PRESIDENT WELCOMES DELEGATES AT AIRPORT

Approximately 11 African States meeting in Nairobi yesterday reaffirmed support for the Organisation for African Unity and denounced "disturbing events" in Africa which they said had "undermined the structure and working of the O.A.U. and the very basis for African unity."

Opening the meeting, President Kenyatta, who was elected chairman, said recent events in Africa had tended to divide leaders by creating tension and suspicion.

In such a situation, he continued, it was only for our side forces to take advantage of "our isolation and secured understanding between the States."

A communique issued after the talks said: "The Heads of State and Government from Burundi, Congo Leopoldville, Ethiopia, Kenya, Malawi, Rwanda, Somalia, Sudan, Tanzania, Uganda and Zambia met at State House, Nairobi, and unanimously elected Mr. Kenyatta as chairman for the duration of the conference."

Unity underlined

"It was agreed that the nature and purpose of the conference should be made clear from the outset so as to avoid misunderstandings and any possible misinterpretation to which the conference must not be regarded as an attempt to avoid the leadership of the O.A.U. or an attempt to set up a regional organisation.

On the contrary, all the States present reaffirmed full loyalty and support for the Organisation for African Unity and the role it had played in the past and its continued role as the legal declaration of African unity."

CONVOYS KEEP FOOD MOVING...

Above: The long ding to Mombasa goes on, with lorry after lorry following each other to send from the Coast with essential. Below: Right: Workers eagerly unload dry milk at Kahawa depot, as it is kept for the post awaits loading for the return journey. Below: The wet road proved too much for this lorry and a tractor had to give a helping hand.

The plan to keep the traffic of goods at a standstill has, using the trucks, with the use of lorries, making the journey from the port and inland. The night, SATURDAY, AFTER made the journey to one of the lorries and took these pictures for the "Star African Standard". It was not long ago, but the additional work of making more than 100,000 and reflections are made clear - they are hard to see under normal conditions, but with the street and that make driving for private motorists very hazardous.

Above: A lorry takes a shakedown shift on the road. Below: A natural hazard temporarily halts the convoy. Many photographs were captured on the scene by the photographer.

... BY DAY ...

Left: Tired and hungry drivers take well-earned food at Mbari Andrei depot. Below: The long haul goes on into the night. Lorry crews rest in the glow of the headlights at Mbari, before continuing on their way to Mombasa or Nairobi.

THE ARTISTS IN EAST AFRICA

IT SEEMS more than once been said that East Africa is a painter's paradise. Just as Nigeria has produced a surprising quantity of good work in a very short time, so East Africa has given birth to a considerable number of painters. In this article, JOHN ROBERTS investigates the reasons behind this artistic flowering.

FOR African artists, if they are to include nobody of appreciable international status, a minimum of 15 years of residence in East Africa is still, like it or not (and whatever reason) very much a cultural backbone.

It is the case of the artists who are not the result of the efforts of the African art movement, the existence of which is a matter of controversy. In East Africa, the art scene has had a good start. It is a scene which is still in its infancy, but it is a scene which is growing rapidly. It is a scene which is still in its infancy, but it is a scene which is growing rapidly. It is a scene which is still in its infancy, but it is a scene which is growing rapidly.

• The sculptor, Rosemary Karaga, gets a freshly modified group (right) into her unpainted hills, in which all good artists would find a model part. In the midst of East Africa's apparent artistic boom, not everybody was off all the latest aids.

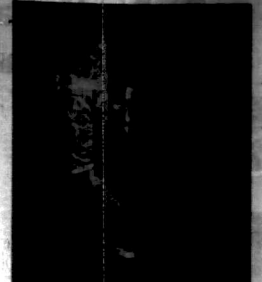

African painter's name may become known in the international collector's world very fast — and this is a world of west-of-epoch modernism. Another factor which helps a number of international artists to get their work into the hands of collectors in the city is the amount of returned and collecting people with a request for good pictures.

Not gloomy

In fact, the outlook is not gloomy. The Director of the Kenya National Gallery, Mrs. Prue Paterson, says that the art scene in Kenya is not gloomy. She says that the art scene in Kenya is not gloomy. She says that the art scene in Kenya is not gloomy.

