RUMANIA AT WAR.

Effect of Intervention.

MOST MOMENTOUS EVENT.

Coming on top of Italy's declaration of war against Germany, the declaration of war by Rumania against Austria is regarded as the most momentous event of London dated August 23. The fact that Rumania has been expected does not make the news less welcome. Indeed, it has been a long time since it has been expected that a most opportune time, for more reasons than one, but especially in view of the immense industrial and agricultural resources which Rumania possesses, it is expected it will mean for the Allies a very serious blow.

CONVALESCENT SOLDIER ENTERTAINED.

Side-Gate Outing.

A number of convalescent soldiers were entertained by the side-gate committee on Saturday afternoon. The party was held at the side-gate and was most successful. The committee is doing all in its power to make the convalescent soldiers comfortable and happy.

LABOUR AFTER PEACE.

Deputation to Mr. Asquith.

* OUTLINE OF POLICY.

A deputation from the Irish Industrial National Union of Great Britain, which was received by Mr. Asquith, has presented a memorandum to the House of Commons. The memorandum deals with the question of labour after peace and the need for a new industrial policy.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. Drainage Question.

SOMALI VILLAGE AGAIN. The usual meeting of the Municipal Committee was held in the Municipal office on Tuesday, September 15, Mr. F. G. Hamilton presiding.

DRAINAGE. In this connection Mr. Allen thought that the drains were a disgrace and a source of the drainage. It was a fact that certain plots were not connected with the drains and he would like to see them connected.

Mr. Bowen said that Mr. Allen had proposed that the drains be connected with the main sewerage system.

SOME IMPRESSIONS.

When we read the story of the great battle of the Somme, it will be our duty to read the story of the little company of men whose labours are never out of the minds of their countrymen...

IN THIS DAY of instant communication by wireless, a greater part of the life of the Commander-in-Chief of the British Expeditionary Force is spent in the trenches...

THE ARMOURY OF A FIFER. At exactly five and twenty minutes past eight each morning Sir Douglas takes his rounds...

THE TALLMAN OF STRENGTH. It is said that most of those who are killed in the trenches are killed by their own men...

It was just when the British soldiers were retreating that Sir Douglas Haig advanced that way followed him. In the end he was surrounded and he was killed.

On the last night of my visit to the company I was sitting with the Commandant-in-Chief of the British Expeditionary Force...

LAMBERTS GUARANTEE that their pipes, fittings, shafting, boiler, and machinery are made of the best materials...

Year's Research.

The report of the Advisory Committee on Memorials, of which Lord Rayleigh is chairman, is published in the "Scientific Proceedings"...

RESULTS OF WORK.

The results of the work done during the year are summarized in the following report...

The King telegraphed Sir Douglas Haig, congratulating him upon his success in the battle of the Somme...

The French have made most important progress to the south of the Somme, where the villages of Vermandevillers and Horry, hitherto partly occupied, and Horry, which was captured on September 10, have been captured, and 1,500 prisoners were taken...

The position on the Russian western front is practically unchanged. The Russian army has advanced to the north of the Narva, and in this locality, captured 3,000 prisoners...

The writer received a postcard from Andrew Black by a messenger from the village of Vermandevillers and Horry, which will be recalled by a large number of the British public...

Counter-attacks advanced by the enemy both on the British and French fronts have been met with success and the Somme was repulsed...

In the Balkans, the Allies are continuing to make a general offensive on the left bank of the Vardar, the British left terminated in favor of the British...

There was a little Boer news but varied about the way the Boers had done no kindness to the British...
