Critic of pro-Capricorn speech

by Mr. Vasey

'WRONG' TO TALK POLITICS

KENYA'S Minister for Finance, Mr. E. A. Vasey, was "entirely wrong" to make his pro-Capricorn statement at the Kenya Indian Congress, Mr. W. B. Havelock, Minister for Local Government and a candidate for Kibaki, said in a speech at a meeting in the Ruia Club on Tuesday night. Mr. Havelock said that the statement reflected the future policy of the Kenya Government.

Mr. Vasey's statement, he said, "I think it was entirely and absolutely wrong on a political platform or political matters." He had spoken to Mr. Vasey, who had said that he had spoken only as Mr. E. A. Vasey and not as Minister for Finance, but it was this Minister to convince people of that.

Mr. Havelock said that, returned at the election, he would do his best to see that Nominated Ministers did not have such freedom in the future.

Issue clear

In his speech, Mr. Havelock said that the issue in Kibaki was clear. He stood for the continuation of the Lorteton Plan with adjustments according to circumstances, and his opponent, Mr. Havelock, stood for sharing the platform at the club room for making the plan or thinking again.

He thought it extraordinary that, in 2 1/2 years of the plan, the issue had produced a practical alternative. The F.I.P. had produced its practical alternative, but now appeared to be retreating from it and was "trying to bring the issue out of the Independent Group."

Mr. Havelock said that the Independent Group would be willing to accept alternative. The Government might make some civil servants to represent European interests. This would be a highly dangerous situation for the European.

Asked for his own views on the future of the country, Mr. Havelock said he would be willing to accept alternative. The Government might make some civil servants to represent European interests. This would be a highly dangerous situation for the European.

SOCIALIST POLICY IMPOSITION ON KENYA 'DOUBTFUL'

IF Labour Party was returned to power at the next election in Great Britain, it is doubtful whether its members would impose on Kenya a full democracy, one-man, one-vote basis. This view was expressed by Mr. G. E. Brown, Minister for Africa, in a speech in the House of Commons on Tuesday.

Mr. Brown said that the Colonial service for the Administration would stay under the control of the Government.

He said he would not be surprised if the Government were to impose on Kenya a full democracy, one-man, one-vote basis. This view was expressed by Mr. G. E. Brown, Minister for Africa, in a speech in the House of Commons on Tuesday.

Worse problem

"I cannot really see any other way of solving their present difficulties," Mr. Brown said, "than the imposition of a full democracy, one-man, one-vote basis. This view was expressed by Mr. G. E. Brown, Minister for Africa, in a speech in the House of Commons on Tuesday."

Merit and ability

Ministers would not be responsible for the present situation in Kenya, Mr. Brown said. He said that the Government would not be responsible for the present situation in Kenya.

CALL FOR SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION BY EUROPEANS WITH OTHER RACES

IF the European wanted to lead Kenya, he must be sensible and responsible, and must show a spirit of co-operation and mutual understanding towards other communities.

Big share of U.N. aid for colonies

BRITAIN'S ROLE IN PROGRAMME

THE British colonies share of the United Nations expanded programme of technical assistance rose last year.

This was stated in the annual report of the Technical Assistance Commission which said there was a "striking increase" in the number of technical activities under the programme.

The report said contributions to the board from 71 Governments amounted to £27,000,000 (£23,500,000) compared with £23,000,000 (£20,000,000) in 1955. Total recorded obligations of £25,000,000 (£21,000,000) were attained by the programme since it began five years ago.

As in 1954, Britain's contribution was the second largest coming after the American grant, and Britain provided more technical experts—total of 428—than any other country.

More experts

The larger budget made it possible to employ more than 10,000 (10,008 compared with 10,484) and more fellowships (2,431) compared with 2,324. A total of 251 fellowship holders, representing 14 per cent of the total, studied in Britain, which received more students than any other country.

Besides the experts from British technical knowledge was provided for the programme by men from Cyprus, Malaya, Mauritania and the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. Britain's colonial territories also provided study facilities for all the world's students from all over the world.

The report shows that Britain played a big part in the programme by her provision of funds, experts and training facilities. Her colonial territories have also provided with a number of the programme.

UN technical assistance has helped the number in 1955—and the 1956 figures were awarded candidates from the colonies.

Court clerk sentenced

Antonio Munkwe, a 47-year-old court clerk, was sentenced to six months' hard labour for theft at Kamukha District magistrate's court. It was stated by the prosecutor that Munkwe had failed to hand in a 60s. fine paid to him.

Munkwe gave notice of appeal.

TELEVISION MONSTER' BLAMED FOR THEFT

Court hears alleged confession

A MAN who is alleged to have admitted stealing £240 television, a court at St. Columb Major, Cornwall, was told. The man, a 40-year-old ice cream seller Sidney Conroy, was stated to have said that he had not had a month's peace of mind since he bought a set.

My wife and family were walking about like lost people, and I groined because I would not get it repaired either enough to get it back into the employer's factory to steal it. It is all mine but the police will refuse what she is going to buy. He was sent for trial.

