Sad Suicide.

Sudden Death of General Luard.

Sept. 19.—General Luard has been found dead on the Railway near Maidstone having been knocked down by the train.

Sept. 21.—General Luard was visiting Col. Warde, M. P. near Maidstone and left the house before 9 a.m. unknown to the family. In letter found he wrote that he was ick of the scandalous and lying reports being circulated and cannot stand the strain larger. His son returning from South Africa the following day he was unable to face suicide while temporary insane. The coroner expressed disgust at the base insinuations that had been made against the General which had lossly women and children, but was under a suicidence at the inquast on the light of the British loss was a suicidence at the inquast on his. evidence at the inquest on his wife's death showed it was impossible that he could have been present. At the inquest on General Luard

Col. Warde protested against the Press reports that the deceased's letter said he was unable to face his son. No mention of his son was made in the letter. Nore.—[The wife of the late General Lunar was found murdered in a Summer Hooks at the late General's continuous in Korf about four weeks ago in the nurdes is off a mystery. It appears the victim was struck with a basey instrument and then twice shot through the head.—Ho.]

There are several theories established among the successful sheep farmers as to the se brought up to a recognized standard. The Government experts are inclined to favour, the principle of first introducing to the native sew imported rams which will produce a breed of large frame, the progecy being thereafter improved by a woollier strain. For example, it is held by some breeders that the British oln, Welsh Mountain and Welsh Borde Rame produce a large framed animal which when secondly crossed with the Merino gains Revenue as per aje. in wool crop over a second cross bred through 1,500 ewes at 6/- .

Probably the larger number of breeder refer to keep only Merino Rams. Their Merino ram gives more wool at the first cross, and the further important fact that the Merino ram is the more easily obtained. Of the two theories the first is the more correct one if with ordinary good fortune at the end of three mand or too committee a many become less than the supply—this even after the introduction of refrigerating cars on the Bailway, and cold storage establishments at the Coast, are a fair accesspit. It is, however possible a froson mutton market may be created in South Africa and India.
