in accordance with the wishes of the people of this country, through their elected representatives, His Excellency the President issued a directive which changed the method of appointment of chiefs. The chiefs in this country are, therefore, from that particular time when this directive was issued, selected by their own people.

Since His Excellency the President's directive, all appointments of chiefs have been processed by the officers of the provincial administration with all possible speed, but hon. Members must accept that there are some administrative reasons which might delay the appointment of a chief. The minimum period required between the election and the actual appointment of a chief is normally two weeks, and in certain cases a longer period is required. This is necessary in order to allow Government to study the background of the candidate who is likely to be appointed as chief of any given area. No Government officer would be appointed until the Government was satisfied that such appointment would be in the public interest.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have a point to make here, why sometimes the appointment takes a much longer period. In 1963, when the hon. Oginga Odinga, now the Vice-President, carried out the exercise of appointing or replacing older chiefs with new ones—as I have mentioned to the House—quite a number of hon. Members whose areas were involved assisted the former Minister for Home Affairs. What is most interesting, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that some of these chiefs were elected according to the wishes of the hon. Members of this House in 1963 and, in 1964, after being appointed and being in office for one year, the same hon. Members have come to the Office of the President, requiring the replacement of the same chiefs.

The reason is this, Sir. It is no good for hon. Members to expect chiefs to be appointed and then to become instruments of politicians.

When the chiefs or sub-chiefs refuse to—

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would the hon. Minister substantiate that some hon. Members who suggested the appointment of chiefs after one year have come back to require their removal?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think that is the kind of thing you can ask a Member to substantiate. He is really expressing an opinion as to the possible reasons for the sudden change of heart. It is not a very improper reason or a very unlikely one. I think he is in order.

[The Speaker]

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member is prepared to follow that up, I will support him.

Now, Mr. Speaker, this is the point I would like to make. The chiefs, although elected, are supposed to be civil servants. So are the sub-chiefs. It is not becoming for the hon. Members of this House, or the Senate, therefore, to use the chiefs or the sub-chiefs for their political activities. The moment the chiefs do that, the hon. Members rush to the President's Office and say that the particular chief is insubordinate and should be relieved of his duties.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, going back to the point I was trying to make. It must be remembered that the first election of chiefs in the Coast Province was done at a time when the province was the stronghold of the now defunct Kenya African Democratic Union. When the appointments were due to be made, the political views of the Coast people at that particular time were beginning to differ rapidly, culminating in several Members of Parliament crossing the Floor and joining the governing Kenya African National party. I think this process was begun by the hon. Mover of this Motion, from the Coast. It was natural, Mr. Speaker, that the new chiefs had to command the confidence of the people as a whole, and having been elected by the Kadu supporters in the Coast, the Government thought it would be unwise to proceed with making the appointments in view of the changing circumstances and attitude at the time. I am saying this, dealing with the original Motion as moved by the hon. Mover, the Member for Tana, Mr. Kase. Now, the Government's action in delaying the appointment justified itself as the whole of the Coast Province became a Kanu area and people wished to appoint new chiefs whom they considered enjoyed the support of the public which was Kanu in its outlook. However, when the Government was absolutely satisfied that the candidates who were elected during the Kenya African Democratic Union's preponderant sway at the Coast, would not enjoy the confidence of the public, it was decided to hold fresh elections throughout the province. These elections have been carried out and a good number of chiefs have been appointed, to the satisfaction, I am sure, of the hon. Mover of this Motion. Those who had been elected by Kadu, it follows that they still hold the support of the people at the Coast who are now Kanu supporters.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am now pleased to tell the House, especially the hon. Member for Tana River, that all appointments of chiefs to fill vacancies in the Coast Province, with the exception of Lamu District, have been made, and formal installation of some of the successful candidates have already been made; some are still taking place. In Lamu we had a request from the hon. Member for the area, who thought that we should look into the election which was done in that area, where it was alleged that the person who stood for chieftainship and was elected, was not a Kenya citizen. As we believe that every chief, or sub-chief, should be a Kenya citizen, we had to look into that. The Provincial Commissioner for the Coast Province is now in the process of installing the rest of the chiefs, and this exercise is expected to be completed in the very near future. We expect after this is done, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Members from the Coast Province will not come to the Office of the President to seek the dismissal of these chiefs who have been appointed.

As I have already pointed out, Sir, in the Lamu District, the selection exercise will be repeated because it was found, after checking, that the original candidates were not Kenya citizens. I am sure that the House does not want us to appoint non-Kenya citizens as chiefs. There is no question of the Government—as it was originally put, but I am glad that the Motion has been amended to the effect that disciplinary action will be taken. What I would like to do, Mr. Speaker, is to give the following assurance to the House, and this is the practice which we are going to adhere to in the future. From now on, we have decided that because of the delay we have experienced in the past, we shall have to try as much as we can to avoid such a delay, provided the hon. Members will always co-operate and help us to minimize the delay. To do so, Sir, for instance, when the question arose of appointing a chief in North Malakisi we had chains of petitions and counter-claims from the hon. Members and letters from that particular area, each claiming and counter-claiming this and that. This delayed the entire exercise. We hope in the future the hon. Members will accept the verdict of the people. Once an election has been carried out and people who have been properly nominated have been elected by their people, the hon. Members should keep off so that the verdict of the people always will prevail. We have the practice of hon. Members trying to give reasons why the verdict of the people should not be respected by the Government. The only reason which we would like to be advanced by any hon. Member, and for that matter by any member of the public, is a known criminal antecedence or activities of a

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Olotipiti): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am now speaking as the Member for Kajiado. I very strongly support this Motion, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion is a very important Motion and I think the hon. Member who brought this Motion to the House to be debated by the Members is right. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the delay in appointing chiefs and sub-chiefs has been constantly and repeatedly done by people in the President's Office, and I feel very strongly that this has been unnecessary and therefore, I support the amendment in that those people who bring about this delay should be disciplined.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may give one example. I am now talking about my own district. From May last year, a sub-chief had been appointed in the Kajiado District and up to now his confirmation has still not come through, and the poor fellow has been working in the field through semi-desert country, collecting poll tax for the Government, but still his confirmation has not been brought to the officers in Kajiado. So, Sir, it means that this poor fellow has not received a single cent from May last year up to date. Mr. Speaker, Sir, not only has this happened to one sub-chief, but there are about three sub-chiefs in the Kajiado District who have been similarly treated. Another one was appointed by the District Commissioner, Kajiado, in July last year, but up to date that poor fellow has not been confirmed in his position and he has not received any salary at all.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question is this. We need these sub-chiefs to work for the benefit of our people, to work for the benefit of the Government, but, Sir, how can you expect such poor fellows to work just for nothing only and being told that, "It is all right, you have our consent to go ahead and work today," but, Sir, these people do not get one single cent. Their confirmation has not been given, but yet they still work in the field. Mr. Speaker, Sir, not even those people in the Office of the President can work for a month without getting any pay, so, Sir, how can it be expected of those fellows in the field to work for ten months without getting any money? If these people cannot work without being paid for a month, then how could they expect their friends to work for ten months without being paid? Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is very important that we should treat this matter as a matter of great importance.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, during the colonial time when a chief was appointed, he was also confirmed straight away to become active, and his pay started as soon as possible. But, Sir, today you find that they delay paying these fellows and also delay confirming them in their position. We are the people who are to be blamed. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I go around myself, these people approach me, they ask me, "What about me? What is this Government doing to me?" and this, Sir, is a very serious question. It shows that there is some inefficiency somewhere in the Office of the President. Mr. Speaker, Sir, for example, with regard to those two chiefs, I kept on going through to Nakuru and asking the provincial commissioner what the delay was with regard to these two sub-chiefs, and the provincial commissioner said that it was the people in the President's Office who had delayed this and so, I do not see why such a responsible office of the country should delay matters like these which affect their fellow people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel very strongly about this Motion, and also think that it is very important. I am not going to add a lot of things to this Motion, but, Sir, as I have said before, I have given an example of two people from my own district, who have worked for ten months without getting any salary, and I don't whether to date they have been confirmed in their positions. Therefore, Sir, this Motion is very important, and I think the Government, or the Minister responsible, should check and see where the delay is, because you cannot expect people to work in the field without being confirmed and without getting a salary. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is our duty as the Government to see that once we appoint somebody to work that he is confirmed, paid and can carry on with the work. But, Sir, if we appoint them and keep them working in the field without getting any money, then they will come forward and blame the Government, and say that the Government is not doing anything at all. In fact, Sir, I have heard most of the sub-chiefs saying that the Colonial Government was better than this Government. Therefore, Sir, I feel very strongly about this that the Minister concerned should check up on this matter and find out and see that no more delay is made by the office in appointing and confirming these chiefs as well as paying them straight away.

With this few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the Motion very strongly.

Mr. Khayra: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to support the amendment. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know that this is a very important question in the country. I am lucky, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in that I have been a chief myself for some years, and so now speaking to you as a Member, I think I am in a very good position to make a few comments to the House.

[Mr. Khayra]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know that this is a very important question, but, Sir, the reason which makes me support this amendment, is because the word "dismissed" is too hard for us to accept. I know that when the hon. Member for Tana River raised this question he had good and reasonable grounds behind him. I know, Sir, that for two years, as he said, he has remained without chiefs or sub-chiefs in his area. Despite this, Sir, I would like to point out a few factors which I think this House should weigh up before making any decision.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the first factor is that of Africanization. This, Sir, in practice is a very difficult matter indeed. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know that with Africanization it means having a clerk who does not know a thing in an office, but who must depend on a district officer for everything. A district officer has perhaps only recently graduated and has only just taken up this kind of job, but does not know what to do and therefore has to turn to his district commissioner for help. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this chain, let us say, of inaction, I think, we should accept, because this is the price we have to pay for Africanization. For that matter, Sir, if we get some reasonable delay, then I think the hon. Members should accept this calmly, and say, "All right, we wanted Africanization and now have it." It is very costly, but, Sir, we just have to accept it.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know that if he had been a chief like myself, then perhaps he may have spoken with a little bit more sense on that matter. But, Sir, I would now like to point out the other factor, which this House should not overlook. You see, Sir, recently we had the amalgamation of the two parties, and as a result people had to adopt ideas and change. Somebody who might have been supported as a chief because he belonged to a certain party, might now necessarily be supported. I think that we should therefore give the Government more time in which to examine and find out the person who is the most competent in a given area before giving out the post of chief. For these two reasons, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to ask the hon. Members to be a little patient and change the word "dismissed" to "disciplined". Nevertheless I do not support any delay of any kind which might be due to laziness. I agree with the hon. Member who moved this amendment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have heard, during the course of debate on this certain subject, certain hon. Members giving a very awkward picture of the chiefs in the country. For instance, some have been speaking about chiefs having shot people. I think that was probably during the Emergency. But, Sir, they talk of chiefs, the sort of chiefs that nobody is likely to accept. I should think, Sir, that these remarks are being directed to a small area, and we do not like to entertain this thought that it was in respect of every chief in the country. If that had been true, it would not have been possible for a number of ex-chiefs to be elected to this House. I know that like any other Civil Service there are a few bad servants. I know that there are a few of these people in the Civil Service who have the colonial mentality, and I would be prepared to forgive all I can to stop them getting any job in the country. But, Sir, because there are a few chiefs who are colonially minded, I think that what we should suggest here is that we run some courses, put these chiefs on instruction so that they get away from the idea that they are small kings in their locations. This was the idea which the chiefs were made to believe in, that as chiefs they were kings of the location. But, Sir, now that we are independent, I think it is time our Kenya Government arranged instruction for these chiefs in order that they may learn that the Kenya of today is a changed country. These people should be taught that instead of being kings of locations, they are just one of many servants working in the district commissioner's offices. If this is achieved, then I do not see any reason for the hon. Members to have any bitter views on the chiefs in this country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to comment upon an item which one of the hon. Members raised here. This was the question with regard to the eleven-hour action by the Government. I should agree with that hon. Member, and for that matter, ask the House to force our Government Ministers to take action, not only when we ask them to do so. Sir, I have noticed that when a Minister is asked a question he runs here in the afternoon, gets something signed to show that he already has something done. But, Sir, this sort of eleven-hour action is something which we should be ashamed of, how can we go out and tell people that we are responsible people in our country if we are going to be pushed in this way?

I would like to support the hon. Member who raised this question on the Government Ministers who are so lazy as to wait until we force them and only then they—

The Speaker (Mr. Stado): Order! Order! I think we are getting away from the Motion now, Mr. Khayra.

Mr. Khayra: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sorry for diverging a bit. However, the whole thing is that we should put the blame where it lies. I know, and all these organizations come under the National Council of Social Services. Therefore, I do not think it is possible to assist one place like Rangala. If there were sufficient funds, however, the Ministry would be delighted to help. It is hoped that, as Rangala Orphans' Home is the only one of its kind in Nyanza Province, the local people would rally round and give it support in the true spirit of Harambee.

[The Minister for Health]

Recently, there was a need for assistance for this place, and I personally went there and, as a result of the need in Rangala, I arranged for certain charitable organizations to collect money and, for the time being, that money is still helping. But, our Ministry has asked for funds from the Treasury for the next financial year, and if we get enough funds, we shall be able to assist.

Mr. Odero-Sar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister not aware that he himself visited at that time with some other Ministers—including the President and the Vice-President—and promised the Rangala sisters that the Government would help them financially to run the home?

Mr. Otende: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government is anxious to help, but as the hon. Member knows, orphanages have not yet come under the Ministry of Social Services. But, as I suggested, if Rangala could be registered under the National Council of Social Services, they would get some funds from the Ministry.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question: Mr. Nyaberi.

Question No. 380*SELECTION OF ELECTORAL COMMISSION PERSONNEL

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, having discussed this matter somewhere outside the House, I wish to withdraw this question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Very well. Now we will go back to Mr. Bala's questions. Are you authorized to ask his questions, Mr. Odero-Sar?

Mr. Odero-Sar: Yes, Sir.

Question No. 388*LAND BANK AND AGRICULTURAL FINANCE CORPORATION LOANS

Mr. Odero-Sar, on behalf of Mr. Bala, asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry—

(a) how many loans had been given to the people of Central Nyanza by the Land Bank up to now; and

(b) how many loans have been given to the people of Central Nyanza by the Agricultural Finance Corporation up to now.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Part 1 of the question, for Part 2 of the question, three large-scale and nine small-scale.

Mr. Oseku-Nyalick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he tell the House of any inducement by his Ministry to bring people in Central Nyanza into line with other people so that they may apply efficiently for these loans?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry is doing all it can to help the people of Central Nyanza, and other people in Kenya, but I think I should try to shed light on what governs all these loans.

Land Bank loans are meant to aid the transfer of land from European to African ownership. Consequently, loans in Central Nyanza and also to any other district have always been issued in respect of land in the former scheduled area. Land Bank requirements, before the issue of such loans, are that the applicant must have in cash 60 per cent of the purchase price of the land and permanent improvements. Even so, he may be eligible for a loan worth 80 per cent of the cost of the property. This enables the Africans to have a working capital in hand after completing the purchase. No loans can be made to an applicant owning less than ten acres of land. The applicant must have reasonable agricultural experience, and must be a Kenya citizen.

The three large-scale loans were issued between January 1965 and 21st January 1966 and were worth about £4,200 in total. No issue was made before January 1965 as there had been no applicants.

The nine small-scale loans were given between October 1963 and December 1965 and are worth £2,065 in total.

The qualification for large-scale loans from the Agricultural Finance Corporation include no less than fifteen acres of productive land, to produce a gross income of £500 or more within a reasonable period.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister tell the House whether there is a notice published at Kisumu showing the difference between Land Bank loans and Agricultural Finance Corporation loans?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here was how many loans had been issued in Central Nyanza. It was not a question of where the office is, because there must always be an office near-by.

Question No. 387*TECHNICAL SCHOOLS IN CENTRAL NYANZA

Mr. Odero-Sar, on behalf of Mr. Bala, asked the Minister for Education whether he would consider providing at least ten technical schools in Central Nyanza to help in training a few thousand children who could not get into secondary schools.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply: My Ministry has a development plan for technical education involving the expansion and upgrading of existing technical schools and the building of two new schools. This plan is closely correlated with Kenya's skilled manpower requirements up to 1970, as indicated by the recent manpower survey and has been prepared in conjunction with the Ministry of Labour scheme for appropriate training.

To build technical schools, in addition to those envisaged in the development plan, would be an extremely costly venture, which could eventually lead to a situation where we were producing skilled manpower in excess of the nation's requirements to the detriment of needs in other fields.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell the House what he intends to do on a provincial basis, namely Nyanza Province, Western Province, Coast Province, and what Government has in mind regarding the establishment of these technical schools in order to cope with the great number of schools which are already scattered about the country?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): This question concerns Central Nyanza only.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought I made it quite clear that the introductions of more technical schools in places where they do not at the present moment exist would only amount to producing more people than the requirements of the nation. Therefore we stated that the schools which exist at the moment are sufficient to cater for the nation's requirements.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will go on now, Mr. Makokha has a question by private notice. He is not here? Is there any hon. Member authorized by Mr. Makokha to ask his question by private notice?

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT*U.S.S.R. AID FOR KANO IRRIGATION SCHEMES

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Then I would remind hon. Members that Mr. Bala was to have raised the matter on the adjournment today as noted on the Order Paper. I am afraid that there has been some misunderstanding, for which I may be responsible. Mr. Bala did ask for this matter to be brought very early, but in fixing it for today, I did not realise that he was leaving here yesterday on a delegation to England. I understand that Mr. Odero-Sar would like to take his place in raising this matter. Normally, I would not allow that without previous written notice, because I do regard it, according to our Standing Orders, as the sole prerogative of the Member who has given me the notice. But, I think, it would be in the interest on this occasion, and fair to Mr. Bala and Mr. Odero-Sar, to allow Mr. Odero-Sar to raise this matter on behalf of Mr. Bala. So we will do that.

MOTION*APPOINTMENT OF CHIEFS

THAT this House, noting with deep regret the delay in the appointment of chiefs in this country, especially in Coast Province, recommends that all civil servants responsible for such delays be dismissed forthwith.

(Mr. Kare on 2nd March 1966)

Amendment considered:—

THAT this Question be amended by—

(a) adding the words "and sub-chiefs" after the word "chiefs" in the second line;

(b) deleting the words "especially in the Coast Province" in the second and third lines; and

(c) deleting the word "dismissed" in the last line and by inserting in place thereof the word "disciplined".

(Mr. Gichoya on 3rd March 1966)

(Resumption of consideration of amendment

—interrupted on 3rd March 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now, in this matter we had an amendment proposed by Mr. Gichoya, and Mr. Komora was in the process of seconding it but had not yet finished his speech. He still had eight minutes to go.

The whole time remaining for the debate was forty-three minutes. Is Mr. Komora not here? Then I must propose the question of the amendment. There are, in fact, a serious of amendments, but in view of the very little time available, I think we had better treat it as an amendment.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will combine the debate of the amendment with the debate of the main question.

Mr. Kamau: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to seek your guidance. When this point was being discussed, it was being emphasized that the man in question was employed due to the pressure.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! What is your point of order?

Mr. Kamau: My point of order, Sir, is this: as I understand it, that it is the Mayor who stopped the Minister from executing his duties, is it the Minister who is greater as Minister, or the Mayor of the city?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! On these occasions, on moving the adjournment to debate a matter of public interest, or on an ordinary adjournment debate, it is the conduct of Government with which we are concerned, not the conduct of anyone else outside the House, except so far as it may affect what Government should do or should not do. Conduct of other people can be raised directly only by a substantive Motion.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 389

HINDUSTANI PROGRAMME CHIEF IN VOICE OF KENYA

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Information and Broadcasting why it was that the Hindustani language programmes on the Voice of Kenya had a particular person as the head in charge of its programmes, whereas all the other vernacular programmes, including the Swahili ones, were left under one person who was the head in charge of the vernacular programmes.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Onamu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The appointments of heads of services in the Voice of Kenya depends entirely on the amount of work involved. Hindustani programmes are on the air 71 hours a week, English 84 hours a week, and Swahili 120 hours a week. Each of these services has its own head. Vernacular broadcasts are limited to an average of five hours per week each and, in most cases, this work can be handled by a single officer for each vernacular. For overall administrative purposes, all vernacular programmes are put under the Head of the National Service who also has responsibility for Swahili programmes.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here is that the House would like to know why Swahili and other vernaculars are under one man whereas the Hindustani programmes are also left under one man. Would the Assistant Minister tell this House, in terms of hours, how this man in charge of Hindustani language is any more laid down than the man in charge of the vernacular?

Mr. Onamu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Member did not follow me. I said each section has a head and that includes Hindustani and also the vernaculars.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister tell this House, out of the two men in question, whether the question of seniority is taken into account? Who is senior to the other?

Mr. Onamu: That is another question, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think so. That question.

Question No. 365

LAND CONSOLIDATION IN HOMA BAY

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would explain when the following Homa Bay Constituency Locations would be declared adjudication areas for the purposes of land consolidation, e.g. North Nyokai, Gem, Kanyada, Kamagambo and Sakwa, since the people had been waiting for the last three years.

The Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Angaine): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. A number of sub-locations within the locations mentioned by the hon. Member have been declared adjudication sections already. For example, Kajulu, Sub-location of Gem; Location was declared on 1st November 1964. Kaburo and Kobioch, Sub-location of Kamagambo Location, and Alego, Sub-location of Sakwa Location were declared on 20th January 1966. The rest of the sub-locations will follow suit as and when teams are available after completing the areas they are working at present. It should be borne in mind that we are working with limited resources of funds and staff and although the Ministry would like to complete the work as soon as possible, it is impossible to work in all parts of the country at the same time. It may be appropriate to mention here that there is a team of experts, known as the Lawrence Mission, presently examining the set-up of land consolidation department, with a view of recommending to the Government the best way that the registration process could be carried out economically and in the shortest period of time.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Minister has mentioned the Lawrence Commission, who are the members of that commission?

Mr. Angaine: Mr. Speaker, we have our own Members on that commission, but I have forgotten their names, but they are there.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister assure the House that in his estimates for land consolidation he will put pressure to bear on the Ministry of Finance to see to it that land consolidation is speeded up in these locations and completed before the next General Election?

Mr. Angaine: Mr. Speaker, Sir, even the Minister for Finance is aware of this.

Question No. 373

TOURIST HOTEL FOR HOMA BAY

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism to tell the House when his Ministry planned to organize and help in the building of a modern and well-furnished hotel at Homa Bay to accommodate tourists and others visiting the district and people coming to see the Lambwe Valley Game Reserve or the historical sites at Rusinga and Mfangano, now that the Mbita ferry was nearing completion.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply: There are two main points one must always bear in mind when considering the building of tourist hotels. Firstly, the provision of a tourist hotel in any area, should be a natural consequence of the development of tourist attractions in that area. Secondly, an hotel, on its own, cannot act as a tourist attraction. It can only act as an inducement. Indeed, most of our tourists come from areas with better hotels than some of those available in Kenya.

In the case of South Nyanza, my Ministry, in consultation with the South Nyanza Local Authority, is at present actively engaged in the development of tourist attractions. We are keen to see that the Lambwe Valley is fully developed and that the wildlife therein is preserved. Along with the Lambwe Valley Game Reserve, my Ministry intends to develop other attractions, such as the Mount Homa Hot Springs, the Oyugis Bird Sanctuary, the Kano Bird Sanctuary, just outside Kisumu, and the rest of the Kenya shores of Lake Victoria. Hand in hand with our efforts, should follow the development of social and cultural activities. In particular, the organization of tribal dances and festivals should be actively revived.

I have no doubt that when tourist attractions in South Nyanza are substantially improved, a flow of foreign as well as local tourists will follow. This will, naturally, necessitate the building of proper accommodation.

It is not the Government's policy to build hotels, but the Government can provide assistance or inducements to the investors, who, in turn, consider building hotels or motels with or without Government participation. In this connexion, Sir, I would like to inform the hon. Member that the Tourist Development Corporation, which has already been formed, will investigate the possibilities of tourist facilities and amenities in South Nyanza and, if these are promising, it will participate in hotel building. Provided the local people co-operate with us, I have no doubt that future events will justify the building of a modern hotel, or other similar accommodation facilities, at or in the neighbourhood of Homa Bay.

Mr. Omwisi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply and in view of the fact that the newly formed tourist corporation would take into consideration the helping of these areas, would the Assistant Minister assure this House that he will approach this corporation, and in view of the fact that the places he has referred to as being tourist attractions have not in the past been visited by tourists, would he see that the tourist corporation gives South Nyanza first priority as far as hotel accommodation is concerned?

Mr. Jan Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the tourist corporation will look into all the aspects of tourist attraction in Kenya. I cannot assure the hon. Member that first priority will be given to Homa Bay or South Nyanza as this would depend on the survey which will state which area really needs priority. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said in my reply that we have created sufficient attractions with efforts from our Ministry in this area. To increase these and to build them further, is now in the hands of the local people. The Tourist Development Corporation will certainly look into this aspect and, if it is found to be attractive enough, they will certainly go ahead.

Question No. 398

GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE FOR RANGALA ORPHANSAGE

Mr. Odera-Sar asked the Minister for Housing and Social Services what financial assistance the Government was giving to keep up the running of the Rangala Orphans' Home which was the only home of its kind in Nyanza Province.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Otieno): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I regret that the Government is unable to give financial assistance to the Rangala Orphans' Home.

The Ministry of Social Services has a limited amount of funds each year which is annually shared between national charitable organizations,

Mr. Ngũgĩ-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister tell the House whether the World Bank Mission has not visited Asumbi and agreed to carry out this development, not only in Asumbi but in other schools as well, in 1966, rather than going into negotiations and other things like the availability of funds?

Mr. ole Koincheilab: Mr. Speaker, Sir, Asumbi Girls' School is one of thirty-five schools for which the International Development Association funds have been sought, in order to establish new Form I to Form IV streams. Work at all these schools and other schools and colleges which are included in the International Development Association project for various forms of development, cannot begin until the necessary funds become available and Asumbi is neither better nor worse off than all the other institutions of this State. The Mission which visited Asumbi in or about March, 1965, was a Kenya Government team comprising officers of the Ministry of Education and a chief architect officer from the Ministry of Works, Communications and Power. The purposes of the visit were to ascertain whether Asumbi and other schools, which were supposed to be included in the International Development Association project, were in every way suitable for the expansion and development envisaged for them and to obtain data which would subsequently be of use to the chief architect in preparing a development plan.

The World Bank team visited a number of schools during their July/August visit. But, Sir, according to the Ministry's records, these did not include Asumbi. It is possible, though not on record, that during the second visit in 1965, a member of the bank team may have called at Asumbi while en route between Kenya and Uganda.

Mr. Ngũgĩ-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that his officers in Nyanza are aware of this Mission having given an undertaking that this school that it was going to be taken over by them? Also will the Assistant Minister tell me when these negotiations are going to end?

Mr. ole Koincheilab: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is quite true that provincial education officers were informed and, through them, the schools concerned were notified of the programmes which it was intended to place before the World Bank team in July. In the course of the team's visit in July and August, the programme was greatly modified and the revised programme was communicated to provincial education officers.

So, I quite agree that the education officers in Nyanza are aware of this programme. This will be implemented as soon as possible.

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he give a complete list of the thirty-five schools in the International Development Association plan and could he tell the House what plans his Ministry has for those boys who were supposed to be admitted into some of these schools to be financed by the International Development Association this year in Form I, and have not yet been admitted in these schools?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I think that is outside this question, Mr. Khasakhala.

We will go on to the next question.

Question No. 382

NAIROBI EXPATRIATE EDUCATION OFFICER

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House the reasons why the City Council of Nairobi had re-engaged an expatriate as City Education Officer at a salary of £4,100 per annum, when the country could provide a better qualified person. Was the person appointed and earning this salary of £4,100 per annum even a graduate.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. At the time of the appointment to which the hon. Member refers, the council considered that no suitable person existed locally to fill the post.

The officer concerned is not a graduate.

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that we now have better qualified local people, would the Minister consider dismissing these expatriates and employing local people in their places?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is a normal procedure under which a person can be discharged. We do not simply discharge a person because there are local people. Normally, we advise the post in question and when we get suitable applicants, then the post is filled.

Mr. Kase: Since it is Government's policy to Africanize posts, Mr. Speaker, when we have suitable Africans, and since the Assistant Minister has indicated that the normal procedure is to advertise, would the Minister advertise this post as soon as possible?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, I agree.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Assistant Minister says he is looking ahead to the time when this post can be Africanized, could he, therefore, make sure that this post is advertised within this month?

Mr. Mutiso: No, Sir, I am not sure.

Mr. Bahala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell this House when the contract of this expatriate is due to expire?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I had better enlighten the minds of the hon. Members on this particular issue. Now, Sir, the officer in question, who has been in charge of primary education under the City Council of Nairobi for many years, resigned from the Government service in July last year and immediately accepted the offer of the post of City Education Officer from the city council. In offering this post, the city council was, in our opinion, allocating to itself powers which the Ministry for Education had not granted to any local authority.

This Ministry, Sir, refused to accept the following points: (1) That the city council had any right to appoint a city education officer. (2) The appointment of an officer who had resigned from Government service to take over on contract terms the same job from which he had already resigned.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the officer in question is not a graduate, would the Assistant Minister tell us what were the qualifications based on for the appointment of this officer when he was taken on?

Mr. Mutiso: As I said earlier, Sir, the officer in question is not a graduate and as I indicated in my earlier reply, the Ministry of Education did, in fact, refuse the appointment of this particular officer as an education officer.

Hon. Members: Where is he now?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, I am informed that the city council did put extremely heavy pressure on the Ministry of Education, and that the Mayor, personally, intervened.

Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Members do not want to hear the reply, then I need not continue.

The information I am communicating to the House, Sir, is that I am informed that a lot of pressure was exerted on the Ministry of Education by the Mayor of Nairobi in an attempt to make the Minister change his decision. However, even before the Minister's decision was conveyed to the city council, the Mayor himself offered the officer in question a contract while in Britain when he, the Mayor, was there recruiting other staff. On the strength of the Mayor's offer, Mr. Speaker, the officer in question returned to this country and started doing the work of City Education Officer before the Minister had approved the appointment as required by law.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister tell this House why it was necessary to import a non-graduate from overseas while ignoring Africans who are graduates in Kenya and spending so much money?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did say to this House earlier—

Mr. Malsuri-Itambo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Assistant Minister insists on telling the House that this decision was taken by the Mayor, am I in order, Sir, to ask the Ministry to bring the Mayor here to question him?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we will go on to the next question now.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

EMPLOYMENT OF AN EXPATRIATE CITY EDUCATION OFFICER

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wish to raise this question as a matter of national importance under Standing Order 14 since there is a lot of money being spent on this person.

Hon. Members: It is being spent illegally!

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As I understand that this is a matter of administration for which Government accepts responsibility, I think it is basically the kind of matter to which Standing Order 14 can be applied. It is a definite matter and, if any action is to be taken, it seems to be required rather urgently. So, if ten or more Members support this request, it will be granted.

(A number of hon. Members stood in their places.)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There are more than ten Members who have risen in support. I do not think you will need very long to discuss the Motion, so I will allow Mr. Shikuku to move the adjournment of the House at 6 p.m. today.

Mr. Kall: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether it is allowed, under our Standing Orders, to applaud a Speaker's decision or judgment. Do we make a mistake when we applaud after you have made a decision?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade) Order! Order! Mr. Kall is quite right. It is in order if hon. Members approve a Communication from the Chair, and sometimes the Speaker is seeking their confirmation that he is speaking their voice. However, on any ruling on a point of order, it is completely out of order to applaud, almost as much as it is to do the reverse.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that at Harambee House the President did say, and it was given as a statement in the Press, that a Member can address a meeting in another Member's constituency, provided that the Member in that area invited him or welcomes him to address the meeting. Does this action of the district commissioner not violate the promise which was given to us by our President who believes in the freedom of speech?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I may take this opportunity to clarify the position concerning this ruling, as some hon. Members have misinterpreted the Presidential ruling with regard to public meetings. Firstly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Members of the National Assembly are at liberty to address meetings anywhere in the country on conditions that a licence has been issued to a certain individual.

Secondly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the licence which is to be issued by the licensing authority will have to contain certain conditions. It is up to the licensee to ensure that the conditions on the licence, to enable them to hold a meeting, are followed. If, in the licence, there are certain conditions which may include that Members whose names appear on the licence are the only persons who may speak at that meeting, then that must be the condition and it must be preserved. This condition can only be included in the permit or the licence, when the licensing authority has examined the security situation of a particular area where the meeting is going to be held.

Lastly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, some hon. Members have taken this ruling as a general direction that they can hold meetings anywhere and in other Members' constituencies, without consulting Members for the constituencies concerned. That, Sir, is wrong.

Mr. Choge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that this section, or this law, does interfere a lot with the Members of Parliament, especially when they have no time to contact other Members of Parliament, and that some may be available whom the Member may not have contacted during the previous week or so, and yet they are ready to go and address a meeting, is the Minister prepared to allow this law to be brought to this House, so that it can be amended so as to allow the Members of Parliament to speak at any rally?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree that a Government should not be concerned with the security situation of this country. The hon. Member for Butere, if he behaves like an hon. Member in Butere, can always get anybody he wants to speak at his meeting without any condition at all. But the Government cannot, and will not, close its eyes when the security of the country is threatened, including Butere.

Now, Sir, coming to the question of the hon. Member for Nairobi South. The Government has no intentions at present.

Mr. Khasakhaha: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the hon. Minister substantiate that the hon. Members are threatening the security of the country?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, he has not said that.

Mr. Khasakhaha: Yes, but he did say that if the security of the country was threatened, Members could not be allowed to address meetings, unless their names were included on the permit.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! He has not said that. You can put any interpretation you like, but then that is your affair.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would it be in order, while the Minister is answering this particular question, to state also that this only applies to those places where the security position is questionable?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! How do you think that is a point of order, Mr. Ngala-Abok? Will you sit down, please, and not interrupt on false points of order. You are in danger of being asked to leave. You are putting a question to the Minister, and you should not do it on a point of order.

Mr. Nyamweya: I was concluding, Mr. Speaker, Sir, by saying that, at present, the Government has no intention of amending this particular Act.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 391: LICENCES FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the very unsatisfactory reply by the hon. Member from I do not know where, I wish to raise this matter on an adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 392

CENTRAL MUSEUM: AFRICAN CULTURE

Mr. Mate asked the Vice-President if he could tell the House what were the plans for the opening of a Central Museum at Nairobi for the preservation of art, archives and articles of value in African folk-lore.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As adequate facilities already exist for the preservation of art, archives and folk-lore, there is no need at present for the establishment of a Central Museum.

The National Museum, (formerly Coryndon Museum) is prepared to, and does, collect and preserve valuable materials of art and folk-lore, and the Kenya National Archives, which is a department in the Office of the Vice-President, collects and preserves archives of historical or administrative value.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that this would also include modes of dress of the different tribes, weapons of war of the tribes, traditional art of the tribes, material paraphernalia of the tribes, ceremonial dress of the tribes, music and the various musical instruments of the tribes and African technological genius, in such a manner that it would actually give a national representation of African history?

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware that the National Museum is not prepared to accept any of the items listed by the hon. Mr. Mate in fact they have a fine tribal collection of costumes, weapons, utensils and jewellery already.

Mr. Mbogohi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what steps is the Ministry taking to collect all those things for the National Museum?

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the museum collects these things; we as a Ministry do not collect these things. But, Sir, if the hon. Mr. Mbogohi has in mind any items of interest for the National Museum, I would be very glad to hear about them and see them.

Mr. Muthoo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell the House what efforts the Government is making to encourage this development of a National Museum?

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question was about a Central Museum, which was to include art, archives and folk-lore. We have recently passed a Bill in this House to set up a National Archives Department which is already being organized and we are training staff, both locally and overseas, for this particular job. Also the National Museum is expanding all the time, and when it reaches the stage of needing a new building, then, Mr. Speaker, Sir, no doubt the Government will take the appropriate action.

Question No. 355

RUBBER INDUSTRY FOR KENYA

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Economic Planning and Development if he would tell the House whether a rubber industry would be established in Kenya.

The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Yes, a rubber industry could be established in Kenya. But before such an industry is established, it is imperative to carry out a detailed feasibility study. The hon. Member might be interested to know that we have proposals which are now being investigated by the Government and a statement will be issued in due course.

Question No. 364

ASUMBI GIRLS' SECONDARY SCHOOL AND WORLD BANK

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House when the World Bank Mission, which visited Asumbi Girls' Secondary School last year and agreed to take it over in January 1966 for development purposes, would start its work at the school concerned.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Kionellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Work on the Kenya Government's current development programme for expanding secondary school facilities, which includes the establishment of new streams at Asumbi Girls' School, and which is dependent on the Government's obtaining loan funds from the International Development Association, will proceed as soon as negotiations with the World Bank have been completed and authority is given for expenditure to begin.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Would the Assistant Minister please repeat his reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You did not hear it? No, Mr. Kionellah, I did not hear it very well. Come a little nearer one of the amplifiers.

Mr. ole Kionellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, work on the Kenya Government's current development programme for expanding secondary school facilities, which includes the establishment of new streams at Asumbi Girls' School, and which is dependent on the Government's obtaining loans from the International Development Association, will proceed as soon as negotiations with the World Bank have been completed and authority has been given for expenditure to begin.

Tuesday, 8th March 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair.]

PRAYERS

PAPER LAID

The following Paper was laid on the Table:—

Interim Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the year ending 30th June 1964.

(By the Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya) on behalf of the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee)

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

RECRUITMENT OF MORAN INTO KENYA ARMY AND POLICE

Mr. Rurumbani: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT this House being aware of the steady increase of stock theft by the Samburu and Masai Moran, calls upon the Government to find jobs for those Moran, particularly in the Kenya Rifles and the police force, with a view to mitigating and reducing the present toll of stock thefts in the country.

AFRICANIZATION: COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the slow Africanization policy in the commercial and business firms and companies in this country, this House urges the Government to make a legislation under which such firms and companies will be required to have at least 50 per cent of their executive jobs taken by Africans.

AFRICANIZATION IN INDUSTRY TO END UNEMPLOYMENT

Mr. Agari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the seriousness of the unemployment situation among the indigenous people of Kenya, especially the Africans, this House calls upon the Government to enunciate an industrial policy which would ensure speeding up of Africanization, in private firms and public organizations, of all jobs which even now are still being unnecessarily filled by foreigners and immigrants who have refused to take up Kenya citizenship after two years of grace.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I see that there was a notice of Motion due to be given by the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee. If there is any other member of the Public Accounts Committee present, it would be in order for him to give that notice. Mr. Nyamweya, you are a member of the Public Accounts Committee.

REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): I am Sir.

I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT this House approves the recommendations of the Interim Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the year ending 30th June 1964.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 393

LICENCES FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS

Mr. Shikuku asked the Minister of State in the President's Office:

(a) Whether he would tell the House why the district commissioners, particularly the one in Kakamega, had decided to reinforce the imperialist law, as far as licences for public meetings were concerned, namely, that no one could speak at such a meeting unless his or her name was on the list of speakers.

(b) Would the Minister also tell the House whether the police, who used to issue the licences for public meetings and who sometimes allowed people other than those on the licence to speak, were breaking the law.

(c) If not, would the Minister tell the House whether he would not stop the present system being enforced by the district commissioners.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Public Order Act provides that a public meeting may only be held under the conditions laid down in the licence. For security reasons, the conditions which may be imposed by the licensing officer may vary from time to time and from place to place, and it is the responsibility of the licensee to comply with the conditions of his licence.

When the police allowed people whose names were not included in the licence to speak, it did not mean that they were breaking the law. The licensing officer has the discretion to decide whether or not the names of other speakers should

[The Minister of State, President's Office] be included in the licence, in which event only those listed in the licence may speak. Section (c), therefore, does not arise.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, when he referred to the question of security, does he mean to tell me, Sir, that the police who were issuing these licences to hon. Members or to other people to organize public meetings in those days that there was then no security risk and that now the district commissioners are issuing licences because of the security risks? Who knows better, the district commissioners or the police?

Mr. Nyamweya: The security question has been there always, even before the authority for issuing licences was transferred from the police to the administration.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply of the Minister, is he aware that the Member for Nyandarua, who is well known in this House and who is a strong supporter of the Government, when I approached the district commissioner to have his name on the licence, but that he refused to have him on the licence? Is he a security risk? Could the Minister tell the House this?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am informed that the hon. Member for Nyandarua is not at present a security risk.

Mr. Mubiro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister not agree with me that the humiliation of Members of Parliament lowers the dignity of this House?

Mr. Nyamweya: The humiliation of any person is a disgrace, not only a disgrace for the Members of this House, so it is upon the hon. Members of this House to ensure that everything is done according to law so that no humiliation comes.

Mr. J. M. Karuhit: On a point of order, Sir, is the hon. Minister in order to say that he is now told—does he want to imply that I was a security risk at the time when the licence was refused?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I do not think there was any such implication, but perhaps the Minister would like to assure you of that.

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not say that he is now not; what I said was that I am informed that the hon. Member for Nyandarua is at present not a security risk. Not at present. I cannot guarantee the future.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, this is most interesting. Would the Minister of State for the President's Office tell the House whether, by the use of the words "at present", at the time—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Are you raising on a point of order?

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Now, is it in order for him to—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You had better sit down, I think, Mr. Ngala-Abok.

Mr. Anyienk: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, this question deals with time which is past and the hon. Minister says that it was not good for the hon. Member to address the meeting says that "now"—does that not imply, Sir, that at that time he was a security risk?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! We have finished with that one.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the answer, Mr. Speaker, that the hon. Member for Nyandarua is at present not a security risk, could the Minister now tell the House that at that time, when the Member for Nyandarua came to Butere, that he was then a security risk?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Nyandarua has not been a security risk and, furthermore, even at present, he is not one. What the hon. Member for Butere fails to understand is that the permit to hold a public meeting was issued in Kakamega District and the Kakamega District licensing officer has the right to look into the problems of security in Kakamega. There is no need to drag the Member for Nyandarua into this.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on this question, would the Minister agree with me that the licensing officers should have no powers whatsoever to refuse a Member of Parliament the right to address a meeting and that the proper procedure would be for the Government to prosecute the Member should he do anything that is likely to cause trouble?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am one of those people who believe in freedom of speech—not theoretically but practically—and I would assure the hon. Members of this House that, subject to the usual limitations of the security of the nation, no Member's freedom is going to be curtailed.

Mr. Mbogobi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not true that the President has ruled that anybody can address a meeting anywhere in this country if the people of that area are interested in listening to him?

Mr. Nyamweya: I am not aware of that ruling, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Is there nobody here from the Ministry of Agriculture? That will have to wait.

Question No. 364

WORLD BANK AND ASUMBI GIRLS' SECONDARY SCHOOL

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Education whether he would tell the House when the World Bank Mission which visited Asumbi Girls' Secondary School last year and agreed to take it over in January 1966 for development purposes would start its work at the school concerned.

POINT OF ORDER

ABSENCE OF MINISTERS

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think it is very, very insulting of the Ministers to be absent from the House when Members come here to hear very important replies on matters affecting the country. Would I be in order, Mr. Speaker, under Standing Order 14, to move that this matter is discussed now as a matter of national importance?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think it is a case to which we can apply Standing Order 14. It is a fairly continuous feature of our sittings, this, that on Friday mornings, for some reason, Ministers are unable to get here when we get here. It is extremely unsatisfactory, but it is not the sort of case to which Standing Order 14 applies. Sometimes, on other occasions, the House has shown its dissatisfaction by moving the adjournment of the House substantively, that is to say, moving we actually do adjourn, on the ground that it is not much use sitting here if Ministers are not going to attend.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, following your ruling, would I, therefore, be in order to move straight away that we adjourn the House in view of the absence of the Ministers?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, it would be in order to do that.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE: ABSENCE OF MINISTERS

Mr. Shikuku: Being in order, may I take this opportunity, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to express our deepest dissatisfaction and disgust at the behaviour of the Ministers in continuously absenting themselves from this House and, I feel, this is because the Ministers have been overworked since we obtained independence. The original Ministers are still Ministers and they must be tired, and it is time, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my opinion, if I may submit to the President of the Republic of Kenya, that a fresh Cabinet is necessary.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I am sorry when you are moving substantively that the House do now adjourn, the only thing you can argue is that we should adjourn; it does not become a matter under Standing Order 14.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In order to make things go fast and that we adjourn this House, and for the public to know that the Ministers are tired and cannot present themselves in this House—probably they had too much drink last night—perhaps we—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Just keep your control of what you say now, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn in order to show our great dissatisfaction.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to second this. The reason why I would like to support this is because we all know that on Friday morning Parliament should be meeting. The Members who should be most concerned are the Ministers of the Government and they should therefore come here punctually, particularly when there is a question for any Minister to answer. It is a custom in any Parliament in the world that the Minister concerned should be present in person to reply to the question. Failing to be present is an insult to the House and to the Members who are taking the trouble to ask questions. I think it is very likely that the House should show its indignation by adjourning as we should like the message to reach the President, that his Ministers are going slow and do not attend.

I, therefore, support the Motion.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Kase: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since the matter is self-explanatory, I beg to move that the question be now put.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! That is perfectly reasonable on a Motion of this kind. I will now put the question.

(Question: that the question be now put, put and agreed to.)

DIVISION

(Question put)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Hon. Members, please keep a little self-control. Remember where you are.

Mr. Anyien: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that when this matter was being discussed there were no Ministers here, and in view of the fact that the Ministers are here now, is it not in order that we propose that we continue now?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You ought to know procedure better than that, Mr. Anyien.

Hon. Members will see for themselves what you point out. There is no question of reopening the debate.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, according to Standing Orders, what is a quorum in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): A quorum, as the hon. Member should know, is twenty Members.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would you rule on this point of order why Ministers cannot continue debating while the Ministers take the blame? The House can continue debating when there is a quorum.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not understand your point of order, Mr. Ngala-Abok.

(The House divided)

(Question carried by 36 votes to 29)

AYES: Messrs. Amin, Bala, Balala, Baraza, Bonaya, Choge, Dingiria, Gatuguta, Gichoya, Kall, J. M. Kariuki, Kase, Kioko, Kiprotich, Maisori-Iumbo, Mate, Matl, Mbali, Mulama, Muliro, Mwanzandi, Mwatsama, Ndile, Ngala, Nyaberi, Odera-Sar, Omar, Oselu-Nyallick, Rurumban, Seroney, Shikuku, Soli, Somo, Tanui, and Tuva.

Tellers of the Ayes: Messrs. Gichoya and Odera-Jowi.

NOES: Messrs. Acheng-Onoko, Bii, Gichuru, E. D. Godana, Godia, Ithari, Kerich, Komora, Khayo, Makoha, Makone, Malinda, Malu, Mbogoh, Mboya, Moi, Mutiso, Mwalwa, Mwenda, Ngala-Abok, Nyamweya, Odera-Jowi, Okwanyo, Omweri, Onamu, Osogo, Pandya, Theuri and Tipi.

Tellers of the Noes: Messrs. Muliro and Onamu.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Acheng-Onoko): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the House has not sat, are the Members entitled to receive their allowances for today?

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that many Members are concerned all the time about the poor people, is it fair for the whole country—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! That is not a valid point of order. You are trying to go over the ground of whether or not the House should have resolved as it has. You cannot do that.

Mr. Malinda: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, when this Motion was being discussed, the sentiments were that the House should adjourn until the Ministers were available—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! There was no such qualification of the Motion nor could there be.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is now adjourned until Tuesday, 8th March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past Nine o'clock.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, can the Member substantiate that I take instructions from Makan'yengo?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I gathered from the speech of the hon. Member, if the whole text is read, it is exactly what the hon. Member has told the House, and—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! You are asked to substantiate that the hon. Member has taken instructions from this gentleman. I think you must explain what kind of instructions you mean and then say on what evidence.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the instruction, I took it, was to ventilate this matter here because it was not published—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You mean that document?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Having explained what instructions you mean, you must now say why you say that Mr. Oduya took instructions from this gentleman.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this I take it, is the document which the Press refused to publish. This is the document which pleads for the governing council to be postponed. This is the document, Mr. Speaker, which, paragraph by paragraph, was repeated in the speech of the hon. Mover. Any person trained in a profession like mine would draw that conclusion.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, my hon. learned friend, who has decided to use that to substantiate the allegation he has just made, has stated that the hon. Member has been quoting from this article which he alleges the Press refused to publish. When the hon. Member there was speaking, Mr. Speaker, I never saw him quote from a written text—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, order!

Mr. Anyieni: Just a minute, Mr. Speaker, I am—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I am sorry, no, Order! The hon. Member has given his substantiation; he has not alleged that there was actual reading of that circular, he has alleged that Mr. Oduya's arguments were exactly similar to what is contained in that circular. Order! That is his reason for what he said. The House takes it or leaves it.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Not on that question any more.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Member has just said that I did quote the paper—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Not in my hearing.

Mr. Oduya: Yes, he said that I was quoting—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. We are finished with this point and there is one minute left before the adjournment.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Not on that point.

Mr. Shikuku: Yes—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, you will sit down. I have finished that point.

Mr. Nyamweya—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was concluding by saying that the only logical thing for the Members of the National Assembly to do, instead of trying to put off the convention which everybody has been asking for, is to go to the convention on Sunday, 13th, with clean hands, and every Member, Mr. Speaker, will be able—

Mr. Mallinda: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member for Teso in order in referring to the Member who is speaking as a stooge of Mr. Mboya?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, he is completely out of order. Unfortunately, it is too late for me to do anything about it.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the interruption of business. The House is adjourned until tomorrow, Friday, 4th March, at 9 a.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past six o'clock.

Friday, 4th March 1966

The House met at Nine o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 380

SELECTION OF ELECTORAL COMMISSION PERSONNEL

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister of State, President's Office what factors were taken into consideration when appointing the Electoral Commission.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There does not appear to be anyone ready to answer it yet, we must wait with it then.

Your next question, Mr. Nyaberi.

Question No. 381

KENYA'S DEFICIT IN BALANCE OF PAYMENT

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Finance whether he would tell the House if Kenya tended to have a continuous deficit in her balance of payments in as far as loans and investments from abroad were concerned.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. If by a "deficit" on the capital account of the Kenya balance of payments, the Member for North Mugirango means that capital outflow is smaller than capital inflow, then it is true that Kenya tends to have a "deficit" on the capital account of the balance of payments. Such a situation is, however, normally regarded as a "surplus" situation. A balance of payments is usually divided into current and capital accounts. It must balance by definition when current and capital accounts are taken together. A deficit on the current account of balance of payments arises when a country's expenditure on foreign goods and services exceeds its income from overseas. If this deficit is not financed by foreign borrowing (a capital inflow), the country in question would have to use its foreign exchange reserves to finance the deficit. Thus, a deficit on current account enables a country to have a greater command over real resources (particularly capital goods) than otherwise possible, and a surplus on capital account (a net inflow) makes it possible to finance the deficit on current account without running down reserves.

It will be necessary for us to have a net inflow on capital account for some years to come if the pace of development is to be accelerated. There are two reasons for this. First, as domestic savings are inadequate in relation to our capital requirements, we must borrow foreign savings. Second, our need for foreign exchange is greater than our capacity to earn it. However, it is the Government's intention to reduce the reliance on foreign borrowing by increasing domestic savings and intensifying policies of export promotion and import-substitution.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the very explanatory answer, would the Minister tell the House whether our production is increasing to meet the value of exports abroad?

Mr. Gichuru: It is increasing gradually and steadily.

Mr. Onweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here, continuous deficit means as I understand it, that we are not able to put in money for some particular development. Would the Minister then tell this House how long he intends to continue this kind of deficit, so that he supplements whatever requirement of finance we have from foreign-borrowed loans?

Mr. Gichuru: It will depend entirely on how hard you and I work. If we work hard and produce more and therefore sell more, we shall be able thereby to reduce our deficit.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister tell this House in which country Kenya makes much more payment abroad, which country really leads in as far as payments abroad are concerned?

Mr. Gichuru: Our largest lender is Great Britain.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister agree with me that as far as Kenya is a young country and Great Britain is the parent country, that our local industries are much more important than these other industries? Local industries, including any commodity that we can produce and get money from?

Mr. Gichuru: This is exactly what I have just said, Sir, that we shall have to produce more, industrially, agriculturally and in every other way in order to lower our deficit.

Question No. 388

AGRICULTURAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND LAND BANK LOANS

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry—

(a) how many loans had been given to the people of Central Nyanza by the Land Bank up to now, and

(b) how many loans had been given to the people of Central Nyanza by the Agricultural Finance Corporation up to now.

[Mr. Kaggali]

conference must be convened by the Executive Committee. We cannot be compelled, Mr. Speaker, to believe that Mr. Thomas Joseph Mboya is the Executive Committee as such. This we can never allow. It was only the other day, Mr. Speaker, that he had a circular from the organizing secretary, who told us the position of the party, a very appalling position. That they have not paid their office rent; they have no telephone; they have not submitted any returns for a long time, and the Executive Committee has not met for a long time; the Governing Council has not met for a long time. Who instructed Mr. Mboya to call this delegates' conference? With whose authority has he called it, Mr. Speaker? Because of this, we want to appeal to the President that this delegates' conference must be postponed, so that the proper Executive Committee can meet and convene the meeting properly, and decide the place of the meeting and the time.

The other point, Mr. Speaker, which is very disgraceful, the secretary-general called this meeting in the State House. This is the first time, Mr. Speaker, we have heard in the history of any delegates' conference of a political party, of it being called in the residence of the Head of the State. This is a disgrace. This is the first time we have heard of this. I am going to say what is wrong with this. This is almost the same as a delegates' conference of the Conservative Party being held in Buckingham Palace. This is a thing we have never heard of. Mr. Speaker, it appears that some people feel that they are not secure; they do not feel safe in any other house except in the State House. If Mr. Mboya cannot feel safe in Kanu headquarters, or any other place except in the State House, it is high time he resigned because he has not the guts to sit in the headquarters there and wait for the delegates' conference. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I would not like to take up too much time, but I very strongly appeal to the President. We are not going to allow the State House of this country to be corrupted by the mistakes of some individuals here. We are not going to allow the name of the President, as we have said so many times here, some cowardly whenever they are in trouble, they try to hide behind the coat of Mzee. This we are not going to allow. Let the delegates' conference be convened properly in the Kanu headquarters. We will go there, and if needs be we will fight there.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to second.

(Question proposed)

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am going to deal with this question without any emotion at all, since I have no interest in any office and I do not wish to run for any office in the party.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, during the month of January, the question was tabled in this House by the hon. Mr. Lorema, Member for West Pokot, concerning the affairs of the Kenya African National Union. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the House will remember that I was very closely cross-examined as to the affairs of the party, and why the conference had not been convened. When dealing with this question in the House, I assured the hon. Members that the President intended that the Governing Council, or the conference, should be convened as soon as possible. Just last week, Mr. Speaker, Sir, a similar question was tabled in the Senate, and the questioner asked, "Will the Minister state the date he has fixed for holding the next Kanu Governing Council meeting in 1966?" Mr. Speaker, Sir, all these proceedings in this Chamber and in another place, there is no reason why we should think that the statements or expressions made in this House and in the Senate are not conveyed to the President. As it has been revealed in the past, Mr. Speaker, the President is quite sensible in going in touch with public opinion, and there have been consistent demands from the Senate, as well as from this House, that a convention should be called. Consequently, there is no reason why anybody should think that the calling of the convention has not been given the blessing of the President as the president of the party.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is my hon. colleague and friend out of order here, because the question that is being discussed is postponement of the conference, not that the conference should not be held?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, it was alleged in the course of the argument against it that hon. Members, or rather officers of the party, I do not know which, were sheltering behind the coat of the President. This is a relevant answer, I think.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Kanu Delegates' Conference has been convened to be held on the 13th March 1966. The hon. Member for Kandara has read the relevant parts from the Kanu constitution which deal with this. Although, I do not know, it is a matter of interpretation, Mr. Speaker, the constitution requires twenty-one days; but at the same time, there are provisions that, wherever practicable, by Press advertisement, not less than fourteen days before the date of the conference. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am aware that the advertisement in the Press and on the radio was made on the 28th February, 1966. I am explaining this, if the hon. Members would lend me their

[The Minister of State, President's Office] ears they will see the point I want to make. Mr. Speaker, Sir, so far as that is concerned, there is a clear fourteen days notice which is consistent with the constitution.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is my hon. friend in order to mislead the House? The statement in the Press never mentioned the word conference.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Okelo-Odongo, you cannot rise on a point of order to join in the argument. I have told you this so often that you will leave the Chamber now.

(Mr. Okelo-Odongo withdrew from the Chamber)

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have here the notice which was issued by the secretary-general, an excerpt of which was read to the House by the hon. Mover of this Motion. What he failed to do, Mr. Speaker, was to inform the House of the sequence of events leading to the Kanu Delegates' Conference on the 13th March. I was under the impression that he was trying to mislead the House by trying to say that the Ministers and Assistant Ministers and some other people have usurped the powers of the Governing Council. It says here, Mr. Speaker, "On Friday, 11th March 1966, the President, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, will meet all Members of the National Assembly at Harambee House, Nairobi. There will be a general discussion about the role of the party and its constitution." In this meeting, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is intended that the President will brief and prepare the Members for the delegates' conference on Sunday. "On Saturday"—the phrase which has been taken as offensive—"the President will meet the three officials from all the branches in the country, as well as the Ministers and Assistant Ministers, Government Whip, and the secretary and the vice-chairman." Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Members fear that there is going to be brain-washing somewhere, they are totally mistaken. On the 13th, Mr. Speaker, Sir, circular says, "Kanu Delegates' Conference at the State House, the conference will be addressed by the President, it will consider the adoption of a new party constitution, and its implementation, including the election of national officials." Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Kandara has taken exception to the venue, saying that a mistake has been made by convening this meeting at State House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Kandara, who is my good friend, will bear me out that at one time he and myself and other persons visited Moscow and we had a big conference in the Kremlin. At the same time, Mr. Speaker, according to the brief we were given when we were in the Kremlin, we were taken to the palace where they usually hold their party conferences and where the officers are elected. I suppose some hon. Members would like us to be fairly close to what goes on in the Kremlin.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this notice convening the meeting, there is mention of the elections of the national officials. There is no reason, Mr. Speaker, Sir, why some people should think that the best thing to do to postpone the elections is to come here. After all, under the same constitution, Mr. Speaker, we are told that the composition of the delegates' conference shall be as follows: members of the National Executive Committee, presumably those who have been holding offices as president, vice-president, and so on. It is true.

Mr. Oduya: It is not.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): It also says, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that all Kanu members of the legislature or Parliament—that is to say, all Members of the National Assembly—will be at this meeting on the 13th. This is page 7, I would tell the hon. Member for Butere. Also, there will be six delegates duly elected by each Branch Executive Committee of the union.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, that being the case, I suggest that the best course for the hon. Member for Teso, a person with whom I have some—

An hon. Member: Dulike.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): No, I would not say that, Mr. Speaker. As a matter of fact, the hon. Member for Teso is a very good friend of mine.

What I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is this: If the hon. Member for Teso or the Member for Kandara has any misgivings about the elections of the office bearers, which they think, as some people have said—"I have a circular here which came to us, office this morning. Big meetings planned by certain politicians to out-manoeuvre their political opponents. Then it goes on to say a few other things about the party and also pleading with the President Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, who is also the President of Kanu, not to allow these meetings to take place for, instead of bringing unity and reorganizing Kanu, they will cause an open split and disorganization of the party.

This letter is signed by Ochoia Ogaya Makenyege from whom, I am told, perhaps the hon. Member received instructions.

conference must be convened by the Executive Committee. We cannot be compelled, Mr. Speaker, to believe that Mr. Thomas Joseph Mboya is the Executive Committee as such. This we can never allow. It was only the other day, Mr. Speaker, that we had a circular from the organizing secretary, who told us the position of the party, a very appalling position. That they have not paid their office rent; they have no telephone; they have not submitted any returns for a long time, and the Executive Committee has not met for a long time; the Governing Council has not met for a long time. Who instructed Mr. Mboya to call this delegates' conference? With whose authority has he called it, Mr. Speaker? Because of this, we want to appeal to the President that this delegates' conference must be postponed, so that the proper Executive Committee can meet and convene the meeting properly, and decide the place of the meeting and the time.

The other point, Mr. Speaker, which is very disgraceful, the secretary-general called this meeting in the State House. This is the first time, Mr. Speaker, we have heard in the history of any delegates' conference of a political party, of it being called in the residence of the Head of the State. This is a disgrace. This is the first time we have heard of this. I am going to say what is wrong with this. This is almost the same as a delegates' conference of the Conservative Party being held in Buckingham Palace. This is a thing we have never heard of. Mr. Speaker, it appears that some people feel that they are not secure; they do not feel safe in any other house except in the State House. If Mr. Mboya cannot feel safe in Kanu headquarters, or any other place except in the State House, it is high time he resigned because he has not the guts to sit in the headquarters there and wait for the delegates' conference. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I would not like to take up too much time, but I very strongly appeal to the President. We are not going to allow the State House of this country to be corrupted by the mistakes of some individuals here. We are not going to allow the name of the President, as we have said so many times here, some cowards whenever they are in trouble, they try to hide behind the coat of Mzee. This we are not going to allow. Let the delegates' conference be convened properly in the Kanu headquarters. We will go there, and if needs be we will fight there.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to second.

(Question proposed)

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am going to deal with this question without any emotion at all, since I have no interest in any office and I do not wish to run for any office in the party.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, during the month of January, the question was tabled in this House by the hon. Mr. Lorema, Member for West Pokot, concerning the affairs of the Kenya African National Union. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the House will remember that I was very closely cross-examined as to the affairs of the party, and why the conference had not been convened. When dealing with this question in the House, I assured the hon. Members that the President intended that the Governing Council, or the conference, should be convened as soon as possible. Just last week, Mr. Speaker, Sir, a similar question was tabled in the Senate, and the questioner asked, "Will the Minister state the date he has fixed for holding the next Kanu Governing Council meeting in 1966?" Mr. Speaker, Sir, all these proceedings in this Chamber and in another place, there is no reason why we should think that the statements or expressions made in this House and in the Senate are not conveyed to the President. As it has been revealed in the past, Mr. Speaker, the President is quite sensible in getting in touch with public opinion, and there have been consistent demands from the Senate, as well as from this House, that a convention should be called. Consequently, there is no reason why anybody should think that the calling of the convention has not been given the blessing of the President as the president of the party.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is my hon. colleague and friend out of order here because the question that is being discussed is postponement of the conference, not that the conference should not be held?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, it was alleged in the course of the argument against it that hon. Members, or rather, officers of the party, I do not know which, were sheltering behind the coat of the President. This is a relevant answer, I think.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Kanu Delegates' Conference has been convened to be held on the 13th March 1966. The hon. Member for Kandara has read the relevant parts from the Kanu constitution which deal with this. Although I do not know, it is a matter of interpretation, Mr. Speaker, the constitution requires twenty-one days, but at the same time, there are provisions that, wherever practicable, by Press advertisement, not less than fourteen days before the date of the conference. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am aware that the advertisement in the Press and on the radio was made on the 28th February, 1966. I am explaining this, if the hon. Members would lend me their

(The Minister of State, President's Office) ears they will see the point I want to make, Mr. Speaker, Sir, so far as that is concerned, there is a clear fourteen days' notice which is consistent with the constitution.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is my hon. friend in order to mislead the House? The statement in the Press never mentioned the word conference.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Okelo-Odongo, you cannot rise on a point of order to join in the argument. I have told you this so often that you will leave the Chamber now.

(Mr. Okelo-Odongo withdrew from the Chamber)

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have here the notice which was issued by the secretary-general, an excerpt of which was read to the House by the hon. Mover of this Motion. What he failed to do, Mr. Speaker, was to inform the House of the sequence of events leading to the Kanu Delegates' Conference on the 13th March. I was under the impression that he was trying to mislead the House by trying to say that the Ministers and Assistant Ministers and some other people have usurped the powers of the Governing Council. It says here, Mr. Speaker, "On Friday, 11th March 1966, the President, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, will meet all Members of the National Assembly at Harambee House, Nairobi. There will be a general discussion about the role of the party and its constitution." In this meeting, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is intended that the President will brief and prepare the Members for the delegates' conference on Sunday. "On Saturday"—the phrase which has been taken as offensive—"the President will meet the three officials from all the branches in the country, as well as the Ministers and Assistant Ministers, Government Whip, and the secretary and the vice-chairman." Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Members fear that there is going to be brain-washing somewhere, they are totally mistaken. On the 13th, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this circular says, "Kanu Delegates' Conference at the State House, the conference will be addressed by the President, it will consider the adoption of a new party constitution, and its implementation, including the election of national officials." Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Kandara has taken exception to the venue, saying that a mistake has been made by convening this meeting at State House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Kandara, who is my good friend, will bear me out that at one time he and myself and other persons visited Moscow and we had a big conference in the Kremlin. At the same time, Mr. Speaker, according to the brief we were given when we were in the Kremlin, we were taken to the palace where they usually hold their party conferences and where the officers are elected. I suppose some hon. Members would like us to be fairly close to what goes on in the Kremlin!

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this notice convening the meeting, there is mention of the elections of the national officials. There is no reason, Mr. Speaker, Sir, why some people should think that the best thing to do to postpone the elections is to come here. After all, under the same constitution, Mr. Speaker, we are told that the composition of the delegates' conference shall be as follows: members of the National Executive Committee, presumably those who have been holding offices as president, vice-president, and so on. It is true.

Mr. Odinya: It is not.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): It also says, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that all Kanu members of the legislature or Parliament—that is to say, all Members of the National Assembly—will be at this meeting on the 13th. This is page 7, I would tell the hon. Member for Butere. Also, there will be six delegates duly elected by each Branch Executive Committee of the union.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, that being the case, I suggest that the best course for the hon. Member for Teso, a person with whom I have some—

An hon. Member Dislike

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): No, I would not say that, Mr. Speaker. As a matter of fact, the hon. Member for Teso is a very good friend of mine.

What I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is this. If the hon. Member for Teso or the Member for Kandara has any misgivings about the elections of the office bearers, which they think, as some people have said—I have a circular here which came to our office this morning—big meetings planned by certain politicians to out-manoeuvre their political opponents. Then it goes on to say a few other things about the party and also pleading with the President Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, who is also the President of Kanu, not to allow these meetings to take place; for, instead of bringing unity and reorganizing Kanu, they will cause an open split and disorganization of the party.

This letter is signed by Ochiola Ogayo Makenye from whom, I am told, perhaps the hon. Member received instructions.

[Mr. Oduya] enough to be appointed as Ministers—and we feel that they have a duty to discuss Government policy jointly. It is no use saying that today Members will discuss things, tomorrow other people will discuss, and so on. This does not bring about unity, something which we want very much.

Therefore we say that the conference should not be rushed into very quickly. There is no need to rush this conference. The main thing is that the public of Kenya want unity and that unity cannot come about if we do not respect the registered constitutions of our political institutions. If we only think of respecting our positions in the Government, also our positions as Members of this House, if we think we are there to deliver the goods to the people separately instead of jointly, then things will go wrong. This is why I appeal to the President of the Republic to see that what he did in the trade union movement should be done here in the political sector. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are all working for unity.

I do not know if the Secretary-General is going to reply on behalf of the President. If he is going to, then is he going to tell us whether this is good advice on the part of the Members? I do not know if all Members will support because everybody has his own particular opinion.

However, I would like to say that even those who are considered to be, possibly, the minority—of course, some people have bigger numbers. This is a democratic State, we must gather views and see that there is unity. I do not like the idea of saying that those who can speak after, all, Ministers in the Government. This will not help us to get anywhere. Since the secretary-general is here, perhaps he will indicate whether this line follows the registered constitution of the party as laid down. That is not governed here. What is here is only to adopt a new constitution and then carry out by-elections. However, this message was not in the telegrams that were sent to the branches. The question of elections was not mentioned.

For the reasons I have given above, I request that the President—I speak sincerely and say that we all owe allegiance to the party, we owe allegiance to the President because we have made him our servant to a certain extent; we feel that unity must be maintained, and that is why we need to see that everything that we do conforms with Government policy. Everything must be scrutinized jointly by all heads in this country to see that you do our duty to our people. We must forget our personal views. This is what I am trying to straighten out in this Motion.

I cannot go into details on this matter, because the Chair has advised me to speak only with certain limits and not to expound about the party constitution or other things. I cannot do this, therefore. So, I only wanted to bring to the notice of Government what we think.

Already there are suggestions throughout the country that elections should be postponed. It seems as if the Press have been advised that they should not accept to make this matter public because the Government does not like that.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onyko): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Member alleging that the Government has instructed the Press not to give publicity to what is being discussed now? Is it in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Are you alleging that, Mr. Oduya?

Mr. Oduya: I said it is rumoured, I did not say—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, no, Hon. Members know that they cannot get away with allegations by saying that they are rumoured. It is it bad to say things are rumoured as to say they are a fact.

You should not say a thing at all unless you are prepared to substantiate, which is what Mr. Achieng-Onyko is asking for. He is asking for substantiation of a rumour which apparently you believe. If you do not believe, then you must not mention it. Do you substantiate or withdraw, Mr. Oduya?

Mr. Oduya: Yes, I withdraw.

A circular was issued yesterday and was also sent to the Press, but it did not appear in the Press. The man who issued the circular is one of the citizens of the country, but the Press—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): And what was that circular about?

Mr. Oduya: The circular was to the effect that there were complaints that the elections should not be held.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right.

Mr. Oduya: That is why I say the Minister should check and find out who issued the order, whether they are orders or not. We are the custodians of public opinion because we are democratic.

Mr. Speaker, I want to end here because I would like to enable other Members to speak on this Motion.

The Seconder to the Motion is Mr. Kagga.

Mr. Kagga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as we have a very short time, I will confine myself to a few reasons that we have to appeal to the Government to postpone the proposed delegates' conference.

First, Mr. Speaker, we have a programme here written by the secretary-general, dated 1st March, and this circular calls for a delegates' conference on the 13th of this month, which means about twelve days from the 1st.

I am now going to read a small portion of the Constitution which shows very clearly that this delegates' conference is definitely unconstitutional. That is why we oppose the holding of the delegates' conference on the given date.

Before I come to this, I would like to mention that it has been said by the secretary-general, outside this Chamber, that we have been demanding the delegates' conference and now we come here and say that we do not want the delegates' conference. What we have been demanding, Mr. Speaker, is a delegates' conference properly organized as under the Party Constitution. We never demanded an illegal, unconstitutional delegates' conference. We are not going to allow this.

Under the Kanu constitution, section 7 (c), it reads as follows: "The annual delegates' conference shall be held in the month of August of each year at a place and date which shall be decided by the National Executive Committee. Notice in writing of such annual delegates' conference, accompanied by annual statements of accounts and the agenda for the meeting shall be sent by the secretary-general to all branches and persons entitled to attend the conference not less than twenty-one days before the date of the conference, and, where practicable, by Press advertisement not less than fourteen days before the date of the conference." Mr. Speaker, as I have said, the notice here was sent only eleven days beforehand and, therefore, it does not even come under the fourteen days' time set out in the constitution.

Again, Sir, we have not received twenty-one days' notice in writing. Therefore, this delegates' conference is entirely unconstitutional, and we are not going to allow it.

It has been common knowledge in this country, Mr. Speaker, that the Party has been run wrongly since 1960. There has been no election and the so-called secretary-general sits there unconstitutionally, as far as the Party constitution is concerned, because he has, under this constitution, to be either re-elected or removed every year. However, since 1960, nobody ever confirmed him and he never called any delegates' conference for election.

The other points on which I feel very strongly are these: He has been telling us every now and then that reorganization is going on in various branches. In the Central Province, Mr. Speaker, we had elections in August 1964, in the whole of the province—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Kagga, you are getting away into the domestic affairs of the party, which I said was not relevant to this Motion. Unless you can relate what you are saying directly to the objection to the Government's participation in the conference now being convened.

Mr. Kagga: I am going to relate this, Mr. Speaker, I said I had two reasons, one, the constitution, and the other one is the one I am now giving, which forces us to appeal for a postponement.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I see, you do say it is a reason for appealing for a postponement? It is difficult to see the relationship at the moment.

Mr. Kagga: I will show it, Mr. Speaker. After we had an election according to the constitution, and supervised by the properly elected Election Committee, another election was held last year, which was initiated by the secretary-general, and which was unconstitutional. Now, these unconstitutional elections took place not only in Murang'a but in many other branches. As a result of that, we have two branches in Murang'a. There are two branches in Homa Bay; two branches in Kitui; and many other branches, and because of this, Mr. Speaker—you can shout but I am going to prove this—therefore, Mr. Speaker, nobody knows which delegation will come from Murang'a, whether it will be from my branch or from Dr. Kiiano's branch. It is as simple as that. Mr. Speaker, this was initiated by the so-called secretary-general, because when, Mr. Speaker, I raised this question because Kiiano or his friend or who called, this meeting for elections in Murang'a were never elected officers of Kanu. They had no right to call this meeting. When I questioned this, Mr. Speaker, I went to the registrar's office and I found a letter written by the secretary-general confirming this illegal and unconstitutional election. Which proved that he is the one who initiated this so that he may have his friends and supporters to come to the so-called delegates' conference and vote for him.

This, Mr. Speaker, we are not going to allow, and because of this, as I said, it is not only in Murang'a, we feel that if we allow this unconstitutional conference, we are going to note Kanu is a party of confusion. Mr. Speaker, as I said, and as I read from the constitution, the delegates'

Mr. Komora: I beg your pardon, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have quite a lot more to say, I expect.

Mr. Komora: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Then, Mr. Komora, I have to interrupt you now, I am afraid, and you can continue when the debate is resumed.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

FORTHCOMING KANU ELECTIONS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now the time that I promised I would allow Mr. Oduya to move the adjournment of the House. Mr. Oduya.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

Mr. Gatunga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that the Motion which is being raised by the hon. Member is very important and therefore I want to seek your guidance as to whether we could proceed with this debate up until seven o'clock, since we have no other Motion for the Adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. By resolution of the House moved by a Minister, we can exempt this particular matter from the Standing Order which requires us to rise at 6.30 p.m. There is no other way. A Minister would have to move that the business of this Motion for the Adjournment be exempted from the provisions of the Standing Order. That is how it is done.

MOTION

EXTENSION OF HOURS OF BUSINESS

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Otieno): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think for the interest of which the other hon. Members have expressed towards this particular Motion, I would like to move that Standing Orders be exempted to enable the normal sitting time to be extended to seven o'clock.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I propose that the intention of the Minister who has moved, this is to keep us here for fifty minutes on a very small point, I would like to oppose the Motion which was moved by the Minister. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not see that there is any need at all for extending the time. If we now start talking until seven o'clock, then that will be seventy minutes. Now, Sir, intelligent and educated people like ourselves do not talk on obvious matters for seventy minutes. I wonder whether the Minister has moved this on behalf of the Government. Why does the Government want us—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I seek your ruling on the point made by the Minister when he stood to move that the time for this Motion be extended to seven o'clock was in order. If so, is the hon. Speaker in order to question whether the hon. Minister was speaking on behalf of the Government when he so requested?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! No, that is out of order. We have to assume, when Ministers say they speak with the authority of Government, that they do so. Actually, the Minister who moved the Motion did not say he spoke with the authority of the Government, but he moved it as a Minister undoubtedly. So his authority must be assumed.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, I must make it clear that the hon. Oduya has put forward a very straightforward question and that can be replied to within thirty minutes. Every Member, I am sure, understands the matter. So, there is no need to have this Motion going to seventy minutes. We know that as far as the question is concerned, the President is going to meet the Members of Parliament. The first opportunity will be given to the Members of Parliament to meet him in connexion with the conference that is due to take place. Therefore, Members of Parliament will have a chance to discuss matters.

We also know that the President will meet the delegates from the country, plus Members of Parliament together. Hence, there is no point in complaining that we are refused an opportunity to know what is going on either in the Party or in the Government. All that we need to be assured on is that we are not going to be refused the opportunity. That is all we would like the Minister to tell us. Does it take seventy minutes to say, for any Minister of Government to stand up and say, "You are not going to be refused the opportunity, gentlemen, to discuss it." Why do we need seventy minutes to do that?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are not dumb. I think some people would like to keep us here unnecessarily. Therefore, I would like to say this. I am quite sure that the Minister did not move this with the authority of the Government. If he did—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order, Mr. Ngala! I have said once that it is out of order to say that, and it is out of order the way we work things. You must not say that again.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like you to give us directions so far as the authority of Government is concerned.

(Mr. Gichoya)

because we have never heard a Minister saying that he has been ordered by the President to be the authority of the Government in a matter like this one. Since the hon.—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What is your point of order, Mr. Gichoya? You know, we are losing a lot of time.

Mr. Gichoya: My point of order is this: could we know from you when we determine this authority of the Government when a Minister stands as requested by the Chair to move the closure of business?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have answered that. The Minister's authority is assumed. Now, let us get on.

Have you anything more to say, Mr. Ngala? Did you say you had a short point?

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, I think I have said my point in short. I feel that we do not require seventy minutes—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are repeating yourself now, Mr. Ngala.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to oppose this very strongly.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the question be now put.

(Question, that the question be now put, put and agreed to)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I will now put the question that the business of this impending Motion for adjournment of the House be exempted from the provisions of Standing Order 11 to allow the debate to continue until 7 p.m.

(Question put and negatived)

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

FORTHCOMING KANU ELECTIONS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Oduya, will you please proceed.

Mr. Oduya: Time has been wasted! They have wasted time for nothing.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must blame the Minister for that.

Mr. Oduya: No, not the Minister. I blame Ngala.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right, carry on.

Mr. Maitiri-Imbibo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Member in order to refer to the hon. Ngala and saying, "blame Ngala" instead of saying "the hon. Ngala"?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Will you continue, Mr. Oduya.

Mr. Maitiri-Imbibo: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, do sit down. Mr. Maitiri-Imbibo, we have only a very limited time. Do leave us alone, please.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn in order to allow Members to discuss this matter on a Motion of urgent national importance, that is, the Kanu elections which are due very soon.

The reason why I have raised this issue as a matter of national importance is because it looks from the circular we received yesterday, from the Secretary-General, that the Government is actually brought into the electioneering of the party in full swing. Quoting one example is the question of the 12th of this month where the President, all Ministers, the Government Chief Whip, the Vice-Chairman, of the Parliamentary Group, the Secretary of the Parliamentary Group, all these will be on the Government side. They will meet, of course, the chairman, the secretary, the treasurer, the officers of all branches. This is where the Members of the National Assembly are excluded. On that day, the group I have mentioned will discuss Government policy which will deal with the administration of Government, that is, the relations between the party and the Government in matters of administration.

We feel that the Members are the people who are directly concerned with the running of this country; they deal with the affairs of this country today. This means they are a bridge between the Government and the public. Therefore, if you meet the representatives of our districts without us, the Members of the National Assembly, only the Ministers and Assistant Ministers, then this shows that the other side is cut off completely from the total policy that is to be discussed.

Because of this, I consider that this conference should not be held because this is one of the most important conferences. The country has been waiting for it. I feel that since it was not announced properly, it should be postponed. I appeal to the President to postpone this conference until further notice has been given. We should have at least three weeks' notice because the party has its own constitution by which it is to be governed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, actually the affairs of the party are not for any one individual. The same applies to the affairs of Government, they do not apply to any particular group. We feel it is a matter between the Members of this House, their representatives of the branches, and the Government Ministers—who have been fortunate people of a certain sub-location are completely dissatisfied with their chief or with their sub-chief they should be given the chance to elect the chief that they would want.

[Mr. Kibugi]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in most cases you find that the leaders—especially the Kanu leaders, the locational leaders, the county councillors, the area councillors—in most cases, have become disillusioned because they say, "You have passed this one in your Parliament, but when we go to approach the district commissioner, the chief and so on, some of them treat us badly." In fact, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there have been some incidents in my area where a chief or sub-chief tells the people, "We ruled you and we told you that we should rule you during the Emergency, and we shall still continue to rule you." We do not want to discriminate against anybody, Mr. Speaker, Sir, but it is necessary that people in a particular area should be given a chance to see democracy at work.

Today is the time for undertaking self-help projects and in order to carry out these projects there is the necessity for agreement between the political leaders and the administrative leaders, but you find in most cases that because the chief and the Kanu leader and the councillor do not agree, there is confusion in a certain sub-location and no projects are taking place. So, if we are to advance and if we were to work unitedly and start a lot of projects in the country, it is necessary to dismiss some of the old chiefs. Some of them are old and have reached an age where they should be retired, but there is also another lot who are not old, but they do not know what stage we have reached.

In the olden days, during the colonial time, a chief and a sub-chief was concerned with law and order; he was not interested in the education there with the agriculture, with veterinary services and with all the other developments of the country; he was only interested in law and order.

Today we want chiefs and sub-chiefs who have the co-operation of the local leaders in the area, and they should be able to implement the policy of the Government and, also, the policy of the people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to support the Motion with the forthcoming amendment.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to make amendments to the Motion by, (a) adding the words "and sub-chiefs" after the word chiefs, in the second line; (b) deleting the words "especially in the Coast Province" in the second and third lines, and (c) deleting the word "dismissed" in the last line and inserting in place thereof the word "disciplined". Then, Mr. Speaker, the Motion would then read:

THAT this House, noting with deep regret the delay in the appointment of chiefs and sub-chiefs in this country recommends that all civil servants responsible for such delays be disciplined forthwith.

Mr. Speaker, my intention in including sub-chiefs is quite obvious. Any successful chief would be successful as long as he had the support of the sub-chiefs; the sub-chiefs are the base of the Government in the lower rank, and next to them are the chiefs. Now, even if we replaced a bad chief and retained bad sub-chiefs it would still mean that we did not have the answer to the problem of harmonizing our society.

The intention of changing the chiefs and sub-chiefs is to make it possible for the new Government employees—that is, chiefs and sub-chiefs—to follow what the policies of the Government directed from this House and as put through the Cabinet back to the people in harmony.

Now, with the people who cannot accept that the Government of today is the government of the party, obviously all the plans of the Government would be frustrated and, consequently, people will start to feel that the Government is not doing its own job.

To change chiefs, and also sub-chiefs, with the popular chiefs and sub-chiefs was a decision arrived at by the Parliamentary Group chaired by our President and many a time the President in his own public meetings has told the public that: "If you are dissatisfied with the service of a particular chief or a particular sub-chief, you are at liberty—as free people—to notify your feelings to the Administration; to the district commissioner or the district officer and, consequently, you will get a man you would like to have as one of the immediate administrators."

Now, the problem is not confined to the Coast Province. This is a problem which is faced particularly, if I may say so, by the people of the Central Province where we have the problem of the colonial legacy. Unless these things are changed people will still feel that there has been little change; that there has been a change only in the Parliament—as we see it—a change only in the Cabinet; as we see all of them have black faces and are popularly elected with, of course, one hon. Member who is specially elected, but is popularly supported, and, Mr. Speaker, the reflection of the Parliament must also be the reflection of the villages in terms of workers. We do not want to say that we must have chiefs who are friendly to Members of Parliament. No, that is not the case. We want chiefs who are friendly and well supported by the ordinary person with whom he is always together.

[Mr. Gichoya]

The district commissioner, again, Mr. Speaker, should have very little to say other than communicating to his immediate superior—that is the provincial commissioner—the decision of the people, because the provincial commissioner is a passing river; he comes here, one spends a week in a particular district, another one three days, another one month, and another, maybe, one year and then he is transferred to another place. Now, if we entrust the decision of change or the determination of whether or not a chief is proper to a district officer, or, for that matter, to a district officer, we are bound to have the continuity of complaints amongst the people in the villages.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like the merit on which a chief is removed and another one appointed not to be put in the hands of the Administration, but for the public to recommend these people to the Administration and then the normal formality take place of them having been appointed by the Government and on the principles of a civil servant. This, Sir, is what we expect. Sir, I must say that in my own constituency I have a good number of sub-chiefs who have done remarkably well with regard to self-help arrangements. Those, Sir, are the ones which I call progressive chiefs, and not retrogressive chiefs or sub-chiefs. This, Sir, is what we expect in every place. When things are going all right in the constituencies we are very happy, and it is equally true that the Ministers who are, more or less, the policy makers, and the ones who execute the policy, do feel happy when things are going nicely.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words, I would like to say that instead of these people being dismissed, because they might have committed an offence deliberately, we should appeal to the Government and check why there should be these delays and why the country should be unhappy, because of certain administrators. Those administrators who have been involved, I think that the best thing for the Government to do is to discipline them. Discipline, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can then take on two forms. Firstly, Sir, demotion, which I think is a very good disciplinary action. Secondly, it can also take the form of dismissal, if it is found that this administrator is irreconcilable and has persistently frustrated the policies of the Government. Mr. Speaker,

Sir, I do not think that in this country we have any officer of the Government who is above our President. Therefore, Sir, that whatever our President says should be taken by our administrators that it is the policy from the highest authority of the country and not just a question of frustrating it. If they cannot listen to what our President says, then, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that even the Member for Gichugu, no matter how many times he has spoken in this House, then not a single civil servant should hint what the Members say in connexion with his own constituency.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words, I appeal to the Government to discipline these civil servants where necessary, and find out what the causes of this frustration were, frustrating the words of the Government, frustrating the words of the President and frustrating the decision of the Parliamentary Group.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Who seconds this? Mr. Komora. You have only about two minutes now, Mr. Komora.

Mr. Komora: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think my friend, the hon. Member for Gichugu has brought the Motion into its clear perspective, because when the original Mover moved this Motion he only confined it to the Coast Province. But, Sir, my friend has tried to put the Motion into such a form that it covers the whole country. This is the only reason why I stand to support the Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a very sad matter to see that the President, himself, having declared at one time when he was at the Coast Province; once at Malindi and once at Kwale, that the moment a vote is taken whoever the chief to be has the majority, then that same person will be made chief. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have seen it happen myself that these elections are taking place more than four times. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that perhaps we are blaming the civil servants in the field for this, but my view is that the Government has not established a proper machinery for the appointing of chiefs and sub-chiefs, and therefore the Government has been finding it difficult to get the chiefs and sub-chiefs appointed. So, Sir, before the Government had a chance to make a decision the civil servants in the field were unable to make whatever arrangements that were necessary as was made public by the President.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I take it, Mr. Komora, that you have quite a lot more to say.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, because of the special constitutional requirement for a special minimum number of votes. The reason why, if there are no tellers for one side, then the other side automatically has it, in the ordinary way, is that if there are none on one side and even a very few on the other, naturally the others have the necessary majority. But where you have, by the Constitution, a requirement of at least eighty-four Members supporting, you have to have a count of eighty-four Members, even if there are no people against it.

Mr. Mwanamendi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I have seen, with regard to the Constitution, that when the Mover finds that the number to support his Motion is not sufficient, the voting is adjourned. Could it happen in every debate, say, when I think my Motion has fewer supporters of my side and I would like to have my question put tomorrow, could it happen that way? Or does this happen only with Constitution (Amendment) Bills?

CONSIDERED RULING

DEFERMENT OF DIVISION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you probably were not here when I answered an almost exactly similar question by Mr. Komora on the previous division this afternoon. The answer is no. In any ordinary question, where the resolution is by simple majority, the division takes place immediately, regardless of the number of people present, except that if there is not a quorum of the House, the division then has to be adjourned. You find that in Standing Orders.

Now when, by the Constitution, a resolution requires a particular minimum number of supporters, then it is fruitless to proceed to a division if less than that number are in the House. I do not say less than that number of supporters, but less than that number altogether. It is like a lack of quorum, really. So we adjourn until we can get what I regard as a quorum for that particular occasion.

In view of the count of Members present—I do not think we have eighty-four. No, Hon. Members, we only have fifty-seven Members present so it would obviously be abortive to proceed now to a division. I think that again, as we did on the Second Reading, we shall have to postpone this division to another time. I imagine it is fruitless to postpone it until any later time this evening. That being so—unless we have the leave of the House tomorrow or a resolution of the House tomorrow—it will have to go over until Tuesday, tomorrow being Private Members' Day.

Several hon. Members: Tuesday!

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Shall we make it Tuesday? Or Wednesday?

Several hon. Members: Wednesday.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will make it the commencement of business on Wednesday. Hon. Members know that business commences at the end of Question Time, which is about 3.30 p.m., but may be a little earlier or later. It will be on the Order Paper for us to proceed with this division at the commencement of business.

Mr. Komora: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would you wish to inform the House of the definition of section 71 (3) of the Constitution?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What is the actual point you are raising, Mr. Komora?

Mr. Komora: Pardon, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What is the actual point you are raising?

Mr. Komora: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in that subsection, as I have said before, it says that if a Bill like this one does not have the necessary requirement in the way of votes, the Bill must be withdrawn. I see that we are postponing voting on this Bill every now and then. I do not know whether I understand that particular section properly.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am very sorry if you do not understand, Mr. Komora, but I have explained it once to you and once again in your presence just now to another hon. Member. It is too bad if you still do not understand.

We will go on to the next Order.

MOTION

APPOINTMENT OF CHIEFS

THAT this House, noting with deep regret the delay in the appointment of chiefs in this country, especially in the Coast Province, recommends that all civil servants responsible for such delays be dismissed forthwith.

(Mr. Kwa on 2nd March 1966)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 2nd March 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would remind hon. Members, on this Motion, that the question had been proposed when the House was adjourned, and the time still left is one hour and three minutes.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I support this Motion very much because it is a long time since we were told that the old chiefs, the unpopular chiefs and sub-chiefs would go so that the nationalists—the people of the country—would have a chance of electing the people they wanted.

(Mr. Kibuga)

In this House we are elected by popular vote and we see no reason why in the countryside the public should not be allowed to do the same thing. Again, in our Parliamentary Group meeting some time under the chairmanship of His Excellency, the President, it was decided that where the people of a certain location or a sub-location decide in a big way that they do not want to have a certain chief or a sub-chief, he should go away and make room for another chief. Since that time there has been a lot of confusion in the country and, in most cases, you find that the people do not seem to understand what was really passed. In fact a number of times at public meetings, the President has announced to the public that if they want to remain with an unpopular chief or sub-chief it is up to them. When this was heard by the public, they again came to the constituency Members and ask us whether we are the ones who are not allowing them to have the chief that they want. So, it becomes very difficult and very hard for hon. Members in their constituencies.

Recently, I remember, we in our District of Kirinyaga went to see the provincial commissioner, not because we wanted all the old chiefs or sub-chiefs who worked during the emergency to be removed, but among the old chiefs—whether they were employed during the Emergency or after the Emergency—there are some who do not know their duty, and it is necessary that the people should be given a chance to elect the people they want. When we went to see the provincial commissioner, he told us, "Well, if in your Parliamentary Group meeting it was decided that the people would be allowed a chance to elect their own chiefs and sub-chiefs, this does not concern me because I have not yet received instructions from the permanent secretary who is my immediate boss." So, we wonder what has gone wrong with this. If, in our Parliamentary Group meeting, where the President, where the permanent secretary was concerned and it was decided and agreed, we see no reason why this should not take place.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I see an hon. Member who wants to move an amendment has just come in and I want to support his amendment. But, since he has come a little late, I think he will move his amendment later, but I still support his amendment.

I think that the Motion as it stands is rather too harsh on the civil servants concerned, to dismiss them.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would it be in order, if, say, he gives way and I move the amendment and then he supports it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it will amount to the same thing because it is quite simple. The Motion, Sir, reads:

THAT this House, noting with deep regret the delay in the appointment of chiefs in this country, especially in the Coast Province, recommends that all civil servants responsible for such delays be dismissed forthwith.

I think in the amendment we propose to include chiefs and sub-chiefs. I mean, when the Mover of the amendment comes to do so he will explain further. Again, instead of saying that they should be dismissed forthwith, I think that what should happen is that they should be replaced.

On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish I could move the amendment and then he would support me, if he says—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is nothing to prevent you moving the amendment if the hon. Member is willing, because I have had written notice of it.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have no objection to that because we still have more people to speak on it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right. You have a copy of it?

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think in this country we should be reasonable.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think his time is nearly over and so I move my amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right.

Mr. Kibuga: Anyway, Mr. Speaker, the Motion as it reads is rather too hard on these civil servants, I think that it is rather unfair to them to dismiss them because they failed to implement what we passed. So, I feel that probably they did not effect what was passed because they were not instructed in the proper way. So far the Minister has not told us whether, after we had agreed in the Parliamentary Group meeting, these civil servants, the under secretary, the provincial commissioner, the district commissioner and the district officer, were instructed. So, I hope that when the Government responder comes to reply to us on behalf of the Government he will tell us why. We have no wish to dismiss all the chiefs or sub-chiefs who disagree with us. It could be that there is some personal conflict between a Member and a chief or sub-chief, but where are concerned, is not visible. I believe, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that in the Ministry of Finance and other Ministries, when the Budget is being prepared, every Ministry does calculate the amount of money needed for that particular Ministry for one particular year and, consequently, unless I am told that our experts today have become so inefficient that they are incapable of making a proper Budget, I do not think that we should allow the Minister for Finance to make use of our monies without our consultation and finally be presented with what has already been spent instead of, first of all, being asked to approve such-and-such items for expenditure. Mr. Speaker, Sir, these are matters on which everyone feels that there might be certain ways of thinking that, at a particular stage of time, the Government may require to spend money and the Parliament perhaps might refuse to allow the expenditure to be incurred by the State or the Government. Consequently, to make it easier the Minister is allowed to spend money and finally come and say, "Well, I have spent so much, and it is within the Constitution of Kenya that I have done it."

[Mr. Gichoya]

Mr. Speaker, these are things which ought to be properly examined by Members who are always ready to say that if So-and-so has approved this thing, everything is O.K.

Mr. Speaker, I heard one day a Minister stating here that because a Bill has been approved by the Attorney-General, that Bill is O.K., but the Attorney-General is a mere technician, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the Third Reading when we deal with clause after clause, I should have thought under the Standing Orders that no hon. Member is allowed to speak for more than ten minutes at a go. The hon. Member has spoken for more than fifteen minutes.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is no such provision in our Standing Orders at present, Mr. arap Moi. You might persuade the Sessional Committee to introduce a Standing Order of the House like that.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): I will, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not there now.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Minister who has been in the House for so many years and is one of the most senior Members has no background of Standing Orders.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I register my protest very strongly, and I believe that the other House, the Upper House, should really be upper and scrutinize this amendment—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, we talk about what goes on in this House, do we not?

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I am going to make a historical speech on this amendment and say that, first of all, I am a student of constitutional law and after studying this amendment very carefully, I have found that the hon. Attorney-General has considered very carefully the well-being of our Government.

I would say, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the people who have elected us to this House were always in this House to see how we debate things, I doubt very much whether most of us would be allowed to be here the next day. I say this for one simple reason: anybody who is a parent here—and I repeat, a parent here—will know very well that unless a parent has control over his or her children, none of them will ever obey the guidance of the parent. I think what most Members here fear is that if one is absent for eight days, he may vacate his seat. My question is: where will you be for eight days without the knowledge of the people whom you are representing, without the knowledge of the House to which you come? Therefore, this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is sensible. An hon. Member knows very well that when he is away from the House for eight days, without the knowledge of the House or the Speaker, or otherwise, his constituency is losing a great deal.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Kamau, we had all this argument on the Second Reading and I have explained to hon. Members that we cannot repeat it on the Third Reading.

Mr. Kamau: Thank you very much Mr. Speaker.

Without repeating, I would say one thing here. I hope the Attorney-General who is making this law will listen, and other Members who are having a very loud discussion, when I say that it was alleged that some of the Members are supporting this amendment on a friendly basis. This I would refute and say that we Members were elected by the people; they elected us because they knew that we have our own ways of judgment; we do not follow things blindly. Therefore, nobody could even follow the Attorney-General, even if he was his brother, if he was leading us to darkness. We Members are not supporting this amendment because of friendliness. We are supporting it for particular reasons.

[Mr. Kamau]

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think I should waste any more time, but very strongly support the amendment.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, during the Second Reading of this Bill, quite a lot was said, and I do not wish to take up the time of the House very much. All I wish to say, Sir, is that we, the elected Members of this Republic of Kenya, were elected to serve the people of this country; and when we were elected, we were meant to be guided by the same laws of this country. There cannot be any question of our being controlled by laws which are different from those controlling other people.

An hon. Member: We are on a contract.

Mr. Kibuga: There are so many people who are on contract, who are outside this House. If someone is put in for some two or three months, then he goes away, why should we continue to waste the public money and not allow the public to have a chance to elect the person they want to represent them? If we are supposed to come here and represent our people, why must we go away for a long time from the constituency, away from the House, without the constituency having the chance to get someone to represent them? It would be wrong, Sir, to stay away for two weeks without serving one's constituency. In any case, after all, in the history of this House, up to this day, nobody has wished to go away from the House if there is a current session. So I do not see the difficulty in supporting this Bill because of the limitation of eight days, after which someone would lose his seat unless he had previously asked the Speaker's permission.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to comment on another thing which is related to this constitutional question. We have amended the Constitution, and recently I know we were under the Mojimbo Constitution: It was decided that we no longer wanted to divide Kenya into sections; we want one leader and we want one nation and we want unity; I understand there is a move to have the constitution of Kanu adapted in such a way that it would support a sort of Mojimbo way of living, having seven presidents, vice-presidents—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Kibuga, this is relevant to this Bill, is it?

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am only saying that the constitution of the party should follow the Constitution of the country—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, I do not think you can say that on this Bill.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, I only meant to say that this amendment of the Constitution completes the full amendment, and I hope, as I said during the Second Reading, that we shall now have a complete copy of the Constitution of Kenya so that we can guide our people.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that there was a lot of discussion on this during the Second Reading, and in view of the fact that many Members are now repeating themselves, may I move that the mover be now called on to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think the House must be allowed to consider that. I will put the question that the Mover be called upon to reply.

(Question, that the Mover be now called on to reply, put and agreed to)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Since the Mover is not here, I will put the question. And the question is that the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill be now read a Third Time.

For reasons I have stated before, since this requires the support of a minimum of eighty-four Members, I do not take the Ayes and Noes, but proceed immediately to a division.

(Question put)

Mr. Mwendwa: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Mover of the Bill was not here, but if he had been, perhaps he could have given us some more important points on the Bill. By putting the question, do you not think that you are not giving us the right to hear whatever he is prepared to say in the way of clarification?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is too late, I am afraid; I have put the question.

Mr. Kibuga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, supposing that the House wanted to entertain the idea that the Mover should give replies to some of the points we have raised, is there any way whereby the House can vary the decision to proceed with the division, and first of all allow the Mover to reply a little bit?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid not. The question has been put.

Mr. Mibogoh: On a point of order, Sir, in other debates we have found that if there are no tellers for a certain side the other side has it. Supposing if, in this one, we do not have the tellers for the Noes, would it be like the other debates or would we still proceed to a division?

[Mr. Gichoya]

Kadu: an opportunity of delaying our independence we should pass the Constitution without scrutinizing it. This we did. The second stage, Mr. Deputy Speaker, was the second amendment where we had quite a number of misgivings; but we said that what we want is our President Mzee Kenyatta, by then he was the Prime Minister, he should take over the authority of this country as Head of the State, although combining the authority of the Government and that of the State. As a matter of fact, today, Mr. Deputy Speaker, our Constitution, although it is unique in itself, has brought confusion to this country. Today if our President says that he must retire, we are put in an awkward position whereby we are not in a position to make out who should be the Head of the Government and the Head of the State. The combination of the Head of the State and the Head of the Government, Mr. Deputy Speaker, were consented to because we wanted our President to handle the two responsibilities.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): You must speak on this Bill, and not on the Constitution generally.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Deputy Speaker, thank you.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I was just giving the background and on which, I personally, feel that we have made a blunder. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, by passing this amendment we have already made the Speaker, in the first place, an interested party in taking decisions in this House, instead of being independent as he has been. That is one observation, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want to make. The other one is that we have become a little bit more ruthless than what the colonial régime used to be in this country, in that during the colonial period, Mr. Deputy Speaker, a Member could abstain himself for a number of days from coming to the House, and leave somebody officiating on his behalf. Today since we have the one-party system, the limitation of the minimum number of days when a Member should be in the House ought not to have been there. It would have been far better to say that when somebody is absent, or will be absent for more than eight sittings, the party in the constituency where he comes from should send somebody to represent that constituency. That would have been a very logical way of taking things. I understand that because of the hon. Senator for Nanyuki-Laikipia's sentence which, I think, runs for eighteen months, and the hon. Member for Nyumbeni South, Mr. Gaciatta, who is in for three years, the Government is losing a lot. May I question, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, how much money did we spend on Tihombe when he came here for the Organization of African Unity? Expenditure unnecessarily spent by this Government of ours for a person who had no status in his own community, yet we accommodate the Organization of African Unity here, saying that we were getting a solution.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: I believe too that we are also represented in the Organization of African Unity debating club in Addis Ababa, which has already accepted the military régime in Ghana. In preference to Nkrumah's authority which was there, civil authority.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: I am trying to make one point here that the question of expenditure, on the part of the State on those people who might be put in for a "cooked-up" story to put a Member in, or to dethrone a Member from his own constituency, the period he stays in does not cost the Kenya Government as much as they spend on necessary services which they say they are rendering to the State. Those

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

Mr. Speaker, are my own observations. It is all right, the Constitution is passed, but, I think, Members should never repent tomorrow morning when they see the Constitution being operated word by word, letter per letter, in this country.

Today we are lucky. We have our President, a man with sympathy, a man with a fatherly approach, but who says that he will be here for thirty years as the President and Head of Government in this country? One might suggest that when our Mzee retires, we can amend this Constitution is like a Motion which can be amended every day. A constitution is not like a Standing Order of this House which we can decide within a minute to amend and we amend it. A constitution is a document which carries with it the spirit of the country. We have histories, Mr. Speaker, of a constitution like that of America. Up to this moment, the American Constitution does not have more than thirty amendments within 100 years. This one of ours has three amendments within two years. I believe, too, that within the period during which we are in this House, we might amend this Constitution of ours thirty times and it will show exactly that we have not decided what should be our objectives in the final analysis.

Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that in future we should have the whole Constitution and all the amendments put together, and then the Members

CONSIDERED RULING

LIMITATION OF DEBATE ON THIRD READING

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Gichoya, we do not very often have debates on Third Readings, and I have never made clear to hon. Members the limitation of a debate on a Third Reading, but it is really this: that having had a full debate on the principle of the Bill, on the Second Reading, when you come to the Third Reading you are entitled still to say you do not like the Bill, but we cannot have repetition of all that has been said in the Second Reading. Hon. Members may say they still object to this, that or the other thing, but they must not give their same reasons over and over again. Also, they can raise new objections: Mr. Shikuku, quite rightly, before I left the Chair just now, raised his objection to hon. Members having been influenced by assurances that were given outside the House. That was something that had not been raised in the Second Reading and was in order, but it is limited in that way with debate on the Third Reading.

(Resumption of debate on Third Reading)

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much indeed for giving me the directives and, happily enough, at least I have put a few points which the Attorney-General ought to consider tomorrow when bringing up amendments to our Constitution.

Mr. Speaker, the other thing I have to make observations on is that, although we have already passed this or we are bound to pass it, I would be very grateful if the Senate could stop it for a while, so that we can see the President of our Republic and put our cases across, because the tendency here, Mr. Speaker, is that there is not a one-party system, there is not clear thinking among some of the Members and, consequently, we are put in an awkward position, that if you stand on your own thinking as an individual one is bound to say that one is against the Government. Mr. Speaker, let me make it quite clear that to say, "I love you," does not necessarily mean one loves that person; and this was demonstrated very clearly by the Foreign Minister who deserted his own colleague because he wanted—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We are getting off the Bill now, are we not? Let us keep to the Bill, Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: Yes.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have been saying that the National Assembly should be supreme; but the supremacy of the National Assembly, as indicated by this Bill, so far as Supplementary Estimates of the National Assembly and also some people, who are not Members of the National Assembly but people with sufficient wisdom to make a constitution, should be called in a conference to determine the future of our Constitution, rather than making it something like the by-laws of a city council or a local authority or, for that matter, of a club, which are amended when it suits people, not necessarily all the people but a group of individuals, thinking of making it to suit them and their own happiness. Let us make a constitution for the happiness of the society for which we claim—and rightly—we are the representatives.

[Mr. Gichoya]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very unfortunate that instead of expecting hon. Members who are here to take a decision based on what they understand, decisions today are being based on personal friendship. Mr. Speaker, let me confess that the Attorney-General is my personal friend, but who guarantees that Charles Njonjo will be the Attorney-General tomorrow when Gichoya becomes the President? Am I to make the constitution to suit the new Attorney-General or should it be made to be an everlasting document?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): We might get a better one tomorrow.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I doubt very strongly if we can get another person equally to Mzee Kenyatta.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel very strongly that people might be saying that So-and-so will be the President, and I wish the Attorney-General could go to his Chambers tomorrow and order the draftsmen to amend that clause which limits the age and say that there is no age limit: if you are a Member of the National Assembly, truly you can hold the responsibility of the President. Then the confusion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would be eliminated. I am saying this, Mr. Speaker, because, after all, as the Member for Gichugu, can I not lead the country as much as I am leading my own constituency properly?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, Mr. Gichoya, but we cannot discuss other amendments to the Constitution which you would have liked to see here, we can only discuss those that are before you.

Mr. Gichoya: Yes, Mr. Speaker. My problem, when I was trying to put those points, was on the question of taking the hon. elected Member from this House because he has failed to attend eight sittings. He might be very busy working for the constituency within the villages—

[Mr. Shikuku] is a most serious thing, and I am going to see the Speaker privately and express my personal disgust at what has happened. If the public trusts these people in this House and these people can play about with the very future of the people in this House through voting, then Mr. Deputy Speaker—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): If you are referring to hon. Members you must refer to them as hon. Members.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker. If these hon. Members can speak at the top of their voices and then through some sort of coverage, because they fear to come out into the true light, they swindle around and vote against the very views that they have expressed, and also a Member elected by the people, to vote twice. This, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have never heard of. Even the ordinary man in the street if you told him that he would really laugh. I feel that the House has been let down badly by this hon. Member. We are supposed to be respectable people, and people who are supposed to be more than respectable, yet on a Bill as important as this that concerns the future of the country, I am sorry to say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that our passing of this Bill has been wrongly done and it is a black mark. One day one of the young women or men in this country will question our integrity in this very House, because whatever we are putting down and whatever we say here is recorded, and it has been recorded that one of the Members voted twice, on such a vitally important document like the alteration of the Constitution.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, if the future of the country is going to be entrusted to the hands of such people who have no principles in this House, then Kenya will be facing a very terrible situation in a short time.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to register my strongest protest at the passing of this Bill: one, because it does not help the ordinary man; two, it has been passed with a black mark and it could be safely said it was through pressure that particular Member had to do such a thing, otherwise he should tell us why he voted "No" then within a short time we went round this House, pulled to the other side, I was on the other side when the hon. Member was voting. Mr. Deputy Speaker, he was actually brought in by some people who told him "Now look, where are you voting?"

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I take it that this kind of allegation is quite a serious one, what the hon. Member is alleging at this time, I wonder whether he will substantiate now that the hon. Member who voted twice was virtually brought into the polling booth?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, Mr. Shikuku, can you substantiate that?

Mr. Shikuku: I am ready to substantiate, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and I think the hon. Member for Bunyala-Samia should know that I am a very serious man; and I always substantiate what I say. I am not such a coward. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I represented the tellers on the Aye side, and what happened, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when we were marking this document with the hon. Mr. Nyagah, Member for Embu South—the House is very large, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we have 129 Members and to remember their constituencies is quite a big problem. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this gentleman came in and he stood, he did not know what to say, until, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and I remember the hon. Member who is the Minister for Home Affairs was there behind him, and this hon. Member stood stiff, he did not know what to do, and then the Minister for Home Affairs said let him speak for himself. Then the hon. Member, Mr. Nyagah said—what do you say—he said he was watching. Why was he hesitating? Why had he voted on the other side and then come back this way? I think the hon. Member will be able to tell us—

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, my point of order, was that the hon. Member for Butere should substantiate that the hon. Mr. Kamuren was virtually forced to go into that booth. He has not substantiated that.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! What the hon. Mr. Shikuku has said is his view, or his version of what happened. Now he has stated what happened, and I think that is sufficient explanation of what he believes happened. Now whether that was virtual force, it is for the House to decide. When one is asked to substantiate, all one is asked to do is to explain the facts, or the basis, or the evidence, on which one makes the allegation. He has stated now the evidence on which he makes this allegation. Whether the allegation is accepted or rejected, it is for the House to decide. It is not that he has to prove this; there is a difference between proof and substantiation. Proof is that you must adduce evidence which is then accepted as correct. Substantiation does not go so far as proof, it merely means that you bring forward such facts as you base your allegation on. The allegation may then be considered by the House

[The Deputy Speaker]: to be totally unfounded. So long as you have stated what are the facts on which you based your allegation that is all that the House, in this case, can demand.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I should say that I am wondering what your ruling is going to be on the word that the hon. Member put forward in his debate, that the hon. Member was virtually forced. This is what I am trying to pursue Mr. Deputy Speaker, because if he was virtually forced, unless my language is short, if he was virtually forced then we want to know who virtually forced him to vote.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I quite agree. I quite understand what you are saying, Mr. Osogo. Let me explain again, I think that this is a matter which does deserve explanation. If you ask any hon. Member, or ask me myself, whether I would accept that this evidence on which he has now based his allegation is sufficient, I might have reservations, and many other may not accept it. The only thing, as I said, the House can demand to know on what basis, or on what evidence he bases his allegation. Each Member may then decide that his allegation is totally unfounded. But he has stated what he has seen. From that hon. Members may decide that what he saw does not, in any way, warrant the allegation, or that the hon. Member was in fact virtually forced. He has stated, I think, the facts on which this was based. I think it is up to each hon. Member now when they speak, or in their own mind, or in the House itself, to decide whether in fact his allegation that he was forced has the remotest validity, or the remotest quantity of truth in it.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Deputy Speaker, if I may go further, during the first round of voting I was on the other side, and the hon. Member came and voted definitely "No." He came back into the group here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and he came back again and said, I am sorry that he had voted "No," he was worried then. When he went to vote he had a smile and when he came back the second time, it was with a grim face. He said, "I would like to have my name removed." I went and consulted the Speaker, and asked him if it was in order for any hon. Member who has voted definitely "No," to come back and try and have his name scrapped. The Speaker told me, "No." Mr. Deputy Speaker, if this is the sort of Members who are going to decide the future of the country, then I am really very worried. Again, Mr. Deputy Speaker, in the first round there were fifteen Members who voted

"No." In the second round the number dwindled to eleven. What happened? Are these Members without principle? That is why I say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if the future of this country can be left in the hands of these inconsistent hon. Members of this House—

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wonder whether the hon. Member speaking now is in order to insinuate that the three or four Members who did not make the fifteen over the other side, have no principle?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, I think you are right, Mr. Nyagah. I do not think you can say that they have no principles. I think you can leave the House to decide what were the factors, or what were the merits of the hon. Member, and I think you are going too far.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I agree with your ruling. It is up to the public also to find out whether they are unprincipled. I am sorry I think I went a bit too far.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, do you withdraw that, Mr. Shikuku?

Mr. Shikuku: I withdraw it, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I am taking the Speaker's advice.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, if I may end, may I say that fear, inconsistency, as such, will not help this country. One man may help the country, even if there are two, the fact that so many have said "Yes," does not mean that they are right. At the same time, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I say with no fear that I am a resident of this House; I shall always speak my mind in this House even if it means my being hung; because I know that whether I am hanged by this Government or the next Government or what, something is certain and that is that one day hon. Shikuku will die. I do not care what the other people fear, I will speak on behalf of the people and on behalf of those who fear. I will speak the truth always.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg still to oppose.

Mr. Gitohya: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my intention today is just merely to put across a few words which perhaps might help those who will be making the laws tomorrow in this country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when we started making amendments of what we have as our Constitution, this is the third amendment, and the first amendment, Mr. Deputy Speaker, was passed because we had two parties Kadu and Kanu, and we said that in order not to give

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odero-Towi) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njōjō): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill be now read the Third Time.

The Vice-President (Mr. Odinga) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, having said much during the Second Reading, I still am of the opinion, despite the fact that the Attorney-General did, as a matter of fact, convene a meeting of the Parliamentary Group and try to explain some of the sections in this Bill, I did take part in one of the first meetings, but in the second meeting I did not, because I had certain commitments, but, nevertheless, the point that I would like to register, Mr. Speaker, is that I am of the opinion that the assurances given by the Attorney-General to some of the hon. Members who opposed this Bill, were only verbal. The Attorney-General who exists now is a nice gentleman, I know him, but I have no hope that the Attorney-General will live for ever and a day so that he can go on assuring me. This is something, at least the Attorney-General agrees with me, but on some of the clauses, particularly on this question of eight days and the question of permission, I understand that the explanation given by the Attorney-General was to the effect that we should have the Bill passed and then we can have this question of eight days included in the Standing Orders. If that is the explanation, Mr. Speaker, and those hon. Members who agreed with that, I am sure did not think very seriously, because once we pass the Bill and it becomes a part of the Constitution, certainly we cannot amend the Constitution by Standing Orders, and I think that the hon. Members should have thought of that, but, of course, some of the hon. Members go by assurances.

Mr. Speaker, I object to that, because I am thinking of a long-term policy and if the Members think that by amending the Standing Order and including eight days it will be safeguarding them, they are dreaming, because we shall be going according to the Constitution and any future Attorney-General, who comes into power, might as well say, "Look, boys, your Standing Order is not the Constitution. The Constitution and I quote from clause such-and-such of the Constitution," page so-and-so, sub-paragraph that, and that, and this is the Constitution that governs the country. I do not know about a Standing Order. In any case, Mr. Speaker, no ordinary man in the street or any lawyer would ever take into account the question of Standing Orders. Standing Orders are only for the people in this Parliament and can never be quoted in any court of law, therefore, Mr. Speaker, though the Members have agreed to this explanation, I am sure one day they will regret it and, at the same time, Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion that some of the Members are not people with principles.

If you see something that you feel is wrong, I think it would be in the interests of the country that that particular person, whether well known or from a small group, should express his feelings or their feelings in order to have them registered in HANSARD and into the minds of the people so that when something happens in the future someone will have the right to quote such an occasion. Personally, Mr. Speaker, I wish to register very strongly that I still do not agree with the explanation given, because it is not even in writing and I would also like to register, Mr. Speaker, the fact that so many Members have voted and so few have not voted, does not mean that the many who voted are obviously right. To prove my case, Mr. Speaker, the very people who have just spoken here, who spoke against the Bill and who later voted for the Bill and who have just gone out shows that some Members are only here to vote and not to speak and contribute to the welfare of the country. To show it, the House is practically empty, Mr. Speaker. The voting Members have gone out, they have done their job, sitting on the benches, voting and going out. They do not talk in terms of the implications of this Bill, because they want—and the Member for Bunyala-Samia, of course, I understand his position, he must vote "Yes," because he has to retain his post, that is obvious, he has to support the Bill otherwise he will be sacked if he does not vote for the Bill. So I

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair.]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair.]

The Member for Butere, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wish to talk on his behalf—

Mr. Gatiguta: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the Member for Butere to impute a motive to another Member that he voted out of fear of losing a position?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, Mr. Gatiguta, I do not think it is quite fair to say this, but on the other hand, I think an hon. Member can point out that a Minister of the Government must vote for the Government. I

[The Deputy Speaker] think this is true knowledge, I do not think that one would be unfair to say that if a Minister of the Government voted against the Government he would not lose his job, he would. In fact it is expected that a Minister, if he voted against the Government in such an important Motion, would be asked to leave the Government. I think so. I do not think that he was saying something that is wrong.

Mr. Shikuku: I thought the hon. Member was listening, and he has been long enough in this House to know that, once you are appointed as an Assistant Minister or a Minister you are thereby obliged or you are compelled to vote with the Government, and if the hon. Member for Kikuyu does not know this I want to teach him. I am teaching him now that if the hon. Member for Bunyala-Samia dared vote against it, he would lose his job the same way as the hon. Mr. Kaggia voted against the Government and lost his job.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the point that I was trying to drive home is this: that the fact that there is a number of people who voted "Yes," does not mean they are right. Once I remember, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when I made it known to this House that the question of a one-party system cannot work, today we have many Members meeting upstairs who are thinking of forming a new party. What has happened, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am trying to prove the fact that just because there were so many that voted "Yes" it does not mean that they are right. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am taking this opportunity, without any fear—some people may fear—that if they voted "No," then they would be marked down. I want it to go down on record that I am prepared to be convicted, I am prepared to be subverted and everything, but right will prevail. It does not matter how many Members in this House shout, just because they think that by saying "Yes" they are becoming good boys. One day they will have to harvest the bitter fruits of their folly.

Mr. Agar: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it in order for a Member to keep on dwelling on the behaviour and fear of Members, instead of speaking on the amendment to the Constitution?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I think you are overdoing it a little now, Mr. Shikuku. I think you can speak on the Bill, you can speak on the voting in the Second Reading, but I think you have also got to confine yourself to the Bill. The Speaker did tell me, before he left, that you were, in his opinion, speaking on a rather new point, but one should not allow debate on points already made in the Second Reading, there cannot be repetition. I realise you are speaking on a different point, but I think you are probably repeating yourself in that regard.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. So far, for the information of the hon. Member for Karachuonyo, I have not repeated anything, I have given him new points and I am only trying to speak for he who cannot dare speak for himself. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wish to add to that by saying that these verbal assurances, which are not in writing, might be regretted in the long run.

When I come to section 122 which one of the hon. Members—I think the Member for Bunyala-Samia—had the chance to dwell on the Member for Butere, may I again have it registered, that I still maintain—and I have always maintained—that this expenditure of funds should be with the approval of this House, and whether they assure me in the Parliamentary Group or otherwise, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am of the opinion that the House is the supreme authority and it should always control any expenditure. Of course, there might be some queer cases where someone might find himself in a fix, but I think that the Government, before they bring out Estimates, to this House, maybe they are going to bring the Budget, but I still think that they have a lot of time to think about all these things and try to put them together, so that we do not have to have too many supplementaries, because some of these supplementaries come in as a result of the fact that some extra people have to be employed and which they did not consider, and sometimes some extra expenditure is spent extravagantly and then it has to be balanced through the supplementaries. I am of the opinion that this House must be told what these people want to do with the money that they are demanding from the public and the House should approve such funds. But if we are going to allow this procedure of having to be told what was spent and we say "Yes," like some other Members here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I say "No." Therefore, I still maintain that this procedure must be done away with.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the last thing that I wish to say is, and may I submit, in all honesty, that we in this country have problems that face us, problems of unemployment, problems with schools, problems with this and the other thing, but I am of the opinion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we must be more serious in this House. Serious to ourselves and conscious of the needs of the people, rather than the sort of play that we have had here, where an hon. Member in this vitally important document had the guts to play about with the voting. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this

POINT OF ORDER

PROCEDURE OF TELLERS IN A DIVISION

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, when you are calling for the tellers normally do you have to find out as to whether they are going to put, "No," or whether they are going to put, "Yes," and if this is the case, were the tellers who were selected today consulted and asked as to whether they were going to vote "No" or "Yes"? I ask this because in the history of this Parliament I always thought that people were just selected and whether they voted "Yes" or "No" did not matter because there are records?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right. Well, you have completely misunderstood the position, but I thought I had made it clear five minutes ago. Those who wish to vote "Aye" are expected to produce from among them two who are committed to vote "Aye". Those who are wanting to vote "No" are expected to produce from among themselves two who are committed to vote "No". You then divide them up, take one of each party, one of the "Ayes" and one of the "Noes" to count the "Ayes", and one of the "Noes", so that each side feel that they are sure of a fair count.

Certainly it is not for the Speaker to inquire whether someone presented by the "Ayes" as a teller for the "Ayes" is going to vote "Aye", but it is up to those who wish to vote "Aye", particularly the man who offers himself as a teller for the "Ayes", to vote "Aye".

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Can we not get on with the Division, Mr. Oduya?

Mr. Oduya: What I want to know is whether it is in order, if, for example, if a Member does not wish to vote for either "Ayes" or "Noes", and you find a Minister squinting at the door waiting to intimidate Members—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! All hon. Members are perfectly well aware that no kind of threats or intimidation of any kind is allowed in this House; if ever there is clear evidence of it, I expect it to be announced openly to this House. An hon. Member takes the consequence of a false allegation, as we saw not long ago; but we cannot have a suggestion that there is intimidation without being prepared to allege it openly and stand by the consequences.

(Question put and the House divided)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! I do not mind hon. Members playing a little over a Division; but they can overdo it.

POINT OF ORDER

VOTING PROCEDURE IN A DIVISION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I find that one hon. Member, namely Mr. Kamuren has voted in both lobbies. In those circumstances, it is in order for him to state now in which lobby he intended to vote, and the register will be corrected accordingly.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have told you that there were some Ministers who pulled some of the Members by force to make them vote in favour. Can I make it clear, Sir, that the hon. Member in question voted on this side, the lobby for the "Noes",—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Will you sit down, Mr. Oduya. Sit down and do not interfere with what I am directing. As a matter of order I am asking Mr. Kamuren where he intended to vote. Mr. Oduya, unless you can control yourself, you are not going to last in this Chamber, and your opportunity for moving the adjournment will be gone. Mr. Kamuren.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I vote for the Ayes.

Mr. Balala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member voted for both sides, may we know why the hon. Member voted for the Noes?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I cannot hear you, Mr. Balala; speak up.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the hon. Member voted on both sides, would it be in order for us to know why he also voted for the Noes?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are two decisions which you made which, for the future, I think we ought to make clear to the Members. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I raised the first one, but, Sir, the second one is this: I know that in the normal procedure of voting, for example, voting during the elections, if a person casts his vote more than once his vote is lost and it is null and void. Therefore, Sir, I do not know why it was necessary in this respect for you to call upon the Member to say, because what we know is that—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Mr. Anyieni, I am sorry, it is not in order to challenge my decision at the time I make it in this House. If you think I am wrong, you can come and talk to me about it outside the House.

I will now ask the tellers to report the result of the Division.

DIVISION

(Question carried by 86 votes to 11)

Ayes: Messrs. Achieng-Onoko, Abdurahman, Alexander, Angaine, Aremam, Ayodo, Babu, Balala, Barasa, Bly, Bonnet, Chirchir, Dingira, Ekitela, Gachago, Gichuru, Godia, Ithrai, Jahazi, Jamal, Kasi, Kamuren, G. G. Karuki, J. M. Karuki, Kase, Kerich, Kiumba, Dr. Kiako; Messrs. Kibaki, Kibuga, Kiprotich, Koingane, Komora, Konechlah, Kubai, Khaoya, Lorena, Mairori-Iumbo, Makome, Malinda, Malu, Matano, Mate, Mati, Mbat, Mbogo, Mboya, Mohamed, Moi, Moss; Dr. Mungai; Messrs. Murgor, Muruli, Muisio, Mwalwa, Mwamzandi, Mwanumba, Mwasiana, Ndile, Ngala, Njeru, Njiri, Nyaga, Nyagah, Nyamweya, Ochwada, Odera-Jowi, Odinga, Okelo-Odongo, Okwanyo, Omar, Onamu, Oselo-Nyallick, Osogo, Pandya, Sadalla, Sagine, Soi, Somo, Theuri, Tialal, Tipis, Too, Tuva; Dr. Waiyaki and Wamuthenya.

Tellers of the Ayes: Messrs. Nyagah and Shikuku.

Noes: Messrs. Anyieni, Bonaya, Gichoya, E. D. Godana, Kaggia, Kioki, Makokha, Nyaberi, Odera-Sar, Oduya, and Shikuku.

Tellers of the Noes: Messrs. Odera-Jowi and Gichoya.

(The Bill was read a Second Time)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have to ask hon. Members whether we have the leave of the House for the Committee stage of this Bill to be taken now. I would point out that, with this particular Bill, it is a sheer formality because no amendment can be made. I see no hon. Member objects.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since this Bill has passed the Second Reading it is now possible for the Bill to fail, if we do not get the appropriate number of votes at the Third Reading?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As I said, it cannot be touched as it goes through the Committee stage; but at the Third Reading again the Bill requires to have the same minimum number of eighty-four votes. It is to be withdrawn if at the Third Reading it fails to get that support.

(The Bill was committed to a Committee of the whole House today by leave of the House)

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE

(Order for Committee read)

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair)

IN THE COMMITTEE

(The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair)

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA

(AMENDMENT) BILL

(Clauses 2, 3, 4 and 5 agreed to)

Clause 6

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Chairman, I only wanted to seek one clarification and that is to find out the significance and relevance of the date that this clause shall be deemed to have ceased to apply to any officer in the public service who is a citizen of Kenya after 18th January. I wanted to know what was the significance of mentioning that date.

I also wanted to say that I appreciated very much that the Attorney-General, in moving the Second Reading, did state that he had withdrawn Circulars 49 and 51. If I had known this earlier, I can assure him that I would not have moved the Motion I did.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the significance of the 18th January 1966, is the date when these circulars were withdrawn.

QUORUM

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, is there a quorum in the House?

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): No, there is not. Ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): We now have a quorum. We can continue.

(Clause 6 agreed to)

(First Schedule agreed to)

(Second Schedule agreed to)

(Third Schedule agreed to)

(Title agreed to)

(Clause 1 agreed to)

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move that the Committee report to the House its consideration of the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill and its approval thereof without amendment.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

(The House resumed)

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair)

REPORT AND THIRD READING

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA
(AMENDMENT) BILL

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed by a Committee of the whole House to report its consideration of the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill and its approval of the same without amendment.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. Yes; there are more than ten Members supporting this proposal, and so I will allow Mr. Oduya to move the adjournment of the House to discuss this matter at 5.45 p.m. today. I would point out—and I will point this out again when we come to that time—that the discussion must be limited to Government's position and matters of administration; and cannot wander into the international affairs of the party.

