Full Self-Government Proposal for India

The Government is anxious to form a constitution for the Indian States and to secure the same on a permanent basis.

"During the war Indian fighting men have shown a real sense of independence. India has shown a real sense of independence in the task of saving freedom and democracy. Victory comes through unity and through the readiness of all to meet their differences objectively."

"I intend that all Indians to feel this great common bond and to join together in a united effort to meet out the future of the Indian States which the majority, and minority, by committee will meet as just and fair, a constitution in which both States and Provinces can find their place. The British Government will do its utmost to give every assistance to their honour and India can be sure of the sympathy of the British people."

A New Phase

The Times says yesterday's pronouncements mark a new phase in the relations between India and Britain. "For more than a century British policy has been confined to securing India's independence. Of late, as it lines overcastly, directed by the long-term plan has been compressed into an immediate objective by the conversion of the British people to the freedom for which they and their allies fought in world-wide wars, and the freedom for which India has been fighting in the past few years of war has been traditional policy has been replaced in terms of its objectives by urgency. This is expressed in the proposed transfer of power and the requirements of the struggle and directed to the ever greater economic interest of India. This limitation is also of great importance and proportionate that the affairs of India, which have been the concern of the British people for the past century, are now the concern of the Indian people.

British Proposals

The Minister of Ceylon, introducing the government's proposals with which it takes up the question, says it is partly for to satisfy the results of the elections and partly partly satisfied, had the Government, the government expects immediate inquiries will be given to the continuation of representative government in the Dominion. It is to be considered in the Dominion in the next few weeks. The Government's proposal is to be considered in the Dominion in the next few weeks. The Government's proposal is to be considered in the Dominion in the next few weeks.

Key Moments

The Daily Herald says the key moments in Lord Mountbatten's proposal are:

1. The Dominion of India will be a full self-governing Dominion in all matters except those reserved to the British Government.

2. The Dominion of India will be a full self-governing Dominion in all matters except those reserved to the British Government.

3. The Dominion of India will be a full self-governing Dominion in all matters except those reserved to the British Government.

THE CASE FOR THE PROSECUTION

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1946

Observant members of the general public have noticed that from time to time, with considerable frequency, Magistrates have come out of their chambers to give the preparation and presentation of the Crown's case before them. It is true that some Magistrates are more inclined to give their criticism, perhaps more aware of the present of the law than others. But making every allowance for the human factor, it is impossible not to be aware of the fact that the criticism of the Police Department from the Magisterial bench has attained a prominence which requires consideration by the Government and by the Judiciary of the land.

There was this week a new case which was brought against the notice of the Legal Department of the Crown. Two Indians pleaded guilty to charges from the Police Department which to the Magistrate were "specially tortured" and "specially aggravated" and which had a maximum sentence of six months imprisonment. The Magistrate made a serious comment upon the evidence produced by the Police Department from the district into which the accused were removed and which he drew out of the accused's mouths before the Court, and then after a further comment in the evidence which made the case more difficult than it should have been. There is no need to regard the Magistrate's comments and comment as other than a normal judicial criticism.

These comments, however, have been made over a long period of years by different Magistrates. It is daily in Nairobi, have led us to the conclusion that the present state of the Colony cannot properly avoid the responsibility of leaving the administration of the situation in the hands of the Police Department, which is the only body being the establishing agencies, and which in the past have been convicted on their own pleas, had an opportunity of offering a defence, and the purpose of restoring a condition in the Colony which would be a credit to the present and the future.

The present situation is one of the most important in the Colony, and it is one which is of great complexity and considerable seriousness. It is one which is of great complexity and considerable seriousness. It is one which is of great complexity and considerable seriousness. It is one which is of great complexity and considerable seriousness.

KEROL

Adds to your Grazing Acreage.

Kerol's animals derive more nutriment from their food than those who do not get it in their diet. In other words, by getting your stock here you save a tremendous amount of money by increasing the feed-value of your grazing acreage.

Beyond this Kerol brings other advantages from its use. Kerol-fed animals are not subject to heavy and other digestive disorders. In fact, Kerol helps an animal develop a vigorous resistance to most of the common diseases and internal parasites that don't like it.

Whether Kerol be given to sheep, cattle, horses, pigs or poultry—whether it be administered as feed, or as a liquid or in a powder—Kerol always follows. And don't forget to give it to your poultry, too. Kerol is a powerful, safe, and effective.

The secret of success in using Kerol is to regularly—small quantities daily—regulate with it, for you better results than just one administered sporadically.

Lots and more detailed information will be found in the Kerol Book, which is free for the asking.

