As has become usual in Britain since the Labour Government returned to power last year with a majority the major task of the new Government is to re-organise the public services which were left in a chaotic state of operation...

It has been further suggested that the only way to re-organise the public services is to re-organise the public services in a way which will be in the best interests of the public...

It is this recent revival which may provide the key to the solution of the problem which has been the subject of the 1948 election...

As an example there have been indications from Ghana that the Government is not only aware of the situation but is also taking steps to deal with it...

It is not surprising that the Government is not only aware of the situation but is also taking steps to deal with it...

Planning Committee report on development IMPORTANCE OF WELFARE SERVICES AS TRIBAL SYSTEM DISINTEGRATES

Training in 'spirit of mutual help'

THE basic political attitude of Kenya will depend to a large extent on its ability to build up a satisfactory tribal system. The Planning Committee of the Development and Reconstruction Authority makes the assertion in a study on the main aspects of the development of tribal responsibility and the necessary administrative machinery.

The Committee's study is based on the fact that the tribal system is disintegrating and that the Government must take steps to meet the needs of the people. The Committee has found that the tribal system is disintegrating and that the Government must take steps to meet the needs of the people.

Community centres

During the past few years the Government has been busy with the development of community centres. The Committee has found that the tribal system is disintegrating and that the Government must take steps to meet the needs of the people.

High demands

The proposals for tribal development are high demands. The Committee has found that the tribal system is disintegrating and that the Government must take steps to meet the needs of the people.

Practical Training For Africans

Uganda, which seems during the past few months to be fastening the pace for industrial development East Africa, has announced a scheme of industrial apprenticeship which, if it is successful, may set a valuable precedent and impose its effects on the industrial states of East Africa.

The industrial training facilities are to be made available to Africans who wish to equip themselves with the necessary technical skills to enable them to operate the machinery and equipment of the modern factory. The scheme is to be financed by the Government and the industrial companies. It is to be a full-time course of three years' duration, during which the apprentice will receive both technical and general education. # PURPOSE OF BRITISH REARMAMENT

What is British rearmament? What is haggling to the purpose of rearmament? Britain's Minister of Defense, MR. EMANUEL SHINWELL, has set forth the why and wherefore of Britain's rearmament programme, which, he says, "we have entered upon with no light heart."

What is the purpose of our rearmament programme? It is not to be a mere reaction to the rearmament of other countries. It is to be a programme of rearmament which will enable us to meet the challenge of a world in which the balance of power is being re-established. It is to be a programme of rearmament which will enable us to meet the challenge of a world in which the balance of power is being re-established.

The purpose of our rearmament programme is to enable us to meet the challenge of a world in which the balance of power is being re-established. It is to be a programme of rearmament which will enable us to meet the challenge of a world in which the balance of power is being re-established.

British Infantry is faced with the tremendous task of training and retraining the vast numbers of men who are being called up to meet the task and of maintaining the high standard of efficiency which has made the British Army the most effective fighting force in the world.

Some figures of Russian strength
 We report that the Russian Army has increased its strength to 1,000,000 men. This is a significant increase from the 700,000 men reported in the last report. The increase is due to a combination of factors, including the mobilization of reserves and the recruitment of new recruits. The Russian Army is now considered to be one of the most powerful in the world.

Number and size of airfields increases
 The number and size of airfields in the United Kingdom has increased significantly in recent years. This is due to the expansion of the Royal Air Force and the need for more bases to accommodate the growing fleet of aircraft. The increase in the number and size of airfields is a reflection of the growing importance of air power in modern warfare.

Could be a black picture, but...
 The situation in the world is becoming increasingly uncertain. The rearmament of several major powers has led to a new arms race, which could have serious consequences for the future of the world. It is essential that we take steps to prevent a world war and to maintain peace and stability.

Pressure eased

Government to ease pressure on workers

THE Government has announced that it will ease the pressure on workers by reducing the number of hours they have to work.

The Government has announced that it will reduce the number of hours that workers have to work from 48 to 45 hours per week.

This move is expected to ease the pressure on workers and to improve their working conditions.

The Government has also announced that it will increase the minimum wage for workers.

The minimum wage will be increased from 10 shillings per week to 12 shillings per week.

This move is expected to improve the standard of living for workers and to reduce poverty.

HOW FINANCE HANDICAPS THE 'E. A. RAILWAYS'

In this article SIR REGINALD ROBINS, East African Commissioner for Transport, recalls the struggle—continuous ever since the war ended—to obtain both finance and materials with which to reequip and give additional rolling stock to the East African Railways and Harbours. He puts into perspective the charge that lack of finance is a major cause of today's difficulties.

It is generally held that since the present financial crisis began in 1947, the East African Railways and Harbours have been handicapped by a shortage of finance. There is a large measure of truth in this, but it is not the whole picture. The fact is that the railways have been handicapped by a shortage of materials as well as finance. The shortage of materials is the result of the war, and the shortage of finance is the result of the post-war financial crisis. The railways have been handicapped by a shortage of materials as well as finance. The shortage of materials is the result of the war, and the shortage of finance is the result of the post-war financial crisis.

CORRESPONDENCE

Standard of Living
The standard of living in the East African territories has been a subject of much discussion. It is generally held that the standard of living is low, and that this is due to a lack of finance and materials. However, it is not the whole picture. The fact is that the standard of living is low due to a lack of materials as well as finance. The shortage of materials is the result of the war, and the shortage of finance is the result of the post-war financial crisis.

MR. GAITSKELL 'HUNTS A BUTTERFLY IN THE MIDDLE OF A THUNDERSTORM'

THE announcement that the British Government proposes to introduce a three-year dividend freeze in the interim is quite the most peculiar economic measure that could have been devised at the present time, writes Richard Dawson, of the Economist.

It is important that it should be recognized as a policy of political, or at Mr. Gaitskell would prefer to call it, psychological pressure on the market.

The short-term economic advantage in reducing demand for shares is being recognized. This measure will reduce the price of shares and will reduce the amount of money that is available for investment in the stock market. It will also reduce the amount of money that is available for investment in the stock market.

Mr. Gaitskell's proposal is a political move. It is a move to reduce the price of shares and to reduce the amount of money that is available for investment in the stock market. It is a move to reduce the price of shares and to reduce the amount of money that is available for investment in the stock market.

Festival Year is reaching its peak

BRITAIN'S Festival Year has reached the "dead centre" of its career, and will return to its original—and best—of its life, the Christmas season, in the week ending the 26th of the month. The Festival Year is the period between the end of the year and the beginning of the Christmas season. It is a time when the nation is at its most festive and when the spirit of the season is at its height.

The Festival Year is a time when the nation is at its most festive and when the spirit of the season is at its height. It is a time when the nation is at its most festive and when the spirit of the season is at its height. It is a time when the nation is at its most festive and when the spirit of the season is at its height.
