

Finalists ready for Nairobi Show

Reporter: The order of the day is Nairobi's peering at the tangle that Park yesterday predicted would be the gates open day. Inevitable last-minute stands, larger ones, schedule and the glittering under new paint. The Agricultural Society of Kenya's executive, Mr. High Collins, said he was very good. Standards of things were high and trade exhibits were extremely high. "I have seen of the livestock that I am very hopeful we shall have a most successful and enjoyable show."

The Greeks a word for it?

They made available the Greek Government stand — which cost $40,000 to build for last year's show — not only will the blind pupils be back once again to demonstrate their remarkable skill in handicrafts, but pupils from Jostown will be many other Army activities will be on display. A number of firms have been taking stands at the show at the last minute — one which has taken one of the larger stands, J.J. Sporting Goods, which is displaying a wide range of sports equipment entirely made in Kenya.

to face murder trial

Head Reporter: District Magistrate, Mwangi, has committed for trial on a charge of murdering Mr. Link. The case will come on for trial in Nairobi. The accused is Chachero Kibu, Nyeri District. He was charged with the murder of Mr. Link on May 26 at Kilimogoi Estate, Murang'a. Mr. Mwangi said that a preliminary inquiry into the death of Mr. Link showed the five had a case against them to answer.

Rhodesia's M.P.s begin 'apartheid' debate today

Rhodesia's Parliament meets today for one of the most vital debates in the country's history. The House is expected to accept, virtually without amendment, a new republican constitution which will never the final vote with Britain and the Queen. The new Constitution will in effect prohibit any future change of status for Rhodesia. It will make African political advancement dependent upon the amount of income tax paid by the 5,000,000

U.K. ASKS FOR DEPORTATION FACTS

Standard Staff Reporter, London. The case of 112 deported Nairobi journalists is understood to have been taken up at Ministerial level in London. Britain's Junior Minister at Nairobi, Mr. Maurice Foley, has asked for all the facts and sent instructions to the High Commissioner in Nairobi to the effect that the High Commissioner should vigorously pursue the matter with the Kenya Government.

U.K. call for regional voice

Appeals for reform of the Labour Government provided a low-key opening yesterday to the British Labour Party's 60th annual conference at Brighton. Delegates complained of a feeling of remoteness at local level and called on the Government to take more account of regional views. Mrs. Eric White, the chairman of the conference, said in an open-air address that the necessary reforms, including financial devolution, were being carried out in England and Wales.

Israeli Premier seeks £420m. aid from U.S.

Israeli radio said yesterday that the Israeli Prime Minister, Mr. Golda Meir, had asked President Nixon for about $420,000,000 in economic aid over the next five years. The radio quoted what it described as an unofficial Israeli source as saying that Meir had talks with Mr. Nixon in Washington last week. Mr. Meir raised the question of Israeli economic burden stemming from the Gulf of Aqaba defence expenditure.

This new motor oil eats up the dirt that wears out your engine.

- ★ It gets dirty - so your engine wears faster. As it flows around your engine, new Custom motor oil soaks up ordinary motor oil sludge, oil particles, oil sludge and abrasive particles. It cleans up the bearing surfaces. Unclogs the oil passages. Washes away, and keeps away, the harmful deposits that can make your engine old before its time.
- ★ Its "custom-made" That's a phrase meaning made-to-measure, or specially formulated to meet certain conditions. Now you know why we've called it Custom - because it is specially engineered to solve your lubrication problems. You'll get better acceleration, more miles per gallon. Your car will last longer, with less wear and less trouble. And this can save you a great deal of money.
- ★ It's the world's most advanced motor oil. Developed by Castrol research, tested in all kinds of engines and conditions by over 100,000 miles of road testing.
- ★ Oilier at all engine temperatures. Even when your engine is old and an ordinary motor oil would be thick and sluggish, new Custom flows easily over the bearing surfaces. Makes starting easier, cruising smoother - protects your engine, not just against changes in climate, but fully over all its operating temperatures.
- ★ Armour-plates the inside of your engine. New Custom motor oil has special zinc-phosphorus additives that bond the oil to the metal itself. They make sure that no bearing is ever without a film of oil, no internal metal surface is ever without protection from acid, rust or corrosion.

Seamen tell of gun threat

The 13 Coloured South African crew members of the cargo vessel Good Fortune who left their ship a week ago after it berthed in the Mombasa Ship Canal for Zanzibar have been interviewed by a Labour MP, Mr. Frank Allaun.

Mr. Allaun said yesterday that the men alleged they were assaulted both while the ship was at sea and while it was in the ship canal. He understood that three White officers had also left the ship.