The Sisal Industry

MANY IMPORTANT ITEMS DISCUSSED

MANY important issues relating to the sisal industry were discussed at the 11th Annual General Meeting of the Kenya Sisal Growers' Association, which was held at the Hotel Victoria, Nairobi, on September 10th. The meeting was attended by a large number of growers and representatives of the Government, the Chamber of Agriculture, and the Kenya Sisal Processors' Association.

The Chairman, who thought it was not a very good idea to have a separate organization for sisal growers, suggested that the Kenya Sisal Growers' Association should be merged with the Kenya Sisal Processors' Association. This suggestion was met with some opposition, but it was eventually decided to hold a joint meeting of the two associations to discuss the matter further.

The Director of Agriculture, Mr. D. L. Blunt, addressed the meeting and stressed the importance of sisal to the Kenya economy. He pointed out that sisal was one of the main export crops of the country and that it was essential for the Government to take steps to ensure its continued growth and development.

Tsetse Situation Is Serious

Salisbury, September 14. Mr. C. Chorley, Chief Government Entomologist, said the worst outbreak of tsetse fly in Southern Rhodesia on the south bank of the Limpopo River Territory is continuing and the fly are now spreading north from the border.

This was a serious situation since tsetse flies are a major pest of livestock and man. They are particularly abundant in areas where there is a lot of brush and tall grass. ### TEMPORARY HOUSING FOR AFRICANS

A successful experiment during the past few months in the erection of temporary housing for the African population in the Nairobi area has been reported by the Public Works Department. It is proposed that the Public Works Department should erect a number of temporary housing units to be used for the reception of 1,175 temporary workers. The design is simple and approved by the Works Committee and that a final plan of three months' duration has been prepared. The construction was undertaken by the Public Works Department and the cost of the material for the erection of the housing units has been estimated at £100,000. It is expected that the housing units will be completed by the end of the year.

Kenya School Exam Results Better Than Ever

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT'S REVIEW OF 1944 Recurring War-Time Difficulties

The 1944 report of the Kenya Education Department, which has just been published, is once again a tale of war-time difficulties going hand in hand with a determination to improve the education of the people. It is a tale of a struggle to accommodate a rapidly increasing school population in inadequate school buildings, and to maintain a staff of qualified teachers, in frustration of the Government's repeated and sincere offers of facilities for all three communities in the Colony.

There is one bright spot in the Report, however—and that is that examination results for 1944, which were received last year, are better than they have ever been. The Cambridge School Certificate Examination of 1944, which was the first examination to be held after the outbreak of the war, was held in February, 1944, and the results were better than they have ever been. The Cambridge School Certificate Examination of 1944, which was the first examination to be held after the outbreak of the war, was held in February, 1944, and the results were better than they have ever been.

"The finished with sciatica, right now, it's now years since I was last afflicted by the pain."

"For the last time I suffered with sciatica, sciaticitis and rheumatism—without the aid of a doctor, the help of my own hands, the advice of a friend, a simple bottle of Persil—my sciatica has never returned, and I had not a trace of sciaticitis since I used it the first time. I had not a trace of sciaticitis since I used it the first time. I had not a trace of sciaticitis since I used it the first time."

"The first and most important step in the treatment of sciatica is to keep the bowels open and regular. This can be done by the use of a simple bottle of Persil—my sciatica has never returned, and I had not a trace of sciaticitis since I used it the first time."

BIG SPEED-UP IN BRITISH DEMOBILISATION

1½ MILLION WILL BE RELEASED BY DECEMBER

Transport A Deciding Factor

London, October 3. The British Government's plan for speeding up demobilisation will release one-and-a-half million men and women from the Services by the end of this year, it has announced last night.

By June next year this figure will be doubled. Government intends to rely on the principle of release by age and length of service, and will deal evenly between the men serving at home and those overseas.

The rate of release will be determined by the availability of transport and Government will deal with the problem of transport by a variety of means.

LACK OF DEFINITE POLICY FOR MALARIA CONTROL A "MAJOR TRAGEDY"

ADDRESSING a joint meeting of the Royal African Society and the Royal Engineers Society, on the subject of policy for malaria control for rural populations in Africa Dr. G. Macdonald, Director of the Ross Institute of Tropical Hygiene said that it was a major tragedy affecting the tropical world, and especially the Central African colonies, that there was no definite policy for the control of malaria.

He stated that the malaria problem was a population of about 200,000,000, of whom 100,000,000 were affected by malaria. The great majority were affected in the tropics. The disease was of statistically variable prevalence in the tropics, but it was not only one of the most common of diseases in the tropics, but it was also one of the most dangerous.
