May we have your views please? If a British subject is not domiciled in a British Colony, I hardly think it is proper for to refuse him admission to UK. If this individual has in a foreign country or recommended for deportation to UK, I doubt if it would be possible to refuse him admissions

If the man was being deported from a foreign country - it would be a different matter.

He is a B/S, & I see no reason why he should be any more than Kenya.

Sir,

3

With reference to your letter of the 28th ^(6/5/24) ultimo, transmitting a copy of a telegram from the Governor of Kenya regarding the repatriation of a British subject named Charles Perkins, I am directed by Mr. Secretary Bridgeman to say, for the information of ^{the} Duke of Devonshire, that there is nothing to show that this man has or has ever had any connection with the United Kingdom, and Mr. Bridgeman is not prepared as at present advised to agree that ~~such~~ ^{he} ~~such~~ should be sent to this country.

I am,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,

John P. ...

The Under Secretary of State,
