before one of the main contributions this country can make towards the war effort is to keep its resources not merely intact but possible to increase them as that when the fighting is done we shall have at least reserved our small corner of the Desert as a lasting concern. We cannot repeat too often that it is in her soil that a country flourish and prosper. It is not only the soil but also the people who are allowed to go to waste, trade and those who concern with trade will automatically go elsewhere.

The unacceptably hard work involved in conserving the soil of the people of the Colony that our natural resources must be considered has already been done by a small band of enthusiasts who have had to contend with every type of obstruction, obstructionism and short-sightedness, and in all sections of the community. It is a policy "backbone" that are people to whom the future of the country matters, not just for what they personally can get out of but justly because they love it for itself and wish to make it their home, and partly because it is of that part of the mind of which Empire builders are made. These people unfortunately, are only just getting to be recognized. Their cry, not for fresh legislation, but merely proper backing for proposals to suppress their largely vitiated through lack of authoritative interest of a practical kind.

Committee Coma

A correspondent whose letter appears today has referred to the habit of the authorities in this country of setting up committees to discuss matters which really require more active cooperation and backing than is usually forthcoming by this method. He mentions Mr. Colin Mackay's statement in a recent publication in one of that party's newspapers that Kenya would be saved "not in committee but in the field". Yet another committee is to be appointed to look into the matter of more effective conservation of the water, soil and forests of Kenya—rather than for the future.

Haile Selassie's Message To East Africa

(From George Kinnaird, our Special Correspondent with the East African Force)

Adis Ababa, May 10.
The following message for the East African Standard was given to me today by the Emperor of Abyssinia:
"I want you to send a message for me from my Palace in Adis Ababa to the people of East Africa, whose troops played an magnificent part in the victory of the British Empire, the maintenance of peace and order in North East Africa. That is why your people and mine have contributed their blood in the common struggle, whose object is the expansion of Italian France from our borders.
"Good neighbourly relations depend not only on the fact of both peoples—which in fact cases could not be better—but on the power to implement the will. I myself have decided to build up a considerable central army in order to disengage the Italian system in Ethiopia. If the English-speaking world helps me to organize this force rapidly, not only will the forces of my neighbours be released for service elsewhere, but frontier relations will also benefit. I expect you who have already made sacrifices in the East African war to help me to realise this."

In Ankara the impression prevails that the Iraq War Minister's visit there has been a failure. The Foreign Minister when he was in Ankara was in contact with the British Ambassador.

Other reports state that a rebel army which was sent to capture the capital of Iran, has not met with success. An official communique issued by the British Government states that the British women and children evacuated from Iraq have arrived in Bombay. They include 80 women and 20 children, most of them very young.

[STANDARD COMMENTARY] London, March 31. Captain Morrison, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, told the Drapers' Chamber of Trade today that shops would have to be reduced, inevitably, if it is ascertained that under the Government's "concentration" scheme, it is not voluntarily co-operating, competitors will be used. It may be necessary in London and the provinces to close down to four to five shops.

That business is concentrating in fewer hands... [STANDARD COMMENTARY] The day ever comes when London ceases to be the largest city in the world... Commons on the war situation There was criticism of the British Intelligence Service, but however far that may have been justified in other cases it is clear that the decision to send troops to Iraq a few weeks ago did not indicate German plans and caused the rebel ruler of that country to take precipitate action before his preparations were fully advanced to carry out a German-sponsored scheme. Mr. Churchill, commenting on this, says: "It is clear that British Ali's instructions from Berlin were to attack the legitimate Government, seize power and get ready for the arrival of the Germans. The arrival of British troops in Iraq, which in the view of his command of the Persian Gulf and the Persian oilfields is more important than Baghdad itself, came in the nick of time... The German Government appears to be waiting to see what conditions it can achieve before committing itself... On the other hand, Mr. Churchill pointed out that the Germans may appear before their puppets have been crushed. In that event we are bound to face a difficult situation. We are not sure that we shall not be able to meet them in Iraq until further British reinforcements can arrive. At the moment events are going on in Iraq which have not been so serious as they appear at the outset. Much may depend on the German's success in their operations in Iraq, which in the view of the military (and particularly its facilities in Syria).

King Thanks The Home Guard

Today is the first anniversary of the formation of Britain's Home Guard, which now has over 4 million trained men.

His Majesty's congratulatory message to the King is embodied in a special Army order published last night. The progress made since the Home Guard was established a year ago, the ends his message by saying that the King will meet and welcome every volunteer.

To mark the occasion the Home Guard mounted guard outside Buckingham Palace at 10 pm. Mr. King from London directed had been specially selected to mark the occasion.

THE A.P.S. EXPLAINS

"No Avoidable Delay"

In view of many complaints regarding delay in the recovery of money from East Africa, the East African Post Office is explained that the Assistant Director of Army Postal Service in East Africa, Mr. A.P.S. (Army Postal Service), is the only person authorized to deal with such cases. The delay in certain districts was due to the fact that the post office was pointed out with its problems of transport, but it has been instructed to take the necessary steps to deal with such cases.

