ZANZIBAR'S SEARCH FOR NEW CROPS

£127,000 PROGRAMME

SPECIAL and economic problems of Zanzibar are discussed at length in a Special Paper (No. 1 of 1945) which sets out a five-year programme of development, ending in 1950. The Acting British Resident has ordered that this Special Paper be laid before the Legislative Council.

An introductory note explains that the programme was initiated in 1942 when Sir Guy Billing, who was then British Resident, gave orders to a committee headed by himself. A commission had considered the broad policy, which was framed as an outline of the policy of the Zanzibar Government. The proposals were substantially endorsed by the Secretary of State.

It became early apparent that special measures would be wholly inadequate to finance the expansion of the proposed programme and it was decided to apply for assistance from the Colonial Development and Welfare Act. While the permit and the Colonial Development and Welfare Act was received from the Secretary of State of the allocation to Zanzibar under the Act of a block grant of £127,000. It was clear that an attempt to bring the whole cost of the proposed programme within the limits of this grant would have inevitable restrictive effect on the points where they would have been operative. The proposal was made by the Secretary of State that contributions should be made from Zanzibar from its surplus balances and revenues and by the raising of loan funds so that the Government should not set up the great operation of putting into operation a programme which would effectively cover most of the Protectorate's activities.

The readiness of the Zanzibar Government to undertake the greater part of the complete programme, provided means could be found to do so with safety to the financial stability of the Protectorate was immediately communicated to the Secretary of State. To clear up several outstanding issues including allocation of the grant of £127,000 to the various projects, the extent of Zanzibar's made available from loans, etc. The Hon. the Secretary Mr. Hubert and the Senior Member, had had it proposed to appoint a small committee to advise the authority on the following points:

1. The first section of the development programme is agricultural and is concerned with crop development, which includes the survey of crops other than clove and copra, the introduction of new crops, the investigation of the possibilities of increasing the production of clove and copra, and the investigation of the possibilities of increasing the production of other crops. The scheme for the development of Zanzibar is based on an intensive campaign in respect of a limited number of what are regarded as the most important crops. It is intended to achieve it by detailed survey and investigation in respect of each crop, followed by field experiments, developmental propaganda, and seed and planting material. It is expected that the scheme will be completed by the end of 1947.

The first rice, the basic food of the population, is to be produced on an important local industry and the gradual change to a cash economy, principally clove and copra, and the introduction of other crops. The scheme for the development of Zanzibar is based on an intensive campaign in respect of a limited number of what are regarded as the most important crops. It is intended to achieve it by detailed survey and investigation in respect of each crop, followed by field experiments, developmental propaganda, and seed and planting material. It is expected that the scheme will be completed by the end of 1947.

The second project is vegetable growing. There was a large expansion during the war for consumption of the local market. In 1944 the value was over £1,000. In addition to the normal production, private growers had increased enormously. A considerable section of the population... of Zanzibar towns is vegetation and is therefore a permanent and important market. Another aspect of the encouragement of vegetable growing is a cash crop in suitable local localities. There is a general deficiency in the diet of the Zanzibar population which can be rectified by vegetables, but these must be locally produced. As in the case of most preliminary investigation and experimental work has already been carried out and seed production has been started. The Government, since 1942 co-operative vegetable-growing clubs have been formed and are doing well. The plan provides for vegetable-growing on an island-wide basis related to other swamp and sand drainage projects and the manufacture of compost. A survey of vegetable production, varieties, soils in town and country, possibilities for small growing, seed production and marketing on an island-wide basis will be carried out.

Project number three is cassava. Cassava grows well and gives high yields. During the war a considerable amount of cassava was grown for the home market. It is intended to increase the production of cassava by providing seed and planting material. It is further intended to develop a scheme for the preparation of farine, cassava meal, and other products. A plan for acquiring information on the possibilities of increasing production, including the possibilities of increasing the yield of the crop, is being prepared.

The main fruit which is grown in Zanzibar is mango. It is intended to increase the production of mango by providing seed and planting material. It is further intended to develop a scheme for the preparation of mango pulp, mango powder, and other products. A plan for acquiring information on the possibilities of increasing production, including the possibilities of increasing the yield of the crop, is being prepared.

