

SEVEN-YEAR DISPUTE NEARS SOLUTION

PAKISTAN-INDIA WATER SCHEME

PAKISTAN has "conditionally" accepted the World Bank proposals for sharing the waters of the Indus basin with India. Mr. Mohammed Ali, the Pakistani Prime Minister, said in Karachi. He added that his Government would try the World Bank formula and accept it if it was workable and guaranteed "higher quality of the waters."

CAMPOLLI'S VIOLIN RECI-TAL

By the Music Critic

TRANSCRIPTIONS of symphonic and concert-music seldom afford much enjoyment to any but their performers, and considerable misgiving arose from Campolli's proposal to play Mendelssohn's well-known Violin Concerto in association with the piano-forte.

We need not have feared Campolli is an exponent of the very front rank and of international status, and his influence into this general and generalist non-profund, well-articulated and intelligent, and one could possibly have desired, it would be most unjust not to recognize the success of this undertaking the days claimed by some writers, on whose part any inordinate would be unjustly denied to fortunate in the possession of an artist of this calibre upon whom visiting celebrities can depend.

Richly rewarding

Three movements from Bach's third unaccompanied Sonata in A were richly rewarding, as they have been expected in the past. Campolli's playing was superior in the passages without the assistance of the piano. First Concerto of the autumn of 1964, in the presence of the pianist, Campolli's playing was phenomenal, with the best of both worlds and little.

The recital began with a whole satirical account of Purcell's "The Banns, which is a piece of music which is generally associated with its composer. It is seldom met, especially in the West, and was accompanied by way of contrast.

The audience, which filled the hall, was in a position to appreciate the music in its fullest sense, and the distinguished soloist.

Royal Family on holiday at Balmoral

THE London season ended officially when the Queen left London to begin her summer holiday in Scotland.

Although her eventual destination is Balmoral Castle, the family home in Aberdeenshire, the new first to Yorkshire for a visit to the Highlands and Lady staff, one of the most famous tourist hot spots in Britain. Today she will drive to Balmoral to join her children and the Queen Mother.

Journey by train

To Queen Mother has ordered a six-week round-trip tour of the country, to Balmoral by train. By the end of the month the Duke of Edinburgh will have returned from the Canadian tour and will join his family in Scotland.

Princess Margaret has set off for Scotland. She will stay with Lord and Lady Glenconner at the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst. Among the 100 guests for the wedding is the Duke of Kent, the Duke of the Royal Family (the Queen's brother).

Eldama Settlers support U.C.P.

The Eldama Bay Settlement Association passed two resolutions at a recent meeting that it would support the United Country Party.

The meeting was held at the Eldama Bay Settlement and was attended by a large number of settlers.

The resolutions were passed unanimously and were a clear indication of the settlers' support for the U.C.P.

The U.C.P. is a party which has been formed to represent the interests of the settlers in the Eldama Bay area.

The settlers are pleased to see the U.C.P. and hope that it will be able to bring about a more equitable distribution of land in the area.

BRITISH MOTOR INDUSTRY HOLDING LEAD

AUSTRALIA TO STEP UP TRADE MISSIONS

Two-fifths of world's new cars produced in U.K.

THE recent recovery of British car exports in the face of a continued depression shows that the industry has already begun to deal with the tough conditions which now exist in world markets.

Already the world's biggest exporter of cars, the United Kingdom produced 330,000 in the first half of this year, the same period last year. But this increase has not been achieved overnight, and the industry has had its share of problems.

At the end of the war the demand for cars in Australia was so great that the industry had to produce 100,000 more cars than it was able to sell there.

Falling exports. Since 1931 and a sharp fall in crude oil production. The supply of motor body shells has become difficult.

Oil firm opens service station in Zanzibar. Two new service stations have been opened by the Standard Vacuum Oil Company.

English tractors doing good work in Africa and India. Since 1945 an English company has delivered more than 100 tractors overseas.

U.S. to give 10,000,000 tons of coal in foreign aid

"THE NEW DESIGN FOR LIVING"

FLATS £3,200

MR. STASSEN, the U.S. Foreign Operations Administration, has announced in Washington that the United States plans to distribute 10,000,000 tons of coal to Europe and other parts of the world as part of an aid program.

These flats have been designed for the distribution of the coal and have not been made. The system would be similar to that of the United States.