Among the allegations made to him, he said, was that men had been beaten with a sword. One claimed to have been kicked on the arm while in his bunk, and another to have been hit on the mouth with a tray.

He told that crew members had been threatened with a revolver.

He has asked the Board of Trade to investigate the steering, wiring and engines of the ship, to see if it fit to go down the ship canal," he said. "I am also pursuing the matter with the Home Office who say the men will not be forced back on the ship against their will - the men refuse to sail on the ship whether as crew or passengers under its present captain.

But they do not want to stay here as immigrants, they want to go back to their families in South Africa.

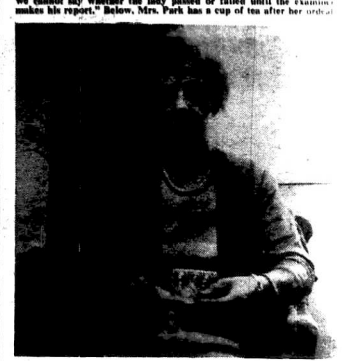

He also asked the Foreign Office to investigate the origins of the magazine the ship is carrying - if it should prove to be of Rhodesian origin it would be an illegal cargo.

The ship, said Mr. Allaun, is registered in Panama but is owned by a "one-ship company" run by a South African. "The owner is aboard the ship."

The ship's Master, Captain Jacobus Borstlap, said that the ship was probably hit yesterday. The 13 crew members have been replaced by a crew flown from Rotterdam.

S.A. Muslim leader dies in prison

The leader of Cape Town's Muslim community, Imam Abdullah Haron, died suddenly in prison on Saturday, a police spokesman announced.

The spokesman said that the Imam, 44, had apparently died of natural causes. A death had occurred while he was in detention, an inquiry would be held.

Imam Haron was detained last May 28 under the terrorism act. A doctor who carried out a post-mortem told his brother that he had apparently died of a heart attack.

He was married with three children, but none of his family had been allowed to visit him since he was arrested.

Several thousand of South Africa's 100,000 Muslims are expected to be present at the funeral later today. The body has already been embalmed according to the Imam's wishes.

Imam Haron was a prominent preacher and founder of the Muslim community in Cape Town. He was well-known for his sermons in the mosques and his lectures on the Quran which he gave in Afrikaans, English and Dutch. He was also a member of the Islamic teaching staff at the University of Cape Town.

Message from the Minister of Commerce

I am very happy to learn that the "East African Standard" is bringing out a Special Supplement on Pakistan on the occasion of the January Park Show being held at Nairobi from September 30 to October 4, 1969.

For me, it is a matter of great satisfaction that Pakistan is participating in the Show for the fifth consecutive year. Such shows provide the opportunity to know the products which they have to offer each other and as such contribute a good deal towards the development of international trade. The organisers of the January Park Show have, therefore, rendered tangible service to the development of trade. I must congratulate them for organising the Show year after year with success.

Pakistan and Kenya have a successful record of mutual co-operation in the commercial field. The volume of two-way trade between the two countries rose from Rs. 10.55 million (K. Shs. 15,820,000) in 1963-64 to Rs. 31.45 million (K. Shs. 50,170,000) in 1967-68. Pakistan looks forward to still larger increase in the volume of trade between the two countries in the years to come.

I hope the Supplement on Pakistan will foster further understanding between Pakistan and Kenya and help to forge an enduring pattern of co-operation between the two countries in the field of trade and commerce.

AHSAN-UR-RAQIB, S. Minister of Commerce, Government of P.

Pakistan has had a stand at the Nairobi Show for many years. This year visitors will be able to see many goods made in Pakistan, including carpets, handicrafts, leather goods, shoes, brassware, paint, bed linen, sports goods, bicycles, silverware, jute bags, sewing machines and silks.

The President of Pakistan, General Agha Mohammed Yousaf Khan

Policies that changed the economy

By Mr. Abdur Rabbb, Secretary, Ministry of Commerce, Government of Pakistan

Commercial policy should occupy a central position in the development strategy of a country like Pakistan which has embarked on a programme of building up a modern welfare society.

Transformation of a predominantly agricultural country with all its vulnerability in international trade into a developed, stable and balanced economy, with a strong industrial base, needs a tremendous amount of national effort besides being a time-consuming process.

The commercial policy of the country has been consistently and consistently used as an instrument to achieve that goal. Since the commercial policy has to contend with developments in what happens within the country it has acquired over a period of time a considerable amount of sophistication with variegated facets and dimensions each of which needs delicate and devoted attention and specialist treatment.

The export effort and the import programme are the two main facets of our commercial policy.