Tobacco is the main cash crop in Zanzibar. It is intended to increase the production of tobacco by providing seed and planting material. It is further intended to develop a scheme for the preparation of tobacco leaf, tobacco stem, and other products. A plan for acquiring information on the possibilities of increasing production, including the possibilities of increasing the yield of the crop, is being prepared.

Cacao is another cash crop in Zanzibar. It is intended to increase the production of cacao by providing seed and planting material. It is further intended to develop a scheme for the preparation of cacao bean, cacao shell, and other products. A plan for acquiring information on the possibilities of increasing production, including the possibilities of increasing the yield of the crop, is being prepared.

The need for clove replacement is looked upon as an important part of the agricultural development programme. The nursery scheme is to be expanded and aims at an annual output of 100,000 free seedlings. It is the general intention to continue (Continued on page 12).

That came out of the... This provides a very valuable vegetable... as a secondary crop... Government.

NO SERVANT PROBLEMS

Young Couple Do Their Own Domestic Chores

TALKING about the servant problem . . . yesterday we visited a young married woman, who has no house-boy headaches—she is the simple reason that she has no house-boys. Strange as it may seem in a town like Nairobi, Mrs. F. E. Rees and her husband find it a very satisfactory arrangement, saving considerable money and fear on their patience and vocal chords.

They were married some six months ago. Mrs. Rees, who has lived in a young married woman's world, there would be no servants in her home. She has no house-boys, no maid, no cook, no housemaid, the young couple pleased themselves with the pleasure of the labour of effort and discomfort of a young married woman, who has no house-boy headaches—she is the simple reason that she has no house-boys. Strange as it may seem in a town like Nairobi, Mrs. F. E. Rees and her husband find it a very satisfactory arrangement, saving considerable money and fear on their patience and vocal chords.

They have a boy in the garden and a girl in one week for the house. Those who think that a woman who does all the domestic work must be a slave to her household, Mrs. Rees has a lovely boy and a lovely girl. It is supposed to be very unkind for the bride to look at herself in the mirror when she is fully dressed, but it is quite safe for her to do so if she takes the precaution of adding something to her toilette afterwards—no soap! Instead of washing her face with soap, she washes her face with water. This was supposed to ensure peace.

£80 per Ton—Average Payment For Kenya Coffee

During the 1963/64 season the Ministry of Food continued to purchase the considerable surplus of Kenya coffee crop on the basis of the average price of the previous season. By reason of intense arrangements entered into with the Ministry of Food it was possible to maintain an initial payment to planters against deliveries of approximately £80 per ton average, as compared with approximately £60 per ton for the last season.

An interim payment of approximately £10 per ton was made to planters on April 30, 1964, making a total average payment to planters in respect of the 1963/64 season of approximately £100 per ton, though initial payments for the 1963/64 season were only £80 per ton.

Timber

There is a strong need for improvement in the preparation of crops. Copra-makers will be required: education and propaganda carried out particularly in connection with the type and operation of kilns, and the larger plantations owners will be encouraged to build kilns themselves and produce goods instead of selling them to the Zanzibar copra exporters. Questions of loans for such construction are discussed with the Cive Growers' Association, and a general survey of the whole industry will be undertaken.

Timber

There is a constant demand for building timber for the construction of houses which is likely to increase. Firewood requirements for Zanzibar are also considerable and are being met at present from the "dead death" clove areas within 10 miles. But this supply will become completely exhausted in a few years. It is, therefore, essential to find other sources and the Government planters are being urged to utilize their present lands and put to profitable use. Stock

Under the heading of stock development there is to be a survey of cattle diseases and on the advice of the Tanganyika Veterinary Department it is considered necessary to institute a complete control system throughout Zanzibar and Pemba and to make district centres. District centres will be built and staffed to provide information on continued stock improvement.

EDUCATION IN ZANZIBAR

10 YEARS PLAN FOR TRIPLE PRIMARY EDUCATION

Secondary To Be Improved But Not Expanded—New Taxes To Meet Cost

THE second principal item in Zanzibar's 10 years' plan set out proposed in Sessional Paper No. 1 of 1946 is education. It is proposed to spend upon it £250,000, including capital and recurrent expenditure, and at the end of the 10 years the education programme is estimated to add to the annual recurrent cost of the department £43,000.

