

Gen. Ankrah flies in to big Kenya welcome

Sundard Staff Reporter
The chairman of Chana's National Liberation Council, Lt.-General Joseph Ankrah, was given a spirited welcome by the President and people of Kenya when he arrived in Nationb by air from Acra yesterday. Thousands of people thronged the airport grounds and the motorcade route to State House, which was decorated with flags.

Reproach to Mr. Odinga

Many people will have been shocked and disappointed by the unfortunate incident in the Kerya National Assembly on Tuesday Involving the K.P.U. leader, Mr. Odinga. It was unbecoming for a politician of his experience to have to be ordered to discontinue his speech on a Bill concerning the nation's Constitution.

The Speaker had no choice but to take this course, since Mr. Odinga does not appear to have responded satisfactorily to the request that he should make clear whether he was make clear whether he was' expressing support for views expressed by students in London which were derogatory to President Kenyatta. Although he was being subjected to "heckling" by Kanu backbenchers putting points of order, it is a pity the Opposition leader did not take the opportunity to clarify his stand.

The allusions made in the posters carried by the London students in their subortive demonstration against the closure of University, College could scarcely have been more offensive in the light of Kenya's history. It is outrageous that an infamous remark by a colonial official, who never fully comprehended Kenya's situation, should be repeated by young Africans — who would not have had the opportunity to show such bad manners and bad judgment but for the. lifetime's work of the subject of their stupid abuse. upid abuse. Mr. Kenyatta's reputation

Some comfort can be taken from the disclosure, In, the Auditor-General's gibst that there has been a obsolerable reduction in losses to public funds due to fraud and theft. This is mainly due to the vigorous action taken legainst offenders and to interessed vigilance.

vigitance. Unfortunately, this wekome improvement has been offset by the growing instances of overspending by saveral departments of Government. This may not involve dishonesty, but it is still a drain on the nation's financial resources which cannot be allowed to continue.

Several of the items quoted in the report refer to expendirecentation.

Mr. Odinga's apparent sympathy for the students demonstration in Britain is except a recent to understand or condone. He has often taken pride, and ignistifiably so, in the fact that his was the first public voice to demand Mr. Kenyatta's release from colonial detection and return to his rightful place as his people's leader.

Does he now want to give ammunition to those who would cast doubts on his sincerity juffgaking this cours agous stand before independence? If so, it is a sad lapse. Opposition is permissible regime.

when it is, kept within bounds and is constructive, but this bye of comment does not fit this, Shill, Artiticism shill do the extracted to politique, and should not be extended to a type of personal abuse that is anothema to the Kenya public and to international opinion.

Mr. Odinga and his friends would do well to reappraise their own position and affiliations, now that some, of the sources of their ideals have en openly discredited. They should realise that Kenyans are very concerned about are very concerned about revelations made during court cases involving young men whose studies in Ghina were clearly not meant to equip them to aid their country's development.

FAMILY PLANNING IN PAKISTAN

The problem of Family Planning has for some years past formed the subject of elaborate and scientific study in many advanced countries of the world. Governments and many private organisations are now making joint efforts to give a practical shape to the results of these re-learners. Necessary and adequate funds have been mobilised to give top priority to the working out of partous programmes aimed at popularising the ways and means of tackling effectively of what is now considered to the a subject of national importance. Differences of opinion still exist about the utility of this or that as of but the peed to a concentrated effort on a gigantic scale for meeting the challenge posed by an afarming index e. in birds are to accompany the control of the countries.

In contrast to this growing consciousness of a menace which is casting its shadow on the existence of affluent and enlightened societies in the world, there is as yet little awareness in many developing countries of the presence of this socio-economic problem threatening to retard or destroy the onward march towards the attainment of the goal of human freedom from hunger, disease and ignorance. Thanks to the bold initiative, eloquent pleas and carnest zeal of President Ayub Khan, the peril of high increase in population is now fully realised by the people of Pakistan. Family Planning has now become a part and parcel of national planning. It is now gaining firm support among the rich as well as poor and in both urban and r ural areas.

East African unity

between the three countries.

In accepting the motion for the Kenya Government, the Minister for Commerce and Industry, Mr. Kibaki, dropped what may have been no more than a long-term hint—though a thought-provoking one—that the three countries are "slowly moving towards the establishment of one currency again". As he said, the original decision to introduce separate currencies was regrestable but due to post-uhuru circumstances, and it is encouraging to hear that a reversal of this move is being considered, even if its achievement is only a goal for the future.

Mr. Kibaki made an appeal to Members to show a sense of proportion in criticising anomalies in trading inevitable now that the East African neighbours are separate inde-