IMPORT POLICY

The broad objectives of the import policy over the past two years have been as follows:

- (i) Liberal imports of essential consumer goods and particularly industrial raw materials so that industry can work up to its full capacity, and provision of adequate import support for various sectors of the economy.
- (ii) Removal of anomalies and rationalisation of policy so that administrative control and discretion are reduced to absolute minimum.
- (iii) Realistic pricing of imported goods, keeping in view their priority and necessity so that the country can live within its means.

During the year 1968-69 (July-June), the two import policies announced continued to lay emphasis on increased industrial production and boosting exports of manufactured goods through liberal provisions for raw materials and spare parts.

During January-June, 1969, special licensing facilities were provided under cash-advance-bonus up to 100 per cent of the initial shares of imports under cash, credit or barter on production of proof of opening of letters of credit.

The July-December import Policy while following the same liberal and realistic framework of policy is backed by still larger resources. Twenty-two items, mostly important industrial raw materials, have been shifted from bonus to cash-bonus list.

EXPORT POLICY

One of the steps taken some time back to strengthen the institutional support for Pakistan's exports was the formulation of Annual Export Policy each year on the same lines as the main export or the import policy. The first annual export policy was announced on July 15, 1964. Some of the broad objectives of Pakistan's Export Policy are:

- (a) to expand production of exportable goods both in Agriculture and Industry and to adopt appropriate measures to accelerate investment in export industries, and increase productivity and output; (b) to reduce dependence on a few traditional markets, by seeking new markets, particularly in developing countries; and increasing exports to centrally planned economies;

(c) to diversify exports by increasing export of manufactured products and promoting exports of new agricultural products;

(d) to seek through bilateral negotiations and participation in the international conference for greater access for export commodities in the markets of the developed countries; for reliability and quality for Pakistan products exported abroad.

In the light of experience in recent years, the export target for 1969-70 has been fixed at Rs. 1,556.80 millions which will be 10.26 per cent higher than the export earnings of Rs. 3,225.90 million in 1968-69. Keeping in view our past export performance, and of course subject to other things being equal, it is believed that the targets fixed for 1969-70 will be achieved.

Diversification of foreign trade is an important principle of commercial policy. A serious effort is being made to find new sources of supplies as well as export markets. This has been necessitated partly by unsatisfactory terms of trade offered in the traditional markets and partly by the growth of industry.

Diversification aims at ensuring better prices for the primary products of Pakistan, obtaining capital goods to the lowest possible prices, and enlarging the scope of manufactured exports.

Trade, however, is a two-way traffic and we aim at promoting trade with all countries of the world irrespective of their political affiliations and ideologies.

Pakistan, whose trade with the Socialist countries of East Europe totalled Rs. 70 millions both ways annually, constituting a mere 2 per cent of the total foreign trade, until 1963-64 embarked on a policy of bilateral trading with these countries which preferred to trade on a balanced basis.

This policy has produced satisfactory results and the volume of exports from East European countries has now risen to Rs. 650 millions constituting 8 per cent of Pakistan's world trade.

Bilateral trading has made it possible to change the pattern of exports from almost 100 per cent on the same lines as the main export or the import policy to a ratio of about 50:50 between primary commodities and manufactures and semi-manufactures. Socialist countries purchase our primary commodities as usual.

Whatever quantities go in barter (such as exchange-saving industrial raw materials like fertilisers, pesticides, cement, sulphur and essential machinery and machine tools.

During the past year, the Export Promotion Bureau organised participation in 21 international fairs and exhibitions held abroad. An exhibition of Pakistan handicrafts was held at Buenos Aires.

These events enabled Pakistan to display a wide range of goods to interested buyers abroad, sell goods on the spot and book sizeable orders, besides securing a large number of trade enquiries for Pakistan goods.

The Government has decided to participate in as many as 28 national and international fairs and exhibitions to be held in different parts of the world during 1969-70. Development of trade with Turkey and Iran has been an important plan of Pakistan's commercial policy.

The Commerce and Industries Ministers of R.C.D. countries meeting at Teheran in early September, 1968, considered the entire field of expansion of intra-regional trade identified the factors responsible for impeding this trade and took a number of decisions calculated to develop it further.

In the early 1950's, the bulk of Pakistan's exports consisted of a handful of primary commodities, which had their traditional markets in the highly industrialised countries of Western Europe and Japan. These commodities together accounted for about 99 per cent of Pakistan's total export earnings. By far the largest part of imports also came from these countries and consumed mainly of consumer goods including cotton textiles, article fabrics, sugar, medicines and other necessities of daily life.

