GERMAN RAIDS ON THE CHIEF TRIBES

Major's act to and measures taken for punishment. States as to disposal of captured cattle. S.A. that he cannot agree entirely with the hurried action of Mr. Bosc, East Afr. Commr, in ordering a raid - as was on Lohwin's village and as consequently transferred him to another post where he will be under a senior officer. Name entirely old Capt. Spain who commanded the K.A. at Mombasa and his O.O. has been instructed to do all in his power in his confidential reports.

Dr Hoffmire

Reading this day before the minister, I was struck with the apparent injustice of the treatment we are giving to Mr Beach is certainly degrading him. There may be reasons of which we are not aware; but going strictly on the representation of the case I cannot find any particular reason why a man should

as I can see the only alternative is to make no writing - in which case 85 the Turkans who have been dispersed should now have been got at for several months, and the end of it, time to discuss what had to be done brought again.

The desultory attainments have been very satisfactory (see also the letter till 16/76) especially so here, was very little observed.

Capt. Spain is doubtless with a certain military road risk; he has had & the
a good officer, and in fact was a man of great worth & ability.

I think best if you & the Gov. & the major & Capt. Spain, the others of course assumed a certain responsibility in going beyond their instructions, but that their action appears to be justified. Your results and that on a review of the facts, & that the Gov. had been does not desire to express any disapprobation of the proceedings and ask about the instructions alluded to at the end of Mr. Temple's message, offering the dep. on 20/7/87 Aug 19.5

No. 222

My Lord,

I regret to have to report that owing to raids committed by the Turkana and to the defiant attitude of these people it has been necessary to punish them.

2. Trouble between the Turkana and Suk, the two principal tribes inhabiting the Baringo District, appears to date back to March 1907. Nothing of serious nature occurred however before February 1909 when a series of raids and counter-raids culminated in a dangerous attack by the Turkana on a ~~small~~ village called Akwile, near Kerio, about 50 miles north of Egeringgo - during which 15 persons, including women and children were massacred.

On Mr. Bayly, the late Provincial Commissioner of the Nairobi Province, visited Akwile shortly after the massacre and endeavoured to get into touch with Lotwin, the Turkana Chief, but without success, the only answer to his overtures being of a defiant nature. At the time we were unable to make a demonstration in force as the whole of the available troops were in Somaliland. There was consequently a delay of several months, and the Suk, despairing of our help, repeatedly applied for permission to take the law into their own hands. They were with difficulty restrained; and the Turkana, finding that we were powerless to protect our allies, and that the Suk did not retaliate, became more daring and continued their raids, killing natives and looting cattle.

4. The country was in a state of turmoil; life and property were insecure; and the Suk abandoned many of their villages in the plains and took to the hills. The position was precarious, during the whole of the latter months of last year the Suk and neighbouring tribes were watching our movements. They were unable to understand the delay and were rapidly losing confidence in the Government. It only required a little more success on the part of the Turkana for the friendly tribes to break out into open revolt.

5. On the return of the troops from Somaliland I ordered half company King's African Rifles under Captain Span to proceed to Kerio, intending, if the Acting District Commissioner was unsuccessful in obtaining reparation with Amis Force, to despatch later a company of the King's African Rifles to patrol the Kerio and Turkwell Rivers. The friendly natives also provided a number of herdsmen, guides, to whom it was intended to employ in driving in the cattle which it was hoped the Turkana would pay as blood money for the murdered men.

8. Unfortunately our knowledge of the country was deficient. It appears that during the dry weather the Turkana are obliged to concentrate at certain water holes and rivers, whilst during the rains they take room where they will, and range omnifluous and a scattering diet.

9. General Borod, perceived that if he could not get the big amount of the sum demanded on his march with the tribesmen at all. As this was a long march of a delay of several months, he sent a messenger to the Turkana to tell them that he had enough and could not afford to stay longer. The attack was made on the 1st of April. The attack was established with very little difficulty. The first line struck him killing 100 to 125 men. He captured. This consisted of 1,200 cattle, 100 sheep and 140 camels and goats, part of which had been previously raidied from the Subs.

10. On receiving this information, I sent a report on his action, I recommended to General the Provincial Commissioner at Nairobi, and Colonel Llewellyn, the Officer Commanding Troops, to proceed to Maringa, the former to fix the collective fine to be imposed on the Turkana and the latter to report as to the position and the necessity for further patrol.

11. The cattle and live stock which had been looted located by the natives from the Saka amounted to 194 cattle and 1,000 sheep and goats, whilst for the murdered Saka, numbering 52 in all, 5,000 head of cattle were due as blood-money according to their own reckoning. I have sanctioned the return of the 194 cattle to the Saka, and as a set off against the blood-money due, I have authorized handing over to the Chiefs 150 cattle, now under the rules in force.

On the 2nd instant, I have issued a warrant to the District Commissioner of Karingo to collect from the accompanying tribesmen the cattle, sheep and goats due to the Saka. The total value of the cattle, sheep and goats due to the Saka is Rs. 1,000/- per head.

The members of your party will be able to witness the delivery of the cattle, sheep and goats to the Saka. I hope negotiations are satisfactory. I propose to return to Lobolo the balance of the captured cattle which the natives have not received full compensation according to their own reckoning for the murdered people. They have my assurance received as much as they can expect in fact, or more if you desire so. I prepared to leave.

10. There is reason at the time and opportunity to retaliate or that any further measures will be necessary, but I propose to keep at least half a company of the King's African Rifles in the Karingo District for the present.

11. Although I consider that Mr. Beech was placed placed in a difficult position and that never to have been satisfactory, I cannot entirely agree with his hurried action. Had Lobw'n's village not been surprised, there would have been great bloodshed, for the Turkana are a war-like race, and it is possible our troops might have been repulsed, in which case our position would have been worse than before. I have therefore transferred him to another district where he will be under a senior officer. Captain Lomn acted on the urgent request of the Acting District Commissioner, notwithstanding this I have held him entirely free from blame and have instructed his Officer Commanding to deal with the master in his confidential reports. Both officers have some excuse for their actions & the fact that nothing has been laid down clearly in print for the conduct of patrols &c. This has now been rectified.

I have the honour to be

Your Lordship's humble, obedient servant,
