New record set up in Nairobi road walk

The Minister for Housing, Mr. Ngai, yesterday presented prizes to successful competitors in the 50 kilometres and 25 kilometres walk organised by Cogs — the old boys' association of the Technical High School, Nairobi.

The competition was divided into two parts — the 50-kilometre walk for men and 25-kilometre walk for women.

Those taking part were mainly school boys and girls and the organisers said the response this year had been very good. There seemed to be a good deal more interest in the contest.

This year, records were broken in the men's section and the secretary of Cogs, Mr. H. S. Edobe, said the event was now an annual one. The Cogs appreciated the interest the Government had taken in the competition as shown by the attendance of Mr. Ngai to present the prizes.

Competitors started the walk from the City Hall at 8 a.m. for Mwangi and returned to Nairobi by about 3.30 p.m.

Winners in the men's section were (1) David Kujia of Thogoto Teachers' Training College, who did the walk in five hours, 42 minutes and 12 seconds — a record, (2) Leonard Njoro of Karuri-Banata Hill High School, who finished the course in five hours, 42 minutes and 21.1 seconds. This also broke last year's record by one minute and one second. In the ladies' section, the winners were (1) Prembbai Patel of Ngara High School, who completed the course in three hours, 23 minutes and 57.2 seconds, (2) Jasenta Njiri, who did the walk in three hours, 23 minutes and 57.2 seconds. Third was Miss Siganga Doreen.

nothing but merely join together to protest and rage. It became intolerable when instead of involving themselves in social problems they merely joined to protest at what they regarded as "failings" in their parents, Government, or in people in public life. It was a disturbing development in Africa, he felt, that in many countries there was friction between students and Government. He blamed this situation largely on the "arrangements" made among newly educated young people. Let us not stop at protest, or at the view that we know better," he urged the schoolboys. "We must go further and say what we think should be done, because only that way can we make a worthwhile contribution."

U.T. joins fight upgrade Swahili

Developed to a scientific status, the light words from other languages are graded on an ascending scale. The Minister went on to say in a healthy feeling, but it was not enough just to be bilingual. "Come and get involved," he urged.

Form co-ops call to trade unions

Members of trade unions were urged to form co-operatives so that they could take advantage of the Government's new policy. The Minister said that the Government was not against English being taught, but would like it to be taught as a second language. The union based on Swahili being adopted in primary schools. Swahili had only been taught in primary schools at the age of five or six. It wanted the children to be taught in Swahili and would enable them to assimilate what they were being taught.

Uganda to maintain Mombasa link

Count Mwendu said the new visit to Mombasa was a landmark in the history of East African spirit in establishing contact not only between our country and the other East African countries but also between African towns and cities. Among those present were the Deputy Minister, Commissioner Mr. Chelangat, the Mombasa District Commissioner, Mr. Njiru, and other members of Mombasa and other Government officials.

Bishops' conference big landmark in Church history

The All-Africa Bishops' Symposium which opens today in Kampala is likely to be one of the most important events in the history of the Roman Catholic Church in Africa. The symposium is the first African conference of Bishops, and its theme reflects the importance of the conference itself - "Conversations within the Church in Africa."

A number of speculations about the symposium have been made, but nobody will be sure when the conference will be held until this morning's preliminary session, when a chair-man will be chosen and an agenda agreed. The seven ordinaries who are attending the symposium have all arrived in Kampala and most of the bishops. The only big change of the absence of the Archbishop of Nairobi, the Most Rev. J. J. McCarthy, who is unable to attend and will be represented by the Bishop of Kisumu.

The symposium is being held at the Tazara Institute of Eastern Africa which overlooks Murchison Bay, about six miles from Kampala. The preliminary session of the conference is due to start at 9.30 this morning and the 40 delegates and four observers will attend eucharistic celebrations at 10 before the formal opening of the symposium at 11. This is to be followed by a Press conference. Others will follow the close of the symposium tomorrow and on Wednesday. The symposium is scheduled to be closed by the Pope soon after his arrival in Uganda at Rubaga on Thursday.

Woman hit seaman

A woman appeared before a resident magistrate's court in Mombasa on Saturday charged with striking an American seaman who had been her victim. The woman, Margaret Wangui, was charged with striking the seaman, P. N. Chama, on the head with a bottle. The seaman was injured and was taken to the hospital. Teachers role explained

Teachers should therefore be free to do their work and not be allowed to be used as a political tool. The Minister said that the Government was not against English being taught, but would like it to be taught as a second language. The union based on Swahili being adopted in primary schools. Swahili had only been taught in primary schools at the age of five or six.

'TARGET' WARNING

The inter-tribal tensions which led to ugly scenes in Nairobi and Kisumu after the assassination of Mr. Tom Mboya had completely wiped out the theory that Kenya was a united country and had seriously wounded the spirit of harambee, the Christian Council of Kenya and Tanzania's newspaper Target says in its latest issue.

The paper's editorial headlined 'Tribalism: Let's Face It', says that the country is not a united country and has been seriously wounded. The paper's editorial headlined 'Tribalism: Let's Face It', says that the country is not a united country and has been seriously wounded.

Dr. Kaunda wants Chief Justice back 'MISTAKE' IN CRISIS

Zambia's Chief Justice, Mr. James Mwaanga, has been touched and reassured by a remarkably candid interview given by President Kaunda to the Guardian in which he admitted mishandling the affair which led to Mr. Skinner's abrupt departure to London earlier this month.

Dr. Kaunda told the Guardian that he believed his long friendship with Mr. Skinner remained unimpaired by the recent events in Zambia. He said he would do everything he could to see that Mr. Skinner's return to his post was as smooth as possible.

Dr. Kaunda admitted in the Guardian that the handling of the crisis had been a "mistake" but said it was one from which he and his people intended to learn. He admitted that he had underestimated the strength of racialist feelings existing in Zambia five years after Independence but said that racialist feelings arising particularly from the Rhodesian issue had played their part in this.

Dr. Kaunda told the Guardian that he believed his long friendship with Mr. Skinner remained unimpaired by the recent events in Zambia. He said he would do everything he could to see that Mr. Skinner's return to his post was as smooth as possible.

Moi calls Rift Valley peace

They also pledged their loyalty to President Kenyatta, his Government and the people of Kenya, and that the President would see them.

Mr. Moi warned that those found disseminating malicious rumours would be punished. He also stated that any person who was found to be spreading such rumours would be reported to the appropriate authorities.

The rights of the individual and the rights of the community were defended, but hatred, which would breed tribalism, was denounced as the worst thing, and the Government would not tolerate it.

Mr. Moi emphasized that night meetings should cease forthwith and that the Government would take action against those involved. He advised all tribal elders and leaders in the area to meet regularly and discuss their problems.

Mr. Moi was accompanied by the Rift Valley Area Commissioner, Mr. R. B. Nyachwaya, three Assistant Commissioners, Mr. M. Murgor, Mr. J. Kalva and Mr. J. Cherogian, and the Uasin Gishu Commissioner, Mr. J. W. Waiboci.

