More Fidelity Needed.

Despite all the publicity given to the Olofini Commission, it is not possible to say that the Government has not been unfaithful to its duty.

LOCAL HELP IN EXECUTION.

Kenya Delegates Worry Duel with Secretary of State.

(Following is a further account of the Report of the executive group in Kenya, a sub-committee of the Kenyan Native Trusteeship Commission, which was appointed by Lord Passfield in London, Kenya, June 8.)

The Chairman remarked that there have since been delays in the repeated postponement of the Executive Group's statement of all points in English and Kiswahili on the main head of the Executive Group. The Chairman said the Executive Group is in the process of completing its statement of all points in English and Kiswahili. He thought this statement was of the Executive Group's opinion in English and Kiswahili. He said that the Executive Group was practically certain that they had been instructed to do so by the Government. He said that he had been instructed to do so by the Government. He said that he had been instructed to do so by the Government.

Lord Passfield pointed out that it was not British territory, the Executive Group was given under the 1924 Act. He said that he was not sure that the Executive Group had been instructed to do so by the Government. He said that he was not sure that the Executive Group had been instructed to do so by the Government.

PROTECTION FOR EMPLOYERS

Against Competition by his Employees.

As soon as the Ministry of Labour and Pensions has received the report of the Committee on the subject of the "Protection for Employers" it will have to take into consideration the various proposals advanced by the Committee. The Ministry has already decided to take the Committee's report into consideration and to make such amendments as may be necessary to bring it into line with the provisions of the law.

The Committee's report is based on the principle that an employer should have the right to employ whom he likes and to dismiss whom he likes. It is also based on the principle that an employer should have the right to employ a person who is better qualified for the job than any other person who is applying for it. The Committee also recommends that an employer should have the right to employ a person who is better qualified for the job than any other person who is applying for it.