This pattern of trade has been undergoing gradual transformation with industrial development of the countries. In particular during the past few years, the pace of transformation has been accelerated, with the result that the share of primary commodities in our total exports came down from 67 per cent in 1964-65 to 51 per cent in 1968-69, while the share of manufactured goods such as jute manufactures, cotton textiles, leather goods, sports goods, surgical instruments and cutlery, drugs and medicines, etc. has gone up to about 55 per cent in 1968-69.

This change in the composition of exports, though healthy, has its own problems. We are now producing a sizeable amount of primary commodities, manufactured goods, and marketing abroad about 50 per cent of our total exports. Our traditional export commodities are confronted with a new kind of the over-increase in the expansion of trade in manufactured goods. These barriers take the regional economies, the various other restrictive measures adopted by the developed countries to prevent the growth of manufacturing from their own countries, from the protection of their own industries from low cost imports.

The importance of being a minority

Following the teachings of Islam, Pakistan started with the idea of religious tolerance towards its minorities as one of its cardinal principles of State policy. This has always been reflected in the Government's action bearing on the social, economic, cultural and religious life of the minorities in Pakistan.

Not only have a number of measures been taken by the Government for the protection and economic well-being of the minorities but also special care has been taken to protect their places of worship and their religious and cultural rights.

Protection and repair and maintenance of religious shrines of Sikhs has always received particular attention of the Government, because while the number of Sikhs in Pakistan is small, most of their shrines, including the most important ones, are located in Pakistan. These include the Gurdwara Janamasthan and other Gurdwaras at Nankana Sahib, the birth-place of Guru Nanak, founder of the Sikh religion; the Gurdwara Darbar Sahib at Kartarpur, where Guru Nanak spent the last days of his life; Gurdwara Panja Sahib at Hasanpota where the hand impression of Guru Nanak is preserved; and Gurdwara Charhi Fadhali and Gurdwara Sahib at Lahore, associated with the fourth and fifth Guru respectively.

After independence, the responsibility for proper maintenance, repair and renovation of Sikh shrines fell upon the Government of Pakistan and a survey of all Sikh shrines in West Pakistan was carried out.

A sum of over Rs. 20 lakh has been spent on the maintenance of these shrines during the last 15 years. An Evacuee Property Trust Board was set up in 1960, and took over charge of all the Sikh shrines and the properties attached to them in West Pakistan.

The Central, Divisional and District Evacuee Trust Committees are regularly functioning and Sikh advisers have been nominated. For important Sikh shrines, separate Religious Purposes Committees have been set up and Sikh representatives have been nominated on them for the observance of religious rites and practices.

The Board has now embarked upon an ambitious programme of providing additional amenities, such as electricity, running water, sanitary fittings, provision of drinking water and maintenance of grounds and living accommodation for pilgrims.

There are about 130 Sikh shrines in West Pakistan.

Every year thousands of Sikhs from India, Afghanistan and Iran visit Sikh shrines on important occasions.

The visitors are joined by thousands of Sikhs residing in West and tribal areas of West Pakistan.

Being the birth-place of Guru Nanak, the village of Nankana Sahib (Sheikhupura District, West Pakistan), occupies the pride of place among Sikh holy places. In this Gurdwara has been kept one of the most sacred relics of the Sikhs, the sacred Cloak, known to Sikhs as the "Chola Sahib". The cloak is adorned with verses from the Holy Quran, as said to have been presented to Guru Nanak by the ruler of Baghdad when he visited him during one of his many travels abroad. The Gurdwara was thoroughly repaired by the Government of Pakistan in 1959. Further the unattended cattle trespassed into the adjoining field and damaged its standing crop. Rai Butler is said to have visited the field and to his astonishment found that not a single blade was trampled or eaten by the herd and the field was green and fresh. The field where the miracle is said to have taken place is venerated by the Sikhs and a Gurdwara stands there entering the area once under cultivation.

Gurdwara Mal Ji Sahib, Nankana: While herding the cattle Guru Nanak used to take rest under the shade of a tree. It is said that once Rai Butler happened to pass that way and observed that the projecting shadow of the tree had remained stationary over the Guru. The tree which is known as Mal Ji Sahib is held sacred by the Sikhs.

Gurdwara Manshi Fatti, Nankana: It is said that Mehta Kaila sent Guru Nanak to Masudi to see Persian in the hope that if he knew the court language he might be able to earn his livelihood. He astonished his teacher by copying the alphabet from memory after one day.

Gurdwara Sacha Sauda (the barkana): Once Mehta Kaila, father of Guru Nanak, gave fifty rupees to Nanak and asked him to purchase profitable merchandise. While passing through near the Nankana forest, he noted a party Gurdwara Panja Sahib Hasanabadi wears a festive look as 1,700 Sikh Pilgrims from India and abroad throng the Courtyard on Basakhi Day, April 13.

