French policy explained by Gen. de Gaulle

INCREASE IN TRADE KEY TO WORLD PEACE

Eisenhower's Paris talks 'encouraging'

PEACEFUL co-existence between East and West is neither a fraud nor a trap but the only alternative to history's most destructive war.

Mr. Khrushchev and this in an influential article in the United States magazine, Foreign Affairs.

The special assistance that is being made to improve the economic situation of the world's poorest nations is being made to improve the economic situation of the world's poorest nations.

Mr. Khrushchev and this in an influential article in the United States magazine, Foreign Affairs.

The special assistance that is being made to improve the economic situation of the world's poorest nations is being made to improve the economic situation of the world's poorest nations.

The United States and France were yesterday reported to have made great strides towards solving their differences over Algeria and NATO central problems.

American and French spokesmen said after the opening stages of the talks between President Eisenhower and President de Gaulle that they were "very encouraging". Diplomatic observers went so far as to say the French leader had "won the day".

Gen. de Gaulle himself did not hesitate to tell thousands of people lined before the City Hall in London of the American leader: "Everything has gone very well between us."

Extra hour's meeting

The decisive part of the talks, however, was due to take place late yesterday afternoon at the Presidential chateau of Rambouillet. An extra hour was put at the two leaders' disposal by President Eisenhower's decision not to hold a Press conference.

Observers said President Eisenhower had concluded after his enthusiastic reception of the French leader's first talks with Gen. de Gaulle, that the French leader was "going to stay" and that budding France to the greatest feasible extent was consistent with America's policy of "progress towards peace" which the President has stressed throughout his European tour.

Trade ban rejected

Gen. de Gaulle was a guest of lunch at the United States Embassy in Paris.

In his address to the Assembly of the United States President Eisenhower said that the United States would not take any steps to restrict trade with the Algerians.

A great wave of pleasure went up from the massed ranks of the audience.

Three gifts

Three gifts were handed to Mr. Eisenhower — a golden watch, a silver vase and a silver vase.

Mr. Eisenhower presented the gifts to the Algerian Minister of State, Mr. Boumedienne.

Skull find described as missing link

THE skull found recently in Tanganyika was said in Nairobi yesterday to provide the missing link.

It is more than 600,000 years old and the curator of the Coryndon Museum, Nairobi, Dr. A. S. Leakey, whose wife made the discovery in the Olduvai Gorge, said it was "one more convincing piece of evidence to support Darwin's view of human evolution".

The skull filled in the gap between apes and man and was further evidence that man and ape evolved from common stock of very great antiquity, he said.

Rising lake theory

Dr. Leakey first theorized the find at the fourth Pan-African Congress of Pre-History at Leopoldville last week and leading scientists were agreed that "there at least was the skull of the oldest yet discovered stone-toolmaking man, who was a man from the point of view of tool makers but an early ape-like man in other respects."

When found the skull was surrounded by examples of primitive stone culture and the bones of animals, birds and reptiles which formed a "young" fauna of the Pleistocene.

Money for education short

KIPSIGIS WARNED ON RATES

Standard Correspondent.

SHORTAGE of finance for KIPSIGIS education was another serious shortcoming of the Kipsigis African District Council which was the District Commissioner, Mr. W. B. Raynor.

Speaking to the council's Budget session, Mr. Raynor, the council's chairman, said the council's financial position was a standstill in 1959 but he feared it would be a disaster if a substantial increase in rates in 1961.

Approval had been given for increased school fees, but the increase in other schools was not so great. The bill increased because of the increase in the cost of building and the replacement of unqualified teachers with higher salaries.

Rising costs

The District Education Board for the opening of five new secondary schools and the opening of five new primary schools and the opening of five new primary schools and the opening of five new primary schools.

The limited development was all the council could possibly afford at present. There could be no extra provision for primary schools.

Referring to the concern felt over rising costs, the chairman said there had been no discussion with the Government over the financing of education with the Provincial Commissioner and the other Nyanza District Commissioners.

He hoped a solution satisfactory to all parties would be found before the A.D.C. report for 1961 was presented.

Owing to the tremendous budget deficit of the 1959 Budget must be shown a standstill, as there was simply no finance available for increased services.

Poor rains

The poor rains had meant that the estimated revenue from taxes and rates had been reduced and it might well be difficult in some areas to collect the A.D.C. rates.

A limited extension in public health services, community development and other welfare services had been allowed for. Otherwise the figures were basically the same as in 1959, allowing for increases in all departments caused by annual increments for staff.

The only real solution to the financial problems of the A.D.C. was to increase the wealth of the district by increasing production in agriculture and animal husbandry. The chairman said that he had been very disappointed to find that the rainfall in the district was only about half the normal amount.

He said that the development of Lower Nyanza was a matter of great importance. The chairman said that he had been very disappointed to find that the rainfall in the district was only about half the normal amount.

WEEK-END STANDARD SPORT AT COAST BEGINS TO RIVAL BIG GAME OF BUSH

By Alastair Matheson

MALINDI, the old Arab port used by navigators since Biblical times, achieved a revived fame outside East Africa recently when a local "mermaid" was captured there and enjoyed herself several days before she was returned to her natural haunts.

If this female dugong (her proper name) proved to be less glamorous than most people expected, the capture certainly focused widespread attention on Malindi. But this coast is now establishing a much more lasting claim to fame, at least among the big-game fishing fraternity, for fighting fish in impressive currents off the town, anglers have been bait-

Take the 1956 Christmas season, for instance. In a period of 43 days, including Christmas and most of January 1956, anglers caught 118 sailfin, giving an average of two of these big-game fish every day. Individual sailfin in this total some near record sizes.

Two years ago a couple of converted native craft were all that was available; local fishermen were content with and marine completely unknown in these waters. Local fishermen were content with the sport offered by Kingfish, until a few years ago and the sport is good sport days, when the wind and tide wind blowing up to 10 mph, and the water is choppy and rough. Weighing up to 100 lb, sailfin are not hard to catch, but the time of the afternoon, evening and night are the best time to fish. A few years ago a weight of 100 lb.

VICIOUS SPIKE

While this vicious fighter with the vicious spike provides anglers with all the thrills they could wish for, the marine are really good sport. Of these three varieties—blue, in three stripes and in weights up to 300 lb.

It was a great fishing season for Malindi and a "tiger" was the first to be caught. The year's catch was not so bad. When the big one was caught, there were some other good ones, including a Kingfish and the coloured double-

Another firm favourite rivaling Malindi is Mombasa. Within 30 minutes of sailing off from Malindi jetty fishermen can be trolling the sailfin and marlin in the open sea beyond the coral reef.

Mombasa, of course, has its own active sea angling club, with a number of members from light-tackle men. Further south, Kisumu also offers good fishing.

All along the Kenya coast, from Lamu to Shikanda, the peak catch time is from November to March. In these months the sailfin (Mastigasterias) are run-

Sharks are plentiful off the Kenya coast and white ones are caught by anglers. The majority are landed by local fishermen (below) who had a ready sale for shark meat. Top, a sailfin being displayed by the commercial angler, Mr. Dick Jones of Malindi, who made the catch off Mtwara Creek.