The Sessional Paper declares that the essential of any programme of educational development is to provide facilities at the primary stage for as many children as possible before for the comparatively few who can take advantage of them.

In Zanzibar only some 15 per cent of the children are now receiving any education apart from instruction in their Kuranic schools, and it is therefore towards providing secular facilities for the remaining 85 per cent that energies must chiefly be turned. It would be financially impossible, the statement goes on, to provide for all of them within the next 10 years, but the programme aims at raising the percentage of children at school from 15 to 40 within this period; that is, more than two and a half times as many. If this can be achieved, the goal of universal juvenile literacy, though still a long way off, will be within sight.

The majority of any efficient system of education is sound teacher training, and therefore for both men and women this forms an essential part of the programme. Though the amount of secondary education must necessarily be limited, every effort will be made to increase its efficiency by those who show the greatest promise to receive the best possible education, to fit them for the Protectorate.

Three Aims The Government's ten-year programme to meet these needs comprises three main features—firstly, a considerable increase in primary education as the main objective, secondly, the provision of permanent centres for training of primary teachers from 150 to 450, thirdly, an improvement in the quality of secondary education without any great increase in its amount since this cannot be afforded at the present stage. Between the years 1946 and 1955 £250,000 will be spent of which approximately £160,000 will be for capital works and £90,000 for recurrent expenditure. At present the £250,000 required, the Secretary of State has promised a grant of £240,000 from the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund over this sum all capital expenditure will be met. The grant, however, is conditional on the acceptance by the Government of Zanzibar and the Legislative Council of the responsibility for finding the remaining £10,000 of recurrent expenditure from additional revenue.

Secondary Education Expanding the policy in regard to recurrent expenditure is one which stands with the pre-eminence necessary for extending primary education, it is one which Zanzibar cannot afford any postponement in secondary education during the next 10 years. The present Government's primary school for boys cannot be expanded until the secondary education programme for boys is in full swing. The aim will be to raise the standard of primary schools to the level of that of the Government primary schools where women as well as men are admitted, and it is proposed that Zanzibar's secondary education programme should be based on this standard. The amount of secondary education available to children will therefore be increased by a very large amount, and the atmosphere of secondary schools of the Protectorate will mean the education of a considerably greater number of our form of education at all ages. Apart from boys who do not occupy any school it is proposed that selected boys will enter various Government departments and training establishments, but it cannot be expected that all or even the majority can find suitable employment. This refers particularly to the pupils at which is known as the Rural Middle School. These boys will be given a broad and strong rural bias and will be trained in agriculture, stock raising and handicrafts, so that those who are not employed in the Government service may be able to find remunerative employment in the rural areas. It is proposed that the Government will provide for village life by the provision of instruction in the rural areas. A girl's boarding school is to be established at Pemba at an estimated cost of £12,000.

With the object of raising additional revenue to meet the increasing needs of the secondary schools, the scale of the Government's primary education will be introduced by the Ministry of Education. This secondary education cannot be a privilege to be paid for. At present the Government's primary education is free, but the Government is unable to continue this because of the provision of the Government of Zanzibar. The Government is unable to continue this because of the provision of the Government of Zanzibar.

As the Teachers' Training Schools are to be established, it is proposed to offer a number of vacancies in the Government service. It is proposed that as the courses will include a period of practical training, the Government will be able to provide for the training of secondary school teachers. It is proposed that the Government will be able to provide for the training of secondary school teachers.

In a reference to grant-aided schools, including the Government of Zanzibar, the statement says that the rate of grant-aid will be 25 per cent and a third to 10 per cent, as from the beginning of 1947. This will be further increased as contemplated.

By 1955 the total grant-aid will be £11,500, representing some 14 per cent of the total recurrent expenditure on educational services. It is proposed that it would be the proper to devote more of the effect of the grant-aid to the benefit of the rural areas, and of the Government of Zanzibar.

