Another new building adding to the ever-changing face of Nairobi is the Information Bureau being built on the site of the old bus station. The bureau (above), which is to be set in a smoke garden, will have its frontage on Government Road and will be overlooked by the Hilton Hotel in the background. The bureau will take the place of the familiar old building across the corner (left).

It appeared that according to the Trade Licensing Act a licence could be refused to anybody, even Kenya citizens. But this power, which is a discretion, must be exercised judicially on principles recognised by law, for example, convincing evidence of fraud on a criminal charge involving moral turpitude, or a licence refused arbitrarily or be used as an instrument to discriminate against anybody.

VIEWER TO TAKE B.B.C. TO COURT

A British television viewer, Mr. Roy Eddy, a solicitor's clerk, has started action to have the State-owned British Broadcasting Corporation prosecuted for inciting race hatred.

A reporter, Mr. James Mosman, asked President Obote of Uganda and Kenya's Minister of Finance, Mr. J. S. Githuru, delegates attending the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference, why African countries did not attack Rhodesia instead of complaining that Britain did nothing.

This seemed to be a clear incitement to Africans against Rhodesia which could create racial hatred in this country, Mr. Eddy said.

Twenty Roman Catholic priests, including two Negroes, were accused of a "hate" by the Bishop of Newark, New Jersey, who were "essentially racist, bigoted and pathetic".

Archbishop of New York, Cardinal Cooke, said that the priests were a "third of the Negro's Archdiocese's clergy."

Congo holds rebel leader

A former rebel leader who operated in the east of the Congo, the so-called "Gen" Ngalu, has been arrested by the Congolese National Army, according to a military communiqué issued in Kinshasa.

Ngalu joined the rebels when Kinshasa fell during the 1963 rebellion but when the republic was proclaimed two years later he fled abroad.

The communiqué said Ngalu returned to the Congo after the execution last October of another rebel leader, Pierre Mulele.

Arms ban brings crisis in Franco-Israeli relations

The new French ban on arms sales to Israel has left Franco-Israeli relations at their lowest ebb since the 1967 Middle East war.

President de Gaulle is understood to have personally ordered the total arms embargo as a "warning shot" following last month's Israeli attack on Beirut Airport.

The French leader was expected to make his first statement on the affair at a Cabinet session yesterday, which was expected to discuss the issue.

Mr. de Gaulle's move was widely expected to be a warning shot to Israel, which has refused to sell arms, they said.

Continuing on the line, Israel's information Minister, Mr. Israel Galili, said the French President's action "removes any possibility of playing a constructive role in respect from now on."

While the Security Council has not considered it necessary to apply sanctions to Israel, the President of the French Republic has given himself his report.

Further vigorous protest came from the rightist Cuban Front, whose two parties form part of Israel's governing coalition.

The front cited Jewish support for the Free French in World War Two and said the embargo threatened to break the Israeli and French ties.

The arms halt was seen to imply some community of viewpoint between France and certain Arab countries. Israeli diplomats were expected to be in Washington to ascertain how broad any possible French embargo might be.

Observing further, pointed out that President de Gaulle's move could have a far-reaching effect on the French-Arab relations.

VIEWER TO TAKE B.B.C. TO COURT

A British television viewer, Mr. Roy Edey, a solicitor's clerk, has started action to have the State-owned British Broadcasting Corporation prosecuted for inciting race hatred.

Mr. Edey, 42, was seen by the Attorney-General's counsel in a brief proceeding against the B.B.C. following an interview on Rhodesia with two African leaders on Monday's Panorama current affairs programme.

A reporter, Mr. James Mossman, asked President Obote of Uganda and Kenya's Minister for Finance, Mr. J. S. Gichuru, delegates attending the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference, why African countries did not attack Rhodesia instead of complaining that Britain did nothing.

"This seemed to be a clear incitement to Africans against Rhodesians which could certainly threaten Rhodesia in this country," Mr. Edey said.

Twenty Roman Catholic priests, including two Negroes, have accused Archbishop Thomas Boland of Newark, New Jersey, of being "racially racist, bigoted and apathetic." Arms ban brings crisis in Franco-Israeli relations

The new French ban on arms sales to Israel has left Franco-Israeli relations at their lowest ebb since the 1967 Middle East war.

President de Gaulle is understood to have personally ordered the arms embargo as a "warning show" following last month's Israeli attack on Beirut Airport.

The French leader was expected to make his first statement on the issue at a Cabinet session yesterday, which was expected to discuss the matter.

But whatever comments he now makes, they are unlikely to thaw relations already chilled by the 1967 ban on delivery of arms to Tel Aviv, including 10 Mirage fighter-bombers.

The new ban, first reported in the Israeli capital on Monday, applies to spare parts, helicopters, patrol boats and their equipment. The increased Israeli Government on Tuesday denounced the French move as a hostile act.

No Israeli counter-action is expected in Paris until the return of Admiral Mordochai Limor, head of an Israeli arm-buying mission, from consultations in Beirut. He left France on Tuesday.

In Israel a Foreign Office spokesman said that President de Gaulle's decision to stop supplying the French arms was "unilateral and illegal" and a breach of contract between two countries.

It is a willful act to harm Israel's defensive capability while she is facing the constant aggression and hostility of the Arab aggressors.

France's attempt to evoke both sympathy and disapproval in Israel, believed the traditional friendship between the peoples of the two countries would continue.

He added: "The policy of France is to support Israel's right to exist and to defend its territory."

has occasionally moved closer to the policy of those Government officials in Israel who are opposed to the sale of arms to Israel.

"France's action on arms only of the majority of the Arab countries towards Israel, the unity which is the foundation to its position in this area."

Israeli Foreign Ministry sources disapproved any possibility of the embargo, as a result of the strike, disrupt her relations with France.

"We will certainly not break off relations. We will never do such a thing as to break off relations with our ally."

Commenting on the ban, Israel's Information Minister, Mr. Israel Galili, said the French President's action "removes any possibility of his playing a constructive role in the region from now on."

"While the Security Council has considered it necessary to apply sanctions to Israel, the President of the French Republic has applied these to the right."

Further vigorous protest came yesterday from the rightist Gual Front, which two parties form part of Israel's governing coalition. The front cited Jewish support for the Free French in World War Two and said the embargo threatened trust between the Israeli and French people.

The arms halt was seen to imply some community of viewpoint between France and certain Arab countries. Israeli diplomats were expected to make soundings in the Arab world any possible French-Arab accord might be observed.

Observers further pointed out that President de Gaulle's step constituted a serious setback for French business — and that, they added, would cause a negative reaction in France among business-people.

France's official language in dealing the arms shipments was "neutral" but the embargo, though the Government would not comment on it.

PETROL CARGO BAN HITS MERCY AIRLIFT

The International Red Cross has been forced to suspend its mercy flights to Biafra because Equatorial Guinea has banned it from flying in petrol for its distribution there.

The ban was imposed on December 29 but the airlift, which takes supplies to 400,000 Biafrans, continued until last Monday when the remaining reserves of fuel ran out.

No reason was given for the ban, but the spokesman said Equatorial Guinea had charged that some fuel flown in went for use in Biafran military vehicles.

The allegation is completely untrue and to have done so would have been a flagrant violation of a charter, the Red Cross spokesman said.

Two Rhodesian nationalist leaders may be charged with plotting to assassinate Premier Mr. Ian Smith, a lawyer has confirmed in Salisbury.

