THE treatment of the value of pensions for tax purposes is one of the points being considered by the East African Revenue Advisory Board as a consequence of the amendment of an opportunity would be given for further representations on the East African Income Tax (Management) Bill.

In reply to a question from Mr. E. C. Phillips (Change of the rate in the Central Legislative Assembly) Mr. J. C. Henry said that a number of representations had been received, and the Revenue Advisory Board had reached conclusions on a number of them.

Extra information
It had requested additional information on other, the most important of which were the treatment of the value of the taxpayer's residence for tax purposes, the deductions allowed in respect of capital and welfare expenditure and the effect of the section which contained provisions affecting income action on children.

This information is expected to be available towards the end of the year when a further meeting of the board will be held at which it may be possible to complete a report for the ordinary meeting of the Assembly, the Member stated.

Bravery awards
Five awards for bravery during the disturbances in Bamenda Province in the Cameroons last March have been announced in the London Gazette.

One British Officer received the O.B.C., two others the M.B.E. and two police officials the B.E.M.

The Professor told his audience that during the attack in Zanzibar he had found and identified fish of a genus and species previously unknown to science.

Asked by a keen singer whether eugenes, diving cut inside the reef, were safe from attacks by dolphins of the deep, Professor Smith replied that in BEAUSE the sea of the East African coast is such a beautiful blue. It is unlikely that extensive commercial fishing will be possible, according to Professor Smith, Professor of Ichthyology at Rhodes University, South Africa, who has been visiting the East African coast.

South-East African fish resources, who had visited the East African coast for a number of years, were asked to give an estimate of the fish resources of the East African coast. If they could get sufficient information to make a preliminary estimate of the fish resources of the East African coast, he would be glad to give an estimate of the fish resources of the East African coast.

He gave an example of a live five feet of water, but he said that even in these shallow waters, the fish resources are not so abundant as they appear to be.

Concluding his lecture, the Professor said before he left the East African coast, he would like to see the East African coast, and he would like to see the East African coast, and he would like to see the East African coast.

Plenty to do
Professor Smith said that there was still plenty to do with regard to discovering and identifying new species of fish.

Both the East African Customs Management Bill and the East African Income Management Bill were passed through the East African Legislative Assembly.

Both Bills, which have been fully discussed with Parliament, provide for uniform procedures in East Africa in the matter of customs and excise duties, and in the matter of income tax.

Neither of the Bills will be introduced into the East African Legislative Assembly until the end of the year.

NAIROBI was been asked to submit to the Central African Council a report on the progress of the East African coast.

Opposition of the East African Council to the East African coast, the Council that Nairobi might be asked to submit a report on the progress of the East African coast.

The Member, Alderman Dr. J. A. Gregory, and the Deputy Member, Mr. J. A. Gregory, are discussing the East African coast with officials of the Department of Commerce and Industry.

Three Africans not guilty of oath charges

THREE Kikuyu have been found not guilty of charges of conspiracy with an alleged illegal outfit-taking at the Bahati Location on August 15th.

The complaint in the case was made by the British Commissioner, who stated that he and his brother-in-law had been made to undergo the ritual.

In reviewing the evidence, the court found that the accused were not guilty of the charges.

The chief accused has been sent to the police station, to be kept in custody until further notice.

A denigal
It has been denied by the Commissioner that the witness was not a witness to the alleged offence.

Although I am satisfied that there was an outfit-taking, the court found that the witness was not a witness to the alleged offence.

Identify cards for Sinhalese
Cards have been issued to Sinhalese in the East African coast, to identify them as citizens of the East African coast.

The Premier, Mr. Dudley Senanayake, is reported to have decided on this step as a measure to identify the Sinhalese in the East African coast.

QUESTIONS were put after a meeting of the East African Legislative Council meeting at the Victoria Gardens Hall, the Acting Financial Secretary, Mr. M. O. Wray, replied to the questions.

How long does it take to build the Road to Better Living?

