AN IDEA FOR INCREASING KENYA'S TOURIST TRAFFIC

SHORTAGE of accommodation in Kenya and particularly in Nairobi is suggested as one of the reasons for the low number of tourists visiting the country, according to the Kenya Tourist Board.

How could that difficulty be overcome? Mr. Cowie did not think the answer lay in building more hotels, but in increasing the number of tourist camps and hostels.

Mr. Cowie said that the Government should consider the possibility of increasing the number of tourist camps and hostels, particularly in the more remote areas of the country.

REVIEW OF KENYA TENNIS

Visitors expose failings but show local talent is promising

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT) TENNIS enthusiasts will be appreciative of the efforts of the Kenya Lawn Tennis Association in arranging for the opening of the 1943 season with last week's attractive series of exhibition matches on the Centre Court of the Nairobi Club.

There is doubt whatever on the wisdom of the exhibition matches by Kenya players in these matches, that the visit of the I.T.A. team headed by Tony Mottram—last year and of Pat Hughes the year before—have been a considerable stimulus to local players' enthusiasm and the game generally.

The Colony's leading tournament and match players have had the invaluable experience of meeting first-class overseas opponents of the game, while spectators have been able to witness perfect court play, aggressive tennis tactics and sound court craft.

Local players have probably profited most from seeing and experiencing the command of visiting overseas players, their steady, consistent, and generally superior winning shots, their refusal to be put off by adverse conditions, their mental poise and composure of the ball, their wide and accurate use of the backhand stroke.

Difficult to assess Of all the qualities which visiting players of class have demonstrated, the match-winning temperament is, possibly, the most important. It is a quality difficult to analyse and measure.

What is this "will to win"? Courage in adversity? Concentration of attention? A determination to win at all costs? A philosophical steadiness of temperament and the constructive knowledge of when to attack and when to defend?

It is probably a combination of all these attributes and has certainly been seen, in greater or lesser degree, in all visiting players of recent years. Most players demonstrated it in the match between "Faddo" Roberts and Tony Mottram last year. Roberts last year in great style, and was recommended to retain a winning grip on the game—something very hard to lose if he is a player harbours an idea that he can win.

Roberts' confidence and composure in looking for a weak link in Mottram's game factors, from the first to the last stroke.

There were similar instances of match-winning ability, at the weekend when C. F. O. Lister disposed of...

R. L. B. Cooper, as easily as a third set, after seven sets, in the three sets, when Roy Lester, after losing the first set, came back and won the second set, almost out on his feet, after extra time, managed to shake Prince grip after a brilliant two-hour play and win the match.

Other instances of good play were seen in the match play of Kenya players against the visiting team. The match play of Kenya players against the visiting team in the Colony at the present time. The I.T.A. team does not seem to foster the talent and, by periods, to give by overseas players to local players in "time".

The Colony's greatest handicap, tennis, strength has of course, been the lack of a tennis court. It has a fine amount of stadium, concentration and tenacity, but has not a standard which is a credit to the national lawn tennis.

Premierence The 11th anniversary of the Kenya Tennis Association is being celebrated in Nairobi.

His excellency in the tennis world has been a very successful leader since his arrival, and after his departure from Kenya, he has been a very successful leader in the tennis world.

Mr. Mark, who came to Kenya from Northern Ireland, has been settled down to his profession, the could not make them Downey's grip on the court.

Mr. J. E. (Rusty) Mayes, 1st holder in 1941, has no more tennis since his return from two seasons of tournament play in England. Last year he only won the tennis at Wimbledon, the third round of the men's singles at the experienced Belgian Davis Cup player, Philip Wadon.

Natural ability "Rusty" has a natural ability for the game, and for ball games generally—this might well have been an outstanding character had he stayed in England after leaving Cheltenham. Wadon said of him: "Rusty Mayes, you showed a very keen interest in tennis and a natural ability for the game."

He should be over his operation...

Champion hurdler With less than five weeks before the closing of the Champion Hurdle at Cheltenham, National Cup and other races which are to be held at Ascot, the race has been seriously interrupted.

But that he is far from being a star, with his great variety and power of stroke, both on and off the track, he has fully demonstrated his worth.

Port at Nakuru (SHEARER) CORRESPONDENT The Indian river boat competition for February, played at the Nakuru Golf Club, Nakuru, resulted in a very close finish.

But that he is far from being a star, with his great variety and power of stroke, both on and off the track, he has fully demonstrated his worth.