MT. KENYA JUBILEE

Next week, in a special article, VAUGHAN will outline the history of Malindi on the occasion and describe the Club of Kenya, which is being formed to promote the sport.

TWO DIFFERENT ROADS TO SUCCESS

I KNOW an actor who, when offered a part, sometimes answers that he will have a hush at it. This is a spirit I applaud. I wish that actors and directors applied it more often to Shakespeare.

To have a hush at a play involves a measure of temper of cheerful impudency. It sprays a measure to avoid the author's obvious purpose (rather instead of making the victim of it) by searching for deeper and more mysterious meanings that implies everything but Shakespeare's "Play". Method and Freud.

In their place it is in speaking which is a smiling, or a hush at it. This is in the sense that Michael Coney's youth theatre has a hush at it. The players move with assurance and confidence, they respect the verse, and they understand the poet's intent. They are not over-elaborating play (or style) and, when they do without exhibiting a statement issued by a man who did not even know what was poetry was.

NEVER OBVIOUS

That at first glance, of course, they do not go in for hush at it. They do not go in for hush at it. They do not go in for hush at it. They do not go in for hush at it.

GLORIA SWAN, whose production of "The Taming of the Shrew" is described as a "beautifully staged and directed production" in the New York Times, means the principal feature of the action takes place near Dover, or at any rate in Southern England, and more than that, the play is in English. Therefore, after a while looking at the opening scenes, we are surprised to find that the middle of Shakespeare's work is transported to a land far from home.

Automation cuts costs—speeds service SERVICING LINE OPENS

FIRST OF ITS KIND IN AFRICA

AFRICA's first car servicing line recently rolled into operation in Nairobi to mark an important phase in the development of the Cooper Motor Corporation Ltd. and in the approach of East African car distributors to the unique challenge of these territories.

The servicing line, which is one of the few of its kind in the world, has been made possible by the building of a new £120,000 Cooper Motor Corporation headquarters designed to give a lead to all other car distributors who may wish to have the greatest possible standards of efficiency coupled with high standards of customer-service in all the fields of activity which comprise the motor industry.

Costs reduced
Automotive repair is an intensive task in terms of labour costs, the time taken on the job, the number of vehicles in the workshop and the number of staff required. The new servicing line is designed to perform and complete the work as efficiently as possible, to save on the use of labour and to reduce the cost of running the workshop. The line has already established the reputation of being the most efficient servicing centre in the world.

Using a 50-Volt Volkswagen
The new servicing line is designed to ensure that the car owner has the most efficient service possible. It is designed to handle 50-Volt Volkswagen cars which are the most popular in the world.

Connaught House

Contemporary and functional NEW HEADQUARTERS GIVE LEAD TO EAST AFRICA

CONNAUGHT HOUSE, the imposing new building at the junction of Connaught and Whitehouse Roads which has become the headquarters of the Cooper Motor Corporation Ltd., was designed by architect Mr. Peer Arben to provide the motorist with a service and sales organisation situated centrally and to which all branches of the motor-vehicle business, with the exception of heavy repairs could be conducted under the same roof.

Its theme is simplicity yet its design is a masterful illustration of the needs of the modern motor industry and the adaptation of contemporary building styles to create a building which is as functional as it is labour-saving and attractive.

Rectangular design
The building, four storeys and the foundations have been built to support a further three floors to give room for the future expansion of the C.M.C. services which now cover the whole of East Africa. The building is a masterpiece of modern design, with a simple, functional style. The building is a masterpiece of modern design, with a simple, functional style.

C.M.C. REACH THE TOP IN TEN YEARS OF DEVELOPMENT

How a small company with an authorised share capital of £14,000 (and an actual capital of much less) has grown in just over ten years into its present commanding position in the motor world, with an authorised capital of £500,000, an annual turnover of over £3,000,000, branches all over East Africa and a magnificent new Nairobi headquarters, was described this week by the man behind it all, Mr. Desmond Allen.

Mr. Allen came to East Africa in 1942 at the request of Mr. E. C. Becher, a well-known London financier, who had obtained the Land-Blower agency for East Africa with a view to selling Land-Blowers and the Transvaal groundsheet machine. Arriving in Johannesburg, Mr. Allen registered the Cooper Motor Corporation Ltd. on July 31, 1942. He had £1,000 in his pocket and £100 in the bank. He had a "sales manager" named George Becher, who was a South African. Shortly afterwards he was joined by a "technical salesman", Mr. A. L. Ridgway, who is now the Company's Sales Director.

Early success
In November, 1942, the first Land-Blower, the very first of a new type, arrived in Kenya just as the British Army was about to leave Nairobi. It was exhibited and created great interest. The first consignment of Rover 75s arrived about the same time. In January, 1949, Mr. Allen and Mr. Ridgway left for London to secure a factory in East-Africa. They returned in 1951 with a factory in East Africa. They returned in 1951 with a factory in East Africa.

The First VW

OUR ALLOCATION OF VOLKSWAGENS to East Africa is not nearly as high as we should like it to be. You may have read in the world Press that the Volkswagen factories in Germany cannot at present meet world demand. This is being rectified, beginning next year and onwards, by the stepping-up of production by 100,000 vehicles during 1960 and following years, until saturation point is reached.

It is terms have been extended to home delivery cars and a recent Mr. Doreen Marshall, the C.M.C. Home Delivery report, is experiencing a boom of business.

MAKES A VERY EFFICIENT COMPANY EVEN MORE EFFICIENT

After-sales service is practically a religion with the Cooper Motor Corporation and undoubtedly a large part of the Company's success is due to this factor. The tireless search for improvement in this aspect of their business has resulted in the labour-saving Burroughs installation described below.

D. E. Hughes, M.C., T.S., A.C.A., Financial Director, who investigated various systems that would provide the answer to complete stock control before finally approving the Burroughs solution.

ABOVE: A view of the installation, with the African and Asian operators at work. Notice how a small Burroughs automatic control board the tremendous amount of work required before. INSET: G. C. Matthews, General Manager, who was responsible for the installation and streamlining of the Burroughs system. RIGHT: Mr. Andrew, supervisor of the Burroughs installation.

FOR the Cooper Motor Corporation, customer service requires that the correct spare parts be available at the right time in the right place, and this means up-to-the-minute stock control of approximately 100,000 item records, valued at over one-third of a million pounds, and it must be a streamlined system covering all receipts and issues of spares over nine widely divergent Branches and Depots.

How was this achieved? Burroughs provided the answer with their famous SENSIMATIC—the machine specially built to make stock control AUTOMATIC.

Mr. D. E. Hughes, Financial Director, summarised the advantages of their system as follows: "... accurate information... economy... better management control... better service to customers... Mechanical accounting means increased efficiency; and increased efficiency means additional profit."

NEW PREMISES IN TANGA AND DAR ES SALAAM EXPAND C.M.C. NETWORK

Work beginning this year

New premises in Tanga and the opening of a new workshop in the town of Dar es Salaam which will contain mechanical, electrical and carpentry work will be the next two major developments of the Cooper Motor Corporation East African service network.