Superbly sited on splendidly developed plots, bounded by well-grown decorative trees and only two miles from town, roomy two-bedroomed flats in blocks of four, possessing every desirable feature, including verandahs, tiled and terraced kitchens and bathrooms with separate toilet, plentiful fitted furniture, individual beds, quarters and commodious lock-up garages. Near buses and shops. Economical to buy. Easy to rent, an Enticing investment without Rent Control Ordinances. Well on in construction by first-class European contractors and available for purchase now, singly or en bloc.

Governor welcomed

Uganda

PROGRESS AND PROGRESS' EXTENSIVE TOUR

Uganda and progress, the Governor General toured Northern Uganda, a tour that is being made in conjunction with a mission to inspect the progress of rural extension facilities.

Children cheer
The Governor was greatly interested in a large number of children who were gathered to see him. He was shown to have a special interest in the children of the Southern District.

Urging the people to continue their service to the country, the Governor visited the Central Prison at Kampala, where he met with the prisoners and their families.

INDUSTRY SEEKS SAFEGUARDS

Commonwealth proposal to meet foreign competition

The memorandum is designed to safeguard and encourage the Commonwealth fruit-canning industry in the face of foreign competition, particularly in regard to the United Kingdom market, have been submitted to the British Government by the British Commonwealth Producers' Organisation.

The memorandum to the Government gives as reasons for the recommendations the impending termination of bulk purchasing and distribution by the Ministry of Food, the renewal of imports under Mutual Security Act arrangements from the United States, the increasing pressure of sterling-dollar convertibility, and the need for negotiations between the contracting parties to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at which provision of the agreement will be discussed.

The memorandum is directed to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Minister of Trade, the Minister of the Secretariat of State for Commonwealth Relations and Colonial Secretary.

The memorandum is directed to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Minister of Trade, the Minister of the Secretariat of State for Commonwealth Relations and Colonial Secretary.

Tariffs plan

Kenya's exports are among the most important to the United Kingdom. The memorandum states that the Government should consider the possibility of imposing a tariff on imports of fruit-canning machinery from the United States and other countries. It also suggests that the Government should consider the possibility of imposing a tariff on imports of fruit-canning machinery from the United States and other countries.

U.K. market seen

Commonwealth canners say they are in a strong position to compete for the U.K. market. The memorandum states that the Government should consider the possibility of imposing a tariff on imports of fruit-canning machinery from the United States and other countries. It also suggests that the Government should consider the possibility of imposing a tariff on imports of fruit-canning machinery from the United States and other countries.

Kenya exports

The fruit-growing industry had been generally boosted in the Commonwealth which could be seen in the number of canneries being established in Kenya. VIGILANCE NEEDED ON RACIAL ISSUES

Serious problem for Church

THE Rt. Rev. Richard Ambrose Reeve, Bishop of Johannesburg, said at Minneapolis that the Church needed to be especially vigilant on racial issues without allowing itself with any particular political party or faction. He spoke to more than 600 bishops, clergy and lay readers attending the World Anglican conference in the United States.

The fact that in comparatively recent times White races have increased across the world would not be blind to him that the fact that for more than 100 years the Church have looked on color into its aspect when considering qualifications for membership, he said. "It is not to say that we date ourselves by race but the question of color is one of the most serious questions confronting the Church."

1948 resolution He recalled the resolution of the Bishops at the Lambeth Conference in 1948 which stated that the conference was "not to be a racialist organization but to be open to all races and to be a church of all races."

The Church had never doubted "the rightness of self-government." The cannot reasonably do so because since the colonies became self-governing and independent dominions there will be good reasons for their self-government. At present, many of the leaders in politics are professing Christians and we must have Christian leadership in all spheres of public life." (Reader)

Life of fellowship He appealed to the Congress to manifest in the Church the same fellowship which it has transcended all barriers of race and color. "The Church should urge the development of the Church in conditions as well as recognizing the development of nationality in all whatever may be the racial group and so recognize the free association of individuals in groups for any purpose that is neither vicious nor hostile." (Reader)

Anglo-U.S. unity for freedom

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Fisher, said at Minneapolis that the United States and the United Kingdom are bound together in St. Mark's Cathedral, and that the Church must stand with this vast magnanimous majority of United Nations as united as free people to demand and defend a wholly different world.

Dr. Fisher looked to a common world in which the Church of God is also bound. The Church of God is also bound with the World Anglican Congress as a spiritual fellowship.

