View on diplomats' appearance

BRITISH CONTEMPT FOR MOSCOW STATEMENT

CUNY BURGESS and Donald Maclean were still men of mystery yesterday. After their five-minute interview with two British newspapermen on Saturday, they disappeared into the Moscow fog and the question remained unanswered: Why are they doing in Russia?

British newspapermen yesterday did not have their own report, either for the two former Foreign Office officials or for the statement they issued. In the statement, the diplomats denied they had ever been Communist agents and claimed they went to Russia "to better understand the Soviet Union and the West."

Speculation on the timing of the reappearance fell into three categories: that it was an attempt to further a Russian aim to drive a wedge between Britain and the U.S.; that it had a connection with the visit to Britain this spring of Marshal Bulganin and Mr. Krushchev; that the statement was timed at influencing Russian opinion.

The Times said the time of the reappearance must have been chosen with good reason. The proposed statement was apparently intended partly to excite themselves and partly to drive a wedge between Britain and America. "Coming so soon after the Washington talks between President Eisenhower and Sir Amembury, this statement may be part of a campaign to follow up the two recent London peace notes."

It would be depressing to work in those days. Russia's leaders were really so out of touch with the West that it is hard to imagine that they could have any serious interest in American relations, by continuing to these two men, not very much more, except as diplomats.

KENYA OLYMPICS WARNING

Standards must be higher

KENYA'S Olympic team aspirants were warned by A.M. Alexander on Monday night that they must not only be the Colony's best, but must reach a higher standard. If they do not achieve the Olympic standard, they will not go to Melbourne, he said at a meeting of the Kenya Olympic Association.

That really give completely confident

Alexander, the association's chairman, referred to the "suggestion" from some people that the standard of performance in the country was not worthy of sending a team to Melbourne. "Let us make it quite clear that the best performance in Kenya is certainly not good enough," he said, "but Melbourne is a high standard."

Defining example

In many cases, we need to see the best we have had in Kenya. A good example is in swimming. We have had some excellent swimmers. Nevertheless, we have not a single swimmer who has not been achieved. It is not achieved, it is not available, they will not go to Melbourne.

Alexander referred to the training programme which has been arranged to let aspirants in the various sports. A training centre for a African Junior School, held in Nairobi on Saturday.

100,000 MORE IN A DAY YEAR FROM BRITAIN

Mr. Vasey reports on mission 'BETTER CONTROL OF SPENDING'

BRITAIN will make up to £8,000,000 available to Kenya in the 1956-57 financial year, subject to the approval of Parliament, the Minister for Finance, Mr. Vasey, told Legislative Council last night. It will consist of a £4,000,000 grant and a £2,000,000 interest-free loan and will meet just under 60 per cent of the estimated Emergency expenditure for the year.

The Minister announced that Kenya has not had to draw on the £4,000,000 interest-free loan made by Britain in the current year because of the improved Emergency situation, buoyant revenue, and a better control of expenditure. The Colony was granted £14,000,000 for 1955/56, of which £10,000,000 was a free grant.

He said that by March 31, Kenya will have received £12,000,000 in assistance since the start of the Emergency, £13,900,000 as a free grant. This total did not include the £2,000,000 for the Swynnerton Plan.

Mr. Vasey, who returned to Nairobi from London on Monday, said that during his discussions in Britain, he has found a keen understanding and sympathetic appreciation of our position—at a time when the British Government is itself facing very difficult financial and economic problems. The estimated cost of the Emergency for 1956/57 was £14,000,000 in 1955-56, which will be about £10,000,000 next year which, in addition to the £4,000,000 free grant, will be beyond Kenya's financial resources to meet.

Mr. Vasey reported to the Council that the British Government will be beyond Kenya's financial resources to meet. He said that the British Government will be beyond Kenya's financial resources to meet.

KENYA OLYMPICS WARNING

Standards must be higher

KENYA Olympic athletes must not only be fit but must reach a certain high standard if they do not achieve the Olympic standard they will not go to Melbourne, he said at a meeting of the Kenya Olympic Association.

