Case of Mrs. Borlean

Cannot agree to award of pension for reasons explained. Authorizes payment of maximum gratuity - viz. same equivalent to Gen. salary of late Major Borlean.

Hi Harris

Would you be good enough to look at this? Do you think that there is any ground for going back to the Secretary or would you accept their decision? Para 2 of their letter does not appear to me at all convincing. They do not explain why they are stipulating as applying to East Africa the rules referred to in our letter, nor do they say

Apart from that consideration, they do not consider that the present case satisfies the conditions necessary for an award under these rules.

As I think I have indicated to you, I had certain doubts about this case myself—I mean I feared it was one that you could not press. It is one of those cases where the harder principles of a general practice must apparently clash with our natural kindly sentiments. I would accept the Treasury decision.

How much will the gratuity be?

Mr. Fiddes

Major Boikau's Salary was £180.

The gratuity would therefore be £90. WTS 7/8

Sir,

22212

I have laid before the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury Mr. Fiddes' letter of the 25th ultimo (22212/1911) relative to an application received from Mrs. Boileau for the grant of a pension or gratuity in view of the circumstances attending the death of her husband, the late Major Boileau, a Stock Inspector in the Veterinary Department of the East Africa Protectorate.

In reply I am to request you to inform Mr. Secretary Harcourt that My Lords see difficulty in applying the analogy of the Warrant under Section 1 of the Superannuation Act, 1887 to East Africa; irrespectively of this consideration it does not appear to Them that, in the circumstances stated, Mrs. Boileau's case satisfies the conditions which would be necessary for an award under the warrant.

While, however, for these reasons My Lords feel Themselves debarred from awarding Mrs. Boileau any pension from public funds, They are willing, in deference to the representations of the Secretary of State, to overlook the fact that her case does not fulfil in point of destitution the conditions prescribed for the grant of compassionate gratuities. They accordingly authorise the payment to her.

The Under Secretary of State, Colonial Office.

her of the maximum gratuity permissible under the rules in question namely a sum equivalent to six months' salary of her deceased husband, provided that Mr. Harcourt is satisfied that Major Boileau's death was not attributable to his own default.

I am,

Sir,

Your obedient Servant,