The lawyer, acting for the Bar, said it was understood that they have one of his clients, a Rhodesian nationalist, who was going to be charged.

Both the Zann leaders are held incommunicado in Salisbury and it is understood that they have been allowed only one visit from their lawyer — since November 20 last year.

A London evening newspaper carried a report claiming that Mr. Sibhole and his lieutenant, Maurice Nyangumbo, had been arrested in connection with the assassination plot and would appear in court against the 24-year-old Jordanian.

The chief defence lawyer, Mr. G. Cooper, said he wanted the indictment which handed him up to be read in public before the court, but had not been properly informed from a cross-section of the population.

The half-hour court session in the closely-guarded courtroom on the eighth floor of the Law Hall in London was held for an hour so that the public could see the trial and the superior court judge, Herbert Walker, in private.

After the hearing, the judge decided motions to allow the trial to proceed on the penalty.

Mr. Cooper said he was sure that the trial would be a landmark in the history of the death penalty and that the public would be able to see the trial and the superior court judge, Herbert Walker, in private.

Judge denies Sirhan two juries for trial

The trial of Sirhan Bishara Halim, accused of assassinating Robert Kennedy, was adjourned shortly after it opened on Monday following a motion by defence lawyers to quash the indictment against the 24-year-old Jordanian.

PAPER SEIZED AS CENSORSHIP ENDS

A Rio newspaper which hailed the end of official censorship in banner headlines on Tuesday was seized under a new law on Sunday and later its three top directors were arrested.

Police trooped into the office of the Correio da Manhã to detain its owner, Mrs. Niomar Mota Sodre Bittencourt, in administrative head, Nelson De Faria Baptista, and the chief editor, Mr. Osvaldo Pereira.

Mr. Pereira was also arrested on December 13, when the regime of Marshal Arthur Costa de Silva suspended the Constitution, and spent the next 15 days in jail.

Police sources said the opposition Press leaders were taken into custody for publishing "false information which was insulting to the authorities."

The paper further reported that President Costa de Silva had written to the U.S. President, John F. Kennedy, justifying Brazil's military involvement and asking that military and economic aid be resumed.

The letter reportedly included a promise to take current emergency measures as soon as circumstances permitted.

Mayor Banda said the majority of traders waited until the last minute before applying for licences.

The District Development Committee has charged two alien chain butchery firms with refusing to register as Zambians when they were not.

In Lusaka, the Mayor, Mr. Whiston Banda, has accused traders of causing confusion in the city's second-hand clothing trade area because the licences have not been renewed.

About 200 Asian traders have stayed closed in the city's second-hand clothing trade area because the licences have not been renewed.

SIAMESE TWINS die at 60

The Brighton-born Siamese twins, who died at 60, were buried in a private ceremony at the base of St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

They were joined at the back of the neck, and were not identical twins, as they had different blood groups.

They were born in North Carolina after apparently suffering complications from influenza.

They became a big-time vaudeville act and owned their own land and owned their own home.

They were born in England in 1916 for America. At the time of their death they were employed as clerks in a grocery store.

Czechs compromise on new leader of Assembly

Phonetic of the Czechoslovak Communist Party yesterday called for an end to the large-scale campaign to keep Mr. Smrkovsky as head of the new Federal Assembly and for a halt to disputation between Czechs and Slovaks.

Observers felt the compromise in the present tense circumstances amounted to at least a partial victory for the groups of intellectuals, students and the majority of workers' organisations which formed a spontaneous "united front" in defiance of the January, 1968, liberalisation policy, one of whose most popular defenders is Mr. Smrkovsky.

The extent of the present toning was graphically illustrated by a rash of rumours in Prague according to which Soviet troops were occupying a number of factories, federal offices and administrative buildings.

The authorities instantly issued denials. But the rumour showed how nervous the President's recent warning had made the people, observers said.

They added that Mr. Smrkovsky's radio broadcast last Sunday did nothing to restore calm. His denials that underlings had been given "anywhere" about his future, spoken in an uncharacteristically plaintive voice, did nothing to dispel the impression in certain political circles that his fate had been sacrificed on the altar of "normalisation" at the Soviet-Czech talks in Kiev last month.

This international aspect of the "Smrkovsky Affair" aroused public opinion in his favour to the point where the campaign launched in the middle of December swelled to national proportions.

This was especially true in the Czech areas of the country, where unions representing hundreds of thousands of workers threatened to strike if anyone "touched" the National Assembly's popular President.

Our early night flights to London miss out on an awful lot.

Every day some 50,000 people fly in and out of London's Heathrow. By taking a BOAC night flight you give most of them a miss.

At the passport control only your passport gets stamped upon. And at the customs you'll notice none of the customary queues.

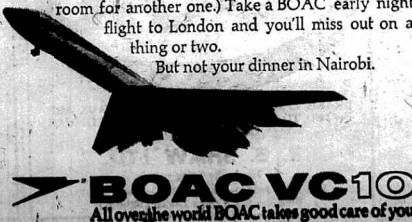

Catch the early bird and you miss out on something else: all those awful London rush-hour traffic jams. And so by eight o'clock you're in London with all the day ahead of you.

There is one thing night fliers don't miss, and that's connections. Your flight lands well before the peak period for international and domestic flights begins.

You'll even have time to take a leisurely breakfast in a quiet, uncrowded airport restaurant. (That's if you've got room for another one.) Take a BOAC early night flight to London and you'll miss out on a thing or two.

But not your dinner in Nairobi.

Israel defiant over French arms embargo

The Israeli Prime Minister, Golda Meir, has described the French embargo on arms sales to Israel as a "one-sided independence" which she said would be "likely to damage the Middle East peace prospects."

Meir, speaking in Tel Aviv on Tuesday, said that the action of the French Government was "likely to bring the situation in an area of the world to a state of tension and to a role which is not in the interests of the people of the world."

The Foreign Minister, Meir said, said Israel's refusal to take the previous day's action was "unanimous, irrevocable and unalterable."

Meir said that the French Government would retain the right to supply arms to Israel, and that she would not take the matter to court.

Meir said that she would be taking the matter to court if the French Government would not take the matter to court.

French officials said the Government could not be used for a refund because the embargo was a sovereign decision taken in a time of emergency.

Syrian Foreign Minister, Mr. Mohamed Abouli, has praised General de Gaulle's embargo on French arms for Israel and said in talks with Egyptian leaders stressed the importance of Arab unity after the boycott started with flights of Jewish groups from the U.S.A. to Israel.

The Tel Aviv evening newspaper 'Yedioth Ahronoth' claimed that the French embargo was a 'boycott' of France following the boycott started with flights of Jewish groups from the U.S.A. to Israel.

The Lebanese President, Mr. Charles Helou, has rejected a note from Mr. Eshkol asking to curb the activities of anti-Israeli territories in his country.

A correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company has claimed that Israel still has a nuclear bomb or will have it soon.

The N.B.C. reporter, Mr. James Robinson, in a television report, quoted American intelligence sources as saying Israeli agents had been discovered buying certain materials and parts that might be used for a nuclear device.

Students want chaos - California Governor

Leftist students at San Francisco and San Fernando State colleges in California skirmished violently with police on Wednesday in their continuing battle for courses in Negro history and other Black Power demands.

The State Governor, Mr. Ronald Reagan, immediately accused the students of "deliberately seeking provocation and chaos in a power grab."