Later Mr. Moi was made a distinction between a cow and a monkey, which was presented with a colobus monkey cake.

Big chance to face up to problems, bishops told

The All-Africa Conference of Bishops - provided a unique opportunity for the Roman Catholic Church to study the problems facing it in Africa. Cardinal Rugambwa, of Dar es Salaam, said in Gaba, near Kampala, yesterday.

He said it had been agreed that a scheme to extend 100,000 acres a day from the Mid Chana at an estimated cost of £15,000,000 would constitute the first phase of a series of projects costing about £24,000,000.

The £15,000,000 excludes reclamation work which would have to be carried out in the city area at a cost of £10,000,000.

The Medical Officer of Health, Dr. J. Kabiru, told the Public Health Committee it was proposed to start a pilot scheme on school health services for Nairobi children. The committee has been working out to meet the urgent problems at first and later, when money became available, services would be extended.

The Finance Committee agreed to recommend that £2,000 should be provided for the scheme, which it is hoped will start during the next school term. The recommendation will come before the full council meeting tonight.

Members of the Education Committee were told by the Education Officer, Mr. J. Wanyuki, that he was concerned about the shortage of temporary materials in ten schools. He recommended that the school embark on a six-year programme to replace all classrooms built of temporary materials at an estimated cost of £240,000. The Finance Committee later approved the recommendation but it requires council approval.

The committee has been working out to meet the urgent problems at first and later, when money became available, services would be extended.

The Finance Committee agreed to recommend that £2,000 should be provided for the scheme, which it is hoped will start during the next school term. The recommendation will come before the full council meeting tonight.

Members of the Education Committee were told by the Education Officer, Mr. J. Wanyuki, that he was concerned about the shortage of temporary materials in ten schools. He recommended that the school embark on a six-year programme to replace all classrooms built of temporary materials at an estimated cost of £240,000. The Finance Committee later approved the recommendation but it requires council approval.

First Kenya-built lorry delivered TRAINING PLANS

Westland Motors Ltd. Kenya importers of Toyota vehicles, yesterday delivered the first of its locally-assembled Toyota lorries.

The lorry, which has a gross weight of 25,700 lbs (11,700 kg), a six-cylinder diesel engine and a fuel tank holding 25.3 gallons, has been built by a Thika businessman, Mr. Moses M. Cuga.

He will use it for general transport business in the Mwanjiru irrigation scheme.

The assembling plant is in the locality of Nairobi and is fully equipped for assembly of the D-116 H model.

The company has become the first in East Africa to assemble any type of vehicle that it imports.

The company will in the meantime concentrate on the assembling of trucks only under the guidance of an expert of Toyota manufacturers from Japan, and emphasis is laid on the training of African staff.

Negotiations are already in hand between the company and its suppliers in Japan to send two men there for further training.

The plant has already assembled 12 lorries, six of which were assembled in a week, and it is expected that production may be increased according to demand.

The Westland Motors was first established in Kenya and signed an agreement with the Toyota Japan manufacturers in August, 1963, and sold its first car in January, 1964.

The company has about 4,000 vehicles of all ranges on the Kenya roads today, including trucks, four-wheel drive vehicles, saloons and jeeps.

Statistics show that they sell an average of 140 vehicles a month and this puts them among the leading motor importers in Kenya.

The firm has about 100 employees in its Nairobi office. It has no branches in other parts of Kenya, but operates through dealers.

In yesterday's ceremony, attended by the company's managing director, Mr. E. A. Gramannopolous, Mr. Cuga's keys were handed over to him by the commercial sales executive, Mr. E. Karanja.

New secretary for negotiating team

Mr. Frank P. Mwanjisi has been appointed acting secretary of the East African Negotiating Team in place of Mr. Ian Bust, who is returning to Whitehall at the end of the month.

Mr. Mwanjisi, 35, who comes from Kung'u district of Mbeya region, Tanzania, has been deputy secretary of the team for seven months. His appointment takes effect from Friday.

He took up his first appointment to the six partner-State Ministers team in December and has worked with the team from its former offices in Nairobi, often presiding at the negotiations between East African officials and those of applicant States.

The East African Negotiating Team was founded on December 1, 1967, by the three East African Heads of State, soon after the Communists were ousted from power in the Congo.

It was charged with the responsibility of negotiating with neighboring States which had applied to be associated with the Community then, and any others which might apply later.

SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN

Message from Mr. Richard Manache, M.G.M. Representative in Kenya.

In order to coincide with the occasion of the Pope's visit to East Africa this month, M.G.M. are proud to bring to you through the courtesy of the Kenya Film Corporation and Twentieth Century-Fox one of the year's most outstanding motion picture attractions, "The Shoes of the Fisherman".

Costing over $4,000,000 to produce, this lavish picture has a distinguished international cast headed by Anthony Quinn, Oskar Werner, David Janssen, Vittorio de Sica, Sir John Gielgud, Barbara Jefford and Sir Laurence Olivier.

Resides being nominated for two Academy Awards and named "Best Film of 1968", this production was honoured by the Ministry of Education of Austria with the "Wertvoll" Certificate, traditionally awarded to films of exceptional cultural value.

The story tells of last desperate effort to prevent World War III. A secret meeting is arranged. One man is called upon to succeed where all other world leaders have failed. That man was once a prisoner in a Russian labour camp. He is now the Pope.

Filmed in Rome in Fianuciano and Matera, St. Peter's Square with its graceful colonnade adorned by marble statuary because a key set for this production.

Vatican interiors such as the Papal apartments, offices, reception rooms and audience chambers were reconstructed at Rome's Cinecitta Studios. The Sistine Chapel was reproduced on a mammoth sound stage and it is here that the Papal election conclave is depicted on the screen for the first time.

A scene from the dramatic ending of "The Shoes of the Fisherman" showing Pope Kiril (Anthony Quinn) removing the papal crown, to the shock of the church dignitaries who look on.

Lonely way of a Pope

On the eve of the arrival of Pope Paul in Uganda, a Charity Premiere of "The Shoes of the Fisherman" to help the Limuru Boys' Centre takes place at the 20th Century Cinema tomorrow night, organised by Nairobi Round Table No. 1. To coincide with this event, the "East African Standard" today provides two pages of background information about the film.

In filming The Shoes of the Fisherman in Rome, St. Peter's Square, with its graceful colonnade adorned by marble statuary, became a key set for the lavish production.

Outfitted with all the conference paraphernalia, the Chapel's appointments included the pot-bellied stove whose black or white smoke announces to the waiting throng the result of each series of balloting. This set alone was insured for $750,000.

Art director Edward Carfagno and Aurelio Crispola also designed Kremlin offices and sections of Soviet factories for the Russian sequences involving Kamenev and Kiril.

