AT THE ROYAL CORRESPONDENCE.

"The Queries" Show. UNAVOIDABLE CANCELLATION.

Large numbers of people were sadly disappointed on Saturday night, January 13, when they learnt that the performance of "The Queries" had been cancelled at the eleventh hour.

WEARAT. TO THE EDITOR, "THE EAST AFRICAN STANDARD."

Sir—I was pleased to see a letter in your issue of the 12th inst. regarding the subject of the "Queries."

It may be wrong, but it looks as if the writer were a farmer, interested in the subject of the "Queries."

My view is that the "Queries" should be performed at the eleventh hour.

It is a pity that the "Queries" have been cancelled at the eleventh hour.

SEPARATE PEACE.

Austria Willing to Sue. SEEKING TERMS TO AVERT RUIN.

The "Daily News" correspondent at Geneva says that there are indications that Austria is prepared to negotiate with Great Britain and France for peace, on a condition so terrible that she will accept practically any terms to avert ruin.

A Geneva telegram says that the military situation in the Balkans is becoming more serious.

PROSPECTS OF B.E.A. Some Pertinent Questions.

A correspondent sends us the following amusing question in regard to conditions prevailing in B.E.A. We invite answers in this connection, would serve a useful purpose. 1st.—The climate of East Africa as an elevation of four to six thousand feet for Europeans. Between what degrees does it vary, and what is about the rainfall? 2nd.—Do you think the climate suitable for rearing children? South Africa seems a salubrious clime and their climate is much the same? 3rd.—What are your views with regard to the height of 4,000 feet affecting a healthy man's heart? 4th.—What do you think about the risk malaria, and do you to consider ordinary malaria a serious illness? 5th.—What are your views as to the lines of the railway, taking it for granted some large tracts suitable for European occupation? 6th.—What are your views with regard to the preservation of game: (a) As a source of revenue to the country by bringing out the tourist, (b) As to damage to the country and the greater one of spraying disease. 7th.—What do you advocate the destruction of disease-carrying game? 8th.—What does your occupation? 9th.—Do you think a head worker in with a capital of £200 would succeed in agriculture? 10th.—What are your views with regard to the all-India of mining as a South African country similar to Australia?

ITALIAN WAR AIMS. "EAST AFRICAN STANDARD" WEEKLY : EDITION

Prime Minister's Declaration ADRIATIC QUESTION. (Illustrated) The Paper for the Home, Club, Hotel, &c.

In the Chamber on December 8, Signor Bonelli, Prime Minister, delivered a speech dealing with the war situation and the Government's foreign policy. The speech comprises 18 paragraphs, of which the first 10 paragraphs deal with the situation of the army in the Trentino, on the Isonzo, and in Albania, and the work of the navy which the enemy did not dare attack. He announced that the industrial mobilization of the army of 2,300 factories. A reference to his sending greetings to the Rumanian King and army on the entry of Rumania into the war caused a outburst of cheering in the Chamber, as did also a reference to Italy's destination of war against Germany. Dealing with the future of the Adriatic Signor Bonelli said that the difference of opinion expressed in the Italian and foreign press were partly due to the effects of an error which had been made in the original plan of installing army manouvres, and added: "But for us and our Allies this question is no longer under discussion. Final victory will secure for the command of the Adriatic, which signifies for Italy the securing of her legitimate and necessary means of defence, which, without overlooking the just demands of the neighbouring Slavonic development, will also secure for us our most desirable rights on the opposite shore." (Loud cheers.) He looked to the future to a confident and cordial collaboration between Italy, Serbia, and Montenegro in the political and economic sphere, and the restoration of these nations and also of Belgium constituted an essential aim of the war. By the dispatch of an Italian message to Belgrade Italy was able to lend Rumania assistance and to give confirmation to the latter's army's participation in the development and the solution of Balkan and Mediterranean problems from the point of view of common interests. Signor Bonelli said that the Balkan and Mediterranean interests had always been the object of Italian attention. "Let us not seek sympathy," he said, "but only the balance of power, which is a necessary condition for the maintenance of the international situation of our country." He said that the Italian Government had always been the object of Italian attention. "Let us not seek sympathy," he said, "but only the balance of power, which is a necessary condition for the maintenance of the international situation of our country." MAN-POWER AND MUNITIONS Sir T. White on His Visit to England.

