END OF SOUTH WALES COAL STRIKE.

Agreement After Long Negotiations.

THREE YEAR'S PEACE.

Terms Not To Be Discussed Again Until 1934.

(By wireless.) London, January 18. It is officially announced that the South Wales coal dispute has been settled.

The Provisional agreement for the settlement of the South Wales dispute provides for the resumption of the hours of work for colliers in November 1930.

The hours of work for underground workers will be seven and a half daily and week of 42 hours. The colliers have accepted the terms which were subject to agreement in Cardiff on Saturday.

The South Wales coal fields were closed on both sides. The mines agreed to the terms which provided that both sides should be returned to work on the 1st of the independent districts of the joint "Confederation."

WHAT IS WRONG WITH RUGBY IN KENYA?

Fostering the Code in the Colony.

BETTER DISTRIBUTION OF STRENGTH REQUIRED.

Public Look For and Expect Good Back Play.

In a few brief weeks the cricket will have been more or less over for the year for 1921. In these intervening days that some of our favorite sports will be getting down to facts with regard to this year. This year will hardly be less than the best competitor in the world. There will hardly be a field to hold a side, so that the boys will be obliged to strengthen themselves from their own ranks. Within it is probable that some of the better men will be going to the States, and so we are left with the boys who are left to play the game. It is not surprising that the boys who are left to play the game are not of the same standard as those who have gone to the States. It is not surprising that the boys who are left to play the game are not of the same standard as those who have gone to the States.

One of the main reasons for the failure of the game in Kenya is the fact that the game is not played in the same way as it is in the States. In the States, the game is played in a way that is more suited to the climate and the players. In Kenya, the game is played in a way that is more suited to the climate and the players.