FARMERS KEEP YOUR MOWER KNIVES SHARP

This inexpensive knife grinder is designed to meet the demands for a handy, portable machine with which the farmer can sharpen his mower knives easily and quickly, and still retain the correct bevel edge and cutting angle of each section. It will grind one edge of each of the two sections at the same time. The knife is then moved along and the next two sections are ground. A spring maintains the pressure of the stone against the knife and the stone is of the correct shape to give the sections the correct bevel. The knife is held in the machine by clamps and simply turning the crank moves the stone over the edges of the sections. A handle on the frame permits holding the stone at any desired point so that ticks can be ground out.

THE COMMON OR GARDEN CABBAGE

No gardener should be without cabbages. They are the most important of the green vegetables and their production are the most important vegetable crops. Among their many advantages is their ability to grow almost anywhere, and to ensure a wide range of temperature, moderate succession of crops throughout the year.

There are a large number of varieties of this early-growing vegetable. These may be the 'Watercress' and 'Spring' are Flat Dutch, Brussels Sprouts, Savoyed and Drumhead type of Savoy cabbages. The seeds of these are sown from January to about the middle of May, according to the local weather. In the fenny districts, and later in the warmer parts of the country, it is sown in a seed bed in the form of sandy compost. It is not to be sown where they are to grow unless they are about six inches high.

A heavy sowing of cabbage seed will produce enough plants for a row 100 feet long. It is best to sow more than the number of plants required for this sowing, for seed germination and loss by cucumber beetle, etc.

Manure Essential

Cabbages produce an enormous quantity of leaves in proportion to the size of the plant, and require a high consumption of nitrogen. This is supplied by the soil, and a heavy sowing liberally manured with

Squatter Stock

LIMITATION AND IMPROVEMENT
It is an error, as a standard, to say that the Government is to solve restrictively the squatter stock problem in that the introduction of a new type of stock will solve it. It is not true in particular. There are two objections to the scheme. The total and per capita number of stock in the squatter areas, and to improve the type of native stock so that a very large number can sustain a reasonable milk ration for a normal family. It is suggested that two gallons per day is fully adequate. A further condition is that the introduction of which would be considered as follows: 1. A standing contract to be entered into for the purchase of stock to be allowed to expire normally at all times. 2. A standing contract to be entered into for the purchase of stock to be allowed to expire normally at all times. 3. A standing contract to be entered into for the purchase of stock to be allowed to expire normally at all times.

K.I.O.'S WAR RECORD
Future of The Office?

The first of the annual departmental reports for 1945 has just appeared, and in the report of the Kenya Information Office—13 pages of detail as it has not yet been possible to return to the practice of printing these yearly records. The report is in large part a review of the work of the office during the war years. It has acted as a clearing house for material from London intended to provide a background for an objective picture of the war to the people of Kenya. By the use of the office, a regular channel of communication has been established between the changed conditions of the character of the office, as a result of which the permitted the Indian section, the African section, the Reference Section and the office down to the report contained in this publication.

The name "Kenya Information Office" was used in the early days of the war in order to indicate a clear line of communication between the office and the Government. This name has been changed to "Kenya Information Office" to give it more appropriate status. The office was formerly a part of the communications section of the Kenya Information Office, but it has now become a separate unit.

The office was established in November 1941 and since that time has grown steadily. It has now a staff of 25, including a number of clerical staff, a number of interpreters, a number of translators, and a number of administrative staff. The office has been successful in its work, and it has been able to provide a clear and accurate picture of the war to the people of Kenya. It has also been successful in its work of providing a clear and accurate picture of the war to the people of Kenya.

Publications

Publications by the European Section included a Kenya Weekly News letter distributed in Britain, America, South Africa, and the African colonies. In three months 84 paragraphs were published in the overseas press from this source. Another publication, in association with the Agricultural Production and Settlement Board, was the "Agriculture in Kenya" distributed to 4,000 farmers. The office has also been successful in its work of providing a clear and accurate picture of the war to the people of Kenya. It has also been successful in its work of providing a clear and accurate picture of the war to the people of Kenya.

"I was unable to walk with any ease since I had my sciatica. After using Brylcreem hair cream for a few days, I was able to walk with ease and my sciatica has never returned."—J. H. Smith, New York City.