POINT OF ORDER

MATTERS WHICH CAN BE DISCUSSED IN ADJOURNMENT MOTIONS

Mr. Anyika: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, you have ruled that this will be strictly in connexion with the Government. Now, Mr. Speaker, you know very well that even a party has its own rules which the party must adhere to and when a party fails to adhere to these rules, the Government has the right to intervene and de-register that organization. If a thing like that is happening, how is it, Mr. Speaker, that it will be out of order to discuss it, in view of the fact that the other day there was a question in Parliament which the Attorney-General did reply to and which was in connexion with the parties and registration and the laws of these parties?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think that is a perfectly good question. I do not say that it would be out of order in this adjournment discussion; to discuss the law relating to parties and any breach of the law, because that is a matter of administration for which Government is responsible. All I say, in principle, is that what we can talk about is something for which Government is responsible, as opposed to the leaders of the parties; as such. We must keep off the domestic affairs of the party.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, I rise to seek your guidance. In view of the fact that a similar request has been made in the Senate this afternoon, I would like to know whether it is in order for the matter to be discussed simultaneously in the House of Representatives as well as in the Senate, or whether it could be discussed here and then subsequently in the Senate?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is in order, of course, that the Senate should discuss something at the same time as this House. But it may be very embarrassing for Government to have to divide their forces in that way. If it was more convenient to have this at another time, I would be prepared to make it, assuming the Senate are starting, say, at quarter to six or half past five, I would be prepared to let this start at quarter to five, but on the understanding that Mr. Oduya would withdraw his Motion after three-quarters of an hour. My idea in fixing the time at quarter to six is to limit the time we spend on this; and if we were to start at quarter to five and go on to half past six, we would be spending a great deal too much time on it. I do not know whether Mr. Oduya is willing to give an undertaking to withdraw his Motion after we had had three-quarters of an hour of it?

Mr. Oduya: No, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I have heard Mr. Oduya's answers and so we will have to make it quarter to six.

Mr. Kaggia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that we have one party here and again the officers, the leaders, of the party are also the leaders of the Government, I am just wondering how we can restrict this debate to matters of administration without discussing party affairs, because the whole thing is completely linked together and I do not see how we can differentiate between one and the other.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, I think, Mr. Kaggia, you ought to be able to see that, in spite of the fact of having only one party, internal party affairs are not the responsibility of Government as such. The party leaders and the Government are not always the same. They may happen to be, but this is not necessarily so, and their functions are different. You may have one person with two functions, a party leader who is also a Minister. But you have to distinguish between the functions, and we are only free to discuss, under this procedure, something which concerns the Government of the country.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, here on that very point which the hon. Member for Kandara has raised, and on which we are now basing this Motion of urgent national importance, it is clearly stated that what is to be discussed is the constitution of the party and the policy of Government and the programme of the Government. Now, do you not think that it is quite an order that those things which are linked up with the party and the Government programme could be discussed here as a matter of administration?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, order! That is exactly why I have thought that this matter is probably within the scope of Standing Order 14. But when we come to the discussion, we have to keep to those things where Government is dragged in, and not wander to those where

[The Speaker] is not dragged in. When we come to the debate, we will see, and I will tell Members when they are going off the rails.

Next Order.

BILL

Second Reading

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA (AMENDMENT)

BILL

*(The Attorney-General on 22nd February 1966)
(Question put on 2nd March 1966, Division deferred)*

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members will recall that at the close of this debate on the Second Reading of the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill yesterday, we had to go to a division in order to see whether the necessary minimum of eighty-four voting Members supported the Second Reading. At the point of division, we found that we had less than that number in the Chamber, so that any division would obviously have been abortive. For that reason, we deferred the division until this time today. I now have to put the question again and proceed to a division, remembering that we have to have a minimum of eight-four Members in support, in order to pass the Second Reading.

(Question put)

Mr. Lorens: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am wondering whether 65 per cent of 130 Members is eighty-four.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! It is voting Members, Members who have a vote. You are counting in the Attorney-General; I think, whereas he has no vote. It is 65 per cent of 129 Members; I make that just under eighty-four, but as we cannot divide Members into fractions, eighty-four is the number.

Mr. Komora: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I rise to seek your guidance on this. It is laid down in the Constitution, section 71, subsections (2) and (3). I think, which deal with voting on such Bills. In subsection (3), it is stated that if a Bill does not get the necessary percentage of votes, it is to be withdrawn. Now, Sir, I have some three points here which I wish to seek your guidance on. The first point is whether the Bill, since it was not possible to get the required percentage of votes yesterday, is it not liable for withdrawal? That is one. The second point is: for how long will the Speaker be continuing to suspend the voting if the necessary percentage is not available or is not obtained? Three, where are those powers for the Speaker to suspend the voting to be seen in either the Standing Orders to the Constitution?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There are no written instructions in our Standing Orders or in the Constitution as to what you are to do about this particular matter. That being so, the Speaker is required, by Standing Order No. 1, to do what he thinks best for the House. Now when we have these very rare cases of a Bill requiring the support of a minimum number of Members, I believe it is in the interests of the House to wait until we have that minimum number in the Chamber, to see whether or not they support the Bill. It is not easy to get them here; they can be taken by surprise. It seems quite wrong to proceed to a division which you know must be abortive, because the requisite number of Members simply are not here.

I would not postpone a division merely to get that extra number of Members on one side or the other, but when we have less than eighty-four Members altogether, I do think it is in the interests of the House to wait until we have eighty-four Members here. Then, if, out of those eighty-four Members, one votes against, of course, the Bill would have to be withdrawn. That is the procedure I have adopted on other occasions, and I intend to adopt it again on this occasion.

I will ask the Clerk to count the numbers present to see if we have any prospect of a division. Yes, we have more than eighty-four Members now present, so we can proceed to the division.

DIVISION

(The House divided)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I very much regret to tell Members that this Division is abortive because one of the tellers, who accepted to be a teller for the Ayes, Mr. Odeh-Sir, has insisted on voting "No". The whole point of having tellers, two for the Ayes and two for the Noes, is that you then divide, with one Aye and one No counting the vote on either side. This made us with two Noes counting the Ayes, which we cannot have. We will have to have fresh tellers and start again. I am afraid.

I want two real tellers for the Ayes this time, please.

Two tellers for the Ayes and two tellers for the Noes as quickly as possible, please, so that we can get back to a proper Division. Mr. Clerk, could you come and take the names of the new tellers?

Order! Order! We are starting the Division again. Whatever is recorded on that abortive attempt will be completely disregarded.

[Mr. Nyamweya] habits of Meru, is to help Meru people discourage the excessive drinking of the Meru people.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister knows very well that the revenue of the licensing goes to the county council, if that is the position, why should he penalize the trader?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want to make it understood among the Meru people, that it is an expensive affair to be a drunkard.

Mr. Anytem: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the drinker is more important than the seller of these drinks, what measures has the Government taken to make sure that while the Government has shortened the hours of drinking in official or licensed places, that these people who have been prevented from drinking in the official places will not go and drink at the other places, and therefore not work hard?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, every administrative method is being used, to uncover those who are drinking in secret in Meru.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, that the intentions were, of course, meant to restrict drinking in Meru, how does it become necessary to penalize the businessman who may not necessarily be a drinking man, by raising the fee from Sh. 180 to Sh. 300?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if a business man discovers that it does not pay to run a drinking business, he will not necessarily buy a licence at a higher price.

Mr. Nyaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since I understand that the hours of selling the native liquor have been limited from 2 p.m. up to 6 p.m., I presume, that the selling of Tusker beer and the rest is limited from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m., will the Minister clarify this point and tell the House why this is done, and the difference between the native liquor and beer?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am told that most people in Meru can only afford to drink native beer thus encouraging a lot of people to become drunk and unable to work in their shambas. If the hon. Member from Meru would like to give us the support, we would also explore the possibility of limiting the hours for other liquor as well.

Mr. Nyaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister give an accurate answer to this House as to why there is a difference between beer and the native liquor, and why beer has a limitation from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. and why native liquor has been limited from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already dealt with that point.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, that he has answered that question, is he aware that he has not answered the question that has been asked? The question, if I may repeat, is this: could the Minister tell the House the amount of liquor content in native beer and Tusker beer? Would he tell the House on what basis he is basing this, or is he ignorant about the content of liquor in native beer? Is he not, by so restricting this native liquor, promoting Tusker beer which is a European drink, and denying African Socialism to that effect?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that coming from the hon. Member for Butere who, I know very well, is a teetotaler like myself, I would like to say this: If the House sincerely requires that information, I shall have to ask the hon. Members for Meru to bring the samples of this native liquor and I shall submit this to the Government Chemist for analysis.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister in order, when we ask a question connected with him, to reply to other hon. Members to go and bring the liquor. Is he not informed of the strength of the alcohol content of African beer? Are we to go and get the bottles of this liquor and bring it here ourselves?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is quite in order.

Mr. Tamir: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister agree with me that by restricting the African drinking hours, he is promoting the Asians to take the money away from the Africans, because the people that own the non-African beers are non-Meru people, but Asians?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, how impossible can some people be? In these buildings, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we examine the bar's account, we will see that a lot of money has been paid to the various companies who brew beer in the country, all imbibed, by the by, by the Member of this House!

Mr. Omeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister consider, that from 2 p.m. which is in the middle of working hours, that whatever limitation of hours there is going to be, it should start after the actual working hours when these Meru people and any other person has finished work, which should, I say, start from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., rather than having the limitation starting during the working hours.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, Mr. Omeri, that is too far away from this question.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that, due to the restriction of this native liquor, there has been an increase of people chewing mira in Meru so that the effect desired of controlling people from excessive drinking, the time is spent in chewing this gum?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Will you please repeat your question, Mr. Jahazi?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that due to the restriction of hours of drinking native liquor, this has created excessive chewing of mira in this area, and in this way the desired effect of having people working on the shambas is defeated?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know the practice of chewing mira, but if mira is being chewed, then I presume it could be chewed when someone is working in his shamba.

Mr. Nyaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I seek your guidance. Is the Minister in order, when giving information to this House, to give answers which do not adhere to what the House wants to know or what the country wants to know?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes.

Question No. 379

SELECTION OF STUDENTS FOR Harambee SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Education if he would define the manner of selection of students for a Harambee secondary school in any particular constituency which had to bear the financial burden for this school.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Management of unaided schools are entitled to select pupils for admission without direct or indirect control by the Ministry of Education, but they have been advised to choose those who have passed the Kenya Preliminary Examination, preferably with high grades.

Mr. Nyaberi: Arising from that reply by the Assistant Minister, Mr. Speaker, Sir, will he tell this House in which way his Ministry will exercise powers over the account books of a Harambee secondary school?

Mr. ole Konchellah: We have inspectors and county education officers who are also entitled to visit these schools and inspect them.

Mr. Araman: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may we know from the Assistant Minister because he said that he has the power to choose directly or indirectly the students—how many his Ministry has chosen for these Harambee schools?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question is not clear. Could the hon. Member please explain?

Mr. Araman: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister said that he has the power to choose, either directly or indirectly, the students to go to the Harambee schools. I would like to know how many students he has chosen to go to the Harambee schools?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, I did not say that. I said that the committees of these schools had the right to choose the students for such schools and that there was no control over this by the Ministry of Education, directly or indirectly, only advice.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House the reason why the Ministry has not taken an interest to see that properly qualified boys are admitted to the Harambee secondary schools?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry has taken an interest. Our inspectors are going round these schools and any unqualified children who have been admitted will be asked to leave the school.

Mr. Kamurea: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, during the selection of boys for secondary schools, we sometimes see headmasters from secondary schools going to the provincial education offices for selection of these boys who qualify for secondary education, but we do not see headmasters of Harambee schools going to the provincial education offices to select boys for their schools. This being so, is the Ministry satisfied that the boys going to Harambee high school are of the same calibre as the boys selected by the headmasters of other secondary schools?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the first selection which takes place, takes place for all Government and national schools. Later on, the Harambee schools also select their groups, but this only happens after the provincial headquarters have selected the number of boys who could be accommodated in the existing Government schools.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply from the Assistant Minister, in which he said that his Ministry will inspect the Harambee schools, and if they find some pupils who have been admitted there who are not properly qualified they will be dismissed, may I know from the Assistant Minister whether the Ministry is prepared to take the responsibility of these schools if they intend, in fact, to interfere with the selection of the students? I ask this because

Mr. Ndile: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think my question has been omitted.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I thought you understood; it was because there was no representation of the Ministry of Education here. When we come to the end, we will come back to those questions for the Ministry because the Assistant Minister is here now.

Question No. 384

HOUSING SHORTAGE, KISUMU

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he was aware that there was a very great shortage of dwelling houses in Kisumu and if so, would he allow more plots to be allocated by the Kisumu Municipality before the end of February 1966.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, I am not aware that there is a great shortage of dwelling houses in Kisumu, but, even if a shortage of dwelling houses exists, this is not due to a lack of availability of plots for residential purposes. In the past five years, numerous plots for private dwelling houses and for business combined with residence have been allocated in Kisumu. Normally, the allottees are allowed a maximum of two years in which to complete the proposed development, with possible extensions when they advance good reasons why they are unable to complete development within the stipulated period.

Out of twenty-seven plots which were allocated in or about the year 1960 for business-cum-residential purposes, only half have been developed to date. In 1963, an area off Ramogi Road was zoned for private dwellings houses and, out of the thirteen plots allocated during this period, more than one-third have not yet been developed. Eight more plots were allocated for private dwelling houses last year and these are not yet developed.

Notwithstanding this delay in development, at the present moment, plans are in the process of being approved for a site and service scheme and, once these are approved, the land will be available to the municipality. Furthermore, plans are also in the process of being approved for an area of low-density residential plots to the south of Baring Drive, and it is hoped that once these two schemes come into operation, they will be sufficient to meet any residential problems that are likely to arise in Kisumu in the near future.

Mr. Bala: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Sir, and the fact that we are expecting the Soviet Union-aided hospital in Kisumu, and a textile factory to be built in Kisumu, would the Minister consider either withdrawing some of the plots which are allocated to people and which have not been developed in order that they could be allocated to other people who could build on them immediately or, alternatively, to try to allocate further plots for the people who can build on them quickly so that we should have more dwelling houses in Kisumu?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, whenever an applicant is allocated a plot, he undertakes to develop that plot within two years. It is very difficult, Sir, to know who is not telling the truth and who is telling the truth. What we do in is good faith. The Government allocates a plot to a person after two years we know whether an allottee is prepared to develop the plot or not. As I have said in my reply, some people do advance reasons why they have not been able to develop their plots within that period and, therefore, more time is granted. If there is a need and a pressure, as the hon. Member states, we shall be able to consider that in the light of whatever pressure may be existing.

Mr. Bala: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, is the Assistant Minister not aware that, at present, there are doctors in the Nyanza General Hospital who cannot get accommodation to rent and, as such, they are even considering resigning and going back to their country because there are no houses?

Mr. Gachago: Well, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of that, and even if I was, there is nothing that my Ministry could do but allocate plots to those people who apply for them. It is up to the hon. Member to see that those people, if they are in his area, or in his constituency, do develop those plots so that the doctors can live in.

Mr. Mallinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of a reply by the Assistant Minister, would he tell this House whether he has received any complaints as to the unavailability of more undeveloped plots in Kisumu which could be applied for and allocated to new applicants?

Mr. Gachago: No, Sir.

Mr. Bataala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister agree with me that in a town like Kisumu and other main towns of the country, most of the plots are owned by non-Africans and, therefore, it is difficult for Africans to own plots? As such, is his Ministry prepared to take over some of these plots and develop them for Africans?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, if this is correct, we would be very much prepared to look into it, but according to the economic standard of this

[Mr. Gachago]

I very much doubt if Africans will be able to develop these plots any faster than those which have been allocated to them. As I said, Mr. Speaker, the other day, the allocation of plots is not considered on a racial basis.

Mr. Jambali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that non-development of the plots is not only due to the shortage of the plots but also to the shortage of finance, would the Minister—in consultation with the Minister for Housing—ensure that the Development Finance Corporation makes money available to people of Kisumu so that development can take place in the same way as in Nairobi and Mombasa?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is outside the jurisdiction of my Ministry to consider—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): And it is also outside the scope of this question.

Mr. Gachago: I thought you would say so, Mr. Speaker.

Question No. 386

PURCHASES OF FIREARMS: DIFFICULTIES

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Home Affairs whether he was aware of hardship experienced by the people of Nyanza and Western Province in buying firearms which could only be obtained from Nairobi and not from Kisumu.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. No, Sir, I am not aware of any such hardship. The only firearms dealer in Kisumu gave up the business in 1964, because it was uneconomic for him to operate there; his sales were only one firearm, on average, per month. Moreover, the selling of firearms is carried out by private businessmen and the Government cannot compel anyone to set up a business where it will not pay to do so.

Mr. Bala: Arising from the Minister's reply, Sir, where he says that it was uneconomic for the private sector to handle the sales of firearms, could the Ministry try to establish other machinery whereby the people from the Western Province and Nyanza Province could get firearms which they normally use for protection against wild animals and so on. Some Members are asking "what for"—not for shooting human beings, but for shooting wild animals.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware that the people of Central Province are not protected; nor the people of Central Nyanza.

Mr. Oasin-Nyallick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, is he aware that there are a number of people in Nyanza and Western Province who are licensed to own guns for their own protection, and when they want the firearms to scare some animals—such as hippos and others—that are destroying their crops, these people are made to walk a long way from Kisumu to Nairobi, in search of firearms? What is the Ministry doing in order to save them such a situation?

Mr. arap Moi: It is not my business to urge any individual from Central Nyanza or anywhere else in Kenya to come and buy firearms, it is up to him, or her, if he or she feels that he or she should own a firearms to protect themselves if he or she owns a licence.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will go back now to Mr. Mate's question, No. 390.

Question No. 390

SALES OF NATIVE LIQUOR IN EASTERN PROVINCE

Mr. Mate asked the Minister of State, President's Office, why it was necessary to limit the selling hours of native liquor in Meru and in other parts of Eastern Province, when the licensed traders had had their licence fees raised from Sh. 180 to Sh. 300 per annum.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamwaya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The provincial commissioner gave instructions that drinking hours throughout his province should be between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. He made this decision in the light of the recent famine threat to the province. The provincial commissioner was of the opinion that one of the causes of famine in the province was due to the fact that people spent many hours in drinking instead of working on their land to produce sufficient food for themselves. The intention of the order was to encourage people to be usefully occupied on their land, and to reduce the hours of drinking.

It is to be hoped that the people of Eastern Province will prove that such orders are not necessary, by working hard on their land, thus averting any future famine threat, and I do trust that the hon. Member will give a lead in this case.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the trader has had to have his licence fee raised and, in order to get materials for making native liquor, the trader goes to a lot of expense, why should Government raise the licence fee and also limit the hours of drinking?

Mr. Nyamwaya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the sole purpose of this order of restricting the drinking hours and also to increase the fees payable by the people who intend to gain from the drinking

Mr. Ndile: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think my question has been omitted.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I thought you understood; it was because there was no representative of the Ministry of Education here. When we come to the end, we will come back to those questions for the Ministry because the Assistant Minister is here now.

Question No. 384

HOUSING SHORTAGE, KISUMU

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he was aware that there was a very great shortage of dwelling houses in Kisumu and if so, would he allow more plots to be allocated by the Kisumu Municipality before the end of February 1966.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, I am not aware that there is a great shortage of dwelling houses in Kisumu, but, even if a shortage of dwelling houses exists, this is not due to a lack of availability of plots for residential purposes. In the past five years, numerous plots for private dwelling houses and for business combined with residence have been allocated in Kisumu. Normally, the allottees are allowed a maximum of two years in which to complete the proposed development, with possible extensions when they advance good reasons why they are unable to complete development within the stipulated period.

Out of twenty-seven plots which were allocated in or about the year 1960 for business-cum-residential purposes, only half have been developed to date. In 1963, an area off Ramogi Road was zoned for private dwellings houses and, out of the thirteen plots allocated during this period, more than one-third have not yet been developed. Eight more plots were allocated for private dwelling houses last year and these are not yet developed.

Notwithstanding this delay in development, at the present moment, plans are in the process of being approved for a site and service scheme and, once these are approved, the land will be available to the municipality. Furthermore, plans are also in the process of being approved for an area of low-density residential plots to the south of Baring Drive, and it is hoped that once these two schemes come into operation, they will be sufficient to meet any residential problems that are likely to arise in Kisumu in the near future.

Mr. Bala: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Sir, and the fact that we are expecting the Soviet Union-aided hospital in Kisumu, and a textile factory to be built in Kisumu, would the Minister consider either withdrawing some of the plots which are allocated to people and which have not been developed in order that they could be allocated to other people who could build on them immediately or, alternatively, to try to allocate further plots for the people who can build on them quickly so that we should have more dwelling houses in Kisumu?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, whenever an applicant is allocated a plot, he undertakes to develop that plot within two years. It is very difficult, Sir, to know who is not telling the truth and who is telling the truth. What we do in good faith. The Government allocates a plot and after two years we know whether an allottee is prepared to develop the plot or not. As I have said in my reply, some people do advance reasons why they have not been able to develop their plots within that period and, therefore, more time is granted. If there is a need and a pressure, as the hon. Member states, we shall be able to consider that in the light of whatever pressure may be existing.

Mr. Bala: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, is the Assistant Minister not aware that, at present, there are doctors in the Nyanza General Hospital who cannot get accommodation to rent and, as such, they are even considering resigning and going back to their country because there are no houses?

Mr. Gachago: Well, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of that, and even if I was, there is nothing that my Ministry could do but allocate plots to those people who apply for them. It is up to the hon. Member to see that those people, if they are in his area, or in his constituency, do develop those plots so that the doctors can live in.

Mr. Mallinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of a reply by the Assistant Minister, would he tell this House whether he has received any complaints as to the unavailability of more undeveloped plots in Kisumu which could be applied for and allocated to new applicants?

Mr. Gachago: No, Sir.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister agree with me that in a town like Kisumu and other main towns of the country, most of the plots are owned by non-Africans and, therefore, it is difficult for Africans to own plots? As such, is his Ministry prepared to take over some of these plots and develop them for Africans?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, if this is correct, we would be very much prepared to look into it, but according to the economic standard of this country, Sir, I very much doubt if Africans will be able to develop these plots any faster than those which have been allocated to them. As I said, Mr. Speaker, the other day, the allocation of plots is not considered on a racial basis.

[Mr. Gachago]

Mr. Jamak: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that non-development of the plots is not only due to the shortage of the plots but also to the shortage of finance, would the Minister—in consultation with the Minister for Housing—ensure that the Development Finance Corporation makes money available to people of Kisumu so that development can take place in the same way as in Nairobi and Mombasa?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is outside the jurisdiction of my Ministry to consider—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): And it is also outside the scope of this question.

Mr. Gachago: I thought you would say so, Mr. Speaker.

Question No. 386

PURCHASES OF FIREARMS: DIFFICULTIES

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Home Affairs whether he was aware of hardship experienced by the people of Nyanza and Western Province in buying firearms which could only be obtained from Nairobi and not from Kisumu.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. No, Sir, I am not aware of any such hardship. The only firearms dealer in Kisumu gave up the business in 1964, because it was uneconomic for him to operate there; his sales were only one firearm, on average, per month. Moreover, the selling of firearms is carried out by private businessmen and the Government cannot compel anyone to set up a business where it will not pay to do so.

Mr. Bala: Arising from the Minister's reply, Sir, where he says that it was uneconomic for the private sector to handle the sales of firearms, could the Ministry try to establish other machinery whereby the people from the Western Province and Nyanza Province could get firearms which they normally use for protection against wild animals and so on. Some Members are asking "what for"—not for shooting human beings, but for shooting wild animals.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware that the people of Central Province are not protected, nor the people of Central Nyanza.

Mr. Oada-Nyallick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, is he aware that there are a number of people in Nyanza and Western Province who are licensed to own guns for their own protection, and when they want the firearms to scare some animals—such as hippos and others—that are destroying their crops, these people are made to walk a long way, from Kisumu to Nairobi, in search of firearms? What is the Ministry doing in order to save them such a situation?

Mr. arap Moi: It is not my business to urge any individual from Central Nyanza or anywhere else in Kenya to come and buy firearms; it is up to him or her, if he or she feels that he or she should own a firearms to protect themselves if he or she owns a licence.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will go back now to Mr. Mate's question, No. 390.

Question No. 390

SALES OF NATIVE LIQUOR IN EASTERN PROVINCE

Mr. Mate asked the Minister of State, President's Office, why it was necessary to limit the selling hours of native liquor in Meru and in other parts of Eastern Province, when the licensed traders had had their licence fees raised from Sh. 180 to Sh. 300 per annum.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The provincial commissioner gave instructions that drinking hours throughout his province should be between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. He made this decision in the light of the recent famine threat to the province. The provincial commissioner was of the opinion that one of the causes of famine in the province was due to the fact that people spent many hours in drinking instead of working on their land to produce sufficient food for themselves. The intention of the order was to encourage people to be usefully occupied on their land, and to reduce the hours of drinking.

It is to be hoped that the people of Eastern Province will prove that such orders are not necessary, by working hard on their land, thus averting any future famine threat, and I do trust that the hon. Member will give a lead in this case.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the trader has had to have his licence fee raised and, in order to get materials for making native liquor, the trader goes to a lot of expense, why should Government raise the licence fee and also limit the hours of drinking?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the sole purpose of this order of restricting the drinking hours and also to increase the fees payable by the people who intend to gain from the drinking

[The Acting Minister for Housing and Social Services]

Twenty-six students were accepted for the first, second and third courses and thirteen are taking the fourth.

Twenty-four students successfully completed the first course and seventeen the second. Four students of the second course are sitting one subject again.

Of the forty-one successful students: twenty are employed by local authorities; ten are employed by voluntary agencies; two are employed by Government; two are awaiting final decision regarding employment by local authorities; two are continuing their studies overseas; and five are unemployed for domestic reasons.

The Ministry is now investigating establishment of an employment procedure for successful students and is considering also salary scales to be recommended to potential employers.

Question No. 374*POLICE POST FOR MWANGORISIA

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Home Affairs if he was aware that there was a great demand to establish a police post at Mwangorisia at the junction of the roads, Kisi-Sotik and Ikonge-Keroka, where stock thieving was very active.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi) No. Sir, I am satisfied that there is no justification for the establishment of a police post at Mwangorisia. This place is close to Keroka and Sotik police stations from which it is effectively patrolled; nor is it far from Kisi and Nyamira. Information at my disposal indicates that there has been no upsurge in the prevalence of crime in the area in recent months. Stock thefts take place in the vicinity of this place, occasionally but the incidence is not alarming. However, I will continue to watch the situation and should it deteriorate I shall not hesitate to take appropriate action.

Question No. 375*REGIONAL AND DISTRICT BOUNDARIES

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House whether the boundaries as recommended and laid down by the Regional Boundary Commission between districts and regions were being observed when allocating plots in the settlement schemes.

The Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Angaine): Yes, Sir, the district boundaries are used, although the scheme may not necessarily be for that district alone.

Question No. 451*NAIROBI MAYOR'S ENTERTAINMENT ALLOWANCE

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Local Government if he was aware that the Mayor of Nairobi spent £7,000-£10,000 in entertainment last year, 1965. Who were the people entertained?

Question No. 455*NAIROBI MAYOR'S EMOLUMENTS

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Local Government if he would inform the House of the amount of money paid to the Mayor of Nairobi as salary or allowances.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. Mr. Oyoda): Mr. Speaker, Sir, with your permission, I would like to link Question Nos. 451 and 455 and reply to them at one time, because they are associated.

I am not aware that the Mayor of Nairobi City Council spent £7,000 to £10,000 on entertainment in 1965. The Mayor was awarded an annual allowance of £1,500 at the commencement of the civic year in June 1965, which was later increased, with my approval, to £2,000. This sum, which is an allowance and not a salary, is for his personal subsistence, loss of earnings and entertainment disbursements associated with his office. It will be appreciated that the Mayor is a very active man who does a great deal for Nairobi and many things are expected of him.

In addition, the city council allocated, with my approval, a sum of £2,000 in the Estimates for 1965, for the civic entertainment of distinguished visitors and citizens. This estimate was increased to £3,000, with my approval, but, in fact, only £2,345 was spent. The Vote is under the control of the council and not the Mayor personally.

It is not possible to give a list of names of all persons who were entertained by the council but receptions were held, inter alia, for His Excellency the President of Kenya on the opening of the Kariobangi Site and Service Housing Scheme, His Excellency the President of Zambia when he visited Kenya to open the Agricultural Show, delegations from Lusaka and Kitwe Municipalities in Zambia, also from Kampala in Uganda, the Worcestershire cricket team, the East African Safari drivers and officials, the Pakistan hockey team, members of the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa, and members of the staff on the occasion of the retirement of the selected expatriate officers.

Thursday, 3rd March 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS*ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS*Question No. 378*MARKETING BOARD'S ACCOUNTS

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry if the duties transacted by the accountants of the Kenya Coffee Board and those of the Kenya Marketing Board differed to a degree that it would be impossible to amalgamate the boards into one board.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): Mr. Speaker, I beg to reply, No, Sir.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer comprising two letters, n. o. "no", Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell this House about the many questions concerning these boards, the Kenya Coffee Board and the Kenya Marketing Board, instead of just saying, "no"?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member should note that both the Coffee Board and the Coffee Marketing Board have actually jointly employed only one accountant to look after both boards' accounts. In regard to the amalgamation of the two boards, I should like to remind the hon. Member that there is a working party already investigating this matter and the hon. Member's question will certainly be answered in the working party's report.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he agree with me that the market price for lb. of coffee is probably Sh. 4, and yet the farmers in Kisi or in his constituency only get about 15 cents? Because of this, we want to see whether this is due to the fact that there are so many boards. And—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right, Mr. Nyaberi. That is enough by way of speech.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, I do not think I can go further on this question, because this working party is considering all the facts and, as soon as they hand their report to us, I am sure the hon. Member will be able to see the report.

Mr. Mbooga: Mr. Speaker, will the Assistant Minister assure this House that when that report is produced, he will bring it here to the House, for our information?

Mr. Murgor: Yes, Sir.

Question No. 379*SELECTION OF STUDENTS FOR Harambee SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Education if he would define the manner for selecting those students to join the Harambee secondary schools in a particular constituency which bore the financial burden.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Who answers for the Ministry of Education?

I am afraid that I will have to wait to the end then, Mr. Nyaberi. Likewise the next question. We had better go on to Question No. 382.

Question No. 382*MEMBERS' MEMBERSHIP OF COUNTY COUNCILS

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Local Government if he, in consultation with the Attorney-General, would amend the Constitution so as to enable all Members of Parliament to become automatically members of their respective county councils, without necessarily having any allowances; and whether the Minister was aware that this was the recommendation of Members of Parliament, permanent secretaries and provincial commissioners at the conference held on 15th to 17th December 1965, at the Kenya Institute of Administration.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Njiru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply: I am aware that the seminar which was attended by some hon. Members, permanent secretaries and provincial commissioners in December last year, recommended that Members of Parliament should become members of the county councils in their respective areas.

I do not propose to take any action on the matter now. Hon. Members will, by now, have learned from my public statements that His Excellency the President has agreed to set up a commission of inquiry to look into the constitution, finances and other matters relating to our system of local government. As the question of membership of Members of Parliament in local authority bodies will involve the constitutions of those local authorities, I shall take this recommendation very seriously in the near future.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, I just want to push the Assistant Minister a little further! Does that imply, Sir, saying that the Ministry will take the matter seriously, does that imply that the Ministry will be positive and this will not be conditional on the recommendations?

Mr. Njiru: Mr. Speaker, after the commission of inquiry, we will see what we can do.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

[Mr. Gatigwa] that he is the best judge of these matters, and that he knows as a matter of fact that this chief is doing a good job. It is quite right that a chief might be doing a very good job administratively, but it is no use keeping him if he is unpopular with the people, and in any case since the Government policy is quite clear that the chiefs should be selected, why are they kept? Why are two chiefs in my constituency who killed people during the emergency still kept? Why are they still singing to the people that they will continue to rule these people?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not wish to speak very much on this Motion, because it is quite clear that the wish of the people is that these old colonial chiefs should be dismissed and that the people be given the right to select their own chiefs. The policy has been accepted by the Government, and all that we want to know from whoever will reply to this Motion is why has this policy not been executed and, in particular, in my own constituency, are we to continue to have these two chiefs who are completely unpopular with the people? I have no grudge against them myself, I have never had any clashes with the chiefs; but they treat our people worse than dogs, and if this is so, we should not have them at all.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I support the Motion.

(Question proposed)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade). It is now just on time for the interruption of business, so the House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, 3rd March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at twenty-eight minutes past six o'clock.

WRITTEN REPLIES TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 132

TOMATO AND PINEAPPLE CANNING FACTORY FOR HAMISI

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development when he was going to establish a tomato and pineapple canning factory in Hamisi Constituency.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa). In answering this question, I would like to deal with the two crops separately.

Pineapples.—The Government recently concluded an agreement with California Packing Corporation of America, under the terms of which a very big expansion of pineapple production is envisaged. This corporation undertook to process eventually no less than 170,000 tons of pineapples per year. In the initial stages, however, it is expected that the canning factories will be set up in areas producing large quantities of pineapples. This is absolutely necessary if the factory such as this, which requires high capital investment, is to be kept busy all year. Unfortunately, not enough pineapples are grown in the Hamisi Constituency to sustain a canning factory at the present time. It is therefore unlikely that a pineapple canning factory will be started there in the near future.

Tomatoes.—The Horticultural Development Council has been working to encourage the development of a tomato-processing industry for some time now. At the present time, Trofoods Ltd., who are manufacturers of tomato puree, are buying tomatoes from a wide area in the Western Province, including the Hamisi Constituency, for their factory at Kabazi. One of the problems encountered has been that this factory which is producing for both the domestic and export market, is only able to pay 7 cents per lb. of tomatoes to the farmers and, consequently, farmers tend to sell most of their products in the local fresh market where they can obtain higher prices.

Some companies have expressed an interest in establishing a tomato-processing factory from the Lugari area and are currently carrying out feasibility studies.

Question No. 219

SCHOOLS' INSPECTION REPORTS

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House how many inspection reports had been brought into his Ministry by his officers in 1964 and 1965 from primary and secondary schools. Would also tell the House who the inspectors were and what the effects of these inspection reports had been.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange). In 1964, there were 91 school inspection reports received by the Inspectorate of the Ministry of Education. In 1965, there were 141 school inspection reports received. It should be noted that:

(a) Routine inspections of primary schools are carried out by education officers and assistant education officers in local authority areas and particular inspections of primary schools by inspectors from the Ministry's headquarters

[The Minister for Education]

may be requested by provincial education officers from time to time. In the latter cases, the provincial inspector of schools normally carries out the inspection. Reports on primary inspections, however, are not submitted to the Ministry in Nairobi, unless there is a special reason for doing so, and such reports are not included in the figures given above.

(b) The figures given do not include inspections of individual teachers in either primary or secondary schools. This is a routine task, mainly for promotion purposes, involving specialist and provincial inspectors, and is carried out throughout the year. Opportunity is naturally taken during such visits to give advice verbally to heads of schools.

(c) The figures take no account of the huge programme of primary and secondary and teacher-training supervisory visits by the inspectors attached to the curriculum development unit for new mathematics, science, vernacular and English. Reports resulting from such visits deal with the development of subjects nationally and are so submitted in composite form with schools possibly mentioned only as illustration.

(d) The total of 232 school inspections in 1964 and 1965 comprises the following types of inspections:

- (i) Routine advisory inspections by the provincial inspector of schools, usually to assist new secondary schools.
- (ii) Specialist visits by subject inspectors from the Ministry's Inspectorate and including physical education and domestic science.
- (iii) Panel inspections by two or more inspectors for the purpose of grading the school for external examination. These cover maintained, assisted and unaided schools.
- (iv) Periodic general inspections by panels of up to six inspectors to ensure the maintenance of educational standard.
- (v) Emergency panel inspections as may be required by the provincial education officers or by the Ministry.

The inspectors taking part in the inspections during 1964 and 1965 were: J. H. Gitau (Chief Inspector of Schools), K. R. Wilson (Senior Education Officer (I)), Miss E. W. Njionjo (Domestic Science), Miss E. A. MacHugh (Domestic Science), A. S. A. Jenby (Physical Education), A. K. Hardyman (History), W. G. Bowman (English), J. J. Omondini (Science), J. Tsuma (Geography), M. Malachia (Geography), H. J. Kanina (Mathematics), F. K. Kago (Swahili), J. Ougo (Kisumu), K. Onyoni (Kakamega), D. Mwangi (Nyeri), J. G. M. Bundred (Mombasa), W. C. Dizney (Embu), B. Coffey (Nakuru), R. H. J. Thompson (Nairobi), C. C. Desai (Nairobi), G. Scholes, G. Norman, Mrs. M. Martin (Science Centre); Mrs. W. Maina (Maths Centre).

The value of the inspection reports is seen in the following—

(a) They provide the Ministry with an overall view and assessment of secondary education in Kenya. In doing this, they furnish the factual background for the Ministry's negotiations with overseas agencies for finance, staffing, institutions, scholarships, etc.

(b) They assist in the maintenance of educational standards in established secondary schools and in the inculcations of appropriate standards in new secondary schools.

(c) They offer a sure and quick diagnosis and, often, solution of problems affecting secondary education.

(d) They familiarize schools with new and appropriate text books.

(e) They lead to the spread of modern suitable teaching methods.

(f) They have proved to be a key factor in developing greater understanding between the teachers in the field and the Ministry of Education.

Question No. 363

EMPLOYMENT OF GRADUATES FROM ISRAELI SCHOOL, MACHAKOS

Mr. Njahi Abok asked the Minister for Housing and Social Services if he would tell the House what plans he had for the immediate employment of the students graduating from two years' training in social work from the Kenya Israel School of Social Work, Machakos, since the Government had now taken it over. What was to be the fixed basic salary scale for employed graduates.

The Acting Minister for Housing and Social Services (Mr. Otieno). As each course held at the school nears completion date, the board of governors take steps to find employment for the non-sponsored students. Sponsored students are the responsibility of the sponsoring body.

The following courses have been organized by the school to date: first graduated September 1964; second graduated October 1965; third will complete March 1967; fourth (in service) will complete in 1968.

[Mr. Kase] from that Ministry altogether. They can go and work somewhere else digging holes in the streets, there are plenty of jobs like that, and allow more capable people to be brought into these offices.

Now, Mr. Speaker, some hon. Members might say that the delay in the President's Office, some Members might say that it was in the provincial commissioner's office or at the level of the district commissioner. But all three are to blame, Mr. Speaker. The district commissioner is to blame because he sat on a few papers. Now, if I may give an example: in the Coast Province voting was done in early March last year, in every district, and in other provinces also, but what happened was that the files from the Tana River District on chiefs were not forwarded to Mombasa, which is only 200 miles away, from March until August. What was the district commissioner doing with these files in his office?

If I may go further, I have been trying to contact the President's Office. There is a gentleman there called Mr. Omino and Mr. Ekiappa, I think, if the pronunciation is right; I have tried to contact these gentlemen, Mr. Speaker, very often. The files from the provincial commissioner reached that office in October, the provincial commissioner sat on those papers for a number of months and forwarded them to the President's Office in October; this is what happens. The Minister of State, who is not here today, whose letter I have with me in my files, said: "Mr. Kase, when you receive this letter, the said provincial commissioner should have appointed the chiefs." This was dated the 2nd November 1965. I will go still further, Mr. Speaker, and say when were these chiefs appointed to some of these districts? The letter is dated 2nd November, when I received this letter it was said that the chiefs would have been appointed. This is a letter from the Minister of State in the President's Office, when he was the Assistant Minister.

What happened was that when this Motion came up I went on my own one week-end to the district officer who told me that he had been instructed to call those people and appoint them, so that when you bring a Motion to Parliament it is valueless. Are civil servants, Mr. Speaker, only going to work when Motions come to this Parliament? Mr. Speaker, this was the district officer at my home, he is the only district officer there so there is no question of naming him, the Government knows who he is. He says, "We have been instructed to appoint these chiefs today", and I remember that he did not get to sleep until midnight in order that the doctor could examine them properly. So that when you bring a Motion to Parliament it will be worthless.

We now see, Mr. Speaker, that if this is the trend, that they will not act until Motions are brought into this Parliament, then this is a very sad affair. As for such civil servants, Mr. Speaker, I think the only thing is for them to go and leave other capable men to do the work.

I said, in the first instance, Mr. Speaker, that I have no quarrel with this and no personal grudge, I am capable of becoming a district commissioner the same as anyone. Some of them in fact are Standard Vs and Standard VIs; I am capable. Any hon. Member is capable of becoming a district commissioner, even a permanent secretary, for that matter.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): You cannot become a permanent secretary.

Mr. Kase I hear the Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Speaker, saying that I cannot become a permanent secretary. We know some people who have been district officers and who are now permanent secretaries. If I were capable of becoming a district officer, then I would be capable of becoming a permanent secretary. There is no problem about it. Some do not have better qualifications than myself.

Having made that point clear, Mr. Speaker, as to why I want them dismissed, I hope the Government will find it fit to dismiss them, because as long as they are there—I am informed that in places like the Central Province some chiefs have not yet been appointed, and also in Lamu they have not been appointed, despite the fact that some civil servants wanted to appoint them quickly before this Motion came up. I understand from Members in the Masai area that they have not been appointed. How long are people going to wait? If they are going to appoint the Tana River chiefs when I bring a Motion, how many Motions will come to this Parliament, Mr. Speaker? In every district—how many are there, forty-one—do we have time to waste on lazy civil servants? I do not think we have that time, Mr. Speaker, and if we do not have that time, I think the only thing is that when they get an order they should carry it out, otherwise, Mr. Speaker, these two hon. Ministers here and the Assistant Minister must convey to His Excellency the President the fact that his civil servants have let him down very badly. I am informed, Mr. Speaker, that in Kwana out of thirteen locations, where chiefs have been appointed six of them are not the ones who obtained majority votes. It is fortunate that this district commissioner is not mine.

An hon. Member: Keep quiet.

Mr. Kase: The hon. Member says, "Keep quiet", but I will not keep quiet.

Mr. Speaker, if we are going to have things like this happen, whom are we going to obey in this country? The President or someone else? If the President is too busy to act on this, then he has his Minister of State, Mr. Speaker, who should have acted, but if he too is not going to act, then all we say is that, although the President said this, we cannot believe him.

Mr. Speaker, these things are going to be proved untrue even when the President has gone further. If you do not want that chief, all we have to do is to say that we have no confidence in him. This thing is going to be proved untrue, because here is the beginning, Mr. Speaker, and if this is not cured in this country we are going to suffer.

Mr. Speaker, I think efficiency in the President's Office must be maintained, otherwise we lose hope; that is the key office in this country. If the President's Office has to be efficient, those civil servants who delayed it should go.

Mr. Speaker, I do not need to labour much on this because I think I have made my point very clear. With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I will wait to hit back at whoever thinks I have said things which are not factual.

I beg to move.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support this Motion because we have a very big problem in Central Province over chiefs.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, after independence, there was a statement made by the Government to the effect that chiefs who were ruling this country during the colonial period should be dismissed and that the people of this country should be allowed to elect their own chiefs. In fact, at one stage, a number of chiefs were dismissed by this Government and the new ones were elected by the people. There was a promise that the remaining chiefs would also be elected by the people. In fact, it is not only a question of appointing them, it is a question of the people themselves selecting their own chiefs.

Now, up to this time, Sir, we still have some chiefs in this country who were ruling during the colonial period and who did a lot of damage to our people. I can say this, Mr. Speaker, that the feeling of the people in this country about the old chiefs is very, very strong indeed. Our people have a lot of confidence in the President and in the Government, but there are some of these things which are likely to destroy that confidence. If the Government wants to move with the people and with so much confidence, some of these matters must be looked into carefully.

The President himself has made a statement—I think he has made a statement in every meeting he goes to—that the people have a right to select chiefs, and the old colonial chiefs should be sacked. It is clear that the President has issued a statement of policy. The civil servants who are expected to execute this policy have failed to do so, and that is why I support this Motion. If the civil servants, whoever they are, cannot execute the Government policy, which is that the people should select their own chiefs, then it means that they have failed in their responsibilities and they should be sacked immediately.

In my own constituency there are four chiefs. We selected two chiefs in 1965, and two of the worst of all are still there. I have written a letter to the Administration, Kanu has written letters to the Administration, asking for the removal of these chiefs, without any good response. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we fail to do things outside this House by negotiations with the civil servants, then it is right that we should bring this matter to the public, in this very way.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the chiefs in Central Province particularly are some of those who beat people and even shot people during the emergency. The President has told us that we should forget the past and we have agreed with him, but these chiefs who beat people during the emergency, instead of forgetting the past, as our President has advised, are still singing to the people that they ruled them during the European colonial times and they will continue to rule them now. This is a very serious statement. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as a matter of fact, had it not been for the fact that the people of this country have so much confidence in our President, a revolution would have been caused by this very fact, that they are being told now by the people who used to rule them during the emergency that they will continue to rule them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, many of the civil servants do not understand the feelings of the people and do not care for those feelings. We, as politicians, come across these people, we know their difficulties and we know their complaints and it is just fair that when we make representations our feelings should be considered carefully.

It is a pity, Sir, that the civil servants are not prepared to listen to the politicians, because this is the crux of the problem. If you make a representation to a district commissioner or a district officer and tell him that a certain chief is unpopular and you ask him to do something about enabling the people to select another chief, what he will tell you is that a politician is not supposed to interfere with the Administration and the existing notes and coins are exchanged for the new Kenya notes and coins. Our new currency will, therefore, have a proper backing in external assets from the start.

[The Minister for Finance]

The hon. Mr. Alexander also suggested that if the new East African currencies were issued, for example, when the Uganda cotton season was in full swing, Uganda would get a greater share of the assets of the currency board than if the change took place at a different time of the year. This point has also occurred to me, but I am satisfied that the danger which Mr. Alexander foresees is not really there, and will not affect our share of the assets of the currency board. It is true that if additional currency notes are issued in Uganda during the cotton season, then these notes will be backed by Sterling or local assets to which the Uganda Government will be able to lay claim. However, this will not reduce the amount of assets related to currency in circulation in Kenya, nor will it reduce what we will receive. We will also have an opportunity of earning external assets from Uganda and Tanzania if we continue to have a favourable balance of trade with our neighbours.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Mr. Kamau urges that the bank should promote the African way of life and I can assure him that it is one of the specific objects of the bank to promote some economic development in this country.

I think that I have dealt with all the points raised which are relevant to the Bill before the House, but will be glad to provide the hon. Members with further information or to arrange for hon. Members to discuss particular points with experts in my Ministry, people who are versed in all details of this complicated matter.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

(The Bill was read a Second Time and committed to a Committee of the whole House today by leave of the House)

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE

(Order for Committee read)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

IN THE COMMITTEE

[The Deputy Chairman (Mr. Slade) took the Chair]

THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

(Clauses 2, 3, 4 and 5 agreed to)

(Clauses 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 agreed to)

(Clauses 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 agreed to)

(Clauses 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 agreed to)

(Clauses 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25 agreed to)

(Clauses 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 agreed to)

(Clauses 31, 32, 33, 34 and 35 agreed to)

(Clauses 36, 37, 38, 39 and 40 agreed to)

(Clauses 41, 42, 43, 44 and 45 agreed to)

(Clauses 46, 47, 48, 49 and 50 agreed to)

(Clauses 51, 52, 53, 54 and 55 agreed to)

Clause 56

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Deputy Chairman, there is a typographical error: 53 should read 54 on the second line; it should be section 54 instead of section 53.

The Deputy Chairman (Mr. Slade): I think you should, strictly, move a formal amendment then. Would you move that that be amended.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Sir, I beg to move that in clause 56 the figure 53 should be removed and replaced by 54.

(Question of the amendment proposed)

(Question that the word to be left out be left out put and agreed to)

(Question that the word to be inserted in place thereof be inserted put and agreed to)

(Clause 56 as amended agreed to)

(Clauses 57, 58, 59 and 60 agreed to)

(Clause 61 agreed to)

(Schedule agreed to)

(Title agreed to)

(Clause 1 agreed to)

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Deputy Chairman, I beg to move that the Committee doth report to the House its consideration of the Central Bank of Kenya Bill, and its approval of the same with amendment.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

(The House resumed)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

REPORT AND THIRD READING*THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to report that the Committee of the whole House has considered the Central Bank of Kenya Bill, and has approved it with amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Since it is only a formal amendment we could take consideration of the Report immediately, Mr. Gichuru, if you move that the House agrees with the Committee

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, I beg to move that the House doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Oluende) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Central Bank of Kenya Bill be now read the Third Time.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Oluende) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

(The Bill was accordingly read the Third Time and passed)

(Ordered that the Clerk carry the said Bill to the Senate and desire their concurrence)

MOTION*APPOINTMENT OF CHIEFS

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move—

THAT this House, noting with deep regret the delay in the appointment of chiefs in this country, especially in the Coast Province, recommends that all civil servants responsible for such delays be dismissed forthwith.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say, from the outset, that I have no grudge with any person as a person, with any civil servant who has delayed this. I have quarrelled, because he has failed to do his duty. You may be aware, Mr. Speaker, that in 1963 or 1964, the former Minister for Home Affairs did dismiss some chiefs in this country: that was in April 1964. We were told, Mr. Speaker, that people will vote, and when they vote the man who obtains the majority vote will become the chief. This was a very clear statement from the Minister for Home Affairs. That Minister was changed, Mr. Speaker, and the chiefs problem came under the President's Office, and the President of this country, Mr. Speaker, because I heard it with my own ears, not my own eyes, said that the one who obtains the majority vote would become the chief. Let us look at what happened.

I remember, Mr. Speaker, that those chiefs who were dismissed in 1964, in April, and up to now it is disappointing that for almost two years some locations in this country have been without a chief. What is the delay? Is it that the district commissioner or the provincial commissioner, or the permanent secretary, for that matter, does not like the men who obtain the majority votes to become chiefs? This is the whole matter which has delayed this thing, Mr. Speaker.

For two years some civil servants in this country have decided to sit on the decision, for two solid years.

Mr. Speaker, they should have told us if I say this because I have experience, I state two years without obtaining a chief in the locations in my district. Now, the district commissioner there said to me one day when talking to him, "Do you think that the one who gets a majority vote will make a good chief?" Mr. Speaker, if I may elaborate on the subject of appointment, the district commissioner, Member of Parliament, the Senator, K. K. K. and councillors sit together to select three names. Out of these three names, the commissioner is the chairman of that committee, one gets the majority vote. But then we understand that they go back and put forward their own recommendation to the provincial commissioner. Now, we would like to know, Mr. Speaker, whether the word of the President will be taken or not? If it is going to be taken, why stop—the minute a man gets 2,000 votes, his opponent gets 1,999—the other man becomes a chief?

I am informed, Mr. Speaker, that some cases have had majority vote, the same people in parties, but is it not a fact that in the areas where were formerly Kadu or Kanu, the same people have had majority vote, the same people has been no change at all? If it was a question, this party dissolved itself in 1964, happened in the whole of the year 1964, January to December, from January 1964 to March, where are we now? What has happened all this? This is why I say that these civil servants have failed this country, Mr. Speaker, district and every location.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we think that the one who the President should be the most efficient in Kenya, because the Head of State is supposed to function there. If all these gentlemen were in the President's Office, decide to do matters, what do we say? The other Ministers are the same. Unfortunately, it is not Mr. Speaker. Here are some of the questions we face from a few voters. The President the one who gets a majority vote will be chief and we hear the district commissioner say, "Oh! No. The only one whom you voted for did not get a majority vote." So that is why the delay is perhaps delaying the appointment, Mr. Speaker, if our President is not going to be trusted by the civil servants the only thing they humbly to tender their resignation, if they have not thought it fit to comply with regulations, Mr. Speaker, they should be dismissed.

[The Speaker] requires the support of 65 per cent of all voting Members of the House, that is actually eighty-four Members' votes—I think it is no use, my taking the Ayes and the Noes, and we have to proceed to a Division. Therefore we will ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As I explained hon. Members, this particular Motion has to be supported by at least eighty-four Members to have any effect. As we only have seventy-eight Members in the House now, it would be fruitless to proceed to a Division. On other occasions when this has happened, where a special majority is required, I have postponed the Division to another occasion in the hope that we will get the minimum number into the House, regardless of how they get a vote. So, I think, in the present position, unless there is any prospect of collecting at least eighty-four Members before half past six this evening, I had better adjourn this Division until 3.30 p.m. tomorrow afternoon.

BILL

Second Reading

THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

(Minister for Finance on 1st March 1966)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 1st March 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Gichuru was replying to this Bill.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Mr. Ngala and a number of other hon. Members asked what the reserves or the external assets of the central bank would be. As pointed out by the hon. Mr. Kibaki, the form in which these external reserves will be held is set out in clause 26 of the Bill, and we will not know exactly the extent of these reserves until our new currency has been issued and we have received our share of the assets of the currency board.

However, Sir, as stated in my opening speech, we will expect to receive more than one third of the existing external assets of the currency board related to notes and coins now in circulation in East Africa. The hon. Members wanted a little further information on the relationship of the Minister to the bank, and this point was touched upon by other hon. Members. The relevant clause is clause 12 (6), and it is, I think, clear from this that if the governor or the representative of the Treasury wishes to do so, he may suspend a vote of the bank and refer the matter to the Minister for a decision. The Minister could then decide whether the vote will stand or not. He has no powers, however, to direct the board of the bank as to what to do. In practice, I have every confidence that it will not be necessary for the powers conveyed by this clause to be used.

The same hon. Member, whether seriously or not, suggested some other title than governor should be found for the executive head of the bank. I think we are now far enough away from the colonial days to adapt for the head of the bank the title governor, which is the title normally used in the great majority of several banks all over the world.

The hon. Mr. Osogo and a number of other hon. Members either expressed the hope that the central bank would lend money to individuals or that the Government would later set up its own commercial bank. This Bill rightly, does not give the central bank the power to operate in the commercial field, and the question of the Government setting up its own commercial bank will be considered once the central bank is firmly established. Mr. Osogo also objected to clause 5 which provides that in the time of national emergency the head office of the bank may be moved. This clause, we hope, will never have to be taken advantage of. But, Sir, it was thought advisable to cover all possibilities and in the unlikely event of the country being involved in a war it is obvious that circumstances might arise when it would be temporarily necessary to move the headquarters of the bank. The same hon. Member and other hon. Members questioned whether it was right to bar Members of Parliament from being appointed to the board of the bank. The majority of hon. Members did, I think, feel that this was the right principle, but it is however stated in the proviso to clause 14 that the President may, in exceptional cases, waive the statutory limitations on appointments to the board of the bank.

The hon. Mr. Warilithi asked why the bank was given exemption from taxation under clause 7. This is normal in central banking legislation and it is provided in the Bill that once the general reserve fund has been built up the whole of the profits of the bank should be paid over to the Government, and that pending the build-up of this reserve, one-quarter of the annual profits should go to the reserve fund and the remainder to the Government. In these circumstances there would be no point in taxing the profits of the bank.

I very much welcomed the speech by the hon. Mr. Mwai Kibaki and the eloquence with which he stressed the dangers of inflation. The hon. Mr.

[The Minister for Finance]

and the hon. Mr. Shikuku and other hon. Members referred to the difficulty which might arise after the issue of separate currencies in inter-territorial trade in particular on the border of Nyanza and Uganda. I am not able, at this stage, to say exactly what arrangements will be worked out between the central banks of the three countries to cover this, but I have every hope that it will be agreed that the three central banks will accept each other's currency at par without charge, and that if Kenya residents acquire Uganda currency in Nyanza they will be able to change it for our own currency at the nearest office of any of the commercial banks.

I think the thing to be sensible about is that we cannot control either Uganda or Tanganyika as to what they may do. What we are currently doing at the moment is to try and negotiate so that our currencies will remain at par and they will be interchangeable without charge, freely. We are negotiating on this. Beyond that I cannot promise anything more.

The hon. Mr. Anyieni and other hon. Members referred to leakages in the existing exchange control system, and hoped that any gaps in exchange control would be closed when the new central bank took over responsibility. I share his hope, but, Sir, experience has shown that it is almost impossible to stop all leaks, although I am grateful to him and to the hon. Mr. Jahazi for bringing my attention to these specific in this connexion. The hon. Mr. Anyieni stressed the need for financial organizations which would provide loans funds to Africans without charging high rates of interest and making large profits. This point was also made by the other Members. Although I do not think that this matter is strictly relevant to our debate on our new central bank, I should perhaps point out that the Government has set up organizations for lending money to farmers, businessmen and traders and also to people wanting to build their own houses and none of these organizations are operating to make a profit.

They do, however, have to charge a sufficient rate of interest to cover the interest which they have to pay on the loan fund they obtain and also to cover their administrative costs.

The same hon. Member also referred to mutilated notes and I am sure that the new central bank will take a reasonable attitude on this.

The hon. Mr. Odera-Jowi emphasized the point which other Members also made, that experienced people would be needed to run the bank. I entirely agree with him.

The hon. Mr. Jahazi suggested that rates of interest in this country were now controlled by the Bank of England. It is true that we are living at a time of high interest rates, and the Government itself is paying on locally issued loans interest of about 7 per cent. It is also true that there is some connexion between the rates of interest here and the rates of interest in other countries, but it may interest hon. Members to know that the Government is able to borrow money locally on Treasury Bills at a lower rate than the British Government can borrow in the City of London.

The hon. Mr. Shikuku raised points which I have in general dealt with already, although I am grateful to him for having pointed out an error in a reference in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons. He rightly stated that the reference to clause 24 should have been clause 23.

The hon. Mr. Alexander seemed doubtful whether the capital of the bank of £1.3 million would be enough. The capital of the bank is intended to cover the costs of establishing the bank, including the purchase of notes and coins, and the acquisition of the necessary building and the preliminary administrative expenses of setting up the bank. I can assure him that £1.3 million will be more than adequate.

He questioned clause 20 in relation to the fixing of the par value of the Kenya shilling. This is laid down in an agreement into which we have entered with the International Monetary Fund and cannot be altered without discussion with that Fund.

He also feared that public entities, such as local authorities, might be compelled to open accounts with the central bank. This is not the intention, but it was thought proper to give the central bank the power to accept accounts from public entities.

I am grateful to him for pointing out that the reference in clause 56 to section 53, should be section 24, and I will propose the necessary amendment at the Committee stage.

The hon. Member's main point relates to the formula under which the existing assets of the currency board would be divided up. I will bear in mind the arguments which he used, but doubt whether they will prove very convincing to the Uganda and Tanzania Governments. The fact is that the existing assets of the currency board are related to the amount of currency in circulation in each country, and this is almost certain to be the basis on which the assets will be shared out. The central bank will immediately begin to acquire its share of these assets when [Mr. Ganguta] that he is the best judge of these matters, and that he knows as a matter of fact that this chief is doing a good job. It is quite right that a chief might be doing a very good job administratively, but it is no use keeping him if he is unpopular with the people, and in any case since the Government policy is quite clear that the chiefs should be selected, why are they kept? Why are two chiefs in my constituency who killed people during the emergency still kept? Why are they still singing to the people that they will continue to rule these people?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not wish to speak very much on this Motion because it is quite clear that the wish of the people is that these old colonial chiefs should be dismissed and that the people be given the right to select their own chiefs. The policy has been accepted by the Government, and all that we want to know from whoever will reply to this Motion is why has this policy not been executed and, in particular, in my own constituency, are we to continue to have these two chiefs who are completely unpopular with the people? I have no grudge against them myself, I have never had any clashes with the chiefs, but they treat our people worse than dogs, and if this is so, we should not have them at all.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I support the Motion.

(Question proposed)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now just on time for the interruption of business, so the House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, 3rd March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at twenty-eight minutes past six o'clock.

WRITTEN REPLIES TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 132

TOMATO AND PINEAPPLE CANNING FACTORY FOR HAMISI

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development when he was going to establish a tomato and pineapple canning factory in Hamisi Constituency.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): In answering this question, I would like to deal with the two crops separately.

Pineapples.—The Government recently concluded an agreement with California Packing Corporation of America, under the terms of which a very big expansion of pineapple production is envisaged. This corporation undertook to process eventually no less than 170,000 tons of pineapples per year. In the initial stages, however, it is expected that the canning factories will be set up in areas producing large quantities of pineapples. This is absolutely necessary if the factory scale as this, which requires high capital investment, is to be kept busy all year. Unfortunately, not enough pineapples are grown in the Hamisi Constituency to sustain a canning factory at the present time. It is therefore unlikely that a pineapple canning factory will be started there in the near future.

Tomatoes.—The Horticultural Development Council has been working to encourage the development of a tomato-processing industry for some time now. At the present time, Trofoods Ltd., who are manufacturers of tomato puree, are buying tomatoes from a wide area in the Western Province, including the Hamisi Constituency, for their factory at Kabazi. One of the problems encountered has been that this factory which is producing for both the domestic and export market, is only able to pay 7 cents per lb. of tomatoes to the farmers and, consequently, farmers tend to sell most of their products in the local fresh market where they can obtain higher prices.

Some companies have expressed an interest in establishing a tomato-processing factory around the Lugari area and are currently carrying out feasibility studies.

Question No. 219

SCHOOLS' INSPECTION REPORTS

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House how many inspection reports had been brought into his Ministry by his officers in 1964 and 1965 from primary and secondary schools. Would also tell the House who the inspectors were and what the effects of these inspection reports had been.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): In 1964, there were 91 school inspection reports received by the Inspectorate of the Ministry of Education. In 1965, there were 141 school inspection reports received. It should be noted that: may be requested by provincial education officers from time to time. In the latter cases, the provincial inspector of schools normally carries out the inspection. Reports on primary inspections, however, are not submitted to the Ministry in Nairobi, unless there is a special reason for doing so, and such reports are not included in the figures given above.

(a) Routine inspections of primary schools are carried out by education officers and assistant education officers in local authority areas and particular inspections of primary schools by inspectors from the Ministry's headquarters

[The Minister for Education]

(b) The figures given do not include inspections of individual teachers in either primary or secondary schools. This is a routine task, mainly for promotion purposes, involving specialist and provincial inspectors, and is carried out throughout the year. Opportunity is naturally taken during such visits to give advice verbally to heads of schools.

(c) The figures take no account of the huge programme of primary and secondary and teacher-training supervisory visits by the inspectors attached to the curriculum development unit for new mathematics, science, vernacular and English. Reports resulting from such visits deal with the development of subjects nationally and are so submitted in composite form with schools possibly mentioned only as illustration.

(d) The total of 232 school inspections in 1964 and 1965 comprises the following types of inspections:

- (i) Routine advisory inspections by the provincial inspector of schools, usually to assist new secondary schools.
- (ii) Specialist visits by subject inspectors from the Ministry's Inspectorate and including physical education and domestic science.
- (iii) Panel inspections by two or more inspectors for the purpose of grading the school for external examination. These cover maintained, assisted and unaided schools.
- (iv) Periodic general inspections by panels of up to six inspectors to ensure the maintenance of educational standard.
- (v) Emergency panel inspections as may be required by the provincial education officers or by the Ministry.

The inspectors taking part in the inspections during 1964 and 1965 were: J. H. Gitau (Chief Inspector of Schools), K. R. Wilson (Senior Education Officer (I)), Miss E. W. Njonjo (Domestic Science), Miss E. A. MacHugh (Domestic Science), A. S. A. Jeneby (Physical Education), A. K. Hardyman (History), W. G. Bowman (English), J. J. Omondi (Science), J. Truma (Geography), M. Malocha (Geography), H. J. Kanina (Mathematics), F. K. Kago (Swahili), J. Ougo

(Kiumu), K. Onyoni (Kakamega), D. Mwangi (Nyeri), J. G. M. Bundred (Mombasa), W. C. Dizney (Embu), B. Coffey (Nakuru), R. H. J. Thompson (Nairobi), C. C. Desai (Nairobi), G. Scholes, G. Norman, Mrs. M. Martin (Science Centre), Mrs. W. Maina (Maths Centre).

The value of the inspection reports is seen in the following:—

(a) They provide the Ministry with an overall view and assessment of secondary education in Kenya. In doing this, they furnish the factual background for the Ministry's negotiations with overseas agencies for finance, staffing, institutions, scholarships, etc.

(b) They assist in the maintenance of educational standards in established secondary schools and in the inculcation of appropriate standards in new secondary schools.

(c) They offer a sure and quick diagnosis and, often, solution of problems affecting secondary education.

(d) They familiarize schools with new and appropriate text books.

(e) They lead to the spread of modern suitable teaching methods.

(f) They have proved to be a key factor in developing greater understanding between the teachers in the field and the Ministry of Education.

Question No. 363

EMPLOYMENT OF GRADUATES FROM ISRAELI SCHOOL, MACHAKOS

Mr. Ngila Abok asked the Minister for Housing and Social Services if he would tell the House what plans he had for the immediate employment of the students graduating from two years' training in social work from the Kenya Israel School of Social Work, Machakos, since the Government had now taken it over. What was to be the fixed basic salary scale for employed graduates.

The Acting Minister for Housing and Social Services (Mr. Otieno): As each course held at the school nears completion date, the board of governors take steps to find employment for the non-sponsored students. Sponsored students are the responsibility of the sponsoring body.

The following courses have been organized by the school to date: first graduated September 1964; second graduated October 1965; third will complete March 1967; fourth (in service) will complete in 1968.

[Mr. Kase] from that Ministry altogether. They can go and work somewhere else digging holes in the streets, there are plenty of jobs like that, and allow more capable people to be brought into these offices.

Now, Mr. Speaker, some hon. Members might say that the delay in the President's Office, some Members might say that it was in the provincial commissioner's office or at the level of the district commissioner. But all three are to blame, Mr. Speaker. The district commissioner is to blame because he sat on a few papers. Now, if I may give an example: in the Coast Province voting was done in early March last year, in every district, and in other provinces also, but what happened was that the files from the Tana River District on chiefs were not forwarded to Mombasa, which is only 200 miles away, from March until August. What was the district commissioner doing with these files in his office?

If I may go further, I have been trying to contact the President's Office. There is a gentleman there called Mr. Omino and Mr. Ekiappa, I think, if the pronunciation is right; I have tried to contact these gentlemen, Mr. Speaker, very often. The files from the provincial commissioner reached that office in October, the provincial commissioner sat on those papers for a number of months and forwarded them to the President's Office in October; this is what happens. The Minister of State, who is not here today, whose letter I have with me in my files, said, "Mr. Kase, when you receive this letter, the said provincial commissioner should have appointed the chiefs." This was dated the 2nd November 1965. "I will go still further," Mr. Speaker, and say when were these chiefs appointed to some of these districts? The letter is dated 2nd November, when I received this letter it was said that the chiefs would have been appointed. This is a letter from the Minister of State in the President's Office, when he was the Assistant Minister.

What happened was that when this Motion came up I went on my own one week-end to the district officer who told me that he had been instructed to call those people and appoint them, so that when you bring a Motion to Parliament it is valueless. Are civil servants, Mr. Speaker, only going to work when Motions come to this Parliament? Mr. Speaker, this was the district officer at my home, he is the only district officer there so there is no question of naming him, the Government knows who he is. He says, "We have been instructed to appoint these chiefs today," and I remember that he did not get to sleep until midnight in order that the doctor could examine them properly. So that when you bring a Motion to Parliament it will be worthless.

We now see, Mr. Speaker, that if this is the trend, that they will not act until Motions are brought into this Parliament, then this is a very sad affair. As for such civil servants, Mr. Speaker, I think the only thing is for them to go and leave other capable men to do the work.

I said, in the first instance, Mr. Speaker, that I have no quarrel with this and no personal grudge, I am capable of becoming a district commissioner the same as anyone. Some of them in fact are Standard Vs and Standard VIs; I am capable. Any hon. Member is capable of becoming a district commissioner, even a permanent secretary, for that matter.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. apu Moli): You cannot become a permanent secretary.

Mr. Kase I hear the Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Speaker, saying that I cannot become a permanent secretary. We know some people who have been district officers and who are now permanent secretaries. If I were capable of becoming a district officer, then I would be capable of becoming a permanent secretary. There is no problem about it. Some do not have better qualifications than myself.

Having made that point clear, Mr. Speaker, as to why I want them dismissed, I hope the Government will find it fit to dismiss them, because as long as they are there—I am informed that in places like the Central Province some chiefs have not yet been appointed, and also in Lamu they have not been appointed, despite the fact that some civil servants wanted to appoint them quickly before this Motion came up. I understand from Members in the Masai area that they have not been appointed. How long are people going to wait? If they are going to appoint the Tana River chiefs when I bring a Motion, how many Motions will come to this Parliament, Mr. Speaker? In every district—how many are there, forty-one—do we have time to waste on lazy civil servants? I do not think we have that time, Mr. Speaker, and if we do not have that time, I think the only thing is that when they get an order they should carry it out, otherwise, Mr. Speaker, these two hon. Ministers here and the Assistant Minister must convey to His Excellency the President the fact that his civil servants have let him down very badly. I am informed, Mr. Speaker, that in Kwana out of thirteen locations where chiefs have been appointed, six of them are not the ones who obtained majority votes. It is fortunate that the district commissioner is not mine.

An hon. Member: Keep quiet.

Mr. Kase: The hon. Member says, "Keep quiet," but I will not keep quiet.

Mr. Speaker, if we are going to have things like this happen, whom are we going to obey in this country? The President or someone else? If the President is too busy to act on this, then he has his Minister of State, Mr. Speaker, who should have acted, but if he too is not going to act, then all we say is that, although the President said this, we cannot believe him.

Mr. Speaker, these things are going to be proved untrue even where the President has gone further. If you do not want that chief, all we have to do is to say that we have no confidence in him. This thing is going to be proved untrue, because here is the beginning, Mr. Speaker, and if this is not cured in this country we are going to suffer.

Mr. Speaker, I think efficiency in the President's Office must be maintained, otherwise we lose hope; that is the key office in this country. If the President's Office has to be efficient, those civil servants who delayed it should go.

Mr. Speaker, I do not need to labour much on this because I think I have made my point very clear. With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I will wait to hit back at whoever thinks I have said things which are not factual.

I beg to move.

Mr. Gatigota: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support this Motion because we have a very big problem in Central Province over chiefs.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, after independence, there was a statement made by the Government to the effect that chiefs who were ruling this country during the colonial period should be dismissed and that the people of this country should be allowed to elect their own chiefs. In fact, at one stage, a number of chiefs were dismissed by this Government and the new ones were elected by the people. There was a promise that the remaining chiefs would also be elected by the people. In fact, it is not only a question of appointing them, it is a question of the people themselves selecting their own chiefs.

Now, up to this time, Sir, we still have some chiefs in this country who were ruling during the colonial period and who did a lot of damage to our people. I can say this, Mr. Speaker, that the feeling of the people in this country about the old chiefs is very, very strong indeed. Our people have a lot of confidence in the President and in the Government, but there are some of these things which are likely to destroy that confidence. If the Government wants to move with the people and with so much confidence, some of these matters must be looked into carefully.

The President himself has made a statement—I think he has made a statement in every meeting he goes to—that the people have a right to select chiefs, and the old colonial chiefs should be sacked. It is clear that the President has issued a statement of policy. The civil servants who are expected to execute this policy have failed to do so, and that is why I support this Motion. If the civil servants, whoever they are, cannot execute the Government policy, which is that the people should select their own chiefs, then it means that they have failed in their responsibilities and they should be sacked immediately.

In my own constituency there are four chiefs. We selected two chiefs in 1965, and two of the worst of all are still there. I have written a letter to the Administration, Kanu has written letters to the Administration, asking for the removal of these chiefs, without any good response. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we fail to do things outside this House by negotiations with the civil servants, then it is right that we should bring this matter to the public, in this very way.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the chiefs in Central Province particularly are some of those who beat people and even shot people during the emergency. The President has told us that we should forget the past and we have agreed with him, but these chiefs who beat people during the emergency, instead of forgetting the past, as our President has advised, are still singing to the people that they ruled them during the European colonial times and they will continue to rule them now. This is a very serious statement. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as a matter of fact, had it not been for the fact that the people of this country have so much confidence in our President, a revolution would have been caused by this very fact, that they are being told now by the people who used to rule them during the emergency that they will continue to rule them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, many of the civil servants do not understand the feelings of the people and do not care for those feelings. We, as politicians, come across these people, we know their difficulties and we know their complaints and it is just fair that when we make representations our feelings should be considered carefully.

It is a pity, Sir, that the civil servants are not prepared to listen to the politicians, because this is the crux of the problem. If you make a representation to a district commissioner or a district officer and tell him that a certain chief is unpopular and you ask him to do something about enabling the people to select another chief, what he will tell you is that a politician is not supposed to interfere with the Administration and

[The Minister for Finance] the existing notes and coins are exchanged for the new Kenya notes and coins. Our new currency will, therefore, have a proper backing in external assets from the start.

The hon. Mr. Alexander also suggested that if the new East African currencies were issued, for example, when the Uganda cotton season was in full swing, Uganda would get a greater share of the assets of the currency board than if the change took place at a different time of the year. This point has also occurred to me, but I am satisfied that the danger which Mr. Alexander foresees is not really there, and will not affect our share of the assets of the currency board. It is true that if additional currency notes are issued in Uganda during the cotton season, then these notes will be backed by Sterling or local assets to which the Uganda Government will be able to lay claim. However, this will not reduce the amount of assets related to currency in circulation in Kenya, nor will it reduce what we will receive. We will also have an opportunity of earning external assets from Uganda and Tanzania if we continue to have a favourable balance of trade with our neighbours.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Mr. Kamau urges that the bank should promote the African way of life and I can assure him that it is one of the specific objects of the bank to promote some economic development in this country.

I think that I have dealt with all the points raised which are relevant to the Bill before the House, but will be glad to provide the hon. Members with further information or to arrange for hon. Members to discuss particular points with experts in my Ministry, people who are versed in all details of this complicated matter.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

(The Bill was read a Second Time and committed to a Committee of the whole House today by leave of the House)

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE

(Order for Committee read)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

IN THE COMMITTEE

[The Deputy Chairman (Mr. Slade) took the Chair]

THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

(Clauses 2, 3, 4 and 5 agreed to)

(Clauses 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 agreed to)

(Clauses 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 agreed to)

(Clauses 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 agreed to)

(Clauses 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25 agreed to)

(Clauses 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 agreed to)

(Clauses 31, 32, 33, 34 and 35 agreed to)

(Clauses 36, 37, 38, 39 and 40 agreed to)

(Clauses 41, 42, 43, 44 and 45 agreed to)

(Clauses 46, 47, 48, 49 and 50 agreed to)

(Clauses 51, 52, 53, 54 and 55 agreed to)

Clause 56

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) Mr. Deputy Chairman, there is a typographical error: 53 should read 54 on the second line; it should be section 54 instead of section 53.

The Deputy Chairman (Mr. Slade): I think you should strictly move a formal amendment then. Would you move that that be amended.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) Sir, I beg to move that in clause 56 the figure 53 should be removed and replaced by 54.

(Question of the amendment proposed)

(Question that the word to be left out be left out put and agreed to)

(Question that the word to be inserted in place thereof be inserted put and agreed to)

(Clause 56 as amended agreed to)

(Clauses 57, 58, 59 and 60 agreed to)

(Clause 61 agreed to)

(Schedule agreed to)

(Title agreed to)

(Clause 1 agreed to)

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) Mr. Deputy Chairman, I beg to move that the Committee doth report to the House its consideration of the Central Bank of Kenya Bill and its approval of the same with amendment.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

(The House resumed)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

REPORT AND THIRD READING

THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to report that the Committee of the whole House has considered the Central Bank of Kenya Bill, and has approved it with amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Since it is only a formal amendment we could take consideration of the Report immediately, Mr. Gichuru, if you move that the House agrees with the Committee

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) Mr. Speaker, I beg to move that the House doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Otiende) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Central Bank of Kenya Bill be now read the Third Time.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Otiende) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

(The Bill was accordingly read the Third Time and passed)

(Ordered that the Clerk carry the said Bill to the Senate and desire their concurrence)

MOTION

APPOINTMENT OF CHIEFS

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:— THAT this House, noting with deep regret the delay in the appointment of chiefs in this country, especially in the Coast Province, recommends that all civil servants responsible for such delays be dismissed forthwith.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say, from the outset, that I have no grudge with any person as a person, with any civil servant who has delayed this. I have quarrelled, because he has failed to do his duty. You may be aware, Mr. Speaker, that in 1963 or 1964, the former Minister for Home Affairs did dismiss some chiefs in this country: that was in April 1964. We were told, Mr. Speaker, that people will vote, and when they vote the man who obtains the majority vote will become the chief. This was a very clear statement from the Minister for Home Affairs. That Minister was changed, Mr. Speaker, and the chiefs problem came under the President's Office, and the President of this country, Mr. Speaker, because I heard it with my own ears, not my own eyes, said that the one who obtained the majority vote would become the chief. Let us look at what happened.

I remember, Mr. Speaker, that those chiefs who were dismissed in 1964, in April, and up to now it is disappointing that for almost two years some locations in this country have been without a chief. What is the delay? Is it that the district commissioner or the provincial commissioner, or the permanent secretary, for that matter, does not like the men who obtain the majority votes to become chiefs? This is the whole matter which has delayed this thing, Mr. Speaker.

For two years some civil servants in this country have decided to sit on the decision of voters, for two solid years.

Mr. Speaker, they should have told us that, and I say this because I have experience, I stayed for two years without obtaining a chief in some locations in my district. Now, the district commissioner there said to me one day when I was talking to him, "Do you think that the one who gets a majority vote will make a good chief?" Mr. Speaker, if I may elaborate on the method of appointment, the district commissioner, a Member of Parliament, the Senator, Kanu officials and councillors sit together to select the best three names. Out of these three names—the district commissioner is the chairman of that committee—one gets the majority vote. But then, we understand that they go back and put forward their own recommendation to the provincial commissioner. Now, we would like to know, Mr. Speaker, whether the word of the President will be taken or not. If it is going to be taken, what should stop—the minute a man gets 2,000 votes and his opponent gets 1,999—the other man from becoming a chief?

I am informed, Mr. Speaker, that some delays came about because of the change in political parties, but is it not a fact that in the areas which were formerly Kadu or Kanu, the same people have had majority vote, the same people, there has been no change at all? If it was a political question, this party dissolved itself in 1964, what happened in the whole of the year 1965, from January to December, from January 1966 until March, where we are now? What has delayed all this? This is why I say that these civil servants have failed this country, Mr. Speaker, in every district and every location.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we think that the office of the President should be the most efficient office in Kenya, because the Head of State is supposed to function there. If all these gentlemen, who were in the President's Office, decide to delay all matters, what do we say? The other Ministries are the same. Unfortunately, it is not like that, Mr. Speaker. Here are some of the questions that we face from a few voters. The President has said the one who gets a majority vote will become a chief and we hear the district commissioner say, "Oh! No. The only one whom you voted for will not get a majority vote." So that is why the President is perhaps delaying the appointment. Now, Mr. Speaker, if our President is not going to be trusted by the civil servants the only thing is for them humbly to tender their resignation and since they have not thought it fit to comply with these regulations, Mr. Speaker, they should be dismissed requires the support of 65 per cent of all voting Members of the House, that is actually eighty-four Members' votes—I think it is no use my taking the Ayes and the Noes, and we have to proceed to a Division. Therefore we will ring the Division Bell.

[The Speaker]

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As I explained hon. Members, this particular Motion has to be supported by at least eighty-four Members to have any effect. As we only have seventy-eight Members in the House now, it would be fruitless to proceed to a Division. On other occasions when this has happened, where a special majority is required, I have postponed the Division to another occasion in the hope that we will get the minimum number into the House, regardless of how they get a vote. So, I think, in the present position, unless there is any prospect of collecting at least eighty-four Members before half past six this evening, I had better adjourn this Division until 3.30 p.m. tomorrow afternoon.

BILL*Second Reading*THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

(Resumption of Finance on 1st March 1966)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 1st March 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Gichuru was replying to this Bill.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Mr. Ngala and a number of other hon. Members asked what the reserves or the external assets of the central bank would be. As pointed out by the hon. Mr. Kibaki, the form in which these external reserves will be held is set out in clause 26 of the Bill, and we will not know exactly the extent of these reserves until our new currency has been issued and we have received our share of the assets of the currency board.

However, Sir, as stated in my opening speech, we will expect to receive more than one third of the existing external assets of the currency board related to notes and coins now in circulation in East Africa. The hon. Members wanted a little further information on the relationship of the Minister to the bank, and this point was touched upon by other hon. Members. The relevant clause is clause 12 (6), and it is, I think, clear from this that if the governor or the representative of the Treasury wishes to do so, he may suspend a vote of the bank and refer the matter to the Minister for a decision. The Minister could then decide whether the vote will stand or not. He has no powers, however, to direct the board of the bank as to what to do. In practice, I have every confidence that it will not be necessary for the powers conveyed by this clause to be used.

The same hon. Member, whether seriously or not, suggested some other title than governor should be found for the executive head of the bank. I think we are now far enough away from the colonial days to adapt for the head of the bank the title governor, which is the title normally used in the great majority of several banks all over the world.

The hon. Mr. Osogo and a number of other hon. Members either expressed the hope that the central bank would lend money to individuals or that the Government would later set up its own commercial bank. This Bill rightly does not give the central bank the power to operate in the commercial field, and the question of the Government setting up its own commercial bank will be considered once the central bank is firmly established. Mr. Osogo also objected to clause 1 which provides that in the time of national emergency the head office of the bank may be moved. This clause, we hope, will never have to be taken advantage of. But, Sir, it was thought advisable to cover all possibilities and in the unlikely event of the country being involved in a war it is obvious that circumstances might arise when it would be temporarily necessary to move the headquarters of the bank. The same hon. Member and other hon. Members questioned whether it was right to bar Members of Parliament from being appointed to the board of the bank. The majority of hon. Members did, I think, feel that this was the right principle, but it is however stated in the proviso to clause 14 that the President may, in exceptional cases, waive the statutory limitations on appointments to the board of the bank.

The hon. Mr. Warithi asked why the bank was given exemption from taxation under clause 7. This is normal in central banking legislation and it is provided in the Bill that once the general reserve fund has been built up the whole of the profits of the bank should be paid over to the Government and that pending the build-up of this reserve, one-quarter of the annual profits should go to the reserve fund and the remainder to the Government. In these circumstances there would be no point in taxing the profits of the bank.

I very much welcomed the speech by the hon. Mr. Mwai Kibaki and the eloquence with which he stressed the dangers of inflation. The hon. Mr.

[The Minister for Finance]

Khaoya and the hon. Mr. Shikuku and other hon. Members referred to the difficulty which might arise after the issue of separate currencies in inter-territorial trade in particular on the border of Nyanza and Uganda. I am not able, at this stage, to say exactly what arrangements will be worked out between the central banks of the three countries to cover this, but I have every hope that it will be agreed that the three central banks will accept each other's currency at par without charge, and that if Kenya residents acquire Uganda currency in Nyanza they will be able to change it for our own currency at the nearest office of any of the commercial banks.

I think the thing to be sensible about is that we cannot control either Uganda or Tanganyika as to what they may do. What we are currently doing at the moment is to try and negotiate so that our currencies will remain at par and they will be interchangeable without charge, freely. We are negotiating on this. Beyond that I cannot promise anything more.

The hon. Mr. Anyieni and other hon. Members referred to leakages in the existing exchange control system, and hoped that any gaps in exchange control would be closed when the new central bank took over responsibility. I share his hope, but, Sir, experience has shown that it is almost impossible to stop all leaks, although I am grateful to him and to the hon. Mr. Jahazi for bringing my attention to these specific in this connection. The hon. Mr. Anyieni stressed the need for financial organizations which would provide loans funds to Africans without charging high rates of interest and making large profits. This point was also made by the other Members. Although I do not think that this matter is strictly relevant to our debate on our new central bank, I should perhaps point out that the Government has set up organizations for lending money to farmers, businessmen and traders and also to people wanting to build their own houses and none of these organizations are operating to make a profit.

They do, however, have to charge a sufficient rate of interest to cover the interest which they have to pay on the loan fund they obtain and also to cover their administrative costs.

The same hon. Member also referred to mutilated notes and I am sure that the new central bank will take a reasonable attitude on this.

The hon. Mr. Odero-Jowi emphasized the point which other Members also made, that experienced people would be needed to run the bank. I entirely agree with him.

The hon. Mr. Jahazi suggested that rates of interest in this country were now controlled by the Bank of England. It is true that we are living at a time of high interest rates, and the Government itself is paying on locally issued loans interest of about 7 per cent. It is also true that there is some connexion between the rates of interest here and the rates of interest in other countries, but it may interest hon. Members to know that the Government is able to borrow money locally on Treasury Bills at a lower rate than the British Government can borrow in the City of London.

The hon. Mr. Shikuku raised points which I have in general dealt with already, although I am grateful to him for having pointed out an error in a reference in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons. He rightly stated that the reference to clause 24 should have been clause 23.

The hon. Mr. Alexander seemed doubtful whether the capital of the bank of £1.3 million would be enough. The capital of the bank is intended to cover the costs of establishing the bank, including the purchase of notes and coins, and the acquisition of the necessary building and the preliminary administrative expenses of setting up the bank. I can assure him that £1.3 million will be more than adequate.

He questioned clause 20 in relation to the fixing of the par value of the Kenya shilling. This is laid down in an agreement into which we have entered with the International Monetary Fund and cannot be altered without discussion with that Fund.

He also feared that public entities, such as local authorities, might be compelled to open accounts with the central bank. This is not the intention, but it was thought proper to give the central bank the power to accept accounts from public entities.

I am grateful to him for pointing out that the reference in clause 36 to section 53, should be section 24, and I will propose the necessary amendment at the Committee stage.

The hon. Member's main point relates to the formula under which the existing assets of the currency board would be divided up. I will bear in mind the arguments which he used, but doubt whether they will prove very convincing to the Uganda and Tanzania Governments. The fact is that the existing assets of the currency board are related to the amount of currency in circulation in each country, and this is almost certain to be the basis on which the assets will be shared out. The central bank will immediately begin to acquire its share of these assets when

[The Attorney-General]

President. Therefore, the head of the service must nominally be expressed; the President symbolizes the head of the Government, and therefore he symbolizes the head of the service. There is still a Public Service Commission and people will still go through the Public Service Commission for their appointments; there are public service regulations and people and their conduct will be controlled by these regulations.

Now hon. Members have expressed concern over the matter of disqualification of Members in prison for a criminal offence for more than six months. Now the hon. Member who raised this point is not here, my learned friend, the hon. Mr. Wariithi, but he mentioned that the offences which we should describe in this Constitution should be those offences which carry moral turpitude. If he had been here, I was going to assure him that the offences which are covered by this section are both grave and serious. Now the hon. Member mentioned an example of someone running someone else over with a motor vehicle. That is called, in our law, causing death by dangerous driving; but it is, nevertheless, causing death. One causes death by shooting or hitting someone on the head, and also by running them over in cars, and therefore this is a serious offence. I cannot say here that if someone knocks someone down with his car, he is not going to be sent to prison. There may be circumstances, the death may be accidental, but that is for the courts to examine.

I would also like to remove certain other legitimate fears straight away. The question of imprisonment, for instance, some of the hon. Members have mentioned that if someone has a debt he might be imprisoned. But that is not a criminal offence, it is a civil one; those of the Members who heard me explain this the other day will know that I did say that if somebody owes you money, the only way you can send him to prison is for you to pay for his keep in prison, and you can do that for no longer period than six months.

That is not the sort of offence which is meant in this section. This section here clearly covers stealing or misappropriating Government money or serious offences of that nature.

Certain criticisms were levelled against the police by the hon. Member for Butere, Mr. Shikuku, who is not here. The law keeps a comradely but watchful eye on the police. The police are the strong arm of the law but a branch of the law. I have not noticed any tendency for the police to discriminate against hon. Members, but even if they did, I or my officers have to prosecute; and I have prosecuted police officers for misusing their powers. This we are going to watch. I am not aware that any hon. Members will ever be so serious a menace to the established order that the police, the prosecutor and the judge would be tempted to conspire to deprive them of their seats in Parliament.

An hon. Member: You don't think so?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): I would ask the hon. Members to accept this, that if that were to be the case, there would have to be a conspiracy between the police, the Attorney-General and the High Court. And I want to tell hon. Members that if, for instance, I were to suggest to the court what sentence it was required to give, that would be a serious offence on my part, on the part of the prosecutor. As you know, with all these offences, if they are serious, the State does provide counsel for the accused person, and in other, minor offences, the accused person himself provides for his defence.

Three hon. Members have expressed fear about civil servants holding office at the pleasure of the President. This point I have already covered by saying that this, in fact, means nothing more than that the head of the Government is the symbol of our Republic.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to repeat a number of points which have been raised, and therefore I will jump about and try and cover those points which I think are more important and relevant.

Now, Sir, I want to say something about section 19, dealing with the Shifja problem. I am most grateful to the hon. Member, Mr. Khalif, for what he has said about the problem that we have in the North-Eastern Province. I think this House should congratulate the forces which have been engaged for nearly two years now on a most thankless and very difficult task. The men who are at the moment in the North-Eastern Province do not like it. The conditions are very difficult. The Government is spending a lot of money—I was going to say that Government is wasting a lot of money—in keeping these people up there, and this money could be more usefully spent in developing the country, building more schools and hospitals, and improving the roads. But, Mr. Speaker, we must face it: we have a problem and the Government is determined to eliminate it.

Three hon. Members have expressed grave concern over the proposed extension of the emergency regulations to Isiolo, Marsabit, Tana River and Lamu Districts. I did discuss this problem with the Members yesterday, and I hoped that I had satisfied them, but unfortunately the hon. Mr. Khalif was not there, nor were some other Members who expressed doubts about this. They said they had asked for the tribes to be controlled and confined within the North-Eastern Province and, instead, the area of the emergency has been extended. They wanted to know why this extension was necessary, and why the Government was not fighting and winning. One hon. Member raised a point that as shooting on sight was not allowed in the North-Eastern Province under the emergency regulations, what good would it do to extend the emergency to the area. Shooting on sight was the only cure for Shifja, he said. Section 19, Mr. Speaker, of the Independence Order-in-Council enables the Government by regulations to take such exceptional measures as are necessary to deal with the Shifja problem, but only in the North-Eastern Province. Parliament has never questioned these regulations. The Government has not given the security forces the right to shoot on sight with no justification. This is not the time to discuss those regulations in detail, but, I repeat, this House has never complained that the Government has given the security forces unnecessary liberties or licence in the North-Eastern Province. The point, now, Mr. Speaker, for this House to consider is this: war is not confined to a defined area like a football pitch, the war we are on at the moment is not like a football pitch. There are no rules for the Shifja. If they find they can make more trouble outside the North-Eastern Province than inside it, they will do so; and they have been doing this. The security forces are absurdly hampered by this situation; they cannot detain people, or move people, or prevent people from moving in the district bordering that province. It is not a question of stopping Shifja and Shifja supporters from doing more mischief there than they can do in the North-Eastern Province itself.

[The Attorney-General]

Let us, Mr. Speaker, agree on the obvious fact, that we have to meet the enemy wherever you find him. Let us congratulate the security forces that there are no Shifja lurking in Nairobi or in this building.

Hon. Members: Hear, hear.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, another point which was raised by an hon. Member was on the question of the Electoral Commission. I do not think that the hon. Member was serious, but I would like to say this: that the Electoral Commission is doing very useful work and have a very difficult task. He asks for a report by the end of this year. All I can say on this is that the Electoral Commission is a most responsible body and I am aware that it is most concerned to press on with its work.

Now, the hon. Mr. Wariithi raised a point on sections 121 and 125. Mr. Speaker, I did deal with this at great length and all I want to assure this House is that these provisions mean that the responsibility for finance is squarely in this House, and that is why—if hon. Members will remember—I withdrew the Bill because of another amendment which the Minister for Finance had agreed, as requested by this Bill. What this section means, Mr. Speaker, first of all is to simplify the Constitution and also to put it quite clearly that no money can be spent by the Government without the approval of this House.

Mr. Speaker, a point was raised on the question of trade unions and it is a pity that the Minister for Labour did not have an opportunity to say something about this. This amendment, as I explained, this is section 24, is to avoid any doubt as to whether the trade union laws relating to the registration of trade unions were consistent with this section guaranteeing freedom of association. This is not altering the law. The law on trade unions already exists and in the Trade Unions Disputes Act, 1965, the matter of registration came before Parliament again by way of a minor amendment to the Trade Union Act. Parliament passed this Act in 1965. Parliament has never criticized our trade union law on this question. Our laws on trade unions and freedom of association generally compare favourably with any others in Africa.

Hon. Members will, I am confident, agree that it is the duty of the Government, and of the Attorney-General in particular, to see to it that there is no doubt whatsoever that the Constitution and other written laws are consistent.

Mr. Speaker, I cannot hope to have given entire satisfaction to every single Member here. I hope, however, that hon. Members will remember that a demonstration of unity is of great national importance on many occasions, and this, Mr. Speaker, is one of those occasions. Our Constitution depends ultimately on its reflecting the true will of the people. So far, Parliament has been almost unanimous in favour of the Constitution—we have been building together. I repeat to all hon. Members to reflect upon the value of that unanimity in regard to the Constitution of Kenya and to vote accordingly.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

DIVISION CALLED*RULING ON DEFERMENT OF DIVISION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have to put the question that the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill be now read a Second Time. As that

Mr. Khalif: Thank you, Sir.

Also, Sir, although I agree entirely that the Somalis have been victimized, I want to say one thing, Sir. When we pass an emergency in respect of an area—for that matter, in the North-Eastern Province—these people will face the consequences in that, although there is a legal basis for an emergency, we also have to know that the police or the army personnel do sometimes take advantage of the fact that there is emergency law. I would like to say that people have been harassed, loyal people have been victimized, people have been put to unnecessary questions, because of individuals taking advantage of the law that does exist there: the emergency law.

I think, Sir, that if the Members of this House, including hon. Members on the Front Bench from the Government, were to think in terms of our people, if we were to think in terms of citizens, then I hope that hon. Members who are experienced, who have never seen the North-Eastern Province, would take it from me directly that people there—some of them, not all of them of course—are being victimized, and that some officers, either from the police or the army, are taking advantage of the emergency. If hon. Members take that from me directly, without any question, I want to impress on hon. Members that, in so far as they do realize that in the North-Eastern Province this sort of thing is happening, that people are taking advantage of emergency rule, they should not accept to extend this to other places, whereby, if you do, more citizens of Kenya will be involved. I know, as well as many hon. Members know, that there are Shifta in the North-Eastern Province, the same way as there are loyal people, but there are loyal people in the North-Eastern Province who are being victimized, who—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have made all this quite clear, too, Mr. Khalif. It is a good point, but you are going back to it again.

Mr. Khalif: No, no. I want to—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do not say, "No, no" to me, please.

Mr. Khalif: No, Sir. I am making a comparison from—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have done it; move on to another point. It is all right, you are making good points, but do not begin to repeat them. Get on to another point now.

Mr. Khalif: Thank you, Sir.

I beg to support.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will be very brief because I know much has already been said by several Members, and I hope the hon. Members will be a little more tolerant to me than they have been on another occasion.

I would like, Mr. Speaker, to support the Bill generally, but I have one or two comments to make on certain of the provisions of this Bill.

If I may refer to section 6 (1), I would like to support the Government in the fact that it should not be a matter of entitlement for any Commonwealth citizen to be registered, but that it should be a matter of discretion for the Minister. I think so particularly as no other Commonwealth country gives Kenya citizens this automatic right and it is quite natural that these rights should be reciprocal. We should make this change and, in any case, those people who decided to register as citizens within the last two years, had the opportunity to do so and have done so already. But as the Constitution stands at the moment, it seems to me, Mr. Speaker, that people under this section would still be entitled to be registered as citizens and I was a little concerned because I heard that the Government has given instructions to the Immigration Department not to accept any more applications for registration. I would like to know from the hon. Attorney-General, when he replies whether this is the case.

If I may move, Sir, to section 6 (2), here I have some reservations for I feel, on two points, that this is a matter where the people who are affected ought to be entitled to be registered as citizens. Firstly, Sir, one of the requirements for a person to be registered as a citizen has been his physical presence in the country. But I know of many cases of students who have been abroad for three, four, five years, and you cannot really expect them, Mr. Speaker, to come back to the country just to register as citizens and then go back and prosecute their studies. I know this from personal experience when I was in the United States and Canada last year; so many students did tell me that they were so keen to register as citizens but they found that their physical presence was required in Kenya.

Another matter, Sir, that I feel a little disturbed about is in its application to the minors. I know the minors are not entitled to register applications on their own behalf, and that their parents would be the proper persons to do so; and I feel that when these minors come of age, they ought to be entitled to be registered, instead of giving discretion to the Minister. These are some of the points which the Attorney-General may care to consider.

I entirely agree with him that there are certain cases where, if physical presence was not absolutely essential, this privilege could be abused; but

[Mr. Pandya]

I am not suggesting changing this; what I am suggesting is that clause 6 (2) be retained in its present form.

I will not say much on section 41, but I would just like to say that I support other hon. Members who say that this clause is absolutely necessary. I do not think we can exist in this country on fear and suspicion, always creating arguments about what may happen. It is important that we have this clause in the Constitution.

If I may just briefly turn to section 42. I have yet to know of any independent country where a Member of Parliament has to obtain permission from the Speaker. The hon. Minister for Economic Planning and Development when he was speaking referred to this, and on another section, said that this is the usual practice in Commonwealth parliaments; I stand to be corrected, but I do not believe that this is the usual practice, as far as this section is concerned. I would like to know whether this is really going to be a matter of discretion for the Speaker or whether permission must be obtained and that it would be automatically given.

Finally, Sir, I want to refer to clause 6 of this Bill. I was very pleased to see that this clause provides that all the people of this country who are citizens shall be treated equally. I have time and again said in this House that we do not want any privileges for any section of the community in this country, and I am entirely in support of the Government when it says that this applies to all people, including non-designated officers who were given certain privileges in the past by a former Government and who should now be placed on an equal basis with the other Kenya citizens, they should not have any other gratuities or pension rights which are not being enjoyed today by citizens of African origin. I do want to support the Government on this and to say that it was about time this was done, on an appropriate occasion.

Lastly, I did not intend to refer to section 87 at all, but I was a little disturbed when the Assistant Minister for Agriculture said that the powers should be vested in the President so that he could remove the imbalances which people have been talking about. I thought that these imbalances had been very effectively remedied by the Public Service Commission, and I do not see that this could be an argument. I personally feel that it would be—I am not speaking of any persons or personalities—wrong, Mr. Speaker, to try to take away power from a commission and vest it in one individual. I would leave that to the sense of the hon. Members, but I did not think that the argument put forward by my friend was really very forceful or relevant.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that this is a constitutional Bill and it seems that we shall be required to have our votes registered, and in view of the advancement of time, I would like to move that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have been refusing the closure consistently on the ground that every hon. Member has the right to express his point of view, provided that he can express something new. But at this stage I only see hon. Members rising to speak who, to the best of my knowledge, have not attended the rest of the debate. If I am right in that, I think I am right in allowing the House to entertain the closure now.

(Question, that the Mover be called upon to reply, put and agreed to.)

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, I am most grateful to the hon. Members for the keen interest they have taken in this Bill. It has been very carefully examined by hon. Members, as befits a Bill to amend the Constitution; and quite a lot of very useful debate has taken place. In fact, the debate on the Bill has taken nearly two weeks, which shows the interest hon. Members have in this Bill.

Sir, I first of all want to say that I had a meeting with a number of the members of the Parliamentary Group yesterday, and a number of points were raised. I did agree at that meeting—and I want to say it here—that a number of points which had been raised, particularly about the absence of Members from Parliament, would be covered by the Standing Orders when the amendment is put forward. That was accepted by the Members who were at the Parliamentary Group meeting.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I would like straight away to reply to the point which has just been made by the hon. Member for Mombasa, Mr. Pandya, on section 87. I want to say quite clearly that this section does not mean that the President of the Republic of Kenya will have any power to dismiss persons in the public service. What this section, in fact, means is that during the colonial days, the service was under the Crown; the Crown was the head of the service. Now, we are not a Colonial Government; we are a republic, and the head of the Republic is the

[Mr. Warltih]

The situation. The argument given is that it may delay a very important matter to go through the House, but for the last three years there has been no case of that kind, and I think we should be quite happy if these things are explained beforehand.

The last point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, with which I feel very much concerned, is section 122. This is the one dealing with the spending of money. I remember last time that the Attorney-General was interjecting and saying that it is not what is provided, but what concerns me very much, is that here the Government is seeking power to be enabled to spend money without the permission of Parliament, and I believe Parliament is the highest authority and its main purpose is to safeguard the interests of the voters and the taxpayers. I am referring to section 122 (3) (a) and (b), where it is provided that the Minister of Finance will prepare the financial statement and, if it is found short, then he can come to the House with an Appropriation Act for money, just as we have done a few weeks ago, and in that Supplementary Estimate he can provide for what is required or what is spent. I am quite aware of what is in section 121, but section 122 is independent of what you have in section 121. I feel very strongly that if you take away the power of Parliament to control how money is to be spent and we give this provision whereby Government may spend money and then come and ask us to approve it, I think it is a very dangerous precedent.

An hon. Member: Where is it?

Mr. Warltih: It is provided in an amendment to the Constitution. Maybe you have not read it. If you have not read it, it is none of my business.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to have a very convincing argument. I remember the Assistant Minister for Defence tried to explain that section 121 (1) provides that no money can be spent without an appropriation being passed in Parliament. I agree with that, but then when you come to section 122, it provides that the statement in Sessional Committee is made; it goes through the House, then a Supplementary Estimate in which you can provide for money already spent and, therefore as I say, Mr. Speaker, I feel very strongly that the Government is trying to go a bit too far. Under section 124, it is provided under Contingencies Fund and I do not see why it is necessary to have this other provision.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) took the Chair]

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I would say that on the question of the Shifita menace, people in the country are getting worried as to why it has taken so long to stamp out this Shifita menace and I think I will support those Members who have said that the Government should come out with a comprehensive programme which will bring to an end this very expensive expenditure.

Mr. Khalif: Sir, I think I will only take two or three minutes because I do not want to repeat what other hon. Members have said.

In the first place, Sir, I am particularly interested in—I would like to emphasize this—and am against what the hon. Argwings-Kodhek has recently said. The hon. Argwings-Kodhek is, if he was answering for Government, said that Kenya is on a war basis with Somalia. As far as I am concerned or, for that matter, the Government, I do not think that Kenya is on a war basis with Somalia. I think Kenya is trying to defeat some subversive elements in the North-Eastern Province: those are the Shifita. The local people there are against the Shifita, the leaders of the local people are against the Shifita and we want to wipe out the Shifita as soon as possible. If it is possible, that at this second I am speaking we can wipe out the Shifita. I will be pleased about that. However, to say that we are on a war basis with Somalia is completely incorrect. I would like to say—and I think, very sincerely, that this is the attitude of the Government—that Kenya is not on a war basis with Somalia.

We know, Sir, that the people who are helping the Shifita are the Republic of Somalia. We know that the Republic of Somalia supplies ammunition and weapons to the Shifita, and the Shifita are given direct orders from the Republic of Somalia to come and fight our security forces in Kenya. We know that the Shifita are given those orders from the Somali Republic—from Mogadishu—to come and harass the local people in the North-Eastern Province.

Mr. E. D. Godana: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to know this from the hon. Member who is speaking. He alleged that the Somalia Government provides the Shifita with firearms and ammunition. Has he any proof to this effect?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You can ask that, yes, though it has already been said by an Assistant Minister, as you know. That is all right. Have you any ground for saying that, Mr. Khalif?

Mr. Khalif: Still, Sir, I have the proof. I represent a constituency in the North-Eastern Province—that is, Wajir North—and in my area I know Shifita groups, which I can mention by name, who operate on that side of the border, and they get their ammunition and weapons from Mogadishu.

[Mr. Khalif]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What you are being asked is how you know that.

Mr. Khalif: I know it, Sir, because so many weapons have been confiscated by our security forces, which have been identified to have come from Somalia.

Sir, we know that the Somali Republic does sympathize with subversive elements in the North-Eastern Province—the former Northern Frontier District—that is, the Shifita. We know, equally, that these people never would have launched subversive activities against Kenya if it were not for the Somali Republic. However, Sir, that does not make Kenya to be on a war basis with Somalia, because, Sir—

Hon. Members: What basis are we on?

Mr. Khalif: Our basis, as far as the Shifita activities are concerned, is that we are engaged against subversive elements—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have made the point now, Mr. Khalif. You are not repeating what anybody else has said, but you are repeating yourself.

Mr. Khalif: Thank you very much, Sir.

Still, I have another point to make, in that, as far as Wajir, Garissa and Mandera are concerned, I hope that all hon. Members do know that there has been a state of emergency in existence. I supported Mzee Jomo Kenyatta when he moved a Motion on 25th February—the day I was sworn in as a new Member—saying that the emergency should be extended for three months in the North-Eastern Province. I agree entirely, Sir, that there should be an emergency, because without an emergency the people there would not have powers to do so many operations.

But, Sir, as far as Marsabit, Isiolo and, for that matter, Tana River are concerned, I think this is absolutely unnecessary. As regards Marsabit, that is about 600 miles; it is about 675 miles as far as Isiolo is concerned. I do not know what Lamu is, because it is in the Coast Province. However, let me say this, Sir. Marsabit and Isiolo in particular—let me exclude Lamu because I do not have much knowledge of Lamu—but I will include Moyale as an area to which the emergency should not be extended, because, Sir, we have Boran in Marsabit; we have Burgi in Marsabit, and they are not Shifita. We also have Rendille in Marsabit who are not Shifita. In Moyale, most of the local inhabitants are originally from Ethiopia. They have a natural hatred for Somali which renders them anti-Shifita. Also in Isiolo, we have the Meru people who, by virtue of their past activities in Mau Mau, are completely opposed to Shifita. We also have the Boran and a very few Somalis—a portion of 5 per cent of Somalis—in Isiolo.

Therefore, I think the inhabitants in these two districts which form also part of Moyale, which is a former district, which had a district status before Majimbo—

Mr. Makori-Imbho: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Member speaking on Shifita only or generally on the Bill, because we do not want to hear reports on Shifita and Shifita purely—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! He is speaking on the Bill, the Third Schedule of the Bill.

Do continue, Mr. Khalif.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, before I started speaking on the Bill, I said I did not want to repeat everything I thought about the Bill, which has been said by other Members. All I had to say was something new and something I have here.

I would like to continue, Sir, I was speaking about Isiolo. As far as Isiolo is concerned, the inhabitants there—whether Boran or Meru or the small percentage of Somalis which came to Isiolo a long time ago, even before 1915—are against the Shifita. I would like, Sir, the hon. Members on the Government Benches to agree with me entirely that there is no reason whatsoever to extend the emergency powers on people who are not either subversive or, for that matter, who do not sympathize with Shifita activities. I am a Somali, and I agree entirely that the Somali-predominant areas should suffer the consequences, because they are the people—my own people, of which my constituency is a part—who started this trouble, who started to become subversive. I agree with the Government entirely that it should exercise its emergency powers, in so far as my area is concerned: that is, in the Somali-predominant areas. But as regards areas where there are people like Boran who have never had anything to do with Shifita, areas where there are people like Rendille who have never had anything to do with Shifita, areas where there are people like Burgi who are more Ethiopian than Somali, you should not victimize these people for nothing.

Sir, I have a point here, a very basic one. Also, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have made it very clear, Mr. Khalif.

[Mr. Seroney]

sometimes makes me wonder whether it is worthwhile having such a House as this, or having a House at all.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are supposed to be elected to represent what we consider to be the best interests of our people and to use our judgment as far as any issue is concerned, but here we are having a tradition being established which, the way I see things, is going to end up by the Lower House of Kenya being another Reichstag. By this I mean, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we go through all the paraphernalia of elections, we have a very large House of 117 constituency Members and yet they seem to be so willing to come here and be rubber-stamps for the Government.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is the fifth amendment to a Constitution with which we started our Madaraka. The first one having been done just before independence. And as I said when we were considering that procedural Motion, we keep on amending this Constitution in little doses and sometimes I begin to wonder whether Members know what it is they are amending or how many Members really know the shape in which our Constitution is today. We have a peculiar procedure now of amending the Constitution by Schedules. As I said this was the fifth amendment and I do not know how many other amendments the Government is thinking up and what the end of them all will be.

The first series of amendments were directed against what used to be called Majimbo because the Government did not want any restriction to its authority, but then they were not content with that and they have kept on amending this Constitution and maybe they have some other new amendments hatched up with which they are still hoping to get by. What I said earlier, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and I still say now to the President and to the Attorney-General, for heaven's sake produce the existing Kenya Constitution now so that Members can know what Constitution they have.

An hon. Member: Have you got a copy?

Mr. Seroney: The hon. Member asks me whether I have a copy or not, but he should be sensible enough to know what I am talking about. We have our Constitution in bits and pieces, here and there. All I am asking is that our Constitution should be put together, should be codified into one document, that we do not have to refer to an Order-in-Council there: an Independence Act here, and Constitution No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, and the present one. Let us have this Constitution codified so that anyone in the street can go to the Government Printer and they will say, "All right, this is the Constitution that we now have, how far have we got?"

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is a pity that we have a provision that requires us to either support in total or reject in total a Bill without suggesting any amendments. I think that when the Government thinks up the next series of amendments that provision should be amended, because I think it is unfair to have to reject, as I am going to do, this Bill because there are some things in it with which I agree, but then since we cannot amend this Constitution, then I am forced to reject it in total, but I would only beg the Government not to rely on producing a package deal and telling Members "You must pass this or reject it all". When we are faced with such a position the reaction then is, of course, to reject the whole thing, otherwise that provision should be amended so that next time a Bill proposing amendments will be subject to any amendments which Members of this House can suggest. As it is now we cannot do it: I am sorry about that, but that is really the first amendment which should exercise the mind of my friend the Attorney-General, so I would ask him to withdraw this particular Bill and then to introduce another one, and the first provision to be amended should be that package deal business, but before doing that he should also produce the actual Constitution as it is so that Members can know what they are supposed to be tinkering with.

With those few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I oppose the Bill.

Mr. Warlith: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not intend to speak at length on this Bill. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to say at the outset that we all respect our Constitution. It is no doubt the highest law in the land and we know how important it is, but what we have noticed in Africa, one could only say that the importance of the Constitution depends upon the Government of the day being prepared to implement and honour that Constitution. We have seen several Constitutions, being flouted in the course of a few months, but then we still believe that the Constitution is the supreme power of the land and I think that is why Members have shown a very great interest in amendments to this Constitution.

Now, much has been said on the amendment which referred to the Members themselves and, as I understand it personally, I would say it is because of what has happened to some of the Members of this House, that is why Members have shown great concern. Taking the section dealing with imprisonment and also with the absence from eight sittings, under normal circumstances I do not think that anyone would be very worried, but what has happened will make some Members feel that this might be meant for some other purposes. I would like to make one point here very clear, when the Attorney-General was speaking and also the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, we were made to believe that this Bill is intended to keep away criminals from this House and also not pay people's salaries who are in prison. I beg to differ very strongly with that view. The Bill provides that if one is only imprisoned for more than six months and I do not think that it is fair for anyone to suggest that one is a bigger criminal because he is put in for seven months and the other man is a lesser criminal because he is put in for five months. Both are equally criminal, it is a question of degree.

[Mr. Warlith]

On the question of salary we are not told that if you are put in for five months you will not be paid for that period. At least it has not been brought to my notice. So, if the Government is concerned with the length of the period a Member has to stay in prison, and for the sake of argument says that he will not be serving his constituents, this one could be quite acceptable, in that if you are put in for more than six months, you will stay away and you cannot represent your people. Naturally, one would feel that it is proper that we should have another Member. But when we are told it is to keep away criminals and in order to keep people in prison, this argument does not sound very convincing to me. In any case, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to repeat the argument put forward by the other hon. Members, but I would have expected the Attorney-General or the Government to provide a clause whereby not any type of criminal conviction, put in that way—I am quite aware that civil matters do not come into this, because for civil cases you cannot go to prison for more than, at most, two months, in fact it is provided for in the Act—but I would have expected that there are certain criminal cases where they do not make a person unsuitable to be a Member of this House. Suppose, for instance, you meet with a motor accident and you cause death. If you are imprisoned does that make you, because you have caused death when you are driving a vehicle, unsuitable to be a Member of this House? In other words, what I am trying to drive at, is that there should be something like what we call moral turpitude, as far as the members of the legal profession are concerned. There should be a situation where, although someone might go to prison, that going to prison by itself, should not make him lose his seat, because it may be a type of offence which has no criminality in it. So this is what I personally would have considered more fitting, in fact the Attorney-General is quite aware and even we, Members of the legal profession are also aware that you may be sent to prison, but unless the offence makes you unsuitable to be a member of the honourable legal profession, you do not necessarily lose your certificate. Therefore, I personally would have expected the Government to come forward with something of that nature which would exclude certain types of criminal offences that have nothing to do with your criminal mindedness, etc.

On this one I would like the Attorney-General to explain to me, because there is one Member of this House in prison and he was imprisoned before this law came into effect, as to whether this Bill is going to be applicable to him, and also possibly the hon. Senator, who is not a Member of this House. Then there is the question of those, because this section comes under the disqualification, who can be a Member of the National Assembly, what about those who were imprisoned before it came to the House? When the House dissolved and they want to stand for election again, would that be a disqualification? Because this section 41 is under the head of disqualification or who cannot be a Member of the National Assembly. Anyway I see my learned friend shaking his head, no doubt he will explain.

Now to go further, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to dwell on the question of getting permission from the Speaker. I know that much has been said and I will support what other Members have said that it is not necessary to have this permission from the Speaker. I would say personally that what should be provided is that if a Member is going away for a long period, he should be allowed to have someone to stand in his place so that the people are represented, but all this question of getting permission and all the rest of it I feel it is most unnecessary and it just treats Members of Parliament more or less like schoolboys.

Section 56 (2)—I support the view that the Speaker should not have a casting vote. In the present Constitution the position has been that if there is equality of votes that Motion is withdrawn and can be brought at a later stage, and we have not been told any reason why this amendment is necessary. During our last years in this House there has been no case where it was found necessary; there was equality of votes and the Speaker was found, probably to come and save

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think this particular one is. I have not heard anyone arguing that it is bad luck for that Senator to have had that sentence.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that hon. Senator was put in for just merely, perhaps, self-defence, or he lost his temper, and then consequently he had to lose his position as a Senator. I believe, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if he is allowed to stand, in other words if we do not allow this disqualification, he will be eligible, even if he is still in prison to stand as a candidate for the senatorship of that particular district. Mr. Speaker, it is unnecessary for the Government always to, consider the implications of certain imprisonments. If the Government had been considerate on that particular point, I believe that the sentence ought just to have been a mere strong warning to the hon. Senator that he should not repeat what he did, and then he would not have been faced with a situation whereby a district is having no one to represent it in the Senate.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the other point which I wanted to mention is in connexion with human beings being as they are, ways of getting political opponents out of the political field can be as many as guaranteed by this amendment. It is easier to make up a case, fabricate a story completely and get an hon. Member out who has been, perhaps, opposing certain individuals in the Government. The moment we allow that, and as soon as it is done and the man is in, the Attorney-General will go straight to the Chamber and order the general election for that particular constituency. Which again, Mr. Deputy Speaker, will mean another person, perhaps favourable to certain quarters, will take up that position. These are my misgivings, Mr. Deputy Speaker, on this particular amendment. He cannot be returned since he is not allowed to stand when he is still in prison as a candidate to be nominated. This is the implication.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

The other thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, which I wanted to say is this. Section 42, we are told that hon. Members must seek permission from the Speaker. It is not that they must indicate to the Speaker that they are leaving, it is a question of obtaining permission, documentary evidence, that he has allowed you to go. One can then go in peace stating that he has been given permission. Now, why should we be forced or compelled to go and obtain permission like children from the Speaker? A man who was Mr. Deputy Speaker, as Members of this House have already elected as an impartial person, or character within our community.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Sir, having been here during most of the time of this debate, I think what the hon. Member is pointing out is just gross repetition. Some hon. Members—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I agree with you, Mr. Gichoya, I think that point has been made before.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Sir, I would like your guidance on this. The words here are "having obtained permission", is it not that you write to the Speaker and that is that, is that not the interpretation?

Mr. amp Sol: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is it not in order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for Members to speak, even things which other Members have spoken about? Because this is a Constitution which is very important, is it in order for Members to stop other hon. Members expanding on the reasons for a particular thing?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, I am afraid hon. Members are allowed, to begin with a certain amount of repetition, but once a debate gets, as I believe this one is, into its fourth day, then I think persistent repetition must be stopped, otherwise we will never come to the end of any particular debate.

In this particular case, as far as I am aware, this particular point has been made by several speakers before, but I think Mr. Gichoya can touch on it; but not go on elaborating and expanding on it for a great length. I think we must be a little patient, I agree with you that this is a very important debate, and I, personally, am very reluctant to reduce, as it were, the freedom of speech too much, but I must ask hon. Members on the other hand to abide by the rules against repetition.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, in view of the fact that that hon. Mr. Slade has just said here on the Chair, that when an hon. Member wants to support something said by another hon. Member previously, all he has to do is to say that he supports what another hon. Member said. In view of the fact that there are hon. Members here in this Chamber now, who want to touch upon things which are completely new, would it not be in order, Sir, that the Speaker in the Chair, does make it a point to cut off without a point of order being raised by another hon. Member, any person who is repeating?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): That is correct. The Speaker can and should do so, but on the other hand, as I said, unless I find that a person is in fact repeating tediously on matters that other people have already raised, I certainly would not like to interrupt an hon. Member.

Mr. Gichoya: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it was made clear first by the hon. Member for Trans Nzoia, the reasons which led to the Colonial Government imposing a restriction—the procedure of the Legislative Council—and now, as I see, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are now accepting what our elected Members then had rejected. That is, we must have attendance, nobody should sit outside for more than eighty days. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, somebody did argue here, a Minister, that we are supposed to be in this House, if we are Members of this House, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I say this, to work for the public does not necessarily mean coming to this House. Also, I heard hon. Mr. Mboya stating that some Members come to this House, they do not speak but they do a lot. Now, if actually coming here, to be present in the House, means doing the constituency job, I entirely disagree with this. There is a lot to be done in the villages at times. One might stay at home for, more than two weeks, still working for his own constituents, and instead of being humiliated by having to report, as if he were under probation, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it would have been far better to have a kind of Standing Order, but not a Constitution, because to amend this Constitution, Mr. Deputy Speaker, will also entail other expenses by the Kenya Government in order to remove this at one stage of time. I do not agree, Mr. Deputy Speaker, with those people who are supporting the idea that an hon. Member of Parliament must come and report to the Speaker, I want to go away for a week or two.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to be a nuisance, but surely what the hon. Member is saying is gross repetition. For example—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Mr. Khalif, I think there is no necessity for you to stand up every time and decide that it is repetition. I think hon. Members have the right to speak, and I, personally, have not heard this particular point before, it may have been made but I think a person is allowed to speak.

Mr. Mbogoh: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, what provision is there in our Standing Orders when a Member pretends to be cleverer than the Speaker?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I do not think that we want to be very strict on that, but I do ask Mr. Khalif, let the Speaker decide and I think hon. Members should be allowed a little freedom to speak. If you are going to stand up every time and say that every point has been made before, he will never finish.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I believe the hon. Member, this is my own personal opinion, that he is drunk.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Sir—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, you are quite right, Mr. Khalif. Mr. Gichoya, please withdraw that remark and apologize. I certainly do not want any personal remarks, insulting remarks, or rude remarks in this House, it is quite unfortunate. Please apologize and withdraw.

Mr. Gichoya: I withdraw.

Mr. Khalif: Unfortunate, very, very unfortunate.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is as unfortunate as his own activities in this House today.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the other point I wanted to raise is this. We would like to have our Speaker as an independent personality, but when our Speaker has been given the right to have the casting vote, it means, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that the Speaker must also be involved in taking sides. Whereas, in actual fact, he should not do so. I feel very strongly that our Speaker should not have a casting vote, but he must remain independent as we have been having the independent Speaker. If there comes a time when people differ on certain issues, and the Speaker takes one side, then people will say, "Well, our Speaker is no longer independent". That is my fear. The whole document, as it is, ought to have been drawn up by the people themselves, but not by the office of the Attorney-General, which does not take into consideration the feelings of the politicians.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, could you please tell the hon. Khalif to at least be reasonable.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I am sure he will be reasonable, carry on, Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: Thank you. I will reiterate strongly that you will cry.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with those few words I beg to oppose the amendments.

Mr. Sedney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, the facility with which Government gets all kinds of legislation through this House, with pliant Backbenchers, Ministers and Assistant Ministers,

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

Constitution appeared vague. The legal draftsman found that unless these words were added to that particular section, it might not mean the Minister for Finance, but the hon. Member for Butere, doing what that section wants the Minister to do. This proves that the hon. Member for Butere had not done his homework as he had promised he had done.

Mr. Speaker, I am, in fact, replying to hon. Members who made their speeches in reply to the various points raised. I am not only replying to the points made by the hon. Member for Butere.

I now come to the point made by the hon. Member for Turkana, Mr. Ekitella. He said if he was sick it would not be possible for him to report, or to convey the information that he was sick to the Speaker. With due respect I would like to say that there is no place in Kenya today where the district commissioner is not on the telephone. There is no place where the police have no very high-frequency radio to connect one place with the other. I know the geography of this place and I have travelled in all provinces. Now, if the hon. Mr. Ekitella was sick and he sent his brother on foot or on camel back to the district commissioner's office, information would reach Nairobi within two days and not two weeks as the hon. Member stated.

Another point that was raised, Mr. Speaker, was the case of kidnapping. This was a very interesting point, but what I have to say here is that kidnapping can be done by anybody, even one's own wife. She can lock him in the house if she does not want him to come to Parliament. She can lock him in for a full week or a fortnight. We hope, of course, that this is not going to happen. However, it is not true that only youth wingers can do this. Other people can kidnap just as well. Members' own wives could kidnap them and keep them out of this House for two weeks.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, is the Assistant Minister not underrating the integrity of the hon. Members' wives? Can he substantiate that a wife can detain an hon. Member?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Really, Mr. Shikuku! Will you please continue, Mr. Osogo. Please do not interrupt on such matters again, Mr. Shikuku.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, fraudulent points of order are probably made to impress some other people in the House or the galleries.

The last point I was going to make, Sir, is the section, on which the hon. Member for Nyaugo stressed very much, which allows the civil servants to be employed at the pleasure of the President. I do not want to repeat again what my colleagues have said about this, but what I have to say is that I do not know what is wrong with that particular section.

Mr. Maisori-Itumbo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since yesterday you ruled that repetition was not allowed, can we be told whether the Assistant Minister is replying for the Government? I ask this because he is trying to reply to every Member's speech. We are tired of hearing these repetitions.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Answering what another Member has said is not necessarily repetition if you answer with a new argument. Mr. Osogo, I can see, has been producing new arguments against other arguments we have heard many times. He is in order.

Mr. Odunya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, actually what the Member wants to know is whether the Member speaking is doing so on behalf of the Government. He would like the hon. Member to clarify this. He is asking this because when the person who is going to reply on behalf of the Government stands up to do so he will repeat the same points.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, Mr. Maisori-Itumbo, I thought you were making the point of repetition. You want to know if Mr. Osogo is speaking for himself or for Government. You are quite right to ask that; I could not hear very well.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, when I speak as Member for Samia Buniyala I always declare so; if I do not declare, then the House should know that I am speaking as Assistant Minister. In this case I am speaking as an Assistant Minister.

Mr. Speaker, I was making my last point, and I was arguing the point of civil servants being in employment at the pleasure of the President. My argument is very simple. Why do Members quarrel with this?

Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Assistant Minister has now declared he is speaking as a member of the Government, then will we again have another person from the Government speaking on behalf of the Government, and replying to the points raised by the hon. Members?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I expect so. Mr. Shikuku: Again?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, why not?

I hope your next point of order will be a lot better, Mr. Shikuku. We have had two very feeble ones so far.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): It is interesting to see that hon. Members do not know how Government machinery works. The hon. Attorney-General has taken his notes, he is going to speak. I took these notes as an individual Member for the Government and I am trying to challenge what the hon. Members have put forward in their speeches.

I was actually on my last point and this was the point made by many other Members. However, I took notes from what the hon. Okuto Bala said. I was asking why we should quarrel with this point. Hon. Members have always declared that they would like to see the imbalance that they think exists rectified. What is wrong, if I become President, which I will not become, to try to rectify the imbalance which exists? If this section is there, then I think, hon. Members should thank the Attorney-General that it will allow the President who comes into power to try to rectify the imbalance they are all complaining about. So, I do not see why this particular argument was advanced by Members who always complain here.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support this Bill very strongly.

Mr. Godia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, having heard the argument from both sides, am I justified in moving that the Mover be now called upon to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, for reasons I have given not long ago. I think hon. Members must be patient. Those who have had their speeches must be patient and willing to hear others who have not yet spoken, as long as they have something new to say.

Mr. Gitchoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am happy to have this chance of saying a few words on this document.

I think I will start with more or less the last point that was made by the hon. Assistant Minister; I have certain reservations over it.

Firstly, our Head of State today is also Head of Government. He is not a constitutional figurehead whereby everything is done in the name of the President. Here, he is a semi-executive authority. I say he is a semi-executive authority because ours is not like the American Constitution whereby the President is elected directly as a person and he constitutes his own Government as a person. Here, our President has a different set-up.

Secondly, he is not in the same line as the Queen of England who is a reigning monarch, he is a by-product of a political party. This is exactly the position we have here, Mr. Speaker.

Of course, today we have a one-party system, but the moment we have—since the Constitution does not forbid another political party, or two or three political parties emerging—more than one political party, then whoever will be the President, Mr. Speaker, if he is given the power to establish or abolish office, it will mean that he can create as many offices as his party—Mr. Speaker, let me make it clear. I know we have a very good President, Mzee Kenyatta. We know him, but we may not know who will be the next President. Whether that man will be so ambitious as to try to have everything for himself, this is where the fear is, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, but I think it has already been expressed in this debate.

Mr. Gitchoya: My own feeling over it is that let us leave the Civil Service Commission with its own independent role, and let us leave our President in a very clean position whereby nobody can say he created a position to fit So-and-so or fit So-and-so. This is what my feelings are on that.

Now taking the first ones whereby one serving any sentence of imprisonment will not be allowed to contest a seat. Mr. Speaker, here it is somebody being prevented from taking part in national politics, because he is already in prison. I take a case, Mr. Speaker, of the former President of Ghana, Kwame Nkrumah.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Other people have taken that case.

