PROPERTY SECURITY, HEAVY ARMED

Canada may be tested on immigration

BRITAIN'S Prime Minister, Mr. Macmillan, and President Kennedy reached a 'very high level of agreement' on the problems facing them at their talks in Washington, they announced yesterday.

They said they recognised that the core of Western security against armed aggression was the North Atlantic Alliance and they had considered measures it might be advisable to take together with our allies, to ensure the cohesion and adaptability of the Atlantic community.

Mr. Macmillan left for Canada and will put the Dominion to a severe test, it is expected, he proposes a big increase in West Indian immigration there to relieve the strain on Britain.

In a joint statement on their four-day talks, "as partners in the North Atlantic Alliance," President Kennedy continued that they recognised as well as they met the problems facing them would be solved by "mutual cooperation."

Mr. Macmillan said that he was satisfied with the personal and official talks, and that the two leaders had agreed on a number of points of common interest.

Hard work, but Tottenham's win gives them six-point lead

SIX points ahead with four matches to play. That was the happy position the English Football League Division I leaders, Tottenham Hotspur, were in on Saturday after scoring a 3-0 away win over Birmingham City. Micky Sparrow's double in League and Cup double, last achieved by Aston Villa in 1957, are almost certain of the Sheffield Club's continued run in League games without defeat as 1-0 at home against Cup finalists Leicester City. Tottenham swept to a 3-0 lead in 33 minutes against Birmingham, substitutes in their last ten home games, but

This Worthington Type compressor has given dependable service for many years in an automotive plant.

CENTRALIZED COMPRESSORS can cut air power costs

One of the first problems faced when building a plant is whether the compressors should be installed in one main room or whether each compressor should be placed near the point of ultimate use.

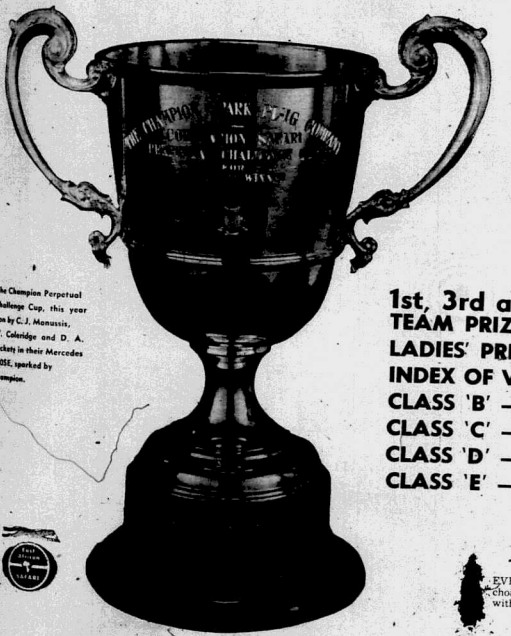

Many plants are finding that "centralized compressors" are the best solution to the problem. Here are some of the reasons why:

- 1) A minimum number of operators is required. One well trained operator can run several centrally located compressors.
- 2) Savings on installed accessories are possible. One large after-cooler and receiver can often serve two or more compressors.
- 3) A minimum number of service lines such as water, electricity and air is required, reducing initial investment.
- 4) Installation costs for foundations can be reduced by tying the foundations together into a common mat. This usually results in a more stable foundation.

There are additional advantages in using "centralized" air compressors which a Worthington expert will be glad to discuss if you are planning or modifying a compressor installation.

For further information on compressors and a copy of Worthington's "Power Planning Guide", which includes nine ideas for more efficient power use, write to Worthington Corporation, Dept. 105-115, Harrison, New Jersey, U.S.A.

Kenya beats Tanganyika 11-0 at Arusha

DISAPPOINTING RUGBY 'INTERNATIONAL', Kericho lose both games of rugby tour

Match marred by missed chances

KENYA beat Tanganyika at Arusha on Saturday by one goal and one penalty and victory (11 points) to all in their annual rugby tour. The game was a little disappointing from Kenya's point of view as they missed a large share of the ball but were unable to finish many good movements.