Canadian fleet, Sir Thomas White said that he was deeply impressed and affected by the uncompromising cheerfulness, courage, and devotion of the men in the fighting line and the fine quality of the commanders and officers generally. Sir Thomas White added that he was also deeply impressed by the indomitable spirit and determination of the British people. All sections of the community were not only making every sacrifice, however great, in his opinion, but he believed that the British nation would be victorious in the present moment, but he believed that the ultimate victory would come at the expense of the lives of the British people.

LETTER FROM THEATRE COMPANY

After the reading of the report the following letter was read from the directors of the Theatre Royal Company, Theatre Royal

To the Chairman,
Nairobi Municipal Committee.
Sir, We, the undersigned, beg to offer a protest against the method of obtaining the Theatre Royal at a municipality without adequate cause being shown. While the financial loss to the Theatre Royal Company is material the loss of two nights performance necessarily incurred having been imported at an considerable expense, we do not think that a question of profits to the individual must give way to the public safety. In the case in question such drastic measures were ordered as are usually called for. The Government Engineers were not so expert as to adopt any temporary expedients. As a matter of fact there is no reason to maintain that the report was an opportunity to adopt any permanent expedients. As a matter of fact there is no reason to maintain that the report was an opportunity to adopt any permanent expedients. As a matter of fact there is no reason to maintain that the report was an opportunity to adopt any permanent expedients.

Yours etc,
S. JACOBS, Chairman,
S. MERRICKS, Director,
A. DAVIS, Director.

In the discussion that followed the reading of this letter, Mr. Eastwood said that he was of the opinion that the fact that the roof was dangerous, he thought that the Town Clerk was quite right in doing as he did. He said that he did not mean to say that the roof was bound to come down; it might have come down for that matter, but he did not think that the public should be placed in danger. Mr. Hayes then explained that a wall will fall without the slightest warning, but a wooden roof will give first, and he thought it might be possible to get the roof repaired. The Town Clerk then said that he had consulted the Chief Engineer, who said that he quite agreed with the remarks in the letter. The Government Engineers, however, might come down at any time and therefore, for the present, he did not want the roof down. Further discussion arose which Mr. Wood thought about this roof at Charing Cross Station.

Mr. Hamilton then asked what the Committee was proposed to do in the position of the Town Clerk. He would have adopted the same steps as had been taken. He thought it was clearly a case for the Town Clerk to refer to the Town Clerk.

W. C. HUNTER & CO.,
Secretary.

It was proposed by Mr. Thomas that the matter be noted. This was unanimously agreed to.

RIKISHAS.

The next business the Committee considered was a letter from Mr. Edey, the manager of the Nairobi Hotel, which had been sent to the Chamber of Commerce, and which that body had sent to the Municipal Committee for their consideration. The letter complained of the high prices charged for rikisha fares, saying that a rikisha would take a person the same distance down South for less than half the fare that the same distance would cost in Nairobi. It also said that the rikisha traffic should be better regulated.

Mr. Eastwood said that he quite agreed with the remarks in the letter. The Government Engineers, however, might come down at any time and therefore, for the present, he did not want the roof down. Further discussion arose which Mr. Wood thought about this roof at Charing Cross Station.

Mr. Hamilton then asked what the Committee was proposed to do in the position of the Town Clerk. He would have adopted the same steps as had been taken. He thought it was clearly a case for the Town Clerk to refer to the Town Clerk.

Some Important Facts about the...
Mr. Eastwood has given some important facts about the...
"I will save away," he said, "substantial amount, a rather large sum, for vendors are being asked to not to expect to enclose their bills in five per cent. premium; while it has been reduced to one per cent. and it is solvent. We state that it within two months to one year, and it is comparatively reasonable. The addition was made for the purpose of having a more adequate margin."

