PRINCE OF WALES MEETS REPRESENTATIVE AFRICANS

Imposing and Picturesque Scenes at the Baraza.

B.R.H.'s ADDRESS.

Tribute to Part Played by Natives in the War and Expectations of the Future.

One of the most interesting items in the Royal part of the programme arranged for His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales by the British High Commissioner Hodge yesterday.

It presented a series of amusing contrasts. African chiefs and councillors in many styles of dress from the almost nude to those adopted in European style, some had all come to see the son of the King Emperor whose subjects one day they will be.

The Prince who was obviously greatly interested in the gathering after presenting medals to some and having kurtes to others, addressed the leading natives of the country.

After thanking them for their welcome and conveying His Majesty's greeting, His Royal Highness spoke of the war records of some of them and said their gallantry would never be forgotten.

The Prince added that it was His Majesty's wish that adequate lands should be set apart for their permanent use, that they should be freed from disease, and that they should have their part in all the benefits and responsibilities of a modern civilization.

His Royal Highness, in the height of the gathering, complimented a speech with a smile.