BUILD any modern highway... big enough and wide enough for this age of motor transportation, and you build a Road to Better Living.

For modern roads speed progress to undeveloped areas, open them up to the vital flow of commerce. They speed the flow of agricultural products and materials from farms to retail centres and from one centre of industry to another. They tie together the industrial, commercial and social life of a country.

All through history it has been true: the more miles of roads, the more prosperous the land and its people. The better the roads, the higher the standard of living of everyone.

Today, big, wide, modern highways can be built faster than man ever dreamed possible. The construction industry stands ready and waiting with huge earth-mover equipment that can do as much work as thousands of men and mules could do when most present roads were built.

It is a fact: Modern earth-mover machines equipped with giant pneumatic tyres are revolutionising the construction of roads as dramatically as the pneumatic tyre revolutionised their use!

How much do modern roads cost? They pay for themselves... in better communications, better business, better wages, better standards of living.

Remember, when one works for better roads, one works for better living for all.

Report on Tanganyika to Broken Hill rail link

Report on Tanganyika to Broken Hill rail link

Some of the work on this report will "transpire" anything normally contemplated for railway line of this nature—such as surveys, maps, cuttings and so on. It is, however, possible that some of the work will be done on the spot. It is not clear how far the estimate of £26,700 a month for the 1950-51 season can now be justified. It is the intention of the Government to carry out the work on the line in the next few months. It is not clear how far the estimate of £26,700 a month for the 1950-51 season can now be justified. It is the intention of the Government to carry out the work on the line in the next few months.

The thick black line represents the proposed main rail link from Broken Hill to Mtwara and a further extension to the Mwanza area. The dotted lines indicate possible variations and sidings.

Korogoro to Morogoro

Although not included in the terms of reference of the North-South Rail Survey, brief studies of the Korogoro-Morogoro Link have been completed. The study is a preliminary one and is intended to provide a basis for a more detailed study. It is not clear how far the estimate of £26,700 a month for the 1950-51 season can now be justified. It is the intention of the Government to carry out the work on the line in the next few months.

More settlers

Pointing out that much of the land through which the line will pass is of low fertility, particularly in the area of the Korogoro, the report states that a "prudent" government should be expected to encourage settlement in the area. It is not clear how far the estimate of £26,700 a month for the 1950-51 season can now be justified. It is the intention of the Government to carry out the work on the line in the next few months.

Many problems

A variety of problems, technical and social, are involved in the development of the line. It is not clear how far the estimate of £26,700 a month for the 1950-51 season can now be justified. It is the intention of the Government to carry out the work on the line in the next few months.

PLATEAU GOLF IN RETROSPECT

Anderson wins his first open title

"Sportsman of the Week" The Plateau golf championship of 1932 was won by the Nairobi player—and was the case last year—by a narrow margin. Although leading George Carruthers, of Eldoret, by five and four in the final, Anderson failed to desert and was never passed.

It comes as a surprise, therefore, to realize that this was "Andy" Anderson's first victory in an open event in Kenya. His speciality, hitherto, has been club championship, his club being the Nairobi Golf Club.

Last year, for example, he won both the Kenyan and the Nairobi club championships and it was of the Nairobi that he was the champion. He was the Nairobi champion in 1931, 1930, 1929, 1928, 1927, 1926, 1925, 1924, 1923, 1922, 1921, 1920, 1919, 1918, 1917, 1916, 1915, 1914, 1913, 1912, 1911, 1910, 1909, 1908, 1907, 1906, 1905, 1904, Jane Irving tries to discover KENYA'S NATIONAL FLOWER

ENGLAND has an undisputed claim to the rose and France has always boasted her fleur-de-lis. Scotland has the thistle and Ireland the shamrock. But what do we look upon as Kenya's national flower? This week's picture page invites YOU to decide.

