KENYA AS MODEL FOR OTHER TERRITORIES

Mr. Creech Jones On Successful Experiments

(The Commonwealth) London, July 11. Commons after the debate on Colonial affairs in the House of Commons after the report of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Colonel Oliver Lyttelton, on the progress made so far in East Africa. He said that in Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda the economic argument for some form of cooperation was perhaps stronger than elsewhere in the world.

Particularly stated, East Africa had shown the advantages of developing its own resources. The Government had been very successful in its experiments in East Africa. The Secretary of State said that the progress made so far in East Africa was a model for other territories. He said that in Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda the economic argument for some form of cooperation was perhaps stronger than elsewhere in the world.

Security Council Is Tiring Of Russia's Use Of Veto

MILITANT MOVE BY AUSTRALIAN DELEGATE

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council today was expected to give its views on Mr. Bevin's plan for treating Russia as a single economic unit—the plan which Mr. Bevin handed to the other three ministers last night and which provides for equal distribution of German resources throughout the four zones. The measure in any form would be made available to meet the requirements of the other zones. The Allied Control Council in Berlin would make sure that the plan was carried out effectively.

The action of the British delegate, Mr. Bevin, was that the veto should be used to prevent the Security Council from taking any action on the plan. Mr. Bevin's move was seen as a militant move by the Australian delegate, Mr. Forster, who is expected to vote against the plan.

EAST AFRICAN UNION A 17-YEAR OLD PLAN FOR THE TERRITORIES

Back To Hilton-Young Proposals

By Major F. E. V. BUXTON

THE problem now before us is not one of the idealistic type, but one of the practical type. It is a question of how to proceed with the territories. The Hilton-Young proposals are a good starting point. We must consider the interests of the people of the territories and the interests of the East African Union as a whole. The proposals are based on a 17-year plan. This is a long period, but it is necessary to allow time for the territories to develop and for the Union to adjust to the new situation. We must also consider the economic and social conditions of the territories. The proposals are based on a realistic assessment of these conditions. We must ensure that the territories are able to support themselves and that they are able to contribute to the development of the Union. The Hilton-Young proposals are a good starting point, but we must also consider the interests of the people of the territories and the interests of the East African Union as a whole.

It is important that the 17-year plan be worked out for the territories. The interests of the people of the territories must be taken into account. The Hilton-Young proposals are a good starting point, but we must also consider the interests of the people of the territories and the interests of the East African Union as a whole. The proposals are based on a realistic assessment of these conditions. We must ensure that the territories are able to support themselves and that they are able to contribute to the development of the Union. The Hilton-Young proposals are a good starting point, but we must also consider the interests of the people of the territories and the interests of the East African Union as a whole.

Wine Growers Demanding Minimum Price For 6 Years

At the 17th year, the price of wine will be fixed at a minimum of 10/- per gallon. This is a significant increase from the current price of 8/- per gallon. The wine growers are demanding this minimum price to ensure that they are able to cover their costs and to make a profit. They are also demanding that the price be fixed for a period of six years. This is to ensure that the price remains stable and that the wine growers are able to plan their production accordingly. The government is considering these proposals and will be making a decision in the near future.

Aberdeen-Angus Cattle: A Famous Scottish Breed

by Alexander Keith

ABERDEEN-ANGUS cattle are famous all over the world for their breeding qualities. In this article, Alexander Keith, the Secretary of the Aberdeen-Angus Society, gives an account of the history of this Scottish breed, and of the many attributes which have made it so popular, not only in Britain but in the United States of America, the Argentine, and the British Dominions.

In 1763, when the Scotch cattle had never been so numerous as they are now, the Aberdeen-Angus breed was first recorded in the "Black Book" of Aberdeen. It is said that the first Aberdeen-Angus was a cow named "The Black and White," which was brought from the island of Mull, and was the ancestor of the breed. The Aberdeen-Angus breed is a mixture of the black and white cattle of the Highlands and the red cattle of the Lowlands. It is a hardy, active, and fertile breed, and is well adapted to the conditions of the Highlands.

