Safeguarding the Family

Importance of Health Insurance

Up on the Hill in Nairobi, near the Polo Grounds, stands the main building of the Kenyan Association of Health Insurance. Its members are in almost every walk of life, from the business man to the peasant, from the tourist to the native. Serious cases in nursing homes are no longer a financial headache to members since fees to members are a great saving in such cases.

Membership

The special Membership section of the Association is making excellent progress. Subscribers, of course, are increasing daily. It has been found to be of immense value to members on farms far away from home to have a member in giving advice to them. Fully trained Trained Nurses are available to members of the Association. It is not a money-making concern, but of course the Association is not a loss-making concern. All funds are urgently needed to pay off our existing debts of £10,000. The cost of erecting the building, and the interest on this is a constant drain on the income of the Association.

Membership Scheme

In order to guarantee a certain regular income and even more important to help the sick, the Association has a Membership scheme in force whereby subscribers receive a monthly sum and a medical card which would otherwise be charged.

The management fee, for members, is £1.50 per month, but under the reasonably sensible fees for ordinary cases are Shs. 12/- and for cases requiring hospitalization, Shs. 15/- and Shs. 18/- per day. As well as the Shs. 25/- subscription for individuals, there is a family subscription which includes both parents and six children under 18 years of age. Contributors will receive a discount of 10/- per person per annum provided that they contribute extra.

Members in the Colony do not seem to be aware of the existence of the Nursing Association. It is a most important service. It is a form of insurance. By becoming a member you only pay for what you need, and if you are not ill you do not have to make a note of this insurance, and just as soon as you are well again you can cancel it.

TRULY LAID — M. Robert Atkin

ADVICE TO A BISHOP

The Rev. Albert, whom you mention, is well known throughout the Church, and if he would reduce the administrative load to the lowest point, it would have a considerable appreciation of patients and no incentive to stop the spread of this disease.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies (Mr. Oliver) has written to the Minister of Health, asking him to consider the question of what the Government could do to assist the English-speaking communities in Uganda to establish local hospitals which are looked after by voluntary members of the community, and to provide medical treatment for all who are willing to attend. It is now proposed that the creation of larger units would be effective in shortening the distance between the patient and the hospital.

The administration fully agrees to the importance of this, and will do all we can to assist in the creation of the kind of system mentioned.

With the best regards to the Rev. Albert, I remain,

Very truly yours, R. H. B. Bishop of Uganda.

Palestine Plan Attacked from Both Sides

STRONG DECLARATION BY PREMIER OF IRAQ

Attacks from both Arab and Jewish sides on the plan to partition Palestine continue.

ARABS. The Prime Minister of Iraq said that the proposal imperilled Britain's friendship with the East and broke pledges to back partition.

JEWS. The President of the Zionist Organisation, addressing M.P.s in London, said that Arabs would never rest till they had conquered the Jewish state.

INDIAN CONSTITUTION

'Gain to Democracy' Says Lord Lothian

Rugby, July 10.
Lord Lothian, in a speech at Addis Ababa, said that the subject of India, and the decision of the Working Committee of Congress, was of immense importance, not only to the British Commonwealth, but to the world. He went on to say that the Congress had decided to achieve its objectives by peaceful constitutional methods, and not by means which encouraged only led to revolution.

That did not mean that there would be difficulties, because the present ideals of Congress were still profoundly different from those of the Communists. He hoped and believed that the responsibility for the Government would diminish and no wider than that.

But the fact that at this moment the socialist and constitutional systems were competing for the allegiance of mankind, and that a constitutional road to the goal was an immense gain to the democratic world.—British Official Wireless Service.

It is stated here that the new members of the mandate, but not the mandate itself, have been accepted by the League of Nations.

July 10.—The Arabic daily newspaper "Alwan" and "Al-Ahli" have been suspended for six days for publishing a front page article calling for repudiation of a memorandum attacking the Palestine partition report.

NEW AIR SERVICE

No Move in Australia-Africa Plan

PARLIAMENT DEBATES

July 10.—The report of the Royal Commission on the partition of Palestine will be debated in the House of Commons tomorrow. Mr. Crossley, who will be in the debate, has been in the service of Lord Wimborne, the Chairman of the Committee, who during the war took part with Colonial Lawrence in the Amman conference, before the Royal Commission was formed.

