(1) the constitution of the Board of Education (section 3). It is right that the Director of Education and Chief Native Commissioner should be ex-officio members and that the Director should be ex-officio chairman, but we ought to know what other members are contemplated.

However I think a stronger board would be formed if the members are nominated by different interests of my minute on 27/24 or at least if it were laid down in the ordinance that the Governor should nominate members to represent different interests.

In particular it might be

There should also be provision in the scheme for members a definite period of office and security of tenure subject to good behaviour.

(2) Function of the Board. Section 4 might I think be amplified. In particular it might be made clear that the Board should advise on the relations between Govt and Missions, promote cooperation between them and advise on the allocation of the total amount provided for education in the territories.

3) Control of Mission Schools
Section 22, 23, 25 & 28 give the Govt the very desirable power of control over mission schools. A Director who did not believe in the policy of cooperation with missions could in a few years by strictly enforcing these clauses and restricting Government's power over the mission schools to close.

I am very doubtful about giving such wide powers to an officer of the Kenya Govt., unless coupled with a right of appeal to a semi-independent and representative board of education.

(4) Notes of teachers in public schools. Clause 27 may give rise to difficulties and should be omitted. The conditions of each particular afft. should be embodied in the agreement or letter of appointment.

(5) Racial discrimination. I suppose racial discrimination is inevitable in clause 36(1), as it might possibly be desirable to make education compulsory in a particular district for Europeans and for Indians, while inadequate facilities made it impossible to do so for Africans.

(6) Language of instruction. Clause 41 absolutely wrong to lay down that above standard the English language shall be the sole medium of instruction in Indian and Arab schools and very doubtful even in the case of native schools. If as seems probable Swahili is to be the native lingua franca in Kenya, Swahili and not English should be the main medium of instruction. English should be taught only as a foreign language in secondary schools.