Kenya were introduced to the president of the Rugby World Union of East Africa, Mr. Campbell, by the Provincial Commission. The Kenyan players looked off but Kenya proved hard to beat, the Provincial Commission and Young, after a swift passing move to the wings, just missed scoring after five minutes.

In the tenth minute, however, Kenya were three points up through a penalty scored by Barrow. This was followed by an opportunity try initiated by Barrow and Gurnell-Ross on the run of a forward rush, the centre, Young, picking up to score. Young converted to make a lead of six with 14 minutes.

CAPTAIN UNSUCCESSFUL

The remainder of the half was rather scrappy and Tanganyika missed three kickable penalties, the first taken by Rowland, followed by two unsuccessful attempts from the captain, Perera.

The second half saw the Tanganyika forwards reverting to "scrappy" endeavour which allowed Kenya to continue to the opposition three. This proved to be the end of the game, but to be sure, Kenya were not out of the woods.

About 15 minutes of the second half Kenya were in a bind and Barrow touched the ball to the wings, but Kenya were unable to finish many good movements which were spoiled by heavy rain.

MILLIONS LOPPED OFF S.A. GOLD SHARE VALUES

Stand orders spark off City selling rush

MILLIONS of pounds were lopped off the values of South African gold shares on the London Stock Exchange yesterday. The reflected heavy sell orders in South Africa.

Selling in Johannesburg, however, continued to be a demoralising effort. By mid-day, prices were markedly down fairly generally as opposed to the other sections which were almost invariably higher.

Being opened on a small scale and the London market for stocks being very limited in size, a heavy sell order sent off a sharp decline in the value of the shares.

Buyers prefer hand-picked cotton

East African and other hand-picked cotton has a distinct advantage over that harvested elsewhere, says the chairman of the Empire Cotton Growing Corporation, Manchester. He told the annual meeting in London that hand-picked cotton could command a premium over comparable American grades which had been harvested mechanically.

This was because mechanical harvesting involved a deterioration in the quality of the cotton, in the quality of the cotton, in the quality of the cotton, in the quality of the cotton.

It lowered the grades and some ginners therefore used drying and cleaning processes to raise the grade.

The lower produced cotton which, while good in appearance, might be poor in character.

IN DEFENCE OF THE KENYA REGT.

THE following is a copy of a letter I have addressed to the Editor of The Guardian...

Government does not wish to alter the African content of the Kenya Regiment...

Letters to the Editor

contempt which it so rightly deserves...

The Regiment has no right to shame. It does not ask for the present but, on the other hand, I am sure that it would appreciate an apology through only for the benefit of our country...

The Safari

NOW that the Safari is over, much has been learnt by the manufacturers, organisers and drivers alike...

However, there are a few points which the Safari can make more interesting to the smaller cars should be given more time to complete the course than the bigger and more powerful ones...

Co-operation

I HAD every intention to go to the Safari, but I was unable to do so because of a family matter...

Perhaps the next step forward would be to leave Uganda on our own. John Mwangi said that the Government is not moving them, it is terrible to see a group of 200 men at night with their rifles in their hands...

Congratulations to all the finishers of the 1967 Safari for having completed what is regarded as the world's longest motor race.

RESOLVING THE DEADLOCK

THE unresolving deadlock exists in Kenya and it is generally, in a deadlock which everybody concerned would like to see resolved, most of all the African leaders.

There is an immense field of land in this country, a country of such potentialities, which has not been brought into productive use. The enormous quantities of land have been set aside for public ownership, but the land remains unproductive. The land remains unproductive because of the unproductive management of the land. The land remains unproductive because of the unproductive management of the land. The land remains unproductive because of the unproductive management of the land.

Guarantee from a national conference

Over all this rising controversy loomed the shadow of a physical conflict which these two countries were kept in readiness to meet. It was this spectre, it was this spectre which gave rise to the fear of a general strike. It was this spectre which gave rise to the fear of a general strike. It was this spectre which gave rise to the fear of a general strike.