The first and most important step in the treatment of sciatica is to keep the bowels open and the urinary tract free. Brylcreem hair cream does this in the simplest, safest way. It is a powerful laxative—stimulates the bowels and keeps them open. It also stimulates the urinary tract and keeps it free. UNITED STATES EXPERIMENTS WITH FERTILISERS

The work that has been done in the United States on the localized application of fertilizers has been so extensive that placement has come to be almost synonymous with the application of fertilizers in bands or (sometimes a single band) usually in such a position that the band of fertilizer lies just a little below the row of seeds. This is known as row-placement, the bands being assumed to be continuous. The bands are spaced, but not always of constant depth.

Obvious modifications of this method are the use of broadcast placement and also other forms of inter-row placement, either covering the seeds together with the fertilizer, either down the row, or in such a way that the fertilizer falls in the same row as the seed, but at a distance from the last-row seed.

Two features:

The practice of covering seed and fertilizer from broadcast placement and also been little investigated by scientific workers. Placement of fertilizers in a row or row direction, the method used in the experimental work, has had considerable success in the past, but it is thought that considerable hopes have been placed upon the method of row-placement, in that the higher yields obtained by row placement of fertilizer in general have not been met by the higher yields obtained by broadcast placement. It is thought that the use of a smaller quantity of fertilizer in a row-placed band will result in a similar yield to that obtained by broadcast placement, but that the use of broadcast placement will result in a higher yield than that obtained by row-placement.

Secondly, the publicly given opinion that the use of fertilizer in bands is more economical than broadcast placement has not been substantiated in the United States, whereas the truth is that the use of fertilizer in bands is more economical than broadcast placement in the United States, because the latter is more expensive than the former. Some workers in the field of experimental agriculture cannot be entirely satisfied with the results of experimental trials in the matter of broadcast placement of fertilizer in bands in standard practice is the use of fertilizer in bands in the field.

Market Quality Of Eggs

Eggs that retain good table quality for two weeks at a minimum of one week following their date of laying are becoming scarce. The Department of Agriculture, which has been conducting a research program in the production of high quality eggs, has found that eggs of this type are being produced by a few breeders who are using special methods of care. These methods include the use of a special diet for the hens, the use of a special incubator, and the use of a special method of grading and packing the eggs.

SOUTH AFRICAN RIDER GIVES HIS VIEWS

A SOUTH AFRICAN horseman has written to the South African "Farmer's Weekly" advancing his arguments against another contributor's contention that "anyone who insists on riding with the stirrup on the ball of the foot has never done any serious riding."

The writer does not claim to be a professional rider, but he has done a lot of riding, and he has a good deal of experience. He writes that he has found that riding on the ball of the foot is a very uncomfortable and tiring position, and that it can lead to a variety of ailments, including blisters, corns, and bruising. He believes that riding on the heel of the foot is a more comfortable and efficient position, and that it is better for the rider's health and the horse's performance.

Air Taxi Pilot Besieged For Passages

Johnsburg. The first post-war flight by a South African from Britain has left one of our most popular passengers out of many scores who applied for the three passages available travelling to Cairo. When the aircraft will pick up four others to take to Britain.

These passages are costing them £125, and they will have to pay their share of the expenses. The single fare from Palestine to Cairo on the Springbok is £125, which includes all meals and hotel charges.

The pilot of the aircraft, Mr. J. A. Hankins, formerly of the Royal Air Force, was indicated with applications by people in South Africa. He will fly on his flight down Africa, and could not obtain an air permit, which is a case there on the return flight.

While staying in Durban, Mr. Hankins said, his telephone rang all day every day, and he had a steady stream of would-be passengers who were ready to pay £125. He accepted three of these applications, but, however, he has a list of 200 names, but Mr. Hankins is using a flight which has a large number of passengers with no luggage at all (S.A.P.A.).

Big Business Goes By Air

Britain's industrial leaders and shippers are flying once again to aid in the effort to build up export trade. A considerable amount of industrial and export goods are being shipped by air. This is reported by B.O.A.C.

Approximately 90 per cent of the passenger traffic on the Empire and Commonwealth routes is now a commercial character. The regularity of air services has increased. Service passengers. Businessmen of many trades and industries are being carried as far as Singapore, Bombay, Bagdad and Birmaham in cooperation with the Corporation's associates, the South African Airways and South African Airways.