Polish seaman bribed and threatened

"I WANT FREEDOM, PLEA TO CAPTAIN" Mr. Antoni Klimowicz, a Polish seaman, granted political asylum in Britain, said he was allegedly bribed and threatened to return to Poland after he had sought refuge.

At the secret London hearing, which he had been three weeks in prison, he said he had been told by the Polish authorities to return to Poland if he was not granted asylum.

Mr. Klimowicz said he had been told by the Polish authorities to return to Poland if he was not granted asylum. He said he had been told by the Polish authorities to return to Poland if he was not granted asylum.

VISITING CRICKET SIDES WIN MATCHES IN NAIROBI

Cymkhana and Parklands are both held to draws

There were three centuries by Asian batsmen in local cricket matches at the weekend and this brings to total in the last few days to about a half dozen. On the relatively low score in which bowlers' wickets were scarce, Nairobian came to town and beat the Old Boys on the Nirobian Road but one of the day's best bats was a visitor from the Wanderers at Karuru.

Cymkhana were drawn in a good form for their first match. They were well served by the Old Boys' bowlers, but they were not able to score enough runs to win. The Old Boys' bowlers were well served by the Nairobian batsmen, but they were not able to score enough runs to win.

FRANCE PREPARES WINS DUAL VICTORY

Tunisian and home policies approved

EUROPEAN ARMY ISSUE NEXT FOR DEBATE

FRANCE'S Prime Minister, M. Pierre Mendès-France, has scored a double parliamentary victory, leaving him free to devote the next fortnight to the problems of the European Army. The National Assembly after a 40-minute speech by M. Mendès-France gave substantial approval to his economic policy. By 361 votes to 80 the Assembly granted the Government a 100 per cent increase in the budget for the next eight months.

M. Mendès-France's second victory came late on Tuesday night after he had spent nearly 12 consecutive hours in the National Assembly and had made two major speeches. By 295 votes to 122 the Assembly agreed to postpone a full debate on the Government's North African policy until August 27.

The third vital issue on which the Prime Minister is seeking the support of the Assembly is the Constitutional Reform Bill, for which the fate of a European Army hangs.

This Bill ends the rule under which the National Assembly must give an absolute majority vote to the Government.

BUGLES SOUND AS WAR ENDS IN INDO-CHINA

Bugles sounded the final cease-fire in Indo-China yesterday. The final cease-fire took place at 11.30 a.m. on August 23, 1954. The cease-fire was announced by the French High Commissioner in Indo-China, General de Lattre de Tassigny, who was the only French officer to have been captured by the Viet Minh during the war.

COMMUNISTS VOTE FOR GOVERNMENT

The result of the second vote of the National Assembly on Monday, August 9, after he had been elected Premier, was that the Communists voted in favour of the Government. This was a significant move, as the Communists had previously been regarded as opponents of the Government.

100-mile track to be laid between lakes

AFRICA ATTACK ON LOCUSTS

100-mile track is to be laid across the waterlogged area which covers about 140 square miles between Lake Kyoga and Lake Kyoga in the north-western part of the International Red Locust Control area. The plan to attack more than 100,000 locusts, which are estimated to be there.

While the tracks, insecticides would have to be carried by air by a circuitous route of more than 200 miles from the south to cross Lake Kyoga. These plans are being carried out by an investigation carried out by the locusts officer by Dr. D. Gunn, the Director of the locusts control.

The collar is a recent name for the two sections of the lake. The lake is a shallow lake, the southern part of the lake, or the north-western part, which is not land, in the area. The lake is a shallow lake, the southern part of the lake, or the north-western part, which is not land, in the area.

African labour on a Turbo estate being leased by Mr. R. B. Stephens, an entomological field officer, with a drug which fights locusts.

DRUG SPRAYING NEXT YEAR TO REDUCE MALARIA IN UASIN GISHU

Side by side with anti-malaria measures being taken in the Nandi country, further control schemes are being conducted in the Turbo/Kipkaren area, a malaria-infested area of the Uasin Gishu District. The area, at an altitude of between 5,000 and 6,000 feet, is about 200 square miles in extent and has some 145 farmers and about 15,000 African population. It has also the highest malarial incidence in the district.

Surveys all African living in the area with a drug will start in January or February next under the auspices of the World Health Organisation, in conjunction with the United Nations International Child Emergency Fund. The latter is providing most of the funds, but treatment of the area with labour and malaria.

Statistics compiled.