There are some who believe that the solution lies in a national conference. There are some who believe that the solution lies in a national conference. There are some who believe that the solution lies in a national conference. There are some who believe that the solution lies in a national conference.

The British Government would like to see the national conference proceed. The British Government would like to see the national conference proceed. The British Government would like to see the national conference proceed. The British Government would like to see the national conference proceed.

Council puts its schemes for

RE.A.A.A. FORMS MISUSED BY

to develop women COLONY'S UNCERTAIN STATE

ONE OF THE REASONS TO AVOID DUTY

INFLUENCE BY the uncertain political and economic state of the country. Nairobi Urban Council yesterday decided to defer two development projects it had planned.

The two proposed African Welfare Centres at Karen, which has been under discussion for a number of years.

The council's chairman, Mr. W. J. Deane, said that, subject to the negotiation of the necessary land, the scheme could be covered by a grant from the African Trust Fund. The remaining £2,500 would have to be found from other sources and Mr. Deane said he understood it could be recovered over a 20-year period.

TO FIND FROM RATES
The estimated annual outgoings would be £200 less than the £250 for 1956, leaving a profit of £50. Mr. J. L. Rubin pointed out that if the council would have to find £200 for one scheme alone out of its total rate revenue of £3,000. "On that basis," he said, "the council would have to find £200 more."

The ratayers would be subsidising a service for themselves. "We are always told in the country these days that paternalism is the worst enemy of the poor."

Questions about social centres in other parts of Kenya. The Officer in Charge of Nairobi Council, Mr. J. Deane, said that the council was not in a position to take on any more projects.

"There is considerable doubt as to whether the council is in a position to take on any more projects," he said. "At the moment the council is in a position to take on one project, but it is not clear whether it is in a position to take on more than one project."

Not out of rates
Mr. E. Crookson said: "With the council's rate revenue of £3,000, I do not think we can afford to take on any more projects. We are already in a position to take on one project, but it is not clear whether it is in a position to take on more than one project."

Five deny shooting at watchman
After hearing two shots fired by one of three men who were in a car outside a shop at Kamukama, a police sergeant, who was in charge of a police ambush near the scene, said that he was not in a position to identify any of the men.

The three men were seen to be running away from the scene, but the police sergeant said that he was not in a position to identify any of them.

REASON FOR SOME OWNERS TO AVOID DUTY

KENYA people here used RE.A.A.A. foreign leaving documents in order to take to Kenya permanently before the expiry of their duty-free licence. It is the duty on goods of a higher duty, the secretary-general, Mr. J. N. M. M., said.

There was no possibility to trace the people concerned but it would be possible to obtain reimbursement but legal action had been necessary in some cases. It is known, however, it would be possible to trace the persons for whom the licence had been issued, he said.

Interest in junior championships delights officials

SCHEME TO ENCOURAGE YOUNG SWIMMERS

More competitions and expert coaching envisaged

KENYA'S young swimmers of the future are now on the path which may one day lead to an Olympic Golden medal. Encouraged by the success of last week-end's first junior championships, the Amateur Swimming Association is planning a long-term policy aimed at nurturing young talent and shaping it along the right lines.

As the first step in their plan, association officials are conducting a series of swimming tournaments to find out what the standards are like with them. Starting on today they are practically finished with the Kenya A.S.A. wants to know what the standards are like with them. ### More interest

Mr Jones considers the Kenyan swimming system antiquated and out of date. He wants more competitions, more expert coaching and more interest in the sports.

KENNETH MEADOWS reports from Maralal

JOMO KENYATTA, the restricted African leader, yesterday proposed a round-table conference to end the political deadlock in Kenya. This conference should formulate another constitution to replace the Lancaster House model which, he claimed, was outdated.

The recent conference in Tanganyika, attended by the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Macleod, had gone "straight to the point" and "done a very good job". Something like that in Kenya, Kenyatta said, was overdue. In Kenya the trouble had been the struggle between the Government and the settlers.