As for the reasons for this, she says that the art scene in Kenya is not gloomy. She says that the art scene in Kenya is not gloomy. She says that the art scene in Kenya is not gloomy.

Of course, much of this art scene is still in its infancy, but it is a scene which is growing rapidly. It is a scene which is still in its infancy, but it is a scene which is growing rapidly.

• The sculptor, Rosemary Karaga, gets a freshly modified group (right) into her unpainted hills, in which all good artists would find a model part. In the midst of East Africa's apparent artistic boom, not everybody was off all the latest aids.

I don't suppose artists anywhere in the world have a better opportunity to sell paintings than here'

Total change

In total artists are on the whole fortunate in their position. In total artists are on the whole fortunate in their position. In total artists are on the whole fortunate in their position.

There are enough of them to be seen in Nairobi. There are enough of them to be seen in Nairobi. There are enough of them to be seen in Nairobi.

It must be added that this new position appears to have been won by the painters. It must be added that this new position appears to have been won by the painters.

More artists, then, are on the way. More artists, then, are on the way. More artists, then, are on the way.

While this may be thought of as a good thing, it is not necessarily so. While this may be thought of as a good thing, it is not necessarily so.

Making Maths Easy

THE spunk logo started it all. A side effect of this development from the history of mathematics was a critical look at school teaching programmes.

Speedy teaching methods that had undergone six months of research were found to be more effective in the hands of children who were more confident and more interested in their work. It was found that the more the children were allowed to work for themselves the more they learned.

It is the author's conviction that the ordinary mathematics curriculum was not doing justice to the child's ability to learn and to the teacher's ability to teach.

The main subject affected was mathematics and it was reviewed by mathematicians and teachers. They were trying to find out why the children were not doing so well in this subject in their first two years of schooling, and what could be done to help them.

The Maths plot on the left is doing her utmost and successfully enjoying herself. She is beautiful and she has a very special talent. Her name is Mrs. M. J. (Mrs. M. J. is a pseudonym).

New Mathematics, which had been developed by the late Sir Arthur Eddington, was a revolutionary step in the history of mathematics. It was a new way of looking at the world and a new way of teaching it.

By PERRY MOORE

One of the advantages of this method is that it allows the child to learn at his own pace. It is a new way of looking at the world and a new way of teaching it.

The new programme has been designed to meet the needs of the child and to provide a new way of looking at the world. It is a new way of looking at the world and a new way of teaching it.

Railway hotels to close

The East African Railway and Harbours Administration is waiting for Government approval to close the Railway Hotel at Hinga, and the Railway Hotel at Mitya.

The main reason which has led to the closure is that the hotels are being run at a loss, a railway spokesman said. The Hinga Hotel was built in 1951 and cost £2,500 in 1954 and £1,000 in 1955.

The Arusha/Dodoma Railway Hotel was also mentioned as being unprofitable. The spokesman said Arusha was not profitable because of the cost of the hotel.

The spokesman said Arusha was not profitable because of the cost of the hotel. He said the loss was caused because some hotels started earlier than the railway hotels and collected most of the passengers.

BALANCING THE BUDGET

MEASURES INCREASING TAXATION have been introduced in East Africa for the third successive year since the normal Budget. Report and comment on our country, territories and co-ventures 1,965-66 are to be raised for two purposes: first, to bring in more revenue and, second, to get rid of any pre-Budget speculation which leads to profits by traders at the expense of the Treasury.

Mr. M. Gichuru made his announcement for Kenya. It was stated that similar measures were being applied in Uganda and Tanzania, though with slight variations. It was an exciting sign of hard cooperation that agreement on principle has been reached between the three Governments. It is a rare feat in the current operational and ideological divisions on the common market, as is so desirable.

The increase of four cents a pound in the duty on sugar will not be noticed immediately on prices in the shops. Because dealers hold considerable supplies, price increases will not affect any retail increase until about a month's time.

Higher import duties on a range of textiles are expected to produce more in the way of revenue in full or will also, to a certain extent, help to protect local industries getting under way.

By increasing the excise duties on cars it is obviously to throw the heaviest extra burden on to the middle and on firms providing luxury cars for their senior people. Thus, there is no change on the 30 per cent duty on cars up to 1,000 c.c., duty goes up to 60 per cent; and cars over 2,000 c.c. are being taxed with 90 per cent, at which point anybody contemplating a rise in the future must pause to consider the factor of diminishing returns.