A medical dispensary are also being set up.

Gurdwara Bal Lila, Nankana: It is said that Guru Nanak during his childhood used to play with the children of his age. On the spot, where he first played and subsequently spent nights in meditation, Rai Butler, the landlord of the village, built a small tank in affectionate remembrance of the Gurdwara at a time when his fame had spread far and wide.

Gurdwara Kiara Sahib, Nankana: Once Mehta Kaila, father of Guru Nanak, visited him to herd the buffaloes in a nearby forest. On the second day, Nanak fell asleep and

Domestic need is now an export

The progress of the textile industry in Pakistan has no parallel in the field of industrial development in that country. Within seven years of Independence the country was able to change its position of being completely dependent on imported cloth and attained self-sufficiency and was even exporting on a large scale.

Since the advent of Independence there was no textile industry and till 1952 the country had to import cotton textiles to the tune of Rs. 550 million, which it could hardly afford.

Efforts were therefore made to make the country self-sufficient in the production of cotton textiles, one of the basic needs of the people. Gradually factories were set up and spindles and looms began whirling in the burgeoning industrial centres of Pakistan. The prices, however, were high and the quality as yet poor. By 1955 increased production made a way for competition and brought about a fall in prices.

Pakistan inherited 177,418 spindles when it became independent. Within six years this number rose to 700,000. From then on the number of spindles is gradually increasing.

The installed capacity in March 1969, was 2,140,000 spindles and 718,000 looms in West Pakistan, and 1,000,000 spindles and 70,000 looms in East Pakistan. But after the newly sanctioned units are installed the figure will be greatly increased.

Thus, the textile industry was the first major industry to be developed in Pakistan. It received all possible assistance and encouragement from the Government in the field of tariff protection, revision of imperial preference and reduction in the rate of excise duty on indigenous cloth.

In 1964-65 there were more than 120 textile mills and, by April 1969, their number had gone up to 140. Their production accounted for about 30 per cent of the contribution of the manufacturing sector to the Gross National Product. It also helped to earn substantial foreign exchange.

It employs over 526,000 persons at present. The production of cotton textiles, which was 799 million yards in 1967-68. This production is expected to rise to over 786 million yards during 1968-69, an increase of about 20 million yards.

The development of the cotton textile industry has also helped in increasing the domestic consumption of cotton cloth. It is now more than 14 yards per head per annum and is expected to rise to 18 yards per head by next year.

The textile industry now occupies a vital position in the country's industrial structure. Its growth has made possible the emergence of a wide range of ancillary industries engaged in the manufacture of hosiery goods, tyre cords, and various fabrics like lace, ribbons and tapes. Dyeing, printing and finishing of textiles, turning out of dyed and printed cloth and dyed yarn are also substantially big industrial activities, which owe their existence mainly to the development of the textile industry.

This switch-over from domestic consumption to export has been a major achievement of the industry which was initially built to meet the domestic requirements.

Till 1965 almost the entire production was consumed locally, but thereafter the industry entered the export market and since then has been making an impressive progress in this field. The export of cotton cloth and yarn during 1967-68 has earned foreign exchange worth Rs. 417 million.

Wurse denies false story of bribe DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE

Standard Staff Reporter

A registered nurse who last year was in charge of Kiambu District Hospital, Joyce Njeri Kimani, yesterday pleaded "guilty" to giving false information to the Minister for Health, Mr. Ojende and publishing a letter saying that she had given a bribe to a doctor.

It was alleged that on December 9 at Kiambu, Kimani informed Mr. Ojende that she had received 500 from Dr. Bhojan when the latter was carrying out a health survey in the district. Kimani admitted that she had received the money from Dr. Bhojan who was then in charge of the hospital. She also admitted that she had given the money to a doctor in the name of Dr. Bhojan.

Kimani was charged with giving false information to the Minister for Health, Mr. Ojende and publishing a letter saying that she had given a bribe to a doctor. She pleaded guilty to both charges.

The hearing continued in the afternoon and Kimani was found guilty. She was fined 200 shillings or imprisoned for three months or both at the discretion of the court.

M. O. S. to emergency

Referred to recent arrests of party political supporters in Malindi and Kampala, Mr. Basiragaya said that their detention was necessary because they had been contravening the emergency regulations.

The fact that there were currently under detention about 40 Ugandans had been recently published in the Uganda Gazette. The Government was not afraid of publishing the facts as required by law, even though the emergency regulations and the detentions were not welcome measures.

