My dear Lambert,

Many thanks for your note regarding Dr. Livingstone's visit to you and his report on the terribly high rate of infant mortality among the natives in Kenya. Curiously enough my wife was going into that subject this very morning with several ladies from Kenya who are anxious to see something in the nature of trained nurses provided for the natives. I promised to look into the question most sympathetically, and Dr. Livingstone was content on my being so.

Unhappily, the estimates are being passed at the present moment. I found that I could not get out in time to deal with them even if I started immediately, but perhaps I may be able to get something done by way of a supplementary estimate.

Yours sincerely,

Edward Gigg.