Work on the Tanga premises will begin at the end of the year. The Dar es Salaam premises are expected to be completed by the end of the year and will help meet a heavy demand for a centrally situated service organisation.

Traveling workshops
At present the Company has branches in Mombasa, Tanga, Dar es Salaam, Nakuru, Eldoret and Kisumu and maintains Company representatives in Mwanza and Mtwara. The Company also has 15 dealers in Kenya, 14 in Tanganyika and eight in Uganda.

To keep in the forefront and continue to deal with modern service techniques the Company has built and equipped several mobile service vehicles which are staffed by factory-trained mechanics and technicians.

A postcard to the search will ensure that the motor is serviced, tuned and ready for collection and return on their arrival.

Records for all sales effected throughout East Africa are kept in Nairobi by the Chief Clerk, Mr. M. N. Manubhai.

Mr. Patel joined C.M.C. in 1954 as a clerk. Part of his job is to allocate vehicles to branches. When he joined the company there were only three mobile handling sales vehicles in the East Africa zone.

Motor vehicles are by no means the only mobile units of the C.M.C. branches. The C.M.C. Marine Division is doing a thriving business in selling and repairing outboard motors and TUD stern-drive engines.

Large quantities of British Axminster are being sold in Uganda. Customers who are beginning to

C.M.C. storemen have at last obtained a showroom which does justice to their business. With its highly polished terrazzo tiled floor, up-to-date window styling and modernised entrance the showroom provides a fitting setting for the new Rover's and Humber's.

Each compartment is numbered and the names corresponding to the numbers are written on the wall. When the customer asks for a particular car, the attendant gives an African name who goes to the compartment and brings the car to the showroom. A goods lift has been installed for this purpose.

There is no substitute for the 4-wheel drive

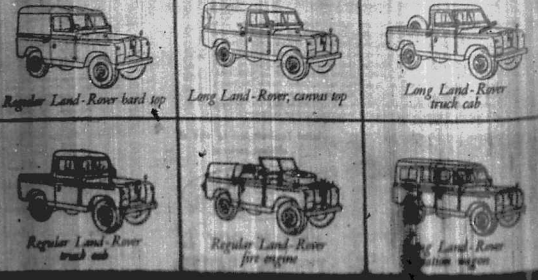

Throughout the world Land-Rovers daily demonstrate the supremacy of British motor vehicle design and engineering. These rugged four-wheel-drive, all-purpose vehicles are hailed in many lands as the perfect answer to a multitude of transport and utility problems—particularly in those countries where the going is really rough. There are Land-Rovers in nine different body styles and on two different chassis lengths—and all of these are giving sterling service on the roads and in the rough of East Africa today.

Sold and serviced throughout East Africa by THE COOPER MOTOR CORPORATION LIMITED.

9 DIFFERENT BODY STYLES INCLUDING

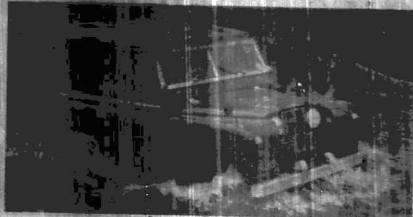

SERIES II. LAND-ROVER FAST, COMFORTABLE More powerful engine and better looks

Just over ten years, since the introduction of the Cooper Motor Corporation Ltd., over 25,000 Land Rovers have been imported into Kenya. C.M.C.'s factories were included on the Land Rover when they reported 80% of their sales to the Transvaal provincial government.

When C.M.C. over East Africa have registered their original intention. When the Rover Company Ltd. began to produce Land Rovers it was a deliberate move to meet the demands of countries whose terrain and roads called for a vehicle of infinite utility, reliability, utility, ruggedness and versatility. That Land Rover was an immediate success in the world's most developed countries.

Since its introduction in 1948 over 200,000 Land Rovers have been produced and its versatility in operation in territories where reliability and ruggedness are essential has led to more than 75% of production countries making the Land Rover Britain's most exported commercial vehicle. The Land Rover which will be exhibited from this year will be of the Series II, which is the product of the Rover experience in producing the world's most reliable and versatile four-wheel drive vehicle. Without undervaluing any of the features which have made the Land Rover's international reputation, Rover engineers have produced the Series II a better

A Series II Land-Rover takes jobs in its stride.

NEW ROVER ENGINES ON 1960 MODELS

No change in body styling

Driver and passenger comfort has been improved by redesigned seating which is deeper and softer than the previous one, while attention to springs and shock absorbers has effected additional improvements to the ride of the Land Rover both on the road and over rough country. Further refinements are the pedal-type clutch and brake pedals, mounted high on the engine side by the grille, and the external oil filter which makes it easier to refill from cars when working off the main tank. All windows are now of polycarbonate. The new side and rear light special side and rear lights are now fitted. Indicator lights are a separate light for the rear.

Plans to introduce new Rover engines during 1960 have been announced by the Rover Company. From next year the "90", "75", "80" and "95" engines will be discontinued and in their place the factory is introducing two engines to replace the four 1959 units. The engine will be known as the "Model 90" and the "Model 100". The "90" will be a 24-litre 2,286 c.c., four-cylinder engine which gives a considerably greater power output than the "80". The engine is in fact based on the 24-litre Land-Rover engine and has a high degree of interchangeability of parts with that engine.

The new 3-litre Rover is already providing big appeal in the luxury car market. Door windows and a high compression engine giving a compression ratio of 13 to 1. Door-to-door will be available at no extra cost. Optional extras in the 3-litre will include overdrive, which C.M.C. strongly recommends should be fitted if the full enjoyment of driving the 3-litre is to be experienced in conjunction with the utmost economy. It is in fact the policy that all 3-litre models other than the 3-litre automatic version be fitted with overdrive as standard equipment. Therefore the units imported for stock purposes will all incorporate the 3-litre overdrive. Do-Not-manipulate overdrive.

3-litre saloon
The "100" engine is essentially based on the "90" engine. In fact a 24-litre version of the 100 engine. It will provide all the smoothness and most of the economy of the current "90", with a performance comparable to that of the "100". For 1960 no alterations will be made to the body, trim styling and colours of the 1959 models. C.M.C. will also continue to import the 3-litre Rover motor during 1960 and in future all Rovers will be fitted with Clifton disc brakes. In addition, the 3-litre saloon sold in East Africa will incorporate special heavy-duty shock absorbers, exterior air scoops fitted to both front door windows and a high compression engine giving a compression ratio of 13 to 1. Door-to-door will be available at no extra cost. A moment of decision!

YOU'RE APPROACHING THE MOTOR COACH PART... the way ahead is clear, though to get by before the corner, with an extra spur of speed. You judge the distance, consider the wet road surface, glance in the mirror. To pass or to remain... this is your moment of decision—the moment when you must be sure of the answer your tyres will give to split-second acceleration or sudden slowing down. INDIA TYRES are made for the man in a hurry—made to give sure, steady road holding and really powerful grip at all speeds, in all weathers. They're tougher, to stand up to the extra road wear of the modern high speed cars and motor roads; they're safer because special tread designs give greater surface adhesion and stronger casing materials give better stability, smoother, cooler running.