Footage filmed at the opening of the Second Ecumenical Council was incorporated into the coronation scene of Kiril I, showing the crowds and pageantry of this momentous occasion, probably the most attended event in the world.

Anthony Quinn, cast as Kiril

Lakota in The Shoes of the Fisherman, in a two-time Academy Award-winner, having won his first Oscar for Viva Zapata and his second for Last for Life. Le Siro, The Gans of Navarone, Barabba, Lawrence of Arabia, Requiem for a Heavyweight, Zorba the Greek and The Lost Command are others of his outstanding films.

On the Broadway stage he has scored in Fachin-Fachin with Margaret Leighton and in Berke with Laurence Olivier.

Oskar Werner, whose brilliant portrayal in Ship of Fools won him an Academy Award nomination, plays the role of David Telemont in The Shoes of the Fisherman. Werner has played a wide variety of characterizations in such films as Jules and Jim, The Spy Who Came in from the Cold, Fahrenheit 451 and Intolerance.

David Janssen, cast as the television news commentator George Faber, has starred in several top television series, including The Fugitive, in which he played the title role. His motion pictures include My Sin, Never Say Goodbye, Warning Shot and The Green Berets.

Vittorio De Sica, one of Italy's most famous actor-directors, has won four Academy Awards for his direction of such classics as Shoeshine, The Bicycle Thief, The Women and Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow.

A long actor he has scored in a long list of films, among them A Farewell to Arms, General Della Rovere, Bread, Love and Dreams and The Gold of Naples.

In The Shoes of the Fisherman he is seen as Cardinal Rinaldo, the Vatican Secretary of State.

Leo McKern, who won critical acclaim for his performance as Paul Scofield's adversary in A Man for All Seasons, again plays the role of an adversary in The Shoes of the Fisherman.

Sir John Gielgud, playing Pope Kiril, has won an Oscar for his performance in Richard III. His other films include Henry VIII and Richard III. In addition to his distinguished stage performance as Broadbent and about the actor has also been the director of such screen plays as Henry VIII and Richard III.

George Fennell, producer-director of The Day After Tomorrow and The Day After Tomorrow, has worked in every phase of business and entertainment for five years ago, has produced Before the Snow of the Year, an England produced MGM film. He has also produced Before the Snow of the Year, Jamaica, and his next project will be the large-scale production of Corleone, Ryan's The Last Hurst.

Sen. Kennedy drops presidential ambitions

Edward Kennedy intends to run for the Democratic nomination in 1972 to limit his political life to the Senate, sources here say.

The official consequence of his tragic car accident at Chappaquiddick Island, in which a long-standing aide to the Kennedy family, Miss Mary Jo Kopechne, died of drowning, was that Massachusetts State withdrew his driving licence for one year.

But the consequences for Sen. Kennedy's political future appeared far-reaching and possibly irrevocable. The democratic party's leader in the Senate, Sen. Mike Mansfield, has already affirmed that Mr. Kennedy will not be a candidate for the Presidency in 1972.

Parliamentary circles in Washington appeared to think his chances of nomination would be less than good if he decided to stand.

It would be better for the Senator to let time heal the accident of Martha's Vineyard be forgotten, while continuing what began as a brilliant Senatorial career, they said.

Unanswered questions concerning the circumstances of the accident, in which the Senator's car swerved off a bridge and plunged into the water, still appeared an obstacle to Sen. Kennedy's progress.

In any case Democratic hopes for the Presidency seem to be dwindling as the likelihood that President Nixon's administration will end the Vietnam war increases.

Massachusetts voters have now made it clear in a deluge of letters that they want their Senator to keep the seat to which they elected him until 1970.

The Senator himself refused on Monday to say whether he would take this support at face value and stay, or resign and stand for election again in 1970. Either way his re-election in 1970 seemed a certainty.

Time magazine said yesterday in an outspoken report that Sen. Kennedy often flirted with pretty girls, was a daredevil driver and a heavier drinker since his brother was assassinated last year.

In a six-page cover story on the fatal accident, it said: "Some who have long watched the Kennedy can say with certainty that he often flirted with pretty girls in situations indiscreet for someone named Ted Kennedy."

The report said it was known that "some members of the Kennedy entourage refuse to ride with him because he is such a daredevil driver, and Kennedy incurred four traffic convictions in the 50s, two for speeding and two for reckless driving."

Tribute to Mr. Mboya in India

Glowing tributes to the memory of Kenya's late Minister for Economic Planning and Development, Mr. Mboya, were paid by members at a conference held by Kenya students at the Newropia College, Hall of Foons University, India.

The meeting was organized by a committee headed by Mr. Nasiruddin M. Taki and Mr. Hassan M. Bagha, both from Mombasa.

and Mr. Kenia Mwakiimba, from Taita District. It was attended by a large number of foreign students, members of the Indian public and professors and students from African States who had gathered to pay their last respects.

A large wreathed portrait of Mr. Mboya with two half-masted flags beside it were displayed before the gathering.

Mr. A. David editor of the Poona Herald, Poona City's leading daily, was the chief guest. Mr. David described Mr. Mboya as "an undiluted nationalist who never confused himself to tribalism but saw Kenya as a whole nation."

Mr. Mboya's dream, he said, was to integrate all the tribes and weld the country into one solid unit. This dream had not yet been realized. Mr. David appealed to the African students to give effect to this dream. He also appealed for greater unity between the African countries and India.

Mr. Paul Gathecha 'Kigwa from Gatundu District, who presided at the meeting, described the qualities of Mr. Mboya and traced the various events in the life of the departed leader.

Mr. Shaikat G. Habib, from Nairobi, recited a poem written by him in tribute to Mr. Mboya.

Mr. Kenia Mwakiimba, the main speaker of the day, said African unity was essential for the progress of the black man. This was what Mr. Mboya yearned for and he was confident that it would become a reality in the years to come.

Mr. Hassan M. Bagha offered a prayer for Mr. Mboya, and then the gathering stood in silence for two minutes. A choir of Kenyan students sang the National Anthem.

Kenyan students passed a resolution condemning violence and solemnly declared to carry on the ideals and principles which Mr. Mboya stood for.

FIVE SOLDIERS DIE IN BORDER CLASH

Five Malaysian soldiers were killed and six seriously wounded in an hour-long battle with Communist rebels in the Thai-Malayan border, the Deputy Premier, Tun Abdul Abdul Razak, said in Kuala Lumpur yesterday.

The clash took place at Sintok, a small town seven miles from the border on the Malaysian side. The reinforcements of crack jungle fighters were rushed to the scene. Mr. Razak said a follow-up operation was in progress. Mr. Razak said.

The Director of Operations, West Malaysia, Maj-Gen. Syed Ahmad Alagoff, flew to the border area to direct the anti-terrorist campaign.

Mr. Razak said a group of about 30 Communists, heavily armed with grenades and weapons, ambushed a Malaysian security patrol on Monday morning. After a battle the guerrillas escaped into the thick jungle. Several of them were believed to have been wounded in the exchange of fire.

