WARNING

"MILKMAID" Condensed Milk as manufactured by us for importation to this Colony has the words "PREPARED FOR EXPORT" in red ink across the label.

A considerable quantity of Milkmaid Milk and Nestlé's Milk has been imported, by some other firms, into this country for sale, which has apparently been obtained from continental stocks, presumably out of engagements sold by us some time ago to the German, or other, Governments, under existing arrangements in the Peace Treaty. This milk is contained in tin bearing a label which has printed across it in red ink—

Prepared in Switzerland" or "Prepare Aux états Unis"

This Letter Milk we do not Guarantee in any way, and we will not Refund any Money, or Exchange any Tins, if same is found defective.

FORMATION OF PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

TREATY RATIFIED

(THROUGH BRITISH AGENCY)
London, Jan. 14. The Southern Parliament met in Dublin and unanimously ratified the Anglo-Irish Treaty. Mr. De Valera's followers were absent from the proceedings which only lasted half an hour. The Unionists were present and appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. William Cosgrave, Patrick Hogan, James Linn, Joseph Marshall, Hugh Mallon, and John M. Kevin O'Higgins and John M. O'Connell to advise the Government as to the best way to deal with the situation. Mr. Arthur Griffith was not of opinion that the Government should be in a position to ratify the Treaty until the Government had decided to accept the Treaty in its entirety. Mr. Griffith made a speech in which he stated that the Government would take charge of the carrying out of the holding of a general election and that the Government would remain in existence. He referred to the difficulties which would be encountered in the carrying out of the Treaty for general election. Professor Thirlwall has been asked to prepare to discuss the Treaty in the House of Commons on the 16th inst.

MARY BAKER EDDY.

(In answer to a question.) Her. At the request of the Christian Scientist who will submit this for publication, I am writing for the purpose of putting before your readers some authentic information in regard to Mary Baker Eddy and Christian Science.

Mary Baker Eddy (at first Mary Baker), the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, was born at Haverhill, Mass., July 16, 1821, the sixth and youngest child of Mark and Abigail Baker. One of her ancestors, John Baker, was among the earliest settlers of the colony of Massachusetts Bay (at Charlestown in 1630). One of her great-grandfathers was Capt. Joseph Baker, who carried his title and name to the honorable name in the service of the colony of New Hampshire. Other relatives of renown among Mrs. Eddy's relatives were Capt. John Lovell, hero of the war with Indians during the colonial period, Gen. Henry Knox of the war of 1812, Her immediate family were people of considerable prominence and property; her father a large land holder and well-known citizen; one of her brothers, Col. George Sullivan Baker, a public and well-known member of the staff of the Governor of New Hampshire; another brother, the Hon. Albert Baker, a lawyer and member of the New Hampshire legislature; cousin, the Hon. Henry M. Baker, a lawyer and member of Congress from New Hampshire.

The home in which Mrs. Eddy was reared was one of refinement and piety. Although her parents were members of the Congregational Church, their hospitality was frequently given to other religions of this and other denominations, and in the discussions of religious subjects which often occurred in the home, Mrs. Eddy took an interest and participated in a manner that was seen at the time to be in advance of her years and unusual for even a mature woman. To her mother and to her brother Albert, however, Mrs. Eddy gave the most credit for her early training. Her mother was a woman of saintly character and marked spiritually; her brother Albert a graduate of Dartmouth College, who studied law with Franklin Pierce (afterward President of the United States) and became one of our country's prominent and prominent before his death at the age of 41. As a child, Mrs. Eddy was frail and subject to illness. This kept her from attending school regularly, yet she was studious, and with the aid of tutors she gained an education equal to that which was then regarded as liberal. One of her tutors was the Rev. Enoch Corver, pastor of the Congregational Church at Tilton, New Hampshire; who supplemented his pastoral duties, sometimes by teaching in the academy and sometimes by tutoring. Mrs. Corver's contact with Mrs. Eddy began soon after she removed with her parents from Boston to Tilton in 1836 when she was 15 or 16 years old. He departed this life before she became famous, but an interesting and significant episode of his opinion was the request and related by his son, G. C. Corver. Writing from Haverhill, New Hampshire, in 1902, he says: "My father, the Rev. Enoch Corver, was pastor of the Congregational Church at Northfield and Tilton (then Sanborn Bridge) from 1837 to 1843, with which the Baker family was connected. If I remember rightly, Mrs. Eddy was about 12 when I first met her, she being several years younger than myself. I well remember her of all expression which was very marked. As her father and for a time her teacher, my father held her in the highest esteem; in fact he considered her intellectually and spiritually to be an equal woman in Tilton, and greatly enjoyed talking with her. She and my father used to converse on the subjects frequently. I remember her admiration for him, and her pride and in my recollection as his 'brightest pupil'. He predicted for her a great future and spoke of her as an intellectual and spiritual genius."