FIT TWO TYRE PATTERNS FOR A 'SUPER' TEAM
The modern car is built with the thought concentrated in the front. This puts more strain on the front tyres, too a right on the rear ones. So, for perfect safety and better performance you need the INDIA SUPER team of two different, specially designed types for front and rear wheel use—INDIA 1 for the front, INDIA SUPER MULTIGRIP on the rear. INDIA 1 TYRES are the finest made, custom-built for greater mileage, greater safety. For the sake of every piece of metal, make your next set of new tyres INDIA 1 TYRES.

INDIA SUPER MULTIGRIP FOR THE REAR WHEELS
For all-weather roads, tyre with a deep-grooved tread for positive gripping power and better road stability. The tread is self-cleaning, giving greater than wear contact area for steady and smooth running.

Chess Corner

By C. W. D. Alexander
THE first year's British one championship was an outstanding good one and encouraging for British chess.

The standard of playing was higher than usual, with an extremely close contest and few of the younger generation. M. J. Haycraft of Leeds, and J. Lilford, of Brompton, established themselves as players of real class.

One of the most striking features, if we take the top ten players—Colebrook, Haycraft and Pearson (a joint), Aitken, Hasen, Clarke and Littlewood (3) and Coffey, Bergstedt and myself (4)—is the very curious use of pattern white pieces.

The white pieces, frequently played in the British championships in 1935 (Osborne, Aitken and myself) found a respectful though not a respectful and the white of the 20 to 25 years of age group, of whom the pleasing 40 per cent of the players are in the absence of first-class chess in the new years.

Of the winners the surprise was that of the young players. Haycraft, who went through the tournament with confidence playing with confidence and accuracy, and seldom looked nervous, and seldom looked tired, was a surprise. He showed much better than most players with great accuracy and accuracy in his play. He is a very good player, and is a very good player, and is a very good player.

I thought Pearson placed best of all; he was the best of the best with 11½ was most impressive, and he had better ideas than anyone else in the tournament. He will be played off in November (two games between each pair of players) and I shall Pearson will remain title, the three coming weeks I will give prizes by each of the three from the championships.

BRIGHTER LOOK IN MAKE WEAR

By J. E. FAIRBAIN, a London textiles correspondent and writer on men's fashions.

THE look about the leisure clothes British men wear today is fresher and more relaxed in the clothes. British manufacturers are showing at the current International Men's Fashion Week at Cologne.

One way of colour was Britain now goes on holiday laid in the sport of brightly coloured trousers and accessories and, for the seaside, eye-catching beach gear, sun burners and accessories.

Even the more formal khaki and grey uniforms, like sports jackets and sports suits, have more colour and pattern have been changed to make them more interesting. The effect is often introduced subtly. There is a brilliant use on the jackets with the grey and brown of tropical animal prints, so that the result is bright and particularly fresh. Brightly coloured hosiery, too, is being used more extensively. These are highly skilled in producing such colour effects.

Soft trends

For sports jackets there are two main classes of trend. One is the soft-handling 'moccasin' style, in which the fabric is a colour trend are well exemplified in the 'moccasin' style. In fashion at present is the 'moccasin' style, in which the fabric is a colour trend are well exemplified in the 'moccasin' style.

Riding influence

For those who look to the traditional in British sports clothes there is a trend towards the 'riding' style. This is a trend towards the 'riding' style, in which the fabric is a colour trend are well exemplified in the 'moccasin' style.

Modern outlook

Reflecting the modern outlook in British sports clothes there is a trend towards the 'modern' style. This is a trend towards the 'modern' style, in which the fabric is a colour trend are well exemplified in the 'moccasin' style.

BRITAIN is giving another fashion lead to the world in men's sportswear. One time with a bright look to the clothes designed for leisure time. A sports jacket in 'Lancaster', a West of England striped sports material of high quality, is shown above. Two trousers are in a lightweight solid checked twill.

Tailors turn to lightweights

High frayed pockets (like those of breeches) and is made from heavy Bedford cord, for which the British have a reputation. It is represented in the 'Lancaster' style. A game of Russian 'Pashball' at Botsoy - on. The photograph shows a game which is popular in that part of the Soviet Union. Pashball, as in polo, the temporary rule books, the ball, however, was a globe, gigantic compared with any ball used in a game played in the West.

RULING FOR OLYMPIC GAMES 'ARBITRARY'

JIM PETERS, the former world marathon champion, gives his views on the qualifying standards for the Rome Olympics.

SHOULD an athlete be expected to run 4,000 metres as fast in Delhi as in Delhi? Or the 100 metres as quickly in London as in Los Angeles? The answer is obviously "No", so much do climates and running conditions vary from country to country.

Yet, without any allowance for these factors, the rulers of international athletics have produced a list of qualifying standards for next year's Olympic Games in Rome. The idea is to thin out the number of competitors and facilitate the organization of the greatest athletic show on earth.

A country can make up for its lack of fast runners by sending a full quota of three other athletes who have achieved a certain performance for the event.

It is, of course, not the idea at all, in my view, the which arbitrary athletic performance system to do out which anyone can do out which anyone can do out.

The Games are also a quarterly occasion, a grand gathering of the athletes' class from the world over.

LITTLE MEANING
If they have to be prizewinners, it is not the system, but the athletes who come under the axe. There is no need to worry for a set of figures that are arbitrary and, to a large extent, meaningless.

Take the 100 metres, for instance. Britain's representative has little chance of getting over the 14.4 sec. (100 yards) in 19.5 sec. for the 100 yards) but they would make a much better chance of returning that time in America. It shows up the fallacy of the whole system.

The same applies to the mile and longer distances, a runner in the California climate is faster than a runner in the London climate.

IDEAL TRACK
In the rule and nature of the game, the athlete's training towards athletics who live in cooler climates, it is one of the chances, I imagine every mile on the American track, it is a 45 sec. qualifying time for the 100 metres would choose to run the 100 metres track in the favourable climate at Delhi's stadium.

There is one thing that I hope that the world would do, it is to have a 100 metres race for the mile. I would not fancy that the world would do it, but it is a possibility.

Much useful advice on polo—for new and experienced players

By H. G. SWINBURNE, WARD
A RECENTLY published book, 'Practical Polo' by Lt. Gen. W. G. Vickers, can be recommended to all beginners of a game which, as the author writes, presents to the novice "so many disadvantages and so many perplexities".

It could also be studied with advantage by many of our older players, although the tips on mounts and strength of stirrups could be enlarged upon considerably.

This is the part of riding which, at the beginning of the century, the game was played as the first training ground for children, and even for adults. It makes the most of a gallop.

CHOICE OF STICKS
The principles and methods of the beginner are well brought out in the early chapters, though the author's views on "riding off" perhaps more stress could be laid on the use of "side" by leg and reins to bring the full weight of the horse and rider to bear on the stick.

The advice on hitting the ball and how to practice in polo work studied by all players, young or old, is very rightly considered, and the author's views on the "ride" are well brought out.

