THEATRE ROYAL (NULLI SECUNDUS) GRAND WEEK-END PROGRAMME.

SATURDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY. October 16th, 18th and 19th.

- 1 The Mystic Mat. Comic Play. My strange and wonderful things happen through the possession of this Mystic Mat which will cause much amusement.
2 A Prisoner of War. Historical. A magnificent actor playing the double nature of the great Napoleon. He is seen through the Man of War and as a prisoner at St. Helena. His escape through the guards is also shown amidst other interesting scenes.
3 Making a Man of Her. Waters. Comedy. A very amusing Western play of quite an unusual type, exceptionally well acted.
4 Such an Appetite. Comedy. A set of traps crams much laughter by a domestic theme and attending a country ball where they each indulge in their having an unaccountably big feed.

INTERVAL 10 MINUTES.

During which time Delicious Ice Creams and Refreshments may be obtained in the most Comfortable and Restful in Africa U.S. The recognized Rendezvous of Nairobi.

5 Warwick War Topical

Showing—QUEEN ALGERIAS inspection of the new at Fort Churchill Sunday on the river at Maidenhead. Girl's Field Day under Sir R. Baden Powell and the Prince visits Barbara's Model Village.

6 A FOUR-FOOTED HERO

IN TWO PARTS. A Western Cowboy film of exceptional merit, riding over scenes of the breaking in of wild horses and bull fights play a prominent part and the clever trick work and intelligence in the prize-winning horse is well worth seeing.

7 The Dashing Hussar

Every "Jack" in the village has a "Jill" but Hussar captures all the girls, which eventually leads to much trouble and an ending.

8 THE CHAPERON

Very laughable play, showing the fun and amusement caused through the misapprehension of the Chaperon to a party of boys, and generally they each find suitable employment.

9 All's Right with the World

A Herpworth production of much interest. Peter Potts is called to the country through the medium of wild flowers. Through tramp along to Italy. Let us meet and generally they each find suitable employment.

10 The Chaperon

Very laughable play, showing the fun and amusement caused through the misapprehension of the Chaperon to a party of boys, and generally they each find suitable employment.

HOW WE STAND

THE RUSSIAN AND THE END OF THE GERMAN PUSH.

(BY EDGAR WALLACE)

London, September 6. When I have read my morning news papers, and the more or less... I have had a greater army in constant readiness than ever had in the whole course of our history...

He can hold them against the Russian when he comes back," you say. "Yes, indeed, he has the Vienna, the Bucharest, the Salonika, the Grodno, Kirovo, Novo-Georgievsk, Izmail, and so on."

THEATRE ROYAL (NULLI SECUNDUS)

GRAND WEEK-END PROGRAMME.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY, October 18th and 19th.

- 1 The Mystic Mat Comedy-Play. Many strange and wonderful things happen through the possession of this Mystic Mat which will cause much amusement. 2 A Prisoner of War Historical. A magnificently acted play, giving the double nature of the great Napoleon. He is seen on board the Man-of-war and landing as a prisoner at St. Helena. His escape through the guards is also shown amidst other interesting scenes. 3 Making a Man of Her Western-Comedy. A very amusing Western play of quite an unusual type, exceptionally well acted. 4 Such an Appetite Comedy. A set of tramps create much laughter by disquising themselves and attending a country ball where they include in turn in having an uncomfortably big feed.

INTERVAL 10 MINUTES.

During which time Delicious Ice Creams and other Refreshments may be obtained in the most Comfortable Restaurant in the U.P.S. The recognized "L'Indevous" of Nairobi.

5 Show-Wing War Tocal

Shawing - QUEEN ALEXANDRA's inspection of the new airfield at Farnborough; Sunday on the river at Maidenhead; Girl's Village; Princess visits Barnardo's Model Home; Home, etc.

6 A FOUR-FOOTER HERO

(IN TWO PARTS). A Western Cowboy film of exceptional merit. Showing the most daring feats in horse riding ever seen. The breaking in of a wild horse and the clever trick work and intelligence of the prize-winning horse is well worth witnessing.

8 The Dashing Hussar Comedy.

Every "Jack" in the village has a "Jill" but the spiffing uniform of this dashing young Hussar captivates all the girls, which eventually leads to much trouble and a sad ending. INTERVAL 10 MINUTES.

If you have already partaken of an Ice Cream, we can thoroughly recommend our Delicious Coffee, or vice versa.