He said: "I claim their effort is one that is nothing more than seeking anarchy and the takeover of the educational system." The right-wing Republican said. He urged that "society take a stand against this barbaric force."

At San Francisco one student was knocked down by a car and a television reporter was injured by a stone. About 100 police, swinging batons, moved onto the 18,000-student campus to combat about 1,000 demonstrators, mostly members of the Black Students' Union and the Third World Liberation Front.

The battle marked the first police-student confrontation since the afternoon school re-opened on Monday after a prolonged Communist vacation. Joining the demonstration were several professors of the San Francisco State University.

At San Francisco, California, police armed with clubs forcefully blocked 1,000 students seeking to enter administration buildings to voice Black Power protests. The encounter ended with four injured, including two policemen, and 14 students were arrested.

With rumours spreading that students would march on the local jail to free their detained comrades, units of riot police in neighbouring Los Angeles went on the alert.

Although the San Fernando campus has only 200 Negroes in its 16,000 population, it had also been the scene of violence last November when students charged the administration with racist policies.

Economic activity 'higher' in Rhodesia

Britain has acknowledged in a document made public at the United Nations that despite U.N.-imposed sanctions, economic activity in Rhodesia "in real terms" is higher now than in 1965, the year in which the colony declared unilateral independence.

But, according to the British evaluation, "there has been no growth in real income and no indication of a capacity to achieve sustained growth while sanctions remain in force."

The detailed British assessment was part of a lengthy report issued by the Sanctions Committee of the U.N. Security Council, the first up to oversee compliance with the council's order against Rhodesia and to appraise the effects of the embargo.

The report also disclosed that a consignment of tobacco shipped from the Portuguese Mozambique port of Beira was falsely documented as being of Malawi origin and that it was "probable" other shipments might have been dispatched under forged documentation.

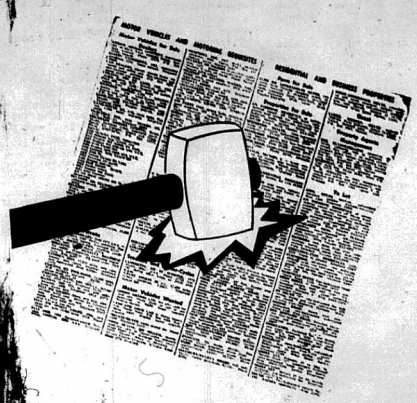

After an investigation by the British and Malawi Governments, the report said Malawi had decided to make it more difficult for Rhodesia tobacco to be exported under forged Malawi certificates by requiring that all tobacco exporters from Malawi must be covered by valid certificates of origin, whether or not such documentation was required by an importing country, and these certificates would be issued only by the Malawi Tobacco Control Commission.

The British evaluation on the effect of sanctions said that despite the 30 per cent fall in trade turnover since 1965, the latest figures published by the rebel régime showed a rise of about 5 per cent in national income from £835,000,000 in 1965 to £838,000,000 in 1967.

REVIEW OF LEISURE TRENDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS IN EAST AFRICA

The Convent Sisters are seen with Bishop Gatimu of Nyeri at his home. The Bishop presented each Sister with a ring to commemorate the convent's golden jubilee.

The grounds around the convent supply much of the Sisters' food. A group is seen here gathering the plum crop, part of which is sent for sale in Nairobi.

The Sisters leave the chapel at their convent at Nyeri after early-morning prayers.

Sisters celebrate 50 years

At the foot of Nyeri Hill, three miles north-west of Nyeri township, lies the old famous Mathari Mission established by the Consolata Fathers and Sisters some 66 years ago. A stone's throw from the tower, in the heart of the mission, is a convent of old brick and modern stone buildings known as the Mary Immaculate Convent. The community within it, numbering more than 212, recently celebrated the convent's golden jubilee.

Fifty years of progress. That is the proud record of the Mary Immaculate Convent. JOSEPH KARIMI tells the story of the Nyeri African Sisters.

The anniversary celebrations were held on four from Gachanjiru and one from Mugori Mission in Murang'a District, and to join the Consolata for missionary work.

In 1916 the then Bishop of Nyeri, the Rt. Rev. Charles-RE, sent a group of African Sisters to train as teachers in a training college. There was much work awaiting them at the missions as many had established schools. The Mary Immaculate Congregation was still growing, wholly under the auspices of the Consolata Sisters.

training they had undergone. The African Sisters were not yet independent. They had taken over more responsibility and worked side by side with the European Sisters at the missions and at hospitals and other institutions.

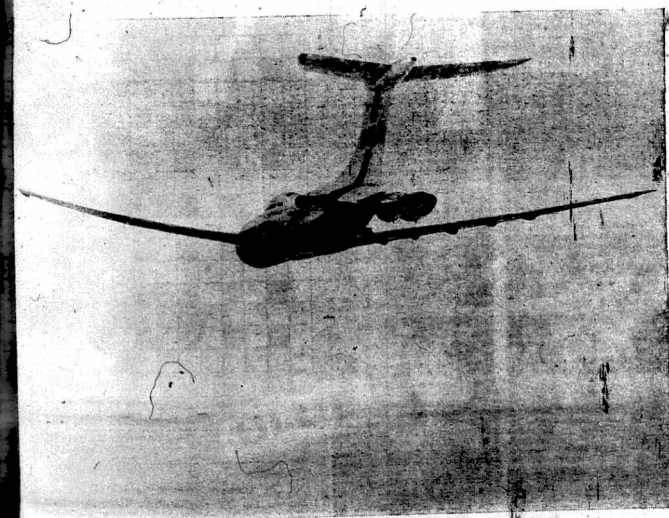

With facilities for necessary training, the Sisters are running maternity units and dispensaries at Mweiga, Kiungu, Baricho, Mwea, Kabeti, Gikondi, Gaturu, Icapaki, Marera, Rachu and Kiungu, and a dispensary at Murang'a Mission.

Up to 1952, when a girl decided to leave the veil, this attitude of parents who were forbidding a girl to leave the convent was common. When I met at the Parliament who had his daughter for an intended Sister in charge of the convent, he said that his daughter had to take back home after the convent by force were witnessed. They all ended unsuccessfully.

During the Emergency two of the Sisters, Mary Katarina and Mary Lucretia Cecilia, were murdered at Baricho "for Faith". Two others who sustained injuries have since recovered. When the golden jubilee was celebrated late in 1968, Bishop Gatimu put rings on the fingers of the Sisters to indicate that they have been "married to the Lord". They were all given the name Mary which will come before other names. The Sisters are happy with life at the convent. "Things have changed and the country is forging ahead rapidly," one commented. They own a car, a Peugeot 404 station wagon, which is always on the move. There are sisters at the missions, others at Mweiga and another group at the Convent. The rate of application and admission is rising sharply. Their work in the future is guaranteed.

Lack of pupils before the rush

Holiday time was over for many Nairobi children as they returned to empty school classrooms early this week and again look out their school desks and pencils.

But only two children walked into the classrooms at Wardaji nursery school, to the surprise and consternation of the staff.

Advice on beauty in a hot climate

How to use make-up to help overcome some of the beauty problems that arise from living in a hot, dry climate is one of the subjects being discussed by Miss Helen Ghaly, a specialist in the use of the company's products and demonstrations.