Four of the five soldiers were killed at the scene and the fifth died in a hospital where the wounded were rushed for treatment.

He disclosed that Malaysian authorities had received intelligence reports of the rebels moving into the area across the border from Thailand, but the ambush was unexpected and sudden.

The clash took place at Sintok, a small town seven miles from the border on the Malaysian side. The reinforcements of crack jungle fighters were rushed to the scene. Mr. Razak said a follow-up operation was in progress. Mr. Razak said.

The Director of Operations, West Malaysia, Maj-Gen. Syed Ahmad Alagoff, flew to the border area to direct the anti-terrorist campaign.

Mr. Razak said a group of about 30 Communists, heavily armed with grenades and weapons, ambushed a Malaysian security patrol on Monday morning. After a battle the guerrillas escaped into the thick jungle. Several of them were believed to have been wounded in the exchange of fire.

Four of the five soldiers were killed at the scene and the fifth died in a hospital where the wounded were rushed for treatment.

He disclosed that Malaysian authorities had received intelligence reports of the rebels moving into the area across the border from Thailand, but the ambush was unexpected and sudden.

Group seeks ways to tighten Rhodesia sanctions

A seven-nation working group set up to consider ways of tightening sanctions against Rhodesia held its business meeting in London yesterday.

The session was expected to be dominated by reports from United Nations sources indicating that the sanctions barrier is far from fool-proof. Countries said to be helping the ban include West Germany, Italy, Japan, Holland and the United States.

Official reports to the working group highlight a difference of about £40,000,000 between Rhodesia's

Portugal rejects U.N. censure

Portugal has rejected the U.N. Security Council's censure for the recent Portuguese attack on a Zambian village and said the censure resolution was based on unproved allegations and contained grave omissions.

Describing the text of the resolution as definitely unacceptable, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said: "No grave situation was created by Portugal and the allegations of the resolution on the matter are completely unfounded, as the incident to which the text refers did not take place."

It is Portugal, he said, on the contrary, is a victim of attacks permitted by the Security Council, which he said had committed aggression against her, also

Youth killed in U.K. race violence

Extra police were patrolling the immigrant area of the Northern England city of Leeds yesterday after a weekend of racial violence in which a youth was stabbed to death, 23 men were arrested and several policemen injured.

The weekend was marked by demonstrations against Indians and Pakistanis living in the city's Burley district, which police believe was triggered off by the fatal stabbing on Saturday night of an English youth.

A 21-year-old Indian labourer was charged with the murder of the youth on Monday and two of his friends, also Indians, were charged with aiding and abetting in the murder. All three were remanded in custody.

Twenty-three men appeared in court on Monday on charges under the Public Order Act, including assaulting police and using threatening behaviour. Most were remanded.

Police reported that four officers were injured in scuffles, windows were broken and a car set on fire during the demonstrations.

Reports said that after the public houses closed on Monday night a large number of men made their way to the Burley district. There were shouts of "let's get at the dealers and principles" which Mr. Mboya stood for.

Uganda prepares

Cardinal Lawrence Kagameba opens the all-African Bishops' Symposium in Kampala on Monday. Right: In Uganda's Foreign Minister, Mr. Seme Obika. Right: Members of the Italian space mission team with the portable satellite station which they have completed at Kabale. This station will be used to beam television pictures of the Pope's Uganda visit to Europe.

Left: A welcome arch for the Pope, under construction, at the approach to Rubaga Roman Catholic Cathedral. Above: A massive 17-ft. crucifix is placed in position at Independence Park, Kampala, on the platform on which the Pope will consecrate 12 Bishops on Friday.

POPE HAS FOUR MAIN THEMES ON HIS VISIT

The Pope has four main aims on his visit to Africa. He wishes to bring the interest of the young Christians of Africa, drive for a solution to their economic, social and cultural problems, help the spiritual and material development of the continent and demonstrate his personal interest in the Pope's eighth trip to Africa. When he was in Milan, at Mar. 1962, he visited the Pope in Rome, Ghana and Senegal. The Pope has ever been in Africa. The Pope is here to pay tribute to the many martyrs of the first century. He will visit the Catholic and Anglican churches closely associated in Uganda in the evangelizing of the local population, and the Anglicans who arrived first, also said a heavy tribute in honor to the cause of Christianity in Africa.

By paying tribute to the Anglican martyrs, who, like the Catholics, were burnt in death, the Pope will accomplish in Africa an action of vast ecumenical scope, comparable to those he carried out in the Holy Land, Istanbul or in Geneva last month.

From Jerusalem to Kampala, passing through Bombay, New York, Istanbul, Bogota and Geneva, the Pope has striven to create a situation in which all men of good will come closer together.

Women carry portraits on their skirts

Portraits of the Pope and copies of the Papal coat of arms have appeared on colorful women's dresses, skirts and blouses and in their hair and in Kampala. The Pope has this time the most distinguished in the past by other leading African world leaders, such as the Congo's first President, Mr. Lumumba, and the former President of France, Gen. de Gaulle.

The Papal coat of arms has also appeared on pens, medals, hats and little objects of both the Pope and Uganda's President Obote are on sale.

A Ugandan orchestra has also been formed to play the Pope's music with the world welcoming the Pope to Uganda.

Uganda's information and communications services are working as never before as more than 500 journalists have descended on the country. There are representatives of 18 radio and television networks, of 11 news agencies and more than 120 newspapers and other Press organs from 34 countries — A.P.P.

Zanzibar road group had eight months

Senior driver and his assistant, the latter being the driver of the motor vehicle, were stopped at the road block. The senior driver was carrying a large quantity of goods, including sugar, which he was taking to Dar es Salaam. The goods were being transported in a motor vehicle which was not fitted with the required safety equipment. The driver was fined for this offence. The goods were also impounded. The road block was set up to ensure that all vehicles carrying goods to Dar es Salaam are fitted with the required safety equipment. The road block was set up for eight months.

A policewoman's lot can be a happy one

When Gail Wilkinson won the Proud Command Qualifying Competition recently she was not only pleased with her success but relieved to find that she had got back into the swing of show-jumping.

For Gail, who used to have regular successes in show jumping in Kenya, had been away in Britain for over two years working as a policewoman, and in that time did not do any riding.

Gail had trained in secretarial work before she left Kenya, but had it in her mind to look for a more interesting and unusual career when she got to Britain.

She joined the police force and for the first three months as a policewoman she trained in law and police procedures. After this brief but comprehensive training Gail was then posted to Brighton, an area of London with a big West Indian population.

Her work as P.C. Wilkinson was concerned with welfare work among prisoners and delinquent children.

She enjoyed working with children, but soon found their account of themselves had to be taken with a pinch of salt. What amazed Gail was how they could stand through hater would not melt in their mouths while telling lies like old professionals.

"The more tragic they looked the less you could trust them," Gail observed.