From her childhood or girlhood until more than a decade after her discovery of Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy was a member of the Congregational Church. Applying for membership at a time when she was 12 years old, she was examined and given some assurance of acceptance. In spite of the leniency she took with the then prevalent doctrine of unconditional membership or predestination. Whether she was formally admitted to membership at this time, or not until five years later at Tilton, is a question left uncertain by the records of these churches. It was at this earlier time, when Mrs. Eddy was about 12 years old, that she first experienced the power of prayer to deliver from sickness. The doctrine in question, with its threat of separation from loved ones and abandonment from God, so perturbed her that she became ill with what the family doctor pronounced to be her "hysteria." ("Hysteria" and "hysterical" are terms which related her condition to her mother, as she had had her morning temple, had given me rest, if I went to Hingham, I was not to do, seeking His guidance. I prayed, and I felt of ineffable joy came over me, and I rose and dressed myself in a normal condition of health. Mother saw this and was glad. The physician marvelled, and the "horrible decree" of predestination—as John Calvin rightly called his own tutor—forever his power over me." Mrs. Eddy was married three times: first to Major George Glover, a native of New Hampshire who had removed to Charleston, South Carolina, and became a successful contractor and builder. His military title was gained by service in the militia and on the Governor's staff in South Carolina. This marriage occurred in 1848, when Mrs. Eddy was 22 years old. It was dissolved less than a year by the death of Major Glover. Ten years later (in 1858) Mrs. Eddy married Dr. Daniel S. Patterson, a dentist of Franklin, New Hampshire in 1878, after her removal to Lynn, Massachusetts, and her discovery of Christian Science, she obtained a divorce from him on account of long continued desertion due to his infidelity. In 1877, after she had begun the practice and teaching of Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy married Dr. David H. Patterson, a dentist of Franklin, Vermont, the first of her students to engage in the public practice of Christian Science healing. He died five years later (in 1882) after having helped to sustain Mrs. Eddy during the period in which the Church of Christ, Scientist, was organized and the Christian Science movement encountered its first denunciations.

During Mrs. Eddy's first widowhood (1844-1858) she developed her fluency of expression and her writing capacity by writing occasional verses and by contributing articles to newspapers on topics of public interest. Her ability of this kind was recognized by an offer of $3,000 a year (a large salary at that time) to become assistant editor of the Lynn Evening Magazine, then owned by the Rev. Richard Root, and by the inclusion of two poems from her pen in an anthology of poems and essays by New Hampshire authors which was published first in Manchester in 1850 and again at Boston in 1862. During the same period, Mrs. Eddy served as substitute teacher in the Tilton Academy and organized with a school for children somewhat like the modern kindergarten. The period between Mrs. Eddy's marriage to Dr. Patterson and her discovery of Christian Science (1858-1860) was one of fortune and misfortune; the fortunes of an iconoclast and faithful husband and enduring the combined difficulties of desertion and ill-health.

The course of events that led to her discovery of Christian Science was described by Mrs. Eddy herself: "During twenty years prior to my discovery I had been trying to trace all physical effects to their mental cause; and in the latter part of 1860 I gained the scientific certainty that all causation was Mind, and every effect a mental phenomenon. My immediate recovery from the effects of an injury caused by an accident in surgery that neither medicine nor surgery could cure, and how to make others so" (Retrospection and Intuition, p. 24). The accident here spoken of occurred in the evening of February 19, 1860, when Mrs. Eddy was returning from a Good Templars meeting in Lynn, Massachusetts, to her home in the suburb of Framingham. The contemporaneous account of it given by the Lynn Reporter said that she fell on the ice, was taken in an insensible condition to a nearby residence, where she was nursed by a physician and cared for during the night, but the doctor found her injuries to be internal and if a medicine was given she would be required to have the following afternoon in a critical condition.

Fine tea is as susceptible to climatic changes as a delicately adjusted barometer.

Damp and heat soon destroy the aroma of your tea, leaving it flat and tasteless.

Only by buying Brooke Bond tea in the patent vacuum tin can you be sure of a refreshing cup of tea at all times.

Sealed in vacuum in this packet, tea will keep perfectly under the most climatic conditions.

FORESTRY

Farm Wants in Fuel Assured

PRACTICAL USES OF EXOTICS

SOME HINTS TO WATTLÉ PROPRIETORS

[By A. HARRIS, M.A.]