There is a possibility that the Commission may also speak during the debate, but the Commission is at present involved in a dispute over the date of the debate with British Official Wireless Service.

King Haile Selassie, in a communication to the Arabic Higher Committee declared that the conference had received his profound attention. He was sparing no effort to find out about the situation and the views of all parties, and these results and conclusions which should be arrived at in the opinion of His Imperial Majesty. "We tried hard to discuss issues within

Friendship With Egypt

Denouncing the proposed partition, the Prime Minister of Iraq declared that Iraq's friendship with the East and full participation in both parties by her people must be maintained and respected the rights of Arabs.

Afghan "Zarcon"

London.—The position of Palestine would create a major headache for the British Government, Mr. Ernest Brown, speaking at the weekend, said it was safe to forecast that in a very short time the number of people registered as unarmed employed persons would be every day more than the Ministry of Labour said there would be a further increase and a decrease in employment and a decrease in unemployment. British Official Wireless Service.

The estimation that the Iraq Government will officially propose to the British Government that there should be a partition of Palestine has been received by the Arabic Higher Committee. Mr. Ali, who stated that Iraq was opposed to the world's desire to settle the Arab-Arab conflict in Palestine.

WINDMILL PLANE ASTOUNDS EXPERTS

Rises Like a Lift and Can Rest in the Air

[STANDARD'S CORRESPONDENT.]

An aeroplane which international experts believe holds the secret of commercial flying of the future was the most spectacular fly show Europe has seen, a new gyroplane, which can rise like a lift and can rest in the air without lifting an eyebrow to break into spontaneous applause.

The gyroplane is the Hafer, which requires no more than its own size as a take-off ground; it is built up like a modern car, it climbs vertically like a lift, and when it flies at 120 m.p.h. it can remain stationary in the air without moving its propeller. So far, the machine is not in actual practice, but the price is expected to be round the £2000 mark.

London, July 10.—An aeroplane is the Hafer, which has been perfected almost entirely in this country.

This is what flying will be like in the future, according to the German Air Staff, who have made a complete aeroplane representing an entire city.

On the ground the entire air raid precaution scheme will be in full swing.

At night every light in Southwark will be blacked out. Street lamps will have dimmed lights, and cars will ask car drivers to switch off their lights and stop.

When the bomb raid is over, or masker way to prepare shelter.

They will be R.A.F. machines representing an entire city.

RAIL RECEIPTS DROP DURING MAY

BUT YEAR'S FIGURES STILL WELL UP ON 1936

Black traffic, as usual, was the chief contributor to the total, and an approximate total for the month of £191,536—25,129 less than the estimate. Receipts from the first four months of 1937 amount to £800,595, this being £16,801 more than the estimate.

The monthly approximate for passenger traffic—£16,188, 24,903 above the estimate, while approximate receipts from this class of traffic for the five months of 1936 were £25,300 more than the estimate.

Import Increase

The figures relating to the export and import movements for the former, for the first five months, was £25,142, an increase of £1,000 over the estimate. Import traffic for the month of May last year, tonnage 25,100, was 71,808 tons, an increase of 25,428 tons over the total public traffic dealt with by the Administration for the months of this year. The £6,428 tons, an increase of 84.5 per cent on the corresponding period of 1936.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Sunday Concert in Nairobi

It is now anyone who can win a scholarship at Oxford or Cambridge, but everyone has had a hard time of it by steadily demanding to be given by the Oxford and Cambridge Society of Friends of Kenya £100 a year, or 10/15 p.c. in aid of the University Scholarship Fund.

The past ten years the members of this Society have been laying the foundations for sending selected Kenya candidates to obtain the University education which they have been denied. No scholarship at Oxford is being provided. The Society is doing its best to help in this, so far as is possible, in case of real promise, scholarships of such value as will prove of material importance to the boy's educational course.

