Mr Strachey
This is a case in which a man whose passage had been fixed up was found unfit to sail and we are liable to pay for the unused passage We should do our best to avoid paying (and the Coy seem inclined to waive the claim if medical evidence is produced) but I do not like the idea of sending the Coy a copy of the medical report which must I think be regarded as confidential.
I have spoken to C.A. who think Coy will be satisfied if we quote from the Report in an official letter which C.A. can send to them.

There have been two or three Nyasaland) which men who require an examination towards the end of their leave apply have applied to CA for passages without telling exam". In some cases the the CA have fixed up pages as a matter of practice. Result - the MA recommends an extension at the last minute and we are lauded with an unusual passage on which we probably have to pay.

I don't know what P.A. Dept practice is, but we have no regular practice of re-examining CA about re-examination.

I think we ought to make it a rule in such cases to re-exam CA on receipt of the MA's first report that So and So is to be re-examined before he goes back and that they should make arrangements as to

This is already the EA Dept practice,
although it can hardly be called a rule.

But we shall be glad to have it as a fixed rule to save possible steps.

A 3 pm or minute to CA is all that is required.