The officer concerned stated that at present, only official mail is transported by air. In East Africa, however, the air service is not so regular as in the home country, and it is necessary to wait for the next opportunity to send mail by sea. This is particularly so in the case of parcels, which are sent by sea.

Damaged Beyond Repair

When Members of Parliament assembled yesterday to discuss the Prime Minister's statement on the subject of the transport of the East African mails, the Prime Minister said that the postal services in East Africa were "damaged beyond repair" and that it would take several months to re-establish them.

The Prime Minister's statement was a reply to a question put by Mr. G. Ungo-Thomas, who asked whether the Prime Minister was aware of the fact that the postal services in East Africa were "damaged beyond repair" and that it would take several months to re-establish them.

Germany and Turkey

According to the German press, the Turkish Government yesterday announced that it was in the process of sending a military mission to Germany to study its military equipment. The mission is expected to consist of several officers and technicians.

The German press also stated that the Turkish Government was in the process of ordering a large quantity of German military equipment, including tanks, aircraft, and artillery. This was seen as a sign of closer military cooperation between the two countries.

SOUTH AFRICAN SCENE:

THE NO AND THE WAR

JOHANNESBURG,

TODAY the whole of South Africa is eating the new-brown bread. The new loaf is now indisputable in appearance and taste from the ordinary brown bread which people have been eating for years. The only real hardship will arise from the absence of white bread for toasting.

It is their only very hardy loaf which is getting very hardy. The new standard loaf will determine the price of bread. The new loaf has been tried here after it had been tried in other parts of the country. The loaf will have found some of its converts. The loaf is being tried in other parts of the country. The loaf is being tried in other parts of the country.

There have been some bomb outrages on the Rand. In the small hours of Monday morning a change of dynamite exploded in a workshop and wrecked four shops from the street level. The explosion destroyed the steel window in the workshop. The explosion destroyed the steel window in the workshop.

It is almost always a job to shop which is chosen for the outrage. The "ho penny" conscious. Mr. J. H. Hofmeyr, the Minister of Finance, has always been the champion of thrift and it is his chief South African. It is his chief South African.

STRANGE. The first few many years in the sudden arrival from the East. Hitler's first idea and many are the theories. The German has not the slightest notion how a score must be made if the achievement of the population.

RESIDENT BENEŠ of Czechoslovakia has just given to me his considered opinion on the present critical stage of the war.

1. That Germany's strength in the air, although considerable and dangerous, is approximately equal to that of Britain, and that Great Britain already has technical superiority, as well as superiority in personnel. 2. That during the February consultations of the German High Command the soldiers opposed the proposals of Hitler, Goebbels, and Ribbentrop for an invasion of England. 3. That the defeat of Germany is no longer so much a matter of a military question, as a question of will.

PIG RETURNS - Only Other Things

I AM often asked what is the alternative to the methods adopted in the past to arrive at an approximately correct output of pigs to the factories over an extended period.

The prototype adopted by the Society Board and given to the farmer is to give him all the data necessary to be blind to the fact that the pig is a creature of habit...

It is a suggestion, I suggest to them to decentralize their production to give a wider and more certain...

There should be no complications or difficulties in carrying out a pig contract. It should be a simple matter...

Since writing the above, pork has been generally better let on the market which makes it all the more urgent and important...

"What Can I Do?" Asked Paula Penniless ... THE ANSWER WAS

THE OTHER DAY I had a letter from Paula Penniless who says her girl is one of those luckless creatures with champagne hair and an income that doesn't rise to much more than a quart drim in which to go and drink it at the expense of her dear old friends. Admittedly she is attractive and lively, and in spite of an even more deplorable income than usual, hasn't been going too badly as she has a good number of friends coming and going from the forward area. However, she was beginning to feel a horrid feeling that she had started to "fade," and found some of her usual pick-me-ups for beauty were either off the market, or too much for her slender purse.

"What can I do," was her cry.

Her beauty, my dear girl, I don't think you need fear if you had a few of the morning washes that I have in my catalogue or whatever the name of the momentary wash is. I suggest that you try one of these and I suppose the only reason that you care whether you fade or not is that you can continue to go on. All you have to do is brush up yourself, I mean that.

You know, as well as I do, that you have before you a draw-it-out morning wash that is what I call a wash, though I don't think you can be doing it. However, you could be doing it. It is a wash that you can use every day. It is a wash that you can use every day. It is a wash that you can use every day.

THE EAST AFRICAN STANDARD

ANNOUNCING THE FUTURE OF ABYSSINIA

FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1941. The East African Standard has had no time in getting down to the many problems which confront him as ruler of a fascinatingly beautiful and difficult country. The day after his triumphant return to Addis Ababa he is scheduled to the Special Commission of the East African Standard the business of his policy. In doing so His Majesty was quite frank in his recognition that Abyssinia has in no position to stand alone and that he and his government will be glad of and indeed welcome the advice and guidance of experienced people from other countries and especially from the British Commonwealth.