The "ride" and "draw" in the last chapter could well be studied for all players, young or old, the diagrams showing a "draw" and "ride" are well brought out.

STERLING MATTER
A great deal of sterling matter has been covered here into a series of chapters, particularly those on "draw" and "ride" are well brought out.

The individual player and his role in the game are well brought out, and the author's views on "draw" and "ride" are well brought out.

Number one should have a subscription, and the author's views on "draw" and "ride" are well brought out.

OVER 35 AND WORRIED?
How long you can stay younger longer and stay the youngest form your extra years of life!

VYKMIN ESSENTIAL

As written in the British Medical Journal (June 2, 1960, p. 1262) the doctors at the Cambridge Clinic of Anthony Perry, M.D., have set the record in the treatment of men aged 35 to over 60 years old who are suffering from various forms of senescence.

Statistics show that, but for the help of medicine, the average man would live for only 40 years. The help of medicine has extended his life to 70 years. The help of medicine has extended his life to 70 years.

PARTY'S POLICY WOULD MARCOON RACE

'AMAZING' FLOW OF LIBERAL POLICIES IN KENYA

Mr. Blundell warns against danger of racial segregation

MAKING what was probably his last speech as Kenya's Minister for Finance, Sir Peter Vandy said yesterday that the present flow of liberalism in the country was "amazing" when judged against the outlook which would be sought if the "Specialist" party were in power.

"The European community follows Mr. Roberts, Mr. Day and Group Captain Briggs in the policy of the Party, European endeavour as a thriving entity will no longer exist in ten years' time, the leader of The New Kenya Group, Mr. Blundell, said at luncheon yesterday.

Problem in Kenya is lack of known details

LACK of vital information is undoubtedly one of the most serious problems Kenya was facing in the 1950s, the former Government spokesman said.

Dr. Wilson, said in Nairobi yesterday.

It is not merely tragic, it is criminal, that in this day and age, when the world is pooling at all about four-fifths of our people living in the rural areas...

Dr. Wilson said that although the "Specialist" party's programme had been published, it was not clear from the details of the programme...

Dr. Wilson, who has recently been elected to the post of Director, described the situation in Kenya as one which could be done to improve the lot of the people themselves.

PROCESS OF DEVOLUTION

You could only hope that these 500,000 people either by their consent or if you continue it, with the support and control of the Central Government... It was assumed in the policy of Mr. Roberts that the British Government would retain control in Kenya for 50 years, or perhaps for ever...

Position untenable

Mr. Blundell continued: "The United Party has been elected in Kenya. It cannot be long before the Government will be asked to give up its present role as a very poor master."

Lack of facilities in Colony alleged

The new £100,000 Shimoni House at Mombasa, which is expected to be completed next month, will house about 750 members of the East African Customs and Excise staff. It replaces the existing block, which has been used for the past 25 years.

ENGINEER FINED FOR UNLAWFUL WOUNDING

HENRY Wallace Alphonse Rogers (23), a chief electrical engineer of Marula Lane, Karen, was fined £50 at the Supreme Court, Nairobi, yesterday for unlawfully wounding his shamba, by shooting him.

The jury found Rogers had acted under considerable provocation because he had been told that the shamba was owned by a person who was not the owner.

Justice Goffel said that Rogers had acted under considerable provocation because he had been told that the shamba was owned by a person who was not the owner.

Dr. Wilson said that although the "Specialist" party's programme had been published, it was not clear from the details of the programme...

'PARTIAL' ECLIPSE OF SUN

VISIBLE IN EAST AFRICA

By ORION

The most striking astronomical occurrence in the next four weeks is, of course, the total eclipse of the sun on October 2. In Nairobi and most of East Africa it will appear only as a "partial" eclipse even though 70 to 80 per cent of the sun will be covered by the moon. "Totality" is seen only from the narrow track—ten to 100 miles wide—where the moon's shadow sweeps across the earth's surface.

On this occasion the shadow travels across the Atlantic, North Africa, through Ethiopia and into the Indian Ocean about Lamu, where the total eclipse can be seen just before sunset. In Nairobi, "total" contact begins at 3.62 p.m., maximum phase at 4.15 p.m. and the phenomenon ends before a clear sun sets, at 6.53 p.m.

A warning: Do not try to look at the sun except through show up its progress. For the eclipse one must watch the progress of the shadow (falling vertically instead of trailing west).

GO TO LAMU ...

A career eagle could convert it into a camera, and want to see the glory of the "total" eclipse at Chatham, full trail continue to get to Lamu!

AN ECLIPSE

heavily smoked glass or black photo-etching material in preference to damage to light eye.

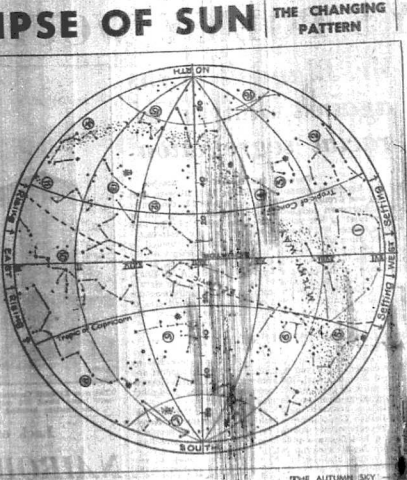

Better still, a solar viewer could be made if available. It is always handy for seeing sunspots.

The diagram shows how this can be made from a railway tube, painted black inside but the bottom covered with matt white paper.

The top has a hole cut so that a wafer of tin or copper with a small field glass or telescope lens is placed over the hole. The sun's rays will be seen clearly (and spots).

THE CHANGING PATTERN

Hold star map above the head

Various correspondents who have written to this monthly article...

HOLD OVERHEAD

One of more general interest comes from Z. K. W. of Harare, who was puzzled because "when placing the star map north and south he found that each star was 'over'."

But that advantage is lost as we travel south and it is only "right" at the top. Our hand is right on the north-south axis, but the bottom is pointing away from the north pole.

Then, W. R. A. of New Zealand, queries the correctness of naming maps with North at the top, when the sun goes down. This arrangement is convenient in northern latitudes, such as U.K. where rotation is most obvious around the north pole.

TERRIFIC SPEEDS

If you would imagine the Earth whirling round on its axis, you would find it is not "right" at the top. Our hand is right on the north-south axis, but the bottom is pointing away from the north pole.

Space appears to be without any limits relative distances between the Earth and each planet as they approach and pass periastron. For example, Venus overtook and passed between the Earth and the sun on Sept. 1. We call this "conjunction" but, of course, the planet is quite invisible in the solar glare at the time.

However, the outer planet Mars travels more slowly, and if we count months since the orbits we can discover that we shall pass Mars in December, 1960.

REFERENCE STARS

The planet will be in opposition to the sun from us, i.e. exactly at right angles to it, when it is behind us. The planet will be in conjunction to the sun from us, i.e. exactly at right angles to it, when it is behind us. The planet will be in conjunction to the sun from us, i.e. exactly at right angles to it, when it is behind us.