B.O.A.C.'s passenger bookings in London is better every day, well over 1,000 telephone inquiries and requests for reservations on aircraft. Passengers who have travelled on any of the Empire and trunk line air services must not be misled by the word "business" which is not meant to be interpreted as the Air Producers Board for the necessary approval of the air.

On the Empire services, however, only a percentage of accommodation is available for priority for normal public use.

An important step was taken last Sunday in the restoration of the British Empire Air Service when a flight of four aircraft left England for Australia to complete the reopening of the route since 1942. At the outset of the service, the aircraft will be used for the first time in a new operation. The three times a week to Australia that will be serviced weekly from Britain to Australia.

Co-operative

A Sydney company—Butler Air Transport Co.—proposes to turn it into a co-operative concern, in which manager and the office boy will hold equal shares.

The company made sweeping cuts during the war and now proposes to manufacture small boats and houses to be sold at a profit.

The managing director (Mr. C. A. Butler) says he wishes to give all his employees a chance to go into business with him. He could not pay his employees as he would not pay them if straight away it would be better for them to be self-employed. A manager and his employees would be elected and different of opinions would be ironed out at general meetings.

Tanganyika Africans Criticised

"Growing Inefficiency and Lack Of Discipline"

OUTSPOKEN criticism of the African as a worker is made in the report presented to the Tanganyika Labour Department by the Tanganyika Labour Commission (Mr. P. Page). The report deals with conditions during the war period. The report was completed in April last year, but was not made public at that time. Mr. Page has to say: "The growing inefficiency and lack of discipline and distinction in regular work of the average African labourer is a matter of concern to which public regard is directed. It is a matter of growing importance, and unless this is remedied, the future development of the Territory will be seriously hampered. It is the duty of the Government and the labourers by both officials and employers to be concerned with this matter, which can be purchased to that there is a little incentive to attract conditions of employment are—

"Great wages in many areas are still unattractive. In the case of the African, there is, in the case of the African, still any incentive to work hard that the labourer is worthy of his wage. He realises that, little improvement in the wage of the worker is expected to be made until the end of the war, and this is a matter on which many employers have been slow to act. The present shortage of labour means that employers have been slow to act to adopt the best course of increasing the incentive to the worker. The effect of this need not be emphasized, but it is a matter of growing importance. The standard of living of the African is low, and wages are matters which call for the most careful consideration, but which industries in their own interest will be well advised to try their utmost to ensure are carried out in a satisfactory manner.

"Wages of labour and a regular turnover" the report continues, "are one of the Territory's main labour problems." Mr. Page deals of the essential nature of the problem in the hands of the employer, land and the African. As a result of a preliminary survey of conditions on the Tanganyika Commission, the Director of the Department estimated that in 1942 there were 1,200,000 man-days of work done, and that the same number of man-days were done in 1943. It is a matter of growing concern that the demand for labour required to keep industry going in the production working to full capacity was beginning to outstrip the supply.

He records that supervision of the country force was a feature of the past staff and declares it was apparent by the end of the year that some employers in the small industry in Tanganyika had allowed the need for maximum production to enter into their obligations to their labour for the industry in future years. It was only fair to state, however, that employers generally were not so handicapped, by the shortage of reliable supervisory staff.

Another matter which gave some concern at this time was the growing increase of crime and delin-

Union's Rationing Plan

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT) Freetown. Rationing by coupons will be introduced in South Africa about three months' time.

Bread, wheat and maize will be affected and it will be the principal food for consumers. It will be in the form of ration books.

Each coupon will entitle the holder to eight ounces of bread a day or six ounces of maize meal and one ounce and a half of maize meal.

The whole system was outlined in detail in South Africa at the meeting of the Deputy Prime Minister, Mr. D. B. Hendry, when the Director of Rationing, Mr. J. G. Hendry, announced that a Distribution Board would be set up to administer the plan. The Director of the Social and Economic Planning Commission, Mr. J. G. Hendry, will be in charge of the plan. Rationing will be introduced on a trial basis in the Cape and Natal. The plan will be given permits to carry on with large and small shops, such as big sugar and short staples, and will be introduced later and will be in the form of ration books. Each coupon will be purchased by the holder of the coupon and the cancelling of traders' permits will be given.