Figures given by the Standard to the Admiralty have shown that it has been about two and a half million in the whole merchant fleet. In addition, of course, there has been heavy losses in the merchant fleet that are equally serious. The total number of tons of shipping in the world is about 100 million tons, of which the British fleet has about 20 million tons. The British fleet is the largest in the world, and it is the backbone of our commerce. It is the backbone of our commerce. It is the backbone of our commerce.

THE RUMANIAN RETREAT Military Consequences. POSITION OF GEN. SARRAIL.

The official reports of the past week do not leave in any doubt that the temporary conquest of Vukitch by the enemy is complete, and at the same time they show that, thanks to the tenacious resistance of the Rumanians in the Carpathians, the bulk of the Rumanian Army has been able to retreat towards Moldavia...

RUSSIA'S NEW WAY LLOYD GEORGE'S interesting Sketch SHOWING THE NEW ENGLAND.

On the occasion of the Maritain "Duty from the Ice-free Port of Alaska" by the Hon. General P. DeWitt, representing the Tea, who on local "Morning Post" (London), now I feel (says a Russian "Foreign Correspondent" in St. Petersburg) that the contrast between the old and the new Russia is very striking. The old Russia was a country of serfs, and the new Russia is a country of free men.

CRITICISM.

By the Editor, "EAST AFRICAN STANDARD." "It is very easy for the members of the press to ridicule those who make an earnest endeavor to assist charitable enterprises."

"The 'County' attempts to be humorous in its account of the concert, stage effects, 'The Countess' and 'The Countess'."

"With regard to the 'duff' notes, the Editor is not a genius, but he is a genius in his own way. He is not a genius in his own way, but he is a genius in his own way."

ing, and were now practicing in ruins, while the Indian was lying in among the grass. Had he suddenly developed one of his running fits and driven into the ditch again. I do not believe that he had had the energy or interest to go after him and pull him out. A crowd of natives of all degrees and colors had gathered round, and from the frequency of their words of "Mzungu," I gathered that their whole conversation was about me. I placed my hand and my look fell on the messenger from the back. This brought me back to the present in hand. It bothered me to action, so I called the boys behind the car, and got three of us to go to the sick Indian. We had just all interest in that car. I considered it all interest in that car. I considered it all interest in that car."

"I hope that if there was a place of public resort for news such as it, it would get the hottest place. The next thing to think about was what to do with the sick Indian, who was still lying in blissful ignorance of the trouble that we were all in. A commissioned fovee to lift him and carry him, but he suddenly remembered our presence and he ran. He ran. He ran. He ran."

Comradeship on the Somme

THE FRENCH SOLDIER'S PHYSIQUE.

One of the happiest results of the Somme campaign has been the demonstration of the complete unity of the British and French men (says the special correspondents of "Times" writing from British Headquarters on December 8). The harmony in mind and co-operation in action are, of course, taken for granted. They have been complete from the moment, on the morning of July 1, when the line of blue and khaki stood unbroken over the parapet of Flanders trench, and the other morning three months later when the British and French combined armies simultaneously from opposite sides set out to shake hands at the railway line in the middle of the conquered world. Since that day, also, there has never been a moment when they were not literally standing side by side at the point of juncture of two armies and in places at least one space when they took shoulder to shoulder the two ends of the same German bayonet.

It has again and again been necessary that a man should take a certain position—a position, or position, or position, or position. I have again and again been necessary that a man should take a certain position."

The Management of the THEATRE ROYAL desire to inform their numerous patrons that Mr. G. JARETSKY will give PIANOFORTE RECITALS Daily from 3-45 to 8-15 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays from 10-30 to 11-30 a.m.

Refreshment Rooms. Tea, Coffee and Confectionery are a variable luxury and the Lunches served beyond comparison.

Officers of the Two Armies. The relation between French and British officers are different from those which prevail among the men; but here again I think that the advantage is with the French.