Mr. Gitchoya: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, if that has been said that is well and good. We have here, Mr. Speaker, a case of say the former Senator, I still maintain he is a Senator, for Nanyuki-Lalipia, who through a small thing is now in for eighteen months. Mr. Speaker, I say it is a small thing because it was just through someone losing his temper and after losing his temper he started fighting with another person, this, Mr. Speaker, is a common thing with human society, and more so in African society.

Mr. Khalil: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is not what the hon. Member is saying now repetition of what other hon. Members have said, Sir?

[Mr. Maitori-Itumbo] before, we believe in imprisonment, assassination and poverty. Mr. Speaker, Sir, a Member may be inside merely because he has a civil debt. He may be inside for any reason. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we do not have enough money to employ drivers. I am a driver myself. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not trying to create a precedence where people may suspect that I am a criminal, I am not and I have never, for your information, Mr. Speaker, Sir, been in court, not even a local African court. I have never been in court. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since I became a driver, every time I send my fine in whether it is Sh. 30 or Sh. 50 because I happen to be doing over fifty miles per hour. Mr. Speaker, Sir, you can be put in prison for anything at all, even if you are not a criminal. Our Government, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is composed of many Members who are prison graduates, Mr. Speaker, Sir, who knows what will happen tomorrow, maybe it is a Minister or even the Attorney-General himself, who is now trying to impose this Bill upon us to get it passed through this House, who will be the next person to be committed because the law is above everyone? Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that to appeal that this is a very, very critical and dangerous Bill and therefore we should not pass it without having expressed our minds and thought twice before we vote for this Bill to go through.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other point which I would like to raise is with regard to the question of eight days. Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday I told the Attorney-General at the Parliamentary Committee that my constituency is in that corner of Tanzania. Mr. Speaker, Sir, communications are very poor, between here and my constituency. There are no telephones, good roads, buses or anything. Mr. Speaker, Sir, for example, during the Long Rains, from March onwards, the rivers overflow, and one can hardly move for almost a month.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Maitori-Itumbo, you have not said anything original yet. That point which you are making now was made exactly similar by Members from the Tana River. We cannot have this repetition of argument at this stage of the debate. Please say something new, or cut it very short.

Mr. Maitori-Itumbo: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker Sir. I have made my point.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say, although I have said it before, that I will think before I give my vote to the Government. But, Sir, I strongly feel that this is unfair because I do not feel that a Bill like this should be manoeuvred. I am not the Chairman of anything, any statutory board and I am not an Assistant Minister, and I am not dreaming of becoming one of these. But, Sir, I support the Government 100 per cent simply, because I do not have any other ideology to support. Otherwise, Sir, I could stand in a certain group and oppose this Bill strongly.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not intend to be very long in my speech, but I have a few observations to make on points which were raised by some hon. Members in trying to clarify them. Mr. Speaker, Sir, many hon. Members who have spoken on this Bill have tried to give the wrong impression of this Bill. They have tried to indicate to us, this House, that this Bill has nothing that will benefit the poor man. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was the hon. Member for Butere who indicated to the public that this Bill has nothing that will benefit the poor man. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is upon each of us to think whether this is true or not because in this Bill we are going to eliminate any person who is in prison from earning public money, and here again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister in order to try and misrepresent what I said? He is talking of my having said that this Bill has nothing to do with the poor man and that he is trying to justify his argument by saying that someone who is in prison should not earn a living, when I said in my speech that no one should earn a living when he is in prison. Is he in order to insinuate that I said that someone should earn a living while in prison?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think he has done yet. But what he is doing is repeating what everybody else has said. So do not let us have it. Mr. Osogo. We have had this argument to and fro half a dozen times.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I was trying to do was to challenge the fact that it is not true that this Bill will not profit the poor man. This is what I was trying to argue.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): But in the course of doing so, please do not repeat what we have had six or more times.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): No, Sir, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is true, and I also feel that it is true that we are going to save money when this Bill is passed. The poor people are going to profit because the nation is going to save money when this Bill is passed.

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

Another point I would like to make is this, Mr. Speaker, Sir. An impression has been given that when a Member is imprisoned he will not be entitled to re-election in this House. This, Mr. Speaker, Sir, was repeated by a number of hon. Members and I would like to tell them that this is not true. When a Member has been imprisoned he is still eligible to fight in the elections. The Bill we are now discussing does not eliminate a Member to stand to be re-elected. Here again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, you have been accused, as the Speaker, for not being able to decide who should represent Butere, for example.

Now, it is not true that you are going to determine this. What is true is that when a Member loses his seat through the faults tabled in this Bill, he is eligible to go back for re-election. He can still be elected and come back to this House. This is what the point is. So, let us not mislead the public, telling them that the Speaker of the House is empowered to eliminate a Member, to determine who should represent which constituency. This is not true. When a Member stands for re-election he can be re-elected to this House and come here and represent his people. However, to argue, Mr. Speaker, that any Member who goes to prison should continue to represent his people, deprive his people of representation, is quite unfair indeed.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is that not also a repetition from Government circles?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think so. Explanation of the exact effect of these provisions that Mr. Osogo is giving has not been given many times. I do not think so.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, I tried to be here during the debate on this Bill and I did try to be sure that whatever my colleagues in the Government have said I will not repeat.

Mr. Speaker, we are also asked by hon. Members in this House how many times His Excellency the President is going to write a letter to the Speaker asking for permission to be absent. Now, on the one hand, Mr. Speaker, the Government is asked why His Excellency the President does not present himself in this House. Now, here is a Bill inviting His Excellency the President to appear in this House as often as possible, yet hon. Members are trying to oppose this. They have said many times that they would like to see His Excellency the President among us here as an elected Member.

Another point that was raised was by the hon. Member for Butere again, on Supplementary Estimates. He stressed very much on the word "spent" but, with due respect, Mr. Speaker, if there is something that needs urgency, if there is something that needs to be constructed, or there is a project that is being carried out in, say, Butere—the hon. Member's own constituency—and the Government finds that the money that was allocated to it, the money that was voted to it in the Estimates, cannot complete that project, then what is wrong for the Government to allocate a little more money to finish this project if we have to wait for the Parliament to meet, maybe the people in that particular area will have lost the service of that particular project. I have, Sir, in mind, for example, the construction of a hospital. If it is very necessary that when the building of a hospital is completed an X-ray plant is put in that area for the serious cases that might be brought to this hospital, if we have to wait until the House meets and the Supplementary Estimate is passed—for the information of the House Supplementary Estimates are not passed on one item only, there must be several—then hon. Members will come here and shout that we have not completed that particular project. Mr. Speaker, money is always spent on very necessary things, maybe without the permission of this House. This is not done so that there is anything that could be done to avert the spending of money. Not at all. It only happens in very, very rare cases where spending of this money is necessary for the completion of projects. So, the word "spent" as it appears in section 122 is necessary to be included. The hon. Member should know this, otherwise it is going to be very dangerous because it is possible that some projects are going to be left half-way, incomplete.

Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member for Butere said that he had made a thorough study and had really done his homework. He referred us to section 125 and wondered why we were amending it. I would point out to the hon. Member that he missed the important point, that there were two words added to the new Bill as compared to the old Constitution. These words are "he is" and they appear in section 125. If the hon. Member has the Bill in front of him he should check up. With your permission, Sir, the hon. Member said this particular section was unnecessary. However, if he looks in the fourth line of the new amendment Bill he will find that the words "he is" are added because without these words the old would it not also be in order that Members from different provinces are given a chance, because in so far as the North-Eastern Province—

[Mr. Khalif]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Khalif, I have said to the House frequently, and on several occasions in the last week, I think, that hon. Members who think that they should have a turn in a debate cannot claim it on a point of order. We would never get on if hon. Members were rising on points of order to say, "It is my turn." Please have a little patience. And I warn hon. Members that they do not gain precedence in a debate by this sort of thing.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, having attended the Parliamentary Group meeting which was called by the Attorney-General and the other Ministers, and having agreed that the points which were not clear were covered, I wish to support this Bill very much.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, previously there was some criticism of this Bill over the question of hon. Members being disqualified from sitting in this House after being absent for two consecutive weeks. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this House we have been claiming from time to time that the Ministers, and even the civil servants in their offices should always be in their offices so that they can attend to the duties of the Republic. I see no reason why we as hon. Members in this House—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, isn't the hon. Member telling us the old stories the other Members have told us? Is he in order to repeat to us—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I did not hear a repetition there. I thought it was a new argument as far as my recollection goes.

Mr. Shikuku: Oh, yes.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am only saying that we as hon. Members should be honourable and should be the first lot to set an example, and if one feels that he has to be away from the country for more than two to three weeks, then he should either give up his seat or remain in this House. After all, I do not understand where the hon. Member who would stay away for two weeks would be staying, or what he would tell the constituents whom he represents. Again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, some hon. Members were suggesting that rather than ask permission from the Speaker of the House it would be merely necessary to inform the Speaker. Then, if we are only to inform the Speaker that we are going, what would be the use of this? Would the Speaker take care of us, is he looking after our security?

If we want all the other people in the country to ask permission we should as well ask permission and go with the permission of the Speaker, who is always under the control of the hon. Members.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other point presented by quite a number of hon. Members was the question of somebody who has been in prison for some six months, and then still wishes to retain a seat here. The people in the constituency need to be represented and it is most unfair to say that somebody goes in for six or seven months and there is nobody to represent them. Again—

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, I rise again on a point of order. Is the hon. Member now again not telling us the same story we have been told by previous speakers? Is he in order to repeat—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think so now, Mr. Kibuga, we are going over old ground.

Mr. Kibuga: I see that the hon. Member would like me to pass over this very quickly and I will do so. I will merely say that, Sir, we as hon. Members will see that we help our people to be represented. I merely say that if an office boy who is imprisoned for one week automatically loses his job, we should also be treated in a more careful way.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the continuous repetition by the hon. Member, may I call upon the Mover to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have had a long debate on this, but it is a matter of supreme importance. There may be hon. Members who have some completely new point of view to present. I must give a chance, I think, to them, so I must cut hon. Members short on anything like repetition. I think if you have nothing new to say, Mr. Kibuga, you ought to stop.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would now like to talk about the National Youth Service. I think it is very important that this Bill also include that the National Youth Service be included in the forces, so that they will not go on strike like any other trade union organizations, which would be allowed. Normally, Sir, the trade unions in the country are allowed to go on strike, but if we are to allow the National Youth Service to go on strike, there might come a time when the country might find itself in trouble. Sir, these youths are being trained as soldiers, to do different jobs as it is necessary that they should serve the country and therefore should be included in the same forces, the army, the police and the rest.

[Mr. Kibuga]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would just like to mention in passing that I support the idea of the Constitution that there should not be automatic citizenship for a resident—from an African country or from another Commonwealth country who has been a resident in Kenya for five years. Previously, Sir, it was necessary that if he wished to become a citizen, he automatically did not need to fill in any forms. It is important that the Minister should be allowed to approve or reject, because then the House will have the chance of questioning the Minister. But, Sir, if somebody can automatically become a citizen, then he may choose to become a citizen of Uganda, Kenya or Ghana or even Canada for that matter. We need to admit the people as citizens of this country who are going to be loyal and who are loyal, to this country and who are sincere in their need to become a citizen of this country. Therefore, Sir, it is important that we have such a thing.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would have suggested, if it had been possible in the case of Members being absent, that there should be a clause in the Constitution or in the Standing Orders whereby somebody would be allowed to choose a substitute to represent him in his absence, perhaps while he is out of the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I very much welcome the idea that under this Constitution the powers given to the security forces in the North-Eastern Province will also be extended to the provinces nearby. The Somalis who are the Shifita in the North-Eastern Province, moved to the Eastern Province and even to the Central Province and Coast Province, and recently there has been a lot of complaints especially from the Members representing the Coast, the Lamu area, who have complained that the Shifita are being allowed to move freely and that the Government is not dealing with them. We need to give the security forces enough powers to be able to control the Shifita.

In finishing, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that for the whole of last year we have been amending small bits of our Constitution. We hope that immediately this Bill is passed we shall get copies of our Constitution because sometimes we forget some of the things written in the Constitution and therefore it is necessary that the Attorney-General and his staff see to it that they produce enough copies of the Constitution so that we can have an idea by what Constitution we are being governed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I now would like to say that I am very thankful for this Constitution and that there should be no fear over this Constitution and we should be united as one party on passing it.

Mr. Maitoi-Imbo: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that I must register my feelings and my views on this very important Bill. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we politicians believe in three major beliefs. Firstly, assassination, secondly, imprisonment, and thirdly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, poverty. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, a Bill like this which is to be passed in this honourable House simply because we are being manoeuvred and being persuaded, and not being given a chance to express our feelings and our minds is wrong, because I feel that it is very important that every Member be given a chance to register his views, although later I will give the Government my vote. I want, although I am being heckled, it to be known that I am a strong Government supporter, but, Sir, before I support the Government on such a Bill, it is my right to express my mind and register my views in the House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that a Bill like this, where the President has the right to make the final decision to say that So-and-so is to remain an hon. Member of this House, then I feel that I must oppose that particular clause, because it is my constituency who employs me to come here, and who makes me stay in this House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, nobody knows whether in 1968 most of us here will be able to come back into this House, because it is only those people in my constituency who have the final say as to whether I am to come back or not, and it is only then, when the President has the right either of appointing me as a chairman or a Minister which is a job I do not dream about, but, Sir, not at all at any time even if the Attorney-General comes and sits in my seat should I feel that I should say that the President should have the right to make all the decisions on a Member as to whether he will remain in the House as a Member or not. I think that is completely unfair.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, to amend a Constitution is very expensive as far as my knowledge is concerned, especially like the one we are now proposing to amend and pass through this honourable House. Therefore, Sir, I feel that it is a very, very expensive thing to be done in the Republic of Kenya. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it needs a majority of 65 per cent, which I think is highly unlikely to be obtained today. It may take us days before we get this percentage.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other clause which I would like to point out to the House is this. It is with regard to the question of six months' imprisonment. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have said

[The Minister of State, President's Office] Council was incorrect. This truth is that the clerk to the county council was suspended but was later allowed to resume his duties. Therefore, at the time I dealt with this question, it was incorrect to inform the House that the clerk was still under suspension. I do, therefore, Mr. Speaker, wish to apologize, first, to the hon. Member for Korossi, and, secondly, to the House, and do thank the hon. Member for Korossi for drawing my attention to this error.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, while I appreciate, of course, what the Minister has told the House, what happens in future or at times when Members here insist on the correct information, informing the Minister, and then a Minister insists that what he says is correct? I was wondering how we could go back and check all these replies so that we have such apologies.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I think here that Mr. Shikuku is raising once again a question I have answered so very many times, that if hon. Members hear something said in this House, whether by a Minister or any other Member, that they believe to be incorrect, and if they can prove afterwards that he is incorrect, they can require the Member concerned, Minister or otherwise, to come and acknowledge it to this House, just as Mr. Nyamweya, of his own accord, has done on this occasion. If they do not get that satisfaction from the Member concerned, they have to report it to the Speaker.

WITHDRAWAL OF ADJOURNMENT MOTION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now I think, as regards the proposal to raise a matter on the adjournment today, Mr. Muliro would like to explain why he does not now wish to pursue that matter.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, at the time I raised this question on adjournment, the Minister was not attending the regular sittings of the House, but, since that time, the Minister has been present all the time, therefore I do not see the necessity of raising this matter now.

PERSONAL STATEMENT

UNQUALIFIED WITHDRAWAL OF ALLEGATION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! There was a matter which Mr. Oduya promised—at the request of Mr. Mboya—to substantiate, relating to a statement he made in a debate a few days ago. I understand that Mr. Oduya is ready to substantiate now, and I would ask him to do so.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have checked the statements where I thought the Minister had mentioned this. But, you know, he is a politician but I found that he might have corrected it, so I beg to withdraw.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I do not quite understand why you are withdrawing. Is it that you cannot substantiate? I would like to hear quite clearly.

Mr. Oduya: Yes, I withdraw, but—

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I resent the implication that the hon. Member suggests that I have perhaps corrected the statement. When he made his statement in the House, he told the House that there was a record in the HANSARD of a debate which took place many months ago. Now he suggests, as he withdraws, that being a politician I may have corrected the statement. I resent the implication. Either he withdraws or he says that there has been some correction to the HANSARD which he can prove to the House.

An hon. Member: That is not a point of order.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! It is a perfectly good point of order. I was going to say the same if Mr. Mboya had not been ahead of me, that as I have said before, when hon. Members fail to substantiate and therefore have to withdraw what they have said, they withdraw completely without qualification, and they do not tack on something which takes away all the merit of the withdrawal. So, Mr. Oduya, you will now tell the House that you withdraw without any qualification whatsoever, please.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought you heard me withdraw and, therefore, the question of qualification was not there.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I do not quite know whether you are now saying that you withdraw without qualification, but you did withdraw with qualification, which was that you believed that the thing had been said but that it had been erased from HANSARD. That is what I want you to drop. You do drop that, do you not?

Mr. Oduya: I have withdrawn that, Sir, without any qualification and, as I told you, there is no qualification.

POINT OF ORDER

RULING ON SUBSTANTIATION

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like some guidance on this question.

An hon. Member: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! There is a point of order here now.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, in a number of debates now some Members have particularly chosen to make allegations against either Ministers or other Members in the House and when called upon to substantiate on the spot they have sought excuses in order to be able to do so later, only to be told after weeks that they could not find the substantiation. In the meantime, publicity has been given to the allegations and the public has been misinformed or misdirected to believe that these allegations had some foundation. During the debate, these allegations have been made as debating points, or to win debating points in the House and, if this becomes a habit, just how far are Members genuine with these withdrawals or substantiations?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I have been thinking about this same problem. There are occasions when hon. Members really believe the truth of what they are saying but yet have not the evidence to hand, so they must be allowed a little time in which to show the evidence on which they rely. But it is a serious thing when, having said that he believes that he can substantiate, and after a delay of several days, the Member acknowledges that he cannot substantiate, and the damage has been done meanwhile. I think that we shall have to say for the future that hon. Members are expected—if they cannot substantiate immediately—to withdraw unless they are really sure that they can substantiate at a later date and, if they fail to substantiate at a later date, they will be required to give the House a very handsome apology; and if it happens too often, the House might take an even more serious view.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, you may also agree with me, Sir, that there are instances where some hon. Members are very sincere in respect of something they allege and when they are asked to substantiate they may go back to the record and find that there is no record in respect of what they alleged in the House in so far as substantiation is concerned. In this particular case, Sir, because they are sincere as far as some Members are concerned—there is a political manoeuvre—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I have nothing to add to what I have said, and I do not think you have any contribution to make either. Will you sit down? Mr. Khalif? Will you sit down? Will you sit down, or leave the Chamber?

BILL

Second Reading

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA

(AMENDMENT) BILL

(The Attorney-General on 22nd February 1966)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 24th February 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Makone was in the course of speaking on this Bill. Do you have any more to say, Mr. Makone?

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, I was speaking when the House adjourned and I think I was at the end of my speech, but I want to make one more point, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, when I was speaking I tried very much to defend the word "honourable" which was being driven away by the Attorney-General in a way of having to ask permission of the Speaker, therefore giving the Speaker an unnecessary job. I said that the hon. Members have different duties in this House and outside. I was saying that in this particular country, particularly in Kenya where we have people looking to us for leadership and guidance on various activities, we should choose a time to be here or not to be here and, in that way, we should not give the Speaker the responsibility of granting such permission for being with our people when our people require us to be with them.

Mr. Speaker, another point I was making was the involvement of the Speaker in the voting system. When, during the Parliamentary Group meeting, the Attorney-General clarified the position to us, he said that it was not very usual in this Chamber—in other words, it is not always the case that we differ fifty-fifty and in this case, Sir, I do not think it is necessary that the Speaker should be involved in this and quite a lot of other things were squared during the Parliamentary Group meeting. Mr. Speaker, in this case I wish to change my mind and support the Bill.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now, before inviting any hon. Member to speak I would remind hon. Members of what I said near the end of this debate the other day, that we have had many repetitions of arguments on the same points. I do not want to stop hon. Members making their contributions on this very important Bill so long as they do not repeat old arguments. It is all right for them to say they agree with other hon. Members on a particular point, but not to go all over the same arguments again, and I will be strict on that.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Sir, as all hon. Members would like to adhere to your ruling in so far as repetition is concerned, but then, Sir, had not been provided for in South Nyanza in 1965/66, according to the reply given to the hon. Member himself to a similar question last year by his predecessor.

[Mr. Ngala-Abok]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Who answers for the Ministry of Home Affairs?

This is not very satisfactory.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, since it seems that there is nobody from the Ministry who is ready to answer this question, can I conclude from information I have received—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think you need worry any more, Mr. Ngala-Abok.

Mr. arap Moi, a question affecting your Ministry was just being asked, Question 361.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): I would like to apologize, Sir, I was busy with the normal Governmental work.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. If I could begin with the second part of the question, exhaustive investigation has established that the reply attributed to my predecessor was never given in this House. What he did say was that the establishment of a police divisional headquarters at Homa Bay and the posting there of an assistant superintendent of police would be kept under constant review and would, at any rate, be undertaken in accordance with the Development Plan.

However, I am now glad to say that the Government has recently given this matter accelerated consideration and the establishment of a divisional headquarters at Homa Bay has been accorded a high priority. As usual, our great problem is money and as soon as it becomes available, these plans will be realized. In connexion with this, Sir, I would like to report that the security situation in South Nyanza has been considerably improved recently through the establishment of police posts and patrol bases along the Kenya/Tanzania border.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Arising from the Minister's reply, that this matter is being given high priority, depending on the availability of money, will the Minister tell the House what this money is going to be needed for if the provincial commissioner is already prepared to give housing accommodation to an assistant superintendent of police, if one is posted to the district?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we would like an officer posted to the area to have better housing and also we would like accommodation for the officers who will support this superintendent. Not only would an assistant superintendent be posted to Homa Bay, there would also be other staff, including secretaries and other supporting staff.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, with all due sympathy for what the Minister is saying, if I produced a HANSARD where I was pointing that the Estimates of 1965/66 would take into account this particular post being introduced at Homa Bay, could the Minister agree to post an assistant superintendent there tomorrow?

Mr. arap Moi: I am really in sympathy with the hon. Member, Sir, and he should appreciate what I have just said, in that acknowledgment is being carried out and I take a keen interest in this particular area, because it is a very important one.

Mr. Shiluku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the keen interest of the Minister for Home Affairs, would the Minister assure this House now that in the 1966/67 Estimates the police post at Homa Bay will be included? We do not need secretaries first, we need policemen; secretaries do not arrest thieves.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, it is included in the Development Plan, and I have said that this area is one of the important ones as far as the security of the State is concerned.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must go on now. Mr. Ndile, you have a question by private notice.

QUESTION BY PRIVATE NOTICE

PASSENGER TRAIN TIMETABLE

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the great country-wide inconvenience likely to be caused by the new passenger train timetable with effect from 1st March 1966, whereby certain railway stations would be omitted from the normal stopping list, would the Minister for Works, Communications and Power approach the authority concerned to revise their decision, and let trains run in the normal way?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think it is a question of trains stopping in the normal way, rather than running. But I think you get the meaning of the question, Mr. Mwanjumba.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, with great respect to the hon. Member, may I begin by saying that I think he is, on this occasion, crying before he is hurt, for I simply cannot agree that any country-wide inconvenience is about to be caused, as suggested by the question. In fact, I believe that the exact converse is the case, and perhaps the hon. Members will bear with me if a somewhat lengthy answer is necessary in order to set everyone's mind at rest.

[The Minister for Works, Communications and Power]

I appreciate that the new East African Railways and Harbours' timetable, which came into effect only yesterday, introduces a number of radical changes, but these are designed to meet, not ignore, as the hon. Member would have us suppose, the wishes of the majority of the travelling public. The revised arrangements are the outcome of a painstaking and comprehensive survey conducted by the railway authorities, firstly, into the reason for the steady decline in the number of passengers making use of their services, and, secondly, to decide what can be done to combat the oft-repeated charge that the trains are too slow.

This inquiry has revealed some interesting changes in the pattern of railway travel and has high-lighted the fact that the bus services, which operate roughly parallel to the railway lines, have, in recent years, as has happened before in so many other countries, captured the greater part of the short-distance passenger business. This is a fact of life which must now be taken increasingly into account; that the revenue that accrues from travel between wayside stations is but a tiny proportion of the total. It is earned, furthermore, at the expense of the long-distance travellers who, for years past, have never ceased to complain at the slowness of the services.

The short-distance passenger traffic has, I am afraid, in the main, been lost to the bus operators, but the long-distance traffic between the principal centres of population certainly has not. And I share the railways' view that, on purely commercial grounds, as well as from the point of view of the interest of the majority of railway users, it is only right to put the interests of the greater number of passengers first. In fact, the new timetable reduces by no less than four hours the journey time for a third-class passenger between Kampala and Nairobi and by two hours the journey between Nairobi and Mombasa.

In short, it is necessary to recognise that the interests of the short and long-distance travellers must inevitably conflict and that, in any country where the distances to be covered are as great as in East Africa, the railways should not be criticized for taking the steps they have done in order to bring their services more into line with present needs.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I do not want to take up too much of the time of this House, but I would like to say again, with the greatest respect to the hon. Member concerned, that I think he should at least give the revised timetable a trial. I am satisfied that the railways' only concern is to serve the majority of their customers as best they can, and I am equally sure that should the assessment of what is for the best require further adjustment, in the light of experience, the general manager will be only too willing to listen to any complaints and do his best to meet them within the overall interests of the community as a whole.

Mr. Ndile: Would the Minister concerned tell the House what alternatives the railway authority has found for short distances? How are the passengers or the people who run on the short distances going to be catered for? What is the alternative?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, there is an alternative and this is road transport. Bus operators have been encouraged as much as possible on these roads, and this is why, because of the buses, that passengers on short distances have now deserted the railway service.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must go on. Mr. Nyamweya, you have a statement to make.

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

CIVIL SERVANTS ON LOCAL AUTHORITIES

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on 17th February 1966, the hon. Member for Korossi, Mr. Rurumban, asked the following Question No. 307:

"Will the Minister tell the House why the Government ruling banning civil servants from sitting on local authorities was not affected in Samburu District?"

In the course of my reply, I said, among other things: "The Samburu County Council has been in a terrible financial muddle recently, resulting in the suspension of its chief officers. The council has now a new treasurer and the clerk is still under suspension." Later, after Question Time that day, the hon. Member from Korossi drew my attention to the fact that the clerk of the Samburu County Council was not suspended and was still carrying out his normal duties as the clerk to the council. I then caused inquiries to be made as to whether my reply to the House, so far as it related to the position of the clerk of the Samburu County Council, was correct.

I have now found out that the hon. Member for Korossi was right when he pointed out that my reference to the clerk of the Samburu County

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You had better be very careful, Mr. Khalif. I should advise you to sit down; I advise you to sit down.

Next question.

Question No. 377

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES' LAND-ROVERS

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power whether, in view of the traffic laws, he would tell the House the business and the number of persons to be carried in the farmers' co-operative societies' Land-Rovers in Kisii District.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwenyumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There is no restriction to the type of business or the number of persons that may be carried by the farmers' co-operative societies' Land-Rovers in Kisii District, provided they fulfil the requirements of the Traffic Act and Transport Licensing Act.

But for each particular vehicle, the number of persons it may carry and the type of business for which it is registered are shown on the registration book of each vehicle. This is arrived at after the vehicle has been inspected and will vary according to the type of the body fitted.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the farmers' co-operative societies in Kisii buy these Land-Rovers with the understanding that they will be carrying committee men to go and bring money for farmers, and in view of the fact that in one month one might find that three to four cases have been filed against these Land-Rovers, will the Minister then state what are the conditions put to those societies before they purchase the Land-Rovers?

Mr. Mwenyumba: Mr. Speaker, I have already said that the number of persons to be carried by each Land-Rover is shown in the registration book and if the Kisii Co-operative Society farmers deliberately break the law, they have to be prosecuted; I am sorry. If they want the vehicles inspected, they can be sent to the inspection centres in Kisumu.

Question No. 378

UNALLOCATED LAND AND HOUSES ON SETTLEMENT SCHEMES

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House the defined future purposes of the land and houses at present still unallocated to the people on the settlement schemes.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Department of Settlement allocates as much land as possible in settlement schemes to individual settlers. A minimum amount of land and as few houses as possible are retained for use by Government officers for staff housing and offices and for sale to co-operative societies for use by those societies for offices, dairies, stores, dipping, pyrethrum drying, etc.

As and when the Department of Settlement finally withdraws from a scheme, then all surplus houses and land will be offered for sale to applicants.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, will he tell this House in what manner the Government will meet the loan repayment for such houses and the land adjacent to those houses?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government will get loan repayments in the normal way, once such houses are allocated and sold to individuals.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he tell this House what his Ministry is going to do for the squatters who are given a chance to go and live on these 100-acre plots, when the houses have not been allotted to the people?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, I am afraid I can not hear that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I am afraid you will have to speak up; the amplification is not very good from that corner.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is this. Will the Assistant Minister tell the House what his Ministry is going to do about the 100-acre plots allotted to the applicants who are going to take over when these 100-acre plots are given to illegal squatters?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of a case where 100-acre plots are being allocated to illegal squatters by my Ministry.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question before the Minister is: What is the Minister doing with the houses, for example, in the Soik Settlement Scheme which are vacant and which have no 100 acres round them? Is the cost of these vacant houses included in the loan repayment from the farmers?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not understand this question because houses which are vacant are automatically not allocated, and I cannot understand what the hon. Member means.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the question is: how is the Government going to get its money back on these buildings? It is confused with loans.

Mr. Gachago: Well, Sir, it is a pity that the hon. Member has to expect the Speaker to ask the question for him.

The Government will start getting its repayment as soon as these houses are allocated, otherwise I cannot understand how the hon. Member expects the Government to start recovering this money for the sale of these houses, if the houses have not been sold.

Mr. Makone: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the primary purpose of the question was to seek information from the Minister, are you, Mr. Speaker, satisfied that my question has been answered?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Mr. Makone, I do not have to be satisfied that your question has been answered.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the Assistant Minister's replies, could he tell us what he could do about such a situation where there is a house and all the land surrounding that house is sold. People may not wish to buy such a house when there is no land nearby. What arrangements is the Ministry going to make to enable this house to have land so that somebody would wish to buy it?

Mr. Gachago: Well, Sir, although I think that question is slightly out of the way, at the moment, my Ministry is considering ways and means of allocating some land to those houses which were left during the "crash" programme of settlement schemes. The Ministry would like to allocate enough land to them so that they could be sold. It may be by means of finding alternative land and settlement opportunity for those who are settled around such houses, or by some other method. But at the moment, Sir, we are considering ways and means of solving that problem which is a serious one.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, arising from the unsatisfactory answer by the Assistant Minister, will he tell this House whether the acreages to be given to these houses will be uniform or just as the Ministry may wish?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, allocation of land cannot be uniform, because it depends on the type of land being allocated. But I can assure this House that the policy of the Government is to allocate a minimum of 100 acres to a house so that it can be economical for the person purchasing that land to repay loans allocated to him, and so that it can be economic for such a person to pay for the house by means of exploiting the land around the house.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 376: UNALLOCATED LAND AND HOUSES ON SETTLEMENT SCHEMES

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, in view of the very unsatisfactory reply of the Minister, I beg to raise this on adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Nyaberi has the first right to raise it on adjournment. But if you do not mind Mr. Makone raising it?

Mr. Nyaberi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wanted to raise this matter, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, well, it is your right to do so. Give me written notice, Mr. Nyaberi.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 386 (a)

WATER SUPPLIES AT AWASI

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he would consider reconstructing the spring at Awasi at the same spot where the Mowlem Construction Company had had a water spring in 1960, but because of lack of funds, the public had not been able to buy their equipment and that water supply had had to be abandoned.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not the Government's policy to carry out works on minor water supply projects in any district. This is the responsibility of the county councils; in this case the Kisumu County Council.

My Ministry is, however, ready to help the county council by providing technical advice and by supervising the construction work, and if necessary, by providing financial aid, subject to the availability of funds.

I would like to inform the hon. Member that the right channel for requesting my Ministry's help is through the Kisumu County Council; the Nyanza Provincial Water Committee, who will, in turn, contact the Water Development Department. The latter will be ready to carry out a survey and produce an estimate of cost, which would then be discussed by the interested parties including the people of Awasi, who should be prepared to assist.

Question No. 381

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE FOR SOUTH NYANZA

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Home Affairs if he could tell the House why a post for an assistant superintendent of police

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You had better be very careful, Mr. Khalif. I should advise you to sit down; I advise you to sit down.

Next question.

Question No. 377

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES' LAND-ROVERS

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power whether, in view of the traffic laws, he would tell the House the business and the number of persons to be carried in the farmers' co-operative societies' Land-Rovers in Kisii District.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwenyumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There is no restriction to the type of business or the number of persons that may be carried by the farmers' co-operative societies' Land-Rovers in Kisii District, provided they fulfil the requirements of the Traffic Act and Transport Licensing Act.

But for each particular vehicle, the number of persons it may carry and the type of business for which it is registered are shown on the registration book of each vehicle. This is arrived at after the vehicle has been inspected and will vary according to the type of the body fitted.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the farmers' co-operative societies in Kisii buy these Land-Rovers with the understanding that they will be carrying committee men to go and bring money for farmers, and in view of the fact that in one month one might find that three to four cases have been filed against these Land-Rovers, will the Minister then state what are the conditions put to those societies before they purchase the Land-Rovers?

Mr. Mwenyumba: Mr. Speaker, I have already said that the number of persons to be carried by each Land-Rover is shown in the registration book and if the Kisii Co-operative Society farmers deliberately break the law, they have to be prosecuted; I am sorry. If they want the vehicles inspected, they can be sent to the inspection centres in Kisumu.

Question No. 376

UNALLOCATED LAND AND HOUSES ON SETTLEMENT SCHEMES

Mr. Nyaberi asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House the defined future purposes of the land and houses at present still unallocated to the people on the settlement schemes.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Department of Settlement allocates as much land as possible in settlement schemes to individual settlers. A minimum amount of land and, as few houses as possible are retained for use by Government officers for staff housing and offices and for sale to co-operative societies for use by those societies for offices, dairies, stores, dipping, pyrethrum drying, etc.

As and when the Department of Settlement finally withdraws from a scheme, then all surplus houses and land will be offered for sale to applicants.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, will he tell this House in what manner the Government will meet the loan repayment for such houses and the land adjacent to those houses?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government will get loan repayments in the normal way, once such houses are allocated and sold to individuals.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he tell this House what his Ministry is going to do for the squatters who are given a chance to go and live on these 100-acre plots, when the houses have not been allotted to the people?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am afraid I can not hear that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I am afraid you will have to speak up; the amplification is not very good from that corner.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is this. Will the Assistant Minister tell the House what his Ministry is going to do about the 100-acre plots allotted to the applicants who are going to take over when these 100-acre plots are given to illegal squatters?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of a case where 100-acre plots are being allocated to illegal squatters by my Ministry.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question before the Minister is: What is the Minister doing with the houses, for example, in the Soik Settlement Scheme which are vacant and which have no 100 acres round them? Is the cost of these vacant houses included in the loan repayment from the farmers?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not understand this question because houses which are vacant are automatically not allocated, and I cannot understand what the hon. Member meant.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the question is: how is the Government going to get its money back on these buildings? It is confused with loans.

Mr. Gachago: Well, Sir, it is a pity that the hon. Member has to expect the Speaker to ask the question for him.

The Government will start getting its repayment as soon as these houses are allocated, otherwise I cannot understand how the hon. Member expects the Government to start recovering this money for the sale of these houses, if the houses have not been sold.

Mr. Makone: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the primary purpose of the question was to seek information from the Minister, are you, Mr. Speaker, satisfied that my question has been answered?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Mr. Makone, I do not have to be satisfied that your question has been answered.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the Assistant Minister's replies, could he tell us what he could do about such a situation where there is a house and all the land surrounding that house is sold. People may not wish to buy such a house when there is no land nearby. What arrangements is the Ministry going to make to enable this house to have land so that somebody would wish to buy it?

Mr. Gachago: Well, Sir, although I think that question is slightly out of the way, at the moment, my Ministry is considering ways and means of allocating some land to those houses which were left during the 'crash' programme of settlement schemes. The Ministry would like to allocate enough land to them so that they could be sold. It may be by means of finding alternative land and settlement opportunity for those who are settled around such houses, or by some other method. But at the moment, Sir, we are considering ways and means of solving that problem which is a serious one.

Mr. Nyaberi: Mr. Speaker, arising from the unsatisfactory answer by the Assistant Minister, will he tell this House whether the acreages to be given to these houses will be uniform or just as the Ministry may wish?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, allocation of land cannot be uniform, because it depends on the type of land being allocated. But I can assure this House that the policy of the Government is to allocate a minimum of 100 acres to a house so that it can be economical for the person purchasing that land to repay loans allocated to him, and so that it can be economic for such a person to pay for the house by means of exploiting the land around the house.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 376: UNALLOCATED LAND AND HOUSES ON SETTLEMENT SCHEMES

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, in view of the very unsatisfactory reply of the Minister, I beg to raise this on adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Nyaberi has the first right to raise it on adjournment. But if you do not mind Mr. Makone raising it?

Mr. Nyaberi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wanted to raise this matter, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, well, it is your right to do so. Give me written notice, Mr. Nyaberi.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 386 (a)

WATER SUPPLIES AT AWASI

Mr. Bala asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he would consider reconstructing the spring at Awasi at the same spot where the Mowlem Construction Company had had a water spring in 1960, but because of lack of funds, the public had not been able to buy their equipment and that water supply had had to be abandoned.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not the Government's policy to carry out works on minor water supply projects in any district. This is the responsibility of the county councils; in this case the Kisumu County Council, and not ready to reconstruct.

My Ministry is, however, ready to help the county council by providing technical advice and by supervising the construction work, and if necessary, by providing financial aid, subject to the availability of funds.

I would like to inform the hon. Member that the right channel for requesting my Ministry's help is through the Kisumu County Council, the Nyanza Provincial Water Committee, who will, in turn, contact the Water Development Department. The latter will be ready to carry out a survey and produce an estimate of cost which would then be discussed by the interested parties including the people of Awasi, who should be prepared to assist.

Question No. 361

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE FOR SOUTH NYANZA

Mr. Ngũgĩ-Abok asked the Minister for Home Affairs if he could tell the House why a post for an assistant superintendent of police

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government fully realizes the importance of the handicraft industry in Kenya and has, at the moment, obtained the services of a United Nations expert to study the whole question of handicraft industry in the whole country. He will then make a report to the Government which will be studied in order to see how the industry can be helped to expand through Government assistance. Until this study has been completed and considered by the Government, it is not possible to make a commitment about establishing a wood-carving school in the Machakos District. If the Government does decide to set up a wood-carving school, the request by the Member for Machakos will be kept in mind.

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister try to tell the House what the questioner seeks and what the question is seeking, in other words, Sir, what are the plans which the Government has for the improvement of wood carving in order to perfect the wood-carving industry in the Machakos District?

Mr. Oloitiptip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I have said this enough times. The question says, "Would the Minister consider establishing a wood-carving school at Wamunyu." That is what the question says, and I have replied that the Government is carrying out a study now and, as soon as this report is out, we are going to consider where to put these schools. They will not only be in Machakos but in other places as well. We will put them wherever possible.

Question No. 303

ROAD CONSTRUCTION BY PRIVATE CONTRACTORS

Mr. Bahala asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power whether the Government favoured the construction of roads being undertaken by private contractors.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government favours carrying out a large part of road construction with its own forces in the Ministry of Works, Communications and Power, the National Youth Service, and a few other Government Departments like Forest Department. It also favours utilizing the resources of competent local authorities, the Kenya National Parks, and similar bodies, to the limit of their capacity.

Fortunately, it is anticipated that road construction work in the next few years will be more than sufficient to utilize our existing resources to the full, and it is intended to let the surplus of work out to tender, on the basis of open competitive tendering. This is the most satisfactory course, both because it would be dangerous to try to extend our present efforts without sufficient qualified engineers and trained technicians, and also because various of the international financing agencies who provide road construction funds either wish to see the competitiveness of road construction costs tested in the open market or make it a condition of their loans that work shall be carried out by internationally tendered contracts.

Mr. Bahala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister tell this House how much does a mile of road construction cost the Government and how much does it cost to engage a private contractor?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I cannot give that information because it depends on the type of road, and so on. I mean, the cost is different in different types of soil, and so forth. I cannot give that information right now.

Mr. Bahala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell this House whether road construction by Government is much cheaper or much dearer than by a private contractor?

Mr. Mwanjumba: In some cases, Mr. Speaker, it has been cheaper to construct a road by Government construction units, while, in other cases, it has also been cheaper to construct roads by private contractor.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister has just said that the Government is in favour of Government construction units working on these roads. Would the Minister tell us, from 1964 to 1965, how many miles of road have been constructed by the Government and how many miles of road constructed by private contractors?

Mr. Mwanjumba: I do not think I could give that information right now because I have to refer to the files and so on. However, quickly speaking, we have a number of roads being constructed by Government construction units, such as the Mombasa/Nairobi Road and the Kisumu/Kisiani Road, as well as a number of other roads which were constructed by local authorities here and there.

If the hon. Member wants the exact mileage constructed by the Government I could give him this information later on.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the previous reply by the Minister, could he tell this House, as he has said that constructing a road by Government is sometimes cheaper while at other

[Mr. Somo]: ...times it is cheaper to do this by private construction companies, in which way it is cheaper for the Government and in which way it is cheaper for the private contractor?

Mr. Mwanjumba: I do not know what the hon. Member means by, "in which way". I have said that in some cases it is cheaper to construct a road with Government construction units and sometimes it is cheaper to do so with private contractors. I cannot draw a line and say that it is always cheaper to have this work done by Government.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The question was, I think, Mr. Mwanjumba, what factors make the one thing cheaper in the one case and the other cheaper in the other.

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, perhaps you have been very kind to help the hon. Member to clarify his question.

There are many factors to be considered in constructing a road, the nature of the area through which it will pass, whether it is hilly, whether it is rocky, and so forth. We have to have consultants, sometimes engineers to do this kind of work. Also, we must know what type of machinery has to be used on that kind of road. Sometimes, the Government does not have all the machinery that they want, or enough engineers or technicians that are required to supervise the road construction. That is why, sometimes, it is cheaper to do the work with private contractors.

Mr. Kall: Since the Minister has promised to come with mileage and inform the House, would he also come along with the costs.

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, I cannot come with the amount of money into this Chamber, but if the hon. Member wants the figures, I can give them to him. I do not have sufficient pockets in which to put the money to bring it here, but I will certainly give him the figures.

Question No. 356

MOTOR VEHICLES' ENTRY INTO KENYA FROM NEIGHBOURING COUNTRIES

Mr. urap Too asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power if he would tell the House whether or not his Ministry had any plans for imposing restrictions on all vehicles entering the Republic of Kenya from neighbouring countries and, if so, what these plans were.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumba): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Ministry has not made any plans to impose restrictions on vehicles which enter the Republic of Kenya from neighbouring countries.

Mr. urap Too: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that the cars from this country, the Republic of Kenya, which go to Uganda cannot stay there for more than three months before the car plates have to be changed? If he is aware, then, cannot he do likewise here?

Mr. Mwanjumba: I am aware, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that what the hon. Member says is true, that when a vehicle goes to Uganda it is required to have a special road licence, in order to enable it to move around in Uganda. However, we are not very keen on introducing similar legislation here in Kenya, because we want to encourage the tourist industry as much as possible. Therefore, we allow vehicles from Uganda and Tanzania to enter into the Republic, provided they have valid licences from those countries.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the replies by the Minister, can he not agree with me that vehicles such as lorries from Moshi and Arusha and Kampala coming freely into the country with goods that are already available here, are a serious interference with the internal trade, and does he not deem it necessary to stop the situation?

Mr. Mwanjumba: It is not true, Mr. Speaker, to say it is an interference in our workings in the country, because we have what we call the common market; that is between the three countries. Therefore, we feel that we should be able to allow free movement of vehicles between the countries of East Africa, in order to encourage that spirit of co-operation between the East African countries.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Uganda Government derives some money from lorries registered in Kenya, and in view of the fact that people who own cars or lorries in Kenya, when going to Uganda, have to suffer from this law, would the Minister kindly consider making this law also applicable to those people coming from Tanzania and the people coming from Uganda, in view of the fact that our tourists do not come from these areas?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to assure the hon. Member that the matter is already being considered by the Committee of Nine.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not trying in any way to criticize the Chair, but as a matter of fact I have stood many times

[Mr. Otaweri] me that his Ministry is short of inspectors and therefore, it would be proper for the Minister to make a spot check where it is necessary to know how the field staff are doing their jobs?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, it is not only the Ministry of Education which is short of staff, the whole nation is short of manpower and, as I said earlier, the Ministry of Education have, at the present moment, a sufficient number of inspectors in the team who give us the reports which we require from the countryside.

Mr. Godin: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Assistant Minister's reply, will he tell the House how many provincial inspectors have been employed in the Ministry to see that education policies are being properly carried out.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we are getting away from the question of the Minister's visits.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister for Education aware that this House and the country would wish the Minister for Education to have sufficient staff in the field for fair distribution of schools? At present, it is necessary for the Minister himself to be on the spot in every district, to know the problems as much as possible.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, as a matter of fact I quite agree with the views of the hon. Member and this does not mean that the Minister for Education does not acquaint himself with the distribution of schools in every district. In fact, we have reports and we know the number of secondary schools in every district which, normally before a school is established, must be sent to the Ministry for approval. Therefore, the visit of the Minister for Education in order to ascertain or acquaint himself with the distribution of schools in the country is not quite necessary.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, whilst I agree particularly that the Minister for Education cannot visit every district, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that the lack of visits by the Minister or the Assistant Minister for Education to the North-Eastern Province does indicate that the Minister is not very capable in his Ministerial post because the North-Eastern Province contains so many districts and the lack of Ministerial visits to that province.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! You are repeating yourself, Mr. Khalif. Sit down, please, and wait for the answer.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, I entirely disagree with the hon. Member although I could hardly follow what the main purpose of his question was.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the replies by the Assistant Minister, could we state which Government-maintained schools were visited by the Minister during 1965?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on 6th January, this year, the Minister for Education made a visit.

Several hon. Members: 1965!

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Mr. Mutiso, you want to keep your answers relevant to the question.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, I think I could refer to that later on because I—

Mr. Ngala-Aboi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order that this question comes up for answer in this House and that the Minister should be excused from answering it, according to how it is asked, because, Sir, the question is asking for the names of the schools which were visited in 1964, which might have been perhaps four in Nyanza or four in the Central Province? Is it in order for the Minister to get away with it by being so vague?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes.

Mr. Mate: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are a bit baffled when we talk about the Ministry of Education, to know whether it is the Minister, the chief education officer or the provincial education officer who should visit us, we would like to know who is who.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Mr. Mate, you must be aware by now that that is a completely false point of order. The House is tired of these now, and you are ordered out of the precincts of the Assembly for the rest of today.

(Mr. Mate withdrew from the Chamber)

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to seek your guidance. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I asked a question a little while ago, the reply to which I did not hear. Would it be in order for me, Sir, to ask for the repetition of the reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, if you could not hear it, only you want to be fairly quick in saying that you did not hear it, you know. Can you remember the question, Mr. Mutiso?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Member did ask which schools were visited last year by the Minister for Education and I was saying that on 11th March 1965.

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, obviously the Assistant Minister has forgotten what I asked. I repeat my question?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you had better, yes.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the replies by the Assistant Minister, could the Assistant Minister give the House the number of Government-maintained schools visited by his Minister in 1965, whether they are primary schools or secondary schools, but Government-maintained.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I would require notice to differentiate the number of the maintained schools which the Minister visited, but—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! I cannot accept that, Mr. Mutiso, because that was actually the substance of the original question. What you did say in your first answer was that you did not think it necessary to give this information, and that is apparently your position; but it is no good saying you need notice of a question that is already there.

Do you want to say any more, Mr. Mutiso?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I could answer that. On 11th March 1965, the Minister for Education paid a visit to the Primary School, Nairobi. On the 15th March, the same year, the Minister paid another visit to the adult literacy students of the Kakamega Division, and on 16th March, the same year, the Minister—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Minister is now giving the information the House has been clamouring for; please listen to it.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister for Education paid a visit to the girls' school at Kajjado and also the boys' secondary school. On the 4th April, the Minister addressed at the weekend the College of Social Studies at Kikuyu in Kiambu. On the 5th April, Mr. Speaker, the Minister paid a visit again to the Primary School, Nairobi, and on the 10th April, the same year, the Minister made a speech to the Trust Secondary School at Kisumu. On the 12th April, the Minister paid a visit to the children's school, Survey Road in Killeshwa. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have a number of other visits which the Minister made, and if it is the wish of the Members I will give it to them.

Question No. 353

KAMBA WOOD CARVERS AND TRADE IN GREAT BRITAIN

Mr. Ndle asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development if he would tell the House the number of wood carving traders from Kenya who were at present in Great Britain. Had the Ministry made any loans to help the wood-carving traders who were doing business in the United Kingdom.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloithipit): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. To my knowledge there are two Kenya Africans trading in wood carvings in Great Britain. These are Mr. Mwambeti Mutisiya and Mr. Masau Ndle. The latter person combines his wood-carving business with his other employment as a teacher. The Ministry of Commerce has not granted either of these two persons loans to help promote their businesses which, although they may be of benefit to Kenya, are situated in the United Kingdom. My Ministry has assisted two Kamba exporters in Nairobi with loans—namely, Mr. G. Nthenge and Mr. J. N. Mutweia.

Mr. Otaweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that most of the Government loans come from Great Britain and should not be used there, would the Assistant Minister see to it that the local traders get these loans and they are not to be sent overseas, but to be spent over here so that the export trade is expanded?

Mr. Oloithipit: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have not said, in my reply, that we have given loans to any wood carvers in Great Britain. I said that we gave loans to two Kamba people who are locally manufacturing the carvings here.

Mr. Kali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that due to the lack of funds or capital, most of these wood carvings are being made the best use of by non-Africans, because the Africans have no funds?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think that is another question altogether. We are talking about wood carvers in Great Britain.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry assure us that the loans to wood carvers will only go to those in Kenya, but not to those in Britain?

Mr. Oloithipit: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already said that and for the benefit of the hon. Member, provided that the local wood carvers would apply to our Ministry for such loans we are going to help them and assist them.

Question No. 354

ESTABLISHMENT OF A WOOD-CARVING SCHOOL, MACHAKOS

Mr. Ndle asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development whether he would consider establishing a school of wood carving at Wamnyu in Machakos District, to train people in the wood carving trade and to help the industry, in view of the great interest shown by the Machakos people in this type of business.

Wednesday, 2nd March 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

PAPER LAID

The following Paper was laid on the Table—
Registrar-General, Annual Report, 1965.

(By the Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru) on behalf of the Attorney-General
(Mr. Njonjo))

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

AID FOR HARAMBEE SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT this House urges the Government to aid by the 1966-67 financial year all Harambee secondary schools where parents have completed construction of modern classrooms and teachers' houses.

SUB-DIVISION OF MERU DISTRICT

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the size and administrative problems of Meru District which is so large, this House urges the Government to subdivide Meru into North Meru, Central Meru and South Meru Districts with respective district headquarters at Maua, Mitindwa and Egoli; and to introduce such legislation for amendment of the Constitution as may be necessary for that purpose.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 385

VEHICLE MILEAGE CLAIMS BY PUBLIC SERVANTS

Mr. Bala asked the Vice-President if he could tell the House—

- when the Government fixed the last rate of payment to the public servants on motor vehicle mileage claims; and
- if the Government would increase the rate in line with the general increase of price of fuel and oil.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyanweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The current rates of mileage allowance were brought into effect on the 1st April 1962. The rates were fixed after a detailed investigation into the costs of maintaining a motor vehicle, such as depreciation, interest, licence fees, insurance, petrol, oil, spares.

The Statistical Division of the Treasury carried out a review of the operating cost per mile towards the end of 1964, and came to the conclusion that there was no justification for an increase in mileage rates.

It is appreciated that since mileage rates were last reviewed, motoring costs in respect of insurance, import duty and licence fees have risen, and this may require consideration for a proportionate increase in mileage rates. It must be borne in mind, however—so I am told, Mr. Speaker, I have no expert knowledge on this—that there has been a steady increase in efficiency of car engines which would tend to offset some of the increases in cost. I said that I do not claim expert knowledge on this.

In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, I should like to point out that the Government reviews mileage allowances when it is considered necessary. I do not know whether the hon. Member for Nyando had advance information about this, because a review is currently being done.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, while appreciating the review which is being done, public servants, especially Members of Parliament, who are public servants, find it difficult to maintain their cars because of the increase in petrol prices and also increase in taxes and insurance, so when does the Minister anticipate reviewing these allowances? Could he tell the House, when he is actually proposing to review the allowances?

Mr. Nyanweya: Mr. Speaker, if I were the hon. Member for Nyando—perhaps the hon. Members of this House would bear me out—I would not have pursued this particular question as regards the Members of the National Assembly, so far as mileage allowances are concerned.

An hon. Member: Why?

Mr. Nyanweya: The Members know why.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, that there has been a lot of improvement in car engines, and that, therefore, the expenses incurred by motorists have been offset by this as he put it, could he tell the House whether the number of mechanics and garages has increased or decreased to back up his assumption?

Mr. Nyanweya: Mr. Speaker, there has been a steady increase of motorists in Kenya which has necessitated the increase in the number of garages!

Mr. Jamal: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would he not agree with me that when the new rates were brought out in 1962, the rates were lower, in spite of the fact that the motoring costs have gone up?

Mr. Nyanweya: I do not wish to agree with the hon. Member for Kisumu Town, Sir.

Question No. 301

DECLARATION OF MOMBASA AS A FREE PORT

Mr. Balala asked the Minister for Local Government whether the Government would consider declaring Mombasa a free port.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question asked by the hon. Member raises a number of fundamental economic issues which require careful study. I think it is unlikely that the answer will be informative, but I have arranged for a more detailed examination of the issues to be made.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Minister says it will involve a lot of study, would he consider seeing to it that when the free port is created—if he comes to that conclusion at all—the interest of the African will be considered so that the number of businesses that may increase will benefit the Africans and not other people?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, all the issues involved will be considered.

Mr. Mbogohi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the questioner is also a Sheikh in that town, would the Minister consider making him a free man of that port?

Mr. Omari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the original reply by the Minister, that it would involve a lot of issues to be studied, how long does the Minister think he will take to get the report out?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, all I could say is that as soon as the report is out I will make it available to the House. I could not give you an exact date.

Question No. 346

PROTECTION OF KENYA'S AIR SPACE

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Defence what he had done to ascertain that unfriendly countries to Kenya did not make use of our air space.

The Minister for Defence (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, however much I would like to reply to this question I feel that it is not in the interests of the nation for me to give details, because an enemy of this nation—or a potential enemy—may come to know about it and, therefore, it is not in the interests of the country.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister quote any occasion where he suspected, or saw, or learnt of any unfriendly intrusion on our air space?

Dr. Mungai: No.

Question No. 360

SCHOOL VISITS BY MINISTER FOR EDUCATION

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House how many schools he had visited officially, on a district basis, in 1964 and 1965, and how many districts he intended to visit this year.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mutiso): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The primary function of the Minister for Education is to formulate progressive, realistic and relevant educational policies, and not to inspect schools. For the purpose of inspection, I have a complement of very able officers who keep me up to date on all professional and administrative matters. However, it is important that in order that I may formulate intelligible policies, I must have adequate amount of direct contact with schools and institutions in the country as a whole, and when pressure of work at headquarters and in Parliament gets sufficiently low for me to be able to pay these visits.

I do not consider it necessary for me to give a district breakdown of my school visits. I might mention here that there are over 3,200 schools in the country, and even if I were able to visit two schools per school day it would take thirteen years to cover them all! In any case, it is not necessary for me to do this. All that is necessary is for me to visit selected schools all over the country in order, as I have said earlier, to become directly aware of the situation. I wish to assure the hon. Member that I have been doing just this and will continue to do so in the future.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that, unlike other Ministers, and it is very revealing that the question also makes it clear to other Members, the Minister does not make official visits to provinces for the purpose of understanding his officers in the field and the problems as far as those provinces are concerned?

Mr. Mutiso: I do not wish to agree with the question put by the hon. Member, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Omwiri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister referred to the inspection team being efficient. Would the Assistant Minister agree with [Mr. Malori-Iumbo] areas will suffer. The members of this commission should be picked from different areas. If this is not done, we will have to face another trouble whereby certain schools will not be adequately staffed, while certain schools will be given more privileges.

For the reasons I have given, I would ask the Minister to look into this matter when appointing the members of the commission. They should be chosen from all parts of Kenya to be representative of all interests.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to congratulate the Minister who is a nationalist. He struggled with others to bring Kenya to independence. So, I hope that every Member here will agree with me that, given the opportunity, the Minister will carry out the educational programme in this country without discrimination. I say this because I know he is one of the few people in Kenya who struggled to bring about the independent schools.

Mr. Speaker, without taking up the time of the House, I want to congratulate the Minister and to say without reservation that all Members should thank the Minister for the announcement he made this afternoon.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, thank you very much. I wish to add my congratulations and thanks to the Minister for the step he has taken in appointing this commission which is going to be the sole employer of teachers.

I only have one comment I wish to make: that is, that the Ministry or Minister for Education should not wait a crisis stage has been reached for him to act, because if we go back a little bit we will find that it was as a result of the crisis of the teachers going on strike that prompted the Ministry to appoint a commission of inquiry. Because of this we have the present Teachers' Commission.

Again, it has taken the Minister all this time until a Member of this House has raised the matter as a Motion on an adjournment for him to come and announce the appointment and setting up of this commission.

Mr. Speaker, I think the Ministry of Education should be more resourceful and should act when some of these matters are brought to their notice in order to alleviate any such embarrassing situations and statements such as the ones we have had here before.

I finish by once again congratulating the Minister and hoping that the salary scales will be on a par with those of other civil servants within the Kenya Government service.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I will put the question that the House do now adjourn.

(Question put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is therefore adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 2nd March at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

WRITTEN REPLIES TO QUESTIONS

ANNUAL OUTPUT OF TRAINED TEACHERS FROM MERU

Mr. Mate asked the Minister for Education what the total output of trained teachers was per year from St. Lawrence, Egoji and Meru Teachers Training Colleges. What was the breakdown by tribes of the students at both colleges by February 1966.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): The teachers output of St. Lawrence, Egoji, and Meru Teacher-Training Colleges in 1965 and 1966 is as shown hereunder:

	Output in 1965-1966
	1966 (Actual)	1966 (Forecast)
St. Lawrence, Egoji	49	75
Meru	77	75
Total	126	150

The enrolment of students for teacher training is done on a district basis in the case of P.3 candidates and on a regional basis in the case of P.2 and P.1 students, and Kenya is divided into Eastern and Western Kenya for this purpose.

Enrolment of P.3 Students by Districts (Feb. 1966)

	Meru	Nyeri	Lakipia	Oi Kaljando	Isiolo/Marakwet
Meru T.T.C.	158	10	6	19
Egoji T.T.C.	140	15	5
TOTAL	298	25	6	24

Enrolment of P.3 Students by Districts (Feb. 1966)

	Garissa	Samburu	Mandera	Wajir	Embu
Meru T.T.C.	5	8	5	15
Egoji T.T.C.					45
TOTAL	5	8	5	15	45

As the recruitment of P.2 (Ex-Form IV) and P.1 candidates depends on the results of the Cambridge School Certificate, which have just been published for 1966, the recruitment of such candidates has not been finalized, but Egoji has already recruited thirty-three P.2 (Ex-Form II) students from different parts of eastern Kenya.

Question No. 311

COMMUNIST TEACHING IN RUSSIA

Mr. Rarumban asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House whether the teaching of the communist ideology was compulsory or optional for our students studying in Russia.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): I have no official records to show that our students are taught the communist ideology voluntarily or compulsorily anywhere in the communist countries.

[Mr. Godia]

not take on some of these senior education officers who are retiring and get them to help formulate the new policy for education so that the country would feel satisfied? Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Minister would go into this question and try to consider making a decision himself—even independently and without basing his decision on what a civil servant has said—this would help the country a great deal because I do not exactly trust what some of these civil servants say.

Now, the country has embarked on a number of schemes to try to advance secondary education, but the civil servants within the Ministry of Education laugh at the people. They say that they are doing nothing. Now, they do not want to come along with the people, they do not want to appreciate the efforts of the people, they do not want to realise that the people are working hard and so they need education.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! We must keep on the point of the one employer for the teachers.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I commented on the points, because I wanted to elaborate a bit, but the whole thing stands that the teachers want the Ministry of Education to be the one employer and I do hope, Sir, that the Minister will consider this matter and see fit to make a decision, if possible independently. The teachers, I am sure, would be satisfied and any strikes which are threatened from time to time would not be there. Therefore, we call upon the Minister really to consider this matter seriously to save the country, and to save everybody.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Kolnange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all I want to take this opportunity of thanking Members for their real, true and sincere interest, not only in education but also in the welfare of teachers and the stability of the country.

The second point is that I would like to thank them because I have been actually kept busy by them in their respective constituencies when they have been involved in Harambee and other schools.

Now, coming to the question of one employer, I must say, Mr. Speaker, that this question has been a very, very difficult one because the major part has been trying to get the security of the teachers, (a) from the salary point of view and of their welfare so that they could feel secure and teach our people with clear minds. Having done that, I have to approach various departments because since the early days the schools were in the hands of the missionaries and other independent bodies who have been conducting schools, too, and we are most grateful to those people. This has not been only one-way traffic. Mr. Speaker, it has been negotiations in both ways: what the teachers want and what the Government wants on behalf of our country. I am very happy to make this statement to which I hope everybody here will listen and take a very careful analysis of what is written here.

Following the agreement between the Government and the Kenya National Union of Teachers signed on the 14th October 1965, in which the Government accepted the principle of one employer for teachers, it has now been agreed between the union and the Government that a statutory body to be known as the Teachers Service Commission will be created to employ all teachers in the public teaching service of Kenya. The commission will also exercise all the functions of any employer such as appointment, promotion, termination of appointment, and negotiation on terms and conditions of service with the teachers' union.

The implementation of this agreement will be effected as from the date of the necessary legislation which has to be effected.

This was agreed this afternoon by Government and the Union, and signed by both.

That, without taking up any further time Mr. Speaker, is the answer.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to welcome the statement from the Minister for Education very strongly, and also to hope that the date for commencement of this agreement is not going to be very far off from today.

The point I would like to make, Sir, is that when it comes to appointing this commission, it should truly be an impartial commission that will take care of all the teachers of all grades and make sure that from now on we shall have a satisfied teaching service in this country.

With these remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that the quarrel of hon. Members with the Minister has now almost faded away. However, I would like to warn the Minister that we have noticed, as former teachers, that teachers of various colours have differing terms of service. We have heard that this Government has agreed that this commission will have all the teachers under them and will look after the welfare of the teachers. So, we hope that there will be no discrimination of any kind.

[Mr. Kase]

I would like to give one example here. Having gone for training for two years after school certificate, as an African, you find that a European who does not even have a school certificate gets double the salary of the African. Now, we hope that when this commission comes into being it will not delay until 1971 to put this thing into practice. It should begin tomorrow if possible.

We hope that when this commission comes into effect it will remove properly this discriminatory idea from the teaching service because once it starts this, Mr. Speaker, the African section will not be happy. Therefore, this is what will lead them to strike.

Since the Government has accepted "one employer" I would like to suggest one other thing, the question that teachers on one grade should not have different terms of service. Now, Mr. Speaker, this—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Kase, we must keep to the subject of the one employer, you know. Terms and conditions of service are a very much wider subject than raised by this Motion.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, since the Minister has taken a decision, we hope we shall not have to keep him busy again.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipli): Mr. Speaker, Sir, since I can see that most of the Members wish to speak on this announcement made by the Minister for Education I will not be long. I stand here on behalf of my constituents and on behalf of the people of Kenya to thank the Minister for the step he has taken. I also wish to thank the Government. Now, I feel that the heavy burden has been released from the teachers today. Therefore, I hope that all the teachers in the country will be happy that they will start to teach the children properly. We expect to have good results from the children and from the teachers.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Wardihl: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think we are all very happy with what the Minister has announced on behalf of the Government. Although this has taken a long time, now, however, at long last he has taken a decision which is welcome.

Now, he tied up the announcement with the passing of certain legislation. I would only ask him to use his position as a Minister to see that this Bill is brought to this House as soon as possible, because you may have the announcement by the Government yet the Bill may be delayed in the drafting stage before it comes to the House, and, hence, what we have heard today may not materialize for a long time.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I would ask the Minister, that the Teachers' Commission, being the sole employer, that the terms of service of the teachers should be made comparable to other civil servants. We have heard many cases of people resigning from the teaching service, and being employed by the same Government in other departments, simply because their terms of salaries were very low.

So, I think in this Bill it should be provided that the teachers' salaries be equal to those that could be earned in any other department.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have only one point to mention in thanking the Government for what we have heard today. For the last two weeks this particular Ministry has been working towards making an announcement which is going to be for the benefit of the country.

Mr. Speaker, you remember when I moved a Motion on the adjournment on adult literacy and adult education, the Ministry came out with a very straightforward answer. Now the country understands very well that it is a part of the Government's policy to offer Sh. 50 to people who want to teach after the normal working hours. This is very encouraging. We also welcome the announcement that there is going to be set up a body to carry out adult education throughout the nation.

So, I thank the Ministry very much and wish that every time Members question this particular Ministry, which is so important, the Ministry would take things seriously and make announcements that will help the country to move forward.

Mr. arap Ely: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to speak as an honorary member of the Kenya National Union of Teachers. At one time, Sir, I was secretary to the Kericho Branch of the Kenya National Union of Teachers. All the time the union was fighting with the Ministry to try to get one employer.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, at this juncture I wish wholeheartedly to thank the Ministry for the move it has taken and I hope that the new body which is to be created will do its work very effectively and successfully.

Mr. Minsori-Inumbo: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of my people of Kuria I want to thank the Minister for Education but I would also like to give a warning here. When appointing this commission it must be seen to it that this commission is representative of everybody. We fear the domination of some areas over others. In this way, some would it be in order for you to extend for five minutes, so that the Minister can reply to the question?

[Mr. Malinda]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I will allow a little longer, if we have no further interruptions by points of order.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): This arrangement will actually be beneficial to the girls' education in the area, of combining both the boarding and day students. This arrangement is combining that and, from the financial point of view, we have done what we set out to do. The same type of situation exists, Mr. Speaker, Sir, not only in Tumutumu and Malango, but also in Kabale, Asombi and Lugulu, and when we have that we are not actually making the girls, in this particular place, suffer in any way. At the same time, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the girls' day streams are being introduced at three mixed day schools, which means in the same way as in Ofafa in this area in the town, Makuyu Day School and Esamuli, the same day schools have actually been applied elsewhere.

According to the Ministry's record, Machakos Girls' School now have about seven classes—three Form I, two Form II, one Form III and one Form IV—within the enrolment of 230 pupils, of whom thirty-five are Form I day pupils. It has been arranged that some of the girls do sleep outside, and, as I have just said, Mr. Speaker, Sir, those are the day-school pupils who do not want to lose the opportunity of going to school; when the opportunity for going to classes is available, they prefer to remain there. If, however, Mr. Speaker, there are some who are actually sleeping on the floor, it means that the beds which should have been brought have not been purchased at this moment, but the money for purchasing the beds for those girls will come from the money of the board of governors and will not involve, actually, the Ministry of Education.

Now, the project referred to of the Agency for International Development has been favoured, the school is taken as one of the group that is accepted for the assistance of the Agency for International Development. But until that help comes through, at this particular moment, similar difficulties will be experienced not just for this particular school but many schools—girls and boys alike—until this money comes through. But it is not a question of pressure directly put on the Machakos Girls' School at all.

While the tuition and boarding accommodation of the Machakos Girls' School is marginally adapted for the present seven classes, it is clearly insufficient for the eventual twelve classes that will be covered for 220 boarders. The Ministry of Education at this particular moment is working faithfully, realistically and in a practical way to see that not only this particular school—but also other girls' schools—are assisted, but we are not as according to the Motion, doing this deliberately to Machakos Girls' School at all.

OTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ONE EMPLOYER FOR TEACHERS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! It is now time for the interruption of business; there is a matter to be raised on the adjournment. I will call on a Minister to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odoro-Jowi) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to raise this matter as a Motion on adjournment, as a result of an unsatisfactory reply to Question No. 217, which was raised by my colleague, the hon. Mr. Godia, the Member for Hamisi.

The question was a straightforward one and was put to the Minister for Education: who is the one employer of teachers? When we received the reply from the Assistant Minister, he simply said that the matter is under acute consideration and—

An hon. Member: Acute?

Mr. Masinde: That was what the Minister said. He went further to say that there is a commission which has been appointed to look into the issue, but, Mr. Speaker, as we all know—and it is in the records of the Ministry—the commission was appointed to look into the terms and conditions of service after the one employer was known, but we understand, because the commission has not been told who is that one employer, that commission is at a standstill, it is not doing anything at all.

Mr. Speaker, here we have to tell our people when we are able to do something. There was a big strike throughout the country by teachers, demanding one employer and what happened? The Ministry went out and they told the teachers, "Go back; we have agreed that you are going to get one employer." After that the Ministry decided to keep quiet. It is a number of months since we had that strike, and nothing has been done. Because of that, Mr. Speaker, we know that it is possibly in a matter of one month that we are [Mr. Masinde] Now, Mr. Speaker, regarding this question we wanted to know the one employer for the teachers. As has been indicated by the former speakers, the teachers went on strike because they were in need of one employer. Now, that question could not be determined immediately; it was a complicated proposal to the Ministry of Education and, therefore, Sir, it is because of the determination and timing of the decision that the commission was appointed to make a recommendation as to who this employer would be. But, Mr. Speaker, the question is quite clear, the need is that the Ministry of Education should become the one employer; that is what the country needs and that is what the country is waiting to hear from the Minister. Already, Sir, a number of teachers are now under the Ministry of Education. A few other teachers are under the missions or voluntary agencies. So, the need for the teachers is that if the Ministry of Education has employed a few teachers, it should take on the rest, without leaving them to someone else. The teachers want to enjoy the same privileges as civil servants enjoy. Teachers also want to be entitled to loans, just like any other civil servant. They want to be entitled to leave and travel privileges, just like other civil servants. Because of this, Sir, you find a number of teachers leaving the teaching profession, dissatisfied. Someone with whom they were at school who joined the Civil Service feels much happier than the teacher, and therefore the teacher decides to quit teaching in order to join the Civil Service in order that he may enjoy what the other civil servants enjoy.

Sir, it is on this principle that we have, from time to time, said in this House that education is a national problem. To go further, it should come that teachers are employed directly under the Ministry of Education, just as in other departments. You get the Ministry of Agriculture which employ all their employees; even the untrained ones are employed directly by the Ministry of Agriculture. What is wrong with the Ministry of Education? Because without teachers I do not think that we can have education in this country. It is because of education that all of us are here, and three-quarters of the Members of this House were at one time teachers. I am not claiming to be, but I am a representative of everybody in this country.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I thought it necessary for the Minister to come with a clear answer to this question and to tell us who is the teachers' employer. Is he going to get the commission to be the employer? Or is he going to open another department within his Ministry for the teachers? Or is he going to get a syndicate of missionaries to become the one employer for the teachers? Or who is it going to be? I ask this, because some of the county councils, from time to time, have been faced with the problem of failing to pay school teachers, which is not the responsibility of the county councils at all, if we want to treat education in this country as of national importance.

Sir, it is on this principle that I think the Minister today will be able to tell us who is the one employer. If he does not tell us who this employer is, then he will be faced with the problem of going to the teachers and telling them that they either go back to school or we close down the schools and forget about education in this country, because this is what they want. The question of terms and conditions of service is secondary.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with this, I beg to move.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of education is a very important one. It affects the whole country and without education this country would not be where it is now.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the teacher is the foundation upon whom we build the nation; without the teacher, we cannot talk about nation-building. We must begin with the teacher. That is why, Mr. Speaker, when a question comes up about education, most of the Members in this House take a very keen interest.

Now, Mr. Speaker, regarding this question we wanted to know the one employer for the teachers. As has been indicated by the former speakers, the teachers went on strike because they were in need of one employer. Now, that question could not be determined immediately; it was a complicated proposal to the Ministry of Education and, therefore, Sir, it is because of the determination and timing of the decision that the commission was appointed to make a recommendation as to who this employer would be. But, Mr. Speaker, the question is quite clear, the need is that the Ministry of Education should become the one employer; that is what the country needs and that is what the country is waiting to hear from the Minister. Already, Sir, a number of teachers are now under the Ministry of Education. A few other teachers are under the missions or voluntary agencies. So, the need for the teachers is that if the Ministry of Education has employed a few teachers, it should take on the rest, without leaving them to someone else. The teachers want to enjoy the same privileges as civil servants enjoy. Teachers also want to be entitled to loans, just like any other civil servant. They want to be entitled to leave and travel privileges, just like other civil servants. Because of this, Sir, you find a number of teachers leaving the teaching profession, dissatisfied. Someone with whom they were at school who joined the Civil Service feels much happier than the teacher, and therefore the teacher decides to quit teaching in order to join the Civil Service in order that he may enjoy what the other civil servants enjoy.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we call upon the Minister for Education to make a decision. It is true that we have a number of civil servants within the Ministry of Education who were serving the last Colonial Government, and some of these people are perhaps delaying the decision and they make us blame our kind Minister for Education for nothing. We call upon the Minister himself to find out anyone who has been using delaying tactics in his Ministry, so that the particular civil servant is sent away. If this is done, the country will be very happy. The quarrel between the Ministry of Education and the teachers would not be there and I do not see the reason why the Ministry of Education is taking such a long time to make a decision because they know the answer, and the answer must come. But, those civil servants with delaying tactics who are trying to hold back education to what it was many years ago must be given their leave. We have within this country, a number of senior education officers who are Africans; some of them have, I think, been on expatriate terms and they are being compelled to retire. But they are still eager and they are still ready to help the country. Why

Mr. Klamba: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I do not think any hon. Member is going to question him because he is a national member. He is entitled to talk about anything he knows because he is a member of the governing board.

One thing I would like to mention here is that we have no boarders at all, but that does not mean that we do not want children from Meru to take their schooling in Machakos. The problem here is that the children want to attend these schools, but they do not live nearby and have to travel long distances, that is the main question. It is not that the Machakos people do not like the children to come to school from Meru. We would not like to say that other people cannot go to Machakos and yet it is very difficult for the children. The parents come to me and say that these schools belong to them that they built these schools with the help of the Government, but that other people coming from—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! We are only discussing one point in this discussion, the fact that thirty-five or more girls did not have accommodation to sleep in this school. That is the only matter now being discussed.

Mr. Klamba: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker. These children did not have accommodation and we have now heard that they have had to face these difficulties and the Mover did not mention that some of these children are made to travel to and from their schools and home again, because of this lack of accommodation. Sometimes they do not even have a meal there, their lunch, in the school and they have to travel to a nearby town to obtain a meal. You know what towns are like. When these beautiful young girls go to the town—

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, can the Member substantiate that these beautiful girls—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Do not have what? I did not hear your point of order, Mr. Gichoya.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member did say that these beautiful girls are not getting any food. I have my sister there, she is one of them, and he says that they are not getting any food, can he substantiate that?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. This is not a type of allegation. Mr. Gichoya, let the Member continue, that is not a point of order.

Mr. Klamba: Mr. Deputy Speaker, the parents have come to me and have said that they were willing to pay more money to the school authorities, provided their children could be given food there. That shows that the children are not getting any lunches there and therefore they have to go to a nearby town with their money and buy food and then go back to their school. This has already been reported to me by the parents and nobody can deny that.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think it is only right when we come to discuss these things, that they should be taken seriously. All that we want is for the Minister to look into this and see that these children are not made to suffer hardships. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

(Question proposed)

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to make a very few points about the subject. Number one, I would like to say that since the Mover has stated that he was a member of the board of governors of that school, the very first thing that he should have done as a member of the board of governors, was to come to the Ministry, because it is the Ministry that appoints those board of governors, and lay these points before the Ministry for discussion.

The second point is this—

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) took the Chair]

Mr. Malinda: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister has said that one of the things that I should have done as a member of the board of governors was to go to his Ministry and iron out these difficulties. Can he substantiate that I have not done that and that I have not even gone to his own office?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! As I have said on other occasions, it is hardly possible to substantiate a negative; but because of that, and because of possible ignorance, I do allow hon. Members to correct someone whom they think is wrong on a negative fact. So I will allow you, Mr. Malinda, just for a moment to say what you mean. Just a moment, Mr. Koinange, will you allow Mr. Malinda to correct you if he can.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, when it became apparent that we were not getting the service that we ought to get from the Ministry of Education, I, accompanied by the Chairman of the Board of Governors, went to the Ministry's head office and saw a Mr. Owino—I believe he is a senior officer in the Ministry's office—he did not satisfy us. As a result, the board of governors resigned, I did not resign because I knew that there were other—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think we are concerned with that, Mr. Malinda, only whether you went to the Ministry or not.

Mr. Malinda: Yes, I went to the Ministry and saw this Mr. Owino. Twice, Mr. Speaker, within this last month I have gone to the Minister's office. The first time he was not there so I left a message, the second time I left a written message, and on top of that, the other day when we had a Parliamentary Group meeting in Harambee House, I saw the Minister privately and talked to him. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it is not correct for the Minister to say that I have not taken any steps to see him.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, what he should have wanted to hear are the following facts, which I am now putting. If he came to consult the Ministry, but saw nobody as he says, he would have seen the facts that I am about to tell him about.

Instead of bringing this to the Parliament, relating to one particular school, things are done in that particular schools which are done in other girls' schools, as I will relate here.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in 1964, Machakos Girls' School had a complete Form I to IV boarding streams of four classes. In 1965 a second boarding stream was added, which, this year, has actually progressed to Form II. In 1966, the third stream has been added, but this is a day stream, the words "day stream" are very, very important. It is a day stream, but not boarding. The school will now develop into a three-stream school with twelve classes and an enrolment of up to 420 pupils, of whom 280 will be boarders and 140 will be day pupils when all these three streams have gone forward to Form IV in 1969. Although from administrative convenience the three streams are referred to as boarding schools and one day stream, this does not mean that the day pupils are enrolled in separate classes at all. They are all enrolled together with other boarders. It implies that from 1966 two-thirds of the 105 pupils admitted each year will be boarders and one-third will be day children. Now this arrangement—

Mr. Bala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious allegation, that the Member implied that I was drunk.

An hon. Member: Send him out.

Mr. Bala: The Minister has mentioned some very vital questions, and I would like to clear this point of order, Mr. Speaker. That is the Member for Nandi South alleged that the Minister is incapable and this is a very serious allegation which he must substantiate. How our Minister for Education is incapable. We have got to hear this. Should he not substantiate?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I am afraid remarks of this kind are sometimes made in or outside the House about other Members of the House. Unless it was made openly enough for the House to hear it, we do not require substantiation, we just ignore it. Will you carry on, Mr. Koinange.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order; since everybody in this row heard him—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! All right. What everybody in that row heard is not enough to interrupt business on, and I would suggest that if you dislike what you are hearing from the hon. Member, you go and sit elsewhere.

Mr. arap Choge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. We are going on with business now, Mr. Choge. It is nothing to do with that.

Mr. arap Choge: It is nothing to do with the Minister at all.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Anything to do with what Mr. Bala has been raising?

Mr. arap Choge: No, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right, what is your point?

Mr. arap Choge: Is it not your duty, Sir, as the Speaker of the House, to send out someone who is drunk and is becoming a nuisance in the House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes; not because he is drunk, but when he becomes a nuisance.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this arrangement assumes that from now on sufficient girls will be qualified through preliminary examination for Form I selection, who can attend Machakos Girls' High School as day pupils, consequently it should be borne in mind—

Mr. Bala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious allegation, that the Member implied that I was drunk.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. He asked a general question. I do not think you do yourself justice, Mr. Bala, by thinking that it applied to you.

Mr. Malinda: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir. In view of the fact that there have been interruptions amounting to about five minutes.

[Mr. Malinda]

Machakos, and made the necessary survey and took back the recommendations of the necessary accommodation, but the Ministry of Education ignored the school, not even in the normal run and, instead of giving the usual minimum grant that was necessary to run the school, the Ministry of Education cut down, in fact at one time they cut down over £300 which was necessary to run the school, and they delayed the issue of these funds until the reserve fund, which was held in a fixed deposit, was diminished, and the interest which had been accruing thereto was lost. Mr. Deputy Speaker, for the interest of the Attorney-General I would like him to know that I come from Machakos, and Machakos is my place and I know everything that goes on there. On top of that I belong to the board of governors of that school, and, therefore, I am speaking—

Mr. G. G. Karuki: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Member speaking, speaking to the Attorney-General or to the Members of this House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, I think he is speaking to the Members of the House, but I think he is directing his remarks towards what the Attorney-General said.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am speaking here as (a) a Member of this Parliament from Machakos who has the interest of the Machakos people at heart, and (b) I am speaking as a member of the old board of governors which existed. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, at the board of governors' meeting held on the 20th September last year, in the presence of two provincial education officers, it was expressed that as at that date, because no funds had been made available, and no construction had been started, it was going to be impossible for the school to take in let alone run three streams in Form I, two streams, and the only possible thing was to take in girls to replace the outgoing Form IVs, which was twenty-two girls. A resolution was passed, and the Ministry of Education was informed accordingly, and the provincial education officers took back the recommendations of the board of governors, but, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and this is where my suspicions arise, I think that somebody in the Ministry of Education is trying to play down Machakos High School because, Mr. Deputy Speaker, although that recommendation was sent, the Ministry of Education did not take any steps, and the headmistress who was there, who wanted to see that these things were finalized and were put on a proper footing before 1966, when she came to the head office here on several occasions to ask what steps had been taken, and to urge the Ministry to set aside funds if the school was expected to take in three streams, that woman, Mr. Deputy Speaker, was treated in a manner which was tantamount to sacking. She was arbitrarily transferred without the information of the governors, without even sending any information to the governors. I have seen the Minister several times on this question, because, as a result, the members of the board of governors resigned, and therefore, because there is no board of governors, and because of the new headmistress, the Ministry of Education has taken advantage of the situation to play down Machakos Girls' High School even further.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we come now to 1966, the difficulties of dormitory accommodation, the difficulties of classroom accommodation, the Ministry of Education, knowing all these difficulties of staff accommodation, and a sanitation block. Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Education went ahead and selected 105 girls to come to Machakos Girls' High School. This is very well. Mr. Deputy Speaker, only if there had been any suggestion from the head office as to where these girls were going to be put. One version of their argument is, Mr. Deputy Speaker, are we going to build more dormitories at the expense of classrooms? Mr. Deputy Speaker, this question does not arise, because we were assured that this year, in taking three streams the World Bank money was going to be available for these purposes, and it is only two more classrooms, two more dormitories, and extension of the dining hall, and two more sanitation blocks that are required.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, of the 105 girls who were selected this year, sixty, Mr. Deputy Speaker, are supposed to be boarders. There is no accommodation for more than twenty-two girls to replace the Form IVs who went away last year, these girls, Mr. Deputy Speaker, are made to sleep on the floor with scanty bedding in very dirty and unhygienic conditions. Then they are supposed in the morning to roll up their bedding for the use of that hall as an assembly hall, and the other section of that hall is very dark and there is no ventilation and it is warm, and the other girls are supposed to sit there and attend to class work there.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to speak for a long time because I want the Minister to tell us exactly what his plans are.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to go on to the thirty-five other girls, because as I said there were 105 girls who were selected, sixty are now there, but out of the third stream, the thirty-five, only twenty-two have been able to come to Machakos. These girls do not come from around [Mr. Malinda] the Machakos school, some of them have to come as much as 100 miles away, some of them come from Makueni, Mukaa, Mbitini, etc. and all those areas. Mr. Deputy Speaker, it does not matter whether they are Wakamba or not. The question here is if they are able to find accommodation in Machakos. The answer is that they are not able to find suitable accommodation, and, Mr. Deputy Speaker, by this they are exposed to what I would call, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the unquities of the grown-up world. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is a very serious state of affairs which the Ministry of Education should put right.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, out of these girls who are supposed to be sleeping outside, the day scholars, some of them are sharing accommodation with employees. I received information that out of those who are there, three are leaving the school at the end of this week. Why? Because the people with whom they share accommodation are going on transfer, therefore, they have no accommodation, and, therefore, they will have to go away. Mr. Deputy Speaker, what sort of arrangement is this? The Ministry of Education says that it was an understanding that the third stream were going to be day scholars, but, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wish to refute this most emphatically, and, in any case if they were, they ought to have been selected from around Machakos Town because I said we were told at a meeting of the board of governors, by the provincial education officers, categorically, that the third stream would be not a boarding stream. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Ministry of Education must take note that this has caused a lot of disquiet among the public around Machakos, and, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to correct the accusation here which has been levelled at the Machakos people that, this one, Mr. Deputy Speaker, comes from Meru, that the people of Machakos have discriminated against the girls from Meru. The truth of the matter, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is this, that the Ministry of Education has confused the whole thing. The Ministry of Education submitted a list which, I am given to understand, contained the names of fifty-nine girls from Meru. Mr. Deputy Speaker, before the invitations were sent out, another list was sent to the school which contained the names of the girls who are now in Machakos. Therefore, this cannot be blamed on Machakos or the Wakamba; it is the fault of the Ministry of Education.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to end off by calling upon the Ministry of Education to restore the confidence that Ministry has enjoyed of the people in that area, because, Sir, I understand that although this is happening in Machakos, Machakos is not an isolated case. This is happening in most other places in the country. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Government and the Ministry of Education must see to it that their confidence is restored by alleviating this situation. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to suggest to the Ministry of Education that an immediate remedial measure must be put in hand. If the Ministry of Education does not have enough funds to construct permanent buildings, I think it would even suffice the people at this stage, if the Ministry of Education could supply tents to be pitched in the compound of the school where the girls could go and live, or else buy prefabricated houses which could be used as classrooms or be used as dormitories.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think I have covered everything which I wanted the Ministry of Education to know. I would also like to say that we, in Machakos, are feeling that we have been played down, ignored and discriminated against by the actions of the Ministry of Education, by the Ministry not having restored the board of governors which is supposed to be the watchdog in the affairs of the school.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with those few remarks, I beg to move.

Mr. Kiamba: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support this Motion very strongly. This school at Machakos is not a new place to me, because I only live about three miles from the school, and fortunately I am a member of the area. I would like to thank the hon. Member who has moved this Motion.

Mr. Bala: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Mr. Malinda is Specially Elected and therefore is representing this House and not representing Machakos. Now, Sir, I seek your guidance.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): You can make your point of order, Mr. Bala, but so far it appears quite unfounded. But there is a point of order.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am seeking your guidance. With all due respect to the hon. Mr. Malinda, it is proper that a person, elected by all the elected Members in this House raise a matter concerning the place where he was born, and not any place in the country?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. Order! Order! I think these points of order have been raised before and they are extremely frivolous. Hon. Members are aware that whether a person is a Specially Elected Member or not, he is as much a Member of this House as any other hon. Member, and I think this has been stated before. It is quite frivolous.

[Mr. Alexander] notes and coin there to be cashed in against these assets. Is this fair? Is it fair that this should, in fact, be the basis? Can I look at this problem, another way? Let us look at it in its most ridiculous way to try and show what I am attempting to explain. If, in fact, we had gone into an entirely managed currency, and if, in fact, we had never had investment backing for our currency that is if our currency had been 100 per cent established on a fiduciary basis, what then would have been the position when the settlement came? We have some example of this as at now, because there is a fiduciary issue in relation to the currency board at the moment. These are notes that have been issued by the various banks, and not notes in the currency sense, but notes in the sense of undertaking to redeem, have been issued by the various governments against advances from currency board. Now, Sir, the settlement of those, when we come to deal with this matter of winding up the currency board, will be merely the handing back of these notes in cancellation of the liability of the various countries. Now, Sir, that being so, I wish to put a point of view that this currency share out should not be on this theoretical basis that we have had described to us in authoritative articles, of an exchange against notes and coin, but that it should be on the basis of the contribution by each country to the establishment; that is the contribution in wealth, and in exchange of the establishment of the reserve fund.

Now, Sir, this would mean, in respect of two periods in our history, that there would be considerable emphasis on the part played by Kenya. I refer particularly to the period of the Second World War, 1939 to let us say, 1946. Now, Sir, quoting from a fairly authoritative book, which is called "Money and Banking in British Colonial Africa" by Newland and Roland. I do not know which edition this is but perhaps this is the kind of book that did not warrant another edition, but anyway, Sir, on page 58 it shows that the currency outstanding in 1940 was some £7 million and in 1945 there was some £28 million.

This was a jump of some £21 million in some five years. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, my submission is that the cause of that was largely due to the exchange generated in our country, Kenya. During that period we had, as the older Members will know, a tremendous influx of British troops here from overseas and, at the same time, we housed many hundreds and thousands of prisoners. All of this was generating currency at that time and this, I believe was the main reason for the very rapid jump in the currency in circulation and, therefore, the increase in the reserve fund at that time.

We will find if we study the figures a not dissimilar sort of increase in the period 1950 to about 1956 which again was a period where, in our country, we had considerable foreign activity which was generating exchange.

I would, therefore, ask the Minister to dwell upon these thoughts and perhaps come to us with some basis other than just this one of the circulation in currency as being our rightful share. Of the £62 million, £63 million or £64 million in this reserve fund, I believe that perhaps a more accurate estimate of what Kenya is entitled to is something like £35 million. At the moment we have been told in this authoritative articles that we likely to get around, I think, £21,000. This is a basis of calculation that I would challenge. I believe there are other formulae that we can use to our advantage, and I would urge the Minister to consider these.

I am delighted, as I said at the beginning, that we have this particular Minister to deal with this particularly complicated subject, and I congratulate him.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I only rise to congratulate the Minister for Finance and I would like it to be placed on record that our present Minister for Finance is the person who has tackled this very difficult kind of post in our new Government, and has tackled it very efficiently.

There is no doubt, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that at the time we achieved our independence our country was suffering economically, and we would like the Minister, at this time when we support the Bill, to note that our people are politically free but economically they are slaves. So, we hope that with his portfolio the Minister will do his best to see that the central bank is going to promote the African way of life economically and socially. If we compare Kenya with other countries today, and if we take the United States of America, we find when we visit that country that most people there are living very well, they are not living in want as we do here. This is because their Government has extended loans to almost everybody. They are given facilities for credit and, therefore, they are able to—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, of course, I agree entirely with what the hon. Member is saying. However, I wonder whether it is now time for the Mover to be called upon to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we are getting very near that time now. Mr. Kamau has, I know, been waiting a little time now for the opportunity to speak. Perhaps out of courtesy to him we should give him another two or three minutes, then I think I ought to entertain that Motion for the closure.

Mr. Kamau: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I think the hon. Attorney-General was so pleased with my speech but thought that I might turn the other way round and, therefore, he wanted the Mover to be called upon to reply.

Mr. Speaker, at the moment you find economically our people, especially the businessmen, are always crying that we should be given facilities to get credit from the banks. Therefore, I think it is high time that the Minister for Finance established a commercial bank at the same time that the central bank is set up. This will facilitate and enable our people to be able to borrow money in the same way that the foreigners do.

I want here to ask the Minister—and I hope my hon. friends will bear me witness—to do his best to see that the non-citizens of this country are not given facilities when the citizens are deprived of facilities to be able to borrow money from the bank.

As the Minister is aware, if you go along the main streets, Government Road, Kenyatta Avenue, you find that it is only the foreigners who are now—

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wonder whether the three minutes you have given Mr. Kamau are not over? Is it not time to call on the Mover to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think so because, as a matter of fact, Mr. Kamau has been repeating what has been said by other Members in debate, and it is not strictly relevant either to the Bill.

So, I think I must allow the House to consider the closure.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Gichuru, we have to interrupt to take a Motion for the Adjournment in about three minutes. I do not know whether you would like to start now.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Yes, Sir, I would like to.

I would like to start by saying how grateful I am that the hon. Members have taken so much interest in this Bill. As I said in my opening remarks, it was not the wish of Kenya to go it alone in this way. We have tried our very best to keep the three territories together, have one currency, one central bank, maybe we could have devised ways and means of also having, maybe, local banks; but that was impossible. Therefore, we have been forced into this situation which, as I said, is a big challenge. We feel proud that we are in a position before long, to issue our own currency notes. I cannot say exactly when but they are in print. Our coins are being minted.

Some people did state that perhaps our notes will not be as good as the ones we have at the moment. One hon. Member even went to the extent of reminding me that when it comes to the printing of these notes, that we should ensure that we get the experts to do that. I can assure him that we are not going to print our notes in Grogan Road. In fact, they are in print at the moment. Before long they will be here. Our coins are also being minted. I am quite sure that when they come you will be very proud of them. They are good. I can say this because I have seen them.

An hon. Member: Where are they?

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): I cannot disclose exactly where they are.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think this would be a good point to break off, Mr. Gichuru.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

ACCOMMODATION AT MACHAKOS GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I will now call on Mr. Malinda to move the adjournment of the House.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

I wished to be given this opportunity to move the adjournment of the House so that I can tell the Ministry of Education of the existing deplorable accommodation in Machakos Girls' High School.

Sir, the history of the Machakos Girls' High School is as old as this country but I will not go into any details beyond the last one or two years. Sir, way back in 1964, we were given to understand that the Machakos Girls' High School would qualify for a grant from the World Bank if it ran triple-stream in Form I. But the first step was to have a double-stream in 1964, progressively coming to 1965, and by 1966 we would have a triple-stream where by that time, we should be able to have had the funds from the World Bank to construct the additional necessary accommodation. Mr. Deputy Speaker, a Member of the Ministry of Works came, and visited

Mr. Alexander: Mr. Speaker, I notice with interest that the honorary member for the ordinary man has promoted himself, because last week he was the honorary member for the poor man. I am certainly encouraged to know that I have such an able spokesman in this House. It is interesting to note that he is prepared to discuss on every conceivable subject that comes before us, I think this proves to us once again that perhaps a Jack of all trades is master of none.

Mr. Speaker, our Minister for Finance has in the last few years certainly dealt with more intricate and complex financial matters and problems than Finance Ministers over the whole history of our country, and this certainly is the most intricate of all subjects and he to be congratulated that during the term of his office he has taken on the burden of dealing with this matter, a matter which has a great deal of mystique attached to it, a subject that largely has a language of its own and which bankers do not really want anybody else to understand because, if we did understand, then, of course, we would start to put some of them out of business. So, I do feel for the Minister in this matter and appreciate very greatly the way in which he has tried to tackle this very, very elusive problem of central banking.

May I turn to clause 8 which says that the authorized capital of the bank shall be £1½ million? It is there stated as shillings. It is interesting—as a diversion here for a moment, Mr. Speaker—that later on the Bill does talk about the Kenya £, and I do hope from now on that we will begin to quote our figures in £s because this has been really the financial language for very many years. This attempt to keep accounts in shillings is really outdated and this Bill shows it, when in clause 8 they start talking about Sh. 26 million, and if you put that into figures it is a lot of figures that nobody can really ever absorb at one glance. I would urge upon the Minister that whilst dealing with this subject he takes a final plunge at this question of the use of the monetary unit and brings in regulations that require that we deal with everything from now on in £s and shillings and not just in shillings.

Well, Mr. Speaker, going on and dealing with this clause 8 and the authorized capital of £1.3 million and linking it for the moment with clause 59 which refers to the transfer of the assets of the East African Currency Board, I would like the Minister to tell us how in this transitional period £1½—because that as I see it is the only capital that the bank will have at this point—is going to deal with the backing of the currency that will immediately be put into circulation as Kenya £s and shillings. I can well see that gradually, as we move over the transition and by our hands on these assets of the central bank that the situation will sort itself out, but I imagine that this transitional period outside, particularly international bankers dealing with this will want to know our immediate backing for the Kenya currency that we put into circulation as distinct from the East African currency that we will continue to use. I will come back to clause 59 later on, which is the key of much of what I have to say.

Now, Mr. Speaker, if I may deal with clause 20 which states that the par value of the Kenya shilling in terms of gold shall be determined by the President. I always understood of international banking that provided we were in a freely moving international market that it would be the international business itself that would decide the par value of our Kenya £s. Perhaps the Minister could elaborate a bit on this and tell us exactly how the President gets brought into this, because it must surely be decided by supply and demand in relation to our own currency.

Turning to clause 21 it says that all monetary obligations or transactions entered into or made in Kenya shall be deemed to be expressed and recorded, and shall be settled in Kenya currency unless otherwise provided. Can we be assured that that "unless otherwise provided by law or agreed upon by the parties" will not deny our country freedom of movement within reasonable exchange control limits of money exchange with countries overseas? This, I think, is going to be watched very closely by would-be investors, in fact, by existing investors in this country because one of the big fears that is always expressed—I imagine the Minister has to listen to this every day of his life and those of us that are concerned with business are continually having to try and answer this question—is the extent to which foreign money coming into this country might be frozen. Here, I think this is a good opportunity for the Minister, when replying, to again repeat what he said that there will be no attempt through the legislation in this Bill to tamper with the understandings and the agreements on which overseas investors have brought their much-wanted capital to this country, and those that will be doing so in the future. This is the very greatest deterrent today in our country, to overseas investment and if the Minister can answer this very emphatically today when he deals with this in his reply, it will be of very great help to the inflow of capital that we require so desperately in this country. We will be a capital importing country for the rest of the lives of everybody in this House and make no mistake about it: Canada with a long history behind it, &

[Mr. Alexander] very wealthy country, has only in recent years become a real exporter of capital, and that hon. Members will show you the task that we are up against, and so we must make sure that there is nothing that we do or say to discourage anybody from bringing the sort of capital that we want in this country to develop it more quickly.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to deal with clause 44. It says in subclause (2), "The Bank may also perform the functions of fiscal agent and banker for any other public entity in accordance with . . .". Now, Sir, what is defined in the Bill is what is meant by public entity, means the Government, the organization, the authority—any local authority—or any public body specified by the Minister. Now, Sir, this means, for instance, in respect of one important institution in our country, that is local government, it looks as though the intention is for the whole of local government in this country to transfer its business to the central bank. It looks, as I read into this, as though the inference is that all quasi-Government bodies and statutory boards will be expected, or be directed, to do business, or to be clients, of the central bank.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is this really desirable? Is it wise that at this stage we should move all of this business away from the normal commercial banks in this country, who, over a history of some 60 or 70 years, have done a very fine job of work? I believe, Sir, that there has been a relationship built up between the commercial banks and the Government institutions; I think I will call them that, or rather public entities, as the Bill calls them, but there has been a record of achievement of trust and good will built up over very many years between the commercial banks and these public entities, and I would therefore ask the Minister to seriously consider whether it is wise for this business to be moved. I think, Sir, it would be of some reassurance to the commercial banks and let me say straight away, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that I have had no discussions with any commercial bank on this, this is my own personal thoughts. In fact, Sir, I owe the commercial banks myself far too much money ever to dare to go near them, because if they see me coming they want all my assets and they frighten me, so you can be sure that I do not talk to them very much. But, Sir, I do think that it would be wise to reconsider this matter.

Turning now to clause 56 of the Bill, Sir, where it says, "The Minister may, in addition to the audit carried out under section 53 . . .". Now, Sir, I think if you read section 53, you will see that it does not refer to this matter at all. But Sir, section 54 refers to this matter. Perhaps the Minister has already picked up this point, but Sir, in fact, section 54 is the clause which deals with the annual reports and the appointment of auditors. Perhaps this is just a drafting error which the Minister may care to put right.

Now, Sir, I would like to turn to clause 59 which is the clause of which I wish particularly to seek enlightenment and clarification about. This is the clause which says, "Kenya's share of the assets of the East African Currency Board shall be transferred to the bank as and when those assets become available and the bank shall have the sole right to receive those assets." There is nothing in this Bill that tells us what formula is to be adopted by our Government in laying its hands on the assets that are justly ours lying in the currency board. This is going to become a very vital subject in the years ahead of us and deliberately I say years, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because Aden that opted out of the East African Currency Board has not yet had a settlement, and I think this goes back three years already, and that was just a little minor participant in the East African Currency Board, so heaven knows what the settlement is going to be like when it comes to the three territories, Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania.

How long does the Minister think it will take to establish what is our right, and how, and on what basis, does the Minister believe that we will be able to negotiate? Now, Sir, I have seen it stated by the experts and particularly by that well known and I think he is referred to as the correspondent well versed in banking affairs, who writes in the middle page of our leading newspaper whose name is none other, or no less a person than Mr. J. B. Loynes who has been adviser to our currency board for many years. I think he has written, and certainly other financial experts have written, to say that this settlement will be on the basis of the currency notes and coin in circulation in the three territories to be cashed against the investments at that time.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are not talking about chicken feed here. We are talking of big money. We are talking of a total of something like £63 million or £65 million. I am not quite sure what the figure is today, but for purposes of discussion, let us call it £60 million to £65 million, are the assets to be carved up between the three territories. Now, Sir, just let us imagine a situation, if this theory is right, that the notes and coin in circulation in the territory, that is the East African notes and coins, at the time of the settlement will be the basis of sharing out. If this happens at the time when the Uganda cotton crop, for example, is being brought in, we will find a great deal of [Mr. Shikuku] take this money of yours, because I will not be able to change it. I have no passport." How will this work?

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair] I would like the Minister, when he replies, to tell us how this will work as far as the ordinary man is concerned. How will the ordinary man be able to change his money to enable him to buy an article from Tanzania or from Uganda. The same problem applies to the Tanzania Government and to the Uganda Government.

That is why I say that it is unfortunate that this should have happened because our leaders were not considerate enough in their decisions; they forgot the ordinary man who made them what they are.

Another point with regard to the central bank is this. It has been explained by the Minister that this bank will have nothing to do with the lending of money or loans to the people in this country; it will be just a central bank to control the currency in this country, and it will work in co-operation with the other banks here. But I do not then know how we are going to profit from this. Could the Minister also tell us how we are going to gain, if we want some more money? Because there is already some discrimination in the present banks. Is the central bank going to control these banks and drive it into their heads and make them realize that they have to give the people of Butero loans, without there being a European or somebody high up, with a lot of money? This is the sort of thing we want to know because I do not want to support something that has no value or might not have any profit for my people. My support is always with strings. Mr. Speaker, and the Minister, my friend, knows that very well.

Another issue, Mr. Speaker, is this. Having accepted this, because this is also going to take place in Uganda and so the idea of federation has gone to the dogs, I would like to know from the Minister about the value of the money. Is there going to be a central bank of East Africa whereby, if I had a ten-shilling note and I went to Tanzania, I would be able to get the same amount, or will our £ value be lower than that of Tanzania and of Uganda? We should be told how these things are going to work because we have a lot of people working in Tanzania.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Member not repeating himself? He has said that about ten times.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I only heard half the hon. Member's speech; perhaps I did not hear the other half of the repetition. But please try not to repeat yourself, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: I wish to inform you, Sir, that I have not repeated anything, and I think the Minister is completely out of order to say that I have repeated myself.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): He is entitled to raise a point of order, but if you are not repeating, carry on, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: I am not out of order. I mean, he is inaccurate in his point of order.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, all right, please go on.

Mr. Shikuku: I am trying to find things out. Nobody has touched on the question of the value of the money in East African countries, so I would like to know from the Minister how this is going to work.

At the same time; if I may put him in order, Mr. Speaker, I would point out that if you look at the Bill, as it is, in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, on page 43, there is an error, and the Minister should know that. He should have seen it before he brought this Bill here. If you refer to clause 24, that is, on page 43 of the Bill, it says, "Clause 24 provides that currency issued by the East African Currency Board shall be exchanged for Kenya currency by the bank until the Minister otherwise determines." I have just quoted from clause 24, or its purpose, as it is on page 43. But if you look on page 43, I have quoted this for the information of the Minister, but I do not think he has found it. That is, on page 43, what I have quoted as being under clause 24; and on page 32 of the same Bill, under clause 24, you will find that it is a completely different thing.

If I may quote, it says: "Exchange of mutilated notes and coins, etc. That should come under the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons clause 23, but that is not even quoted. That is a big mistake. If I may quote clause 24, on page 32 of the Bill, it is this:

"The bank shall not be obliged to exchange any note or coin which is mutilated, defaced, soiled or otherwise defective, and the conditions subject to which the bank may as a matter of grace exchange any such note or coin shall be within the absolute direction of the bank."

That has nothing to do with the quotation in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons on page 43, where clause 24 is quoted. It should actually [Mr. Shikuku] be clause 23. So there is a big mistake here and it is a very misleading one, too. Even clause 23 is not quoted.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have made your point quite clear, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, the Assistant Minister was not quite clear, so I had to repeat it.

Mr. Speaker, another issue here is the question of the money. It is not stated in this Bill how we are going to control the flow of foreign money into this country with regard to goods or staff we get from foreign countries in our own currency. For example, we now have this problem of maize from the United States—I am quoting some examples—where, instead of purchasing the maize with our own money—we do actually pay for the maize with our own money, but that money, instead of our giving it to the United States, is given to the United States bank account here, it is not sent to the United States. And I feel that the longer we go on doing this and the more money accrues to the United States account in Kenya, it will grow to such an extent that one day we might find that there is a lot of money in this country, which is not our money, although it is in our own currency.

You see? I am not a very good accountant or currency fellow, but I am of the opinion that if we do not take care of that, we might find that the amount in our own currency which belongs to someone other than ourselves might be more than our own currency here, and one day, if we quarrel with that someone, he might say, "Look, boys, if you do not behave yourselves, I am taking my money out", and then we will be left with nothing. I do not know how the Minister intends to take care of that.

I would like to return to the question of the establishment of the bank because in clause 4 it says,

"The principal objects of the bank shall be to regulate the issue of notes and coins, to assist in the development and maintenance of a sound monetary, credit and banking system in Kenya conducive to the orderly and balanced economic development of the country and the external stability of the currency, and to serve as banker and financial adviser to the Government."

Mr. Speaker, I would like to be assured, before I support this Bill, that we are going to have banks all over the country, branches of this central bank all over the country, so that we can take care of our exchange from close range. Take, for example, the people who are living in Turkana and Samburu, who have no banks. I wonder whether these people will have to travel all the way. They will be travelling on foot or by Land-Rover of some sort to go right down to Nakuru; I think that would probably be the nearest bank.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is so now because they can walk across the border, if I may tell my hon. Member, to Uganda and get their cattle sold without any difficulties, but now they will not do this because their money will be different from the Uganda money. I am very glad to see the Attorney-General nodding in agreement. This is the point I am trying to make, I am taking care of the ordinary man; I do not worry about those people with big cars like the hon. Minister, and the hon. Assistant Minister and the hon. Shikuku and the hon. Members who can travel, but these people would have a lot of trouble in getting their money changed in order to cross. So, I was wondering what the Minister intended, whether he intends establishing banks all over this country to make it easy for the ordinary men and women to have their money changed, and also whether they would have to get passports to cross to Uganda and Tanzania to change their money. That is their problem. I wonder how much it is going to cost this Government and the Tanzania Government and the Uganda Government. That was another point which I wanted to raise.

For the rest, Mr. Speaker, I have no particular quarrel with the Bill, but the quarrel I have—if I may summarize—is that I do support it, but I must declare that I am very hurt because I know for certain that the federation is dead. This is not through the fault of the ordinary man, but through the fault of the leaders at the top who, in my opinion, are selfish. Mr. Speaker, when the hon. Member for I do not know where talks of the ordinary man, I am here to speak on behalf of the ordinary man because he is the man who is going to suffer. If these leaders are selfish they are not serving the ordinary man at all, and I hope, Sir, the day will come when the top layer in Kenya, the top layer in Tanzania and the top layer in Uganda will disappear and we shall re-establish the federation and the present currency issue will be out and the ordinary people would enjoy themselves. So far they are ignorant and top people can get away with it, but I do not think they will remain ignorant for ever and a day. Being a young man, Mr. Speaker, I can only hope—and I do not think that I am hoping against hope—that a day will come when we shall again establish a federation when the selfish people have disappeared.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support very reluctantly.

[Mr. Jahazi]

completion of their transaction they show little money, they have their own brother or somebody who sells this stuff at very high prices and keeps the money there. This is the biggest trick which these people are doing, by showing very wrong returns.

Our Ministry of Finance, the way it is operating now, has not expanded in such a way that it has inspectors and people to check on such fellows who are cheating the Government. So people find loopholes in the exchange control through these, very underhand dealings, and I hope that when the bank is established, there will be a special department with all officers who are used to this type of cheating because, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we cannot pretend that the central bank will be managed by Africans. Anyone who will try to insist that it should be manned by local people is only trying to dig a hole for this bank to fall in, because we do not have expert people who can detect all these discrepancies.

Therefore, the Minister should not fear this House or anybody as regards the staffing of this bank, because once he does so, he may find that the same people who are criticizing him over staffing this bank will criticize him over the failure of the bank, and they will be more vocal on this tune. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like the Minister to consider this point seriously.

There is another thing I want to mention, Mr. Deputy Speaker. At the moment, nobody seems to be charged with handling foreign currencies. In other countries, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we have been to, you do not find any Tom, Dick or Harry or any shopkeeper handling or accepting foreign currencies, but in Kenya anyone can set up a shop and start dealing in foreign currencies. For instance, we have a lot of naval ships visiting Mombasa—American and all that—and these people come with Sterling, and you find that there are so many people who have established a special business to change this money, and they have devalued unofficially our shillings. Since the passing of the Exchange Control Bill, in Mombasa there are some unscrupulous fellows who will give you Sh. 25 for £1 Sterling.

The market is going on now because nobody checks them and exchange is very—I know a couple of fellows who are doing this job and it is very prosperous. Because we do not have a bank which regulates this, we find that most of these people are carrying on and nobody seems to care whether they have a licence or not.

I hope that it will be the purpose of this bank to see to it that not a single shopkeeper will be allowed to deal with foreign exchange, unless he is appointed by the bank, because most of our currency goes out through that way, since most of them do not need to go to the bank and say, "I'm going to London, I want to change my money." Of course, he can go and get the ordinary amount stipulated by the law, which says that nobody should leave with such-and-such an amount, but on him he has a lot of black-market money which he changed through such activities, so that he does not care a damn whether there is exchange regulation or not. I hope that this bank also will have a department which will deal—this applies especially to Mombasa, where a lot of foreign currencies are just flowing in and may be the Government is not getting anything out of it through exchange.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, many Members have asked the Minister to look into the possibility of this bank establishing—whether in the future or very near future—a commercial branch which will deal with ordinary local transactions, like local borrowing, housing financing, so that the Government takes full responsibility for these very needful projects because now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, however the Government may try to join the United Dominions Corporation or the Commonwealth Development Corporation and other profit-making bodies, it will not satisfy the people. I say that because these bodies are there for profit only, they are not there for charity. Any project that involves helping people first and profit afterwards will not be considered as a viable project by these people. That is why you see that they are in for very quick money, and it will not be possible for the Government to realize its economic plans in the period they have set, because there will be no money available from these international companies, however much the Government may like to co-operate with them.

But if this bank has a commercial section and control on the money in the country, I hope that an opportunity will arise, whereby the Minister will, when he sees how the bank looks after its inception, open a commercial branch of the bank to deal with this problem which is facing the Government today, because the problem is Government's. The people want loans, they do not know where the Government will get money, but they still press for loans. "The Minister should give us loans." However much the Minister may explain to people, if there is no loan, the people want to be able to understand the reason why there is no money available for loans.

Another point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is this: I hope this bank—as has been stipulated here—will have a say in the interest people are paying on loans because now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, as you know, we depend on the Bank of England's rate of exchange. Money in London may be tight here— I may be corrected, because we are not all finance people, we are just laymen, but whatever we contribute we manage to get here and there. As I understand that the rate of interest is still controlled by the Bank of England, whenever there is tight money there, they can raise it or lower it and you do not have much say.

[Mr. Jahazi]

At the moment, we have plenty of money since the inception of exchange control regulations because many people were caught with money in their hands, they do not know where to take it and there is plenty of money in the savings and bank accounts of the local commercial banks. I hope that we can use this money and it is high time that our local banks here lowered the rates of interest. I do not know who regulates these rates of interest. The private moneylender has his own, the commercial banks have their own, and other various institutions have their own rates; they just dictate whatever rates they think are suitable. Although there is plenty of money available, the rates are still very, very high. So I hope that this bank will step in and see that rates of interest will not be high unnecessarily. The Government should be able to control this and no one should be able to set higher rates above that the Government has set.

The last point I want to make, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is that many Members of Parliament would like to feel big and important as a result of sitting on this body, but the more we keep this body out of politics, the better. This is a body of brains, it is not a body of politics, and it is not a question of just because you are a Member of Parliament, it means that you qualify to be a banker or be able to contribute anything to this bank. But if there is any Member of Parliament who is conversant with the aspect of banking and who would be very profitable in this institution, the Minister should not overlook him. However, I hope that a Member of Parliament, any other civil servant or anybody else will not throw his weight around, just to say that because he is So-and-so, he should be in this bank: Because this body will be young and we do not know how it will look or function, we should leave it to the experts to start it and rear it until it is able to walk or run; and then Members of Parliament can have a place in it, whereby they can attend to the interests of their people, the electorate, as a whole. Otherwise, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Minister should use his discretion to choose the best people for this job.

With those few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Salkani: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wish to join my colleagues in congratulating the Minister on having brought this Bill to this House, the aims of the Bill will be of benefit to this country. But I have some observations to make in this connection.

The reason for the Bill is quite obvious, but it is rather absurd that the question of the East African Federation—the introduction of this Bill means that there is no greater proof or evidence, which could be produced in any court of law or before any authority, such as this House, which could be brought to prove that that federation is now null and void. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not blame the Minister for Finance for having brought this death blow to the hopes of an East African Federation, but I wish to blame all the heads of State of the three territories for having been very selfish in their attitude. I have tried to read this Bill but I do not see how, after getting central banks in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, the ordinary man is going to be able to change his money.

I know, Sir—and you have travelled as I have done—that if you go to any foreign country, you must have a passport in order to change your money, and I challenge any hon. Member who has toured or who has been out of this country to deny that. Now it is not even provided in this Bill how we are going to supply all the ordinary men with passports. First all, the passport office is only in Nairobi; it is not even in Kakamega; it is not even in Bungoma.

You talk of Mombasa, but I do not come from Mombasa, Sir, for the information of the Assistant Minister: I am from Butere and Mombasa is in a different direction altogether. Geography is very important in this issue. If I were allowed, Sir, I would draw a map to show how far I am from Mombasa; if it is a question of going there to get a passport. Of course, I have one; I do not need one, but the Butere people do not have passports.

Now the difficulty is that we people who live on the border will find it very, very difficult to have our money changed. For the Minister and myself, it is easy; we can fly to Uganda, fly to Tanzania, with our passports and get the money changed. But what happens to the ordinary man trading on the shores of Lake Victoria, selling fish? Mr. Onyango comes with his boat from Kisumu up to Jinja and there he meets Kalibala from Uganda, who wants his fish. Then Kalibala says, "Look, I have Uganda's money; here it is." And Onyango says, "Look, my friend, I cannot have special responsibility. They have special responsibility as the guardians of economic growth and economic growth in these countries, and because there are certain developing countries which have gathered a lot of experience on these lines, I would also like to suggest that we look around for one of the developing countries with a good background in the running of central banks, so that they can train some of our people.

[The Assistant Minister for Labour]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are now going to set up a central bank out of a background which we must understand properly. We have had common currency throughout East Africa. We have a common market and out of this common market we are going to set up central banks for Tanzania, for Uganda and for ourselves. Now there is a tricky situation here. It will have to be worked out very carefully before we set up these banks, because at the moment I think a certain amount of currency is circulating in Uganda and a certain amount also in Tanzania and here too. In order to give these central banks a good start we must know exactly what the ratios are, so that we start with the right amount of money circulating here which will not land us with price problems. Furthermore, the East African Common Market itself creates a little problem for these central banks when they will be set. Because we have a common market, labour moves freely across the borders and business goes on freely across the borders, and this question of setting up the central banks so that they begin operating with the right amount of credit in circulation, will have to be examined very carefully. Here I would like to suggest that these banks, our own central bank when it is set up, will need a very solid statistical service. Without this, the bank will not know exactly what to do in order to salvage the economic situation. I see here, Sir, that in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, by clause 4 of the Bill the bank will be responsible for the issue of notes and coins, the object of the bank will also include the influencing and controlling of monetary and banking systems in a manner designed to promote the orderly and balanced economic development in the country. This is very important, and here I would like to suggest that that before the central bank is set up, we should get together with all the commercial banks which have been operating around here, all these banks which have accumulated a lot of experience in banking in East Africa, so that we can gain something from them. Furthermore, it will not be easy for a new central bank to control effectively all these commercial banks which have been operating for a long time. This is why I am suggesting that we need a lot of experienced people to begin running this bank and I think it will be worth any price that we can pay for it, but let us get one of the most experienced people, because otherwise the operations of the central bank, as a last resort, as a banker for the Government, as a means for controlling the commercial banks, all these functions of the central bank might be frustrated by more experienced commercial banks.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is time that our Government began following on various devices of monetary policy to help the economy to grow. I think for this reason it is most welcome that we are going to set up a central bank, because without a central bank our monetary policies cannot be determined by ourselves, we cannot control them as best as we want, and what is the use of political independence when our monetary system and our monetary policies are still being influenced from outside? For this reason alone I welcome the setting up of this central bank.

I hope that the central bank will also help to influence the fiscal policy of the country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, our central bank, I hope, will do its work efficiently. You see, we are in a common market and, as I can see it, in our common market we have so many feelings. Sometimes in order to maintain this common market we give a lot to the other East African countries. But I hope that this central bank will be run by hard-headed men who want Kenya to go ahead, and I personally would give them all the amount of support if they do all that is necessary to stabilize and strengthen our economy. I am not suggesting that we should shut our eyes and do things that will harm our neighbours. No, I am only saying that the central bank should do the best it can for this country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, another thing about the background to the setting up of these central banks is this: we have a lot of Kenya people working in Tanzania and Uganda and I hope that the question of exchange between the East African countries will be an easy one, otherwise the common market itself will be ruined and I hope that the setting up of these central banks will not impair the amount and volume of trade that goes on between the East African countries. After all, we have a common market and naturally the ideal thing would have been for the common market to have one central bank, but since it is not so easy to realize this at the moment, we are quite content, and this is the best that we can do to have our own central banks. But I think arrangements must be made somewhere so that there is another institution which can facilitate the exchange of currencies which can help to clean up foreign exchange difficulties between the three countries. I should hate to see our foreign exchange relations with Uganda or Tanzania become as difficult as those that exist between our country and some other foreign countries.

[The Assistant Minister for Labour]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think this Bill just gives us what we have been waiting for for a long time and it deserves support from all of us. Thank you.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I too would like to add my contribution and congratulations to the Minister for having come out with a Bill that very few will find fault with, if any.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we all know generally that the purpose of a central bank is specified and it is that their operation is more on the top than on the ground. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like the Minister to consider that in a developing country like Kenya the role of a central bank should be two-fold, whereby it is not only seen in the sky but it should also deal with the common man and citizen, because we all know that in countries like England, they have various banks, and they are very satisfied with the banking system there. The central bank there is independent of all commercial activities and also, I understand, that the Bank of England has some sort of commercial dealings with the common man. Some people can open saving accounts, although not in the general term, but still it is not as closed to the common man as we are made to think. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is a great need for the central bank that we are now creating to have some sort of dealing with the common African who is trying to develop his business, his savings and everything, so that we should not pretend to be as advanced as the people who stick to the principle of a central bank, because as you see in this country we need two banks. First of all we need a national bank and also a central bank. A national bank which is registered and established here and it is for this country, not the type of banks we have—commercial banks—because Mr. Deputy Speaker, commercial banks are here to make profits. Their institution is built on profit making and they cannot consider operating on a semi-charity level. Mr. Deputy Speaker, as you know, Members have expressed the difficulties which the ordinary business man, the ordinary farmer, the ordinary citizen of this country find in getting a loan and there is no facility whatsoever from the Government for giving commercial loans as other countries readily get these loans from commercial banks. The African is in difficulty in that because there are no facilities of that nature.

Therefore, although we cannot force it on the Minister to create all these things at once, we have to experiment first with the central bank as it is presently intended to be instituted and see how it will function, and then see how much we can spread or expand, I hope that whenever an opportunity arises to expand, the Minister will consider also giving service to the lower level, to the ordinary person, in some form of accepting deposits of some nature and also advancing or guaranteeing some loans, although it is not the purpose of the ordinary central bank.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this bank comes at a time when we have instituted exchange control but where the Minister and his Ministry had a lot of difficulty to depend on other people to carry out this control. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, all that the Minister can do beside his normal checking, is to depend on the returns from the commercial banks, saying that so much has gone out, so much is still in the country and no amount is allowed to go before he is informed. But we know that bankers are not angels, some are unscrupulous, and if they are made to believe that by passing a transaction underground they will make more money—and their purpose is to make profit—no banker will hesitate to make a few pounds to show bigger returns and profit per year, if they could cheat the Government once or twice, whenever an opportunity arises.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is imperative that when this bank is instituted, the first thing will be to tighten exchange control regulations, because, Mr. Deputy Speaker, now we see that many people have devised ways and means of exporting money overseas. You find that firms which are very reputable and deal with business worth millions of £s per year have started going into smaller businesses. I have seen firms starting to export coconuts to London, to India, and also big firms exporting vegetables. You may think that there is nothing wrong with that but through this my own investigation—and, as you know, these big fishes are always competing with each other, and there are leakages, that so-and-so is doing this—I find that there are so many big Asian firms exporting vegetables and fruit to London, and the amount of their sale price to London is shown as very, very little, while, when the stuff reaches there, they get a lot of money. They show on their entry here that the cargo will cost very little money, so when they make a return of the [Mr. Anyien] other channels. If you find our money in India, it should be with full Government knowledge, and I hope that from now on, when we demand the restrictions and so on, the Minister will say there is a leakage through Uganda, or there is a leakage through Kenya. As the other hon. Members have said, we do not want this bank to give us unnecessary difficulties. It is very well known; that maybe when one is tired of Nairobi politics, you want to drive to Moshi and have a weekend rest there, or to Kampala, and I hope that this bank will not make it very difficult for one to drive to our bordering territories for a weekend. Mr. Speaker, I hope that this will not be a means of some other people using us so that if they visit Kampala they carry a lot of Kenya money, and dish it out through Kampala. I hope also, that the Government will, although there is no federation, carry on discussions with the other two East African Governments to make sure that while they are stopping people from taking out money from Uganda for example, taking money out from Tanzania, those who are stopping that money in these countries will also help to stop any Kenya money from going out through those countries, and I think we can also do the same for them.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister has just spoken about reserves. We would like to know where these reserves are. I understand, maybe I am wrong and if so I stand for correction, that our reserves are in London. I think we must be very careful how we do this, because suppose we did not have very good relations with Britain, Britain could decide to take all our money, and we should have no money, and if we have no money I think there will be trouble here because we would not be able to pay our people. I must also thank the Minister for bringing this Bill for one other reason. In the Congo, one day, when Lumumba was the Prime Minister, he woke up in the morning and went to the bank to ask these people to give him some money, the Government money, and these people told him that there was no money. As the Prime Minister he had nothing to do, but I hope that since this is going to be a Government bank such difficulties will not arise.

Mr. Speaker, page 25 of the Bill, clause 6, speaks of agents. Now here with all due respect to any Minister who may be appointed by the Minister for Finance, I think that it would be better if there was more than one Minister to decide who is going to be the agent. Mr. Speaker, this is to protect the Minister so that nobody can this Minister appointed Mr. X or such and such a bank to become the agents because they bribed him. I think there should be a panel of Ministers, let us say, maybe, the Minister for Finance, the Minister for Economic Planning, the Minister for Commerce and Industry, and the Minister for Agriculture and so on; so that there are several people involved. I think to appoint agents to handle the money should not be the responsibility of one Minister, though I know the whole thing that the Ministers do is collective responsibility. We have examples where this collective responsibility has not worked. For that reason, I would rather suggest that next time the Minister proposes to amend this Bill, it should be amended so that, for example, the Cabinet can decide who is going to be the agent, so that one man is not blamed for giving the agencies to some people as we know the question of an agency for maize is now creating a lot of trouble, and I think maize is less precious than money. I think we should make sure that whoever is going to be given the agency is properly selected by more than one person.

Now, Mr. Speaker, page 32, clause 24, speaks of the mutilated notes. Now, it says the bank is not bound, not obliged to change these mutilated notes. I think that the present practice should be continued. That is if you go to the bank, and the note you have is torn, but if you can collect the four corners together, you are getting a new note. If it is going to become difficult like that, the Minister knows very well that it is very easy to get a note, a child may tear it thinking that it is only paper, sometimes you leave your money in a pocket, you come to Parliament, your wife washes the shirt, and the money gets washed at the same time. So I think even here, Mr. Speaker, I think the Minister should not make it too difficult for somebody to change this money. I am not saying Mr. Speaker, that if you go with two corners then you should be given a new note, because that would be dangerous. The other person could also bring the other two corners and also be given a new note. It should be necessary to have at least three corners of the note in order to change your note, if you have all four corners why should you bring the note to the bank? Mr. Speaker, the Minister knows the conditions under which the African people live, and under which we keep our money and, as one hon. Member said, conditions sometimes do not afford much protection. We know we have a lot of rats in the countryside and we know that sometimes we fear that some people may take the money, some ladies and some old men may keep the money somewhere and the rats may eat part of that money. Mr. Speaker, these people should not be refused the right to change the money. I think the present system should be allowed to continue [Mr. Anyien] and I hope that the Minister will not refuse this, because even his own mother or his grandmother may have this difficulty.

Mr. Speaker, I hope also that we have some banks, for example, the United Development Corporation, all the Members of Parliament have to get their loans from this company and then we multiply with all the Members the sum of Sh. 18,000 which we give to the United Development Company and I think that this profit that they get is what the Minister needs so that when we ask for services he will be able to provide them. If, Mr. Speaker, we are going to have a national bank that bank should—I do not want to be given my money by the taxpayer and then be able to make a profit on it. I think these banks, for example, should be able to give Members of Parliament and civil servants who are given loans; for example Government guarantees the repayment of my loan.