Problem children did not always come from unhappy homes as most people seem to imagine. They were more often children who had got into bad company and been bad actors. Runaway children were almost everyday work for the police. "We had our regular children who kept running away from home every now and then".

Gail also had to do a lot of court work. This she enjoyed and though she always used to feel so sorry for the youngsters in the juvenile court, she liked to see things work out all right for them in the end.

About one week in every two months Gail would do night duty and this she also enjoyed for the sense of excitement and not knowing what might happen next.

Another side of her work that Gail particularly liked was when she was assigned to do police escort, accompanying prisoners from one place to another. This way she travelled around the country. Unfortunately policewomen were not required to go on horseback at all, so she got very out of practice with her favourite pastime. Her secretarial work, however, came in handy when she was required to make out

There are many policewomen in London now, Gail told me. Women were first admitted into the force because there was a need for them in dealing with women prisoners and children. Now they do almost the same work as male policemen can attain quite high ranks. At present the highest rank held by a woman is that of commander.

It was the exciting pace of a policewoman's life that first drew Gail into the force. "You just never know what you will be doing next". However, some of the cases that Gail was inevitably involved in were quite sordid. She recalls a case where a woman who was sent out on the streets by her husband to earn money got tired of the life and murdered her husband. Gail often had to take charge of murderers before they appeared in court.

Gail left the force after her second year to return to Nairobi and her parents who now live in Mombasa. She now sits quietly at her office desk absorbed in the comparatively routine work of a secretary. She has had her bit of adventure and does not think she will banker after it again for some time to come.

"But if I ever go back to Britain I think I will return to the life of a policewoman," she admitted.

Miss Gail Wilkinson, who recently gave up her career as a policewoman in Britain to come back to Kenya, with her horse Remembrance.

Now it is the 1922 look

Yes Saint-Laurent, one-time heir to Christian Dior, has adopted the anti-sexy look at the Paris Autumn and Winter Fashion Show by dropping the skirts to ankle-length if not further.

Saint-Laurent seems to have chosen his inspiration from costumes and coats dating from 1922 before he was born.

The hem of all his dresses, coats, skirts and suits either reach the anklebone or actually trail along the ground.

Some fashion observers, remembering the Dior New Look of 20 years ago, have baptised the 1969 Saint-Laurent style as the New Look, but there was little applause from the crowded audience — just polite tapping of the fingers together.

No woman's heart was in this incredible "Back-to-the-Twenties Look" — and pretty certainly also no man's heart either.

Oddly enough, for the first time Oscar, who has been working for the Swahili Service in London for the past two years, Mrs. Beautab agreed to make a practice jump from a tall tower used for training British parachutists.

Mrs. Beautab's reactions to the jump can be heard in the program and poster design. What did Sally think of the idea? It was the following day at 13:00 E.A.T.

Housewife makes parachute jump

Listeners to the B.B.C. Swahili Service on Saturday can hear just what it is like to make a parachute jump from a woman who recently made her first leap into space, a Kenya housewife and mother, Mrs. Eva Beautab of Nairobi.

Encouraged by her husband Oscar, who has been working for the Swahili Service in London for the past two years, Mrs. Beautab agreed to make a practice jump from a tall tower used for training British parachutists.

Mrs. Beautab's reactions to the jump can be heard in the program and poster design. What did Sally think of the idea? It was the following day at 13:00 E.A.T.

When your husband wants to give up his job

ONE husband in forty would give up his job for greener pastures — if he had the chance. But often that is not the best because he has to support. JUDITH REGAN examines the situation that arises when a husband and father to have a change of life.

If your husband came home this evening and told you that he wanted to throw up his arms, rather than work, you would probably be surprised. You would probably be surprised, would you not? You would probably be surprised, would you not? You would probably be surprised, would you not?

It could happen. A study commissioned by British insurance company recently revealed that one in every 40 husbands between 35 and 45 would voluntarily give up his job. On the other hand, the study revealed that one in every 100 husbands would give up his job if he had to support a family of four.

Very few of them (less than ten per cent) actually make the break, but the others talk long and earnestly about it — and it is mainly due to the importance their wives place on security that they usually give the idea up.

Wives, it seems, regard security more highly than almost anything else marriage can bring. Subconsciously, they like settled routine. They like to know where the money's coming from, when and how much.

Men on the other hand — at least according to the survey — are more likely to be adventurous. They are more likely to be adventurous. They are more likely to be adventurous. They are more likely to be adventurous.

During these restless years, a wife can play a large and vital part. Should she encourage him to do something new, or should she remind him of his responsibilities and tell him, in no uncertain manner to stay right where he is? It is a terrible dilemma, and one that I personally would not want to face. But this very problem which recently confronted Sally, a friend of mine. I must say I did not envy her.

Her husband John had spent five years at art school and had qualified as a teacher. When Sally first met him he was just starting his first teaching job. From the first, he told her that he hated teaching and that it was his ambition to live by painting, or by some other creative means.

One evening recently John came home to announce that he had decided to give up teaching and to try to make a living as a painter. He wanted him to participate in setting up a studio, specialising in graphic and poster design. What did Sally think of the idea? It hit Sally like a bombshell. Her

OILMEN BATTLE FOR REEF

By DON WHITTINGTON

The disaster off the Californian coast last January when offshore oil rigs blew out and polluted the entire coast around Santa Barbara is having repercussions in Australia.

The drilling companies are determined to keep the oil men out of the Barrier Reef, which is believed to be a logical place to find oil.

Conservationists along the Queensland coast and in other parts of Australia are equally determined to keep the oil men away from the Reef, which is one of Australia's great tourist attractions and prolific breeding and feeding ground for fish from all over the Pacific.

The controversy is reaching such proportions it could easily become a political issue in Queensland at the next Federal elections at the end of the year.

Oilmen say the Barrier Reef is rich in oil and limestone. But could be important to the economy of Queensland and of Australia as a whole.

Save the Barrier Reef supporters say the Barrier's tourist trade alone will be worth $1,000,000,000 a year by 1975. The fishing industry is already important and is expanding rapidly.

They say one oil drill disaster similar to Santa Barbara would not only destroy the entire Reef as a tourist attraction, but would kill the fish life there, along the coast, and throughout unspecified areas of the Pacific Ocean.

The movement has already had one victory. It succeeded in winning a ruling whereby a court that a section of the Reef fit within the national park system.

It could become a considerable political force.

Rumania hits Comecon's aims

By DON WHITTINGTON

"Comecon", the Soviet-dominated counterpart to the European Economic Community, stands for the Council of Mutual Economic Assistance.

Created in 1949 to facilitate economic exchange between and development of member countries, every member is equally represented on the council.

Comecon's aim is to co-ordinate development of individual economies and to rationalise production by means of specialisation. This has been partly frustrated by certain countries, particularly Rumania, which insists on higher industrial development than originally planned.

Comecon offers East European countries their only secure outlet but, at the same time, hampers their efforts to break into world markets.