It is largely this—the more admiration of the French officer now in the field of the reserve, one laughs to think what the physical man—which is the first place that they are fighting men. Then he sees them fight and hears of more things than he has seen. And the French on the other hand have been very quick to recognize the qualities of our men. Sometimes, in talking with French officers, I have thought that they put almost too high an estimate on the British soldier, which chiefly means that they are fighting men.

For myself—and I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier.

For myself—and I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier.

For myself—and I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier.

For myself—and I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier. I have no shame in confessing to it—I am a soldier, and I am a soldier.

found in us are precisely those which the national work-ethers in the symptoms. Concededly agreeing, then, to be disappointed or disillusioned over the situation, but compensating such the French and British armies have got on amazingly together. The High Commands of both two armies have given us a sample of the perfect co-operation which they are capable of. What I believe will have greater importance to the human race in the future is the sense of brotherhood which has been developed between two peoples.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

The Cabinet Crisis: Inner History.

ECONOMIC SITUATION AT HOME.

General Staffs' View of War.

LIBERAL PARTY SPLIT.

London, December 7. CABINET CRISIS. This week, as you will have seen from the newspapers, we have had a great political crisis, which has ended by the resignation of Mr. Asquith and the endorsement of Mr. Lloyd George for an administration. There is no doubt he will succeed, and the only question is how long the administration will last.

Now, it would be assumed that Mr. Lloyd George is popular in the House of Commons. He is not. A large number of Liberals have only supported him because Mr. Asquith was his chief proponent. While in no way cause for apprehension among the House of Commons as a whole, the new Ministry is a fair chance, but very soon Mr. Lloyd George will have to face the solid opposition of the Irish, aided by the other Liberals. Stirring times therefore await us, and if this is the case, the strength of the new Government will not be tested because of the more or less fictitious prestige of the new Government.

STRENGTH OF NEW GOVERNMENT. Although no announcement can yet be made in detail, it is quite certain that the strength of the new Government will be tested in the small group comprised by Mr. Deby, Mr. Henderson and Sir Edward Carson. In fact, you may have there the nucleus of the new Ministry. Sir Edward Carson, though his inclusion excites the immense public backing of the country, is not a man as strong as Lord Derby. His inclusion is probably no more than a concession to the Irish, and his inclusion in the Cabinet is a concession to the Irish, and his inclusion in the Cabinet is a concession to the Irish.

For the sake of all that the country has been through a Government, and Parliament, which was hurriedly adopted on Monday, when Mr. Asquith announced that all the ministers had resigned, next day, the Government was reconstituted. The business was unoccupied. Accordingly, the Government of the Chief Whip, the sitting was adjourned till Tuesday, and there was no decision. This 30 seconds' gathering brought the members of the House from all parts of the country and showed that the Liberal Party is split from top to bottom over the action of Mr. Lloyd George. A meeting of the Party takes place at the House of Commons, under the chairmanship of Mr. Asquith, and it is pretty generally expected that the bulk of those present will support the course of Mr. Lloyd George. Mr. Lloyd George's strength, as already mentioned, is not in Parliament, but in the country, and it is an enormous force. He will ultimately have to do with the very real and very powerful opposition of the "Irish Unionist League," which will not only sweep the Party question, and so no one was the Liberal Party, but the "Manchester Guardian," which is the mouthpiece of the new Administration. Government of the Liberal Party. The newspapers generally, it is true, are in favour of Mr. Lloyd George, but it is at any rate not the Liberal Party as a whole which is in favour of Mr. Lloyd George. The Liberal Party as a whole, it is true, are in favour of Mr. Lloyd George, but it is at any rate not the Liberal Party as a whole which is in favour of Mr. Lloyd George.

LIBERAL PARTY SPLIT. When the Liberal Party was in a state of confusion, the Liberal Party was in a state of confusion, the Liberal Party was in a state of confusion. The Liberal Party was in a state of confusion, the Liberal Party was in a state of confusion. The Liberal Party was in a state of confusion, the Liberal Party was in a state of confusion.

