THE COTTON POLICY.

By the Editor, "E.A.S." Standard.

50.—In the account of the debate in the recent session of the Legislative Council on the subject of the cotton policy, you report Lord Dalmeida as saying that "If there were those who were not satisfied with the cotton policy, they would have to be satisfied with the cotton policy."

The Government says the cotton policy is a success. It is a success because it has brought about a great increase in the production of cotton in the country. It is a success because it has brought about a great increase in the export of cotton from the country. It is a success because it has brought about a great increase in the income of the Government from the cotton tax.

SECRETS TOLD BY THE MUMMIES.

Pharaoh Suffered From Toothache.

ANCIENT DISEASES

An important work entitled "The Egyptian Mummies" by Dr. Elliot Smith and Warren H. Dawson, has been published by Allen and Unwin, which gives a chapter on mummification in relation to medicine and pathology. In recent years doctors have examined the bodies of Egyptians who lived centuries before Christ, and have even been able to trace the diseases from which they died.

GOUT

"Innumerable of recent periods numerous cases of gout have been found in the mummies." Stone in the bladder has been found, even as early as pre-dynastic times. One of the most interesting cases brought to light is a perfect example of "true gout" in the subject of this disease was an elderly man; his long hair and beard white, and his eyes were clouded by his cataracts, and with the mummification of age.

He was a member of the local community of the Temple of Thoth, and he was the first to be mummified. The fact, and especially the great loss, showed the presence of the disease in the most striking manner. The most common disease of ancient times was rheumatoid arthritis. Men and women have apparently been suffering from this since before the dawn of history. It is a condition of the very greatest interest for a doctor, and with increasing frequency, in the earliest period of time with which we have to deal, it is therefore a disease of great antiquity and of a prevalence, for the prehistoric Egyptian mummies ever give to adult life without expending any of its effects.

TUTANKH'S TEETH

Many of the Pharaohs suffered terribly from toothache, notably Tutankhamen's father, Amenhotep III. From the condition of the teeth it is evident that the king must have suffered acutely from toothache, as he was extremely advanced in age. Dr. Elliot Smith notes a strange fact from the examination of the mummies of many small children, had been administered a final medicine to children who were dying. "The mummies," he comments, "has continued as a children's medicine down to the present day, and is a custom of wide geographical distribution. The survival in popular medicine of a remedy which was already being used at least sixty centuries ago is without parallel."

TEA CULTIVATION IN KENYA COLONY.

Basket System of Planting.
AGE OF TRANSFER OF PLANTS FROM THE NURSERY.

There is also what is known as basket planting; a system which is adopted when plants are from four to five months old. In this case, baskets made from split bamboo about six to nine inches long and four inches in diameter are filled with fine earth and placed on the ground and supported between the spaced frameworks of the same material, partitioned in the same manner.
This system is very simple and does not require much labour. The plants are placed in the baskets and watered regularly. When the plants are ready to be transferred to the field, the baskets are lifted and the plants are taken out.
This system is very suitable for the Kenyan climate and is being widely adopted by the planters.

IN BRITISH DATE.
 When we had our own Province...
 The time factor, also, is a very important one, since the average time taken in which to get a reply from Manchester is a fortnight, while on occasions much longer intervals occur. Thus in April last 20 days elapsed between the arrival of a letter from Manchester and the receipt of the reply.
 One may well be allowed to consider that the foregoing considerations are sufficient to warrant the restoration to Tanzania of its original status as a Province. But that the present Government will soon become an independent one and the separation is most powerfully reinforced by the fact that the British and the Germans are now to meet and the British are now to meet with the Germans in a most important way.

Everybody likes a good cup of tea
 We take care of three things to help you get it. You must take care of a fourth before you do. The three things we do:
 1. Survey the tea industry constantly to find the pick of the crops.
 2. Test and taste extensively to find the best way of blending.
 3. Pack the finished blend in a vacuum tin to keep it at the zenith of perfection right to the moment you need it.
 And the fourth thing to do: Brew it carefully. Use free boiling water. Give three minutes for infusion. That is not one whit less important than all the rest.

FURTHER ARRIVEMENT OF INQUEST.

The inquest on the Mased native found shot on the day of the continued yesterday in Nairobi. Dr. G. R. Allen of the Eastern Hospital Department, gave evidence of his post mortem examination on the body of the victim. He found four wounds, the first on the left side of the body between the neck and the shoulder, the second on the right side 18 inches above the collar bone. There was a small wound on the inner side of the right arm immediately above the elbow and on the outer side of the arm a larger wound with a fragment of bone protruding. The first three wounds were circular in shape and unswollen three-fourths of an inch in diameter. In his opinion, death was due to rupture of the spleen and perforating wounds of the gut. It was further of the opinion that the victim had been covered by a blanket. It could not have been fired from a very close range. A NATI NERI of the name of the tragedy he occupied a seat along the road on the day of the inquest. Questioned by the doctor, he was previously corroborated the evidence given by the Mased. He stated that the witness stated that he actually saw the animal which he was shot by on the day of the inquest. He also stated that he was in the jury of the trial and that other witnesses in the inquiry was further corroborated.
