TAXATION

THE INCOME TAX ACT, 1946, has been amended to provide for the taxation of income from the sale of land. The amendments are designed to ensure that the full value of the land is taxed when it is sold. This is a change to the previous law, which allowed a discount to be given on the value of the land when it was sold.

The amendments are contained in the Finance Bill, which is currently being considered by the House of Commons. The amendments are expected to be passed in the near future. They will take effect from the beginning of the next financial year.

OFFICIALS BEAT SETTLERS

THE OFFICIALS of the Kenya Government have beaten the settlers in the race to settle in Kenya. The officials have secured a large number of plots in the highlands, while the settlers have only managed to secure a few. This is a significant setback for the settlers, who had hoped to settle in large numbers in the highlands.

The officials have been able to secure the plots because they have been able to pay for them more quickly than the settlers. The settlers have been unable to pay for their plots because they have been unable to raise the necessary funds. This has led to a large number of plots being abandoned, and has caused a great deal of disappointment among the settlers.

Revenue Surplus For 1946 May Exceed The Half-Million Mark

THE REVENUE SURPLUS for the year 1946 may exceed the half-million mark. This is a significant achievement for the Kenya Government, as it shows that the country is making progress towards financial independence. The surplus is the result of a number of factors, including an increase in tax revenue and a decrease in government expenditure.

The Government has been able to achieve this surplus because it has been able to raise its revenue more effectively than in previous years. It has also been able to reduce its expenditure by cutting back on certain services. This has allowed it to accumulate a surplus of funds, which can be used for a variety of purposes, including the development of the country.