Kenyatta, who was speaking to Pressmen at Maralal, said he could give no assurance about land titles at this stage. It would be a free Government which would give that protection. When it was pointed out that the white respect, leases and landownings granted by the present Government there, Kenyatta said a free Government not parties.

Not citizens' spokesman

He did not want to commit Kumu and Kadu to a similar guarantee as had been given in Tanganyika, and he said he was here and I cannot be their spokesman.

Mr. Odinga (Member for Central Nyanza) had been misquoted when he was reported to have said that he (Kenyatta) was the leader of Mau Mau and that Mau Mau was a "divine struggle". Kenyatta had denied the denunciation of Mau Mau Kenyatta replied: "I would say: 'Yes'.

"He suggested the Governor, Sir Patrick Renison, should make arrangements to visit and find out what Kenyatta's attitude was whether he (Kenyatta) was a danger. He had never made arrangements to visit him. How much more can he do?"

Before he answered questions, Kenyatta made a short statement in which he referred to his "post-war years" and his "post-war years". He said he was a "post-war years" and his "post-war years".

"Will you buy some carrots?" she asked her mother.

"Why," said her mother, "a few carrots may do our peas we always have."

"I don't know," said the girl, "I like them."

However, a woman does not have to be light-footed to be energetic in the different prices of vegetables over the country.

WEEK-END STANDARD KENYA TUSKER 'FARI' SCHEME GIVES NEW LIFE TO HUNTERS

BECAUSE they happen to be the largest animals in the world, African elephants have suffered without discrimination. In East Africa the cull of elephants has been especially great and a few years ago Kenya elephants were being shot because of the rising demand for ivory.

National Parks and the Royal National Parks stamped down on the slaughter of ivory and meat. Hunters of the Wangaluu tribe were left without their traditional way of life. Now, in the eastern part of the Tsavo Park, a game management scheme is proving success. The tribe's standard of living is rising. The story of the game farming scheme is told here by ALASTAIR MATTHEW.

Now, in the eastern part of the Tsavo Park, a game management scheme is proving success. The tribe's standard of living is rising. hundred of money could be obtained from the sale of trophies, meat and skins, then a scheme to "farm" wild life would certainly prove far more profitable and economical than the old, wasteful poaching methods, and at the same time preserve the animal.

SKILLED TRICKERS
In the past, hunters used to be known as "tricksters" because of their cunning ways. They were skilled at tracking and in the use of bows and poisoned arrows. A few years ago, the Kenya Government's anti-poaching drive resulted in almost every single able-bodied Wangaluu being in prison in one way or another.

These people are among the finest hunters in all Africa, skilled at tracking and in the use of bows and poisoned arrows. A few years ago, the Kenya Government's anti-poaching drive resulted in almost every single able-bodied Wangaluu being in prison in one way or another.

male being in prison in one way or another. For the killing of elephants and the sale of ivory has been their traditional means of livelihood.

Instead of living a life constantly "on the run" from the authorities for poaching and obtaining only a few pounds from middle-men or dealers who sell their ivory at five or ten times the amount in Mombasa, the Wangaluu now have a regular income and are no longer seen as outcasts and thieves by the whites.

Fishing vital to world

The Fisheries Director of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, Dr. D. S. Finlay, reports here on developments in fishing by Africa and Asia.

FROM new harbours in Ghana to an ambitious Hongkong plan to modernize the Chinese junk, the fisheries industry in the Afro-Asian region has made striking progress in the last several years. The director of the Fisheries Commission, Dr. D. S. Finlay, reports to F.A.O. headquarters in Rome after a two-month tour of Africa and Asia where he reviewed progress made by the fishing industry since his last tour in 1962.

"In general, all the countries in Asia and Africa are thinking of modernizing their fishing industries but 'better' said Dr. Finlay. "Central is moving into the industrial category of course and good enthusiastic people, supported by their industries, are in charge of the fisheries work."