Early this year Mr. Eden in a statement in the House of Commons made it clear that the British Government would welcome the reappearance of an independent Ethiopian State and recognized the claims of the throne. It will be pointed out that the qualifying article is "an" not "the" and it seems likely that the views of the British Government which were recently stated by the Italian occupation forces will have the most significant friendly regard for the country as best it can, but that the British Government will be glad to help to free from the Italian yoke do not forget the slave and are not giving it the support they are on our borders where they are in a great many tribes in this country from time to time, notwithstanding the fierce effects of the Empire to control the most turbulent of the subjects. It is therefore the British people to the advantage of Abyssinia to have an independent Abyssinia which will be broadly based and administered and guided by its own people. We must be prepared to give all the help we can to the strong and to lead its people to that state of civilization where they will be able to resist such evil designs as may be directed to the temporary enslavement of the country by the Italian invaders. Progress will necessarily be slow, but it will be hastened by the obvious zeal and enlightened outlook of the Emperor who is a genuine admirer of the British people and whose political and technical difficulties such as have played so great a part in the democratic movement in Abyssinia, are brought to bear as soon as possible in his own country.

For the time being Abyssinia is still a country at war and we should be grateful for the Emperor's assurance that his forces against the invader so valiantly made freely available to continue the struggle against the invader in other parts of Africa. The great work of Africa. Which is it to be? WEAK AND NERVOUS or STRONG & VITAL

People who have rich blood coming to the surface on the face, neck, and chest, and who are troubled by a sense of heat and nervousness, should take Caecilin. It is a powerful blood-purifier and a tonic for the system. It is a powerful blood-purifier and a tonic for the system. It is a powerful blood-purifier and a tonic for the system.

Committee Come

MONDAY, MAY 13, 1941. A correspondent whose letter appears today has referred to the habit of the authorities in this country setting up committees to discuss matters which really require more active co-operation and backing than is usually forthcoming by this country. He mentions Mr. Colin Maher's statement in a recent issue of the Standard that the soil of Kenya was to be saved "in committee but not in a field." Yet another committee is being appointed to look into the matter of more effective conservation of the water, soil and forests of Kenya—two vital assets for the future.

For it is true to say that any action aimed at benefiting the Colony has to be approved by a committee on such projects is in the public interest. It is not a new idea. It is in fact at least one active form of it is being the Soil Conservation Society. We are to be sure that we are to take steps to conserve the country as best it can, but that the British Government will be glad to help to free from the Italian yoke do not forget the slave and are not giving it the support they are on our borders where they are in a great many tribes in this country from time to time, notwithstanding the fierce effects of the Empire to control the most turbulent of the subjects. It is therefore the British people to the advantage of Abyssinia to have an independent Abyssinia which will be broadly based and administered and guided by its own people. We must be prepared to give all the help we can to the strong and to lead its people to that state of civilization where they will be able to resist such evil designs as may be directed to the temporary enslavement of the country by the Italian invaders. Progress will necessarily be slow, but it will be hastened by the obvious zeal and enlightened outlook of the Emperor who is a genuine admirer of the British people and whose political and technical difficulties such as have played so great a part in the democratic movement in Abyssinia, are brought to bear as soon as possible in his own country.

For the time being Abyssinia is still a country at war and we should be grateful for the Emperor's assurance that his forces against the invader so valiantly made freely available to continue the struggle against the invader in other parts of Africa. The great work of Africa. Which is it to be? WEAK AND NERVOUS or STRONG & VITAL

WHAT NEXT?

FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1941. The comparative lull in the land fighting since the withdrawal of the Allied forces from Greece should not lead anyone to believe that this is due to any weakness or uncertainty on the part of the Allies. All the signs point to the likelihood that their aggression in several quarters and there is no doubt that within a very short time the war zone will be again extended. In the meantime the Battle of the Atlantic is being waged more fiercely and relentlessly and the tonnage attacks on London and other big cities in Britain are all part of the complex victory and (temporarily) by limiting the horizon to a Germanic Europe stretching from Vladivostok to the Atlantic.

THE AFFAIR OF RUDOLF HESS WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1941. The whole world today is amazed and intrigued by what is probably the biggest and strangest piece of news since the war—the arrival in Scotland by air of Hitler's Deputy, and the fact that he is in Britain. Everything known of the episode suggests the wildest that the imagination rather than the facts. The statement from 10, Downing Street, confirmed as it is in one of the most material sources, the disappearance of Hess from Germany by officials based here from Berlin. Every one will be eagerly looking for details of the strangest of adventures and until they are forthcoming it is only to be expected that there will be much speculation on its true meaning.

The known facts do suggest however that Germany is not at all in a position to carry out the most important of her foreign policy objectives. The known facts do suggest however that Germany is not at all in a position to carry out the most important of her foreign policy objectives.