More increases expected

Altogether, the increases are estimated to yield £1,200,000 in a full year, and the extra income over the current financial year is calculated to be just sufficient to balance the Budget. The yield from Customs duties in the last Budget, so no additional printing was necessary to "crawl out of the red".

The new services crowding along to the Government's programme of reform and extension of welfare annually have to be paid for, probably casting an extra five to seven per cent on the £2,000,000 of recurrent revenue necessary to find at least a further £2,000,000.

Taking the "interim Budget" into account, a sum of £1,800,000 is left as a gap to be bridged between the revenues at current rates of taxation and the provision Mr. Gichuru will have to make in the Budget to be presented in early June. He and his colleagues, the Finance Ministers of Tanzania and Uganda, are confronted with the task of raising money to pay for the welfare services, rather than being able to dictate terms, holding the social service programmes down to the revenue yielded on current levels.

No alternative will remain, therefore, but to increase taxation in some form, and the extra income over and above both persons and on companies — and there seems no prospect of any remission of Graduated Personal Tax, through local authorities. The point has already been made about the danger of reaching such high tax levels as to create consumer resistance leading to diminishing returns for the Treasury, as happened, for instance, on whisky. The Finance Ministers will have to exercise some resource and ingenuity if they are to find ways and means of raising more revenue without seriously impairing trade, discouraging new industries and saving and so damaging the national economy.

In the long term, the only satisfactory solution lies in expanding the national economy so as to generate more money in circulation. Mr. Gichuru also said some contribution will have to be made, however, towards development expenditure. Most development projects are financed by the U.K. Government, but local co-operations often fail on Kenya. It must be hoped, however, that with taxation becoming so burdensome, more money would be available to fund development from taxation at least in the coming financial year.

IGNORANCE CAUSES CHILDREN'S DEATHS

WITH the co-operation of mothers, most deeply and habitually ignorant, a child can be prevented from suffering from disease, malnutrition, and other forms of ill health. It is the ignorance of parents, and not the lack of preventive campaigns the children die.

At birth, by way of the principle of hygiene, a child is born with a clean bill of health. It is the ignorance of parents that causes the child to die.

HOW THE LITTLE BLUE CAR CAME FIRST

By SUSAN CARROLL

"I hope I win," sighed the little blue car. "I must be really lucky to get an order. I have had to wait for it for so long. I must be really lucky to get it." The car looked at the number 33 on its front and smiled. "I hope I win," it said to itself. "I must be really lucky to get it."

And the driver, who was very kind, looked at the car and said, "I hope you will like it very much."

"How can I tell?" said the car. "I must be really lucky to get it."

This is dirty guitar week. John Roberts appears among the new releases with another five records. There is a tendency among some of Kenya's semi-skilled men to use very much the same tone and guitar patterns for all their releases, concentrating on the lyrics to a feature of all folk music.

I was delighted to see that a new album by Jack Jones has just been released, but from more deliberate hearing it, Jack Jones, a sufferer of the moment from the sort of plot which compares his music with Sinatra's, which is fortunate because he is a surprising singer. It was addressed to President Kenyatta asking him to appoint a Commission of Inquiry into the industry and left for Mr. Ngei to sign and deliver, but afterwards he learned that it had never been delivered. The letter was drafted with the concurrence of Mr. Ngei himself, Mr. Latta said.

Mr. Latta told the commission that during a conversation with Mr. Ngei he suggested that the accounts of the Kenya Marketing Board be checked by auditors, but that Mr. Ngei had not been willing to grant the general manager of the Board to do so.

Mr. Ngei was also asked the witness stand, the Minister for Education, Mr. Koinange, had given evidence in answer to the request of Mr. V. A. Shretta, representing Mr. Ngei.

'NOTHING TO HIDE'

Making the request, Mr. Shretta was understood to be asking Mr. Koinange to go to give evidence at a hearing on a personal meeting between Mr. Koinange and Mr. Ngei. He said evidence of the conflict between the two Ministers should be heard privately before being made public. He suggested that the two Ministers had discussed this matter under the commission's terms of reference.