Miss Ghaly has information about the latest cosmetics at the feet of her fingers. Some of the new products such as the Illumination make-up may take some time to arrive in East Africa. Miss Ghaly is expected to notice from her literature on various products that Helen Robinson make a leg and body make-up which definitely seems to be becoming a trend on the Continent.

A Beautiful Complexion

Surround yourself with an aura of loveliness when you go forth for the day. After cleansing tone and refine your complexion with lemon. Delfin freshener and stimulate the skin cells — and then smooth in a film of tropical moist oil. The hygroscopic moisture attracting oil of Ulan will maintain your skin at depth to give your complexion a youthful bloom besides forestalling it against the drying effect of wind and weather.

Margaret Merrill.

Miss Connie Bjerg Jakobsen, the fully qualified and experienced teacher who arrived in Kenya only last month as a volunteer to teach at the new school.

Other nursery schools around Nairobi can produce long waiting lists, and parents have frequently reported difficulty in finding a nursery for their children, so it was natural to assume that there would be an immediate response from parents.

Building of the nursery school had just been completed at Wardaji Villa in Westlands, by the Edelvalde Sisters who also run a girls' hostel.

The original idea of having a nursery school arose in February, 1967, after the girls' hostel had been built. Expenses in keeping 14 girls who had just completed primary education, clothing them, feeding them and providing secondary school education was a heavy burden, and so it was decided to build a nursery school nearby to finance the hostel.

The school, with three classrooms and a small kitchen, was built, and donations of furniture, equipment and toys were accepted by the sisters to aid the project. Then on Monday the school opened its doors... but where were all the children?

Small tables and chairs were neatly arranged in one classroom, and the two small pupils sat down to drink hot soup provided by the school, and a packed lunch from home.

In another classroom little rocking horses were strewn about, and the two new pupils fledged their way through them, already looking a little lost amongst facilities that were intended for up to 60 children.

"There will be a few more children arriving next Monday", one of the Sisters told me "but we certainly expected more than just two when we opened."

Another Nairobi nursery school has an overflow of children that have been referred to the Wardaji Day Nursery, but the Sisters are not over-worried at the moment.

"We did not advertise or anything as I expect most people just do not know we existed," she added.

"Our teacher, Miss Bjerg Jakobsen, is a qualified and experienced teacher from Denmark who she started up a nursery school here when we enrol more children it will be necessary to find another teacher to help out so we hope to be able to find an African one."

Meanwhile the two new pupils Philip and Susan are enjoying their new school somewhat lonesome.

Few children can have so much attention as Philip and Susan on their first day at school. They had the place and a teacher, Miss Connie Jakobsen, to themselves.

The newly built nursery at Wardaji Villa next to the girls' hostel. Proceeds from the nursery school are intended to finance the hostel which accommodates 14 girls of secondary school level. Expenses of the hostel are high and include feeding, clothing and educating the girls. Donations in the way of furniture, equipment and toys have been given by Nairobi firms and individuals to help the project. The demand for more nursery schools, it is hoped, that the situation will soon be rectified.

EAT AND STAY SLIM

by Elizabeth Richards

As usual, lots of people have been making New Year resolutions and swearing to stick to them throughout the year. The most common, and the most easily broken, resolution among us women is to diet and regain a youthful slim figure, especially after the excesses of Christmas.

However, in most cases really rigid diets only lead to increase bad temper, and are not good for the general health unless specially prescribed by a doctor.

There is no need to starve oneself, and the best way of slim sensibly is to cut down on oily, greasy and starchy foods and eat plenty of salads, fresh fruits and vegetables. When cooking food try baking, steaming or grilling rather than frying.

Miss Leah Gichuhi, a young teacher from Nyeri, will be the guest in My Kind of Music, to be heard on Sunday in the B.B.C. World Service.

While she was teaching in a primary school Leah became interested in helping deaf children to communicate and express themselves.

Now she is in London taking a special course at the College of Deaf Welfare of the Royal National Institute for the Deaf, in order to become a welfare officer for the deaf, a career which she hopes to take up on her return home.

To remind her of Kenya, and her home town of Nyeri, she has chosen Nairobi My Kind of Music as her first record, included in her choice is the Beatles' record I Saw Her Standing There.

During her 14 months in London, Leah has made good use of her leisure time, and has been visiting some of the historic buildings, including the Houses of Parliament.

The Minister for Education, Kiambu, has ordered new examinations in Kisumu to help teachers cope with "irregularities" by a group of teachers in the district. A statement yesterday disclosed that the teachers who were involved in Kisumu District worked out the examination papers and showed them to the candidates in the examination centre. Stage set for swimming thriller

The Kenya Amateur Swimming Association meet which was held in Nairobi on Wednesday night retained the Jerry Lenin Trophy when they beat the Irons 10-1.

The Swans were due to arrive in Nairobi yesterday to compete in the triangular for the Midco Trophy, which will be staged tomorrow afternoon and all day Sunday at the State House Road Girls High School.

Little if anything is known in Kenya of the standard of swimming in the Sudan but after the Jerry Lenin Trophy competition it is obvious that the Zambian manager, Mr. L. Gwee, did have his tongue in his cheek when he said he was "very optimistic about his swimmers' chances."

The match with Kenya could not have been much closer and the issue was in doubt right until the end when only three events were left. But a one-two by Roma Geyer and Jackie Lamb in the girls' 14 years and under 4 x 30 metres individual medley made a Kenya victory certain.

But for the tremendous courage of the Kenya girls, Zambia undoubtedly have taken the trophy home with them. For their boys generally were much stronger than their Kenya counterparts.

Throughout the competition, in which 52 events were swum, Zambia inched ahead through their top boys, 12-year-old Douglas Shy, 14-year-old Barry Jolly and the three seniors in the 16 years age group, Colin Fox, Ron Seegar and Mike Hartzberg.

But then the Kenya girls came back and recovered lost ground and some powerful swimming was seen from Roma and Susan Geyer, Zoe and Tessa Pickering, Jackie Lamb.

Kenya's narrow victory over Zambia in the age-group swimming triangular for the Jerry Lenin Trophy has set the stage for a really exciting triangular with Sudan this weekend.

16 London schoolboys to tour E.A.

London Schoolboys' Cricket Association is to send a squad of 16 players on a tour to East Africa between July 25 and September 15.

The association announced yesterday that they will play matches in Kenya, Uganda, Tanzania and Zambia.

The invitation came from the East African Cricket Conference following the successful tour of the London Schoolboys to India and Ceylon five years ago.

The association said they have already raised half of the £5,000 needed for the tour. The boys themselves will all under 17, have raised £500 each and are doing extra jobs after school.

The England Test captain, Colin Cowdley, has shown an interest in the tour and has offered to help the boys in practice when he returns from the Pakistan Test. The wicketkeeper, Alan Knott, and the spinner, Derek Underwood, who are also in the M.C.C. touring party, will assist Cowdley in the coaching.

Britain renews entry race to U.K. Asians

Mr. Callaghan said that he had no intention of going back on his word that Britain would accept any Indian, Pakistani or Bangladeshi who is unable to return to his own country.

SATURDAY ESSAY

Cats' Convention

Sir — The Swara Club Management Committee has sent a cable to the Commonwealth Cats' Conference demanding a Commonwealth Convention to guarantee unrestricted migration without quarantine restrictions.