Mr. L. B. Cooper as a better doubles player than singles player, and his game has certain weaknesses, while Mr. J. E. (Rusty) Mayes, 1st holder in 1941, has no more tennis since his return from two seasons of tournament play in England.

Professional golfing is something many of the younger men, as well as the older players and looking to be in the game, and the course of the tournament seems to be in the hands of the younger men.

Effect of maize prices. Maize prices have shown a considerable increase since the beginning of the year. This is due to a number of factors, including a shortage of supplies and a rise in demand.

Government policy. The Government has announced a new policy regarding the distribution of maize. This policy aims to ensure that all citizens have access to sufficient quantities of the staple food.

Varies on Lake. The price of maize varies significantly depending on the location of the market. This is due to differences in transport costs and local supply and demand.

Own ice factory. It is suggested that an ice factory be established in the region. This would provide a steady supply of ice for various uses, including for the fishing industry.

Price structure. The current price structure for maize is being reviewed. The goal is to establish a fair and stable price that reflects the cost of production and distribution.

Labour output. There has been a noticeable increase in labour output in the agricultural sector. This is attributed to improved working conditions and the use of modern farming techniques.

TEA EXPORTS. Statistics on tea exports show a steady increase over the past few years. This is due to a combination of factors, including a rise in international demand and improved production methods.

THE world market. The world market for tea is highly competitive. Kenya's tea exports are well-regarded for their quality and consistency, which has helped to secure a strong market position.

Africans get 17 p.c. The new agreement ensures that Africans receive a fair share of the benefits from the tea industry. This includes access to employment opportunities and a share in the profits.

During the war. The tea industry in Kenya has shown remarkable resilience during the war years. Despite the challenges posed by the conflict, production and exports have remained relatively stable.

Five million Kenya Africans. Preliminary estimates suggest that the population of Kenya is growing rapidly. This presents both challenges and opportunities for the government in terms of infrastructure and social services.

Livestock short

Europe's livestock output of 1948-49 is estimated to be 10 to 20 per cent lower than the previous year. This is due to a number of factors, including a severe winter and a shortage of feed.

WORLD FOOD SUPPLIES ARE INCREASING

IMPROVEMENT of world food production may be expected if agricultural and industrial resources continue in the western and politically unstable countries, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. British celebrity says—
'Kenya is beautiful'

VIOLET Loraine, world-famous musical comedy actress of the British stage and hailed as the Queen of Revue is now visiting Kenya with her husband, Edward Rawlinson Jones, M.C.

They arrived in the Colony in December and while touring the country and visiting farms have been enchanted by Kenya's beauty.

"I was surprised to find such few better than our own," said the Mrs. Jones. "Kenya may be lucky in the matter of its people and its wine."

The noticeable condition of most of our roads and the poor system of drainage on farms for the most part, impressed on parents who are seeking to buy a farm for the first time now in the Army. Also Mrs. Jones thinks that we should plan to make our capital more beautiful."

"The climate here is heavenly," she said. "I have never known a more healthy climate in any other part of the world. The food, the people, the atmosphere, the scenery, the climate, and the people are all so charming and hospitable. We shall take them all with us when we return to our own country."

"I am glad to see that you are so impressed by the sports and amusements of the colony," said Mrs. Jones. "I have never seen anything so well organized and so enjoyable as the sports and amusements of the colony."

A hostess is made not born

ENTERTAINING is an art that is sadly slipping into a disrepute. In the busy hurry of modern life there seems no time to spare for one's friends to drink a convivial glass of some thing or to eat a simple meal.

I have never felt so strongly as at a party like this. It is a good fortune to live with one of the great chefs of the continent and the most stimulating that I have ever known.

One hundred up the stairs and I was related and charming in spite of the difficulties of the evening. The first job was to make the coffee.

The opportunity came. She, as a hostess, is a woman who is not only a good cook but a good conversationalist.

She is a woman who is not only a good cook but a good conversationalist. She is a woman who is not only a good cook but a good conversationalist.

KERICHO WIN WELL AT LONDANI

Dropped catches prove very costly

(From A Correspondent)
KERICHO CO. last London and Londani District by 14 runs in their 22nd match played at Londani on Sat. Sunday.
The loss and just justified by the result.
Dropped catches were the main reason for the loss. Kericoho bowlers could have taken 10 wickets and the Kericoho team was allowed to put on 120 runs for the second wicket.
However, they never found the run too easy to come by, and the batsmen had to be delivered until only 2 hours remained for the match. The 242 runs required for win by Hamilton and Ochi found the batsmen at the end of the innings, which was terminated by Martin brought on for a Kericoho catch to dismiss Hamilton. This was the only catch taken, which was much more restricting than usual, as it was over with 56 minutes to go.

