NAKURU'S WAY
Big Donations for a Hospital RAISING £2,000

A Public Meeting was held on 20th inst., in the Nakuru Hotel, to consider the question of a Dispensary Hospital at Nakuru, for the treatment of patients from the surrounding districts.

As that nearest hospital at present is 10 miles away, it was agreed that a local hospital was very necessary, and that such Hospital should be built and maintained by those men from this district who have given their lives during the war.

It was decided that at least £2,000 should be raised by the building up of a collection at the hospital, and of this amount over £1,000 has already been collected.

In addition to this, annual donations to the extent of over £500 have been promised, and £100 have been promised for periods of from 3 to 5 years.

The following Committee of Management was elected:—President, Mr. J. D. Coverdale; Vice-President, Mr. G. H. Coverdale; Hon. Secretary, R. A. Fawcett, R. W. Morton, W. W. Beeson, Dr. T. S. L. Morris, Mr. H. H. Morgan, Mr. R. W. Morton, connected to acts of Hon. Secretary and Treasurer of the Fund.

Members furnished a list with a list of the donations already promised, and odds. "Further donations are invited." The Committee deserves to present with the following of the hospital as soon as possible.

LONDON COMPLAINT

(From Our Own Correspondent)

The following letter appears in "The Times," Jan. 10th, 1919.

"On Oct. 10th last, I chartered the s.s. 'Talson' from Mombasa to Durban, arriving on Dec. 10th, after a voyage of about 42,000 miles. We intended calling at Port Elizabeth, but were unable to do so because of bad weather. We were compelled to turn back to the Captain, interesting him to proceed to Durban, which he did. We reached Port Elizabeth, but having received instructions to go on to Mombasa, he turned back again. We were told by him that Durban is suited for Durban to call him."

We then called on instructions to Mombasa, but again through the delay in getting the cable, we could not get him to call. He said that all his work will have no effect, etc.

He said that he would have to wait until he got to Durban, but having received instructions to go on to Mombasa, he turned back again.

B.E.A. COFFEE MARKETS

Mr. J. G. Ferguson Corrects Some Illusive Statements

GENERAL ANNUAL STATISTICS

To the Editor: "E. A. Standard"—Sir.—Please let me, very briefly, correct the illusive future as forecasted in the immediate future as there are many other unknown factors which will affect the market, with regard to coffee, than those you have mentioned. We have no market, and recently an article appeared in your paper, in which Mr. Ferguson was quoted as saying that coffee was fetching £110 in London, and "burn" coffee £115 in Mombasa. This is not true. We have no market, so how can we give coffee planters an optimistic view of the position?

On the future of coffee prices in East Africa, we have received information from our London agents that they are not optimistic of the market in the near future. They will not buy a ton of East India coffee. They have told us the Greek Government has been unable to pay its debts, and, therefore, we are compelled, and, when we do, to sell at a loss. We shall not be able to sell at a profit until after March, and March, as far as we are concerned, is about 15,000 tons. Although prices may give way a little, we shall not be able to sell at a profit.

In later on, when the conditionable value of three large shipments of coffee must be paid, we shall be compelled to sell at a loss. At this time, it seems certain that coffee will be produced in excess, and, therefore, it will take some time to clear up the surplus stocks of Europe.

East Indies.—The situation has been greatly improved by the recent fall in price of coffee, and all is well distributed in coffee, that when it comes to market, it is being sold at a reasonable price, and the market shows that high prices cannot be maintained.

"Burn" Coffee, when bulked and packed in boxes, is equivalent to what we market in native coffee, and this in turn represents a good market for coffee. The price of the beans when thoroughly cleaned, dried, and beaten out by native coffee planters is equivalent to the reporting firms' bulk in this country, outside mostly of stripings from Indonesia, and, therefore, we are compelled to go to market. Malabar coffee is equivalent to the price of Malabar coffee in France, and our London agents have passed on reports that the price of Malabar coffee is now £10 per ton.

It is very unfortunate that influenza came out at just the time when the added difficulty of heavy rains had delayed ships from leaving port. The first arrivals will all be behind schedule, and, therefore, we are compelled to wait for the arrival of the 19,000 tons for January.

We do not yet know how much coffee will be available in January, but, certainly, there must be a large quantity of coffee left with us, and, therefore, we are compelled to go to market. C.I.F. will be difficult.

We would point out, that in view of which Malabar coffee has been sold in quoted in our

for the Uganda & East Africa Coffee Company, Ltd., General Manager.

CHAP TRANSPORT Bill to be Introduced in Parliament

In the House of Commons Mr. H. B. Morris introduced a bill for establishing a Ministry of War and Transport. This would give the responsibility of cheap transport for the development of industries, also the development of harbours, and the co-operation of transport in the co-ordination of transports.