We cannot continue to tolerate this period in purgatory, which is degrading to our pride. Moreover, it is racial, since animals destined for posh homes in zoos do not have to cool their paws hanging around what amounts to prison cages. (I write under the Management Committee's jurisdiction. Personally, I feel joy glad not to be confined to life imprisonment in a zoo, much preferring life on a pink bedspread, with cream on my morning porridge.)

We demand a Convention, with a permanent secretariat preferably in the Bahamas, to guarantee our rights in the future. We are lobbying influential club members for a job in the secretariat when it is set up. Not that she can type, or even answer the telephone without screeching her eyes, but as she said after allowing her third pink milk you never know when you might meet or get up to it. This, as this seemed a natural-seeming way of trying to get switched on among the young and furry.

Sill, you cannot help but admire Mizie as a game old pinup. There she was the other night, sizzling along in bar getting her coat wet and sticky, defending mini-skirts. "Let us kittens have our fun," she mewed, skittishly.

"What's wrong with a shapely lady?" Every old Tom here who objects is a hypocrite or past it. Besides, puss-cats have been going around in skirts in manner that must and for longer in this part of the world."

The Cats' Chronicle and Movers' Magazine is full from cover to cover with means about trade licensing closing down business. It does not bother the Swara Club since this is a private oufit, though I should not be surprised if our licence is cancelled one fine day on account of the catering on the night before, which goes for one of two other clubs in the vicinity.

Pussimballi Paid left some time ago, being unable to get a renewal for his employment. He is now living comfortably on specially fitted jerrings among his aristocratic fellow-cats near Guildford. Not Snowflake for him.

No non-citizen cat has been admitted to club membership since that unfortunate affair when a cross-grained Manx type was asked to resign after tearing the leather armchairs to shreds. We are not represented on the committee of the British Citizens Merchants Cats' Congress with headquarters some distance away in Parklands. All its members appear to be cats from Shah and Patel house, however.

The general opinion here is that they will not get much help from Mr. (Skimpples) Wilson. Or, for that matter, from Treasury. Cats in New Delhi, but one can but feel sorry for their plight. Kindly pay the ginger cake as if an almsright Jonathan.

Will you on the domestic front, I warn you that if this half-furries' Stamp who mis-steps mauling in on my meals, and insulting me because of a "breeze" I unavoidably inhaled from Siamese ancestry. I shall stop spitting in his face and scratch his own eyes out.

There is a further domestic point we ought to settle, connected with the architectural design of our new buildings. Obviously cats were not intended when it was built. Would you kindly erect a dog stop mauling in on my meals, and insulting me because of a "breeze" I unavoidably inhaled from Siamese ancestry. I shall stop spitting in his face and scratch his own eyes out.

This is a naive comment route than through the door which anyway, is impractical at night. It is just much to expect a cat of my size and age group to jump such distances. You ought to know how fragile and brittle Siamese legs are, even if twice removed on the disaff side.

Yes, finally in the race to keep off the Moon and stay in Kenya.

KENYA'S STAND ON RHODESIA

Stress on commonwealth Salisburies, rebels face reality

The problem of Rhodesia is still with us. It is regarded as the most serious problem in the Commonwealth. Indeed it is suggested in some quarters that it is both contentiously and attractively so.

I do not know what this really means. I do not know why this country at this conference which supports the racist regime of Rhodesia.

Kenya's position has been explained at all the previous Commonwealth conferences and at the United Nations. We are unalterably opposed to any form of compromise with the rebel regime and believe that total condemnation is the only just course.

This conference must concern itself with practical steps needed to be taken to intensify the campaign against this regime. It is a commonwealth duty to do this. It is a commonwealth duty to do this. It is a commonwealth duty to do this.

The text of the speech on Rhodesia, made to the Commonwealth Conference in London by the leader of the Kenya delegation, JAMES GICHURU, is given fully here.

I propose to discuss the Rhodesia proposals in two parts. First, I shall discuss the proposals in general, and then I shall discuss the proposals in detail. I shall discuss the proposals in general, and then I shall discuss the proposals in detail.

The Rhodesia proposals are a serious challenge to the Commonwealth. They are a challenge to the Commonwealth's principles and values. They are a challenge to the Commonwealth's unity and solidarity.

We must stand firm against these proposals. We must stand firm against these proposals. We must stand firm against these proposals.

form of settlement should be entertained. The British Government will, I repeat, not discuss any unilateral statement which might be made by the rebel regime and revive the proposals of the African majority opposed to the rebellion.

Lastly, we need to review the scope and effectiveness of sanctions as applied to Rhodesia. We need to review the scope and effectiveness of sanctions as applied to Rhodesia.

All the member-countries of the Commonwealth should agree to work together in the UN in pure support of a more energetic campaign against the rebel regime. Steps should be taken to stop the situation where the rebel regime is allowed to organize public relations and propaganda in the capitals of other countries which have declared their support for the rebel regime.

Surprise on flag

The Kenyan Government is very much surprised that Britain could allow a rebel group which has been declared to be a terrorist organization to fly a flag alongside the Union Jack. It is a surprise that the British Government should do this.

This kind of action is a serious challenge to the Commonwealth's principles and values. It is a challenge to the Commonwealth's unity and solidarity.

We must stand firm against this action. We must stand firm against this action. We must stand firm against this action.

Lesson of Kenya

It is true that the Rhodesian situation is not exactly the same as the Kenyan situation. However, we can draw some lessons from the Kenyan situation.

European extremists did not take long to decide that they would support the rebel regime. They did not take long to decide that they would support the rebel regime.

We must learn from the Kenyan situation. We must learn from the Kenyan situation. We must learn from the Kenyan situation.

Principles eroded

It is fortunate that the rebels have asserted our cause by their actions. It is fortunate that the rebels have asserted our cause by their actions.

We must stand firm against these actions. We must stand firm against these actions. We must stand firm against these actions.

The principles of the Commonwealth are being eroded. The principles of the Commonwealth are being eroded.

Three weaknesses

My main worry in reviewing this set of credits are the three weaknesses of the Rhodesian situation. My main worry in reviewing this set of credits are the three weaknesses of the Rhodesian situation.

We must stand firm against these weaknesses. We must stand firm against these weaknesses. We must stand firm against these weaknesses.

TANZANIA

Rhodesia's chief at an atmosphere of expectancy and tension.

WHERE HAVE ALL THE BUTTONS GONE?

Judging from reports passed on by the wives of two colleagues, some of the children who returned with me last week did so minus buttons on jackets and trousers. The two mothers say they toured Nairobi looking for replacements but could find none at all. Shopkeepers merely explained with a shrug that these were among the commodities no longer being imported and gradually getting scarcer and scarcer.

12 weeks by sea

Before Christmas there was a controversy over the use of airmail, which the Post Office had refused to handle. A colleague has now written to the United Post Office asking for some 'first-class' mail. He asks, understandably, if it can be taken to the States by sea from Britain to avoid the 'hold up here'.

Neglect alleged

This is really the result of neglect and apparent indifference on the part of the Government. This is really the result of neglect and apparent indifference on the part of the Government.

We must stand firm against this neglect. We must stand firm against this neglect. We must stand firm against this neglect.

'Israel has A-bomb' claim by U.K. Press

Israel already has, or is on the verge of possessing, nuclear weapons, according to a new article which has appeared from time to time in the British newspapers reported yesterday.

Both newspapers, the Daily Mail and the Daily Mirror, said the development of the atomic weapons was a joint French-Israeli project.