That really give complete confidence

Mr. Alexander referred to the "endurance" aspect of the standard of performance the association sought to set in the Games. Let us make it very clear that the best performance at any level in Kenya is certainly not the standard we require for Melbourne," he said.

Swimming example

"In many cases we need considerably higher standards than the best we have had in Kenya. A good example is swimming. We have swimmers who are good swimmers but we have not set a standard which is not achieved, although the available swimmers are the best. They will not go to Melbourne."

Mr. Alexander also mentioned the training programme which has been arranged for the athletes going on to the required standard. He said that the training centre for athletes was being held at Nairobi on Saturday.

Attaché to team

Mr. Alexander disclosed that Mr. Peter Hovary, a member of the Kenyan team of swimmers, who had been appointed to the Kenyan team which would be arriving in Kenya from London on Saturday.

The Kenya team will leave on October 20 and arrive in November 3 with two days to allow itself to acclimatise to the Australian climate.

Mr. J. B. Bony, the Kenyan coach, said that the team will spend five weeks in a training camp in the selected team would travel to Australia.

Shopping Centres
To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
It is in other countries the concentration of shopping centres has been a noticeable trend for years and it is a pity that in our country here do not follow. 25 years ago the trend of concentrating their shopping, energy and funds on the basis of Nairobi.

Instead of everything being concentrated in a few streets in the centre of Nairobi, shopping should follow the population. From the centre of Nairobi to other suburbs. The trend in other cities is to build the suburbs where land is available, and where there is also ample parking space.

The reason why residents at, say, Ngara, Kiambu, Langata, Dagoretti, Kileleshwa, etc. come to Nairobi for everything commodities, furniture, etc., are the traffic jams, etc. It is a pity that we have not yet availed to the opportunity that the expanding suburbs will offer them in the course of a few years. Nairobi is an example. There are shopping centres already. It is already interesting business which formerly came to Nairobi. In other words the writing is on the wall.

Kenya is on the morning of her destiny. Economically the country has hardly been stretched to its limit. There is a great development and growth before Nairobi. It is time to get shoppers back in the suburbs. It is time to encourage the "supermarkets" that will be built in the outer suburbs will be spacious, up-to-date and will be surrounded by grounds, gardens, and play-grounds. Nairobi is a place where the suburbs will be the thousand and one things that the average family needs.

Denial of £40,000 Ruiru... overpayment to company

'STRANGE THAT FIDDLE CASE OUT IN 1955 AND 1956'

I thought it was essential I should cover up bits to attempt to get the case out of the papers. An action to the Institute of Chartered Accountants to get me £4,000 overpayment... I was in the habit of a paper which was written in the name of the company...

All parties concerned were contacted and the £4,000 was settled but had been made. I thought I would call a bonus... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

Subject for a 'claim'
I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

Properly protected
The City Council was advised by the City Council... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

Suggestion 'abused'
Mr. Newman stated that he had worked and finished his job... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

What about Howard Humphreys?
Mr. Newman stated that he had worked and finished his job... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

Certification of costs
There is no truth in it at all... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

Duty of checking
Mr. Newman stated that he had worked and finished his job... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

Measurement of loads
Col. Newman stated that he had worked and finished his job... Newman's firm was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company... I was instructed to get the £4,000 out of the company...

QUEEN BIDS FAREWELL TO NIGERIA

Return air journey begins today

LAST-NIGHT PARTY IN LAGOS

THE Queen leaves Nigeria today on her journey back to London after a three-week tour of the Colony. She returned to Lagos from Ibadan, in the Western Region, last night to make a farewell broadcast and attend a party at Government House.

The Royal aircraft takes off from Lagos and will call at Kano, in Northern Nigeria, before arriving tomorrow.

One of the Queen's last official functions was to open new parliament buildings, yesterday in Ibadan. She opened the grill gates of the 17,000 building, which is golden grey presented to her by the Nigerian Speaker of the House, Mr. A. B. Doherty. Then with the Duke of Edinburgh she spent half an hour inspecting the modern, reinforced concrete building which was dedicated only a week ago.

