Haigs of Bernersde

INTERESTING SKETCH.

Many sketches have appeared recently of the Douglas Haig, the Douglas Haig, who is an illustrious upholding British name. That the Douglas Haig (Bernersde) was a distinguished soldier sufficiently mentioned of the interesting fact that the Douglas Haig (Bernersde) was a distinguished member of the Haigs of Bernersde—the most ancient family now subsisting in Scotland—writes John O'Hagan Lock in "The Douglas Haigs of Bernersde," a book which will appear in the near future. The Douglas Haigs of Bernersde, for centuries before the Douglas Haig (Bernersde) was distinguished by stability, and passed the Douglas Haig.

It is said that the Douglas Haigs of Bernersde were a very ancient family now subsisting in Scotland. The Douglas Haigs of Bernersde were a very ancient family now subsisting in Scotland. The Douglas Haigs of Bernersde were a very ancient family now subsisting in Scotland.

THE QUAKER LAIRD OF BERNERSDE.

Historically interesting too, is the career of Anthony Haig (1634-1712), the twelfth generation of the Douglas Haigs of Bernersde. He was a Quaker, and probably did more than all his predecessors put together to refine the fortunes of the Douglas Haigs of Bernersde. THE QUIRIES.
Slaying Another Week.

The announcement that the forces had secured brilliant success at Madaba came as a sudden and pleasing surprise to the citizens of some thirty months ago, to swoop down on Egypt, and win the Canals thereby making of our route to India and Australia were, perhaps somewhat disturbing. But these were minor results that might have occurred in any case, as there are more roads to India and Australia than those through the Canal. It was the considerable loss of prestige among our Mohammedan subjects in Egypt, and from there to every part of the world, that would have mattered. Fortunately, at that time, there were some thousands of our gallant Allies passing through the Canal, and these, with the assistance of Indian and Egyptian troops who were on the spot, easily beat off the half-trained and ill-disciplined German-Turk. Masters after our Mohammedan subjects outward appearance to be in abject terror, and waiting to be attacked, but had not been, at least, so far as our troops were concerned. Instead of quietly attacking, having evidently been systematically prepared to attack, we now far into the desert, and we are now far into the desert, and we are now far into the desert.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

Indian Candidate's Views.

To the Editor, "East African Standard."

The Indian community has been asked by the Government to elect a member to the Municipal Council by some "rough and ready" means of election. I received yesterday a note from Mr. Deo, asking whether I would consent to be nominated as a candidate. Having accepted, I think it not improper that I should make a public declaration of my policy.

I shall attempt by taking my countrymen to adopt what I called sane politics. The demand for equality of rights with the Europeans is a demand to which I have no objection. I shall ask the Indian community to elect a member who will be able to represent the Indian community in the Municipal Council.

The banner is a disgrace to India. It is a disgrace to the Indian community. It is a disgrace to the Indian community. It is a disgrace to the Indian community. It is a disgrace to the Indian community.