Referring to the Opposition's attack on the Government, Mr. Mwangi said that it was the duty of the Opposition to attack the Government and that it was the duty of the Government to defend itself.

DYNAMIC APPROACH BY FARMERS URGED

Standard Staff Reporter
Nairobi

Changes in agricultural development could only be achieved through a dynamic approach, urged by the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Mwangi, at a conference in Nairobi yesterday.

Mr. Mwangi said that farmers should adopt a more active role in their own development and should not wait for the Government to solve their problems.

He urged farmers to experiment with new farming techniques and to improve their yields. He also urged farmers to work together and to support their local organizations.

Mr. Mwangi said that the Government was committed to supporting farmers and to providing them with the resources they need to succeed. He said that the Government was committed to ensuring that farmers have access to credit, extension services, and other support.

Mr. Mwangi said that the Government was committed to ensuring that farmers have a fair share of the proceeds of their work. He said that the Government was committed to ensuring that farmers are able to improve their standard of living.

The National Education Commission has issued a report on the state of the primary schools in Kenya. It states that the Government has made available 31,000 acres of land in various parts of the country which would be used to settle landless people. As the problem is acute in the country, first priority would be given to acquire such distribution of plots takes place.

The Minister, who has been on a tour of the area, said that people who will be given plots in the minimum minimum should be given plots in the minimum minimum. He said that the Government would not sell them to pay for their loans only once a year.

It had been found that many settlers were unable to pay their loans twice a year as they only harvested once a year. He added that if rains failed and the settlers had a poor harvest the Government would not ask them to pay for loans for that year.

The Minister was presented with a number of memoranda explaining problems faced by settlers such as marketing of farm produce, non-provision of grade cattle and the construction of roads. The Minister said the Government would build all roads and bridges in settlement schemes and thereafter local authorities would assume the management and maintenance of the roads.

Water tanks would be installed on hill tops so that all settlement schemes received their supplies from them.

Mr. Angima appealed to the settlers to contribute more in farming by increasing their output for the benefit of the country and to abstain from politics.

He ended his tour at Ainakoi where he said he was pleased to note that some settlers had accepted plots somewhere else so that their present plots could be used to build schools and clinics.

Answering questions, Mr. Angima said people in settlement premises which bring in an income of about £100 monthly.

The farms were running well, but there was a need for a Land Rover and two ploughs if rapid progress was to be made.

Mr. Kangehe stated that farming would accelerate the progress of the country. He urged his 1,000 members to put in more effort and increase the number of farms in their possession.

The members unanimously supported the move to a new farm as well as completing their outstanding bill of £30 for their shares.

The secretary, Mr. Ndung'u, assured members that very soon they will be settled on the farm provided that they have completed payment of their shares.

The Nyeri District Commissioner,

Mr. Alex Kangehe, has said that the Lions Club had played an important role in the development of the country.

Mr. Kangehe, who is an official of the club in Nyeri, was officially opening a fashion show and a dance at the Nyeri Club, organised by the Lions Club. A total of £100 was raised for the Child Welfare Society.

Mr. Kangehe said that the fashion show had been made a success by wives of the Lions who had decorated the fashion and organised the show.

He told the members of the Club that their work was highly appreciated by the country.

The Provincial Education Officer, Nyeri, Mr. C. N. Chomba, has told members of the Kakamega District Agricultural Committee that a campaign will shortly be launched to encourage people in the district to plant more tea for the 1970 planting season.

All civil servants in the district would be urged to plant tea on their shambas in order to set an example to others, said Mr. Chomba.

He anticipated that in two years' time tea picking would improve in the district. Farmers should be encouraged to increase their tea acreage so as to establish a firm tea base in the district.

Mr. Chomba felt that the factory site should be earmarked in order to avoid future problems. This should be linked with other rural developments to take place in the area.

A member of the Committee, Mr. Hezekiah Nyalayo said it was agreed that July 31 should be the latest planting date every year so that December 31 of every year would be the date for uprooting cotton debris for the destruction and control of cotton insects and diseases.

It was learnt that 8,000 shambas were registered with title deeds, but only 100 title deeds have been collected by the farmers.

It was agreed to educate the public over the benefits of having land registration and their title deeds to enable them to obtain loans from the Agricultural Finance Corporation.

CENTRAL Co-op to buy 20,000-acre farm

The chairman of the Matanya Estate Ltd., Mr. Kibot Theuri, who is the M.P. for Tetu, has appealed to all members of Matanya Estate Ltd. to pay their outstanding shares of £30 to enable them to buy the 20,000-acre Barguret Farm.

