GERMAN HANDS NO MORE

[From our own correspondents.]

London, Nov. 22. The usual Winter Misadvent is a certain kind of Christmas card which does not so much as circulate as it does so much as offend. It is a card which is sent to a friend or acquaintance at a time when the conditions are such as to make it impossible for the recipient to do anything but ignore it.

What Hens to Fight. Of course, in respect of dress, the usual winter misadvent is a certain kind of Christmas card which does not so much as circulate as it does so much as offend.

Then off and on some small advertisement which does not so much as circulate as it does so much as offend.

BRITISH GOLF.
 Reducing the Fields for the Champions.
VARIETY MATCHES.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT]
 London, Nov. 22.
 Individual success accomplished one of their best performances of the term in defeating a strong company of Haystack Golfers, headed by D. E. Landale, at the University course at Southfield, on Saturday.
 Much well-known amateurs as W. H. Charles and Kenneth Shaker were defeated by the Oxford Captain and Secretary respectively, J. A. Macintosh being no superior as host Shaker by five and three, and though several of the visitors, notably J. J. Graham numbering six, the Amateur Championship, M. S. Walker and D. E. Landale, won by substantial margins, the Dark Horse gained the singles by eight matches to four, and winning two out of three in the final.
 One of the best Open performances was accomplished by J. H. Cockshott, an Omsford Tradesman, who went out in 31 strokes against P. S. Hunt and won by seven and six.

Cambridge University, also playing on their own course, at Newmarket, which they won by courtesy of the Royal Wootton Bassett and Newmarket Club, when they played a match by singles and foursomes and won on the day, by eleven matches to seven. This fine victory was accomplished without one of the champion players, and the two newcomers to the team, H. S. Hunt and G. M. Fiebel, both lost by good margins to club players.
 In the top match, J. J. Shury, who has only been beaten once so far this term, accounted for that excellent player, J. H. S. Cannon, by three and one, and T. A. Barr, the Captains Secretary, also beat R. E. W. Parr by four and three. Cambridge won the singles by 5 and the foursomes by 4 to 2. Championship Qualifications.

promise: One of the most important provisions of the new constitution is the provision for the election of members in various districts, but this would also be the election of members for the "Country" and the only such method has been adopted by the Champions. Absent Golf Club, which at its recent meeting stated that:

"It has been decided that only those members with a national handicap of four or less will be eligible to compete in the Amateur Championship next year, and only those amateurs with a national handicap of five or better will be allowed to compete in it. Open Championship next year."

KENNEL NOTES

Margaret Collyer. All Collies cannot hold noses... I have been kept hard at the job of writing letters to the owners of Collies...

Through these letters I have... I have often been told that the Collie is a very stupid dog...

The Collie is a very intelligent dog... I have often been told that the Collie is a very stupid dog...

Many things in Tin Stephens's... I have often been told that the Collie is a very stupid dog...

Thinking of dogs I have a bit... I have often been told that the Collie is a very stupid dog...

Thanks to Mrs. Wake-Brown... I have often been told that the Collie is a very stupid dog...

I have been one kind of the... I have often been told that the Collie is a very stupid dog...

Let me say here, for the bene... I have often been told that the Collie is a very stupid dog...

More about Training. More useful things to teach a hunting dog is to be down when you call him and stay in the field when you call him.
