Mr. L. Hook of the Nairobi Garage, is taking the Nairobi rain fall, which is just now. For the last week-end it was 0.1.

Wanted Gentle.
If the unknown correspondent who sent on Thursday a packet with the Kenya postcard, addressed to the Manager, E.A. Standard, will forward his message by wireless it should be added to the address. Up to the present no acknowledgment has failed to reveal any writing but that. All devices known to science for detecting secret inscriptions have the back of the card still clean and blank.

What We Buffer.
The Berlin correspondent of the London Star has thought fit to give in his paper the following: Montag Morgen, a German newspaper, says it learns that, in the case of Germany's entrance to the League of Nations, she has been promised a mandate over German East Africa (now known as Kenya). And all this time we are talking about self-government and federation and the rise in the price of bacon!

A NAKURU NEGATIVE.
In the report of Lord Delamater's meeting at Nakuru, an essential part was missed from one sentence which gave a reader acquainted with the Political History that His Lordship made a preposterous demand for so much territory. The corrected portion should read: "In view of the fact that Mr. O'Shea says he does not want to talk about the Federation, I think for the moment that question had better be put aside as I feel there is no good bringing it up if we are unable to put it through. The only thing we can make clear is that we feel very strongly in this country that we should not be ready to give up going into a Federation—and nobody knows how things will turn out—until we have a final majority on the Legislative Council. This is the definite idea I have in my mind." When you are dealing with people who are much stronger than yourselves it is impossible to get all you want and I suggest that it will be wise to give up the matter and to the Commission that we should be much happier in this country if we were included to take up this matter of Federation if we had an Official Majority just.

EXTRA-ORDINARY STEADYING EFFECT. JAMES OCKENDEN, the Open Champion of 1923.

CONTROL of their muscles in post depends largely upon the state of the nervous system. Such faults as falling, or watch the ball, and involuntarily moving the head, the unexpected tearing of the muscles at the wrong moment, knee tremors, and above all the missing of short puts, are certain signs that the player has not perfect control over his nerves. Like every player, I unfortunately at times display nervous symptoms, and I regard Phosferine as a remedy for these attacks, and immediately I begin to feel that my nerves are getting the better of me, I take a short course of Phosferine, which has an extraordinary steadying effect and very soon puts me up to scratch again. —Harvey Park, Gold Club, London, S.W.

VALUABLE STATISTICS.
 The results which are given below are compiled from a complete list of the registration motor drivers in Mombasa District (without Mr. G. D. Gray, however, who leads last on the race for motor).

Persons of these tabular data will be most useful to those who intend to start and drive a motor and should prove of value particularly to the reader. The first table shows by districts the total registration recently to the end of August, 1924, and the last of September, and the number of cars, lorries, and trucks which would appear from the figures that there are nearly 2,000 vehicles now on the roads. The second table shows where the vehicles are actually, in accordance with their districts.

has been made into price tables, so that the information contained therein should prove of assistance to those who are interested in the first place.

From the point of view of the motor public these tables afford an amount of interest in that they show a great deal of the country's motor population in the Colony. These figures indicate that the latter is a country where the motor population is not so small as it is generally supposed to be. It is interesting to note that a discrepancy between the tabular figures registered and the 20,000 of over 1,000 vehicles.

Industrial manufacturing generally is a prominent feature of the country, and the position of the motor public is a very important one. It is suggested that the motor public should be interested in the motor industry, which appears to be a very promising one.

The figures in the second table show the distribution of the motor population in the districts. It is interesting to note that the motor population is not so small as it is generally supposed to be. It is interesting to note that a discrepancy between the tabular figures registered and the 20,000 of over 1,000 vehicles.

ent action on the part of the Queen's Government would be by a Commission, formed from the members of the Convention in cooperation with some of all of the members of the Convention. One possibility would be to form a Commission to inquire into the bearing on Federation and Australasia, and then to formulate a scheme, subject forth with the approval of the King, which would be referred to the Colony for its views. The one drawback to this "Commission" is the fact that the Commission would have to be published in the light of the Government's views on the subject. It is not possible to say whether the Commission would be a success or a failure, but it is certain that it would be a step in the right direction.

The Kenya Cubs related their experiences on a last issue of this—in an amusing manner of events and incidents in their first school on Tuesday afternoon.

The boys told the story of their trip to Fossil, the headquarters of the battalions, in preparation for the big game which they were to play on the 10th of the month. They also told of their arrival at Fossil, and of their stay there, and of their return to Nairobi.

Major Robertson, Director of the Scouts, was highly pleased with the boys' report, and congratulated them on their successful trip. He also told them that they were to be given a special award for their good conduct during their trip.

The boys were highly pleased with the award, and they all promised to be good Scouts and to do their best in everything they do.

TEA CULTIVATION IN KENYA COLONY.

The Early Life of Seed. THE METHOD OF PLANTING OUT "AT STAKE"

Nursery Planting. (By F. W. H. BRADBURY.) (Special to the "R. A. Standard.")

It is well known that the tea seedling in its early life is very delicate and should be protected from frost, and in all cases the name and address of the nursery should be given.

The only reliable method of banking the percentage of germination is to take an equal number of seeds from each bag and germinate them separately, three or four at a time.

These seeds should be dug to a depth of three inches and a half foot layer of soil put on top.

Another method, especially so in the case of the tea seedling, is to plant the seeds in a shallow box or tray.

When the seedlings are ready to be planted out, they should be planted in a hole about four inches deep.