Dr. E. H. Wainwright, of the malaria section of the World Health Organisation, Dr. R. H. Hensch, Senior Parasitologist of Kenya, recently visited Uasin Gishu to complete plans for next year's spraying. Valuable data and other essential

'OPTIMISM' WARNING AT NAKURU

Mau Mau still active in Rift.

A WARNING of optimism in the fight against Mau Mau in the Rift Valley has been given by the Senior Superintendent of Police at Nakuru, Mr. P. G. Davies.

There was no doubt he said that the general situation had improved. The fact remained that a few gangs still remained and their way into the settled areas. They were a potential source of trouble. Some of the forest areas were being used as hide-outs. Mau Mau had been seen to get away from other camps. But he said, recently, forces could be sent to clear up the area.

Kikuyu 'improvements'

Before warning against optimism, Davies appears to be a feeling of optimism. The general situation in the Rift Valley at present, he got the impression from two different and well-informed sources. During his work, and was widely surprised that the two people in question were so optimistic.

That looking back through the statistics reports for some months past, there can be no doubt that things have improved considerably from the general point of view. The general situation is also noticeable in the attitude of Mau Mau. It is nearly as serious as they were a few months ago. It is in the police we have adopted of the most optimistic feeling by the Mau Mau.

Rate halved

On May 15 it started down the Rift Valley area and in June 1953, a total of 275,000 was taken. The rate of malaria had been 20 per cent in the area. The rate of malaria had been 20 per cent in the area. The rate of malaria had been 20 per cent in the area.

...but Doctor, why does 'Disprin' relieve pain so quickly?

Disprin tablets really dissolve, instead of merely breaking up the most pain-causing substances. Disprin, it is more rapidly absorbed by your body, and releases pain-causing substances. No unabsorbed particles are left behind to irritate the stomach.

DISPRIN is different...it dissolves!

WELCOME GIFTS FOR PATIENTS

By Angela Hill

IF people wouldn't send up to many flowers! I send one of the nurses at a hospital recently... there are spent their money on more welcome to the patients, probably...

...of course it is my first thought when I hear a friend has had when I get into hospital to send along a lovely bunch of roses, lilies or chrysanthemums. It is also the first thought of nurses and other sympathisers, bring the nurse's remark.

Provided your reading, however, books are a good addition, and instead of the usual women's magazines what about something really different? A book of cartoons or something about funniness and a gay Continental... or a book of... or a book of...

Have you thought of something to do? I took along a pack of cards recently to a friend who has been placed several kinds of patients... also. There are puzzle books, too, which can be read to you... also. There are puzzle books, too, which can be read to you... also. There are puzzle books, too, which can be read to you...

Ready-prepared ambrosia "make-up" might be welcome. The suggestion is to write "flower" on a card and slip it into the patient's pocket. Small gifts
VERY often patients get weary of sitting in the hospital ward. It is very tiring. It is very tiring. It is very tiring.

Dirty handkerchiefs
ANOTHER useful present that can be made with plastic is a set of handkerchiefs. It is very tiring. It is very tiring. It is very tiring.

Jetters
MY most ideas are a painted card or a wooden toy. It is very tiring. It is very tiring. It is very tiring.

HINTS WHICH MAY HELP

If you have one of those enamelled kitchen tables and find that your pastry-board is apt to slide about on the surface, try the effect of four rubber rings from glass jars, one at each corner. These will suffice to anchor the board firmly.

Do not hang things too heavy on metal or fabric-covered hangers. It is far better to use...

Prince Philip—the man and the father

the hundreds of productive and spectacular acres which surround Windsor Castle. And no sooner had the appointment made than he entered fully into the job, spending his time in the knowledge that he was talking about what he considered with the experts.

NEW country harvests were introduced into the Royal Park, and the Queen was fully reacquainted, and the Duke of Edinburgh was seen in the long walks to take over the job with the Queen on the spot. Sometimes he would appear on his favourite grey charger (it really belongs to the Queen, but he likes it for the job—country galloping) making his way straight to the cross on the river, even if he were a freer driver were out in the middle of a 50-acre field of rough.

Royal servants at Buckingham Palace, Windsor, Sandringham and Balmoral, have become accustomed to the Duke of Edinburgh's visits, and they know he will not suddenly get angry. They respect him for his industry and his sense of duty, and they respect him for his interest in his many questions which usually start "How" or "Why" and which when combined with a few minutes of his own time, will do more to put the Duke of Edinburgh in a position that he will be able to answer than any other person in the country.