Denying Israeli denials of earlier reports, the Daily Mirror said that Israel had the bomb had been developed at a secret nuclear centre at Dimona, near Beerbeba, in the Negev Desert, which the paper called "probably the best guarded military establishment in the world".

Israel's nuclear development programme had been going on after the six-day war of 1967, the Daily Mail said, and was being completed in 1970, the time-table had been speeded up further over the past year.

It is believed that Israel intends ultimately to put her nuclear bomb on a ground-to-ground rocket with sufficient range to hit Cairo and other Arab capitals, "under threat", the paper wrote.

A prototype of this missile, code-named MI660, was being developed in great secrecy by the Marcel Dassault air firm in France, Britain experts believe.

After the Israeli Embassy in Washington categorically denied a report that Israel was already or might soon become a nuclear power.

The report, by the National Broadcasting Company, was ridiculed by Israeli officials as a "cray story", an American expert said.

An Israeli Embassy spokesman, Mr. Dan Patir, said: "This is probably similar to other stories which have appeared from time to time in the British newspapers reported yesterday. The whole story is definitely incorrect, from beginning to end.

"Israel is not a nuclear country. At the past, the Government has not been the first to introduce nuclear weapons in the Middle East."

A U.S. official said the State Department was not much impressed by the N.B.C. report, "but we do not have any information as to whether or not James Bond was saved by the bomb."

The N.B.C. report, broadcast on Wednesday night, said Israel embarked two years ago on a crash programme to develop a nuclear weapon. The television news programme, titled "Israel's nuclear secret", said Israel would have nuclear warheads before 1970, if it did not have them already.

International lawyers are reported to be hard at work trying to find a legal loophole in the French Government's decision to embargo nuclear sales to Israel.

They are to present their recommendations to the Israeli Cabinet when it meets on Monday. French secretaries at the World Court in The Hague.

The Government will decide on Monday whether it will press for delivery of orders already placed and pay for the $100,000,000 (£33,000,000) of French firms, or bring a suit in Paris.

In Paris, the French Foreign Minister, M. Debre, predicted yesterday that history would shortly witness the French embargo, which would be a warning and an example in the Galtuski day of the Nation.

He added: "A warning because there can be no settlement in the Near East without tolerance, and the first rule of tolerance is to avoid an aggravation of the conflict at all cost."

An anonymous source in the Near East, who has reported on the activities in the world, and particularly in the Mediterranean, country, in relation to assume their responsibility.

"History," he said, "will quickly show that French policy was inspired as much by the cold war as by a will for peace with freedom for each state."

Dove said France supported Israel, but he said the French would not be its neighbour. But the tables had turned and it was now Israel that threatened these neighbours.

The Egyptian Foreign Minister, Mr. Mahmoud Riad, who has returned to Cairo after a four-day stay in Belgrade, said he was satisfied with the outcome of his discussions with Yugoslav officials (see picture below).

He said the recent Soviet Note proposing an "agreed" settlement "imposed" Middle East settlement had been taken up during his talks with the Yugoslavs.

The Yugoslav and Egyptian views are personal messages from Marshal Tito to President Nassir.

In Beirut, the Lebanese Premier-designate, Mr. Rashid Karami, held final talks yesterday before announcing a strong Government following the recent Israeli attack on Beirut Airport.

Karami, a 47-year-old bachelor, said he would form a cabinet on Thursday night, and the new discussions were expected to be of a restricted nature.

Political observers predicted that Mr. Karami's Government would name his new Ministry during the day.

SWEDEN RECOGNISES NORTH VIETNAM

The Swedish Government has recognised North Vietnam as the only official government of Vietnam.

The decision was taken at a cabinet meeting attended by King Gustav Adolf.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the Foreign Minister, Mr. Torsten Nilsson, had called his North Vietnamese counterpart, Mr. Nguyen Dui Thinh, proposing that diplomatic relations should be established.

that Swedish-North Vietnamese relations would develop favourably in the economic and cultural sphere as well as in the political field.

An apparent link in Vietnam fighting was broken only twice in the past 10 years, in 1954 and 1955, when the Vietcong staged a mortar attack on an hour later in the Phouong Viet sector. It killed 12 and wounded 15.

FIVE NATIONS RUGBY

Scots are optimistic

The Scottish Rugby Union team left for Paris on Thursday with a certain feeling of optimism for the opening match in the 1967 Five Nations Tournament against France in a double Colomnes today.

Having just got over a disastrous run of seven defeats when they beat the touring Australians 9-3 last November, they feel they have, with their powerful pack in the game, and weak touch line play as evidenced in the final trial.

Behind the experienced three-quarter line of Campese, Maso, and Bona, the selectors have named the reliable placekicker Pierre Villereux as full-back. Villereux played in France's several championship at Murrayfield last season through some impressive new place kicking by the full-back Sandy Wilson.

On top of this, the Scots, who have kept the same side for parts as the one that beat the Welsh in the final of the 1966 trial, admittedly in atrocious conditions, the players got together for the first time in Scottish rugby history.

The Scots' position is in the light of the young 21-year-old fly-half Colin Telfer - small but fast and intelligent - and the centre, Chris Rea. Main worries lie in the lack of a reliable place kicker.

France, bidding to end their run of international defeat, has selected a strong attacking XV to meet Scotland.

The all-rounder Saeed Ahmed has been named Pakistan's captain against the M.C.C. in the first test match in the series.

Kenya hopes to sell more coffee to Austria

Standard Staff Reporter

Five Austrian coffee trade delegates arrived in Nairobi on the weekend on a 12-day fact-finding mission that may eventually step up Kenya's coffee exports to Austria.

During their stay they will visit coffee plantations in Kisumu and Co-operative small holdings in Kericho and Embu. They will also tour the Coffee Research Station at Mutitu, the K.P.C.U. coffee mill, and the E.A.C.O. warehouse.

The delegation, led by a top importer, Mr. Kurt Kastner, was met at Embu by the chairman of the Kenya Coffee Marketing Board, Mr. C. S. Kabete, and the Austrian Trade Delegation for East Africa, Mr. Edmund Wolf.

Mr. Kastner said the group consisted of 10 men, including the board's secretary, Mr. J. M. Kibuka, and a group of 17 persons worth $27,283 in 1955-56 to 163 tons worth $28,297 in 1956-57, and lent to 151 tons worth $60,106 for the period 1956-58.

Mr. Kabete said delegates that the board's policy was to encourage sales to markets which paid premium prices, and it wanted to reverse the trend of illegal exports to Austria.

"It is to be hoped," he said, "that what you see during your visit will encourage you to buy more of our coffee, and we are sure Austria can take more."

Police trying to evict a group of workers from a refrigerator factory at Kabete, Kenya, on Saturday. The workers, who had been on strike for several days, were fighting back with iron bars and other weapons. Eleven policemen and three workers were injured before the police withdrew.

Later trade union leaders and police chiefs reached an agreement and the workers evacuated the Siger factory. Police promptly detained ten workers for illegal occupation.

Earlier yesterday morning, the police abandoned an attempt to flush the workers out with tear gas and percussion grenades when fire broke out inside the factory. Workers said the grenades caused the blaze and refused to allow a fire-igniting in.

The sit-in began on Friday in protest against the management's sacking of three trade unionists. The workers demanded their reinstatement as well as a reduction in working hours and the resignation of the company's American director.