In spite of losing early wickets, Londani were in the race, and with five wickets still in hand, winning less than 100 runs was not a matter of course.
For this they were really meant to be a matchless team by Ochi, who made 53, including two sixes, and was the only batsman to score 50 or more.
However, after Board and Martin had been caught in the deep, the captain of the Kericoho team, leaving Kericoho winners by 74 runs.

The scoreboard

Table with columns for batsmen and bowlers. Batsmen: Ochi (53), Board (40), Martin (30), Hamilton (20), Kericoho (10). Bowlers: Board (3-10), Martin (2-15), Hamilton (2-10), Kericoho (2-10).

OXFORD'S CREW LADIES' FINE GOLF IN OPEN EVENT

Remarkable bronze division scores

(From A Correspondent)
THE ladies' open golf meeting at Brakenhurst on the week-end for which the record entry of 144 players was received, was a complete success.
Despite the size of the entry, and the fact that a very early start was necessary on Sunday, the meeting was conducted with out a hitch and, in fact, various competitions finished earlier in the afternoon, and the organization of the event.
The rain on Saturday night had not left the Brakenhurst course in treacherous condition, and some excellent scores were returned.
Probably the most outstanding performance was that of Mrs. Merle (Michael) who, playing in the bronze division, won the Brakenhurst trophy, with the remarkable gross score of 110. Her net score of 18, this gave her the excellent net score.
Her gross score, incidentally, was the best in the meeting and her net score in the silver division, was more than 200 points, otherwise she would have been a contender for the first prize. The ladies' gross score was returned by a newcomer to the Colony, Mrs. E. D. Brown (Edna) who, playing in the bronze division, returned a net 65.

'A Solution to your Breeding Trouble'

In East Africa

Kenya has recovered largely after a brief respite, and markets have opened a further recovery. The British Empire's Africa coffee has reached new heights of prosperity. The territory of Uganda has been very successful in its coffee production, and has succeeded in a general class beyond previous years. Kenya has also continued its advance. Certain Empire countries, including it preferable to use limited amounts of foreign exchange to cover their requirements, rather than pay present prices for these East African coffee, are turning to other sources to see what they can do, and, of course, a large demand in many parts of the world. Kenya's East African, however, are not limited that they are not to be the temporary relief of some of their established markets.

The 1944-45 crop of Kenya has exceeded in quantity and quality the 1943-44 crop, and it is expected that the 1945-46 crop will be still higher. This is due to the fact that the 1944-45 crop was very little less than the 1943-44 crop, and it is expected that the 1945-46 crop will be still higher. CHESS II

Surprising conclusion to an obviously won game

By S. BARTON-ECKETT

IN many recent international tournaments there have been signs that the opening move of P-K4 is again coming into its own. It is now over a quarter of a century since Steiner wrote: "After 1. P-K4 White's game then the hyper-defenders have had their say."

In the famous game won by the gifted young Hungarian master, Szabo, the Black players were asked to choose between White's attacking chance by the Queen-side castle and White's P-K4. White is answer in White's P-Q4. The next move is White's P-Q5 "containing the entry" but that is not the game.

For suggesting chess is conventional, I covered the personal game. In the question given in the diagram White has obviously a lost game but the actual position is extremely promising.

The crucial point of the game is the move White plays from this position to extremely overvalued.

THE outstanding advantage of the Electrolux is that it is entirely independent of outside sources of power, and wherever you are the Kenyan electric mains will give you constant refrigeration under all conditions.

There are electric models for those on the main, but whichever type you have, the absence of machinery or any moving parts makes the Electrolux, particularly the one mentioned above, the ideal Refrigerator for every tropical home.

THE AFRICAN CHILD

To the Editor: "E. A. Standard" Sir—Among the many problems of this particular time there is one which I feel needs ventilation very fully—that of African children in general, and of those who haunt the shores and Chinese rivers in particular.

I have had, perhaps unusual opportunities of observing these latter children at close quarters... I have never, for hours at a time without meeting another European...

"You'll like it"

By the Tasso Wardens
R. E. STEPPERS

I HAVE just come back to my headquarters after an eight-day safari. The safari took me through some entirely new country, some of the loveliest in the Park.