I do not see why they should guarantee the repayment of the loan. I get from a private company. I think they should give me the loan and guarantee that I will give it back and the two thousand or three thousand profit, which the private banks make, should go into the pockets of the Government to provide services which the Members of this House so much demand.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you are getting rather far from the Bill now, Mr. Anyien.

Mr. Anyien: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I am saying this in relation to what I propose that with this the Minister should set up other small banks to become agents.

Mr. Speaker, the question arises also of some people making money. The money that the Kenya Government is going to make must be such that we must be sure that it is money that cannot be easily copied by anyone, because you have some very wise people who can make this sort of money. Some of these people came to my constituency the other day and they took out money to the amount of Sh. 100,000 thereby deceiving the people that they could make notes and after two or three days the notes become white like any other paper. I think and hope that our Government will use the knowledge, the experience and the technical know-how of those who helped to make the present notes, and even make better notes than the present ones.

Mr. Speaker, I do not think that it is really necessary now to make very big notes. I reckon that certain of our notes are some of the biggest and I think they should be made a bit smaller. For instance if you have a dollar, you can have one dollar, or one note that is worth 100 dollars which is equivalent to Sh. 700, and I think that this would give some prestige to our country. Mr. Speaker, the question of efficiency in these banks also arises. I hope that the question of efficiency will not be lowered because it is a Government bank. I hope that the Government will disprove those who say that the Government should not control such things, by making these banks very efficient. We do not want inefficiency. We do not want unnecessary Africanization which means the lowering of standards in these banks. If you have Anyien just because he is black and you put him there, and he does not know what he is doing, I do not think it is really good because in the long run you do not gain anything. So even if you have, as they say, a white man, well if he is honest and genuine, and maybe he is possibly a citizen of our country, then it will be all right if we put him there before an African is ready to do that work.

Mr. Speaker, with those few remarks I wish very vehemently to support the Minister for having this Bill to this House.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odior-Jowi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I basically agree with this Bill and most of the comments which I should have liked to have made. I think have been made here and therefore I do not want to repeat anything.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of efficiency has just been raised by the Member for Majoje-Bassi. Now this is very important. It is important because a central bank in a developing country like ours is one of the brain centres of development and if it is well run, things can go very well, but if it is not, a lot of things can go wrong. In this respect, Sir, I would like to suggest that the Minister of Finance, who has just introduced this Bill, should look into the question of training the personnel for this central bank.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are a lot of institutions around the world where training can be given to our people. I am saying this because not many of our people have had training in the running of banks and I hope that before we make a start, the Minister will see to it that we send some people to the World Bank to obtain training in the international aspects of money and money economy. I would also like to suggest that we attach some of our civil servants to the Bank of England where some of our reserves are being held and also because Britain has had a lot of experience in international monetary affairs and I think that that is the ideal place where some of our chaps should be trained. Furthermore, it is true that central banks in developing countries countries—in this case most of them owned by banks located in London—where it has proved very difficult to control the operations of these banks. Now, with the powers here to decide both the rate of interest on the terms of lending, and on the cash balances that should be maintained on the central bank, I believe we have given the central bank sufficient technical powers for them to regulate the volume of credit. What I now want to appeal for, is that the director or the governor, whatever he may be called, who will be appointed shall be given all the political backing in order to regulate the volume of credit in the country and the terms on which it is given. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that our present banks in Kenya are all too shy on giving credit; they are far, far too selective as to the types of credit that they will give, particularly to Africans. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that the time has now come when these banks ought to begin, like everybody else, to regard themselves as institutions that belong here. Whether or not their original capital subscriptions were from other countries, and in as much as we in a way allow them to continue to repatriate their dividends and capital, if they so want, I believe that for the time they are operating in this country, it is in their own interests as well as in the interests of the national economy that large deposits should not be merely allowed to accumulate in the banks when there are so many experienced business people in this nation seeking credit and they cannot get it. Mr. Speaker, it has been known in other countries that those who control the volume of credit, the terms on which money is lent, in fact, do control the volume of economic activities in general. I believe, therefore, that the responsibility we have given this central bank is going to be very great. As I have said earlier, I hope that they will be given the political backing and the political direction as to how to use these powers effectively for the benefit of development.

[The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

I only want to mention again, briefly, that the terms of lending, for instance, for construction of houses, factories, could be improved so as to encourage a new activity in that particular field.

Mr. Speaker, as I said, I very much welcome the central bank. I thank and congratulate all those who have taken a hand in drafting this legislation. It is simple, very concise and very much in the language that we all share and we all wished for.

There is a mention here that if the governor of the bank or the representative of the Treasury does not agree with the decision of the board of directors of this bank he may suspend the vote of the board and refer the matter for a decision to the Minister; and that the decision of the Minister there shall, of course, be final as to whether what the board decided will be binding or not. I am referring here, Sir, to subsection (6) of section 12. I do not believe that we shall get into the trouble I am going to mention, but it is worth mentioning. We have had the experience of some countries in the world where the operations of the central bank have been frustrated by a continual rivalry between the governor who took his independence too seriously and the Minister for Finance charged with carrying out the Government's economic policy. Now, this clause, in other words, in our own arrangements, makes the decision of the Minister be the final one. What I am really going to appeal for is that whoever are going to be the personalities involved, is that a clause like this ought to be treated as a last resort. As I said earlier on, if the bank cannot have an independent opinion, and if the directors of the bank get an impression that whatever they decide is merely advisory and has no executive significance, then you see, they will not be able to carry out the very heavy burden that we have given to them. I am confident myself that the present Minister for Finance in his usual gentlemanly way will be able to establish a very harmonious working relationship with this bank. However, I am not questioning what has been decided here. As a matter of fact I, personally, accept that in a country like Kenya the final responsibility for the monetary and fiscal policy must clearly rest with the political head of the Treasury. All I am saying is that there is need for the working relationship and for this clause to be resorted to only in the last analysis.

Sir, I very much support.

The Member for Elgon Central (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to support the Bill. In doing so I would like to remind the House that this is a matter of national pride. But then, I have to remind the House that people who stay on the border, like Bungoma where I come from, are bound to suffer by the implications of this Bill. Because of that I would like to ask the Minister when he comes to reply to outline what measures he is taking to ensure that people who stay on the borders can easily get money to cross over and buy whatever they want without any difficulty.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like also to remind the Minister, that up to now the banks have been rather for the Asian and the European and that it is only now that we are going to get a bank which is really for the African Government and the country. This bank should look into it that farmers do get the full benefit of the banks as such. Up to now, we are told that when you go to the bank you have to produce security before you can be given a loan, so far most farmers are smallholders, and do not have title deeds, and for that matter they do not have any security at all. I would like to see that this bank which we are now going to have in the country should work out measures to make sure that even though we do not have the title deeds, smallholders should be able to get loans when they require them. I think to be able to do this we should encourage, and at least have a member of the co-operative movement on the management of this bank, to represent the views and the interests of the farmers.

[The Member for Elgon Central]

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker—

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): On a point of clarification, Mr. Speaker, I would like to clarify the point that the new Member has just raised. The central bank will not be lending money to farmers or to anybody, it can only lend to another bank. It is up to the commercial banks to lend money, etc.

The Member for Elgon Central (Mr. Khaoya): Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, I know that the present banks in the country have bases outside the country. Most of them have their headquarters in London and so on. When we have the central bank in this country I would like to see that it controls the present banks so that they can be in line with the thinking of the people in this country. For that matter, I am still insisting that the Minister and probably the management of the bank will look into it that the commercial banks in general will be controlled to such an extent that the ordinary farmer, Africans in particular, will be able to get loans when so required.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, I wish to congratulate the Minister for having brought this Bill. I think this is one of the most important Bills which have been brought to this House. We only regret that this Bill was not brought earlier, but then, some of us, understand the problems involved in drafting a Bill like this, and the decisions the Government has to take.

Mr. Speaker, the first thing I would like to say is the point the Minister has just clarified when the hon. Member was making, I think, his maiden speech. We were very happy when we heard that the Government is going to have a central bank, and I would suggest to the Minister that while this central bank may not be able to give people loans, Government should work out another system of making sure that they have Government agents. For example, you have the Maize and Produce Marketing Board, or the Maize Marketing Board. The Maize Marketing Board is not supposed to deal directly with maize, they are supposed to appoint agents, but through these agents also you can have another board for example, the National Agricultural Marketing Board, was appointed as the agents. That is also a Government board. So what I am suggesting to my Minister, and I hope he is listening, is that while these particular banks cannot give people loans, we would like the Minister to think of a way of having some other banks, maybe with a different name, but controlled by the Government in order that the Government and the Minister may be able to implement the economic policies which the Government has set out. Mr. Speaker, I am saying this because the foreign banks which are in this country, and which we call private banks, these are not strictly African private banks. These are foreign banks, and since they are foreign banks, you will find the Africans have a lot of difficulty in getting money out of these banks. So that this Bill may have some meaning to our people in the countryside, the Government must be able to have a say in what is happening. I believe that since the Government is going to control this bank, the Government should have the right, if there is a private bank which refuses to do something to help the Africans, this central bank should be able to tell that private bank that we are not going to give you any money, because you are not trying to help the African people, when these banks are told this I think they will try and do something. This bank would be useless if it does not transfer the right to own money from the Europeans and Asians to the Africans.

As one hon. Member has already said, if you go to the bank today the fact that you are black tells the man in the bank that he should not give you money. Maybe we Members of Parliament as we are well known, maybe we can be given some money, but there are some other people who are more worthy than ourselves, but who find it very difficult to obtain money from the banks.

Mr. Speaker, this bank should also be able to make sure that there is no money going out. There are so many ways and I think here, our Government can do well in studying those other African independent countries, who have had a lot of difficulty in stopping notorious money-mongers from taking money out of the country. Mr. Speaker, one time I went to India and I found East African money there, you could go and get it very easily. I did not know how. We do not want our money to be going out through any stable, or even more stable, than the one we have had so far. Perhaps, Sir, the point which needs to be emphasized in order to clear any doubts of any doubting Thomases is merely that we have the means, the resources, to carry out the policy of a stable currency. In other words, Sir, it is not just that it is an intention to do so, but we have the means, therefore since we have the will and the means no one should have any difficulty in accepting that the currency in the future will be stable. I say, Sir, we have the means, the resources, because, as the Minister said, when the reserves of the East African Currency Board are shared out it is quite clear that the Kenya share will be sufficient to maintain a high enough backing for the new currency. In other words, Sir, anyone who changes an East African shilling into a Kenya shilling will continue to have that shilling freely convertible into any other currency in the world. This is the most important aspect as far as international trade and as far as the commerce internally is concerned.

[The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe that this is an aspect which needs to be stressed, because there is a school of thought in this country, and I have even heard it discussed in the lobbies of this House, people believe that we can have a short cut towards the development of this country, by merely inflating the currency of the country. People who believe, in other words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that all we have to do is to print enough notes and build the roads we want to build, the schools and everything else we want to construct in our development. This, Sir, is an illusion which appears impossible in history to nail, because all through history there have been people who believed that you could solve your economic troubles by this short cut of inflation. Now all those nations, Sir, that have attempted this have lived to regret their decision. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the point cannot be over-emphasized that in our present development programme in this country, we rely on importing a minimum of 75 per cent of all the capital that will be required to finance that development programme.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we are going to import that volume of capital from outside, the most important condition, if we are to attract that much credit into this country, is for the investor, whether he is a public agency, international institution or a private investor, to be assured that the value of the currency of the country into which he moves his investment is going to remain sufficiently stable over the period of his investment. Without that basic assurance, then we can take it as given that no one is going to risk moving his capital into Kenya. It is a very important point therefore, Sir, to bear in mind that it is in our own interest to have a stable currency if we are to attract the volume of capital which we require to finance our economic development programme. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have an additional reason for having this stable currency. As it is today we rely for earning our foreign exchange on exporting our own produce which is primarily agricultural, even if we did inflate internally I do not see seriously how it would help. It would not help us at all. Additionally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, however much we tried to inflate internally, we cannot tell other people what value to put on our currency. They will make their own judgment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this regard the only point which I would like to mention to the Minister is my hope, and I know it is the hope of everyone else, that as regards East Africa we shall continue to maintain a parity between all the currencies which will be established in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania. Without some parity of that sort, then the payments for trade between the three countries is going to be very complicated. It is going to complicate these transactions and it is going to reduce, in some way, the present flow of trade. I hope therefore that just as it is the wish of the Government of Kenya to maintain this parity, it will be the wish of the other Governments to maintain that parity so that trade may continue unimpeded as it is, and therefore those benefits of the Common Market, all of which we want to preserve, might be enjoyed. If, alternatively, there comes to be a need, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for an arrangement to be made for the payment between the three countries, then we hope that this will be a simple arrangement as is practical, otherwise, as I said, it will be very difficult to maintain a stable currency.

I notice, Mr. Speaker, under clause 22 (2) that the Minister will be the one to decide on the nomination, description, the form, the material, etc. which our notes take. My own hope is that at one time or another we shall have notes of a reasonable size and coins which are not as heavy as the ones we now have. Perhaps the time has come for us to have coins without the hole in the middle. The theory goes that the necessity for the hole in the middle was that when the currency was first introduced, the Africans were not supposed to wear trousers and did not, therefore, have anywhere to put the coins. They needed to carry them tied together on a string. Mr. Speaker, I do hope that this matter can be looked into, because although nobody usually thinks of the beauty of a note, I think it is a very important thing to have a small-sized note with a very beautiful design on it.

[The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

Mr. Speaker, the conversion of the present currency into Kenya shillings, mentioned in subsection 22 (4) has no time limit established, but I believe that it would be in the interests of the country that when the new currency is introduced, this conversion will be as speedy as possible. I hope, therefore, that when the arrangements are made for this conversion, that we should mount a good campaign to encourage people to convert as quickly possible to the Kenya shilling. In this regard I have seen described how a very large operation it was in Australia recently, when they had to change into the decimal coinage. Clearly in our own regard this will not be anything as difficult as that. However, I would wish that the matter of conversion is speeded up.

Perhaps the most important section, Mr. Speaker, deals with the external relations and with the control of credit internally. Now, as regards the external relations, I welcome very much the mention in one of the clauses, clause 26 (3), that we in Kenya want to consult with the International Monetary Fund on some of these matters as regards international reserves and liquidity. It is in the interests of the developing nations that we should strengthen the hand of these international organizations, like the International Monetary Fund. We have everything to gain by co-operating with everybody else in strengthening their hand. I hope, therefore, Sir, that the new central bank, when it is established, will maintain this close and friendly relation with the International Monetary Fund and other international agencies, and also that it might start fairly early on studies as regards international liquidity to be able to advise Government on these matters, because the central bank would be very well placed with all the powers we are giving it here to study these problems and give proper advice.

One Member, Mr. Speaker, wanted to know just how we are going to keep the external reserves. I would have thought that it is very clearly defined in clause 26. We will have it in gold and other currencies.

I want now to mention one point about the exchange control. It is true that the exchange control was introduced in this country, and it is true that it has been reasonably well administered up to now, but it is also equally true that those of us who live in Nairobi have heard of how some very ingenious people have worked out ways of by-passing this control. Some of them have been discovered and I am glad to see that some people have been brought to court. I hope, therefore, that when the central bank is established, as this matter is very important for us to be able to control the movement of money in and out of this country, that the central bank will be given a sufficiently large and experienced staff for them to operate a reasonably fool-proof exchange control system. As it is now, we hear of too many loopholes. I will not tire the hon. Members by repeating them. I have had occasion to mention them where they should be mentioned. However, it is a terrible thing that when a control is brought about that some people can get round it.

I do hope, Mr. Speaker, as is stated in clause 34 that the banks here will, in fact, want to use the facilities of the central bank for bank clearings.

As regards the discounts which are mentioned in clause 35, the hope of each one of us is that the central bank will become, in fact, the patron for the promotion of the development of a local money market. For a long time the Nairobi money market has been growing very slowly and gradually. The existing East African Currency Board did help try to encourage the growth of this money market but because, through no fault of their own, they did not have sufficient power to do it, they could not do as much as was wanted of them. Now, as we see here, the bank will have sufficient powers to do all this discounting to determine rates of interest, to give advances both for crop finances and storage, as well as for the importation and exportation of goods, and all this, I hope, therefore, that the bank will from the very beginning make it its business to help those who are trying to promote the expansion of a local money market. Now, this is very important and I have heard some people very mistakenly, Mr. Speaker, bring in the wrong idea that we did not need this because we have stated in Sessional Paper No. 10 that we Africans are going to have an African Socialist economy. Now, we have stated in that paper that the economy will be a mixed economy. In other words, it will be a public sector and the private sector, in which case we shall continue to need a co-ordination of lending and borrowing which a money market usually does.

Mr. Speaker, I very much welcome the sections from section 38 onwards which give this bank sufficient powers to direct and, above all, to give instructions as to the terms of borrowing and lending which should be operated by the specified banks located in Kenya. We have seen this in other countries, where the local banks which are owned by parent banks in far-away

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry]

As far as the currency is concerned, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would thank the hon. Minister for at last deciding to give us our own Kenya currency. I hope that the notes and the coins that will be made will not be as simple and as cheap as some we have seen in other countries. We would like the strength of the paper on which notes will be printed to be as tough as the notes we now have because if they are printed on light paper they will become torn by being kept by people at home. Some of these notes are kept inside pots and are sealed up with cow dung, and they might tear in the course of this storage. So, I would ask the Minister here to emphasize to the people who will print the currency that the material on which the notes will be printed should be the type of material we have at this time, and not cheap paper as I have seen in other countries.

I do not want to tire the House in saying much on this Bill, Mr. Speaker. The country has been waiting for this Bill and I am sure hon. Members will support this Bill for the establishment of our own bank in this country.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support the Bill.

Mr. Warlithi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to join my colleagues in welcoming this Bill for which we have been waiting for a long time, and at the same time we might as well say that it is one of the outcomes of the failure which most of us expected to be brought about by the failure of the Federation of the East African territories. This having failed, it is quite fair that our Government and other East African Governments should start taking care of their own finances and establishing their own institutions, one of which being the central bank which is provided for in this Bill.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is quite true that a central bank is quite important for any country and, as the Minister said, when you go through this Bill you find that it has been prepared with all the expert advice one could get in that there is very little which one could actually criticize, except here and there where one would like to find out why these provisions have been inserted.

On section 7 perhaps the Minister would tell us why it is that it is provided that the bank shall not be liable to any taxation in respect of any income or profits. Well, maybe the Minister could tell us why this has been found to be necessary. In section 14, Mr. Speaker, Sir, which has been referred to by one Member before, one wonders why we, in this House, have been exempted, and we believe that there are certain brains in this House which might be able to assist the Minister in forming his board of governors.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is another point which I would like to point out and ask a question about. It is with regard to the importance of this bank, under the external regulations, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I therefore think it would be fair for us to be told by the Minister the amount of our external assets. It has just been provided with a name, but in terms of figures or what they are, we are not aware, and therefore I think we would be quite interested in knowing what the external assets are.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, under section 30, I think I can say that we are quite happy to be able to have a bank that will control the exchange control. There has been certain difficulties with regard to the present arrangement whereby we did not have our own central bank, and therefore, I think, that after having this bank it will be easier to control the amount of money that comes in and goes out of the country. I am quite happy with this section.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, without repeating myself and what has been said, I would like to support the Bill and hope that it will enable us to control the amount of money we have in the country and to generate our economy in the field of development.

The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, one hon. Member is saying that I am going to be long but, Sir, this is not my intention.

Mr. Anyleni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was me who whispered to my hon. friend that the Bill has been kept here for too long, and that the Assistant Minister was going to speak for too long.

The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I doubt if that is a point of order.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like very much to congratulate the Minister for having brought forward this Bill, and I believe that all of us would like to thank those who have joined in the drafting of this Bill. Those who have read other legislation relating to the question of the central banking have been overwhelmed by the complexity of that legislation, and the fact that we have a Bill here which is simple, concise and written in a language which everybody can follow. I think this is a great credit to those who have drafted it, and we should, all of us, join in thanking them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am surprised that one hon. Member stood up here and questioned whether this would be a private enterprise when he knows or ought to know, that a central bank is the most important institution of this Government for the control of not only currency, but credit and general fiscal policy. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question therefore of what doubts were in his mind we just cannot see how they arose. Perhaps, Sir, it is not appreciated by some people that currency is one of the most important services that any Government, in any country, can provide to the citizens of that country. We have seen, Mr. Speaker, Sir, empires and big nations ruined and go under merely because the Administration was unable to administer the currency and it came out of hand. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the ordinary man and woman in this country has come to take it so much for granted that his currency is secure, that this problem never occurs to him. Now, Sir, we believe, in fact, we hope, and are almost certain, that under the new arrangement which is being brought forward, that that happy situation, where we in this nation have never had to worry about the value of our currency, will be maintained. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for that reason I personally welcome the strict measures that have been outlined here for limiting the volume of credit that can be automatically advanced to the Government and to other institutions by the central bank. It is important, in our own interest, that the procedures for those matters should be strict so that nobody will go easily to this particular institution, it ought to be the institution to which we go to as the last resort, when we have no other ways of dealing with our matters.

[The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I differ entirely with those Members who have suggested that we should have any Members connected with this legislation or with this National Assembly being considered for the board of governors for this bank. One of the most important things, and one of the most important aspects of the central bank which must be guarded is that the bank should have a large measure of independence to be able to evaluate the economic conditions, to be able, on its own, to evaluate the results of Government policy, as it affects money and monetary and credit conditions, to be able freely, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to make a judgment as to what are the necessary actions are in order to direct the movement of credit and to control the volume of that credit in an economy. If a central bank, Mr. Speaker, does not have that much independence, then clearly it cannot perform the functions which it is supposed to do. Also if the central bank is not able to have independent judgment it becomes superfluous and we might just as well have everything controlled through the Government department called the Treasury. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if a central bank is set up at all, it should be made sure that they have complete independence so that they can be the source of a second opinion on the feasibility and practicability of the Government economic policy. If we do not establish it as an independent centre, which can make up its own mind and form its own opinion, then it is superfluous, as I have said, and there is no need to have it. We might just as well have the one opinion of the existing Government department, the Treasury.

It is therefore, Sir, the practice all over the world that the appointments to the governorship and to the board of the central bank is done by the Head of State, and it is for that reason that these powers are vested in the President here. It is also for that reason that we do not want the governor or the deputy governor of the central bank to have other business connexions. He must be entirely a full-timer connected with the central bank so that his judgment will not be influenced by other interests. In fact, Sir, this Bill is not as strict as the Members are suggesting because it is provided that the President may, in fact, make exemptions where it is absolutely necessary. But I hope that this can be exercised with a measure of reserve.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the only other point I would like to raise with regard to this side of the matter, membership, etc., is the hope that in this one area we should at least not be pestered by the usual political arguments about who is to be appointed. I believe, Mr. Speaker, Sir, personally, that this is an area which is so important for the whole national economy that the President ought to seek advice on who should be appointed and there should be no consideration of any other irrelevant, political or personal consideration, because, Sir, the most important thing here is to have a man with stature, a man who can have independent judgment, a man who, as Governor of this Bank, will be able to stand up and speak to the Treasury, to the Ministry for Finance, and to the Government and give the proper advice. Above all, Sir, we must not forget the fact that it will be for this bank to control the operations of all the other banks in this country and this is a task which you cannot leave in untested hands; in hands of people without experience. It has to be someone who is going to be able to carry this very heavy burden.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to mention briefly with regard to Part 5, the question of the par value of the currency. I am sure that we all welcome what the Minister for Finance has said, that the intention, and, in fact, the policy of the Government, is to continue a stable currency, as Provision for the bank's control over credit and, in particular, over the commercial banks is provided in Part VII, clauses 34 to 43. All necessary powers are conveyed in these clauses.

[The Minister for Finance]

With regard to the external stability of the currency, the bank will be bound to deal in foreign currencies, principally Sterling, at its par value, determined by agreement with the International Monetary Fund, thus keeping the margins of selling and buying rates within very narrow limits. Moreover, the bank is required, under clause 26, to use its best endeavours to maintain a reserve of external assets not less than the value of four months' imports.

The original reserve which the bank will take over will probably be less than this amount, but I hope that the bank will be able to achieve this extent of reserves within a reasonable period of years.

An important part of the bank's functions will be to act as bankers to the Government, and the relations between the bank and the Government, and the bank and other public bodies, are covered in Part VIII, in clauses 44 to 50. Experience in other countries has shown that a major danger to the stability of a currency arises if the borrowings of the Government from its central bank are not limited; and there is specific provision in clause 48, limiting the total amount of advances which the bank can make to the Government. In general, the Government will use these facilities mainly on a short-term basis, to cover temporary cash difficulties such as those which arise in the first six months of each financial year, owing to an excess of expenditure over revenue in that particular period, and also cash difficulties that arise on the development side, owing to the gap between expenditure on development projects and receipt of aid from the sources from which the particular project is being financed. It would be misleading for hon. Members to think that the creation of the central bank will enable the Government to have access to far more money, either for recurrent or development expenditure, than is now the case.

The provisions dealing with the appointment of the board of directors are contained in clauses 10 to 18 and care has been taken to see that there will be proper liaison and consultation between the central bank and the Treasury without depriving the central bank of its independence in its own field.

The provision for the capital of the bank is contained in clause 8 and the money, namely £1.3 million which would be issued as required out of the Consolidated Fund, would be obtained from our share of the surplus assets of the currency board.

This Bill has been carefully prepared on the basis of the best expert advice which I would obtain. I do not think that the provisions in it are controversial and I confidently recommend it to the House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to support this Bill which has been brought by the Minister because in this Bill two main provisions are very important and very impressive; that is that the Kenya currency will not be less strong than it has been up to now and will be in no way inferior.

I am very grateful to hear from the Minister that the change will not make our currency inferior in any sense and, indeed, in East Africa we shall stand superior as far as the currency aspect is concerned and, also, the international bodies concerned with currency will respect our currency. This is a very good reflection for a country which has attained independence within about two years, and for this I would like to congratulate the Minister very much for achieving and attaining this stage.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to have some explanation as to how we can draw on our international reserves and I would also like to have an indication as to what type of reserves these are because it is very important. Sometimes some African countries run bankrupt—other countries do this too—but if we know that there is something to which we can resort and where it is and who is keeping it, perhaps we may be able to make use of that reserve at certain periods.

I note that there is a chap called the "governor" of the bank and the deputy governor. Now, is the Minister returning to this colonial period and bringing back governors and deputy governors? Could not the Minister choose a better word, like the manager of the bank, or the president of the bank, or the chairman of the bank, instead of calling him the governor or the deputy governor, because we have quite a number of governors around the places and this may confuse our people?

Now, according to the explanation in the Bill this bank is a private enterprise. I would like to stand for correction here. I see the Minister shaking his head, I think he has implied that it is a

[Mr. Ngala]
Government undertaking. I would like to have a further explanation on the relationship between this board and the Ministry of Finance, particularly the powers that the Minister will have over the governor or the deputy governor of the bank.

When we have our own currency I would suggest that there should be a maize cob somewhere, as well as the head of the Head of State, something which is outstanding for the economy of the country should be shown somewhere on the currency. I therefore suggest a maize cob. The Minister may be in a better position to suggest something else which is more prominent than a maize cob, but I do not think he could find any other because this is the basic food of the people and it is the most popular thing in the country judging from our experience two years ago.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the members who would be sitting on the board—in this country we have very few people who are experienced in financial matters at the level of experts. I would like to know from the Minister how he is going to select these people, so that we can be quite sure of the safety and security of the money in the bank. If we are already losing maize we can easily lose shillings, and therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words I would like to support the Minister.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to say a few words in this debate concerning this Bill.

Firstly, I would like to mention to the Minister that I do think the name he has chosen for the bank would not be a very appealing one in the ears of many people; it is rather long and I think it would have been better had he called it "The Bank of Kenya" rather than "The Central Bank of Kenya". However, we have been waiting for a very long time for a Bill like this to establish a bank for the country, which the people of this country can be proud of, rather than having foreign banks here.

I see in clause 5, Mr. Speaker, that during an emergency the President may direct that the headquarters of the bank could be moved to another place within Kenya or elsewhere. Now, this "elsewhere" is the word I do not want in this clause. Mr. Speaker, because when it is moved elsewhere it might be moved to a country which, after the emergency, might refuse to return our money to our country, or refuse to return the headquarters of the bank here. So, I would like the Minister to decide where he would want to move this bank during an emergency. It would be a good idea if it were to be moved inside Kenya, and not outside Kenya, because we cannot always trust foreign countries as being safe with money and, in fact, Mr. Speaker, one cannot trust money in any foreign hands. I am sure that the Minister would not even trust his own money in my hands. So, Mr. Speaker, I would like the Minister to consider removing this phrase where it says "or elsewhere" in clause 5.

Whilst on clause 5, Mr. Speaker, I see that the Minister has provided that the bank would have branches in any place in Kenya which could be opened and closed by the bank. I would appeal to the Minister here, Mr. Speaker, that if possible the first bank should be situated in Busia on the border of Kenya and Uganda so that we could save money from our brethren who are now working in Uganda and who have started to bring back their money and bank it with a commercial bank that is now operating in Busia. If the Minister would consider this—I also remember having written to him regarding the establishment of an immigration office at this place—I think this kind of venture would be very useful in a place like Busia which is right on the border and, of course, I do not overlook the fact that there are other places which are on the border of either Kenya and Uganda or Kenya and Tanzania which would need a branch.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to draw attention to the constitution of the board of directors of this bank, which is in clause 14. The Minister stated that Members of this House would not qualify as members of this board. I support this idea because we find ourselves flooding most of the Government statutory boards with Members of Parliament, but then we have the question of whether we can find people outside this House who would actually be better than Members taken from this House. Here, Mr. Speaker, I see the Minister saying, "Yes", but it would become very difficult if the bank would be appointed from one province or one section of the people of this country. Allowance should be given, and when His Excellency the President is nominating these directors, they should cover the country. It may so happen that in areas like Masai the people who would probably be appointed would be the hon. Members of this House. So, consideration should be given to this. I see the hon. Mr. Araman is looking at me, and I think that if His Excellency the President considered appointing someone from the northern tip of Kenya he might turn to this House and nominate and appoint a Member of this House. So, I think that this clause is a bit harsh if it excludes Members of this House completely from being appointed as members of the board of directors.

[Mr. Mboya] a certain agreement among themselves. The conditions which governed the Egyptian Government in accepting a certain relationship with the Soviet Union are not necessarily applicable to Kenya, and we have decided, on this occasion, that we do not intend to apply the same formula. I am not saying that we will never import commodities from the Soviet Union for the purposes of credit; in fact, we are doing so now by importing sugar. But it must be such commodities as we feel able to sell and which we think can be sold quickly enough to generate sufficient currency for the programme we have in hand. But for the people who cannot wait another four years for us to sell goods this would not just be a practical approach to the problem.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister clarify this position? How was this agreement signed on the goods to be sold in Kenya? Was it signed by a mistake, whereby the Government found that such goods which were agreed on were not to be sold in Kenya? Or was there no agreement signed between the people of Kenya and the Soviet Union to sell certain kinds of goods?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already said—and we should be fair to the Russians—that it is true that an agreement was signed in 1964 and it is true that, under the agreement, there was a stipulation that certain projects—about seven out of nine projects—would be based on this commodity credit agreement. It is also true that a schedule was attached to the agreement, indicating the kind of commodities that could be sold in Kenya. But, Mr. Speaker, it is also true that it was agreed, and stipulated in the said agreement, that these matters would be subject to individual negotiation when the time came.

When, therefore, the time came to negotiate the individual agreements, we, having examined the entire situation, found that this was not going to be a practical approach to the problem. This is why we asked—and the Russian Government agreed—if we could meet to review the agreement. As a result of that, not only the Kano Plains Irrigation Programme but a number of other schemes were all reviewed. About two or three schemes were immediately removed from the 1964 agreement, and about four or five schemes were varied, such as the one I was referring to when replying a few minutes ago.

Therefore, it is not just the Kano Irrigation Scheme but a number of other schemes which are affected by this review, and the Russian Government accepted this review.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must go on now.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION BY PRIVATE NOTICE: KANO IRRIGATION SCHEME TALKS

Mr. Bala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the Government announcements on this matter and in view of the fact that the reply given by the Minister is not satisfactory, I would like to ask you to allow me to raise this matter on adjournment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members will observe that on the adjournment today Mr. Masinde is to raise the matter noted on the Order Paper.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 14

ACCOMMODATION AT MACHAKOS GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. Malinda: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wish to be given permission to move the adjournment of the House under Standing Order 14 so as to raise a matter of importance in respect of the deplorable lack of accommodation at Machakos Girls' High School.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As hon. Members know, I have to decide whether that is sufficiently definite and sufficiently urgent to justify this procedure, in which event it is really for the House to judge the scale of its importance. According to what Mr. Malinda has described to me, it is a very definite matter of lack of accommodation for girls at this school, the term of which, of course, has already been running. It is also apparently a very urgent matter, and so I think I must leave it to the House to judge whether it is of large enough public importance to justify this procedure, which depends on Mr. Malinda having the support of ten or more Members.

(A number of hon. Members stood in their places)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, there are more than ten. In that case, I will allow Mr. Malinda to move the adjournment of the House at 6 p.m. today.

POINT OF ORDER

RULING ON MATTERS THAT CAN BE RAISED UNDER S.O. 14

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, this is in connexion with a question that was answered by the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, Sir, since this matter is very important to us, and since many of us feel [Mr. Gatuguta] that the Russians seem to be interested in development in one area of the country and not in others, can we raise this matter under Standing Order 14 as a matter of national importance?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would want to know exactly what matter you want to raise, because it has to be a very definite matter, you know. If you can explain that, Mr. Gatuguta, I can consider it further.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has started answering this question, he has mentioned the Kano Irrigation Scheme, which is in Nyanza. He has also mentioned the Kisumu Hospital, which is in Nyanza. There was also a question here of the Russian-sponsored textile industry, which was also to be in Nyanza. We believe that there must be many other development schemes in Nyanza.

Many of us, Sir, in this House would like to know whether the Russians have other development schemes in the Rift Valley, the Central Province and at the Coast. Why should this particularly affect Nyanza?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! That is nothing like sufficiently definite for the application of Standing Order 14.

Next Order.

BILL

Second Reading

THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Central Bank of Kenya Bill be now read a Second Time.

In my Budget speech on 10th June, I explained that, in spite of the best efforts of this Government, it had not been possible to reach agreement on the setting up of a central bank for East Africa, and the maintenance of a common East African currency. I very much regret this outcome, but it is no good crying over spilt milk or indulging in recriminations over past events. We must face the facts as they are; and I am happy to say that I am sure that there will be full co-operation between the three East African Governments in ensuring that the change-over from one currency to three, and from one currency board to three central banks, will be carried out smoothly and successfully.

If, however, I have feelings of regret in having to introduce this Bill, I also have feelings of pride. A central bank is an important part of the financial structure of an independent country, and we would have had one earlier if we had not sought strenuously to achieve what I still believe would have been a better result, namely a central bank for East Africa. We will all be proud when our new currency notes are issued later this year, with the head of our President on them; and I hope that it will not be very long after that we will be able to issue our own coinage. If, however, we are to be proud of our new currency, we must ensure that it retains its value within East Africa and internationally, and this Bill has been drawn up in a manner which will help to do this.

I have heard it said that the new currency will be less strong than the existing East African currency. This I must emphatically deny. About one-third of the currency in circulation in East Africa is in Kenya, and our central bank is likely to inherit rather more than one-third of the external assets of the currency board, as we have made rather less use than either Uganda or Tanzania of the present fiduciary issue. The new Kenya currency will, therefore, have at least as adequate a backing in external reserves as the currency now in circulation.

We also have the right to draw on our quota with the International Monetary Fund in case of need. Provided we continue to follow a sound financial policy, and I am sure that we will, we will have no difficulty in maintaining the value of the new Kenya currency.

I now turn to the Bill which was prepared on the basis of advice from experts of the International Monetary Fund, whose help I gratefully acknowledge. The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons sets out clearly the purpose of the various parts of the Bill; and I do not think that I need go into very great detail at this stage, although I will be glad to answer specific points of specific clauses at the Committee stage.

I would like to draw the attention of hon. Members to some of the more important features of the Bill. In principle, the objects of the bank are set out in clause 4. These are to regulate the issue of notes and coins; to assist in development and maintenance of a sound monetary credit and banking system, conducive to the orderly and balanced economic development of the country, and the external stability of the currency; and to serve as banker and financial adviser to the Government. The necessary powers to enable the bank to achieve its object in relation to currency are provided in Part IV, in clauses 19 to 25. It will be noted that, under clause 23, the existing East African Currency Board currency notes and coins will continue to be legal tender during the transitional period.

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

and we can no longer afford to see it lie idle. The Government has, therefore, approached other countries and groups to help finance this scheme. In addition, it has now been decided to establish irrigation on a much wider scheme than initially was envisaged under the Kano Irrigation Plan. Instead, the Government now wishes to cover a total of 134,000 acres as against the previous 35,000 acres. This will be done in the West Kenya Complex and instead of just dealing with the Kano Plains, we intend now to include irrigation schemes from South Nyanza, Central Nyanza and Busia District.

I would like, Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, to assure the House that the Kenya Government is most grateful to the Government of the United Socialist Soviet Republics for the other assistance that we have received from them. A hospital is being built at Kisumu and two secondary technical schools are to be built through their assistance in addition to other assistance that we will continue to negotiate with them. I also want to emphasize that, regardless of some heckling by some Members that we might be against some people for ideological reasons, in fact we wish to continue the friendship with the Soviet Union and the people of that country on the terms already defined in our Sessional Paper: that of complete non-alignment.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am interested in the procedure of the House. I would just like to know—I am glad that Members approve of the Minister's answer—whether the answer which the Minister has just given would not normally be given in writing, or is it all right in the procedure which we have in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As I have said, unless actually direct that a question shall be for written reply and not oral reply, it is at the discretion of the Ministry as to whether they give the reply in writing or orally. The principle, as I have said before, is that if it is very long or detailed, then it should normally be given in writing. It is not a principle very easily applied to a question by private notice, because the whole point of a question by private notice is that it is a matter of some urgency, and one wants the reply urgently and an opportunity for the House to hear it. This was a long reply, but it was not a difficult reply to absorb, which is the main reason for requiring a reply in writing. It was quite easy to follow, and I would have said that one should not regret that the Minister gave it orally.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would the Minister inform the House which countries our Government has contacted or contracted to help the irrigation schemes, and whether the Government has actually agreed with their feasibility studies on the proposals made by these countries?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the first place, negotiations with these other countries and groups—and I hope the hon. Member recognizes that I have said countries and groups—are progressing and I do not wish at this stage to name the countries or groups. We will do this as soon as we are ready to sign the contracts.

The answer to the second part of the question is that, in fact, the Russians were not going to start to do the schemes, they were going to start to do the feasibility study. The negotiations that we are concluding now are to enable us to have a team on the ground in the areas to be irrigated, so that the feasibility study can be started, and the second part of the team's work will be to start on a pilot scheme which, in this case, will be about 2,000 acres, that will immediately be put under irrigation. It must be noted that the 2,000 acres is four times what the Russians were going to do, which was only 500.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, how does the Minister reconcile the statement he made in the Press and the statement he is making now, in which he says that the costs would be much cheaper comparatively when we have other countries to do the scheme, when, in fact, the Government has not had any feasibility studies up to now?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, the hon. gentleman cannot have read the Press statement properly because what I said—which I still say—is that when you are going to irrigate 35,000 acres of land, you will pay much more in cost per acre than when you want to irrigate 134,000 acres of land. The average expenditure per acre is reduced and the overheads are reduced according to the size of the land that you want to irrigate. It is, therefore, going to be easier to reduce the cost per acre in this larger scheme than it would have been possible in the smaller scheme.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this matter seems to be in abeyance and may cause suspicion, so will the Minister throw some light on whether the recent flight of the President of West Germany and a number of Ministers to these areas means that one of the possible countries is West Germany to carry out the irrigation?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, first I would like to make a correction. The President of West

[Mr. Mboya]

Germany did not fly over the area, but the Minister for Economic Co-operation of Germany, together with the Minister for Agriculture and myself, did visit the area on Sunday afternoon and around the lake belt, the area in which we are developing at the moment sugar and other crops. I can assure the House that the West German Government are very keen supporters of Kenya in her development plans and it is quite possible that they will be interested in this one.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the original reply by the Minister, would the Minister give a breakdown of the Russian goods that were offered amounting to £6 million?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have not the list herewith me, but we do have a schedule of goods that were to be offered, and these included a number of normal household goods as well as normal personal goods, like boots, clothes, watches, and things like that. Also, there were textiles and things like that. Mr. Speaker, the other products that were offered to us in respect of buildings included cement, nails, timber and a few other things.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, would we have had to suppress the importation of nails and Russian sand for building as we make and export our own nails and cement? We also have sufficient building timber here, surely?

Mr. Mboya: Yes, Sir, we have been able to persuade the Russians that we do not need to import into Kenya cement because we are exporting cement ourselves. We do not need to import timber, because we are exporting timber. We do not intend to import nails because we are exporting nails, and we certainly do not need sand. In fairness to the Russians, they did not offer sand. But, Mr. Speaker, instead of importing these items in order to enable us to go ahead with the job of completing the Kisumu Hospital and also the establishment of the two secondary technical schools, we are importing from the Soviet Union sugar to the value that would generate enough currency, and this is because we still import sugar in Kenya.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order Mr. Speaker, it seems that this question is a very important one. Members are interested in it, especially we in Central Nyanza. We in Central Nyanza are very much interested in this scheme, it is very important for us, and I think it is important for the country. Since Members seem to inject some kind of politics into this matter, would it not be in order for the hon. gentleman who asked this question to move that this matter be discussed under Standing Order 14 so that even I myself can speak?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is always in order for an hon. Member to suggest that he moves the adjournment of the House under Standing Order 14, but he would not suggest it with any success on this occasion.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that, for example, the United States and Britain were defeated, or were unable to finance the Aswan Dam in the United Arab Republic, and in view of the fact that the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics offered the United Arab Republic some finance to the tune of more than £200 million to complete the Aswan Dam, would the Minister now tell us why it became completely impossible for the Russians to finance a scheme which was going to cost much less, £6 million as compared with £200 million?

Would the Minister also tell us whether this was a deliberate refusal by the Russians to finance this scheme by saying that they wanted to sell these things?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, firstly, I would like to say I am surprised to hear the remarks of the hon. Assistant Minister for Finance, because the Ministry in which he works has dealt all the time with this matter.

Mr. Speaker, as regards the question by the hon. Member for Majengo-Bassi. I would like the House to know this: that in the hall where we were carrying out negotiations in the Soviet Union, right behind the Kenya delegation, on the wall, was a big picture of the Aswan Dam, and, at some point in the negotiations, we turned to the Russian representatives and pointed out to them precisely what the hon. Member for Majengo-Bassi is saying. We asked them why it was found difficult to finance a Kenya project which was so many times smaller than the Aswan Dam, when they had done so much work in Egypt. And we wondered whether there was any reason why our project could not be dealt with in the same way. For the hon. Member's information—and for the information of the House—we were told by the leader of the Soviet negotiating team that, in fact, they never gave the Egyptians any money in cash; it was a credit commodity agreement which involved the Russians exporting commodities to Egypt for sale over a period of years, and which involved the Egyptians paying back in commodities and through some of their crops over a period of years.

Mr. Speaker, it is not for me to comment on the fact that the Russians and the Egyptians reached

Question No. 359

RUSSIAN-SPONSORED TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development if he would tell the House when the Russian-sponsored textile industry was going to be established in Homa Bay.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply: The establishment of a cotton textile factory at Homa Bay with Russian aid, which was originally proposed for 1965/1966, has now been deferred indefinitely by agreement between the Kenya Government and the U.S.S.R. Government. It is one of the loan credit projects in respect of which dates for establishment were left open and at the pleasure of our Government.

The market survey of textile products to be manufactured in connexion with this project has revealed that the capacity already licensed by the East African Industrial Licensing Council is just about adequate for the period up to 1970. The Government, therefore, feels that until the marketing situation improves, the project would not be viable.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, regarding the last part of the Minister's reply, is the Minister aware that the country concerned had agreed that there was a possibility and that possibilities were there with regard to the market situation and that the erection of this textile industry was possible, but only that this was being negotiated? Is the Minister aware of that?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, I am aware that the agreement stipulated the possibility of a textile industry in Homa Bay and this was based on the assumption that the cotton production would be sufficient for such a mill. But I am also aware that the statistical data and the necessary information for taking the final decision rests with the Kenya Government. The Russian Government or technicians did not, and I must make this quite clear, carry out a feasibility survey to be able to determine the potential or otherwise of such a mill, and it was after these considerations that the project was deferred.

Mr. Anylen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Government went to great lengths to discuss this matter with the Russians, would the Minister agree with me, that the Ministers who were having discussions in connexion with this project, were not supplied with sufficient data in order to allow them to negotiate meaningfully and that they were merely discussing something which it was never intended should materialize at all?

Mr. Mboya: No, Sir.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister assure this House that the establishment of a textile industry at Homa Bay, although now deferred for some time, will have to come within this period and not after 1970?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am prepared to agree with the hon. Member and, in fact, the Government has already set in motion a programme which will enable us to expand the cotton industry substantially within the next three years. Depending upon the success of this programme, a textile mill is feasible and it is possible even before 1970.

Question No. 280

SETTLEMENT ON CHERANGANI/SUWERWA SCHEMES

Mr. Lorema, on behalf of Mr. arap Too, asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would inform the House of the total number of persons who had already been settled on the Cherangani/Suwerwa Schemes since the time they started.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As at 31st December 1965, 173 families had been settled on the Cherangani Scheme and 221 on the Suwerwa Scheme.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell this House how many could be settled in the places he is talking about?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, although I do not think the hon. Member asking the question has any idea where the question refers to, I will reply to his rather vague question. We have another thirty-three plots in Cherangani to allocate and 117 plots in Suwerwa.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, would the Assistant Minister tell the House how many of these settlers are proper Marakwet?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have repeatedly said in this House that we do not allocate plots to our settlers on tribal basis.

QUESTION BY PRIVATE NOTICE

KANO IRRIGATION SCHEME TALKS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have a question by private notice, Mr. Bala? Will you ask it now?

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister for Economic Planning and Development tell the House why the U.S.S.R. trade experts were not allowed discussions with Kenya experts to solve the only remaining problem in the Kano irrigation talks; that of selling U.S.S.R. goods in Kenya for meeting local costs, before deciding to abandon the whole project?

[Mr. Bala]

Would the Minister assure the House that new negotiations for the Nile Basin Irrigation Scheme will not take such a long time?

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I first explain that this question has so much in it that I would like to take some time in replying. I cannot reply to it in a simple sentence, yes, or, no, and, therefore, the House will bear with me when I give some background to the question.

The hon. gentleman will no doubt be aware of the history of the Kano irrigation project extending way back to May 1964 when the first discussions were held with the Government of the United Soviet Socialist Republic to establish friendship and co-operation between Kenya and the Soviet Union. In fact, the United Soviet Socialist Republic became the first friendly country with which Kenya signed an agreement for economic co-operation.

The Kano Plains project was one of the most important schemes in which the Russians declared a willingness to assist Kenya. The project was discussed at length both in Moscow and in Nairobi with a number of visiting Russian missions. During 1965, however, it became apparent that, for a number of reasons, it would be extremely difficult to utilize Russian assistance on the terms and conditions upon which it was offered. The main problem was, of course, that of meeting the local cost expenditure on the project. This was estimated at a total of £6 million over the four-year implementation period. The Russians proposed to assist us in meeting the local cost of the scheme by a commodity credit under which the Government would sell on the open market sufficient commodity products from Russia, which would then generate sufficient local currency to meet our local financial commitments on the project.

For a number of reasons, these proposals were unsatisfactory to the Government. In the first place, there was the time factor. The Kenya Government could never be sure that it would be able to sell all the produce from Russia, nor that the sale of the commodities would fit in with the phasing of expenditure on the irrigation scheme.

In addition, the Government had no established machinery for marketing the produce throughout the country, nor was there any guarantee that the Russian products would be competitive on the open market with similar commodities from other sources.

In short, the Government could not accept the uncertainty which accompanied the implementation of these proposals for meeting local costs.

In this connexion, I should like to draw the hon. Member's attention to a statement which I issued recently, covering the whole question of aid and technical assistance from the United Soviet Socialist Republic. I should have liked to take the liberty, Mr. Speaker, or quoting from my statement at some length, but perhaps I should assume that hon. Members have read the statement, and it might not be useful to quote this part of the statement.

Mr. Speaker, all I want to say in summary of what I said in my statement—and I will make this available to the hon. Member—is that the Kenya Government sent a mission of three Ministers to Moscow, led by myself, in order to attempt to persuade the Russian Government that they should vary the 1964 agreement, and the position we put to the Russians in Moscow was that if they did not have the money in cash they might attempt to arrange the whole thing through a third country which had convertible currency and which would be willing to give it to us or to them for the purposes of fulfilling this project. The Russians then replied to us, after we came back, on the 3rd February in an aide memoire as follows: They said that they did not in principle give money to any recipient country and they could not, therefore, vary the 1964 agreement. They said also that they could not negotiate with a third country. They, therefore, came back to us and insisted that the 1964 agreement must be implemented in full, and that the Kenya Government must agree to accept from the Soviet Union goods to the value of £6 million, which would be sold on the Kenya market to generate the currency needed for the project.

Mr. Speaker, the Kenya Government has decided against the financing of the scheme through a commodity credit scheme. Such arrangement would take too long.

If the hon. Member is a spokesman for the communists, I am not a spokesman for anything!

Such arrangement, Mr. Speaker, would take too long as it depends on the successful sale of goods from the Soviet Union. We are not even in a position to guarantee that such a sale would generate enough local currency. The Government is convinced that it would be wrong to continue to ask the people in the Kano Plains to exercise patience. Each year is a year of misery for these people. They suffer either from drought or flood. The land in the area has a very high potential this committee has now submitted its report to the Government and I shall be laying it on the Table of this House shortly. Until then, I would ask the hon. Member to wait for the Government's pronouncement, but the proposal is evidently welcome since the Government put it in the terms of reference of the National Wages Policy Advisory Committee.

[Mr. Kubal]

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Assistant Minister's reply, will he assure the House that he will take into consideration the decisions of the trade unions as far as this matter is concerned?

Mr. Kubal: Would the hon. Member repeat his question?

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Assistant Minister's reply, could he assure the House that he will take into consideration the recommendations of the trade union movement in so far as this matter is concerned?

Mr. Kubal: Yes, all the parties were represented in this National Wages Policy Advisory Committee; there were representatives of the trade unions, the Kenya Federation of Employers and the Government and their findings are what the Ministry has submitted to the Government for consideration.

Question No. 358

TITLE DEEDS IN HOMA BAY

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement how many African and Asian traders in Homa Bay Constituency had had title deeds for their shops, lands and other permanent buildings.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The present position is that sixty-eight leases have been issued for trading plots in Homa Bay, fourteen leases in Marindji Market and seven leases in Ranga Market, all of which places are situated within the Homa Bay Constituency. It is not altogether clear whether or not Sare Market is situated within the constituency, but it seems probable that it is and at Sare nineteen leases have been issued for trading plots.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister tell me what he is doing now to issue more leases to these people in my constituency because many forms go unapproved by various bodies who should give loans to my constituents because of lack of leases, and yet there are quite a number of properties that must get the same leases as those that have been given?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the issue of leases is a continuous process and the granting of leases depends on a number of factors and conditions, and all those that apply for them are issued with them. Mr. Speaker, I am unable to tell what special action we are taking because this is a continuous process.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister tell me how many Africans have leases in those areas concerned and how many Asians there are with those leases, because the most important thing is to know how many of the two races hold these leases?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the problem here is that the leases are not issued on a racial basis and nobody is required to give his race before a lease is issued to him. If I must inform the hon. Member of the number of Africans who have been issued with leases, this would call for a strenuous and long search, because the issue of leases is not based on racial background.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that most of the title deeds have always been given to Asians and not to African traders and, as such, we must know at this stage how many Africans have been given title deeds since independence, at least?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all I do not agree with the hon. Member, but if it is a question of how many titles have been issued since independence, that is a specific thing and with sufficient notice, it would be possible to supply such information.

Mr. Gatiguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that the Asian traders in Homa Bay constituency, and also in other constituencies in the country, who have been given title deeds and so on to trade are a great menace to the African traders, and is he doing anything to see that the Asian traders are not encouraged to expand their business in these areas and also, to see that Africans will be given priority in this matter?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, here again I would not agree with the hon. Member and, as I said, the issue of leases is a continuous process and is non-discriminate.

Mr. Warlith: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister has said that he could not give the number of African or Asian traders who have been given leases, but, Mr. Speaker, the question specifically requests him to let the House know how many African and Asian traders have been given title deeds.

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I have replied to that question.

Mr. Anylen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that the reason why he has refused to state the races who have been given leases is because practically all the people who have been given these leases are Asians and not Africans and he is ashamed of that?

Mr. Gachago: No, Sir.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to the end of this question, would the Assistant Minister now agree with me that all the areas he has mentioned, and the centres he has mentioned, are purely and straightforwardly occupied by Asians and that no Africans are there, and these leases are for the Asians?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this does not require any question and an answer is a straightforward thing, that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, most of these areas prior to our independence were occupied by Asians.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would you allow me to put the Assistant Minister right?

Question No. 342

MICA INDUSTRY FOR MACHAKOS

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he would tell the House if he favoured the promotion of a mica industry in Machakos District where the following minerals have been found in large quantities: (a) quartz, (b) muscovite and kyanite, (c) pyrite.

The Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Ayodo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to correct one typographical error. In part (b) of the question, it should read, "muscovite" and not "huscovite".

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I expect that is our fault and not the hon. Member's.

Mr. Ayodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I note that in his question the hon. Member uses the word "promotion", perhaps implying that he would like my Ministry to organize a mica industry in Machakos District. To operate such an industry requires technical skill and some financial resources. My Ministry can only give technical advice and some specialized laboratory services to the people who wish to mine mica, but it cannot go further than this at the moment.

Perhaps, the hon. Member is aware that my Ministry made an attempt to encourage a mica industry in South Machakos District in co-operation with a local company. Our intention was to get mica miners in the district to join together and mine the mica deposits, which would then be cut and graded and marketed in Nairobi. If the venture were successful, there was a possibility that the International Commonwealth Development Co-operation would support it financially. Unfortunately, nothing came of this scheme. As far as the other minerals, mentioned in the question, are concerned, it is true that quartz, muscovite and kyanite deposits exist. My Ministry is not, however, aware of any significant quantities of pyrite.

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell me what actually led to the failure of the exercise which he has just mentioned? Was it due to the non-co-operation of the mining companies which he has mentioned? What were the causes which led to the failure of this endeavour?

Mr. Ayodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this was because of the inability on the part of local organizers to produce enough samples for sampling in Nairobi here. They were not able to do their end of the work; the local chaps.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, where the Minister says that his Ministry is ready to provide technicians or technical advice and at the moment it cannot go further, which probably meant issue of funds, would the Minister be prepared to negotiate with some other investors who would have some money to invest in Machakos to promote industries concerned with the production of these raw materials which exist there and which the Minister has admitted to exist?

Mr. Oyodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am quite sure that the hon. Member is aware of the Government's policy of encouraging investors in all spheres of our economic activities and anybody interested in investing here in mining will be given every possible encouragement.

Mr. Anylen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister has just said that the failure was because the local people did not do their part and work hard. Would the Minister inform us as to who was responsible for seeing that these local people did their work properly in order to bring about a successful campaign?

Mr. Ayodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, when a local group of people are interested in taking part in an investment in any business of any kind, the responsibility is theirs, to see that they succeed. Of course, I do realize that the Government should come to their aid, which we are doing, and, in fact, we are, right now, looking into the possibilities of giving even further help, but, in this particular case, the responsibility was that of the local people who failed.

Tuesday, 1st March 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

NOTICE OF MOTION

ELECTION OF INDEPENDENCE MEMORIAL

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, speaking as the Member for Ruwamba, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT this House—

- recalling the struggle for independence in this country;
- appreciating the fact that it was because of the shedding of blood by the sons of this country that we regained our Uhuru from the colonialists;

(1) Calls upon the Government of this country in conjunction with the City Council of Nairobi to erect a memorial monument in such an open space as to allow remembrance assembly at the site to be known as "Bustani ya Mashujaa."

(2) Requests that this "Bustani ya Mashujaa" be a place of reverence.

(3) Requests further that on the Kenyatta Day a formal ceremony be conducted in this "Bustani ya Mashujaa."

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 327

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Before proceeding with the questions, I would explain to hon. Members that, by mistake, the last question, No. 327, has appeared on the Order Paper. It was, in fact, a question for written reply, so it will not be asked today. That is the last question, Question 327.

Question No. 272

RAISING OF MINIMUM WAGE

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House what he had done to raise the minimum wages of lowly paid public servants in Kenya in order to meet the present increased cost of living in the country.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyanweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not quite clear to me what the hon. Member for Hamisi implies by "lowly paid public servants in Kenya".

However, taking first the workers in receipt of minimum statutory wages, I can say that their wages are determined by the Minimum Wages Council with the advice of the Labour Advisory Board. The level at which the minimum wages are fixed is determined after careful examination of the various factors influencing wages. Revisions are effected from time to time. In the case of civil servants in the subordinate service, certain allowances have recently been awarded to employees in the big urban centres to cater for the higher cost of living.

In the Public Services as a whole, salaries are examined from time to time with a view to bringing about changes in the structure to accord with changed conditions.

Within the Civil Service, machinery is provided for discussing matters concerning conditions of service. In this way the Government is kept informed of the requirements of the service. The present wage structure was agreed in 1964, after an exhaustive inquiry by a salaries commission. The Government considers this salary structure satisfactory.

Question No. 352

LOW MAIZE PRICE IN KERICHO

Mr. arap Sol asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry why the price of 200 lb. of maize was lower in Kericho District than other districts of the country.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Maize producers in such districts as Meru and Kitui receive less for a bag of 200 lb. of maize than those in Kericho District and the hon. Member's allegation, therefore, is incorrect.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if that is the case, could the Assistant Minister tell the House what they are doing to equalize the price in the country?

Mr. Osogo: The price of maize, Mr. Speaker, cannot be equalized because there is a difference in distances from different districts to the railroad where this maize is railed to the major stores of the Maize Marketing Board.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the railage of maize reduces the price for 200 lb. of maize, would the Government be prepared to subsidize farmers in such districts so that the amount of maize may not be reduced in the country, causing famine?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, it is not the railage of maize that causes this difference, it is the transportation of the maize from the area where it is produced to the railroad.

[Mr. Osogo]

Now I would advise the hon. Member, and other hon. Members here, that if they advise their producers to form co-operative societies, the price of maize will be high because they will be able to carry the maize themselves to the railroad, where they will be paid an equal price of Sh. 37 per bag.

Mr. Omveri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell us why the Kakamega price is higher than the Kisii price and yet Kisii is farther off from the railroad than Kakamega?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, it depends on which railroad the hon. Member has in mind, because Kakamega has Bungoma as a railroad and Mwangi too and others like Broderick Falls. And Butere, Mr. Speaker, I am told. So the hon. Member is not right in suggesting that Kisii would be nearer a railroad than Kakamega.

Mr. arap Biy: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House why the prices of maize at Kisii and Kipsigis are different and yet the two districts are far from the railheads?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, there is a difference of 50 cents only. The Kisii maize producer is paid 50 cents more than the Kipsigis producer.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No. 352: LOW MAIZE PRICE IN KERICHO

Mr. arap Sol: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to raise this matter on adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 343

GOVERNMENT AID FOR ALLIANCE HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House what assistance the Government gave the Alliance High School, Kikuyu, for staffing and for building houses and classrooms. Also what assistance did his Ministry give the school for school amenities.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Alliance High School is a fully maintained school and the Government, therefore, provides tuition and residential accommodation for authorized classes, seconded teachers and salary grants to pay locally employed teachers, and grants towards all other approved expenditure. These grants do not include elements for social amenities other than library books and periodicals.

Question No. 359

RUSSIAN-SPONSORED TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Mr. Ngala-Abok asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development whether he would tell the House when the Russian-sponsored textile industries would be established in Homa Bay.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Who answers for the Ministry of Commerce? We will have to leave this to the end, I think, to see who will then answer.

Question No. 271

WEEKLY WAGES FOR CIVIL SERVANTS

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Labour whether he would consider amending the law in order to enable members of the Civil Servants' Union, including those employed by the National Assembly, to be paid their wages weekly so that many of the debts encountered by them might be avoided.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kubai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The principle of payment of wages at shorter intervals than one month is one which has generally been accepted by the Government. But the Government, however, cannot be expected to amend laws to suit only a particular group of persons in the country, as has been suggested by the hon. Member.

As early as 1954, the Carpenter Committee on African Wages recommended that the Government should actively encourage the weekly payment of wages, but this was not implemented at the time. The Local Civil Servants Salary Commission, generally known as the Pratt Commission, set up in 1963, also recommended the same. Approving the recommendation in principle, the Government set up the National Wages Policy Advisory Committee in March, 1964, and in the terms of reference the committee was required to examine the possibilities of the early introduction of the—

Mr. Mallro: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, could the Assistant Minister read his answer louder so that we can hear it?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You should sit down during a point of order, Mr. Kubai, but would you speak up?

Mr. Kubai: I am sorry, Sir.

Approving the recommendation in principle, the Government set up the National Wages Policy Advisory Committee in March 1964 and, in the terms of reference the committee was required to examine the possibility of the early introduction for the labour force generally of weekly payments of wages. I am glad to report to the House that

[Mr. J. M. Kariuki.]
16. That commission will recommend to the Government and the Government will take action according to the findings of the commission.

At the moment, we have given a great deal of responsibility to the valuers who are valuing this land, but we would like to have a commission which would be receiving evidence, and which would also query the valuers when they valued a particular farm. Now, in order to make sure that the money we gave per acre for a particular farm is a reasonable sum of money, we should have this commission; and in this way also the Government will have an easy way of reaching an agreeable price per acre in a particular area. All farms are not equal. Farms in the Coast Province are not equal in potentiality with the farms in Nyanza Province. Therefore, we feel that if this commission is set up then it will be able to go into details of the valuations.

I would like to point out here, Mr. Speaker, that the valuers themselves, before they give their final decision, must also recommend to the commission which will go into the details and find out if the price is a reasonable valuation of a particular farm.

Without even wasting more of the hon. Members' time, I would like them to come forward and support this amendment of setting up a commission of enquiry.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move the amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Whoever seconds the amendment, I am afraid it will just have to be a formal seconding.

Mr. Kaggin seconded.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is a slight technical difficulty, in that this amendment involves leaving out certain words which the House has decided not to leave out. However, we will overlook that difficulty and start again.

(Question of the first part of the amendment that the words to be left out be left out proposed, put and agreed to)

(Question of the second part of the amendment that words to be inserted be inserted proposed, put and agreed to)

(Question of the Motion, as amended proposed)

Mr. arap Sok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the importance of the amendment, would it be in order for the House to extend the time for the amendment later on? I mean, there are only five minutes left for the Mover to reply, but the amendment is very important and the House should go on speaking on it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House has resolved that these Motions shall be limited to an hour and a half. I cannot disregard that resolution unless, on a particular Motion, I have the leave of the House to go on longer. Well, the House today might give us leave to postpone the Mover's reply until half-past; that gives us five minutes. Whether the House would give us leave another day to go beyond the hour and a half and hear the Mover's reply, I do not know. I think we had better have the Mover's reply now.

I think you had better reply now, Mr. Kariuki.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, I only have a few minutes in which to reply, but those few minutes will be enough for me.

Now, Sir, the Government has been given a mandate by this House to appoint a commission of inquiry to investigate the problem which is involved in land valuation. Therefore, Sir, now the Government has this mandate. I said here earlier that we had not given a mandate to the Government to negotiate the price of land with the British Government; now we are giving the Government the mandate to appoint a commission which will report to the Government the proper price which would be reasonable for the new settlers.

Now, Sir, the Assistant Minister has just said that the answer for settlement schemes is that Government is required to have a lot of money. But we would have a lot of money if the Government was open to get loans from anywhere in the world. But now they confine themselves to the British Government only and we understand that the British Government is giving them instructions on what they should buy—

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, could the hon. Member substantiate his allegation that the Government confines itself to loans from Britain only?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Yes, Mr. Speaker. It is well known, and I do not think there is anything there to substantiate because it is confined. Could the Assistant Minister tell us where else they have got these loans and where else they have applied for loans for land purchase?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is very often frankly impossible to substantiate a negative, but because of that, I think one has to allow an hon. Member to be corrected if he is, in fact, wrong in his statement. So if you say he is wrong in his statement, Mr. Gachago, I think you must have an opportunity of saying so.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Well, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is wrong in alleging that the Government only accepts loans from Britain. The Government is open. It is true that so far we have had loans from the British Government for land but we have loans also from the Land Bank, we have had money from the World Bank, we have had money from Western Germany. Therefore, Sir, the hon. Member is not right to allege that the Government accepts loans from Britain only. We have accepted quite a number of loans from Britain simply because Britain had some interests here before we became independent.

Mr. Kaggin: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, in view of the fact that you have allowed the Minister to correct the hon. Member, if he was wrong, it is not in order for him to tell us specifically whether the Government has had loans for land purchase from any other country except Britain?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are referring to land purchase, Mr. Gachago, are you not? Were you referring to land purchase when you referred to the World Bank?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): And the West German Government?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): No, I was referring to loans.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, it is land purchase that Mr. Kariuki was talking about.

I think we had better let Mr. Kariuki continue now.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is now exactly known that the Minister who replied for the Government is ignorant of what is going on. He does not know. Therefore, Sir, we know that the Government of Kenya is getting money from the British Government, and the British Government only, and therefore the Assistant Minister has no idea of what is going on in the country.

Now, Sir, when the Assistant Minister was talking on behalf of the Government, went on to say that the land in Uganda cost Sh. 500 per acre and in the United States Sh. 3,000 and in the United Kingdom Sh. 4,000. Well, this is not our problem, Sir. We even want our people to be given free land. We do not take into consideration at what price the British Government is selling its land. We are not a party to that. This is not British land. This is African land and we want to see that our African people are settled immediately, without wasting any time.

Therefore, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly:

THAT this House being aware of serious need for the promotion of the settlement schemes in this country and particularly in those most unfortunate districts where settlement schemes have not, as yet, been introduced, and view of the very high prices paid during the last purchasing period of the present scheme this House urges the Government to appoint a commission of inquiry to investigate and recommend to the Government the price of land obtained for settlement purposes.

Mr. arap Sok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether I am in order to put this point of order. I do not know whether this commission will even go into past history.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I am afraid one cannot, as a point of order, go over what a Resolution of the House means. That has to be debated while you are debating the Motion, and not after you have resolved it.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the interruption of business and the House is adjourned until Tuesday, 1st March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at thirty-three minutes past Twelve o'clock.

[The Speaker]

the particular examples that you asked for. If the Assistant Minister will say on what grounds he says that this is the average price, that is in order.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this price has been arrived at as a result of tabulation of the figures of the number of farms we have taken over. We have calculated and found that the average comes to Sh. 186 and if the hon. Member doubts our calculation I will go further and invite the hon. Member to my Ministry. We can show him in black and white how this figure has been arrived at. We cannot arrive at a figure of an average in any other way, except taking into account all the figures we have paid. This is how we have arrived at that figure.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): In order to avoid any misunderstanding, Mr. Gachago, you are not saying, are you, that in no case has more than £10 been paid per acre? You are saying how the average is worked out. That is what Mr. arap Soi is worried about. He says there are cases in which more than £10 per acre was paid. You are not denying that, are you?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Of course, Mr. Speaker, if there is an average there is a case where a higher figure than the average has been paid. This goes without question.

Therefore what I would appeal to the hon. Member is to see the reasons and not to let us bind ourselves to a figure that may be detrimental even to the purpose of this Motion.

I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah) seconded.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have about ten minutes before the Mover replies, and I think debate can be combined with debate on the main question.

Mr. J. M. Kariki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to confine myself to the original Motion and I would like to inform this House that although there are some Members who are disputing there have been higher prices paid in the settlement schemes, I would like to say here that having come from a particular district which is composed of nothing else but settlement schemes, it is possible for me to cite some examples of what I have seen in the field.

There were some Europeans who had developed their farms quite well in the settlement schemes while there were others who did not develop their farms to the extent of the price which was given in the purchase. Their work was mainly to go to the big towns like Nairobi, Nakuru, Thomson's Falls, instead of using a bit of their energy on development of their farms. So they could not develop their farms to the extent of getting even £9 or £7 per acre. However, during the period of settlement there were some farms which were bought at very high prices. It is very important to mention to this House this fact. There is a man from Denmark whose farm was next to a farm belonging to a European who obtained £15 or £16 per acre, whereas this European only received £7 per acre. The Assistant Minister and myself went to the spot and we talked to the European concerned. He agreed that since that farm was in the same area as that of the European it was in the class of £16, then the Government accepted the increment of the European who had been given less valuation for his farm. So it is obvious that the valuers who valued these farms had something in mind. They valued the one of the European much higher than that of the man from Denmark. The valuer himself agreed that there was some misunderstanding during the valuation.

This shows that we must inform the Government that there were irregularities during the purchase of the one million acres. However, Sir, irregularities can always be corrected. What this Motion is aiming at is to try and make a general price which should apply if we are going to buy thousands and thousands of acres for the settlement of our people. I think this Government would agree with me when I say that the farmers in the Kinangop had a lot of development while others could not have the benefit of development. When the African settlers moved into the farms that were developed properly they were able to make headway. There were many Europeans who did not develop their farms properly and the African farmers who are now settled there cannot even meet the Government's loan. I am sure the Ministry will agree with me when I say this. Some of the farmers cannot repay their loans because the farms they took over were not developed at all. This is a clear picture, to say that there are some Europeans who did not develop their farms properly but the value they received per acre was very high.

Now, having established that fact, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say something else. I know that the hon. Member for Kilifi mentioned something to the effect that settlement should not be confined to Nyandarua but other places as well. I agree with that and that settlement should be extended to other districts as well.

1521 Motion—Ceiling on—

[Mr. J. M. Kariki]

But I would like to inform the House that settlement of the Kinangop was completed long ago; there is now no settlement going on in that place. However, people who are settled there are finding some problems because they cannot develop some of the farms because of the people who remained there when the settlement was carried out, and they could not be settled somewhere.

I would like to point out something else, Mr. Speaker, in connexion with this Motion. I feel very strongly that we should not put a mark as to how much should be paid per acre. I quite agree with what the Assistant Minister is saying, that we should not say that the price per acre should only be £10. The reason why I say this is because if we say £10 and we go to another place, where the price of an acre is poorer, then we will give ourselves problems in paying £10 per acre. So I would like to amend, with your permission, Mr. Speaker, the original Motion. After the words "this House urges the Government"—

Mr. arap Soi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the Member to speak on the original Motion when he should be speaking on the amendment?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes. Under Standing Orders, the debate is restricted, as Mr. arap Soi says, to the actual amendment proposed, unless the Speaker rules that it is for the convenience of the House that it should be combined with debate on the main question. Here because of the shortage of time, and because of the nature of the matter, I did say, when proposing this question, that debate on the amendment could be combined with debate on the main question. So the hon. Member is in order.

The only thing he cannot do is to move another amendment, altogether independent of the amendment now before the House. I think I can explain the right procedure here. What Mr. Kariki is going to propose is an alternative at the end of the Motion as to what Government is being asked to do; in which case he will agree with the question now before the House, that the present words be left out of the question. And when we come to the second part of the amendment, to decide what words shall be put in, will propose alternative words. The present question is simply that certain words be left out of the question. It would suit what Mr. Kariki has in mind to leave those words out of the question. Then his Motion for an alternative amendment comes later.

You can mention it now, you can say what you want to do now, Mr. Kariki, but you cannot actually move anything now.

Mr. J. M. Kariki: Well, Mr. Speaker, I thought I had your permission to move the amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): At the right moment. But there is another amendment in ahead of you now, you see. We only deal with one amendment at a time.

Mr. J. M. Kariki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this respect, I quite agree that some words in the original Motion should be left out, like the words "£10 an acre". If I can have more time to propose my amendment, I will do so then.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think it is just on the point of time for the Mover to reply, so I think I had better put this part of the amendment now anyhow.

(Question of the first part of the amendment that the words proposed to be left out be left out put and negated)

(Resumption of debate on original Motion)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Debate continues on the question as originally proposed. And it is now—

Mr. G. G. Kariki: On a point of order, Sir, is it in order for me to allow five minutes more for the proposal of the amendment and to continue the debate until after that five minutes?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, if Mr. Kariki says he will limit his time of replying to five minutes, that would give us five minutes for something else.

Mr. J. M. Kariki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the amendment I wanted to make is: the words "this House urges the Government to make sure that no land obtained for settlement purposes costs the Government more than £10 per acre". I would like this to be deleted and to have inserted the words: "this House urges the Government to appoint a commission of enquiry to investigate and recommend to the Government the price of land obtained for settlement purposes".

The reason why I want to amend this, Sir, is because now we are having a lot of money borrowed by our Government to buy more farms from the European farmers, and we are going to purchase more and more in future. Therefore, the reason why I suggest that this commission of enquiry be set up by the Government is to enable the commission to find out which particular area and which particular farm ought to be given £5 or £6 or £7 or £10 per acre, and that commission will recommend to the Government that in that particular area of the country the price per acre should be not more than £5 or not more than [The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement] especially the first part of it—it does not really mean that we shall start settlement schemes in all areas because we are governed by the funds actually available.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish also to mention that the question of landless in Kenya is, as one of the hon. Members said, actually exaggerated. We have plenty of land—

Mr. Kagga: Question, question.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): We have plenty of land that is not in use as yet. What I think the hon. Member from Kandara is questioning is whether that land can be put into use and the methods that should be adopted to make sure that such land is put into use. In that case, it cannot be a question of strict landlessness. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, although there is that call—the President's call—of "go back to the land", and it appears that we accept it, I think the only question here is a matter of arrangements where people have to go back to the land and this is why the Government is very keen on various settlement schemes.

However, in addition to that, it must be appreciated that in this country not everybody will be a land owner. It has never happened in any country and it is not going to happen in Kenya, for the first time in history. It must be appreciated, too, that those of our citizens who can find alternative employment should, I think, start thinking in terms of turning such employment into a career, instead of going back to a piece of land that will not pay as much as a job of employment pays, and should not confuse our people by thinking that it is only by acquiring a piece of land that we will improve the economy of this country.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there are many people—for example, in Nairobi and in other cities of Kenya—who have jobs which could pay them much better than any piece of land they could acquire. But some people also who are working in the cities and in other areas have land in the country and they hold jobs here, and as a result of their position in employment and having land in the countryside, the land remains under-exploited because most of their time is spent in their employment. Mr. Speaker, in asking for the supply of land and the establishment of settlement schemes, these are factors to be considered.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as regards the second part of the Motion, I think this is the most touchy problem, and that is the question of the cost of land and general valuation. This is where I said, Mr.

Speaker, that there is a great deal of misunderstanding and misinformation, and I would like to inform the House that at the moment there is no evidence at all that farms have been too highly valued in the past.

Mr. arap Sol: On a point of information—

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): No, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am speaking from experience and from direct information from what the Government has done. Mr. Speaker, I cannot be expected to be informed by a person who, himself, is uninformed and the hon. Member would be better to wait until I inform him.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I thought in our Standing Orders it is provided that an hon. Member can stand on a point of information if he is allowed to do so by the hon. Member speaking, but is it in order for the Minister to assume that the Member has no information?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, it is not. You are entitled to refuse to hear the point of information, Mr. Gachago, but not on the presumption that there is no information. So you withdraw that "uninformed".

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Yes, Sir, I withdraw that, hoping that the hon. Member had a piece of information to give me.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I was saying actually was that the hon. Members should take it from me that land has been purchased for settlement in accordance with instructions laid down in our agreement by Her Majesty's Government, which provides the money that we use in buying this land. Mr. Speaker, we cannot have it both ways. We are either going to think in terms of providing settlement schemes and get the money to do so or we forget the settlement schemes and forget the money. If we are really going to get the money, we should be expected to respect the terms on which we have borrowed the money. That does not mean, strictly, Mr. Speaker, that we are governed by those, but we must keep them in mind. In so doing and bearing in mind all these conditions and agreements, Mr. Speaker, the Government has made sure that it purchases land for settlement schemes at an average of Sh. 180 per acre over all in the one-million-acre scheme. Mr. Speaker, Sir, much of this land is mixed farming land in Kenya outside the African reserves and is supposed to be some of the best land in the country. Now, Sir, let me point out that the price is far less than what is paid in [The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement] areas like Kiambu in the open market, where the value exceeds Sh. 1,000 per acre, while in some places even Sh. 2,000 per acre. Therefore, it is not fair at all to allege that the Government has been buying land for settlement schemes at a price that is high or unreasonable.

For the information of hon. Members I would also like to point out that land in other countries, like the United Kingdom itself, costs about Sh. 4,000 per acre, whereas in the United States it is as much as Sh. 3,000 per acre. In Uganda, our next-door neighbour, the land is at an average of Sh. 500 per acre. Therefore, it is not fair to allege that the value of land is higher than it should be. In fact, the value of land has been kept as low as possible.

Mr. Glehoya: On a point of information, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the Assistant Minister— Mr. Speaker, the land in question, on which the Assistant Minister is trying to set a limit in terms of price, was formerly owned by the Africans and then it was taken away on one pretext or another and given to the present settlers in exchange for a token sum of a few shillings. What we want now is for this land to revert to the Africans at very normal prices which bear a relation to the original price.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Gachago, I do not think you are on a point of information. You are trying to join the debate and that is a very different thing. It is not information; you are arguing.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the information of the House this is the type of information which we expect, and the hon. Member actually has shown that he should have waited until I informed him. The information he is presenting to give I know much better than he.

Mr. Speaker, it must not be forgotten that the land that we buy for settlement schemes belongs to some people who acquired that land, as the hon. Member rightly said.

POINT OF ORDER

SEATING ON THE FRONT BENCHES RESERVED FOR MINISTERS

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, according to your ruling yesterday as regards the hon. Ngei, is he in order to sit on the Front Bench?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. This question was asked in your absence actually, Mr. Ngei, as to the position of a Minister who is suspended. As you know, by Standing Orders, the Front Benches are reserved for Ministers and Assistant Ministers, and rightly a Minister who is suspended is not actually a Minister so long as he is suspended. So, if you would take a seat in some other part of the House it would be in order.

(The hon. Member withdrew from the Chamber)

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): What I was saying is that the land we buy is also bought on the open market from people who acquired it by any method, but the value since they acquired that land has risen. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we cannot fix the value of the land at what the hon. Member is saying because if we do we are tying ourselves to a very serious danger. I hope the hon. Member can see the danger.

Therefore, although the Government accepts this Motion, Mr. Speaker, I beg to make an amendment. Without wasting the time of the House I will state the amendment which is, that all the words between the words "introduced" and "this House" be left out and the words after the words "make sure" be also left out, and in place thereof be inserted the words, "that the land purchased for settlement costs the Government a price that is reasonable and not detrimental to the overall economy of land purchase in Kenya."

I would like to end by appealing to the hon. Member to appreciate that if at the moment we are buying land at an average rate of Sh. 186 per acre, it will be dangerous to set a precedent of Sh. 200 an acre because we shall be, in fact, defeating the actual purpose of this Motion. Therefore, this is why I urge to leave flexible the question of value so that—

Mr. arap Sol: On a point of order, is it in order for the Assistant Minister to state in the House what is not really practised in the field, with regard to the price of Sh. 180 per acre, which is never carried out?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! You cannot challenge the accuracy of what is said in the House from a point of order unless you are asking for substantiation.

Mr. arap Sol: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister substantiate or give an example in substantiation of this price in Solik, Central Province, or anywhere else?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, no. When you ask for substantiation you simply ask the Assistant Minister why, on what grounds he says something. He does not necessarily have to give you

[Mr. Ngala]

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, one of the problems is the fact that so many people would like to be put on pieces of land to do profitable cultivation so that they can earn a living and raise their standards. In fact, Sir, this Motion is an effort by the hon. Mover to bring to the awareness of the Government the need for doing one of the aspects that would help us to remove poverty in this country. Because of this move, Sir, I think the Minister should support the Motion. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to talk on two aspects in this Motion.

Firstly, Sir, I think the need to review, or rather the Motion is asking us to review the land policy. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when we think of purchasing land so that we can settle our people, again, there are two aspects; there is the development aspect of which we are not querying the full compensation of the development aspect for instance, where there are houses, fences, and where there are real developments; we are not querying the fairness of compensating such aspects. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government has to change its policy in the second aspect, where the value of the soil is concerned. Now, Sir, the value of the soil is the cause of the quarrel between the Members and the Ministry. Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are some people who have very queer ideas about the value of land, whether they obtained these ideas from the British Islands or whether they obtained them from Washington or Russia, I do not know. But, Sir, these are the fellows that go around and give the land very unrealistic values, and because the soil is given these very unrealistic values, the settlers find it almost impossible to pay for the value of the soil and develop the soil. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my opinion, it is not difficult for the Government to lay down a policy so that the value, the maximum price for any type of land, can be £10. This, Sir, is not impossible, because even in countries like Tanzania the Government has had to come down with a definite policy in the interest of the nation and make a decision on what they would like to do with regard to the land. I would like to suggest to the Minister that £10 be the maximum value and then the whole country should be divided into zones, ranging from £10 downwards, because, Sir, I believe that in some areas the value could be as little as Sh. 5 per acre. In other areas the value could be either Sh. 10, Sh. 40 or even Sh. 60 an acre.

Now, Sir, I feel that a deliberate effort must be made by the Government so as to alleviate the hardship that the people are experiencing. I am thinking, Sir, when I say a deliberate effort, I am thinking of the colonial days when the British Government made a deliberate effort to help their settlers in this country and therefore they fixed the value of the land at a certain level. I think, Sir, it was about fifty cents per acre. Now, Sir, I think that a similar deliberate effort has to be made to help the people as far as the price of land is concerned. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of settlement is important, because His Excellency the President himself has said that we should go back to the land. But, Sir, people can only go back to the land if the facilities are made easier for the ordinary person to go back to the land. What is happening now, Sir, is that most of the land is likely to be purchased by the rich people and we shall soon find that the rich people will become richer and the poor people will become poorer.

Therefore, Sir, I would like to make it quite clear that we are not quarrelling over development values, we just want the Government to lay down a definite policy in which they would say that the land, in Kenya, most profitable and most fertile land, would cost at the most £10 an acre and be graded downwards from £10 to any figure below. This is not impossible, Sir, with a free Government. I think the Government should aim very much at the low income group when they are thinking of the question of land, rather than think of people who can economically help themselves and buy different areas.

The other point I would like to make, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is this. I would like the Minister to consider very seriously the type of people who are doing the evaluation. The type of people who are doing the evaluation are the kind of people who, perhaps, have a Western pattern of thinking and therefore the values of land in the Western or Eastern countries are very different from the value of the land in our country.

When I visited the East a few months ago, I saw that a square foot of land cost about £20. I think the Minister should change his team of people who value the land, he should choose a commission of people who are very appreciative of the problems that the Africans are facing and give these people money to go round valuing the land. If he does not do that, the policy of go back to the land will be quite unrealistic to our people. This Ministry can help the Government very much if the Ministry gets down to work.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Coast Province has been overlooked all the time. £18 million has been borrowed from the British Government, partly to buy our own soil. £6 million of this will go to the purchase of land, I understand, and I understand £12 million will go towards development. I would like the Minister to note that the Motion says that the unfortunate districts which have been forgotten should also be incorporated into the scheme. This is very important because if settlement is only concentrated in Kinangop, Nyandarua and other places of favouritism, then I think this country is heading for serious confusion and trouble. I think the Minister should be national-minded. The Assistant Minister travels quite a lot to the Coast, he never looks at the problem of land. He only visits Mombasa, the streets there, and so on, he does not come to the country and see the people there.

[Mr. Ngala]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am telling the Assistant Minister, who is a great friend of mine, that he is closing his eyes to the settlement problems in the Coast—

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): I have been to Kilifi with you.

Mr. Ngala: You have been to Kilifi with me, but you were very lucky—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Address the Chair, Mr. Ngala.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister has been to Kilifi. He was very lucky to be with me because he was almost being torn to pieces by the so-called squatters. I had to protect the Assistant Minister. In good faith, I protected him; in good faith, the Minister should look after the troubles and difficulties of the people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Minister is taking this Motion very lightly, but I know some African governments have been overthrown. Why? Because some aspects have not been given attention. The question of land must be given attention in Kenya, otherwise things will go wrong in Kenya. Change your policy as quickly as possible.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do you want to speak now, Mr. Gachago?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): I think in view of the time I should, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think you are wise to do so. You claim twenty minutes?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Yes, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, although the hon. Member for Kilifi South said that he saved me, on the contrary I actually saved him by assuring the public at Kilifi that the Government is looking into their land problem and if it were not for that, Mr. Speaker, the public would have been on the verge of passing a vote of no confidence in the hon. Member, but being a friend of mine, I had to come to his aid!

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government—I must declare—accept this Motion only with a certain amount of reservation, as I am going to explain. The Motion actually is in two parts. The first part says that there is a serious need for the promotion of settlement schemes in Kenya, especially the areas where settlement has not been introduced, and the second part of the Motion touches the old argument that we have been paying a high price for land, and the Motion is trying to restrict us to payment of £10 per acre as the maximum. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is where I would like to make a correction, because it is a matter of information and I am sure the Government and the Mover of the Motion are not at cross purposes.

Mr. Speaker, the first part of the Motion which governs the actual need for the establishment of settlement schemes in the various parts of Kenya is completely accepted by the Government and, especially, those parts which have not been catered for in the past: for example, Kuria, as the hon. Member says, and the Coast. If the Coast is taken as a province, they may have a case for a settlement scheme. I am sure the hon. Mover of the Motion will not take it ill if I mention that in the past he has been to my office to see the Minister and myself about the establishment of a settlement scheme in his area and hon. Members, I am sure, will appreciate, Mr. Speaker, that all these settlement schemes and the establishment thereof are governed by one thing, and that is finance.

The Government is prepared to consider the whole country and, depending on the amount of money available, to start a number of settlement schemes where schemes have not been established yet, but as hon. Members will appreciate, the Government will only do it in accordance with the merits of the various areas that should be catered for. It is true that there are districts where settlement schemes have not been established, but, Mr. Speaker, I would like to tell the House that there are the settlement fund trustees who form a body. This body consists of three very reasonable Ministers of the Government and in deciding which areas to purchase for the new schemes, they take into consideration the various aspects and factors determining their decision, one of which is the demand which is well—as is known in the country—above the supply.

As I have said, the supply depends upon the availability of funds, and therefore, Mr. Speaker, although the Government accepts this Motion—

[Mr. Warlithi] is bought in this country. The fertility of the land should also be taken into account. Records are kept as to how much was paid for that land originally and, also, the people who have been working on the land for all these years might have benefited more than 100 per cent from what they originally paid for the land.

On the last part of the Motion, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that I would like the commission to go into the entire question of the price of land.

Before I end, I would like to touch a little on the shortcomings of the settlement schemes and if we are to promote settlement schemes I would like to point out some of the things the Government should take into account.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You cannot go very far, I am afraid, Mr. Warlithi, because the terms of the Motion are directly related to the price of the land.

Mr. Warlithi: That is all right, Mr. Speaker, but the first part of the Motion says, "That this House being aware of serious need for the promotion of the settlement schemes"—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, but it does not ask for anything. Never mind, you have a few minutes in which to make a few points if you like.

Mr. Warlithi: If there is a need to promote you have to consider what might help in promoting—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I will have to give you another minute or two on this. You see, after being aware of the need for promotion, all the Motion asks for is a limit to the price paid for the land, it does not ask for anything else. It is what the Motion is asking for that one is mostly concerned with; one cannot start asking for other things unless you amend the Motion. If you had given me written notice to add to this, that the House should urge the Government to do certain other things also, then you could speak on those other things, you see.

Still, you have about three minutes, and as long as you do not lead other hon. Members to wander too far from the Motion, you may say what you wanted to say.

Mr. Warlithi: So, Mr. Speaker, I was saying that there is a need for the settlement schemes to be promoted, but there are other things in promoting these settlement schemes which should be considered by the Government. That is, particularly in those areas where they grow cash crops, like potatoes, for instance, in my own district you find that in the settlement schemes you have crops which need to be sold and there are no marketing arrangements. Over the weekend I found that they have so many potatoes in that area that the price is so low and they have no place to sell the crop. I would like the Government to consider improving the machinery for the disposing of the crops which are grown in the settlement schemes.

The other aspect is that most of these people need advice from the Government officers, and there should be an improvement to make sure that they are properly advised as to how to make use of the land in the settlement schemes.

The other point, which I think is important, is that there are attempts to form co-operative societies in every settlement scheme, and I think this should be improved to enable the people in the settlement schemes to sell their crops. If they are well organized it should also be easy for the settlers to pay back the loans, and it could be arranged that on whatever is sold through the co-operatives the Government could get their money back before the settler is paid.

Mr. Speaker, in supporting the Motion I expect the Government to accept this Motion because it is all meant to help in the development of the agricultural economy and also to solve the problems which are facing our people in this country.

(Question proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would say again to hon. Members that this debate is limited to the proposal, that in view of high prices paid in the past, Government should not in future pay more than £10 per acre. If hon. Members want to introduce some more points on the settlement schemes, as Mr. Warlithi did, they can only do it by way of amendment, of which I have to have notice of in writing before it is moved.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that I must contribute to this Motion with regard to the first part of the Motion. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Motion is asking the House to be aware of the seriousness of the need for settlement. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I come from an area where we do not have a settlement scheme and Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that it is most unfortunate for the Kenya Government to borrow such a big sum of money. As the Mover of the Motion said that £18 million was borrowed from foreign countries which is expected to be spent on this particular item, the settlement schemes, and we all in Kenya are entitled to pay back these loans in whatever length of period is given for our Government to pay it back.

[Mr. Malsori-Itumbo]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I, as a representative of the people of Kuria, I feel that, although the Motion asks the Government to make itself aware of the need for the promotion of settlement throughout the country, particularly in those small unfortunate districts where settlement schemes have not yet been introduced, my constituents should be included. Mr. Speaker, in Nyanza we have two places where a proposal has been made for a settlement scheme. One is Muhoroni and Songhor, which is known now as a Luo settlement. Formerly, Sir, when it was proposed it was for Nyanza as a whole, but, Sir, later it was changed to become a Luo settlement. This means that any tribe in Nyanza has no right to be settled in such an area. Now, again, Sir, in South Nyanza, the district from where I come from, we have the Lambwe Valley where the hon. Assistant Minister, Mr. Odeero-Jowi, comes from. In that particular area, Sir, there is a lot of money which is borrowed from outside, and it is meant to be spent for that particular purpose and it is a pure Luo settlement scheme no other tribes are permitted there.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we all contribute towards the financial position of the Government of Kenya. We all, Sir, participate in this Governmental function. Therefore, I fail to understand why other districts or other tribes are not considered.

Although I am called a tribal-minded person I do not mind, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I was elected by a tribe, from a tribe, and so I deserve the name of being tribal-minded, because, Sir, I am a tribal man. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not see why Kuria taxpayers should contribute to the central fund any amount of taxation while the plans and the development of the country as such does not include Kuria. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not really see why the Minister for Lands and Settlement, Planning, Housing or whatever he may be should overlook that particular constituency.

Last year, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I moved a Motion which did not come to the House but which was calling upon the Government to look into the question of the landless people in Kuria. We talk of the landless people all the time in the House and it is a pity for Kenya to have to speak about the landless people, because, Sir, there is quite a lot of land in Kenya which is not being cultivated. For example, Sir, if you drive along the Rift Valley through Kericho, and the rest, you see miles and miles of empty land with no development taking place and no houses on these lands and yet, Sir, a tourist who comes to attend a debate in Parliament hears the Members who stand in the House and talk saying that we have a big problem of the landless people in Kenya. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I fail to understand why we have this problem of the landless people in Kenya while Kenya stands with miles and miles of land where no development is taking place at all. I submit, Sir, that the slogan about the landless people should no longer be used in this country. All we need, Sir, is to take the land and have a proper plan in order to settle these people on the land. It is not a question of having to buy the land because the land is there, miles and miles of it in Kenya where there is no development. For example, Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday, I came back through Tsavo from the hon. Ndile's constituency and I drove miles and miles and did not see anything but only elephants and other animals. Mr. Speaker, Sir, how can there be the problem of landless people in Kenya when all this land is not being developed? Also, Sir, how can we have people termed as squatters when there is all this land? Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are asked to buy certain areas, which are very expensive, and yet we do not know for how much the land was bought originally.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I very strongly support the Motion and very strongly Sir, again I would like to submit to the Government that they must look into this question of the landless people, and also look into the problem of promoting the settlement planning throughout Kenya, because, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are not prepared to keep on contributing to the central fund and yet we are not considered.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think, Mr. Malsori-Itumbo, you are repeating yourself.

Mr. Malsori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are not prepared to keep contributing to the central fund if we are not going to get our fair share in the respective constituencies. We are not going to tolerate this monopoly any longer, Mr. Speaker, Sir, of the old colonial mentality.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the Motion by submitting and calling upon the Government to look into my constituency and create a settlement scheme as soon as possible. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion is very important to the country and I am sure that my hon. friend, the Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement, is aware of the serious need for settlement in the country. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the country is faced with various problems, and the test of Government's success is whether they can solve these problems or whether they cannot solve these problems.

[Mr. G. G. Kariki]

very high price for this land. It will not be the responsibility of our people. Therefore, we in this House are not a party to any discussion of land prices in this country, and we shall advise our people to continue living on that land.

I understand that the British Government is giving the Kenya Government seven years' grace, and our people are only given six months. Therefore, that is a shame to this Government. It is also proving to be a most dangerous Government, probably more dangerous than the British Government. Therefore, I really do not know what will happen in future because when our people know that, whether they like it or not, they will live in this country and continue to be called "squatters"—this is another word which has, in the past, confused the country and is still doing so. The Government knows very well that the squatters are the landless people, but because they do not want to create the impression that here are landless people in this country, they call them squatters. There is no such thing in this country as a squatter; but we do have many landless people, who live on the present European farms without anything to eat, without any help at all. These people are now called squatters. We, in fact, should tell this Government that squatters are landless people, and if they continue to force such people to live in their present desperate conditions, they are probably going to react, which would, in fact, be a dangerous thing.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, recently the British Government gave Kenya a loan of £18 million; of this, we understand that £12 million will be used for development and £6 million will be for new settlement schemes. Now, Sir, £6 million is expected to be spent by this Government over four years. In one year, they expect only 100 farmers to be bought out. Now, Sir, if it is only 100 farmers in a year, it means that in four years only 400 farmers will be bought out. If they buy out only 400 farmers in four years, it means that the Government will not be able to settle our people, unless they try to get money somewhere else. But if they try to work with a reasonable price, if they give the farmers just a compensation of a few shillings, they will be able to settle so many more people before the next general election.

I wonder what, in fact, this Government will tell our people who are now frustrated when they come to the General Election. This is why you find, in a country like Tanzania, Minister are even losing their deposits because of this problem. They have promised things to the people but they have proved a failure and incapable; they have proved to be more dangerous than former Colonial Ministers.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I will never lose my deposit because I will tell my people the mistakes of this Government. You do not know what is going on in the Cabinet; you are just a rubber stamp in that Government.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Address the Chair.

Mr. G. G. Kariki: Now, Sir, I would like to say very strongly that this country needs a settlement scheme in every district, because formerly, when land purchase was going on, only a few districts were picked out for settlement; districts like Nyandarua and other districts in the Rift Valley had been given a lot of money for settlement schemes. I think now that this fresh money should not go to any district where a settlement scheme is already established; it should go to the districts where a land settlement scheme has not been introduced.

Therefore, Sir, if this money is paid to the British Government by the Kenya Government, it is a loan given by the British Government for this country to pay, but not for just a few districts. This money should be shared and enjoyed by every district.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want to say that when this Government proves a failure with regard to these settlement schemes, it will not be the mistake of our people because our people know how to use their hands, they know how to cultivate, they know how to look after their shamba. But because of the price which they are asked to pay, by this Government, it is proving to be a very difficult thing.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to give a chance to those Members, particularly those who come from areas where settlement schemes have been established, to mention their problems here, because it is not only a problem in one area.

Therefore, Sir, I beg to move.

Mr. Wariithi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am glad to be allowed by the Mover to second the Motion, and, in so doing, I would like to start by saying, as has been said in this House before, that among other major problems which the Kenya Government has still to solve is the land problem. We know that the keynote in our freedom movement or in our march towards independence was land. This was the basic issue, which heightened our struggle for independence. I am sure that even up to now the people in our country are still waiting for a programme on land which will satisfy their expectation: I hope and am sure—that the Government takes this problem very seriously and will probably, one day, produce a land policy which will be acceptable and in keeping with what our people expect. But I am sorry to say that up to now there have been attempts but these attempts have not gone far enough.

[Mr. Wariithi]

One of the attempts, which the Government perhaps thought would solve the land problem, has been the settlement schemes, and this Motion raises the question of encouraging or promoting settlement schemes; it goes on to say that these schemes should be started in districts where there are no settlement schemes; and then goes further and says that the price paid for the land is too high and that it should be reduced. Towards the end, the Motion proposes that a figure should be set down for payment per acre.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

Now, Sir, to start with, I would like to say, as far as I understand the settlement schemes, they are meant to be very good; their purpose is good; and I think they have helped, to a certain extent, in some parts of this country. There is plenty of unemployment and landlessness and settlement schemes, I presume, are meant to assist in that direction. If you take the areas where they have been started, those people who were landless have been enabled to own a piece of land where they can cultivate and help in the agricultural development of this country. There are others who do not get employment and who have been made to settle on land. But, on the other hand, it is quite true that if the Government is to promote the settlement schemes the mistakes which have been followed in the past should be rectified. I am almost sure that the Assistant Minister who is here to reply to this Motion is quite aware of the shortcomings of the settlement schemes. In fact, in this House, the biggest interest shown by the Members themselves indicates the awareness of the Members of this mistake. There are many of them and in a later part of my speech I will deal with these shortcomings in the settlement schemes.

Now, to come to the second part of the Motion where it says that settlement schemes should be started in those unfortunate districts where there are no settlement schemes at the moment, the main argument which I think one could put forward on this one is that the problem of landlessness does not only exist in certain parts of the country. It exists all over Kenya and I think it is only fair that these schemes should be spread all over the country. I think the main argument is that the land being purchased for settlement schemes is being purchased on the basis of loans granted to the Kenya Government from the United Kingdom. With this being a loan to Kenya we have to pay it back, and it is only fair that the spending of this money should be spread out evenly all over the country. I do know that there have been demands in this House by various Members who come from constituencies where there are no settlement schemes and I think, in replying, the Assistant Minister will tell us what scheme or programme he has to see that settlement schemes are started all over the country.

Now, the other fact which is, I think, the keynote of this Motion is the price of land. The price of land which is being bought for the settlement schemes and also by willing sellers. I think that talking on the high prices of land this is where most of us feel very strongly that our Government has failed in giving a direction as to what should be paid for the land. We would expect—and this is common sense—that when you buy an article the price you pay for it should be related to what that article cost in the first instance. We have been told—and I believe it is true—that the value may change now and then and I think probably I will be told that this land has been developed and this is why the price has gone up. But we are aware of the land which has not even been touched, which is still bush and the price for this land is very high. In any case, Mr. Speaker—

The point I am putting across here, Mr. Speaker, is that the price charged for land is very, very high and has no relationship whatsoever with what was originally paid by those who have been owning that land. We feel here that our Government has failed miserably. At the time we were fighting for our Independence we were told that the land had been taken away from us and as soon as we had our Independence it would be given back to us. Now, a situation has been reached where one has to pay between Sh. 200 and Sh. 400 per acre for land for which nothing was paid. The argument which is usually put forward is that the owners of that land have developed it and, therefore, we must pay for development. Those of us who have been to settlement schemes know that certain land has not been touched and we wonder why the price should go up when there are no buildings and there is no development. In any case, I notice that the Mover of the Motion is suggesting that the Government should set a certain figure per acre. I would go even further and request that a commission be set up to determine the proper price of land to be paid per acre, for all land that we are asking the Government to step in and help the Africans by legislation. Government must also help our own brothers to come up.

[Mr. Omweri]

The question of loans on which the Minister dwelt was not the main topic. I want to answer it with one sentence, that the whole problem why some of this money is never returned as required and why we have so many arrears, is that the money given was so little that it could not multiply quickly enough for it to be returned when required. If a person was given Sh. 1,000 to complete with an Asian who has Sh. 100,000, how can he compete? That Sh. 1,000 goes in and he never gets any profit. It is because of this problem that I mentioned why loans to individuals should be increased and why loans to boards and corporations should also be increased. In this case I do not mean to support that those loans already given and which should be repaid be not repaid. We have given an assurance to the Ministry and the Government that all of us are co-operating to educate those who receive loans to return them when required. I think the Ministry should follow this up and do something itself rather than sit back and say that Members should come forward and assist to get these loans back.

Something else I would like to mention, which Government should check, is this insincerity of partnership which hon. Members mentioned here. We find that non-Africans who feel that they are not very secure, are not very much trusted, do not find it very easy to remain here, feel that it would not be good if they continued with these doubts and so they decide to get some cover. The cover they use is to have some African members, who like beer or a cup of tea, as directors of the company. They are told that when there is a meeting they will be called. However, it is not surprising to hear that these Africans are never called to any meeting of the directors. They are often told, "We wanted to get hold of you the other day but you were not in. So we had the meeting of directors." This is not true. So, we want the Government to come in and check these points and see that whoever is a director is a director in the real sense and not just as a cover-up.

With these few remarks, I beg to move the Motion as amended.

(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly:

THAT this House deplores the conduct of non-African traders in Kenya who engage themselves in persuading the members of co-operative societies to break away from their unions and interfere in agencies which should have gone to African traders, and also undercut in prices other traders; and urges the Government to take steps to curb such activities, thereby enabling African businessmen to participate beneficially in the country's economy.

MOTION

CEILING ON LAND PRICES FOR SETTLEMENT SCHEMES

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:—

THAT this House being aware of serious need for the promotion of the settlement schemes in this country and particularly in those most unfortunate districts where settlement schemes have not as yet been introduced; and in view of the very high prices paid during the last purchasing period of the present scheme, this House urges the Government to make sure that no land obtained for settlement purposes costs the Government more than £10 an acre.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am sure Members of this House and the country at large are aware that this country needs land for settlement schemes which, in fact, we promised our people during the election. We told them that when our African Government came into power we would try to help our people and the land problem would be minimised. However, here, Sir, because of the very high price that the Government has to pay to the white farmers, it is obvious that it will take a long time before settlement schemes have been established in every part of this country.

Again, Sir, it is difficult for the people who have been given land to pay their loans back because the Government is demanding more money from the African settlers, and that is because the Government has to pay the British colonial settlers.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, some of us fail to understand why the Government took the initiative and, without the mandate of this House, discussed with the British Government the question of buying land in this country. We have not given them this mandate. I understand that according to the instructions of the British Government the land which is being purchased is only being bought on the instructions of the British Government and on the condition that if the Kenya Government refuses to comply with the British Government's instructions they will not be given the money to buy land for the poor people. Now this problem, Sir, has been very serious for this country and, as you know, our people died because of land and they are even prepared, if they are told that they will only get land if they go in the forests and fight for it, definitely our people would have no alternative but to go back to the forests and fight until they got their land. Now we do not want this unfortunate thing to come about because it would get us nowhere but into a dangerous situation, which, of course, nobody is looking for.

[Mr. G. G. Kariuki]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, land was sold by the Colonial Government to their colleagues at a very low price. We understand it was Sh. 1 per acre or less than that. Now, Sir, when our people are being told, and they know that this land belongs to them—

QUORUM

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Sir, I do not think that there is a quorum.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I think you are quite right. Please ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think Mr. Gichoya is quite right. I think it is the right of every hon. Member to have a sufficient number of hon. Members in the House, particularly on a Motion as important as this. It is no use talking to empty benches.

We have a quorum now. Please continue, Mr. Kariuki.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am glad that the Members have come.

I was trying to say that land in this country was sold by the Colonial Government to their colleagues, at a very low price, and we understand that the prices ruling at that time was Sh. 1 or less than that. Therefore, Sir, our people are wondering why the Kenya Government has found it necessary to negotiate with the British Government at this very high price, which is in force at the present time for the purchase of land.

Now the time has come, Sir, when our people want to take back their land and, in fact, I am glad to say that our people, being very reasonable, do not want to take this land by force. They want to pay compensation; they do not want to see that this land is taken from the white farmers by force, without compensation. But the compensation that our Government is paying is a bit too high, and this will not allow our people, Sir, to get land as required. It can go up to £19,100 when settlement schemes will never solve our problems because what we need is an acceleration in settlement schemes and every district needs a settlement scheme as soon as possible.

It is not our problem, we Members of this House, because we must dissociate ourselves from the activities of the Government when they agreed to purchase the present land at a very high price. We are not a party to that because we understand that, during the Lancaster House Constitutional Conference, the Government Ministers who went there negotiated with the British Government and, in fact, this has never been discussed in our Parliamentary Group or anywhere in this country. This Government have taken the power for themselves, have disregarded this House; they did not give us a chance to contribute to discussion and tell the Government what was in our minds about these land prices.

Now, Sir, for about seventy years the white settlers have been enjoying the fruits of our land, but when we are told to pay compensation we, in fact, are finding it difficult to pay a very high compensation, which, in fact, is not justified. Even if the British people, the white farmers, were told that they would not be paid anything at this time, I am sure they would not suffer any loss at all because they have recovered their money. Although they have developed this country, they have recovered their money; all their development has already been paid for. Therefore, the Government should not agree to pay them a lot of money. We understand that land values are fixed by Europeans in this country, but, Sir, we find it difficult to agree with them when only a European is valuing land for the Government to buy. You can see that there is a lot of suspicion that probably the valuers and their colleagues, the white farmers, can, in fact, give this Government a very wrong idea of what land should cost.

Therefore, Sir, this is very unfair and our people are dissatisfied with regard to the problem of land in this country. All settlement schemes which have been already established have proved a failure because the settlers have failed to pay the money which Government wants them to pay.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): They are paying 90 per cent now.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Member who is probably going to reply on behalf of the Government is saying that they have paid more than 90 per cent. I know that the committee which has been established to study the details of the voters has also experienced some difficulties, because these people will never be able to pay, whether the Government likes it or not. And when they fail to pay, if Government is going to evict them, they are going to be frustrated because of the mistake of the Government, paying a directors. I understand that it is a Government company. That is why I say that the organization of this particular company must be looked into. The country must be able to look to it as a corporation that can help the Africans to get up and take part in business, it must teach them how to run business. In fact, I have seen one of the staff of that particular corporation who talked to me and explained how that particular corporation was working. I was very pleased with what he told me. In fact, the corporation has good aims, but we must see that the aims are put into practice. We must also see that there is no ganging-up. We must see that a Motion like this is put into practice. This is why I am supporting the amendment.

[Mr. Ngala-Abok]

Mr. Speaker, I do not think that because there are some mistakes which exist in this corporation we should not support them and assist them here and thus strengthen the hand of this organization.

Since I do not wish to say any more I will only support the amendment.

(Question of the amendment that the words to be inserted be inserted, proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the debate on that can be combined with the main question, but there are only about three minutes before I have to call on the Mover to reply.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this amendment has nothing to do—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Oloitiptip, I think the House want to hear the attitude of Government to the amendment. That is why I invited you to join this debate.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government totally rejects this amendment.

Before I speak I would like to know, Mr. Speaker, Sir, how much time I have.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid only two minutes.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I really intended to speak very strongly on this Motion but because time does not allow me to do so I will only elaborate on the points very rapidly.

Mr. Speaker, we understand the spirit of the Members who have spoken on this Motion but let me assure them that they do not know what is going on in the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. They merely come and speak here without knowing what they should speak about.

For example, the Member who moved the amendment did not know that the Kenya National Trading Corporation is not a company. The other Member, the hon. Mr. Ngala-Abok, said he realized there was tribalism in the formation of the Kenya National Trading Corporation but really there is nothing like that. For his information, Sir, the director of the sugar agency in the Kenya National Trading Corporation is a Juma. So, I am surprised to hear the Member say that, on tribalism, while a Member from his own area is a person who has a controlling right.

So, I assure the House that there is nothing like tribalism and we are not going to allow tribalism in the Ministry. For the information of Members I am the Assistant Minister in charge of all co-operatives in that Ministry, I come from a small tribe, and I will not allow any tribal policy in that Ministry as far as the formation of co-operatives is concerned, Mr. Speaker.

There is one thing I would like to urge the Members to do. If you study this Motion very carefully, you will realise that these Indians who are persuading the members of the co-operative societies to break away from their respective societies might well do that; but those Africans who have formed the co-operative societies will fit to form them and to carry on with the co-operative societies. Therefore, I am surprised to hear that it is thought that a person can just come to me and persuade me, a member from a particular co-operative, to break away from my society. What would I look like if I did do that? What would I look like if I accepted such ill advice? I would look a fool.

So, for the information of the Member who moved this Motion I would say to him that he should advise the Africans to be mature people and not to listen to ill advice given by the people of anybody who wants to exploit them.

Mr. Speaker, there is another point I want to raise, and that is—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I am afraid you cannot do that, Mr. Oloitiptip, because the time is up. I have to put the question of the amendment now and then call on the Mover to reply.

(Question of the amendment that words to be inserted be inserted, put and negatived)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): So, the question before the House is the original Motion with the one amendment which has been agreed, as I have read out to the House.

I will now call on the Mover to reply.

(Question of the Motion as originally amended proposed)

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the first place I must thank hon. Members who have shown interest in this Motion. I must also thank the Government for accepting this Motion, because it realises the importance of it. I wish the Minister and his Assistant will remain here to hear the comments raised.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the Assistant Minister was replying he hammered on the point that it was the Africans who agreed to be persuaded to follow the Asian activities and advice. The problem which the hon. Member forgot is that at the moment we have to accept our own position, we have to accept what the President of this country said, when he told us what our big problem was. Our big problem in this country is ignorance, and we must accept that this ignorance starts right at home. Most of our Africans who are coming up to start business, employment or anything else are still ignorant. When they find that an Asian exploits that ignorance and wants to use it for his own benefit, he comes up and says, "Look here, these fellows do not know where they are leading you to. I know, I tell you. If you follow me today, tomorrow you will get your cash doubled. All that you have to do is to come with me and I will show you what to do", and the African goes. Then what happens is that he is given a cup of tea and he says, "This is very good, I will follow your advice." The Ministry is trying to look aside while this simple fact is there. It is our Government's policy that we should fight ignorance. We cannot say that there is ignorance and yet on the other hand condemn the Africans for allowing themselves to be persuaded.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the thing now remaining is for the Government to accept and agree that ignorance prevails in our own people and that this must be removed by constant explanation of legislation and also directions from here what the Government wants to do. However, we must not say that the Africans are independent enough, they can judge things for themselves and, therefore, we are not going to listen to stories that somebody is misguiding them. We ask for Government assistance in this matter; they should come and try to stamp out the exploitation which the non-Africans are practising.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I say that I agree and accept the amendment proposed by Mr. Makokha because I have no quarrel with that. It has not brought anything new except a change of words.

Another point which I mentioned and which the Ministry failed to satisfy me on is in connexion with the importation which I said should go to the Kenya National Trading Corporation. I mean that this corporation should be included in the Motion as was proposed by another amendment. What I wanted to say is that when we now have business being carried out in this country it is entirely our responsibility to direct who does what. At the moment the problem we have is that the Ministry announces trade bans with Japan, and then, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we still find that that same Government gives licence to import goods from Japan. Some people are even allowed to go and negotiate prices and marketing facilities from that area. In this case, Sir, I think it is gross inefficiency and at the same time it is not fair for Government to be double-faced. We had better have one answer and know exactly what is happening. We cannot go on and say we are banning things while on the other hand goods are coming in secretly for favourites of whoever is licensing these imports.

Another point I would like to mention which the Minister asked to be assisted with is this. The Minister says he wants names, we have given him names, and even in this House some questions have been directed to individuals who are concerned with malpractices of business. In my own district, Sir, an Asian by the name of Kassam has been going round to persuade co-operatives to break away from the unions. The Minister knows this, his field officers know this, too. The co-operative officer is aware of this and yet the Minister says he does not know, then we are surprised because it would seem as if he does not know what his field officers are doing.

Another Asian, Sir, Karoga by name, recently persuaded a society and told them, "Well, if you do this and this, I will get you vehicles very cheaply and you will not have to pay much. This will be used to transport your goods from your co-operative concerns." These people found to their surprise that this vehicle was not cheap but having committed themselves they bought this vehicle only to find that the members of the society disagreed completely and said to them, "You are no longer our members in this society since you have gone and bought this vehicle."

Mr. Deputy Speaker, these are the practices to which the Asians resort because they do not intend to leave us alone. They know that if we grow strong in commerce we are a threat to them. In this case they will use any means to see that African business concerns are at the lowest possible level so that we do not come up to compete with them. It is for this reason that doubt about it, there is no argument about this, Mr. Speaker. All that I am saying is that underselling done by an African, or an Asian for that matter, is wrong and should be condemned on the spot.

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

An hon. Member: Bring a law here.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): I am pleased to hear that. We are formulating a law to help us to stop underselling. Now, Mr. Speaker, I—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is the end of your time, I am afraid.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Can you give me two minutes, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid not, Mr. Mwendwa, but with the leave of the House I can if no Member objects.

Hon. Members: No, no.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid there is objection, Mr. Mwendwa, so you have had your time.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development will not be worried because he has accepted the Motion. Although he did not finish everything he wanted to say, I think what he has said is quite enough.

It is good that the Minister needs the help of the hon. Members in their constituencies and their districts, so as to control and improve the trade in the country.

Mr. Speaker, I very much support this Motion because I feel it is a very important one. For a long time, mostly the Asians—although there are bad Africans and other bad non-Africans; the worst group has been the Asians because they were being taking all the contracts of the Government—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would ask hon. Members, if they have conversations, to keep them quieter; we want to hear the Member on his feet.

Mr. Kibuga: Although the Motion as amended is very much acceptable, the Asians are the worst in this respect.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, although the Motion covers all the facts we want, I would like to amend it a little bit more so as to strengthen the powers of the Minister. He says that it is not possible to know who are trading badly, who are undercutting and who are using unfair means. Because of this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to suggest that the Kenya National Trading Company, which was announced here by the Government to be a Government company, has been working for a long time but so far—even up to this day—you still find that in some cases some departments of the Government buy from Asians or Europeans or from other sources, while neglecting the Kenya National Trading Company. So it is necessary that today, while the Minister accepts this Motion, he should also accept the fact that the Kenya National Trading Company should be given more powers. That is why—

An hon. Member: It has too much power.

Mr. Kibuga: I may sympathize with the Members who say that the Kenya National Trading Company is tribal. It may be tribal, but the Minister has promised to clean it up if it is tribal. So if it is to be cleaned up, I hope nobody will be worried by the National Trading Company. What I am suggesting—I hope the hon. Members will give me time instead of conversing—is that I want to amend this Motion as follows.

Immediately after the word "activities" in the seventh line, I will add the following words: "through strengthening the Kenya National Trading Company, so as to control all agencies"—

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): On a point of information, Mr. Speaker, it is not the Kenya National Trading Company; it is the Kenya National Trading Corporation.

Mr. Kibuga: I hope, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can amend that to read "Corporation", rather than Company. The fact remains the same.

If we want the Kenya National Trading Corporation to help the Africans, we could get agents from this corporation to go throughout the country to see how business could be organized, who are undercutting the others, and these people would be controlled. Today, for example, we find that posho in the country which is eaten by Africans but not Asians is being controlled by Asian agencies. Very few Asians will ever drink beer, but they still get the benefit of the beer agencies. All the rice from the big rice-growing area of Mwea is given to Asians. Why should it not be given to the Kenya National Trading Corporation? Why should the departments of the Government still continue to buy from private agencies, instead of strengthening the Kenya National Trading Corporation?

Once we get this corporation strengthened, controlling all the agencies, it will be possible for this corporation to import or export goods and then distribute them to the societies and unions and to the African traders in the country. They know them. There may be an excuse that some of the societies may be corrupt, but this is no excuse for not giving them agencies. There is a need for seeing that the secretaries and other officials of societies are controlled, just as we control the boards. Once we control these societies, we shall be able to move forward a great deal. It is the business of the Government to educate the committee members of the societies, of the unions, to enable them to buy consumer goods, and also to buy produce and then sell it to the Kenya National Trading Corporation.

[Mr. Kibuga]

Mr. Speaker, because I want to enable my secondor to make a short speech, I would like to say that the Motion as amended will read like this:

THAT this House deploras the conduct of certain non-African traders in Kenya who engage themselves in persuading the members of co-operative societies to break away from their unions and interfere in the agencies which should have gone to African traders, and also undercut in prices other traders; and urges the Government to take steps to curb such activities through strengthening the Kenya National Trading Corporation, so as to control all the agencies thereby enabling African businessmen to participate beneficially in the country's economy.

I hope the hon. Mover of the Motion will not find it difficult to accept it because I am merely asking that this corporation should be given more power. So I will not say much; I will ask my secondor to continue: it is Mr. Ngala-Abok.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I accepted seconding the amendment when I did not, first of all, realize the tribal set-up and grouping and ganging-up which is carrying out the Kenya National Trading Corporation work at the moment—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do you say that you do not now second the amendment?

Mr. Ngala-Abok: I am seconding it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Having now realized that there is a mistake in the set-up of this organization—yet it is a good organization, the aims, the objects and the duties that it is supposed to carry out on behalf of the people are very noble ones—I now feel that if the Motion as amended or the amendment put forward by the hon. Member who has just spoken is accepted, the Ministry is going to take immediate steps to see that our people are not turned away by an organization of a tribal nature or a tribal set-up which will bring in some complaints from the Members, from the country and which also will create disinterest and misunderstanding—

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am rising to seek your guidance on this, because we want to be quite sure of this Motion and what we are going to say on it. Has the tribal grouping or any tribal feeling anything to do with the Motion, Mr. Speaker, because I do not find any part which deals with tribal matters and this is cropping up as we are arguing on anything to do with—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Certainly, the original Motion does not raise any tribal issue at all, but the amendment, which refers to the Kenya National Trading Corporation, apparently does, and the hon. Member in seconding the amendment, I think, is entitled to refer to any alleged tribal aspect of its constitution.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not wish to bring this point or make it appear that I am very critical of something wrong, or that I am trying to reject any new issues here. The position is that we would like to see the Kenya National Trading Corporation become the sole controller of all the agencies. I feel that the Motion must give some direction to the Ministry in order to take steps to curb such activities. In this way we can enable the new African businessmen to participate in such activities. As things are at the moment, the country's activities can come to ruin. Mr. Speaker, which organization do we have in the country today which will curb all the activities of the non-Africans? This must be pointed out and we must direct that an organization like the Kenya National Trading Corporation be given such powers to visit the businessmen, to organize the businessmen and to try to find businesses which could be operated by Africans; also, where these businesses could be placed. This work should be done by the Ministry concerned.

Mr. Speaker, I would not like to entertain a Motion which does not give directions. Even the Ministry cannot get away with this by merely accepting a Motion, and then go back to the Ministry and try to create a new company. The Ministry must do things in a sensible way, the Ministry must put things in practice in a sensible way.

So, we are asking that if there is something wrong with the Kenya National Trading Corporation which is well known, then this must be corrected. I understand that some civil servants are me. What is wrong with that? I would like them to tell me how to apply this Motion, that was my whole intention of speaking on this Motion. If the hon. Members would just keep quiet I have very good information on the Table here which I want to pass to them in order to help them help the very people they want to help, because we cannot help the African traders by shouting.

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to be told by the Members here, or in my office, the specific names of the Asians, whether they be Indians, Arabs or even Europeans for that matter, who are doing exactly what is written in the Motion. I promise the Members here that I will do whatever I can to see that the wrong is rectified.

Now, Sir, I would like to come to one specific subject which has been mentioned here, and that is with regard to underselling. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to inform the hon. Members, at least this is how I understand it myself, that underselling done by an Asian, or any African for that matter, is wrong. We should not stand in this House and say that the Asians are the only ones who are underselling, because this is not right. I have specific examples which I can give to this House. There was a company, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my district, where some Africans had about twenty-five buses. They undersold the bus tickets, for example, instead of asking the people to pay Sh. 13 from Kitui to Nairobi, they charged Sh. 6, Sh. 8, and Sh. 5 and the whole bus service went bankrupt. This, Sir, was done by Africans. Therefore, Sir, we cannot stand here and accuse the Asians for advising the Africans to undersell others, because this will be a wrong accusation. So, Sir, any evil done in the trading business, whether it be done by an Asian or an African is a mistake, and it should be corrected. For example, if I go and investigate this and find an African doing the very thing that we are accusing the Asians of doing, then he will be in for trouble.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I now want to go on to another point. I have been told here that the Asians are bribing the Africans either to opt out from the co-operative movement or something else. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if somebody is weak enough to be bribed, then what am I being asked to do with a weak man like that, except to sympathize with him and pray for him that his mind be corrected? Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is no medicine for a wicked man, whether he is an African or an Asian. He is wicked and there is nothing which I can do for him. An African should realize that the moment he is bribed by an Asian to do something wicked in order to ruin this African, then he is guilty of a very big offence. I do not think the hon. Members here would support such an African. He should be put inside for several years, because he is one of the Africans stopping the other Africans from moving ahead.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to turn to the question of shares. It has been said here in this Chamber that the Asians, or Europeans for that matter, Sir, are urging the Africans to take shares which are not paid for. They only take the shares in name. So, Sir, what is the share? If any Asian is prepared to come and give me shares which I have not paid for are stamped, and Mr. Speaker, and I am not asked to pay for them, then he is a fool. He is a complete fool and I will think that Asian or non-African who has done that because he has helped an African who is penniless to obtain some money and own some money in that company. If an hon. Member knows what a share is, then he will know that I for one cannot give anybody a share unless he has paid for that share. Therefore, any Asian or any non-African who has been foolish enough to give a share to an African who has not paid for it, then I thank God that he has done the job I wanted him to do. I wish that they would all give shares to Africans for nothing. The moment, Sir, the Africans have the controlling voice in the shares, the man is out of business.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did hear a Member say that he is not very happy with the way in which the Government is giving loans to the Africans. I am also not happy. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not happy with the way in which the Africans are paying the loans. I can assure this House, and I have the details here, and with the permission of the House I want to leave this list here, we have almost one and a half million shillings now in arrears, which should be paid to the Government in order that the Government can issue it to other people, for example, Sir, to Sirikwa.

Let me give these people some food to chew today. Sirikwa District alone has Sh. 250,429/03 in arrears. Kisumu itself has arrears amounting to Sh. 238,164. This is the money which should be used by the Government today to issue other loans. I will give you Kitui, for that matter, Sh. 85,877 to be paid to this House. I can give you any district you ask me.

Mr. Speaker, in order to be quick let me give the House the analysis. Please note this down.

Nairobi, amount in arrears: Sh. 130,757/15; this is money in arrears, mind you. Apart from that, we have already given them another Sh. 3,600.

Hon. Members: Why? What for?

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): I am very pleased to hear you say that, because I am asking myself why. We are stopping this money. Why should these people get more money?

Muranga: Sh. 32,166 in arrears. They have in hand today Sh. 59,500. Kiambu: Sh. 95,777/85, and they have today in hand—please, this is very good information: I think you had better keep quiet—Sh. 21,800. As regards Nyandarua, this is a new district and it has no money in arrears. Kirinyaga: Sh. 36,524/27, and they have in hand Sh. 29,647/80. Thika at the moment has no money in arrears. Rift Valley: Sh. 50,133. Narok: Sh. 10,362/81. Kajiado: Sh. 37,593/03.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipiti): You have given them enough.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Good, I am pleased to hear that.

Mr. Speaker, I have a list of all the districts here and I have already given the Members Kitui, Busia: Sh.—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would suggest we stop this list now. Actually, it is not relevant to the Motion. I know it was raised, Mr. Mwendwa.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, I am doing this because a certain Member did say that the loans we are giving are not enough.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Quite so. That is why I allowed it, but as it is not really relevant to the Motion, I think we might go on to something else.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): I agree with you, Mr. Speaker. All I am telling the Members is that the Government is trying to do its level best to give loans to Africans, but it should be reciprocal. Anybody given a loan should be able to repay it, so that the next man can be given a loan, because we cannot continue paying out money which is not coming back. Our sources are limited, Mr. Speaker.

The Government has already created three organizations for giving loans to Africans, in order to promote their business. One of them is very well known to the Members here; it is called the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation. This is the organization specifically organized for giving Africans loans. The other one is the Development Finance Corporation of Kenya which is also giving loans, not actually to Africans as individuals but to companies which may be engaged in industries. Then we have what is known as the Kenya National Trading Corporation, which the hon. Member was talking about. This is a State-owned company.

Mr. Anyieni: That one is tribal.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Well, if it is tribal, Mr. Speaker, I promise the Members that I will do something to rectify the mistake.

The last one, Mr. Speaker, is the trade development boards which are in the districts. Some of the Members here, Mr. Speaker, are members of these boards and some of them sitting here are even chairmen of these boards. Mr. Speaker, I think the Members will support me in saying that I should look at the districts, district by district, and if I find that a district is lagging behind in repaying the money, I should stop it completely and then go down to the districts which are prepared to refund the money, so that they get the fruits of their activities.

Mr. Speaker, let me say this to the Members here. The Ministry of Commerce and Industry is an old Ministry; I am new to the Ministry. I am not saying—I have not said it and I am not going to say it—that I am an expert; I am not an expert. I need the advice of the Members here. I need the Members who know the districts to come and tell me, "Mr. Minister, this is what you should do to improve the trade." It is my wish, to improve the trade. I will be one of the proudest Ministers if, at the end of my tour, I am told that there is an African who is doing trade with Japan, America, Russia or China directly, without having somebody in between. This is what I want to achieve. This is what the Government wants to achieve.

We cannot achieve it without the advice of the Members sitting here, but it is also good, Mr. Speaker, that the Members sitting in this Chamber should go down, have a meeting with their people and tell them to help the Minister for Commerce by repaying loans, because the moment they do not repay their loans, they are cutting my legs and my hands; I cannot move without money. Whether we shout in this House or we do not shout, Mr. Speaker, if we have no money, we cannot give loans to people.