The picture above shows Mr. Keith, who, after sixty years, was still in the best of health, and was the author of the "Black Book" of Aberdeen.

A LETTER FROM LONDON

SUMMER HAS A RELAPSE; U.S. LOAN; THE BREAD PROBLEM

London, July 25.—The summer of 1946 has not been a happy one for the British people. It has been a year of relapse, a year when the economic situation has worsened rather than improved. The U.S. loan, which was expected to bring about a recovery, has not lived up to its promise. The bread problem, which has been a constant worry, has become more acute. The people are still suffering from the effects of the war, and the government is struggling to find a way out of the crisis.

LUE HORIZONS...

by Elsa M. Sanders

morning was bright and sparkling, the clear blue of the sky floated across the wide expanse. In the dry air came the distant, sweeping distances, green down and up to peaks. Far away the Abimians towered, majestic and abiding in their purple distance.

It was a beautiful day, such as I had never seen in their limited time. The sun was shining brightly, and the air was clear and fresh. The mountains were in the distance, and the sky was a deep blue. The water was clear and blue, and the hills were green and white. The air was fresh and clean, and the sun was shining brightly. The mountains were in the distance, and the sky was a deep blue. The water was clear and blue, and the hills were green and white. The air was fresh and clean, and the sun was shining brightly.

★ HORIZONS ...

by Elsa M. Sanders

The morning was bright and sparkling the clear blue of the sky accentuated by the drift's white clouds like balls of wool floating across its wide expanse. In the dry air one could see numerous wisping dandelions, green downy and white, to where the Mau Mountains lay, formless as the banks of rain clouds. The high cone of Longmont cut sharply like a spear away the Abersores towered majestic and the reddening in their purple distance.

Just as the sun was about to set, the sky turned a deep, dark twilight; it was as if someone had the switch turned on in their limitless terrace. The stars were like diamonds in the sky, and the moon was like a great silver globe, shining brightly in the sky.

The moon was as a great silver globe, shining brightly in the sky. The stars were like diamonds in the sky, and the moon was like a great silver globe, shining brightly in the sky. The moon was as a great silver globe, shining brightly in the sky.

A very beautiful life sometime, I think. Who could ask for a better fate than to live in this land of spreading green distances and their horizon?

Conservation work results in better yields

Eighteen Instead of Eight Bags Per Acre

At the second quarterly Annual Report of the Soil Conservation Department it is recorded that yields in the various experimental plots were obtained last season at both the Agricultural Experiment Station, Kitale and at the Soil Conservation Experiment Station, Kericho. It was noted in both the reports that the soil conservation work done last year had produced an increase of 120 per cent in the yield of crops on the experimental plots. The report states that the yield of crops on the experimental plots was 18 bags per acre, as against 8 bags per acre in the adjacent plots which had not been treated with the conservation work.

The report also states that the soil conservation work had produced a marked increase in the yield of crops on the experimental plots, and that the yield of crops on the experimental plots was 18 bags per acre, as against 8 bags per acre in the adjacent plots which had not been treated with the conservation work.

ART IN AFRICA

KNOWING about the local carrio shops and looking at the work done by the native painters is an interesting pastime for those who are artistically inclined, or those who are simply interested in the life and development of a country.

Incidentally stimulating was an exhibition given by John Robinson at the British Legation in Nairobi, the artist's advance of the art of the people of the continent. They are more and more they have a different style of art, and they may say that the art of the continent is a classical style, and that the art of the continent is a classical style, and that the art of the continent is a classical style.

It is a pleasure to make acquaintance with the art of the continent, and to see the work of the native painters. It is a pleasure to make acquaintance with the art of the continent, and to see the work of the native painters.

Development Report £6,390,000 FOR THE LAND AND LIVESTOCK

Kenya's 10 Year Plan For Its Main Industry

THE total amount of £6,390,000 which the Kenya Development Commission recommends should be allocated to Agriculture and Veterinary Services for a 10-year programme of development is made up as follows: £2,000,000 for reconstituting native areas and resettlement of population; £1,800,000 for European settlement; £1,000,000 for Arab and Indian agriculture; and £1,590,000 for general development of agriculture, stock breeding and stock raising. In addition, £1,000,000 is allocated to the Kenya Veterinary Services for the purpose of improving the health of the stock in the country. The Kenya Development Commission also recommends that the Government should spend £1,000,000 on the Kenya Veterinary Services for the purpose of improving the health of the stock in the country.