WHITENESS IS NOT ENOUGH

Decay reduced over 50% by using Ammi-dent

White teeth may not mean decay-free teeth. But now you can buy a toothpaste that has really been proved to lessen tooth decay! Years of research have led to the isolation of an ingredient. British scientists have subjected it to a series of strictly controlled clinical tests and proved that it reduces the risk of dental decay by more than 50%.

This ingredient is incorporated in a new definition, Ammi-dent. By reducing the film of Ammonium Ammi-dent upon the tooth surface, it acts on the chief cause of tooth decay. It removes stain and discoloration, too, leaves your white teeth fresh and healthy.

Go to your chemist today and buy a tube of Ammi-dent. Then see for yourself how its regular use will give you wonderfully white, decay-free teeth!

AMMI-DENT—the ammonium toothpaste that keeps teeth white, prevents decay.

I WOULD not care to pay even a modest salary for every occasion on which I have preached the proper coaching and physical fitness as essential prerequisites for the enjoyment of sports and games by both the proponents and spectators. It is, in consequence, a welcome pleasure that I receive coaching visits and try to ascertain what value they have been.

One such visit just completed has been that of Mr. C. H. Coker, who has proved his value almost before my eyes. Cameronian Cup win was lucky CAMERONIANS are unlikely to have to such a lucky win again this season as that over Congo in midweek, when a single goal put the invaders into the semi-final of the Girouard Cup.

Compared with the team that, in the early part of the season, had not been in the most desirable position in the league, the team that was the champion of the Girouard Cup was a very different one.

Defences were on top. Defences were on top through the first half, and the only danger was from the own defence. The Congo team had to play a long game to get a goal.

Conservatives increase their popularity lead ELECTION BATTLE NUMBER WAY

Promise on pensions for Socialists

With the General Election campaign getting heated yesterday by the news that the latest public opinion poll had given them a wider lead over the Socialists on the question of popularity. This lead increased by two and a half points, from the five points advantage the Conservatives had immediately before the announcement that polling day would be on October 9.

ALL COFFEE SOLD AT NAIROBI AUCTION

All the 8146 bags of Kenya coffee offered for auction at Nairobi this week were sold. The average price per cwt. was 441/6. Prices for lower and higher grades were easier, while parcels of quality fetched higher prices and were above valuation.

Move to license coffee traders

To ensure that all coffee exported from Tanganyika is of approved standard, the Coffee Council, Christiania, has published which makes it necessary for all the Tanganyika coffee traders to be licensed.

The Council is to grant to the holder of a license the right to export coffee. It is not considered the best regulation, with inaccessibility or restriction to export of coffee which is merely to restrict Tanganyika.

Where is God, Mummy?

There's a point for your children on every waking moment. In God's omnipotence. Can God see all the things I do when I'm asleep? How can God see all the things I do when I'm asleep?

How are you going to answer your child? It's not fair just to keep putting the child off. God isn't some vague being with a beard. God is real. There is nothing remote about Him to a Catholic. In the Catholic Missionary Centre's course of studies the answers to simple questions about God and Religion will be found.

The CATHOLIC MISSIONARY CENTRE has been set up because many of our non-Catholic friends want to know us better. In Britain, many non-Catholics have already read these leaflets. Daily they tell of their interest and gratitude. Perhaps you can help your son. Only God can give you the gift of Faith, but we can give you facts about it and remove misunderstandings. You can never believe in becoming a Catholic. But we can help you. Read today for your own enjoyment. You can give details of the full course of studies which will be sent to you FREE if you send further information.

Ask this English Centre for leaflets. Catholicism are represented and approved.

PROPOSING arguments as to right of way—responsibility—density of traffic—and telling us it is all our fault, etc., in relation to the dangers of open level crossings in general, and those of the Nairobi/Thika Road in particular, is an unhelpful exercise. An aerial view of one of the sweeping curves described by the completed Yatta Furrow. The furrow will be declared open at a ceremony next Wednesday.

YATTA FURROW IRRIGATES NEW KAMBA PASTURES

SIX years' work in deflecting a tenth of the Thika River from its original course to flow through a main-made canal for 37 miles has brought fresh opportunities to the Kamba to expand their herds and to grow crops under irrigation.

The pastures of Yatta are fairly arid, but they are bounded by three of Kenya's largest rivers—the Tana, the Athi and the Thika. By tapping the Thika, water has been brought to a large area seriously in need of it, and the opening of the furrow will enable many Irishmen, who have hitherto lived as pastoralists to turn to more cultivation, or to combine both.

An long ago as 1916 a farmer, Mr. F. J. Jordan, suggested channeling part of the Thika River along a furrow to the arid Yatta Pasture, but the high costs involved meant that it was shelved for many years.

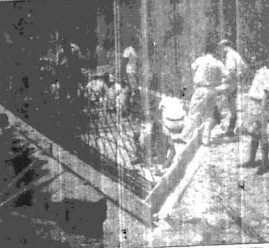

In 1952 after the initial work had been completed actual work on constructing the Yatta Furrow began.

THIKA RIVER Tortuous course

The plan called for digging a furrow, each of it through a hard rock, for 37 miles from a head in the Thika River, about 50 miles north-east of Nairobi, along a tortuous course, along leaving a narrow canal along the course until the water spilled into the main canal, the course of the Yatta Furrow, for most of the year.

At one or two right water would be fed into other smaller water-courses, making them permanent streams. Most of the work has been done at the head of the main canal, where the water is collected in a dam, and the water is then carried down the canal in a series of cascades, and used to irrigate the land. The water is then carried down the canal in a series of cascades, and used to irrigate the land.

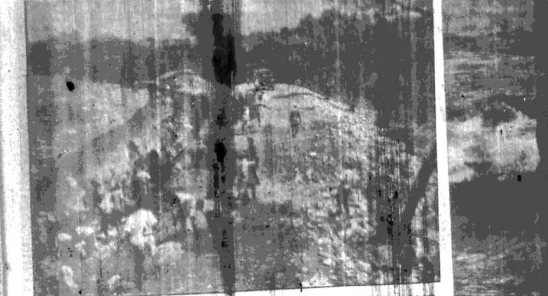

Canal from the solid rock

An aqueduct under construction to carry the furrow over a gully. In the top picture, workers use pneumatic drills to get through a hard rock section of the furrow's alignment.

Project cost £300,000

Some cases the flood water produced by these normally dry river was considerable and to prevent such vast quantities of water emptying into the canal one rate irrigation had to be built. It is now being planned to irrigate the land with water from the furrow, and it is hoped that this will be done in the near future.

WEEK-END STANDARD CLIMBERS MARK 60th ANNIVERSARY OF FIRST MOUNT KENYA ASCENT

BY SIR VAUGHAN, a member of the Mountain Club of Kenya, writes about the history of climbing on Mount Kenya, which was first conquered as a snow-capped peak on Sunday.

It then decided to cross the glacier which hangs from the Glets of the Mist between the two peaks. It proved very steep and intensely hard, so that three hours were consumed in cutting steps on a traverse which we had hoped to make in 20 minutes. A final rock scramble enabled us to set foot on the summit of Batian precisely at noon on September 13.