(Hester)

Then four months ago that monster called television came into my life. I bought a set and have had a moment's peace of mind since.

It has become a god as far as I am concerned.

The climax came that Friday when the television broke down.

TESTS ON SATELLITE ROCKETS

Launchings to be made in autumn

THE United States announced at the Seventh Astronautical Congress in Rome that tests of rockets which will carry the world's first artificial satellite outside the earth's atmosphere will begin in Florida this autumn.

Mr. E. Felt, operations manager in charge of Project Vanguard at the Greenbelt, Md., of Baltimore, said the aim of the tests would be to try to see whether the three stages followed each other as precisely the right time.

In theory, the first lower section of the rocket—known as the launch vehicle—will be fired and will rise to a speed of 5,500 ft. per second. This section will lift the first stage and will be fired after a period of 20 seconds. The second, eight times faster than the first.

The third section—which will lift in the nose of section two—will carry the satellite to 300 miles. This final speed will be approximately 26,000 ft. per second.

During the tests, which will probably begin in November, the launching vehicle will carry the satellite to the altitude of 300 miles. It will be taken up physically starting next July.

The satellite itself—a 20 inch sphere—will weigh about 20 lb. and will spin round the earth at about 7 1/2 miles per second, eight times faster than the moon.

The Soviet Union has also announced the launching of small, artificial earth satellites during the International Geophysical Year.

The first satellite to be launched by the United States will be sent up in September or October of this year, according to delegates at the Congress. News of what the Russians intend to send up their first satellite is also expected.

The President of the International Astronautical Federation, Mr. Frederick C. Durant, of Concord, Mass., said he believed that before the end of the century man will have landed on the moon. (Reuter)

FRENCH OLYMPIC BOXERS WILL NOT SIGN PLEDGE

Matthews' football jubilee

TRIBUTES from sportsmen including the Soviet Union, were paid to the late Matthews' great old Blackpool and England footballer, in London on Thursday night, he celebrated his 50th year in the game. Matthews was in his 40s when he was a professional footballer, and his 50th birthday was celebrated on a dinner given by the National Sporting Club for the National Association of Footballers.

The Russian International Football Federation has decided to take a professional licence he is entitled to receive as Olympic Games.

On the other hand, Mr Matthews cannot hold dual citizenship even to an Olympic oath which he would do in the future. He may, however, be invited to the Olympic Games to compete as a sportsman with a British passport.

Mr Matthews has been a member of the National Sporting Club for 25 years to date.

When the gala was held at the club, Matthews was the guest of honor. He was presented with a testimonial by the club and a letter from the Olympic Federation. Matthews was also presented with a testimonial by the club and a letter from the Olympic Federation.

Oath is an infringement against personal liberty

FRENCH Olympic boxers will decline to sign the "Brundage" pledge that they will remain amateurs after the Games in Melbourne later this year. This was stated on Thursday by M. Emil Gernaux, President of the French Boxing Federation. He said: "This engagement is not legal and an infringement against one's personal liberty."

But the British Federation has taken the professional licence. He said: "This engagement is not legal and an infringement against one's personal liberty."

Not binding

Mr Gernaux said: "We stick to our amateur principles but if a sportsman has decided to take a professional licence he is entitled to receive as Olympic Games."

On the other hand, Mr Matthews cannot hold dual citizenship even to an Olympic oath which he would do in the future. He may, however, be invited to the Olympic Games to compete as a sportsman with a British passport.

PRINCESS MARGARET ON WAY TO E. AFRICA Kenya arrival timed for 4 p.m. today

CROWDS CHEER ROYAL YACHT AT MOMBASA

PRINCESS MARGARET is on her way to East Africa. Her B.O.A.C. Argonaut, Ajax, left London at 11.30 a.m. yesterday and is due to land at Port Retz Airport, Mombasa, at 4 p.m. today.

Meanwhile the Royal yacht Britannia arrived at Mombasa last evening and thousands of people on the waterfront crowded to the Royal dock to greet sister Elizabeth II. A fleet of small yachts massed at the harbour entrance in welcome.

At the four-engine Argonauts' arrival at London Airport the Princess could be seen smiling and waving from a rear window to the Queen Mother and a large group of Government and airport officials. The Princess and her mother had earlier said their farewells to the air-traffic controller.

Princess Margaret is coming to East Africa by way of Gibraltar, Kano and Addis to avoid flying over Egypt. She reached Gibraltar just past 5 a.m. and stayed there for an hour. She was also to spend an hour at Kano where she was expected at 2.30 a.m. today, and an hour at Entebbe, which the Princess will reach at midday.

This is Princess Margaret's third visit to Africa and her second official tour on her own—the first was in the British West Indies nearly two years ago.

