Mr. G. Zinder

We can't do more. I had warned Mr. S. about the military requirements in a thought that most of the military traffic will be upwards & that there will be enough empty trucks for the least to meet the Co's requirements which are small

Say, in reply to 58816, that the Co was asked by tel. to render such assistance as was possible but that the military director of Railways in the Prot. states that it is impossible to meet the wishes of the Co - & so press report that we are unable to intervene further?

[The G^o has had bad luck as the war broke out just as they were nearly ready to start. They ^{previously} have recently put up £100,000 saving themselves to carry on.]