When talking over a pig on the subject of water supply, the farmer's attention was caught by the return which was made of a single acre of ground after the water was taken off the main supply for the purpose of irrigation. The farmer was saying to the other that he had a good example for the water to take from the stream but was that he could not be assured of a regular flow supply water to consume and waste a quantity for the boiling down operation required for producing the milk, and that what would be the best way to have an area under timber which could give him the required supply year after year. It so happens that I have worked in a forest where a similar result was required under the system that I am about to advocate. The forest has been working for over 40 years, giving its regular yield and I cannot say that I regretted what I have now to say. The public must not be misled by the fact that I have a regular supply of water, and that I have a regular supply of water, and that I have a regular supply of water.

1. What is the area that I must put in to obtain a regular yield of about 12,000 cubic feet stacked of 1,000 cubic feet solid per year? 2. What is the necessary Rotation? 3. How do I calculate the cut-over period? 4. What is the method of growing species that I can be certain of a regular yield of about 12,000 cubic feet stacked of 1,000 cubic feet solid per year? 5. What are the necessary Rotation? 6. How do I calculate the cut-over period? 7. How do I calculate the cut-over period? 8. How do I calculate the cut-over period?

THE COPPER SYSTEM. The condition we start with is a regular supply of water to the forest. The water is taken from the stream and is used for the boiling down operation. The water is taken from the stream and is used for the boiling down operation. The water is taken from the stream and is used for the boiling down operation.

DEFINITIONS. A forest estate may be defined as a tract of land which is planted with trees for the purpose of producing timber. THE EAST African Standard
 FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1922

The officers of the Nairobian Municipal Council are desirous of the opinion of, and ready to, the citizens who utilize the Town's services. We do not unduly wish to be a nuisance for lands to be up to a less competent on the subject that the matter was brought forward, but we are most anxious to be acquainted with the opinions of the citizens, and their views on the matter, in permitting us to deplore a state of affairs which is a disgrace to Nairobian. We are glad to be informed that the citizens belonging to public bodies are the best qualified to maintain the standard of the town, and should be allowed to maintain the tradition of their own and maintain on the part of their own attendance should be highly commended and serve in the municipality, which we gather to be a matter deeply regretted by the citizens, and should be made absolutely essential. It would be a pleasure to find the municipality in public works in an action brought by the N.P.C.A.

A glance at the East African Standard for the 15th inst. reveals the fact that the Nairobian Chamber of Commerce is now in the process of being re-organized, and the new organization is now in the process of being formed. The new organization is now in the process of being formed, and the new organization is now in the process of being formed. The new organization is now in the process of being formed, and the new organization is now in the process of being formed.

We live in hope of seeing one day a library and dramatic society, County and National Association, and the rest of the Civilisation Society, a Natural History Society, and trade, social and professional associations that will all prosper in the service and progress of the country and the town. We are not an inactive community, we are not a body of vegetarians who live in the hope of seeing one day a library and dramatic society, County and National Association, and the rest of the Civilisation Society, a Natural History Society, and trade, social and professional associations that will all prosper in the service and progress of the country and the town. MOUSE BUILDING.
College Building in Col. Fish
and Clay, By C. H. W. Williams, Esq.
The state shortage of houses all over the world has brought into vogue the idea of building
houses out of mouse droppings.
This is a very old idea, but it is now being revived with great success. The first house built in this way was
in 1880, and since that time
it has become a popular method of building in many parts of the world. The mouse droppings are collected from the droppings of the mouse, and are then dried
and pressed into bricks.
These bricks are then used
to build houses, and are found to be very strong and durable. The mouse droppings are also found to be very cheap, and are therefore
very popular with the poor
people of the world.

THE HUMANIST AS PHILOSOPHER.
(Essays and Literary Studies by Stephen Leacock.)

One might well expect a book
bearing the title of "Humanist"
to be a collection of essays dealing with the history and philosophy of the humanist movement. This book, however,
is a collection of essays dealing
with the humanist as a philosopher. The essays are written by Stephen Leacock,
one of the most popular and
successful of our modern writers. The book is a collection of essays dealing
with the humanist as a philosopher, and is a very interesting and valuable contribution to the study of the humanist movement.

A GREAT HUNTER.
Cavaliers of the Sabon
Collection. By J. U. Dolman,
B.A.

A complete catalogue of the Sabon Collection of Big Game in the British Museum has been compiled by J. U. Dolman, B.A., and is now available in a small, handy volume. It will be found to be a very valuable and interesting
reference work for all those interested in the history and natural history of the world.
The book is a complete
catalogue of the Sabon Collection of Big Game in the British Museum, and is a very valuable and
interesting reference work
for all those interested in