9 All's Right with the World Picture Poem.

A Heretofore production of much interest. The poet checks the victory and goes out into the world; Peter is called to the country through the medium of wild flowers, they tramp along together. It allows us familiarity, and eventually they each find suitable employment and have a happy ending.

10 The Chaperon Comedy-Play.

A very laughable play, showing the fun and amusement to be obtained through the non-appearance of the Chaperon to a party of boys, when a substitute had to be found, all came right after a very exciting time.

THE BRITISH GIANT.

M. M. Tomlinson, special correspondent of the "Daily News," writing from the British headquarters, says: "Counting within the shadows of the British main which seemed to heaven in the distance..."

Well, there we were again, after 6000 marching and Indian dust beneath the arid canopy of glorious and sunny France... I can only recall the words of the orderly who on turning was no because the rime of the war, thinking of English streets and shopping up a hill..."

Men who line the trenches while guns spit fire at one another... The English poet is especially rich in the matter of metaphors..."

It is difficult to see it from the trenches. It is in the light and blunder of a word stroke... The French soldier is not France from Normandy..."

It is the general commanding a great war... The French soldier is not France from Normandy... The British soldier is not Britain from London..."

WATCHING AND WAITING.

Revealing operations in France and Belgium. Spencer Wilkinson given in the press an optimistic estimation of the reasons for the movements of the British army being confined to small local contacts. His article...

Mr. Lloyd George told us that the British army in the field has thirteen or many more as the "critical Expeditionary Force" in divisions. This means, it is thought, that the French army numbers not less than 650,000 men. Not a quarter of that number will be immediately available from the line and in the rear for supporting operations. The rest are waiting. It might seem that the only way to defeat the British would be to attack along the whole front from Arras to Ypres or Dinanque, and to reproduce on a gigantic scale the success of the Marston Campaign. But this is an impracticable procedure...

What every commander wants is to attack his enemy from two directions as well as from the front. It is not possible to do this unless the army is able to move in a flanking position. The object is not so much to surround the enemy as to destroy his army. It is easier to attack at the same time from the front and flank than to surround him. The whole front would destroy the army that carried them out.

It is possible to get at the enemy's rear while attacking him from the front. This is done by attacking him from the rear and attacking him from the front. The object is not so much to surround the enemy as to destroy his army. It is easier to attack at the same time from the front and flank than to surround him.

How is the flank of the attacking army to be reached? The object is not so much to surround the enemy as to destroy his army. It is easier to attack at the same time from the front and flank than to surround him. The whole front would destroy the army that carried them out.

Do British troops in the field have the same position as the French? The object is not so much to surround the enemy as to destroy his army. It is easier to attack at the same time from the front and flank than to surround him. The whole front would destroy the army that carried them out.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH EXCHANGE.

What is the cause of the depreciation in America of British currency? The question has been discussed in the columns of the Standard. It is rather prevalent that it may be due to a war happening in any of the different countries. It is not very different ground, and it is not very different ground, and it is not very different ground.

The position in this Britain has been a source of surprise to many. It is not very different ground, and it is not very different ground, and it is not very different ground. The position in this Britain has been a source of surprise to many.

There are several ways of meeting the depreciation of the British exchange. The object is not so much to surround the enemy as to destroy his army. It is easier to attack at the same time from the front and flank than to surround him.

WAR RE-UNIONS.

During the present fortnight struggle there have been three meetings of old friends of brother, of fathers and sons who were on the opposing sides in the battle. Very few of these meetings were of a great character, and in more than one case soldiers met their men on a reuniting some old-time chat.

One case, which merits particular attention, was that of the soldier who was sent with his regiment of infantry to fight against the Austrians. For days he was in the ranks of the "Glasgow Herald" and he was in the middle of the foremost fighting on the American front. He was in the middle of the foremost fighting on the American front.

THE PROBLEM OF THE AIR. [By "MEMORABLE."]

During the present campaign we have had a practical demonstration of the uses and limitations of both aeroplanes and dirigibles. The most promising results have been obtained up to the present by the three distinct classes: the aeroplane, the dirigible, and the helicopter.

SIR E. CARSON ON THE OUTLOOK.

Edward Carson had made the following statement to the Associated Press of America:—

"How long will the war last and what will be the result? ... To such questions as these any British statesman must give two answers, and that the first will be that the war will last as long as it takes to win."

One does not just, that the war has been fought on us, and that we are making, and are going to make, every sacrifice that makes a nation great to bring our case to a successful conclusion.

We have a right, I think, to ask ourselves by examining their own consciences as to whether they have done their duty in the present struggle to do or can do in insisting that the laws of humanity and doctrine of international law, which had been so carefully fostered in times of peace, are carried out."