This is what I am asking the Members to do. This is another appeal I am making to the Members. Mr. Speaker, the underselling problem has created a lot of problems in this country. It has seen some Africans out of business, there is no

[Mr. Makokha] the majority. But, Mr. Speaker, what actually happens is that these non-Africans persuade certain African traders to join their companies in name only, but physically these Africans never pay for any shares at all in these companies.

I would urge the Government to make sure that wherever such companies exist they ensure that the African shares in these companies exist physically, not only in name.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words I believe that the Mover of this Motion will accept my amendment and I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Who seconds the amendment?

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in seconding this amendment I have in mind the problems that have been put forward by the hon. Member. The intention we have in this Motion is to see to it that justice, in terms of commerce, is done to Africans.

In the first place, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when we talk of African Socialism, in order to achieve its objectives that can only be possible through the co-operatives. If the co-operative societies are not made to function properly then what we call African Socialism will be African Capitalism, although the Africans themselves will not be the capitalists.

Mr. Speaker, it is unfortunate that the Ministry for Co-operatives and Marketing has been abolished and I expect that the Ministry for Commerce and Industry, which has a co-operative department, will institute a kind of commission of inquiry to investigate the malpractices which are taking place within the co-operative societies and the unions. I say this, Mr. Speaker, because it is certain officials of the unions and co-operative societies who are under the influence of the suppliers of their groups, that is, the Asian traders or—for that matter—the European companies, from whom they get their requirements. These companies would like to have a direct link with the individual farmers instead of going through the co-operative societies or through the unions.

Now, Mr. Speaker, if there are no inducements given by these private firms, either to officials of the societies or to officials of the unions, then the question of unions breaking away would not have come about. Principles are one thing, but there are corruptive tendencies within the co-operative societies and within the unions, and it is up to the Minister to institute a kind of inquiry to investigate the activities of various co-operative societies and unions.

The other thing which I want to say, Mr. Speaker, is this. The non-African businessman, in order to block the way of an African becoming a successful businessman, has a very good method of doing this; namely, by reducing the price of things with the intention that if he reduces the price of sugar he may gain by selling a blanket at a higher, or double, the price to the same African and the African will feel that he bought it at a very cheap rate.

Now, there is a system whereby prices would be fixed by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. This practice would still continue. Let me give an example, the sale of petrol in the reserve. If there are two pumps, one owned by the African businessman, the other by an Asian businessman, the Asian businessman will always reduce the controlled price, he will sell below the normal price. Consequently, every man with a vehicle would always go to an Asian where he would get petrol at a reduced rate. This must be examined very carefully. In this respect, the Asian petrol owner does not issue a receipt, if he issues a receipt at all the receipt would be for the normal price, and he would tell the man that he had just given him a discount. Consequently, within the course of time the African would go out of the market and the Asian would remain with the monopoly. These are the things that we have experienced and I have personally seen it in practice, but it is difficult to get hold of that Asian and put him into the dock. The only solution, Mr. Speaker, would be that the Ministry should not sleep, and if the Ministry of Commerce and Industry sleeps in the belief that things are going well because of the Harabee spirit, I am afraid, Sir, the African will no longer stand on his own but would remain perpetually under the control of the non-African businessmen.

The other thing I wanted to say deals with agencies. It is wrong that an Asian, or a European, for that matter, should be made the agent of the Maize Marketing Board. The Asian does not eat maize, the European does not eat unga, we are the people who eat ugali and consequently, the major consumer is the African. That agency ought to go directly to an African.

Here we have second-hand clothes and you find Asians dealing with these, whereas it is rare to find an Asian with a second-hand kapoti. These things should be examined on the basis of who really is the consumer, is he this man who just stays here in the shop or is he the bulk of the population. The best thing to do is to make that particular consumer feel that he has a role to play. Consequently, let him have the agency.

[Mr. Gichoya]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another thing, I would like to say is this. In the reserves it is becoming very, very difficult for any African, who is sincere, to have an order to supply foodstuff from the reserve to a prison, which is a Government prison. What is happening is that the Asians are being given contracts to supply foodstuffs to the reserves. Why do these Asians have their own reserves? The Asians in the reserves? These Sir, are the shambas which I want the Government to take care of. When people say that the Government is not doing very well, it is on these small things, although very vital, that the Government is not doing anything. The Government should correct them immediately, so that the country can really feel free and that the freedom of speech, as we have here in this Chamber, and the freedom of economic enterprise is felt.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I must propose the question of the amendment. I think it is really not a very contentious amendment, and we might get rid of it now, if hon. Members agree. So I will also put the question of the amendment.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, proposed, put and agreed to)

(Question of the second part of the amendment, that the words to be inserted in place thereof be inserted, proposed, put and agreed to)

(Motion as amended proposed)

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me clear the road so that the Members here in the House may speak freely.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are claiming twenty minutes, Mr. Mwendwa?

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): I beg your pardon?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Are you claiming twenty minutes, you are speaking for the Government now?

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Of course, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well then, you claim twenty minutes, instead of the usual ten. We just want it clear for the clock, that is all.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have always said that I speak as a Minister all the time. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would just like to clear the road for the Members so that they may now discuss this Motion in good spirit. To begin with, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have no quarrel with the Motion, but, Sir, the only thing I am asking the Members here to tell me, while discussing this Motion, is, if I accept the Motion as I propose to do, what do I do from there on? Mr. Speaker, Sir, how do I go and arrest men in Kitui? How does the Government go and arrest somebody in Kitui or Machakos when it has not been given the names of those men? Is the Government expected and am I expected as the Minister for Commerce, to go into every shop and ask every Asian there if he is the one who said or did this thing? Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very complicated subject, and I do not want Motions to be passed in this Chamber, for the sake of being passed.

Now, Sir, whenever we pass a Motion here, then, of course, the Members expect the Government to do something. Therefore, Sir, my hands are tied because I have not been given the names of the Asians who are underselling or bribing the co-operative members—

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the Minister to insist that he has not been given the name of the trader, whereas my friend, Mr. Makokha, did specify a particular case which took place in his own area?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, it is in order for the Minister to say that he has not been given names, because he has not been given names, not in the House. It is true and in order.

Mr. Omeri: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the Minister to say that he has not been given names, when I have given his Ministry the names of the fellows I had in mind?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Even then it is in order. It may be untrue.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Ministry has been given the name of an Asian, then the Ministry is doing its work of investigation. But, Sir, we cannot disclose those investigations to the House until it is found out who are concerned. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am saying that with regard to the Motion here I am not aware of the names that have been given to the Ministry. In fact, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am helping the Members. I am accepting the Motion, and now I want them to try and help

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Who seconds? You second, Mr. Odera-Jowi?

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odera-Jowi): Yes, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in seconding this Motion, I would like to speak as the Member for Lambwe.

Sir, this Motion states a fact, a bare fact, in the economic and commercial life of this country. The fact is that the Asians have had a very good deal for a long time, when the Africans were oppressed and when they had no chance of success in the commercial life of the country. They are still doing their best to maintain this leadership, this hegemony, in the commercial life of the country. This fact, Sir, has made our independence a mockery.

When you go through Nairobi and you look at the stone buildings you see in the streets here, the stones are the natural wealth of this country, but the wealth that now comes out of them is not the African wealth; it is being consumed and enjoyed by other people. This makes a mockery of our independence, Mr. Speaker. What we want—and what this Motion wants—is that African businessmen should be given a fair deal, a chance to succeed where they want to establish themselves. It is only this that this Motion is asking, and this is why I support it. Without the establishment of Africans in the commercial life of this country, the economy of the country will continue to be dominated by these Asians and other people. I am sure that when we achieved independence this was one of the things we promised our people. We promised them that we would do our best to remove this imbalance in the economic and commercial affairs of the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Mover of the Motion mentioned one of the bare facts, one of the very irritating facts, about the economic life of this country. Take the rural areas, whether it be Machakos or South Nyanza or Klambu; you find that the Africans grow maize, coffee and other crops, and the people who buy them are Asians. Up to this time, it is true to say that it is these Asians who set the price at which these crops are bought. Then the poor African farmer, when he gets the money, turns round to buy salt or clothing, and it is again the Asian who sets the price of the clothing. So the Asians are in a position to gain and to exploit Africans in two ways.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if this Government wants to rescue the Africans from this type of exploitation, let this Motion be accepted. I would like to ask the Mover of the Motion to agree that the Motion be made a little bit broader, because this phenomenon is not confined to Kisii alone. This type of thing is going on all over the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is another thing, another hard fact about capitalism. That is that that man who has money gets more money. He who has it gets more. For example, if you go to the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation and you say, "I want a loan, we have just formed a company here," they will ask you, "What security do you have?" Now, Sir, what security do you think an ordinary African in this country has? We have not had time to accumulate money; we have not had time to accumulate capital; and we have not even built houses which we could use as security.

When we go to look for these loans we go empty handed, we go in the belief that the African Government we have elected knows the plight of the African businessman who wants to establish business today. Sometimes, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very hard for these people to produce the type of security needed, usually when we go to banks they ask us what security we have. We say that we have no security other than ourselves, because we do not have money accumulated somewhere, our bank accounts are miserable, and—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): This is rather outside the terms of the Motion. The Motion complains of certain activities on the part of Asian traders and asks Government to curb them.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odera-Jowi): O.K. Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, what the Motion describes is true. I have noticed this, not only in Kisii; I have seen it in South Nyanza, too. The Asian businessmen to try their best to make the African businesses fail. I think that the first thing we should do is to ask them to change their minds. If they want to remain here as citizens let us ask them to change their minds so that they and the African businessmen combine together so that they can give the African businessmen the benefit of all the capital and experience they have accumulated over all these years. If they refuse to do this then the Government must intervene and the Government must intervene ruthlessly in order to take the advantage of business over to the African businessmen.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

(Question proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Nyamweya, you wish to speak for Government?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): No, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, then I think I will call on an hon. Member with an amendment to move.

Mr. Makokha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will start straight away by amending this Motion to make it more grown-up so that it may cover the whole country. My amendment is to leave out the word "Asian" and replace it with the word "non-African" and my second amendment is to leave out the words "Kisii Town and elsewhere" and replace these four words by the word "Kenya". My third amendment is to leave out, in the last line but one the word "new" so that we just say "thereby enabling Africans", not only new African businessmen.

Mr. Speaker, I would first of all give my reasons for suggesting these amendments which I believe the Mover will accept. It is not only the Asian traders who have been known to undermine either African companies or co-operative societies or African businessmen. I can give an example in my own constituency where a European ginnyer owner has gone all out to destroy co-operative societies and has almost succeeded. Mr. Speaker, Sir, he is not an Asian, he is a European and at one time he even spent money going out to markets and making and giving free tea to people who came to the market and, at the same time, employing his agents to preach against co-operative societies by telling these people that by selling to co-operative societies they would not realize profits quickly and that the society officials would steal their money.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also know of an Arab in my constituency—because Arabs sometimes refuse to call themselves Asians—who went all out to destroy an African bus owner by reducing his bus fares; where the African charged Sh. 3, he charged Sh. 2 until this African businessman had to sell his bus at a loss. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is my reason for replacing the word "Asian" with the word "non-African".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also want the Motion to cover the whole of Kenya and that is why I have replaced the words "Kisii Town and elsewhere" with the word "Kenya".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these non-Africans know that the African earning capacity is low and, for that reason, they know that if these low-earning Africans get together, either in companies or in co-operative societies, they will then be economically effective. That is the reason, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that these people go out to try and destroy these organizations. Now, they do so, Mr. Speaker, Sir, either by bribing some foolish Africans or by making them agents who go out to preach to their fellow Africans. I see the Assistant Minister, who is probably going to answer, murmuring here but he probably forgets that these Africans who are bribed are poor fellows. Some of them cannot pay their taxes and therefore they accept a bribe from a non-African, say, in the form of tax, in the form of a shirt, and they go out to work against their fellow Africans.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these agents are employed—

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipitip): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, could the hon. Member substantiate that there are some foolish Africans who are being bribed to exploit?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I think the observation is rather too general to require substantiation.

Mr. Makokha: Mr. Speaker, although it is general I could easily substantiate. There is an Asian ginnyer owner in my district who bought bicycles for Africans and these Africans were supposed to cycle around persuading people not to join co-operative societies.

An hon. Member: Could you give us the name of that Asian?

Mr. Makokha: I will do it outside if the Assistant Minister would like me to do that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the reasons I have given I would, therefore, urge the Government to make it easier for African societies, companies and businessmen to take part in the economy of this country. For example, any sugar agent, I understand, is supposed to give a very large deposit of money—about Sh. 100,000 as a deposit—and at the same time have more money to buy the sugar to distribute to other Africans. Now, Mr. Speaker, this is very difficult and the Government should make it a little bit easier, because for an African company, or even an African businessman, to produce Sh. 100,000 as a deposit and then still have more money to buy the sugar to distribute to other retail businessmen in his area is just impossible. Mr. Speaker, Sir, either the Government should lessen the deposit or it should act as a guarantor to those African companies or businessmen who wish to do this.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in doing this the Government should also make it a rule—if the Government brings a law to this House we shall pass it—that no agencies will be allowed in the whole country by Asians or non-Africans alone. Now, I understand that some time last year the Minister for Commerce and Industry assured us that no company would be allowed to take part in any agency unless the shares of the Africans were in [Mr. Omweri] them prompt attention and his service is quite good. They ask the African why he does not consider a sub-agency.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these are the things which we do not want. If the Asians want to intervene in business in things like this, where the manufacturers have agreed to give an African a chance and have participation in the country's economy, you find somebody coming up and influencing the decision. We condemn this very, very strongly and we do not want such an attitude. Government must now come in and check and where these things are happening they must be put right.

This is happening all over the country and we want Government to follow it up and see that if negotiation has taken place between a new businessman coming up in any district with the manufacturer, if any other person comes in and tries to intervene by saying that that man has no knowledge, no experience, we want to know when this new businessman is going to get the experience if Asians have sat on the business all this time and are going to continue to sit on the business. Mr. Speaker, we would like our Government to come in and help our Africans to participate and earn their living. The problem of unemployment is so big that if Africans have some business to carry on they will have reduced this problem of unemployment, but if we do not encourage or allow them to have some business, how are we going to fight unemployment? How are we going to help them to earn their living? We must give them a chance and in order to do so we are asking Government to intervene and see that Africans are given a chance to participate and earn their livelihood. We do not want to say that we must wait for Government to give us jobs. Government may not have enough jobs to give us. In commerce, Mr. Speaker, Africanization has not taken place and we do want Africanization to take place there straight away. Government must assist those Africans who want to participate and earn their livelihood. We do not want the Africans to depend either on the Government or any other person.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is something strange going on; Government knows about this and keeps quiet. Take produce, maize for example, and here you find that it is the Asian who is given the agency; yet it is not the Asian who wants to eat maize. We find that Asians are given the chance to be the sole millers, and when Africans apply for the chance to become millers for Government or agents for the statutory boards, Government does not listen to the Africans. How, then, can we carry on? I think that the Government must now check that the produce which is produced by the Africans passes through the hands of Africans. We do not want the produce to go through some hands who do not really make use of that particular produce. It is our people who are working on the land, they produce this produce and they should then send it to our brothers who are working in the towns and other places. We should only sell to our own people. The bridge should be an African bridge. We do not want any other person to come in and intervene who has no interest at all except to be the middle man and enjoy the fat profit from African sweat.

Mr. Speaker, it is surprising to find that even in concerns where Government has an interest, for example the Kenya Meat Commission, you still find that the old contracts continue. Why should we continue with the old contracts? These should have been stopped immediately we had our independence. Tenders should have been invited for everybody so that Africans could have been given a chance if they showed they were capable of doing the job. However, you find that the Africans are being told, "We have our old customers who have been giving us good service for the past fifteen years and we cannot change them just because Uhuu has come." What do our people think when they are told this? Our people look forward to some satisfaction as a result of Uhuu for which they fought. Mr. Speaker, we ask our Government to come in and assist the electors who brought us here to voice their problems.

Another big problem we have, which is a shame to our Government, is that we have the Kenya National Trading Corporation. This is a company initiated by Government. Yet you find that Government does not give the Africans equal opportunity to become the sole agents, as was intended, to import goods and distribute them. We find that Asians are still given importing licences when the Kenya National Trading Corporation is there. What is this company going to do? Mr. Speaker, we must have this chance now. If the Kenya National Trading Corporation was incorporated to help the Africans, then it should have all the agencies. In this way this company would be able to cut down profits and sell things to the African much more cheaply than they are at the present moment. This can be effected because this company will cut out the middle man who normally increases the prices in order to get fat profits.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are so many irregularities which exist at the moment in the Government. For example, we agree that the manufacturers should manufacture the goods and then we have some of our people who will distribute the goods. This, however, is not the case. You have the manufacturers who manufacture the goods

[Mr. Omweri] and then they are also the distributors, the wholesalers as well as the retailers. Government has not made things uniform. There are so many people who have no means of getting a livelihood and they could be assisted by some of the smaller manufacturing firms. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we cannot continue to allow the Asians to have the monopoly of business. Mr. Speaker, I think that the manufacturers should have the right to manufacture the goods and after that the small business people in the country should be given the monopoly of conducting the retail business as well as the distribution. We do not like the way things are conducted at the moment. Is this not a great shame? Is this not encouragement of monopoly to certain people?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we condemn this practice very strongly and we do not want it to happen. The Government must step in now and see to it that a check-up is made and proper practices employed, so that people have an equal chance. We do not want it to be the case that one individual or a few individuals get a chance just because they happen to have had a chance in the 1940s to carry on business themselves. Everyone now who thinks that at last a chance has come for us to enjoy the fruits of the country and to participate in constructing and building this country properly then finds that those means that he would like to employ are taken and monopolized by only a few fellows who are fortunate. Mr. Speaker, we condemn this and we want our Government to step in and help.

Now, Sir, I want to make some recommendations which the Ministry should accept. If we find that these things are true and we give the Ministry these answers and the real example of these fellows who indulge in malpractice in business, the Government should then immediately take away the licence of any such Asian who happens to have been given one to carry on a business. These people should have their licences taken away from them. If we find that a truck is licensed to carry goods and then all we find it doing is carrying people who are going to go for a meeting to go against their society or their union, then the licence for that vehicle should immediately be taken away; and the Asian, or whoever is concerned, should be disciplined. We cannot have these things going on indefinitely like that with the Government taking no notice. In the world of commerce, Africanization has not taken place and it cannot take place if these practices still continue.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like to tell the Ministry and the Government as a whole, that if the Kenya National Trading Corporation was formed for the whole country, and not for one tribe, as it might seem at the moment, we want it to be given full powers—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I must remind Mr. Olotiipitip again. Hon. Members who cross from side to side must please do it at the Bar.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Olotiipitip): Sorry, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want the Kenya National Trading Corporation to be given the sole agency for importing goods into the country, including sugar. We do not want Government to import sugar. At the moment, the trading corporation does not have the right to import sugar and this is a great shame. Mr. Speaker, we want that corporation to be given more powers and more direction so that it can carry out the task of assisting Africans to have proper agencies from elsewhere for all goods, and also helping them to import goods at cheaper price by reducing some of the middlemen who, at the moment, are too numerous.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would also like the Government to increase the amount of loans they are giving now, so that Africans are also financially stable enough to carry out their business properly, and so that they are able to compete with the Asians who have accumulated a lot of finance in the past. In this case, we find that the loans given, say, by the district development loan boards, are too small; the amount is too little. We would like the amount of individual loans to be increased.

Mr. Speaker, if the Members are going to have their own debate, I would prefer the Minister to attend to me, if he is going to reply, rather than saying, "What, what?"

We want loans for individuals to be raised. We also want the loans to be increased, wherever they come from, because sometimes you find that the amount of money involved in giving loans has been used up; we do not have enough money there. In this case, we ask the Government to pay more attention to this and to give more loans to these corporations so that we have enough money to give to Africans who come up to join in carrying on businesses.

Sir, on the bank side, I would also say that there are some banks which are very unco-operative to Africans, for example. We would like the Co-operative Bank, which was agreed to in this House, to be started immediately. We do not know why the Minister in charge of Co-operatives has not told us why it should not be started. In this way, we could also avail ourselves of finance.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House when this disease was identified?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this was identified immediately the carcasses were in our laboratories and a post-mortem was carried out.

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell the House what methods of prevention exist for the disease of trypanosomiasis which he has mentioned?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not remember mentioning anything about trypanosomiasis.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I thought not. That is another disease, Mr. Bala.

Mr. Shkuka: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the statement that the disease has been diagnosed by the Ministry of Agriculture after a post-mortem was carried out, could he tell this House how he intends to stop, or to prevent, this disease from spreading? What precautionary measures can be taken?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have said, if the hon. Member for Butere was listening, that we have mounted demonstrations in these locations to try and prevent this disease.

Question No. 325

CASTOR SEED FACTORY, UKAMBANI

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development if the Minister would tell the House when and where the castor oil seed factory would be started in Ukambani, which was promised to the people last year.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. At the same time, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to apologize for being late.

I wish also to state, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that we have been waiting for the Order Paper which was also delayed and that is the cause of my lateness.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, negotiations are still going on regarding the establishment of a castor oil seed factory at Ukambani. But, Sir, it is not possible to state the exact date when all the details will be finalized. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Industrial and Development Corporation and the previous Produce Marketing Board had agreed, in principle, to work together on a joint venture to set up the factory.

At the present time, a feasibility study of the project is under way and the details of financing it are being worked out. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when all the details become available, the matter will be presented to the Board of the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation and the newly formed Agriculture Produce Board for final approval.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member can be assured that the matter is well in hand and there will be no unnecessary delay in setting up the industry, since it has already been ascertained that there is adequate production in the area to sustain a factory.

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I know from the Assistant Minister where he intends to put up this factory? Is it at Kibwezi?

Mr. Oloitiptip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I said, we are not ready to state where we are going to put up this factory, but as soon as we finalize the whole financial situation, it will depend on the area where there will be plenty of these crops and we shall situate a factory there. Mr. Speaker, we rely on the hon. Member to tell us the place he thinks most suitable.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply by the Assistant Minister, he is now making this question look as though it is just being started. Is he not aware that the Minister for Commerce and Industry announced here, in this House, that he had taken a decision himself to site the industry at Kibwezi, and is he not aware that a feasibility study had already been done before the Minister made this announcement? If he is aware of that, what is the use of him coming and telling us that the same thing is being done again?

Mr. Oloitiptip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Member should rely on the reply I have just given and forget about the previous replies.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must go on now. Next Order.

Mr. Lorema: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am seeking your guidance. In view of the fact that Motions 5, 6 and 7 on the Order Paper are dependent on Order No. 8, would it be in order to start with No. 8, so that the former can take effect?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. Next Order.

MOTION

AFRICAN PARTICIPATION IN COMMERCE

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:—

THAT this House deplores the conduct of certain Asian traders in Kisii Town and elsewhere who engage themselves in persuading the members of co-operative societies to break away from their unions and interfere in [Mr. Omweri] agencies which should have gone to African traders, and also under-cut in prices other traders; and urges the Government to take steps to curb such activities, thereby enabling new African businessmen to participate beneficially in the country's economy.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when moving this Motion, I have no racial grudge at all against Asians who are doing their business in the proper manner. Secondly, while moving this Motion, I do not want the House to restrict this as if it were a Kisii problem and, as such, I have included the word "elsewhere" to cover all parts of the country which happen to have the same problem as Kisii businessmen have already met.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when I brought this Motion, the reasons had already been mounting and the most serious one was this. In Kisii we have a co-operative movement in charge of agricultural produce. This organization is such that it is a threat to Asians because when Africans are united to carry out their business, the Asians are uneasy, they are not happy about it, and what has happened is that a number of Asians in Kisii have gone round to suggest to union members that they should break away and all their produce could be sold in a direct manner from the producer to wherever the market might be. As such, they say, they will have more profit, which actually is not the case; they would not have any extra money on top of what they are getting at the moment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we found that in Kisii an Asian employed his own truck to move around the societies, telling them, "If you dismantle your union, I will help you to get to where you can sell your coffee, I will help you to get transport for transporting your pyrethrum, and you will pay very cheap transport costs. By following this co-operative movement now, you are paying a very high cost to transport your goods from here to where the market is." Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is contrary to the Government's wish and the Government's policy, which includes strengthening the co-operative movement in the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, Kisii people wonder whether the Government is to build a co-operative movement for the Asians to destroy and dismantle everything. We do not know which one we are going to follow. If the Asians want to co-operate with the people there, they should follow the Government move and the Government policy of strengthening co-operative organizations. This is one big worry.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, what has happened is that certain Asians who, in the past, used to have very high prices for goods which were very cheap have found that if they continued at that price, they would not have enough customers now that African business men are taking up their positions in various towns in the country, and the move has now been that the whole thing is to undersell, and, in this case, attract more customers. Mr. Speaker, we find that this is not a normal practice which businessmen should be engaged in and we condemn this practice very strongly and want the Government to intervene and make a thorough check to see where these fellows practise such bad methods of carrying out business and, as such, rectify the situation, so that everybody is given equal chances of competition.

For example, Mr. Speaker, we find that cement is sold at Sh. 14 when all other shops sell at Sh. 15 or Sh. 15 and some cents on top. In this case, the whole thing is being revealed, that the Asians who have had a chance to exploit in the past do want now to make the new businessmen, who have not gained enough strength to stand strongly and compete, collapse, because if they did undersell all their goods, what would happen is that the customers would turn to the cheaper prices and buy from there; the Asian knows very well that even if he sold for one year at a lower price, he would not run out of business because he has already collected enough in the past. It is this practice which we are condemning and in which we want the Government to intervene to straighten it out.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of agencies is a big problem. Government has been asked time and again to intervene and, to this end, I think the Ministry was quite wise to set up a company called the Kenya National Trading Corporation which has been given enough powers to discipline those fellows who do not follow the instructions properly. What is happening now, Mr. Speaker, is that when an African comes to a manufacturer and negotiates for agencies for a certain area, the same Asian who might have had a chance in the past to have that contract comes over and tells the manufacturer, "Look here, don't listen to these shouts from the Government. It is business we want and the new African who is coming up has no money, he will not do any business, he will not pay you, he will not pay any instalments, he will not do anything; in fact, he will spoil your business. He has no transport. Here we are who have money, we have transport and we can do the agency much better than these Africans". Mr. Speaker, Sir, the following day the manufacturers regret to an African that they are sorry they find they cannot break their old contract with Mr. So-and-so who is in that area and who has been trading with them very nicely. He has been giving cargo-handling employment why has he not seen fit to include this in the figure? I would like to know how many people were taken by the Cargo Handling Services.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member for Butere might as well look at the question. We have answered the question and there are two different exchanges in Mombasa, and if he knew the working of the employment services there he would know that generally people go to the Labour Exchange for work in Mombasa District, but work at the port is divided into casual as well as the normal labour pool which is handled entirely at the port. People working at the port belong to the pool, they are registered in the pool and the pool services are different from the labour exchange.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, in view of the Minister's original reply to the effect that only sixty-nine people out of 1,343 were employed in January by the normal labour exchange, would the Minister explain whether it is his intention to have short-term interim measures so that the unemployed can also get something to live on, at least temporarily?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to explain that sixty-nine people were found jobs, that is, they were given jobs by the exchange. It does not mean that only sixty-nine people found jobs. This figure of sixty-nine does not include those who found jobs themselves, although registered, and do not come back to the exchange. In the course of time, many people find jobs by themselves and so long as they are not found jobs by the exchange we do not have to register them in this figure.

As far as the second part of the question is concerned, of course the Government is aware that many more people need jobs and every effort is being made to expand the employment services. Crash programmes have been put into effect in Mombasa and, unfortunately, these crash programmes have not been able to give everyone a job but every effort is continuing to be made.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, is the Minister aware that the majority of the job seekers did not get opportunities through the labour office because of two reasons? First, they were unable to pay some corruption money that was being demanded in some areas and, secondly, because they were not of the right tribes?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member is aware of any corruption, he has a duty to bring it to the notice of the Government rather than to make generalized statements which are becoming a habit these days. If anybody is aware of corruption and knows an officer who is involved in corruption, he has a duty to the country, the public and the Government, to let us know the person's name rather than come here and make generalized statements.

Mr. Speaker, this is taking advantage of a very serious situation and creating unnecessary suspicion and I challenge the hon. Member to bring us the names of the corrupt officers after this debate.

On the second point, it is true that some people—including some Members of Parliament—have contended that certain tribes should not be employed in Mombasa. The Government does not accept that position and the Government will never agree to that position.

Mr. Balala: With reference to one of the replies by the Minister, can he tell this House what crash programme he is referring to?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there have been a number of programmes which the hon. Member, Mr. Balala, is quite aware of. In the first place, we had the Tripartite Agreement. In the second place, we have had a number of schemes both by the municipality, the Government and other private sectors, including the building industry and other expansions which have been taking place in the docks and other places.

Question No. 340

WATER FROM MZIMA SPRINGS

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he could tell the House what the flow of water from Mzima Springs was; and would he also divert some of this water to parts of Kikumbulyu Location for human consumption and for the use of domestic animals as well as wild animals.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague, the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism, I beg to reply, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the average flowing capacity of the Mzima Springs is approximately fifty million gallons per day. Of this, ten million gallons daily enter the Mombasa pipeline and the rest flows into the Tsavo River to supply humans, stock and game along its course.

As regards the second part of the question, it must be realized that the nearest point of the Kikumbulyu Location from Mzima Springs is about twenty-five miles away. This point is approximately 500 feet higher in altitude than the Mzima Springs. Financially, this means that the capital cost of piping water from Mzima Springs to Kikumbulyu Location would be about £30,000, not including the costs of any distribution of pipeline within the location or the recurrent costs to run the machinery. Technically, it means that we will have to use expensive pumping equipment to take water to an altitude of 500 feet higher up. My Ministry, therefore, considers piping water from the Mzima Springs to Kikumbulyu Location uneconomic and cannot, therefore, consider diverting some water from Mzima Springs.

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

An alternative, however, has already been suggested by the Kikumbulyu residents who, through their district officer, submitted to the Machakos District Planning Team a request for money to be included in the 1966/67 Estimates. This request included a detailed report explaining that the water would come from Kibwezi River and would be pumped to storage tanks just ten miles away. From here it would flow through about ninety miles of piping, supplying water to some 20,000 people and 6,000 stock units.

The cost was estimated to be approximately £60,000 and it was proposed that the scheme would be phased over a four-year period. The most gratifying proposal was, however, a statement of the Kikumbulyu residents' willingness to pay some of the costs and how they were going to pay it.

It was not surprising, therefore, to see that this proposal was received favourably by the district planning team, the provincial water advisory committee and the Water Resources Authority. I am glad, Sir, to announce that money for the first phase of the scheme has been included in my Ministry's Provisional Estimates for 1966/67 Financial Year and my officers of the water development are ready to start exploratory work in consultation with the local officials.

This, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is an excellent example of what I have been saying repeatedly in connection with rural water supply—that my Ministry stands ready to help any location or district technically or financially, provided the residents show their willingness to contribute to our efforts.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that water is an essential part of human consumption, does the Minister agree with me that to provide the people of Kikumbulyu with water is more important than looking at the uneconomic part of the whole thing?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member had come from the area, he would know what we were talking about. If the residents of the area have accepted an alternative arrangement and have agreed to pay something towards it, and the Government has agreed to contribute to it, just what is the sense in this question?

Mr. Glehoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from what the Minister says, that people are willing to pay for it and the Government is willing to contribute towards it, how does the system work so far as the supply of water is concerned? Does it mean that the people must contribute 50 per cent and the Government, how does the system work, and how does the Government assist those people?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe I understand what the hon. Member is driving at. If he is referring to the development of water in which local authorities, that is county councils, are required to meet the expenditure on a £ to £ basis, in that particular case the Government provides £1 to every £1 that the county councils are prepared to put forward. In this type of programme, water development is undertaken jointly between the Government and the county councils and many places are beginning to enjoy the benefits of this arrangement.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must go back now to Question No. 351.

Question No. 351

CATTLE-KILLING DISEASE IN BOMET

Mr. arap Sol asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry if he could tell the House if the disease which was killing cattle in Locations 4, 5, 6 and 7 in Bomet had been identified. Secondly, could he tell the House if there was any specific step being taken by the Ministry to prevent and cure the disease.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to apologize to the House for being late in coming to answer this question.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Yes, the disease is known by the Kipsigis stock owners as Koil, which is a tick-borne disease. The answer to the second part of the question is, yes, as the disease is caused by a complication between East Coast Fever, Red Water and Anaplasmosis and investigations have revealed that, unless an outbreak is reported immediately, there is no effective cure. Therefore, the best way out is prevention, and the Veterinary Department has mounted demonstrations on prevention on six different farms. Over and above that, in Location 6, self-help work has begun in constructing a dip to prevent East Coast Fever.

[Mr. Ngala-Abok]

had been said was that such a person should actually appeal to the Public Service Commission and the commission should advise the President as to what to do with the person as such. I think this is more important, because we are not going to have one President continuously and this amendment is not being made in the interest of one person, it is being made in the interest of the entire country. This is, I think, the part of the amendment which should be deleted, Mr. Speaker, because we would like to get some other bodies which are impartial to be responsible for examining, questioning, dismissing or reprimanding a civil servant who has gone astray or who is felt to be making some mistakes. In fact, the Public Service Commission should be responsible for advising the President on what steps he has to take, but if everybody is to hold a post in the public service at the pleasure of the President, this is wrong, because the people who may become President later on may just dismiss any person, on any ground, personal ground, tribal ground—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Ngala-Abok, this point has been made a good many times.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Thank you Mr. Speaker.

So, having known that the point has been made, I would just like to drive it home that that particular part—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have done that, too.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: —that particular part of the clause should be amended.

I would like also to congratulate the Government on citizenship being at the discretion of a Minister. I think that the other races—Asians and Europeans—who are panicking as to how citizenship should be obtained, should realize that if they are good citizens already, if they are living well, if they are in harmony and they respect the law of the land, they will have nothing to worry about; they will have to convince the Minister concerned that their conduct is good and they are capable of becoming citizens of this country. So this I support very much.

Mr. Speaker, since I do not want repetition, I would only like to say that Members who have been imprisoned should not come to disgrace this House—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! That is repetition, very much so, Mr. Ngala-Abok. You have nothing else to say beyond that?

Mr. Ngala-Abok: No, Sir.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for giving me this opportunity not to repeat what has been said but to make one or two points, which have not been mentioned.

Mr. Speaker, when I was contesting the election, I told my electors certain things, and I did not ask the Attorney-General whether I could do this or not. If I am speaking for or against a Motion, the Attorney-General should not feel that we are opposing his Ministry, but we are making a law for the country, a law for us and for future generations, Sir.

As other Members have said, I have no quarrel with the part about a Member who has been in prison and is still earning public money, but I have a quarrel with the fact that a Member who does not attend Parliament for eight days is disqualified. Mr. Speaker, what happens if, for some reason, today I am imprisoned for one month? As you know, Sir, prisoners are not allowed to post letters. In this Bill, Sir, it is not specified whether the Members should get permission in writing, by telephone or by police V.H.F; it does not specify this, and the law is the law. We are not told here what sort of permission we have to get. If I am going somewhere, do I have to wait for the Speaker's permission before I go out, or what?

Mr. Speaker, am I not an hon. Member, elected by my own people? Mr. Speaker, the word "honourable" is an exclusive word which is used in this House in respect of Members, who are to serve their electors in the constituencies, or to come here and serve in the House. When I am here, I am serving my electors, and when I am at home with the provincial commissioner or the President or the Minister for Finance when he is explaining to my electors how public money is being spent, I am serving my constituents. Am I not honourable? Mr. Speaker, I must be left to be honourable, to come to this Chamber when I feel like coming here to serve my people.

The Speaker, (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Makone, you are repeating an argument we have heard many times; but you can continue on new points when we sit again.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker, (Mr. Slade): It is time now for the interruption of business. The House is therefore adjourned until tomorrow, Friday, 25th February, at 9 a.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past six o'clock.

Friday, 25th February 1966

The House met at Nine o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 350

RAILWAY STAFF HOUSING

Mr. Omweri asked the Minister of State, President's Office, whether the Government would make representations to the East African Common Services Organization for the Railway Administration to build more houses to accommodate their staff instead of buying up old foreign-owned houses at excessive prices.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply, Yes, Sir.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that answer, would the Minister tell us whether he has had any prior conversation towards this particular move?

Mr. Nyamweya: I do not want to add anything to what I have said, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Minister is not prepared to add anything to his "Yes, Sir", would he agree with this House that it would not be very proper for us to vote money for any East African Common Services Organization services if we do not get the proper use of that money as far as the staff are concerned?

Mr. Nyamweya: Yes, Sir.

Mr. Kibuga: Arising from one of the Minister's replies, Sir, is he aware that there is a shortage of housing as far as the East African Common Services Organization is concerned?

Mr. Nyamweya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government is aware that there is an acute shortage of staff houses in the East African Common Services Organization as well as with the Kenya Government and this matter is receiving active consideration by the Government.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell the House how many foreign-owned houses have been bought up by the Common Services?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think that is getting rather beyond the question.

Next question.

Question No. 351

CATTLE-KILLING DISEASE IN BOMET

Mr. arap Sol asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether the disease which was killing cattle in Locations 4, 5, 6 and 7 in Bomet had been identified and whether there was any specific step being taken by the Ministry to prevent and cure the disease.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is no one here from the Ministry to answer this, we will leave it to the end in the hope that there will be somebody to answer it then.

Question No. 325

CASTOR SEED FACTORY, UKAMBANI

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development whether he would tell the House when and where the castor oil seed factory would start in Ukambani, which had been promised to the people last year.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The same applies to this question.

Question No. 339

REGISTERED UNEMPLOYED, MOMBASA DISTRICT NUMBER

Mr. Omar asked the Minister for Labour whether he would tell the House the number of unemployed persons registered in Mombasa District at the present time and how many had been offered jobs by the Ministry.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply on behalf of the Minister for Labour.

The number of persons who sought employment by registering themselves at the Mombasa Employment Exchange during January 1966, was 1,343, of whom 69 were successfully found jobs during the same month. These figures do not include the port workers who are engaged through the office of the employment exchange run by Cargo Handling Services at the port.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House among these sixty-nine who were successful how many were women?

Mr. Mboya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I cannot give that breakdown.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Minister's reply that out of over 1,000, only sixty-nine were employed, does he not agree with me that this is a very small number indeed and if he knows the

[Mr. Ngala-Abok]

This is very true because when one has been imprisoned for a criminal offence his constituents would be very shy to see him back in Parliament still as their representative. There is no clause in the amendment saying that such a Member should not contest another election, but it only says that for that period, after having been in prison for more than six months, he should lose his seat.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it does not matter how one gets oneself into prison, what really matters and one would not stop suspicion, neither could one stop any Government from undermining him. If any Government was to undermine a Member at any time that Government can do it, it can be either by open, direct arrest alleging that you have done something that you have not done and that you will be imprisoned for even two or three years. The mere fact that we are amending the Constitution does not mean that the Members will be arrested tomorrow and put into prison for six months, but it will mean that Members should start saving their money so that when a Member is arrested he must be able to get a good lawyer and the lawyer must prove to the country that he is not being imprisoned either due to jealousy or because of his political views, but he is being imprisoned according to a code of regulations which can be proved before a court of law. In fact I quite believe, Mr. Speaker, that a good Member who really wants to represent his constituents, does not need to be done any favours either by the law or by an individual. But the question of losing a seat in this Parliament will arise at any time.

Just now in Ghana, Mr. Speaker, the situation there is very different. There is no longer a Constitution in that country and that is what is happening, but we would not like to be in a world where there are no controls. Members have been imprisoned recently, one was imprisoned for three months, and I do not know whether he is still earning the taxpayers' money or not, but with this regulation we will be able to determine whether a Member will still earn or whether or not he will lose his seat. If we continue to rule this country through suspicion or if we continue to view whatever move the Government makes with suspicion, how long can we continue to be straightforward? Why should one think that he will be tricked and that he will be imprisoned for six months, unless he, personally, is conscious of certain steps which he is going to take and thus make himself fall into such a trap. It does not matter whether I get imprisoned tomorrow for six months—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the hon. Member to impute that those who speak against this might be having something which they intend to do. Is he in order to impute ulterior motives?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, it is never in order to impute an improper motive, and if the hon. Member was doing that he should withdraw it. He is quite in order, of course, to argue against a perpetual atmosphere of suspicion of victimization, but the motive you must leave out, Mr. Ngala-Abok, so you withdraw any imputation of motive against any hon. Member.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was only saying that if a Member loses his seat after having been imprisoned for six months and has any suspicions in his own mind, then he cannot oppose such a thing, because this is not a country where one can be imprisoned and, at the same time, expect to come and sit here comfortably after he has probably committed rape. This is not a country where one can just do anything you like and then you can still come here and call yourself an hon. Member.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as to how a person can be sent to prison is not my business now, but the position is that after a person has committed a crime, and the world and the country has known about it, such as the maize scandal, at the moment—even Members have not commented on the suspicion of the Minister who has been committing these things—and so the country will know straight away that this man—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order!

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought that you ruled yesterday to the effect that we should not touch the question of maize in this debate and is the hon. Member in order to touch on the question of maize?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, you must leave that alone, Mr. Ngala-Abok.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: So, Mr. Speaker, I will leave that point by saying that however much we may be suspicious of how a clause or Constitution can affect a Member, there are so many matters affecting us as Members, and already certain Members of this House have been sent to prison and there are already so many things that affect Members, therefore this is not going to prevent any Member from exercising his right as a Member of this House. It will, however, be unfortunate for this House to retain a Member who has been imprisoned for six months after having committed a crime, but we would like to see that justice prevails, because once a Member is imprisoned without a proper reason, a person doing that, whether he be a Minister or the Attorney-General, will stand to be blamed before the country, because the country is growing and they know exactly why a Member should be imprisoned and lose his seat.

[Mr. Ngala-Abok]

Again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to leave that point, after a Member has been elected according to African Socialism, in two weeks' time you will come to this Parliament and people will have begun to see that when you were campaigning you said certain things and now that you are in Parliament you are not carrying out those things that you said you would, therefore, the people begin to lose confidence in you as time goes by. But when it comes to the climax of imprisonment you have already lost a considerable amount of your people's confidence and therefore you need to lose your seat. Then when you go and contest it, you tell them that the crime that you committed was not because of your mistake but was because of something else that influenced you. If you wish to become a good Member then you must come back to the House when you have cleaned your name. So, Mr. Speaker, I support that one.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as far as the eight consecutive days are concerned, I think I support this one, but good sense must prevail. We are all people who are civilized. We have gone through schools, colleges, and so on, and everywhere we have passed under certain conditions, which we must observe. This is purely and simply in the interests of the people we represent. If a Member is doing useful work in his constituency, Mr. Speaker, I do not think that we shall be so senseless as to refuse such a Member the opportunity to continue to do that work, providing that he rings or gives information as to what he is doing. If a Member goes abroad or his car is stuck in the mud, he must give information about this. This is courtesy. All the time, what we fight for here is courtesy. Whenever I say something wrong against a Member, he will rise on a point of order to tell me that I should withdraw. That is because I am trying to injure the feelings of such a Member. This is exactly what we want.

I can tell the House, Mr. Speaker, that very many Members are not attending this House and they go scot-free, nothing is done to them, nobody queries what they are doing outside, and we cannot run a country like that. Much as I may know that this Bill is going to affect me, so long as I feel that I am going to respect and continuously I must respect—even a man with his wife in his house knows that he has more strength and can beat his wife and die, but then he must respect such a woman. He knows he has the power, but he must respect that one.

Therefore, we are being called upon to obey certain things which are fundamental in life, which are very important. We cannot just be allowed to stay for eight days, nobody speaking about it, and still go and get our allowances and be respected as a Member and yet probably you are just engaged on other things altogether. Mr. Speaker, if one went to the town now, he could find so many Members drinking in bars and other places, without coming to this House, probably just reporting for two minutes only. This is not the thing that we want and this is why there is so much reaction in the country-side.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Member has just stated that if you go to town, you will find Members drinking in the bars who do not come to this House. Could he tell us who, instead of coming to the House, goes to drink in town? Can he substantiate which of the Members he is talking about?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I think it is most undesirable that we get into personalities of that kind. We do sometimes have these remarks made by hon. Members as to the shortcomings of some other Members. I think they must be entitled to say what they believe to be happening of this kind in general terms, without being asked to go into personalities. I think it is better to leave this sort of thing. I would not ask Mr. Ngala-Abok to withdraw if he believes that it is happening.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: So, Mr. Speaker, I just say that it saves public money for the public to see that their Members are attending, their Members are speaking, their speeches are recorded, their views are understood, they are straightforward Members who attend the authorities concerned and they are away they notify the authorities concerned and they continue to remain honourable all the time. Whether tomorrow I go to prison or not, Mr. Speaker, I must advocate these views because this is history which we are making. We do not want merely to suspect that one would create problems for you, and you will go to prison. Yes, if you are a person worth falling into such traps, why not fall and then leave the way clear?

Now, Mr. Speaker, what I am questioning very much is this, and this one I would not like to support. The question of saying that a civil servant or such a person holding a public responsibility is going to hold it at the pleasure of the President is very wrong because what we position of the North-Eastern Province. The North-Eastern Province in our Independence Order in Council, 1963, section 19 (1) says this "the President may, by regulations which shall be published in the Kenya Gazette, make such provision as appears to him to be necessary and expedient for the purpose of ensuring effective Government in or in relation to the North-Eastern Province, and without prejudice to the generality of that power, he may, by such regulation, make such temporary adaptations, modifications, or qualifications or exceptions to the provisions of the Constitution, or of any other law as appears to him to be necessary, or expedient, for that purpose." Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, those of us who have had the misfortune to travel to the North-Eastern Province, have seen a lot of dirty things going on. A number of us have only read about them in the newspapers. Even today we were due to go over there to have a look for ourselves. I must say here that there is provision here, in our regulations, of the five-mile limit. Our troops and members of the security forces have found themselves in a number of difficulties when dealing with the enemy. Some people here in Kenya do not know, and in fact some people in Government, do not know that in the North-Eastern Province we are on a war basis, and this House must realize and appreciate that we are on a war basis with the people of Somalia. Although we have not declared it, we must act as if we are on a war basis by doing all that is possible to build the confidence of the people in the North-Eastern Province. Mr. Speaker, Sir, to that extent we must give them the maximum fire power possible, and we must give them the necessary protection from interference. We must also, further, give the people of that particular province something to put in their pockets. That is to say, we must not only keep on thinking of a shooting war, but of a psychological war. The fact is that the five-miles limit prohibited area, is not as such, in practice, being obeyed as a prohibited area. Shifita may come in, they will see our forces coming driving down the road, they may come in and pretend to be very innocent people, the only thing is that they graze their cattle there; and they spy on our people, and as soon as there is an encampment down the road they go and tell their friends, they go into the bushes and shrubs, they pick up guns and come and kill our chaps. This is the position which is to be corrected. This is the position on which we must not only make amendments on this Constitution, but amendments further that our boys, whatever they do, will be given the discretion that if they find any suspicious characters without asking questions, shoot to kill.

[The Assistant Minister for Defence]

If they have a lot of cattle or stock or other things within that prohibited area, after due notice to the people in these areas which are being declared as such, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the onus should be on these people to explain their presence in this area, or else let us destroy the cattle. In the past, when such things have been done, and usually by junior officers, then a letter has come to this particular junior officer from a law office in Nairobi, saying "Oh, you did this, that and the other, and therefore we will take you to court." We want to clear this situation whereby we shall protect everybody. The Member who spoke about the Pokomo, the hon. Mr. Kise, it is a pity that he thinks that the Government thinks that the Pokomo are Shifita. All that he wanted is to tell him was whether there are any Somalis in that particular area. It does not matter, it is not only a Somali who is a Shifita I may be a Shifita, anybody may be a Shifita so long as I consort with these people and do damage to the country in which I live.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the addition of this special power to the districts of Marsabit, Isiolo, Tana River and Lamu is long overdue. The reports which have been coming from security officers and administrative officers in the field have asked, time and again, that this should be done, and it should be done. It is said in Latin "Civis pacem parvum bello"—if you want peace prepare for war. We want peace in the North-Eastern Province; we want peace in Tana River and Lamu; we want peace in Marsabit District and Isiolo. That is why we want to bring them within the ambit of these particular provisions.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to go much further, and I am hoping with the short explanations I have been permitted to give to this House, all the Members of this House who have the interests of this country and its security at heart, will support these amendments.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I see there is still a large number of hon. Members who wish to speak in this debate. I recognize that, like all constitutional debates, it is of extreme importance. At the same time we cannot spend many more hours on repetition of arguments on either side; so although I want to allow time for every point of view to be expressed, I shall have to be very strict now on any repetition of what has been said already. Hon. Members who want to repeat what has been said already must content themselves with saying simply that they agree with the point, without arguing it all over again.

Mr. Bonnya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am rejecting the Bill completely. The reason first of all why I shall reject it is because of the extension of the emergency in Marsabit, Isiolo and Tana River. We must completely reject this Bill, because even now we are suffering from the security forces who are now patrolling and operating in Isiolo. Daily, in Isiolo, we are beaten. Our cattle are always confiscated and I am sure we should not allow these things to continue, because even now, when this emergency has not been declared in our area, and this type of thing continues to happen, what will happen when the emergency is declared in our area? We will not accept this, we will not accept an emergency being declared in our area. Mr. Speaker.

[Mr. Bonnya]

What we would like to advise the Government to do is only to block the North-Eastern Region that way so that the security forces are actually in these neighbouring districts like Isiolo, Marsabit, Tana River and Lamu which should be protected by the security forces patrolling through the boundaries of these districts, Mr. Speaker. So I will not support this Bill completely.

Just recently when an operation was carried out at Isiolo the security forces beat up about 16 people in a manyatta and they burned the whole manyatta, because of this about 250 people joined the Shifita due to the activities of their own security forces, as they will not accept anyone, who are human beings like themselves, to come and beat them when they are innocent. So, Mr. Speaker, I will not accept these things.

Nobody has refused to allow the security forces to operate in these areas, they can go there and operate even now, they have the right to go and search in the forests, in manyattas, in the towns, for Shifita, no one has stopped them from doing this, but why should we declare an emergency. I do not see why we should declare an emergency.

Again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we want to finalize this Shifita business we must just appeal to the local inhabitants to report where Shifita are to the security forces or to the police, who are their neighbours, or to the nearest administrative centre. I do not see why we should declare an emergency, because an emergency will only have the effect of harming those people who are innocent, and so I will not accept this as a representative, first of all, of the Isiolo District, because this will in fact tend to harm my people a lot. Mr. Speaker, just recently a certain gentleman was actually expelled from the Isiolo District, he was not allowed to live there any more, simply because he was the opponent of the district commissioner who was the District Commissioner of Isiolo, and this was for political reasons, he was expelled completely. Mr.

Speaker, these people are being privileged because of Shifita activities which operate in the area, as they have the opportunity of making people go to prison, have some people expelled from the area just because they do not get on with the district commissioner or police officer.

Mr. Speaker, we will not accept this at all. If the emergency is declared these things will happen still more. People will be put into prison without being sentenced, Mr. Speaker. I will not be much longer, but I am entirely opposed to this Bill.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I realize that you have ruled that we should not repeat, but I would like to tell you, Mr. Speaker, that had it not been for the importance of this Bill, Members would have stopped speaking on the day, but since I would not like to influence you as to how you should rule when I speak, I want to embark straight away on what I want to say about the Bill.

Mr. Speaker, before I declare—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Ngala-Abok, I am simply enforcing a Standing Order which prohibits repetition.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I will try my level best. Now, Mr. Speaker, a Bill like this is a straightforward one because in every society there must be rules for persons and also for institutions. Even in schools we have Standing Orders controlling the students, boys or girls, of such a school. Had it not been for politics' sake where Members or politicians are usually suspicious as to how a particular amendment to the Constitution or a particular rule could be carried out, I do not see how Members could panic on this particular amendment. We must know when a person is imprisoned, whether or not he continues to earn his salary if he is a Member of this Parliament.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Is the hon. Member not now repeating what other Members have told us?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You must now, at this stage of the debate, Mr. Ngala-Abok, content yourself with saying on a point like that, that you agree with those who support this provision that Members who are imprisoned must lose their seat. We cannot have again and again your reason, which is the same as we have heard half a dozen times in this House. So just say you agree, but not the same arguments over again please. Other Members want to speak too, you know.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, I agree entirely that after a Member has been imprisoned for more than six months he should lose his seat.

[Mr. Shikuku] speak on behalf of the Government, like the hon. Speaker? Every person who has spoken for the Government has repeated what the other man has told us. Is this in order!

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! There has been a great deal of repetition on both sides on every point of view. I think, as I have said before, hon. Members must be allowed to say that they agree with something that has already been said before, but they do not want to elaborate it. I think it is fair, enough for Mr. Argwings-Kodhek to speak very briefly on this, because it was spoken of from the other point of view, again at some length, only about half-an-hour ago; but we must try to avoid repetition now.

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): So they do not like it to be given back to them!

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I was saying, we know that the Speaker will use discretion in this matter, but hon. Members know—and most of them have been teachers—very well that whatever happens, if you want to be obeyed, if you want to exercise any command, you, yourself, must be prepared to obey. Without that you have had it! However, there is something further, Mr. Speaker. There is a proviso to which some of us may take objection, that the President may, in the exercise of his prerogative, say that such a person shall not lose his seat. This answers what the hon. Member for Butere raised here yesterday, that the President may have to come here every other week to ask the permission of the Speaker, when here is a man who makes the law which is passed here by this Parliament. The Speaker, in this particular case has that discretion, which we know he will exercise.

I proceed now, Mr. Speaker, to section 56. I do not wish to go very deep into that one because it has been aired ably and thoroughly by previous speakers, mostly from this side of the House. I do not want to belabour that point, that the Speaker shall have any particular vote. However, in answer to what my friend, the Member for Majoge-Bassi said, that we shall be bringing Mr. Speaker on to the arena of the House and he shall not be able to be a fair judge because he will have descended the arena, I suggest that in these circumstances, again, the Speaker is elected by a full vote of this House, and he will exercise that discretion in the interests of this House. We have no doubt about that.

I move quietly now to one point which I have slightly overlooked here, regarding certain Members. We all know, of course, that once a person is elected a Member of a particular constituency, he is a Member of that constituency for twenty-four hours, day and night. If he is a Member of that constituency, for that House, for twenty-four hours, surely he should not have any quarrel at all with the new provisions amending section 42.

I go now to the rather controversial section 87. Section 87: I know that certain hon. Members have been opposing it again on a question of misunderstanding. The section, if, as hon. Members have it, is a very clear one, but let us just deal with the thing as it is here. I am going to read from the amended section as at page 44, the deletions of the whole section and the insertion of this, and I will underline certain words as I go along. "Subject to the provisions of this Constitution and of any other law, the powers of Constitution and abolishing offices for the Republic of Kenya, of making appointments to any such office and terminating any such appointment, shall rest in the President." Why not? If he is the President of the Republic, surely he should be given a certain latitude to exercise certain Presidential powers. He is not only the President of the Republic of Kenya, he is also Head of State, and he must govern the country and dismiss people as often as possible. Personally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am a believer in authoritarian rule. If this particular exercise, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with the additional section 87A, which also says, "Save in so far as may be otherwise provided by this Constitution or by any other law, every person who holds office in the service of the Republic of Kenya shall hold such office during the pleasure of the President." If in any case, the President does not control this particular vote and you have any other person or persons—as you know, in this country, people tend—and in many other countries, too—not only to misuse but also to abuse certain powers and privileges that may accrue to them. The fact is that if you put these things in the hands of the one person, it is easier. But let us say you give it to a commission of about ten people. Ten people will be easy to approach, and a person, as has often happened in various places, a person in authority or in certain power will send a note, "Oh, well, Mr. Kamau you know that So-and-so is my brother-in-law, I am giving him this particular note will you please give him the particular appointment." Such things may happen so often that that particular body, or commission, will lose any value. As we know, there are certain places I have heard it said, that people have so abused their positions in other countries, and perhaps here in Kenya, that the effect is that every time they find a job going [The Assistant Minister for Defence] they want a relative. They have done this so often that they are now running short of relatives, Mr. Speaker.

I will repeat this, Mr. Speaker, that it is true as it has been said before, that power corrupts. A famous Englishman said this. He also said that not only power corrupts, but absolute power corrupts absolutely.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish now to proceed quietly to one thing which was referred to by certain hon. Members. I would commend, I am not going to read those particular bits, but I am commending to the hon. Member for Butere, to read thoroughly section 121, subsection (1), regarding, particularly, the paragraph which says subject to the provisions of that section, this section "all revenues or other moneys raised or received for the purpose of the Government of Kenya, shall be paid into and form a consolidated fund from which no money, repeat no money, shall be withdrawn except as maybe authorized by this Constitution or by an Act of Parliament." Is there anything to fear from this, gentlemen? I doubt it, Mr. Speaker. I go further down, because the hon. Member, Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday quoted something out of context and I am coming to it, because that is why I am taking him down it slowly, so that he can digest it, knowing the weakness of his digestion. Subsection (4) says "gives more power to Parliament, Parliament may prescribe the manner in which withdrawals may be made from the consolidated fund, or any other fund of the Kenya Government". Simplicity itself.

I go down to 122, still helping my friend and those—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member in order to try and quote me on wrong sections without coming to the real section which he claims I misled the House on? I do not think I quoted that section which he is talking about. He says he is coming to it all the time, and still referring to the Member for Butere, is that in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If you did not challenge this particular amendment of the Constitution, he is out of order in suggesting that you did challenge it. But perhaps he has just misunderstood and he will acknowledge that you have corrected him now.

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): Have a little patience, my dear.

Section 122, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because if I had not quoted this particular power given to this House, to approve of monies before the year, this particular section which he misquoted out of context would not have much meaning to him, and I am coming to it now, section 122, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are moving now to something that he did quarrel with?

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): Yes, Sir.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of his acceptance that he has still to come to what he claims I misquoted, is he not out of order to have quoted me on something which I have not said?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Do not let us spend an awful lot of time on a thing like this, Mr. Shikuku. He has explained that he is leading up to something that you quarrelled with. It is perfectly all right.

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member then spoke on section 122, before I get to (b) I will explain 122 (1) for the benefit, not only of the hon. Member, but for other Members in this House. The Minister for the time being responsible for finance shall cause to be prepared and laid before the National Assembly in each financial year, estimates of the revenues and expenditure of the Government of Kenya, for the next following financial year. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we go to page 50 to which he referred, and I will omit (2) and go to (3).

If, in respect of any financial year, it is found that the amount appropriated by the Appropriations Act to any purpose is insufficient, or that a need has arisen for expenditure for a purpose to which no amount has been appropriated by the Act, or (b) that any moneys have been expended for any purpose in excess of the amount appropriated to that purpose by the Appropriation Act, or for a purpose to which no amount has been appropriated by the Act, a supplementary estimate—I am now reading this—a supplementary estimate or, as the case may be, a statement of excess showing the sums required, or spent—spent was the word—shall be laid before the National Assembly, and when the supplementary estimates and so on and so forth, Mr. Speaker. I suppose the hon. Member now knows that that money shall not have been spent before this House has had anything to do with it. I am sure that the hon. Member will now be satisfied with the particular explanation.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, having explained that one to the satisfaction of the hon. Member, I hope, I wish now to go back to a question which was raised by the last speaker here regarding the and the rest—who are not told to vacate their seats, but those who sit at home and do their work there, and just travel to Nairobi to see some Ministers should be unseated. I think it should be vice versa. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I think the Attorney-General should withdraw that Bill and put it the other way around. A Member who does not go home for two weeks should be unseated.

[Mr. Kase]

Now, Mr. Speaker, I think that having made that point clear, the Attorney-General should find it fit to withdraw this Bill in toto, and remove the part of two sittings or eight days—it should be the other way around as I have suggested—and the question of permission should not exist.

Regarding the question of our having to get permission, Sir, if I were to inform you that I was going to the United States. Now the fear is that some hon. Members have been stranded overseas with no money. I inform you, you are not there to check whether or not I have money. So it does not mend the situation, I am leaving this country and I will inform you. Whether I go with money or not is my business. If any hon. Member goes away and he has no money and he is stranded overseas, he should be ashamed that he is shaming the country. That is all. But even if you put in this provision, Sir, even if it is put there, it does not help to see that Kase has money when he goes overseas. There are some conferences held in Cuba, and those places where hon. Members go to represent this Government without the Government knowing. All I would do would be to inform you, Mr. Speaker. Instead of telling you that I was going to Cuba I would tell you that I was going to India for about two weeks and then I would visit any countries I liked, and then go to Cuba to the meeting in which I have an interest, or to Washington, for that matter. So it does not mend the situation.

Therefore, I think, Mr. Speaker, having raised these two points, on the emergency, on the eight days sitting, that the position is unfair, I think hon. Members should also consider that in the case of a Member being imprisoned the constituency should be given a chance of having another Member. There I think I differ from the other hon. Members. But because, Mr. Speaker, as we understand it, if I do not support a certain clause, I oppose the whole thing. I want to declare openly that I will oppose this Bill to the end.

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my intervention in this debate really is first of all to congratulate the hon. Members who have taken a keen interest in this very important debate. I remember, about a fortnight ago, there were difficulties here regarding the time required for bringing this Bill here when it would ripen. I dealt with that point on that occasion and I reassured the Members, and the Members are taking advantage of this and airing their views as much as possible. And I hope that they will so continue to air their views until, whatever, happens, everybody's views will have been known to this House.

The Constitution of any particular country is, I must say, one of the most important things. As you might know, this particular book represents the Kenya Constitution as we know it now. But while it represents the Kenya Constitution as we know it now, it represents other things too, including the things about which Mr. Kase raised certain objections and with which I will deal to his entire satisfaction.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not a believer in written constitutions either. On the constitution, as you might remember, when we had certain important amendments about two years ago, I was very loud in my condemnations of those particular amendments. They were finally passed and I had warned hon. Members then that once we had gone over this particular stage it would be a period of no return. We have reached a stage now where we are making amendments. My only quarrel with the particular amendments we have here is that there are so few. We should have liked more amendments to be brought forward so that hon. Members would appreciate their own Constitution, understand it, and have a simple sort of every-day Constitution for which people could have a feeling, not only of knowledge and pride, but of belonging. I am hoping soon that such amendments will be forthcoming. The present opposition to the amendments we have heard in this House are based, I must say with confidence, on misunderstandings, and perhaps some Members oppose them because they appear to touch on certain susceptibilities of Members and, in one sense, they also touch on the pockets and security of Members, and in particular, the Members who come from the hot seats. There are many Members who come from hot seats because they were brought here either because of Jogo or this. (The hon. Member raised his finger.) Those things may not help very much in the near future.

The Constitution—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I seek your guidance because anything we say in this House is recorded in HANSARD. Now, I was wondering how the HANSARD girls will be able to define this sign and how it will be recorded. Is he in order to raise his finger in this sign?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes. There are certain things that HANSARD cannot record, such as the expression of a man's face.

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when this Constitution was being drawn up at Lancaster House it was belaboured. The reason why it became so bulky is because at that time we were not a united group that we happily are now. We were a divided group. I am surprised to hear Members not thinking that we are united; we are all members of the same organization, the same party, under one President, and the same Government. Mr. Speaker, Sir, because of that labour a lot of this now has had to be amended and reamended.

Mr. Kerich: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Assistant Minister in order to allege that we are united when only last week the Government was quarrelling in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Yes, he is. You cannot raise as a point of order questions of opinion, you know. Please remember that.

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I must repeat again that we are united, and that is why we can afford to laugh at ourselves here in this House. That is part of the democracy which Kenya is a great example to Africa. I am hoping that sooner or later, or finally, that we will have made so many small and piecemeal amendments, more and more amendments, until amendment after amendment there will be nothing else to amend that we shall have a non-written Constitution. That is something to which I am looking forward.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Now, we must talk about these particular amendments.

The Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Argwings-Kodhek): Now, we will talk about these particular amendments, Sir.

These particular amendments have to do with our simple conventions, and as I start I wish to explain one or two things, in two or three places, where I think hon. Members have gone slightly wrong. Before I deal with other questions that were raised by the last speaker I would like to move straight away to the controversial point that came up as at section 41. It says very, very simply, "under sentence of imprisonment, exceeding six months." I am quite sure, Mr. Speaker, Sir, having seen some of the things which have happened here in Kenya and to Members of Parliament that sooner or later hon. Members will find that perhaps a period of six months may be too long, particularly when it is referred to, that alternate sentences of six months will not be taken into account. Finally, if it is known, as it is known according to the laws of Kenya, any civil matter will not be taken into account. These things will help Members. These particular conventions will help Members, because a person who is a representative in this House goes to his constituency and what he normally says during elections is this: "Please do elect me, do not elect Mr. So-and-so, because I will represent you in the National Assembly better." He never says that he will represent them at Kamiti Prison better. So, Mr. Speaker, however unpopular, with a little bit of thinking you will find that it is a sensible addition and amendment to the Constitution.

My only other little quarrel with this is at section 41 (b) which, when the Members understand it, they may find that perhaps it may in future not do very much damage at all. "No account shall be taken of a sentence of imprisonment imposed as an alternative to or in default of any payment of a fine." If hon. Members will think it out they may find that it will land us into certain improper approaches to certain Members of the Bench because this has happened elsewhere, and it may reduce the free, fair and unfettered exercise of judicial opinion slightly. However, the hon. Members will see that this is a sufficient safeguard. The effect is that section 41 is very innocuous indeed, and no Member need worry about it at all. As Mr. Speaker said here earlier on, false evidence has been elaborated here to the extent that it should not be repeated any more.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I go to section 42 and may I only refer to subsection (1) (c). "A Member of either House of the National Assembly shall vacate his seat therein if, without having obtained the permission of the Speaker of the House, he fails to attend that House on eight consecutive days in any session." He was elected to this House and permission of the Speaker, I think, is a very proper exercise and the Speaker, as you have known from very good experience, will always exercise that discretion. I must—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think you have ruled some Members are repeating themselves. I seek your guidance whether this also applies to the Government, people who

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am told that my time is up, but I would like to carry on. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is quite wrong to allege in this Chamber that if the Speaker is given a casting vote the Speaker will be taken to the Corner Bar by a group of people, or else to a socialist group by a group of people. The Speaker is a mature person, well versed in the politics of the world and this country and he knows his impartiality in these matters. Therefore, I think, Sir, that we should not mislead the Members by speaking to the galleries on an important issue of this type.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would now like to say something about citizenship. It is a very good thing that this has been changed. When we were originally discussing this Constitution, it was stated that there should be automatic citizenship, but, Sir, now it has been changed to the discretion of the Government or the Minister. I think this is a very useful point. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like this aspect, when it is passed, to be implemented seriously, particularly in the Coast Province. In the coastal area, as a whole, we have people who are taking advantage of the Government not being allowed to interfere. I hope the Minister, when and if we pass this rule, will be able to sort out the matters in the Coast.

Now, Sir, I am not saying that the law-breakers on this matter are concentrated at the Coast, they are not. I am only suggesting that as the Coast is a very attractive place where everybody comes, we need more looking after and careful handling.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that this Bill has some points that are very good which should be altered, but there are some other points which are not good. It is very unfortunate that I cannot either support it or oppose it at this moment, but only to advise the Government to have another opportunity to reconsider the good points and reconsider the points that have been put forward, particularly the points which are not necessarily to be entrenched in the Constitution but which have been entrenched in the Constitution, whereas they can easily be put under the Standing Orders. I think those should be taken away from here.

Therefore, Sir, I would like to reserve my decision and advise the Minister to reconsider the matter.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to make this clear from the first outset that I think the Member for Kilifi South has misled the House on the matter of emergency being extended to Tana River and Lamu. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a well-known fact—I wonder why the hon. Member is running away! Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, everybody knows in this House that I have been wanting the clearance of the Shifta. What is happening in this Bill, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I will put the hon. Members in the picture, is that although Tana River borders on to the North-Eastern Province, and I have been to the North-Eastern Province, the Emergency Regulations are such that still the army cannot shoot at night. What this Bill is asking for, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and if any hon. Member wishes to correct me, I am willing to be corrected later, if I am wrong, but, Sir, the Bill is asking that those powers which are in the North-Eastern Province be extended to Tana River, and nothing else. In the North-Eastern Province, Mr. Speaker, they cannot shoot at first sight, I know this.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to mislead the House and say that if these powers were brought to Tana River the army would be able to shoot just shows that people are talking about something of which they know nothing. We have seen ourselves that in the North-Eastern Province itself the army still cannot shoot, even in the five-mile area of no man's land. The army does not shoot at night.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the hon. Member substantiate that in the five-mile area the army is not allowed to shoot at night?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think that sort of statement, you know, is capable of substantiation or really refuting. It is really a very general remark. I think we had better carry on, and if hon. Members have different opinions or experiences they had better say so. I do not think we should lose time on this.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, having made my point very clear that even in the North-Eastern Province itself the army cannot shoot at night. Therefore, by extending these powers to Tana River, they would not automatically shoot, because that is Tana River. I think the House is clear as to where the hon. Member has made a mistake.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are not quite clear now, Mr. Kase, I thought you were saying that the army does not shoot at night. If you are saying that the army cannot shoot at night, as you are saying now, then you should say what law you are referring to.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is something of which I know about. I am not talking about laws. I have seen this.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Are you saying that they do not shoot at night or that they cannot?

Mr. Kase: They do not shoot at night.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You are not saying that they cannot shoot at night? It is a question of practice on one hand and law on the other.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me explain myself. When they, the army, see Somalis but they do not know whether they are Shifta or not, they are only supposed to walk near those people, question them first and then when they are satisfied that these people are Shifta, if the Shifta fire shots, then they retaliate and fire. This is what I am talking about.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I know. I am not clear whether you are talking about it as a matter of fact and practice, or as a matter of law. If it is a matter of law you must, if you are required to, state the law to which you are referring. If it is a matter of your own experience you could leave it at that.

Mr. Kase: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a matter of practice. This is what the hon. Member for Kilifi South has turned round. He said that they could have shot them when they had seen them, without interrogating them. That is the point, Sir, which I was correcting.

Now, Sir, having corrected that, I think we know what we are talking about. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have seen the emergency powers in the North-Eastern Province and I would not like those powers to come to Tana River at all. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Government had told us that the ideas which we gave to them were completely unworkable, we would have agreed with them. We have told them, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to establish a police station, but they have refused saying that there is no need for emergency powers in order that a police station can be established. It does not need emergency powers Sir, to establish home-guard groups.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may go further. In Kiunga the General Service Unit was there but there were no emergency powers. Why did the Government then remove them and leave that area to become a territory of Shifta? Today, Sir, people want to subject the people in Kiunga to emergency regulations. Who has made the mistake, knowing that Kiunga is near the Somali border, of removing the General Service Unit? If the General Service Unit was defeated by the Shifta and that is why the emergency powers are wanted, then tell us. But, Sir, who is going to work instead of the General Service Unit? How many times have the General Service Unit at Njara been challenged, and how many times, if the House wants to know, have the General Service Unit been seen there with the Somalis going away, but who have shot loyal citizens? None of them dare to say, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because we are all sons of our mothers there and we cannot go into that bush and be killed. And they turned away. This happened when we took our seats here for the first time, whether you put in emergency regulations or not the same people are going to work with the same courage. I am not speaking through my nose and I am speaking of facts which I know to be right.

Now, Mr. Speaker, having dealt with the emergency point—in fact I never wanted to speak at all, Mr. Speaker, but having found that something here is being brought where we in Tana River, Mr. Speaker, the Pokomo, and the area is being considered for putting under emergency regulations. No Somali exists there. Government has been seen fit to control them in the North-Eastern, why can they not control them there? Why should they let them come into the Tana River area? They say that now they can only control them in the North-Eastern if they place the Wapokomo under emergency regulations. Mr. Speaker this Government cannot tell me how many Somalis live in Tana River; can they tell me how many Pokomos are Shifta there? If they tell me that there is even one I am prepared to yield today. And yet they put the entire Pokomo population under emergency powers. Mr. Speaker, I shall oppose this.

If Government is defeated by the whole situation and therefore they want to subject every citizen in the affected areas, including me, to emergency powers, then let them tell me, Mr. Speaker.

An hon. Member: It is like women who beat children.

Mr. Kase: Now, if they are defeated and they tell us, we will say "yes", but if they are not defeated and they do not want to declare it—

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to labour on the other parts which the hon. Members have mentioned. I think that since I oppose this part I automatically oppose the whole thing. But I would like to make a few other points clear.

I think this amendment is the most unfortunate amendment. I would not support any person who says that if I went to prison I should receive a salary. But, I would oppose everybody who said that if I did not come to this House I would be unseated. This is totally unfair. I was elected at home and not here. I think that it should be the other way around, Mr. Speaker, that any Member who does not go home for three weeks should be dismissed. Now, Mr. Speaker, if Government had put it like this I think it would be most fair, because we have known hon. Members—even the President has said that some go around Nairobi, attend Parliament, go to theatres

[Mr. Ngala] while he is away there. This is entirely wrong, unless we want to defend ourselves as Members for the sake of defending ourselves.

An hon. Member: We are defending you, too.

Mr. Ngala: This is selfish; I do not want to be as selfish as you wish to be on this point. We have to think as grown-ups and we have to think of service to the people and economy for the country. If we think of service to the people, surely we must deny ourselves. When we were fighting for independence, I remember we used to say, "Sacrifice, sacrifice, ever forward, backward never." Now, if we wanted to sacrifice then, why can we not sacrifice this small salary when we are in prison?

Some people have said that when they are in prison they expect their family to get some money, they expect their children to be fed. Who told you you should expect your family to be fed by the country when you have wronged the country?

Mr. Kamurea: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, since the hon. Member for Kilifi was opposing the Bill since it came up and up to this moment, and he is now standing to support it, is it not in order for him to tell this House what changed his mind in half-an-hour?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Order! I think hon. Members when they rise on points of order should be a little careful about the statements they make. Certainly, I am not aware that the hon. Mr. Ngala was opposing the Bill or anything that happened before it. Definitely, it is not a question to be raised on a point of order.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, in view of the fact that the hon. Member has alleged that the hon. Ngala was supporting this Bill, could he, himself substantiate that he was opposing this Bill thirty minutes ago?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I do not think this is the type of thing that can be substantiated. I think it is his opinion but I do not think it is necessary to be said here.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, in view of the fact that there have been many repetitions by the Members, I wish to move that the Mover be called upon to reply.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! I do not know. Maybe, as I say, if someone else proposes that later, Mr. Speaker may have different ideas, but, as far as I am concerned, I think this is a very important Bill and I would certainly not encourage the closure until I was quite convinced that everyone had had a chance to say what he wanted to.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in relation to imprisonment, I would like to say that here we should perhaps consider two points. Government should consider extending the period of six months to one year. I am aware, Sir, that it is very difficult to—

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, in view of the fact that I think the hon. Mr. Ngala is repeating himself very much, would it be order for me to propose that he just sit down and someone else speaks?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. I am afraid that it is not in order, and hon. Members should not interrupt on fraudulent points of order any more.

Mr. Ngala: Sir, with regard to this aspect, I would like to suggest that the Government reconsiders the question of six months and considers increasing it to one year, because I think six months is too short a period. Secondly, I would like the Government to consider the question of making it specific and clear in the Bill that this imprisonment which would disqualify Members would refer to criminal offences only, because there might be some civil cases which might embarrass some Members.

Secondly, Sir, I would like to say that, in setting aside county council land, Government is being a bit unfair because it is bringing about a very important change in the Constitution, a change in which land vested in the county councils in the Constitution is now quietly being taken to the central authority for control, instead of the county councils themselves controlling it. Now I think this is a very important constitutional change which we should not easily agree to. This is why I feel it is very necessary that the Minister should have consulted us, because if the Government wishes to take land for any company in Kwale or Kilifi District, or in any part of Kenya, then it is giving itself power for that land to be vested in the company.

It may be the Shell Company, it may be any other company; and actual land is vested in the company. This is taking away land from the county councils and giving it to the companies. Some of them are foreign companies. We are giving them land. Now I think this is an aspect that the Government should look into and probably change it, as far as this Bill is concerned.

Another thing is that the Government is proposing that the Commissioner of Lands should become an agent of the county councils as far as land is concerned. This is an administrative thing

[Mr. Ngala] It should not be entrenched in the Constitution. If we agree that the county councils own land, different types of land, then surely it is up to the county councils themselves, from time to time, to suggest whom they would like to be their agent in carrying out the legal provisions concerning land. I do not think it is necessary that that aspect should be a part of the Constitution. I think normally the county councils would seek help from the Commissioner of Lands. But to make, constitutionally make, this Central Government man, the Commissioner of Lands, the agent, by the Constitution, to the county councils in matters pertaining to land, I think, is a wrong entrenchment and it should be altered.

Now, Sir, I would like to make it quite clear that the question of two weeks' absence is important. But I would like the Government not to make it necessary that Members should get permission from the Speaker. We should not have to get permission from the Speaker, because I do not know of any Parliament in the world—including the half-Parliaments of some other countries—where a Member asks permission from the Speaker. I think what the Members should do is to inform the Speaker. A Member might inform the Speaker: "I am very busy on my farm" or "I am engaged in other things and I do not think I will be able to attend." The thing should be to inform. I think the draftsmen of this Bill used the wrong word there and it passed unchecked. It should not be a question of permission, it should be a question of informing the Speaker, so that he knows what we are doing and where we are. I would like, therefore, to give the Minister another chance of correcting this error—if it is an error—so that we can give it support.

If he corrects his error, we would support him very strongly, because if Members are elected in their constituencies, they are supposed to do their best here as well as in their constituencies. But there may be some Members who may tend to be lazy and sit back; and then it is right that they should be disqualified, because the public expects them to sit here for a reasonable time, within a week or so, to do their duty. We cannot just say, "Well, we are busy working in our constituencies." We have a timetable. For example, this year the timetable here runs from some time in January to the 18th March, and then we have a long break when Members can go back and service their constituencies, or take tours overseas. We have about two terms in a year.

Why should some Members say, "I am busy working in my constituency", and when we look, these are not the Members who are working in their constituencies; they are busy attending meetings in Cuba and other places and so on. Therefore, Sir, they should be disqualified.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I went to New Zealand because I was sent there by this country. Therefore, Mr. Speaker was fully aware of where I was and what I was doing.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is unfortunate that the Minister for Information did not know; I do not know whether he was asleep. He was not very well informed.

Sir, I therefore submit that if the Government corrects that thing, we should support the Government strongly, so that Members can be in the Chamber to make their contributions. I would like to feel that Members are free to come and go as they like, but if they are advised that the working of the Chamber is very much affected by the absence of Members, then I think it is fair to the people who cast their votes that their Members should have to attend here so that the people can benefit and reap the fruits of their voting in the countryside.

Now, Sir, the question of a casting vote for the Speaker has been misexplained. When the Attorney-General explained this, my understanding was that when we came to any tie, at the moment the matter would be dropped for about six months before it could come again to the Chamber. Now I thought the purpose of giving a casting vote to the Speaker was for him to use his casting vote so that the matter, instead of being kept pending for six months, could be brought forward again the following week or on the following day.

I thought this was the purpose, if I understood the Attorney-General, who explained it, correctly, that that was the purpose. Now, Sir, what is bad in that? I think, Sir, that in a developing African country, and in order to come up to a final decision, we should be able to bring up the matter in Kenya as quickly as possible, so that we can discuss it. Some people say that the Speaker would go to the Corner Bar, to socialist groups, or to progressive groups, but this, Sir, is completely irrelevant. The Speaker will use his vote to bring about some kind of equality so that we have another chance to discuss it as quickly as possible instead of waiting for six months. This speeds up the work of Parliament, and as it is intended to speed up the work of Parliament, I think, Sir, we should support it.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

An hon. Member: Your time is up.

[The Deputy Speaker]

law and when their turn comes to speak they can probably rebut Mr. Ngala's suggestion, if in fact it needs to be rebutted. But I am afraid I cannot give a ruling on this matter.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, on this issue I know that the Members from Tana River and Lamu would feel very embittered as regards the security situation there. They would feel that their people are not adequately protected, they would feel that they would probably have some other units—it may be local units—there to assist with the security of the area. With all these things I do very much sympathize with the situation there.

However, my point is this, and I do not think any Member could argue against this unless he does not understand the provisions of the Constitution. I feel that if the Government is faced with a situation where our soldiers are not being very efficient, then we are in trouble. One reason why Kiunga, for example, has no defence today, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is that the soldiers used to wait to be attacked there. They went to a place called ..... (Inaudible.) and they used to wait. They were bombed, hit and driven away from Kiunga, and as I am speaking now, Kiunga Division is almost a territory of the Shifita. If there were these powers, then the army would be aggressive instead of waiting to be hit; they would hit first time instead of waiting to talk to the person and get to know what he is doing there. That would make our army very effective.

If Members do not want our army to be effective, perhaps they belong to the Shifita. Sir—

Mr. Komora: On a point of order, Sir, is the hon. Member for Kilifi South in order to impute some ulterior motives in that any member of the armed forces belongs to or is perhaps a Shifita?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I do not think he was putting it quite so strongly, but I think, on the other hand, he was going beyond the normal limits. I think, Mr. Ngala, you had better withdraw it.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I agree that this should be withdrawn.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): And you do withdraw it?

Mr. Ngala: I do withdraw it.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, having said what I have said on the question of the emergency which is very, very important in this Bill, I think I would like to say one thing on the question of imprisonment.

When we were making this Constitution, it is true that we did make the Constitution under a different set of circumstances, and now that we have tasted the pudding, now that we have seen where the pitfalls are, it would be very, very bad for us to close our eyes to something which is bad and which could be put right. Is it really right, can any Member really seriously suggest that when you go to prison for three years you should still continue to get your salary? Are you really seriously suggesting that the money of the Government and the country, the public, should be spent on paying you when you are in prison? I think there is something wrong. Even those people who claim to be the president of the poor people in this House should think again—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is known that I am the president of the poor people. Is the hon. Member in order to misrepresent what I said when I actually said that anybody in prison should not be allowed to earn the poor people's money? Is he in order to impute that I approve the earning of public funds by a convict?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I do not think so. To start with, Mr. Shikuku, I am not aware that you, in fact, are the president of the poor people. You may be, but I certainly have not heard of any such election or anything else. But I do not think he is quite imputing that; I think it is a debating point he is trying to make, and I do not believe one can be over-strict with Members; I feel a certain amount of latitude should be allowed.

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Member for Butere has been constantly referring to himself as the president of the poor people. I want to get a ruling from you whether this is in order in a House like this? We all represent the poor people. Is he entitled to describe himself as such?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I think so. I think that there are some Members who probably want to show that they are poorer than others or they are more interested in the poor than others are; that is part of politics and I think all hon. Members indulge in it.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Onamu): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when one becomes a president, surely he must be a registered president. May we know in this House whether Mr. Shikuku is registered or—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. I am afraid we do not want to go into the details of that. We are now discussing the Constitution; we are not making ourselves into a court of law on Mr. Shikuku's eligibility or right in claiming to be the president of the poor people. We are going on with this debate.

[The Deputy Speaker]

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not recognize the hon. Member for Butere, Mr. Shikuku, as the president of the poor people because he is not poor and he is disqualified. In any case, there is no such society or association in this country.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Shikuku, we are getting too many frivolous points of order. We must get on with the debate. Are you sure it is a point of order?

Mr. Shikuku: This is really a point of order. I think you did rule to the effect that there is no question of talking about the president of the poor people, so is the Member in order to continue the debate of the poor people's president?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. I am afraid I did not rule that he cannot talk about the president of the poor people, I said I was not aware that you were, in fact, elected. If you constantly refer to yourself here as the president of the poor people, surely people can refer to it. I think there is no objection to that.

Carry on, Mr. Ngala.

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think this is an important point of principle involved here. If you describe yourself as something which is not true, you are likely to mislead the public in a Parliament like this and this is in order, when the whole House knows, including the Speaker, that this man is describing himself as president of the poor people, which is not true, and the people in the gallery think he is?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): As I said, when he describes himself as president of the poor people, that is one of those adjectives that one would like to call oneself. It is just like somebody else saying he is the president of the intelligent people. If he wants to say that, I would not say he was misguiding himself; it is up to him to decide and up to the public to decide, certainly not for me.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it has normally been ruled here by the Speaker from the Chair that hon. Members in this House will be referred to as Members of certain constituencies. Are we going to be in order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to address the hon. Member for Butere as the president of the poor people?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! No, I think the Speaker is quite correct—if I may say so with deference—that every hon. Member here must be referred to as an hon. Member from a particular constituency, and no other title that may be chosen. But this is, as far as I can understand, in a more lighthearted vein, that the hon. Mr. Ngala was referring to Mr. Shikuku, and I do not think he takes much objection to being referred to in that way either.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I did not refer to Mr. Shikuku at all in my statement. What I said was that there are some people who claim that they are. I did not refer to any hon. Member here, because I know that the president of the poor people is non-existent in this country. Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to make it quite clear that if our criterion is economy on unnecessary services, then I think when a Member is serving a sentence in prison, he is not serving the country and therefore he should not be paid for staying in prison. You pay him as well as giving him a house, as well as giving him food, as well as giving him all the requirements in prison, clothes being included. I think this point is a point on which the public will not be with us as a House, although we have the mandate of the country and we should, in no uncertain terms, say very strongly that the Constitution in this aspect is wrong and it should therefore be altered.

An hon. Member: You want to become a Minister?

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if people shout that I would like to become a Minister, I would point out that I was a Minister for five years and I can still be a Minister. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are discussing a Bill here, we are not discussing the power of the President to make people Ministers. We are discussing a Bill and I am giving my views, that when we have a Member going into prison, no public money should be spent in paying him a salary. This includes myself and any other people.

We feel also that he should be disqualified, because I cannot imagine the constituency sitting down and waiting for him to finish his term of imprisonment, which may be one year, two years, three years or five years, and not having their affairs discussed here because the person is sitting in prison and we cannot choose a substitute from the road cess, I think it was, did go into a fund that was specifically for the construction of roads, and I think we went through a very healthy period at that time; and, as a result, produced some of the fine roads of which we are proud of in our country. But since then anybody to do with roads has got to go on bended knees all the time and progress has not been quite so good.

[Mr. Alexander]

Another example I raised the other day and I said that I thought the Government had missed a wonderful opportunity in the Act that was introduced to deal with lotteries and gaming, that they did not admit then the system whereby the taxation on lotteries and such things as football pools should be diverted specifically into a fund for the use of sport. I believe if they did this that it would be a tremendous encouragement, for instance, to the activity of sport and sportsmen would see that their own efforts in paying into these sort of funds would come indirectly back to them. Now these examples can be related in considerable number. In the welfare services, I believe there is good scope for hypothecation of revenue and this would greatly encourage the voluntary dedicated service in this country that gives its time to this effort and I would like to see the Government agree today that they will, within the powers conferred upon them here, make now a deliberate attempt to implement this policy of hypothecation of revenue.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, for the rest of this Bill I am bound to say that I am extremely surprised to have listened to some of the remarks that have been made here in respect of the eight-day absence approval for Members of Parliament, for the inhibition on Members who are convicted and fined and serve six months' imprisonment and other matters. Sitting here listening I asked myself what would people outside this Parliament, and particularly outside this country, think of many of these remarks. I believe that they would wonder whether really what we want to do is to return to the law of the jungle. I mean when it is suggested that deliberately Members are going to be captured and imprisoned and tucked away so that they cannot attend Parliament, surely this is a very sad reflection on the society in which we live and it is something surely, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we should seek desperately to avoid in this House. At least let us set our targets high, let us aim at ideals and have our law right, as I believe it is, in this Bill.

I agree with it entirely and if there are these deficiencies in our society, as is suggested, let us get them right. Do not let us go backwards, let us go forward. I support.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that this is a very difficult Motion. It is a very difficult Motion since we started discussing it—

An hon. Member: It is a Bill, not a Motion.

Mr. Ngala: It is a Motion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, some people are ignorant of the words here. It is a difficult Motion because since we started there has been reflection of some hon. Members who have come to the House with prejudiced and pre-determined opinions on the Bill and also difficult because Government has put forward a Bill which is very constructive, but in some aspects it is tricky and therefore, both the Government side and the Members, have a very difficult task to try and understand each one's point of view on this Bill.

I would like to say that it is true that we made the present Constitution, but even when we were making the present Constitution we were fully aware that we would have to amend it from time to time according to the requirements of our country and our people. Now, we never assumed that the Constitution would remain static and unchanged in any way, this is why we provided the machinery for altering the Constitution, but I think we must, as Members, this Chamber must ask itself several questions. First, how can we serve the country best as far as the pattern of the Constitution is concerned? Secondly, how can we achieve economy as far as the pattern of the Constitution is concerned? I would like, in these two views, to take the point of extending the Emergency, for example. I feel, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the hon. Members who are not in contact with the border between the two districts concerned and Somalia or the districts with the Northern Frontier area, the situation is very different from that which the Members imagine. I feel it is very important that the Emergency should be extended in these areas. I feel it is very, very important because I toured this area very recently, about two weeks ago, and I learned from the officer in charge there that according to our Constitution our army has always to defend itself instead of attacking. The Constitution requires that they should wait until they are challenged before they can attack. This is what the Constitution requires them to do. I hear some hon. Members saying that this applies also in other places, but this is the very reason why there should be an amendment to the Constitution so that our army can be more aggressive without waiting until they are attacked and Sir, does not the House see the sense in the Government demanding that we give sense in the Government demanding that we give sense in this power. Now if you stay at a place like Kiunga, and Kiunga is about six miles to the border of Somalia, in this area our army will have to wait—

[Mr. Ngala]

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am seeking your guidance on this. I think the hon. Member is misleading the House. He states that according to the Constitution we are only, or the army is not allowed to attack unless it is attacked. I was wondering where he got that idea from. Is he not misleading the public when the army is already fighting?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I can see your point. In fact I was wondering myself, Mr. Ngala, how that is relevant to the Constitution. I do not know whether you are referring to any particular part of the amendment of this Bill which is relevant to that particular aspect. If it is true, I mean I do not know whether it is true, but if it is I do not understand which part of this Bill you are speaking about.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I was referring to the section of the Constitution which refers to the freedom of the individual and in connexion with areas that we are seeking to extend the Emergency powers and—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think I might add that I do not really know myself and I think that perhaps the Attorney-General should make a statement as to whether what Mr. Ngala says is correct or not that the army is only allowed to fire or shoot if it is attacked. To me, as a layman, it seems a statement that may or may not be correct, but I certainly do not want to make a ruling. I think the Government or any hon. Member who wants to speak after him could reply if they want to.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I stand to correction and any Ministers can reply to it after I have spoken. I am glad that you have given that ruling. This is the purpose, in my opinion, for Government asking for the powers to extend the Emergency in this area. Now, I will give two instances, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. A lot of the maize that we send to some of these districts, like Lamu, for the consumption of the citizens of this country is found in Somali townships, a lot of it. I am glad that Members say that I am right, because this maize, when it reaches Lamu, traders from Somali, who come into Lamu, put the maize into the boots of their cars—some other traders too—the army there, without having Emergency powers, cannot interfere very much with individual property or people who are moving and it is for this reason that the Government should have the power so that these people can be properly dealt with and stop this secret smuggling into our country by people who are very hostile to our stability, peace and security.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think that some of the Members, as I started by saying, seem to be prejudiced and pre-determined and they do not really put their minds into thinking of what the Government really wants, because if we do not give these powers, which are very necessary, it will be very, very impossible for the Government to speed up the ending of the Shifita situation in those areas.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think these powers are completely necessary. I have given one example of the movement of maize into the other area and we have a Constitution which says do not interfere with this and so on. The other example that I would like to give is that there is a five-mile area, as you know, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and if people are seen in the five-mile area the position is such that our soldiers cannot shoot at sight. Even if the people are suspected, our soldiers cannot shoot at sight, they have to go as close as possible and talk to them, and if they are challenged then they can react. Now, how can you fight a war like this? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I submit very strongly that if we want the Government to be effective, the Government to be aggressive, the Government to meet the enemy efficiently, we must give the Government power to extend the Emergency in the Lamu District and in the Tana River District.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Kali: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think I will return to this question again on the army not shooting unless they are attacked. I would like to have it quite clear as to what the word "Emergency" means when you talk about the Constitution in a state of Emergency.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Mr. Kali, I appreciate your point of view but I am afraid it is not up to me just now to give you a ruling on the matter of law, even as a lawyer—and I am not here as a lawyer, I am only here as an ordinary Member of Parliament—they say lawyers do not know the law but they know where to find it, and if you did ask me to look it up, I would have to look up the law to ensure that what I said was correct. I do not think that it would be right for me here, from this Chair, to make a ruling as to what is the law. I would suggest that there are many advocates and lawyers in this Parliament who would quickly look up the

[Mr. Anyieni]

Members who come here to speak. What do I have to substantiate in this, Mr. Speaker? I do not see what I have to substantiate, and Mr. Mboya, if he was here, could not deny this because he said it. I do not see why hon. Ngala is so worried about this.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! No, we will not waste any more time on this. I have said what the position is. I think you have it quite clear. If it transpires that there was no justification at all for your attributing such remarks to Mr. Mboya, you will acknowledge it to the House tomorrow, Mr. Anyieni.

Mr. Anyieni: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I do not want to take all the time to speak so I would like to come to the other section of the Constitution and that is that, where an emergency is declared in a certain district, then an emergency should also be declared in adjacent districts. This, Mr. Speaker, will produce a chain of emergency declarations. If this is accepted, Mr. Speaker, let us say that an emergency is declared in Nairobi, then because Rift Valley borders Nairobi, then an emergency will be declared there; then because Nyanza borders Rift Valley an emergency will be declared there; then because Western Province borders Nyanza an emergency will be declared there. Throughout the whole country there will be a lot of emergencies without any reason. The Government has the power that if there is an emergency in an area, and there is an infiltration of unwanted elements into other districts, the Government has the right to march in and deal with the criminals. That does not mean that an emergency should be declared in that particular district, because, Mr. Speaker, we will be punishing those who know what an emergency means, they know very well that when there is a declaration of emergency, the General Service Unit come in and the Army comes in, they are released from their barracks, and they must do some work, and Members know very well that there have been allegations of rape and so on. Surely people who are law-abiding citizens should not be penalized because their neighbours are trouble makers. This is very unfair to districts who are loyal, and this also might encourage the other districts which are loyal to say why should we be loyal. We are loyal and an emergency is declared in our district. The other people are disloyal and an emergency is declared in their district. They will say all right we had all better be disloyal, because it does not pay to be loyal. Mr. Speaker, I think that particular one should be removed, and that is the reason why I am demanding that this Bill should be withdrawn.

Mr. Speaker, my second last point is the one of people remaining in the Civil Service at the pleasure of the President. Mr. Speaker, it must be known that in this world there are some people you look at and you do not like them. You look at them, and they have done nothing, but you just look at them and say this face is no good. Mr. Speaker, suppose we were to say at the pleasure of the President, maybe the President does not like the face of a district commissioner, he goes maybe to Meru and he looks at the district commissioner's face and decides that he does not like the face: Then he says "At my pleasure, he must go". This is very unfair, Mr. Speaker, this will create too many enemies for the President for nothing. I think the President should not be given too much work, because he will create so many enemies. Now, Mr. Speaker, what will happen some people below the President can say, "Oh, at the pleasure of the President we removed you." Maybe the President will never have seen the man. Maybe this particular civil servant met this man in a night club, and maybe he did not buy him a bottle of beer, so he says, "You will see". There is no reason, because "at the pleasure" you do not have to give any reason. You can say under section so-and-so you have lost your job. I think this is very unfair, Mr. Speaker, and you will find some people hating the President for nothing. For something the President did not even know about. Mr. Speaker, I think it is unfair for this to happen. It is a very well-known fact, for example, Mr. Speaker, the President does not like every civil servant in this country, he does not have to like them all—why? He does not have to like everybody. Some people he does not like but he says, "Let them continue, what can I do?" This should continue and nobody should interfere with it. Mr. Speaker, if you make me President there are a lot of these civil servants today who might have wronged me, I will deal with them and remove them all. So, Mr. Speaker, even the civil servants must also be protected; they might make a particular mistake, and then when they have done it, you say that you did this which is against the regulations. Because there are regulations which govern civil servants. When they contravene these regulations then they lose their jobs. So do not want to say at the pleasure of So-and-so. This is very unfair, this question of pleasure is very bad. This, I think, Mr. Speaker, also makes it necessary for this Bill to be withdrawn completely and let us forget about it.

Mr. Speaker, the last one is about the Speaker casting a vote. It is a very well-known fact, Mr. Speaker, that even in this House today there are groups, there are people who call themselves democrats, the others call themselves socialist.

[Mr. Anyieni]

we have got others who call themselves the "corner bar" group, and so on. We know that these groups are there, Mr. Speaker, is this Bill intended to bring you into one of these groups? Mr. Speaker, we know that maybe we shall not win, then maybe what we will do is to call you to come and deal with us in this "corner bar" meeting, or in the other meeting so, that you will agree with us. This is going to be very dangerous, Mr. Speaker, or maybe, if you are going to have the casting vote then maybe we shall say, "Now look, this Motion we want the Speaker to give our people the chance to be the only ones to speak," so maybe we will call him to be in this group so that tomorrow morning he can help us, not only by casting the vote, but also in giving us a more advantageous position in speeches, so that our strong people speak first, then he will say we will now put the question. This is going to make the position of the Speaker very difficult. The Speaker is supposed to be very, very fair. Let him not get involved in this. The Speaker of this House has not sought to be elected from the countryside. It is stated very clear that the Speaker will not be an elected Member of this House. When he is not an elected Member of this House, I do not see why we would like him to participate in the decisions which affect this country.

With those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I believe that those Members who really know what the future is, they may think, "Oh, I am a friend of Mzee Kenyatta, I am a friend of Mr. So-and-so". Tomorrow, my dear friends, there might be another man, and it might be the law you are now trying to press us for, saying that I support so that I am safe, I am the person who supported the Government." This very law may apply to you before it applies to the people you think it is supposed to apply to. With those few remarks I demand that this Bill should be withdrawn.

Mr. Alexander: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I turn to page 49, which deals with section 121, and here we find that in fact the whole of the previous section has been deleted, or it is proposed that it be deleted, and there be substituted all of the words contained in this Bill. I am concerned particularly, Mr. Speaker, with sub-clause 2 of that proposed section, and it reads as follows: "provision may be made by or under an Act of Parliament, for any revenues or other moneys received for the purpose of the Government of Kenya, to be paid into some public fund other than the consolidated fund established for any specific purpose, or to be retained by the authority that receive them for the purpose of defraying expenses of that authority." It is that part of the quote, Mr. Speaker, that I am concerned with, as I understand it this sub-clause is similar to a clause that we have had previously, but I am very pleased to see that we have got the Assistant Minister from the Minister for Finance's office here, because I think he is—well that makes him even more competent, Mr. Speaker, to deal with the point I wish to raise, because I think he is the one person who may be able to answer it. As I understand this section, what it does is to confirm the whole principle of hypothecation in financial policy. That is, the principle which says that revenues raised publicly may be paid into specific funds to undertake specific purposes, and not necessarily paid into the general revenues of the Republic. This, Mr. Speaker, is a very substantial departure from the policy that prevailed in colonial days. The policy then, you, Mr. Speaker, can remember many hours of yourself and myself arguing this here on the Floor of this House, with previous Ministers of Finance, but this particular House is a continuation of what we used to know as Legislative Council in the old days, because it has changed its name the theme is not particularly different. The policy that prevailed then was that any revenues derived from any source were paid into the Central Government, and activities and institutions that wished to get funds, funds that they themselves had helped to raise, had to go on bended knee to the Treasury in order to obtain any money.

Now, Mr. Speaker, this subsection in this Bill is a welcome departure, but I would like to establish quite clearly that it is not merely words in this Bill. That, in fact, it is the intention of our Government to depart substantially from the ways of the old colonial regime, and to accept now and for all time the whole principle of hypothecation. I do this, Mr. Speaker, because we hear a great deal within the phrase the African way of life, and I believe that hypothecation of revenue is far closer to the African way of life than the old colonial system that said that every penny raised publicly had to be paid into a central fund. I believe particularly in the African clan system, that it was and is regarded as wise that the people themselves who are concerned with raising money should be able to see the end result of that. Not that it goes into some remote petty cash box to be administered by some remote authority, but that they should see on the ground, the results of their efforts, and this is what hypothecation of revenue does mean.

Let me just deal with just one or two examples of where I think we can change our financial policy wisely. As regards the roads of our country. Now, at one time the revenue that was derived you can put a Member of Parliament in and the people may still have confidence in him, but while he is in jail if a by-election is held and as a result the Member loses his seat, then the people may have to put in somebody they do not like. The original candidate will have lost his seat. I think this will be unfair or shortsighted for any Member to accept this.

[Mr. Anyieni]

The hon. T. J. Mboya did refer to boards, councils and so on. Yes, if you absent yourself from these board meetings so many times you can lose your membership. But then, the point is this: how long does it take you to campaign to become a member of the board? How long does it take you to campaign to become a member of a county council? Mr. Speaker, I, personally, campaigned and was defeated. Then I went back to look for a little money. I had some employment. Then I resigned and stayed at home for about two years during which time I was campaigning. Now after two years of campaigning you bring me here and tell me that by putting me in for six months I have lost my seat. I cannot accept this. Mr. Speaker, that is not fair at all. Everybody knows, even those people who have money, that it takes a lot of money to win a seat here. Just as it is difficult to become a Member of Parliament it should be equally difficult to remove a Member of Parliament. It should not be very difficult to come and very easy to go. No, this is not fair, Mr. Speaker. Maybe what I am saying now pertains to me but I know that every Member here knows the difficulties involved in fighting an election. They know that sometimes you have somebody who is fighting you with youth wingers and they will fight you along the road. I know the Attorney-General does not know this because he has never had to fight an election. He does not know what it means to fight an election. We know it. The Attorney-General does not have a constituency where he goes to be bothered by the people. Some of us are bothered very much; at times we are unable to come here; we must stay in the constituency and help the people. The Attorney-General does not need any youth wingers because he is the Attorney-General, and that is enough for him. My contention is that it must not be made very easy to remove a Member of Parliament.

Mr. Speaker, what I have said should apply to these eight days. Suppose I went to Ghana for some conference or on a visit when the House was not sitting. I said I was to return at the appropriate time. Then, quite suddenly the country to which I have gone has a coup d'état. All the airfields are sealed, so are the roads, and nobody can get away from the country. Then as soon as I come here I find my seat is gone. This is not fair, Mr. Speaker. Why should they want to take away our seats for simple things like this? These are seats for which we have worked very hard. Mr. Speaker, if it took only two weeks to fight an election and win, then it would be all right if after missing two weeks of sittings you were kicked out. However, I want to say here that it takes a long time to win an election—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have made that point already, Mr. Anyieni.

Mr. Anyieni: I am coming to the subject of eight days now. I am not talking about six months. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I say that this idea of some Members agreeing that after missing eight days we should forfeit or lose our seats is very bad. I know some Members have referred to the President who finds himself too busy to come to this House. I must also say that it is unfair for our President to have to ask the Speaker for permission to be away from the Parliament. The Speaker may have to do nothing but receive these letters from the President all the time, saying that he will not be there, asking permission to be absent.

Let me give you another example. Take a man like the hon. Ekiella who lives far away in Turkana. There are no roads there, there are no buses, there is no telephone communication. If the hon. Ekiella falls sick he will have to send a Turkian running to inform the Speaker in Nairobi. By the time he comes out of his sickness he will find that his seat is gone. Then he will have to fight another election. This means that there are bound to be by-elections all the time. Even the Government knows that by-elections are very expensive.

Another point is this. If I stay in my constituency for two weeks because I have work to do, helping my people, who has lost? My constituency has not lost because I am there helping my people. In addition, the taxpayers' money has been saved because my allowance and the mileage does not have to be paid to me. Government has saved money. So, I do not see why they should penalize me for helping them to save some money. Mr. Speaker, Members should be allowed to be free to come. That is why they are called honourable Members.

Mr. Speaker, one Member here, and this is the usual Mr. T. J. Mboya, did say that some Members speak on everything so that they may be known. I do not think that when I stand up to speak the main reason for doing so is because I want to be known. The reason why I was elected to this House was not to come and box or abuse anybody. I was elected to this House to come and present the cases of my constituents. For that reason I am here. Now, Sir, some Members like the hon. T. J. Mboya would like just himself to speak and have the other Members just voting. This is wrong. This monopoly must be abolished. Every Member should be given the chance to speak. It is my chance, and my contention is that the Member who is doing very well in his constituency, helping the people, should be congratulated, but, also, when he comes to this House he must contribute. He may find the English language too difficult, but, then, he can write questions. He can ask questions in this House. It is unfair, however, Mr. Speaker, for anybody to say that some Members keep quiet. I heard so many Members clapping yesterday, but many of them have not even made their maiden speeches. Why, then, do they come here? You find that when somebody says something, they say, "Yes, yes, yes." They have not come here only to cheer people but also to say something in order that people know what they are saying. I believe that the constituencies which are represented by people who believe that they do not want to open their mouths are unrepresented in this House, and the sooner the constituents know this, the better so that they can remove these people from this House. Some people think that if they keep quiet in this House it is better, but I say it is not better to keep quiet, it is good for the public to know what you believe, what you think. This is a House for debates, it is not a House for people to come here and sit down. The hon. T. J. Mboya said these people want to be known: Mr. Speaker, look in the papers and you will find there is not a single day when you find a paper where the name of T. J. Mboya is not mentioned. Every day it is there. This is the very Member who says if a Member comes here and does not speak it is all right. This is wrong. We refuse this monopoly and we say that we must—

[Mr. Anyieni]

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the hon. Member speaking to misrepresent what the hon. T. J. Mboya said? In fact, the hon. T. J. Mboya did not say that it is all right for any Member to come here and not speak. He did not say that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If he did not say that you must not pretend that he did, Mr. Anyieni.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, I was here when the hon. T. J. Mboya was speaking. I was sitting there and I noted down what he said, and I decided that when I had the chance I would reply to this. I, therefore, do not see why the hon. Member—maybe, Mr. Speaker, what can solve this—

Mr. Omar: On a point of information, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! We are dealing with a point of order at the moment, Mr. Omar.

Mr. Omar: It is a point of information, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, we do not have points of information in the middle of points of order, Mr. Omar: You carry on, Mr. Anyieni.

Mr. Anyieni: No, Mr. Speaker, I have given way for the point of information, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think points of information are going to help us here.

If you believe Mr. Mboya said that, then you are in order to reply to it, but if you find afterwards that he never said it, then you must acknowledge that to the House. You will, you not, Mr. Anyieni? If you find later that you were wrong in thinking that Mr. Mboya said this, you will acknowledge it to the House. That is the way in which it do that.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, I heard it very, very clearly. I—

Mr. Ngala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member has just said that the hon. T. J. Mboya said that it is all right for any hon. Member to come to this Chamber and keep quiet, not speak anything. Now, that is what I am querying. Therefore, having agreed that the hon. Member will substantiate that, I would like to seek your guidance, whether you will give him a time, say, a number of hours, when he can substantiate.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If he is proved wrong he should acknowledge that tomorrow, after Question Time.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want the Member for Kilifi South to try and pin me down on the exact words which the hon. T. J. Mboya did say. I must make my position clear here so that if I have to substantiate I can substantiate something. What the hon. T. J. Mboya did say is, that there was a Member who had spoken and that Member said that this question of eight days' absence was not fair because there are Members who have been here for a longer time than eight days without making any statement in this House. The hon. T. J. Mboya then did say that some people who were criticizing such Members were not right because such Members may be doing more in their constituencies than

Mr. Kase: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member for Trans-Nzoia and the hon. Member for Majoge-Bassi are both suggesting that the Bill be withdrawn. Now, would it need a formal procedure to move that this Bill be withdrawn later, because some Members share the same view?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I dealt with that point the other day and I am always sorry to have to repeat advice to the House on questions of this kind. If hon. Members would study HANSARD a little more they would find the answers to these questions without asking them again and again. There is no procedure by way of Motion for withdrawal of anything that is before the House. Any Member who has brought something to the House by way of Motion can himself, again, of his own initiative, withdraw what he has brought before the House with the leave of the House, and only with the leave of the House. He does not require a Resolution, he requires no Member objecting.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, thank you very much.

Now, I see that this Bill is intended to take care of the Members, but, Sir, we have been in this House now for over two years and we have already lost very many Members. There are very many dangers which the Members of this House face. For example, I cover not less than 1,000 miles per week on the road and the chances of Members of Parliament having an accident are so high that I do not see why the Attorney-General is anxious to introduce more dangers for Members of Parliament.

Mr. Speaker, the Members of Parliament have a lot of difficulties, they have political opponents who are harassing them all the time whether they are in Nairobi or in their constituencies, and Members of Parliament have people who worry them all the time. "I want employment, I want what, I want food." I do not see why the Attorney-General should give any more headaches to the Members of Parliament. I think the Members of Parliament already have too many headaches. The position of being a politician, Mr. Speaker, particularly these days is known by everybody to be a very dangerous affair, because what is going on in Africa today shows this. I do not see why any Member here with any sense can really introduce more danger to himself when he already faces so many dangers.

Mr. Speaker, Members of this House know very well that there is not a man in this world who is like a god, who is righteous. I bet you, as I told the Attorney-General, that every Member here if chased for only twenty-four hours would be found to have committed some little mistake. There is no Member here who could not make a mistake. Maybe you may drive and not keep to the left, maybe you may park your car and not put the money there, maybe you go to drink and you have one bottle of beer and then the askari might follow you and tell you that you are smelling of drink, and take you to the police station and the doctor there would say, "This man is drunk." But you are not drunk, Mr. Speaker. They say that they have been telling people that they must—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Anyieni, I am sorry to interrupt you but we have had this argument from a great many Members now, so if you just could say that you support it—

Mr. Anyieni: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, but I was going to give an example—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have had so many, you see—

Mr. Anyieni: I want to give one more example and then I will move from that one.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, try to make it a new one. We have had this one—

Mr. Anyieni: I hope we have not had this one.

Mr. Speaker, for example, we know very well that the hon. Shikuku does not drink any beer but the hon. Shikuku was arrested the other day and it was said that he was drunk. When he was before the doctor, the doctor said, "This man is not drunk." But, Mr. Speaker, we are saying that something could be cooked up.

Now, Mr. Speaker, yesterday the hon. T. J. Mboya says that every Member has a conviction. Yes, we have convictions, but these convictions are interfered with and that is why we say that a thing like this must be thought of very carefully. I know, Mr. Speaker, that some Members here say, "Oh! people like Anyieni who speak on Bills like this and they oppose, this Bill is intended for them, it is all right for you and you do not have to worry." But let me warn these Members that law is law. It can apply, it cuts both ways and I can assure these Members that if they do not think Members of Parliament have enough problems and they want to give them more problems, then they must know that very soon they are going to face a problem.

Mr. Speaker, we know Macharia. Macharia went to court because he was given about Sh. 30,000 and he gave false evidence against Mzee Kenyatta. Mzee Kenyatta was imprisoned for seven years, then while Mzee Kenyatta was finishing his sentence, Macharia comes here and says, "No, no, no, I lied. They gave me money and I lied."

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We have been reminded of that two or three times in this debate.

Mr. Anyieni: But, Mr. Speaker, what can I speak about now?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! It is entirely up to the hon. Member about what he speaks. All I ask, and I think it is all that the House asks, is that it be something new, not repetition of what has been said half a dozen times, and relevant to the debate. I am sure you will find something, Mr. Anyieni, within those bounds.

Mr. Anyieni: I quite understand the problem involved, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, I remember the other day when the Minister, Mr. Mwendwa, was speaking in this House, he was given more time to define exactly what he was talking about. Now, I thought it would have been in order for the hon. Member who is speaking, to widen and take more time to give his views on this particular Bill.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think you understood the point, Mr. Kamuren. My complaint against Mr. Anyieni is that he is saying in this House exactly what has been said in this debate by at least two, if not three, other Members. First of all, on the danger of being wrongfully arrested for being drunk. Secondly, on the occasion when Mr. Shikuku was wrongfully arrested for being drunk and then found by a doctor not to be drunk. Thirdly, the occasion when Mr. Macharia gave false evidence at Mr. Kenyatta's trial, and afterwards acknowledged it to have been false. There are all relevant to this debate, and very interesting, if you have not heard them six times already.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, I quite understand the problem because you are sitting there almost all the time and you are listening to these speeches. But, then, all Members do not stay all the time and so I hope that you will be a little bit lenient with me in reminding hon. Members of some things they must remember because we have not come to the time when we must close and these things must be properly put into the minds of the people.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we must know that when we pass the law, the people in power can use the law and we know that it is possible for them to use it if they want to do so. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the reasons I have given I do not think it is necessary at this particular time for this House to legislate that a person who goes to jail for six months should forfeit his seat.

Now, Mr. Speaker, when the Attorney-General was speaking, and when the hon. Tom Mboya was speaking yesterday, they said that if it was a civil debt and you went to jail you would not forfeit your seat. But, then, Sir, it does not matter. What they are saying is that they are trying to do this in order to protect constituencies. Constituencies do not count here. Whether you go to jail for a criminal offence or a civil debt, any case, does not matter, because all they want is to have you there. So, the idea of saying that if it is a question of money, and you are in prison for one year, you do not lose your seat, is not in the interests of the constituencies. Every Member who goes to jail knows that he has a debt which he has not paid off.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry to interrupt you, Mr. Anyieni, but there was an explanatory statement of the legal position given by the Attorney-General at the start of this debate yesterday, where he pointed out that, under the law, no one can be imprisoned for civil debt for more than six months. That was why he said this cannot possibly apply.

Mr. Anyieni: Now, Mr. Speaker, the hon. T. J. Mboya yesterday did say that when we are opposing this Bill we are trying to say that Members of Parliament are different from any other people. It is true, Members of Parliament are different from other people because our people have given us the mandate to rule this country. We are given a contract for only five years. If a Member goes back after five years he will lose his seat. So, I do not see why there should be any other regulations to interfere with us and the Government, the contract is between us and the constituencies. The constituencies are the only ones who can decide. If after five years they say, "Oh, look, we elected this man, he has made mistakes and was sent to prison." They will then say this man is not careful and we will elect a more careful person now. The only way out which we will accept is this: when a person has been imprisoned he should not receive any salary. There should be another stipulation, namely that he should be able to write and say that in his absence Mr. So-and-so will act as a Member of Parliament, and that very person should be the person to receive the allowances the Member would be getting. He should also receive the salary. When he comes out of jail if the person he had recommended has become powerful, then he will stand for election. He may lose and that will be the end of him. But, Mr. Speaker, to say that soon after you put me in maybe for seven months I should forfeit my seat is bad. Maybe

[Mr. Omuti]

President some time ago, before independence, some people said that he was the Leader of the Dark. Now, Sir, the country has realized that he is a true leader, who believes in democracy and who acts according to the wishes of the majority, and even those foreign countries who were doubtful about Kenya were convinced that once it had achieved independence, and if Kenya was under the leadership of Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, then things would not go well, but, Sir, Kenya is regaining its proper place in the world, investment is coming into the country, and so, if power is given, then some people will misuse this power for their own benefit. The blame will not then go to the immediate officers of that department but to the President himself.

Now, Sir, we passed a Resolution here that we had confidence in the President. But, Sir, once he has been given this power and uses it on the instruction and advice of the officers, and if some people are dismissed, those people who are going to lose their jobs in the services will blame the President which will result in the masses who will not have confidence in the President.

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words, and with what I said yesterday, I strongly oppose and reject this amendment Bill.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to speak on this Bill, but, Sir, I only have about one or two points to make on this Bill.

Firstly, Sir, I would like to say something with regard to the question of eight consecutive days. Sir, some of us were here in 1957 when this was introduced. It was introduced initially as one of the Standing Orders in 1957. The reason why this period of eight days was introduced is because the eight African Elected Members at that time were disappointed, and walked out of the House when the then Governor spoke to us, because we had demanded increased African representation but it never materialized. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when we walked out of the House we were suspended for four days, but on top of that we gave ourselves another four days, which amounted to eight days, which we had out of the Chamber. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the then colonial benches passed this as a Standing Order shortly after that, and any Member who stayed out for eight consecutive days lost his seat. That, Sir, was possibly aimed at us. It was only a Standing Order then, and not part of the Constitution.

So, Sir, I find, when I look now at this entrenchment which the Government would like to see, the former Colonial Standing Orders entrenched in the Constitution of Kenya. I tell Sir, to understand the logic of this behind a clause like this one, Sir, I would not have worried if this was going to be included as part of our Standing Orders. That would have been understandable. But, Sir, to be entrenched in the Kenya Constitution is sheer madness. Sir, I think the Minister who is in charge of it, the Attorney-General, should have withdrawn this Bill. I cannot see how we could be regimented as schoolboys. The President himself has said that we must go back to the land, and sooner or later the rains will be setting in. If I sit on my farm planting my maize for two weeks, then I cease to be a Member of this House. When I am doing the very honourable task, which the President of this country has employed us all to do, to give the people an example, I cannot send a telegram to the Speaker, or even if I send a telegram there is no guarantee that I will get a reply in time and therefore will not be included in the list of absent Members. So, Sir, I feel that this definitely should not have been included in this Bill.

Another point, Sir, which I would like to raise is in connexion with section 56 (2) where it is being sought to give the Speaker of either House of the National Assembly a casting vote. I do not think that we should introduce the Speaker into the quarrels of the National Assembly, either of this House or the Senate. I think the Speaker, Sir, should remain a person without any vote, at least, no casting vote, because if there is a time, today we have one party that is all right, but still, Sir, within one party we have arguments and continue to see the Government being defeated by its own party. Now, Sir, if a Bill comes before us which requires a casting vote of the Speaker to pass it as law it might have very serious repercussions. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that this should not be the case. So, Sir, the question of a casting vote for the Speaker should be out of the Bill.

Now, Sir, the second main point which I want to talk about is with regard to the question of the Public Service Commission. When we were creating this body called the Public Service Commission in London, I said that in Africa there was nothing called Independence Public Service Commission, and this is becoming much more true now that someone holding an office in the Public Service in the Republic of Kenya will hold that at the pleasure of the President. If that is the position, Sir, we should abolish the Public Service Commission and say that everybody will be appointed by the President. But, Sir, to be told definitely that the Public Service Commission is independent and then be told in the Kenya Constitution, which entrenches the Public Service Commission, and at the same time urge the President, that whoever holds a post in the Kenya Public Service, will hold that post at the pleasure of the President. I think that is a very serious inroad into independence of the Public Service Commission. The President has his prerogative in his political functions, whereby he has the right to appoint and dismiss any Minister without consulting anybody else. His Ministers are political people who are subject to being dismissed, and the President at any moment, according to his wish, can dismiss him as long as that Minister does not satisfy the President.

[Mr. Muliro]

But, Sir, someone who is in the Public Service Commission, holding a position there should only be subjected to the normal discipline, the code of discipline, which governs all civil servants, they should not be there at the whim of the President. Today, Sir, we have a very respectable President, what guarantee have we, what assurance have we, that tomorrow's President will be as fair and just as the present one? This, Sir, human nature being what it is and knowing Africa to be what it is, in a state of complete flux now. The whole state of Africa is one of flux. If the hon. Members do not know what I mean, then I am sorry, but I am not here to teach them English. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I suggest that this should never have been placed on the President, because it is creating discredit to the President. Whoever is dismissed will say, "Oh, the President does not like me." We would like our President to remain respected as he is today, so that he has nothing to do with the Public Service.

These, Sir, are the few points which I would like to raise in connexion with this Bill. The final point I would like to raise is this question of six months' imprisonment. I feel, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that this should remain as the position is now. The arguments which we advanced when we went to the London conference in 1960.

Mr. Somo: Who were you at that time?

Mr. Muliro: We were Members of Parliament and representatives of the people of this country when the hon. Member speaking behind me was possibly a schoolboy.

Mr. Somo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the hon. Member substantiate whether I was in school at that time, when he went to London, or not?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! No, I do not think he need do that. He only threw it out as a possibility.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much. The young man is too provocative.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The hon. young Member, Mr. Muliro!

Mr. Muliro: The hon. young Member is very provocative.

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, at that time we argued that unless the order in council, which debarred the former President of the Kenya African Union, the hon. Mzee Kenyatta, today the President of the Republic of Kenya, is revoked to enable him and those who were in prison with him, to come to Parliament. We were not ready to negotiate with the British on the Kenya Constitution at all. These were the arguments at that time. They were convicted as criminals. When the hon. Attorney-General was speaking in this House he said a crime was a crime. Of course a crime is a crime. But a crime can be cooked up against an individual. We do not want hon. and respected Members in this House to suffer humiliations and indignities because of cooked crimes.

In view of this, Mr. Speaker, I feel that knowing the madness now in Africa by ambitious young politicians, that this clause should be eradicated from the Constitution.

Now, with admission, Mr. Speaker, I do not see any other alternative open to the Attorney-General than withdrawing this Bill and, therefore, Sir, I submit that this Bill should be withdrawn.

Mr. Anyieni: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

An hon. Member: Support it!

Mr. Anyieni: I hear one hon. Member saying "Support it", but he knows very well that Anyieni cannot support a thing like this, and he should have known this by now.

Mr. Speaker, I must join the other hon. Members who have spoken, particularly the Member for Trans-Nzoia who has just spoken, and who suggested that the Attorney-General should withdraw this Bill. It is important that this Bill should be withdrawn for we do not see why this Bill has been brought at this particular time.

Now, Mr. Speaker, if we see the sections in connexion with Members, and maybe, as one hon. Member was alleging yesterday, there might be some reason why this particular Bill is being introduced. I cannot blame the Attorney-General because he was not in London when the Constitution was being discussed, but then I must blame those other Members who were at the London Conference and who were Members of Parliament.

[The Speaker] and he told me he was ready to give his substantiation today. Would you like, Mr. Anyieni, to make the substantiation that you promised to make now? If you remind the House of the statement you were asked to substantiate, then we know what you are talking about.

PERSONAL STATEMENT

WITHDRAWAL OF ALLEGATION

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not wish to follow this matter any further, and so I withdraw it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, the House must be reminded of what statement you withdraw, if you will just do that.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, the statement I made was to the effect that when the hon. Mr. Mboya and the hon. Mr. Gichuru went to West Germany, I think in 1962, they made a statement to the effect that they wanted independence and they were going to negotiate with the British Government for any troops which the British Government wanted to station in Kenya, and there would be no taking over of land without compensation. Then Mr. Mboya did ask me to substantiate, but I have decided not to follow up the matter any further. I therefore withdraw.

Several hon. Members: Apologize.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): One does not always insist on an apology as long as there is withdrawal. I think the allegation that is withdrawn has to be a pretty serious one for insistence on apology, and it did not seem to be a proper case for that. It is withdrawn, and openly withdrawn.

Mr. Agur: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, when a Member says he has decided not to follow up something any further, is the House now informed that he cannot get the facts or that he does not believe in what he said?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The House is informed that he withdraws his statement.

There was another matter which Mr. Oduya alleged also due for substantiation; I do not think he is here. But I understood that he was going to substantiate in private to Mr. Mboya. I do not know whether he has done so?

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): He has not done so.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, well, we shall hear more about it.

Next Order.

POINT OF ORDER

SUSPENDED MEMBERS MAY NOT SIT ON FRONT BENCH

Mr. E. D. Godana: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may we know from you whether Ministers suspended by the President have the right to sit on the Front Bench on the Government side?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. According to our Standing Orders now, the Front Benches are reserved for Ministers and Assistant Ministers. A Minister who is suspended is not, during the period of suspension, a Minister.

Mr. Mboya, you have a point?

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, I was just going to say that it is most unfair that when the hon. Member for Majoge-Bassi has withdrawn a statement he then sits there and shouts back at me that I know that I said what he has withdrawn. Either he has withdrawn it or I insist that he substantiates it or else he should not continue to make these remarks here or in any other place.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I did not hear that. Did you do that, Mr. Anyieni?

Mr. Anyieni: What I said, Mr. Speaker, was—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, order! Fortunately, I do not hear everything that is said in this House, but that does not prevent it from being offensive or out of order, simply because I have not heard it. I want to know if, immediately after withdrawing the statement, you said, loud enough for other Members to hear, "You know that it is true" or words to that effect.

Mr. Anyieni: No, I did not say that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What did you say?

Mr. Anyieni: I was teasing him, you know, as we tease each other always. I never said—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): What did you say?

Mr. Anyieni: What I said, Mr. Speaker, was "Don't chase me too far, please."

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That all?

Mr. Anyieni: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I must get this absolutely clear. Do you flatly deny, Mr. Anyieni, that you said anything to the effect that it was, after all, true? You flatly deny that, do you?

Mr. Anyieni: I did not say that, Mr. Speaker, what I said was: "My friend, don't chase me too far."

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, I insist on a straight answer here. Do you flatly deny that you said anything to the effect that what you had just withdrawn was, in fact, true? I want yes or no.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, I do not know why you—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Unless you can answer me, yes or no, you will have to leave, Mr. Anyieni. This is a serious matter.

Mr. Anyieni: I did not say so, Sir. What I said is what I have stated.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Very well. Next Order.

BILL

First Reading

THE CENTRAL BANK OF KENYA BILL

(Order for First Reading read)

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I understand that His Excellency, the President has signified his consent.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is, his consent to the Central Bank of Kenya Bill? Yes.

(Read the First Time)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I understand that the Second Reading is today, by leave of the House?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Today, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): When we come to that Order, we will take the leave of the House, to see if it is allowed.

Mr. Khasakhaha: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, when the Minister stated to the House that the President had signified his consent to this Bill, he did not make it clear that he has, in fact, done so. He said he "understood". Could we be told whether it is true, that the President has, because he only said he "understood".

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes. It should be a little more specific. It is a fact, is it, Mr. Koinange?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Very well.

(Ordered to be read the Second Time tomorrow)

BILL

Second Reading

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA (AMENDMENT) BILL

(The Attorney-General on 22nd February 1966)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 23rd February 1966)

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday, when the House adjourned, I was speaking on the Trust Land which is to be set aside for the purpose of any registered company formed for public purposes. Now my point here is that the companies and the Government would not require any rent for the purpose of a company so that the landless people and particularly those in the Coast Province are provided with enough land for cultivation and other purposes.

