Ex-prisoners urged to protest

From Our Own Correspondent

A CALL for ex-prisoners to protest against the visit of Japanese emissaries to British members of the Far East Prisoners' Organisation, who are to meet in London headquarters.

The Executive Council of F.E.P.O. passed a resolution on the subject in April, and it was withdrawn from members' notice because of the Chairman's visit of Japan's Crown Prince Akihito.

Fight for justice

The F.E.P.O. contends that the Japanese Government has not fulfilled its obligations in accordance with the Peace Treaty of 1947. It demands that the Japanese Government should accept all reasonable conditions for the repatriation of its prisoners of war.

Income Tax: 'Leave Allowance'

Dear Sir - I am sorry to hear that you will not be able to claim the leave allowance in your return for 1951-52.

Quite apart from the fact that we state in the article that the leave allowance is not available to those who are not in the service of the Government at the time of their departure, it is also not available to those who are not in the service of the Government at the time of their departure.

What the Government should do

Something has gone wrong with the whole character of the Union. The K.A.U. spirit has been lost and the place of pseudo-architects. The public has cracked and I am afraid the cracks were so deep that the damage was irreparable.

What the Government should do

I agree with the Acting Chief Native Commissioner when he says that African Members of the Legislative Council should not seek attention with bombastic speeches, but should be content to contribute to the progress of the country in a quiet and unobtrusive manner.

What the Government should do

It is a pity that it will be made with immediate effect that those of us (like myself) who are taking leave this year may reap the benefit.

Yours faithfully, MERVYN J. F. MORGAN, Nairobi 11th June 1952

Nyeri Kikuyu have own coat-of-arms

Nyeri African District Council now has its own coat-of-arms. The District Commissioner, Mr. O.E.B. Hughes, has designed it in consultation, heraldic manner, and its symbolic meaning and cooperation in the expansion of Mau Mau has made a great impression upon the members of the council. The coat-of-arms was formally unveiled by the Provincial Commissioner, Mr. Donaldson O'Higgins, at the council's hall in Nyeri, Shikongo.

It has its motto, the old Kikuyu proverb, "Mauai ni mwana," ("Mauai is the son of the man"), and beneath the rising sun of civilization is a shield supported on one side by a Kikuyu elder and on the other by a Kikuyu warrior. Symbols represent the status and security of the land, together with fertility and protection of man, the crops of Mauai, the peaks of Mount Kenya, the step of civilization and the lines of the African continent.

A LEAGUE DEFEAT FOR CALEDONIANS

Loss 3-2 to Woodley Ath.

"Standard" Football Correspondent
CALEDONIANS F.C. undid their No. 1 side in the European sphere of Kenya soccer for the past six years and considered to be practically invincible in league football, have suffered a defeat at last. It was the Scottish side's first league defeat in two years and though a draw would have been a fair result—Woodley Caledonians' veteran centre-half gained a penalty in the second half—no goal would have saved Woodley from defeat. The Athletics' defeat of the Scots was their first since they were kept blank by the home side in their second half—no goal would have saved Woodley from defeat. SURVEY OF EDUCATED WIVES

DO University girls take to married life as well as their less educated sisters? Are they content in their domestic pursuits, or do they try to keep up outside interests? Do the demands of motherhood eventually swallow up their other ambitions?

These questions are the theme of a widespread inquiry now being made by the Ministry of Education in the United Kingdom. The survey is being carried out by Mrs. Judith Hubback, a Cambridge graduate and mother of three young children. Mrs. Hubback, who manages a busy writing, lecturing and social work with leading girls' clubs, is busy in the form of a report to be published towards the end of the year. She has a questionnaire to 2,000 married women's votes.

The questionnaire asks for facts, information, such as husband's earnings, wife's own occupation, and number of children. Cotton output drop forecast this year

EFFECT ON PRICES

ALTHOUGH World demand for cotton has increased considerably during the last few months, there is no doubt that the world will move from adequate supplies for every possible need. Together with the fact that a large American crop next season is probable, this is one of the factors that will have to be borne in mind when prices for Uganda's cotton are fixed. Uganda's cotton production in 1952/53 is estimated at 1,570,000 bales—about 250,000 bales less than the previous crop. The slight decrease in the current season suggests a possible slight fall of production after the long opening from the 21st of March to 1953—low law point to which it had fallen during the course of World War II.