These major events in the University calendar have been the result of the local efforts and the local representation. Indirectly the last match and the local representation have been the result of the hard work done by Mr. Philip. The Concert on July 12 reflects a relationship which the original plan of the Kenyan Government had in view. It will be worth hearing. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Brodrick have kindly promised to speak.

A concert on which Mrs. Brodrick's name appears is surely a success. In this concert the players will be Miss Marjorie and Mr. E. K. Piggott, and Mr. Philip. Miss Dorothy Constance, Mr. Fred. W. Fletcher, Preston, Secretary to the Governor's Conference, Mr. W. H. Hart, Mr. J. G. M. Farquharson, the Hon. Treasurer of the South African Society, and Mrs. Fletcher.

The Senator called at Government House, and His Excellency the Governor is at present away on a short tour.

In a brief interview, a few hours before the train departed, Mr. Malan expressed pleasure at the fact that he had seen all his old friends again and made the quick trip.

"From what I have seen," he said, "the country is in good shape and the people are well supported."

"What about the economy?" he said. "What was asked for?"

"About what we asked for," he said as he was hurried to the waiting carriage.

For a long time there has been an upsurge of exports, and more recently a general decline in the volume of exports, but at the same time a purposeful effort to increase the volume of imports, particularly of foodstuffs.

REACTION TO BRITAIN'S NON-INTERVENTION PLAN

ITALY AND GERMANY ACCEPT AS BASIS FOR DISCUSSION

Debate in Commons

LABOUR LEADER ACCUSES MR. EDEN OF SURRENDER TO FASCIST POWERS

Mr. Eden, in the course of a debate in the Commons on the British non-intervention proposals, asked that the Government's policy should be judged in the light that war postponed might prove to be war averted. The proposals were criticized by the Leader of the Labour Opposition, who said that the Foreign Secretary had surrendered to the demands of the Fascist Powers.

Both Germany and Italy have accepted the scheme as a basis for discussion.

France agrees to accept the new plan provided that it is also approved by both sides in Spain.

General Franco says in effect that recognition of belligerency must precede any discussion regarding the withdrawal of volunteers.

Conditions from Spain

(Reuters and British Official Wireless Service.)

The Non-Intervention Committee in Paris has issued a statement which they could not accept, in that the British proposals, as laid before the committee, were "unjust." It concluded that the European governments had agreed to give up their right to intervene in the case of a civil war.

Mr. Eden dealt with all the points raised, and in regard to the belligerents' right proposal, he said that, this automatically involved any intervention by the surges, while in any case the main object of the intervention was to prevent the spread of the civil war.

According to a later message, the German Ambassador, Mr. Oskar von der Goltz, said that the proposals would fall, or at least, would be withdrawn, and the League of Nations would be asked to decide.

You will have numerous opportunities to withdraw, and of course, of large numbers of volunteers.

You will go back into an era of great political instability, and there will be many more civil wars, and this, in my opinion, will bring about much deeper significance.

"The British Government does not care that what they say may be charged with the task of producing proposals. We have no objection to it, it is equally well everyone will agree to have it rapidly."

Europe to Decide

"Non-Intervention will be for Europe. These proposals are a contribution to the cause of peace. War still exists. Whether it results in victory or defeat, interests remain the same. That is why I am particularly discussing whether we take steps before 1940 would be a mistake. I do not think that war was inevitable. The British Government believe that there are a number of European countries, and therefore, to peace."

Labour Criticism

Eden was speaking on the 10th anniversary of Coronation Day, held at the request of the Labour Opposition. Major Shearer, leader, attacked non-interventionism, and voted in favor of General Franco, though it should be ended. He said that the proposal was particularly that dealing with imminent grant of belligerency rights, and that it would increase the risk of war.

Eden is attempting to relate the non-intervention to the demands of the powers. He declared Mr. Levington, in charge of the Committee to decide the details on the non-intervention, are remembered.

The Allies said that the Fascist Powers had not been consulted over the demands of the powers. The French Ambassador requested the Committee to receive instructions from Paris.

Provisional Acceptance

London, July 14.—The Non-Intervention Committee assembled this morning, the Italian and German Ambassadors, their leaders, attended meetings in the Foreign Office in favor of General Franco, though it should be ended. He said that the proposal was particularly that dealing with imminent grant of belligerency rights, and that it would increase the risk of war.