Running a country is not a one-man affair - official reply

MR. ODINGA'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

S. Africa will not take Manuela's oil

Appeal for calm by ex-Vice-President

Manuela's oil

MR. ODINGA yesterday resigned his offices as Vice-President of Kenya and Minister without Portfolio, and left the Government. He officially announced later that President Kenyatta has accepted his resignation.

SOUTH Africa will not allow the Greek-owned tanker Manuela, which was diverted from Beira by a Royal Navy frigate, to discharge her 15,000 tons of oil at Durban, according to the pro-Government newspaper 'Die Volkskrant'. The paper quoted reliable sources in Pretoria for its information.

A Government statement last night rejected Mr. Odinga's criticisms and commented that "running a country is not a one-man affair" but "a teamwork". It denounced Mr. Odinga's reference to an "underground government" and "underground masters" as a direct attack on the authority of President Kenyatta. The statement emphasized the Government's determination to continue its programme for which it had the right mandate. (Text of statement in adjoining column.)

The Manuela arrived off Durban on Tuesday after having departed Beira on Monday night.

Mr. Odinga's resignation was announced last night by the Prime Minister, Mr. J. D. Kariuki. Most of the conference was taken up by his reading of a long statement which he said had taken him a considerable time to prepare and which he called "my stand on the current political situation in Kenya". Describing himself as an "underground person" by his colleagues, Mr. Odinga said he could no longer be a part of a Government "troubled by underground masters" and "foreign interests which he had chosen to ignore the voice of the people".

Mr. Odinga groups his remarks and leaves forward to emphasize a point during the Press conference of which he made his dramatic resignation announcement in Nairobi yesterday.

PERSONAL FEELINGS MUST BE SUBORDINATE TO GENERAL WELFARE SAYS GOVERNMENT

"HIS the Government or Mr. Odinga reached the point of no return... Pledge to fulfil mandate"

Running a country is not a one-man affair... The Government is only possible when people can see the need to restrain their own personal likes and dislikes so as to promote general welfare.

Eighteen foreigners held as hostages by Communist students were freed yesterday when Communist Army forces captured the town of Banda in the Northern Congo.

The British Government has announced that it will not allow the Greek-owned tanker Manuela to discharge her 15,000 tons of oil at Durban.

The weather

Point of no return... He claimed that considerable pressure had been brought to bear to remove him from office during the weekend. The source claimed that a number of other Ministers and Assistant Ministers were planning to leave Government, and that a "large number" of M.P.s and A.S. his Press the floor.

Mr. ODINGA SETS OUT 'MY STAND'

THE text of Mr. Odinga's statement - which he entitled "My stand on the current situation in Kenya" - is outlined below.

A low-level anti-Communist... I have resigned under the impression that I have been "trapped" to exit the country directed at the other.

POLLS PROMISED AS BUDDHISTS MARCH

THE streets of Bagan were yesterday crammed with more than 20,000 Buddhists demonstrating against the Government's proposed military junta - 'Diplo's' Govt.

At once, you're in a city which is all things to all people. Culture—variety will rejoice in 93 theatres, 57 art galleries, 2 opera houses, 31 museums. The latest Vauxhall is the 1200. It's the finest sports car for and 99 s/h.p. make it the most lively, too.

Convincing as it is, the 1200 offers the luxury 1200i room each-spash. Servicing costs up with the conventional Vauxhall (two independent suspension) in the same low 50's range.

The Vauxhall 1200i features a pleasure to be with. The independent suspension is the same as the 1200i.

If you need a Vauxhall 1200i, you will be thinking of having it in for a new line, replace yourself for the amount of time that it takes to work. On the other hand, you might want to try the 100,000 mile.

Super VC10

SPEED · SPACE · SPLENDOUR

Since a new and thrilling experience is in store for you when the Super VC10, the queen of the skies, joins EAA's fleet. Speed! Four Rolls-Royce Conway fan jets can provide a cruising speed of 600 miles-an-hour. Yet EAA's jet flies smooth as silk and quiet as a whisper. Space! You will marvel at the armchair-conduct of your seat and the freedom of unhampered freedom offered in the spacious cabin. Splendour! Yes. Here is the handsomest aircraft of our time. And these good looks are bred by good design: design from the inside to the out: design which concentrates on the wishes of you and the crew.