FOR IMMIGRANTS
Fish, an excellent source of animal protein, is now of the greatest interest in Afro-Asian regions, where it has been estimated that as a lot of inhabitants have a meagre intake of animal protein than that available in Europe during the Second World War. Fishery development in Ghana is being particularly active in the making salted fish and seaweed which, while salted fish is worth $1 for one in making fish-bone meal, the scheme on an average an elephant carter yields between £110 and £700.

THE CONTRAST
The contrast with the £11 of £28 which is the value of fish in the market is shown from the sale of ivory on the "black" market.

The ever-growing fish is that the volume is not as great as given time and further income is being produced in "catchment" which would not only be a major but would contribute towards preserving Kenya's fisheries and would help to raise the standard of living of the people. The scheme is still backwaters Wangaluu. It is in fact, the Government is preparing to migrate fishing boats to the coast of Kenya and in the Government's programme to migrate fishing boats to the coast of Kenya and in the Government's programme to migrate fishing boats to the coast of Kenya.

their, now-fanged weapons when confronted by a charging bull elephant. Mr. Parker, the man who worked out the details of the scheme, is now in charge of the fish work, while the administrative work is in the hands of a Royal National Parks officer in the King's African Rifles.

In the area covered by the scheme, together with the Tsavo Park which covers an area equivalent to as far as the elephant population is concerned, it is estimated that there are 2,000 and 3,000 elephants are robbing in search of water and food.

On the basis of experience gained elsewhere and in special relation to the African elephant it is estimated that per cent of the elephant population can be controlled without threatening the herd as a whole.

STRICT LIMITS
The Galata scheme, therefore, has a target of 100 elephants per year with of course strict limits on the kinds of elephants which can be shot. The maturing bull tucker is a creature in its own right and its population will develop to correspond, while on the other hand, young calves or cows in calf are set severely aside. But no such considerations ever limited the actions of the poachers, hence in the Galata scheme it is due to the careful selection that the poachers bring on the Galata scheme is the same as a steady income is being derived from the trophies obtained. ## Medical industries make great strides in ensuring health

GOODWILL MESSAGE

GREAT strides in maintaining the health of Australians and people in medical supplies industry.

The manufacture of drugs in Australia is expanding as the demand for specific items reaches economic proportions. The industry today comprises about 150 manufacturing firms and the Commonwealth Government's Serum Laboratories.

Most of the firms have sprung up in the industrially South Australia, the Commonwealth Serum Laboratories are in Melbourne, the capital of Victoria, and production for both human and veterinary use.

Manufacturers of penicillin—the drug developed by Howard Florey—was first started in the laboratories in 1943 in connection with that of one private manufacturing company in a suburb to meet the nation's needs.

Because the pharmaceutical industry in Australia is now a year ahead of most other countries in the world, it is able to supply a wide range of goods including drugs and medical instruments, special hospital facilities and a great variety of appliances and equipment.

Manufacture of hospital care begins in Australia with the supply of raw materials from foreign countries. The firm, which is engaged in developing new medical products, also Australia made. We will continue our progress for further international.

Pharmaceutical research and products testing in Australia is conducted in modern, well-equipped laboratories such as this.

One of Australia's principal centres of medical training, treatment and research, the Royal Melbourne Hospital, in its laboratory (top) tests new drugs.

Designs for all climates

A LEADING Australian firm of architects specialises in hospital design in all sections. Works undertaken for the firm include the design of Australia's "great hospitals"—the Royal Melbourne, Queen Victoria, Edgemoor and St. Vincent's Hospitals in Melbourne, the Royal Prince Alfred in Sydney and several others in New South Wales. The firm's architects have also made plans for a new hospital in London, and in 1950, the Minister of Development in that country announced that the firm had been selected to build three hospitals in New Zealand and South Africa, and had been consulted on the design of a new hospital in the United States.

FIRST TIME

This was the first time an Australian firm of architects had been commissioned to work outside the British Commonwealth, although this firm had previously undertaken work in New Zealand and South Africa, and had been consulted on the design of a new hospital in the United States.