The Committee then adjourned until the afternoon.

Future of Atlantic Air Service

Another Double Crossing

[TRADE SECRET'S ADVISER.]

London, July 16.—Another Atlantic air crossing began yesterday and already has completed. The American Clipper left London at 7.35 p.m. yesterday and the British boat "Oleander" took off from Rotterdam at 10.25 p.m. British Summer Time.

At 5.30 a.m. G.M.T. to-day the two aircraft passed another in mid-Atlantic 1,100 miles west of the Azores, one outward and the other bound round, both reporting "all's well."

At 6.30 a.m. G.M.T. to-day the "Oleander," piloted by Captain H. H. Gray, having successfully made the double crossing of the Atlantic Ocean on a regular route.

According to a later message, the "Clipper" had to be turned back.

The "Oleander" had to be turned back because of bad weather.

It was not to be expected, and the carrying of a reasonable paying load across the Atlantic has to be made possible (see May 10, "Morning Standard," American Correspondent) Alcock and Brown, with the aid of

PROBLEMS OF FOG AND THE PAY LOAD

But No Insuperable Difficulties

["STANDARD" CORRESPONDENT.]

London, July 16.—The railway crossing of the North Atlantic by the British and American commercial flying boats marks the establishment of regular services over this route. The first stage of the new service is now established, and the next steps will be to prolong the flights, to extend the range wherever the aircraft can fly, and to provide an aircraft capable of carrying a paying load.

The Atlantic has been approached by the British and American Clipper, and the next step will be to conquer the slightly longer distance in mist. There was mist at Feyzin, France, a few moments before the Clipper arrived, but this is the weather all the year round. At other times the weather is fine.

The Calcutta had to cruise long for a time after she had run into the New Zealand because of the slight haze and the mist.

EAST AFRICAN SUGAR CONFERENCE

REPRESENTATIVES FROM THREE TERRITORIES

To-day's Meeting

Representatives of East African sugar producers will meet to-day in Nairobi under the chairmanship of Mr. L. B. Preston (Secretary to the Governors' Conference) to discuss the position to be taken by the East African sugar producers in effecting the decision from London under the World Sugar Agreement that the total exports of sugar from East Africa (Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika) are not to exceed 27,000 tons during the year beginning September 1st. This gives rise to a serious position for East African sugar producers.

NATIONAL GAME PARKS

The fact that the big game of

East Africa is one of the greatest attractions the territories have to offer has been known on many occasions, but it is only now that it has become a regular touring argument.

That argument, however, may breed a sense of complacency, and it is therefore for the future of game preservation. For some years people talked in general kind of way about the need for protection of game areas as national parks, but until recently nothing definite was done to put the idea into practice. The Tanganyika Government has set a much needed example by the creation of Serengeti Plain which will make it a game sanctuary. The East of the country, however, is still in a state of comparative lawlessness and there is no definite plan to protect the game areas there. The Government has taken steps to do so, but it is not yet clear what these steps will be.

MEMORABLE ROYAL VISIT TO SCOTLAND

KING AND QUEEN RECEIVE A WARM WELCOME

Old Time Ceremonial

FISHWIVES GREET THEIR MAJESTIES WITH "CALLER HERRIN"

[STANDARDS' CORRESPONDENT.]

London, July 6.

The King and Queen yesterday paid their first official visit to Scotland, and if possible the Scottish people took more interest in it than even in the Coronation Day.

A short而 sweet return to her native land—as Queen, and shared with the King and the Princesses a welcome from thousands as the State procession left the railway station in Princes Street, Edinburgh.

It was Scotland's great day. Fine weather graced the romance, colour and pageantry to which the city gave a perfect setting.

Second-hand Decorations

King George Alexander VI, who had been received with a rousing ovation by Queen Victoria at 1881, wrote in his diary: "The Queen's greeting was very cordial, and I am sure she is a good Queen." I would like to have married her again." The King and Queen were received with a rousing ovation when they visited the Queen's old home in Edinburgh.

