ENGLAND v SCOTLAND

WEMBLEY TODAY

Home side's good chance of hat-trick

ENGLAND have a great chance to win their successive 10th international football championship over the war when they meet Scotland in the final at Wembley Stadium. England are relying almost entirely upon the 'Old Goal' with the Scotch making their main attack from the right side. Anglo-Scottish only, Willie Reid of Derby County, is their lone forward.

England have several regular players to rely upon. The captain, Herbert Chapman, is back after a long absence. The team has been losing up to date. In fact, the only victory was a 1-0 win over Scotland in 1922, the only Anglo-Scott match since a Derby County player, D. Duncan, in that year scored 11 goals in 2-1 at Hampden Park.

They look upon this as a happy occasion which will decide the famous 'Home Brew' but the atmosphere of the match will be one of the most dramatic and tense ever witnessed in football.