I would like also, Sir, to speak on section 87 of this Bill, 87A (2), which says: In this section "office in the service of the Republic of Kenya" means "office in or membership of the public service, the armed forces of Kenya, the National Youth Service or any other force or service established for the Republic of Kenya." Now in 87A, the clause gives the President the power to dismiss any officer in the armed forces or National Youth Service or any other force or service. I think that our President is not a dictator by birth or in his political beliefs. If we are to give him this power, it will mean that we are giving him dictatorial power under the Constitution. With due respect, we believe that he cannot apply for dictatorial power. But if we do give him them, some members of the Civil Service or in the National Youth Service are not suitable and I know that the Minister will not have a clear picture of such an officer. Therefore, the President might be misled and he might take action to dismiss such an officer from the service.

Now, Sir, if such an officer is dismissed from the Service it will not be the fault of the President himself, but it will be the fault of the person in charge of that particular department, and then such a dismissed officer will bear a grudge against the President. He will go back to his people, his tribesmen, and spread rumours to the effect that the President has victimized him, and this will make the President unpopular. Whereas, Sir, he really is popular, believes in democracy and therefore, he will be put in a position which he does not really warrant. So, Sir, I do not think it is proper at all that the President should be given such powers, because he will not know exactly what is going on, for example, in the National Youth Service, armed forces, or any other force. In the Civil Service and in the National Youth Service, there are terms and conditions of service which every member in their respective service has to observe. If he does not observe these conditions or terms, then his officer immediately above him has the power to dismiss him according to the terms and conditions of the service of that particular department. So, Sir, I do not think that it is right for the President to be given such powers, because our

[The Minister for Works, Communications and Power]

Road has thirteen miles. The Machakos-Konza Road to the junction with Tawa Road has four miles. That is a total of sixty-four miles.

Mr. Speaker, at the moment, if the hon. Member were interested in his constituency at all, he would have found that the Government is all out to tarmac the Nairobi-Mombasa Road, and we have already the heaviest machinery on this road working in his own constituency.

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am aware of the facts the Minister has mentioned, but is the Minister aware that the road he has mentioned—Machakos to Kangundo—was never tarmacked by the Ministry of Works. In fact, the County Council of Machakos obtained a loan from the International Bank to do the job?

Mr. Mwanjumba: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will tell the hon. Member that I, myself, opened the Machakos-Kangundo Road and this was done by Central Government which provided money for the County Council in Machakos. Machakos could not tarmac that road because they had no money.

Question No. 336*NUMBER OF CASES FILED IN THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

Mr. Omar asked the Minister for Labour:

(a) Would he tell the House the number of Industrial Court cases filed in 1964 and 1965.

(b) Would he say if he was satisfied with the services rendered by the Industrial Court.

The Minister for Labour (Dr. Kioko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The Industrial Court, was established in July 1964, and, since then, trade disputes filed are as follows: July to December 1964, 18; January to December 1965, 65.

(b) The Industrial Court has been kept very busy since its inception and this is a clear indication that the employers and the trade unions are prepared to make use of the court in the event of their failure to reach amicable agreement. It is important to note that the use of the Industrial Court is voluntary most of the time and both parties in such cases must agree to submit issues to the Industrial Court. It is only in essential services and in cases where the Minister makes an order that the use of Industrial Court becomes compulsory. The numerous cases that have gone to the Industrial Court voluntarily make it self-evident that the parties find the court acceptable to them and they have felt that their disputes will be given a good hearing. I am satisfied therefore with the services rendered by the Industrial Court.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that there have been a large number of industrial cases between 1964 and 1965, would the Minister not consider it necessary to improve the existing industrial machinery to settle the disputes before they are taken to this court?

Dr. Kioko: As I said in my original reply, Sir, the cases go to the Industrial Court only when amicable solutions fail first. We try to bring conciliation between the two parties; and it is only when that is not operating that we suggest that they go to the Industrial Court. Therefore, we already have machinery, Mr. Speaker, to settle cases prior to their being submitted to the Industrial Court.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister agree with me that, due to the popularity of the Industrial Court, these unions and employers—

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, will the hon. Member who is speaking declare his personal interest in this matter before he asks his question?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That rule, strictly speaking, applies only to debate as opposed to questions. Nevertheless, I think it is desirable, if an hon. Member is asking a question which suggests confidence, for him to show that he is one of the persons concerned.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, I have no interest to declare because I represent the workers on the court. I am a member representing the unions and, therefore, I cannot say I have anything to hide with regard to this court.

Mr. Shikuku: Point of order, Mr. Speaker: In view of the fact that the hon. questioner has admitted his part in the court, is it not out of order for him to continue asking a question, when he has an interest?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, no. He has told us his position; he can ask his question. Carry on, Mr. Jahazi.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the court has become so popular with the workers and the employers, people on both sides, would the Minister agree with me that this court has served and is serving a very useful purpose?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think that is about enough self-praise, Mr. Jahazi.

Mr. Jahazi: I have not finished my question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have asked enough question by way of praise.

Mr. Jahazi: But—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, sit down, Mr. Jahazi. Do you want to answer the question, Dr. Kioko?

Dr. Kioko: No, Sir.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Minister's reply, would he not agree with me that, despite the fact that the Industrial Court has done so well, the time has come when more wage claims must be stopped because we have too many people without jobs, and if you have a few people asking for higher wages—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Not relevant.

Next question.

Question No. 335*DUTIES OF HONORARY GAME WARDENS

Mr. Omar asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he would tell the House—

(a) what class of person was made an honorary game warden; and

(b) the duties performed by honorary game wardens.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The answer to the first part of the question is that an honorary game warden is a person interested in conservation and control of wild life and who voluntarily offers to the Government his spare time in helping to enforce the game laws. He is not paid and receives no privileges under the Wild Animals Protection Act.

As to the second part, honorary game wardens undertake to report any infringement of the game laws to the Game Department and generally support the implementation of Government's game policy. Some of those living in the parts of the country which may not be readily accessible to the regular Game Department personnel take charge of the whole area and submit their reports to the Game Department.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will go on.

Mr. Koinange tells me that he is already in a position to give hon. Members the reference for a statement to which Question 332 referred, and I think it would be desirable if he did that now, by way of brief Ministerial Statement.

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT*RECRUITMENT OF TEACHERS BY MEMBERS

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Actually, if the hon. Members look at HANSARD of Thursday, 22nd July 1965, page 1330, they will see, in the bottom paragraph, the following:—

"Now, if we go to school certificate level and secondary school education, we will still need more money and more teachers. Now, what are we going to do at this particular point? I want, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to make one or two suggestions, namely, to suggest that since this House has about 130 Members of Parliament, I would like at least one Member to give to us, at least to recruit from his own constituency, the maximum of ten teachers with secondary schools, equal to those 1,300 . . ."

I think that covers the whole thing.

Mr. Kibuga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether I could ask a question based on that statement.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, we cannot start up again on supplementaries on the original question. It would have to be a question strictly relating to the circumstances in which that statement was made, that is all.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's statement, does the Minister remember that, immediately after he made this statement, and after receiving a lot of inquiries from my constituents, I did go to see him, rang him and also went to see him, but he told me that further information would be given when it was available?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I am afraid, Mr. Kibuga, we are getting back to supplementaries on the original question. We cannot have that, I am afraid.

Mr. Aremam: Mr. Speaker Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, Mr. Aremam, what do you want to do? Do you want to make a point of order or what?

Mr. Aremam: I would like to ask a question about that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): About this statement?

Mr. Aremam: Not a statement, a question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I have explained that we cannot reopen that question.

Now there were two matters of substantiation which were required as a result of a debate some two or three days ago. One was by Mr. Anyieni, announcement? That is not the question here. We are not asking the question as to whether he made the announcement or not. Is it in order for us to ask the Minister to tell us the date when the announcement was made since that is not the question?

[Mr. Gatuguta]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, Mr. Gatuguta, you are quite right. The question itself acknowledges that such a statement was made, and I do not think anyone is challenging that fact. However, I, myself, for the benefit of the House and, I think, of Mr. Koinange, too, have suggested that he let us know exactly when the statement was made, so that Members can look at it again. I do not think there is any harm in that.

Mr. Komora: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has not received any response from Members towards sending nominees, what has he done to revive the memory of the Members or otherwise?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Koinange.

Mr. Komora: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Minister has not answered my question. Is he in order to evade my question?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, he is.

Mr. Rurumbani: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that all constituencies are not on the same footing educationally, will the Minister give us an assurance that those districts which cannot produce boys with school certificates can bring boys with Kenya Preliminary Examination certificates?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not quite understand what the Member said, but all that I can add to what I have already said is this, that since this announcement, some Members have sent names to our Ministry on this specific matter. After they sent those names, we questioned those teachers and found that some of those teachers are already trained teachers, while others did not meet the required qualifications: That is why I am inviting the Members to make use of this opportunity and send us more names.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the hon. Member is asking whether you would consider somewhat lower qualifications for candidates from areas such as his.

Mr. Koinange: Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, no.

Question No. 324

MOTOR VEHICLE INDUSTRY FOR KENYA

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development, if he would tell the House whether his Ministry planned to start a motor car industry in Kenya.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Owing to scarcity of resources and the smallness of the market, the Government does not consider it desirable to start a State-owned car industry. However, during the last three years, the Government has been pursuing the policy of co-operation with and encouragement of the private sector to establish not only a car-assembly industry but a general motor vehicle industry. As a result of this policy, a very encouraging basis for the industry has started developing. For example, several firms in this country are building bus and lorry bodies. In one or two cases, truck cabs are being made in addition to the body building. Tippers for Ministry of Works trucks are made locally and the locally made refuse-collecting vehicles have proved a great success.

In spite of this, the Government is anxious that progress should be made towards chassis assembly of motor vehicles. Experience in other parts of the world has shown that the manufacture of cars is the most difficult section of the motor vehicle industry and this therefore means that even if we were to start chassis assembly of motor vehicles in this country, the car assembly would probably be the last to be considered.

It is also the view of the Government that since the motor vehicle industry is mainly dependent on auxiliary industries, namely those that produce accessories and parts like springs, brake drums, bearings, pistons and several other items, these should be established to ensure the success of chassis assembly stage.

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister inform the House whether with his small means he can start a scooter industry? I am not talking now about a car industry, but is he prepared to start a scooter industry?

Mr. Mwendwa: That is a different question, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Glehoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from what the Minister says—that we are handicapped to a certain degree in terms of means—is he prepared to have as one of his programmes, as a new Minister in the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, a programme of starting making pistons as a part of the Government undertaking, so that in future we shall be in a position to have a complete machinery in Kenya?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, I think the hon. Member knows pretty well that making pistons alone would not give us the things we want in this country. We do not want to make pistons only; we would like to make more than pistons. We would like to make chassis, we would like—

Mr. Glehoya: Pistons, pistons.

Mr. Mwendwa: We would like to make all sorts of parts—

Mr. Glehoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I did not mean "pistons", I meant "pistons".

Mr. Mwendwa: Whatever the Member meant, Mr. Speaker, I was only pronouncing the word as he pronounced it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): In fairness to him, Mr. Mwendwa, he did correct it afterwards.

Mr. Mwendwa: Therefore, it was for him to think what it was, Mr. Speaker.

All I am saying is that the Government is interested in making many parts of the car, apart from the one section he is talking about.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that car assembly is part of the car industry, would the Minister tell this House what progress his Ministry is making with a certain Japanese company which this House was told some time back—though not by name—was negotiating to start a car assembly factory in Kenya?

Mr. Mwendwa: It is very unfortunate, Mr. Speaker, that the Member should even mention Japan, which I am already quarrelling with in so far as the trade imbalance is concerned. However, Mr. Speaker, we are already negotiating with another company to start assembling—

An hon. Member: Which company?

Mr. Mwendwa: A British company, if I may say so—

Hon. Members: Why British?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Members do not want to hear the name British, they should tell me where to go. I would not mind going to China or Russia, if those are the words they want to hear, so long as I am assured by the company or the Government that they are going to do what we intend to do in this country.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, is the Minister aware that continuing to allow foreign countries to export their cars into Kenya is allowing Kenya to continue to have an uneconomic economy which the former imperialists wanted it to be? If the Minister is aware of this, would the Minister seriously consider assembling cars in Kenya, cars which are popular and not British cars because British cars are not very popular here?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, I agree entirely with one section of the hon. Member's question. I do agree entirely that if we continue importing, importing parts and cars from foreign countries, we will never grow up. I agree with that, but—

Mr. Speaker, I said earlier on that our getting into the motor assembly industry depends, one, on money and, two, on the market. Mr. Speaker, we are trying in my Ministry, apart from everything else, to start a steel industry here which will be the basis of other kinds of motor vehicle spare parts. This is the first thing, Mr. Speaker. Therefore, all that I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is that I am a new Minister in the Ministry of Commerce but the Ministry is old, and I would like the Members here to come and advise me how really to improve the Ministry.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister tell us what became of the Government intention to make an agreement with the Japanese Government on assembling Toyota cars?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, I am surprised to hear the hon. Members still being keen on our trading with Japan. If it is the view of this Parliament that I should continue to negotiate with Japan on this subject, I will definitely do so and I would like the Members to tell me here and now whether it is their feeling that I should continue to negotiate with the Japanese in bringing their commodities here. I will definitely do so if that is their wish.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 324: MOTOR VEHICLE INDUSTRY FOR KENYA

Mr. Glehoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wish to raise this as a matter on adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 325

TARMACK ROADS IN MACHAKOS DISTRICT

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Works, Communications and Power, if he would tell the House whether his Ministry had ever tarmacked any roads in Machakos District and, if not, what were the reasons.

The Minister for Works, Communications and Power (Mr. Mwanjumbi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am surprised that the hon. Member should ask me to tell him what roads are tarmacked in Machakos District, from which he comes, but if he wants me to educate him a little, I will tell him what roads are already tarmacked in that district.

The main road to Mombasa is tarmacked for about thirty-seven miles in Machakos District. The Nairobi-Machakos Road—another one—has ten miles. Another one, the Machakos-Kangundo

The Speaker: I am sorry that the House is either too late to be accepted in any or rejected. Therefore there can be no question of introducing into the present Bill before the House any new ideas of this kind. Any such new ideas can always be the subject of another amendment Bill at another time.

We will go on.

GRAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 344

LEADS FOR SOCIAL LEADERSHIP

Mr. Gopin: Will the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether he would name the States that farmers who want their sons or daughters to be taken up for Government education in the field of laws if they had the income to qualify for it?

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Chagge): Mr. Speaker, I beg to reply.

Any farmer wanting a piece of land of any amount for agricultural development is eligible for consideration for an agricultural development loan.

Mr. Gopin: Mr. Speaker, Sir, asking for the Assistant Minister's reply, is to even the benefits of loans from my constituency.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Speak up, please, Mr. Gopin.

Mr. Gopin: Mr. Speaker, Sir, asking for the Assistant Minister's reply, is to even the benefits of loans from my constituency. I am asking for the same of other areas to apply.

Mr. Chagge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the House knows very well that the first Member from the Kibungo District was in 1954. Kibungo District did not send in any applications for any training loans. The only applications that we sent in were in 1965. Kibungo District has already received 60 per cent of the total amount applied for in the year 1965. It is not fair to say that it is the only district that has not applied for any training loans.

Mr. Chagge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, asking for the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell me if the House is to be asked to do anything?

Mr. Chagge: Yes, Sir. There will be a Bill before the House which will be a Bill to provide for the establishment of a Ministry of Social Services.

and which could bring an amount of Rs. 2500 within a year. That is the first step that would be taken. The first step would be to set up a committee to look into the situation of the district and to report to the Government a year hence. At a later date a more detailed plan.

Mr. Chagge: I have two questions, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): One may be asked to do the other.

Mr. Chagge: The first one is asking for the Assistant Minister's reply to the question that in Kibungo District only 40 per cent of the applications have been given loans and 60 per cent will remain to be processed. I would like to know all the names of the people who have applied and who have not had the loans so that I can see that in some cases they are not being processed, only in theory?

Mr. Chagge: I am asking Mr. Speaker for the Minister for Education. Will he indicate to me I did not say 40 per cent of the total amount applied for was placed in Kibungo District, but any other district in the country. This has been allocated to the district agricultural committee to those farmers that had applied only, under the first Minister's conditions will come in the second 40 per cent only.

Mr. Mullro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, asking for the Assistant Minister's reply, are we to understand that the size of land is no criteria or factor in getting a loan in that one could be having a loan of 100 acres or more or having 10 acres or less, or the amount of land, or the number of children, or anything else?

Mr. Chagge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the House would be interested to know that the Minister will be going to establish this sub-committee.

Mr. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, asking for the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell me how long it will take to establish this sub-committee? Has it been established in any other district?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think it is to be set up in a year.

Mr. Chagge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, asking for the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell me if the House is to be asked to do anything? I am asking for the same of other areas to apply.

Question No. 332

SELECTION OF PUPIL TEACHERS

Mr. Odera-Sar: asked the Minister for Education whether he had selected the ten pupil teachers from each constituency for the crash programme course he himself said he would undertake last year in Parliament.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I called on each Constituency Member to submit names of ten School Certificate candidates for teacher training, but so far I understand, that no nominations have reached my Ministry. In the circumstances, selections of teacher training has proceeded normally. However, my Ministry is still prepared to interview members of candidates who will be sent forward by Members.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Minister's reply, would he tell this House on exactly which date he sent out these letters, because he might have sent them yesterday and these letters have not reached the Members?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I announced this here in Parliament some time back.

Mr. Choge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House when he sent the letters to the Members because we are not aware of them?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said that I announced this here in this House.

Mr. Mullro: Arising from the Minister's reply, does he consider an announcement in this House as a circular letter to the Members?

Mr. Koinange: No.

Mr. Mullro: Could then the Minister withdraw his earlier statement that he sent a circular letter to the Members to send ten names to him?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not say that I sent a circular. What I said was that I announced this here.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I seek your guidance on this issue. We definitely heard the Minister tell us that he sent a circular to all Members and later on he spoke of an announcement. Is it in order for the Minister, in daylight, to try and confuse the Members in this House, and if so, what if it is found in HANSARD tomorrow that he did say what he has just denied? Can we ask him to leave the House for ever?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think it makes very much practical difference if in the course of answering the same set of supplementary questions a Minister either contradicts or withdraws something he said at an earlier stage. What hon. Members are supposed to be seeking by way of question is information, and the information they finally get as a result of their supplementaries is what matters; regardless of any question of what was said at the start.

Mr. Tandi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, when he said that he announced a crash programme here, can he tell us whether he himself as a constituency Member has sent anybody to train?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the normal thing is to give opportunities to other people and I would have appreciated it if Members would consider one point: that they were requested to associate themselves in the recruitment of the teachers. They, having heard that, should have actually taken the opportunity and taken advantage of this instead of making all this fuss.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Koinange, I think I might save some supplementary questions. It would help if you could tell the House either now, or by subsequent circular, or by a statement on another day, just when you made this statement to the House, so that the Members could have it to refer to.

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I made it soon after I returned from the United States. I will, after I return to my office, look up the previous HANSARD, and state specifically when I made that statement. However, I think it was soon after I returned from the United States.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Thank you, if you would do that, Mr. Koinange I think the House would be glad.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can remember the day the Minister announced this in this House because as a result of his announcement I went to his office to follow up what he said.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It does not sound like a point of order to me, Mr. Kariuki.

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: My point of order, Mr. Speaker, is this: in view of the fact that I remember when the Minister has announced in this Parliament what he is now talking about, I went to his office and I was told there was no such programme, what are you going to do?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! That is not a point of order, Mr. Kariuki.

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the question here concerns the question as to whether the Minister is implementing what he announced to this House. Is it in order for this House to ask the Minister to tell us the date when he made the announcement which we know as a matter of fact that he did not make the have, therefore, the same allegiance of office for which they swear an oath. Would the Minister then tell us, after the Assistant Ministers have been sworn in, why they cannot deputize for their Ministers who happen to be absent?

(Mr. Chawp) ]

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are all appointed according to different parts of the Constitution. As a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Members in this House also swear allegiance in accordance with the Constitution of the country and yet they are not Ministers.

Mr. G. G. Kariki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, supposing this House was to change the Constitution to allow the Assistant Ministers to be members of the Cabinet, is the Government prepared to accept that?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that is an entirely different question—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Not entirely a different question, I do not think.

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was saying that if any person wishes to change the Constitution, that person is free to make his proposal known, but I cannot commit the Government to an amendment of the Constitution until I have seen the wording of the amendment.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister—

Mr. Eshiz: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order that the Members on this side of the Chamber do not catch your eye at all?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I think under the guise of a point of order, Mr. Balala is criticizing or questioning the impartiality of the Speaker. I have warned hon. Members that there is only one way of criticizing the conduct of the Speaker, and that is by substantive Motion which will go to a vote. I am not going to have this any more.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Minister's reply, will he accept a recommendation from this House to the fact that the Constitution be amended to make provision for Assistant Ministers to attend the Cabinet?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, strictly speaking, and I would certainly not like to in any way, to suggest to you how to handle such a proposition, but if the hon. Member wishes the House to make a recommendation to the Government that Assistant Ministers be considered Members of the Cabinet or Deputy Ministers, I think that should come in the form of a Motion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, not as a supplementary question.

Mr. Makokha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, taking the Ministry of the Minister who is just answering as an example, that is the Ministry of Labour, previously, Sir, it was the Ministry of Labour and Social Services and now we have two Ministers, the Ministry of Labour and the Ministry of Social Services, could the Minister tell us what the two Assistant Ministers in his Ministry are doing? What are their specific duties, in view of the fact that one part of the Ministry was moved to a different Ministry?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already issued circulars to my two Assistant Ministers, as well as to the leader of the National Youth Service, who is not an Assistant Minister, as to what their specific duties are. This is already in writing and, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since I did not know that I was going to be asked this question, all I can say is that I shall request my Assistant Ministers to give me copies of the letters which I have written to them which will be circulated to the hon. Member, because there are quite a number of details in these letters assigning certain duties to them, and this has already been done. They have already received instructions of the kind of work they are to do.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply that he will request his Assistant Ministers to produce a copy of his circular, and since the Minister is answering on behalf of the President's Office, will the Minister assure the House that all Assistant Ministers, who are two in one Ministry, will get their functions and duties in a circular as such, because there are several Ministries with two Assistant Ministers and maybe they are at loggerheads at times, which might result in the Members of Parliament not knowing their functions?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is correct that I have been answering on behalf of my colleague the Minister of State to the President's Office, although, Mr. Speaker, Sir, you will agree with me, that the last but one question was directed at me in my capacity as Minister for Labour, but, Sir, I would think that the question should even go a little further than that. Not only should we refer to the two Assistant Ministers in one Ministry, but even to the single Assistant Ministers in a Ministry if the House wishes to know what each Assistant Minister has had assigned to him, then I can undertake this, to go and report to the President.

Mr. Eshiz: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister agree with the feeling of this House that the Assistant Ministers are just for window dressing and white washing and that they do not have any specific responsibilities in the Ministry?

Dr. Kiako: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have no intention at all of agreeing with that absolutely untrue observation.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): With which we will go onto the next question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 321: FUNCTIONS OF ASSISTANT MINISTERS

Mr. Anyien: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, before you know very well that I want to raise this matter on an adjournment, but my point of order is this, that in view of the fact that this is a very important matter, I do not know whether you will consider giving the Members of Parliament a chance to debate this matter next week, because Assistant Ministers with good education, good understanding—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! You have asked your question, Mr. Anyien.

It is not within the power of the Speaker to decide when matters shall come before the House, except those rather rare occasions under Standing Order 14, which certainly this is not a case for, and matters raised on the adjournment over which he has control. Otherwise, it rests with the Sessional Committee or with the Government as regard to Government time. If you are right in believing that the whole House would like to debate this question at an earlier date, I have no doubt that a Private Member's Motion put in by you would be given precedence by the Sessional Committee on Private Members' Day, but that rests with the Sessional Committee, and not me.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, is it really in order for a Member to imply that the Junior Ministers who are in the field and doing work are frustrated; that the Junior Ministers at the moment are really frustrated while, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is a procedure in which a Junior Minister if he feels—

Mr. Anyien: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am dealing with a point of order: Will you please sit down, Mr. Anyien?

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): If he feels so frustrated, there is machinery through which he can complain to his Minister.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! It is, of course, completely in order for hon. Members to say things like this, however little justification there may be for them and however much Government may dislike them. It is not out of order.

Mr. Anyien: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the first point of order, there are two which I would like to raise, is this. The Minister knows the Constitution very well and that now they are no longer referred to as Junior Ministers, they are referred to as Assistant Ministers, and we have, many times, been asked to refer to them in the correct term. I do not know whether the Minister is deliberately refusing to recognize the title which the Constitution has approved, Mr. Speaker. Now, Sir, my second point is—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I should forget about the first one.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Minister has seen my point.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that this is a matter of national importance and therefore, I do not know whether I would be allowed to raise this matter under Standing Order 14 to be debated, maybe next week?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! My answer to that is quite definitely no. As hon. Members know, Standing Order 14 can only be applied to a definite matter of urgent public importance. I have explained this a good many times. Hon. Members are entitled to make a proposal to move a matter under Standing Order 14, but they always get the same answer, that unless it is quite definite, within the opinion of the Speaker, and very urgent, within the opinion of the Speaker, and a matter of public importance, within the opinion of the House, that procedure cannot be used. This is neither sufficiently definite nor sufficiently urgent for this Standing Order to be used.

Mr. Glehoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I want your opinion about this. We are amending the Constitution and the statutes which have confused us here are entrenched in the Constitution. Do you not think, Mr. Speaker, it is quite in order that during the amendment of this Constitution the amendments to the positions of Assistant Ministers could equally be incorporated in the amendment and, for that matter, it becomes necessary that we debate this issue before the Constitution is amended?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No. We are constantly having amendments to the Constitution. Each time we have before us a particular Bill proposing particular amendments of the Constitution, we are strictly confined to discussing those particular amendments. As hon. Members know, a Bill for the amendment of the Constitution cannot be amended even in detail in its

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): As the hon. Member is aware from the published Six-year Development Plan, 1964 to 1970, there are several development projects which are contemplated for Mombasa District during this period. Under the revised Development Plan which is due to be published soon, specific development targets have been set for this district. These include:

(1) Commerce and Industry.—The Government plans to expand the scope of the fishing industry at the Coast. Depending on the success of the plans, a fish-processing factory at Mombasa will be built, and marketing and freezing facilities will be developed. In addition, extensions to the existing oil refinery at Mombasa are contemplated, and an exploratory survey on the feasibility of establishing a nitro-geneous fertilizer factory at Mombasa is being carried out. Furthermore, the I.C.D.C. has investigated the economic prospects of a large number of small-scale industries and is prepared to issue and give advice as soon as local people with the necessary finance and competence can be found who are willing and able to establish small factories and workshops. These small industries include manufacture of coir fibre, salt, edible oil, ice, jute bags, suitcases, shoes, plastic pipes, furniture, glass jewellery and other products, as well as workshops for boat repairs and construction, metal tanks, hand weaving, bakery and concrete blocks.

(2) Infrastructure.—It is planned to make improvements to Mombasa Airport and make extensions to the telephone services in Mombasa during the plan period. Other infrastructural investments include improvement of roads. It is planned to improve Mombasa-Maitani Road, and bituminize it in stages starting this year. It is also planned to bituminize the Mombasa-Lunga Lungu Road during the 1967/70 period. Improvements of these roads will improve communications between Mombasa and other areas in the Coast Province, and this will benefit the economy of Mombasa. Furthermore, as the hon. Member is aware, the construction work on the Makupa approach road to Mombasa Island is almost complete.

(3) Social Services.—In addition to the new mental ward which has been completed in the financial year, there is a new nurses' home for Mombasa, and this is a priority project for the next year. It is estimated to cost £87,000. On the field of education, the Mombasa Technical Institute will be reorganized to provide extended courses to reach a higher standard than any other "trade school" in Kenya except one. Eventually, it is hoped to develop the institute to full polytechnic standards.

(4) Other Services.—It is planned to establish television and broadcasting services in Mombasa during the plan period.

(5) General.—The Revised Development Plan envisages a considerable expansion of the economy during the next five years. Since Mombasa is the gateway to the country, the general expansion of the economy in the Republic will benefit the economy of Mombasa District considerably.

Thursday, 24th February 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

(The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair)

PRAYERS

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH

The Oath of Allegiance was administered to the following Member:—

Joseph Wafuwa Khaoya.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 321

FUNCTIONS OF ASSISTANT MINISTERS

Mr. Theuri asked the Minister of State, President's Office, if he could inform the House about the real work of Assistant Ministers, in view of the fact that the Assistant Ministers, were not in the picture regarding Government policy; and, secondly, why were they not permitted to act as Deputy Ministers when their own Ministers were away from their offices.

The Minister for Labour (Dr. Kiavo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague, the Minister of State, President's Office, I beg to reply. Assistant Ministers are appointed by the President in accordance with the provision of the Constitution to assist Ministers in the performance of their duties. Assistant Ministers are not members of the Cabinet, and they are not therefore expected to know the whole range of Government policies. However, Assistant Ministers are expected, in assisting their Ministers, to carry out assignments in the whole range of Ministerial duties and, in effect, they do play an important part in the formulation of policies in their respective Ministries.

As regards the second part of the question, Mr. Speaker, it is necessary to maintain continuity in policy during the absence of a Minister and, as I have said, an Assistant Minister is not a member of the Cabinet. Ministerial powers and responsibilities are, therefore, transferred to another Cabinet Minister, who should be fully aware of Government policy. A Minister must be appointed in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution. There cannot, therefore, be an automatic assumption of Ministerial powers by an Assistant Minister, because an Assistant Minister would have first to be appointed to be a full Minister before he could assume Ministerial powers, positions and duties.

Hon. Members will agree, therefore, Mr. Speaker, that an Assistant Minister is not in a position to be considered as a Deputy Minister.

Mr. Theuri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, if the Assistant Ministers are not members of the Cabinet, why does the Government have so many Assistant Ministers, consuming so much public money, if they are not doing useful work?

Dr. Kiavo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure that in my reply I did not in any way imply that they are not doing useful work. They are doing very useful work in assisting their Ministers. What I said was that they were not Ministers in accordance with the appointment of Ministers as indicated by the Constitution.

Mr. Khasakhala: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Minister's reply, could he tell the House that this House should not accept replies from the Assistant Ministers as regards Government policies, because they are not part and parcel of the Cabinet or because they are not as well informed as the Ministers are?

Dr. Kiavo: Mr. Speaker, no, Sir, because an Assistant Minister is usually briefed by his Minister as to how to answer a question. And, as I said in my original reply, the Assistant Minister is assigned responsibilities by his own Minister.

Mr. Gichoya: Arising from one of the answers given by the Minister, does he not agree with me that if, say, that an Assistant Minister, having been an Assistant Minister for a number of months or years, is really conversant with the policy of the Government and consequently he is indeed capable of holding a Ministerial position in the absence of the Minister, instead of getting another Minister from another Ministry to hold the responsibility of that Ministry he should be appointed?

Dr. Kiavo: I would like, Sir, to inform the House that not only Assistant Ministers but many other persons in this House may be, to some extent, conversant with the Government programmes and so on. But a Minister is appointed in accordance with specific provisions of the Constitution and, therefore, the hon. Member's statement that automatically an Assistant Minister, once he becomes knowledgeable, should be made a Minister cannot apply.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Minister has confused what I have stated—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is not a point of order, I am afraid. You cannot have a point of order on your question being confused.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply earlier on, he said that Assistant Ministers are appointed according to the Constitution, and also that the Ministers are appointed according to the Constitution: the two officers

[Mr. Anyim]

Mr. Speaker, what is unfortunate is that some of these people who are brought back very many of them are not even citizens of this country and yet they are put in places where the formulation of policy is carried out. When you have a certain policy being discussed in this House, then the policy you are discussing is the policy of a mind that is still colonial. We proceed here that we are independent, but actually the policy is an economic policy. For example, the Ministry of Finance, its economic policies for this country, the way the money should be spent, is completely colonial. So we come here, we have a black Minister saying, "Oh, this will be done." You dare not stop them from reading their speeches, because if you do so, then they sit down. A Minister will read what is prepared for him. If you say "no more reading," he will sit down. This applies to Ministers, not just one Minister.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we contend that we must not pretend. If we do not have somebody who can do the work, then we must allow the person who can do the work to do it. Until we have a reliable person to do the work, we should not allow somebody else to stay there to be briefed. We believe that there is no shame in a white man helping. As the Minister did say, there is no shame in somebody learning.

So, I believe that the Minister will look into this because there is no voting on this. He will look into this. If he cannot get another man to fill the positions we have mentioned here, then we have some Africans who are highly qualified. For example, this man Mr. Knight in the Ministry of Education, I do not think this man is educated. If this man is educated, I see that he speaks English, and English is his mother tongue. That is no education. We have educationists here who could work better in our secondary schools, but this man has a blank mind. He is colonial minded. If he was removed from that Ministry, then we could put in an African, an African who could do the work. It is no use picking a Standard VIII person, putting him there, then remove him and put the migrants back again.

With those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Kiprotich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to be tribal minded on this issue of expatriate officers. What I want to say is that it is that we have been asking for Africanization in all departments of the Government. We did know that when an African was being appointed to take over as Permanent Secretary, there would be somebody to come in at the back door. We do not know why how this money is obtained to pay these back-door expatriate officers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have no quarrel with the Ministry for Finance, because I know the Permanent Secretary does the work there very well. However, the Ministry of Education—I know what is happening there, I am not talking of what I have heard, I am saying what I know and in the Ministry of Education, we have white people as those who do not even want to see an African's face, not even that of a Member of Parliament. There are people who do not want to talk to a Member of Parliament, or even refuse to make appointments to see them. Why should we have such people? Why should we keep such people in this country? I remember when I was organizing congress in 1958 in Nakuru, this same person, Mr. Knight, was in Nakuru as provincial education officer. Whenever we spoke to him about education, he would say it was not his job. Yet, today, the Education Department has called him back. I do not know who brought him back. The Minister has just spoken, but we know who brought this man there.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we have heard complaints in the newspapers about leakages in the commission papers in the Ministry of Education. Now, this man must be doing things.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Kiprotich! Hon. Members must remember the complete privilege they have for what they say here, complete immunity and, therefore, the very great responsibility not to abuse that privilege, particularly when they speak about people who are not here to defend themselves. As far as possible, we should keep ourselves to principles and avoid personalities. Sometimes, we have to talk about personalities a bit, and I do not blame hon. Members to the extent they have done so far, but now, I think the hon. Member is going very near making very serious charges against a man who is not here to defend himself.

Mr. Kiprotich: Thank you, very much, Mr. Speaker. I will leave that man alone.

I come now to the Ministry for Settlements. We have a Permanent Secretary who should go. I am sure that the Members who are here as well as those who are in the gallery will support me on this issue. We have people in the Ministry who are just there as pictures, they do not do anything. They have people there who say they know what to do. Even in my own constituency, there is a man named Benson—I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, to have to mention the name of this man who is not here—who was re-employed

[Mr. Kiprotich] after doing bad work on his own farm before. We must tell the truth here, Mr. Speaker. This man was a failure and how can a failure advise somebody like Kiprotich who has a farm on the main road? Everybody can see what I am doing. I am a Member of Parliament and do not stay on the farm but every time I go to the farm I tell my workers, "Please do this and that."

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we have such people in our Government, they will help to undermine the progress of our Government. We do not want such failures in our Government. Yet the Minister in the Office of the President comes here and tells us that these people are very good, they can do this and that. We know very well what they can do. We have been here in Kenya and we know what the people are doing here. Some of the people who have been employed do not even have a Kenya Preliminary Examination certificate and yet they are being employed by our Government. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are not here to ruin our people, we are here to see that things are put right. There have been mistakes and these mistakes must be corrected.

If there are Africans who are taking courses in preparation for the system of Africanization I do not want them to be lazy in the offices. They must do their duty properly. If they do not do their duty properly and yet they take money of this Government, steal the money of this Government, I am sure they will not be there for long.

I also insist that you should not employ your tribe for the chao or the office boy.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Kiprotich, that is not relevant. We are talking about expatriates.

Mr. Kiprotich: I support the Motion.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to declare that I support this Motion. On this question of expatriates, I feel these people do not understand Africans. There are expatriates who blew in here, in order to rule this country found Africans walking about naked. Today, Africans are ruling the country but these expatriates do not believe that the Africans are really capable of ruling the country. They are here only to undermine what is being done by our fellow Africans.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to quote one example. One day I went to Nakuru to speak to a trade officer and I told him that the people in my constituency wanted some commercial loans. He told me, "Africans do not know how to keep accounts and, therefore, in that case they should not be given commercial loans." Mr. Speaker, Sir, I asked him, "Should we leave these people just as they are? What can we do about that?" He could not answer me. From this, I concluded that these expatriates do not understand Africans.

I would also like to warn Africans who have been promoted to high posts to behave differently. When you go to their offices and you tell them that you are a Member of Parliament, they do not even give you a chair to sit on. You have to stand until you leave the office. I remember one day I went to the East African Breweries in Nairobi and I was pushed out of the door. When I said that I was a Member of Parliament they began to shiver and shake.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): They are not Government servants; are they?

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, I want to warn the Africans who are working in high posts in the Government that they should maintain proper manners or else we go back to employ former colonial people.

Mr. Speaker, even the ordinary man in the street should be treated equally like a Member of Parliament. There should be no discrimination. Today, Mr. Speaker, in our offices, an ordinary man has no chance to see a permanent secretary.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We are talking about expatriates, you know, Mr. Kerich. Are you talking about expatriates?

Mr. Kerich: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, keep to it.

You have one minute left.

Mr. Kerich: Mr. Speaker, the question is that we should Africanize the posts and, therefore, I was giving a warning to my fellow Africans that when they take these posts they should have good manners.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support the Motion.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is the end of our time. The House is now adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, 24th February, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

WRITTEN REPLY TO QUESTION

Question No. 338

MOBASA DISTRICT DEVELOPMENT PLANS: 1964-1970

Mr. Omar asked the Minister for Economic Planning and Development if he would tell the House what development plans he had for Mombasa District in the 1964 to 1970 development period.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): I want to speak now, Mr. Speaker, because I think—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think there is some misunderstanding here, perhaps. There is no actual seconding, of course, because we are just talking on a Motion for the adjournment. It is unusual for the Minister to answer so soon, but we always allow him to answer when he feels disposed to answer.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): I am provoked, Mr. Speaker, for the first time, because the hon. Member for Trans Nzoia, for whom the majority of the Members of this House have great esteem and regard, has decided today to distort the facts as they were when I replied to this question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think you mean to say "he decided to distort". "He has distorted" is in order.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): He has distorted, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the hon. Member tabled this question, he asked in his question No. 162 "how many senior expatriate civil servants whose posts were Africanized and paid compensation by Kenya Government are serving Kenya on contract basis; in which Ministries are these expatriates serving; does the Government contemplate getting more of these officers under these arrangements?". To this question, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I replied that we had no officer who had been retired under the compulsory retirement scheme who is serving on contract. Expatriate officers, I stated further, are only retained in the service in the absence of qualified African officers and, therefore, when posts have been Africanized, it follows that there is no vacancy in which expatriate officers could be re-employed.

I further stated that we have four officers who have been retired under the retirement scheme. Of these, two have voluntarily retired under the retirement scheme and were re-employed on contract terms. These officers are both employed in the Ministry of Health, respectively as nursing sister and senior entomological field officer, because we did not have suitable, qualified Africans to take over these jobs.

Also, there are four senior expatriate officers, Mr. Speaker, whose posts have been Africanized and who are working in Kenya in an advisory capacity under the technical assistance arrangement. These are in the Ministries of Finance, Home Affairs, Health and Labour, where they had previously served respectively as Permanent Secretary, Commissioner of Prisons, Medical Officer and Assistant Commissioner for Labour. I stated in this House that officers working under this scheme are not regarded as civil servants of Kenya as their salaries and the cost of their transport are paid by the donor country.

Hon. Members: No, no.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Do continue, Mr. Nyamweya.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): In this case, Mr. Speaker, the four officers to whom I am referring—working in the Ministry of Finance and other places—are being paid by the British Government.

An hon. Member: What about Mr. Callender?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): He is under the technical aid programme and he is being paid by the British Government.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Trans Nzoia knows very well that the matter of the affairs of the Nairobi City Council does not strictly come within the purview of the Civil Service. Mr. Callender, whom I think the hon. Member was referring to, is working under the City Council of Nairobi. Mr. Knight, who is the Chief Education Officer, his post has not been Africanized.

After having said that, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say this. It is the declared policy of the Government to Africanize with a view to correcting the imbalance, as we have stated here previously. While we are committed to this policy, we want to ensure that there is maintenance of efficiency and a high standard of service throughout the country. There are certain basic academic and professional qualifications which are requisite to appointment in any grade in the Civil Service, but this is not all. An officer may acquire experience by doing the work, in order to be able to carry out his duties efficiently. This experience cannot be acquired, as most people think, overnight. In the past, Africans—even if they were qualified—were not given an adequate opportunity to enable them to gain the necessary experience in handling big responsibilities. Thus, when an expatriate is replaced, his successor requires some time during which to learn the job. It is in this period that the services of an adviser are needed, in certain cases, to assist the new officer. To do that, Mr. Speaker, is not to denote the office, as the hon. Member for Trans Nzoia has already put it. That is an insult, as a matter of fact, to our civil servants who are keen to maintain a high standard in the service.

[Minister of State, President's Office]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know most of us who came here for the first time were inexperienced, and as days pass by the hon. Members are gaining experience. We learned from Members like the hon. Muliro and other Members who were here previously before us. It is fair to some of our civil servants who are taking over the responsibilities to learn from their predecessors. There is nothing wrong in that. You are extremely inexperienced, Mr. Muliro—

Mr. Muliro: On a point of order, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order!

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): I beg your pardon. I was referring to—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! But you do not do that, you know, Mr. Nyamweya, you address the Chair.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not my habit, but I was deprecating the unnecessary, bellicose interjection of the hon. Member for Lurambi.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You can do that, but you must do it in the right way.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, I have done it; thank you very much.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, I was very surprised to see that the Minister of State in the President's Office stood up to speak before I spoke, and now he is running away; it is very unfortunate. He knows very well that if we put the facts, they will hit him in his heart, and I am sure that is why he is running away.

I believe he was becoming unnecessarily emotional, trying to interrupt the hon. Member who brought the matter up.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government should look into this matter even though the Minister has deliberately walked out, perhaps thereby showing that he does not attach very great importance to this matter.

Mr. Speaker, the truth is this: we are saying that while we want Africanization, we should not carry out Africanization for the sake of Africanization. For that reason, Mr. Speaker, this House wants to let the people know that we could have had an African Speaker, but we decided that Mr. Slade should be the Speaker. I do not see why, for example, people might have said, "All right, this man will be the Speaker." Then we put Mr. Slade there to be there, to advise this other man on how to deal with the House. This would be duplication of work, and it would be very unfair.

Another thing is that a person who has been in a Ministry, like the gentleman who I mentioned, has been there for a long long time—I must thank the hon. Minister for coming back—and when you bring in a new man, the man who is supposed to have resigned will lead to dictate to the new man who comes in. He will tell him, "Look here, my friend, I have been doing this job for the last twenty years. You have just come from school, so whatever I tell you, you should accept." This is very dangerous. I have seen some Ministers come here. The other day one Minister—I do not want to mention his name—came here and read something which was very important and on a national level. When we asked him when he saw this, he said he saw it here, he had not seen it before. Yet this thing was written from his Ministry. The man who is there as the boss is an African, but the man who really wrote this thing was this expatriate. So, Mr. Speaker, did we have to discharge this man before? I will give you an example here, and with all due respect. The Clerk of this House was said to be Africanized and then we were told, "All right, now we have an African because this man is going." Now you find that he is back here doing the work of the Clerk. Why did we have to Africanize him? Why did we not allow him to continue until we had an African who was ready to take over? The policy formulation is made by the Africans. If we have a European, it is all right to keep him in the post until we have an African, but the practice of trying to, for example, give my brother a job, then putting in a European to do the actual work is very bad. If we do not have a qualified African to take the post, I am not ashamed of saying, "No, this man should stay." For example, when I was a member of the Maize Marketing Board, Mr. Speaker, there was a man there by the name of Mr. King. I realized he knew his job and I said, "No, you should not Africanize this man, until we have another man to replace him." What our people normally do is, to say that we have an African so we are going to Africanize a certain post. Then when you have paid him a very large sum of money, then you bring him back again, give him even more money and he continues to exploit the country. This is not fair, Mr. Speaker. I think we must be honest and say that, as long as we are not ready to Africanize, we are not going to be ashamed of this. We will allow the expatriates who know more to continue with the work until we have Africans who can carry out the work.

[Mr. Omar]

be extended to the Tana River and Lamu Districts it will one day be extended to Malindi and Mombasa and Shifita activities will increase day after day until they probably take over the country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, before independence was achieved the colonial rulers had arranged to obtain experts to go and find whether or not there was oil in Somalia in the North-Eastern Region, but now because of the Shifita menace the Shell Companies had to withdraw their staff, machinery and equipment and the whole project now has been abandoned. Now we are told to extend the Emergency Regulations, but I, as a Member for Mombasa and the Coast Province and Lamu District and the Tana River District, do not want the Emergency Regulations to be extended to the Tana River. Members from this area have always said, from time to time, that the people living in the Tana River and Lamu Districts should be allowed to carry effective weapons to fight the Shifita. They have asked for rifles to arm themselves with and so on and yet the Government has refused. We are told that some of the civil servants—it may be true or it may be wrong, but this is a report that we hear—do not concentrate on fighting the Shifita. Instead they try and come to bother the people in this area. We want to be told the reasons why the Emergency Regulations are going to be extended to the Tana River and Lamu Districts, we cannot accept it, because if we accept it we will be creating fear among the coastal people, as well as the country. Even the General Service Unit cannot fight, how strong are these Shifita, Mr. Deputy Speaker? We can fight them.

Another point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is about the Electoral Commission. The Constitution stated that the report of the Electoral Commission on the constituency boundaries would be out by 12th December 1965, and several meetings of the Electoral Commission have taken place in Nairobi, in this building here, and this commission is spending a lot of money because when the Members attend the Electoral Commission they are paid mileage, attendance allowance and so on, and the report or memoranda were submitted during April last year and so far we have not heard anything about the report. We would like to know the report of the Electoral Commission and to be shown all the boundaries so that when we go back to our constituencies we can tell the people that the boundaries of our constituencies are such and such, and also Members can concentrate on the constituencies where they intend to stand in the coming election. We want to be given ample time to know the constituency boundaries so that those Members who want to be returned in the House can concentrate on those constituencies and build themselves up there. We do not want to be given short notice of two or three months as regards the change of the constituency boundaries, because we also want a new voters' roll to be made before the general election takes place in 1968. We feel it is important to have a new voters' roll because the present voters' roll, Mr. Speaker, is misleading and—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Omar, that is outside this particular Bill. You see the alteration of constituency boundaries is the subject of the Electoral Commission's Report and the Bill covers that, which is something quite different from revision of the voters' roll. It is independent of constituency boundaries; so you must leave that subject, I am afraid.

Mr. Omar: My point actually, Mr. Speaker, was about the money that is spent on paying the members on the Electoral Commission.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is all right.

Mr. Omar: I know when they come here they are paid allowances—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! But it is only all right so far as relevant to this particular job of revising constituencies. That is all that this Bill is concerned with. If you say that money is wasted on them with reference to that work, all right. You cannot go into all the activities of the Electoral Commission, and I do not say that merely because I am vice-chairman.

Mr. Omar: However, Mr. Speaker, I urge that the Government should get this report of the Electoral Commission out even before the end of this year.

Another thing, Mr. Speaker, is about the Trust Lands. It is stated here, on page 52, clause 2(7), the purpose of the amendment to section 209 (1) is to enable Trust Lands to be set apart for the purpose of any registered company formed for public purposes in which the Government of Kenya has a financial interest.

This is a very touchy matter as far as we Coast people are concerned. Mr. Speaker, and the country as a whole. We ourselves said here a few days ago, possibly last week, when we complained about the question of landlessness in the Coast Province, that this is serious because of the fact that the Coast was known as a Mwambao or the Coastal Strip which belonged to the former Sultan of Zanzibar. There are a lot of Trust Lands in the Coast Province and if we agree to pass this amendment then the Government will have the power to set apart any piece of land for any registered company formed for public purposes and in which the Government will probably have a financial interest. Here people are suffering, Mr. Speaker, they have no land to live on or to cultivate and so on. If the Government is going to be allowed to acquire a piece of land together with the companies, which will probably have a joint venture with the Government, before the question of land is settled, it is not fair. It was said last week that the Ministerial Commission will soon visit the Coast Province and make inquiries into the land problem. This should have been done before this.

[Mr. Omar]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think, again, Mr. Omar, you are getting off this particular provision for expropriation in certain circumstances. It is time now for the interruption of business, but you will be able to continue when the debate is resumed.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

CONTINUED EMPLOYMENT OF SENIOR EXPATRIATE CIVIL SERVANTS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I will now call on a Minister to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onyok): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I raise this question on the adjournment because I found, when I asked my question of the Minister, that he did not give me a proper explanation or any convincing reasons why we should continue employing expatriates to whom we have paid out a lump sum of money for the termination of their services.

Here, Sir, I do not want to bring in any individuals or mention any names, but when we take the Ministry of Finance—the Treasury—we find that today the adviser to the Permanent Secretary in the Treasury is the former Permanent Secretary. If that man was so important that we did not have a person in Kenya to fill his place, we should have negotiated terms under which he should have continued serving the Republic of Kenya, rather than dismissing him and then calling him back again on contract and paying him a bigger salary. This, Sir, is most discouraging—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is misleading the House, because I remember—

An hon. Member: That is not a point of order.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): It is.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I doubt whether it is, Mr. Nyamweya. If he is wrong in his facts, you will have your opportunity at the right time.

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, I wonder whether the Minister will deny that Mr. Knowles and Mr. Butter are not at present working in the Treasury.

There is another officer, Sir—the City Education Officer—who is earning a very high salary today; possibly he is earning a higher salary than any of our Ministers in the Kenya Government. An officer like that is not indispensable. We could get an African in Kenya who could become the City Education Officer for the Nairobi City Council, and yet why should we employ this expatriate who, himself, does not even have a degree? He is a school certificate person with two years' teacher training and he has been working in Kenya for many years, and now he is looked upon as the man to direct the city education, rather than getting a local Kenya citizen to do the work.

There is another case, Mr. Speaker. There is a certain Mr. Knight in the Ministry of Education. He is the Deputy Chief Education Officer. If we are Africanizing various posts in the Kenya Government, for the sake of Africanizing, we say no, we should Africanize the job only if there is a person fit to do the work. It is no use saying that we have a Chief Education Officer in Kenya, when actually his work is being carried out by someone else. These decorations, Mr. Speaker, are wasting the country's money, ruining the country, without any services being given to the country. This, Sir, was the reason why I said the Minister should tell this House: does the policy of Africanization mean having the post filled by a black face when this black face is incapable of doing the work, or not? If someone does not know the work, Mr. Speaker, I think the best thing would be to say, let the person who is most fit to do the job, do it. If we do not have an African now, let us employ the expatriate, agree on terms on which he should work for us and when we have an African, then let the post be Africanized.

It is this, Sir, that made me raise this Motion on adjournment.

With these remarks, Sir, I beg to move.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): I would like to speak now, Mr. Speaker—

An hon. Member: Let us speak first.

[The Deputy Speaker]

certain hon. Members are likely to commit criminal offences, because I cannot understand myself, how he could know any particular person would commit a criminal offence and go to jail. I am afraid I do not see your interpretation, I think it is a bit far-fetched. It is possible that this is what might be interpreted, but I do not think this is the correct interpretation.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not see any reason why my friend stood on a point of order on such a straightforward thing. We, as Members here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, are real hon. Members and we do not want to lower our dignity or our dignity to be lowered.

As it is stated here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the purpose of amendments to section 41a and 42 is to cause a Member of either House of the National Assembly to vacate his seat if he is sentenced to a term of imprisonment exceeding six months. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I say that if we allowed this amendment Bill to be passed, after a few days we shall find ourselves here, reduced probably by half the number of Members here. I can say this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, because I know for certain that some Ministers—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Member for Samia and Bunyala and, the Assistant Minister to the Minister for Agriculture, in order to call the hon. Member speaking a criminal? Can he substantiate that?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! I certainly did not hear him. If he said it, I think he should withdraw it. It is a serious allegation.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Mombasa Island had said that we know for certain that we are and I interjected "criminal".

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! But I am afraid, Mr. Osogo, you are confirming what he is alleging you said. If you say that we are criminals then, of course, I am afraid that you have to withdraw. I do not think you mean it in that sense, but you might as well withdraw it.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when an hon. Member is thinking for a word to put forward in his speech, and I happen to know a word that could be put, can't I, in that case, say that word?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. I am afraid it is not. When you put in an interjection of this nature, you are in fact, making an allegation, even though as it were through his mouth, but you are still making an allegation. Perhaps it was intended to be humorous, and I think that we have to treat this very seriously, and I do not think you intended to seriously say that Members were criminals. I am sure you will withdraw it.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, if my interjection when trying to help the hon. Member was wrong, then I withdraw it.

Mr. Anyieuk: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that is not a withdrawal, that is a conditional one.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, I accept the withdrawal. I think it is reasonable.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for the information of the House I have never been convicted, and if I am to become a criminal I shall be the murderer of this Bill. I am going to kill this Bill.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am speaking for the benefit of every Member here, in every group, whichever group he may belong to. I know we have some Ministers here who have got friends or relatives or tribesmen who are officers of the police or who are district commissioners—

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Mui): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think you did indicate before that the Member who spoke earlier and stated that this Bill is intended to unseat certain Members. That question you accepted, Sir. He kept on saying that certain Ministers have certain police officers. Is that not a real allegation? He should substantiate by bringing a document to prove that there are certain Ministers who have relatives and friends, who have done this. This House ought to know and the public ought to know.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Mr. Omar, I think I am beginning to see clearly what Mr. Gatungu means, because if you are alleging, which I did not understand clearly earlier on, that certain Ministers have relatives or friends in the police and, through these friends or relatives, they are going to get people arrested and put in prison, this I think is getting a little clearer. When Mr. Gatungu interrupted you, I did not understand. If this is what you are saying I am afraid it is wrong. You must withdraw it. At least you have not said it, if you are not saying it I would suggest that you do not proceed on this line, it will be quite out of order.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I was coming to the point and the Minister should be patient and wait for the point I was going to make. I

[Mr. Omar] said at the beginning. Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the Ministers here, and Members of Parliament too; not the Ministers alone but even the Assistant Ministers and Members of Parliament themselves, we have friends in the police force; we have friends who are district commissioners, we have friends who are district officers. If I do not want a certain Member to be a Member here and be unseated, I can go to my police officer who has a friend in that particular constituency and conspire with him to see that this Member loses his seat. That is possible, this can happen to anybody here in this House, irrespective of what group he belongs to, even the Minister himself, I can undermine him if I have a friend who is a police officer in his particular province or constituency.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): If I might make a ruling, I think that as far as this is concerned you are not wrong, because an hon. Member is entitled to point out the dangers of what might possibly happen. I do not think that you are making a specific allegation against any particular person or group of persons, you are merely pointing out the dangers. I think that can be accepted.

Mr. Omar: This is the point I was making Mr. Deputy Speaker, and I am going to concentrate on the clause which says that if a Member does not attend eight consecutive sittings in Parliament his seat can be vacated, and if a Member is sentenced to six months' imprisonment his seat can also be vacated. I am going to oppose the whole Bill because of this clause.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, most of the Members in this House are senior Members and they took part in the London Lancaster House Conference, of creating this Constitution and it was agreed by most of them that this Constitution should not be imposed on Kenya, this was agreed upon by the majority of senior Members and who, most of them today, are Ministers.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

Before this Constitution was made the colonial rule had a clause of the same type and the Ministers who participated in the Lancaster House Independence Constitution did not want Members to be unseated by being absent from the House for eight consecutive sittings and they foresaw the danger, because they had experienced this during the colonial rule. I know a certain Member, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Mathenge, who is now the Leader of the Senate, who went to America and he was absent for eight sitting days of the House and as a result his seat was vacated. This was the sort of thing that made some of our senior Members not have such a clause in the Constitution. Today, here, instead of talking or debating matters of national importance as to how we can obtain employment for our people, we come here and discuss amendments for the Constitution, such as that if a Member does not attend eight consecutive sittings of Parliament he is unseated, and if a Member is imprisoned for six months he is unseated. I think the Ministers and this House have more important national matters to debate and discuss than this amendment Bill. Most of us as Members of Parliament are devoting our time to our constituencies and although our pay is Sh. 2,000 we do not have any savings at all and this is because of the unemployment conditions in the country. We do not have a provident fund or a pension. Now, if I happen to be imprisoned, Mr. Deputy Speaker, my family would expect to be looked after but I do not have the pennies and, therefore, it is right that if I am imprisoned I should still get my salary as Mr. Gacita has been getting, and the Members who are imprisoned should also get their salaries because we do not have a provident fund or a pension and we have no sort of social security whatsoever. You cannot compare a politician with a civil servant, a civil servant has a lot of security, he has a provident fund, a gratuity and a free house allowance. Now even if he is imprisoned he does not lose his pension or his provident fund and so on. Now this is a matter, as I have said, which concerns not only Members of Parliament but the Ministers themselves, and we cannot accept it for the reasons that I have given, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Now, another thing which surprised me, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is about the extension of the Emergency Regulations to the Tana River and Lamu Districts. Can we be told in this House whether the strength of our military forces here are defeated by the Shifia. Why is it necessary that these Emergency Regulations should be extended to the Tana River and Lamu Districts? Is it because our forces there are very weak? Or are they running between the boundary of Kenya and Somalia? We would like to be told. If the forces there are not strong enough and if we do not have enough troops, why does not the Government bring a Supplementary Estimate here to increase the troops and then send them there to the border. In fact, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I may be right or wrong, but I am told the forces are not on the boundary between Somalia and Kenya and the Shifia menace is increasing every day, which is very bad. If the Emergency is going to true that the best representative is the one who makes the most noise. There are some Members in this House indeed who are dignified and very effective and influential but who speak least; and I think it is most unfair for any hon. Member in this House to try to suggest that just because some of his colleagues do not jump up every time he jumps up that they are less effective as representatives. Mr. Speaker, our effectiveness or influence will not be measured by the number of words that appear in the HANSARD. There are many Members in this House who have done a lot for their constituents, who have intervened on behalf of their constituents in a quiet, effective and dignified way, and had a lot of things done for their areas without making noise. It is up to each Member to decide whether he wants to be recognized as a man who will speak on any subject and every subject or whether he wants to be an effective representative of his people and do the bit he can. How effective a Member is, in the final analysis, will not be determined by the number of words in the HANSARD but by the results which his people feel they are getting from him.

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

So, Mr. Speaker, the absence of a Member from the Chamber, from this House and from the country is an entirely different question and it cannot be compared with the position of a Member who takes his responsibilities seriously, who is dedicated to his work, who comes to this House regularly, who meets Ministers to discuss the problems of his constituency, who tries to discuss problems with his colleagues and does his duty as a representative. The position is entirely different and I regret very much that anyone should have raised this matter on that basis.

Mr. Speaker, I have already shown that many lesser bodies adhere strictly to this need for attendance and this Parliament, if it is seriously regarded as the main legislative body for this House, must take this question of attendance just as seriously. I am sure, therefore, that the public at large, our voters in particular, will feel puzzled by any suggestion that we would like to facilitate deliberate and callous irresponsibility on the part of any Member. I do not think there is very much need to labour this point because I feel that the point is quite clear.

Another point which has been made regards the provisions for a casting vote for the Speaker. Here, I think, is a slight misunderstanding that has arisen. I think Members feel—and this is my impression—that this is an attempt to give the Speaker a vote so that he could always vote with the Government on issues in which there is a tie. For the last nearly ten years in which I have been in the legislature we have never had, in fact, a case in which a casting vote would have been necessary. I cannot recall one instance when this became necessary, but it is a provision, and I would like to make this explanation. If we leave things as they are at the moment, then the position is, as I understand it—and I stand to be corrected if I am wrong—that if there were a tie the Motion would be considered lost and, I believe, withdrawn. Thus, the matter is left in a somewhat unresolved fashion. On the other hand, the casting vote of the Speaker, as the Attorney-General explained when moving this Bill, is intended to be used—and by convention this has been quite clearly established—only so as to preserve the status quo. In the event that there is a tie it cannot and may not be used in order to change the position, or in order to introduce a new situation. It is always the established convention that it is used to retain or maintain the status quo giving all parties concerned the opportunity to consult further, to discuss the matter and to determine whether they wish to raise it again, and thereby to bring it back to the House. However, there is no case, and there is no question, and one hopes—at least, this is the stipulation—that no Speaker in this House or the Senate will wish to abuse this position.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

In fact, Sir, I believe this is the most harmless provision in the Bill, and I was surprised that it was raised at all. If a Member of this House, such as we are now going to have, takes over the Chair in the form of the Deputy Speaker, he retains his original vote as a Member of the House, and may exercise it if he so wishes. However, if, when he is in the Chair, and he is also a Member with an original vote, he would then also be entitled to a casting vote when exercising the functions of a Speaker. The conditions, however, under which such vote may be exercised, is quite clearly stipulated and has been defined by the Attorney-General.

Therefore, I, myself, am satisfied that that particular provision does not require too much from the Members of this House. It merely puts us in line with other similar Parliaments in other parts of the world. I fail to see the objection to it.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think these are the three main points that have created so much heat during this debate, and on which I felt I should, at least, intervene.

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

In conclusion therefore, I will only say this, that as far as these three issues are concerned perhaps we are making a mountain out of a mole hill. There is no question that these are important procedural matters, but they do not, in any way, take away from the dignity or status of the Members of this House. On the contrary, they strengthen that dignity and they make our position unassailable in the eyes of the public. A point which I believe should be seriously considered.

One point I meant to mention when discussing the prison question, is to remind Members that we have talked very, very strongly against crime from time to time, when we debated, for example, the Trade Union Bill, only recently, we imposed very strong and severe sentences, apart from fines, we even imposed corporal punishment, and we even have in the law today, that a convicted person may not be an official of a trade union movement. When we do that for other people, and say that for us there must be licence and complete freedom, then we must also be aware that the public are looking to see how we treat ourselves as against how we are prepared to treat other people. When we discussed the question of stock thefts we were prepared to take the most severe steps, including corporal punishment, in fact Members advocated for some very strong measures and yet, Sir, when it comes to ourselves, we say it does not matter very much. Some of us could easily decide to go and steal someone's ngombe tomorrow, and we would want to come back to this House. We would want to continue to be Members. We would want to continue to earn our salary, and yet, for the other men who steal the same ngombe, we have been saying here that he should be severely dealt with. Mr. Deputy Speaker, there cannot be two standards on this question. One for the Members of Parliament, and one for the ordinary people. That is the simple issue before us, whether we have different standards. The Attorney-General pointed out that in the case of the civil servants, a Permanent Secretary, the Director of Medical Services, an ordinary doctor, or in the case of a person working in an office, or even a messenger, if they are convicted and sent to prison even for one week they lose their jobs, they lose their pensions, they lose every benefit, and yet, some Members say that that is all right. It is all right for them. But we, Members, even if we go to prison for six months we should not lose our salaries, we should not lose our jobs, we should not lose our seniority, we should continue to be hon. Members. Mr. Deputy Speaker, how many standards do we want in this country? A standard for hon. Members, and a standard for the ordinary people.

Mr. Makore: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Minister not repeating himself in view of the fact that the Motion will be put today?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, I am sorry I think—Order! Order! I believe he is at the end of this speech in any case, but I do not think there is any likelihood of the Motion being finished today.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I know that what I am saying goes very deep, and Mr. Deputy Speaker, it may be unpalatable for Members to hear this said so bluntly, but it has to be said, so that when we vote we all know what we are voting about, and so that we do not go about pretending that the issues are not as serious as they are.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Omar: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I rise to oppose and reject this Bill. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is a straightforward Bill which I think is mainly intended to unseat certain Members in the House. Let me make it clear, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that the Members who are intended to be unseated come from every grouping in this House. The danger here, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

Mr. Gatiguta: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think this is a very serious allegation and all the Members should know whether, in fact, this Bill is intended to detain certain Members because, if it is so, we might be prepared to change our minds. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, could the Member substantiate this?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! I think the Bill is self-explanatory. It is meant to unseat Members who go to prison for more than six months. I do not think there is any other substantiation—Order! Order!

Mr. Gatiguta: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is it not the implication from the speech made by the hon. Member that the Bill is, in fact, intended to unseat certain Members? The Bill speaks of people who are absent for eight days or Members imprisoned for more than six months, but the hon. Member is trying to imply that more than that, there are certain hon. Members who are intended to be unseated under this Bill.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! I do not know. If that is what he said, if that is what was intended, it is wrong. If, in fact, said, and this is what I understood him to mean, that

Mr. Anylen: On a point of information, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member does not want to—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! He was inviting Mr. Shikuku to make something clear. I think that was all.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member has just said that I have repeatedly shouted the name "Macharia", and he is wondering who this person is. I would like to tell him that Mr. Macharia is someone who gave false evidence against the President of the Republic of Kenya, and that, Sir, can happen again.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, do I understand that the thesis of the hon. Member for Butere is that the courts of law would not have meted out justice? Is this the contention?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if someone—

An hon. Member: Give way!

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): I will not.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the only point that has been made with which I would like to deal again, is the suggestion that some Members who were at the Lancaster House Conference did not see it fit to include this particular provision in the Constitution at the time, and even the suggestion that this particular provision was discussed and that it was decided not to include it at that time. The answer to those suggestions is that at no time was this particular provision discussed at Lancaster House and at no time was it ever withdrawn at Lancaster House. Any such suggestion is therefore entirely misleading. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the accusation is that during those very many weeks of laborious negotiations we forgot to include in the Constitution everything that needed to be included in it, then we plea guilty, but who, among us here, can today guarantee, for example, that the laws we pass here every day will not require an amendment tomorrow? Certainly, one reason why we included an amending clause in the Constitution is to cover this very eventuality. That amendment will be needed and here is a case where they are needed, and I think that instead of some Members becoming emotional about this, while one sympathizes and understands some of the grounds for caution expressed here, we must actually face this issue, and whereas we should give warning that this should not lead to victimization or misuse of power, or a witch hunt for Members of Parliament as possible criminals, but the question must be faced truly and squarely, namely that if people must be forced, as a result of committing a crime and being sent to prison, not physically being able to represent their constituency, then democratically those constituents are entitled to consideration, and that is, very simply, what is being said.

Now, Sir, the second point which has been made is on the question of attendance. It is proposed in the Bill that if a Member absents himself from the House for a period of two consecutive weeks of sitting, that is eight days, in fact, that he should forfeit his seat. The stipulation is that, in fact, a Member may be absent, because this has not even been stated here, for more than two weeks providing he takes the simple precaution of writing in to the Speaker, or speaking to the Speaker, and telling him—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Minister has just stated that a Member may absent himself for more than two weeks. Is he not misleading the House when the Bill says eight days?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is the same thing from the point of view of the House.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, I agree with the hon. Member for Butere, it means eight sitting days, but we do eight sitting days in two weeks. I thought that was quite simple.

But, the point is that in the case of a Member who wishes to go away for more than two weeks, all that is required is that he should inform the Speaker and get his permission. Now, Sir, this may appear very unpalatable to Members because some Members feel it is below their dignity to ask for permission. Mr. Speaker, let me quote instances where people who are more grown-up than the hon. Member for Butere do get permission. It is written in the Constitution, for example, and we do it, that no Minister may absent himself without written permission from the President. That is one case in point.

Now, Sir, another case is that Members in this House who sit on different boards know that in some of these boards if you absent yourself from three meetings without previously securing permission to do so, you cease to be a member of the board.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I go further. They might say the board is different because the members are not elected by constituents. But it is also true that in every county council, in the City Council of Nairobi, in the Municipality of Mombasa, where people are elected by the public, that if you do not attend meetings for a given period as a councillor, you cease to be a member of the council.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Hon. Members on that side, a little group of them, make loud noises at the end of every remark. We cannot continue debate that way. If they have to go on being noisy they will have to make that noise outside.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Now, Mr. Speaker, this is exactly the point I am making. I hear Members shout, "Oh! but that is the board, it is below our dignity. Oh! but that is the county council, it is not as important as the Parliament." Mr. Speaker, if the county council is not as important as this House, and I agree that it is not as important, then surely it is logical that if the county council which is less important requires that all councillors attend meetings and that if they do not attend they receive permission to be absent, then the most important legislative body in the country should be even more strict. It cannot be logical on the one hand to claim that this is the highest legislative house in the land and, at the same time, to say that it is all right for county councils to be strict with their attendance but that we should be left free to do what we like.

Mr. Speaker, some Members have suggested that there is a danger in this provision because a Member may have a car accident, he may be stuck up in the mud or the floods of the Tana River, or that he may be beaten up in hospital, whatever it is, or he may be held up somewhere. Now, Mr. Speaker, first of all let us be logical. Whose Member who is going to be stuck up in the mud for two weeks? In what part of the country could this happen, apart from Butere?

Mr. Komoro: On a point of information, will the hon. Minister give way, please?

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, I can assure the hon. Specially Elected Member, Mr. Komoro, that even a fire engine could not be stuck for two weeks.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I am sure that when you come to look at this thing logically you cannot help feeling that we are merely trying to build a case against the provision, but without really being able to support it. If it had been stipulated that absence for so many days would automatically lead to disqualification I would have supported the hon. Members, then I would myself disagree with it because there must be circumstances when a Member is bound to be absent, even myself. But if a Member goes away and cannot even ring the Speaker, or write, or send a message, then something must be wrong.

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the Minister to try to translate what is exactly stipulated to mean a different thing altogether, because here it is stated that one has to get permission from the Speaker, and not just merely contact the Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! The hon. Member has not yet misrepresented what the Bill says. He is saying that you ought to be able to get into touch with the Speaker, no doubt for the purpose of asking permission. I do not see anything wrong in what he has said so far.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the position therefore, as I see it, must be quite clear: that the people who elected us to this House expect of us a certain degree of responsibility and dedication to duty. If we all agree that we are all going to be responsible and dedicated to duty, then this provision cannot threaten anyone. But if we are suggesting that we should condone irresponsibility and lack of dedication to duty, then we will oppose this provision. But unless that is the provision, I cannot see the grounds for opposition to this provision.

Now, I remember—and those of my colleagues who were in the Legislative Council will remember—that these provisions did apply quite strictly, and I cannot recall any day in which we lost our sleep thinking about this provision, because we always turned up in the House and we always wished to be present for every debate. Now, I believe that every Member here does wish to be present for every debate except when it is important for him to be away. If that is the position, what is it that we are arguing about? Is it the mere fact that as hon. Members we are asked to get permission from the Speaker? Do we regard this as reducing our dignity and status? Surely, in any organised society there must be some form of procedure and way of doing things. In this House, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Members who say they would not like to get permission from the Speaker have to get permission from the Speaker to speak here. The Speaker has the entire prerogative to decide whether this man, that man or the other man speaks. Those are Standing Orders and so will this be part of the regulations. So, Mr. Speaker, I cannot accept the argument that it will degrade any Member to have to ask for permission. I, for one, will be quite happy to ask for permission if I am going to be away.

Mr. Speaker, one hon. Member said that it does not matter whether they stay here or they are out, that some Members sit here and do not speak, and what is the difference then if they are away? My answer is very simple. It is not always

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): I am glad, Sir, to hear the hon. Member for Majoge-Bassi confirming that if he votes against this Bill it is to protect himself personally. Let the public know that and let us not fool around with them.

Mr. Speaker, I heard Members yesterday—and this is a reasonable question—asking if this provision included crimes, for example, in respect of civil debts or civil cases. The answer is very simple. Civil cases would never fall in this category because, in the normal way, if a Member has a debt and is sued in court, his salary will be attached. You are never sent to prison for a civil debt if you are able to pay it, and if there is a means by which the court can extract the payment from the person concerned. There have been many cases of salaries being attached.

Another point is that if, indeed, the complainant in a civil case demands a prison sentence, the court requires that he personally pays for the upkeep of the prisoner for the entire duration of his prison sentence. It is not the case that the Government would send you to prison in a civil case and pay for the debt and pay for your upkeep in prison. The experience is that most people would never even be able to afford to keep an hon. Member in prison for three months, paying for his food.

Mr. Speaker, I would be interested in the proposition made by the hon. Member for Butere, that a person sent to prison should forgo his salary, although remaining a Member of the House—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the hon. Minister to state that I said that somebody in prison would forgo his salary and continue to be a Member of this House? I did not say that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I very clearly recollect your saying exactly that, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think what I said—and it is on record—was that any Member who has been sent to prison should not be allowed to earn a salary which comes from the public funds.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, but that he should not forfeit his seat.

Mr. Shikuku: I did not say that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will have to look at HANSARD. But my recollection is that so you cannot blame the hon. Member for believing that you said that.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I am right in saying that the hon. Member for Butere states that a Member imprisoned should retain his seat but should not earn his salary. Do I understand that the hon. Member for Butere now says that the Member imprisoned should forfeit his seat and his salary?

Mr. Shikuku: That is your opinion.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, since I am now free to express my own opinions, I would like to suggest that the thesis, that a Member could go to prison and forfeit his salary, is a very curious and interesting one, because if it is carried to its logical conclusion then it should also follow that when a Member fails to attend a Session, he should be deducted that day's salary for failure to attend the Session. That, Sir, is what is amounts to. If you say that when a person is imprisoned he should not be paid a salary, then we should also say that when a Member fails to attend, for the days he does not attend he should forfeit his salary, regardless of whether he is imprisoned or not. If we do not say that, then it would be unfair for a man who is in prison to forfeit his salary while a Member who goes walking around the street, refusing to come to the House, but continues to earn his salary. There is no logic at all in this thing.

Now, Sir, I find this quite a curious debate, in that we were saying, I believe that some Members, if I may continue with the points which I was originally making, I believe that most Members who spoke yesterday, particularly put forward the question of the civil cases and wanted to know whether these would fall into this category. As I have explained, the likelihood of them falling into this category is virtually nil. It would, in fact, mean straightforward criminal offences, and the question which the Members must be able to answer is whether they now contend that where a person has committed a straightforward crime, under the penal code, tried and convicted and sentenced to six months imprisonment, this man should continue to be a Member of this House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question is as simple as that, as I see it.

Now, Mr. Speaker, as one Member rightly pointed out yesterday. If we assume that a Member imprisoned continues to be a Member as suggested by some hon. Members here, and continues to earn his salary, this Member will be drawing, not only his salary, but during the period he is in prison, he will also be fed, housed and clothed by the State. So, Sir, he will be receiving twice benefits for failure to work for his constituency. Mr. Speaker, Sir, for failure to serve his people, the man will be fed free, housed free, clothed free, given free medical treatment as well as earning Sh. 2,000 at the end of every month, and, at the same time, continue to be honourable. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if that is the privilege of being a Member of this House why should it not be accorded to other criminals in the country? Why should the Members seek to have a special privilege over and above the ordinary criminal in this country?

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, hon. Members rise in this House every day and say that they represent the poor people. They rise and say that they do not wish to be removed from the masses. They rise and say that there must be equality of treatment and fair play and yet they would say that a criminal who is an hon. Member of this House, must be treated as a better criminal than other criminals.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the last twenty minutes the hon. Minister has spoken, but all he has dealt with is the question of imprisonment. Is he not repeating himself, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and therefore should he not move to another point and give the hon. Members a chance, because he has taken much time?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The hon. Member has been dealing with the same point, but I think he has been producing a whole series of new arguments in relation to the same point. I would point out that we have had much more than twenty minutes aggregate from other hon. Members on the opposite point of view. I think probably the hon. Member is pretty near the end of his argument on this particular point now.

Mr. Balala: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Minister substantiate as to who the Member is who said that he wants different treatment from the ordinary man?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, it is not a question of substantiation, but just a question of comment on what has been said and the implication of what has been said. You do not substantiate things like that, you agree or you do not agree.

Mr. Omas: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to seek your guidance on this point. In view of the fact that some of the Members of Parliament are senior to others, and they took part in creating this Constitution in London, would it not be in order for them to be given an opportunity to those Members here who never took part in the discussions at the Lancaster House Conference in London?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I have so often told hon. Members that they cannot raise their own desire to be heard in a debate as a point of order. Please do not do it.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): If the hon. Member for Bassi Majoge did not interrupt so often, then in twenty minutes I would have said much more. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to state quite categorically.

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not like interrupting my friend, but what my friend, Mr. Oduya, is referring to is very incorrect. My constituency is not Bus, it is Bassi, which is a Kisii name.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid none of us are perfect in our pronouncements. If we were to raise a point of order every time we had these little imperfections, I am afraid we would be seriously held up. Please be patient with our shortcomings on these things.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sorry about these interruptions. But, Sir, the last point which I would like to make with regard to this question of imprisonment is that I think there is to be considered by all Members here, the fact that we should aim at creating a parliamentary institution that is going to enjoy the confidence and trust of the public of this country, and whether we like it or not, and although some of us may feel that this may threaten our own security as Members of Parliament, whether we like it or not that image and confidence is bound to be tarnished if it were to be established that one day we could end up, within the four-year period, with a House completely consisting of ex-criminals and ex-convicts. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hear someone saying that the President was charged. But, Sir, the President was not convicted for petty-thieving, fraud and so on. It was a political trial, and if anyone in this House is contemplating committing treason, then he will be dealt with according to the law.

Now, Sir, if anyone is suggesting that he is going to commit a political crime during this period of independence in Kenya, then he had better tell us here and now what he intends to do.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Butere continuously mentioned someone by the name of Macharia. I would like to give way so that he can tell us which Member of this House is Macharia and who has been imprisoned. Which Member of the House is Macharia?

[The Minister for Economic Planning and Development]

as the hon. Member for Butere has rightly said, should have the courage to do what is right, regardless of the consequences, and sometimes to do what is right even if it clashes with our own individual and personal interests; we should still consider only what is in the interests of the country.

I am sure the hon. Member for Majoge-Bassi will be speaking later, and if he would allow me to say my piece, I will listen very carefully to what he has to say later.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, two points have been made about the Member's own position which I would like to deal with immediately, because it is here, I believe, that there is very much caution and very much expressed fear or concern. But it is necessary that we face up to this issue and face up to it quite squarely. The first question arises from the proposal that when a Member of Parliament is sent to prison, convicted of a crime, for more than six months, he should cease to be a Member of the House.

Some Members have contended that this is not right, that it interferes with the right of a Member to continue to be a representative of his people. But let us look at this in its entirety and not just from the point of view of the Members' own interests.

The first thing is, as the Attorney-General right put it, to consider that the reason we are in this House, the reason we are Members of Parliament, is so that we may represent our people. That is the reason we are here; we are not here to earn a salary, we are not here to represent ourselves; nor were we elected to come and safeguard or guarantee our own interests or continuity in office.

The reason we are here, therefore, is to represent our constituents and the first question is: is a man who is in prison for more than six months representing his people? The answer is, of course, no. He is not. He cannot physically do it, and he is not, therefore, in a position to represent these people. The question then is: are these people of X Constituency to be victimized, to be denied representation, because their Member deliberately, wilfully and out of his own personal interest, committed a crime? He did not call a meeting in his constituency to ask his people whether he should commit the crime, so that they gave him permission to do so. He did not consult his people as to the consequences of the crime; and if the crime he committed resulted in his personally, gaining in any way, he did not share the gain with the people of his constituency.

And yet the people of the constituency—supposing the Member stole or committed a fraud, whatever fraud it might be: supposing he stole and he consumed the money with his family or with his friends; he is then sent to prison for six months. We are being told by some Members that this is quite democratic, it is quite all right, his people should be victimised, should have to representation in this House, until he comes back. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is a point where democracy has gone wild; it is anarchy, it is not democracy any more.

But what is even more interesting—coming from the hon. Member who represents the poor people—is that this Member would like to convince this House that the poor people of this country should continue to pay a salary of Sh. 2,000 and more to a Member who is in prison.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Member in order—

An hon. Member: The hon. Minister.

Mr. Shikuku: Is the hon. Minister, the hon. T. J. Mboya, Member for Sophiatown, in order to state that I would like to see the poor people being exploited by having a Member in prison still earning Sh. 2,000, when I said that salaries should be done away with? Is he in order to mislead the House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Well, I do not know if you said that, Mr. Shikuku. If you did say that a Member in prison should be deprived of his salary, then your point is correct. If you did say that, you are correct; I do not know, I was not here during the whole of your speech. If you did say so, then I think Mr. Mboya is wrong.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is entirely inconsistent because a Member of this House continues to get a salary for as long as he is a Member. If he is a Member, therefore, he continues to get a salary. He stops getting a salary when he stops being—

Mr. Shikuku: Point of order.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Please sit down, Mr. Shikuku. If you said, Mr. Shikuku, that a Member who goes to prison should not be paid his salary, then, Mr. Mboya, I think you would be misquoting him in so far as you say that he advocates that the country should pay a salary to a Member when he is in prison. He certainly does not advocate that if he said that they should not be paid.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not know that we are not spitting hairs here. Members have stated—including the hon. Member for Butere—that when a Member of this House is imprisoned, he should continue to be a Member. And my thesis is—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Sir, is it in order for a Member on the Floor not to pay heed to the ruling from the Chairman? All I have said is that anybody convicted should not go on earning the public funds and he insists on implying that I said he should go on earning a salary. Is it in order for him not to accept your ruling?

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): I am prepared to accept the explanation, except to say this: if that, in fact, is what the hon. Member for Butere said, then, in fact, he agrees with us that when a Member goes to prison he should cease to enjoy the privileges of being a Member. One of these privileges is a salary. Now if you stop this salary—

Mr. Shikuku: Point of order!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think you have made your point clear, Mr. Shikuku. Do you want to repeat it again?

Mr. Shikuku: Is it in order for me to continue pointing out to the hon. Member to sit down when I am on a point of order?

The other issue, the point of order really, is this. Sir, I do not think the hon. Member has withdrawn what he has said because he is still continuing in a different way. Is he in order to do that?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no, no. The hon. Member has withdrawn and I think he has explained it. This is a point of debating tactics or debating policy, I think, of an hon. Member. He has said—and what he has said now is perfectly correct—that the salary is one of the privileges of a Member and that you do accept that, if a Member goes to prison, he should at least be deprived of one of his privileges, namely, salary. I think he is perfectly correct in that regard.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not know what is eating the hon. representative of the poor people, but the point is—and I am still making it, and I want to emphasize it—that I think we are likely to make a serious mistake here of confusing issues, and perhaps feeling, in some quarters, that we are defending ourselves. But the position must be put very clearly. If a person commits a crime and is sent to prison for more than six months, should he or should he not vacate his seat, and should the people he represents be given the opportunity to determine whether they want someone else to represent them?

There are two aspects of this question. One is the one I have already referred to, namely, that during the period of imprisonment, the people of that constituency will be denied the opportunity for representation; physically the Member cannot come from prison to represent them here. The second one is that, because of the crime committed, the record of the man in question, depending on the nature of the crime, the people in the area may very well feel that this person is not longer suitable to represent them with that criminal record. They should not be denied the right to decide whether they want a criminal to represent them. If there was a fresh election, they would be able to express their views. If they chose otherwise, it is their right, so to choose. But they cannot, just because this House wishes to protect itself, be required or demanded to continue to have a criminal as their representative without being given another choice.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

Mr. Speaker, we all talk so much about democracy and everyone in this House quite frequently wants us to believe that we base our entire approach to life on democratic ideals. But where is this democracy now, when we say openly and publicly that it does not matter what happens to a constituency after a Member deliberately has decided to commit a crime and has been committed by a court of law to prison?

Mr. Speaker, there is a lot to this, which this House must take into account, and the full impact of the consequences of this will be felt if this House were to vote against the Bill, and the only reason that can be put forward is that we vote against the Bill because we wish to protect our own positions.

Several hon. Members: No!

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, what is the other reason? Are we to vote against this Bill because we are protecting democracy? Are we to vote against this because we are protecting our constituencies? The answer is that we are voting against it to protect ourselves individually.

Mr. Anylenk: What is wrong with that. You are always protecting yourself.

[The Deputy Speaker]

to insist on being in the Civil Service or the armed forces or anywhere else; the President can, if he wants, remove any person he likes in the armed forces or Civil Service.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am getting the point. Nevertheless, I do not think I have misled the House. What I understand by that is what I am just saying. If the hon. Member differs with me, well he will have the Floor some time, but this is what I understand by that.

May I come to another point which is on page 50 of the amendment Bill where, under section 122—

An hon. Member: There is no 122.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Deputy Speaker, unless I have the wrong Bill, the last section I have on page 49 is on authorization of expenditure from Consolidated Fund by appropriation. This is section 122 and I think it continues on to page 50. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not know why there are some Assistant Ministers who go on sleeping in this House.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Please continue, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr Deputy Speaker, here under 3 (b), which is continued it says, "a supplementary estimate or, as the case may be, a statement of excess showing the sum required or spent shall be laid before the National Assembly . . .". Mr. Deputy Speaker, I only have a quarrel with one word here and that is "spent". I feel if we have to allow this question of people spending money and then coming to this House to tell us that they have spent the money and get an O.K. from us to have done so, then our power or our being Members of Parliament to look into the expenditure of public funds is completely infringed. That power is infringed; because if we pass this, then we are actually allowing the Minister for Finance to spend money and only report to us on the expenditure. I am of the opinion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we should be told before all the money is spent and our agreement sought if we have to get on with the expenditure of public funds. If we have to allow them all to be spent—I think we should delete the word "spent", so that it reads ". . . showing the sums required shall be laid before the National Assembly . . .", and not after spending it. I think—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is exactly on what I am quarrelling with the hon. Member. Is the hon. Member really right in misquoting sections out of context? What I would like the hon. Member to do is to quote section 122 before he quotes the subsection, and, then you will see that, in fact, what you have just said is not true.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): The point is this, Mr. Njonjo. I see your point of view, but any hon. Member can make his speech as he chooses and if he has not quite a correct interpretation as he understands it, I think you can correct him later on, which I am sure you will do very eloquently.

Mr. Shikuku: But I thought I said, Sir, that this was on section 122, and then I said on page 50. Then I quoted this. It will be found in the HANSARD. I said the continuation of 3 (b), Mr. Deputy Speaker. Therefore, if the Attorney-General is just trying to chase me for nothing, he will find that he is really not rising on a proper point of order.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am quarrelling with the word "spent". They should first get the approval of this House before they spend and not spend and then inform the House. That is what I refer to accept, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

On behalf of the poor people, I come to section 124 on page 50 of the amendment Bill, and the Order-in-Council, 1963, page 94. On page 94, section 124, which they say should be amended—

An hon. Member: They say insert.

Mr. Shikuku: There should be inserted the following—I quote—"Parliament may make provision for the establishment of a Contingencies Fund and for authorizing the Minister for the time being responsible for finance, if he is satisfied that there has risen an urgent and unforeseen need for expenditure for which no other provision exists, to make advances from that Fund to meet that need."

Mr. Deputy Speaker, if you read the original Constitution—this is on page 94 of the Constitution—I feel there is no need for amending this clause at all. I would like the Attorney-General to give me concrete reasons—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Clarity.

Mr. Shikuku: Not clarity, concrete reasons; you can not clear anything. I want concrete reasons why section 124 of the Constitution should be amended to this effect. In my opinion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is not necessary at all to have any amendment. If I read this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would take too much time of other hon. Members, but if they refer to page 94 of the Constitution, they will find that there is no need to amend it at all.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I feel that the amendment is not quite unnecessary but, as regards other parts which I have not touched, I feel it is quite in order, and that there is no quarrel with this. But, with regard to the other issues of interfering with the Members of Parliament and to the question of eight days, I believe it is completely unnecessary because you will find that even with eight days, if one is sent to prison for one month, he is automatically disqualified, because he will definitely be absent from this House for more than eight days. So if one is sent out for one month, he is automatically disqualified, because the eight days of his absence from this House shall have elapsed, unless the hon. Attorney-General wishes to make us believe that once you are in prison for one month, you would also be attending Parliament! Certainly, you shall be absent for thirty-one days which is more than eight days. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I feel that this question should be left to the people of this country, and I am opposing this Bill because of this.

In order to give other Members time to speak, I do not wish to take a long time, I think I should say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, quite categorically that I oppose this and if there is any Member who fears to oppose this, he is only killing himself and the future generation. I am of the opinion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when I speak against the Bill in this House or whenever any Member speaks against a Bill in this House, he is not speaking against the President. There is a fear among some hon. Members, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that if they said this, then they would be chased round, and so forth; but if this country is to progress, people must have independent minds and speak their minds here, whether they please the hon. President of the Republic of Kenya or not. The President of the Republic of Kenya is a democratic man and surely he would not like to be associated with cowards who can never speak their minds; I do not think the hon. President of Kenya is interested in cowardice; he himself is not a coward. So I do not think Members of this Parliament should be afraid to express their free feelings in the belief that they will be victimized. I speak frankly in this House in the interests of the nation, and any other hon. Member too should speak frankly without fear of being sent to prison.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, grouping on such an issue, which is vital to the country, will not help. If you are there, you are there in your personal capacity; whatever good or whatever bad you are getting out of that group is your own affair. It is not that of the country. So, Sir, I would appeal to the Members not to camouflage the freedom of the people of this country, because of their grouping and just being told to say, "Yes", when they should not say "Yes".

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to oppose the amendment.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, the hon. Member who has just sat down has concluded with an appeal to the Members, but he has implied in this appeal that some Members in this House do not decide according to their conscience. I would like to disagree with him and to say that I believe very strongly that every Member in this House, who takes any decision or votes on any issue, is always doing so out of his own convictions and out of his own conscience. Even if I disagreed with what they decided, I still would respect their right to decide and to vote according to their consciences. But apparently the hon. Member for Butere assumes that some of his colleagues have no convictions or consciences—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker—why does he not sit down?

Is the hon. Minister in order to try to misrepresent what I said when what I actually said was "that any hon. Member, he should not fear to speak his mind." Is he in order to misrepresent me?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Well, I see your point, Mr. Shikuku, but this, I suppose, is a sort of debating twist that is often applied. He is having a good debating point at your expense. You made an appeal for hon. Members to have the courage of their convictions, if I understood you rightly; he says that that implies that some Members do not have that courage. It is a point which people can make, though you may disagree with this twist to it.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is quite true that the hon. Member did imply that some Members in this House vote according to groups, and that they do not have their convictions. And after it is stated in those clear and simple terms, he is now trying to wriggle out of it.

Sir, I will not take too long in dealing with this matter, because I believe that, in effect, this is a very simple Bill, except that it does arouse some emotions, especially in those parts which touch on the position of the Members themselves. This is understandable and one does sympathize; it is human to try to protect yourself, and sometimes to feel that there is a need for self-preservation. But the question here is that we, in this House, as the Member for Gatundu, that this eight days business is too much and therefore it should be done away with.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Speaker, some people did touch on the last point that the actions of a Member in this Parliament are subject to question. It will be the decision of the Speaker, and the President will have to decide whether his explanation is accepted or not. To prove that you had a reasonable reason to be outside this Parliament for eight days will be subjected to a decision by the President or the Speaker of this House. I feel, being a politician and these Members being politicians, that every Member has definitely got an opponent, and these opponents will do whatever they can in their power to ensure that they fix that particular person in some way. We have heard of stories in various places where people were kidnapped. I feel, Mr. Speaker, that if this law is allowed to pass, hoodlums will be able to hold up any Member, because they feel that if he was present they would not fix him politically, because they cannot always fix him at the elections, but they could get hold of that particular Member and send him anywhere even for three weeks, and when the honest man comes back he will not be able to prove his case and these people would have got away with it. I feel that if we allow this sort of business to go ahead it will be misleading the House and also playing about with the true future representatives of the people, because there are those who are true representatives and those who might not have the blessing of the people as such.

I am in full support. Now, Mr. Speaker—

An hon. Member: Are you speaking on behalf of the poor people?

Mr. Shikuku: Yes, I am speaking on behalf of the poor people. Mr. Speaker, I now come to the same page 48, section 56 (2), Order in Council 1963, page 60, you will find that the original says that the person presiding in either House of the National Assembly shall, if he is a Member thereof, have original vote but he shall have no casting vote. Mr. Speaker, here we are being asked that the Speaker, this is referring to the Speaker, the Speaker of the House of Representatives or the Senate, should give a casting vote if you cannot reach a decision where we have equal votes or a tie. Mr. Speaker, I feel that this is not necessary at all, because the Speaker is supposed to be above parties, I mean he is not supposed to be siding with any group or groups in the House, and though people feel here that we have one party, you never know, in the future we might have an opposition party, and—

An hon. Member: Poor man's?

Mr. Shikuku: Yes, you may have a poor man's organization coming up, do not forget that for a minute. I agree with the hon. Minister for Information that the party exists, but it has not got very many members in the Parliament. One day we might have the poor people's party existing here also and it might be in the opposition or in the Government—

An hon. Member: But you are not poor. You earn Sh. 2,000 a month.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Mr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Shikuku: But, if we have—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Order! Let him continue his speech.

Mr. Shikuku: What I am trying to put across to the House is this. If we have to allow the Speaker to have a casting vote, I think that will tend to draw him to one side, because in the future there might be two parties whereby the Speaker might decide to give the casting vote to the party in power, and of course the people in the House at that time might think—although the Speaker is very impartial, I do not want to reflect any bad motives to him—that he has given the casting vote to the Government because he knows that the Government is in power and therefore he is duty bound to try and side with the Government. But if he gives it to the opposition then they might feel that this Speaker is trying to help the opposition to let the Government down. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I feel that the position of the Speaker as such should remain as it is today. Let him have nothing to do with the voting of the House so that he remains very impartial and he can conduct the House in an unbiased way. Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are, at present, enjoying that very independence of the Speaker in this House—both the hon. Speaker and the Deputy Speaker—and I think we should continue to enjoy it. Therefore I do not think that the amendment of giving a casting vote to the Speaker should be allowed at all. I reject it.

Now, on page 48, which refers to section 87 (a) where we are being asked to delete the whole section and substitute it with a new section which is already on page 48, I feel, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that these powers at the moment are such that I do not have any quarrel with the present President, because with the present President we have known him for a long time and he is doing fine and the only thing that I do not want is for the Members to be misled by this clause that the President shall have the power to fire any civil servant at his pleasure. Members should not think of the present President, because with the present President we are doing fine, but we should think of the future President and, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if I may recall one of the hon. Members—I think it was the hon. Mbogoh—said that if the hon. Mr. Shikuku became the President then God help the people of Kenya. He says, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that if I became the President, all the Kikuyu would have it. I think they would have it: not all the Kikuyu but the Kikuyu from Kiambu would have it.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am a very frank man. I like my points to be very, very clear. If I am given such a power, that the people in the Civil Service will be at my mercy—and I know what is going on now, where there is all this tribalism here—surely, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I will really wipe out all the people. Therefore, to stop this chance for me—to be fair: I am referring to myself and not to anyone else—in order to curb me, this question of people in the Civil Service being at the mercy of any President in future is very, very absurd. We want the civil servants to work well and if any civil servant misbehaves, or does not comply with the laws of the day, that particular civil servant on his merit will either be sacked or something else done to him. But if he is going to serve, shaking, wondering whether the president of the poor people is going to sack him tomorrow or the day after, I do not think he will do his job well. I do not think we should allow this clause, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wonder whether it is in order for the hon. Member really to mislead the House because the hon. Member did tell us that he did some homework last night and I am beginning to wonder whether, in fact, he did any homework at all? The effect of this clause that he is referring to has no relation to what the hon. Member has been saying. Is he in order in misleading the House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Order! I do not really know. I am sorry, but I have not been able quite to follow what the hon. Mr. Shikuku is saying. I think he has been wandering around quite a bit about what he would do when or if he became President. I think perhaps, Mr. Njonjo, the right idea would be either to explain what it means; rising on a point of information, or asking another Minister immediately after you to—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of information, Sir—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, if Mr. Shikuku will give way, and I think he will.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, could I elaborate more on this, because I do not think I am misleading the House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, well, you are on the Floor; you do not have to stand on a point of order. But if you give way—

Mr. Shikuku: I am not giving way, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I did my homework.

As a matter of fact, I think there is a point of correction there. It should be 87 (a); there is 87 and 87 (a), and I am referring to 87 (a) where the President shall have the power to fix up some of the boys—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): That is precisely what I am saying the section does not do, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no. I do not think I can, at this stage, decide what the section does not or does not do. I think he is giving his interpretation and the best thing is if you speak or a Minister speaks on behalf of Government, he can explain what it does do. If Mr. Shikuku is deliberately misleading the House, then, of course, he can be stopped, but it is difficult for me to say he is. In fact, I do not have a copy of the Bill just now.

Mr. Shikuku: I am not misleading the House, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and I submit this very strongly. May I read the section?

On page 49—if the hon. Member for Karachuonyo could only pay attention—the section reads as follows: "Save in so far as may be otherwise provided by this Constitution or by any other law, every person who holds office in the service of the Republic of Kenya shall hold such office during the pleasure of the President."

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): What does that mean?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is the pleasure. When I am not pleased with a guy, that guy goes. This is what I understand by it.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Order! I think I could correct you on this. What it does mean is that if the President decides to sack a man, he can do so. If that is what you mean, it is correct. The word "pleasure" is a technical term used to say that he has no right present President because the present President is not going to be the President of Kenya for ever and a day. He will be passing away one day, and somebody else will be the President. If somebody becomes the President, like the hon. Wariithi, we do not know what he is going to do to us, we must not allow this to go through.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Speaker, my last point on that issue is that if we have to revise the imperialist law then the Attorney-General has a duty to this House, to explain to us whether we are going forward or backward. If we are going to reinstate this very law here, then surely he will agree with me that we are moving backward. I am only interested in moving forward.

The other issue, Mr. Speaker, is the disqualification after eight days of non-attendance in this House. Mr. Speaker, this is a very absurd clause. I say it is absurd, because the Member has been subjected to discipline, with all due respect to the Chair, I have nothing against the present Speaker of this House or against the Speaker of the Senate, but I am talking of the future. I have got a long way to go biologically, I am only thirty-two now, and I can go another thirty years. So I am talking of the future. Mr. Speaker, here a Member has more or less been subjected to a sort of school boy discipline, who has to obtain permission from the headmaster to go and buy meat for his mother, and tell the headmaster how long he will be absent and how far the market is. Mr. Speaker, I feel that this is completely unnecessary. If the Member of Parliament fails to attend this Parliament for eight consecutive days, or does not represent his people in this House, surely the ordinary man knows who is working for his people. The only way the public can deal with that particular Member is to fix him when it comes to the next elections. They can vote him out, and that is the way. If that is the way, they can fix the Member who is a sleepy Member, at the next election. Mr. Speaker, if the argument is that by being absent for eight days, a Member is not serving his people, then how many Members are there in this House who are sitting on their buttocks, from the day they come to this House who have never spoken? Are they representing their people by sitting on the benches? Mr. Speaker, this falls short of logic. If any hon. Member finds it ideal to sit on these benches and earn public money without fighting for his people in this House, surely he will be fixed at the next election? If this is not so, and the Government is interested in saving the public funds why do they not introduce a Bill here that any Member who has been attending this House and without speaking on behalf of his people, he should be done away with. I will report that. If the Government is only prepared in the absence of a Member, and does not worry about those who are sitting on their buttocks here from the day they came and have never spoken, then the Government is not sincere in its endeavour to try and save public money from being misused and should not try to camouflage the intelligence of the masses. Mr. Speaker, I oppose this strongly. I oppose this because there is no logic in it, and I feel the people who elected the particular person to this House are watching his movements. If he is not representing them well he will be kicked out by the voters, it is not the business of the Government. If it is the business of the Government because the man is earning money without being in this House, it should also be the business of the Government to make sure that those Members who do not speak are sent out of this House and disqualified. I challenge them to take that and surely they will be voted down by the very Members who sit without speaking.

Mr. Omar: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member who is speaking has alleged that there are some Members who do not speak in this House, can he substantiate that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is a general comment and it is true. It does not require substantiation. I think it is exactly parallel to the statement that was made yesterday, which was challenged for substantiation, that some hon. Members come into the House for one minute and go away for the rest of the day, just to earn their pay.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for your ruling. If the hon. Member, I know he is not serious, but if he would only read the Parliament index he would find out who does not speak.

Mr. Speaker, I feel that the other issue which I reject entirely, is the question of having the Speaker, with all due respect to the Chair, and the President of the Republic of Kenya to decide whether such an hon. Member having been absent from Parliament for eight days, should come back to this Parliament or not.

Mr. Speaker, if we approve this we are again violating the freedom of the people to decide who should represent them.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Do I understand that the hon. Member is speaking about eight days because eight days is not in the amendment. I thought it was two weeks.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is eight consecutive days.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): I beg your pardon.

Mr. Shikuku: I thought you would beg for my pardon. He must be congratulated. I know what I am talking about. I did a lot of homework. If you do not know—

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member right in sitting on the Front Bench?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I had allowed him to stand at the Table. If hon. Members rise on a point of order he has to sit somewhere.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thank you for your ruling. I was not supposed to stand when the Speaker is on his feet. I know my Standing Orders. At any rate, Mr. Speaker, I think I am standing here with permission and I am speaking on behalf of the poor people, which is a very big post, they are the majority.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was talking of eight days where the Members coming back to this Parliament will be decided by the Speaker of the Senate or the House of Representatives and also in consultation with the President of the Republic. Mr. Speaker, I feel that this is completely unfair. I do not recall any day, with all due respect to you, Mr. Speaker, when the Speaker was consulted in Butere to get Shikuku here. All I know, when I am in this House I am under the power of the Speaker according to the Standing Orders, but if they are going to decide as to whether I should continue to be here, then the right of the people to decide whether I should be here or not is violated and therefore I oppose this section, Mr. Speaker, because it is denying the people of whatever constituency or of whatever Member in this House to decide who should be in this House and who should not be here.

The other issue, Mr. Speaker, is that you will find that some people come from very remote parts of Kenya, let us say Tanu Lamu where sometimes it is flooded, I remember once when we were voting, there was an amendment, and we had a lot of trouble getting our Members from Tanu Lamu because it was flooded there, there was no telephone, they could not come by road, there was no airstrip, it was flooded, so these people could not come. It can so happen that somebody might not be able to get in touch with the Speaker and inform him of what is happening. There are remote places like Turkana and so forth, he may have a car breakdown and get stuck in the bush, there is no garage near by, and he has punctures in all four tyres, and he will just have to sit there and wait for another truck which might come after a week in order to get a lift into town to get his car repaired. Mr. Speaker, I feel this question of permission should not be allowed at all, because if I do not do my job, if a Member of this House does not do his job, the people in his constituency will know that he does not do his job, and it will be up to those people to fix him up and not this Government. Therefore I oppose very, very strongly that we should be subjected to the Speaker and to the President of the Republic of Kenya, with all due respect, I feel that the wishes of the people take paramount importance over the wishes of any individual in this country.

Mr. Speaker, if I may go on again you will find on that issue of eight days: I think that the hon. President of the Republic of Kenya is a Member—I do not only think, but he is a Member—of this House representing Gatundu. Now, I want to know how many times Mr. Speaker, the hon. President of the Republic of Kenya will be writing to the Speaker of this House for his absence in this House. I think that there will be a lot of stationery wasted. Every time he will say "Mr. Speaker, I will be out again," because this, Mr. Speaker, does not make sense. He is a Member of this Parliament and he will have to write a lot of letters apologizing or asking for permission for him to be absent from this House, because he has not been to this House since he became the President, so he will be writing a lot of letters. Because they have not provided this—

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Onanu): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Member is going very far. I thought the President was above the law and he should not be being discussed here.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, the President is not free from any provision of the Constitution as to his right to be President, or his right to be a Member of this House. He is free from attack in courts of law for things that he has done personally. That does not affect qualification for office. He is not above the law in that respect.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for your ruling. I thought so. The Assistant Minister should have read his Constitution and found that there will be a difficulty because there is no provision in this Bill, Mr. Speaker, for the President, so it means that he will have to be consulting you and asking for permission every time. I think you will get tired. Therefore, I feel that it is not necessary and it is also infringing upon the President of the Republic of this country and I think that he will definitely agree with me, to section 24 (2) (d) here I find it is a violation of section 24 of the Order-in-Council 1963 where, if I may quote, it is stated: "Except with his own consent no person shall be hindered in the enjoyment of his freedom of assembly and association, that is to say, his right to assemble freely and associate with other persons, in particular to form or belong to a trade union or other association for the protection of his interests." If you read the amendment in section 24 (d) you will find that this is actually denying the freedom of any individual in any trade union who may differ with the leaders of that particular trade union, to form or associate himself with another group with a view to produce a different policy. So, if we amend this clause we shall be really denying the people in this country to differ with any registered organization and thus they will be unable to form their own organization. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I feel that amendment is not necessary. What we have in section 24 of the Order-in-Council 1963 on page 41 is quite in order. So, I wish to submit very strongly that by amending that clause we shall be denying the freedom of the people here to associate or to assemble in order to further their own interests. Of course, I will be the last person to break this because I fought very hard for the freedom of this country and I am not going to let the hon. Attorney-General get away with it.

[Mr. Shikuku]

If I may come, Mr. Speaker, to page 48 of the Amendment Bill, in clause 41 (a) I note that it has not been stated what type of crime—however, the Attorney-General made a statement a few minutes ago in which he has clarified the matter because it is not stated in the Amendment Bill what is the type of crime that will stop a Member from being a Member of this House if he was convicted. I feel this clause here is completely unnecessary despite the clarification of the Attorney-General. I remember there was a time when we people who went to London for the constitutional talks realized there was a similar law during the time of the imperialists and in order to make it possible for the hon. President of this country and all his colleagues and other people who were detained to come to this House, we had to do away with this clause. One thing the Attorney-General dwelt on very much yesterday was that we are not going to have criminals in this Parliament, sitting in this hon. House with other hon. Members and be looked upon as hon. Members. May I make one point very clear, Mr. Speaker, to the Attorney-General. I do not intend to defend criminals at all but it must be made known to the Attorney-General that the wishes of the people of this country are paramount. You may not like the size of a certain hon. Member here just as the hon. House did not like the face of the hon. Mzee Kenyatta and made sure he could not come to this House by having that law. However, the wishes of the people were realized and we amended the Constitution and the President came to this House.

Mr. Kall: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member many times while speaking in facing the Attorney-General instead of facing the Chair.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is in order. As I have said on other occasions, hon. Members are required to address the Chair but are not bound by that to the ordeal of looking at the Speaker all the time. But they should not turn right away, that is all.

The Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. McKenzie): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could I have your ruling, is it correct that when he faces the Attorney-General that he ought to wink at him, too?

Mr. Shikuku: The point of order so far raised, Mr. Speaker, I think you will agree with me was not really a point of order. I will go on. My trend of thinking has been interfered with but nevertheless I will go ahead.

We having amended that Constitution, we made it possible for these hon. Members now who are hon. Member of this House, to get into this Parliament, because they would not have, otherwise, Mr. Speaker, been able to get into this House. At the same time, Mr. Speaker, the Attorney-General must remember, and it is so recent that the Attorney-General cannot forget, in that during the trial of the "Old Man" and his colleagues, there were untruths, so if it is a question of conviction, conviction can also come about by cooking evidence. In this case, Mr. Speaker, if I may refresh the hon. Members' memory here, Mr. Macharia gave evidence which, at that time, Mr. Speaker, everybody believed was the truth. Mr. Macharia was only trained to give this evidence in the court of law, and it appeared to be true. The result was that the "Old Man" and all his colleagues were convicted. Now, Mr. Speaker, is there any guarantee that the Attorney-General can give this House that there will be no repetition of such a thing? There is no guarantee, Mr. Speaker, because all are human beings and it can happen again. Therefore, I submit, Mr. Speaker, that this question which the people were being asked to pass in this Parliament, I would warn the hon. Members today, there is a quotation in the Bible which says "the dead said to me, today for me, and tomorrow for thee", so what happens to your neighbour may not affect you now, but one day it will be your turn, and, therefore, do not look at the question as Members of this Parliament, but we should look at the question as to what is going to happen in the future, where the freedom of certain people will be impaired.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Speaker, it was only the other day when I was stopped on the road and told I was drunk, whereas the very people who stopped me—there were three of them—were themselves drunk and I was only one, so in the court of law if I had not made up my mind to be checked by the doctor before they charged me, they would have given evidence in a court of law, three people against one, that the hon. Member for Butere, Mr. Shikuku, was drunk. What would have happened, Mr. Speaker? Me, Shikuku, could have gone in because there was only one against three. This is the sort of thing that can happen. The other day, Mr. Speaker, if I may—Mr. Speaker, I am trying to enlighten the Members as to what is going to happen to them if they left this unchecked.

Mr. Speaker, I feel that this section here, we should leave things as they are at the moment, but if it is the Attorney-General's argument that if we have convicts here to earn the public's money, it is very unfair. I agree with the hon. Attorney-General, because this man having been convicted would not be working for the country he would be in prison. There is no reason why this man should earn the public's money. That is an easy thing for us to do, all we should do here is to make sure that once this man is convicted, he does not earn public money. We stop that. But when he comes out, as to whether the masses would like him that is a different thing. Let us not underestimate the intelligence of the people of this country. If an hon. Member in this House is convicted, and if he wants to stand at the next election, surely the people in that part of the country will decide whether they want him back or not? Why should the Attorney-General and other people in the Government worry about the intelligence of the people? The people will say—well, boy, you stole so much during your time, you are not going to get our vote, that is the only way to discipline you—the Government is trying to discipline this man, and under-rate the intelligence of the people, then they are very much mistaken. Let them leave this man to come out and try his luck, and then if he goes through, it is up to the people, because whether you consider the man a criminal or not, the "Old Man" was considered a criminal, and he was voted into this Parliament. Why do you not give the people this freedom to find a suitable person for them? I feel, Mr. Speaker, that this section is completely unnecessary.

At the same time, Mr. Speaker, as far as the crime is concerned we have only one definition, where the Attorney-General has just said that if one is sued for failure to pay his debts and so on, this will not be considered as one of the disqualifications. But he forgets that we are politicians in this House. We, Mr. Speaker, there may be one or two of us sued for this or for having said the other, but once he is convicted it is a criminal offence and therefore, he is debarred from coming to this House again. Mr. Speaker, I would quote an example again. The other day the report from the Special Branch which was read here in substantiation, said that the hon. Shikuku was saying that all thieves should be killed. This is completely untrue, because, Mr. Speaker, I know exactly what I say at my meetings. Why? Because I do not smoke, I do not drink, I do not take tea, I don't even take coffee, I do not even—Mr. Speaker, they are asking me to say if I eat. That is not true, I do eat. There is no time, Mr. Speaker, when my brain is confused with any liquor or any smoke. My brain is very pure, I do not smoke opium. Therefore, I know exactly, Mr. Speaker, what I say, and I know it is completely untrue for the Special Branch or the Criminal Investigation Department, or whatever you call them to have reported that I said that thieves should be killed. What I said was that thieves should not be killed but tied to a tree, and the police be called. It has been put the other way round that I said that they should be killed.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you are getting away from the point, Mr. Shikuku.

Mr. Shikuku: Yes, Mr. Speaker, my point here is that I am trying to put across how these people can cook up a story—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, you have done that already.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I was trying to elaborate.

Mr. Speaker, I feel that this sort of thing can happen and some of the Members of this House will disappear.

The other thing, Mr. Speaker, some of us are known to be tough-headed boys, who will speak their minds without worrying about anything, and this is another way of getting hold of these people on any pretext, and lock them up, then have things their own way. This is politics. It can happen, we have seen some places in the world where opposition leaders have been locked up for their beliefs. If we let this part go, anybody who comes into power, I do not say the

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move that the Committee do report to the House its consideration of the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) (Amendment) Bill and its approval thereof without amendment.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

(The House resumed)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

REPORT AND THIRD READING

THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY (POWERS AND PRIVILEGES) (AMENDMENT) BILL

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to report that a Committee of the whole House has considered the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) (Amendment) Bill and approved the same without amendment.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) Act be now read a Third Time.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have the title a little wrong, Dr. Waiyaki, would you just move it again?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) (Amendment) Bill be now read the Third Time.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor) seconded.

(Question proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Are you wanting to speak, Mr. Omar?

Mr. Omar: Yes, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, although we have agreed to pass this Bill, it was most unfortunate that I did not have time to speak during the Committee stage, but I was going to suggest to the House that when they appoint the Committee of Privileges they should seriously take into account the appointment of Members of Parliament who have legal backgrounds. I am saying this, Sir, because this committee is of great importance and sometimes it will be required to hear evidence from some persons and, since there is a law required in evidence, I think it is important that we get Members with a legal background because they would be able to ask technical questions of persons who give evidence to such a committee. The law background of these committee members will be very useful to this committee because they will not be able to make a wrong judgment on any Member who shall have appeared before that committee for question, for witness or for any person who will be required to give evidence.

I am glad that the Attorney-General is appointing this and I hope he will take this into account seriously. I believe we have a number of Members of Parliament who are advocates and I think I am not wrong to say that they are enough in number to the extent that they can make up fully the composition of this Committee of Privileges.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. arup Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to oppose the hon. Member's views. I am sure that most of the Members of Parliament are advocates; I am sure that you Mr. Speaker and one or two Members are judges. We are not trying to bring a group of judges to the House, but we want Members who are judges to sit on this committee because of their ability to judge things.

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I oppose this very strongly, that any ordinary person should be allowed to sit on this committee.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You want them to be judge and jury!

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, I would simply like to refer to one aspect of this Bill which we are being asked to have read the Third Time, and that is removal of all references to the House of Commons and the privileges and immunities. Here we are getting rid of the references which might remind Members that they have not done what they were entitled to have done. I can only say that I regret this deletion of section 20 of the principal Act. I would again urge Members to think seriously about having a comprehensive legislation instead of this half-baked legislation.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If no hon. Member wishes to speak I will call on the Mover to reply.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not have much to say except to mention that there will be no objection to having lawyers within the committee, but there are not enough lawyers as it is [The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office] within this House or the other House. So, even if you appointed lawyers, there would also be room for other people.

Section 20 that the hon. Seroney refers to provides that the Journals of the House of Commons shall be prima facie evidence relating to privilege, but it does not look necessary now to have this provision because it will no longer be required by virtue of the foregoing additions which we have put from section 7A onwards.

(Question put and agreed to)

(The Bill was accordingly read a Third Time and passed)

(Ordered that the Clerk carry the said Bill to the Senate and desire their concurrence)

(Next Order called—Continuation of Second Reading of the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill—interrupted on 22nd February 1966)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Ochwada was speaking but he is not here to conclude his speech.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, you asked me yesterday whether I would clarify one point in regard to imprisonment for civil debt in respect of hon. Members of the National Assembly.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think Mr. Ochwada and several hon. Members wanted to know whether this would extend to imprisonment for civil debt.

If you have a statement to make Mr. Njonjo, I think with the agreement of the House, this would be an appropriate time for you to make it.

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

MEMBERS AND THE QUESTION OF IMPRISONMENT FOR CIVIL DEBT

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, I am most grateful for this opportunity. I am happy that you have afforded me this opportunity for dealing with one matter which every one of the five hon. Members who spoke yesterday raised. This is a matter which, unless I make the position clear, is likely to continue causing unnecessary debate.

I am referring to the question on whether or not imprisonment served as a result of committal for civil debt would, under the present Constitution proposals, result in a Member being disqualified. I wish to make it quite clear, Mr. Speaker, that imprisonment for civil debt will not result in a Member vacating his seat. This is because the Civil Procedure Act, in section 42 provides as follows: "Every person detained in prison in execution of a decree shall be so detained, (a) where the decree is for the payment of a sum of money exceeding Sh. 100 for a period not exceeding six months; (b) in any other case for a period not exceeding six weeks."

This means, Mr. Speaker, that, under the law, it is not possible to send a debtor to prison for a period exceeding six months. This being the case, it is not possible for a Member of Parliament to be disqualified if he is sent to prison for a civil debt.

I should like to add, Mr. Speaker, that in all cases of committal for civil debt, the debtor's subsistence in prison is paid by the creditor and, therefore, if an hon. Member owes me money, if I want him to be in prison for six months, I will be the one who will pay for his keep in prison for six months.

BILL

Second Reading

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA (AMENDMENT) BILL (The Attorney-General on 22nd February 1966)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 22nd February 1966)

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to speak on this amendment and I will take—

An hon. Member: How long?

Mr. Shikuku:—I shall take my time because, Mr. Speaker, I have done a lot of homework. For the information of the Attorney-General and the House I would like to say that I slept at 2 o'clock this morning. I was doing nothing but reading the amendments so far put to the House.

First of all I do not see the need for the amendment because if there is any amendment surely I should have supported any amendment of the Constitution which would provide the unemployed with jobs. I would have done that if it was an amendment how best we could amend the Constitution to provide employment for the hungry man. Now, are the people going to eat this amendment? What is the ordinary person seeking, what are the poor people going to profit from this amendment? They are not going to profit, anything at all from this amendment. I would therefore like the Government always to consider the interests of the poor people and what they are going to gain out of such a Bill. In this Bill they have nil.

Mr. Speaker, on page 47 of the Amendment Bill, the First Schedule, I have no quarrel at all with the Attorney-General's amendment up to Chapter I, section 6. However, when you come [Mr. Seroney] deal with what is provided for under section 2, paragraph 7A, which is only the behaviour of the Members within the precincts of the House. So, Sir, why should we not call that committee for what it really is instead of calling it something which it is not?

Mr. arap Soli: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am not qualified in law, but I would like to ask a question. In case an hon. Member stands in this House and speaks about a company in Nairobi or in Nakuru and that company feels that that hon. Member has misrepresented the company and they want to know certain things, would this committee be consulted, as a Committee of Privileges, because as a Member in the House will be privileged to say anything here, but, Sir, will they have to refer to that company?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): This committee, if I may tell the hon. Members, is to deal purely with matters that arise and affect this House. If a Member does misbehave himself outside this House, of course, there will be other ways of dealing with him, but this is purely to regulate the conduct of the Members in this House. If somebody misbehaves, and this committee and the Speaker decide that this matter should be taken before this committee, then it will be taken, for example, in my own case. Some Members will remember that when I had a dispute with another hon. Member, that matter was referred to a body which heard evidence from both sides and came to a conclusion and reported to the House.

Mr. arap Soli: Mr. Chairman, Sir, what I said is that if the hon. Member was in this building and said something which may affect a certain company and that company or body or firm may want to say that that Member was telling lies or suggesting something that was not right, will this committee be expected to be privileged, because the Member has the privilege?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Well, Sir, fortunately for the Members of this House, what happens and the deliberations that take place are privileged, and they cannot be questioned outside. But, Sir, I sometimes wish that hon. Members would repeat what they say here outside.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Attorney-General has just referred us to a case which was decided by a committee comprising of Members of this House in connexion with a difference of opinion between the Attorney-General himself and the hon. Member. Therefore, Sir, how does it become necessary for us to make a law to facilitate an arrangement which has been working smoothly here. For example, in the past Mr.

Khalif versus Mr. Njonjo's problem was dealt with without having a Bill of this kind, Sir. Now, Sir, why does it become necessary to have it? Secondly, I would like to know whether this code of regulation, which to me is a kind of code which curtails the freedom of the Members in the building of this National Assembly, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am not being protected by a piece of paper.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, why does this become necessary when it is expected that every Member is a responsible person and that whatever is done here is done within the compound of freedom. Therefore, Sir, why should we make another law, can the Attorney-General explain this to me? What difficulties does he experience in this House or in the compound?

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am surprised at the hon. Member for Gichugu. I was assuming that he, like every Member in the House, had come to the conclusion that the conduct of the Members within the precincts of this Assembly is an important part of the image that Members of Parliament want to project to the public. When we had the incident to which he refers, it was necessary to appoint an ad hoc select committee of the House, which did not have any procedures laid down or any precedence for the work to which it was appointed. Arising from this experience, most Members, at least this is my understanding, felt that we should have, as indeed is the case in all other Parliaments, a standing committee that will deal with the privileges of Members, powers within the Assembly and which, and where necessary, as defined in subparagraph 7, will conduct such inquiries as are referred to it. The purpose, Sir, is two-fold. One, to be sure that no Member is victimized, and secondly, to be sure that no Member behaves in a manner that might injure the image of all Members and the Assembly itself. I would have thought that the Member for Gichugu would have been the first to insist on this privilege, because I have heard him arguing very strongly for Members to be given certain treatment that is in keeping with their dignity and position.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): In fact, Sir, I was hoping that the hon. Member for Gichugu would question paragraph 7 on page 10, because it says, "No proceedings or decision of either House or the Committee of Privileges acting in accordance with the provision of this Act shall be questioned in any court." I was hoping that the hon. Member suggested that we amend this so that what takes place before this committee can be questioned before a court of law.

[The Attorney-General]

My friend would not then have raised the question which he raised and the fact is that whatever is decided in this committee cannot be questioned outside.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Chairman, a case has been decided by this Committee of Privileges, although it is curtailing the privileges of Members. The Member feels that it is necessary that he should put that case in a court of law. Does the Attorney-General not agree with me that we are really curtailing the freedom of the Member to approach the court of law for justice, because a committee might come that the position of the committee of the six may be in favour of a Minister. I am taking this as an example, Mr. Chairman, that this should be in favour of a Minister because of certain fears. These are human things. And then the Member for Gichugu feels that it is better to test the validity of this decision by going to the court of law, but here I am told that I am now admitted and the decision of this committee is the supreme authority in Kenya. Mr. Chairman, then where do we get the privilege in terms of justice?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): I find it very difficult that the hon. Member does not follow this. The answer is this; if there is an allegation made in this House against one—

An hon. Member: Address the Chair.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Although I am looking, I can look, if you do not know what "Address the Chair" means, I can look at the hon. Member and still be addressing the Chair.

Mr. Chairman, what happens is that if an allegation has been made here by one Member as against another, that can be decided here. But what I am suggesting, and my advice to the Member for Gichugu, is this. Repeat what you have said here outside and then you will see the law at work.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Chairman, I do not want to interfere with the Attorney-General in this issue and, of course, he is entitled to wish, but the Englishmen have a saying that if wishes were horses the Attorney-General would ride. Members in this House are very conscious of what they have to say within this building and outside this building, so they will never give you that chance if you are hoping for that. But, Mr. Chairman, on this clause here, where it is stated that the decision taken by the committee should not be questioned in any court of law, I think that should be amended, and I was wondering whether it would be in order for any Member to move an amendment to that.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): That is not possible now. In fact, the hon. Mr. Seroney a few minutes ago had a list of amendments which, I regret to say, we had to reject because notice of the amendments in writing must be given at least before the sitting starts.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, but nevertheless I will leave it at that because I think the only Members who would find it very difficult to keep out of this building for some time and I do not think it would be necessary for them to go to a court of law—of course, we all behave well here except on a few occasions and such occasions can be dealt with by the committee of six.

(Clause 2 agreed to)

Clause 3

Mr. Omar: Mr. Chairman, I have something to say on this clause 3, about the quorum of the Committee of Privileges.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I think you are a bit late. This clause has already been taken.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Chairman, under this clause 3 also I have something to say. It is about the composition of the committee. I was going to suggest, Sir, that the six we have—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): What he is referring to is clause 3 (2) which we have already done.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I am sorry, because we have, in fact—clause 3 on page 19. I will put the question that clause 3 stand part of the Bill.

(Clause 3 agreed to)

Mr. Seroney: Clause 3 (1)—

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I do not understand what the position is now, Mr. Seroney. You are a bit late in speaking now.

Mr. Seroney: No, no. Then there was another Member standing, Mr. Chairman, and he was trying to speak on clause 2.

The Chairman (Dr. De Souza): I am afraid it is a bit late. In any case, Mr. Seroney, clause 3 is only a clause which seeks to delete a section of the principal Act. I do not think there is very much on which you could really speak on that. You can, of course, if there is something about which you feel very strongly, speak on the Third Reading.

I will put the question again, if I may, that clause 3 stand part of the Bill.

(Clause 3 agreed to)

(Title agreed to)

(Clause 1 agreed to)

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister for Home Affairs substantiate the allegation that I have been to Cuba when, according to the proper information, I have never seen a place called Cuba in my life (though I would like to go there, of course)?

Mr. amp Moli: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the interest of the security of the State, I cannot disclose such an answer.

POINT OF ORDER

RULING ON MINISTER'S PRIVILEGE NOT TO ANSWER A QUESTION

Mr. Tanni: On a point of order, may I seek your guidance, Sir, as to whether that is a satisfactory reply to a Member of this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes. If hon. Members will read Communication which I made from the Chair on this very subject, some eighteen months back, they will see that I said there was an exception to the ordinary rule that a Member required to substantiate must either substantiate or withdraw, and that was where a Minister was asked to substantiate something which, on the grounds of security, he said he did not feel entitled to do. It is a big responsibility for a Minister, which he must not abuse. But he must have that privilege of saying so, and the Minister is exercising that privilege.

You will find it all in a long Communication from the Chair if you read HANSARD.

Mr. Anyien: On a point of order, Sir, that raises a question—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It raises a lot of things, but we will not discuss it now. Order! I would point out to hon. Members that on the adjournment, Mr. Muliro is to raise the matter noted on the Order Paper.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

(Order for Committee read)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

IN THE COMMITTEE

[The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

MOTION

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 2 OF 1965/66:

AMENDMENTS TO THE PENSIONS REGULATIONS

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Chairman, I beg to move:—

THAT this House approves the proposed amendments to the Pensions Regulations as set out in Sessional Paper No. 2 of 1965-1966.

Mr. Chairman, section 3 (2) of the Pensions Act, Cap. 182, enables the President, from time to time, to amend, add or revoke any of the Pensions Regulations contained in the First Schedule to the Act. The proviso to section 3 (3) provides, however, that no amending regulations shall have retrospective effect, unless it has received the prior approval of the National Assembly, signified by Resolution.

The following amending regulations, which contained retrospective provisions, were made and published with the approval of the Cabinet or former Council of Ministers, but, through oversight, prior approval of the Legislature was not obtained for the introduction of the retrospective provisions. Firstly, the Pensions (Amendment) Regulations, 1961, Legal Notice No. 84 of 1961; secondly, the Pensions (Amendment) Regulations, 1963, Legal Notice No. 241 of 1963; thirdly, the Pensions (Amendment) (No. 2) Regulations, 1963, Legal Notice No. 731 of 1963; fourthly, the Pensions (Amendment) Regulations, 1964, Legal Notice No. 261 of 1964.