Mr. Theuri said that although the co-operative was formed very recently, it had bought four farms with 170 head of cattle and three premises which bring in an income of about £100 monthly.

The farms were running well, but there was a need for a Land Rover and two ploughs if rapid progress was to be made.

Three denies false story of bribe DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE

Standard Staff Reporter
A registered nurse who last year was in charge of Kiambu District Hospital, Mr. Thuku denied a story that he had received a bribe from a doctor to publish a letter saying that an Assistant Director of Medical Services had received a bribe from a doctor.

It was alleged that on December 9 at Kiambu, Kiani, informed Mr. Thuku that Dr. Thuku had corruptly received 500 from Dr. Thuku when he had received information was false, intending to discuss Mr. Thuku's official duties to be conducted against the two doctors, which Mr. Thuku would not discuss if the true state of affairs had been known to him.

An alternative account alleged that Kiani gave the information to Mr. Thuku when she believed it to be false and likely to cause Mr. Thuku to initiate investigations. A third account alleged that Kiani at the same time published a defamatory matter affecting Dr. Thuku.

It was alleged that Mr. Thuku had corruptly received 500 from Dr. Thuku when he had received information was false, intending to discuss Mr. Thuku's official duties to be conducted against the two doctors, which Mr. Thuku would not discuss if the true state of affairs had been known to him.

He told Mr. P. N. M. that he was defending himself when he had been instructed to take charge of the hospital. He said that he had been instructed to take charge of the hospital in September 1968 and later in 1969. CO-OPERATE WITH TEACHERS PLEA TO STUDENTS

The Provincial Education Officer, Eastern Province, Mr. J. M. Muriuki has called on students to co-operate with their teachers in the district.

He disclosed that some of the clothes were donated to the society by friends in England.

Mr. Muriuki was addressing students and their parents at a meeting held at the school.

He called on parents to assist teachers in any way to ensure that students became intelligent young men and women that Kenya could be proud of.

Highlights of the day included a fashion show of dresses made by the school.

Mr. Muriuki noted that already 5,000 dogs were immunised during July and August, but there were still some dogs not immunised, and these were likely to spread the disease.

Co-op to buy 20,000-acre farm

The chairman of the Matanya Estate Ltd., Mr. Kiboi Thuri, who is the M.P. for Tetu, has appealed to all members of Matanya Estate Ltd. to pay their outstanding shares of £30 to enable them to buy the 20,000-acre Baggart Farm.

Mr. Thuri said that although the co-operative was formed very recently, it had bought four farms with 170 head of cattle and three premises which bring in an income of about £100 monthly.

The farms, which are being managed by Mr. Thuri, are being developed as a Land Rover and two ploughs if rapid progress was to be made.

Mr. Thuri emphasized that the burden of educating them lies loyal to the Government and the father of the Kenya nation, President Kenyatta.

Campaign to plant more tea to start in Kakamega

The District Commissioner, Kakamega, Mr. C. N. Chomba, has told members of the Kakamega District Agricultural Committee that a campaign will shortly be launched to encourage people in the district to plant more tea for the 1970 planting season.

All civil servants in the district would be urged to plant tea on their gardens in order to set an example to others, said Mr. Chomba.

It was anticipated that in two years' time tea picking would improve in order to qualify for a tea factory in the district.

Mr. Chomba said that very soon they will be settled on the farm provided that they have completed payment of their shares.

The Nyeri District Commissioner, Mr. Alex Kang'ethe, has said that the Lions Club had played an important role in the development of the country.

Mr. Kang'ethe who is an official of the club in Nyeri, was officially opening a fashion show and a dance at the Nyeri Club, organised by the Lions Club, on the evening of 11th.

Mr. Kang'ethe said that the fashion show had been a great success by wives of the Lions who had designed the fashions and organised the show.

He told the members of the Club that their work was highly appreciated by the country.

Jarrett makes Rugby League debut

The Welsh Rugby Union star, Keith Jarrett, will make his Rugby League debut on Friday for Barrow, who signed him at the weekend for £14,000.

Commenting on the signing, the Barrow club secretary, Mr. D. Black, said yesterday: "It is a good thing not only for our club but for the game as a whole. Such new stars like Jarrett."

Northern Rugby League clubs have shown keen interest in the Newport goal-kicking centre since he first came when he was a record 19 points on his international Rugby Union debut for Wales against England in April, 1967, when he was only 19. He has also scored a record 73 points in nine internationals.

Jarrett was quoted as saying that money was not the only reason for the switch to professional Rugby League.

"Welsh rugby has become humdrum. The accomplished everything I set out to do in the amateur game and I cannot work any further for it now," he said.

