Dear Sir

After fully considering the proposal contained in your letter of last Friday I had with the greatest regret to decline it. After my original reply I had to take work which I believed to be temporary since I have found that it will take much longer to complete than I had thought. I don't feel that I can leave it half done.
That is why I refuse the offer

Which I wish to see If in a year or even longer perhaps, I should be free to apply again, would my name be considered then?
I should be glad to know that though of course if the reverse were the case it would not affect my decision now.

I am
yours faithfully
