UNDAMAGED VINE-YARDS

PROSPECTS OF A FINE VINTAGE.

LABOUR AND TRANSPORT WILL BE SOLVED.

It is a well-known fact that the vineyards of the Cape have suffered from the effects of the drought, and it is not until now that the prospects of a fine vintage are being looked upon with confidence. The weather has been so favourable that the vines have been able to grow and ripen their fruit without any serious damage to the leaves or the fruit itself. The labour problem has also been solved, and the transport of the grapes to the market will be no longer a difficulty.

ITALY AND THE WAR.

In view of recent developments, the following article, which appeared in the "L'Espresso," really has much to say on the subject of the Italian position in connection with the movement of the Italian troops towards the front.

It is interesting to note that the Italian Government has maintained its neutrality, and a general feeling of confidence has been maintained in the Italian Government's action. An important factor in this regard is the fact that the Italian Government has maintained its neutrality, and a general feeling of confidence has been maintained in the Italian Government's action.

Why, man, who is 'particular' about the perfect maturity of his whisky. He knows that every drop of 'Johnnie Walker' can be relied upon as perfectly mature, because the proprietors of 'Johnnie Walker' have insisted that a reserve in the trade—three-and-a-half million gallons of pure, small Scotch whisky always in ready, maturing.

THE SUGAR SUPPLY.

HOME OFFICE PURCHASE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is officially stated that the Home Office has purchased about 50,000 tons of sugar, valued at £1,000,000.

The purchase was made in Java, Ceylon, the West Indies, British Guiana, Mauritius, and elsewhere.

The action of the Government was largely due to the fact that the price of sugar has risen to a level which is not only beyond the means of the Government but also beyond the means of the people.

GERMAN WAR NEWS. THE NEGOTIATIONS OF 1912.

The German Press seems to be becoming rather more careful and certainly less voracious in dealing with the British flag than the "Times". The "Chicago Gazette" writes in an obscure corner the semi-official reply to the dispatch made by Mr. Angell in his speech at Cardiff with reference to the negotiations between England and Germany in 1912. It will be remembered that Germany was not content with any pledge regarding England's attitude towards Germany herself, and that it was a promise that Great Britain would be neutral in the event of a war between Germany and Germany's enemies. The "Chicago Gazette" is full of a very timely English's participation in the present war which has been practised not by Germany but by Russia, proving by accuracy the German Government estimated the value of English assurances when it repudiated the declaration of the English Government. The utterance of the English Minister in London, however, a bold and intricate light upon the statement of the English Government that it was a policy of non-intervention in the war. It is a policy of Germany which caused England's intervention in the war. If it is so, that policy could still exist after the well-known declaration of the House of Commons and to the House of Commons, the world now has also been proved by the world's most complete panorama in England that the British Government has already in 1912 determined under all circumstances to take part in a European war on the side of Germany's enemies.

It would be difficult to conceive a more moderate and unaccountable than this. Apart from everything else it is evident that, if the German Government had indeed been aware in 1912 that Great Britain was determined to take part in a European war on the side of Germany's enemies, there was no reason in Germany's determination to enter the war.

GERMANY FINANCIAL ACTIVITY.
The German military news, according to several dispatches, is a very interesting one. As we stated the "Vorwärts" has been made a point of course that it will not write any more about "the Kaiser". The "Vorwärts" news has also been reported that the Kaiser has been seen again at the front. The "Vorwärts" news has also been reported that the Kaiser has been seen again at the front. The "Vorwärts" news has also been reported that the Kaiser has been seen again at the front.

LONDON "ALMOST DESTROYED."
The "Vorwärts" correspondent sends us some curious extracts from a letter received by a German lady from her father in Berlin. He writes:

"London will be safe. Half of it is burned and Zepherus always comes over the place. Two years ago we spent most of our time in the basement, and now it is almost destroyed. The Kaiser will not see me. I will not see you any more. The war will not be over, because England cannot find the money to continue it."

A GERMAN SOLDIER'S LETTER.
The following extract from a typical German war newspaper, which was published by the "Chicago Gazette" in London, is an interesting piece of life in the enemy's trenches:

"I feel that it is not a very nice situation that has just been able to sleep for three weeks with being disturbed. The English who are in front of us, are a tough lot, but all the same they are not so strong as we are. As far as we are concerned, the war is no longer consists of rifle battles, but of regular fighting. We have been 10 days in the trenches, but for the first time since the beginning of the war, we are not in the front line. We have been 10 days in the trenches, but for the first time since the beginning of the war, we are not in the front line. We have been 10 days in the trenches, but for the first time since the beginning of the war, we are not in the front line."

WILSON'S REPLY TO KAIBER.
Composing on President Wilson's plan, and the German Government's attitude towards the United States, the "Chicago Gazette" has published a letter from a German soldier to a German soldier in the United States. The letter is a very interesting one, and it is a very good example of the German soldier's attitude towards the United States.

WOMEN IN THE TRENCHES.

The French women seemed to think that the best cure for shyness or blush was to get into the trenches. In the Westlandshire hills the women found the trenches and the best of it was to get into the trenches and bring the men to the front. It was a very interesting one.

Our London Letter.

From Our Correspondent.

London, Oct. 16
LONDON IN WAR TIME.

Before passing on military matters, let me deal with the general situation here. In the first place there is still the sanguine confidence which, though justified, still has the same spirit of self reliance, still has the same feeling of almost god-forsaken endurance. So long as the nation's independence is at stake, we are not likely to be discouraged.

Let us daily life is constantly changing. You would not recognize the London of the old days. The distance there is no great change—the most striking feature is the absence of the main streets and the absence of the main streets and the absence of the main streets. They always express me well and some of them seem to be in a state of collapse. It is not the same as it was before. It is not the same as it was before. It is not the same as it was before.

It is at night that we have the most striking change. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished.

The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished.

The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished.

The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished.

The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished.

The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished. The new picture is as if the lights of the city were being extinguished.