A HALT CALLED IN TANGANYIKA

MUSHEBA, JULY 31, 1964

The Executive Council of the Tanganyika Legislative Council has today decided to suspend the Government's plan to introduce a bill to amend the Constitution to give Mr. Bwalya to carry out the duties of the President in the event of his death.

The bill, which would give Mr. Bwalya the right to carry out the duties of the President in the event of his death, was introduced by the Government on July 29. It was expected that the bill would be passed by the Council on August 1.

However, the bill was opposed by several members of the Council, who argued that it would give Mr. Bwalya too much power. They also argued that the bill would be unconstitutional.

The Council has now decided to suspend the bill until a later date. This decision was made by a majority of 12 to 10.

The suspension of the bill is a significant development in the history of the Tanganyikan Government. It shows that the Council is willing to stand up to the Government when it feels that a bill is not in the best interests of the country.

TRUSTEESHIP MOTION WITHDRAWN

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

Dr. M. J. C. Chagwa has today announced that he has withdrawn his motion for the establishment of a trust for the benefit of the people of Tanganyika.

The motion, which was introduced on July 29, proposed that the Government should set up a trust to manage the country's resources for the benefit of the people. It also proposed that the trust should be controlled by a committee of representatives of the people.

Dr. Chagwa has now announced that he has decided to withdraw the motion. He said that he had received a lot of criticism from members of the Council and the public. He also said that he had decided to focus on other issues.

The withdrawal of the motion is a significant development in the history of the Tanganyikan Government. It shows that Dr. Chagwa is willing to listen to criticism and to make changes when necessary.

RIOTING IN ASMARA

Following a demonstration in Asmara, the capital of the French Territory of New Guinea, the French Government has today announced that it has decided to withdraw its troops from the city.

The demonstration, which took place on July 29, was organized by the Asmara Front, a group of young people who are demanding independence for the territory. They were protesting against the French Government's decision to grant the territory to the United States.

The French Government has now announced that it has decided to withdraw its troops from Asmara. This decision was made in order to avoid further violence and to allow the people of the territory to decide their own future.

The withdrawal of the troops is a significant development in the history of the French Territory of New Guinea. It shows that the French Government is willing to listen to the demands of the people and to make changes when necessary.

A GOVERNMENT STATEMENT

The Minister of Education has today announced that the Government has decided to increase the number of secondary schools in the country.

The Minister said that the Government has decided to build 100 new secondary schools over the next five years. This decision was made in order to provide more opportunities for young people to receive a secondary education.

The Minister also announced that the Government has decided to increase the number of teachers in the secondary schools. This decision was made in order to ensure that there are enough teachers to teach the students.

The Minister said that these decisions are part of the Government's plan to improve the education system in the country. He said that the Government is committed to providing a good education for all young people.

Civilian Deserters During War

A study by the United Nations has today revealed that a large number of civilians deserted during the war in East Africa.

The study, which was conducted by the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, found that many civilians fled their homes during the war in order to escape violence and persecution.

The study also found that many of these civilians were treated poorly by the military forces. They were often forced to work in the fields and to provide food and shelter for the soldiers.

The United Nations has now called for an investigation into the treatment of these civilians. It has also called for the return of these civilians to their homes and for compensation for the losses they suffered.

Rapid De-icing Kilimanjaro

RESEARCHERS have today announced that they have found a way to rapidly de-ice the mountain Kilimanjaro.

The researchers, who are from the United States, have found that the mountain can be de-iced by using a special chemical. This chemical reacts with the ice and causes it to melt.

The researchers say that this method could be used to de-ice other mountains and to prevent avalanches. They also say that this method could be used to melt ice on roads and on airports.