The long, low, flat-roofed building is the largest in the Western Region in first central parliament and one of the most modern equipped in the Commonwealth. The Queen and the Duke were taken to two adjoining chambers—the House of Chiefs, which has 12 members, and the House of Assembly, with 30 members. They were told by the Director of Public Works, Mr. B. C. Ferguson, that so that the building would be completed in time for the Royal visit.

In the House of Chiefs the Queen decided to try out the Speaker's chair. Equipped with mahogany with a grey leather seat. She looked round quickly and with a broad smile sat on the chair and waving her fan. "This is very comfortable," she said.

Later she and the Duke drove back through cheering crowds, taking the traditional Government House for a short rest before leaving for the seven-hour drive back to Lagos on the road through the palm plantations of the West.

Loan list closed

THE Government of Kenya has closed the loan list for the Central Office today.

The list, which was opened on February 10, contains 100 names of potential borrowers. It is expected that the Government will receive a large number of applications from these potential borrowers.

The list is divided into two sections: one for small-scale loans and one for large-scale loans. The small-scale loans are for amounts up to £500, while the large-scale loans are for amounts up to £10,000.

The Government is expected to receive a large number of applications from these potential borrowers, and it is expected that the loan list will be closed in a few days.

FORCES RADIO TO CLOSE

Continuing until March, 1957

THE Forces Radio, which has been broadcasting since 1946, will be closed at the end of the next financial year, March, 1957.

The reason given for the closure is that the station is no longer a cost-effective means of providing a military service to the public.

The Forces Radio has been a popular service for many years, providing news, entertainment, and information to the armed forces and their families.

The closure of the station is expected to be a controversial decision, as it will end a long-standing tradition of military broadcasting.

OF HANGING IN SIGHT: M.P.s' VOTE

Excited scenes after 293-262 decision
PREMIER PROMISES 'NO
UNDUE DELAY'

A BOLLING of the death penalty was approved by 293 votes to 262 — a majority of 31 — in the House of Commons on Thursday night.

The decision, taken in face of a Government warning, was greeted by loud cheers.

M.P.s who had been campaigning for abolition for several years just before their heads were shorn in a public display, waved their arms wildly and the news spread quickly to an excited crowd waiting in the cold outside the House.

Before the free vote which was taken, the Home Secretary, Mr. James Duggan, said that the Government would not give up the death penalty until it was certain that the public would not be prejudiced by its abolition.

Mr. Duggan said that the Government would not give up the death penalty until it was certain that the public would not be prejudiced by its abolition.

Abolition in Kenya not automatic

The Attorney-General, Kenya, Mr. Griffith-Jones, O.C., said today that there was no question of the abolition of the death penalty being automatic in Kenya.

The death penalty for murder is a matter for the Kenya's own legislature, he said. It does not necessarily follow in Colonial territories, as it does not in the United Kingdom.

The conditions in Kenya are different and independent inquiry has been made into the matter.

Mr. Griffith-Jones said that the Government would not give up the death penalty until it was certain that the public would not be prejudiced by its abolition.

Mr. Whipp's death: No foul play

NAIROBI police last night ruled out any suspicion of foul play in the death of Mr. Charles Whipp, former City Water Engineer, whose body was found on the railway line between Kilera and Kilgora stations on Monday.

A senior police official told the East African Standard that the available evidence was nothing of more than a "cold case".

Investigation into the death of Mr. Whipp, who was 45 years of age, is being carried out by a team of police officers.

FOOD SUBSIDIES CUT IN BRITAIN

Action on trade deficit 'strain'

CUTS in Government subsidies on bread and milk were announced by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Harold Macmillan, in the Commons yesterday. The subsidy on bread will be reduced by one penny on the lid, from 2s. 10d. to 2s. 9d. a cwt. The subsidy on milk will be cut by a half penny a pint from July 1, 1956.

Mr. Macmillan said that the Government was taking these steps to reduce the trade deficit, which is estimated to be £1,000,000,000 a year.

3,000 DOCKERS ON STRIKE IN GLASGOW

OF HANGING M.P.s' VOTE

Excited scenes after 293-262 decision

PREMIER PROMISES NO UNDUDE DELAY

ABOLITION of the death penalty was approved by 283 votes to 262—a majority of 31—on Thursday night. The decision, taken in face of a Government warning, was greeted by loud cheers.