PRINCE PHILIP is, in fact, a great stickler for economy. He has been in the head of the Duke of Edinburgh with his wife he has "reduced" 500,000 dollars having the Duke's traditional extravagance. He has reduced his own expenses, and he has reduced the expenses of his household. He has reduced the expenses of his household, and he has reduced the expenses of his household.

Knowing this it is not surprising that the Queen's husband "does" for her. He is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid. He is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid.

Sometimes after a late night's work he goes down to the kitchen by himself, carrying a tin of sandwiches and a bottle of beer. He is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid.

It is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid. He is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid.

It is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid. He is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid.

It is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid. He is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid.

The Duke of Edinburgh and the two children pictured after the Royal Tour.

Duke went, then these wife was very satisfied and "good" father in the great part of the end of the "Royal Tour". Prince Philip, as a man, likes to meet more and talk to his equals. Even so does he wear his own brogue on his own terms. He is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid, and he is a man who can avoid anything that he can avoid.

It is for this reason that from the very beginning of the Duke of Edinburgh has encouraged little Prince Charles to mix as much as possible in his everyday life. It is for this reason that he has encouraged his children to mix as much as possible in their everyday life.

It is because of this stand the Duke of Edinburgh made on his own behalf, it is because of this stand the Duke of Edinburgh made on his own behalf, it is because of this stand the Duke of Edinburgh made on his own behalf.

Ordeal By Flood!

The famous Flying Doctor—Dr. Allan Vickers from Queensland's outback—reveals pages of his personal notebook to Special Correspondent John Ralph. Last week he told of the rescue in the blazing forest fire, this week it is the opposite floods.

THAT fire had come at the end of a long dry spell. The rains had held off. Within they came it was a deluge—50 inches in a few days. Rivers which had nearly dried up were 50 miles wide in places.

Over the radio came a man's voice. He was over exhaustion. He had ridden 30 miles on his back to get to the nearest radio transmitter owned by his neighbors. He and his horse had swum a couple of crates.

'Go home' 'Well, come over and have a look.' 'Get back home. As you haven't a radio I'll drop some...'

A great man. I thought about with the wife's life in the balance. He was an animal, but the pilot thought he'd look for himself and we flew over the

WHY DID RAGAMUFFIN HIDE THE HONEY?

RAGAMUFFIN is home again. The first thing he did after he came back was visit his friend the Ragamuffin Rabbit. He knocked at the door and stepped inside.

"Oh, Oh," said the Ragamuffin. "I don't want to fight at all. And he rubbed his nose with his paw.

"What is all this about?" he asked.

The Ragamuffin looked up sadly. Mr. Badger says he will fight me," he replied. "because I keep his children awake with singing in the bath."

"I can't stop it," he sighed, "singing in the bath is natural to me. The first time I saw the rabbit I thought I can't bear to stop it, and he threatened to sue me."

He sobbed all over again. "Why has an idea?" he asked. "I will hide some honey very secretly," he said. "where Mr. Badger is sure to smell it. Then we shall see what happens."

So they took a great pot of golden honey to a place in the wood where Mr. Badger never goes.

The two friends walked close by for Mr. Badger to come along, and before long he did sniff sniff sniff, went his little pointed nose, and he began to search up and down.

"I shall find it," he muttered. But although he searched very hard he could not find a trace of honey. He looked at the Ragamuffin and the Ragamuffin started to stroll down the path singing a gay song.

"Oh, stop that noise," snapped Mr. Badger. "Can't you see that I'm angry? I can smell delicious honey, but cannot find it and I'm angry."

"I think," said the Ragamuffin, "that I may be able to help you. I have an idea which will help you find their secret." And he wandered off to the flowers and pretended to hold a conversation. Then, walked back with a beaming smile.

THE IRON ROAD OF PROGRESS

The foundation for a railway out of the wild, completely unutilized country.

The miles along the river valley I saw plenty of evidence that the country is fertile. Many of the footprints of hippos could be seen all over the country, and some of these great animals had wandered from one side of the line to the other.

The embankment ends abruptly at the Mpanza station. From there the road leads to the sea. It is a dead hedge across the river. It has been built in Britain.

It is a long road to the sea. It is a long road to the sea. It is a long road to the sea.

On the other side of the Mpanza, it was a different matter. There is the west end of the line. It is a long road to the sea. It is a long road to the sea.

There was no more of the sort here than in the west. It was a different matter. There is the west end of the line. It is a long road to the sea. It is a long road to the sea.