I consulted two of our best-known botanical experts on the question and they — Dr. A. J. S. Blake and Mr. P. K. O. Bally — selected eight from the many exotic and beautiful flowers which grow in Kenya as the most likely candidates for the honour. Six of these are illustrated.

It may be that someone has other ideas but it should be borne in mind that, whatever the choice, the flower should be indigenous to the Colony.

ROSE botanists agreed that the most ornamental and spectacular flower of all is the Gibson Lily. Illustrated bottom right. It grew from 1879. Lily — selected eight from the many exotic and beautiful flowers which grow in Kenya as the most likely candidates for the honour. Six of these are illustrated.

It is perhaps significant that this flower was chosen by Dr. Jan-Blake for the cover of the book, Gardening in East Africa, which he edited. It was chosen, too, by the Kenya Horticultural Society as the emblem for its badge for life members. Her Majesty the Queen owns the flower in her private garden.

CHINESE COMPASS PLANT is just another way of saying Mandi Flame, below centre. This needs no introduction to Kenya people who welcome its masses of red flowers along our dry and dusty roads. They appear at a height of 10 feet or more on the Mandi Flame trees and are remarkable for their large size and colouring, more than for their graceful design or proportions. The tree grows in tropical and West Africa as well as in Kenya and can stand up to drought.

Only one of the eight flowers is indigenous solely to Kenya. It is Rubus Prinosus, top right. Children call it "Jambo Jambo" because the bright, vermilion and yellow variegated-like flowers have darker markings in the centre which give a "jambo" effect. A good hedge plant, it grows from 3000 feet to 4000 feet and is found everywhere in the Colony and especially in the Dickson.

CHINESE LANTERN — Morsethia Multiflora in botanical jargon — is a very striking plant with numerous tubular flowers arranged in a large spherical head. It is found all over our territory and has the habit of turning up in remote places where its grey red flowers make the collection of scrubland. It is seen in the centre picture.

ISS mentions them in its connections in the Yujima Lily or Chama Kirkii. One of our best flowering plants, it has large white red-tinged drooping flowers and is widely distributed in tropical Africa, from the coast to the highlands. There are many species of the Chama in Kenya, but the Chama is the most prolific.

A flower with small habits is the Rubus Dancoi or Acidandera Canadensis, top left. Whichever it rains, the Danco comes to life. A delicate pure white and veined-rose flower, it is a Morsethia-like plant and is found in grasslands, flourishing particularly in the Ngere Hills.

And what of the many others and covers indigenous to Kenya? The number of which there are many varieties. For instance, the botanists have included in their selection of eight flowers the Chama because it is best known. It climbs to the highest heights and has a bright orange flower rather like a primrose in design. It is seen bottom left.

It Was A Record Catch

AT Kenya's lovely coastal resorts the thrilling sports of goggling and harpoon fishing are becoming more and more popular. Even an indifferent performer can amuse himself for hours twiggling about the warm shallow water, gurgling at the brilliant colours of the fascinating coral, forming a sort of that dart in and out of the pools.

But it takes something of an art to do the jerky darts of the deep, and the fisherman who is a specialist in this branch of the sport is known as a "fisherman".

Such a fisherman is Ian Pridmore, of Nairobi, who, accompanied with a small sailing boat, with a motor engine, three of the Blue Lagoon motor launch, and a large party of twiggling, has captured a record fish, weighing 100 lbs. and measuring 40 inches in length.

It was taken on the coast of the Indian Ocean, near the town of Mombasa, and was the largest fish ever taken in the district.

IAN PRIDMORE, left, and Herbert Field, right, with their catch, the mackerel fish, to the surface and bring it to the boat. They then managed to cut off the fish before heading off abroad. As he generally carries the pointer stick from the tail of this fish, common were given a fish, it took all hands to get it on shore.

It is thought to be the fish about 100 lbs. and 40 inches in length, and it was the only specimen of its kind ever taken in the district. It was taken on the coast of the Indian Ocean, near the town of Mombasa, and was the largest fish ever taken in the district.