SENEGAL FACES DIFFICULT PERIOD

Increased spending on development projects and falling income because of drought have made Senegal face a difficult financial year. The country's 36,000 civil servants are to be paid by 15 per cent of the 1957-58 budget.

The report disclosed that more than half State spending was to be found in the budget, either through increased taxes or economies, both of which will be difficult without hitting the working man.

Over the same five-year period the State's income has increased by little more than 3 per cent because of successive poor groundnut harvests due to drought. Since 1961 all budgets but one (1963-64) have been "in the red" and had to be made up by drawing on previous surpluses or loans from the Treasury.

Russians for port opening

A Soviet delegation left Moscow at the weekend for Somalia to attend the opening ceremony of the port of Berbera, built with Soviet economic and technical assistance, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The port, on the Gulf of Aden in former British Somaliland, has a 1,000-ton capacity and can handle ships of up to 3,000 tons. It is to be increased to 38 feet.

Car firms face action over 'pact'

The United States Department of Justice is to take legal action against four big motor manufacturing firms which allegedly agreed in 1953 to stop research into ways of cutting down atmospheric pollution.

The firms involved are the General Motors Corporation, the Ford Motor Company, the Chrysler Corporation and American Motors Corporation.

The department plans to open proceedings against them under the Anti-Trust Law on the grounds that their agreement enabled them to put an end to efforts to construct apparatus which would cut down pollution caused by car exhausts.

The leaders of the group are Mr. and Mrs. Clare Burt who said they expected to pay visits to sisal and pineapple plantations in Kenya.
Another group of 145 people arrived in Nairobi at the weekend from Phoenix, Arizona, for a week's visit. They are industrial and financial leaders from the United States and members of the Arizona Golf Association.
Although primarily on a sight-seeing tour, they will look around for investment opportunities in Kenya.

U.K. denies Biafran charges

An official spokesman has denied categorically that Britain's Premier, Mr. Wilson, had named Gen. Eneyi Alexander military adviser to the Federal Nigerian Army.

The Biafran spokesman said that as a member of the International Observer team, Gen. Alexander had issued "misleading reports and comments" which he would remember, "as well as that his arms and supplies were being taken from Biafra to other Biafran mercenaries of this type go on but few come back."

The British spokesman's statement said that Gen. Alexander had been prevented from visiting Biafra to prevent the arrival of Biafran mercenaries in the Biafran conflict, said the rate of starvation last August was about 12,000 a day, but due to the decreasing food supplies and inadequate relief, the death rate would come to 25,000 a day.

Lord Brockway, who last month returned from visits to both sides of the Nigerian conflict, said the rate of starvation last August was about 12,000 a day, but due to the decreasing food supplies and inadequate relief, the death rate would come to 25,000 a day.

He spoke at a meeting of "operation outrage", an organisation based at the Catholic university in Washington supporting relief for Biafra.

Lord Brockway said it was time for the United States to intervene in the Biafran-Biafran conflict. "There is now a very great wider war, a war between the great powers, Russia and Britain on one side and France on the other," he said.

Dr. Herman J. Middlekoop, World Council of Churches relief director in Biafra, also predicted further deterioration of the situation.

"Unless we give massive help right now, what we saw in August will be only child deaths in the fast-growing areas," he said.

He said that the Biafran Federal forces, which had received 1.8 million dollars ($1,800,000) was needed to supply food and relief supplies in the Biafran area.

If we don't give it, he declared, "there will be a starvation crisis that is only a starvation crisis."

Czech printers will boycott non-liberal publications

Czechoslovak newspaper printers said at the weekend they would refuse to work on any publication undermining post-January liberalisation policies and elected the ousted National Assembly President, Mr. Josef Smrkovsky, honorary president of their union.

The printers' union congress, which opened in Prague at the weekend, called on the Government to keep the people posted on what was happening and to fear censorship was interfering with the free expression of public opinion.

There were strong indications the printers had refused to publish the weekly organ of the provisional party central committee for Bohemia and Moravia, which was scheduled to appear last Wednesday and still has not come out.

The publication is edited by Mr. Oldrich Svezka, former editor-in-chief of Rude Pravo, official organ of the Czechoslovak Communist Party, who was ousted after the August Warsaw Pact occupation. Whether this Wednesday's edition will appear is still uncertain.

It appeared significant that the Czechoslovak Press has maintained an almost total editorial silence since early last week. Prague papers yesterday refrained from commenting on the Slovak party secretary, Mr. Gustav Husak's stinging attack on the information media at a party congress in Dubnica Nad Vahou. The Soviet Communist central committee secretary, Konstantin Kapshuski, also published his disapproval of any editorial reaction that the Soviet people sympathised with the popular reforms but was warmer in his support of party measures aimed at anti-Sovietism. Rightwing forces in the Warsaw Pact countries have denounced by Czechoslovak gates to a European congress in Budapest last week. Vladimir Gligorov, a Yugoslav leader, disclosed that he had received the invitation of all participants in the congress, said the Yugoslav delegation was in the Warsaw Pact countries and demanded the withdrawal of the military order of the conference. The initiative of the Yugoslav delegation, in spite of opposition from the host country, was not met.

He said this had resulted in Yugoslav-Soviet verbal clashes. Polish supporters, he said, sought to justify the intervention in Prague, citing the danger of a "foreign military force" pointing out that "foreign military force" was not present.

Mr. Gligorov had then said "What have you been doing in Poland during 20 years of rule if you are still not people?"

The Soviet delegation headed by Leonid Brezhnev had then expressed ideologies were not held in common by the two countries. Soviet troops will hold exercises in Czechoslovakia next year with the knowledge of Prague Government according to the press.

Gen. Martin Korbela, appointed Czechoslovak chief of military operations, led 70,000 Russian troops to the border since the occupation, told a press conference that the manoeuvres would be in military areas and be "at various levels."

He gave no further details. Press conference was held last week after the post and was attended by Prague newspaper editors. Gen. Korbela denied reports that Soviet units were brought in because of planned activities in West Germany. Czechoslovak troops were contacted with the Soviet army in the area.

Troops had been on the move since the invasion in time which involved both Czechoslovak and Soviet forces," he said.

VIETCONG STORM U.S. POSITION

U.S. troops found two more weapons caches one 18 miles north of Ban Me Thuot in the Central Highlands and the other 40 miles northwest of Saigon. The latter find included 210 mortar rounds, Chinese-made smoke grenades and 18 rolls of communications wire, the spokesman said.

The North Vietnamese fired at the plane but it was not hit and the pilot directed air strikes at the Communist force. Ten North Vietnamese were killed, the spokesman said.

Other U.S. troops found two more weapons caches one 18 miles north of Ban Me Thuot in the Central Highlands and the other 40 miles northwest of Saigon. The latter find included 210 mortar rounds, Chinese-made smoke grenades and 18 rolls of communications wire, the spokesman said.

The spokesman said a sweep through the area at daybreak uncovered the bodies of 10 guerrillas and numerous blood trails where the Vietcong had dragged away the dead and injured.

He said three merchant ships bound for Saigon had been fired on by guerrillas along the banks of the Long Tau channel between 13 and 22 miles from the capital within the last 24 hours. There were no casualties.

The spokesman said the high-flyer B-52 Stratofortress bombers yesterday blasted guerrilla troop concentrations and bases in the Mekong Delta near Sa Dec.