Reductions

Washington has been arguing to United States cotton farmers to make voluntary reductions in their plantings, but there are indications that planting this year will actually be larger in the U.S. than in 1952. The American cotton crop in fact, is likely to be 15,000,000 bales.

The United States Department of Agriculture has suggested recently that this year's crop should be held down to 12,500,000 bales in order to preserve price levels.

Speculation

There is a good deal of speculation in the cotton market over the possibility of an American crop short this year. It is felt that the possibility of this is unlikely because of the fact that the American crop is likely to be larger than in 1952.

THE WORLD HAS MORE SHEEP

Biggest total since war—output up too

A CONTINUED increase in world sheep numbers and in world wool clip is shown in the Commonwealth's latest quarterly report on wool statistics. The report is based on the 1952 questionnaire and includes the latest revisions to the end of May this year. World sheep numbers continued to increase in 1952 and reached 200,000,000 compared with 1951's 190,000,000. The world wool clip in 1952-53 is still rising in certain countries. The total for the world total for this year will be over 100 million pounds. World wool production in 1952-53 is provisionally estimated at 1,100,000 tons, or 10% more than in 1951-52. The period from 1951-52 to 1952-53 is the largest of the post-war period, the highest being 1947-48, and brings output to its highest level in ten years.

World wool consumption is estimated to have risen in successive quarters of 1952. The increase being 10% more than in the first three months of 1951. The increase is due to a number of factors, including the fact that wool is more than 20% cheaper than in 1951. UNION-CASTLE LINE

THE CHILDREN LOVED IT... and it was such a rest for us!

Children are important people aboard the "Union-Castle". They'll enjoy every second of the planned holiday voyage... their own games... their own parties... their own meals... This holiday-part of the "Union-Castle" policy of thoughtful service enables parents to enjoy their own days... they sleep easy. And while they relax the crew is busy making the children safe.

From the day to day to a trained stewardess, a doctor and nursing staff available, 4 child services are required. A "Union-Castle" voyage is a wonderful opportunity for the children... a wonderful time for the parents.

The "Union-Castle" service is built on the experience of nearly 70 years of holiday travel. It is the service which has made the "Union-Castle" one of the world's greatest passenger lines.

RUSSIA AFTER STALIN

3. The Chances For Peace

This is the third and final article in the series by EDWARD CRANKSHAW taking stock of the changes which have taken place in Soviet policy at home and abroad since the death of Stalin.

In the first two articles of this series I tried to show that the new Soviet Government is faced with serious disadvantages. First the legacy from Stalin's foreign policy was a heavy burden of military commitments in Europe, Asia and the Middle East. Second the country's economic structure was ailing. Third, the need to catch up with the West in the arms race was a heavy burden. Fourth, the need to catch up with the West in the race for scientific and technical knowledge was a heavy burden. Fifth, the need to catch up with the West in the race for industrial production was a heavy burden. Sixth, the need to catch up with the West in the race for international prestige was a heavy burden. Seventh, the need to catch up with the West in the race for international respect was a heavy burden. Eighth, the need to catch up with the West in the race for international influence was a heavy burden. Ninth, the need to catch up with the West in the race for international power was a heavy burden. Tenth, the need to catch up with the West in the race for international glory was a heavy burden.

JUNGLE PATROL IN MALAYA

Malayan jungle is a different scene from playing a deadly game of hide-and-seek in some parts of the world. It is a different scene from the dense forest of Europe, where the vegetation about the ground is so thick that the year round in a tree canopy of about 80 feet at midday.

The only people who really know the forest are the primitive aboriginals who live in the hills and on the edge of the jungle. They know the jungle as they know the forest. But these people are being driven out of their homes by the advance of the British, the Chinese and the Malays. The British are driving them out of their homes and the Chinese and the Malays are driving them out of their homes. The British are driving them out of their homes and the Chinese and the Malays are driving them out of their homes.

The soldiers

The British, the Chinese and the Malays are driving them out of their homes. The British are driving them out of their homes and the Chinese and the Malays are driving them out of their homes. The British are driving them out of their homes and the Chinese and the Malays are driving them out of their homes.

In the jungle

In the jungle it is not long before a man from the jungle is driving them out of their homes. The British are driving them out of their homes and the Chinese and the Malays are driving them out of their homes. The British are driving them out of their homes and the Chinese and the Malays are driving them out of their homes.