CHURCH ARMY SOLDIERS' OLB.

Programme.

Thursday, February 8.—Mrs. McKinnon has kindly arranged a concert for this evening.

Saturday, February 10, at 8 p.m.—Evening meeting.

STANDARD NOTES.

There are now nearly 8,000,000 head of cattle in the Union of South Africa.

There will be a concert at the Church Army Soldiers' Club at 8 p.m. to-night.

There will be a committee meeting of the Parkside Sports Club, in the Club, on Friday, February 9, at 8 o'clock.

Whiteway, Ludlow & Co., Ltd., have recently to receive a consignment of the famous Figueira life-saving waistsuits.

The annual sale of pedigree stock at the Government Farm, Nairobi, has been held on Saturday's weekly.

M. Capas, writing recently in the "Figure," says: "To push our race in a few months, all that is required is energy, energy and method."

In pursuance of the adoption of more rigid restrictions against enemy subjects, the Japanese postal and telegraphic regulations have henceforth be totally closed to enemy aliens.

In a letter received from home by the mail, we take the following extract: "The Municipal Committee for a new two-store building to be erected in the Government Road, for the House of Representatives. This will add considerably to the amenities of this thoroughfare."

The "Lansdown Gazette" now serving as a mail ship, was taken into Dover on the 10th inst. She had wounded and changed German prisoners of war, and was bound for Shanghai. She was towed alongside of the Admiralty ship.

A number of the representatives of the Church Missionary Society, who were in East Africa, many of whom had of their experience in a specially arranged lecture meeting which was held in the Kingsway Hall on January 16.

It has been decided to inaugurate a trip into the mountains in France, and a heavier one upon music-halls. Cinematograph will play a part in their great recreation. The cinematograph tax is expected to yield £120,000 a year.

A grey mule was discovered dead on Wednesday, February 7, in the drain outside of the Theatre Royal. We wonder if the O.V.D. has been informed of this, as we noticed an advertisement in our issue of the same date for information regarding a grey mule that had strayed from the Veterinary Department.

It will interest those who saw the pictures "Jack Tar" and "John Bull's Sketch Book," which were shown in Nairobi by Mr. B. H. Marks, to know that they are now the subject of litigation in the present sitting of the High Court. Mr. Marks is suing Messrs. Smith and Thomas for a sum of £10,000 for an alleged theft of prints.

During the discussion about standardizing Nairobi time, which took place at the Municipal Committee meeting on Thursday, Feb. 7, Mr. Haynes suggested that they should do as was done in Durban, namely put up electric lights at a stipulated time for a second or two, then that would indicate to the people that the time was correct. However, saying on an occasion, could the Committee entertain the idea of such an experiment?

get into army for all that. In the opinion of the writer the Government should and history will show that the gravest to the Empire was only narrowly averted.

where he won on that it was a long time, only three years. The writer who has been writing for a long time to encourage that we are not too far from the mark in the desire inside three years. We want to get into Germany and see to it that we get it in 1911 and a good portion of the peace is finished up before we get into Germany it will be unwise that in a long time is necessary.

DETTING ON. Patriots will no doubt feel pleased that the policy so far advocated in the press is gradually being adopted.

The pity of it all is that owing to the fact that has been written and for which he is to blame. It is a pity that the Government has not been able to do so much more for the welfare of the people.

Most law abiding people from London, Dublin, Cork and other parts of the Empire had a good outside look into their own hands in the other side.

For the purpose of a few minutes to the Hall for the duration of the war will be the the same.

WESTERN FRONT

Fall of Grandcourt.

BRITISH SUCCESS

London, February 7.

A French correspondent reports that, in the course of a German raid on a salient near Grandcourt in Lorraine, the enemy gained possession of the salient, and the French were completely repulsed. Three enemy were brought down by British snipers.

It is thought that the German raid was a success, but that the British were able to prevent the enemy from making any permanent gains.