So runs Sir Halford Mackinder's account of the first conquest of Batian the highest point on Mount Kenya, just 60 years ago. Sir Halford and his two Swiss guides, Gust Ollier and Joseph Brocherel, had already made two unsuccessful attempts on the peaks—once by the southern ridge of Nelion, when they were unable to cross a cliff on the Darwin Glacier, and once by the

On September 11, 1893, they started out from their camp in the Tumb Valley — known as a very small valley — and again took the southern ridge, spending the night near the point where they had turned back before.

The next day they traversed across the head of the Darwin Glacier and the glacier which hangs from the Glets of the Mist, descended the Darwin Glacier because of the bad quality of the ice to Glets of the Mist.

Nearly 20 feet lower than his first was left unexplored — and remained so for 30 years.

FOOT SAFARI
The men who follow the routes of well-established tracks in the mountains today have no need to be afraid of the snow. Their feet are kept dry by the use of the best quality of the ice to Glets of the Mist.

Sir Mackinder and his party started their safari from Nairobi on July 28, 1893, on foot. The caravan, composed of two mule packs, 60 Swahili porters, 100 pack animals and 100 Kikuyu porters, reached their base camp in the forest 14 days later. They then had to back their way through the forest to the mountain. The main party set off to collect supplies — including over the Alps in Switzerland.

One of the two climbers who pioneered the sixth and latest route up Batian demonstrates ice technique.

had agreed to provide food, the porters were subsisted and two were killed.

On the 18th, a small party was led on the mountain, the main party set off to collect supplies — including over the Alps in Switzerland.

After Mackinder, K. F. S.

who tried to climb the mountain in the afternoon with a party including Mr. J. D. Mackinder, the Rev. J. W. Arthur and Mr. E. A. J. Dutton.

One of their repeated attempts involved carrying a ladder — which can still be seen in position on the south ridge, far off the normal route.

After two unsuccessful attempts, followed the south ridge, but passed the glacier where Mackinder had turned back, scaling the south-east face of Nelion, then crossed the Glets of the Mist to Batian.

By March this year 18 parties had followed them to Batian, and far more had used the route as far as the summit of Nelion.

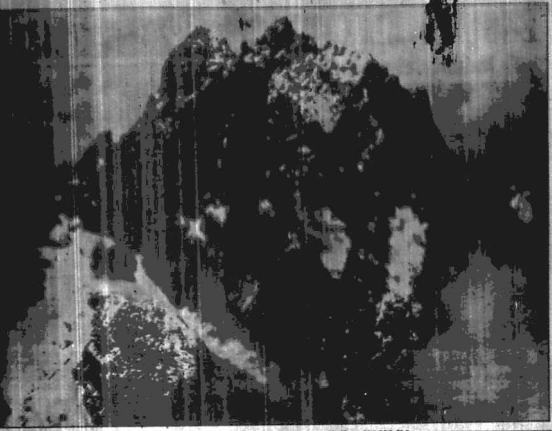

MEMORIAL HUT
It is now the standard route to the peaks. Mr. Simpson, recalling how immediately difficult it seemed on the first ascent, noted that on the several occasions when he repeated the climb he became more and more surprised at ever having found it hard.

The standard route remains the only route to the summit of Nelion, but there are now also accepted routes on Batian, the latest just a few weeks ago.

Mr. Simpson, with H. W. Tilman, made the first ascent of the highest of these routes, the West Ridge, in August, 1930.

There came the late Arthur Percival, born in Kenya and known equally well as a mountaineer and as a photographer of mountain scenery, who lost his life on the Kenya Highlands Expedition in 1924.

Mr. Firmin made three first ascents on Batian — the North

A fine study of the north face of Mount Kenya. The twin peaks—Nelion (17,022 ft.) and Batian (17,053 ft.)—are near top centre.

Rescue team always at ready

Face, with P. H. Hicks in 1941; the South-West Ridge, with J. W. Howarth in 1942; and the South Face, the last of the District Climbers, with J. S. Baggett, in 1950.

A Mountain Club hut, dedicated to the memory of Arthur Firmin, has been built below the peaks which he knew so well. By a happy coincidence the latest route on Batian — the North Chimney, since it involves a 700ft. descent — was first climbed by W. M. Adams and R. A. Bennett, on August 12, just before last month's official opening of the hut.

FATAL FALL
Mr. Adams is already credited with a first ascent of Batian by the Northern Glacier route with C. W. Howarth in February this year.

The remaining route is that on the West Face, first climbed by R. A. Cavill and G. W. Rose in January, 1945.

This climb ended in one of the few tragedies on Mount Kenya, for while the climbers and safe return to the police station, the approach route they intend to use.

This is in addition to getting permission from the Royal National Parks — the whole of the upper part of the mountain is a national park — and also from the Forest Department to use the approach tracks.

Some people think the desire to climb mountains is a form of madness — but just how many share the madness can be judged from the fact that the Mountain Club of Kenya held 30 parties which visited the mountain in the last year.

The respect of these, incidentally, were not club members, and some had parties came from outside East Africa.

There were undoubtedly many other parties which did not want the club's services, merely to walk or ride on the mountains and admire the magnificent scenery.

Looking back by Ronald Hutton

TWENTY years ago this week, fierce fighting was taking place between the Maginot and Siegfried Lines, and Anglo-French troops were advancing on Saarbrücken. A sudden Warsaw was grimly holding out under a systematic Nazi bombardment and threat of total annihilation. A protestation far too blazoned to Maginot when the main effort of the international war of the city's defence had been to the south. Many valuable records of Germany's early history were lost. The first issue of Horace appeared in the market, and in 1939 a five-year-old boy was proclaimed Duke of Edinburgh. The year earlier, Britain was comfortably in the lead in international affairs, and had just won the Schneider Trophy with a Supermarine S.6B, which had obtained the unprecedented record of 322 m.p.h. In London, Mr. Pio Zieflefeld opened his "Follies" review at the Royal Theatre with an chorus girls' band of 2300 members. In Nairobi the Photographic Society of Kenya was formed and a new Chrysler car appeared on the market. In France, Maurice and Louis de Broca, as a result of a "hobnob" with the Americans and performers for many years, were still to be seen in the Odeon Theatre in Paris, where newspaper editors were sometimes invited to sit in the stalls. COBRAS: KIPLING STARTED A MYTH

By PETER MITCHELL

HOw much truth is there in the well-known belief that the cobra is a snake-killer? And more particularly, a killer of the hooded cobra of India? To answer this question as it takes the form of an advertisement, I must refer to the story of RABBIT-TAIL.

EASILY TAMED

Although naturally ferocious, mongooses are considered to be the most docile of all the snakes and their voracious predators and are used for their destruction of vermin, mammals, birds, reptiles and insects. It is interesting to note that the hooded cobra is a snake-killer. It has been known to attack and even kill the Indian cobra to be more exact, it is a wider extended hood. With this hood it will only attack a snake of RABBIT-TAIL. The cobra is a snake-killer. It has been known to attack and even kill the Indian cobra to be more exact, it is a wider extended hood. With this hood it will only attack a snake of RABBIT-TAIL.