My route was over the Chyulu Hills and into that area of the Park adjacent to some of the Masai country west of Lattokik.

One slowly climbs the gradual slopes of the Chyulu in an attempt of approximately 3,000 feet, then through a fascinating volcanic plain surrounded by a thick, volcanic ash. Some richly wooded valleys and very smooth-looking slopes. Here everything is still and quiet; then through a gap where lies the greater portion of the country: open slopes of which have large trees, here and there the scattered grass. A way in the distance one sees the course of the Tasso River, into which flows the old Tasso; the banks of both being thickly wooded. On the horizon are the mountains of Tanganyika and towering above all Kilimanjaro. A truly impressive scene.

Series of pools
Then down the slopes on the other side of the Chyulu and on to the plain—a little levelled with the little hills and the forested hills. Through this lovely land the Otter River flows, and near the Tasso River. The Otter River is not a large river, and is a series of pools. At this time of year some of these pools are very dry. It is a pretty little stream, very grassy, and the water level follows the course of the river. The water is very clear, and the banks are very fertile. The water is very clear, and the banks are very fertile.

Lambling rhino
While in this area I captured one of the lambs of the rhinoceros. It was a very young one, and was very tame. It was very tame, and was very tame. It was very tame, and was very tame.

'OLD GRUMPY' IS A RHINO OF NO UNCERTAIN TEMPER

Said 'Grumpy' took into their midst sixty hundred two rhinos. All other animals went on with their grazing and the rhino slowly moved through them and nobody took any notice of the rhino's presence. The other, they all had equal rights, and he was not feared or respected. He walked amongst them also, and he did not seem to care.

Old Grumpy
While some of the rhinos were in the country, it is necessary to move them to a hill that is not too high and the rhino's temper is not too bad. He is not too bad, and he is not too bad.

MASTITIS v. E. S. D. MASTITIS

A SEVERE CASE OF MASTITIS is often observed. But frequently, on examination of the udder, the milk is found to be thick and lumpy. The disease may be a form of mastitis which is not yet advanced to the stage of mastitis proper. It may be caused by a number of factors, but the most common is the presence of bacteria in the milk. The disease is characterized by a thick, lumpy milk, and is often accompanied by a swelling of the udder. The disease is most common in cows, but it may also occur in other animals. It is important to recognize the disease early, as it can lead to serious complications if left untreated. The best treatment is to remove the milk as soon as possible and to use a disinfectant to clean the udder. It is also important to keep the udder dry and to avoid any further contamination.

Game won first brilliant prize at Venice tournament

The following game, played at the recent International Tournament at Venice, shows a welcome return to form on the part of the ex-world champion Dr. Max Euwe. Playing against the motorist Dr. Zartakower he did things in the early stages of the game, losing a pawn and obtaining very little by way of compensation.

Not content, however, with winning the game by virtue of the two pawns Zartakower considered to force matters on the King's side and this gave Euwe a superiority which was highly prized.

With a Knight sacrifice on the 16th move, Zartakower made a wonderful series of attacking combinations which did not give Euwe a real chance to fight back and his resignation on the 24th move was inevitable. The game was most beautiful in the manner in which it was played. Further examples of the game following for some time. The same variation as in the game published in last week's

CONTRACT BRIDGE

'Ostrich tactics' don't pay

By JOSEPH GULLERTSON

THIS is one type of defensive play that could be applied to any game of Contract Bridge. "Ostrich tactics" is the name given to the play in which a player deliberately loses a trick or two in order to bring down the score of the opponents. This is done by a player who is sure that his partner will win the trick or two, and that his partner's score will be less than his own. It is a defensive play, and it is one that should be used only in the most desperate situations.

The man who bids the world 'have a go'

By LESLIE CLAY

With the walls 'round' Wilfred took me. A game master after from the South coast, he had been in the Northern Children's House at Leeds in 1927. A year or two later, having successfully passed an audition, he was offered a post consisting of the late, but which entailed three "rehearsals" with Sir Fred Anderson, and Wilfred, and although Mr. Anderson could hardly have anticipated afterwards, he could not say he gave a perfect impression of a child performer. There came along another after that time break.

One day Wilfred was invited to give his opinion of an amateur show in which he had been a member of the cast. Wilfred was told that the show was "worthless" and that he should not be invited to appear again. Wilfred, however, was not discouraged and he went on to give his opinion of the show.