INTERNATIONAL REPUTATION FOR MORE THAN 50 YEARS

More than 50 organisations in Australia are officially recognised by the Australian Government as medical research institutions. The standard of work being done at these research centres with the highest in the world and many of the industrial investigators enjoy international reputations.

Among these centres is the Institute of Medical Research at North Shore Hospital, Sydney, and the Walter and Eliza Hall Institute at the Royal Melbourne Hospital in Victoria (in charge of immunology).

FEVER STUDY

Under the direction of Sir Percival Waterhouse, Robert Waterhouse and Eliza Hall Institute at the Royal Melbourne Hospital in Victoria (in charge of immunology) the laboratories also have been engaged in a study of the fever which is caused by the malarial parasite, and the production of a new form of malaria in man.

IN DIAGNOSIS

The laboratories also have been engaged in a study of the fever which is caused by the malarial parasite, and the production of a new form of malaria in man.

The Commonwealth Serum Laboratories products are available throughout Australia and a number of specialised products are exported.

AUTOMATIC MACHINE WHICH MAKES CAPSULES BY THE MILLION

An automatic machine which can turn out millions of capsules for medical and industrial uses has made it possible for an Australian company to increase its exports. This article describes the machine and its development.

A NEW TYPE automatic encapsulating machine recently installed for a major pharmaceutical firm has made Australia self-sufficient in the field of pharmaceutical packaging.

Apart from the United States, only two other countries outside Australia have this highly specialised equipment—Japan and West Germany but new equipment has revolutionised the output and versatility of encapsulating in Australia. It is capable of turning out millions of precisely determined gelatin capsules for medicinal, pharmaceutical, cosmetic and industrial use.

It is possible for the plant to produce capsules not much larger than the size of a grain of sand, containing a measured dose equal in volume to medications of larger size, or capsules larger than a golf ball.

The new machine was purchased by the population of the lower vitamin mineral capsules which are coming into general use throughout the world as a means of drawing use of essential vitamins.

In the cosmetic and industrial fields the machine is making capsules containing perfume, essence, deodorant, aerogel, vitamins and food supplements.

It is capable of turning out capsules for gelatin capsules or capsules of any hard other material, for starting dose capsules, capsules containing repellent, nail polish remover, capsules containing disinfectant and mosquito repellent, nail polish remover.

The new machine has made it possible for the pharmaceutical and cosmetic industry to produce capsules in a wide range of sizes and shapes.

DREADED DISEASE VIRTUALLY BEATEN BY IMMUNISATION

POLYOMELITIS, the dread disease which has plagued mankind for centuries, has virtually disappeared from Australia. No longer does the disease, whose known history goes back to about 1200 B.C., kill thousands of children.

Almost 100 per cent of immunisation of school children has been achieved. Ten thousand of adults, too, have been vaccinated against the disease.

Research work on poliomyelitis has, however, continued on two fronts. There is epidemic research with thorough investigation of reported cases.

There is also considerable laboratory testing being done principally by the Commonwealth Serum Laboratories at Melbourne.

THE SECRET

In 1937 as the epidemic was intensifying the incidence had dropped to one with 53 deaths. Today the disease has almost vanished.

Mass immunisation of school children and adult workers has been the key to success.

During co-ordination period, tens of millions of children, school teachers, occupational therapists and social workers were trained to face the task of immunisation.

The other game Australia played was the production of a vaccine wrapped in the State of Victoria.

Of the many other drugs and pharmaceutical preparations now in demand throughout Africa, the following are some of the most popular:

AMPOULED INJECTIONS BOOM

THE expansion of public health services in Asian and African countries has brought about an increased demand for modern drugs and other pharmaceutical supplies.

Considerable help in this sphere is being provided by Australia, which now exports the largest quantities of ampouled injections at a rate of 8,000 an hour.

The print is made in colour defining the strength of the solution.

From this machine the ampoules are conveyed to a furnace where the printing is burned into the glass to prevent falsification which might occur if the ampoules are tampered with.