The All Black full back, P. J. McCormick, will be the leading part in enabling Canterbury to take the Ranfurly Shield, a trophy of New Zealand provincial Rugby Union from the holders, the Hawke Bay, at Napier.

Canterbury won 18-11 in the final shield match of the season after Hawke Bay took a 10-10 draw.

McCormick, who kicked a world-record 24 points for New Zealand's 13-2 victory over Wales in the second test, at Auckland earlier this year, kicked three penalties with the wind behind him to give Canterbury a 5-0 half-time lead.

Dr. Denis Craven, president of the South African Rugby Board, officially opened the new Dutch rugby centre near The Hague.

In his opening speech, Dr. Craven, a member of the International Rugby Board executive, said that the centre had been opened on developing the game in a country with only some 1,300 players.

He said he hoped rugby would be at least equal soccer in popularity in Holland in a few years, when more grounds were built.

The centre, just outside The Hague, will be the administrative centre for Dutch rugby and its facilities include a lounge and bar, dressing rooms and a cinema.

Some 500 people attended the inaugural match between North and South Holland. Several South Africans played for South, but North won 21-13.

The new European Nations Cup amateur rugby championships will take place at Vichy, France, during Easter 1970, the International Rugby Federation announced at its congress at St. Sebastian.

The federation decided on two qualifying groups for the championships, the first, including Spain, Yugoslavia, Poland and Bulgaria, and the second, Morocco, Portugal, Holland and Belgium.

The winner of each group will take part in the championship proper along with France, Rumania, Italy and Czechoslovakia.

Countries represented at the congress, whose president was Marcel Basille of France, were Italy, Senegal, Madagascar, West Germany, East Germany, Portugal, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Morocco and Spain.

PORT BELL

It is announced that the net profit before taxation for the year ended July 31, 1969, is £476,717 as against £439,513 for the previous year. The board recommends that the issued capital of the company be increased by £210,000 to £1,260,000 by means of a bonus issue of one stock unit for every five existing stock units held to stockholders on the register at the close of business on November 18, 1969. It is intended to recommend that the authorised capital be increased to £1,500,000.

It is also the intention of the board to recommend a final dividend of 14 per cent on the existing stock and on the proposed bonus issue of one for five. This will cost £176,400 and represents an increase on the final dividend of last year which cost £168,000. Subject to approval at the Annual General Meeting, dividend warrants will be dispatched on or about December 16, 1969.

The stock registers of the company will be closed from November 18, 1969, to December 1, 1969, both days inclusive.

The Annual General Meeting will be held at Port Bell on December 2, 1969.

filled drains in the Third Division and Harpoleps v. Oldham, Warrington v. Chester and any trade change selection in the Football League. Both Rangers and Celtic are being a hard time of it in the Scottish top table at the moment but they'd rather have the pressure of a half way slide from the top 10 except Celtic to win at some on Saturday and Rangers to take a point at St. Johnstone, just as Aberdeen, Celtic, Dundee and Aberdeen at Ayr. In Division Two, Brechin, Hamilton, Greenock and Stranraer are all desperately disciplined enough to force draws, although anticipate goals are going to be scarce.

Secretary of Arusha R.F.A. resigns

The secretary of the Arusha Regional Football Association, Mr. A. S. Kilonzi, has tendered his resignation to the chairman of the association, Mr. B. Kwayana, and asks him to call an extraordinary meeting of the executive committee of the association in the middle of next month to elect a new secretary. Mr. Kilonzi added that his move had no connection with the criticism of the players who went to Dar es Salaam last month for the Taifa Cup but was purely due to decision has not been motivated by the "threats of the small boys". Mr. Kilonzi said that for a long time the post of secretary has been interfering with his work and he has been considering his resignation for some time. He pointed out that there had been submitted his resignation last year but was asked to continue to serve the association while they were doing was purely voluntary.

Thailand will not host World Cup play-off

Thailand will not host the World Cup soccer qualifying play-off between Rhodesia and the winner of the tournament between Japan, South Korea and Australia according to officials of the Football Association of Thailand (F.A.T.). The officials told reporters on Saturday that Thailand could not accept the decision of the International Federation of Football Associations (F.I.F.A.) to stage the match in Thailand, for a long time because Thailand had no diplomatic relations with Rhodesia. F.I.F.A. proposed the compromise after South Korea refused to guarantee the Rhodesians access to compete on the original qualifying tournament in Australia and neither Australia nor Japan offered an alternative venue. F.I.F.A. ruled that South Korea, Australia and Japan should play off in the qualifying tournament. Seoul and the winners meet Rhodesia in a neutral country.