*Another EAA first! Africa-Europe; Africa-Asia. East Africa's National Airline, with an international reputation second to none, now to have the first Super VC 10's in African skies.

The race was a close one, with the two cars being neck and neck for much of the time. The driver of the leading Ford was, of course, Peter Higgins, but he was not alone in the lead. He had a close companion in the shape of the driver of the leading MG, who was also a very strong contender for the title.

VOICES IN THE WILDERNESS

LONG before the cars left the starting strip on Thursday evening, a host of dedicated people were making their own, less glamorous, tracks along the desert road.

They were the devoted mechanics, the enthusiastic drivers, the people who were planning to go to the desert, the people who were making their own tracks along the desert road.

JOHN ROBERTS
African releases

FOOD news for folk fans comes this time in the shape of an LP, the Mike Leadley Orchestra featuring all the folk hits of the past twelve months. For those who like to sing their own words, one knows a number this one is great. Because although it's 90 per cent instrumental, there's a quiet chorus for folk out the lyrics, here and there, which can be fairly familiar to you but you can't remember the words.

TOUGHER in towns seems to be becoming David (Robert's) John Roberts. After his recent tale of woe about Nairobi, he has come to write on something of the same line. Tamba, Mozambique. To judge from the lyrics, his tunes, he seems to be writing under the strain, however.

Spurred on by the amazing success of the Beatles, many groups are copying the same formula. And with the TV personality, you can make a name for yourself in the United States - whether they like it or not. They have just released "I'm a Little Bit of a Bird" by Mike Leadley. It's a very nice single and the lyrics are really quite good. It's a typical folk song.

Chrisi Ambrosini will welcome a lot of love, that is in a local sense - the British release of his new album. It's a very good album and a chance to see his talents. If there's anything to be said for it, it's that it's a very nice album.

More typical of the pop scene at the moment is the new single "I'm a Little Bit of a Bird" by Mike Leadley. It's a very nice single and the lyrics are really quite good. It's a typical folk song.

The 31 stn, Big Star, Inc., in a recent issue of the magazine, has given a special award to the group. It's a very nice award and a chance to see their talents. If there's anything to be said for it, it's that it's a very nice award.

Tonides the snake man's remembers a full life

By PETER HANES
A HUNTER'S STORY, by C. F. LINDNER
(W. H. Allen, 34/-)

THIS is the immensely readable autobiography of one of the more remarkable of African characters, Mr. Tonides, who for more than a score of years has been known to the world through his book, now first in English, in Southern Tanzania, where for centuries and now throughout the world.

Mr. Tonides was a hunter and a soldier, and he has already formed the subject of two books, his autobiography, "The Road to the Top of the World," which has long been a best-seller in England, and "The Road to the Top of the World" (which even at this remove I can only recall with horror) and "The Road to the Top of the World" (which even at this remove I can only recall with horror).

It would be a waste of time to say more than a word about the author. For most of his life he has been a hunter and a soldier, and he has already formed the subject of two books, his autobiography, "The Road to the Top of the World," which has long been a best-seller in England, and "The Road to the Top of the World" (which even at this remove I can only recall with horror).

BRIDGE
AN OLD-FASHIONED BASH
By K. BECHGAARD

SO much is written about scientifically bred Slams that one tends to lose sight of the fact that the game is still a game, and one of the most interesting and enjoyable of all. In this book, the author, K. Bechgaard, tells us about the game as it is played in the old-fashioned way, and about the people who play it.

North, vulnerable, opened One Heart and South, not vulnerable, decided to play the hand. The result was a draw. The author, K. Bechgaard, tells us about the game as it is played in the old-fashioned way, and about the people who play it.

History of
The history of the world is a long and interesting one. It is a story of the struggles of man against nature and against each other. It is a story of the triumphs of the human spirit and of the failures of human ambition.

Mr. Tonides looks referentially at a juvenile period when he first caught his first snake. He tells of his experiences with poisonous snakes and of the adventures he had in the jungle.

after the last day has disappeared from the calendar. It is a day that is never to be forgotten. It is a day that is never to be forgotten.