Neutral are the executive power to compel observance of the principles of international law, and if they fail to do so, the result must be disastrous to the world as a whole."

THE WAR THROUGH SWISS EYES.

One of the secret and also one of the ablest Swiss newspapermen, the Editor Eduard Beerli, a member of the Swiss National Council, has just published in the first year of a striking review in his own organ, the "Gazette de Lausanne," M. Secretan's views on the war as they are seen by the Swiss people."

Possibly, like the garrison of a beleaguered town, their armies may still make successful raids and win heroic laurels in local victories. They may perhaps take Warsaw. They may perhaps make it impossible for the Allies to reach Constantinople. But they will not succeed in breaking the iron ring encircling them.

SAVING A MACHINE-GUN.

One of the most striking features of the war has been the part played by the machine-gun. The British and the Germans started the war with machine-guns. In no other war has the machine-gun played so important a part. It is the machine-gun that has done more to save lives than any other weapon. It is the machine-gun that has done more to kill than any other weapon. It is the machine-gun that has done more to change the course of the war than any other weapon.

The machine-gun in the hands of incompetent—who means ordinary—men as may be placed upon it, and it may fall down at the push. Only trained men can reduce any gun in a second, and only a trained man can disengage a gun by the position of the moving parts, then proceed instantly to take the gun apart with every part of the machine-gun familiar to him in its case of breakdown, and fix it before the machine-gun has even been picked up on his gun. It is the machine-gun that has done more to save lives than any other weapon. It is the machine-gun that has done more to kill than any other weapon. It is the machine-gun that has done more to change the course of the war than any other weapon.

HOSPITAL BEDSTEADS. After considerable investigation throughout the Industrial Manufacturing districts we have secured a large consignment of thoroughly reliable and durable Bedsteads. These are known throughout the Hospital World as "TAUNTON" being a sufficient guarantee of quality. The six metal upright struts, make the "TAUNTON" ANT-TILT SAG THREE-PART BEDSTEAD ideal from the standpoint of reliability, and the height of mattress from the floor, from the Doctor's point of view. Owing to the large increase in cost of producing metal goods we cannot hope to secure a further consignment at such a low price and for this reason would advise Hospital and Nursing Home Committees, to place their orders early.

The Bedstead is also very useful for the BUNGALOW. A word of Counsel. Buy for the Future. Price: Rs. 29-50 only.

level phase of machine-gun fighting, and that is aiming. The possibility of the gun being killed in work does not seem to us to have been considered before. Says a writer in "The Cornhill Magazine," and yet the machine-gun aiming has made the machine-gun a more important part of the modern rifle in this direction of development. They attain the result by selecting a position from which they can obtain a view of a target, and then they aim at the target. This is the principle of the machine-gun. It is the machine-gun that has done more to save lives than any other weapon. It is the machine-gun that has done more to kill than any other weapon. THE ALPINE FRONT.

The "Times" special correspondent on the Alpine front reports that the Italian troops have succeeded in forcing a considerable breach in the Vosges mountains...

Every day the pressure in the mountains makes clearer the ground which the Italians have to contend. Three Italian battalions have held the same spot as the time spent among the mountains farther west.

It is an extraordinary feat the country people an admiration for the Austrians...

The Austrians have been driven slowly back, and when they leave a town or village they always retreat by burning or demolishing it with incendiary grenades.

It has been reported that the Italian troops have been driven back from the Vosges mountains...

They interviewed their enemies—Austrian and German. Why should they not interview the Austrians who are all-drink?—Joseph Thomas, M.P.

OUR OWN BORDER.

Through German Eyes.

A TERRIBLE STORY!

The following is translated from the German...

Several communications about the fighting in this country...

During August and September there were several attacks...

The heavy details of the English troops were not only...

The British Government was not only to send more troops to East Africa...

disposal altogether 70,000 men (Austrians, Indians), which had been collected...

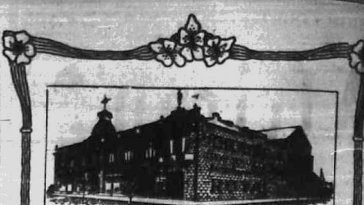

It was now necessary to send more troops, although the English were already...

During the last months from August, 1914, to the first of September...

There was no one on Mafeking, who, by the time the British were present...

The great Priepri Mankos bordering on the river is described in the following...

The town of the river occupies an area of nearly 20,000 natives...