A long-established Australian firm which has gained a wide reputation for its ampouled injections is producing a plant to supply overseas markets.

The firm has a high reputation dating back 50 years.

Sales have not been made in Singapore and New Zealand.

At present, the firm produces almost 1,000 ampouled injections a day and has installed machinery to boost this figure by 100 per cent.

The filling, identification, sterilisation and packing of the ampoules is done automatically.

World praise for work on new drugs

THE never-ending quest for new drugs in the battle against disease has resulted in the development in Australia of several new types, some of which have been acclaimed overseas.

One of the more important developments is that of the drug called Amphigenone which increases the efficiency of the pain-killing drug morphine in the treatment of cancer sufferers.

Developed by the Department of Pharmacology at the University of Melbourne, Victoria, the drug allows morphine to be used in much smaller doses, thus eliminating the unpleasant side effects of "straight" morphine.

It also prevents addiction — a major step forward. A man who had been addicted to morphine for 12 years was completely cured by taking the drug.

Before the availability of Antismouline patients being treated with morphine suffered acute "withdrawal" symptoms, or craving for the drug, when previously been one of the big drawbacks in the use of morphine.

Many physicians were afraid to use morphine on their cancer patients because of the addiction risk. The patient was given other drugs which meant

FROM PLANT

The drug was derived from an Australian plant known as Chamaecyparissus.

It was developed at the same university as the other drugs.

Research activities are a feature of universities throughout Australia. In addition, major hospitals are commencing to develop their own research departments on a wide scale.

63 nations delegates

SOME 3,000 delegates from 63 countries, including at least half that number from overseas, will gather in Melbourne this month for the biggest international convention of professional nurses.

It is the four-yearly Congress of the International Council of Nurses, the first world association of professional nurses.

The congress will be held from April 17 to 22, and the Royal Australian Nursing Federation will be the organising body.

Grain mill workers plan to start strike

MOVE MAY MEAN BREAD SHORTAGE IN NAIROBI

BREAD could be scarce in Nairobi and B Colony's famine pollution made worse by a strike of grain mill workers which was due to start this morning.

The strike was called by the Kenya Distributive and Commercial Workers' Union after wage talks broke down over the Grain Milling and Processing Group of the Grain Milling and Processing Employers' Association.

The union has threatened that unless the employers back down they will extend the strike some time next week to the Food Processing Association, which would affect the Kenya Meat Commission, Kenya Co-operative Creameries Ltd., Optimal Biscuits Factory, Kenya Canners Ltd. and Lyons Ice Cream Factory, Kenya.

A FORTNIGHT'S STOCKS

The president of the Employers' Association, Mr. P. T. Holden, said last night: "Supplies of flour to bakers will dry up once present stocks are finished... and these stocks should last about a fortnight... Then there would have an effect on the supply of milled meal."

The president of the union, Mr. C. Lubiano, who is also chairman of the Nairobi Kenya branch and deputy general secretary of the Kenya Federation of Labour, said the strike would be a "test of the strength of the firm, but we have no alternative. The employers are entirely to blame."

Complaints of lost mail

DOZENS of letters, often containing cheques, are posted every day and they never get to their destinations. Several people complained to Nairobi's Medical Officers of Health, Mr. J. M. Up and up near the edifice of Life Insurance.
In the second year of its Five-Year Plan, the Life Insurance Corporation is at the half-way stage in its target of £750 million in 1963, with yet another new business record.
Year after year the L.I.C. has improved upon past records. In 1960 it advanced by £51 million to its 1959-high of £321 million.
Thus, since 1956, the L.I.C. has multiplied its new business intake nearly two and a half times. From £150 million to close on £775 million in 1961.
Figures speak volumes—they point to the increasing trust and confidence placed in the L.I.C. as an insurance institution. They speak of the growing belief by the average bread-winner that Life Insurance—and Life Insurance alone—can provide his family with the complete security he wishes for them—in security in which funds are guaranteed for a man's old age. For his son's education, his daughter's marriage, or for his family in case they should lose him.