The retrospective provisions contained in the above amending regulations are invalid by reason of the fact that they were not first approved by the legislature, and it is, therefore, necessary to make those provisions afresh, with the prior approval of the National Assembly, signified by a Resolution. The provisions involved are set out in the Schedule to Sessional Paper No. 2 of 1965/66.

The opportunity has also been taken to incorporate in the Schedule two other retrospective amendments which have been approved by the Cabinet, and which also require the prior approval of the National Assembly before they can be made and published. These are: (1) an amendment of regulation 21 (1) of the Pensions Regulations, to delete, with effect from 4th September 1962, paragraph 7 of the proviso therein. The purpose of this amendment is to remove a provision which operates to the disadvantage of an officer, contrary to Government's intention. (2) An amendment to rectify, with effect from 10th December 1963, a drafting flaw in the second proviso to regulation 12 of the Pensions Regulations.

No additional expenditure will be incurred beyond that already incurred or likely to be incurred in future as a result of the publication of the earlier amending regulations which are now being validated. It is not possible to estimate the expenditure which has been, or will be, incurred by the amendments published earlier because the number of persons affected, or likely to be affected, cannot be determined.

Mr. Chairman, I beg to move.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

113 Report

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I beg to move that the Committee doth report to the House its consideration of the Sessional Paper No. 2 of 1965-1966 and its approval of the Resolution without amendment.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

(The House resumed)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

REPORT

AMENDMENTS TO THE PENSIONS REGULATIONS

Dr. De Souza: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am directed by the Committee of Supply to report its consideration of the following Resolution and its approval thereof without amendment, namely that this House approves the proposed amendments to the Pensions Regulations as set out in Sessional Paper No. 2 of 1965-1966.

The Minister for Finance (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa) seconded.

(Question proposed)

(Question put and agreed to)

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE

(Order for Committee read)

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

IN THE COMMITTEE

[The Chairman (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY (POWERS AND PRIVILEGES) (AMENDMENT) BILL

Clause 2.

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to speak on clause 2, 7A. I see here, Mr. Chairman, Sir, that the Chairman of this Privileges Committee will be the Speaker of the Senate and the Deputy Chairman will be the Speaker of this House. Now, Sir, in the absence of the Speaker of this House, who will take his place and become the Deputy Chairman? That, Sir, is not provided for here and it is not necessary that the Deputy Speaker of this House be in the Sessional Committee. How does this work? This, Sir, is what I would like to know from the Minister concerned.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, when either of the Speakers is absent, then obviously the committee will elect a temporary chairman.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the name of this committee is really a misnomer. Apparently, this committee which is called by the flashy name of Committee of Privileges has only one function to perform which does not really justify being dignified with something that denotes a great deal more. Although, Sir, it is true that when we are dealing with privileges, then the Members collectively can decide to discipline and deal with individuals amongst themselves whose behaviour they do not approve of, but, Sir, this name is misleading. It ought to be called what it really is, because, Sir, in other Houses in other parts of the world the Committee of Privileges deals with a wide range of subjects. It deals, for example, with what the House does if a newspaper misrepresents the proceedings of the House, if they suppress speeches given by particular Members, or if anyone tries to misinstruct a Member or if anybody tries to obstruct a Member from carrying out his duties. Now, Sir, such a committee would then be called upon to decide whether any privileges of the Members have been infringed, and the House, where there is appropriate legislation, can take action, even to the extent of imprisoning the culprit. So, Sir, this name is really misleading and if the Government seems to be concerned about the code of conduct of the Member then they really ought to reconsider the name of this committee, and call it by what it is, namely a disciplinary committee, which, in fact, what it is, instead of this big name which is misleading the public as to what the functions of this committee are going to be.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njoro): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am surprised that an hon. Member who used to be a member of my profession should stand and say that this committee should be called a disciplinary committee. This, as he should know, and I will remind him if he has forgotten, is a technical term, a drafting term, which means precisely what this body is going to be, and if the hon. Member will look at the back page, page 19, at the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, you will see the duties of this committee, and I think it is wrong for an hon. Member, especially an hon. Member who has been a lawyer in his time and should know drafting, to come here and try and mislead the House. This is a proper terminology and a registered technical and drafting way of doing it.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not know what the hon. Attorney-General is getting at. But, Sir, according to the original Act there was no provision for this kind of thing but it is now being sought to introduce it, and as far as I am concerned, this committee is only going to [The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement] assistant. In addition, a small charge is made for the use of furniture, ranging from Sh. 35 to Sh. 20 per month.

They pay Sh. 40 per month for electric light, but water is provided free.

Subordinate staff pay nothing.

Mr. arap Bly: Mr. Speaker, Sir, when a settler has bought a house, say, in a certain scheme and officers of the department continue to use the house, when they pay rent, to whom does that money go?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope the hon. Member is not raising his own case, where he occupies a house without the authority of the Ministry and when he was actually required to vacate that house—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! That is not relevant unless he is field staff of the Department of Settlement. Keep to the point, please, Mr. Gachago.

I do not know whether you have answered the question. You were not answering it then.

Mr. arap Bly: Mr. Speaker, I asked a question and the Assistant Minister has not answered it.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Will you repeat it then?

Mr. arap Bly: The question, Sir, was: when a settler has bought a house, has signed a letter of allotment, and the staff of the Settlement Department are given a chance to continue living in the house, and they pay rent, to whom does that money go, to the owner of the house or to the Ministry of Lands and Settlement?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is exactly what I was answering, and I was referring to a case which concerned the hon. questioner, where he bought a house from us, which is very different because the position is that—

Mr. arap Sol: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the Minister to explain something concerning the Member when the Member was asking a general question?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If it is relevant, he can. But I cannot see yet how this is relevant. You may explain, Mr. Gachago; go on, but try to explain how it is relevant.

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, I was giving the hon. Member's case as an example, where he went into the house without authority and when the house, sold to him, had not legally been released to him. In this way, he does not become the legal owner of the house until the house has been legally released to him. This is what happens when a person purchases a house; if we have some field staff who use that house, it is not legally released to him until the men have ceased to occupy the house. So long as we occupy the house, he is not the legal owner of it.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the former answer of the Minister, when he said that water is provided free, would he tell the House whether they are using Government diesel to run the engines which provide water and, if so, why can the officers not pay for the water?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, I do not know what the hon. Member means by "Government diesel". But since the water is free, and it has to be provided from some source, of course, some diesel has to be used, from some source, to run the machines that pump up the water, to be provided free, as I have said.

Mr. Tanyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister agree with me that it has proved completely inconvenient for that person who is going to purchase the house, when he is sent a list of allotment and someone else goes to look at the house, and then does not clear the cobwebs around the house and later, when the man comes to take over, the house is in a complete mess and falling down? Should this man not be compensated?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you are getting rather far away now. Can you answer that, Mr. Gachago?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, I was going to say that that question is completely irrelevant.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes. Next question.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 34: SETTLEMENT FIELD STAFF RENTS

Mr. arap Bly: Mr. Speaker, in view of the unsatisfactory answer, I beg to raise this on adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 319

WHEREABOUTS OF STANLEY MATHENGE

Mr. Theuri asked the Minister for Defence if he could inform the House whether the former Field-Marshal Stanley Mathenge Mwangi was still alive; and, if so, why was he not allowed to come back to his home.

[Mr. Theuri]

If he was dead, why were statues of him and other generals like Dedan Kimathi not being built to honour them? Could the Government arrange, if he was dead, to bury him with full military honours.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I regret that I do not know whether Stanley Mathenge is dead or alive. Rumours, which cannot be verified, have it that he may be alive and living outside Kenya. In these circumstances, Mr. Speaker, the form and manner of his burial does not arise.

Mr. Theuri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, what is the Government doing, if there is a rumour that Stanley Mathenge is staying somewhere in Ethiopia? Could they not send someone there to find out whether he is there or not?

Mr. arap Moi: If the hon. Member could help the Government to trace where Mr. Stanley Mathenge is, the Government would very much appreciate that and be grateful.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from the Minister's reply about tracing him, suppose Stanley Mathenge was in Ethiopia or in Somalia, would he agree with the first part of the question, about whether he would be allowed to come back here? Has he run away because of fear? If so, and if he came back, would he be allowed to live in the country?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member states that Mr. Stanley Mathenge is possibly in Somalia or Ethiopia. This is the sort of rumour we have received. If the hon. Member knows exactly the source of the information, the Government would very much appreciate it if he gave it to them.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Minister not misrepresenting what I asked him? I did not state that Mr. Mathenge was in Somalia. I said: if he was in Somalia or Ethiopia, would he be allowed back into this country, or did he run away because of fear?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Your question is: wherever he is, would he be allowed back here. You confused it a bit; I think, by referring to Ethiopia.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, Stanley Mathenge is not a prohibited immigrant, and therefore this question does not arise.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here is whether Mathenge is alive or dead. What is the Ministry, therefore, doing to check on whether this man is alive or dead? And, if he is alive, why not ask him to come back, and if he is dead, why not comply with the question, which says that he should be reburied with full military honours?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, the Government is anxious to find out whether Stanley Mathenge is alive or not. I do not know whether the hon. Member is interested in organizing premature ceremonies of reburial of someone who might still be alive somewhere! The Government is doing all it can. If he is found alive, so much the better.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that Stanley Mathenge was one of the people who took a very patriotic part in the struggle for independence, and in view of the fact that we are now independent, what has the Government done to find out the whereabouts of these gentlemen, in view of the fact that the family may be worried, and may not have any facilities to look for their husband or father?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, rumour had had it before that he was in Ethiopia, Somalia, Cuba and in this part of the world, and the hon. questioner, who was recently in Havana, could have asked those people there whether Mr. Stanley Mathenge was around that place. Government is interested in knowing whether this very distinguished person is still alive or is dead. We are interested. Therefore, I would urge the hon. Members to give us information, particularly those who travel abroad.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for a Ministry to try to throw the case to the Members when actually he is the Minister responsible for security, and only the other day? We approved some money for his investigation?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I cannot make out if what you say is out of order?

Mr. Oduya: Is it in order for a Ministry, when a Member is asking questions on a particular item, to try to throw the whole burden on the Members, that they should become the police and try and find out information for him, when, in fact, he is himself responsible for the security of the State, and Mathenge's affairs are a part of this responsibility?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not out of order for him to seek assistance from hon. Members?

Mr. Anyieni: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Minister in order to state that I have recently come from Cuba, when I have never seen this place called Cuba in my life?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! He is in order to state it. You can ask him to substantiate it, if you like.

Mr. Anyank: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister has very deliberately tried to evade my question. My question deals with what the Assistant Minister said in his reply to another question, that being a citizen of Kenya is applicable to all departments in Kenya, and is that the present Government's policy? If it is, how does he reconcile it with the reply which was given by the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operatives who referred to some people as Asians irrespective of citizenship?

Mr. Kabak: In this respect, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would say that we are dealing with one post.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

UNSATISFACTORY REPLY TO QUESTION No 334: AFRICANIZATION, CHAIRMAN, INDUSTRIAL COURT

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, in view of the most unsatisfactory reply by the Assistant Minister, I would like to raise this matter as a Motion on adjournment.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 322

STANDARD OF ENGLISH BEING BROADCAST

Mr. Ndile asked the Minister for Information and Broadcasting if he was aware that the standard in the English broadcasting programmes had deteriorated considerably, whereas the standard in the Swahili broadcasts had remained quite high.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Onamu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Whereas I admit that the English spoken on Voice of Kenya programmes may not always be what is termed the "Queen's English", the fact remains that our policy is to Africanize all sections of the Voice of Kenya as rapidly as possible. We must therefore accept the necessity of hearing English spoken with an African accent.

My Ministry realizes that this may not be a complete explanation, and that the present standard leaves something to be desired. The Voice of Kenya has this in hand, and I am sure hon. Members will have noticed considerable improvement in the quality of news reading recently. This is a direct result of training courses for the staff held at the language laboratory of the Kenya Institute of Administration.

Further, such courses are already in hand and a steady upward trend in standards can be expected in the future.

I am glad to note the hon. Member acknowledges an improvement in the standard of English. It is our aim that this trend should continue in respect of all languages used on the Voice of Kenya.

Mr. Ndile: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell the House what English he used for these announcements on the English programmes to pass before they are appointed in the Voice of Kenya?

Mr. Onamu: So long as they can read English well, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that some very odd mistakes which are made by readers—like calling "colonel" "colonial"—could be avoided if the announcer were made to rehearse the news before he went to read it?

Mr. Onamu: The answer to that one, Mr. Speaker, is yes.

Mr. Shikoko: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Assistant Minister's "yes", would he assure the House that in future, if the Africans in the Voice of Kenya have to read English, they should be taught how to pronounce the names of various leaders before they make a mess of everything over the radio? Could he assure the House they will be training for these gentlemen to learn a bit of pronunciation?

Mr. Onamu: If the hon. Member had followed my reply, Mr. Speaker, he would have realized that I said there is training going on.

Question No. 329

PURCHASE OF FARM FOR SETTLEMENT

Mr. Mate asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement whether Nirimiri or Muri's farm had been acquired for the resettlement of Meru people.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. No, Sir.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, when is Government going to acquire this land for the Meru people?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, negotiations have already been initiated. The process has been started and as soon as agreement has been reached with the owner of the land, this land will be acquired, but at the moment we cannot say when.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Assistant Minister said "as soon as possible", is it true that the people living at Kibiricia and Kimo in Meru are still in villages and this land is long overdue to be returned to the Meru people?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have not said anything like "as soon as possible". All I have said is that discussions have started and if the hon. Member is willing to be patient, the Government is doing all in its power to make sure that these negotiations are completed very soon.

Question No. 347

FUNCTIONS OF AREA CONTROLLERS AND SETTLEMENT OFFICERS

Mr. arap Bly asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement:

(a) Would he tell the House the duties and functions of both area and deputy area controllers.

(b) Were senior settlement officers directly answerable to the Director of Settlement.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The duties and functions of an area settlement controller and his deputy are to put into effect in their area the policy and details of day-to-day settlement as laid down by my Ministry. I have full confidence in their ability to do this, Mr. Speaker.

Senior settlement officers are answerable to the Director of Settlement through the usual channels, that is to say, their area settlement controller.

Mr. arap Bly: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the Assistant Minister agrees that these senior settlement officers are directly answerable to the Director of Settlement, what are these middle men doing, the area controller and his deputy?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not understand the question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Ask your question again, Mr. arap Bly.

Mr. arap Bly: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the hon. Minister for Economic Planning says there are no middle men, I was asking what these people—the area controller and deputy area controller—are doing in that Ministry?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think you heard the Minister's answer. He said answerable to the director through the area controller.

Mr. arap Bly: Why can the senior settlement officers not do that job without these controllers?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we think that their functions are important and very necessary and this is why, Mr. Speaker, as I have said, we have full confidence in these officers and their functions.

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House why, in some provinces, some of these area controllers have never been transferred from province to province, and why they have never been Africanized, because their jobs—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think you have already asked two questions, Mr. arap Sol. Let us have one at a time. The first question was, why not transfer them from province to province?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that question is very irrelevant, because the question of transfer has nothing to do with the actual functions. The original question referred to the functions of the officers.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You had another question about Africanization, I think, Mr. arap Sol?

Mr. arap Sol: Mr. Speaker, I believe these area controllers are doing an administrative job and I am asking the Minister why these posts are not Africanized in most cases.

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, unless the hon. Member points out a specific case, that question is too wide and I hope that the hon. Member knows that the process of Africanization in the Government establishment goes on every day.

Mr. Tanti: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister agree with me that the settlement officers are living and using water at the expense of the settlers in the various schemes because there is a fixed rate for water charges and these people are not—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! That is an entirely different question.

Mr. G. G. Kerinki: May we know how many non-Africans are area controllers?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I need notice of that question.

Question No. 348

FIELD STAFF: SETTLEMENT DEPARTMENT

Mr. arap Bly asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement whether the field staff of the Department of Settlement paid any rent for houses, lights (from Government generators) or water.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Officers of the field staff of the Settlement Department pay rent for the houses they occupy on a sliding scale according to their salary, ranging from Sh. 70 per month for a senior settlement officer, to Sh. 30 per month for a settlement officer.

Mr. Tumbi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that our present Government wants to plumb slowly for what were less developed areas and not make rapid moves to catch up with the other areas which, under the colonial régime, were less developed, just as Turkana, would the Assistant Minister tell the House what are the rapid changes for such districts as Turkana on development in education in order that they should catch up with the rest of Kenya?

Mr. de Kromhelle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would say that was a very straightforward question. We, in the Ministry of Education, would like to see that the backward areas are developed. At the moment, since our independence, there is a very rapid change in Turkana because we have about 840 children in schools now, which is an improvement. In our Ministry, we are actually planning if we see an increase in figures in Standard VII, that between 1970 and 1971 Turkana will have a secondary school.

Question No. 337

IMPORT AND EXPORT LICENCES HELD BY AFRICAN COMPANIES

Mr. Omar asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development whether he would tell the House the number of African companies holding import and export licences.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The following companies have been issued with licences by the Import and Export Licensing Officer: (1) Associated Motors, a Kisumu company; (2) Kenyan Merchants; (3) Lagum Distributors; (4) Mwangi's Garment Manufacturing Company; (5) African Radio Manufacturing Company; (6) Tefa Overseas Agencies, Mombasa; (7) Kilonga and Kerania Company, Mombasa.

In addition to the above companies, the Kenya National Trading Corporation Limited, which is a State-owned company, formed to accelerate the Africanization of Kenya's whole distribution system, has been granted licences to import items such as khangas, second-hand clothes, khaki drill, sugar and rice, with the object of distributing these products through African wholesale companies.

It should be understood that any import or export licence which is issued by my Ministry covers a specific order and has only a limited application. The majority of goods imported into and exported from Kenya do not require licences, because licences are only required for certain specified goods which have been subject to licensing restrictions under the operation of the Imports, Exports and Foreign Supplies Order, 1964. If an African company wishes to import or export, for that matter, goods which have been made subject to licensing, it can apply to the Director of Trade and Supplies, if it is the policy to issue licences for the particular items required, the African company will, of course, be issued with a licence.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, can the Minister tell the House the number of African companies which applied either for import or export licences and which were refused licences by the Trade and Supplies Department?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have been dealing with the companies which have applied and have been given licences. As to how many have applied and have been refused, Mr. Speaker, that information can be supplied to the House if the House wants to know.

Mr. Sonoo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell this House why two of the African companies from the Coast have applied for licences since last year and they have been refused importing and exporting licences? Would he give us the reasons for this?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there can be many reasons for refusing licences. I have already refused licences to other companies. If a company applies for a licence for goods which have already been restricted, for example, Japanese goods, I will definitely—

Mr. Tumbi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for you to allow the Minister to answer completely contrary to what is being asked? I can see here that the question is seeking information with regard to a number of African companies and all we have heard is contrary to what is asked in the question. Is it in order for the Minister to dwell on something which has not been asked for?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If any Minister becomes completely irrelevant in his reply I call him to order, just as I call hon. Members to order when they ask supplementary questions which are irrelevant. However, I cannot see that the information given by the Minister here is irrelevant. He was asked the number of companies holding licences, and he gave a list of the companies, from which you can get the number by simple arithmetic.

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, I have been dealing with African companies, not Asian companies. The ones I have mentioned are all

(Mr. Mwendwa) African companies. If the hon. Member knows that any of the companies I have mentioned are either Asian or European companies, he can tell me because I do not know.

Now, I have said, Mr. Speaker, that there are many reasons for refusing a licence and I have also said that I have already refused two companies. If a company applies for a licence to import items which have been restricted or banned, then I will certainly refuse to give him a licence.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House the percentage of the companies he has named here and how they compare with those owned by Asians? What is the percentage of African companies?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are many, and I repeat, many, Asian companies and many European companies. If hon. Members here wish to know how many Asian companies and how many European companies have licences I could easily produce the information. The question, however, here asks how many African companies have been issued licences. I have given this information.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Minister's reply with regard to African companies, can the Minister tell the House, besides the reason that if an applicant applies for a licence for items that have been banned or restricted in this country, are there any other reasons which prevent people who have applied for licences from being given such licences?

Mr. Mwendwa: The answer is, yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! I presume hon. Members want to hear the answers by the Minister; otherwise we should move on to the next question.

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the answer is yes. The policy is to encourage the African, not the Asian, trader. If, therefore, I have any reason to believe that an Asian company applied for goods coming from Asia in the interests of the Asians, but uses the name of an African company as cover, then, certainly, I will refuse the licence.

Question No. 334

AFRICANIZATION: CHAIRMAN, INDUSTRIAL COURT

Mr. Omar asked the Minister for Labour if he would state the date when he intended to Africanize the post of Chairman of the Industrial Court.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kubai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The President of the Industrial Court is a Kenya citizen and, therefore, the question of Africanization of this post does not arise.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is not the Assistant Minister aware that the majority of the workers in this country are black Africans while the majority of the industrialists are white, and, therefore, the workers would like to have an African as Chairman of the Industrial Court?

Mr. Kubai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the present President of the Industrial Court was a leading lawyer for many years in Nairobi. As we are short of lawyers in Kenya, I do not think there is any difference in his duties.

Mr. Kamuren: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, could we be told whether there is no African, either within or outside the country, who is qualified to take over this post?

Mr. Kubai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in order to build a strong nation which will not be accused of practising a colour-bar, a nation which embraces people of different colour and origin as citizens, I think it is high time for us to start pronouncing a new terminology, that is, "Kenya citizen" instead of "Africanization" the whole time.

Mr. Ngala-Aboki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister agree with me that since the Kenya Industrial Court started functioning, there have been no complaints as to the rulings given this court either by the unionists or the employers and, therefore, a Member can only criticize when cases arise instead of just doing it on the basis of Africanization?

Mr. Kubai: I agree with the hon. Member, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister has told this House that if a person is a citizen of this country, there will be no need for any Africanization. Would the Assistant Minister reconcile this with the statement, for example, made by the Minister in the former question, in connexion with citizenship? Would the Assistant Minister also tell us whether this applies to every department of Government, his question of Africanization, or is this for this particular post only?

Mr. Kubai: The post of President of the Industrial Court is held by a person who is qualified in law. As we are short of people who are qualified in law, that matter cannot be considered. Since we consider Kenya citizens as a whole, this question does not arise.

[Mr. ole Konchellah] that he was doing his "A" levels in 1957, there is nothing to show what he did after that year. Mr. Samuel Usoga Mwitima was given a Colonial Welfare and Development Scholarship, but was returned to Kenya as a mentally sick person in 1962. Mr. Sangili Njugu Njurull is still in the United Kingdom and for two years now the Government has been assisting him to complete his course.

Mr. Gutunga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the list that has been read by the Assistant Minister shows that some of the students who were given bursaries by the Kenya Government are still in the United Kingdom, and the Government does not know what these students are doing there. Is the Minister prepared to tell this House what action the Government is going to take to get these students back into this country to work and help the development of this country, instead of them staying on in the United Kingdom, since this Government has spent money on them?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure the hon. Member who has just asked that question, knows very well that, in various parts of the world, we have student advisers and the main job of these student advisers is to see that the students from Kenya who are there for other studies, come back as soon as they finish their studies.

Question No. 330

NUMBER OF K.P.E. STUDENTS, 1965

Mr. Odero-Sar asked the Minister for Education if he could tell the House how many children sat for the Kenya Preliminary Examination in 1965 in each province, and how many had been selected to go to secondary schools from each province.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is too early to know how many children have been placed in secondary schools by provinces as yet, but the K.P.E. figures were as follows:—

1. Coast	6,448
2. Central	36,182
3. Eastern	20,204
4. Nairobi	5,348
5. Rift Valley	16,875
6. Western	29,759
7. Nyanza	33,609
8. N. Eastern	73
Total	148,496

Mr. Odero-Sar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the selection has taken place in the Nyanza Province, would the Assistant Minister tell us how many children from Nyanza have been selected for secondary schools?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I said earlier, it is difficult at the moment, because the selection is still going on right now, and the provincial education officers have not made up their reports. I am quite sure that the hon. Members from every section in Kenya now know that this selection is still going on.

Therefore, Sir, we are still waiting for reports from the provincial education officers. All the reports we now have in the Ministry are reports which concern the national schools, for which the selection is actually done centrally and we have these reports now, but, Sir, according to the provinces, these reports have not come. In order to convince my friend who has just asked the question, asking about Nyanza, in some of the national schools, for instance, like the Alliance High School, 15 students have been admitted to this school from Nyanza; and 46 have been admitted to the Kenyatta College; 9 to Nairobi School; 7 to the Duke of York; 45 to Maseko; 43 to Mombasa Technical School; 5 to Nakuru Girls School; 16 to the Alliance High School for Girls; 1 to Limuru; 43 to Loreto Convent; Mau has had 14 students; 3 to the Highlands and 11 to the Kenya High School which brings the total to 235 students.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's earlier reply, when he said that selection is still going on, will the Assistant Minister tell this House of the candidates offered places in each province, and how many places his Ministry has prepared against those entries for Form I take?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question is not very clear to me. But, Sir, as I said earlier, the provincial education officers are still dealing with this selection and on the other hand it depends on how many students have applied from one school. Perhaps, Sir, many have applied to join Form I of a particular school and we cannot take all of them in this particular school, and so we must try and send them to some other schools.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question was very clear, but I will repeat it again. My question was this: The Ministry had planned places for Form I for this year against the entries for the Kenya Preliminary Examination last year, and in each province these places are known. Would the Assistant Minister then tell the House

[Mr. Omweri] how many places were prepared, regardless of whether the students have occupied those places yet or not?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I quite agree that there is some difficulty in placing all the children or all the people who sat for the Kenya Preliminary Examination. As I said, perhaps 148,496 sat for the Kenya Preliminary Examination and the chances in the secondary schools are very limited.

Hon. Members: How many?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would not like to say how many at the moment, but last time when a question was asked about the percentage of students who are going to join the secondary education, I said that last year we had 10 per cent in secondary schools of those who sat for the Kenya Preliminary Examination and this year we are going to take 11 per cent. But, Sir, with regard to these various other places, I do not have the information at the moment.

Mr. Anyien: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister give this House an assurance that admission to Form I will be given to different areas in proportion to the candidates who sat for School Certificate if they made the grade?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Can you answer that, Mr. ole Konchellah?

Mr. ole Konchellah: I have no reply to that question and, also, since we do not have provincial reports in, I am not prepared to answer that question.

Mr. Masinde: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, where he implies that of the intake of this year on a percentage basis, 11 per cent will get places, could he confirm in this House out of 31,000 pupils who sat for the Kenya Preliminary Examination in Western Province, 11 per cent represent over 3,000 pupils in Western Province, and if so, how many have gone to secondary schools?

Mr. ole Konchellah: The answer to this question, Mr. Speaker, would necessitate my going back to the Ministry and looking into the files in order to bring a proper reply to satisfy the hon. Member. But, besides that, Sir, in 1965 the Kenya Preliminary Examination would have been taken, as I said, by 152,000, and we are going to take 11 per cent. As far as Western Province is concerned, and also other provinces, I have said that in Western Province perhaps 29,000 people will have sat the Kenya Preliminary Examination, but at the moment we have no report of how many have been placed in the schools.

Mr. Rurumbani: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that the number of children who passed the Kenya Preliminary Examination this year is so considerable that we do not probably have enough secondary schools to cater for all these children, what effort will the Ministry make to give particular priority to the backward districts to put up secondary schools in order to cater for some of the Kenya children, for the boys who have qualified for secondary education?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think this is a different question. But also in the figures which I have, the backward areas also have their quotas. On the other hand, quite a number of districts have been running self-help schemes, and also, these backward areas should start self-help schemes.

Question No. 349

SECONDARY SCHOOL FOR TURKANA DISTRICT

Mr. Aremam asked the Minister for Education whether, in view of the fact that most districts in Kenya now possessed a secondary school, the Government was going to give one to Turkana District, which had been left behind by the Colonial Government.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government will establish a secondary school in the Turkana District when the number of children successfully completing their primary education in the district is sufficient to justify founding a secondary school there. In the meantime, qualified candidates from the district are eligible for and obtain places at boarding secondary schools elsewhere.

Mr. Ekitella: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, since this part of the country has been forgotten for so many years, when is the Minister going to put this school up?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, although I quite agree that the areas have been neglected for years, but our Government is only two years old, and therefore it is not this Government which neglected the Turkana. So, I would just try to give the figures here. In 1965, there was only one Standard VII class in Turkana, with an enrolment of twelve students. So, in Turkana, there were only twelve pupils and you cannot build a secondary school for only twelve pupils. But the Ministry of Education has already tried to—only two boys of this twelve passed their Kenya Preliminary Examination, and we have sent these boys to join some other schools in the province.

Wednesday, 23rd February 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHAIR

SENATE AGREEMENT TO BILL

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Hon. Members, I have received a message from the Senate that they have agreed to the Supplementary Appropriation Bill without amendment on Friday, 18th February 1966.

PAPERS LAID

The following Papers were laid on the Table: Ministry of Labour and Social Services Annual Report, 1963.

(By the Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) on behalf of the Minister for Labour (Dr. Kioko))

Mines and Geological Department Annual Report, 1964.

(By the Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya) on behalf of the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Ayodo))

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 320

MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS MINISTER

Mr. Theuri asked the Minister for Foreign Affairs if he would tell the House why some of the Members of Parliament who were interested in foreign affairs, were not given a chance to tour with the Minister, or were not allowed, during the long recess to be taught foreign affairs at the Kenya Institute of Administration.

The Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Minister for Foreign Affairs has on occasions, and particularly during United Nations sessions, selected Members of Parliament to accompany him. It is not possible, nor is it the usual practice, for Members of Parliament to accompany Government Ministers on all occasions, because, in some instances, visits to foreign countries are of a confidential nature and besides, consideration must be given to costs for which this Ministry has no provision to cover.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs has no courses at the moment on foreign affairs, but can, if it is so desired, co-operate with the Kenya Institute of Administration in devising special courses for those Members who are particularly interested in expanding their knowledge of foreign affairs. Treasury approval must, of course be sought to cover any costs involved.

Mr. Atrop Sof: Mr. Speaker, will the Minister tell the House whether those selected by the Minister were ordinary Members or Ministers? And, again, were they in the Ministerial Committee for Foreign Affairs which used to exist but has now died?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Members know that certain Members of this House were actually selected to go to New York during a United Nations session. I am surprised to see the hon. Member here does not seem to know this.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from that last reply by the Assistant Minister, is he aware that some of us are not quite abreast with international affairs and sometimes find it very difficult to follow the debates at the United Nations? Does he not consider it his business to make sure that the Members are well briefed?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, I do not really follow the questioner, but if he means that we should be prepared to brief everybody as to what we are going to discuss in the United Nations, I say no.

Mr. Shikuku: Arising from a misunderstanding on the part of the Assistant Minister, the question I was trying to put to him is: does he not consider it necessary to brief the Members on international affairs, so that they do not find it difficult at the United Nations to follow up the debates on international affairs?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, usually the Members who are selected to go to represent this country at the United Nations, or any other body, are briefed before they attend any such sessions.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the hon. Member is referring to the second part of the question; instruction at the Kenya Institute of Administration.

Mr. Matano: Well, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sorry I did not understand exactly; but if that is what the Member really means, we have stated clearly here that we are quite willing to do that, if funds are available.

Mr. Gatiguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, in which he said that some Members of Parliament had been selected to represent this country at the United Nations, may we know from the Minister the criteria for the selecting of these Members from this House and how they are selected? Are they

(Mr. Gatiguta) selected on the basis that they are friendly to the Minister or are they selected on the basis of their knowledge of international affairs?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the selection is done in the Ministry by the Minister in consultation with the President.

Mr. Kari: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Minister agree with me that it is very embarrassing to send somebody to an international body who does not know anything about anything, as far as international affairs are concerned? And that it is necessary that these Members should be briefed and a course should be run at the Kenya Institute of Administration?

Mr. Matano: I appreciate that, and I have said earlier, in my first reply, that we are quite willing to co-operate with all Members who show interest; and if money is made available and set aside for that, we are quite willing to co-operate with the Kenya Institute of Administration in trying to brief some Members on international matters. We are quite willing.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

Question No. 331

COMPENSATION FOR COFFEE GROWERS

Mr. Odera-Sar asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry if Government would compensate the owners so that they could uproot their trees of robusta coffee for which the Government was not prepared to find a market.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo): No, Sir. The Government has been, and is still, prepared to find a market for coffee from robusta coffee trees already in the ground.

Mr. Odera-Sar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since in Central Nyanza this kind of coffee is being kept at home because the owners do not have any market in which to sell it, what would the Assistant Minister say about this?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, my answer has been that we have markets for robusta coffee. It is only interesting to hear that there is this coffee lying about in Central Nyanza. I think these people have not contacted the Coffee Marketing Board.

Mr. Gichoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it a fact that people in Nyanza are uprooting the trees of robusta coffee when the Minister is working on it? Is the Minister aware that is going on the exercise of uprooting the robusta coffee?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, when an individual farmer is interested in uprooting his coffee trees because they are not giving him any profit, that is not our concern. He can go ahead.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since coffee planting has been restricted in Kenya and there are some trees that are not giving the farmer a good return, is the Government prepared to devise a plan to make the farmers replace these trees with other trees?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that, in fact, is what is happening. When a tree grows old and has to be uprooted and the owner is still interested in planting coffee, he is given a chance of planting new trees.

Question No. 323

STUDENTS EXPELLED FROM SOUTH AFRICA IN 1950

Mr. Ndiei asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House whether the Kenya students who had been sent away from South Africa in 1950 by the Union Government and who subsequently went to the United Kingdom to continue their studies, had ever been awarded Government of Kenya bursaries to complete their studies.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As many of these students as qualified for assistance, were assisted, either by higher education loans or by grants through the old Colonial Welfare and Development Fund, which later changed to the Commonwealth Special Assistance to Africa Plan ("Scamp").

Mr. Ndiei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister tell this House how many students have been assisted?

Mr. ole Konchellah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is understood that there were nine Kenya students who left South Africa in 1950 and went to Britain for further studies. Clearly, the majority of them went to do the General Certificate of Education, "A" level, and were then taken over as normal students when they gained admission to the institutions of higher education. I have records for the following students, among the nine, although these records are so old, one finds it hard to rely on them: One of them was Mr. Joseph Kaimau Kamei who was given a Colonial Welfare and Development Scholarship and a Government loan. Mr. Nathan Makdembeli was given a loan as well as a scholarship. Mr. W. B. C. Luter was also given a loan and a Colonial Welfare and Development Scholarship. Mr. Benjamin Kasiema Mulege, all which is on the record is

[Minister of State, President's Office]

zen. Then, it is all right, but we want sincerity. We want sincerity and honesty from the African citizens of this country. Since a few days ago the hon. Member must have noticed that even in our advertisements in the official Gazette and in the newspapers these days emphasis is given to Kenya citizens. There is no qualification about it, and we are not going to say anything else. We mean it, we want Kenya citizens. There is no question of giving preference to people of African origin, but you must accept the fact that as a Government, we have a moral duty to repair the imbalance. The hon. Member for Mombasa North thinks that it is finished, but it is not finished in the Treasury and other places. It is my shauri and that is why we think we can do this effectively by having sincere and honest non-African citizens of this country to come forward and serve the country. It would have been better if this matter had not been raised, particularly since our attention had been drawn to these rather unfortunate circulars. We appreciate things could have been done in a better way.

Now, on the other hand, I would like to say this, Mr. Speaker. The fact that the Government has suspended these circulars does not necessarily mean that the Government will stop moving forward in its policy of Africanization. What, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government does not really want to see is an hon. Member, like the hon. Member for Mombasa Island North trying to introduce racial politics in a matter on which the Government is quite conversant. This is its attitude, particularly in regard to some known African citizens in this country, which does considerable harm to the country. We have seen among some of our non-African citizens a certain degree of trying to protect their interests in various ways. There are people who claim to be Kenya citizens, in words only, while their interests are in Bombay and Karachi. We know that when some officers who were non-Africans were compensated under the general retirement scheme, the other Asian civil servants who were left in the service were told by these particular people who were retired, "Look at you people, you have taken Kenya citizenship, we have received our big packets and we are going. Look at you people, look at what you are doing." Some of those who were not sincere, Mr. Speaker, did retire under the general retirement scheme. We know there are hundreds of such non-Kenya citizens in our service today, people who would like to remain on so long as their positions are secure.

Now, if the hon. Member for Mombasa Island North is coming to advocate the case of such people, then he is doing a great disservice to his country, which, I hope, he likes. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows that when most of us go to Mombasa we find it a strange place; we think it is a place which ought to belong in Pakistan or in India. Now, if there are Kenya citizens in Mombasa, all those people we see there, they should be able to introduce some changes in Mombasa, Nakuru and other places. It is no point coming here and craving for privileges and rights which you can only get when you are protecting certain interests.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government feels very strongly that every Kenya citizen in this country is entitled to all rights and privileges and he should bear the duties and obligations of a citizen. Then, it is all right, but we want sincerity. We want sincerity and honesty from the African citizens of this country. Since a few days ago the hon. Member must have noticed that even in our advertisements in the official Gazette and in the newspapers these days emphasis is given to Kenya citizens. There is no qualification about it, and we are not going to say anything else. We mean it, we want Kenya citizens. There is no question of giving preference to people of African origin, but you must accept the fact that as a Government, we have a moral duty to repair the imbalance. The hon. Member for Mombasa North thinks that it is finished, but it is not finished in the Treasury and other places. It is my shauri and that is why we think we can do this effectively by having sincere and honest non-African citizens of this country to come forward and serve the country. It would have been better if this matter had not been raised, particularly since our attention had been drawn to these rather unfortunate circulars. We appreciate things could have been done in a better way.

With regard to Government policy concerning the employment of non-African citizens of Kenya, now and in the future, I would like to invite the attention of the hon. Members, particularly my learned friend from Mombasa, the Mover of this Motion, to section 14 of the Constitution which provides for the removal from the service on retirement on the categories of officers listed in subsection (7). I would advise him to read that section tonight. If the Government finds itself unable to carry out its policy on Africanization, I think the Government will come to this House, and if that particular section is not doing proper service to our policy of Africanization, then we will have to amend this particular section. We hope the hon. Member for Mombasa North will be able to support the amendment which will enable the Government to go ahead with its Africanization policy.

Mr. Mallinda: I think I have only three minutes, Mr. Speaker, I want to say at the outset that I was listening to my friend, the Mover of this Motion when he was talking, and although he said that he was not talking racially, I feel that if he was not talking racially, then he was talking like a propagandist. I say this, Mr. Speaker, because these members of the Kenya Civil Service about whom he is talking in the main are people of non-African origin. Therefore, that is a point to show that he was talking racially.

During the colonial times, Indian civil servants, Asian civil servants, European civil servants were a privileged class, but although we became independent we still—and these people—are going to be in a privileged class by the fact that, Mr. Speaker, although in the Constitution it says that we should Africanize some of these posts, the circular which was implementing that situation has been withdrawn. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it has been withdrawn for no reason at all.

[Mr. Mallinda]

Again, it is said in our paper on African Socialism, section 142 (8) that, in promoting Africanization, citizenship guarantees as outlined in our Constitution will be recognized and maintained, but without prejudice to correction of existing racial imbalances in various sectors of the economy. Mr. Speaker, when these small imbalances are being corrected, then my friend comes here and complains for no reason at all. He should be thankful for what the Government is doing to give members of his race the privileges that are being given. I contend that even Government was wrong in withdrawing those circulars which advocated retirement in the public interest. I think, Mr. Speaker, things were done too much in a hurry. That should not have been done. Africanization should have been carried on until it was effected to the fullest. At the same time, Government could have retained those Kenya citizens of non-African origin who were sincere to the Government and to the cause of this country.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slado): That brings us to the end of our time. The House is adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 23rd February, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

[Mr. Pandya]

Mr. Speaker, I was trying only to build up my case, but if the hon. Member is impatient, I am quite prepared to go ahead, I do not want to waste much time on the past.

In spite of assurances, to everybody's surprise, Circulars 49 and 51 were introduced, whereby all public officers who adopted Kenya citizenship, and even those who were automatic Kenya citizens, were deemed to have been retired in the public interest and will be required to proceed on leave pending retirement with immediate effect. Mr. Speaker, I am not minimizing the good work that my friend, the Deputy Speaker, has done, but I want to come to the main point very soon: that is, that I was personally assured that the intention was not to retire these people in the public interest, that this was only a procedural matter. But what worries me is that the people that were affected were given notice and when they asked to be reappointed on either permanent and pensionable terms or contract, some of them were told that their services were being terminated and it would not be possible to offer them re-employment on any terms whatsoever. This, Mr. Speaker, I feel, is against the spirit of these circulars. How can people who are Kenya citizens and who are already on local terms—which were known as Pratt terms—be further put on local terms? Mr. Speaker, the effect of these circulars—and this is the main thing I object to—was to put the non-citizens of this country at an advantage over citizens of non-African origin, people who had identified themselves with the aspirations and the people of this country. It is this, Mr. Speaker, that I am objecting to.

Mr. Speaker, I am only seeking an assurance from this Government, and I was very happy that the hon. Attorney-General, speaking in the debate on the Constitution Amendment Bill, said that he had withdrawn these circulars. I agree, Mr. Speaker, privately, we had discussed this matter but I wanted to see that the public knew about it, that the circulars were withdrawn and cancelled, and that they were not temporarily suspended until further notice, as these were the words, Mr. Speaker, which have been used in the letters that have been addressed to these people. What I want is this. When you talk of suspension, this brings forth suspicion because there is always the possibility of the Government reintroducing these things in a different manner. I, Mr. Speaker, am raising this Motion to remove this doubt, and I feel I am perfectly within my rights to do so as the purpose of an adjournment Motion is to seek clarification from the Government of what the policy is. I do not see Mr. Speaker, why some of the Ministers of the Government have been trying to deprive me of doing my duty as a Member of this House. It is also important, and I am only asking—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member for somewhere in Mombasa is making an allegation that he is being deprived of his right to put his case in this House by Ministers. Can he really substantiate how he is being deprived of his rights?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, you will explain what you mean, will you not, Mr. Pandya?

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, I was referring to the point of order that was raised by the hon. Minister for Economic Planning and Development. Mr. Speaker, he said—

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Otienko): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it not a contradiction? He says at the same time that the Attorney-General has spoken to him in confidence about the circulars he is arguing about, so is he not contradicting himself when he says that the Ministers are trying to deprive him—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! No, no means. The hon. Member is seeking to ventilate in this House, and for the benefit of members of the public, things which he has been told privately. That is the right of every Member, but he is complaining that, in this desire for ventilation, he is being hampered by Ministers and he certainly was hampered by one Minister on a completely false point of order, and I think you are on another one now.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, if I may nearly finish—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You may have another two minutes, Mr. Pandya.

Mr. Pandya: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I only want to say this, Mr. Speaker. I wish hon. Members of this House would appreciate my intentions, and I am only hoping that when the hon. Attorney-General or some other Minister gets up he will not just say "the circulars have been withdrawn." I have heard, Mr. Speaker, some deprecating remarks, which I do not think will be in the HANSARD, made by some of the Ministers. I think they have to be patient, and it is no use depriving—I do use the word "depriving," because the points of order which were raised were totally irrelevant.

[Mr. Pandya]

Mr. Speaker, I think it is important for the Government to give an assurance that all citizens will be treated equally, even if they are of a different race or origin. I am sure, Mr. Speaker, I am not asking too much of this Government and of my friend, the hon. Attorney-General, or my friend, the Minister of State, to give assurances in this House, so that the public is made aware of the genuine intentions and the policies of this Government.

I want again to emphasize, Mr. Speaker, that that is my only intention. I hope the hon. Members will bear with me in future when I get up and will show a little more tolerance than they amply show me in this House.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

Mr. Choge: Mr. Speaker, I have no personal grudge against the hon. Mover of this Motion, Mr. Pandya, but I have some remarks to make.

In this country, Mr. Speaker, everybody has taken up the call of the President of Harambee and working together, side by side, but it is to the contrary with the Asians in this country. The Asians, as my hon. friend alleges, Mr. Speaker, are not loyal to this Government at all.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, no. You know, Mr. Choge, we never allow such general condemnation of any section of a community in this country. You may say "some", but you must be careful that you only make it some.

Mr. Choge: What about if I can substantiate, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Even if you substantiate, you can never possibly substantiate that 100 per cent of any community are what you describe them to be. Please make it without exaggeration.

Mr. Choge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will accept your ruling.

I must say, Mr. Speaker, that some of these people who have taken up citizenship in this country, and some of those who have not, yet been granted citizenship, should no longer be given citizenship because we have experienced in most cases in the towns in Kenya, such as Kisumu, Nakuru, Mombasa, Nairobi, that the Asians are, in fact, exploiting the Africans. In most cases the Europeans as the hon. Member has mentioned, Mr. Speaker, I think, have done a great deal in comparison to the Asians ever since independence. Most of the Asians still discriminate against the Africans, worse than during the colonial days.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, Mr. Choge, we are concerned with non-African civil servants in this particular half-hour. You must keep to the subject of the civil servants, please.

Mr. Choge: Yes, Sir, I know of some civil servants who are Asians, and if you allowed me, Mr. Speaker, to substantiate I would have done so, but—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am asking you to be relevant now, relevant to the question of civil servants.

Mr. Choge: Yes, Sir. There are some civil servants, Sir, who are supposed to be working side by side with Africans and yet when they are given a duty to do, they do not do it in the way that they are told to do it. They discriminate against the Africans who are under them. If they have any authority at all—some of them are police inspectors, police officers discriminate against the African police constables and the constables suffer a great deal as a result of this. I think this matter has been put to the Minister for Home Affairs and I have already told him of the cases. He knows of these cases very well.

I think that this circular which was withdrawn by the Government should not have been withdrawn even if the words that were used were very discriminating. I do not think it was right for the Government to withdraw this circular at all. I think the Government should reintroduce it. It is the opinion of most of the Members of this House that this circular should be brought back, and the Government should be quite tough to the Asian community in this country, in particular the civil servants, because they do not seem to support the call of Mzee of showing the spirit of Harambee. They speak it, but they never practise it. They only speak it and will never follow it.

I think that the Asian community in this country and the civil servants have been treated very well. In fact, I think our Government has even gone so far as to become servile to the Asian civil servants in this country. The Government should not have done this at all.

I feel that this circular should be taken into consideration by the Ministers. It should be brought back and applied in the same terms as before to do the work it was supposed to do. It should not remain withdrawn.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Nyamweya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, as it was pointed out by the hon. Attorney-General and the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, the attention of the Government was drawn to this

[Mr. Ochwada]

Attorney-General which one disqualifies a Member from this House. Is it the six months' imprisonment or the eight days' absence?

Hon. Members: Both.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is only one disqualification here, it is not both. Because once a person is sentenced to six months' imprisonment he is automatically absent for more than eight days.

We would like to have it quite clear whether it is the first or the second which disqualifies a Member. It is true that once a person commits an offence, is found guilty, he is out of this Parliament, but Mr. Deputy Speaker, eight days absence from Parliament disqualifies a person. Let us have it clear from the Attorney-General. Let us have it quite clear whether it is eight days or six months. Eight consecutive days in six months is only a matter of two weeks, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

An hon. Member: You are confusing us.

Mr. Ochwada: That is less than six months, much less than six months. So before we can give the Attorney-General the necessary support that he needs for dealing with the first one, we want a clear explanation of the second one.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, whereas my hon. Members might think I am confused, but I am only trying to dig it out of the Attorney-General, whether it is the first or the second which disqualifies an hon. Member of this House from being a Member of the House.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, let us look at section 41 first. It says "insert immediately after the word Kenya" the words "or under sentence of imprisonment by whatever name called." Mr. Deputy Speaker, I know, including—I would not like to mention that, Mr. Deputy Speaker—we all have certain small debts some of Sh. 5, Sh. 10, Sh. 20, Sh. 1,000 or even Sh. 10,000. Is a civil debt going to be one of these terms of imprisonment, because once you owe me some money, I take you to court and I insist on sending you to prison for a month and I offer to pay for your stay in prison, you have automatically absented yourself for more than eight consecutive sittings of this Parliament? Is that going to be one of the disqualifications, Mr. Deputy Speaker? If it is going to be, then I think someone is going to be a little too unfair to the hon. Members of this House. Somebody is trying to be very unfair to us, and I think it is only fair, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that much as the Attorney-General knows, and much as you know, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that some of us do not even earn any money from this House, particularly the constituency Members, they have only to walk out of this House, in fact even after this sitting. Mr. Deputy Speaker, and there are quite a number of people waiting for them outside the gates. They say "I have been here for two days, I have been looking for a job, I cannot get a job. You see I come from such and such an area, I have not eaten for three days, can you help me". Sh. 5 is gone. Sh. 10 is gone. Believe you me, Mr. Speaker, they have only to step in their constituencies and the sort of multitude behind them looking for something to eat is so large that they cannot avoid committing themselves to some civil debt. Are they going to be penalized because they are trying to be generous and helpful and kind to their own constituency members?

Mr. Speaker, I am only asking the Attorney-General to see these things and be kind, because not all of the constituency Members—laying myself alone, although I have a very small constituency—can afford to dish out, but we have to dish out this money, in order to ensure that in the next elections—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! It is time for the interruption, anyhow, but I think Mr. Ochwada, you have made your point here. Your question is, does this apply to imprisonment for civil debt, which perhaps the Attorney-General will answer fairly early by way of information when the debate resumes, or even now before we go on to the adjournment Motion?

Tomorrow then, but you have made your point.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

CIVIL SERVANTS AND GOVERNMENT CIRCULARS: 49 AND 51

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is time for the interruption of business now. There is a matter to be raised on the adjournment, and I will ask a Minister to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Odero-Jowi) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to assure this House that by bringing this matter I do not seek to raise emotions or to create tribal or racial conflict. I only wish to seek clarification from the Government on what their policy is, particularly in relation to Kenya citizens of non-African origin who are in the Civil Service and who have been affected by Circulars 49 and 51.

[Mr. Pandya]

Mr. Speaker, we have just been debating amendments to the Constitution of this country. It has always been a pleasant thought—and we have heard it in this House—that the Constitution of this country is paramount. I am only asking that we uphold the provisions of this very Constitution which we have created ourselves and which has assured equality of rights for all its citizens. Indeed, all those who were privileged to represent this country at the constitutional conferences were appreciative of the fact that the Constitution had given the right to people of non-African origin to register as citizens of this country. That is why we cannot discriminate or question the loyalty of these people without some good reasons.

As I have said, Mr. Speaker, I am not speaking for any section of the community; although I look as Asian, I am an African, and I am not speaking here for people of Asian or European origin. Nor am I speaking, Mr. Speaker, as a racialist. I am so glad that His Excellency the President has always said that citizens, irrespective of race or origin, will be treated as Africans and, indeed, are considered as Africans. I want to congratulate this Government that since 12th December, last year, which was the first celebration of our republican status, they have been fair and bold to remove the discriminating words which had been inserted in the Government notices which had mentioned that preference would be given to Kenya citizens of African origin only. I have raised this matter several times in this House.

Mr. Speaker, if I may come to the main point which I wish to make, I would like to base my case on the circulars which have been issued by the Government, Circular No. 48 of 1964—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Pandya, as you are referring to circulars from Government, as opposed to documents of general public information, you will lay these on the Table, will you?

Mr. Pandya: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): These circulars to which you refer?

Mr. Pandya: Yes, Sir.

Circular No. 48, of 1964 says that Kenya citizens—

Mr. Malinda: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Member in order to refer to a circular which is not the subject of the Motion? He is—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): As long as it is relevant to it, yes.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will prove that it is relevant, because this particular circular refers to the fact that the Kenya citizens of whatever race will not be liable to compulsory retirement under the provisions of section 14 of the Kenya Independence Order-in-Council, 1963, and Circular No. 49 of 1964 implies that Kenya citizens of African origin were only to take over from non-citizens and Kenya citizens will not be replaced. Mr. Speaker—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like your ruling on this. Is it in order for the hon. Member to raise this matter when he, himself, knows that the circulars he is making reference to have, in fact, been suspended by the Government?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, yes, yes. Certainly he is in order to mention anything that has been done by the Government. It is for Government to answer that it has been suspended, if it has. It is quite in order.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, during 1964, there were assurances from the Government that circulars on compulsory retirement of non-Africans—

The Minister for Economic Planning and Development (Mr. Mboya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like your guidance because the question of adjournment Motions is given some special treatment or position in the House and it is clearly understood that it is a time of the House we use to raise matters for certain special circumstances. In this particular case, the hon. Member moving the adjournment Motion has, personally, been informed of action taken, he is aware that the hon. Dr. De Souza raised this matter for quite some time and action was taken, and yet he takes the time of the House on adjournment—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! How can you raise this as a point of order, Mr. Mboya? You, of all people, should know better. Every hon. Member is fully entitled to ventilate in this House any matter, in spite of private information from a Minister. One of the purposes, very often, of adjournment Motions and other procedure in this House, is to bring to the notice of the House and to the public things that the Member has been told outside. It sometimes helps the Government to bring out these things. He is completely in order.

Mr. Pandya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will come to the main Circulars 49 and 51 very quickly. I think the hon. Member who raised the last point of order will realize why I am raising this matter on the adjournment.

[Mr. Mbogoh]

that it is put right that way and need not be included in the law. I know it can be done without it going into the Constitution.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this question of the absence of Members from the House looks quite interesting because I would not, myself, like to see a Member who does not attend the House but he claims his monthly salary, he claims his allowances, by coming and sitting here for one minute and then going out. Mr. Speaker, the difficulty there is where the Speaker comes in—

Mr. Bab: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is in order for an hon. Member to refer to Members being present for one minute while the Bill relates to absence for eight sittings?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think it is relevant.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this again—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member has stated that some Members come here for one minute and then go out and claim the whole sitting-day, can he substantiate that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I do not think so. Order! Such a general remark as that I do not think requires substantiation. I think all hon. Members know it is true, anyway.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is quite true that when we started discussing this Bill, the House was nearly full, but now you can see that very few of us are here, so I know that quite a few people have gone out after sitting here for three minutes.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, this clause makes the Speaker like a teacher, and Members of Parliament like pupils, so that wherever they go away, they have to inform the Speaker. I do not favour this very much but there is something that can be done to it. Mr. Deputy Speaker, a long time ago there used to be replacements when somebody was not here, and, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this has to be continued, when somebody is away, let us say for a few months, it is quite sensible that he should inform the Speaker and have a replacement so that his constituency is still represented. Another thing here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is to have a duty roster for all Members for the whole year, then every Member knows that he will be here on such and such a day, and then the Speaker will look at the duty roster and know that this Member will be in England in May and therefore know that there will not be any letters from him.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, again there is the President's power to sack or to retain the civil servants. Mr. Deputy Speaker, we quite understand that today we have a President who can be very sympathetic, who will take the trouble to know what is happening inside the Civil Service, but you cannot guarantee things will always remain like that. What about tomorrow? What guarantee is there that when somebody like the hon. Shikuku becomes the President, he will not be very unsympathetic to the Civil Service? Mr. Deputy Speaker, I will need quite a lot of explanations, as to how the future is to be assured.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I now come to the next point, imprisonment. It is quite sensible, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that somebody who goes to prison is not representing anybody. If we look at it in the way it should be looked at, Mr. Deputy Speaker, as the Attorney-General was saying that somebody from this hon. House goes to prison and he continues to receive his pay because of being in prison, is wrong. I quite agree it is wrong. If somebody who is called an hon. Member in this House, goes to a very dishonourable prison, I think it is sensible that the public of this country should not pay his salary while he is there. He is eating free ugali in prison; he is eating free beans in prison. It cost Government Sh. 2,000 a month to keep someone in prison. I think he has already turned dishonourable, and therefore he should be dishonoured by the money too.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is quite sensible that that should happen, but again here I want to know from the Attorney-General what kind of sentence, because I might be in debt to an Asian. An Asian comes to me and tells me "You have got my Sh. 1,000 and I am going to prosecute you and take you to court." But if he has enough money to take me to court then I will be disqualified, but I will be disqualified because of a civil debt.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, a member of this House is being asked by this Bill to be like a god. Is the Minister here, because I do not see him! He was asking the Members to pass this Bill, but I think he was making some very sensible parts of it, because he cannot expect every Member to be like some god. We are not gods, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are, also subject to make mistakes like anyone else and we are not expected to live above the normal morals of this world. So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is with great diffidence that I agree with the Attorney-General on this one of imprisonment, until it is specified exactly that this offence and this offence, etc., should be the one to disqualify. For example, if I had a traffic case, this one is an offence, and I will go to prison because someone is looking for me and wants me to go to prison tomorrow, but Mr. Speaker, you will see after tomorrow, but Mr. Speaker, you will see after passing this Bill how many policemen will be stopping us in the street every day. What protection can I be given so that I can refuse to stop and be taken to court and claim to be an hon. Member? You will see what happens once you are in court, you will be imprisoned and be disqualified. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think that unless the civil servants and the public are perfect it should not be demanded of us to be gods and to be perfect. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this Bill will also affect Ministers and if, at any time—

[Mr. Mbogoh]

An hon. Member: Where is the Minister for Maize?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Order!

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if you have got to be perfect it will affect the Ministers and if there is, for example, a maize inquiry during this time when we are meeting here, it should be duty of the President to look and see that the Members are expected to be very pure except the Minister for maize.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Order! Mr. Mbogoh, I am afraid I perhaps should have interrupted you before you said what you did say, but we do not want to discuss the maize issue here. I am a little worried in case every hon. Member starts discussing something other than what is strictly relevant to the Bill. I do not want that aspect to be gone into at this stage.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I thought that was a good example?

An hon. Member: Where is Mr. Oyende and where is the Minister?

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I quite agree with that, but when you speak about Members' imprisonment it must go both ways, it must not fall on the Member alone, it must fall on the civil servants as well as the Minister and anybody else in Kenya.

So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to go further than that. I reserve my position for the time being.

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I rise also to express my views about this Bill. Having gone through a number of stages during the independence struggle I think it is only fair that if such a Bill comes it should be examined very carefully and also suggestions made and where we feel the Attorney-General has gone a little too far, we should tell him.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is amending the Constitution not amending just an ordinary law, and whatever we amend in the Constitution should form a part of the Constitution. I believe, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that the Constitution is the final document upon which each one of us in this House and outside this House very strongly leans for his future and for his existence.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I must, first of all, point out that it is not in my own interests that I want to state what I am going to say, but it is in the interests of the Members now sitting in this House and those who will come in the future and the public at large, because any member of the public can become a Member of this House tomorrow and it would only be fair that whatever we state or say in this House should be in the best interests of the people and the country at large.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I will start with section 24 (2) whereas, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the majority must rule, the views of the minority must be recognized as well. It is true that where an organization exists which enjoys the support of the majority, that organization should be strongly supported but, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the minorities who feel that because of certain reasons they are not given a fair deal in such an organization, it is only fair that they should also be given an opportunity to express where they feel they are not being given a fair deal.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it comes to the controversial section, that of the Members of Parliament being disqualified. It is only fair that the Government should be in a position to tell an individual like Dr. Kioko, that the hon. Member has committed an offence, has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment and therefore he can no longer represent the public. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am being asked to make up my mind. It is some of these gentlemen who are asking me to make up my mind who are very worried about the Bill.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have two controversial sections about this issue, one is if you are sentenced to six months' imprisonment you are automatically disqualified and the other one is if you are absent from Parliament for eight consecutive sittings, you are disqualified. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to know from the

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

the majority are not here. Where are they? We know that the Ministers are in the offices. This can be checked and I challenge any Member of Parliament now to come with me in order to check on where the Ministers are and also to see where the Members of Parliament, who are supposed to be here, are.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I seek your guidance. If any hon. Member speaking challenges hon. Members here is any Member in order to take up the challenge and go out with him?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, order. I should say that depends very much what the challenge is. If, for instance, one Member challenges another to a fight within this Chamber, obviously not. I think it depends on the nature of the challenge and the Members' common sense. We cannot rule generally on this.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, all that I am saying is that we must justify the money we are getting, which is taken from the pockets of the public. Sir, the Members here always say, "We protect the public. We protect the public." How can they protect the public without protecting the money of the public? How can you fight against the exploiters when here you are exploiters? We must not be exploiters. One is an exploiter if he comes here, pretending he is working for the public and yet does not work for the public. I would feel guilty if I stayed in Kitui for one month and came and took the salary of a Minister. This is the type of money which is not worth taking.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I want to be told right now what is wrong with a Member of Parliament being told, "If you steal and you go in for two months, you are not a Member of Parliament." Mr. Speaker, a crime is a crime, whether it is rape or murder, it is still a crime. I want to know what is wrong with what we are trying to do? What is wrong with us wanting your attendance here? We want you to know what is going on in the House, and, therefore, we want you to stay on. If you want to stay away for eight consecutive days, then, please, you must ask permission. What is wrong with that, Mr. Speaker? This is what I want to know.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I realize that this Bill has raised a lot of emotions among the Members, but it is very important on occasions like this that the Members should be more constructive and think broadly, not only about themselves, but about the whole country.

I would like to support this Bill, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because, in the first place, I find that in this Bill it is provided that citizenship is now going to be granted at the discretion of the Minister. I think this is a very important change in our Constitution because the people in this country who are non-citizens must now know that the citizenship is not to be taken for granted, and that our Minister will look into the activities of those individuals before they can be granted citizenship.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when this Constitution was made during the time that we had Kadu and Kanu there was a hue and cry about this Constitution. There are a lot of people in this House who condemned this Constitution outright and said this was not a Constitution that should be for a free and independent country. We are now, Sir, in the process of making this Constitution really suitable for our conditions and for an independent country. When we are doing so, I think it is but fair that the Members of this House should take it more seriously and consider these amendments more seriously than just a joke. I say this because I think there are some Members who are not taking this matter very seriously because they feel that at least one clause affects their whole future. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we agree that we are in this House, representing the people of this country, then we must also agree that every law that is passed in this House must be considered in the first place for the interest of the country and in the second place the interest of this House. We are the law makers and we should think of the laws that are going to affect our people first. I agree that this question of absence in the House for eight consecutive days, is one of the clauses that is raising a lot of controversy. Mr. Speaker, let us ask ourselves, are you not morally bound, if not legally, to be in this House during the time of the session? The people of your constituency expect you to be here participating in the laws and the Bills that are being passed. The fact that these people have no power to do anything to you when you are absent does not mean that this House cannot protect those people; after all we are here to do nothing more than protect them. We know, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that some of the Members in this House they like to go overseas for a month or two months. That is quite possible. Then all that is required is to obtain leave of absence, when you have a good reason. This law is intended for those Members of Parliament who are likely to be careless and who are likely to [Mr. Gatuguta] disregard their own constituencies This is not going to apply to a responsible Member of Parliament. A responsible Member of Parliament will attend Parliament when a session is on, and he will ask leave when he wants to be away. These people will not be affected.

I can say similar things, Mr. Speaker, on the question of imprisonment. I am fully sympathetic with the people. I do not believe that it is fair, I do not believe that it is right for the people of a certain constituency to be without a Member of Parliament to represent their interests. This is not fair. We have some cases where some Members of Parliament are already in jail. Rightly or wrongly they are in jail. The people that they usually represent are not being represented. What part of Constitution is this which does not make provision for representation of people when their Member is in prison? The only thing I would like to know from the Attorney-General is whether this imprisonment means any imprisonment. Civil cases for instance, there are a lot of them, and I do not know whether the Attorney-General would like to clarify this point, because what I am trying to say is this: if someone is in prison for six months for a civil case, he may be a popular man with his constituents, and his constituents may still like to have him after the six months are up. This is quite different from a criminal sentence, because when you commit a criminal offence, and the people know that you have committed a criminal offence they are likely to lose confidence in you. Not only is this likely but this is automatic, because a responsible Member of Parliament should not commit criminal offences; but civil cases are a different matter altogether. I do not know whether they are included in this Bill.

Otherwise, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I fully support this Bill, and I would like the Members to consider it on these lines and take it more seriously. Let us look at this issue from a different angle. Recently, Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the Ministers failed to attend this House; we complained because we felt that it is the duty, the moral duty, of the Minister to be in this House when discussions are taking place, and to be able to enlighten this House. Why do we not feel the same thing? Why do we not put ourselves in the place of the people when their Member does not come to the House? Have the people not the right to complain? Have they not the right to find the remedy? We are now trying to find a remedy for that. I repeat that this law will not affect any responsible Member of Parliament, because a responsible Member of Parliament will attend the Parliamentary sessions, and if he wants to be away he will ask permission. There is no difficulty about that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I support.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I say whether I support this Bill or not, I would first ask the Attorney-General to give a few explanations on some of the clauses.

Mr. Speaker, what happens is that there were those people who attended the Lancaster House Conference to make Constitution, but it is very interesting that they forgot to put some of these things in and now they are coming here to ask us to put their omissions in. Mr. Speaker, it is very fair that they have brought it to us, because if it was done at Lancaster House we would not have had any hand in it, and in that case we would always say that we were hanged by somebody else, but when we pass it, it is true that it is ourselves who have done this.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak on the extension of the emergency in the North-Eastern Province. Many times we have spoken in this House asking the Government to confine those Shifita tribes into their own areas, but they have found it necessary to leave them just like that and they come and interfere with the other districts. Mr. Speaker, if the areas of emergency are extended to other districts, it is causing unnecessary suffering to the people of those districts while the Government could have formed home guard contingents in those areas to defend themselves from the Shifita in the adjacent areas. In that case, Mr. Speaker, it would be necessary if this amendment is to ask for an extension of the emergency area to add that the Shifita themselves will be confined to their areas without allowing them to go into the other districts by having those other adjacent districts forming their own home guard contingents.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is quite right that there is equality among civil servants, but it is possible that while I quite appreciate that fact in Kenya today we still complain that during the imperialist régime Africans were left behind and were not given a chance to compete with the other races. In that case it is possible that when we say we want an equal Civil Service, it is the Africans that are still suffering, but we could put a ceiling and say up to such and such a margin Africans should take those jobs, and then after that we can bring the Civil Service on to an equal footing. That is after putting right the inequalities created by the imperialist régime. In that case, Mr. Speaker, I quite agree with the condition

[Mr. Mwamzandi]

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not going to speak on every point, but only on these two points. Firstly, the position of a Member in his absence. I have already been employed by my voters, but today I am employed by the Speaker who would recommend that either I am a Member or not a Member. If I go out for more than one year I know exactly how my voters will benefit out of that safari. Is it not always true?

If a Specially Elected Member is sent out for nine months, he has no constituency. We have elected him, he is representing us. If he is outside when we ourselves are represented here, that is all right. But I would not like to be re-employed by the Speaker, I have been employed by my voters, and this matter of specifying whether a Member should vacate his seat when he goes to prison I will not accept.

With those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I will oppose the Bill.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support the Bill and in doing so, Sir, I wish to have clarification of a few remarks which the hon. Member who has just sat down has made.

Mr. Speaker, it is all very well to listen to the Members trying to protect themselves, putting very strong fences around their existence—

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Minister in order to imply that when a Member speaks he is speaking to protect himself? Are we not talking of a Bill which affects all hon. Members?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, I think so. I think it is quite obvious from what Mr. Mwamzandi said that his whole argument was the protection of Members against victimization. There is no meaning in his argument otherwise. I would add that he was not arguing for his own protection, he was arguing for the protection of Members in general, and that is what Mr. Mwendwa is referring to.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): When I use the word "Member" I include myself. I would also like to be protected in this House. I would also be happy to know that even if I stayed and slept at home for ten, or even two, months I would still get my salary, and I would not lose my seat. I would also be happy, Sir, if I knew that I could perhaps kill somebody, go in for seven years and come back and still become a Member. What I want to know is this, Sir, and I hope the Members will listen, I listened to them arguing so why do they not give me time to argue and listen to me? Mr. Speaker, we have to realize that right from the beginning when we are elected by people we get a very high and reasonable name, "honourable", an hon. Member is not expected to steal, to begin with, he is expected by the people to be honest, sincere and a man who can be relied upon. And, also, a man who comes here to earn a living sincerely. Also—they do not want to listen to me, but the public is listening to me.

Mr. Speaker, the voters who voted us in this House would also be pleased to hear of and to know the behaviour of the men they voted into this House, that they come to this House, they listen to the debates and answer the debate. They would not be pleased to see the man who comes here for one minute and then goes out. This man still pretends that he is representing the very people who voted for him. I would have thought, Sir, that the Members in this Chamber would even shorten the time instead of seeing a Member voted for by the people to come and represent them, that he should not be given eight days but a shorter period, if they mean what they are talking about. Mr. Speaker, civil servants who are employed by the public, lose employment even when they go to prison for only a month, they are no longer in the service.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! I cannot have this absolute babel every time the Minister makes a remark of any consequence. I would ask hon. Members to control themselves.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, we stay here and listen to the Members talking without making any noise. I think it is fair that the Members should listen to us.

Mr. Speaker, I was saying that when civil servants go absent, for even a month they lose their employment, and no Member here disagrees with that I am sure. They say that they have stolen the public money and they should be out of the service. Now, the Members are here and they are saying that if an hon. Member—like myself—commits an offence, say, stealing public money, for obtaining money for which he has not worked he should be put inside, then what is their argument now? If a Member absents himself from the House for three months, Sir, do the Members here really say that he should come back here and call himself an honourable Member? What kind of an honourable Member is that? They are saying that a Minister like myself holding a responsible position, if he should mis-handle public money, and be put in prison for two years, that he could then come here and ask the President to make him a Minister again! This is what the Members here are saying. There is no difference at all, Sir, in a Member here saying that if I go in for five months I should be able to come here and become a Member again. There is no difference between that one and also saying that when a Minister mishandles public money and goes inside for six months he should come back as a Minister. That is the same thing. Nobody except a crazy person would sympathize with anybody who mishandles public money. Did we come here to be as crooked as all that? To be dishonest? It is a shame that a Minister should stand in this Chamber and say this—it is a shame for any hon. Member to stand here and say that we want to be given freedom to steal, freedom to murder, freedom to rape, freedom to steal maize or anything else.

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have a point of order. Listen to it, please.

Mr. Mwamzandi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Minister is saying that a Member has suggested that we want freedom to murder, to steal, to commit any crime, rape and what not. Would he substantiate what Member said that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order. That is not the sort of thing that requires substantiation. It may be you are alleging that he is misrepresenting what hon. Members said, but only, perhaps, with some degree of exaggeration. He is expressing his comment on what he heard hon. Members say, and I do not think he has exaggerated to the point of misrepresentation. It is quite true that no hon. Member actually advocated murder, but hon. Members have said that imprisonment should not disqualify Members from being in this House, and it is that Mr. Mwendwa is dealing with.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would it not be in order in view of the fact that there is an inquiry going on on the question of maize to leave this maize outside the debate if possible?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not think that what the hon. Members said had any direct relation to that inquiry. Actually, though I quite agree that it is not desirable to touch on the subject of that inquiry, I cannot rule it is out of order because it is not sub judice in the sense of Standing Orders which only refer to actual legal proceedings.

Mr. Kamuren: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for a Member in this House to speak on the subject of Members wanting the freedom to kill and steal?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, I cannot hear you. Could you say it again?

Mr. Kamuren: Mr. Speaker, my point of order is, is it in order for the hon. Member or the Minister to speak on this line, where he says in case a Member wants to steal, in case a Member wants to commit a crime of killing someone?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! I have already dealt with that. Mr. Mwendwa is dealing with the argument that imprisonment should not disqualify Members from this House. In the course of that argument he is saying that you can steal or murder and remain a Member of this House. He is entitled to argue that.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry to have used the word "maize" because in fact, I meant "wheat".

All that I am saying is that I think we should regard this Assembly as really an honourable Assembly, one where a person should feel ashamed to come if he feels he is in any way guilty of certain offences. He should feel shy to step in here. This place should be regarded as a church. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I would say that, in order that we may raise the standard of our status, in order that people may regard us as honourable people, as honest people, we should even say in this House that the eight days' absence time limit should be shortened. However, the Bill is quite open. It says "If any Member is absent without Mr. Speaker's permission . . ." This was done during the colonial days. I am one of the Members who was in this Chamber at that time but I never obtained any written permission from the Speaker. All that I did was to ring the Speaker from wherever I was, Nakuru, Mombasa, anywhere, and tell him, "Sir, I am going to be absent for nine days." That is exactly what is required here. This is made in order to protect public funds.

Hon. Members: No, no, no!

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, public funds should not be used carelessly. Members should not think that they can sit outside this Chamber and still make £4 a day for pretending to sit in this Chamber. If I may say so, Mr. Speaker there are 129 Members of this House. If you count the number of people sitting here right now you will find that equal footing this privilege should go upon those public officers achieving equality in other respects as citizens. As I have said, that circular, which the hon. Member appears not to have read, has already been withdrawn. As I have said in this clause, it is only to remove any possible doubt as to the legality of the administrative decision. I have advised that the decision required no law to be passed, but requires only a few words in this Bill to remove any possible doubt. Since equality amongst citizens is a matter with which the Constitution is concerned, it seemed reasonable to conclude this clause in this Bill.

[The Attorney-General]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have endeavoured to give the Government's reasons for each of these proposals without wearying the House. I cannot hope to have put every hon. Member's mind at rest. I shall listen attentively to the debate and endeavour to deal with the points that arise, in my reply. Hon. Members will bear in mind that this Bill requires a majority vote of two-thirds of all the Members of the House on this and the final reading.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Osogo) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to support the Bill, but in supporting it I have a few observations which I would like to point out to the Minister. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the Attorney-General was referring to that section, dealing with the absence of a Member from this Chamber, I understood that a Member could be absent from the Chamber for eight days without permission, but after that eight days a Member could be disqualified. But, Sir, I feel that the Bill did not go far enough and give some provisions for a Member who may go out of the country, let us say, for a period of three months, therefore, Sir, this Member must have somebody to replace him, because all the seats which we have in this Parliament are constituency seats. The seats here do not belong to the Members, they belong to the constituencies. So, Sir, I feel that if a Member is going to be absent for about four or five months, there must be another Member put there to replace that Member or to act on his behalf. But, Sir, what we have seen whenever a Member goes abroad is a vacant seat. For example, Sir, we had one Member who went to London from here for about nine months. His place was left vacant, and nobody replaced him, and at the same time

An hon. Member: He has no constituency!

Mr. Bala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hear an hon. Member saying that he did not have a constituency, but, Sir, he has this House, which is his constituency. So, Sir, we did lack a Member at that time. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that we ought to have an amendment, if possible, at the Third stage, whereby we are able to have a Member to represent another Member when he goes away.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, another point which I would like to point out to you is with regard to the Public Service. Here, Sir, I understand that the President will have the prerogative power to sack anybody whenever he feels that it is reasonable to do so. But, Sir, I feel that our public servants should be made to feel secure wherever they are working. They should be made to feel secure in such a way that they should not be working on the pleasure of the President. They should be governed by regulations and not governed by the wishes of the President. So, Sir, I feel that this section is too harsh on a public servant if he is only to find in the morning that the President does not want him to be there and is served with a notice asking him to leave. It might be a person with a big family and therefore his children will have to suffer. So, Sir, I feel that this provision is too severe for anybody who wants to serve his country and lead a faithful life.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, another point which I would like to raise is with regard to the consequential changes in the law. We understand from the Attorney-General that the President requires a further period, but the Attorney-General did not state what further period the President required. Is it another one or two years or another three months? Because, Mr. Speaker, this refers to the Boundary Commission. The people expected that by this time they would know how many constituencies are added so that those people who are interested could start campaigning. Now, Sir, if the Government is going to delay this until such time as we have our general elections, I think it will be a little unfair. In fact, Sir, what we expected is that by now we should have known how many constituencies have been added in the whole of the country, so that those people who are anxious to be Members of Parliament next time can start campaigning, but not to wait until, say, we go to our next general elections.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few observations, I beg to support.

Mr. Mwanzandi: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the Attorney-General adjourned the Bill the other day to another time, I thought he was going to amend some of the sections which are too binding to the Members. The Bill in general Mr. Speaker, Sir, is all right, but there are some parts, if they are passed today, where our position as an hon. Member is doomed. I, as a Member of Parliament, have the right to address the public outside my constituency and in my constituency, and remain there for more than eight days and that would not mean the disqualification of my seat. But, Sir, today if I have not attended for eight days, then I am disqualified, and I feel that this is not the right thing to do to a Member.

[Mr. Mwanzandi]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, supposing the youth wingers today would like me to vacate my seat and they kidnap me in an attempt to make me do so. They take me twenty miles away from my home, and within eight days the Speaker does not have this information as to where I am, what will happen? It means that I am automatically disqualified and am not a Member any more. If I come to you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and tell you that I was kidnapped, you will say that there is no real evidence satisfying the fact that I was truly kidnapped. It is up to the hon. Members, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as to whether they pass this section or not, but in my opinion I will never, never support this section. Again, Sir, it is up to you to decide whether I should still be a Member after those eight days are up.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, supposing again, Sir, that we have personal hatred, can you not recommend that these reasons justify my coming back into Parliament?

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwendwa): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Member really in order to imply that the Speaker of the House whom we know is above hatred, can at any one time deprive a man of his seat because of hatred?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, yes. As I have told hon. Members, it is out of order to criticize the conduct of a particular Speaker except by way of a substantive Motion; but to say, with regard to proposed legislation, that you may be afraid of what some Speaker, present or future, may do, is in order.

Mr. Mwanzandi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this section which relates to absence I do not agree with. I think, Sir, that we as Members of Parliament have indemnified the President. He cannot be taken to court. Let it be laid there that we Members of Parliament can be taken to court, that is all right. But, Sir, if at the same time, the public or the police or even the Attorney-General knows, for one reason or another, another man who would like to vacate his seat, then full prosecution might even make a Member vacate his seat. These things, Mr. Speaker, Sir, are not the kind of things that the hon. Members here will vote for. I wish, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that the Attorney-General was a politician. Unfortunately, Sir, he is a civil servant. But, Sir, we face many problems outside.

For example, Sir, a Member driving his car outside this building is stopped by the police in front of his voters, and asked questions very rudely, and yet he is a Member of Parliament. Whenever a case is brought for prosecution, we might, in many cases, be involved. So, Sir, this must not result in the disqualification of the Member, because, Sir, if the Attorney-General or the police know that by taking a Member to prison he would not vacate his seat, then we would become more hon. Members. It serves no purpose, Mr. Speaker, Sir, taking a Member to prison because he is still a Member of Parliament and therefore if I were the Attorney-General I would put a clause in the Bill recommending that those Members of Parliament, who are in prison today, should come to represent their people here. If we make this as it is today, then anybody would disqualify any Member, at any time whenever he likes. I tell you, Sir, that when a case is put forward, and knowing that it is the case of a Member, it becomes serious. Is it not always the case? Unfortunately, Sir, we have had two Members in prison and one Member was fined Sh. 5,000. What would happen, Sir, had he not had the money to pay that fine, he would have gone to prison and they would have vacated his seat? This is the Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement, he was fined on a traffic offence. Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we have been elected into this House we should be regarded as hon. Members. It is no use saying that a Member through being in jail for so many months he vacates his seat. The public should know as well that taking a Member to prison because of one's self hatred, or even kidnapping a Member does not result in the vacating of his seat.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as Members of the Parliament face many difficulties. Firstly, is the hatred within the constituencies. There is always hatred within the constituencies. There are so many unnecessary and false allegations, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and if at all the public knows that a Member if you take him to jail for three months, would vacate his seat, then we will always see Members being prosecuted on false evidence.

[The Attorney-General]

without Mr. Speaker's permission; but there was no provision for mercy in a case of mere forgetfulness. If there is to be such a provision, who but the President can exercise such a discretion with sufficient authority? I do not know why that requirement of attendance was not carried over into the Independence Constitution; maybe it was because there was no provision for mercy. Be that as it may, the National Assembly serves the people; and experience shows that this provision is still necessary. This hon. House is at its best when considering its responsibilities to the nation. I hope, Sir, that on this occasion this House will put the interests of the nation before its own convenience, as it has done in the past.

Now, Sir, I come to the question of the Speaker's vote, section 56 (2). At present, the person presiding in either House has an original vote if he is a constituency Member. The proposed amendment does not alter that; an hon. Member should not lose his original vote because he has to preside on occasion in the absence of the Speaker. The point of the amendment is to give the Speaker of either House a casting vote. At present, if there is an equality of votes on a Motion, that Motion is withdrawn or lost. Now the proper result, where there is an equality of original votes, is that the status quo, that is the existing state of affairs, should be preserved. This may not always mean that the Motion should be lost or withdrawn.

There are firm parliamentary traditions governing the exercise of this casting vote. I speak subject to correction by you, Mr. Speaker, but I understand that, by parliamentary tradition, the casting vote is to be used not according to whim but according to principles, and always for the purpose of maintaining the status quo. The introduction of the presiding casting vote should be of great value in our debates, and the Government hopes that this proposal will be acceptable to Parliament.

Section 87, Mr. Speaker, in the present Constitution, reflects the obvious Constitutional proposition that, subject to other provisions of the Constitution, and of other Acts of Parliament regulating the Public Service and armed forces, the power to create and abolish offices and to make and terminate appointments vests in the Head of State. Section 87 has only been re-drafted so that it can read more easily with a new section 87 (a). That section is introduced to clarify the position of the public servant, whether civil or military, since Jamhuri. Up till then, our public servants were, in law, servants of the Crown; and, as such, were subject to the long-standing rule that they held office at the pleasure of the Crown; that is to say, they had no legal right to be employed for any longer than the State needed their services. It is essential that this relationship continue and that it be made clear in the Constitution.

When India became a republic, it made the same provision in its Constitution, namely, that public servants hold office at the pleasure of the President. Of course, this is subject to the provision of the Constitution giving public officers the protection of the Public Service Commission and giving special security of tenure of office to judges, Commissioner of Police and Controller and Auditor-General. Of course, this does not mean in practice that a public servant will be dismissed on the arbitrary whim of some person. It means that his position should be regulated, subject to any Act of Parliament, by service regulation.

A proviso has had to be included in the new section so that the section does not prevent the Government from making a short-term contract with any person to serve the Government. Expatriates are not necessarily the only people with whom it may suit the Government to make a contract for one or two years; but they are a good example. If a man is to leave another country to come to Kenya for a two-year term of service, the simplest and most satisfactory way to establish his term of service is to make a contract. But if there is no expressly written short-term contract, the officer concerned is in the same position as the so-called permanent officer.

I should add another very necessary reason why public officers should not be able to claim a legal right to serve the Government for life or for any fixed period. Parliament has control over public expenditure; if Parliament cuts the Vote, Government must cut its staff and must be able to do so without endless legal claims for damages. If Parliament decides to compensate public officers for shortened career, that is another matter. The Government considers that it is essential, in the public interest, that the traditional relationship between the State and the public servant be preserved; that is, it should be put beyond doubt in the Constitution.

Now I come to Chapter 8, with regard to finance. The purpose of amending Chapter 8 is only clarity. Chapter 8 should contain a clear exposition of the financial procedure of the Government and of the control exercised by Parliament over public expenditure. I hope that hon. Members will agree that, if they read sections 121 and 122 in the Bill, section 124 in the Constitution, and then section 125 in the Bill, they will find the provisions as clear as they wish them to be.

[The Attorney-General]

Chapter 12 and section 209 (1) enable Trust Land to be set aside for public purposes. Sometimes, the public purposes will be carried out by registered companies in which the Government holds shares. It is not always necessary or convenient to create a corporation by special Act of Parliament. That is the purpose of the new paragraph (b).

The purpose of deleting the words "and vested in the Government of Kenya" is to make it clear that, if land is set aside for purposes, it can be vested directly in the public authority concerned, and need not be first vested in Government.

Subsection (3) already provides for such vesting in public authorities, and the words to be deleted are, in effect, rather contradictory.

Section 247, Sir, is the interpretations section, and the purpose of this amendment is to exclude the National Youth Service from the provisions of the Constitution relating to the Public Service, except where Parliament otherwise provides. In effect, this is only to avoid contradiction between the National Youth Service Act and the Constitution.

I turn to the Second Schedule, Mr. Speaker, on page 8, of the Bill. The Government is asking Parliament to extend certain periods of time allowed to certain authorities, under the Act passed to amend the Constitution early in 1965. Under section 6 (4) and (5) of the Act, the President was given one year in which to make the necessary consequential changes to the written laws, following the constitutional changes. There are eleven volumes of the laws and a further period of time is required to complete this large task.

In section 6 (7), the land control regulations were kept in force, and it is necessary to keep those regulations in force for a further period, until they can be replaced by permanent legislation. Hon. Members will appreciate that the preparation of legislation of a permanent nature on this kind of subject will take an appreciable time. As regards section 10 (6), the purpose of this amendment is to give the Electoral Commission further time to complete the review of constituency boundaries. The commission cannot go on safari while Parliament is sitting. Hon. Members will appreciate that this review is not a task that should be spoiled by lack of reasonable time.

Section 19 (2); the purpose of this amendment is to continue the authority of the Commissioner of Lands to act as the agent of the county councils in the administration of Trust Lands. This arrangement has proved very successful; and, in the interests of proper land management, should be continued for the time being. In fact, requests have been made by quite a number of county councils that the commissioner should act as their agent.

The purpose of the amendment to section 19 of the Kenya Independence Order in Council is to remove an absurd obstacle which, at present, severely handicaps the security forces in dealing with the Shifita menace. Since Independence, section 19 has enabled Government to take effective measures in the North-Eastern Province against the Shifita, and prohibit movement and to take other measures which the Constitution will not permit in other parts of Kenya. But the war against the Shifita—and it is a war—has been made more difficult to conduct by Shifita activities in the districts adjacent to the North-Eastern Province. The Shifita war is not one that has a front line; it is a guerrilla war and the Shifita can, and do, operate in small groups in those districts bordering the North-Eastern Province, where the security forces are handicapped by not having the powers they have in the North-Eastern Province. The Government have not been anxious to extend the area covered by the emergency provisions, but it now considers that it must ask Parliament for support so that nothing will hinder the earliest possible elimination of the Shifita problem.

So long as the Shifita carry on their senseless activities, innocent lives will be lost, property will be destroyed and the economic development of a large area of Kenya will be thwarted. If it is right to fight the Shifita in the North-Eastern Province, then they must be fought wherever they appear in the districts next to the border of the North-Eastern Province.

Mr. Speaker, there is one final provision of the Bill to which I should refer and that is clause 5 of the Bill on page 4. This clause is intended to remove any doubt as to the legality of the decisions of the Government that public officers who become citizens of Kenya by choice should then cease to enjoy any privileges they enjoyed as expatriate officers. Under the general scheme of retirement in May 1963 a number of non-African public officers gained their right to retire prematurely of their own choice with pension benefits which they would otherwise not have enjoyed. That right was reflected in the Pensions (Amendment) Act of 1965. On the principle that all citizens in the Public Service should be on an

[The Attorney-General]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, this Bill contains amendments to the Constitution and some minor amendments to laws connected with the Constitution. To take the Constitution first, the proposed amendments are listed in the First Schedule to the Bill and if hon. Members will look at their copy of the Bill, the relevant amendments are contained, as I say, in the First Schedule at page 47.

In Chapter I of the Constitution which relates to citizenship, it is proposed to amend section 6 which relates to Commonwealth citizens and citizens of specified African countries, who have been ordinarily resident in Kenya for five years. At present, under section 6, they have the right to become Kenya citizens. This is an automatic right and it is proposed that they should be eligible, not entitled, so that the Minister responsible would have the discretion to approve or refuse on behalf of the Government in the individual case.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

Section 6 would then provide an alternative ground of eligibility to that provided in section 7 for naturalization.

I suggest, Mr. Speaker, that Parliament would like to offer some facilities to citizens of the Commonwealth and certain African countries after long residence in this country, so long as the Government has the right to say no in particular cases, and indeed to say no in as many cases as it sees fit. It is in the interests of Kenya to allow foreigners, including citizens of other Commonwealth countries, to reside in Kenya for long periods, but Kenya cannot be expected to offer automatic citizenship to every Commonwealth citizen who stays in Kenya for five years or more.

Section 24 (2), amendment (a): this section of the chapter on fundamental rights protects rights of freedom of association and assembly and trade union organizations. Every Government has to restrict those rights at times in so far as public officers are concerned, and certainly, as regards the army and air force and police force. The purpose of this amendment is to exclude in particular the National Youth Service, which by a later amendment to section 30, is included as a disciplined force. The effect of this amendment is that there can be no constitutional argument against what Parliament has already decided in the National Youth Service Act, that the National Youth Service shall not join trade unions.

Amendment (b): I trust that Parliament will agree that the trade union legislation and the formation of the national federation of trade unions, known as the Central Organization of Trade Unions, have been successful moves in the best interest of the nation and of the trade unions. The purpose of the new paragraph (d) to section 24 (2) is only to avoid any doubt as to whether the present trade union laws which Parliament has enacted since independence are within the Constitution. This paragraph (d) refers to the present degree of control over registration of trade unions which is exercised.

Section 30 (1): this amendment is intended to include the National Youth Service as a disciplined force, so that it may be controlled like the prison service or police force with a degree of discipline which is necessary but which cannot be applied to the ordinary citizen. For example, the National Youth Service must be able to confine its serving members to barracks as a minor punishment without court proceedings before a magistrate. We should remove any possible doubt about this, and the way to do it is to put the National Youth Service expressly on the same constitutional footing as the prison service and the police force.

I have now come, Mr. Speaker, to a proposal of particular concern to Members themselves. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I pose the question, should a Member of this honourable Assembly remain an hon. Member while languishing in prison? Is a Member of Parliament to break the laws which have been laid down by Parliament with impunity and without any consequences to himself? Mr. Speaker, Sir, in other spheres of life a person loses his means of livelihood, his job, his career, whenever he commits an offence for which he is sent to prison. Thus a civil servant automatically loses his job whenever he is sent to prison for however short a period. The same applies to people holding appointments with commercial and industrial organizations. Dishonourable conduct on the part of a Member of Parliament carries far greater public concern, receives far wider publicity, both internally and internationally, than that of any other group or class of people in the country. This is because Members of Parliament are collectively the guardians of the nation. Logically, therefore, Mr. Speaker, they should be expected to set the highest standard.

The present proposal, Mr. Speaker, does not, however, demand of Members of Parliament setting even as high a standard as the employees of Government or of commercial or industrial firms. It requires, Mr. Speaker, that a conviction shall have far less consequences on a Member of Parliament than on many other groups of people. The proposal contained in section 41 (1) (b) is that where a Member of the National Assembly is sent to prison for a period not longer than six months, he shall cease to be a Member of our National Assembly.

[The Attorney-General]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I ask hon. Members to consider this matter dispassionately. There are two aspects of this matter. The first is: should an hon. Member continue to enjoy the great privilege and distinction of being called "hon. Member" when he has violently offended against the laws of this country, laws passed by himself, to the extent of being sent to prison for a term exceeding six months? For Members of Parliament to claim this for themselves would be tantamount to claiming to behave as dishonourable as they pleased, while still remaining "honourable Members". It would be tantamount to Members of the National Assembly saying to the country, "Do as we say, not as we do." It would be tantamount to Members of Parliament claiming for themselves a right to be above the law. In the interests of the good name of this hon. Assembly, a Member who disgraces this House by going to prison for longer than six months should be cast out as a dishonourable Member.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the second aspect of this matter which I should like Members to consider is the representation aspect. A Member is returned to represent the people of his constituency in Parliament. Is it right and proper that these people should remain unrepresented for a period of nine months, two years, four years or longer, when a Member is serving a prison sentence? Mr. Speaker, I say this is not right. I call on hon. Members in their own consciences to consider for themselves whether it is fair or proper for a constituency to remain for long without being represented in this House or in the Senate. I feel confident, Sir, that Members would be the first to complain if an area were to remain for long without a district commissioner or even a chief. How much more important it is that a constituency should not remain for long without a Member to represent it?

Mr. Speaker, I leave it to the collective wisdom of this hon. House.

I should, Sir, like to explain that, by the provisions of this section, we are asking no more than is provided for by the constitutions of such other countries, as Uganda, Zambia and Tanzania. I would like, Sir, also to remind the House that there was formerly similar provision in the law of Kenya in relation to the old Legislative Council. Thus one thing is clear, Sir. If a person is serving a sentence of nine months or more—that is the meaning of a six-month sentence in practice—he is most likely to have done something which proves his unsuitability as a Member of a self-respecting Parliament and that he is unlikely to be able to look after his constituency. Precisely the same thing is true of the sitting Member who is imprisoned for nine months or more.

I should add, Sir, that this amendment should not encourage anyone to think that a Member of Parliament who goes to prison for four months is necessarily a suitable representative of the people. It is to be hoped that the local party supporting such a Member would think twice before continuing to give their support to a Member who is convicted of any criminal offence involving dishonesty or moral turpitude. I am confident, Mr. Speaker, that hon. Members will consider this amendment, bearing in mind the dignity of this House and remembering its obligations to the people they represent.

I should mention, in passing, that the amendment to section 41 (b) has a consequential effect on section 42, which relates to the vacation of seats by Members.

Now I go on to section 42. I have to ask hon. Members to accept one more amendment in the best interests of the nation and of this House. This is that Members and Senators should vacate their seats if, without the Speaker's permission, they fail to attend the House for two consecutive sitting weeks. This, in fact, means that a Member will be absent from the sitting of the House for two weeks, if you count from Monday to Friday; that is exactly two weeks. Provision is made for an appeal to the President, who may exercise a prerogative of mercy in appropriate cases. It is not for me to prejudice the circumstances in which the Presidential discretion will be exercised, but the Member who had a good reason for absence, and merely forgot on that occasion to obtain the permission of the Speaker, may be the sort of case. This provision will apply to Members and—I heard a mention of Ministers—it will have the same effect on them. In fact, today when Ministers go away they do get the permission of the President.

I would remind hon. Members that provisions to this effect can be found in other constitutions—Uganda is a case in point—and that they were introduced in Kenya in 1960 by the Kenya Constitutional Order in Council of 1960. Section 21 of that Order calls on a Member to vacate his seat for failure to attend eight consecutive sittings even from the Cabinet level to the Back-benchers' level, because some chaps have a bit of drink. Now, the other day, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when we had a long sitting, Members, instead of going to eat food, found it very easy to go and drink, the result was that the whole House was yelling, and I almost felt as though I was at a butchery where pigs were being slaughtered, because there was a lot of screaming in this House and nobody could hear anything. I feel, Mr. Deputy Speaker, even that Standing Order should also be amended, that if one is sent out for being drunk and behaving himself hopelessly in this Parliament, he should be sent out for some months, let it be advertised that that particular Member was a nuisance because he had over-drunk.

[Mr. Shikuku]

Mr. Alexander: That would give him more time to drink.

Mr. Shikuku: He can drink outside the Parliament, Mr. Deputy Speaker, but when he comes and drinks within the Parliament and makes a nuisance of himself and interjects when people are contributing to the debate, is very, very annoying. So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Members should only drink after Parliament and those powers which we are giving to the Speakers here should also enable them to serve so many bottles to every Member, one bottle of beer or one tot of whisky, before the debate, after which no more, because what happens is that most of the Members sit there drinking from 2.30 p.m. and they continue to come back here and shout and then go out again. So I feel, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the powers of the Speakers should also include that they will control the drinking at the bar within the building, so that we have a really lively and constructive contribution from hon. Members in this House. Of course, Mr. Deputy Speaker, any Member who comes here—I am not against those who drink—but when a Member drinks too much and becomes a nuisance, he is not only a discredit to his electors but also a discredit to this House.

I was very much ashamed once, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when we had diplomatic representatives attending our debates here and I met one of them who said to me that the Kenya Parliament was one of the most interesting places that he had been to, and I asked him what he meant by interesting and he said "The way some of you behave there is very remarkable." But of course being a diplomat he did not want to tell me that it was abominable. But our behaviour here within this Chamber is reflected and these diplomats are supposed to report everything that goes on in this country, so when they come to this Parliament and find us so drunk and behaving like children as we did last time when we had that long sitting, they report back that Kenya, the country as such, is full of nothing but drunkards who just do not know what they are doing.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is the impression that a foreigner is bound to have of us and in order to stop this I feel the powers of the two Speakers of the House should also include this sort of behaviour where people become too drunk and make a nuisance of themselves in this House.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I hope the Speakers will really fix up these people who are a terrible nuisance. I get worried every time I come to this House.

(Question of the amendment that the words proposed to be left out, be left out, put and negated)

(Resumption of debate on the original Motion)

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have noted with great interest the points put forward by the Member with regard to this Bill. There is no intention here to challenge the maturity of Members. Some Members felt that they were already past the high school stage and they did not require looking after, but some others immediately after said that they knew of Members here that were grown-up and mature but nevertheless behaved hopelessly and who required some kind of control if we were to maintain the dignity of our Parliament. So we have both sides of the story and I would therefore only deal with the more technical points raised.

First of all I would like to say that the life of the other committees was intended to be as long as a Session lasts, there is no strong feeling about this and if the Members want us particularly to say that it will last for as long as a Session we would no doubt insert that in the Bill, but it is normal that this kind of committee lasts as long as the Session lasts.

There was the question where Members saw that in section 7 (a) that the Speakers would not understand properly the feelings of Members when they enumerate the code of conduct, but in fact there does exist, by a resolution of this House recently, a Speakers' Committee and in this Speakers' Committee it will be possible for all Members to give what they believe should be within that code of conduct by speaking to the Members of that Speakers' Committee and they in turn, will bring the matter forward in the meetings of that committee. So I see no difficulty whatsoever, Mr. Deputy Speaker, in this particular regard. The code of conduct can easily be organized with the help of Members through the Speakers' Committee. Therefore, the Speakers will know what the likes and dislikes of Members are with regard to this code of conduct.

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office]

On the question of the selection of this committee, there was objection from some Members to the fact that the nominations of the five people from each House would be done by the Sessional Committee. The thing I would like to point out here is that the Sessional Committee was elected by the whole House and, in electing this committee, care had been taken to see that all shades of opinion were represented by people within that committee. Also, both the Government and the Back-benchers are represented within that committee, and no harm was seen to have been done by suggesting in this Bill that this Sessional Committee should nominate the five Members each from both the House of Representatives and the Senate, and I do not think that Members particularly fear that those people in the Sessional Committee would work against their interests. In any case, whoever you elect and however you do it, you will still have a committee and that committee could be accused of overstepping their powers at some stage or another. That is why, if you leave these committees to work for a session, it is possible for you to change them in the next session, depending on their performance in the previous one.

On the question of suspension from the service of the House, the hon. Ngala-Abok felt that an hon. Member who has been suspended from the service of the House or the buildings should be allowed to stay in the gallery and listen to debates relevant to his constituency, for example. I cannot see what value there would be in that. If he cannot behave, then his constituents might as well know that he is not worth having around this building. If he wants to sit in here or in the Senate and wants to take part in debate relevant to his own constituency, then obviously the thing to do is to behave properly and not to let down all the Members as a group. I cannot see that there can be very much objection to his being suspended altogether. In any case, section 81 of the Standing Orders does provide that once you are suspended from the service of the House, you cannot come within this building; you are suspended altogether and excluded from this whole building.

The hon. Mbogoh felt that if you misbehaved in a bar in Shauri Moyo or some other place, your constituents should be allowed to come and challenge you in the Committee of Privileges. I think that sounds a little frivolous and it was taken as such by most of the Members in the House, and so I do not propose to take it seriously.

Hon. Seroney even went as far as challenging that this is, in fact, that there is such a thing called the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) (Amendment) Bill, 1966, that it does, in fact, exist as an Act. I hope he is sober. As far as I understand, this is, in fact, our law, it is an Act of Parliament and it is on our statute book, so when you challenge its existence, it just cannot understand it.

The hon. Member for Kilifi South thought that the Speakers might be biased in their dealings with Members who misbehaved outside. I think this is not fair. They deal with us within the House, which is even much more important, very fairly and very favourably, and I do not see that they would go out of their way outside to act unfairly against Members who misbehaved. He wanted to feel, so he said, that he face a Speaker outside, which he could not do inside the Chamber. I think he would be quite entitled to face a Speaker outside, but then, of course, within normal codes of behaviour. If he was implying by facing a Speaker outside the Chamber that he would want to face him with rudeness, then I do not suppose he will find that easy within the precincts of this building.

The hon. Warriithi wanted me to define clearly the code of conduct. As I have just said, it is not possible for me to define exactly what the code of conduct will be, except to say that the Members themselves will be able to define this through the Speakers' Committee, as I have already said.

Apart from these few remarks and my acceptance very much of the warning by the hon. G. G. Karuki that there is no need to panic, I support the few remarks made which appear to be constructive.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:

(Question put and agreed to)

(The Bill was read a Second Time and committed to a Committee of the whole House tomorrow)

BILL

Second Reading

THE CONSTITUTION OF KENYA (AMENDMENT)

BILL

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill, 1966, be now read a Second Time.

[Mr. Malinda]

earlier we do not want the Speakers to make these rules and then only themselves to carry them out. The Speaker should be above any controversies on how the regulations were drawn up.

On the other section, Mr. Speaker, I would like to feel that the election of the Privileges Committee is done by this House, rather than by the Sessional Committee.

My last point is, Mr. Speaker, that subsection 7c of section 2 of the Bill says "where any member of either House is, in accordance with the Standing Orders of that House, or in accordance with the provisions of section 7b of this Act, suspended from the service of that House, he shall, during the period of such suspension and for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be a stranger, and in addition he shall not enter the precincts of the Assembly without the written consent of a Speaker". Mr. Speaker, that I think should be a little more lenient because there are some Members of this House who belong to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, and we understand that one of the privileges of being a member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association is that one can come in and go out of this building as and when he likes. If he happens to be suspended from membership of the House, or if he happens to be prevented from being within the precincts of the building, then, Mr. Speaker, his privilege as a member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association should not be interfered with. Mr. Speaker, I see the Attorney-General is shaking his head but that is how I understand it. Let us have this clarified. If I am a Member of this House, and by some misfortune I am suspended from sitting in the House, I am excluded and I am supposed to be a stranger, I am looked upon as a stranger within the precincts of the Assembly. This, Mr. Speaker, although it is said to be good, I would like it clarified as to whether it means to be excluded from the Chamber or from the precincts of the building, the Parliament Buildings; if I am precluded from the building and I belong to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association therefore, Mr. Speaker, I contend that my privilege as a Member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association is being interfered with. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, when the Minister stands to reply he should make that clear.

Another thing, Mr. Speaker, is Members who are suspended from the sitting of the House—I think, Mr. Speaker, that is taken care of by the Standing Orders and I do not see why a Member should complain that a Member who has been suspended should be allowed to come to the gallery and all that. My only point is that if a Member is suspended he should be allowed to come to the bar, or the dining room, and have a meal, if he belongs to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association.

With those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I support the Bill subject to the clarification that I requested the Minister to make.

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am one of those who strongly support this Bill. This Bill, Sir, there is nothing much wrong with it if there is anything wrong with it at all, because for a good Member, a good man, well behaved, there is nothing wrong with it, I mean we shall just live our normal life, and our names will never go before the two Speakers for any consideration. But some Members, Mr. Speaker, speak as if the whole House is comprised of angels. Even angels have their own regulations which regulate their conduct. I do not see any reason why we should be living like a bunch of unattended herds of cattle or something like that, who have no regulations governing them, because, Mr. Speaker, even in African customs, where the man is the boss of the house, including myself, even there you cannot afford to misbehave in your own house, because your children can just corner you and say, "Papa, this is too much." If Members here think that just because they are elected, they should only be controlled by their constituents, that is difficult, because we are human beings living together and you cannot expect Members of this House to go to a Member's constituency and report to him that this man has been misbehaving, has been abusing us in the House, so do something to him. We have got to finish whatever misunderstanding that we may have, here, and if any Member reduces himself to the standard of a hooligan, then he should be dealt with accordingly by the same Members. I do not see why any well-behaved Member should have any quarrel with this Bill. It does not point a finger at any individual, it does not say "Jahazi, you are going to be put on the carpet because you are this." It depends upon the Member himself, and it does not only stop here, Mr. Speaker, because if a Member is so used to misbehaving in the House he may get the idea that he is so big and when he starts misbehaving here he will find himself in court and he will be dealt with more severely, not only by being locked out of the House for a day or two, but he may be in either Mathari or some other worse place than that. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not see why Members should have any misgivings on this Bill. As you see, we have two Speakers, the Speakers have the right to turn us out of this Chamber without even referring to any committee. If a Member misbehaves here—we are all allowed to cheer, we are allowed to thump the benches, we are allowed to do a lot of other things, such as intervene and interfering—but there is an extent to which a Member is allowed to do that. Because we have seen so many Members being marched out here, including some Assistant Ministers, because they are not immune to bad behaviour, we saw them being marched out of here by the Speaker. This one is so fair that instead of the Speaker suspending you, as he always does by turning you out, a committee will be formed under the two Speakers and your case will be considered, they will not finalize anything, you will be reported to your fellow Members, so if any Member thinks that the committee will not be fair, well, after all, the whole House will be here to see that if his behaviour was good then the House will not agree to his suspension, but if he was found to be a nuisance and not fit to be an hon. Member, as most of us insist on being called honourables, then I think it will be quite fit for such a Member to be sent out to rest a while and to learn good manners before he comes and disturbs the peace of all other hon. Members who are conscious of serving the nation.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

[Mr. Jahazi]

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think that if I am allowed I would say that all the Members should support this Bill and if it is according to our Standing Orders I may call on the Minister to reply at the same time.

Mr. G. G. Karimk: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I expected this Bill to have been introduced immediately after the elections, because when you are elected to come to this House, so many things have been happening, particularly certain Members have been getting drunk, Members have been refusing to obey those who serve us, because they feel that they are big people and that they should be exempt from all types of regulations. Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is high time that this Bill came and I very strongly feel that Members should not panic about this Bill, because it is a Bill which only gives the Speakers of both Houses power to enable them to make Members of Parliament behave as honourable Members, but it is not the intention of this Bill only to hurt some Members, it is only to help make Members become Members in the true sense of the word, rather than to become Members who are intolerable, who cannot respect anything because they feel that they are Members of this House. Mr. Deputy Speaker, because of the behaviour of many Members in this country many of them will probably not be returned to this House, because as they behave here so they behave outside the House and, therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when this Bill gets through probably some Members might try and learn from this Bill and so behave themselves properly.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, if I had been asked about this I would have said that even the Members' lounge ought to have been closed, because it has made Members become nuisances all the time, they become so drunk and you can see them misbehaving in the Chamber and, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the only power you have is just to ask them to leave the Chamber, which is nothing. If one is drunk and is told to leave the Chamber, he will be very happy to go and sleep. Therefore, we must have something which will make Members feel as though they have been really dealt with when such things do happen.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, with these few remarks I beg to support the Bill.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not think I will say anything different from what the other hon. Members have said, but I have one point which I would like to make. I think that according to Standing Orders, inter alia, there is a suggestion that one has got to have a tie when he comes to the House and so forth and that he is not going to be served unless he has a coat and tie on. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I feel that when passing this Bill some of the Members here, including me—if I may declare my interest—I am one of those people who comes from the rural areas where we hardly ever wear coats, we use bush shirts and shorts. Sometimes you might find yourself in Parliament to collect your mail and you might then be reprimanded and with these powers here they will deal with the Member for Butere saying that he has come without his tie and he has been doing this for a long time so he had better get it in the neck. I feel, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that there should be a provision, at least I think that the regulations should be relaxed a bit, whereby if a Member comes in without a tie, there should be a room where such Member can go and sit and do his job, if he has come without a tie, and that will help. As the Bill stands, the Speaker will have the right to get hold of that guy and fix him. But for the rest, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I strongly support the Bill, because in this House we have had terrible behaviour, and the standard of debate in this House has deteriorated very much.

[Mr. Warlth]

within the precincts of the National Assembly. We have Standing Orders for the Senate and the Lower House to control our conduct in the Chamber. However, up to now we had no code of regulations as to how we should behave ourselves within the Parliament Buildings, outside the Chamber.

My quarrel, Mr. Speaker, is not with the provisions of the new Bill. It intends to establish a Committee of Privileges, how it is going to conduct its business, reporting back to the House, and the action the House may take. However, I am not quite happy with section 2 (7) (A) which provides: "Both Speakers acting jointly may, from time to time as they deem expedient, issue direction in the form of a code of conduct, regulating the conduct of Members of both Houses whilst within the precincts of the Assembly other than the Chamber of the Senate or the Chamber of the House of Representatives." Here, Sir, this term "code of conduct" is not explained. We do not know what this is. Probably it is not easy to explain what it is and what this code of conduct will be. However, I presume it will deal with things like what we put on when we are within Parliament Buildings, may be how we dress when we go to lunch, how we behave ourselves in the bar, and such places, also may be the number of guests and the type of guests one can bring. That sort of thing. Now, my fear here, Mr. Speaker, is that I do not minimize the integrity of the Speakers or their desire for the good conduct of the Members, and the dignity of the Members of Parliament, but I do not know whether the Minister will enlighten us on what this code of conduct is likely to contain. We have already had a number of instances in our dining room where Members come dressed and they maintain that the dress is the national costume. As we have no national costume, however, Mr. Speaker, or national dress, there have been cases of people coming dressed—maintaining it is their national dress—and being asked to leave the dining room. The same thing even happens in the Chamber here. So, I can see a possibility of this code of conduct being made in such a way that it may make the life of Members difficult instead of making it comfortable.

I do not usually like to give too much power in the hands of a few. I would say that the more people you have together, the easier it is for them to check one another. As one hon. Member said, Members of Parliament are all grown-up people, they realize they are Members of Parliament, they realize their duties and the fact that they must behave in accordance with their status.

What I am trying to point out here, Mr. Speaker, is that I would be happier if this code of conduct proposed by the two Speakers could be made subject to a discussion by a Committee of Privileges before it is issued to the Members as a code of conduct. In other words, I would be happy if there was an amendment to this question, insert words somewhere to the effect, with consultation of the Committee of Privileges. The reason why I say this is that Members of the Committee of Privileges are Members like any other Members and they realize the lives of the Members within the National Assembly. They know the difficulties, they know what they would prefer. Although our Speakers are with us most of the time, for certain reasons they may not realize what the lives of Members within the National Assembly are like.

So, I must say here that I would be quite happy if the Minister would tell us what is likely to be included in this code of conduct. I would go further and ask him if he can see his way to having this code of conduct to be issued by two Speakers subject to discussion with the Committee of Privileges before it is made a code of conduct to regulate our activities within the precincts of the National Assembly.

The other point, I just support what other Members have said. The question of election by the Sessional Committee, I personally have no quarrel with that. The Sessional Committee, we have elected and we have given it the responsibility of arranging the conduct of the business in this House and I think this is one of the things they could do. As to whether a Member when suspended on the recommendation of this Committee of Privileges should stay away from the Chamber, I would support the Member who said that he should be allowed not to participate in a debate in the House, being sent away from the Chamber itself, as the publicity he would normally get in the Press and over the radio is punishment enough. A Member may want to listen to what is happening, and he could be allowed to come into the Gallery but not to sit in the Chamber.

Lastly, section 3, amendment to section 20, this is something I am very happy about, in that I think it is high time that we in the Assembly can rely on our own rulings and judgment without having recourse to what happens in other countries, and I believe this is fitting with our Republican status.

With these few words, I beg to support.

Mr. Agar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to differ with my colleagues who feel that there may be some injustice done by this incursion of a new privilege committee into the old Act which depended on the British House of Commons regulations. I would like us to stress the necessity of having something that might prevent bringing us any indignity, which undermine the integrity of this House. From our experience here, we have seen that there needs to be a little more stricter supervision over the conduct of Members, when they are in the precincts of the National Assembly, because we mingle with guests from outside, and as we are quite a mixed lot, some of us get heated up and since there is nothing at all to restrain us, people tend to feel that they can use this House as they like, they can use the Members lounge as they like, they can fight like savages round there, and harm one another, to the inconvenience of the rest of the Members they cause embarrassment.

[Mr. Agar]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, however good we are, however mature we are in any part of the world, there have to be rules. Those rules have to be enforced in one way or the other. Members think that they can do anything and get away with it, that is why they cannot restrain themselves. I am speaking like this, because even if I may be a victim one day of temper or of misbehaviour or of some strange situation, I would not like to be so selfish as to embarrass anyone else in the House because of my personal grudge with a friend, we can go and settle it somewhere private, or I can wait until there is a time and place where I can take appropriate action. I do not see why the Members are in a plight because of this kind of regulation, because in so far as you remain reasonably polite and considerate to fellow Members and their guests in these premises, I do not see what one should fear about it. I do not see how the committee will embark on being unjust to anyone unless there is cause to investigate a matter, and I think if the committee is going to consist of the Speakers of both Houses, and membership is going to be drawn from both Houses, I do not see how these Members plus the Speakers will tend to meet injustice on any one particular Member. Much as we may consider ourselves mature, much as we may consider ourselves capable of being considerate to one another, I think, as human beings, it is only fair that Members are protected by a Committee of Privilege who will look into Members' conduct where that particular kind of conduct is embarrassing, he is tending to cause indignity or to undermine the integrity of this House, and in addition we know that so long as Members keep the rules there will be nothing against them. If one says we can be left to ourselves and then we settle these matters and just behave as we like, then he should not forget that people who come to this House are not trained in a particular way of life, particular conduct, we come from various backgrounds, we come from various walks of life, some are professional, dignified people, some are just people from rural areas; but once we set a standard and a Member knows definitely that when he goes against those standards, the people in the House, his colleagues and the Committee of Privileges, have power to look into his conduct and restrain him, then I think we will learn to be more considerate to one another.

I support, Mr. Speaker, this kind of regulation in this House.

Mr. Mallinda: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Likewise I would like to support this Bill, but before I do so I would like to go back to what my friend Mr. Seroney said, the Constitution did not provide. I think he read only one subsection of section 62, and I would like, Mr. Speaker, with your permission, to quote subsection 5 of section 62 of the Constitution, which says "without prejudice to the power conferred by subsection 1 of this section, Parliament may, for the purpose of the orderly and effective discharge of the business of the two Houses of the National Assembly, make provision for the powers, privileges and immunities of those Houses and the committees and the members thereof". I think, Mr. Speaker, it is necessary that when something like this, which my friend was afraid was not provided for in the Constitution, and that it is there in the Constitution, it should be looked at from an objective view.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, one of the supporters of the amendment was afraid of there being regulations and controls. Yes, Mr. Speaker, that is necessary if it is found that the behaviour of some Members in the House need regulations to be imposed. Mr. Speaker, there is nothing wrong with that: it is again provided for in the Constitution. If Members behave and look after themselves and conduct themselves in this House as is required, Mr. Speaker, there may never be the necessity for any of these regulations which may be made by the Committee of Privileges being imposed.

One other thing I would like to say about the Bill, Mr. Speaker, is that as has been said before, I feel that the code of conduct which has to be regulated by the Speakers, Mr. Speaker, I think we ought to have a way whereby we could either amend them or debate them in this House before they are passed, because, Mr. Speaker, as one of the hon. speakers said

[The Speaker] to the actual scope of the Bill, and when it is a Bill to amend an existing Act we are limited to the scope of the actual amendment proposed. We cannot start talking about how the principal Act should be amended in other ways; that has to be raised on other occasions by different procedure. You cannot get on to that in a debate on a particular amendment. So, you must confine yourself now as to whether or not you approve of this particular amendment, and any other amendments you propose to the principal Act should be raised by private Motion or in some other way at another time.

Mr. Seroney: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I do appreciate it that it covers my argument.

But, Sir, we call this committee a Committee of Privileges. Now, this name is understood in an entirely different context elsewhere and covers real privileges, whereas this committee is nothing more than a purely disciplinary committee, and I do submit, Mr. Speaker, that this Bill should be rejected in total until proper comprehensive legislation is introduced.

I therefore beg to move, Mr. Speaker, that this Bill be read a Second Time six months hence.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very unfortunate that we cannot—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Are you seconding the amendment? We have an amendment moved.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am seconding the amendment raised by the hon. Seroney.

It is very unfortunate that we cannot face another amendment on section 62 of the Constitution. I would like to say that it is very important that something more comprehensive is brought to this House with regard to the powers, privileges and immunities of Members. I say this because, Sir, for example, section 7 (a) of this Bill where code of conduct would be determined; the conduct of Members would be determined by the Speakers of both Houses. With due respect to you, Mr. Speaker, and the other Speaker of the Senate, I think this would be improper myself, and further investigation is needed, particularly when you have to control the conduct of ourselves outside this Chamber. I think this is a matter which should be away from the Speakers. We want you, Mr. Speaker, to control us vigorously in this Chamber, but outside this Chamber we want to feel quite free with you and we would like to feel that our conduct is placed in a committee.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are some things that may become very embarrassing if we put our conduct in the hands of the Speakers who may be free to issue orders. Sometimes, if these orders are issued prior to normal consultation with a committee of Members they are very embarrassing to the Members. For example, this morning I went to the bar room and one of the servants pushed forward a piece of paper with instructions to me, and other Members did experience that. And this was done before any committee of Members was consulted. Sometimes it is very embarrassing, Sir, and I think this should not have been included here; it should have been put as one of the functions of the committee so that the Members concerned can consult with each other and not give that power to the Speakers. This, with due respect is not to reflect anything on the Speaker, but I think they should be free from criticism from Members as far as their outside conduct is concerned.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, these are not privileges, these are controls: The Bill is suggesting controls, not privileges. Therefore, I think the Minister concerned should reconsider the position. What we want are privileges, things that would be observed so that Members could feel that they are respected, that they are more dignified, more free, that they are properly approached in Parliament Buildings, in the Chamber as well as outside the Chamber. However, to bring in controls where the Speakers will be made into dormitory prefects as it were is bad. I think we are well past that stage, Sir, where we need dormitory prefects.

I would like to support the hon. Seroney very strongly by rejecting this Bill so that a more comprehensive Bill can be based on another Act and brought to this House. Then Members can have a chance. In any case this would not do because it brings controls and does not consider the things we had in mind when we were originally discussing the Constitution.

My final point, Mr. Speaker, is this: If a Member who is to be suspended is to become a stranger, this is a novel idea. I think we must bear in mind the wishes of the voters as well, and not to give ourselves all the controls on Members. We must remember that the Members have been elected by their constituents and I think it would go beyond the powers of the committee or the Speakers to regard a Member as a stranger just because he has been suspended. A Member is a Member all the time until his people withdraw their votes from him. Therefore, I think he should not be regarded as a stranger.

Now the question of regulation of debts and so on. I think that if a Member is in debt I think proper action should be taken against any person who is in debt but to make this a subject of control by the Speakers and committees, and so on, is most embarrassing.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is not the subject of the Bill, though, Mr. Ngala.

Mr. Ngala: I thought the Minister mentioned that.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Well, if he did, he should not have done so. I think that was only a description of the principal Act, that was all. It was in his preliminary description of the principal Act to which this refers, not in recommending this particular Bill.

Mr. Ngala: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think the Government will realize that this is something which is brought forward without much preparation and without basing it on the real needs of the House and the Members. Therefore, I hope the Government will agree with the hon. Seroney and withdraw this half-baked stuff, so that they can bring a well-considered Bill in order that we can give them strong support.

With these few words I would like to oppose and support this amendment very strongly.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have now to propose the question of the amendment. Hon. Members know our procedure when hon. Members wish to reject a Bill on Second Reading. What has to be done is to move this amendment, which is that you leave the word "now" out of the question, and add at the end of the question the words "this day six months", which means in effect that the Bill is killed.

So, the question I now have to propose is that the word "now" be left out of the question. Of course, the debate continues on the merits of the Bill as a whole.

(Question of the first part of the amendment that the word "now" proposed to be left out be left out, proposed)

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also rise to oppose this Bill. My reason for doing so is the fact that personally I feel that I am a fully grown man and so is every Member here. Every Member knows his responsibilities, and knows how to behave in the House and within the precincts of this building.

If we are to pass this amendment Bill, Mr. Speaker, we shall have put ourselves under the control of a few and we shall have shown the country that we cannot control ourselves unless we have a committee which will have control over us.

Mr. Speaker, we have a bar in Parliament Buildings. Sometimes we take different kinds of drinks: there is gin, whisky and the rest. Now, some Members cannot control themselves. They drink to the extent of losing their minds; sometimes they quarrel and yet nothing happens after the quarrels. Some of them even fight; but after fighting the following day you find them together again, drinking together, buying one another drinks. Nobody holds grudges against each other. So, I think there is nothing wrong in that, nothing wrong at all. I feel that since we have a bar here, and every Member is allowed to drink to the maximum that he wants, sometimes the Members fight and yet the following day you find them drinking together, in a friendly mood. I do not see the reason why we should have such controls. We should be left free as we are at the moment and we should be left to behave as we think fit.

Now, Sir, as it is said in the section which deals with the suspension of Members, I do not think it is fair that there should be a committee to suspend any Member because of gross misconduct or otherwise. I say this because Members here were elected—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Omar, the Bill does not say that. The Bill says that the committee will investigate and report to the Member's House. Any suspension can only be done by the Member's House itself.

Mr. Omar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for reminding me of that. However, even though an investigation is made the matter is brought into the House for discussion. I think this House will not be doing its work if instead of debating on matters of national issue it debates on some matter concerning an individual Member, or two Members. In this way the House will be wasting time of the hon. Members of this House. We have more important matters to discuss for the benefit of the nation. It is not fair for the House to come and debate on matters concerning an individual Member or two. If it does this, then I do not think the House will be serving the country.

When it comes to the question of suspension, if the House decides to suspend a Member, then I think this power is taken away from the electors and given to the House. This is not fair because the electors elected the particular Member to come here and air the views of his constituents. So, I think suspension would not come in at all, whatever the case may be.

The question of salaries is not important, what is important is to come here and speak of the difficulties that face each constituency.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I strongly reject and oppose this Bill.

Mr. Werlith: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Bill, as has been said by some Members, is quite useful in that it intends to provide for the conduct of Members

[Mr. Ngala-Abok] or weeks. This will reflect very badly towards the Member with his own constituents, because no constituents like to elect a Member who when he goes to Parliament, abuses his privileges and gets ousted from the House. He is only wasting the time of his constituents, because he is unable to obey the rules. I therefore feel that we should be a little more lenient because the effects alone will be so powerful and prevent any Member from committing such a mistake again.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would just like to state briefly why I support this Bill very, very strongly indeed. It has become impossible, even in this House, to speak one's mind, because when a Member tries to speak his mind, after leaving the Chamber and moving towards the lounge, he finds some Members waiting and ready to box him, because he said something wrong, probably because he said something about another person. So you see, Sir, we are suffering a great deal. We cannot speak openly. If we were bad-tempered and did not respect our positions and with no fear of having the newspaper writing that we had a fight in Parliament, then I personally would have fought 100 times in this House.

So, Sir, I would like to support this Bill very much, but I would not like to see ruthless and careless Members trying to rule the others, because this is a place where we are privileged to speak frankly. Therefore, Sir, what I speak in Parliament merely justifies what I am supposed to do in this House.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to report.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while I support this Bill, I find it quite difficult to understand whether the Bill is to look after the Members when they are outside this building or when somebody is drinking at Bahati. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if it is like that, I believe that it is not a way to interfere with the life of the Members when they are having their private affairs everywhere in the country. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know very well that human beings being what they are, it is quite impossible that everyone will lead a perfect life and therefore there are times when someone has to do things without even his own knowledge. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if this Bill is meant to operate even when somebody is at home and when he is away, I think it should have very fair Members in that case, and it should be elected by the Members of this House, the hon. Members of Parliament. The Committee of Privileges should be elected by the Sessional Committee.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is wrong to put the faith of all the Members into the hands of a few people, because when they, perhaps, give a verdict against me, I will go around shouting that those people were not fair because they are not answerable to the House in general. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think, also, that if it is to cater for Members outside the building it is fair that the members of the public be given a chance to send notice of their demands to this committee if an hon. Member becomes a nuisance outside so that this can be taken into consideration. Mr. Speaker, Sir, a Member is elected by the people because they respect him, but when he goes out and becomes a nuisance, thief and somebody who cannot be trusted by the people, then those people should be able to come and voice their opinions, write a memorandum against that Member and then this committee should vote what is to be done with the Member.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think on that point Mr. Mbogoh, I should point out that the Bill as it stands does relate only to conduct within the precincts of the Assembly. It would be open to any Member to enlarge the scope of the Bill, but that cannot be done on the Second Reading, it has to be done by separate Motion for a special instruction to the committee after the Second Reading is passed: a Member moves that it be a special instruction of the committee to consider extending the scope to conduct of Members outside the precincts of the Assembly.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, then what I think about that, although I was going further than the Bill goes, is that if at any rate when the time comes for that to be moved, then this should be taken into consideration.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the Members in this House do not know what is expected of them, and what is not expected of them when they are within the precincts of the Parliament Buildings, and as a result of that you find that some of them insult and shout at others, and do not allow Members to express themselves as much as they would like to. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, they do not know that I am privileged to be here and express my wish as much as possible. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what should be taken into consideration is that it is also very bad to find that a Member who has been suspended from the House is still getting a salary while he is a stranger. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it should be that if a Member is suspended for more than a month, he should not continue getting a salary, because he is not representing his people in this House. Why should he be paid when he has been [Mr. Mbogoh] expelled from the House? I think it would be quite fair that such a thing should be considered in passing this Bill.

Another thing, Mr. Speaker, which I think should be incorporated is that it seems that sometimes the small rules which affect us here in this building do not affect the Ministers, and if they are to be considered as Members of Parliament I think they should also be affected by this seriously. As far as I am concerned, and wherever I am concerned—

Mr. Aramam: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member has expressed his views that the Member—if he is ordered out of this House—should not be paid. Does he mean that—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If you are asking what he means it is not a point of order.

Mr. Aramam: Does he mean that—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, Mr. Aramam! It is not a point of order to ask what another Member means. Sit down, please.

Mr. Mbogoh: So, Mr. Speaker, this should not be the means by which Members of Parliament who are not Ministers will be punished, while the Ministers would not share the same fate with the Members. So, Sir, I think that if this Bill is interpreted properly it will be quite fair and it will give every Member a chance to know exactly what he is expected to do and what he is not expected to do and I propose that when this Bill is passed all the privileges which a Member has should be outlined and every Member should have a copy. Any other privileges which are not in this Bill should also be included so that everybody can sit down and say—like a bible—this is what I am expected to do when I am in Parliament, this is what I am not expected to do, and let that be like the commandments of this Parliament.