Comecon has no internal barriers. Trade between the members is restricted by the absence of multi-lateral clearing arrangements. Most intra-Comecon trade is still based on yearly bilateral agreements.

A leading aim of all members which negates the Comecon concept is to come to terms with capitalist markets on price and quality. Countries complain about lack of complete sovereignty and bilateralism.

Rumania has resisted efforts to co-operate more closely with the other Comecon members. It maintains that the central direction by Comecon of the economy would be inefficient and uneconomic.

to fight election

to a General Election a new political party... death. The old Liberal Party just manages to discuss the aims and prospects for Mr. Donnelly's Democrats.

Mr. Donnelly... "It would cost for a family of four no more than a packet of 20 cigarettes a week."

Taxes are so high now, he claims, that the Government dictates how a great deal of one's income is spent. He wants to give people back the freedom to spend on what they choose, whether it is a new television set or better education for their children.

They should be allowed to take much more of what they earn, Mr. Donnelly believes, that the only way to snap Britain out of its "stag" decline is to give people the incentives to earn more and save more.

He makes a point of the fact that though he is a Socialist, he does not think "product" a term of abuse. He wants to educate Britain out of its Puritan disapproval of them.

His most drastic suggestion is a sweeping reform of the tax system. The aim of his party is to reduce Government spending so that the same tax could be cut to between 10 and 15 per cent in the first level 18.83.

He would introduce much more indirect taxation with an addition of value tax on all goods. He claims £200 million could be raised by cutting the welfare services to help only the needy and £1,000 million by slashing foreign aid which he tags as "noble but vainly patriotic".

He also suggests savings of £150 million by abolishing 150 civil service posts in the pre-1960 level, £350 million by slashing development grants to depressed areas which are not viable economically and £250 million by slashing foreign aid which he tags as "noble but vainly patriotic".

He finds Parliament at Westminster "antidivulgan". A total of 250 M.P.s should be enough to do all the work necessary (there are 630). More decisions, especially about housing and education, should be taken locally.

His battle cry is that the country should be freed from the patronage of Whitehall. His party, he says, is gathering support from all kinds of people and from all parts of the country though there are, as yet, no figures.

Mr. Donnelly knows it is difficult to found a new political party. The Liberals, with an established organisation, have made few inroads into either Tory or Labour votes through all Britain's recesses.

His platform could be ripped aside as a set of generalisations, some unachievable, some unwise, and some unwise, if not so, and promises. It is easy to dismiss the party when it is unlikely you will ever govern.

He is making the unimpaired industries may well lowering taxes really make people work harder better as he has suggested. Can Britain afford to cut its foreign aid?

At the same time, he does seem to have caught one of the moods of Britain. Many a pub conversation echoes his comment: "I see no benefit in choosing between two political parties whose only difference, on known form, is that one will ruin the great Britain more quickly than the other."

Many British people are fed up and suspicious of politicians. They often do feel alienated from decisions that will affect their lives. They grumble endlessly about taxes and the factless "they" of Whitehall.

It should make them vote for a new breed of man, up to now, they have not done so.

To change that, making a fourth party the effective third party in the country, will take all Mr. Donnelly's enthusiasm, experience and skill, not to mention a good deal of good luck.

Mr. Donnelly... the next General Election... the World War. Britain has been here a necessary democracy. Had politics seem lost.

Pass conference at which Donnelly launched his new movement with a speech on the new party. The first meeting was that with his first British rock and double bass band, an orchestra of about 200 members.

Mr. Donnelly... National Health Service, he said, was a mistake because it had disused people from their own homes to nurses at a distance from their friends and often at a cost rate. He said that the medical services were a waste of money, but those who were allowed to insure themselves.

lose finish looks when Ceylon goes to polls

Party: The S.L.F.P. is the major party in the Opposition "United Front" which includes the L.S.P., the C.P. (Marxist) and the Islamic Socialist Party.

For the coming elections they have decided to put forward a single list of candidates and use a common election symbol, the Hand of the S.L.F.P.

Then there are the communal parties led by the Prime Minister, Mr. R. G. Senanayake, and the Jathika Vimukthi Peramuna, which have their Tamil counterparts in the Ceylon Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam and the newly-formed Ceylon Tamil Freedom Party.

The Tamil Congress and the Federal Party must also be included in the same category.

As during past elections, communal issues - race, religion and language - are expected by observers to be major campaign themes. This is inevitable in a multi-racial and multi-religious country like Ceylon.

12,000,000 population, divided by race into Sinhalese (70 per cent), Tamils (21 per cent), Malays (1.5 per cent) and Burghers (1.5 per cent) and by religion into Buddhists (69 per cent), Hindus (18.4 per cent), Christians (8.3 per cent) and Muslims (6.9 per cent).

Already extremist politicians have begun to heat the communal drum and it will not be very long before the "national" parties join in. For the time being, communal interests has always been a sure way of capturing votes in a land where various opportunities continue to view one another with suspicion if not hostility.

The communal tensions and rivalry are reflections of economic pressure, particularly mass unemployment. Since it came to power in March, the Government has tried to come to grips with the economic situation, with a fair measure of success.

Ceylon is on the way to self-sufficiency in rice, the staple food, with output in 1968 rising by 17.2 per cent; industrial production also rose, by the same figure, 17.2 per cent. Taken together these contributed to an unprecedented 8.2 per cent increase in the gross national product. For the first time in many a decade there is now an air of prosperity in the country.

But, claim Opposition parties, this is only a brittle facade. Essential consumer goods are scarce and prices continue to be high. Unemployment has been topped, the 500,000 mark, the free health, education and public transport services are in a mess; and the housing problem is acute.

If the Opposition parties are returned to power, the Premier claims there would really be both economic and political bondage, instead of emancipation.

For the "United Front", led by Mrs. Bandaranaike, is committed to the establishment of a socialist society which, Mr. Senanayake points out, is normally a system

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT

Students can study in friendly countries only

Since a decision taken by the Government some time ago, Kenya students could now only go for studies to friendly countries overseas on scholarships channelled through the Government. This enabled the students to obtain employment in the country on their return, the National Assembly was told during Question Time.

An Assistant Minister for Education, Mr. G. Mbatia, said that scholarships can be withdrawn by the host Government if any student decided to change the course for which he was approved.

Mr. Mbatia was replying to a question by Mr. G. Mbatia (Kauu, Embu North), who wanted to know how many Kenyan students were studying in North Korea, Communist China, Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia. He further wanted to know who sent them there, who met their expenses and the subjects the majority of them were studying.

Mr. Mbatia said according to records of the Ministry of Education there were no Kenyan students in North Korea or the People's Republic of China. It had been some time since there had been some students in those two countries in the past but no records of them existed. There were 44 students in Russia, 69 in Czechoslovakia and 11 in Poland.

Some students went to the countries concerned privately while others were assisted by individual leaders in Kenya to go out just before independence. The bulk of the students were sent through scholarship programmes offered to Kenya by those countries. Their expenses were paid by the host countries.

