MONDAY, NOV. 17, 1914.

Among the leading industries in East Africa are the diamond, probably the most important of the country. It is a curious fact that the diamond is not found in any of the countries of East Africa, but it is found in the Transvaal, where it is mined in large quantities. The diamond is a very valuable stone, and it is used for many purposes. It is used for jewelry, and it is also used for industrial purposes. The diamond is a very hard stone, and it is used for cutting and grinding other stones. It is also used for making tools and machinery. The diamond is a very valuable stone, and it is one of the most important minerals in the world.

Where it Has Been Tried and How

LESSON FROM BERMUUDA.
 To The Editor, S.A. Standard.
 The following is from a Bermuda guide book, and my interest was aroused by the fact that it is a guide book for the island of Bermuda. In the advertisements in this book, the price is usually quoted in dollars and cents. You will also notice that they seemed to be a little different from the price of the same article in London. Why we in B.E.A. should not be allowed the privilege of having a standard price for the local bales is one of those mysterious "which no law can understand."

Yours, etc., B. HAWTNEY.

November, 5 1919.

(Edwards.)

Extract from "Beautiful Bermuda" (First Reference Guide), p. 203.
 "Many people think that money is the currency of the islands, the actual value of the pound sterling, or sovereign, being valued at 4.8 to 5.00 cents, or one and two-thirds, but the commonly accepted value in Bermuda is 4.00 dollars."

The coins used are the halfpenny and the penny. There is also a one shilling coin, or shilling, and a two shillings, or florin, coin. There are also four cent, ten cent, double ten, or dollar, 16 cent, five shillings, or crown, 130 dollar, and 200 dollar coins. There are also 10 shillings, 2.00 dollars, and 100 dollars notes. There are also 10 shillings, 2.00 dollars, and 100 dollars notes.

A DANGER.
 The danger of throwing a large pile of cattle on the market was certainly serious, and in this connection the slight rise in the price of cattle is a warning. The authorities had insisted that the land must be put out to tender, and he did not think any good would be done by the present terms.

"TAX OTHERS."
 Mr. Moberly did not object to the branch of farming but he was not in favour of the branch in some form or other. He thought it was a waste of money to have a branch in some form or other. He thought it was a waste of money to have a branch in some form or other.

LONG CAVE'S REPORT.

(From Our London Correspondent.)

Proposals for improving the Government machinery for dealing with trade and commerce have now been officially defined. But the reformers will find little to their taste in the Recommendations of Lord Cave's Commission.

Most people will have forgotten the Committee's existence. To be appointed some time ago to inquire into the terms of reference, and after delays occasioned by the absence, in Paris, of important witnesses, a Report has now been issued.

The Consular Service was made the subject of painstaking enquiry. Many highly placed witnesses were examined, and in the end the Committee arrived at conclusions which Sir Auckland Geddes (President of the Board of Trade), on the main question in control. Sir Auckland pointed out that the Service was essentially a Foreign Office affair, since it had many functions other than consular, and it was not, therefore, to be handed over to his own department.

"At the same time," the Report adds, "an enlargement of the consular staff, and an improvement in its training and status are urgently required."

Arthur Steel Maitland's scheme to bring three improvements about should certainly receive effect as an immediate result. This scheme also proposed preliminary interchange of staff between the establishments in home and those abroad, and this the Committee approves. Chambers of Commerce may now prepare themselves to receive a complimentary copy.

PROPOSED CONGRESS.

"Full up should be made by the Service. . . of British Chambers of Commerce, which are generally complete and efficient bodies. In this connection I see it mentioned that the President of the Johannesburg Chamber of Commerce is to attend the Imperial Government in the speedy reorganisation of Imperial Empire trade."

Support for this suggestion should not be hard to find. One of the Committee's recommendations in this Council should have in touch with the British Chambers in the countries to which they are accredited. The potential value of such adjustments. It is this Standing Committee be formed for the discussion of overseas trade, service as the Empire, and the heads of the Board of Trade the Foreign Office, and the Dept. of Commerce, with power to call in representatives of other Departments, and that such Committee meet regularly and frequently, and that work done for co-ordination of effort and general efficiency and would be well worth carrying out, even if it is the expense of all the other reforms advised.

BRITISH TRADE TRUSTS.
 (From Our London Correspondent.)

It is perhaps only natural with the organization of labor in this country capital should organize to meet it. Since the war very powerful unions have come into existence. In a trade union paper long published by the British Trade Trusts, it was stated that the British Trade Trusts were to be formed before the war.

Among the newer manifestations of the labor trust is the formation of a large number of trusts, which are being organized to control the trade. In a distinct tendency to the amalgamation of firms, the British Trade Trusts, particularly in the iron and steel industry, in addition to the British Trade Trusts, have been very active in Australia, New Zealand, and Canada. In addition, the British Trade Trusts have been very active in the United States.

The shipping trade is being organized in many ways. For instance, the British Trade Trusts are organizing a large number of shipping companies. The British Trade Trusts are also organizing a large number of shipping companies.

TALKS ON TEA.

(No. 1)

"If you will recall the best cup of tea which you have ever tasted, you will remember that it was not so fragrant, or that it had just a particular flavour or aroma which caused it to please you. It was a combination of all these qualities that made it so delicious. This means that the perfection of that tea was in the blend, the combination of carefully chosen leaves each contributing its own special quantities. Lipton's Teas are just such blends and being packed in Airtight Tin Cansisters which effectively retain all the rich qualities, fully enable you to judge tea at its very best."

Lipton's Teas in Airtight Tins have the largest sale in the World.

HOME RULE TO-DAY.
 On the Eve of Act's Automatic Operation.
LIKELY IRISH POLICY.
 (From our London Correspondent.)
 London, October 8.
 THE STAFF OF THE Government at "settling the Irish question," it would be some correct to say "trying to settle the Irish question." Nothing that is proposed will settle it, and the Ministry must be quite aware that in taking up this problem, as it ought to take it up, it will only be creating for itself a mass of trouble for which it will get the thanks of nobody. Apparently, however, the Law Officers of the Crown have discovered that under the Supremacy Act the Home Rule Act will automatically come into operation on the day peace is signed with Turkey, and that unless the Government contemplates the acceptance and enforcement of this measure it must be ready with some alternative scheme.
 The old Home Rule Bill as it stands is not one that never got safely through the House and is now quite unworkable to Ireland. There can be no way out other than the adoption of the Dominion form of Home Rule based on county divisions, which will probably be the result of the conference on the North-East coast of Ireland, but not more, that in view of a third majority is accepted.
 These four counties are of course Antrim, Down, Armagh and Londonderry. Two additional counties are Tyrone and Fermanagh; it will be recalled that their inclusion in the Dominion from the original Home Rule Bill was one of the many causes of that difficult measure. The majority in those two counties would be very small, but so all probability there would be a slight excess in favour of coming under the Home Rule Bill.
NEW MEASURE.
 If Mr. Lloyd George proposes a measure on these lines it will be accepted by the British people, not because they like it but because there is no other way out of the impasse which exists. Even the