It was a day of great rejoicing in Scotland, and the King and Queen were welcomed with a rousing ovation when they visited the Queen's old home in Edinburgh.

The King was wearing the uniform of the Royal Engineers, and the Queen was in a costume of powder blue with fur of the same colour, and the top hat little Prince.

When the King went to take the salute, the Royal Engineers, dressed in their full dress, stood in a long line along the road to the troops marching past.

Princesses Thrilled

The Princesses were thrilled by the parade of Archers—so superbly mounted on the grounds of Holyrood House, when the two hundred, in dark green tunics with white tunics, took to the streets—each with their bows at arms length and closed three times for the King, King George Alexander VI.

The Queen's bodyguards, Lord Edinburgh, Captain-General of the Royal Guards of Archers and Gold Stick for Scotland, made a customary presentation.

King George arrived, and addressed the established form for Royal continuance and recognition of all the members of the Royal Household.

The most brilliant of the day's ceremonies was seen by only a few hundred spectators.

The march past lasted over an hour. Long-haired, long-legged, sturdy Highland pony-trotters, decked in tartan plaid, dashed at the Princesses, as did a bunting that early in the morning had been draped across the Royal Box.

But the young ladies had captured the hearts of the Queen and Margaret Rose by nightfall.

A narrow road and a few police cars separated the royal stables from the public, but the road was deep in mud, displayed a gaudy colour of bright red.

Queen at Garden Party

Unfortunately the Garden Party at Holyrood was over. Most of the 8,000 guests invited to it were assembled on the lawn when heavy rain began to fall.

The Queen, however, and the King slipped off for a quiet walk around the castle grounds, and the Queen's personal maid, Alice, was seen in the garden of the Palace.

It was a disastrous day. Much rain, and snow and sleet in high winds, drove snow with snow. In their ruined dairy room, the Queen and the Queen of Arms, the King's personal bodyguard, who had orders to shelter, stood with the guests.

Moshi, Thursday.

Baragwe glided in the standard motorcar, driving at a Guard of Honour speed, and was received by the Departmental Committee on Admissions, Societies and Agencies, in their report issued as a Blue Book.

At least that is what they say. But many dozens of the public, not a few officials, and by a handful of journalists, were present.

Then came enforcement. The society's desire to obtain a permanent injunction against the court was denied.

Most of the rules of the society had been ignored, the report said.

IN THE East Africa Standard

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1937.

National Game Park

The fact that the big game of East Africa is one of the greatest attractions the territories have to offer has been stressed so many times in the past that it may be as beyond argument. That assurance, however, may need a sound basis if the future of game preservation is to be guaranteed.

For some years people have talked in a general kind of way about the preservation of game
but until recently nothing had been done to put the idea into practice. Then the Kenyan Government has set up a much needed example by announcing that part of the Lake Nakuru Plains will be made into a game-sanctuary. The brain of the plan is that the animals will be protected from hunting and it is indeed satisfactory to know that their habitat will be preserved ever and ever again.

Kenya's forests have largely been cleared and the increasing number of settlers that may be confidently expected to follow the white men into the interior of Africa and to the increasing number of tourists that may be expected to follow the white men into the interior of Africa will probably have to make the decision soon as apparently native land rights, or any other theoretical or actual difficulties, in the case of an article published in the Standard a few days ago

one of the members of the Kenyan Legislative Council criticised
the neglect of what has come to be known as the “Lands of the People”. He said that something should be done immediately
to remedy a state of affairs which was causing a great deal of trouble.
Major Riddell set out the difficulties
which so far have prevented the Kenyan Government from doing anything definite in this matter.
Comments of economists and native rights men agreed that there could be nothing more appropriate than to give the land back to the people.

He quoted an example of a similarly successful scheme in Africa, namely the Forest Reserves of Northern Rhodesia and another similar scheme which had been adopted in the United States. In both instances the desirability of preserving game was considered to be of greater importance than the welfare of the people.

one of the members of the Kenyan
Legislative Council criticised
the neglect of what has come to be known as the “Lands of the People”. He said that something should be done immediately
to remedy a state of affairs which
was causing a great deal of trouble.
Major Riddell set out the difficulties
which so far have prevented the Kenyan Government from doing
anything definite in this matter.
Comments of economists and native rights
men agreed that there could be nothing more appropriate than
to give the land back to the people.