Mr. Mbatia said most of the students were taking science courses such as engineering, medicine and agriculture.

As far as records showed, no student was ever sent to those countries to study military technology or elements of revolution, but it did not rule out the possibility of their actually having taken such courses.

The Government only knew about students who left the country through the proper channels and some may have taken foreign citizenship. The Government could not check on whether any of them studied subversion but he was not aware that some had formed governments in exile with the intention of coming to overthrow the Kenya Government.

He added that some who were sent overseas by political parties may not have taken courses useful to the country and may not have been able to obtain employment on their return.

When Mr. P. N. Munyira (Kauu, Kitui West) asked if the Minister was aware that people who roamed the country without employment could be a danger to the country, Mr. Mbatia did not reply.

Where other questions were raised on the Order Paper all of them were asked last week. The Member who had tabled the question was not present at all or there was no one to reply on behalf of the Government.

The Speaker, Mr. Rade, remarked that this was a record of courtesy to the House by the Ministers and Backbenchers.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services, Mr. Ngũgũ, later answered questions directed to other Ministers and questions tabled by Messrs. T. Mwarua, J. G. Komora and K. Muriy, all Kauu M.P.s, were put on their behalf by other Members.

Later when the business had moved to the National Assembly Remembrance Bill, Mr. Rade had another occasion to rebuke Members. There was so much talk between some Members that it was difficult even for them to follow the one who had the floor.

Mr. Rade said those who wanted precise discussion should have it outside the Chamber "so that we can hear those we want to."

The Assistant Minister for Economic Planning and Development, Mr. J. Kariuki, said in reply to a question tabled by Mr. Muriy (Kauu, Hamu) that whereas the Government did not prepare a master plan for each location in the country, it planned on national bases the development for each particular area. This was done with regard to the relative priorities, available resources and problems of all areas of the country.

Within the current development programme issued by the Government was to launch a special development programme which was aimed at producing leaders that would be helpful in formulating a comprehensive rural development programme for the whole country.

Mr. Muriy asked whether the Government was to implement development in Kavirato, Nihawa, Kiveri and Mavura locations of Embu. Mr. Kariuki said that these areas were covered by the development programme.

Furthermore, a Norwegian planning team had been posted to Embu to study the whole of the Eastern Province with a view to ultimately formulating a comprehensive development plan for the area. The location mentioned in the question was included in the survey.

Another question sought information on whether the Government was planning to start a pilot housing scheme in areas around Karumuri, Ithara and Kiria in Embu.

The Minister for Housing, Mr. Njoroge, said every effort was being made by his Ministry in collaboration with other Government departments including the office of the Provincial Commissioner, Eastern Province, in connection with the selection of a viable site for the development of the first rural housing pilot project in the Province.

As Members would appreciate, the number in each province over the next plan period would depend not only on the demand for housing in the rural areas but also on the amount of funds available for rural housing development.

The selection of each would depend on its merit and on the need to integrate rural housing pilot projects with other rural development projects.

Mr. Komora asked when the would be the Land and Settlement Bill applied for by the I.D.S.A. (Kenya) Ranching and Co-operative Society Ltd. in the Taita River District.

An Assistant Minister, Mr. T. Mwarua, said the Ministry would do so as soon as the society had supplied it with information the Government was asked for in November last year.

Mr. Mbatia asked for the Minister for Commerce and Industries, Mr. Kibaki, said at the present stage of the country's development it was not possible to do so as the country had only one pulp and paper factory at Nakuru. Mr. Kibaki said the factory to be built in Broderick Falls in the Western Province.

He was replying to Mr. W. R. Kamuniru (Kauu, Baringo East) who wanted to know whether the Government was doing anything to develop the area around Kapanga or Timbarua at either District Office.

Mr. Kibaki said the factory to be built in Broderick Falls would make use of wood from all parts of the country.

Mr. Mbatia asked if the Government would be prepared to grant a licence to Mr. R. N. Gikunju (Kauu, Kirinyaga, South) to lift the ban on Mwangi and Mau Mau Association which was proscribed a few months ago during an adjournment debate.

Regarding the appeal, he said Mwangi and Mau Mau Association were not a danger to the organisation was formed by a group of individuals who exploited the ignorance of some poor people.

Mr. Njoroge explained that every one who joined the Mau Mau Association was a danger to the country. Mr. Mbatia did not reply.

Where other questions were raised on the Order Paper all of them were asked last week. The Member who had tabled the question was not present at all or there was no one to reply on behalf of the Government.

The Speaker, Mr. Rade, remarked that this was a record of courtesy to the House by the Ministers and Backbenchers.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services, Mr. Ngũgũ, later answered questions directed to other Ministers and questions tabled by Messrs. T. Mwarua, J. G. Komora and K. Muriy, all Kauu M.P.s, were put on their behalf by other Members.

Later when the business had moved to the National Assembly Remembrance Bill, Mr. Rade had another occasion to rebuke Members. There was so much talk between some Members that it was difficult even for them to follow the one who had the floor.

Mr. Rade said those who wanted precise discussion should have it outside the Chamber "so that we can hear those we want to."

An Indian Cardinal, Cardinal Valerian Gracias (second from left), who is the Archbishop of Bombay, made an overnight stop in Nairobi yesterday when he arrived at Nairobi Airport on his way to Kampala for the Pope's visit. To meet him at the airport was India's High Commissioner in Kenya, Mr. Avtar Singh (left), Mrs. McKennie, wife of the Minister for Agriculture, and the Minister for Housing, Mr. Njoroge.

Politics an occupation of sacrifice, says Member and I can assure Members that I do not regard this as a sacrifice. It was not the intention of the Government to be wrenched to the shouts of approval of fellow Members.

Members of the public were intensely interested in the gratuities issue and those of us who go around are left in no doubt that their sympathy is not with the Ministers on this particular issue.

The Ministers were hoping for gratuities at the same time as they were being asked to withdraw the Government's economic measures. It was being said that there was no money to increase their salaries.

"I think the sensible thing to do with this Bill will be to withdraw and not to persist in pressing it," said Mr. Mbatia. He further applauded Members.

He warned M.P.s that it would be wrong for them to protest so strongly against the payment of gratuities only to relent and approve the Bill, for the public would then "decide that we are not serious about fighting."

Mr. Mbatia said he intended moving an amendment to the Bill during a Committee Stage and his purpose would be to bring Ministers' salaries in line with Members' and their social security scheme.

When the scheme had been discussed in the House, Ministers had refused to be part of it, even though they were eligible to join. They refused, said Mr. Mbatia, because they expected a different type of payment. They knew that by joining the Members' scheme they would not be eligible to receive any further payment.

Mr. Mbatia said that the Government was not against a trial period to look after the welfare of its members if should be purely social.

Moving the motion on adjournment, Mr. Gikunju said that the Government was not against a trial period to look after the welfare of its members if should be purely social.

