LORD MAYOR'S DAY
 To-day's Grand Pageant in London.
NEW CHIEF CITIZEN
 (By "Civitas")

Today will witness in London yet another Lord Mayor's Day, as he is well known, all over England today the various cities, towns and boroughs change, or nearly always change their leading citizens in this manner. It is held everywhere, but nowhere is there a place where the majesty of the office is so upheld as in the foremost city of the world.

The Lord Mayor's Day is not a purely London function it is almost national. For many years have been intended with the express intention of seeing the show, and many funny incidents have been recorded of the country farmer regarding the day in London.

Londoners themselves look in their thousands to the city, and the show streets are closed and the business is held up for one or four hours, whilst street vendors go by, with their various wares. Every one who has visited the show will remember the famous Leaden Hall corner, where one could buy handkerchiefs, pull out rolls, and all sorts of little manufactured articles, the chief instance of which is the one which is sold in the city, and is incidentally one from Germany via Hanover.

In Olden Times the procession was more or less arranged to illustrate the various stages in history, and pageantry formed a large feature, with its decorated carts and decorated mules.

The Aldermen in their gorgeous costumes invariably did and did not attract a good deal of attention, whilst the Lord Mayor's party, as coachman in the past (read here Victoria's John Brown as popularity), was a feature of the day. A number of things has been changed, and now the Mayor, Aldermen, and the Scouts, with various contingents from the Boys Brigade, and other organizations, are invited to join in the procession.

The great pageant was held in 1912, which was purely arranged to mark the centenary of the Battle of Marston, and the pageant was probably the most successful of any.

With it as a background, the year 1914, as all are perfectly aware, much controversy has been held over the continuance of the "pomp and circumstance," and even Ministers were prepared to treat up this much indignation has been expressed by the meeting classes each of a League of the country would that so much money should be not either have the power or the right to the procession and banquet, and it looks as if at this time the country money will have to be much simplified if it were to be continued.

It will be a gratuity if it does not, and it is being thought of as a matter of address to old fashion and not sentimentality and not a traditional value has this should be retained to try and increase the value of the gold that is produced on one time, and to be made to be a general fund for the benefit of the several companies engaged together at the Colindale in the Common Hall, and as it must have a person as Sheriff of London.

The Lord Mayor's position, as well as that of two interesting, and it is generally known in London, one of it, that on death of the Mayor he should be attended by the Privy Council, although not a member, and, as it is a golden age and cover.

Past Office Holders.
 Of past Lord Mayors numerous names of men who are recalled. Sir Joseph Sneyd, who was Lord Mayor in 1851, was the first Mayor to wear his hat with a sword, and with hospital work and a Governor of both St. Bartholomew's and St. George's Hospitals.

Mr. Alfred James Newman, who has occupied the post to 1920, was also mentioned as the founder of the City of London Imperial Chamberlain.

Mr. Samuel (1903) is a better soldier as the great developer of all fields in London, and he is the best service of the " utmost importance " to the best Mayor (Australia) in the Empire, he received the award from the Differences between Britain and France Settled.

NEW PROCEDURE.
 London, November 7.—Roster learns from Paris that as an outcome of exchange of Anglo-French proposals, it is semi-officially stated, that the divergence in the interpretation of the Lower Treaty as regards the handling of the Reparations Commission have disappeared, and an agreement has been virtually established regarding the methods of meeting payments from Germany.

BOHEMIAN.
Soundly Condemned by the Second International.
 London, November 6.—The Executive Committee of the Second International held a meeting today in London, under the chairmanship of Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., and issued a manifesto which is remarkable for its furious denunciation of the Third (Moscow) International, formed by Lenin, which openly avows its intention to attack the German delegates, and draw up in Europe a deadly hostile to the cause of Bohemian, which, says the country has become practically inoperative.

AUSTRIA.
Disappearance Of Map of Europe Likely?