After the vote had been proclaimed for abolition for seven years jumped to their feet and cheered, many flourishing the public papers waved their air waves wildly and the news outside the House, was an excited crowd waiting in the cold outside the House.

Before the free vote—by which M.P.s. were allowed to decide according to their consciences—was taken, the Home Secretary, Mr. Lloyd-George, argued for two years the Government case for retaining capital punishment. A former Socialist Home Secretary, Mr. Chester Ede, led the abolitionists.

After the vote had subsided, the Prime Minister, Sir Anthony Eden, answering a question, said that the Government "will give full weight at once to the decision." At the earliest opportunity a considered statement would be made on the consequences which would result, if it would be the Government's wish that the death penalty should be no undue delay.

Abolition in Kenya not automatic

The Attorney-General of Kenya, Mr. Griffith-Jones, Q.C., said yesterday that there was no assurance that the abolition of the death penalty would be automatic in Kenya.

"The penalty for murder is a matter for the Colony's own legislature," he said. "It is not necessarily followed in the territories, or in Commonwealth countries generally, that the same law of Britain will be taken."

The conditions in Kenya are different and self-independent legislation has been given on being introduced into the death penalty.

Mr. Griffith-Jones said that the Home Secretary, Mr. James Broggy, announced that he would raise the issue in Parliament on February 23. He will also raise the issue in the House of Commons on February 24. He will also raise the issue in the House of Commons on February 24. He will also raise the issue in the House of Commons on February 24.

STILL BEREAVED

When the debate began, Mr. Griffith-Jones said that the Government proposed to abolish the death penalty in Kenya. He said that the Government still had to consider the death penalty in Kenya. He said that the Government still had to consider the death penalty in Kenya.

Change in the reading habits of Africans

AFRICANS are beginning to read more books than ever before—a thing which until recently was regarded as a waste of time and money, the 1954-55 report of the East Africa Literature Bureau states.

The report says that each week more than 15,000 Africans are buying—and thousands more are reading—the magazine Panama, which has neither news nor politics, but comments: “This undoubtedly represents a marked change in reading among a not inconsiderable section of the African population.”

It is beginning to appear that the principal impediment to the reading of books is the cost of the books, but there is also clear evidence that the mental attitude of reading books is changing among a large number of Africans. It is noted that the number of books bought in the last year has increased by 20 per cent over the previous year.

There is also a marked increase in the number of books bought in the last year. It is noted that the number of books bought in the last year has increased by 20 per cent over the previous year.

Ernestine Carter asks...
WHY SIGH FOR THOSE AMERICAN CLOTHES?

WHY sigh for the silks of Britain's fashion if the strength have been bent toward enlarging the export market?

Kenya Finance
To the Editor: "K.A. Standard."
Sir—Now that the bank rate has been raised to 3 and a half per cent and a Kenya 9 per cent development loan has floated, it should be possible to secure the finance necessary before dubbing a new measure that Kenya is getting seriously close to the edge of the precipice. One must admire Mr. Vasey's optimism, his foresight and courage, but what if his optimism is misplaced and his foresight is unavailing?
There are some failures in connection between the financial position of the Government and a government of the type of the Government of Kenya. There are three factors which are likely to be the cause of the Government's financial difficulties.
1. The Government's expenditure is too high.
2. The Government's income is too low.
3. The Government's assets are too small.

Belgian suggestion to cut toll of deaths in ring

EFFORTS to outlaw professional boxing in Belgium have not been successful so far, but the sport might easily be banned there if the Belgian Parliament favour a drastic recommendation for protective equipment for boxers in the ring. Since boxing's black year of 1953, when 100 deaths were attributed to ring injury, authorities in Belgium have introduced stringent regulations to reduce the risk of serious injury. The Belgian Government has appointed a committee to study the situation and to recommend measures to be taken to reduce the toll of deaths in the ring. The committee has recommended that boxers should wear protective headgear and gloves. The Belgian Government has also introduced measures to reduce the weight of the punches and to limit the duration of the fights.