SWIFT DEATH

Many experiments have been made with cobras, getting them to strike at their own shadows. It takes them up to three days to get them to strike at their own shadow. This does not mean to say that the cobra is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear.

USUALLY AVOIDED

It can be seen, therefore, that the cobra is a snake-killer. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear.

Mongoose and snake an even match—but they rarely fight

It is a well-known fact that the mongoose is a snake-killer. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear. It is a cobra without fear.

UNUSUAL PET SHATTERS PEACE TOWN ON THE FARM...

Some young East Africans have tame gophers. A few even collect jumping frogs, snakes and lizards. In the "Accent on Youth" article the pleasure gained from raising for a time Ground Hornbill is described by MARGARET GRAHAM.

HAVE you a tame kind? I do not mean one who has to be shut up in a cage because he is so afraid of his own country and would feel lost and frightened if he were loose. I mean one who is quite free and only stays because he likes being with you. We are very lucky because we have a tame ground hornbill and I do not think that any other kind of bird could be more fun... We found him when we were walking round the farm one morning. Loud, angry noises were coming from a crowd of ground hornbills who were in the corner of one of the paddocks. They were standing in a ring and attacking something. We thought that they might be trying to kill a python so we walked over to them to see if our guess was right.

Snakes and rats
Instead of a python we found a young ground hornbill in the centre of the ring. We never knew what he had done to make his family so angry with him but they seem to be trying to kill him. One

Bird plays with cat and dog

My boy was hurt and had a big gash on his chest, and took him home, with me a needle and thread and put both hands on his eye and they did not stop weeping. He was angry relatives that he made friends with her at once. We looked up books and took advice about his food and found out that he liked to eat snakes and rats but was too young for the latter to eat for himself. Snakes and rats sounded horrid things to eat but we would pay for any that they would like to eat. We said we'd like them dead please, and we'd like them dead like a snake!

Good breaker
They brought in snakes and rats and the snake had never been on the farm. To begin with we used to get so many of them that I had to get some into the refrigerator. It looked funny to open a refrigerator and see a snake or a rat coming out on one.

On the roof
We thought that our cat and dog would like him but they would not like him. They ran my arms up and down his wings and he was flying up to them and they were laughing and then they were laughing at him. We were laughing at him very much.

Three-country check shows speed limits cut road deaths

By JOHN TALBOT

THE number and seriousness of road accidents appears to be reduced considerably by the implementation of speed limits for all types of motor vehicles. This finding was reported at the Geneva session of the Inland Transport Committee of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, which was attended by road experts from 19 countries.

Three European countries in particular, West Germany, Belgium and Holland, reported that the strictly enforced speed limit has resulted in a considerable drop in the number and seriousness of accidents on the roads in their territories.

In Belgium, the committee was told, the limitation of speed to 70 kilometres (43 miles) an hour reduced half-ton trucks had a reduction of 8 per cent in the accident rate and of persons killed or seriously injured during the last two months.

In the Netherlands, the imposition of a uniform speed limit of 90 kilometres (55 miles) an hour in certain areas... a special working party studied the problem raised by congested and crowded railway crossings. It recommended that a more adequate advance signalling system be introduced in the form of flashing lights as well as road signs.

While the committee expressed little favour of such experiments, it did state that it would involve some changes in existing regulations in some countries and perhaps have a beneficial effect.

Level crossings... The father's attitude would influence his daughter. A girl who was proud of her father would seldom fall in love with a man who did not come up to standards. "No matter how much mothers and teachers have the pool of their girls at heart, there are certain benefits which only the thoughtful analysis of father, himself and other brothers can give. Miss Andrews, thank you."

COOKING PLEASE

Alex Simmons

EVERY housewife ought to have a few handy suggestions at her fingertips. These can be very useful when the family has been out for the evening, and she is faced with the thought of having to prepare supper later on.

For this reason I have devised a few simple recipes which require only about 20 minutes to cook.

They have in the past proved the best, but it is worth trying to see if you can improve on them. They are simple and have taken off their feet. They are simple and have taken off their feet.

The first is for Savoury Castles: Grease a 12-inch round tin with butter and cook for 15 minutes. Arrange the sausage, bacon and place the castles over the top.

Make a white sauce with flour, butter, milk and salt. Heat the milk and add the flour to a paste. Add the butter and cook for 15 minutes. Arrange the sausage, bacon and place the castles over the top.

Put into a pan half an ounce of butter and after the flame has gone, add a little orange in each.

SUGGESTIONS ON TRAVEL SICKNESS

Many families holiday journeys are overshadowed by travel sickness. The sufferer faces the double discomfort of physical illness and anxiety, knowing the frustration which his disability causes to other members.

The car-sick child's parents travel in uneasy indecision, trying to make a sufficient number of halts without unduly prolonging the journey. A good deal is known about the treatment of travel sickness and a certain amount about its prevention.

The symptoms are quite serious so that it is not surprising to see a child who is so ill that he is unable to get out of bed.

Motor sickness is primarily due to disturbance of the delicate balance mechanism in the inner ear which is caused by motion sickness.

When these are severely affected, there is actual vomiting and diarrhoea. In severe cases, there is also a certain amount of unconsciousness.

Psychological factors often play a part in perpetuating motion sickness. Once this distressing illness has been experienced, subsequent journeys are naturally accompanied with some apprehension.

SPRINGING DANGER

To help prevent travel sickness, a car driver can avoid sudden acceleration and braking by taking corners smoothly.

When springing a car, it is better to do so gradually than to do so suddenly. This is especially true when the car is carrying passengers.

ROMAN CHARIOTS RACED ON SITE OF ST. LEGER COURSE

TODAY the St. Leger will be run at Doncaster. In this article G. R. YAPHAM traces the history of the race and recalls some of the great thrills and stories of this oldest of the English turf classics.

NO racecourse in Britain has been more intimately connected with sport than the famous Doncaster Town Moor, where the ever-popular St. Leger is run. Nearly 2,000 years ago the Roman Legions occupied Britain and held their chariot races there and ever since then it has been the venue for some sport.

The great St. Leger has a history as full of thrills and spills as the Derby and the Grand National. Towards the end of last century it was won by a blind horse, Thyrille.

Two other names in the race had been the first runner in the two thousand.

The race dates back to 1174, but at first it was a chase on foot. It is claimed that the Marquis of Buckingham suggested the idea of a dinner held at the town of St. Leger as a consolation to the J. A. Club, afterwards the St. Leger, a notable feature of the day. The Common Law, which was made in 1753, was made in 1753.

It is difficult whether any other race has a more interesting history. For scores of good stories are connected with it.

One of the best belongs to 1825, when the presence of the Marquis of Buckingham in the race caused bloodshed to break out as he was riding.

Others relate to the fact that in 1854, when the race was held on the Town Moor, a great number of sheep were lost and a great number of them were killed.

The horse which was ridden by the Marquis of Buckingham was named Thyrille.