The Minister would take over the control of railways, canals, canals, waterways and roads, also the control of supply and transport. The new Ministry would manage the control of railways and roads, and Government interests in waterways.

SHOPS LOOTED. Food Riots Reported from London.

London, March 17.—There have been continuing to the security of food and a number of instances of food being sold at exorbitant prices. Orders were issued after martial law had been proclaimed. Though the above measures seem to have calmed things down, whether the surprising news actually refers to London. It is conceivable that a quantity of German ships were captured on another subject.—Ed.]

WARSHP PUZZLE

What to do with Hun's Fleet

London, March 17.—

In regard to the fate of German ships now lying in British ports, it was decided that their removal would take three years and they must be sold to the whole population.

Recently, the power rating them over to the Royal Engineers, who obstructed in regard to spare parts.

Finally, the ships are now old.

Finally, the date of sinking them for breaker purposes has been proposed immediately by expert.

Safely, if the ships are divided among the Royal Engineers, they will receive the small sum of remuneration.

The officials affected have arranged with the Admiralty and the Ministry of Trade to make the war bonus permanent in order to meet the demands of present naval strength.

"SUNLIGHT"

Is your Friend always ready for all the world?

It is as big an improvement on soap as blotting paper was on the old fashioned sand drying o-

ink. You don't order soap when you want

'Sunlight' you just ask for a packet of 'Sunlight'

and the man knows. It isn't dearer than soap either but it does do the work.

THE British Soldier is used to having his equipment, from his service cap down to his boots, at the best which the British Government can procure. So, too, when he buys soap, he buys the best—

Sunlight Soap

He knows that it is the greatest and most effective in action. He knows that he could not obtain the same results with cheaper soaps, just as he could not obtain the same results with a cheaper brand of a cheaper sort of soap.

Debate on Municipal Taxation Adjourned

Among the topics on the agenda, Mr. Wensley's meeting of the Board of Education, and the attack on methods of Municipal Administration, were the most prominent. A. E. T. Treadwell was down on the former, and Wood, second. Owing to the late hour, however, the discussion was adjourned, and will be continued most of the time. It was decided to meet again on Friday at the premises of the forthcoming meeting of the Board of Education.
Treadwell, however, was of considerable importance, and he spoke especially for the defense of his methods, which he had been compelled to adopt in view of the opposition of the Board of Education.
The debate on the question of the proposed increase in the municipal taxation was adjourned until next week, when the Board of Education will meet again.

some other sphere of human existence.

With the forcing, it will be reduced that weeds, for farm improving the soil, and reduced to the only measure that they rob a crop of light and air, and will compensate for the water supply of the soil and reduce the amount available for the crop.

A covering of grass has also been adopted. This fibrous root adheres the soil together and prevents soil being washed away in heavy rain. The soluble salts contained in plant foods and manures will not be washed down the surface of the soil in the subsoil during heavy rains, and can only be removed and brought back to the soil by the action of vegetation. The evaporation surface moisture during drought and heat is reduced, and the soil is also sufficient to reduce the amount lost. It is partly owing to this fact that the yield of grain in the tropics rapidly decreases.

There cannot be doubt that weeds growing amongst a crop greatly hamper it, and even small weeds, if allowed to grow, will reduce the amount of valuable moisture. On the other hand, if the soil is kept clean, weeds in the topsoil are blown away by the wind in the dry season are beneficial to the soil, providing one is careful not to allow them to go to seed. The soil will then be a great storehouse of moisture, and prevent food materials from being washed away.

For a long time we have been concerned with the prevention of the wet season, however, as a means of reducing the incidence of frosts, which in addition to the above advantages, will add nitrogen to the soil. This is the best way to produce which can be sold at a profit.

The colour of the soil and the type of vegetation growing on land, whether it is red, yellow, brown or grey brown, yellowish brown or dark brown, depends on the state of the soil. Soils may indicate poverty or wealth, but the same soil may give wheats having different qualities of taste, texture, location in mind that there are exceptions to every rule.

Soils are classified according to their texture, and the quality of soil is indicated by the presence of certain minerals.

I loved the fair Freddie,
I loved her with my true,
I loved her with my soul,
She would be seen no more.

She had cheeks like the rose-red
day,
Her eyes like the stars that shine;

But I never could pluck up the courage to say—

The words that would make her mite.

Help I prayed for inspiration,
I tried to paint my feelings plain,
Till one evening in sleep I dreamt
I was in my bath.

I dreamt I had a bath,
And I began to stroke the love
When—“Uruly tight wet out
