Britains Trades Unions

The Minister of Commerce, Mr. J. R. A. Simons, has today announced that the Government will support the Trades Unions in their fight against the proposed new law which would give employers the right to dismiss any worker without notice if he is found to be inefficient or incapable of doing his work.

The Minister stated that the Government's policy is to support the workers' movement and to ensure that the rights of workers are protected. He said that the proposed law would be a serious blow to the workers' movement and that the Government would do everything in its power to prevent its enactment.

The Minister also announced that the Government will be introducing a new law which will give workers the right to form and join trade unions. He said that this law would be a great step forward for the workers' movement and that it would ensure that workers were protected against unfair dismissal.

The Minister further stated that the Government will be introducing a new law which will give workers the right to strike. He said that this law would be a great step forward for the workers' movement and that it would ensure that workers were able to defend their interests against unfair treatment by employers.

The Minister also announced that the Government will be introducing a new law which will give workers the right to demand a written contract of employment. He said that this law would be a great step forward for the workers' movement and that it would ensure that workers were able to see the terms of their employment in writing.

The Minister further stated that the Government will be introducing a new law which will give workers the right to demand a written statement of their terms of employment. He said that this law would be a great step forward for the workers' movement and that it would ensure that workers were able to see the terms of their employment in writing.

RULE 32 CROPS UP AGAIN

It applies in Select Committee

RULE 32 crops up again in Kenya. The Select Committee, presided over by Mr. J. R. A. Simons, has today reported to the House on its findings on the proposed new law which would give employers the right to dismiss any worker without notice if he is found to be inefficient or incapable of doing his work.

The Committee found that the proposed law would be a serious blow to the workers' movement and that it would give employers the right to dismiss any worker without notice if he is found to be inefficient or incapable of doing his work. The Committee recommended that the Government should withdraw the proposed law.

AFRICANS TO 'MARCH WITH ALL FREE PEOPLE'

Colonial Secretary seeks the spur

OF THE best kind of evidence is that the Colonial Secretary, Mr. J. R. A. Simons, has today announced that the Government will support the Africans in their fight against the proposed new law which would give employers the right to dismiss any worker without notice if he is found to be inefficient or incapable of doing his work.

The Secretary stated that the Government's policy is to support the workers' movement and to ensure that the rights of workers are protected. When returned

The United African Congress, which was held in London last week, has today returned to Kenya. The Congress was a success and it was a great step forward for the workers' movement.

The Congress also discussed the proposed new law which would give employers the right to dismiss any worker without notice if he is found to be inefficient or incapable of doing his work. The Congress recommended that the Government should withdraw the proposed law.

The Congress further stated that the Government should support the workers' movement and ensure that the rights of workers are protected. It also recommended that the Government should introduce a new law which will give workers the right to form and join trade unions.

Africans point way to future progress

EDUCATION IS THE KEY

The progress of the African depends on education. Without education the other means will never bring us to freedom. The Union of South Africa, the Government of Southern Rhodesia and the Kenya Legislative Council, at a meeting in Nairobi last week, the resolution had been passed that the African Union should be given instructions for his forerunning state, as a delegate to the Kenya Legislature, in the African Conference.

The speaker said the most difficult thing was to get the Africans to get on their feet. He wanted to see an African who could do the European and Indian work and create their own life.

He mentioned the resolution in the African Conference which was to be held in London. He said that the Africans should be given the right to elect their own representatives to the Union of South Africa. He said that the Africans should be given the right to elect their own representatives to the Union of South Africa. He said that the Africans should be given the right to elect their own representatives to the Union of South Africa.

Harder work

The Africans representing Kenya, Southern Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa in the African Conference in London, will find their work harder than ever before. They will have to face the fact that the Africans are now being asked to do the work of the Europeans and Indians. They will have to do the work of the Europeans and Indians. They will have to do the work of the Europeans and Indians.

Immigration

The Union of South Africa, the Government of Southern Rhodesia and the Kenya Legislative Council, at a meeting in Nairobi last week, the resolution had been passed that the African Union should be given instructions for his forerunning state, as a delegate to the Kenya Legislature, in the African Conference.

Vaccines, a useful adjunct to other measures of control but not 100% effective.

HOW DO OTHER COUNTRIES TACKLE THEIR RABIES PROBLEM?

Dr. E. G. White, F.R.C.V.S., Director, The British Veterinary Research Organisation

By Dr. E. G. White, F.R.C.V.S., Director, The British Veterinary Research Organisation

It is well known that the rabies problem is a world-wide one. In many countries it is a serious public health problem. In some countries it is a major cause of death. In others it is a minor nuisance. The problem is to control it. This is done in various ways. In some countries it is done by vaccination. In others it is done by culling. In still others it is done by a combination of the two. The following are some of the methods used in various countries.

Cannot eradicate. Amongst the methods mentioned above, the most effective is vaccination. This is done in various ways. In some countries it is done by vaccination. In others it is done by culling. In still others it is done by a combination of the two.

T.U.C. HAS TO TREAD CAREFULLY

THE General Council of the T.U.C. is expected to meet in London, to discuss the proposed merger of the T.U.C. with the L.N.C.

The merger is being considered because of the need for a more unified labor movement. However, there are many objections to the proposal.

Fears unfounded

The fears that the merger would lead to a loss of identity for the T.U.C. are unfounded. The T.U.C. will continue to have its own voice and influence.

Workers' view

Workers are generally in favor of the merger, as they believe it will strengthen the labor movement and improve their conditions.

Rash condition

The current situation in the labor movement is described as a rash condition, with many workers and unions acting impulsively.

The rash condition has led to a great deal of confusion and uncertainty among workers and unions. It is important that they remain calm and thoughtful.

Scots in sight of Dobbie honours: Thika's first win

FRIDAY'S Radio—The famous polo match in which the Scots beat the Irish for the first time in 1881, was the subject of a broadcast on the radio on Friday night. The broadcast was given by the late Mr. J. J. O'Connell, who was the first to introduce the game to the Irish people. The broadcast was given in the presence of a large number of listeners, who were all interested in the game.

The Scots beat the Irish in the first round of the competition, and the Irish were defeated in the second round. The Scots were the only team to win a match in the competition, and they were the only team to be crowned champions.
