To all,
 W. Neas

I have been the holder of two additional Veterinary Officers of advanced rank in a very difficult matter. I have absolutely no good candidates before me and the staff are clamoring for a leader. We might have asked the board of management to second us as a two men but that is impossible in view of the passing of the 1st part of the

Dear Walter

I have written to Sir John Kepp a long note for suitable men at some time before I have informed him that the matter must be made until the appointment definitely settled.

I have also asked him if he recommended a lot of assistance for my utility about a month for having an appointment to Mr. Tolson.

Best wishes

Yours sincerely,

Mr. Wallace

I enclose Mr. Fudge's reply in which there appears little hope of obtaining a grant for his apparatus and nearly all the money will be for little apparatus.
I am sorry for the matter, but I shall have to leave it to you.

I am calling on Wade, the Chief Surgeon of the City, to-night & shall be anxious to obtain a list of apparatus.
There are several in the laboratory of the University here. Could I have permission to use the local papers? We could see what can be done for your terms of reference for the letter of I thought I would understand that I should be able to call

Dear Mr. Storry,

Your letter of yesterday just to hand.

I am sorry to say that among the men already qualified I do not know anyone whom I could recommend for the two prospective veterinary appointments. If, however, quite recently qualified men would do I might be able to get two for you from among those who are going up for the final examination next month. The examinations here will be finished about the 20th July. If you think that would do you might let me know what salary will be offered and the other conditions of the appointments.

I regret to say that there is a prospect that we shall not be able to supply men for all the vacancies arising at home and abroad in the near future. A month ago I sent out two men to Egypt, and this week I have a letter saying that six more are required immediately.

I also do not know anyone who would be likely to accept the post of Laboratory Assistant, but I have no doubt that you can get plenty of applications if you will insert an advertisement in the medical papers.

I am glad to know that we shall see you when you are next in London.

Kind regards to Mr Sturdy and yourself, in which my wife joins.

Yours sincerely,

(Sd.) J McFadyen