Port transformed into gay 'Bunting Isle'

REMARKABLE things are happening in Mombasa. A group of chaotic soldiers in Makupa Road, on the front Port Retz Airport to Government House this afternoon, were yesterday tidying their mess and going to a daily half-hour tuition in the front kitchen. School children, including a daily lesson in Kikuyu, are being taught by a British teacher. A British teacher is also teaching a class of 150 children in the front kitchen. PRINCESS LEAVES AFTER MOMBASA WEEKEND

'Goodbye' wave from yacht

MEMORABLE VISIT FOR THE COAST

PRINCESS MARGARET last night waved goodbye to Mombasa as she pulled for Mombasa in the royal yacht Britannia after a two-day visit to the seaport to bid farewell to Her Royal Highness and, as the highlight of the royal yacht's visit to the distance, the celebration which would be difficult to equal. It was a happy occasion which the Princess and her children were reflected in their glowing testimonial from the time of her arrival at Fort Mombasa on Saturday afternoon, every activity in the Province and the Coast for the Royal Family.

Africans, Arab, Asians and Europeans showed an enthusiasm which is likely to live long in the memory of the Princess, who has already won the hearts of the people of the West Indies and Rhodesia and has now won new ones on Kenya's Coast.

Tour to see social and religious life

It was very hot in Kilindini yesterday morning, with the thermometer showing well over 80 degrees, but since dawn there had been bustle and activity near the Royal Yacht. The Princess did not come ashore until 11 a.m. to begin a round of engagements in which she was to see every aspect of Mombasa's social and religious life.

Packed in the history of the Landings and Shopping Club, she saw the members of the club and saw the blue and white uniforms of the club and saw the blue and white uniforms of the club and saw the blue and white uniforms of the club.

15,000 CHILDREN AT STADIUM RALLY

Five of all classes made a gay welcome, crowded within in the Kilindini and Mombasa being the party of Arab, Indian and African children who were in the stadium to see the Princess and her children.

Representatives of three Services

Attended by the Governor and the C-in-C, East Africa (Lt. Gen. Sir Gerald Lathbury), the Princess moves away from the aircraft that brought her from London. In the group above, Gen. Sir Gerald Lathbury, the C-in-C, E.A.F. District, is seen with the Resident Naval Officer, Mombasa, Gen. E. A. W. Giddens.

African sailors and soldiers are seen in these two pictures proudly saluting Guards of Honour for their Princess at the airport. Wherever the Princess drove cheering throngs lined her route. The picture (left) shows a section of the crowd in Fort Jean Road. Special duties were allocated to members of youth organisations and children were given "forget me not" along the pavements. People flocked to Mombasa from all parts of Kenya.

'BARDEX' Reinforced Transparent P.V.C. Hose by GRIFLEX PRODUCTS LTD

Griflex tubing is a combination of a plastic tube made from polyvinylchloride and a spiral steel wire reinforcement. The tube is not a laminated product, but is extruded with a steel spring reinforcement carried within the wall itself and out of reach of the fluids and gases being carried. This combination has, amongst others, the advantage of a guaranteed constant bore in the tube even if bent or knotted, as well as protection for the metal against abrasion, weathering and chemical influences.

BEAR-SHOOTING WORK AIDS RESEARCH

Bar fishing expedition

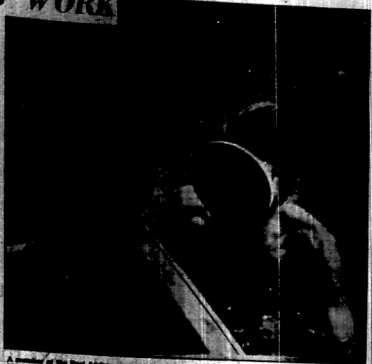

JOHN MORGANS, 31-year-old scientific officer of the East African Marine Fisheries Research Organisation, is on a week's voyage in the Organisation's research boat, the Orinoco, 35 miles from Mafik, during which he will spearhead a bar fishing expedition on the coast of East Africa.

He has chosen to use the spearfishing method because he can spearfish much more easily and can secure specimens which will not spoil so soon.

His equipment includes a gas powered by a chain engine with a water tank of 150 lb. in which is a four-2000-psi pump. Frank Taylor, who is working for the Fisheries Organisation, will take charge of the bar fishing.

The new equipment has also been developed by the Fisheries Organisation, which is in the process of being built at the Fisheries Organisation, which is in the process of being built at the Fisheries Organisation.

Hey! Take a look at these

FORD

International Victories!

Take a look at the column on the right. An impressive list of achievements by Ford cars, and only as far back as 1958.

Transportation? Not really. The real significance lies in the fact that every model of the Ford Dagenham range (Anglia to Zodiak) is featured among the winners.

Ford is placed in more languages than we'd like to add up. In Britain, on the Continent, in Scandinavia, Australia, South Africa, Central Africa, West Africa and East Africa, the full Ford range is consistently proving its worth under all conditions. From Anglia to Zodiak.

They all outclass their class!

THE RAINS ARE OVER!

While you sit there reading the headlines, stacks of rain have already started. The metal windows are rattling. The paint on the wall is flaking and peeling off in a long way from absorption. Before things get too bad, you should try Jantrol rain remover and restorer. Simply brush on the rattling surfaces to remove all rust, prevent further rusting and provide a perfect key for subsequent repainting.