American infantrymen supported by rockets and artillery blasted a North Vietnamese position on Saturday near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, and killed 31 guerrillas.

An Australian military spokesman said Australian troops had killed 20 guerrillas in minor contacts with Vietcong forces in a month-long continuing operation code-named "Goodwood."

It was launched last month near the Nui Dai base in the coastal plain east of Saigon.

In the island Highlands, a U.S. reconnaissance plane spotted about 100 North Vietnamese in green uniforms moving through the jungle near the Duc Lap outpost.

Astronauts' triumph continues

America's Apollo-8 astronauts, the solution of the nation's biggest city, New York, ringing in their ears, pushed on with their triumphant tour at the weekend as three other Spacemen prepared to take up the standard of Moon exploration.

Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders, feted and feasted in New York yesterday, were leaving to receive the keys of the city of Newark across the Hudson River.

From there they travelled on to Miami where yesterday they were to be guests of honour at the Super Bowl football game between the New York Jets and the Baltimore Colts.

Three of their colleagues, there are already preparing to make use of the knowledge gained on their life-blazing mission around the Moon to take Space exploration a giant step forward by landing on the Moon's surface.

Everything continues on schedule. Apollo-11 astronauts, Edwin Aldring and Neil Armstrong, will become the first men to set foot on the Moon on July 20.

They will touch down in the Lunar landing module while fellow crewman, Michael Collins, whirled around the Moon aboard the Apollo Spacecraft waiting for the trip back to Earth.

The first opportunity to launch Apollo-11 comes on July 15. The Spacecraft would take three days to reach Lunar orbit and a further day to ensure the Lunar module works well in Lunar orbit. The actual landing would take place on the fifth day of the mission.

U.K. denies Blairfrans charges

The official spokesman has denied categorically that Britain's Premier, Mr. Wilson, had named Gen. Henry Alexander, military adviser to the Federal Nigerian Army.

The follow-up reports from Unsworth in which the Blairfrans Information Ministry claimed Gen. Alexander had been appointed and would be leaving Britain for Lagos yesterday did give extra momentum to the attack on the most humane of the Nigeria-Blairfrans conflict.

The Nigerian statement said that as a member of the international movement Gen. Alexander had handled the Blairfrans reports and would be leaving for Lagos. He should have been named as such in the Blairfrans report, it said, "that his arrival in Lagos is a matter of course for the Blairfrans there, many of the Blairfrans of his type go to Lagos to be killed."

The British public statement said, had a moral responsibility to provide relief for Lagos of this crisis, "it is a matter of course that the Blairfrans should be given the same relief as the Blairfrans."

Lord Brockway, who last month returned from visits to both sides of the Nigerian conflict, said the rate of starvation in August was about 12,000 a day, but due to the decreasing food supplies and increasing deaths, the death rate would come to 25,000 a day.

He spoke at a meeting of "operation outrage", an organisation set up by the Catholic University of Washington supporting relief for Biafra.

Lord Brockway said it was time for the United States to intervene in the Nigeria-Biafra conflict. "There is now a very great danger of what has become known as the 'great power' war between the great powers, Russia and Britain on one side and France on the other," he said.

Herman J. Middlekoop, World Council of Churches relief director in Biafra, said the situation was "a disaster of the first magnitude."

"If we give massive help right now, what we saw in August will be a thing of the past," he said. "If we do not, the Nigerian Federal Government will be unable to cope with the situation."

He said that most of the food-gathering was done by the Nigerian Federal Government, but that at least 1.5 million Biafrans (170,000) were in need of supply transport and relief.

"If we do not act now," he declared, "the Biafrans will be catastrophically worse off than they are at present."

Mr. Kalushin said that the Soviet Party was sympathetic with the reforms but was warmer in his support for the party's efforts to carry out the reforms.

The Warsaw Pact Czechoslovak Party, which was denounced by Czechoslovakia at a 200-member congress in Budapest last week, was also criticised by Vladimir Giljov, a senior leader last week.

Mr. Giljov, a member of the Politburo to the congress, said the Soviet delegation had denounced the military against their country demanded the return of troops.

He said that all of the participants in the Warsaw Pact party congress were business order of the day.

Power failure caused crash

The crash of a British Viscount 700 aircraft on West Germany's Nuremberg-Munich autobahn last August was caused by a failure of the plane's main power supply, the Sunday Times reported yesterday.

The report said that the conclusion of a West German inquiry into the crash, which killed 48 people, the paper added that the inquiry board had recommended that the electrical system of the Viscount-700.

The inquiry board did not call for the grounding of the estimated 200 Viscount-700 planes now in service throughout the world.

In Australia, five Viscount-700s were grounded for further investigations after metal fatigue was discovered in a Western 700 which crashed in Western Australia on December 31, killing 56 passengers and crew.

A spokesman for the British Aircraft Corporation, makers of the Viscount, declined to comment on yesterday's report, saying that they expected to see the West German inquiry report at the end of the month.

VIETCONG STORM U.S. POSITION

Viscongs guerrillas yesterday stormed an American infantry defensive position 25 miles southeast of Saigon, killing nine men and wounding a U.S. military spokesman said.

The attack took place two hours after midnight while the Americans were crowded in shallow trenches only three miles northwest of Cal B. town in the muddy Mekong Delta.

They called in air support and 400 U.S. aircraft tried to kill the Vietcongs.

The spokesman said a sweep through the area at daybreak uncovered the bodies of 10 guerrillas and 120 Vietcongs, many of whom were killed, the spokesman said.

In other strikes they dropped their 30-ton bomb loads on North Vietnamese camps and fortifications near Tay Ninh city, about 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

American infantrymen supported by rockets and artillery blasted a North Vietnamese position on Saturday near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, and killed 31 guerrillas.

Exhaustion forces Meghji to drop out at Coast

The doubles match between Mombasa's top men, Vijay Karim and Taj Mohamed, and Nairobi's Yusef Taji Mohamed and Aggarwal put some life into the exhibition matches on Saturday, the first day of the tennis tournament at Mombasa Sports Club.

The other doubles match between Nairobi's favour Aggarwal and Subashan Singh and Vijay Karim was a runaway victory for the Nairobi pair.

The singles match was also won by the Nairobi pair, as Karim defeated Aggarwal in the first set, which was quite even up to the first five games. Shrestha and Aggarwal came back strongly to win the second set 6-2.

The third set was a runaway one-sided affair, with Karim leading 5-3 at one stage and throw away one match point to set the lead. The set was a really good fight.

Parklands draw at Mombasa

Mombasa Sports Club's men's hockey team drew Parklands Sports Club of Nairobi to a 2-2 draw in their annual hockey match in Mombasa on Saturday.

Mombasa S.C. wasted four short corners and Parklands two in the first half. Parklands went one up in the 20th minute when Goodwin, their new recruit, scored a good goal after a short corner.

Mombasa scored a goal but it was disallowed for sticks.

Parklands again scored first in the second half when Goodwin coolly hit a left cross and shot it into the net. Parklands in goal stepped it but then fumbled the net.

Mombasa decreased the visitors' hopes when they scored an unexpected goal from a quick set piece in the 37th minute. Shashi Patel scored the equaliser from a goal-mouth rebound.

Christina scored two goals for Parklands in the first half of the second game but Kitty Wong scored for M.S.C. to reduce the margin. In the second half Shashi Patel got two wickets at the expense of 14 runs.
