AN UNUSUAL TRAGEDY.

for it to be of any use. The Fremontist himself proceeded to the scene but by the time he arrived the building was completely gutted and the bodies of the two men were still standing in position. Forework having been completely destroyed.

It was not until later that it was realized that the occupant of the house had apparently been sleeping at the time of the fire and had failed to awaken, presumably being burnt to death. Mr. Stark first came to Bodi Africa in 1922 and for some time was planted in the vicinity. Since 1925 he has been resident in Kenya and has held a number of posts. At the time of his death he was in charge of the Building Department of Mount. Richard. His wife and Martin Ltd.

The cause of the outbreak of fire has not been determined. When the debris was examined yesterday morning the charred remains of the late Mr. Stark was discovered partially buried. Mr. Stark's motor car, which was close to the house, was also destroyed.

The late Mr. Stark who was educated at Cheltenham College and served throughout the European War was a cousin of Mr. J. R. S. Marrow, Assistant Chief Secretary of the Government.

The funeral took place at the Forest Cemetery, Nairobi, yesterday afternoon. The Dean of Nairobi officiating.

BRITISH COMMERCE DISCOVERS SCIENCE

Show of the "Scopes" at Olympia.

POPULAR EXHIBITS Instrument Which Aids Crime Detection.

[From a correspondence.] When industry decided to present a show to the public, the exhibition of British craft was born again.

British scientific instruments will demonstrate even more completely than heretofore the extent to which they are meeting the requirements of this industrial market.

Two forces have combined to give British makers of scientific instruments their present pre-eminence. First there was the War which, in other words, meant that "necessity was the mother of invention."

When scientific instruments were not out of gear, many British makers were not only equal to the task of meeting the demands of the war, but they also developed the opportunity and developed the industry so successfully that they can be said to have done so successfully to an extent which is not generally appreciated.

British lenses. In the case of spectacles, at least for what at one time was the vast majority of cases, they were made in this country. The making of unobscured lenses is a most exacting industry, and it is not surprising that the British lens maker has been able to compete in the market of the world.

ECONOMY SUPERLATIVE QUALITY AS WELL. There are nearly three times as many sheets of Economy as there are of other brands.

DEVELOPMENTS OF THE AFRICAN AIRWAY

Flying Boats to be Abandoned?

'SERV' SERVICE TO KAMPALA.

[From a correspondence.] Important changes in the service of the British Airways through Africa are planned to follow the introduction of the fast Armstrong Whitworth "Ansons" motor planes.

The sale of new instruments is not yet high. Before the War, as far as definite business for chemical and physical purposes were concerned, in the British were not very extensive.

The Episcopate. One of the most interesting exhibits will be the epidemics which have been of wide extent in the past few years.

And perhaps the most popular of all exhibits will be the "three and a half" microscope which is used for a special purpose.

Another exhibit which is sure to attract much attention at Olympia is a special microscope which is ready to use at all times and is connected in order to show the results of the microscope.