So, Mr. Speaker, I support.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I regret to note that most of the Members who have spoken have supported this Bill, because I do not support it, and I shall be moving the usual procedure to defeat this Motion on Second Reading.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know why this Motion was brought into this House. The Constitution, Sir, provides that Parliament, may, for the purpose of the orderly and effective discharge of business of the two Houses of the National Assembly, make provision for the powers, privileges and immunities of those Houses and the committees, the Members thereof, including the person who is Speaker of either House, etc.

Now, when we started our Uhuru, Mr. Speaker, we did not have a comprehensive law of privileges and immunities. We had a piece of colonial legislation which has now been dignified with a name it does not deserve, namely the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) (Amendment) Act. Now, this is not an Act at all, Mr. Speaker, it is an old Ordinance which has merely been re-baptized and which does not give adequate privileges commensurate with the dignity of a sovereign Parliament like we have in Kenya today.

Last year, Mr. Speaker, as hon. Member gave a notice of Motion for legislation such as is contemplated by section 62, but unfortunately nothing seems to have happened about it.

My reason for opposing this Bill is because I do not think that we really have any powers, privileges or immunities as such which are generally understood, and the limited ones which we have are some sort of colonial legislation passed in 1952, and these are not really worthy of the name, as I have indicated. The Bill we are referring to now talks about Committee of Privileges. Well, I submit, Mr. Speaker, that this committee has nothing of the kind. Perhaps you might call it a disciplinary committee. I am not disputing whether in a proper legislation there may not be scope for such, as I do support the principle that there should be a code of conduct. But what I am opposing, Mr. Speaker, is that we should go on pretending that we have, in fact, powers and privileges. I think this subject, Sir, is well covered in the big book Erskine May which describes parliamentary privileges and immunities, and these are described as, "the sum of the peculiar rights enjoyed by each House collectively and by Members of each House individually, without which they could not discharge their functions." Now, these cover a very wide range giving individual Members, as individuals, and the House, as a House, certain privileges which enable them—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is a wide range far beyond the scope of this Bill. All this Bill does is propose an amendment of an existing Act which would provide for discipline.

Mr. Seroney: I am trying to reason, Mr. Speaker, that this packed-up legislation ought to be rejected and a proper comprehensive legislation, such as that contemplated by section 62 of the Constitution be introduced and that this Bill should not be—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, You see, you cannot do that on an amendment Bill, as I have explained to the House, before. We are always limited in a debate on a Second Reading

[The Assistant Minister Vice-President's Office]

So this Bill, Mr. Speaker, proposes the amendment of the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) Act; it seeks the addition of four new sections to the principal Act, by the first of which the Speakers of both Houses, acting jointly, may issue a code of conduct to regulate the conduct of Members whilst within the precincts of Parliament Buildings, other than the Chamber of each House. The second new section proposes the establishment of a Committee of Privileges, consisting of the Speaker of each House and five Members of each House, under the chairmanship of the Speaker of the Senate. The members of this committee, other than the Speaker, will be nominated by the Sessional Committees of the respective Houses. It shall be the function of the committee to inquire into any breach of the code of conduct by any Member or into the conduct of any Member tending to reflect adversely on the dignity or integrity of Parliament or either House.

On completion of its inquiry, the committee shall report to the House of which the Member concerned in the inquiry is a Member. That House shall then deal with the Member concerned, in accordance with rules made by that House, and may take such disciplinary action as may be provided by those rules. The rules have not yet been formulated, but will be presented to the House for adoption if this Bill becomes law.

The third new section provides that, if a Member is suspended from the service of the House, he shall be deemed to be a stranger and shall not enter the precincts of Parliament without the written consent of a Speaker.

The fourth new section provides that no decision of either House or of the Committee of Privileges shall be questioned in any court.

The final amendment proposed by this Bill is that section 20 of the principal Act be deleted. This section provides that the Journals of the House of Commons in the United Kingdom shall be prima facie evidence relating to privilege. This provision will no longer be required by virtue of the foregoing proposed additions. Now, Sir, additional expenditures of public money will be incurred by the enactment of this Bill.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. ole Konchellah) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Gatugutu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to support this Bill, although I would like to say one or two things in connexion with two particular sections. The Bill itself, Sir, is very good because it is necessary that this House should have rules of conduct and as Members of this House, we should not be allowed to abuse the privileges. This Bill, I think, Sir, will serve that purpose. We have seen in the past, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the privileges of this House being abused either inside or outside the House, and I think this is a very good step towards trying to maintain the dignity of this House. Nevertheless, Sir, it is important that the Bill, which we pass in this House, should be based on fair justice and so on.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir with regard to section 20 of the amendment; the appointment of the committee. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the section here reads, "The members of the Committee of Privileges, other than the Speakers, shall be nominated by the Sessional Committees of the respective Houses." Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that this is entirely wrong. I think that the appointment of this committee should not be done by the Sessional Committee at all. This House should be given the power to select the individuals, or hon. Members, who will serve on the committee. It is wrong, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to commit this House to a small group of Members of Parliament in the Sessional Committee, and it cannot be explained fairly that a group, the Sessional Committee, can, in such an important matter, represent the wish of the whole House, and I see no difficulty at all, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in giving this House the power. We have carried out a number of elections and we have carried them out well for example, in the case of the Specially Elected Members, and so on. Then why, Sir, should power not be given to the whole House? Why should it be only given to the Sessional Committee.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I oppose this section of the Bill, and I hope that the Minister will come forward with an amendment to this particular clause. I do not think that any of the Members in this House will support this idea that the Committee of Privileges be appointed by the Sessional Committee. Also, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Sessional Committee is not a permanent committee. The Sessional Committee is either appointed once after six months or every year, and therefore, I think, Sir, that it is no good giving power to a body which is temporary. This Committee of Privileges is very important and so it must be appointed by the right people. Mr. Speaker, Sir, also the Bill does not say how long the Committee of Privileges will continue to function. Will it continue to function during the whole life of the Parliament or will elections take place every year or two years? This is also important, and I feel that we should be told whether this is a permanent Committee of Privileges, or whether it is a committee which will be elected every year. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if this Committee of Privileges, if elected, stays there permanently, it may also, instead of being a Committee of Privileges, be a committee of corruption and some other things.

[Mr. Gatugutu]

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, these are the only two points which I have to make, one that this committee should be elected by the whole House, and two, we should be told the life of this committee; how long it will be elected.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, I would like to support this Bill, and do not think that I will say any more than what the Member for Kikuyu has already said. I would like to support him very strongly on what he said about clause 2. I feel, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that a Committee of Privileges is a committee which will, from time to time, pass certain sentences or certain rulings on the behaviour of Members as endorsed by the chairman or chairmen of such a committee. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we must have people in which the Members of Parliament as a whole, including Members of the Senate, have absolute confidence. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you will excuse me, I would like to give an example. The House of Representatives elected their Speaker, every person here voted and the voting was unanimous, I think. That, Sir, is why the position of our Speaker, or Deputy Speaker, becomes very much undisputed and therefore, it is very difficult for any Member in this House to say anything about their positions, and whenever they control the House we have much confidence in what they are doing. I think that this is the same with the Committee of Privileges, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Committee of Privileges is going to be an important committee that is going, for example, to pass a sentence against one of a Member representing an area, who should be present in this House, and therefore, Sir, the public will know that I am remaining outside this House because of this, that and the other offence, which I might have committed. I would not like to see—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Ngala-Abok, I think I must correct you on one point. You are not understanding the Bill, and I cannot allow Members to speak to what the Bill does not say. What the Bill says is that the Committee of Privileges will investigate and report, but it is the House itself which will pass sentence, not the committee.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the correction, but usually, Sir, when a House debates a report, the form of the report usually determines the state of mind of the Members, or some Member at least, as to how they will reach their conclusions. They are, from time to time, controlled by the way in which the report is inquiring or asking the House to pass sentence, or make a decision. I believe, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that this report must be made, or that the investigation must be made, by people elected by the entire House. That, Sir, is my feeling.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it does not take the Members five minutes to carry out a secret ballot and elect the members of the committee. The Senate can also do the same and then all sit together under the chairmanship either of the Speaker of the Senate or the Speaker of the House of Representatives. So, Sir, it looks more or less the same to me. Only, Sir, the most important part to this is when investigation is being carried out. But, Sir, what the court or the House will decide against somebody, regarding a report, is whether the people who carried out the investigation and made the report are impartial or not. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would just like to mention, in passing, that we should know how long this particular committee will function, whether the length of time will be the same as that of Parliament, five years.

If it is five years, then we should know after we have elected them. We elected the Speakers just as we should be able to elect the Committee of Privileges and then wait for their term of office to expire at the end of five years. Mr. Speaker, Sir, what appeared to me a little funny, and indeed a bit extreme, is to regard this person, who may be convicted, as a stranger until written permission is given. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that this should not be included here. He should actually be asked not to participate in the proceedings of the House, but he should be allowed to attend and sit in the galleries. He could come and attend the debate, because one day a Member might have a very useful point to raise, or there may be a matter raised concerning this certain person's constituency.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of these privileges that Members might go against or the various mistakes that Members may make within the Parliament Buildings may not be such grave mistakes that entitle the Member to stay out of reach of the precincts of the building. So, Sir, I think that the Bill should be altered to say that he is not allowed to participate in the proceedings of the House, but he could attend by sitting in the galleries. I feel that is sufficient punishment because it prevents him coming into this House and speaking on a Motion but just sitting in the gallery, and the public will know that such-and-such a Member is no longer required to attend the House for so many days.

[The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism]

The only practical answer is, therefore, the third alternative. Here again the Ministry of Works, Communications and Power is responsible for the installing of cautionary signs along the public roads. My Ministry is ready to recommend—and I am recommending it now, Sir, to the Minister—that this should be done.

We are particularly anxious to see these signs up because we would like to ensure that every motorist travelling on this road is safe. Also we are very much concerned about our animals and their safety; because the motorists are sensible people, but our animals are wild; therefore, while the motorists can look out for the animals, the animals cannot look out for themselves.

Mr. Dlagirira: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Sir, is he aware that the number of elephants is increasing so much that it is becoming almost a nuisance, and because of this, some of them should be destroyed?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is quite a different question. I think we have dealt with this previously. I am not so sure that many motorists do not like to see the elephants there. Some of them stop there on purpose to have a look at them.

Mr. Mbogoh: Would the Assistant Minister then assure this House that, while clearing the bush or making any roads, they do not create undue difficulties for the animals, because it is they who are entering the animal kingdom in making these roads?

Mr. Mohamed: I am very grateful to the hon. Member! We will not do anything which will upset the animals or their kingdom. But even if we were to install the precautionary signs—and I hope the hon. Minister for Works will do this—I am not so sure how many motorists, including the hon. Members in this House, would take notice of them. I know we all speed up. There is a sign opposite the Nairobi National Park, on the road to the airport, and I am sure every motorist driving to the airport cruises along at about ninety miles per hour, even though the sign is there.

Mr. Ngala: Arising from one of the replies by the Assistant Minister, Sir, would he not agree with me that between Tsavo and Mito Andei the population of elephants that squat on the road is a nuisance to the motorist? For example this morning I was faced by four elephants squatting in the road, and I was delayed for half an hour. Will the Assistant Minister tell us what he can do to see that important people get through as quickly as possible?

Mr. Mohamed: I think, as far as the elephant problem is concerned, the hon. Mr. Ngala is aware that a scientific research programme is in progress at the moment; and we are looking into the whole population problem of elephants and ways and means to deal with the problem. However, I will certainly bring this to the notice of the wardens of the Game Department and see what interim measures could be taken, if the hon. Member is not very pleased to see the elephants on the roads.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Ndile's next question?

Question No. 341

WATER PUMPS IN MACHAKOS DISTRICT

Mr. Mallinda, on behalf of Mr. Ndile, asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he would introduce water loans for simple water pumping machines to be installed along the Athi River and Machakos District, so as to provide water for the district.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. About half a million pounds are needed for loans to local authorities for water development in the current financial year, but due to non-availability of finance, this is not possible.

There is, however, a provision for £2,000 grant to the Machakos County Council on a £ for £ basis. This means that at least £4,000 worth of water development work is under way in the district. In our provisional estimate for 1966/67 financial year, we have included a grant of £4,000 and a loan of £50,000 for rural water supplies. But even if these estimates are approved and the loan money becomes available, it will only be issued if the Minister for Local Government considers the Machakos County Council loan-worthy. Loan-worthiness depends on (1) the council's ability to repay previous loans, and (2) the willingness of the people in the area to pay their Graduated Personal Tax.

In regard to the second part of the question, I am afraid, Sir, that there is no simple machine that can deal with the problem of extracting water from the Athi River. A normal type of pump can only suck up water between eight and fifteen feet, before it starts pumping it up to where it is required. In most parts of Athi, the level of the river varies between flood and dry weather flows, by approximately thirty feet. This necessitates unusual and expensive machinery.

May I point out that the Machakos District Planning Team made no mention of the area under discussion when submitting estimates for the next financial year? Perhaps the people in the area did not inform the planning team of their requirements. I suggest, therefore, that the hon. Member should approach both the district planning team and the county council and see whether they could include the area referred to in this question in the priority list. May I also assure the hon. Member that my Ministry is ready to give all possible technical advice when called upon to do so?

[The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism]

Mr. Mallinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, is the Assistant Minister not aware that the £2,000 he is talking about is so infinitesimal in comparison with the need of the area, that his Ministry should think differently and give much more money than this?

Mr. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to water development, I have said many a time in this House that it depends on what requirement is put forward by the people through the planning committee and through the water authorities. As I have said, there is no mention made by the planning committee when submitting the estimates, and, Sir, at this very late stage—the Minister for Finance is not here—we have to work out the whole estimate and get approval, before we can get the money. However, we have made the effort of providing £2,000, and, with another £2,000, work is under way. For the next financial year, as I have said, there will be a £4,000 grant and £50,000 loan.

Sir, it is up to the hon. Member to see that the local authority there will be prepared to match the finance so that water development can be carried out.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We must move on now, Mr. Onoko, you have a Ministerial Statement to make?

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

KENYA FILM SHOW FOR MEMBERS

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, hon. Members will recall that, in the course of the Parliamentary debate on the Appropriation Bill, I undertook to invite hon. Members of both Houses to attend a showing of the film Kenya Becomes a Nation. Arrangements have accordingly been made for the showing of this film at the 20th Century tomorrow, Wednesday, 23rd February, at 11 a.m. All Members of both Houses of Parliament, and their wives, are cordially invited to this show; it will be free.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would remind hon. Members that, on the adjournment today, Mr. Pandya is to raise the matter noted on the Order Paper.

BILL

Second Reading

THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY (POWERS AND PRIVILEGES) (AMENDMENT) BILL

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) Bill be read a Second Time.

Mr. Speaker, order and discipline within the two Chambers of Parliament are governed by the Standing Orders of each House, but these Standing Orders do not apply to the maintenance of order and discipline within Parliament Buildings but outside the two Chambers. Standing Orders 78, 79, 80 and 81 provide that grossly disorderly conduct can be punished by the process of naming and a resolution of the House that the Member concerned be suspended from the service of the House, which involves complete exclusion from Parliament Buildings. Standing Orders can only be made by each House for the orderly conduct of its proceedings, as provided for in section 62 (1) of the Constitution.

Section 62 (5) of the Constitution, however, empowers Parliament to make provision for the powers, privileges and immunities of both Houses, and the committees and the members thereof, and we already have some provision for these purposes in the National Assembly (Powers and Privileges) Act, as amended in September 1963, by regulations under the Kenya Order in Council, 1963. This Act also empowers the Speakers to regulate the admittance and conduct of strangers, and the deduction of catering debts from Members' salaries.

The need now is for amendment of the said Act to enable the two Speakers to enforce their orders with regard to the conduct of Members of the National Assembly in Parliament Buildings, where a Member decides to refuse to obey an order made by a Speaker or disregards a kindly but firm rebuke from him. The Act does not give the Speaker power to call the Member to heel, and yet Members will agree that this is necessary, if misconduct and disorder, perpetrated by an unruly Member, are to be dealt with promptly and definitely.

I believe that the great majority of Members want to safeguard discipline, as well as their collective dignity and individual convenience. The provisions of the amendment of this Act would naturally be resorted to only after rebuke and persuasive authority have failed. But provision for the use of a compelling legal weapon is also desirable and necessary.

[The Attorney-General]

Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill is re-introduced into the House; in fact, this has now been re-introduced.

Mr. Omar Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, can the Attorney-General give us an assurance that the delay of getting this report out will not affect the dissolution of this Parliament, followed by a general election on 7th June 1968?

Mr. Njonjo: No, not at all, Sir. I give that assurance.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Attorney-General tell the House why he did not see fit to explain what he just explained to the House before December 1965, as the Constitution requires would it not have been timely to explain at that time, just to know that the Attorney-General is observing the Constitution?

Mr. Njonjo: Well, Sir, I think the reasons were implied in my reply. I did say that the commission had other duties and, in fact, some hon. Members have already submitted memoranda to the commission, which are being looked into by them. They have made a number of visits to various areas and, in fact I am informed that the Electoral Commission met this morning and they are due to start travelling around the country on the 4th March next.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If I might correct this with a little information of my own, it is the 4th April, Mr. Njonjo.

Mr. Malinda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the hon. Attorney-General's reply, in which he said that, due to pressure of work of some of the members of the Electoral Commission, there has been some delay, and in view of the fact that any continuation of the holding of meetings of the commission would appear to be unconstitutional, would the Attorney-General consider appointing other members of the public who have the knowledge but who are not quite so busy elsewhere, so that they can complete this work within the time specified?

Mr. Njonjo: The members of the commission, Mr. Speaker, are specified in the Constitution. I am convinced that those members are the most competent to deal with this very difficult problem, and I am sure that the Members will also believe that the members of this commission are impartial, which is also very necessary in this task and, therefore, I do not propose to alter this.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, would the Attorney-General assure this House that when the report of the Electoral Commission comes out, it will not affect the Senate?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, if I can lay my hands on the relevant section, I am merely going to quote this to the hon. Member. "Every order made by the commission under this section shall be published in the Kenya Gazette and shall come into effect upon the next dissolution of Parliament after it was made."

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I find out from the Attorney-General if it is possible for him to tell the House the progress made so far by the commission, and also what work remains to be done?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, maybe the hon. Member has just come back, but I did say earlier on that the commission has already received memoranda from a number of individuals who are interested, including hon. Members from this House, and I suspect the hon. Member, Mr. Godia, has also submitted a memorandum.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, arising from one of the replies by the Minister, Sir, is the Minister satisfied that all the allowances that the members of the commission have been receiving from the Government have been wisely spent, if they have spent all the time receiving memoranda from Members and not seeing the country for themselves?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, I am satisfied that the allowances given to the members of the commission have been used properly. In fact, the members of the commission—as the hon. Mr. Ngala knows—are responsible people. Two of them are the Speakers of this House and the other House, and they have done a certain amount of travelling round the country. I was corrected by the Speaker just a few minutes ago; they start travelling round the country on the 4th April.

Mr. Kamau: Will the Attorney-General, Mr. Speaker, Sir, assure this House that he will supply copies of the report when it is complete to all Members, so as there is ample time to study it before the next general election comes?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is getting rather far away from the question now, but perhaps you would give that assurance?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, I am sure the commission will make their report available to all those interested.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we must go on now.

We will come back to Mr. Mwangandi's question, which I understand Mr. Murgor is now prepared to answer.

Question No. 278*KENYA SUGAR COMPANY DAM, MSAMBWENI

Mr. Mwangandi asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry if he would tell the House if his Ministry had or had not recommended the reconstruction of the Kenya sugar dam destroyed by the public at Msambweni in Kwale District.

Had the Ministry been informed that the dam was on county council land and there were over 500 people on that land, if so, had the Government considered giving them alternative land or had the Government considered leaving them landless.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The answer to the first part of the question is yes, Sir, my Ministry recommended the reconstruction of the Kenya sugar dam destroyed by the public at Msambweni in the Kwale District.

The answer to the second part of the question is no, Sir, there was no necessity for the Ministry to be informed, because the provincial surveyor's survey indicates that the dam in question lies within the land owned by the Associated Sugar Company.

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister tell this House, as regards this question, what alternative land are the people on the land occupied by the dam going to be given? What alternative land are they going to be given?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, all the landless people in the Kenya Republic will be considered, each case on its individual merits.

Mr. Mwangandi: Mr. Speaker, is the Assistant Minister aware that he has very little knowledge of this question because just before this question was brought to the House—just last week—we went with the Assistant Minister, Mr. Osogo, and the Commissioner for Squatters to measure the pieces of land so that alternative land could be given to these people?

Mr. Murgor: The answer to that, Sir, is no.

Mr. Mwangandi: Mr. Speaker, despite the fact that the Assistant Minister said that the land in question belongs to Kenya Sugar Company, is he aware that the way this land was given over to this company was rather fraudulent?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, I am not aware of that.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the fact that the Minister is ignorant and not aware, would he give us an assurance that, whether the land belongs to Kenya Sugar Company or the county council, whatever squatters are there will have the first priority when this difficulty is settled?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, all the landless and the squatters will be considered, as I said. We have our special Commissioner for Squatters and he is dealing, in fact, at the moment with this particular question.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): We will go on now to Mr. Ndile's questions. Are you authorized to ask his questions, Mr. Malinda?

Mr. Malinda: Yes, Sir.

Question No. 284*WILD ANIMALS BETWEEN MITO ANDEI AND VOI

Mr. Malinda, on behalf of Mr. Ndile, asked the Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism if he was aware that passengers travelling from Nairobi to Mombasa by car were often faced with danger from wild animals between Mito Andei and Voi; and, if so, how could he help.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources and Tourism (Mr. Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. My Ministry is fully aware that, when travelling through an area inhabited by game, such as the section between Mito Andei and Voi, the motorist is always in danger of wild animals obstructing or crossing the road unexpectedly.

There are ways of reducing the danger, and I have three ways to suggest; I would like to know which the hon. Member likes:—

(1) Either by regarding the sections of the roads through areas of high game concentration as towns and, therefore, enforcing the town speed limit through those areas.

(2) By clearing the bush for about 100 yards on either side of the road.

(3) By putting up signs to warn the motorists to be careful when driving through these areas.

I am sure, Mr. Speaker, that most of the hon. Members will not support the first alternative, because they like to speed along these roads when going to Mombasa. As for the second alternative, Members might have known that it is the responsibility of the Ministry of Works and the hon. Minister is here—to clear the first thirty-three yards from the centre of the road. To clear and maintain the remaining thirty-seven yards on each side of the road (a total of 134 yards) for about seventy miles will, no doubt, require large sums of money, which, we at present, do not have.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Njiri): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. An application for the up-grading of Nyeri Urban Council to municipal status reached my Ministry yesterday. It will be given consideration, in due course, in my Ministry. If the council is given second-class municipal status, then it will still have a chairman and not a mayor.

I should point out that a mayor is not an executive officer of the council and the administration is in the hands of the council's chief officers. The clerk and treasurer of the Nyeri County Council are also clerk and treasurer of the Nyeri Urban Council and are, therefore, the urban council's chief officers.

Prior to October, 1965, all councillors of urban councils were entitled to claim Sh. 20 as a sitting allowance and not Sh. 12/50 as my friend has suggested.

With effect from the 1st October 1965, different allowances are payable to chairmen, vice-chairmen and other councillors of urban councils as follows: chairman in the range of £60, vice-chairman in the range of £30, councillors in the range of £10, as consolidated allowances in lieu of sitting allowances.

The actual amounts payable are at the discretion of the council, but are subject to my Ministry's approval. No application has been received in respect of allowances for Nyeri Urban Council and therefore the actual amounts to be paid have not yet been determined.

Mr. Gatiguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the Assistant Minister's replies, in which he said that consideration would be given to raising the status of this town to that of a municipality, could the Assistant Minister tell us what is required by a town so that it may raised to the status of a municipality?

Mr. Njiri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, briefly, the up-grading of urban councils to municipality status increases the expenditure of the council as is well known and, in consequence, it has to engage its own chiefs and other officers. In other words, Mr. Speaker, if the urban council wants to be promoted to the status of a municipality, it must be financially sound.

Mr. Warlith: Arising from that reply, Mr. Speaker, could the Assistant Minister tell us, in terms and figures—so many pounds—the revenue to be earned by an urban council so that it can qualify to become a municipality, knowing that Nyeri is the capital of Eastern Province?

Mr. Njiri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, unfortunately, I cannot give the hon. Member the figures, but the point is this. If the urban council has contributed a great deal of graduated personal tax and not, then, in return, after application, my Ministry will be able to make a decision whether that council will be able to cope with the status of a municipality.

Mr. Theuri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister not aware that the urban council of Nyeri is financially strong?

Mr. Njiri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of that, but I assure the hon. Member that I will make sure of that fact. However, I doubt that the Urban Council of Nyeri is financially strong.

Question No. 277

PAPER FACTORY FOR BRODERICK FALLS

Mr. Barasa asked the Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development if he would tell the House when the building of the projected paper factory at Broderick Falls was going to start.

The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Mwenda): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Answering the same question last September, the Government promised to make a full statement to the House as soon as the study and negotiations which were going on at the time were completed. We have not managed to complete the negotiations yet but progress has been made in that we have now received a proposal from Messrs. Birla Brothers of India and we are studying it. It is still the intention of the Government that, as soon as these negotiations are satisfactorily concluded, the House will obtain a full statement. Meanwhile, it is not realistic to forecast the date when the building of the project is going to start.

Mr. Barasa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell the House why the Ministry has failed to install this plant since October 1963 when a promise was given that the plant would start as soon as possible? What has caused that failure?

Mr. Mwenda: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already replied to that question. I have said that there were two things being done: one is the negotiations and the other is the study. We have actually proceeded further with the negotiations, in that we have this company which has already said it would like to invest in this project. As soon as we complete the negotiations, we will be able to make a statement to this House.

Question No. 278

LOUDSPEAKERS IN NYANZA PROVINCE

Mr. Oselu-Nyallick asked the Minister for Information and Broadcasting if he could tell the House why there was only one loud-speaker set in Nyanza Province.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Ministry of Information and Broadcasting has very limited funds at its disposal and must allocate these funds in what appears to be the most fair way.

Each province has one set of loud-speakers only, with the exception of the Eastern Province, which is served from Machakos, carrying its own loud-speaker and the Rift Valley Province which has, likewise, a sub-office with a loud-speaker system at Eldoret.

Mr. Oselu-Nyallick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would the Minister bring in a supplementary estimate in order to provide Nyanza Province with two loud-speakers?

Mr. Achieng-Onoko: Actually, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that depends on the availability of money in the Government Kitty.

Mr. Oselu-Nyallick: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that more than four times when I have walked in at the office in Kisumu and asked the officer in charge to give me a loud-speaker in order that I may be heard during my meetings—when the Minister came after three weeks the loud-speaker was not available. Therefore, I think in this way the public do not think well of the Government. Should the Minister not consider it opportune to bring in a Bill in this House to get a grant so that we may be heard when we have a meeting?

Mr. Achieng-Onoko: I think I would take this opportunity, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to advise the hon. Member to make his application to erect a loud-speaker well in advance to ensure its availability when he wants it.

Question No. 345

LAND ALLOCATIONS TO SETTLERS

Mr. Godia asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would assure the House that plots allocated to a location in a settlement scheme were filled by settlers from that particular location, regardless of whether or not the first applicants had sufficient money for the deposit.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I have repeatedly told this House that my Ministry does not establish special schemes for a particular location, clan, tribe or district. The laid-down policy is to give priority to the ex-legal farm labourers on farms which are purchased for settlement. If such cannot raise sufficient money towards the deposit, and assuming that all the ex-legal labour in the area has been catered for, next preference is always accorded to the landless and unemployed in the district where the scheme is situated.

Mr. Godia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister mean that if from a particular location ten plots are to be allocated, and if one of the applicants does not have sufficient money for the deposit, another applicant from the same location cannot take his place?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, no person, unless he has been accepted by the selection committee in a given district, could be settled just because another person has failed to raise the deposit.

Mr. Omar: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the original reply by the Assistant Minister, is he not aware that at Shimba Hills in the Coast Province there are some settlers from Machakos and Kitui, and that the local people there made application to get settlements and were refused?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware.

Mr. armp Too: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that since the District Commissioner, Trans Nzoia, was given the responsibility of allocating the plots to the settlers, he has settled more than a 100 Kikuyu in the Cherangani Scheme, and does he consider this to be the fair thing to do?

Mr. Gachago: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have said, the selection of settlers for a settlement scheme is not on the basis of tribe, clan or any such considerations. All the settlers, I believe, who have been settled in the Cherangani Settlement Scheme have been selected in accordance with the laid-down policy.

Mr. armp Too: What policy?

Question No. 333

ELECTORAL COMMISSION'S REPORT

Mr. Omar asked the Attorney-General whether he would state the reasons why the Report of the Electoral Commission had not been published on 12th December 1965, as required by the Constitution.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I assume that by a "report" the hon. Member means a review of the number and boundaries of the constituencies into which Kenya is divided. Owing to the pressure of other duties, the members of the Electoral Commission were unable to complete this review by 12th December, and the House will be asked to extend the time by another year when the

Mr. Otiende: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my answer, I made it very clear that the running of all these health centres and dispensaries were the responsibility of local authorities. When the local authorities have no funds to run health centres, they normally close them. We only assist them when they want to start new ones with capital grants. Anything else, if they want recurrent expenditure, they do not approach us, they approach the Ministry of Local Government.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the replies by the Minister, would the Minister agree with me that the grant given to Kaloleni Mission Hospital should be increased to level up the fees of the in-patients there, as well as making it free for out-patients to get treatment? There is no Government hospital nearby, and could this apply to all the mission hospitals and out-patient departments throughout the country?

Mr. Otiende: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know very well what the hon. Member is talking about, because he took me round Kaloleni last week. There is a problem in the country, of course, where you have mission hospitals for a whole area and there is not a single Government hospital, for the application of free medical treatment facilities.

However, the Ministry understands this very well and only last week had a meeting to try and find a solution to this difficulty. If anything is done for Kaloleni at all, it will also apply to other places like Kericho, West Pokot and other places where they have only mission hospitals. All I can tell the House, is that the problem is under consideration and, in the next financial year, we hope to have found a solution to this problem.

Mr. Maitori-Itumbo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the long list which was read by the Minister, can he tell the House why he was not able to mention one place having a health centre in my constituency. If so, what steps is he taking to see that at least Kuria Constituency has a dispensary or health centre?

Mr. Otiende: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I did not list down any health centre, it was not due to any malice! There are places where there are no health centres and where we propose to build health centres, but I do not know, at the moment, if Kuria is one of them. However, the County Council of South Nyanza, will have to put up a case for Kuria to my Ministry, and then they could get the grants to put up a health centre.

The Speaker (Mr. Slado): This question covers a very wide field, we must go on now.

Question No. 282.

PLANS TO COMBAT DISEASE IN KERIO VALLEY

Mr. arap Too asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House what plans, if any, he had in mind to combat and stop the spread of malaria and trachoma in the Kerio Valley.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. Moss): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. My Ministry is well aware of the diseases prevalent in the area of Kerio Valley. We have approached this matter on a preventive basis by supplying medicine to combat the diseases. Last year, in conjunction with the Government, two local authorities, i.e. Central Rift and Sirikwa, launched a campaign against malaria and trachoma by providing preventive medicines.

Kerio Valley is about five miles from Tambach Hospital and about twenty-eight miles from Kabarnet Hospital. These hospitals serve the needs of patients from Kerio Valley. A nearby health centre at Tot is also very handy.

A mobile eye unit frequently visits this area to examine cases of trachoma. As far as malaria is concerned, this valley was fortunate in receiving a supply of prophylactic pills and drugs donated by U.N.I.C.E.F. which also provides vehicles. The African Medical Research Institute also takes a keen interest in providing health facilities for this area.

The most outstanding factor in the spread of trachoma is however grossly neglected. That is personal hygiene. From a recent survey by a missionary doctor, it was found that 75 per cent of such cases were due to unhygienic habits. There is a river near this valley with an abundant supply of water, but, unfortunately, the people do not clean themselves properly. One can only request the hon. Member to advise the inhabitants of this valley to observe basic hygienic rules and request school authorities to teach hygiene, and this will help solve the problem of trachoma.

Mr. arap Too: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, that the hospitals at Kabarnet and Tambach cater for these people of the Kerio Valley, is he aware that the distance between Tambach and Tot, which he mentioned, is seventy-four miles and if he is aware that this is so, can he not do something to build a health centre between Tot and Tambach?

Mr. Moss: In the first place, I am very much aware of the distance that the hon. Member has mentioned, the seventy-four miles. Then, in the second place regarding the health centre, it is not, and it will not be, the responsibility of my Ministry to build the health centres anywhere in the [Mr. Moss] If the hon. Member wants a health centre to be put up between Tot and Tambach Hospital, the first appropriate authorities to approach are his own county council, which is the Sirikwa one and, if at any time the county council indicates to my Ministry that they are prepared to undertake the recurrent expenditures of such a proposed health centre and to pay the staff to be employed there, there will be no question of our not giving a grant. I did mention in my reply, Mr. Speaker, that this area is being looked into very efficiently and we shall always continue to do so.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply that the main cause of trachoma is unhygienic conditions, is the Minister aware that the cause of trachoma in the medical world is not yet well understood, although it is felt that it might be a type of virus? Can the Minister now tell us whether unhygienic conditions alone, in this particular area, where trachoma is prevalent, if done away with, could prevent trachoma without a health centre where an operation for ectropion ectropion and trichiasis could be carried out?

Mr. Moss: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is very interesting, but I want to give an assurance to the hon. questioner that if—

An hon. Member: He did not understand the language.

Mr. Moss: I did understand it. If the hon. Member, or the hon. questioner agrees with my submission that if people of Kerio Valley abandoned smearing themselves with fat and, instead, applied salt and water, that would be one way of solving—

Mr. arap Too: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Assistant Minister to substantiate what he means by all the sorts of things he says the people of the Kerio are putting on their faces?

The Speaker (Mr. Slado): No, I do not think so.

Mr. Moss: It is obvious, Mr. Speaker. If I went to Kerio Valley—

Mr. arap Too: You have not been there.

Mr. Moss: I have been there, and if you want me to go there again tomorrow for substantiation, we can go.

The best substantiation, Mr. Speaker, is that in the Kerio Valley, where people still use oil to smear their eyes and their clothes, as a result of which flies are attracted to follow them up.

Mr. arap Too: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister seems not to be normal today.

Arising out of his reply and in view of the fact that the people of Kaitlial have built a proper building for use as a dispensary and have no money to pay for the staff and drugs or medicine, would the Minister consider providing some little money for these people so that they can get some drugs to help themselves?

Mr. Moss: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we provide drugs to our health centres through our county councils, and if there is a dispensary built by the people, I welcome the idea of providing drugs, but this has not reached my Ministry as yet, Sir.

Question No. 328

CHOGORIA HOSPITAL: CAPACITY

Mr. Mate asked the Minister for Health what the maximum capacity of Chogoria Hospital was with regard to bed space, in respect of the training, medical and the leprosurium sections and what grants were given to the hospital per year.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. Moss): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Chogoria Hospital has 136 beds, comprising 90 general, 14 obstetric, 28 infectious, and 4 amenity beds. It receives an annual recurrent grant of £4,323 from my Ministry.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the serious need for medical services in Meru, is the Minister considering increasing the grant, because Chogoria Hospital is about to be closed by somebody?

Mr. Moss: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of Chogoria Hospital being closed.

Mr. Mate: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the Minister's reply, would he assure this House and everybody that Chogoria Hospital, being the second oldest hospital in Meru, after Meru Hospital, Maua, Nkobo, would he assure this House and the Meru people that Chogoria Hospital will never, never be closed by anybody?

Mr. Moss: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the first place, Chogoria Hospital is a non-Government hospital. It is entirely up to the institution which is running that hospital to tell us whether they want to close Chogoria or whether they want to hand it over to us. Then we shall be able to tell you what to do with Chogoria tomorrow.

Question No. 318

MUNICIPAL STATUS FOR NYERI

Mr. Theuri asked the Minister for Local Government whether he would tell the House when Nyeri was to become a municipality, so that it could have its own mayor to carry out the administration, instead of this being borne by the Nyeri Urban Council as at present.

Tuesday, 22nd February 1966

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

PAPER LAID

The following Paper was laid on the Table:—
East African Industrial Research Organization
Annual Report 1964-65

(By the Minister of State, President's Office
(Mr. Nyamweya))

NOTICE OF MOTION

INCREASED FARM DEVELOPMENT PLANS FOR EMBU, MERU AND MACHAKOS

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that the largest part of the Eastern Province is arid and no farming can be done and, as a result, famine relief measures will be required every year; this House urges the Government to accelerate the development of farming standards in these areas like Embu, Meru and Machakos which could produce enough food to feed the population of the Eastern Province by giving:—

- Water development loans.
- Farming (large and small) loans.
- Stepping up land consolidation where it has not been done.
- Dairy and ranching cattle co-operatives to be formed as soon as possible.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): With regard to the first question, No. 278, I have to inform hon. Members that I received a message from Mr. Osogo, who wishes to answer this question, he has however, been called away on very urgent business and may not be back in time to answer it today. He apologizes to the House. We will put it to the end of the list in the hope that he is back then, but if he is not back it will come on the Order Paper tomorrow.

Question No. 317

SITTING PERIOD OF WHEAT BOARD

Mr. Theuri asked the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry whether, in view of the fact that the Minimum Financial Return for the month of March—the planting season for early wheat—was always late, he could tell the House if he was prepared to change the programme for the sitting of the Wheat Board which, instead of meeting in January or February of each year, should now meet in December, so that farmers could have a two months' period of grace before they had to plant wheat.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry (Mr. Murgor): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Wheat Board sits early enough—27th October 1965, in the case of the last year—to recommend any M.F.R. to the Government for the following season's planting. My Ministry is, therefore, already allowing up to three months' grace before the earliest planting. The hon. Member's recommendation is, therefore, already in practice.

Mr. Theuri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that the Wheat Board only meets in the month of February, and therefore, that farmers, even up to now, are not quite sure whether they will be supplied next month?

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the information of the hon. Members, application forms for the Minimum Financial Return advances and planting approval for both wheat and maize for the 1966/67 crop, were despatched to all district agricultural committees concerned on 6th and 7th December 1965. By 31st January, the following had been issued:—Minimum Financial Return for wheat, £775,548; for maize, £191,996. Planting approval has been 145,970 acres for wheat and 46,966 acres for maize.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Next question.

Question No. 281

GRANTS TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES FOR HEALTH CENTRES

Mr. arap Too asked the Minister for Health if he would inform the House what grants his Ministry had made to local authorities to be spent on health centres and dispensaries in the country; and if he would name the mission hospitals and health centres which had received some financial assistance from the Government.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Otiende): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The reply is very long; I do not know whether I should take up the time of the House. Anyway it reads as follows: My Ministry has made the following grants to the local authorities to be spent on health centres and dispensaries.

[The Minister for Health]

	£
Kiambu	2,500
Central Nyanza	7,000
Kakamega	1,000
Nyeri	4,500
Bungoma	5,000
Tana River	3,000
Kajiado	5,000
Meru	1,000
Nyandarua	1,000
Masaku	4,000
Laikipia	2,500
South Nyanza	1,000
Kisumu	5,000
Embu	1,000
Kwale	1,000
Bungoma	1,000
Isiolo	1,000
Narok	3,000
Uasin Gishu	1,000
Kirinyaga	875
Trans Nzoia	1,000
Kitui	500
Eldon Nyanza	500
El Wak	52

I would like to point out the fact that health centres, health subcentres and dispensaries are run by local authorities and by the Ministry of Local Government. We make capital grants only when we are satisfied that the local authorities would undertake the recurrent and staff expenditures and where our capital grants would be used for construction works and for buying buildings for health centres. We withdraw our grants when the local authorities concerned do not fulfil all of their obligations within a specified period.

In the second part of this question, I am asked to name mission hospitals and health centres that received financial assistance from the Government. In regard to grants to mission hospitals the Central Advisory Committee on Medical Missions give priorities according to needs.

Names of mission hospitals receiving recurrent grants are: Maseno, Kaloleni, Kikuyu, Tumutumu, Chogoria, Mana, Kaimosi, Kendu Bay, Kaparow, Ngai, Ortum, Nkubu, Gaicanjiro, Nyabondo, Muthale, Mwhila, Kituu, Kaplong, Tenwek, Consolata Nyeri, Kilima Mbogo, Mater Misericordiae, Kimanga, Holy Rosary, Thika, Kyeri, Kakumaa, Mutoma, Asumbi, Nangina, Magadi.

Capital grants to Catholic missions are at: Nyeri, Kaplong, Riara Ridge, Mutoma, Eldama Ravine and Nkubu.

The Protestant missions are at: Maua, Chogoria, Tumutumu, Kikuyu, Tenwek and Kaimosi.

The names of health centres are as follows: Gatundu, Siaya, Ebusiratsi, Kapakwony, Garsen, Loitokitok, Uruku, Sultan Hamud, Madiany, Dol Dol, and Rumuruti, Kalawa, Lambwe, Murie, Bissil, Chuka and Marimanje, Kusa, Usigu, Nyawara, Siakago, Shimba Hills, Garba Tulla, Lolgoria, Escarti, Narorua, Lare, Ahero, Runjenju, Kocholla, Bumul, Nairago, Ngare, Olugunga, Kipkabus, Baricho, Moiben, Soy, Burat Loret, Ikutha, Tseikuru, Waguye, Charele, Khungangu and Elwak.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That was obviously a question more suitable for written reply, and I must apologize for not having marked it for such when it came through my hands; but I would remind Ministries, again, that even if they get through us a question for oral reply, they still can elect to give a written reply where it seems very long and detailed, such as that was, on due notice to the Clerk and the Member concerned. I would ask the Ministries to take that course where it seems right.

Mr. arap Too: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of this very long reply by the Minister—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is not the fault of the Minister.

Mr. arap Too: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell me the reasons why he did not consider Sirikwa County Council fit for these grants, because I did not hear anything mentioned by the Minister about the Sirikwa County Council, which is a local authority that should be receiving financial assistance?

Mr. Otiende: Mr. Speaker, Sir, Sirikwa is a very large county council and I do not know, but I suggest that Sirikwa has so many dispensaries and hospitals within its area that I do not think it comes within the first category of getting capital grants because it has started nothing new and has not asked to start anything new, and it does not come within the second category because it does not have a private hospital. When Sirikwa County Council was formed, it inherited a very large number of hospitals and health centres. It has not asked us, so far, to give any grant to start anything new.

Mr. arap Too: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of that reply by the Minister that the Sirikwa County Council has not asked for any grants at all, will the Minister then consider instructing the Sirikwa County Council to reopen Chebororwa Health Centre which was recently closed down?

[The Minister for Home Affairs]

their sincerity. Attacks upon the security forces, non-co-operation with the provincial administration and disobedience of regulations made by the population and protection of Shifita do nothing to convince anyone of their loyalty. I would like to say that cattle auctions are always arranged and few cattle are presented for auction. Grazing areas are allocated. These are disregarded and the hon. Member ought to have told the House what Government has done to help his own people in the area instead of accusing the Government of doing nothing.

I would like also to say, Mr. Speaker, that the loyal Somalis always should inform the Government immediately of the movements of the Shifita, because we cannot accept loyalty in any given area when 200 Shifita pass through that area without the notice of the loyal Somalis. So that in the interests of the loyal Somalis, we would like the hon. Members to help the Government by tracing the Shifita and those who would like to undermine the Government in such activities, which would destroy the confidence of the people living in the area. If the hon. Members would assist the Government, I am prepared to help in every way those people who wish to be loyal and help the Government; the Government would not hesitate to deal with anyone who abuses his activities in the service and tortures any loyal citizen. I would like to make it clear that the Government always has kept its promise to the loyal Somalis that Government would protect them.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move the amendment.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyangah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to second the amendment which has been moved by my Minister and make one or two points.

The first one is to remind the hon. Mover and his hon. friends from the North-Eastern Province that that province is still in a state of emergency, and some of these things which do happen, happen just because there is a state of emergency. This emergency can be brought to an end if the hon. Members from that area redouble their effort to make sure that they help the security forces, the Government, and do not necessarily over-emphasize or exaggerate their case about the activities of these people.

I am glad, Mr. Speaker, to note that the secession movement idea is now over, but we are still faced with the activities of the Shifita, who move in very difficult areas. We know the state of the country over there is very difficult, but they do not seem to die because they pass through very dry country and with no food. Therefore, there must be people who act as hosts to them. It is these hosts who harbour the Shifita that we are worried about and not the loyal Somalis. In supporting the amendment, Mr. Speaker, I would say that we will do all we can to help the loyal Somalis.

One point I ought to clear up right now in that we were accused, as a Government, of not informing hon. Members from that area when, about a fortnight ago, Government Ministers visited the area. This is not true. These Members were informed and, as a matter of fact, they were given a lift in the aircraft from Garissa to Wajir, and we were prepared to bring them right back to Nairobi again. So it is not true to say that they were not given the opportunity of knowing that we were going there and also an opportunity to speak to the people.

With these remarks, Sir, I support the amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have presumed to alter the wording of the proposed amendment very slightly, from a purely grammatical point of view, so that it would read: "That all words after the word 'Government' in the fourth line be left out, with a view to inserting there the words: 'this House urges the Government to note the views expressed by the Mover of this Motion, and to continue'—that is the little alteration I have made—'safeguarding the rights, the interests and the security of all loyal Somalis and Boran'."

As the time is over now, I have to put the question as soon as it has been proposed.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, proposed, put and agreed to)

(Question of the second part of the amendment, that the words to be inserted be inserted, proposed, put and agreed to)

(Question of the Motion as further amended, proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the Mover to reply.

Mr. Ogle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to congratulate the hon. Members who have contributed so wisely to this Motion, and particularly I would like to mention something about the Member for Kajiado, Mr. Oloititip, and would like to follow up some of the things he mentioned, particularly that the Somalis should co-operate with the Government by reporting any movement of the Shifita to the security forces and the Administration.

[Mr. Ogle]

Sir, everybody can remember that when the Shifita started, their morale was very high; nowadays, if one listens to the radio or goes through the newspapers, one finds that the Shifita are on the run now, and the initiative is with the security forces. This is entirely because of the co-operation shown by the local inhabitants in the North-Eastern Province, who report the activities and movements of the Shifita to the security forces. I assure the hon. Members here that this will continue. The Assistant Minister said that efforts should be re-doubled, and we will see to it that they are re-doubled.

Sir, in my estimation, the fundamental principle of freedom is security, and what led me to bring up this Motion is that the Somalis, including myself and other hon. Members of this House, thought for a time that they were not secure. If the Government accepts the Motion and will continue to safeguard the loyal Somalis, as they are asked to do, that is a good thing that we have agreed on.

Sir, the Somalis are citizens of this Republic and all this Motion is asking for is protection of the citizens of this Republic. That is a constitutional obligation, Mr. Speaker, I cannot see the reason why anyone should oppose it. What I did enlighten Members about was that if the Government continues to torture the Somalis, beat them, treat them badly, then it is a matter of common sense that the Somalis will one day think that they have been deserted by the Government, they will think that the Government is discriminating against them compared with other Kenya citizens and they will take the alternative. For example, we know we have a number of countries which are divided into north and south: we have the Northern Sudan and the Southern Sudan, North Vietnam and South Vietnam. If this practice continued to apply in our province, then there should be another north and south here. But the Government has wisely seen the gravity of the situation, and, I think, will not hesitate to rectify what has been done in the province.

Mr. Speaker, I am not saying anything on behalf of the Shifita. I think the Government should do all it can to eliminate the Shifita menace from the province. That is the first thing the loyal Somalis in the North-Eastern Province—whose interests we represent in this House—would like to see. I assure hon. Members here, and the Government as well, that every effort will be made by the hon. Members from the North-Eastern Province to see that these efforts are re-doubled and that we get rid of these Shifita.

With those few words, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly:

THAT in view of the fact that loyal Somalis and Boran citizens of Kenya are always in a state of fear and despair and are doubtful as to whether their sincere loyalty is being recognized by our Government, this House urges the Government to note the views expressed by the Mover of this Motion, and to continue safeguarding the rights, the interests and the security of all loyal Somalis and Boran.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now just on the time for the interruption of business. The House is adjourned until next Tuesday, 22nd February at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past Twelve o'clock.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we had better confine debate entirely to that question before we come back to the main question. I presume we can dispose of the amendment quite quickly.

Mr. Godana, did you want to speak on the amendment?

Mr. E. D. Godana: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right. You can speak.

Mr. E. D. Godana: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is unfortunate to find that the Kenya Police are becoming, as I said earlier, wild. They are not carrying out their duties properly.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, Mr. Godana, all you can speak on is whether you agree to the insertion of these words. That is all we are on now.

Mr. E. D. Godana: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Somalis and Boran in the Isiolo area are mistreated by the security forces on many occasions. I remember last year, 1965, on 7th October, there was an operation being carried out and loyal Boran were beaten up by the police.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! We are entirely concerned with the Boran now and whether you want to include them in the question. That is all. Please keep to the point of the amendment. The only question now is whether we are going to include the Boran in this Motion. Please do not talk about Somalis.

Mr. E. D. Godana: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are loyal Boran who were beaten up by the police. Some of them were taken to hospital, some had broken arms and so forth. Therefore, I would like the Minister for Home Affairs to look into this matter very closely. The rights of the loyal Borans should be safeguarded in the same way as those of any citizen in the country. Boran are not Shifita. So, as I said once, these people are forced at rifle point to aid and to lead the Shifita whenever the Shifita come around for food or any other property, or whenever they want to be guided to the water points.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I wonder whether hon. Members would allow me to put the question of the amendment, to clear that out of the way before we go on?

Do you want to speak on the amendment, Mr. Khalif? You have the right to.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, I beg wholeheartedly to support the amendment, because, as a matter of fact, the Boran are facing the same difficulties as the Somalis. The only difference is that the Somalis are in the North-Eastern Province while the Boran are in the Eastern Province, namely, Isiolo, Marsabit and Moyale. For that matter, Sir, I do not see any reason why this amendment should not be supported by hon. Members.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Then I will put the question of the amendment.

(Question that the words to be inserted be inserted and agreed to.)

(Question of the Motion as amended proposed.)
The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Oloitipiti, are you speaking for Government?

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): No, Sir, I am speaking just as the Member for Kajiado.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think time is running rather short for the Government spokesman.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): They are not prepared, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right. Carry on.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to speak on the Motion not for the Government but as the Member for Kajiado, as well as a Member of this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think this is a very straightforward Motion and if we are going to be very fair we must judge facts as they are and, if necessary, support facts as have been put by hon. Members of this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all, I am very happy to hear that the Mover of this Motion was once advocating secession, but now he has come to his senses and has realized that he is a citizen of Kenya and he has given that up completely; he is no longer a secessionist, and he is in this Parliament and is out to condemn the Shifita activities in his own area and he comes here to argue that the loyal Somalis should be treated equally and fairly like other citizens of Kenya. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the speech by this hon. Member is very encouraging, and all I would say to him is that he should go ahead and, if necessary, if he wants the support of the Government Ministers and Members of this House, we are all out for him to see that we condemn these Shifita activities in his own province.

[The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development.]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is very encouraging to hear from a Member who was once advocating secession, and has now given up that idea.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other point I wanted to speak on is the question of loyal Somalis. We know that it is the policy of our Government to encourage those people, who were deceived by other Governments to become Shifita not to be Shifita and to realize that they are Kenyans, they should support our Kenya Government policies, and we can only encourage them, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we treat them fairly.

Mr. Speaker, I think, if we find that the whole of the North-Eastern Province people are becoming loyal to the Kenya Government, there is no reason, Sir, why they should be tortured, there is no reason why they should be beaten, there is no reason why they should be starving, there is no reason why, if they are loyal, they should be given fewer permits to come to the town and buy whatever they want from the town. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the security forces find that these people are not as loyal as we are told in this House, I think the Kenya Government has every right to see that those who come to the town or get permits are loyal people and not the people who are disloyal.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government has a duty to see that they encourage every citizen of the North-Eastern Province to be loyal people. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would call on the Minister to investigate these remarks made by the hon. Members, and when he finds that the remarks made by the Members from that area are correct, then he will see to it that everybody is brought to peace in that particular area.

Mr. Speaker, the other point I wanted to make is about the question of becoming a loyal citizen of this country. It is up to the loyal Somalis, Mr. Speaker, to see that they do not live with those who are disloyal. It is also the function, not only of the Government, Mr. Speaker, to see that they treat the loyal Somalis well, but it is also the duty of the Members and Somali people, who are loyal to the Government, to see that they do not live with those disloyal Somalis. Once they do that, they should tell the security forces who the bad people are and expel those bad people; they should separate themselves from them and should guide the Government, I am quite sure the Government is going to give all the necessary support.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, because Government is going to speak on this, I think I should give way, but I wholeheartedly support that the Government should investigate the remarks made by the hon. Members and if they find that they are true facts, then I request the Minister to support and see that everybody there is given protection.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, since time is running out—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid there is only six minutes before the Mover replies.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that the Government cannot accept the Motion as it stands and, therefore, would like to amend it.

The amendment is to delete all the words after the word "Government" in the fourth line and to insert in place thereof the words "this House urges the Government to note the views expressed by the Mover of this Motion and that the Government continues safeguarding the rights, the interests and the security of all loyal Somalis and Boran". Thus the Motion would read:—

THAT in view of the fact that loyal Somalis citizens of Kenya are always in a state of fear and despair and are doubtful as to whether their sincere loyalty is being recognized by our Government, this House urges the Government to note the views expressed by the Mover of this Motion and that the Government continues safeguarding the rights, the interests and the security of all loyal Somalis and Boran.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, since time is running out, I would like to say that this Motion, like many other Motions and questions which have emanated from the representatives of the people of the Northern Province of Kenya over the past two years, is an attempt to embarrass the Government of the Republic with allegations and views but they fail to quote specific instances and the basis for these allegations. This ably illustrates the tongue-in-cheek attitude of the Mover. It does nothing more than to air—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I am sorry, Mr. arap Moi, we cannot have insinuations of insincerity or wrong motive when Members move Motions. Please withdraw the tongue-in-cheek and, I think, the attempt to embarrass should also be withdrawn. We have to credit hon. Members with sincerity, even if they do not produce chapter and verse.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, I do not have any ulterior motives, but I withdraw anything that may discourage the hon. Members from supporting the Government.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, loyalty can only be recognized as sincere when the actions and words of the Somalis convince a reasonable person of [Mr. Khalif] forces. The security forces go into manyattas, into the bomas beating everybody they come across, all Somalis.

I would like to say this in addition to hon. Members: If I had been in one of these rowdy incidents in Wajir I would also have been beaten by the security forces. They do not differentiate between who is loyal and who is not loyal.

Confiscation of property has been done in a big way. More than 2,000 cattle have been confiscated by the Government in the North-Eastern Province during the period January 1964 to December 1965. We know, Sir, that the Shifita caused a lot of hardship for the people and also for the Government but there must be a differentiation between the loyal Somalis and the Shifita. Whenever the Shifita are engaged in operation against the security forces what the Government does is to come around and confiscate the property of the loyal Somalis. Loyal people are being victimized for things done by the Shifita. Sir, if it is the policy of this Kenya Government to victimize the loyal Somalis because of the activities undertaken by the Shifita, then we are not going to be part and parcel of this, of being victimized because of things done by the Shifita.

An hon. Member: Declare your interest.

Mr. Khalif: I have declared it and in no uncertain terms.

Many Somalis are even today in detention. They had no trial whatsoever and the Government, and many hon. Members—if not all of them—know that Somalis are just put in. If the provincial commissioner does not like me or, for that matter, if the Minister for Home Affairs does not like me because of a quarrel we have had, the next day, Sir, what they do is put me in Kvale.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Ole Oloitipiti): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I rise to seek your guidance. Is it in order for the hon. Member to refer to a Minister and say that if the Minister does not like him he will put him in? Can he give us an example where because the Minister did not like a person he was arrested by the security forces and the police?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Order! Order! I fully support what you say, Mr. Oloitipiti. The only thing is that I did not quite hear what Mr. Khalif had to say just then. I heard him say as far as "If the Minister does not like me," and I waited for him to finish his sentence. I did not quite hear what he said at the end of his sentence if the Minister did not like him.

I do not know what you did say, Mr. Khalif. I do not know if you did say anything at all.

Mr. Khalif: We will say that alone, Sir.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think, Mr. Oloitipiti, you interrupted before Mr. Khalif finished his sentence.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Ole Oloitipiti): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member said that if for that matter the Minister did not like him he could order the security forces to torture him or beat him, or arrest him.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): If he said that, then, of course, it is perfectly out of order, Mr. Khalif, unless you can prove it.

It is a very serious allegation on the provincial commissioner or, for that matter, against the Minister.

Mr. Khalif: On a point of order, is it not within our Standing Orders that when the Speaker does not hear something, then—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Oh, no. Order! Order! It is not part of the Standing Orders and if any hon. Member has that idea, it is not correct. It is only private remarks, off the cuff remarks made by one Member to another, if the Speaker has not heard it, and the Member denies having said it, then, instead of making ourselves a court of law to inquire whether he did or not, we accept the inhourableness of the Member, and accept his word that he did not say it. However, if you are saying something in the middle of a speech HANSARD is there for us to check whether you said it or not. If you did say it, then you must withdraw.

Mr. Khalif: If that was offensive in any way, Sir, then I beg to withdraw.

At the same time, Sir, I have lost two precious minutes and I have a lot of things to say on this Motion.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): You will get a bit more.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is no trial and any Somali can be put in at any time in this country, just because he is a Somali. If the Government decides to put him in, then he is put in and there is no trial. Sir, we in the North-Eastern Region are opposed to this.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair.]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair.]

[Mr. Khalif]

We are opposed to this because it is just like the Nigerian military policy. The military régime in Nigeria say that they can put people in without trial. Now the independent Kenya Government, headed by Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, elected by the people of Kenya puts Somalis in without trial. It is ridiculous.

Sir, there has also been the question of chasing away these people from the towns. For those hon. Members who are not quite well informed about the North-Eastern Region I would like to say that there are three districts in the North-Eastern Province. In each district we have a small town and within that small town there is a barbed wire fence.

There are one or two let-outs. There is an askari there. I am not opposed to this, since this is a security precaution, but what I am opposed to is that they keep at the gate only about 150 passes when the population in any one district is about 100,000 people. Now, people from outside who would like to come in and buy food, clothes at the shop are prevented from doing so because there are only 150 permits. You get more than 3,000 people coming, there are only one or two let-outs and let-ins. You find people standing in very long queues, small children, women, old people. These people will stand there from 7 a.m. and when it gets to 6 p.m. you see that only 200 or 250 people have gone through. What happens to the rest? They go back and try again the next day. You see poor women and men trying again and again, sometimes for more than seven days, and some of them do not even get in at the end of the seven days. Sir, this is extremely unfortunate and unbecoming of our present independent Kenya Government.

There is another aspect also which is not only surprising but very annoying as well. We get Shifita surrendering. We were told when the Mzee announced that the Shifita should surrender and that they would receive an amnesty—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid that is the end of your time now, Mr. Kalif.

Mr. Khalif: May I be allowed to finish this sentence, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have had extra time already.

Mr. Khalif: May I only finish this sentence, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): All right, finish the sentence.

Mr. Khalif: —and would be given employment, this and that. Instead of that now, when they have surrendered—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! You are on to another sentence, Mr. Kalif.

Mr. Bonaya: Mr. Speaker, I would like to amend the Motion. Immediately after the words, "loyal Somalis" I would like to insert the word "Boran". I think this appears in three places.

So, the Motion should read:—

THAT in view of the fact that loyal Somalis and Boran citizens of Kenya are always in a state of fear and despair and are doubtful as to whether their sincere loyalty is being recognised by our Government, and in view of the fact that loyal and innocent Somalis and Boran are always subjected to torture, beating, detention, confiscation of property, chasing away from our towns and homes, etc. this House urges the Government to safeguard the rights and interests of loyal Somalis and Boran.

The reason why I amend the Motion is that on Saturday, 15th February the Kenya Police carried out an operation in Isiolo and they forced the loyal Somalis and Boran to run for five miles. The people did that because they were forced at gun point; they all ran. After finishing the five-mile run they were told that they were going to be arrested, twenty-four people were arrested and were put in. Some of them were beaten and were then taken to the Meru Hospital. One even suffered a broken leg. This is very, very serious indeed. Every time there is an operation, when the police go to manyattas they burn huts, especially in Isiolo District. They collect as many head of cattle, sheep and goats that they can collect and take them away to the Isiolo Headquarters. Mr. Speaker, this is very serious indeed. The Government should look into this matter. Recently some heads of cattle were confiscated in Isiolo town for no reason at all. I say this is very serious indeed, Mr. Speaker, and for this reason I would like this amendment to be supported by all Members here.

With these few words, Sir, I beg to move the amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Who seconds the amendment?

Mr. E. D. Godana: I will, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have not yet spoken in the debate, have you, Mr. Godana?

Mr. E. D. Godana: I have, Sir. I seconded the original Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Then I am afraid you cannot second the amendment. You can speak in favour of it later on.

Mr. Somor: I second the amendment.
(Question of the amendment that the words to be added: be added proposed)

[Mr. Ogle]

Now I want to speak on this question of loyalty. I would say that the Somalis are more loyal than some other tribes of Kenya here. They are more loyal to this Government than many other tribes here because everybody knows of the K.K.M. and the Land Freedom Army, and so on. That is quite clear. I should say the Somalis are more loyal to this Government than are some other people. If this is a question of Shifita, what is Shifita? Somebody in possession of a rifle? I know of a number of bad people who are in Kenya, in some other parts and provinces within this Republic who have arms and ammunition.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): Illegally?

Mr. Ogle: Illegally, ready even to fight.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, can the hon. Member substantiate that very interesting point, that there are some people who hold firearms illegally in Meru.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes. I think this is a very serious allegation, Mr. Ogle. Can you substantiate the allegation that there are a number of persons in Kenya who have arms and ammunition illegally?

Mr. Ogle: We are told by our Government that there are a number of people in the Meru Forest known as forest fighters. If the Minister can tell us that they possess these firearms legally, then it is up to him.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the allegation he made he is aware of. The hon. Member talks of people known as forest fighters. Can he hand them over to us in the House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I am sure the House would be in a much better position if Mr. Ogle could hand them over.

However, he has merely explained the people he refers to. If they do not exist I think you can say they do not exist and that is the end of it. The original fear was, I think, that he was referring to other people. He has now stated that people he refers to, and I think it is true that there have been references to forest fighters with arms. Maybe they have no arms, I do not know. However, Mr. Ogle has also said that if they do not have arms, then the Government will say so and he will accept it.

Mr. Ogle: I think you have one minute more. Actually your time is up but I will give you one more minute because of the interruption.

No, you have been given five minutes already because of the previous interruptions. Now you will be given only one more minute, I am afraid.

Mr. Ogle: If somebody listens to the radio, Mr. Deputy Speaker, they will realize that in all other provinces in Kenya there are development programmes and a number of other helpful things, but you will only hear a number of people saying that we are disloyal to the Government of Kenya. I do not know if we should discuss this any further. We have said that we are loyal and the Government does not accept it and so it appears as though we will have to take the alternative.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Provincial Commissioner in Isiolo recently said in a baraza. "We do not want the Somalis to be in Kenya." It might be that he was revealing something, he might have been trying to hint at some of the instructions that he had received from the Central Government. I do not know.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I think your time is up now, Mr. Ogle. You will have time to reply.

Mr. E. D. Godana: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to second this Motion very strongly. Our Government is an elected Government, popularly elected by the people, but our Government has been behaving towards the Somalis in a wild manner. Somalis in Kenya are not Shifita. The Somalia who are Shifita are those who have been forced, at rifle point, to do certain things by the bad Somalis from Somalia.

Therefore, I would like to tell the House and the Minister for Home Affairs who is here that Somalis are as loyal as any other tribe in Kenya today. For the information of this House, as I have already said, some Somalis have been forced to do certain things at rifle point; not only Somalis but Borana and other tribes as well. People within the northern part of Kenya have been forced at rifle point to go out and raid properties of other people. Therefore, to call Somalis, the loyal Somalis, the taxpayers, to call them Shifita and to have them tortured by the security forces is very bad. We know very well that during the days of the Mau Mau there were some loyal people whose properties were safeguarded by the Colonial Government. I am sure our Government should safeguard the rights of the loyal Somalis in the same way that the Colonial Government did for the loyal people of this country during the Emergency.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, much has been said regarding Shifita, much has been said by the chiefs, by the leaders of the Somali people, that [Mr. E. D. Godana] We know that there are some Somalis within Kenya who call themselves Kenya citizens, who call themselves loyal Somalis but they help the others with material and moral support. However, we know equally, Sir, that there are some loyal Somalis, loyal Somalis whose loyalty can never be doubted. Kenya must acknowledge the loyalty of those real, loyal Somalis because this loyalty has been accorded voluntarily and the days of secession are now something of the past. They are Somalis who identify themselves with the present Kenya, who are loyal to the Government, who are law-abiding citizens. This Motion only seeks the safeguard of the rights and interests of those loyal Somalis.

As I said, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Somalis have elected Members in the House of Representatives, Regional Assemblies, they have county councillors, elected chiefs. These people represent the views of the loyal Somalis. This could be told to the security forces.

If the Government knew of all these loyal Somalis then it could deal through an organization of these people to deal with the activities of the Shifita.

I say once more that the Shifita and raiders come from Somalia. None of the Somalis within Kenya do possess firearms. There is no place here where they can buy rifles without a permit.

An hon. Member: What about the convoy in Kisii?

Mr. E. D. Godana: I do not know about this convoy.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to labour on this very much. It is a straightforward Motion, but torturing, beating and confiscation of property of the loyal Somalis is becoming too much. So is raping.

Therefore, I would like Government to look into this affair and to accept this Motion as it has been moved by the Mover so that the Government can deal accordingly. I beg to second the Motion.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Members will pay attention to the last two lines of the Motion they will see that all the Motion asks for is for the Government to safeguard the rights and the interests of the loyal Somalis. This is within our Constitution and it is only due to the fact that our Constitution has been misinterpreted that the hon. Ogle, with all the necessary support, not only from all Members from the North-Eastern Region but other Members as well, has had to bring this Motion.

Sir, we know that there are some Somalis who are disloyal, we also know that there are some Somalis who are sympathetic with those who are disloyal. We know that there are some Somalis within Kenya who call themselves Kenya citizens, who call themselves loyal Somalis but they help the others with material and moral support. However, we know equally, Sir, that there are some loyal Somalis, loyal Somalis whose loyalty can never be doubted. Kenya must acknowledge the loyalty of those real, loyal Somalis because this loyalty has been accorded voluntarily and the days of secession are now something of the past. They are Somalis who identify themselves with the present Kenya, who are loyal to the Government, who are law-abiding citizens. This Motion only seeks the safeguard of the rights and interests of those loyal Somalis.

I want to say one thing before I go into facts. I hope this Motion was not brought to sort of try to lower the morale of our security forces. It was not brought in bad faith, I am sure it was brought in good faith. Before I proceed I would like to congratulate our security forces who have helped so much to eradicate and eliminate the Shifita activities.

(However, there have been some incidents in the North-Eastern Province which all Members of this House must condemn. Somalis live in a state of fear and despair. I hope the hon. Members who have not been to the North-Eastern Region take this from me: that the loyal Somalis live in a state of fear and despair. They live in this state of fear and despair because they are always threatened, always subjected to a kind of second citizenship thus creating a feeling that they are not real Kenyans. Having tried to assure the Kenya Government beyond all reasonable doubt that they are absolutely loyal, they have now despaired completely because the Government has not acknowledged such loyalty. The loyal Somalis have been subjected to torture, to beating, they have been subjected to detention; confiscation of property and chasing away from their own towns by the Government. The Somalis in the North-Eastern Province are being tortured as though they are living in the 16th and 17th Centuries. They are being subjected to extreme and intolerable hardships. Security methods including curfews and so on are executed in a very primitive way. Sir, some seven loyal Somalis were killed at Wajir in 1964, loyal and law-abiding Somalis. That is when things reached the peak of torture. Women are constantly raped by the security forces. The police do this as well, and I am prepared to substantiate what I say here. Old men and children are beaten. They do not differentiate between old men, children and other people. Whether they are loyal or not is not the interest of the security

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, I am glad you came, Mr. arap Moi, because he made this allegation about three or four times earlier, and I think, in fact, he gave one or two specific incidents and also gave the name of the particular girl, if I remember rightly, that was held. So, Mr. Ogle, for the benefit of the Minister if you could repeat or give some proof of this allegation you have made, it would be better.

Mr. Ogle: I am not prepared to repeat it once again just for the sake of the Minister. If he missed it, then that is up to him.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, no, Mr. Ogle, you must do it now. You have already given one or two incidents which I think he will probably read in HANSARD, but if you can at least refer to them very briefly, I think that will be accepted.

Mr. Ogle: I will repeat what I said for the benefit of the Minister. I said that recently there was an operation by members of the security forces and members of the Kenya Army when they went for this operation in the—

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): He is substantiating, Mr. Moi.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want to know whether he is dealing with a matter which concerns the police. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he is referring to another force, the Kenya Army, which comes under another Ministry. If he has a Motion dealing with the police, then he should bring it here so that it can be dealt with in the best possible way.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, Mr. Ogle, I am not quite sure what you are exactly referring to. Are you referring to the police or the security forces?

Mr. Ogle: I am referring to the security forces.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Well, if you did refer to the security forces, which I thought you did, although I might have been mistaken—I thought you did say the security forces and not the police, and so if you did say the security forces—then I would like you to substantiate. You have already given one or two incidents earlier on but I think for the benefit of the Minister, and considering that after all this is a very serious allegation, I know that you have not taken it lightly, but it is after all a very serious allegation, I would like you to substantiate it.

Mr. Kall: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when we refer to the security forces, I think that includes the police, armed forces and the military forces. Therefore, Sir, I think it is difficult for the Member, unless, of course, he knows, to state whether this was done by the police or the army. So, Sir, unless you put it that way, I think he will be confused.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): When a person says "security forces", he is throwing out a very wide net as it were but when we say substantiation we do not mean that he should prove it. What he should do, in fact, is say the basis on which he makes this allegation, the evidence on which he bases this allegation. If he says this So-and-so told him so, or he was himself present when this state of affairs, or this particular incident took place, that is what the House needs. We have, for example, had a basis this morning when the same hon. Minister, Mr. arap Moi, substantiated an allegation which he made yesterday. He read out official reports of speeches made by Members and that was rightly accepted as substantiation. Similarly, Mr. Ogle, if you can tell us the basis on which you make these allegations who told you this or how you came to know about it, or where it happened, that is enough because otherwise if hon. Members were not asked to substantiate allegations they might make allegations against anybody, all and sundry, and there would be no way for the Government or anybody else to be able to challenge these allegations and refute them if, in fact, they have to be refuted.

Mr. Ogle: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. This Motion, Sir, does not deal specifically with the police. What I have previously said in my speech was how the security forces behaved, and I have illustrated to the House what an Army major, in fact, has done.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if at all the Minister for Home Affairs is expected to give an effective reply to satisfy the hon. Member who is moving this Motion, and the Minister for Home Affairs has nothing to do with the army, is the hon. Member in order to keep on referring to a Major in the army, of whom we know nothing about?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Nyagah, I can see your predicament, but on the other hand, an hon. Member is not confined to speaking only about the police when he is moving a Motion. I mean, his Motion affects the Government, and it is for the Government to decide which Minister, or two Ministers, in fact, there is no objection to the Minister for Defence also coming here and answering any allegations made against his Ministry. I do not think any

[The Deputy Speaker] hon. Member would be restricted in speaking on any other matter, so long as it comes within the purview of the Motion.

Mr. Ogle: The Minister is concerned only with the police, but I am concerned with the whole of the security forces, and if he had read my Motion thoroughly, Sir, then he would have understood what I was saying. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for the information of the hon. Members all the trading centres in the North-Eastern Province are closed, and all that we know about the North-Eastern Province now is the three main districts, Mandera, Garissa and Wajir. Most of the people have to go to any one of these three places for their needs. Now, Sir, in order that these people can go from one place to another they have to get a permit. They are required first of all to produce their poll tax receipt, secondly, they are required to produce their identity card and thirdly, Sir, he is required to get a pass which is provided at the gate. This is because all the townships are surrounded with barbed wire, and are heavily fenced in, and there is only one way in which one may get into the township. The gate is guarded by policemen and they check on the people going through. Once you have been able to produce all the required documents all the people are put into a long queue which may amount to 700 people a day, but, Sir, the number of cards which are being given may perhaps amount to 150 a day, which means that out of 700 people waiting to go inside only 150 can get in which means that they are forced to form a very long queue day after day in order that they can get into the township and get their requirements. This results in people pushing in along the queue so that they can get into the township quickly, and that is the time when one sees either a policeman or an askari beating these people very badly.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you can see people waiting for a whole day in that long queue to get into the township, and therefore I think that it is wrong that there should be so few permits for the amount of people standing there and waiting. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is also an area where people are not allowed to go at night otherwise if they are caught they are shot, and many people have been shot, because they have been desperate and tried to get into the township and if they have come into that, let us say, five mile radius, then they have been shot, because they are not allowed there after dark. These people could sometimes spend up to one week waiting to get into the township to get what they require and this is what drives them to such desperate measures.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, another bad thing which I would like to tell the hon. Members in this House is that a person can wait three days, or even a week waiting to get into that township, but once he has obtained permission to go into the township he is only allowed to take one pound of sugar. This, Sir, I feel is human torture and nobody can deny that, because these people are being forced to take drastic action.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if one pays a visit to the North-Eastern Region there are many things which one thinks about, for example, the Berlin Wall, the Nazi concentration camps and the day in Sharpville and therefore, I think that the Minister for Tourism should be told about this as it is almost like a human zoo. A friend of mine, Sir, wrote me a letter from Rhodesia the other day and he told me how the Africans there were living under the White minority Government, and when I compare their situation with that of the North-Eastern Region, I find that the Africans in Rhodesia are better off than what we are here.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Government and the President is always telling us to forget the past, but they are making a very big mistake as there is a big difference of opinion here. The Government is not prepared at all to forget the past, while we are urged to forget the present, because the Minister was so concerned when I mentioned about the security forces, because he does not want me to mention what really happened and what is happening even now. I think the Somalis are subjugated because they once advocated secession and, if that is the case, then I think that every Somali should be detained, and I will be the first to be detained, because I was a secessionist. I was a party with those Somalis who went to London during the Lancaster House Conference, and I was party to another group which visited the Colonial Office twice after that. In fact, Sir, I led a delegation when a decision was being taken in Rome about the future of the Northern Frontier District, and now I am an hon. Member in this House and I accept that I am a Kenyan.

However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I cannot see the reason why the Somalis should be banished because they are Somalis. It is almost becoming clear that it amounts to treason to be becoming clear that the case may be, I think I am a Somali. Whatever the case may be, I think I will ever remain a Somali; it does not matter whether it is treason, whether you describe it as felonious, never mind, I will ever remain a Somali, I am proud of it in the way that any Kikuyu or Jalu, or anybody would be.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think the Ayes have it. I see several hon. Members are standing up. Are they requiring a division? Ring the division bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

Order! I see the hon. bone of contention has now appeared. It may be that in that case hon. Members may take a different view of the adjournment. It is not too late. The way to avoid the division going in favour of the Ayes is for the Ayes to refuse to produce tellers. Then automatically the Noes have it. That course might be taken, now that Mr. arap Moi is here.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, my point is this. Since it was not really the intention of the Members that we adjourn the House just like that, and the Minister who was to reply to this Motion is now here, is it not in order for the hon. Member who asked for this question to be put to withdraw this?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have just described the right procedure, if hon. Members feel that way. The right procedure is for the Ayes to refuse to produce tellers.

Now, if we are to proceed with the division, I require two tellers for the Ayes and two tellers for the Noes, please.

If there are no tellers for the Ayes, we do not need to go any further.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wish to request the hon. Mover to try and make the position clear to the House in that we will not produce our tellers for the Ayes. Could he do that?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes.

Mr. G. G. Karuki: Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Minister who is very much concerned in this debate has already arrived, though he came late, could I therefore withdraw the suggestion?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! The question has been put. It is too late for the hon. Member to withdraw a Motion when the question has been put. The only way of getting the required result from the division is, as I say, for the tellers on one side not to appear. Then automatically the other side has it. If, therefore, I am told by the Clerk that there are no tellers for the Ayes, I shall declare that the Noes have it.

Mr. Kamau: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, when the two parties, Noes and Ayes, go to the judging point, is it in order for one of the judges to move from that point and go to vote? Is that correct procedure?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I do not understand what you are saying, Mr. Kamau. I might understand more easily if hon. Members would keep silent.

Mr. Kamau: I mean now, Sir, when Ayes go to one side and Noes to the other side and those who are asked to go and judge, the tellers—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I am trying to understand what Mr. Kamau is saying.

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, I am asking the hon. Members to be silent. Is it in order for the tellers to vote when they have already gone to judge? Have they any right to move from the telling point to the other side?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh, yes. Tellers record their own votes as well as recording those of others. But you have one of each side on either side to check the recording. Tellers are not deprived of their own votes.

Mr. G. G. Karuki: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, I wish to say that we will not be in a position to produce tellers.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): If that is so, and if the Clerk confirms that there are no tellers for the Ayes . . . In that case, I have to inform Members that, there being no tellers for the Ayes, the Noes have it, which means that the House is not adjourned.

Now the debate will continue. Mr. Ogle was moving his Motion. He had had eight minutes and so he has twelve more minutes to go.

MOTION

PROTECTION FOR LOYAL SOMALIS AND BOSNI

(Resumption of Mover's speech)

Mr. Ogle: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, I will continue from the place where I stopped. I can see the Minister for Home Affairs is now in.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Before I continue with my Motion, I would like to say that I thought the President would be in the Chamber today to hear this very important Motion. I and most of the hon. Members were also concerned that the Minister in question was not here, and this is one of the stupid practices of this Government, trying to discriminate against the North Eastern Province—

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Mover in order to describe the Government as a very stupid move, just

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs: because we were late and we apologized to the House for not being here when the debate started?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, you are quite right. I think, Mr. Nyagah, I think "stupid" is unparliamentary. Mr. Ogle, and I would like you to withdraw that word.

Mr. Mate: Point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I am already dealing with a point of order, Mr. Mate.

Mr. Ogle: Sir, what I said was that this is a stupid practice; I did not say that the Government was stupid.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): All the same, I do not like the word "stupid". I think it is too strong, and is also an unparliamentary word. Will you kindly withdraw it?

Mr. Mate: Point of order.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Please sit down, Mr. Mate.

Mr. Ogle: I withdraw, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Mate: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is it in order for a Government which is ignorant of the facts to behave like a Government?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Mr. Mate, Order! I regret to say that not only is that not a point of order, but the way in which this has been worded by you shows that your behaviour is not fully in keeping with the procedure of the House and what is taking place. I would ask you to withdraw from this Chamber.

Mr. Mate: For today.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): For today. (Mr. Mate withdrew from the Chamber.)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I would like to appeal to the hon. Members that it is not a laughing matter when the Speaker has to use his power to ask a Member to leave the precincts of the House. It is not something that gives him, either joy, and it is not something that gives any credit to the House. I think we should treat this much more seriously.

POINT OF ORDER

CONDUCT IN THE CHAMBER

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I rise now to seek your guidance. This is a dignified House, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, and it is an honourable House and when Members, like this one, constantly shout to the House and behave like children, what does the Speaker do on matters such as this; such as Mr. Mate has been doing, because, Sir, I have seen him repeatedly shaming the House like he has done today? We take this behaviour very seriously, Mr. Deputy Speaker. This House is a dignified House and we are honourable Members and everybody should respect this House. What steps can you take, Sir, as the Speaker of this House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): The Standing Orders, I think, are pretty well known. I do not want to say that this has been a regular practice of Mr. Mate unless the Speaker has taken notice of it. Today is the first time when I think one can clearly say that Mr. Mate was not with us in this House, and if it does happen quite regularly I am sure the Speaker will take such action as he thinks advisable to take. Standing Orders are available and there is plenty of scope for him to deal with any hon. Member who does not behave as honourably as we want him to do in this House.

POINT OF ORDER

WITHDRAWAL FROM THE CHAMBER MEANS
WITHDRAWAL FROM THE PRECINCTS

Mr. G. G. Karuki: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, according to the procedure when one is ordered by the Speaker to leave the Chamber, I understand that he is also not allowed to remain in the same building. Now, Sir, what happened the other day, when you ordered some Members out of the Chamber, was that they remained in the bar and enjoyed themselves. Therefore, Sir, they do not feel the effect of what you have decided.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Yes, thank you very much, Mr. Karuki. I perfectly agree with you. We will ask the Sergeant-at-Arms to ensure that the hon. Member who has been asked to leave the precincts of the House, is, in fact, out of the precincts of the House.

(Resumption of Mover's speech)

Mr. Ogle: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I will continue from the place where I stopped. I was telling the House about the conduct of the security forces whenever they go out on operations and how they get hold of the women and rape them.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he did mention that some members of the Kenya Police Force when they go on these operations rape women, could he substantiate instead of making serious remarks on a matter of that nature?

[The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement] him making a Ministerial Statement on substantiation of his statement yesterday, and it is most likely, since he had two matters to deal with in this House, that he has gone back to his office to collect some material to enable him to reply to this Motion.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I do not think that we should make such a drastic judgment against the Minister, since we are not quite sure that he is not coming back. The Mover of the Motion has just started his speech and moving the Motion, and it may be that before he finishes or before the Motion is seconded, the Minister will appear here. Therefore, I do not think, Mr. Speaker, that we should adjourn the House simply because the Minister, at the present time, is not in the House, because it is very likely that he will be here very soon. He has seen the Order Paper and he knows that there is a Motion coming and that he is to reply, and unless we are in a very advanced stage of the Motion and the Minister does not appear, I do not think that we should judge the Government by the very short absence of the Minister. After all, Mr. Speaker, it is not only Ministers who are not here; the percentage of hon. Members which is in the Chamber this morning is very, very low. If one Minister is here, or at least one Assistant Minister is here, he can be a representative of the Government, whereas only a handful of hon. Members who are present represent all other hon. Members. If we take it that way, I do not think that we can judge the Minister—

QUORUM

Mr. Mbogoh: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wonder if there is a quorum?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, there is not. Ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, we have a quorum now.

Continue please, Mr. Gachago.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Speaker, I think the situation has gone a long way to proving that the House should not be adjourned simply because of the temporary absence of the Minister.

What I was saying, Mr. Speaker, was that we cannot judge the Government, we cannot judge in this House Cabinet Ministers or their attendance more than we, perhaps, can judge the attendance of other hon. Members, because Cabinet Ministers are hon. Members of this House, as other Members are Members, with the exception that Ministers do represent Government and it is just their duty—

Mr. Alexander: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think this debate is quite obvious and I beg to move that the question now be put!

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I think a representative of Government must have a chance to speak against the adjournment. We will allow Mr. Gachago to finish what he has to say.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): I thank you, Mr. Speaker. Perhaps the hon. Member thinks that it is obvious that we should not adjourn the House simply because of a temporary situation. The House has a quorum once again, and I can see that another very senior Minister is arriving and, therefore, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose the adjournment of the House for that very, very simple and finicky reason.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support very strongly the adjournment of this House.

Mr. Shikuku: We are fed up with these Ministers.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, Members of Parliament go and think for about two or three days, drafting a Motion concerning their people, and when the Motion comes to this House, you find the Minister concerned runs away. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious issue about the people of the North-Eastern Province. Furthermore, it is no use, when a Member is speaking on such a Motion, to find the Minister concerned with the Motion running away. This is an abuse of the people of the North-Eastern Province.

Mr. Speaker, with these few remarks, I beg to support, and I move that the question be now put.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I would accept that from anybody other than an hon. Member who has had his own speech.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since it is obvious now, can the question be put?

An hon. Member: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is one which has been put to me now which I have to deal with.

It is quite proper, I think, at this stage of a Motion of this kind to allow the closure, so I will put the question.

(Question, that the question be now put, put)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I thought the noes had it.

DIVISION

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Yes, even on a procedural question, if I am in doubt—and I was in doubt then—Members are entitled to demand a division. Ring the Division Bell.

Mr. Aremam: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is that the Division Bell? Why is it being rung when you have already said that the noes have it?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! We are having a division because I was in doubt as to the result of the vote.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I rise to seek your guidance. Normally, when ten Members stand up and call for a division, that is the time the division is effected, but there were not ten who stood, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): No, you do not need ten Members if the Speaker is in doubt, even one person would do.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if the hon. Mr. Shikuku, who has asked for a division, withdraws, would it be in order that we proceed with the division?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I am afraid that cannot be now; it has to go through.

Mr. Okwanyo: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we do not know what we are voting for.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): I will explain exactly what the division is about. The question is that the House do now adjourn until the next sitting day. I do not have to go into the reasons for the debate, but the reason given by the Mover, Mr. Kariuki, was that there was no Minister concerned with this particular debate present during the debate on this resolution moved by Mr. Ogle.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought the matter in question was whether the question was going to be put. Now, the Deputy—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is actually why I reappeared in the Chair.

Dr. De Souza: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The question now before the House is that the question of the adjournment be now put, not the actual decision on the adjournment.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is that what we are voting for, that the question be now put?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes.

Mr. Ngala-Abok: That is very minor, very minor—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! It is the procedural question entirely of the closure of the debate. On hearing the ayes and noes I ruled, with some hesitation, that the noes had it, that the majority of the House were against the closure; but I was asked for a division and our Standing Orders provide that, even on a procedural question, if the Speaker is in doubt as to the outcome, he must allow a division when required. The other practice, of allowing a division on the demand of ten Members, whether the Speaker has doubt or not, only applies to substantive questions. But where there is doubt, there can always be a division, even on the closure.

Mr. Kamau: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I really want to seek your guidance. If the Motion was to adjourn the House because there was no Minister, and if there is now a Minister in the House—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, no, no. It is a perfectly straightforward question which is before the House and on which you are having a division, as to whether the question of the adjournment be now put.

(The House divided)

(Question carried by 16 votes to 15)

AYES: Messrs. Abdurahman, Alexander, Babu, Balala, Bonaya, Dingirira, Godana, Jubat, Kariuki, G.G., Makokha, Mwamzandi, Ngala-Abok, Ogle, Shikuku, Somo and Tuva.

Tellers for the Ayes: Messrs. Oloitipiti and G. G. Kariuki.

NOES: Messrs. Aremam, Ekitella, Gachago, Kali, Kamau, Khalif, Kibuga, Lorema, Maisori-tumbo, Malu, Mbogoh, Okwanyo, Oloitipiti, Omweri and Oüende.

Tellers for the Noes: Messrs. Khalif and Shikuku.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The Ayes have it, which means that the question will now be put.

(Question of the Motion for adjournment put)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, I think you know very well, Mr. Shikuku, that the only people who can be heard on the Floor of this House are the Members of this House, without any exception at all. So it has to be proof outside the House. But I have explained to the hon. Members before that, if after showing to another Member that he has misled this House, whether deliberately or through false information from others, and that that Members will not come and acknowledge that fact and apologize to the House, the Speaker should be informed and he will have something further to say about it.

MOTION

PROTECTION OF LOYAL SOMALIS AND BORAN

Mr. Ogle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that the loyal Somali citizens of Kenya are always in a state of fear and despair and are doubtful as to whether their sincere loyalty is being recognized by our Government, and in view of the fact that loyal and innocent Somalis are always subjected to torture, beating, detention, confiscation of property, chasing away from our towns and homes, etc., this House urges the Government to safeguard the rights and interests of loyal Somalis.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that I regret having to isolate the case of the Somalis as far as we have accepted, the Somalis, as citizens of this country. But, Sir, there are circumstances which sometimes force someone to take such a decision, and I have been forced by these circumstances to make this decision. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a well-known fact, and every one of us in the Chamber will be able to recall it, that the Somalis in the first instance were advocating the secession from Kenya so that they could go and join the Somali Republic. Even during the period of internal self-government hon. Members will be able to recall that the Somalis in the then Northern Frontier District, were being administered directly under the British Governor who was here. That was because there was no Somali representative in this House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, even after independence was achieved there was no Somali representative in this Parliament. Mr. Speaker, Sir, after an extensive effort by the Government to try and show the Somalis that they had something to do with Kenya, it was at last decided that the Somalis should remain as part and parcel of this Republic and that they should accept Kenya as their country. As a result of that and for the first time Members were elected from the North-Eastern Region to this House, and they took up their respective position.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a very wrong assumption for one to think that those hon. Members were stupid. We have accepted to come into this House to represent the interests of our people just for the sake of African unity, African solidarity and for the interest of this Republic. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very wrong to assume that either these Members are bought or that they stay in this House as stooges of this Government, and just fill the political gap for this Government.

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the first action that the Members of the area took was to try and get rid of the European officers who were stationed in that province. We thought that we could fill their places with Africans, and that there would be a sort of understanding between the local inhabitants and their fellow Africans. But, Sir, that proved not to be right. Most of the European officers transferred, the decision being taken over by the Government, in the police, administration and the army, and their places filled with Africans! But, Sir, that proved to be a very wrong approach that we made, because it did not take us long to realize that the Europeans who were already there could do much better, and were doing better, than the Africans who were posted there. For example, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, during the night, we once saw a person wearing a Somali kikoi, wearing a white turban and driving a military Land-Rover. You would have thought that this man was going to the mosque, but when you ask him "What are you doing here?" he turns round and answers that he is on duty, but, Sir, how can he be on duty when at the same time he has in the Land-Rover about two or three women?

Another thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the House is always being told that the army is fighting the Shifita in Kenya, but there is one thing which I would like to make quite clear here today. Whenever there is an operation to be carried out by the army the great sufferers are the innocent people there, because all the army is interested in, although they are meant to be fighting the Shifita, is the women. They manage to get hold of a woman first before they go and fight the Shifita. The news we get is that when the army approaches a manyatta, the first thing

Mr. Ogle] they do is throw off their trousers and get hold of any woman in sight, before they even think of fighting the Shifita. For example, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I may elaborate to the House, there was an operation whereby members of the security forces went out to hunt the Shifita. The army captain who was in charge of this party came back with a girl having taken her by force, he then keeps this girl under the custody of another woman because she cannot refuse, otherwise she will be detained or shot. The local chiefs came to hear of these things which were going on and protested to the district commissioner. The district commissioner was a good man and he sent that woman to prison for one month, because there is a pass system whereby everybody has to obtain a permit before they can ride or stay in the township.

It was only three days before that chief was arrested, Mr. Speaker, and detained. We cannot see the reason why. They just said it was connected with security, but I do not agree. The only reason which led to the detention of that very chief—and this is Chief Ale Hersi in case somebody would like to take a note of it—was that he protested against what the army personnel were doing there.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I should say—and I must make it quite clear to hon. Members here—that the women over there are not interested in men, in fact, and if this Government is determined to rule by 'rapping,' that is a different story—

Mr. Somo: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is in order, when a Member is moving a very serious Motion like this, for there to be not a single Minister present, whether concerned with the Ministry of Home Affairs or any other Ministry?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): Well, it is not out of order, according to Standing Orders, but it is, of course, a very regrettable fact.

Mr. G. G. Karikiki: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, in view of the fact that no other Minister is here and you have regretted the fact that the Minister concerned is not here, could we therefore suspend the business of this House until the Minister has come?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): You can move an adjournment of the House, if you want.

Mr. G. G. Karikiki: Adjournment of the House under what Standing Order? I am seeking your advice, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza): If you just move that the House stand adjourned until the next sitting day, that will be accepted.

MOTION

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE: UNDER S.O. 31 (b)

Mr. G. G. Karikiki, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House stand adjourned until such time as the Ministers will be in the Chamber to enable them to listen to this serious Motion, which is very important, in fact, to the Somali tribe and also people in the North-Eastern Province. Mr. Deputy Speaker, we have heard a lot from the North-Eastern Province and, as far as you know, it is an area where an emergency is still going on and many people there are loyal Somalis and they have been killed by armed forces, according to allegations which have usually been made by Members from the North-Eastern Province. Therefore, it is quite important, when this Motion is debated, that we have present Members of the Cabinet, particularly senior Ministers in the Kenya Government.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to move.

Mr. E. D. Godana: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to second the adjournment of the House.

It is very, very regrettable to see that the Minister for Home Affairs and his Assistant Minister are not here to reply to this important Motion concerning the lives of the people and the property of the loyal Somalis in the North-Eastern Province, people who have recently been beaten up and their property looted.

So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, with these few remarks, I beg to support the adjournment of the House.

(Question proposed)

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Gachago): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am sure the House appreciates that this is a rather regrettable fact, that the Minister concerned with this Motion is not present in the House, but at the same time we must not forget that the Minister was here only a few minutes ago, and it is most probable that the Minister has not gone away; it may be that he is still in the lounge having his tea or smoking, or doing something else.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. De Souza) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Slade) resumed the Chair]

Mr. Speaker Sir, we cannot really say that the Minister is not here since he has been in the Chamber until only a few minutes ago. We heard of the Committee of the House, to substantiate some statement he made; and he promised to do so today. Actually, the right time to do that, the right time for a Ministerial or Personal Statement, is at the end of Question Time. But he is here, ready to substantiate; so I thought it would be desirable for the House to hear his substantiation in between these two Orders.

[The Speaker]

Perhaps you would like to give your statement now, Mr. Moi?

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT*SUSPECTED THIEVES BEATEN TO DEATH

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to make a statement in substantiation of what I said in the House yesterday, as follows: I am concerned with the incidence of "reported murders" which occurred last year in the Western Province in which suspected thieves were beaten to death by the local population, instead of being handed over to the police for proper investigation and process, according to law. A check of the public meetings held throughout the year in the province clearly indicates that this action by the public is due, in no small measure, to speeches made by political leaders who have publicly advocated violence of this nature.

The person first responsible for instilling into the minds of the people that thieves should be killed before reporting to the police was undoubtedly Christopher Makokha, Member of Parliament for Elgon West. Makokha's influence began to be felt in 1964 and, by the beginning of 1965, threats by the people to kill thieves were widespread throughout much of the provinces. Although Makokha has moderated his views during recent months, or at least refrained from airing them in public, others have taken up the call and it is this activity on the part of the politicians, particular parliamentarians, which has led to the deaths of a number of thieves or persons suspected of being thieves.

It is evident that these politicians have been conditioning the people to look upon "beating up" as a praiseworthy dispensation of justice to anyone not holding views in accordance with their own. In the face of such blandishments by persons in high positions, it is not to be wondered that their constituents believe that they are legally empowered to mete out summary punishment to those they consider to be offenders, support for this view being given by the number known to have been killed or assaulted in this manner.

Whilst in some cases, the murders cannot be directly attributed to a speech made in the area concerned, "this policy" of the hon. Members of the House and local politicians in advocating violence in such cases throughout the whole of last year, can be said to have a direct bearing on the attitude of the whole population in meeting out summary punishment which they no doubt believe they are legally permitted to do.

I will now quote some incidents and remarks made by hon. Members in the Western Province during this year and last year. On the 17th January 1965, at Lugari in the Kakamega Division, Mr. Christopher Makokha advised his audience of 200 to beat up thieves, and he was supported by Clement Lubembe.

On the 7th February 1965 at Busia in the Bungoma Division, Mr. Makokha told an audience of 600 people that they should beat up thieves and then hand them over to the police. On the 22nd February 1965, in the Malakisi area of the Bungoma Division a man named Mr. A. O. Ikachi was killed by a group of people who alleged that he was trying to steal their cattle.

On the 22nd March 1965 in the Butere area of the Kakamega Division, a man named Anyanj Oloche was beaten to death by a gang of people who alleged that he had stolen a bicycle.

On the 30th May 1965 at Isokha Market in the Kakamega Division, Edward Khasakala, Member of Parliament, told an audience of 200 people that thieves should be beaten up and then reported to the police. On the 5th May 1965, in the Busia area of the Bungoma Division, a group of villagers killed a man named Salwa Ngatsi an alleged stock thief who was found near a slaughtered cow which had been stolen the previous night.

On the 5th June 1965 in the Busia area of the Bungoma Division, a man named Omega Ompembo was beaten to death by a crowd of people who found him in possession of what they believed to be stolen property. On the 18th June 1965, in the Vihiga area of the Bungoma Division, a man named Elabuna Tubaya was beaten to death by two men who alleged that they caught him stealing thatching grass. On the 24th June 1965, in the Butere area of the Kakamega Division, a man named Bukachi Wandero was beaten to death by villagers who alleged he had been caught breaking into a house in the village.

On the 13th July 1965, in the Busia area of the Bungoma Division, a man named Odour Eliakim died in hospital after he and two other persons had been severely beaten by villagers who alleged that they were cattle thieves.

[The Minister for Home Affairs]

On the 15th August 1965, at Lugari in the Kakamega Division, local speaker John Lusietti, the Kanu branch chairman, called upon the 500-strong audience to beat up thieves. On 22nd August 1965, at Hoyey's Bridge Sisal Estate, a member of the provincial Ngome Naliewa, a member of the provincial advisory council told 200 people that thieves should be killed. He was supported by Jonathan Masinde, a Member of Parliament. On the 7th August 1965, in the Malakisi area of the Bungoma Division, a man named Mathayo Magona was beaten to death by two people who alleged that he was in possession of stolen cattle. On the 8th August 1965, in the Butere area of the Kakamega Division, a man named Akwoni Ingeti was beaten to death by villagers, because they alleged that he had stolen a box containing clothes.

On the 11th November 1965, at Kapsakwany Trading Centre in the Bungoma Division, Mr. Makokha changed his attitude and told an audience of 200 that thieves should be handed over to the police, but, he added, they should be beaten up a little first. On the 20th November 1965, at Mangalia Market—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The reference to the hon. Members should be prefaced with the word, honourable, according to our custom.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Yes, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I see. I will repeat that last bit. On the 20th November 1965, at Mangalia Market in the Kakamega Division, Mr. Martin Shikuku, Member of Parliament, expressed his annoyance at thieves arrested by the police being released. He appealed to an audience of 50 people to kill anyone found stealing. On the 16th November 1965, in the Vihiga area of the Kakamega Division, a man named Jeremiah Aguyahila was beaten to death when he was found in possession of a hen by villagers who believed him to be a thief.

On the 16th December 1965, at Shiatsola School in the Kakamega Division, the hon. Mr. Shikuku, M.P., took a more moderate line when he advised the 150 people present not to beat up thieves, but qualified this by saying that they might do so in self-defence. On the 20th December 1965, at Kwisero Market in the Kakamega Division, the hon. E. Khasakala, M.P., advised an audience of 300 Luhya to beat up persons found stealing and break their limbs, especially if they had been released by the police.

On the 17th, 18th, 22nd and 30th January 1966, Ibrahim Mulama, Member of Parliament, told an audience of between 150- and 200-strong that they should beat to death or bury alive anyone known to be opposing the establishment of a sugar factory at Mumias. On the 16th January 1966, in the Busia area of Bungoma Division, a man was beaten to death by a group of people who alleged that he had stolen a bicycle.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is my substantiation to prove what I said yesterday.

Mr. Makokha: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. In view of the fact that my name has been mentioned several times by the Minister; and in one place, perhaps because I came in late, my name was mentioned in connexion with Kapsakwany where I have never held a meeting since I have been in this Parliament, I do not know how I can ask the Minister to substantiate further what he means, because he said. I held a meeting at Kapsakwany which is in the hon. Mr. Moss's constituency, where I have never addressed a meeting.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Makokha, this sort of thing does happen sometimes. When hon. Members are asked to substantiate, they give the grounds on which they have said something, and in this case it is official reports of specific incidents which the Minister has received, and that is adequate substantiation of what he said, though not necessarily proved absolutely true. Then you get hon. Members saying that it not true. At that point we can get no further in this House, apart from hearing the hon. Member's denial. But if an hon. Member can, by some means or other, outside the House, prove that the substantiating statement was, in any particular, untrue, he can then require the Member who made it to come and acknowledge that it was untrue; and I am quite sure that if you can prove, for instance, that you were not ever at a place where you are alleged to have made an inflammatory statement, Mr. arap Moi will come and acknowledge that it has been proved, and apologize for the false information on which he was led to act. That is how we have to leave it, I am afraid.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am seeking your guidance on this. Mr. Speaker, Sir, you say that if you can prove to the Member, who has given substantiation, outside this House that the information he gave the House was wrong, he should come and apologize, but, Sir, what happens in a case where if you can only get the people to support the fact that you never said that thing, could the hon. Member bring such people to this Parliament to prove his case?

[Mr. Kibuga] place; and these places should also be remembered. But it is up to those people to show the initiative.

I would like to comment on the speech by the hon. Member who claims to be the president of the poor people. It was interesting to note that he only talked about the Government erecting the statue. But when the West Pokot people are asked by this Motion to start by self-help and then the people from outside would also assist them, this man who claims to be the president of the poor people—though I do not accept that he is what he says he is—says the West Pokot people are poor. But if the Government was to get some money from the National Fund and take it to Kapenguria this money would not come from the rich people only; it would come also from the poor people. If someone is poor, at least he can raise ten cents, a shilling or a goat, or even a donkey. I understand the West Pokot people keep donkeys, cows. Do they keep coffee?

An hon. Member: No.

Mr Kibuga: Because if they also grow coffee, then they could assist themselves.

So, Sir, I very much support the Motion as amended and hope that the Government and the House will see no difficulty in supporting this, because the Government has indicated that it is ready to come and help the Kapenguria people with expert knowledge and also with money.

As far as the raising of funds is concerned, it is not necessary that this money must come from Government funds. It could come from the people throughout the country, because everybody within Kenya and outside, appreciates the importance of Kapenguria as the place where the President and his colleagues were tried.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words, I beg to support the amendment.

(Question of the amendment that the words to be inserted be inserted, proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I think we only have five minutes before the Mover is due to reply. Meanwhile debate on this amendment will be limited strictly to that question of whether, or not those words be inserted.

Mr. Omweri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support very strongly the Motion as amended by the hon. Mr. Ngala, that the Government should give assistance. Sir, what we are seeming to forget is that the West Pokot people have taken the initiative already. The buildings which are there were put up by the West Pokot people. The building where the trial took place belonged to the Kapenguria people, it did not belong to the Government. If these people have indicated their wish to offer such buildings for use, I think it is proper that the Government takes the initiative in putting in some material of historical importance, to be referred to when people go there.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, what we would like the Government to do, in the way of showing initiative, is this. The new Department of Archives is collecting information. We would like them to establish centres where they can show that this actually happened here, at such and such a time. We would like, for example, Government to take the initiative and copy what the case was and put it there so that people could see. We would like some fencing, Mr. Speaker. All that the Motion now asks is that Government will give assistance in addition to what the Kapenguria people have already offered. They have given the buildings; they have made the roads; they have given land; they have given the jail; and all they are asking is for the Government to put in extra effort and make that place really attractive. I think it is proper that Government accepts this suggestion of assisting, because they are not asked entirely to be responsible. The people themselves have shown initiative and we now ask the Government to give assistance, in the form of material, of historical references construction and also personnel and recurrent expenditure to maintain the place.

This is all that the people want and it is what the Motion as amended asks, that Government should show initiative and interest by maintaining that place in a proper manner, so that when either tourists or local people in future, our children will be interested in seeing that place, and they will also like to visit it and see exactly what happened. We would not like them to be told only that this happened there, without their going and seeing exactly what happened. We would like the Government to take more interest in this, as we all enjoy and have confidence in the President, and Government should do something to do this in practice, not just saying, in words, that we have confidence, and then, when this kind of thing comes, we do not really take a proper interest in showing that confidence in practice.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the Motion as amended.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onyko): Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You want to speak on the amendment, do you? I think you would be entitled to do that. It does raise some new matter and go a bit beyond what you said in the debate.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onyko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we have already agreed that investigations will have to be carried out to determine the manner in which Chewoyet should be commemorated, I do not think we have strong arguments against the few words which have been suggested by the Member for Kilifi South. Therefore, I would like to accept the amendment as proposed.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Kamau! Just one minute, Mr. Kamau.

Mr. Kamau: Mr. Speaker, thank you very much for just allowing me to say a few words on this Motion. I have to declare my support for the original Motion and for the amendment, and I have these few words to say. We must congratulate the Member from Pokot because he has brought this Motion in a very timely way. It is well known, all over the world, that to miss such statues of our President, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order, Mr. Kamau! I am sorry, you could only speak on the amendment, that is, the question of inserting these few additional words. And I am afraid the time is finished now. I shall have to put the question of the amendment.

(Question, that the words to be inserted be inserted, put and agreed to)

(Motion as further amended proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It is now time for the Mover to reply.

Mr. Lorema: Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all, I would like to thank awfully those Members who have contributed to this Motion. As I said, this Motion was a national Motion, from its appearance, and, Sir, the Assistant Minister for Home Affairs, who spoke in his capacity as Member for Embu South, and who had the opportunity of visiting this area, did say very strongly that he had visited Kapenguria and had seen the place and that this could be of great value to our people in future. That is why I thought of bringing the Motion, with good will, of course. I did not bring it in a way which some Members might have thought, that I only wanted the statue to be erected in my constituency. But, with due respect to history and to the love that my people have for our President, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, I thought it was timely for me to bring this Motion.

Now the Member for Teso thought that this type of Motion was only meant for the Pokot people, but I only sympathize with him in that he only knows about his own constituency, and not about national matters, as such.

Now, Sir, this Motion has been amended. Of course, when I leave this place, I am going to urge my people to start off with the funds; and I think the Government also will play their part, as has already been stated in the Motion, in giving assistance. Of course, in such a matter as the building of a statue, a lot of things are needed, as has been said by many Members here. First of all, the artists who have to do the work itself must be the people who are knowledgeable about the whole matter; this is the sort of advice from the Government that we need; also the finance, of course. I do not see how the Government could stand aside in such a matter. But now that these words have been added, I hope the Government will play its part in assisting in the erection of this statue.

Of course, I am going to start off with this fund and make a special collection. It would look very awkward indeed without the amendment that has just been passed, that is, without the assistance of the Government, because the President's statue which is now outside the National Assembly here was made possible through the special contributions of the people in the country. And I think if the Government were to put the load entirely on the backs of the Pokot people, despite the fact that they appreciate the whole thing, it would be really hard.

Sir, as regard the question of the latter part of the Motion, that is, making it a centre for Kenyatta Day celebrations, I hope the Government, or the party responsible for this, will not just make it a centre for celebrations, but will note the word "chief". Now, in the last two years, Kapenguria has been neglected, as far as this is concerned, so I think this year it would be a good thing if on the 20th October, Kapenguria were on the list.

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to move.
(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly:

THAT in view of the fact that Kapenguria has some historical significance connected with the early life of our President, the Rt. Hon. Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, this House urges the West Pokot people, with the assistance of the Government to erect his statue at a place known as Chewoyet and further urges the Government to include Kapenguria as one of the chief centres for Kenyatta Day celebrations (i.e. 20th October).

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Just before we come on to the next Order, I understand from Mr. Moi that he was required yesterday, in the course

[Mr. Mbogob]

I propose that they do something cheap which would keep them remembering the President without having to undergo a very great strain in building expensive statues or stone buildings. They could have it made with bricks or any local materials that they have.

Mr. Speaker, I think that the people of West Pokot, if the Member for West Pokot was given the mandate to come and move this Motion here by the people, love the President and as an example of people who love this country, the Government might also consider helping them with something very little to add to the effort they will make in building this monument.

Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I welcome the suggestion by the hon. Member that his people should build a monument.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Achieng-Onoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to make certain clarifications since the Government has already moved the amendment, urging the Pokot people to erect a statue at Chewoyet. Chewoyet is not in the bush, Chewoyet is not a forest, but it is a place. What I think we would like to emphasize is that this statue will be built in a place of gathering, if there is a school, or at a place where many people will be visiting.

I think, Mr. Speaker, if we now try to suggest a school or something else, we may appear to be defeating the Motion itself. The intention of the Motion originally was to ask the Government to erect a statue, but since it has now been amended and the Government also accepts the amendment supporting that the place will be of public interest and that some places connected with the struggle for independence should be preserved.

Mr. Speaker, we know that people like to remember the days of our struggle and it is not only we in Kenya who will feel proud to remember those days or the places were our struggles were centred. However, I would like only to say that we would have, if possible, built even schools, erected statues almost everywhere where our struggles were centred, but because of lack of funds we may not be able to do so. But this time we are urging the local people, the Pokot people, to start the move, as they have initiated the move themselves. Whatever will happen later, that really depends on the availability of funds. Sometimes when the local people start a thing, they appeal for public collections and, of course, even their county councils or the Government or some people—including Members of Parliament—can assist the Pokot people to erect the statue that they are asking for.

There is no need for us at the present stage of our development to copy certain foreign countries who have insisted on preserving every single place connected with their history. I feel that, although we cannot insist on preserving almost every place, our future generations will ask us how we struggled for independence, the places of interest, and these places of interest will be visited, as we also visit places of some historical character when we go overseas. We know also of an example of a cigar butt being preserved in a museum because it was a cigar which Churchill smoked during the time he was speaking to the German Kaiser, and of course the British people attach great importance to this.

As far as Kapenguria is concerned, the suggestion in the Motion is accepted in principle, but investigations have to be carried out to determine the manner in which Chewoyet should be commemorated. As I have said, if we are just going to build a statue, it will not be of interest to anyone. Therefore, if the local people start themselves, then the Government may assist in advising the best way of doing it, and help them with advice and also attract the Kenya people by directing them, if they can help the local people with any funds or anything they wish, once they have started.

The House will be interested to know that some of the buildings used by the President during his detention in that district and also in Lodwar are already places carefully preserved for their historical significance. For instance, in Lodwar, I do not think the house is being misused, it is being preserved for historical significance.

On the question of including Kapenguria as one of the centres for Kenyatta celebrations, this, of course, will be arranged in future. I do not want to say that the President himself will go there during Kenyatta Day celebrations, but I think that can be arranged. One Member of Parliament can be asked to go and represent not the Government necessarily, because Kenyatta Day is a party day to remember our struggle; or a prominent party leader can be asked to represent the party, or the President of the party. As far as the representation during Kenyatta Day celebrations is concerned, I think this is supported fully, but as far as the erection of a statue is concerned, it requires investigation and advice on the best way of doing it.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is very little that can be said on this Motion, but I would like to say that Kapenguria is a centre of national significance in our freedom struggle, because the President was tried there. This fact has been very fully appreciated by the West Pokot people and thus their Member has brought the matter forward to the House.

I think we appreciate this very much, but I think it is very important that the Government should do a good job of contributing. It is Government who have refused to do so—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): It cannot quite be that, Mr. Ngala, having substituted West Pokot people for Government; it can be that still Government should contribute.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wanted to amend the Motion by adding three or four words. I would like to add the words "with the assistance of the Government", so that it reads "the West Pokot people with the assistance of the Government".

The Minister who has just sat down has acknowledged the need for the West Pokot people to be assisted financially, and also be assisted technically, so that a good job is made of the statue. We all appreciate that a statue of this type, if it is well done, is well beyond the technical knowledge of the West Pokot people; it is also well beyond the financial resources of the West Pokot people. Having admitted that, since the Government has admitted that, then I submit that in the Motion there must be specific words so it shows that the Government is going to assist the West Pokot people. I agree that the initiative should come from the West Pokot people as has already been shown by the Member; and the West Pokot people should also work with their hands and sweat to start the work. But the Government cannot run away from its responsibility; it must show that it appreciates the fact that the President was tried there in the struggle for freedom, and it must do its bit.

We do not want the Government to be left out of this show, and afterwards say, "Well, we did not commit ourselves." We want the Government to commit themselves definitely in the Motion. Therefore, I would like to add these few words just to show that the West Pokot people will work together with the Government. After all, this is not a local effort. If we build a statue there, it is not for the West Pokot people alone, it is for the whole nation. People from overseas, as tourists or as visitors, will go and see it. It must be done very well indeed, so that it does not damage the image of Kenya and the confidence we have in the President.

Therefore, Sir, I would like to move that these words, "with assistance of the Government", are added to the wording of the Motion.

Mr. Kibuga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Motion as amended is very important. The Government, through one Minister, the Minister for Information, has shown quite clearly that it is ready to assist; and this should be expressed not only in words during the debate but in the Motion as it stands, so that, in future, when the West Pokot people have collected their share of the funds, they could come and seek assistance from the Government. We do not want these West Pokot people to come one day and then the Government says, "No, we never promised any assistance."

But it is most important that the West Pokot people take part and help themselves. Kapenguria is a very important place, very historical, and if the West Pokot people really appreciate the historical significance of Kapenguria, as indeed it is appreciated by the whole of the nation, they will be the first people to make donations. They may not be able to donate much money, but they should at least show that they are interested, not only expect free things. I was surprised—and this is deplorable—when the hon. Member who was to second the Motion said that he withdrew his support merely because the West Pokot people were asked to help themselves. Why should the hon. Member only wish for free things? We ought all to want to help ourselves. So if the Kapenguria people help themselves, we will then be ready to help them.

If the hon. Member from West Pokot and his Senator want to start a fund, they could start such a fund within their constituency and also within Kenya as a whole; and, in fact, I have no doubt that if they were to start this fund the people who were tried with His Excellency the President would also be willing to contribute; and many nationalists would also assist in this.

So I have no doubt that when the Mover of the Motion comes to reply, he will support it and he will take the initiative, because his people appreciate the historical position of Kapenguria, and they will start on this straight away. I think it would be wrong for the Government to carry out the erection completely, without the assistance of the people of Kapenguria, because, although Kapenguria is historical, it is not the only place which should be so considered. There might be some other places where the President visited, where an incident or important occasion took

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

This will then lead to people saying, "You have done this, now we want you to do that." Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that will then be a waste of money. But, Sir, as I have already said, this spirit of Harambee is very encouraging and therefore I would like to ask the people of West Pokot, if they really wish, and I know that they are cattlemen like the people of Masai, but if they really wish for this statue, then they can each give one cow and raise enough funds to start erecting this statue. But, Sir, there is no way in which we can come back here and say that we want the Government to go and do it for them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we must think about this and be very straightforward, because the Member, who claimed here to be the president of the poor people supported this Motion that the Government should come into this business of helping the people erect this statue, when he knows that there are many people in the town unemployed who want money, this and that—

Mr. Agar: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I hear the speaker at the moment constantly trying to make an issue that the Government should not come into this, yet you have ruled that has already been disposed of, is he not repeating himself on what has been disposed of?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, to this extent as I ruled on Mr. Oduya's point of order. Mr. Shikuku urged that although the West Pokot people were being asked to do this, it would still be proper for the Government to help them, and I ruled that was in order for him to say on the question as amended. Now, Mr. Oloitipitip, has made it very clear that he is answering this proposition, that the Government should help, not undertake the whole thing, but help the people. He is entitled to do that, but we do not want repetition of the argument.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipitip): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, but I do not think that I have repeated myself. All I was saying is that—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have actually repeated what other Members said in the debate.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipitip): All I was saying is that Mr. Shikuku—

Mr. Shikuku: Hon. Mr. Shikuku!

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipitip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Shikuku, president of the poor people is one moment saying that there are a lot of unemployed people on the street who want employment and something to eat, and the next moment, he says that we should spend so much money on the statue. Now, Sir, what I was trying to make clear and that is which is which. What do we do? I think that we have no objection against the poor people raising this money and erecting a statue in the memory, and for historical purposes, of our President. They can do that on a self-help scheme.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is one important point which was raised by the West Pokot people and that is that they want the Ministers on Kenyatta Day to go to Kapenguria, which I think is very admirable of them. I think, Sir, that I should support this, and request the Government at any time that apart from sending senior or important Ministers of the Government to other places like Eldoret and others, they should visit the places where our people or the President has suffered, and also where our big politicians, for example, the hon. Mr. Achieng-Onyko, have suffered, at all times. A big reception should be given and a salute should be taken in honour of the previous convictions of our leaders. But, Sir, we have a lot to do in this country, and we require money, and therefore, Sir, we must see that we are not extravagant on such small purposes, and wasting the money of the country, but—this is my idea, Mr. Agar.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Address the Chair!

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipitip): I therefore would like to urge the Members to be very careful because they have a lot to do in this country, and unless we have sufficient money with which to do it we shall be accused of having done nothing for and in this country. Therefore, Sir, if a small matter comes up like this one where the people can do it themselves, then the people should not come here into Parliament and ask the Government to give them money, because we have so many things to do with that money. It is not a waste, but we must see that the money is spent sensibly on the needy people, and where the people can do things by self-help, then they must be encouraged. It is likewise with the people from Karachuonyo, if they want to erect a statue on a self-help basis, they can do it.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member not repeating himself?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Yes, he is, I think.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitipitip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I have made my point and I do not think that I repeated myself, but if

[The Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development]

I did, then I will not do it again. Mr. Speaker, Sir, my point is this I would like to urge the Members—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You have said this really, Mr. Oloitipitip, too many times. Mr. Okelo-Odongo, you did actually second the amendment did you not? I am afraid that rules you out of any further speaking.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether I seconded the amendment—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I have it recorded that you did.

The Assistant Minister for Finance (Mr. Okelo-Odongo): I see. But, Sir, I have instructions here from Dr. Waiyaki to put forward some further points for the Government on this.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am afraid that somebody else will have to do it. Perhaps you could brief somebody else, while we invite Mr. Mbogoh to speak. Mr. Oduya you have had your speech, I am afraid.

Mr. Oduya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I spoke on the original Motion, but not the amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): That is the end of your opportunity in the debate. Hon. Members should understand by now the rules of debate. Each hon. Member has the right to speak once only in any debate, whether or not there is an amendment in the course of the debate. The only exception is that if you have an amendment proposed, an hon. Member who has already spoken may speak again to any new matter raised by that amendment. That is all. Otherwise he has had his turn.

Mr. Mbogoh: Mr. Speaker, it is quite clear that the Mover of the Motion wanted the West Pokot people to build a statue. Mr. Speaker, what I would like to comment on this proposition is that the West Pokot people were very, very generous to our President when he was in detention and, in fact, after leaving detention, the people of West Pokot, who live at Kapenguria would very much like to remember him—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Oloitipitip, please remember not to walk in front of a Member who is on his feet.

Mr. Shikuku: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is saying that the Rt. Hon. Jomo Kenyatta was detained in Kapenguria and the people of Kapenguria helped him. Is he not misleading the House when he knows very well that the hon. Jomo Kenyatta was only—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! Order! Mr. Shikuku, how do you imagine you can raise this on a point of order? Please sit down.

Mr. Mbogoh: That is an argument, not a point of order.

Mr. Speaker, the people of West Pokot would very much like to remember our President and have memories of him all the time. I would think that to erect a statue of the President in that area would be bit expensive, so I was going to suggest that if the people were very much interested in having something for remembrance of the President, they should erect something in the likeness of the one we have erected at Embu, and I would be very, very much pleased to have the Member for West Pokot coming to Embu and looking at what we have done, and then he can go and show the people of West Pokot exactly what should be done, and this will keep the memory for ever.

An hon. Member: What have you done in Embu?

Mr. Mbogoh: What we have done at Embu is that we have erected a stone plus the head of the President on one side and some other things—I do not need to elaborate here just now, but if the Member is interested, I am quite willing to show him that.

An hon. Member: Where did you get the head of the President?

Mr. Mbogoh: We made it. We have enough artists.

Mr. Speaker, when the hon. Member asked for Kapenguria to be made one of the places for Kenyatta Day Celebrations, I quite agree with that, and I always think that if Kapenguria could be made a place to celebrate, then the President himself could go there during the celebrations; it would stimulate the love of the Pokot people for him, so that they will remember his trial there all the time until the end of his time.

Mr. Speaker, if the people of West Pokot need some remembrances, I propose again that they build a self-help secondary school, in the spirit of Harambee which the President himself founded, and then they will name it after President Kenyatta: Kenyatta Secondary School or Kenyatta Harambee Secondary School. After that, they would continue to remember him while their people are being educated in that school. But the idea of building a statue, I still hold, would be a bit costly for the people themselves and, knowing that the people of West Pokot need a lot of maize and they also need education and everything that other people have in other areas,

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, I understand the Minister is questioning whether this is a poor people's Motion. No, Sir, I am not speaking in my capacity as the president of the poor people; I am speaking as the Member for Butere.

Sir, I wish to dissociate myself from the amendment as proposed.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): I am sorry, it has been passed. The amendment is there. You have to speak to the Motion as amended now.

Mr. Shikuku: I see. Then, Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion that, since Kapenguria is an historical place, where the old man was tried with others, it is only reasonable that the Government should do something to help the local people in the area to erect a statue there. But when you take into account the position of the people in Kapenguria, financially and otherwise, you will find that putting up a statue there would cost quite a bit of money. I am aware that they want it, yes, but we have to look into the question as to how they will get the money. Wanting something is one thing; being able to do it is quite another. They are two different things.

Therefore, we in this House, which is a National House, should look into the problem of the Kapenguria people because there is famine in the area and people there are suffering from a shortage of food; they have no water; we need irrigation in the area, and so forth. So I think it should be the responsibility of this House, and of the Government, to try and help the Kapenguria people to have their wish fulfilled.

Mr. Speaker, another hon. Member is asking me to collect money to erect a statue in Butere. I am sorry, but the Rt. Hon. Mzee Jomo Kenyatta was not tried in Butere; we are talking about the place where he was tried, and that is Kapenguria, not Butere. So there is no need for a statue in Butere.

Therefore, Sir, since the wish of the people of Kapenguria is that they should have a statue in remembrance of what took place there—including the hon. Achieng-Onyko, I suppose—I think you should support this Motion so that the poor people, the supporters of the Rt. Hon. Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, should have their wish fulfilled by having a statue there.

Sir, I do not think this is something we can waste a lot of time on; I think it is a formal thing for the Government to undertake to make sure that the wishes of the people in Kapenguria are fulfilled by helping them to put up a statue.

Mr. Oduya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it in order for the Member again to continue urging the Government, when the Government actually has amended the Motion to read that if it is the wish of the people of Pokot, under Harambee, to have a statue of Mr. Kenyantham, they should do it? He is mixing it all up.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): There is some reason, Mr. Oduya, in your point. It is true that the question before the House is no longer that the Government should do this; it definitely is that the West Pokot people should do it. But still I think it is open to Members to suggest that the Government might help them. I have been thinking about this, and it does seem to me to be in order.

Mr. Shikuku: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is what I have explained. I think that the Government should try and help because I know the financial position of the West Pokot. If there is the spirit of Harambee by the West Pokot, then the Government is prepared, as they have said in the past, to help those people who help themselves. If the Kapenguria people can raise about 15 per cent, then the Government can meet the other 85 per cent and their wish will be satisfied.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Government should help.

Mr. Khalif: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to speak on both the amendment and the original Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): No, Mr. Khalif, the amendment is finished.

Mr. Khalif: I beg your pardon, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): The amendment is finished. We have disposed of the amendment and it is no longer open to debate.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was listening very carefully the other day to what other hon. Members had to say, including the Ministers of the Cabinet, in respect of this Motion and I wanted to know the immediate feelings of the hon. Members in respect of the question of building a statue at Kapenguria. I now firmly stand, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to say that the people in Kapenguria and Chewyot need better things more than they need the statue of the President. They have great need for education and water—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Will you speak up, please, Mr. Khalif, I cannot hear you I am afraid.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, they need better things than a statue, because we know that Kapenguria and Chewyot are amongst the less developed areas; and therefore their immediate needs at the moment, Sir, are education, water—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Mr. Khalif, that has nothing to do with this question. You have seconded a Motion that a statue be established. This has nothing to do with education or water.

Mr. Khalif: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am indicating—I know that this Motion has nothing to do with water, but, Sir, I am just collecting it up in a way so that I will be able to emphasize to the House that there is no need for a statue in Kapenguria, because this place needs more important things first.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): But, Mr. Khalif, you seconded the Motion that there should be a statue.

Mr. Khalif: But, Sir, I explained that I reserved my—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Really, Mr. Khalif, you must keep relevant to the question. You must speak in accordance with your attitude to the Motion. You have seconded this Motion that there be a statue. Now, all you can do is to speak on the desirability of having a statue. This has nothing to do with education and water. You must keep to the point.

Mr. Khalif: If that is the case, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to withdraw the fact that I seconded the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): You cannot do that. The only thing, if you are sorry that you seconded the Motion, is to keep silent, which I advise you to do, Mr. Khalif.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to this Motion, I would like to say that I think it is very kind of the Pokot people to remember those old days when our President was tried and subjected to hardships by the Imperialistic Government, and I think that our mercy should go out to them and support this Motion, because the spirit of the Motion is really very encouraging, and at the same time it shows that the Pokot people are supporting the President. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think though that if we are going to waste Government money on erecting statues all over the country, then we are going to find ourselves very short of money for the things which really need money spent on. Also, if we are going to erect a statue at every place where our politicians have visited, been tried, convicted and jailed, then I think we shall incur a great expenditure on our Government, which is unnecessary.

But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that if the people of West Pokot could build this statue themselves on a self-help basis, then I feel that this would be very encouraging indeed, and if our government could come forward and aid them then I have no objection to this.

But, Sir, I think that if we are going to spend a lot of money on helping nearly every place, where the President has been, in erecting a statue, then we are going to incur a lot of unnecessary expenses on our people. Already, Sir, we have a statue erected here in our own Parliament grounds where every leader, every man and every little child can come, for historical purposes, and see our beloved President who fought for the independence of this country, and I think that this statue is enough.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, not only in Kenya, but in most places, you will find that big men, brave men who have worked for the benefit of their people do not have their statues erected all over the country, but erected in one centre, for example, in Nairobi here, we have the statue of our President. It is not necessary for us to waste so much money erecting statues all over the country where—

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Order! I think you are missing the point of the question. Mr. Oloitiptip, that is now before the House. The question is not that the Government erect the statue, but that the West Pokot people erect the statue.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce, Industry and Co-operative Development (Mr. Oloitiptip): Yes, I know that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, but as the Motion has been amended here it says that the Government is going to provide the West Pokot people to do something, to come and help the Pokot people.

The Speaker (Mr. Slade): Oh no, it does not say that. If you are simply answering the proposal that the Government should help them, then that is in order. It is relevant. But you have to be clear, it is only a question of helping them to do it, but not a question of the Government doing it themselves.