Mr. Gikunju claimed that the reasons for banning the association were not sufficient, adding that its members had no criminal intentions and were loyal to the Government.

Seconding the motion, Mr. Henry Warilili (Kauu, South Tetu), who was a prominent member of the association, said that those who had played an important role during the struggle for independence had been excluded from the public and not for themselves. The whole policy of gratuities was in conflict with view that a politician's primary duty was to serve the people.

Mr. Warilili could not agree with an agreement put forward in defence of gratuities that Ministers needed this sum to set themselves up in business because they were not allowed to hold directorships or posts in which they would gain, while in office.

"If Ministers are not financially better off than we are all we have to do is look around," he said. "If you look to see what cars they drive, how they dress, where they live, how they eat... you see that they are not poor at all."

To say that a Minister was not involved in business was wrong, for it was a fact that many Ministers carried on businesses in their wives' names.

He could not accept the view that Ministers were worse off because they were not in business. Ministers' salaries were fixed at a high rate. "I am convinced that whoever fixed these salaries had in mind an element of gratuity."

Concluding, Mr. Warilili said it was quite clear that the whole country is against the principle of gratuities. Unless we totally ignore what the people who brought us here would like us to do, it would be a betrayal of our duties. What we must do is to give them what they want.

Mr. T. Omer (Kauu, Mombasa West) also opposed the granting of gratuities to Ministers. He said that Ministers' salaries were fixed at a high rate. "I am convinced that whoever fixed these salaries had in mind an element of gratuity."

...ad in sight to ...ly's Cabinet crisis

25-day-old Italian crisis appeared near a yesterday morning following the decision of the Democratic Party to support an all-Democratic Government. The support of all the beneficiaries of the Republicans and the Democrats to ask the outgoing Mr. Mariano Rumor, Democratic head of the Government, to form a new Cabinet was taken by the party leadership during the session following the election to form a new Cabinet. The resolution approved by party leaders. Mr. Rumor had to continue the policy of the previous Cabinet until the Government was later to include representatives of some of the other centre-left parties.

Members of both the Christian Democrats and the Orthodox Socialists, led by veteran party leader and former Foreign Minister, Mr. Pietro Nenni, who control 62 seats in Parliament, would vote against an all-Christian-Democratic Government.

It was the split in the Nenni Party over the question of relations with the Communist Party which precipitated the crisis and the breaking away from the party of the Socialist Democrats to such relations who set up their own "Socialist Unity Party" (S.U.P.). The splinter party controls 29 of the 91 seats secured by the Socialists in the last legislative elections before the split.

On Tuesday night party leaders issued a communiqué recognizing a lack of the necessary conditions for a new centre-left coalition. Mr. Rumor had been trying to form a new Cabinet since July 13 and the heated debate which pre-

PHOTOGRAPHIC VIEW OF MARS SEEN ON TV

The unmanned Mariner Six spacecraft on Tuesday night began sending back pictures of the planet Mars. Pictures and experiment by Mariner Six and its twin spacecraft Mariner Seven, following five days behind, are expected to show whether or not life is possible on the red planet, now 60,000,000 miles from Earth.

Mariner Six, transmitting views of an orange Mars with deep indentations — the most detailed picture ever taken — was zooming in yesterday to take "close-up" of the planet's surface.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, California, said: "We are now seeing Mars in more detail than man has ever seen it before."

The 850-pound windmill-shaped spacecraft will sweep across the marian surface for 25 minutes today when it closes in to make a photograph of the 2,000 miles above the red planet.

The pictures shown on East African television screens as a gradually swelling egg lying on its side with the North Pole to the left and the starry southern polar cap to the right.

The photograph clearly showed deep patches of cloud. A series of deep indentations in the south polar cap caused excited speculation.

The rim of the polar cap has always been shown as a straight line on telescopic photos, but the Mariner pictures showed it as a ragged edge with a deep indentation not unlike Earth's Antarctica.

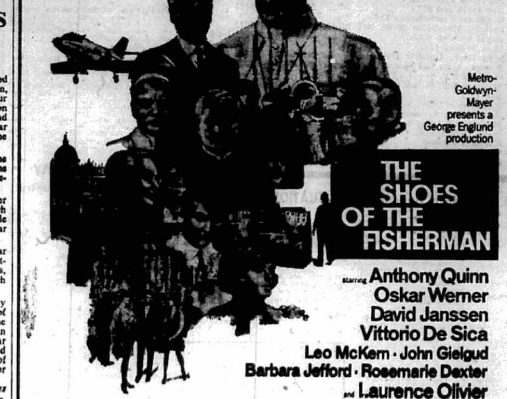

Both Mariner Six and Mariner Seven, baking in the marian summer, at first showed no signs of ice but the final picture transmitted on Tuesday night from 350,000 miles out showed white patches of ice in the north.

A second series of "long shots" of the planet will be transmitted

50 DROWNED IN INDIA

At least 50 people were feared drowned when a launch capsized in the swollen river Godavari near the southern town of Rajahmundry, the Press Trust of India reported in New Delhi yesterday.

The agency, quoting a report from Rajahmundry, said the launch was caught in a whirlpool and was sucked under.

Terms to end 'football war' agreed

The Foreign Ministers of the Organization of American States (O.A.S.) passed three resolutions Monday which would end the El Salvador and Honduras in the early hours of yesterday morning in Washington.

Both Honduras and El Salvador agreed to the resolutions. The first resolution called for the immediate withdrawal of Salvadoran troops from Honduran territory.

The second called on the two countries to pledge formally — under O.A.S. auspices — to guarantee the life and property of Salvadorans living in Honduras and vice versa. It also called that Honduran territory at the moment occupied by El Salvador would be handed back under O.A.S. supervision.

The third resolution stated that the O.A.S. would continue to sit in a provisional consultative capacity in Washington at ambassador level until the terms of the first two resolutions had been carried out.

Differences between the two countries came to a head when the teams met in a football match for the World Football Cup series in June and degenerated into fighting earlier this month.

The first signs of an approaching settlement came on Tuesday when El Salvador, until then Honduras, agreed to withdraw its troops from Honduras, but still being a date.

Honduras, which had shown a more flexible attitude, suddenly hardened its line and said there could be no settlement until all Salvadoran troops had been withdrawn.

The threat of the O.A.S. imposing economic sanctions on El Salvador has, for the moment, been headed off.

Informed sources said there were no immediate reports of Salvadoran troop movements from O.A.S. Military Observers in the two Central American countries.

El Salvador had previously demanded cash guarantees from the O.A.S. and Honduras for the safety of Salvadorans living in Honduras.

Diplomats said that the announcement was encouraging in that it did guarantee the withdrawal to the O.A.S. the Salvadoran Foreign Minister, Mr. Francisco Jose Guerrero, announced that the Foreign Ministers will now know how to find the formulas that will guarantee fully and effectively the lives, personal safety and the property of the Salvadoran population which have lived and are living in Honduras.