TERROR IN THE AIR

Flying in the face of a Death Beam

One spectacular air fight. Discoveries. Memphis. Wiley Post makes a record-breaking flight in one of the planes of the "Air Hawks." In his first fight for individual enterprise in "Wiley Post," it will be remembered, made a flight round the world, with Gatty, July 1935. He has now come back to Germany, Russia and Alaska and has again to New York. In 7 years he has become a legend, was a pioneer of aerobatics flying, and was killed while trying to land his plane in a blizzard. Rogers, the well-known American comedian, was with him at the time of the tragedy.

The Film: "AIR HAWKS".
The Stars: Wiley Post,
George Raft.
The Verdict: Greatly sums up the drama of aviation. Empire Theatre, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.

"The Mikado"

The late Wiley Post who made a record flight in "Air Hawks." He was killed in a flying accident.

A royal concern out to take from a Government contract, to death-ray comes to sell, a death-ray comes to kill, and ends and ends against Hitler. The ray is used against the planes in mid-air, and they fly by electricity and destroy. Deteriorating, a burning plane until the terrible beam is

Two performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "The Mikado," are to be given at the Girls' Secondary School on Friday, July 27, by the Drama and Musical Society.

An accommodation is limited early application for tickets which may be obtained by writing to the manager, the Young Principals, the staff, or the pupils.

FILM NEWS FROM LONDON

"Night Must Fall" — "Last Train from Madrid" — Another Prison Film — At the Court of Queen Victoria.

[STARRED] contemporary

London. (By Air Mail). A bold experiment in film is the action of Robert Montgomery, the author of "The Last Train from Madrid," "Night Must Fall," as Does Well half mad murderer. It is a remarkable film, and it is clear that Emily Williams played the hemmed-in belief as a guinea-pig in a cage, and she did it well.

Montgomery makes him impressively attractive, which may deprive some of a certain amount of sex appeal. John Wayne makes the nice girl's infatuation more plausible. Dame May Whitty makes a good actress of the wife of Sir Watkin, old Russell, who, though light comedy vein, confirms his belief that he is a real actor. Donald Ogden Stewart, in the rôle of the captain has outlined his star, and receives himself nicely when the report turns out to be true. The whole picture is made with the mechanical help which Hollywood supplies.

"Blind Legion" is an example of America's sex appeal.

The secret organization which is supposed to protect the American's most private, private, and personal, like the Kink Kink Klan.

Macmillan, who comes to her own when she works up to a court climax, which nobody doubts.

Cord Gosselin is set as June Macmillan, who comes to her own.

Alfred Drayton is the author of the film, and Donald Ogden plays Macmillan.

In "Kid Galahad" Mr. Bogart is up in the boxing racket. The part is played by Edward G. Robinson. Mr. Robinson finds a new heavy weight, and the film is a success. All of his best fights over several all scores are settled.

It is the first time that Bogart has had a real fight.

"The Court Witness" is a gay and delightfully irresponsible tale with the most delightful of endings, the court of Queen Victoria.

A bold fusion of St. James and a rival computer supplier must of pictures depend mainly on the pictures of the young Queen, playfully dressed in the various scenes of the series. Madeline Ossie,

GOOD ATTENDANCE AND RACING

Limuru Gymkhana Club held a very successful meeting on Sunday at Mrs. Hall's gallop. The meeting was well attended and the biggest yet seen at a meeting held under the auspices of the club.

Conditions were excellent for racing although it was on the cold surface.

The first race of the day was a handicap handicap over 1½ miles and six flights of hurdles. Tom Wood won by a nose from Englehardt.

Englehardt, a very steady animal,
was third and Daniel fourth.

After the race, the odds
were adjusted and the winning odds were 10 to 1.

The second race was a handicap over 1½ miles and six flights of hurdles. The odds were 10 to 1.

Englehardt, a very steady animal,
was third and Daniel fourth.

After the race, the odds
were adjusted and the winning odds were 10 to 1.

The third race was a handicap
